Newcastle-on-Tyne. — Mr. George Dodds has just concluded a second series of ten Lectures on "Harmony," delivered to elementary teachers in the Young Men's Christian Association, Blackett Street, on Saturday mornings. The Lectures have proved exceedingly popular.—— The second Concert of the Amateur Vocal Society was given in the Town Hall on the 5th ult. The programme included Stanford's Battle of the Baltic and Jensen's Feast of Adonis. The solos were taken by Miss Florence Monk, who proved that she was not only the possessor of a beautiful soprano voice, but that this organ had been carefully trained. Madame Marie Bellas, our popular contralto, was accorded a most decided encore for her singing of Knight's "She wore a wreath of roses." The programme included a part-song by Cowen, "The bee and the dove," and Benet's Madrigal "All creatures now are merry." Dr. Rea, as usual, conducted, and to him the success of the Concert is in a great measure due. Miss Kate Liddle officiated as accompanist and also contributed a pianoforte solo with much success.

Newport.—On the 7th ult. a Sacred Concert took place at the Town Hall, in aid of the funds of Newport Infirmary, every part of the room being crowded. The music was supplied by a choir of ladies, under the leadership of Mrs. Alfred Morris, assisted by an orchestra, conducted by Mr. E. G. R. Richards. The first portion of the programme consisted of Pergolesi's Stabat Mater, the solos, &c., being rendered by Miss Andrews, Miss A. Morgan, and Miss Bowen. Mrs. Morris conducted her choir with great skill; its intonation was good and the blending of the voices excellent. The second part of the programme consisted of miscellaneous pieces. Miss Rogers and Miss Maud Masters proved themselves efficient accompanists.

North Walsham.—The usual Easter Concert given by the North Walsham Amateur Musical Society came off on the 20th ult., under the direction of Dr. Horace Hill The vocal quartet comprised Miss Luckett, Mr. John Wilkinson, Mr. E. A. Bracey, and Mr. James B. Smith (Peterborough Cathedral); the three first mentioned being local amateurs. The first part was devoted to a selection from Maritana, and the second half included various ballads, and solos for violin and violoncello played by Miss Celia Woods and Mr. N. Price.

Oxford.—In the Parish Church on the 5th ult. the St. Peter-le-Bailey Musical Society sang the sacred Cantata The Daughter of Jairus, by Sir John Stainer, who with great kindness superintended one of the rehearsals. The solos were rendered with great expression and accuracy by Miss Edith Pierce, Mr. Rowlands, and Mr. Beuthin. The chorus of fifty voices was of especially good quality in the contralto and tenor parts. Mr. Ernest Madge kindly played the organ accompaniment, and Mr. W. L. Biggs, Organist of the Church, conducted.

Philadelphia, U.S.—On the 1st ult. Gaul's Passion Service was given at the Church of the Saviour, under the direction of Mr. Lacey Baker, Organist. The soloists were Mrs. Darly, Mrs. Vernon, Mr. Bristowe, and Mr. Fred. Dairs (formerly of London). The choruses were well sung.

Pontefract.—Gaul's Passion Music was sung by the Choir of All Saints' Church on the Thursday before Easter. The soloists were Miss M. Moxon and Mrs. Hore, and Messrs. Earp, Mason, Marshall, Smithir, and Purcell, all of whom acquitted themselves excellently. The choruses were sung with great precision, which was all the more creditable in the absence of a conductor's bâton. Mr. Richard Moxon, jun., the Organist and Choirmaster, accompanied the work on the organ.

Reading.—At the afternoon Evensong at Christ Church, on Palm Sunday, Stainer's Crucifixion was sung by the choir, the soloists being Messrs. Owen, Woolford, Martin, Wise, and Walker. The accompaniments were played on the organ by Mr. A. W. Moss, Organist and Choirmaster. A large congregation joined heartily in the hymns.——On Good Friday a sacred Concert was given in the Assembly Rooms by the members of St. Andrew's Choir and friends. Part I. consisted of Farmer's Christ and His Soldiers; Part II. of a miscellaneous selection. The accompaniments were supplied by a small orchestra led by Mr. H. Holloway. In Part II. Miss Ora Box played a pianoforte solo, and songs were given by Mrs. E. H. Moss, Mrs. Caudwell, and Messrs. Millar and Bowshed; the latter sang Rodney's "A Dream of Bethlehem," with violin obbligato (Mr. F. A. Walker). Miss Ora Box presided at the pianoforte, Mr. P. R. Scrivener at the organ, and Mr. F. H. Roberts conducted.

Salisbury.—The Vocal Union gave its thirty-ninth Concert to a crowded audience in the Assembly Rooms on Easter Tuesday evening, when Edmund Rogers's Cantata From Cross to Crown was very successfully given by a full band and chorus of 100 performers. The composer, who presided at the pianoforte, was most heartily received at the conclusion. The second part was a miscellaneous selection. The soloists were Miss Eva Yates, Miss M. Forder, Mr. G. Mountford, Mr. Hayden, Mr. M. Parker, and Mr. A. Crick. Mr. Frank Bartlett was leader and solo violinist, Miss Lever and Mr. Bowey presided at the pianoforte and organ respectively, and Mr. J. M. Hayden conducted.

Shifnal.—On the 21st ult. the Choral Society gave a most successful performance of Gaul's Joan of Arc, under Mr. C. H. Payne, the composer himself presiding at the organ. The choir sang capitally throughout, and the band, of which Signor Mancini was the leader, included amongst others Misses Perrott, Osborne, and Grace Phillips; Messrs. Brigden, Grice, R. A. E. Payne, Rowler, &c., and acquitted itself admirably. The soloists were Miss Rose Long, Mr. W. Molineaux, and Mr. R. Percy Taunton. A notable feature in the second part was a new song by W. E. Allen, "Return and Stay," sung by Mr. Molineaux and accompanied by the composer. Mr. Owen presided at the organ.

Shrewsbury.—A Concert was given by Miss Rachel Gray at the Music Hall, on the 18th ult., at which the Cantata entitled The Victory of Song, written for Miss Gray's class by Miss Emma Mundella, received an excellent interpretation. Miss Gray conducted with admirable tact, and Miss Mundella played pianoforte solos with much success.

Southsea.—Miss Isabel Valdez-Obbard made her début as a professional singer at a Concert given by her at the Portland Hall on the 21st ult., when she was assisted by several artists of note. Miss Obbard is a pupil of Mr. J. T. Hutchinson (a well-known professor at the Royal Academy and other institutions), and has evidently been trained with care. She was recalled for her rendering of "Softly sighs," but was, perhaps, more successful in songs of a lighter kind, "The Banks of Allan Water" (for which, being encored, she sang "Comin' through the Rye") and a new song, "Love's Language," by Victor Newman. Madame Belle Cole, who is a favourite here as elsewhere, sang with her accustomed success. Mr. Wareham successfully replaced Mr. Herbert Reeves (who was indisposed), and Mr. Hutchinson (although also suffering from indisposition) sang in his usual artistic style. Mr. Charles Fry gave several recitations with success, being twice recalled for his humorous rendering of "The Charity Dinner," and special mention should be made of Mr. Leo Stern, whose violoncello playing was received with enthusiastic applause, and who introduced for the first time an Andante by J. Hollman with much success. Mr. Harvey Löhr accompanied and also played some solos.

Tonbridge.—On the 5th ult. the Musical Society gave a performance of The Messiah in the Public Hall, before a crowded audience. Band and chorus numbered about 100, and the soloists were Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Dora Barnard, Mr. Herbert Clinch, and Mr. Arthur Wills. Mr. B. St. John Waghorne conducted.

Tredegar. — On Good Friday last Sir John Stainer's Lenten Oratorio The Crucifixion was performed by an augmented choir at St. James's Church. The Organist of the Church, Mr. I. J. David, conducted, and Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan, of Merthyr Tydfil, presided at the organ, playing as a concluding voluntary Rheinberger's A minor Sonata.

Tunbridge Wells.—On Palm Sunday Gounod's Messe Solennelle and Rossini's Stabat Mater were given respectively at High Mass and Vespers at St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church. The soloists were Madame Lonsdale Barrett, Miss Croft, Mr. J. W. Blanchard, Mr. Conrad Formes, and Miss Elliott. The Organist of the Church accompanied with great skill. The choir deserve great praise for their share in these excellent performances.——Stainer's Crucifixion was given at Christ Church before a large congregation on Good Friday evening, under the direction of Mr. R. K. Simons, Organist and Director of the Choir, the solos being taken by Mr. Hodges and Mr. Medhurst, both of whom sang with taste and expression. The choruses were well sung, the unaccompanied chorus "God so loved the world" being especially worthy of notice, while the hymns were most heartily taken up by the congregation. Mr. Simons presided at the organ with his usual ability.

Wolverhampton.—The fourteenth and last of a series of Sunday Evening Concerts, organised by Messrs. Owen H. Powell and H. Mills, was given in the Agricultural Hall on the 10th ult. Among the artists who have appeared are Miss Mabel Grove, Miss Nellie Gosnell, Miss Falkner, Madame Du Maurier, Miss Emily Lloyd, Mr. T. W. Page, &c.; also Miss Lettie Collier, Mr. John Ridding, Mr. Sidney Clifford, and Mr Otley Cranston, of Turner's Opera Company. Mr. Owen H. Powell was the solo organist and played the accompaniments.

York.—At a Military Service in York Minster, on Sunday, the 24th ult., an Anthem was rendered which had been composed by Dr. Naylor, the Organist and Choirmaster, in memory of the late Duke of Clarence and Avondale, the words being selected from the Bible by the Dean of York. The Anthem comprises six divisions, the second consisting of a solemn dirge for pipers, which was played by the pipers of the Royal Scots.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. Samuel S. Martyn, Organist and Choirmaster to the Church of St. Andrew's, Stockwell Green.—Mr. H. J. Timothy, Organist and Choirmaster to Holy Trinity Church, Twickenham.—Mr. Sydney Townshend, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Machar's Cathedral, Aberdeen.—Mr. James H. Worsley, to St. Mary's Roman Catholic Chapel, Wigan, Lancashire.—Mr. John Cuviau, Organist and Choirmaster to All Saints', Norfolk Square, Hyde Park.

Choir Appointment.—Mr. W. J. Westwood (Bass), to St. Stephen's, Wandsworth.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The Music Hall Mania	265
From my Study	266
Premature Notices	269
Too much Harmony	270
Occasional Notes	271
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	273
Royal Choral Society	275
Philharmonic Society	276
Crystal Palace Concerts	276
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	277
Passion Music at St. Paul's	277
Good Friday Music	277
North London Hospital Concert	278
Pianoforte Recitals	278
Royal Academy of Music	278
Royal College of Music	279
Royal Institution	279
Trinity College	280
The Wagner Society	280
Dvorák's "Requiem" in Brighton	280
The Vienna Exhibition	281
Obituary	281
Music in Birmingham	282
„ Bristol	282
„ Edinburgh	282
„ Glasgow	283
„ Liverpool and District	283
„ Manchester	284
„ Norwich	284
„ Montreal	285
„ Berlin	285
Four-part Song.—"The Rover." Alan Gray	287
General News (London)	286
Reviews	293
Foreign Notes	295
Correspondence	297
Answers to Correspondents	298
General News (Country)	298
List of Music published during the last Month	302

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To insure insertion, Advertisements should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE

TWENTY-THIRD

OF EACH MONTH.

MISS TERESA HAYNES (Soprano)
Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c.
90, Bury New Road, Higher Broughton, Manchester.

MISS FLORENCE VEREY (Soprano)
130, Maida Vale, W.

MISS MINNIE KIRTON (Contralto)
12, Upper Tollington Park, Finsbury Park, N.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS AND THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL.

BENEDICTUS

ARRANGED FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA BY THE COMPOSER FROM

SIX PIECES FOR VIOLIN

With Pianoforte Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 37.)

Full Score, 5s.; Orchestral Parts, 3s. 6d.;
Also, as originally written for Violin Solo with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 2s.

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

As an exceptional case, this movement absolutely gains by the change to which it has been subjected, the impassioned religious melody acquiring force by being played in chorus, and added beauty by a rich accompaniment of strings, horns, and wood-wind. The audience at once pronounced the piece a success, and the composer bowed his thanks for sustained applause from his place in the gallery. . . . Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus" came between the two new works, where its reposeful beauty brought a sense of rest and relief. The long and eloquent melody of the piece was finely played by the first violins, led by Mr. Carrodus, and the whole performance produced an effect which could only come from a display of the highest art. The "Benedictus" was a third demonstration in one morning of the stuff that is in our native composers. (Hereford Festival.)

STANDARD.

Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus" was originally written for violin, with pianoforte accompaniment. Since then the author has appreciated the capabilities of the music in an orchestral sense, and after several attempts—this composer, like Mendelssohn, never being satisfied at the offset—has written his score for a small orchestra. . . . So charming did this piece prove that the applause was unanimous, and was maintained until the composer had appeared at the end gallery and bowed his acknowledgment.

MORNING POST.

There are beautiful harmonies accompanying the phases of melody, and the whole piece, which is replete with dignity and distinguished by originality, forms a most grateful addition to orchestral répertoires.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

The clever musician has since scored it for a small orchestra, assigning the violin solo to the whole of the violins, and providing work for the other strings, flutes, clarinets, bassoons, and horns, in which form it is likely to obtain as much popularity on the platform as the first setting in the salon. It is a beautiful, quietly flowing melody, with such an elegant accompaniment as only a composer of genuine taste and sympathetic nature, having a perfect knowledge of the means of the instruments he introduces, could place upon paper.

THE OBSERVER.

The two leading themes are in themselves beautiful, and their scenic beauty is enhanced by exquisite orchestration, in which the wind instruments above-named, in conjunction with the violas, violoncellos, and double-basses, are happily employed. . . . This "Benedictus" is likely to become popular throughout the musical world.

THE GLOBE.

Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's new "Benedictus" for violin and orchestra (first public performance) is short and comparatively simple, but will add to his fame. . . . The "Benedictus" is a polished gem.

SUNDAY TIMES.

Dr A. C. Mackenzie's new "Benedictus for Orchestra," a transcription of one of his "Six Pieces for Violin and Pianoforte," Op. 37, is a gem of melody encased in a beautiful instrumental setting.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

PARRY, C. H. H.—The Choric Song, from "The Lotos-Eaters," by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. For Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. Paper cover, 2s.

CUMMINGS, WILLIAM H.—Biographical Dictionary of Musicians. (No. 40. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers, edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.) Paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.

HENSCHEL, G.—Progressive Studies for the Voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. In two parts. Part I. Studies in Sustained Singing. Part II. Studies in Florid Singing. Part I. (Low Voice), 4s.; Part II. (Low Voice), 4s.

HENSCHEL, G.—Fortschreitende Uebungen für die Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte. In zwei Theilen. I. Theil (Tief), Uebungen im getragenen Gesang. Preis 4 Mark. II. Theil (Tief), Uebungen im Coloratur Gesang. Preis 4 Mark.

PURCELL, HENRY.—Fourteen Pieces for the Violin. The Pianoforte Accompaniment, Marks of Expression, Bowing, and Fingering, by ARNOLD DOLMETSCH. (No. 29. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Albums for Violin and Pianoforte.) 2s. 6d. (For contents, see advertisement, page 261.)

VINCENT, CHARLES.—"A Night in Fairyland." Cantata. For Treble Voices. Written by EDWARD OXENFORD. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

STAINER, J.—Seven Songs. With Pianoforte Accompaniment. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

SANGSTER, W. H.—"Elysium." A Cantata. For Chorus and Orchestra. The poetry from "Lalla Rookh," by THOMAS MOORE. Paper cover, 1s.

COWARD, HENRY.—"The Story of Bethany." A Sacred Cantata. Book of Words, 7s. 6d. per 100.

STEWART, H. J.—"Bluff King Hal." A romantic Opera, in Three Acts. The libretto by DANIEL O'CONNELL. Paper cover, 5s. Book of words, 1s.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—"The Inchcape Rock." Ballad. For Chorus and Orchestra. 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s.

FRANKS, EVAN—(in D). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

GALE, CLEMENT ROWLAND—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

HARDESTY, G. A.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

SUTTON, EDWARD A.—Introits, Graduals, and Alleluias at the Celebration of the Holy Communion. No. 10. Introit for Ascension Day; No. 11. Alleluia for Ascension Day. 4d.

THORNE, E. H.—(in E flat). Morning and Evening Service. 1. Te Deum laudamus, 4d.; 2. Benedictus, 3d.; 3. Jubilate Deo, 2d.; 4-5. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 4d.

TURNER, R. H.—(in G). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

BRADFORD, J.—Threefold Amen. 1d. On card, 2d.

SADLER, CHARLES G.—"The Day of Resurrection." Hymn. For Easter. 2d.

CHALLINOR, F. A.—"I will extol Thee." Anthem. For Four Voices. 4d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"The Lord is my strength." Anthem. For Easter. (No. 398. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—"Jesu, lover of my soul." Anthem. For Men's Voices. (No. 397. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

KINGSTON, MATTHEW.—"I will love Thee, O Lord." Anthem. For Four Voices. (No. 394. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

SIBTHORPE, ERNEST.—"Father of heaven." Hymn. 3d.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—"Orpheus with his Lute." Trio for Female Voices from the music to "Henry VIII." (No. 263. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios.) 3d.

PRENDERGAST, ARTHUR H. D.—"The Robin." Part-Song. For Men's Voices. A.T.B.B. 3d.

SADLER, CHARLES G.—"Hearken and say." Two-part Song. For Soprano Voices, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. 3d.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Dormi, Jesu" ("The Virgin's Cradle Hymn"). For Voice, with Violin or Violoncello obbligato. 2s.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

MCMILLAN, JOHN H.—"Bonnie Glaisnock Glen." Song. Words written by JOHN B. WILSON. 1s. 6d.

TREBLA, E. N. I.—"I praised the earth in beauty seen." Song. The words written by REGINALD HEBER. 2s.

CALKIN, GEORGE.—Transcriptions from the Works of FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY. For the Organ. Book 6. 2s.

VINCENT, CHARLES.—Introductory Voluntaries. For the Organ. Book 1. 1s. 6d.

WALKER, A. H.—Original Compositions for the Organ. No. 1. Andante, with Variations in A major. 2s.

COOKE, PERCIVAL.—Concert Studies. Written in the major scales, exemplifying the philosophical method of playing scales. For the use of Violoncello Students. 3s.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.
No. 755. Summer and Winter .. .. BERTHOLD TOURS 1d.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. A comprehensive and absolutely progressive school, with numerous Diagrams and Illustrations, reproduced from photographs specially taken for this work. Folio size, 75 pp., paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

"A hearty welcome will be accorded to Walter Macfarren's Pianoforte Method, a concise and well worked-out guide."—Daily News.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. A complete Course—concise, lucid, and gradual, with Pianoforte accompaniment to all the original and selected pieces. All the positions fully illustrated from photographs expressly taken for this work. Large quarto size, 147 pp., with separate violin part, 30 pp. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

"Mr. Peiniger deserves the highest praise. His Violin Method is exceptionally thorough in every respect."—Saturday Review.

Other Methods in preparation.

COMPOSITIONS, ARRANGEMENTS, &c.

FOR the PIANOFORTE, by GODARD, H. NUYENS, GEORGES PFEIFFER, F. THOMÉ, GEO. F. WEST, &c.

FOR the VIOLIN and VIOLONCELLO, by JOHANNES WOLFF, EMILE SAURET, OTTO PEINIGER, LEO STERN, H. JACOBY, BÜRGER, &c.

BY EMILE SAURET,

Principal Violin Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.

QUATRE MORCEAUX DE SALON (OP. 45), POUR VIOLON ET PIANO—

No. 1. Vision. | No. 3. Barcarola.
„ 2. Capriccietto. | „ 4. Mazourka.

Price Five Shillings each.

BY OTTO PEINIGER.

	s.	d.
HUMMING BIRD (Morceau de Salon)	4	0
CHANT D'AMOUR „ „	4	0

W. R. CAVE'S FORTY SHORT and MELODIOUS EXERCISES FOR THE VIOLIN, in various rhythms and keys. Price 2s. net.

"Cannot fail to be of service."—Daily Telegraph.

FOR the ORGAN. THE BURLINGTON VOLUNTARIES. Ten Books. Each 1s. net. New numbers by J. W. ELLIOTT, A. REDHEAD, A. PAGE, A. W. MARCHANT, &c.
List of Contents on application.

BEST'S Handel Choruses. BEST'S Organ Compositions. BEST'S Modern School for the Organ. BEST'S Celebrated Pedal Exercises. Detailed lists on application.

BY JAMES SHAW.

THREE NEW COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN.
Dedicated to and performed by Mons. ALEX. GUILMANT.
1. Meditation. 2. A Wedding Processional March.
3. A Dream of Mozart, Minuet in D.

THE ORGANIST'S LIBRARY. Edited by Dr. WM. J. WESTBROOK. Six Books, each 2s. net. List on application.

CATALOGUE, Revised Edition, just issued, of New and Standard Organ Music. Post-free on application. (Standard Works greatly reduced in price.)

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

—CONTINUED.

NEW CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES.—"THE FAIRIES' SPRING" (An Elfin Legend). By F. H. COWEN. Price 2s. 6d. net.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. net.
"Possesses an unceasing flow of sweet and spontaneous melody." Saturday Review. "A graceful libretto."—Era.

STANDARD TEXT BOOKS FOR LOCAL EXAMINATIONS.

SUTTON, R. Elements of the Theory of Music. 114th Edition. Cloth, 2s. net. This popular work has been revised and entirely re-set in larger type. It now contains the Examination Papers of the Associated Boards of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music.
ROCKSTRO, W. S. Practical Harmony. Cloth, 2s. net. As nearly perfect as care and experience can make it.
—— Key to ditto. 1s. 6d. net.
—— A History of Music. Comprehensive and reliable, with Chronological Table and Questions for Examination. Cloth, 2s. net.
—— The Rules of Counterpoint. 2s. net.
WHITTINGHAM. Two Hundred Questions and Exercises on Davenport's "Elements of Music." 6d. net.
HAMILTON. Dictionary of Musical Terms. 1s. net.

STANDARD WORKS.

SPOHR'S Great Violin School. Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music. "I have carefully looked over the English edition of my Violin School published by Robert Cocks and Co., and have no hesitation in recommending it as a faithful translation of the original work."—Louis Spohr. Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.
MARX (Dr. Adolph Bernhard). The Music of the Nineteenth Century and its Culture. Translated by C. NATALIA MACFARREN. One Vol., cloth, 7s. 6d. net.
—— The Universal School of Music. Translated by A. H. WEHRHAN. One Vol., cloth, 7s. 6d.
THE VIOLIN. Some account of that instrument and its leading Professors, from the earliest date to the present time. DUBOURG. 5s. net.
THE ORGAN: ITS HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION. By Drs. E. J. HOPKINS and E. F. RIMBAULT. In One Vol. (thick), 636 pp. 21s. net. Or, in Five Parts, cloth, 5s. each.
The recognised authority on this instrument. A comprehensive treatise on its structure and capabilities, indispensable to everyone interested in the organ.

PIANOS.—FULL TRICHORD, IRON-FRAMED, CHECK ACTION, in Walnut, Rosewood, or Black Cases, from 28 guineas retail. Illustrated and descriptive price list post-free. Sole Importers of the "Winkelmann" Pianos.

OLD VIOLINS.—A Choice Selection of Fine Old Instruments.
Violin Strings, Fittings, &c., of Best Quality. Descriptive lists on application.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano) engaged: April 5, Market-Weighton; 7, Howden; 10, Lincoln; 21, Gainsborough; 26 and 27, Whitby; May 2, Worksop; 5, Briton Ferry; 7 and 8, Scarborough Spa; 15, Lincoln; October 8, Sabden. Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire.

ST. MARY MAGDALENE'S CHOIR COLLEGE, Paddington.—FREE (and other) SCHOLARSHIPS for BOYS with good voices, being sons of gentlemen. For examination, &c., apply Rev. A. R. Wilson, 8, Westbourne Square, W.

TO INTENDING CANDIDATES for MUS. BAC. DEGREE. PREPARATION by Correspondence for MATRICULATION RESPONSIONS, and other Entrance Examinations at Oxford, Cambridge, London, Durham, and Dublin. Payment may be based on success. Method strictly individual. Single subjects if desired. Address, J. Charleston, B.A., Kenilworth House, Oxford.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, at Stillwater, Minnesota. Candidate must be unmarried, capable of training a Choir, and who is also an earnest Churchman and a Communicant. First-class testimonials required. Salary, 350 dollars per annum (with promise of increase to satisfactory candidate) and opportunity of other occupation. A good musician could obtain plenty of teaching, both Vocal and Instrumental. Address, Andrew D. Stowe, Rector, Ascension Church, Stillwater, Minnesota, U.S.A.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, in Ireland, will be disengaged in May. Highest reference. Will exchange with one in England or Scotland. Music, Post Office, Douglas, Cork.

MR. JAMES BRABHAM, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Paul's, Herne Hill, will shortly be DISENGAGED, and desires a similar Appointment. 207, Norwood Road, Herne Hill, S.E.

WANTED, young earnest Churchman, as ORGANIST, CHOIR-TRAINER, and LAY-HELPER. One able to conduct preferred. Opportunity for Pupils. Two-manual organ. Address, stating salary, with references to clergy and organists, Rector, Hilperton, Trowbridge.

WANTED, by a Professor of Music, a Gentleman as Partner, in a thoroughly good connection. Address, R., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER, shortly at liberty; owner joining another firm. Good Salesman and Bookkeeper. Excellent testimonials. Tact, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, immediately, first-class PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER. Permanent situation with good salary and commission. Good references required. Apply, A. Z., "Express" Office, Wolverhampton.

TUNER WANTED. Apply, giving references, age, &c., to Hime and Addison, 30, Victoria Street, Manchester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, for the West of England. One used to General Repairs. Wages and commission. Constant employment to steady man. Apply, E. Bishop and Sons, Pianoforte Makers, Belmont Street, London, N.W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, for Scotland. Must be steady and efficient. Apply, with references, to M. S. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, SITUATION as TRAVELLER for Sheet Music or Small Goods. B. O. N., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

KYRIE. By ARTHUR MANGELSDORFF. Price 1d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, 4s.; in stiff paper, 3s. net.

WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS

For STUDENTS of the PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, ORGAN, and other instruments. By A. LEFFLER ARNIM, author of "Health Maps."

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by two-thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addition to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined and delicate touch. No instrument whatever required.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: ". . . . I have no hesitation in saying that I think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: ". . . . I am confident the exercises you recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: ". . . . Invaluable to anyone studying the violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Hinde Street, W.

A NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION

OF

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION

OF WORDS

OF ANTHEMS.

PRICE 4s. 6d.

This is an entirely new and greatly enlarged edition of the Collection originally compiled by the Rev. W. Rayson, M.A., Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. Doc., and the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

This Book, which contains the Words of over 1,500 Anthems, besides being admirably adapted for the use of Choirs and Congregations, for which purpose it was originally compiled, will be found most valuable to Organists, Choirmasters, and the Clergy as a book of reference for the selection of Anthems suitable for Special days, seasons, or occasions. It also contains a list of Anthems suitable for Men's Voices, and Anthems with Latin words.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE PSALMS

BIBLE VERSION

POINTED FOR CHANTING

BY THE

REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

CLOTH, ONE SHILLING.

The principles on which the pointing has been done are mainly those of the Cathedral Psalter, of which Dr. Troutbeck was Co-Editor, a Psalter which has now successfully endured the test of long experience. The book is not, of course, divided into daily portions like the Prayer Book Psalter, as it is intended for the use of those Christian bodies in which the Psalms are not sung throughout a monthly course, but it can easily be so divided by those who use it.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

SERVICES

OF

SACRED SONG

EDITED BY THE

REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

PRICE SIXPENCE EACH.

1. ABRAHAM.—By the EDITOR.
2. MOSES.—By the Ven. Archdeacon FARRAR.
3. ELIJAH.—By the Rev. R. F. DALE, Rector of Bletchington, Oxon.
4. DANIEL.—By the Rev. A. G. BOWMAN, Vicar of St. Andrew's, Westminster.
5. ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST.—By the Rev. E. PRICE, Priest in Ordinary to the Queen and Minor Canon of Westminster Abbey.
6. ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST.—By the Rev. H. A. COTTON, Priest in Ordinary to the Queen and Minor Canon of Westminster Abbey.
7. SIMON PETER.—By J. H. BRAMMALL.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRINCE SPRITE

A FAIRY OPERETTA

FOR TREBLE VOICES

The Libretto arranged from Countess d'Aulnoy's Fairy Tale

BY

BERTHA THOMAS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.
Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE DAY SCHOOL HYMN BOOK

WITH TUNES

EDITED BY

EMMA MUNDELLA.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PART-SONGS for TREBLE VOICES

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

EDITED BY

MRS. CAREY BROCK

AND

M. A. SIDEBOTHAM

(Editors of the "Children's Hymn-Book," &c.)

Price One Shilling each part.

PART I. CONTAINS:—

HAIL! STAR OF EVE	R. SPOFFORTH.
HERE IN COOL GROT	Lord MORNINGTON.
THE WREATH	J. MAZZINGHI.
EVENING	HENRY SMART.
TO STAY AT HOME IS BEST	BERTHOLD TOURS.
THERE IS A SPIRIT SINGING AYE IN AIR	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.

PART II. CONTAINS:—

BLOW, GENTLE GALES	SIR HENRY BISHOP.
THE BIRD AT SEA	HENRY SMART.
ELVES OF THE FOREST	MOZART.
BIRD OF THE WILDERNESS	BURNHAM W. HORNER.
BOSCOBEL	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.
ALL AMONG THE BARLEY	ELIZABETH STIRLING.

PART III. CONTAINS:—

MAY DAY	MÜLLER.
GLORIOUS APOLLO	SAMUEL WEBBE.
THE CORALL'D CAVES OF OCEAN	HENRY SMART.
IN SLEEP THE WORLD REPOSES	RICHARD HOL.
FAIR SUMMER MORNING	F. SOR.
IF SHE BE MADE OF WHITE AND RED	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.

PART IV. CONTAINS:—

FROM OBERON, IN FAIRYLAND	R. J. S. STEVENS.
LULLABY	STORACE.
SEE THE CHARIOT AT HAND	WM. HORSLEY.
NOW GOLDEN DAY AGAIN IS DAWNING	MOZART.
OH! SKYLARK, FOR THY WING	HENRY SMART.
SWEET CONTENT	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES

OF

MUSIC FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

A MANUAL

To be employed in Choirs and Singing Classes, with APPENDICES CONTAINING MUSIC FOR PRACTICAL USE

BY

EDWARD DAVEY RENDALL.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.
Paper boards, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUNG BY MR. ARTHUR OSWALD.

I SHALL SEE THEE AGAIN

SACRED SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

THE REV. E. HUSBAND

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

WILLEM COENEN.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MR. DANIEL MAYER has the honour to announce that he has been appointed Sole Business Manager for the following Celebrated Artists and desires that all Communications concerning their engagements be addressed to him direct:

Miss MARGUERITE MACINTYRE
Madame BELLE COLE
Mr. BEN DAVIES
Mr. NORMAN SALMOND
Mr. PLUNKET GREENE

ALSO SOLE AGENT FOR

MISS THUDICHUM
MISS MARIE BREMA
MR. PHILLIPS-TOMES
MR. EUGÈNE OUDIN

MONS. GORSKI
MR. WILLY HESS
M. CÉSAR THOMSON
MDLLE. YRRAC
MONS. YSAŸE
AND
MONS. EMILE SAURET

MASTER JEAN GÉRARDY and MR. HUGO BECKER

HERR SCHÖNBERGER
MDLLE. SZUMOWSKA
HERR HEINRICH LUTTER
HERR MAX PAUER
AND
MR. PADEREWSKI
&c., &c.

All communications concerning the above artists to be addressed direct to Mr. Daniel Mayer.

COMPLETE LIST OF ARTISTS ON APPLICATION.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS, St. James's Hall—November 3 and 17, December 1, 1892; January 19, February 2 and 16, March 2, 1893.

MISS MARGUERITE MACINTYRE'S TOUR commencing October 10, 1892, assisted by Miss MARIE BREMA, Mr. CHARLES WADE, Mr. JAMES LEY, Mdlle. YRRAC, and Master JEAN GÉRARDY. Accompanist, Mr. WADDINGTON COOKE.

CONCERT DIRECTION DANIEL MAYER,
180, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegraphic Address—"Liszt, London."

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned modern Two-Manual Organ, containing Sixteen Stops, Four Couplers, and Four Composition Pedals, and all the latest improvements. Price £250. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

£120 (new) TWO-MANUAL ORGAN. 11 stops, Bourdon pedal, mahogany case. E. O. Yorston, Organ Builder, Dale Street, Clayton Street, Kennington Oval, S.E.

SECOND-HAND CHURCH ORGANS.—NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, of St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich, have several good second-hand Church and Chapel Organs for Sale. Prices from £45 to £250. Full particulars of these Instruments will be sent on application.

THREE-MANUAL AMERICAN ORGAN. 13 complete sets of reeds, 30 stops, 2½ octave of pedals; blown by hand or foot. Price £55. W. Williams, 132, High Street, St. John's Wood.

FOR SALE.—A Two-manual ORGAN, suitable for a small Church or Mission Room. 10 stops, 2 octaves of pedals. Good tone. Price moderate. Can be seen on application to Messrs. Townsend and Sons, Lingfield Road, Wimbledon.

ORGAN. — Important Bargain. — An excellent modern TWO-MANUAL ORGAN in oak case, containing 14 stops with full couplers, &c. Price £200. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

FULL-COMPASS PIANOFORTE by MOORE and MOORE, with Harmonium attached. Invaluable to a Mission Hall. Cost £65; to be sold at once for £30. 273, Brixton Road.

PIANO (IBACH) for SALE. Upright, Queen's Model. Iron frame, handsome case; cost 90 guineas, 1890. Must sell; moderate terms. M., 15, Madeley Road, Ealing.

FOR SALE, a first-class VIOLIN (BALESTRIERI, Mantua, genuine), in Mahogany case, with leather travelling case. All in first-rate order. Apply, Dr. Davis, 51, Corporation Street, St. Helen's, Lancashire.

TO be disposed of, a JACOBUS STAINER VIOLONCELLO; labelled 1699, in good preservation. For particulars, apply to Mr. Coish, 153, Fratton Road, Portsmouth.

VIOLA, by BANKS, for SALE; lately the property of an eminent Amateur. Splendid condition; very rich tone. Price £20. Apply, Miss Füidge, 31, Cornwall Road, Bayswater, W., where instrument may be seen.

TO COUNTRY MUSICSELLERS.—For SALE, a handsome RACK, with 90 divisions, music size, and three large drawers, polished walnut wood, with hinged walnut flaps. Dust proof. Cost £40. £10 cash. J. Geo. Morley, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

MUSTEL ORGAN.—WANTED, a good Second-hand INSTRUMENT. Send full particulars and price to Wm. Slade, 7, Wellington Place, Hastings.

TO TRUMPET STUDENTS.—WYATT'S perfected Double-slide TRUMPET. Approved by and supplied to the Royal Military School of Music, Kneller Hall. Awarded Diploma and Gold Medal, Paris. Stamp for particulars of the Inventor, 123, Portman Buildings, Lisson Grove, Marylebone, N.W.

WHAT OFFERS for 175 (£1) SHARES London Music Publishing Company, all or part? Address, Sigma, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE BUSINESS for SALE, in a busy manufacturing market town of the West Riding of Yorkshire. Established nearly twenty years. Music and Small Goods. Excellent tuning connection. Large and beautifully fitted premises. Ill-health cause of sale. Exceptional opportunity for energetic man with capital, or for a Limited Company. R. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE, in best part of the City. Apply to King Street Music Stores, Cheapside, E.C.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS to be DISPOSED OF. A first-class Business in one of the largest and most fashionable watering-places in the South of England. The business will either be sold outright or turned into a Limited Company, the present proprietors taking (if required) two-fifths or more shares. Estimated capital about £4,500. Large hiring trade. Good tuning connection. A bonâ-fide thorough-going concern. Write in first place to D. Y., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

MUSIC ENGRAVING BUSINESS.—The Subscribers are prepared to receive Offers for the MUSIC BUSINESS and PLANT of the GLASGOW ENGRAVING COMPANY, LIMITED, 1 to 9, Cumberland Street, Calton, Glasgow, including the Patent Rights, Litho Machine, and Engraving and Transposing Machines.

It is claimed for the Patents that a large saving is effected by the material used in the process, and by the cheapness of the labour in consequence of the simplicity of working. The machines have been highly commended. Further particulars can be had from

T. and G. B. M'KIM, C.A.,
149, St. Vincent Street, Glasgow.

MUSIC COMPOSERS experiencing difficulty in disposing of, or desirous of publishing their compositions, are requested to forward their MSS. to us. "Royalties" allowed. AUTHORS' WORK A SPECIALTY. MSS. corrected and revised by an eminent musician, engraved (English or German style), printed on the best paper, and published AT HALF THE PRICE USUALLY CHARGED BY WEST-END HOUSES. Authors' works pushed in the trade by London and Provincial Travellers and Agents. Works scored for large or small bands. Words written to composers' music; music written to authors' words by popular composers. D'Alton and Co., 28, Newman Street, W. Name Paper

MS. EXAMINED and REVISED; Copying and Transpositions on very reasonable terms. G. Minns, Ely.

VIOLIN RESONANT INTONATION BRIDGES constructed on musical acoustical principles, improving the tone of any average sound Violin. Price, by post, 5s. 3d. When ordering it is necessary to send a bridge that fits at feet the Violin for which required, and suits the finger-board and performer for height; also state as near as possible the present quality of tone, pitch at which usually played, and whether full-sized or three-quarter instrument. Every bridge is tested and registered before issue, and bears the signature of the Inventor and Maker, JOSIAH STANNARD, Tuner, &c., Beccles, near Lowestoft, Suffolk.—Established 1879.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS. — Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

D'ALMAINE'S

PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'Almaine and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 18, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (of Paris),

VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of Paris, 1878; Paris, 1879; Paris, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,

USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,

AND

CONSIDERED BY MASTERS

THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER and CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W.,
Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

WINKELMANN PIANOFORTES.

"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.

OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS

From 65 GUINEAS.

OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS

From 110 GUINEAS.

Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.

Sole Importers: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,

6, New Burlington Street, Regent Street, London.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE

Now ready.

A LIST OF THOSE HOLDING BRITISH DEGREES AND DIPLOMAS.

"A Book of Reference for all musicians always useful."

Edited by John Warriner. Price 6d., post-free, to be had of J. Maxwell & Co., 14 & 15, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, W.C. J. E. Hawkins, 17, Paternoster Row, E.C.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

ORGAN STUDENTS

SHOULD TRY

RUMMENS'

ORGAN

PEDAL ATTACHMENT

FOR

PIANOFORTES

AS ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

Awarded Medal of Honour

at the

International Inventions Exhibition, London, 1885.

EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

Testimonials from all the chief Organists of the day.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO

H. J. RUMMENS,

47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

CANTATAS for FEMALE VOICES.

FRANZ ABT.

	s.	d.
THE FAYS' FROLIC	2	6
THE WATER FAIRIES	2	6
THE SILVER CLOUD	2	6
THE WISHING STONE	2	6
MINSTER BELLS	2	6
THE GOLDEN CITY	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6
SPRINGTIME	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6
SUMMER	2	6

WILFRED BENDALL.

THE LADY OF SHALOTT ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1	0

KAREL BENDL.

THE WATER-SPRITE'S REVENGE	1	0

JOSIAH BOOTH.

THE DAY OF REST	2	6

CHARLOTTE SAINTON-DOLBY.

FLORIMEL	2	6

MYLES B. FOSTER.

THE BONNIE FISHWIVES ...	2	6
THE ANGELS OF THE BELLS	1	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	8

BATTISON HAYNES.

THE FAIRIES' ISLE	2	6

H. HOFMANN.

SONG OF THE NORNS	1	0

H. H. HUSS.

AVE MARIA	1	0

OLIVER KING.

THE NAIADS (Op. 56)	2	6

N. KILBURN.

THE SILVER STAR	1	6

JOHN KINROSS.

SONGS IN A VINEYARD ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6

HENRY LAHEE.

THE SLEEPING BEAUTY ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6

C. H. LLOYD.

THE GLEANERS' HARVEST ...	2	6

G. A. MACFARREN.

SONGS IN A CORNFIELD ...	2	6

F. A. MARSHALL.

PRINCE SPRITE	2	6

MENDELSSOHN.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM	1	0
THREE MOTETS	1	0

E. MUNDELLA.

THE VICTORY OF SONG (Chorus)	1	0

PERGOLESI.

STABAT MATER	1	0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6

E. PROUT.

QUEEN AIMÉE	2	6

HENRY SMART.

KING RENÉ'S DAUGHTER ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1	0

CHARLES VINCENT.

THE LITTLE MERMAID ...	2	6
THE VILLAGE QUEEN	2	6

HILDA WALLER.

THE SINGERS	1	0

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ANTHEMS for ASCENSIONTIDE.

Awake up my Glory	M. Wise	3d.
Christ became obedient unto death	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
Christ is not entered into the Holy Places	Eaton Faning	1½d.
For it became Him	Oliver King	1½d.
God is gone up	Croft	4d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	H. Lahee	1½d.
If He then be risen	J. Naylor	3d.
*It shall come to pass	B. Tours	1½d.
King all glorious	J. Barnby	6d.
*Leave us not, neither forsake us	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Lift up your heads	J. L. Hopkins	1½d.
*O clap your hands	J. Stainer	6d.
O clap your hands	T. T. Trimnell	3d.
*O God, the King of Glory	H. Smart	4d.
*O how amiable	J. Barnby	3d.
*O Lord our Governor	H. Gadsby	3d.
O Lord our Governor	Marcello	1½d.
*O risen Lord	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	J. Baptiste Calkin	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	George Elvey	1½d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
The Lord is exalted	J. E. West	1½d.
The Lord is King	H. Gadsby	6d.

WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw	J. Stainer	6d.
*As pants the hart	Spohr	1½d.
*Come, Holy Ghost	T. Attwood	1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost	J. L. Hatton	3d.
Come, Holy Ghost	George Elvey	4d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God is a Spirit	W. S. Bennett	6d.
Grieve not the Holy Spirit	J. Stainer	3d.
Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad spiritum Sanctum)	G. C. Martin	1½d.
I was in the Spirit	Blow	6d.
If ye love Me	C. S. Heap	1½d.
*If ye love Me	W. H. Monk	1½d.
*If ye love Me	Tallis	1½d.
*If ye love Me	R. P. Stewart	1½d.
In my Father's House	J. Maude Crament	3d.
It shall come to pass	G. Garrett	6d.
*Let not your heart be troubled	H. G. Trembath	3d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
Praised be the Lord daily	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
There is no condemnation	H. S. Irons	3d.
When God of old came down from Heaven	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
We will rejoice	Croft	4d.

TRINITYTIDE.

Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and Glory	Boyce	1½d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
*Stand up and bless	J. Goss	4d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.

Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published. Book 6.

TRANSCRIPTIONS

FROM THE WORKS OF

FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

GEO. CALKIN.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

POPULAR FESTIVAL ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

THE LORD IS MY LIGHT	3d.
GREAT IS THE LORD	3d.
O GIVE THANKS	3d.
SING UNTO THE LORD	3d.

The above Anthems are especially suitable for Church Festivals. Also published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

"A well-written, simple setting."—Musical Standard.

"Bright and vigorous, but at the same time distinguished by Church-like dignity throughout."—Musical Times.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS in G

BY GEORGE LEES.

Price 4d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Specimen copy free of Composer, 83, Byrne Road, Balham, London.

WHITSUNDAY ANTHEMS, &c.

By CALEB SIMPER.

Popular, Easy, Melodious, and Effective.

Let not your heart be troubled (4th edition)		3d.
Day of Pentecost (9th 1,000). If ye love Me (6th 1,000)	each	3d.
What shall I render. 4th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.)		4d.
Fear not, O Land. 20th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.)		3d.
Give glory (10th edition). O how amiable	each	3d.
Break forth (4th 1,000), 4d. Come unto Me (3rd 1,000)		2d.
Te Deum in F (18th ed.), 3d. Holy Communion in F (5th ed.)		6d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. 37th edition		4d.
Sung at ten Choral Festivals.
Easy Holy Communion Service in E flat. 5th 1,000		4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat. 12th edition		4d.
Te Deum in G. New. 3rd edition		4d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. New. 3rd Edition		4d.

"Very effective, good, and Churchly in style."—Chicago Music Review.

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

CHURCH MUSIC FOR

CHOIR & CONGREGATION

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

"Good," "Easy," "Effective," "Dignified," "Devotional," "Singable," "Popular," and "Musicianly."—See Musical Times, April 1, 1891; Musical Standard, June 6, 1891, and Feb. 6, 1892; and Musical News, Sept. 4 and 25, 1891.

Te Deum, No. 1 (Chant form)	3d.	Evening Service, No. 1 (in C)	3d.
Te Deum, No. 2 (in B flat)	3d.	Evening Service, No. 2 (in D)	3d.
Communion Service (in G)	8d.	Carol "Once in Bethlehem" (For Sunday School Anniversaries)	2d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.; or, specimen copies from the Composer, 9, Craigerne Road, Blackheath, S.E.

Just Published. Price 3d.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in A, for the use of Parish Choirs. By J. Percy Baker, A.R.A.M.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now ready.

I WILL EXTOL THEE. Anthem for Festival and General Occasions, suitable for Anniversaries, &c. By F. A. Challinor, A.R.C.M. Price Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

VESPER HYMN

TO BE SUNG AFTER EVENING SERVICE

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY

GEORGE KETT.

Peace for the soul that is weary,
With trouble and sorrow opprest;
Peace for the heart that is yearning
For freedom from sin and for rest;
Peace which the world cannot offer,
An earnest of Life that's Divine—
Jesu, we pray for Thy blessing,
And long for the peace that is Thine.

Price One Penny.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

3rd Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM IN A

CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR CARNALL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition. Price Sixpence.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in A. By I. H. STAMMERS. A second Setting in E flat, 2d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

F. ABDY WILLIAMS, MUS. BAC., OXON.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. Price 4d.
Worthy of the attention of Choirmasters."—Musical World.
BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA, in chant form. Price 1d.
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in chant form. Price 1d.

London and New York NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR WHITSUNDAY, FESTIVALS, OR ANNIVERSARIES.

COMPOSED BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

These compositions are effective, and not difficult.

THE LORD REIGNETH

New. Price Threepence. Sol-fa, Twopence.

PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 9th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.
THE EYES OF ALL. 16th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 5th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Full of melody and vigour.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.
The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS by R. T. CLARK-MORRISON.—"Some trust in chariots." Easy and effective. Price 2d. "O give thanks unto the Lord." An excellent Anthem for Church Festivals. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

EASTER.—"If we believe." Octavo. Four voices .. .. 4d.
„ „ „ Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
„ "I will magnify Thee." Octavo. Four voices .. 3d.
„ „ „ Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
WHITSUNDAY.—"If ye love Me." Octavo. Four voices .. 3d.
„ "I was glad" „ „ .. .. 3d.
„ „ Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E. Octavo .. .. 3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E „ .. .. 3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E .. .. 3d.
„ „ Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
Cantate Domine and Deus Misereatur in E.. .. .. .. 3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. Octavo .. .. .. 3d.
„ „ with Welsh words .. .. .. 3d.
„ „ in Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
„ „ in A. Octavo .. .. .. 3d.
„ „ in Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
The Preces and Responses, with Litany, set in simple form for Four Voices .. .. 4d.
Twelve Original Tunes, set to favourite Hymns .. .. .. 3d.
Amen (on Card) .. .. 1d.

SECULAR.

Song, "By the wayside." Soprano .. .. .. net 1s. 6d.
„ "The Last Prayer." Contralto .. .. .. „ 1s. 6d.
Part-Song, "Over hill, over dale." Four Voices .. .. 3d.
„ "The Rhine Maiden." „ .. .. .. 3d.
„ "Beware" .. .. 1d.

List of all compositions by the same Composer to be had of the Publishers, NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES

AND THE

SECRET OF VOICE-PRODUCTION.

BY

E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
Third Edition, post-free, 6d.

MANUAL OF VOICE-TRAINING

WITH A COMPLETE COURSE OF EXERCISES.

BY

E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
Second Edition, post-free, 2s.

May be obtained of the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or of the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners St., W.

TE DEUM in D. By EVAN FRANKS. Voices principally in Unison, with effective organ accompaniment. Price Fourpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRODUCED AT THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1891.

REQUIEM MASS

FOR

SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

Paper cover, 5s.; paper boards, 6s.; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d. Full Score, £3 3s. Vocal and Orchestral Parts in the Press.

 All communications respecting performances of this work should be addressed direct to the Publishers.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The "Requiem" of Antonín Dvorák is a chef d'œuvre, difficult, no doubt, and imposing much labour upon those who grapple with it for mastery, but all the more on that account, perhaps, the thing I have said; at this no amateur is likely to be surprised. . . . I am not going to set up a comparison between the "Stabat Mater" and the "Requiem." Although the "Requiem" draws more largely than its predecessor upon the resources of highest art, it belongs to the same class of work, and whoever would approach the latter in a spirit of preparedness should do so through the earlier. The two are consecutive links in a golden chain. Following them, we go from glory to glory, and the end we trust is not yet. Dvorák has established himself as the greatest religious composer of the age, not so much, perhaps, in the matter of technique as in the sublime expression of exalted feeling.

STANDARD.

A work in every sense worthy of the gifted Bohemian composer, and one of the noblest settings ever penned of the Roman Catholic Office for the Dead. . . . Even an essay would fail to give an adequate impression of Dvorák's latest masterpiece. . . . The fascination of Dvorák's music consists in the strong individuality of expression which shows itself in almost every line of the score. . . . The "Requiem" (at the Albert Hall) was followed with close attention by a large audience, and, so far as could be judged, made a profound impression.

DAILY NEWS.

To describe the masterly and thoroughly characteristic manner in which Dr. Dvorák treats his orchestra—often in a daring spirit of originality, but always with the happiest effect—is not now necessary. It will suffice that, despite certain minor blemishes, the opinion offered by the analyst, that the "Requiem" is "truly a solemn masterpiece," will be endorsed by connoisseurs, and generally, it is hoped, by the more thoughtful majority of the public.

MORNING POST.

The expectations which had been formed of the new "Requiem," composed at the request of the committee for this Festival by Antonín Dvorák, were fully realised, and Birmingham may once more be congratulated upon having called into existence another work of genius which will stand as a monumental treatment of the time-honoured service in commemoration of the dead.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Antonín Dvorák has at length provided his famous "Stabat Mater" with a fitting companion. . . . From any composer it would be an honourable contribution to art, but from Dvorák it is specially welcome as serving to make manifest that the noble work by which he has hitherto been best known to English concert frequenters was not a solitary specimen of genius in the treatment of sacred subjects.

THE ATHENÆUM.

If it be true, as alleged, that the idea of writing a Requiem originated when the news of the death of Cardinal Newman reached the Bohemian composer, the world is indirectly indebted to that distinguished ecclesiastic for one of the noblest and most beautiful tributes to the dead that ever proceeded from the hand of a musician. . . . The effect of the entire combination (in the "Dies Iræ") is, as we have said, stupendous, and has never been surpassed in any setting of the same words.

WEEKLY DISPATCH.

The work itself is a worthy companion to the celebrated "Stabat Mater," though which is the greater of the two I shall not pretend to decide. . . . The great merits of the score consist in the wealth of rich and striking harmony and the strong infusion of fresh and original melody. I have no space to describe it number by number, but I would point to the "Dies Iræ" as one of the grandest settings ever penned of this awful hymn, and to the "Recordare" and the "Offertorium" as containing music unspeakably beautiful. The mind that conceived these things is that of a master.

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

A second hearing deepens our admiration for this wonderful "Requiem." It is strikingly original, and quite unlike any other setting of the Mass for the Dead. . . . The "Recordare" surely is one of the most exquisite passages of vocal harmony that can be found in the range of music. . . . The masses of harmony towards the close ("Quam olim Abrahæ") are piled up in a way which excites us more and more, and there was little reason for surprise when it was redemanded.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

UNISON CHANTS

FOR THE PSALTER

A COLLECTION OF SINGLE ANGLICAN CHANTS

APPROPRIATED TO THE DAILY PSALMS IN THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER

EXPRESSLY SELECTED AND ADAPTED FOR THE USE OF CHURCH CHOIRS AND CONGREGATIONS

EDITED BY

THE REV. CANON SIR F. A. G. OUSELEY,

Bart., M.A., Mus. Doc., Precentor of Hereford, and Professor of Music in the University of Oxford, 1855-89,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK,

Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Master of the Choir, York Minster, 1859-83.

THE VOICE PART—Price One Shilling. ORGAN HARMONIES—Price Five Shillings.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

IN furtherance of a more general chanting of the Psalter in Churches, this Book of Unison Chants is an attempt to supply a plan sufficiently easy to secure extensive adoption, yet varied enough to be attractive, upon the one and only basis regarded by the Editors as being universally practicable—viz., the employment of Single Chant Melodies, to be sung "in Unison."

The present Work, projected (and even announced) some score of years ago, is intended to meet the need indicated, by providing a Series of easy and suitable Chants, for Unison Singing only, for the monthly course of the Psalter in the Book of Common Prayer. Not only have small and moderately qualified Choirs been kept in view, but also particularly the Voice of the great Congregation. In order to secure this much to be desired end—Chanting of the Daily Psalms by Choir and Congregation combined—the following means are proposed:—

I. Singing in Unison (strictly speaking, Octave-Singing).

II. Employment of Chants of Restricted Compass only; especially as to all Reciting-Notes.

III. Provision for Change of Chant at every fresh Psalm; and also, whenever in the course of any of the longer Psalms such change could be made to follow the significance of the Sacred Text, conduce to its clearer understanding, or enforce its teaching.

IV. Suggestion for occasional Change of Instrumental Harmony as a further mode (often of much value and potency' of heightening the desired expression; or of calling attention to important divisions, and changes of subject or utterance, in cases when actual change of the voice-part seemed undesirable.

Transposition has been largely resorted to, in order to meet the requirements of a limited vocal range; and, more rarely, slight modifications and excisions have been necessary, to carry through and ensure the specific scope and purpose of the Work.

It will not, it is hoped, be imagined by any that in this advocacy of Unisonal Chanting distinctively for the Psalter there is the slightest wish to discourage the use of Choral Harmony in Divine Worship, with all the moving and noble effects produced by well-balanced and refined Part-Singing; or a desire for the further extension of Unison-Singing; beyond its common employment for the People's Part in Confession, Lord's Prayer, Response, and Creed. Not to mention simple "Anthems" and "Services," which are available for Choirs where practice and discipline prevail, the Canticles with carefully selected Chants, as well as Hymn-Tunes, may readily be sung in Harmony by such Choirs against the Congregational Unison, by reason of constant recurrence, and consequent familiarity: advantages which cannot attach to the Hundred and Fifty Psalms of David, which do not quickly become well known to those singers who chant on Sundays only, and are unaccustomed to daily use of the Psalter in Matins and Evensong.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW ANTHEM FOR ST. JOHN'S DAY.

PREPARE YE THE WAY OF THE LORD.—By A. C. EDWARDS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O. Price Threepence, of the COMPOSER, Harlow.

I WILL GREATLY REJOICE IN THE LORD. Anthem for Whitsuntide. Music by BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price Threepence. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published. Crown 8vo, 7s. 6d.

WAGNER AS I KNEW HIM

BY

FERDINAND PRAEGER.

 This book gives an account of Wagner's Life and Work. The Author enjoyed an uninterrupted friendship with Wagner for nearly fifty years, and was in his fullest confidence.

London: LONGMANS, GREEN and Co.

Just Published.

ALEXANDRE GUILMANT.

PIECES IN DIFFERENT STYLES

FOR THE ORGAN.

BOOK 17. OP. 74.

Marche Elégiaque.
Consolation.
Andante Sostenuto ed Allegro Giocoso.
Communion No. 4, in A flat.

Price, net 3s. 6d.

London: SCHOTT and Co., 159, Regent Street, W.

WHAT MUSIC TEACHES (DR. HILES).—See May Musical Opinion and Music Trades Review. Also 190 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. To be ordered everywhere; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

W. CZERNY'S COLLECTION

OF

LADIES' CHORUSES

FOR THREE OR FOUR VOICES

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

PRICE FOURPENCE EACH NET.

No.
1.	Chorus of Houris (from "Paradise and Peri"). Quartet.	R. Schumann.
2.	Chorus of Spinning Maidens (from "The Flying Dutchman"). Quartet	R. Wagner.
3.	Wedding Song (from "Lohengrin"). Quartet	R. Wagner.
4.	The Pilgrims' Chorus (from "Tannhäuser"). Quartet.	R. Wagner.
5.	The Pilgrims of the Night. Solo and Chorus.	W. J. Westbrook.
6.	Summer Fancies (The Roses Valse). Trio	Oliver Mètra.
7.	Night (Valse). Trio	A. Ergmann.
8.	To an infant sleeping. Trio	W. C. Filby.
9.	When comes sweet May. Trio	Mendelssohn.
10.	In May. Trio	Dr. U. C. Burnap.
11.	Cradle Song ("Blanche de Provence"). Trio	Cherubini.
12.	To our peaceful valley ("Castor and Pollux"). Trio.	Rameau.
13.	Church Bells. Trio	W. F. Taylor.
14.	Oh, welcome lovely Spring. Trio	R. Schumann.
15.	Hail! welcome Day. Trio	J. Concone.
16.	Young Hearts. Trio	C. Fabiani.
17.	Stars the Night adorning. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
18.	O come to Him ("Crucifix"). Trio	J. Faure.
19.	Joys bloom like Roses. Trio	Bonoldi.
20.	Vilanelle. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
21.	Fond Hearts. Trio	J. Concone.
22.	The Festive Day. Trio	J. Concone.
23.	Tyrolese Mountaineers. Trio	Ch. Oberthür.
24.	Prayer (from "Tannhäuser"). Trio	R. Wagner.
25.	In Young May. Trio	Franz Abt.
26.	In Early Spring. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
27.	The Merry Huntsman. Quartet	R. Schumann.
28.	The Water-sprite. Quartet	R. Schumann.
29.	Summer Days. Trio	Franz Abt.
30.	Awake! awake! the dawn is here. Trio	Franz Abt.
31.	Ring on, ye Bells! Trio	Franz Abt.
32.	The Noblest. Trio	R. Schumann.
33.	To the Sunshine. Trio	R. Schumann.
34.	Cradle Song. Trio	W. Taubert.
35.	In Yonder Glade. Trio	W. Taubert.
36.	As fades the evening hour. Trio	B. Tours.
37.	The Lily. Trio	Von Wasa.
38.	In Brightest Joys. Trio	Von Wasa.
39.	A Fearful Tale. Trio	R. Schumann.
40.	On the bounding Sea. Trio	P. Mazzoni.
41.	Song of the Fairies. Trio	Carl Binder.
42.	Lustrous orbs deck the Night. Trio	A. Rotoli.
43.	Sweet Daisy. Trio	F. Curschmann.
44.	Come flit around. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
45.	Smiling welcome. Trio	F. B. Rudall.
46.	Thou Beaming Star. Trio	Th. Bradsky.
47.	O'er Blooming Meadows. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
48.	Hail! Evening Bright. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
49.	Jehovah's Power and Majesty. Trio	Marcello.
50.	Cradle Song. Trio	L. M. Gottschalk.
51.	Hearts light as air. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
52.	Ave Maria. Trio	E. Marlois.
53.	Bright the Yule Logs glow. Trio	E. Marlois.
54.	The Lord's Prayer. Solo and Chorus	L. Niedermeyer.
55.	Village Wedding. Trio	Flotow.
56.	The Smiling Dawn ("Jephtha"). Trio	Handel.
57.	Home for the Holidays. Trio	R. Schumann.
58.	Loving for Ever. Trio	G. Money.
59.	Saturday Night. Trio	E. P. Cockram.
60.	Rosa Clare. Trio	B. Tours.
61.	The Gipsies. Trio	R. Schumann.
62.	The Sleigh Bells. Trio	T. G. B. Halley.

CANTATAS FOR TREBLE VOICES.

	Words by	Music by	Price Net s. d.
Around the Hearth (with Pianoforte Duet Accompaniment)	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	Sir G. A. Macfarren	3 0
Children visiting the Fairies	Mrs. Richard Mant	H. R. Binfield	1 0
Conversion of St. Paul	William Ball	Mendelssohn	2 6
Discontented Chicken (The)	Mary E. Roper	James Greenhill	1 6
Fairy Footsteps	E. Oxenford	Franz Abt	3 0
Fisher-Maidens (The)	Fred. E. Weatherly	Henry Smart	3 0
Gipsy Girl ("The Bohemian Girl")	Alfred Bunn	M. W. Balfe	2 6
Gitanella ("Maritana")	Alfred Bunn	W. V. Wallace	2 6
Harvest Queen (The)	E. J. Eagleman	Godwin Fowles	3 0
Knight of Palestine (The)	C. J. Rowe	Weber	3 0
Little Sunbeam	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	M. Erdmannsdörfer	3 0
May-tide	E. Oxenford	P. Mazzoni	3 0
Ministering Angels	Frederic Wood	G. B. Allen	3 0
Minstrel Maidens (The)	E. Oxenford	Seymour Smith	3 0
Mountain Maidens (The)	F. R. Havergal	F. Romer	3 0
Orpheus and Eurydice		J. Offenbach	3 0
Page (The). From "Mazeppa"	Jessica Rankin	M. W. Balfe	3 0
Snowblossom and the Elves	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	H. Erler	1 0
Snow-Maidens (The)	E. Oxenford	Franz Abt	3 0
Three Sisters (The)	F. Enoch	Ignace Gibsone	2 6
Wise and Foolish Virgins (The)	Sacred	Thomas Anderton	2 0
Wood-Nymphs (The)	E. Oxenford	Ignace Gibsone	3 0
Wreck of the Hesperus (The)	Longfellow	Louis N. Parker	2 0

EDWIN ASHDOWN (Limited), LONDON, NEW YORK, & TORONTO.

ORSBORN & CO.'S NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE CHANCEL ECHOES

A SERIES OF

ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

ORGAN, HARMONIUM, OR AMERICAN ORGAN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH NET.

Book 1.—Nine Voluntaries	.. .. ..	By Jules Thérése.
„ 2.—Ten „	.. .. ..	.. Theo. Bonheur.
„ 3.—Nine „	.. .. ..	Edwin M. Flavell.
„ 4.—Thirteen „	.. .. ..	Arthur Graham.
„ 5.—Ten „	.. .. ..	D'Auvergne Barnard.
„ 6.—Thirteen „	.. .. ..	James Robinson.

Books 1 to 6, handsomely bound, price 5s. net; by post, 5s. 6d.

Book 7.—Ten Voluntaries	.. .. ..	By Alfred Redhead.
„ 8.—Nine „	.. .. ..	Edwin M. Flavell.

THE ABBEY VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

ORGAN, HARMONIUM, OR AMERICAN ORGAN.

PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH NET.

Vol. 1.—Twelve Voluntaries ..		By A. W. Marchant, Mus. Bac.
„ 2.—Eleven „	.. .. ..	.. E. M. Flavell.
„ 3.—Ten „	.. .. ..	Edward St. Quentin.
„ 4.—Ten „	.. .. ..	Alfred Rawlings.
„ 5.—Eleven „	.. .. ..	.. J. Horspool.
„ 6.—Eleven „	.. .. ..	D'Auvergne Barnard.

Vols. 1 to 6, handsomely bound, 5s. net; by post, 5s. 6d.

Vol. 7.—Ten Voluntaries	.. ..	By King Hall.
„ 8.—Ten „	.. .. ..	.. Theo. Bonheur.
„ 9.—Eight „	.. .. ..	.. Louis Potrelle.
„ 10.—Nine „	.. .. ..	.. J. Horspool.
„ 11.—Ten „	.. .. ..	William M. Hutchison.
„ 12.—Twelve „	.. .. ..	.. E. H. Smith.

Vols. 7 to 12, handsomely bound, 5s. net; by post, 5s. 6d.

Vol. 13.—Ten Voluntaries ..	.. .. ..	By W. G. Wood.
„ 14.—Twelve „	.. .. ..	.. E. H. Smith.
„ 15.—Eleven „	.. .. ..	.. Alfred Redhead.

THE

ORGANIST'S MARCH ALBUM

CONTAINING ORIGINAL MARCHES, WITH PEDAL OBBLIGATO

ARRANGED BY

ARTHUR GRAHAM.

PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH NET.

BOOK I.

No. 1. The Saxon March ..	.. .. ..	.. E. Boggetti.
„ 2. The Choralists' March ..	.. ..	.. Arthur Graham.
„ 3. The Hero's Return ..	.. .. ..	.. E. M. Flavell.

BOOK II.

No. 1. Vienna March ..	.. .. ..	Theo. Bonheur.
„ 2. Marche Triomphale ..	.. .. ..	.. Henri Coupe.
„ 3. Nuptial March..	.. .. ..	James Robinson.

BOOK III.

No. 1. Marcia	.. .. ..	D'Auvergne Barnard.
„ 2. March in G ..	.. .. ..	Theo. Bonheur.
„ 3. March Gloria ..	.. .. ..	.. Jules Thérése.

BOOK IV.

No. 1. Grand March ..	.. .. ..	.. Jules Thérése.
„ 2. March Festive ..	.. .. ..	.. Henri Coupe.
„ 3. March of the Bards ..	.. .. ..	.. T. Kay.

BOOK V.

No. 1. March of the Friars ..	.. ..	Theo. Bonheur.
„ 2. Richmond March ..	.. .. ..	.. Ivan Rubens.
„ 3. Golden Wedding March ..	.. ..	T. Merton Clark.

BOOK VI.

No. 1. March of the Minstrels ..	.. ..	.. F. A. Dunster.
„ 2. Rosebery March ..	.. .. ..	.. J. A. Mann.
„ 3. Funeral March..	.. .. ..	Arthur Graham.

Books 1 to 6, Bound in Cloth, 7s. 6d. net.

ORSBORN AND CO., 61, BERNERS ST., W.

NOW READY.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS.

EDITED BY SIR JOHN STAINER.

BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY OF MUSICIANS

BY

WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS.

In paper boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

PREFACE.

STUDENTS of music, and others, desirous of ascertaining at what period any particular musician lived, have frequently to make a somewhat lengthened search before they can obtain the required information. In the following pages the dates, and places of birth and death, together with the details of the special branch of music cultivated by each individual, are given in a condensed form, so that important facts may be read at a glance. As a primer of rudimentary musical biography, it is believed that the present publication will prove of great service, and it is proposed to supplement what is detailed here with a larger work, giving fuller narrations of the stories of the lives of those whose names are included in the roll of musicians. The work now published is the result of much laborious time and trouble, and has been accomplished by reference, in many cases, to documents and registers not readily accessible, in cathedrals and churches, and private libraries. Every endeavour has been made to secure accuracy, but of course it would be vain to hope that no error has crept in; it is human to err. I shall, however, be obliged by any notice of apparent inaccuracy, and glad to receive well authenticated corrections. W. H. C.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Now ready.

SEVEN SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

CONTENTS:

Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE KEYBOARD.

MONTHLY JOURNAL FOR ALL INTERESTED IN THE PIANOFORTE OR AMERICAN ORGAN.

The number for APRIL contains: More about Private v. Scholastic Teaching—Leaderettes—The Construction and Mechanism of the Pianoforte—The American Organ—Prize Essay—Manual Gymnastics—Concert Notes—New Publications—Music Received—Steibelt's Octave Study—Queries and Replies—Chats about Harmony—Correspondence—Trade Mems.—Key Notes—Prize Announcements—Editor's Announcements. Monthly, price 2½d., post-free; subscription, per annum, post-free, 2s. 6d.

H. ALABASTER, GATEHOUSE and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, London.

Revised Edition. Now ready. Cloth, 3s. 6d.

COPYRIGHT, MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC

THE LAW OF

BY

EDWARD CUTLER,

One of Her Majesty's Counsel;

THOMAS EUSTACE SMITH AND FREDERIC E. WEATHERLY, Esqrs.,

Barristers-at-Law.

CASSELL AND COMPANY, Limited, Ludgate Hill, London.

BY THE RESTLESS BREAKERS. New Song. By THOS. HUTCHINSON (composer of "Fetters of Gold," and other well-known songs). 2s. net.

G. RICORDI and Co., 265, Regent Street, W.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS

FOR THE

ORGAN.

No.			s.	d.
1.	Two Introductory Voluntaries ..	George J. Bennett	1	0
2.	Three Andantes	Hamilton Clarke	2	0
3.	Postlude (Christmas)	G. M. Garrett	1	6
4.	Andante con moto	G. M. Garrett	1	0
5.	Interlude for Advent	.. Oliver King	1	0
6.	Prelude for Lent, Op. 10, No. 2 .. / Fantasia on a Theme by Hermann Goetz, Op. 20	.. Oliver King	1	0
7.	Three Pieces: (a) Baptism, (b) Wedding, (c) Burial	A. C. Mackenzie (each)	1	0
8.	Voluntary for Christmas	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
9.	Voluntary	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
10.	Short Voluntary for a Time of Sorrow ..	Ridley Prentice	0	6
11.	Short Voluntary for Lent	B. Luard Selby	1	0
12.	Postlude in C minor	.. C. Steggall	1	0
13.	Concluding Voluntary or Fantasia (Lent)	C. E. Stephens	1	0
14.	Three Canons	W. G. Wood	2	0
15.	Allegretto	C. H. Lloyd	1	0
16.	Allegretto in D	B. Luard Selby	1	0
17.	Three Pieces: No. 1, Allegretto moderato; No. 2, Andante con moto; No. 3, Processional March	H. M. Higgs	2	6
18.	Andante in G	Herbert W. Wareing	1	0
19.	Andante in A and Minuet in A ..	.. C. Harford Lloyd	1	6
20.	Allegro ma non troppo	Oscar Wagner	1	0
21.	Processional Wedding March	Henry R. Bird	1	0
22.	Rêverie	B. Luard Selby	1	0
23.	Three Pieces in F, D, and G	B. Luard Selby	1	6
24.	Marche Sérieuse	B. Luard Selby	1	0
25.	Six Miniatures	Oscar Wagner	2	6
26.	Three Preludes	John E. West	1	0
27.	Communion in D flat / Preludium e Fughetta	B. Luard Selby	1	0
28.	Introduction and Fugue	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
29.	Allegretto	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
30.	Andante and Fugue	B. Luard Selby	1	6
31.	Pastorale and Melody in A flat ..	B. Luard Selby	1	6
32.	Orchestral March	B. Luard Selby	1	0
33.	Sonate	Oscar Wagner	1	6
34.	Sketch in C minor	John E. West	1	0
35.	Fugue in E minor	John E. West	1	0
36.	Minuet and Trio	B. Luard Selby	1	0
37.	Andante in B flat, and Short Postlude ..	B. Luard Selby	1	0
38.	Sarabande	B. Luard Selby	1	0
39.	Postlude in D	B. Luard Selby	1	0
40.	Andante Grazioso	.. C. S. Heap	1	0
41.	Fantasia in C	Berthold Tours	1	6
42.	Allegretto Grazioso	Berthold Tours	1	0
43.	Menuetto	Berthold Tours	1	0
44.	Postlude	Berthold Tours	1	0
45.	Fantasia in C minor	W. S. Hoyte	1	6
46.	Four Short Voluntaries	Kate Westrop	1	6
47.	Concert-Fantasia and Fugue	W. G. Wood	2	0
48.	Sonata in D minor	Charles H. Lloyd	2	6
49.	Andante in E, Minuet and Trio, No. 2, in A minor	B. Luard Selby	1	6
50.	Postlude in D	W. G. Wood	1	0
51.	Allegro in C	W. G. Wood	1	0
52.	Melody in B flat	Arthur Carnall	1	0
53.	Three Andantes	Hamilton Clarke	1	6
54.	Postlude, in B flat	John E. West	1	0
55.	Allegro in form of a Minuet	W. G. Wood	1	6
56.	Allegro ma non troppo	H. M. Higgs	1	6
57.	Prelude and Fugue	H. M. Higgs	1	6
58.	Mélodie, Prière, Pastorale	H. M. Higgs	1	6
59.	Offertoire in D minor	H. M. Higgs	1	6
60.	Andantino in D	.. J. Barnby	0	6
61.	Communion and Larghetto	Edouard Batiste	1	0
62.	Prelude and Postlude	Edouard Batiste	1	6
63.	Andante in A flat and Pastorale in F ..	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
64.	Grand Offertorio in A	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
65.	Minuet in B flat	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
66.	Larghetto in C	.. C. J. Frost	1	0
67.	Fantasia in B flat	.. C. J. Frost	1	0
68.	Sonatina in C	.. C. J. Frost	1	6
69.	Andante Moderato in A	G. M. Garrett	1	6
70.	Prelude in C minor	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
71.	Allegro Marziale	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
72.	Prelude and Fugue in A minor	Ch. Grædener	1	0
73.	Andante in F	J. W. Gritton	0	6
74.	Marche Triomphale in E flat and Postlude in F	Alex. Guilmant	1	6
75.	Fantaisie sur Deux Mélodies Anglaises ..	Alex. Guilmant	1	6
76.	Festal March in E flat	.. C. S. Heap	1	6
77.	Fantasia on Mendelssohn's Volkslied ..	Geo. Hepworth	1	6
78.	Prelude in G	W. Macfarren	0	6
79.	Religious March in E flat	G. A. Macfarren	1	0
80.	Andante in G and March	G. A. Macfarren	1	0
81.	Variations on the Psalm-tune "Windsor"	G. A. Macfarren	1	0
82.	Andante in D	H. S. Oakeley	1	0
83.	Præludium et Fuga	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
84.	Prelude in C sharp minor	.. W. Parratt	0	6
85.	Postlude in C minor	E. Prout	1	0
86.	Andante in E flat and Postlude in C ..	.. F. J. Read	1	0
87.	Andante Serioso in D minor	.. C. Reinecke	0	6
88.	Allegro vivace in D	.. C. T. Speer	1	0
89.	Prelude and Fugue in E minor	C. V. Stanford	1	6
90.	Postlude in C	.. H. J. Stark	1	0
91.	Allegretto Pastorale in A and Fugue in D minor	C. Steggall	1	6
92.	Offertoire in F	C. E. Stephens	1	0
93.	Concert-Fantasia in D minor	R. P. Stewart	1	6
94.	Fugato in C	.. Ph. Tietz	1	0
95.	Pastorale in E flat and Concluding Voluntary, Fugato in G minor	.. Ph. Tietz	1	0
96.	March in F	.. J. H. Wallis	1	0
97.	Voluntary (Grave and Andante)	S. S. Wesley	1	0
98.	Concert-Fantasia, D minor	Johann Worping	1	6
99.	Theme in A	.. F. W. Hird	1	0
100.	Maestoso alla marcia	.. F. W. Hird	1	0
101.	Postludium in F	Algernon Ashton	1	6
102.	Postlude in C minor	.. C. S. Heap	2	0
103.	Offertoire	J. F. Barnett	1	6
104.	Scherzo Symphonique	Albert Renaud	1	0
105.	Marche Solennelle (from Leavy)	Albert Renaud	1	0
106.	Meditation (from Nicou-Choron)	Albert Renaud	1	0
107.	Andante Religioso (from Nicou-Choron)	Albert Renaud	1	0
108.	Toccata in D minor	W. G. Wood	1	6
109.	Introduction and Variations	.. B. Haynes	2	0
110.	Three Offertories	Hamilton Clarke	2	0
111.	Pastorale	B. Luard Selby	1	0
112.	Six Easy Voluntaries	Kate Loder	2	0
113.	Twelve Characteristic Pieces. Book I.	Rheinberger	1	6
114.	" " " " II.	Rheinberger	1	6
115.	" " " " III.	Rheinberger	1	6
116.	" " " " IV.	Rheinberger	2	0
117.	Festal March	.. G. Calkin	1	0
118.	Romance	Battison Haynes	1	0
119.	Larghetto	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
120.	Solemn March	B. Luard Selby	1	6
121.	Elegy	B. Luard Selby	1	0
122.	Festival Præludium	.. Otto Dienel	1	6
123.	Concert Fantasia (No. 1)	.. Otto Dienel	2	0
124.	Concert Fantasia (No. 2)	.. Otto Dienel	1	6
125.	Adagio	.. Otto Dienel	1	0
126.	Andante Pastorale	Algernon Ashton	1	6
127.	Concert Overture in C minor	W. G. Wood	1	6
128.	Minuetto	George Calkin	1	0
129.	Postlude	George Calkin	1	0
130.	Nuptial March	B. Luard Selby	1	0
131.	Six Short Pieces (Nos. 1, 2, 3)	W. G. Wood	1	6
132.	Six Short Pieces (Nos. 4, 5, 6)	W. G. Wood	1	0
133.	Monologues (Nos. 1 to 3)	J. Rheinberger	1	0
134.	Monologues (Nos. 4 to 6)	J. Rheinberger	1	6
135.	Monologues (Nos. 7 to 9)	J. Rheinberger	1	6
136.	Monologues (Nos. 10 to 12)	J. Rheinberger	1	6
137.	Andante Grazioso	Percy W. Pilcher	1	0
138.	Andante con moto	.. A. H. Allen	0	6
139.	Introduction and Air, with Variations ..	W. G. Wood	2	0
140.	Six Easy Voluntaries (second set) ..	.. Kate Loder	2	0
141.	Fantasia Sonata on the Ancient Melody for "Dies Iræ"	B. Luard Selby	2	6
142.	Sonata on a German Chorale	.. Oliver King	2	0
143.	Fantasia	.. E. Silas	2	0
144.	Allegretto Pastorale	H. W. Wareing	1	0
145.	Sonata in D minor	Alfred Alexander	3	0
146.	March in C	H. Elliot Button	1	0
147.	Festival March	H. W. Wareing	1	6
148.	Short Offertory in F	Hamilton Clarke	1	0

(To be continued.)

Nos. 41 to 45, and 60 to 100, from "The Organist's Quarterly Journal."

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSICAL EDUCATIONAL WORKS
BY
H. GERMER.

s. d.

Op. 32. ELEMENTARY PIANOFORTE SCHOOL, in 3 Books .. .. each net 2 6
Or, in one volume, 6s. net; bound, 7s. net.
"A model work of its kind."—Signale, Leipzig.

Op. 28 and Op. 30, I. THE TECHNICS OF PIANOFORTE PLAYING, MUSICAL ORNAMENTATION, AND THEORY OF TONE FORMATION (bound in cloth) net 6 6
"The best and most practical work of its kind."—Musikalisches Wochenblatt, Leipzig.

Op. 29. RHYTHMICAL PROBLEMS .. .. .. net 2 6
"Germer's Rhythmical Studies are valuable and highly to be recommended both to teachers and pupils."—Franz Liszt.

ALBUM OF SELECTED COMPOSITIONS, from the Pianoforte Works of Schubert, Field, Mendelssohn, Schumann, and Chopin .. .. net 2 6
"Selection, fingering, marks of expression, and phrasing are quite admirable."—Clavier-Lehrer, Berlin.
Bound, 3s. net.

Op. 31. THIRTY-SIX PIANOFORTE STUDIES FOR THE MIDDLE GRADE. Books I., II., III. .. each 2 0
"The Studies here presented in delightful rounded-off forms are little masterpieces as regards invention, contents, and practical value."—Pädagogischer Jahresbericht.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published. May be had of all Musicsellers.

MUSICAL PICTURE-BOOK FOR YOUNG AND OLD.

TWENTY-TWO EASY PIECES FOR THE PIANO BY ALEXIS HOLLÄNDER (Op. 41).

With Twenty-two Pictures by R. KNÖTEL. Complete, in One Volume, elegantly bound, 4s. net; or, in Three Books, each 2s.

CONTENTS.

Book I.

Shepherd's morning song.	The Blind Organ Grinder.
Silver fishes in the lake.	Presentation of Colours.
Fairy tale.	Birds in the wood.
Dolly's Kitchen.	Evening Prayer.

Book II.

Tower-Warder's Evening Song.	Little Chatterbox.
At the Hunt.	In the Poultry Yard.
Evening Chimes.	Cat and Mouse.
The Dancing Lesson.

Book III.

The Grand Equestrian Circus:—

Before the performance.	Juggler.
High Art.	Clowns.
Acrobats and Athletic Sports.	Bare-back riding.

Berlin: SCHLESINGER'SCHE MUSIKHANDLUNG, 23, Französische Str.

CARL LOEWE'S BALLADS.

Just Published. May be had of all Musicsellers.

LOEWE-ALBUM of Thirteen Ballads, with English and German words and a Preface. Edited by ALBERT B. BACH.

Vol. I.

Edward.	The Erl-king.	Archibald Douglas.
The Three Woers.	Sir Oluf.	The Fisherman.

Vol. II.

The Lost Daughter.	The Clock.	The Monk of Pisa.
Odin's ride over the sea.	The Imprisoned Admiral.	Fair Red Rose.
		The Nick.

Price of each Volume, Four Shillings net.

These Albums contain a collection of the most beautiful Ballads of the celebrated German Master, CARL LOEWE.

Berlin: SCHLESINGER'SCHE MUSIKHANDLUNG, 23, Französische Str.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SECOND EDITION.

KING ARTHUR
A DRAMATIC CANTATA
FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA
WORDS BY
JAMES SMIETON, M.A.
MUSIC BY
JOHN MORE SMIETON.

OLD NOTATION, 2s. 6d.; TONIC SOL-FA, 1s.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

The attention of Conductors is specially directed to the above Cantata, as affording an unusually interesting work for chorus and soloists. It takes about an hour and forty minutes to perform, and has been given with conspicuous success by the Choral Unions of Dundee, Broughty Ferry, and Airdrie, as well as by other societies throughout the kingdom.

SCOTSMAN.

This beautiful work will enhance the reputation won for its composer by his similar composition, "Ariadne." It shows a charming gift of melody and no small musicianly skill in its merely technical qualities. It may be recommended to Choral Societies as well worthy of study.

SCOTTISH LEADER.

The work opens with a charming prelude in sacred style, which sets the mind admirably in tune for the drama which is to follow. In the first scene the Romance sung by the King is a little gem, and would make a beautiful song even apart from its surroundings. In the third scene, the wedding of Arthur and Guinevere gives rise to a whole suite of characteristic novelties. No. 15, which introduces a hymn sung by maidens, is perhaps the finest thing in the whole Cantata; and an effective epilogue brings the work to a striking close. "King Arthur" will certainly add to the reputation of its gifted composer, and will be welcomed by all lovers of music.

DUNDEE ADVERTISER, March 30, 1892.

We have not space to examine every number in detail, and to point out the excellencies which were evidently appreciated by the audience. But as outstanding numbers, memorable both for composition and for the style in which they were sung, we may refer to the Romance "'Mid the glory of the Springtime," splendidly executed by Mr. Iver McKay; the beautiful aria for Guinevere, "Star of departing day," admirably sung by Miss Emily Davies; and the graceful and highly original duet for these two vocalists, "Love of my youthful days." The most marked success gained by Mr. Musgrove Tufnail during the evening was in the very involved legend, "In the vault of the purple night," assigned to Merlin, in which the vocalist entirely identified himself with the part he had to represent.

THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, March 30, 1892.

"King Arthur" is called by the composer a cantata, but the name hardly conveys to the mind an idea of the elaborate, lengthy, and powerful character of the work. It is rather a musical epic, and is characterised throughout by a wealth of musical ideas, by a command of musical resources, by a scholarly knowledge of harmony, by a variety and richness of effect, and notably by a melodiousness throughout that are really remarkable. One notable feature which must be mentioned is the effective character of Mr. Smieton's recitatives. He has succeeded in infusing these with genuine interest, and giving to them melodic treatment which saves them from the charge of monotony too often felt in works of this kind. The beautiful hymn "There is a land" was a much relished item near the close of the cantata, which ended with a powerful chorus, in which the composer calls up all the resources before him to make a telling and impressive finish to the work. Late as the hour was there was a loud and persistent call for the composer, and when at length he stepped upon the platform and bowed his acknowledgments he was greeted with round after round of applause. The production of the cantata was a triumphant success, and the composer is to be congratulated on the general ability with which it was performed and the marked favour by which it was received.

A copy of the cantata will be sent, post-free, to Conductors, on application to the COMPOSER, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BARTHOLOMEW, J. N.—"O Salutaris." Solo. For Bass or Contralto .. .. net	1	0
BOËLLMANN, L.—"Carillon." For Pianoforte:—
Solo	4	0
Duet	5	0
BORIS-SCHEEL.—Love Song. For Soprano, Pianoforte and Violoncello. (French and English words)	4	0
FIORILLO.—Celebrated Violin Studies. Transcribed for Viola. Two Books .. .. each net	1	0
FLÜGEL, G.—Toccata and Fugue. For Organ. Op. 105:—
No. 1. Toccata	2	0
„ 2. Fugue	2	0
FRANK, CÉSAR.—"Les Cloches du Soir." Song. For Soprano	2	6
—— "La Procession." Song. For Soprano	4	0
—— Trois Chorals. For Organ, with Pedal obbligato. Nos. 1, 2, and 3 .. .. each net	2	6
CLAUSSMANN, A.—Collection of Organ Pieces. Book I. net	4	6
GREGOIR, J.—Royal March. For Pianoforte:—
Solo	4	0
Duet	5	0
GODARD, BENJAMIN.—Six Morceaux. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 128:—
No. 1. Rêverie	4	0
„ 2. Gavotte	5	0
„ 3. Adagio Pathétique	4	0
„ 4. Mazurk Sentimentale	5	0
„ 5. Sérénade Andalouse	5	0
„ 6. Staccato-Valse	6	6
HALPHÉN, F.—Valse lente. For Violin and Pianoforte ..	5	0
HÜE, G.—"Le Berger." Ballade. For Voice and Pianoforte	5	0
LASSEN, ED.—Polka Fantaisie. For Pianoforte:—
Solo	4	0
Duet	5	0
MARTUCCI, GIUSEPPE.—Deux Romances. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 72:—
No. 1. Andantino con moto	3	0
„ 2. Moderato	3	0
NÁPRAVNIK, E.—Deux Pièces Espagnoles. Arranged as Pianoforte Duets. Op. 51:—
No. 1. Romance	5	0
„ 2. Fandango	6	0
NÖRVANG, JOHANNES.—Fantaisie sur des Danses Rustiques Danoises. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 1	4	0
PESSARD, E.—Valse Fantaisiste. For Pianoforte. Edition de Salon, par HAUSSER	5	0
PIERNÉ, G.—"Le Collier de Saphirs." Suite d'Orchestre. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet by G. LAUDRÉ:—
No. 1. Introduction
„ 2. Sérénade de Gilles .. .. net	5	0
„ 3. Entr'acte et 2me Tableau
POISE, F.—"Rosette." Mélodie pour Chant et Piano. (French words)	3	0
POPPER, DAVID.—No. 33. Tarantelle. Arranged for Violoncello and Pianoforte. For Pianoforte alone, by ALBERT BIEHL	4	0
RHEINBERGER, JOSEF.—"Marianische Hymnen." Op. 171. No. 5. "Regina Coeli":—
(a) For Voice with Organ Accompaniment	2	0
(b) For Voice with Pianoforte Accompaniment	2	0
RÜFER, PH.—Three Pieces. For Violin and Organ. Op. 36 complete	6	0
—— Op. 36. No. 1. Adagio. For Violoncello and Organ ..	2	0
SAINT-SAËNS, C.—Chant Saphique. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 91 .. .. net	2	0
—— "Là Bas." Mélodie. For Tenor and Pianoforte	4	0
—— "Samson et Dalila." Opéra. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet .. .. net	20	0
—— Suite for the Pianoforte. Op. 90. Complete .. „	3	0
(No. 1. Prelude; No. 2. Menuet; No. 3. Gavotte; No. 4. Gigue.)
No. 2. Menuet, from above, separately	4	0
No. 3. Gavotte „ „	4	0
SCHOOFS, E.—"Ave Regina." Duet, with Organ Accompaniment .. .. net	1	0
SCHYTTE, LUDVIG.—Dix Historiettes. For Pianoforte. Op. 70:—
No. 1. La petite Bergère	2	0
„ 2. Danse styrienne	2	0
„ 3. Caprice	2	0
„ 4. Une Histoire amusante	2	0
„ 5. Sylphides au Bois	3	0
„ 6. Impromptu	3	0
„ 7. La Chasse	2	0
„ 8. L'Arlequin	3	0
„ 9. L'Adieu des Hirondelles	2	0
„ 10. La Source murmurante	3	0
THOMAS, L. EUG.—Three Songs. For Voice, with Organ Accompaniment:—
No. 1. Ave Maria, gratia plena (in E)	2	0
„ 2. „ „ (in F)	2	0
„ 3. Ave verum corpus	2	0
VAN GAEL, H.—Rhythmical Scales, in all major and minor keys. For Pianoforte:—
Book I. Major keys .. .. net	2	6
„ II. Minor keys .. .. „	2	6
WAGNER, R.—"Heldengestalten." By HANS VON WOHLZOGEN. Illustrated. Bound .. .. net	10	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FAMOUS VIOLINS AND VIOLIN MAKERS.

THIS SERIES OF PUBLICATIONS now comprises three Works, each compiled from original sources, and containing much information hitherto unpublished. The books are handsomely bound in cloth, and illustrated with superb coloured plates by Mr. Alfred Slocombe and Mr. Shirley Slocombe.

THE TUSCAN STRADIVARI. A short account of a Violin made by Stradivari for Cosimo de Medici, Grand Duke of Tuscany, in 1690. Illustrated by three coloured plates and fac-simile reproductions of some interesting records concerning the instrument.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

A few copies of the first notice of this Violin appeared printed on hand-made paper in a quaint paper cover, without illustrations, but containing fac-similes of the interesting receipt given at the time of the purchase of the Violin in 1794 and of the label Stradivari inserted in the instrument.

PRICE SIXPENCE.

THE SALABUE STRADIVARI. A History and Critical Description of the famous Violin, commonly called "Le Messie," made by Stradivari in 1716, and afterwards sold by his son to Count Cozio di Salabue. Illustrated by three coloured plates.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE SIX SHILLINGS.

THE LIFE AND WORK OF MAGGINI, the Great Brescian Maker, based on information derived from the archives of the town of Brescia, and from other sources, containing three coloured plates of a Maggini Violin of great beauty, photographs of Brescia and of Maggini's house, with a fac-simile of his handwriting, and numerous other illustrations.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE SEVEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

OTHER IMPORTANT VOLUMES IN THIS SERIES ARE IN PREPARATION.
ORDERS FOR COPIES NOW RECEIVED.

MESSRS. W. E. HILL AND SONS,
38, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

THE OVERTURE

A MONTHLY MUSICAL JOURNAL

WRITTEN BY

MUSICIANS FOR MUSICIANS.

EDITOR: F. CORDER.

PUBLISHED BY

MESSRS. FORSYTH BROS., 267, REGENT STREET, W.

Price 3s. Annually (9 Nos.), or by post, 3s. 6d.

VOL. III., No. 3, MAY, 1892, CONTAINS—

Some Idle Thoughts of an Idle Examiner;
Passing Notes;
Chats on Technical Subjects, VIII.—How to Edit Music;
A Harmony Exercise;
Reviews, Major and Minor;
On Some Musical Snobs, No. 3;
Thoughts and Reflections, by T. A. M.
Academy News;
&c., &c.

NOVELLO'S
VIOLIN & PIANOFORTE ALBUMS.

		s.	d.
*1.	MENDELSSOHN.—Four Marches. Transcribed by B. TOURS. No. 1, Wedding March; No. 2, War March of the Priests; No. 3, Cornelius March; No. 4, Funeral March	2	6
*2.	BERTHOLD TOURS.—Thirty Melodies (expressly written to be used in connection with the Author's VIOLIN PRIMER)	2	6
*3.	MENDELSSOHN.—"Elijah." Ten Transcriptions by B. TOURS ...	1	0
*4.	GOUNOD.—"Mors et Vita." Ten Transcriptions by B. TOURS ...	2	6
*5.	BATTISON HAYNES.——Twelve Sketches	2	6
*6.	SIEGFRIED JACOBY.—Hungarian Dances. (Transcribed)	2	6
7.	IPPOLITO RAGGHIANTI.——Nine Morceaux de Salon.	2	6
8.	OLIVER KING.—Twelve Pieces ...	2	6
*9.	JOACHIM RAFF.—Six Morceaux de Salon	2	6
10.	SIEGFRIED JACOBY.—Six Characteristic Pieces. For Two Violins	2	6
11.	ARCANGELO CORELLI.—Twelve Sonatas. In Two Books. Edited by A. DOLMETSCH. Book I. ...	3	6
*12.	ARCANGELO CORELLI.—Twelve Sonatas. In Two Books. Edited by A. DOLMETSCH. Book II. ...	3	6
*13.	SIEGFRIED JACOBY.——Eight National Melodies. (Arranged)	2	6
*14.	GOUNOD.—"Redemption." Nine Transcriptions by B. TOURS ...	2	6
*15.	ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.—Twelve Easy Pieces	2	6
*16.	HAAKMAN.—Twelve Characteristic Pieces	2	6
17.	HANDEL.——Six Sonatas. The Pianoforte Accompaniment by A. DOLMETSCH	3	6
18.	ARCANGELO CORELLI.——Six Trios. For Two Violins and Violoncello, or Pianoforte; or as Quartets, with Violoncello and Pianoforte. Edited and the Pianoforte Accompaniment by A. DOLMETSCH	3	6
19.	KATE RALPH.—Six Pieces ...	2	6
20.	VARIOUS COMPOSERS.—Fourteen Pieces	2	6
21.	VARIOUS COMPOSERS.—Twelve Pieces	2	6
22.	VARIOUS COMPOSERS.—Thirteen Pieces	2	6
23.	ROSALIND F. ELLICOTT.—Six Pieces	2	6
*24.	ARTHUR SULLIVAN.——"The Golden Legend." Nine Transcriptions by B. Tours	2	6
25.	J. MÜLLER.—Forest Pieces (Op. 9)	2	6
26.	ETHEL M. BOYCE.—Eight Pieces	2	6
27.	I. B. POZNANSKI.—Ten Pieces ...	2	6
28.	CH. DE BÉRIOT.—Eight Pieces...	2	6
29.	HENRY PURCELL.——Fourteen Pieces. The Pianoforte Accompaniment, Marks of Expression, Bowing, and Fingering by ARNOLD DOLMETSCH	2	6

 These Albums may also be had arranged for Violoncello and Pianoforte.*

	s.	d.
A. C. MACKENZIE.—Six Pieces for Violin. With Pianoforte Accompaniment. No. 1, Gavotte; No. 2, Berceuse; No. 3, Benedictus; No. 4, Zingaresca; No. 5, Saltarello; No. 6, Tema con Variazioni net	5	0
Zingaresca (from the above) ... ,,	2	0
Benedictus (from the above) ... ,,	2	0
,, ,, Arranged for Orchestra. Full Score	5	0
Orchestral Parts	3	6
Highland Ballad, Op. 47, No. 1, for Violin with Pianoforte Accompaniment...	3	6

A. C. MACKENZIE—continued.

	s.	d.
Two Pieces (Barcarola and Villanella), Op. 47, No. 2, for Violin with Pianoforte Accompaniment ...	3	6
Pibroch.—Suite for Violin Solo. Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte net	6	0
Orchestral Parts ... ... ,,	18	0
JOSEPH NEŠVERA.—Ten Pieces for the Violin. With Pianoforte Accompaniment .. ... net	6	0
C. GURLITT.—Six Pieces for Violin. With Pianoforte Accompaniment net	4	0
Romance (from the above) ... ,,	2	0

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

As sung at the Lyceum Theatre.

ORPHEUS WITH HIS LUTE

TRIO FOR FEMALE VOICES

FROM THE MUSIC TO "HENRY VIII."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

(No. 263. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.)

Price Threepence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

OVERTURES and SYMPHONIES (115) for full Orchestra by Arne, Abel, Davaux, Giardini, Handel, Haydn, &c. 22 volumes bound. Six guineas. Also 47 by Haydn and Pleyel. 26 volumes. Eight guineas. J. F. P. Massé, North Finchley.

Just Published.

Played by Josef Hoffmann, Miss Jeanne Douste, Miss Emma Barnett, Miss Florence May, and Madame Marguerite de Pachmann.

GAVOTTE AND MUSETTE

FROM THE

SUITE IN G

FOR

PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

FRANCESCO BERGER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net.

The Suite Complete, price Three Shillings net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOW READY.

SYMPHONY

(No. 4)

IN G MAJOR

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

(Op. 88.)

Full Score, Thirty Shillings. String Parts, Ten Shillings.

Wind Parts, Twenty-two Shillings.

Pianoforte Arrangement (Four Hands), by the Composer, Ten Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW EDITION.—NOW READY.

MY MUSICAL EXPERIENCES

BY

BETTINA WALKER.

Cloth, price Six Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWO PIECES

BARCAROLA AND VILLANELLA FOR VIOLIN

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE

(Op. 47, No. 2).

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK

BEING THE

BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER

WITH THE MUSIC NECESSARY FOR THE USE OF CHOIR

TOGETHER WITH THE

CANTICLES AND PSALTER

POINTED FOR CHANTING

EDITED BY

SIR JOHN STAINER, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon.

(Professor of Music in the University of Oxford)

AND

The Rev. W. RUSSELL, M.A., Mus. Bac., Oxon.

(Succentor of St. Paul's Cathedral).

EDITIONS.	s.	d.
1. Demy 8vo, 628 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for chanting. Cloth, red edges	6	0
2. Demy 8vo, 600 pp., large type. With Canticles and Psalter pointed, set to appropriate Chants (Cathedral Psalter Chants). Cloth, red edges	6	0
3. Imperial 32mo, 692 pp., Pocket Edition. With Canticles and Psalter pointed for Chanting. Cloth, red edges	3	6

The Clergy can be supplied with copies, in quantities of not less than 25, on liberal terms.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

EIGHT PIECES

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

BY

CH. DE BÉRIOT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

CONTENTS.

Non giova il sospirar.	Air varié en ré (Op. 1).
Vanne al mio bene.	Air varié en mi (Op. 3).
Al dolce guidami.	Air varié en mi (Op. 7).
A torto ti lagni amor.	Valses (Op. 58).

(No. 28. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Albums for Violin and Pianoforte.)

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

THE ORGAN WORKS

OF

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH

EDITED BY

J. F. BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., Oxon.,

AND

JAMES HIGGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

BOOK X.—TOCCATA, PRELUDES, AND FUGUES.

Price Three Shillings.

The Tenth Book contains (1) The great Toccata and Fugue in D minor (Dorico); (2) A little known Prelude and Fugue in A minor, which, although not taking rank among Bach's greatest works, is yet of much interest (vide Preface); (3) Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor, universally regarded as one of the Master's best works, and eminently fitted to display the resources and grandeur of the Organ; (4) The Fugue in C minor on a theme by Legrenzi, with its brilliant and Fantasia-like Coda; (5) A detached Prelude in A minor, which only requires to be better known to command wider appreciation than it has hitherto obtained.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
P. ARMES.
ST. BARNABAS	2/0	—	—
G. J. BETJEMANN.
THE SONG OF THE WESTERN MEN	1/0	—	—
ETHEL M. BOYCE.
THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY	1/6	—	—
YOUNG LOCHINVAR	1/6	—	—
J. F. BRIDGE.
ROCK OF AGES (Latin & English words) (Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.)	1/0	—	—
CALLIRHOË .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE REPENTANCE OF NINEVEH..	2/6	3/0	4/0
DUDLEY BUCK.
THE LIGHT OF ASIA	3/0	3/6	5/0
F. CORDER.
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/6	—	—
H. COWARD.
THE STORY OF BETHANY .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	—
F. H. COWEN.
SLEEPING BEAUTY .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
ST. JOHN'S EVE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
RUTH .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	4/0	4/6	6/0
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING ..	1/0	—	—
ANTONÍN DVOŘAK.
REQUIEM MASS	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE	3/0	3/6	5/0
A PATRIOTIC HYMN	1/6	—	—
H. J. EDWARDS.
PRAISE TO THE HOLIEST	1/6	—	—
ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.
ELYSIUM	1/0	—	—
ROBERT FRANZ.
PRAISE YE THE LORD (Psalm 117)	1/0	—	—
G. GARRETT.
HARVEST CANTATA .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.)	1/0	—	—
F. GERNSHEIM.
SALAMIS (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
HERMANN GOETZ.
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices) ..	1/6	—	—
CH. GOUNOD.
THE REDEMPTION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
Ditto (French words) ..	8/4	—	—
Ditto (German words) ..	10/0	—	—
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE	2/6	—	—
MORS ET VITA .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)	6/0	6/6	7/6
ADOLF JENSEN.
THE FEAST OF ADONIS	1/0	1/6	—
OLIVER KING.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON (Psalm 137)	1/6	—	—
FRANZ LISZT.
THE THIRTEENTH PSALM	2/0	—	—

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
C. H. LLOYD.
ALCESTIS	3/0	—	—
ANDROMEDA	3/0	3/6	5/0
HERO AND LEANDER	1/6	—	—
SONG OF BALDER	1/0	—	—
THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
A SONG OF JUDGMENT	2/6	3/0	4/0
HAMISH MacCUNN.
LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.)	1/0	—	—
THE LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
A. C. MACKENZIE.
VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS	2/0	—	—
ROSE OF SHARON .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE STORY OF SAYID	3/0	3/6	4/6
THE DREAM OF JUBAL	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE NEW COVENANT	1/6	—	—
THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT	2/0	—	—
C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS	1/0	—	—
JUDITH; or, The Regeneration of Manasseh	5/0	6/0	7/6
ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	—	—
L'ALLEGRO	2/6	—	—
DE PROFUNDIS	2/0	—	—
CIRO PINSUTI.
PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—
E. PROUT.
THE RED CROSS KNIGHT .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	4/0	4/6	6/0
DAMON AND PHINTIAS (Male Voices)	2/6	—	—
CHARLES B. RUTENBER.
DIVINE LOVE	2/6	—	—
C. SAINT-SAËNS.
THE HEAVENS DECLARE (Psalm 19)	1/6	—	—
SCHUMANN.
THE MINSTREL'S CURSE	1/6	—	—
THE KING'S SON	1/0	—	—
A. SOMERVELL.
MASS (in C minor)	2/6	—	—
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
EDEN	5/0	6/0	7/6
CARMEN SÆCULARE	1/6	—	—
THE REVENGE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
THE VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE ..	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE BATTLE OF THE BALTIC ..	1/6	—	—
J. STAINER.
THE CRUCIFIXION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
THE GOLDEN LEGEND .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	3/6	4/0	5/0
C. M. VON WEBER.
IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn) ..	1/6	—	—
C. LEE WILLIAMS.
THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	2/6	—
CHARLES WOOD.
ODE TO THE WEST WIND	1/0	—	—

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Printed by Novello, Ewer and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by Kent and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Saturday, April 30, 1892.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 592.—Vol. 33. JUNE 1, 1892. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

GRESHAM COLLEGE,

BASINGHALL STREET, E.C.

EASTER TERM, 1892.

The LECTURES in MUSIC will be delivered as under by Professor BRIDGE, Mus. Doc.

TUESDAY, May 31.—The Triumphs of Oriana.

WEDNESDAY, June 1.—Its Origin.—Editor and Contributors.—Illustrations by Members of Westminster Abbey Choir.

THURSDAY, June 2.—Musical Notes in Pepys' Diary.—The Illustrations will consist of Musical Compositions by Mr. Pepys and his Contemporaries.

FRIDAY, June 3.—A Talk about the Orchestra (No. 3). The French Horn.—Illustrations will be given upon a Quartet of French Horns under the direction of Mr. J. E. Borland.

The Lectures are free to the Public and commence at 6 p.m.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Examinations for F.C.O. and A.C.O. will take place on July 12, 13, 14, and 19, 20, 21. The F.C.O. Solo-playing Test Pieces will be Passacaglia in C minor (J. S. Bach); Postlude in E flat (H. Smart); and Prelude and Fugue in D minor, No. 3 (Mendelssohn). Candidates' names should be sent in on or before June 30.

June 7, at 8, A. Trickett, Esq., F.C.O., will read a paper on "Music for Harpsichord (Clavecin, Clavicembalo, or Clavier)," with Illustrations from the works of Purcell, F. Couperin, D. Scarlatti, and C. P. E. Bach.

Annual General Meeting on July 26.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

N.B.—The College Library and Rooms will be open daily for the use of Members from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. THE DEAN OF BRISTOL.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: FREDERICK J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.C.C.G.

July 12 and 13.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G.

The Church Choir Guild Festival will take place in Bristol Cathedral, Wednesday, July 6, at which the Members of the C.C.G. are invited to take part.

For further particulars, see The Church Musician; or, apply to The Warden, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By order of the Council,
C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

FOR THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF MUSICAL ART IN BRITAIN,

METHVEN, SIMPSON & CO.

Have decided to offer the following Prizes for the most meritorious works of the various classes that may be submitted.

FOR THE BEST CANTATA

(Sacred or Secular):

£100.

FOR THE BEST SET OF TWELVE TWO-PART SONGS

(Similar in style to "The Songs of the Bells," by ABT, and "The Songs of the Flowers," by PINSUTI):

£25.

FOR THE BEST SONG:

£10.

FOR THE BEST SET OF WALTZES:

£10.

Full particulars on application to METHVEN, SIMPSON & Co., 83, Princes Street, Edinburgh.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

The Syllabus for the Metropolitan Examination, Dec., 1892, is now ready, and will be sent on application.

Lecture by F. Corder, Esq., R.A.M., June 1, 8, at 3.

Fortnightly Concerts, June 4, 18, at 8.

Half-Term begins Thursday, June 16. Entrance Examination for same, Monday, June 13, at 2 o'clock. Entrance Forms can be obtained on application to the Secretary,

F. W. RENAUT.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

KENSINGTON GORE, LONDON, S.W.

INCORPORATED BY ROYAL CHARTER, 1883.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: SIR GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D.
Hon. Secretary: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

The MIDSUMMER HALF-TERM will begin June 9.

Orchestral Concert at the College, Friday, June 3, at 8 p.m.

Regulations and all information may be obtained from

GEORGE WATSON, Registrar.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC

FOR

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

President—H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD:

THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD CHARLES BRUCE, Chairman.
A. C. MACKENZIE, Esq., Mus. Doc., Principal of R.A.M.
Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D., Director of R.C.M.

Professor JAMES DEWAR, F.R.S., &c.,
ALBERTO RANDEGGER, Esq.,
THOMAS THRELFALL, Esq.,
FREDERICK WESTLAKE, Esq.,
F. MEADOWS WHITE, Esq., Q.C., } R.A.M.

EDWARD W. HAMILTON, Esq., C.B.,
C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., Mus. Doc.,
Professor Sir JOHN STAINER, Mus. Doc.,
Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus. Doc.,
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Esq., } R.C.M.

HONORARY TREASURER:
CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

HONORARY AUDITOR:
Sir CHARLES LISTER RYAN, K.C.B., Comptroller and Auditor General.

SECRETARY:
GEORGE WATSON, Esq. Central Office, 52, New Bond St., London, W.

BANKERS:
BANK OF ENGLAND, Western Branch, Burlington Gardens, London, W.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS.

See Syllabus A.

LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

See Syllabus B.

Copies of either Syllabus, with full information, may be obtained at the Central Office, 52, New Bond Street, London, W.

GEORGE WATSON, Secretary.

HANDEL'S HOUSE.

The owners of the House at Halle a/S. (Prov. of Saxony) in which the great Handel was born are open to sell the same.

The receipts from rent would be sure to give a good return for the capital invested, altogether apart from the historical value.

Letters and inquiries should be addressed direct to E. Witte, Merseburg, Prov. Sachsen, Germany.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS GERTRUDE BRACEY (Soprano)
(Silver Medalist, R.A.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, and Lessons in Singing and Harmony, address, 4, Colville Mansions, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MISS MAUDE DARLING (Soprano)
(Pupil of David Strong, Esq., Guildhall School of Music).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Oaklands, Addlestone, Surrey.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c., address, care of Miss Mary Willis, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby, formerly her Assistant Professor, Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS CORDELIA GRYLLS (Soprano)
Licentiate, late Reeves Vocal Exhibitioner, and Gold and Silver Medalist, Trinity College, London).
For Concerts, &c., 33, Hamilton Terrace, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS ANNIE HOLDEN, A.R.C.M. (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, Mr. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.; or, Woodlands, Bradford.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano)
Address, 41, Hampden Street, Nottingham.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Square, N.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS EDITH NIELD (Soprano)
For Concerts, &c., address, 14, Ravenscroft Park, Barnet.

MISS FLORENCE VEREY (Soprano)
130, Maida Vale, W.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER (Contralto)
Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), is prepared to take Oratorio, Concert, and Drawing-room engagements.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
88, Lady Margaret Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
29, Doughty Street, W.C.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., 76, Calabria Road, N.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, vid Leeds.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c., or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c., 46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. G. GREEN (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Preston Parish Church).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., address, 81, South Meadow Lane, Preston.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. D. PRICE (Baritone)
(Westminster Abbey),
6, Wharton Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. & MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS (Baritone & Sop.
And Elocutionists. 90, Caledonian Road, Leeds.

MR. ARTHUR WILLS (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, and At Homes, 1, Greencroft Gardens, N.W.

MR. JAMES W. CLOUGH (Bass)
For Oratorios, Ballads, Masonic Meetings, &c., New Bank House, Burnley.

MR. C. D. COLLET (Vocal Bass)
Teacher of Singing. 7, Coleridge Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. HOWARD LEES (Bass)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Delph, Manchester.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass)
(Of the Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, Royal Albert Hall, and Promenade Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. H. A. LUDLAM (Violoncellist)
For Concerts (Orchestral, Choral, Chamber) and At Homes.
Newport House, West Bromwich.

MISS CHRISTINA BRUMLEU (Violinist)
(Gold Medalist, L.A.M.)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Address, Mossbank, Sidcup, Kent.

MR. CHARLES SCHUESSLER
(Solo Mandoline and Zither Banjo).
For Concerts, Garden Parties, &c.; also the Huntley-Schuessler Trio, 65, Yerbury Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MR. J. ANTOINE (Trombone)
For Trombone and Organ, Pianoforte, or Orchestral Recitals. A good répertoire of music. Address, 72, Alderney St., Eccleston Square, S.W.

MISS ELIZA CHADWICK (Soprano), of the Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Leeds Concerts, accepts Engagements for Sacred or Secular Performances. 51, Metherall Road, Doncaster.

MISS JEAN HUNTER (Soprano), Medalist, R.A.M., Pupil of Manuel Garcia, Esq., is now booking dates. Extensive répertoire of Oratorio and other works, Operatic Selections, Classical Songs, modern Ballads, &c. Press notices on application. Cromer House, Herbert Road, Plumstead.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

PROFESSIONAL SOPRANO VOCALIST (late of the Royal Academy of Music, London; Munich and Florence) is desirous to join good ARTISTIC CONCERT PARTY for months of August and September. The month of July is almost booked for various dates. Advertiser has extensive répertoire: Oratorio, Ballads, and Operatic Scenes, in four different languages. Good Musician, Pianist, Accompanist, and Mandolinist. Pupil of noted teachers both at home and abroad. Apply, J. V., 32, Campbell Rd., Southsea, Hants.

MADAME MINNIE LYNDSEY (Contralto). Open to Seaside engagements. High-class répertoire. "Madame Minnie Lyndsey's rich and robust contralto notes and sympathetic rendering gave great delight to her audience."—Ipswich Journal, April, 1892. 2, Henwood Villas, East Dulwich Grove.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for ENGAGEMENTS at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. GEORGE PEARCE (Principal Alto, St. Peter's, Eaton Square). Compass, two octaves, G to G. May be engaged for Concerts, Banquets, and Musical Services. Terms, 19, Beaumont Road, West Kensington, W.
"Mr. Pearce possesses a magnificent voice of altogether exceptional range and quality."—West London Press.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38 Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music, and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MISS CARRIE LEWIS (Accompanist, good Reader, and Solo Pianist) accepts Engagements for Concerts, at Homes, &c. 218, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, S.W.; or, Stedman's Musical Agency, 12, Berners Street, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(SOPRANO)

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool.
Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music) is at liberty for Concerts of every description.

NOTTINGHAM DAILY EXPRESS, January 10, 1891.

"Miss Hooton sang 'Hymen, haste' (Semele), Handel, with much richness and power. . . . Both her songs, 'La Charmante Marguerite' (old French) and 'Will he come?' (Sullivan), were enthusiastically received. There is no doubt at all that Miss Hooton will take a very high place amongst contraltos. She has everything in her favour, youth, good looks, a splendid voice, which she has been trained to produce in an excellent manner, while she pronounces very distinctly, and has evidently the right musical feeling."

Miss Hooton's engagements for this season include —

Long Eaton (three times).	Alfreton.	Hornsey.
Derby (three times).	Grantham.	Kegworth.
Lichfield.	Southampton.	Dewsbury ("Elijah").
West Bromwich.	City.	Beckenham.
Beeston.	Dundee.	Plymouth.
Stapleford (twice).	Newcastle.	South Bank.
Glasgow.	Loughborough.	Harlesden.
Peterhead ("The Messiah").	City.	Steinway Hall.
Nottingham (twice).	Ilkeston (twice).	Brixton ("St. Paul").
Bradford.	Leicester ("Samson").	Southampton ("Elijah").
	Harrogate.	&c., &c.
	Middlesbro'.

Please address, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Is at liberty for Concerts and Masonic Work of every description. Engagements for 1892 include:—

Southsea.	Leamington ("The Messiah").
Bermondsey (four times).	Belfast ("Israel").
Westminster.	Edinburgh ("Acis").
Reading.	Tunbridge Wells ("Samson").
Newcastle-under-Lyme.	Chelmsford ("Creation").
Blackheath.	Northampton ("Redemption").
City (twice).	Sutton ("St. Paul").
Hornsey.	Rochester ("St. Paul").
Kennington (twice).	Harrogate.
Portman Rooms.	Plymouth.
Crouch End.	Llandudno.
Newark.	Accrington ("Eli").
Lloyd's Mus. Soc.	Newport ("Elijah").
Rochester ("Bride of Bristol. Dunkerron").	Caterham ("Crucifixion").
Shoreditch (twice)	Selkirk ("The Messiah").
Islington (twice).	Dewsbury ("Elijah").
Camberwell ("Ancient Mariner").	Bow and Bromley.
Holloway Hall.	Beckenham.
Kegworth.	Harlesden.
Brixton Hall.	Croydon.
Crystal Palace.	Brixton ("St. Paul").
Woolwich.	Gravesend ("Acis").
Redhill.	Dover.
Nottingham ("Psyche," &c.).	Braintree ("Daughter of Jairus").
Armagh ("St. Mary Magdalen").	Nottingham ("The Messiah"). &c., &c.

Please address, 37, Torrington Square, Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

LEEDS SYMPHONY CONCERTS, ALBERT HALL, LEEDS.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

MR.

WM. SWEETMAN

(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool.
Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

SIGNOR NICOLA COVIELLO

(CORNET SOLOIST)

Royal Italian Opera, Promenade Concerts, Richter Concerts, &c.).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Cornet Pupils taken.
For terms, press notices, and vacant dates, address,
5, Sudbourne Road, Brixton, S.W.

THE

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS

"Miss Griffiths, in the air 'Flies fluttering to thy breast a wounded dove" (C. S. Heap), sang not only with fine musical effect, but with a touching realisation of the pathos of the situation. Having quoted the composer's testimony to the effect that he had never heard the air sung better, no higher praise need be given."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS

"Madame Julia Hutchings secured an unequivocal success with 'The Banks of Allan Water' and 'Angus Macdonald.'"—Battersea District Times.

MR. A. BOWYER BRISTOL

"Mr. A. B. Bristol is the possessor of a sweet and resonant tenor voice which has been well schooled; this assertion could be verified by his share in Dr. Heap's Cantata and Salaman's 'I arise from Dreams of Thee.' This at once caught the taste of the audience, and a double recall followed. Mr. Bristol is certainly a valuable acquisition to the tenor department."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS

"Mr. Edmund Edwards could scarcely have been heard to greater advantage than he was in Loder's song 'The Diver.' It suited to perfection his powerful bass, and he interpreted it with true emphasis and with a thorough grasp of the deep rich pathos of the subject. He was loudly encored."—Northampton Daily Reporter.

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. A. L. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

"Mrs. A. L. Richardson displayed abilities of the first rank, and her playing is of the best ever given in this hall."—Wandsworth and Battersea Advertiser.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY

"Mr. W. H. Henley played a couple of violin solos with a cleverness of manipulation which fairly astonished his listeners."—Manchester Courier.

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Dates for Northern tour, October and November, are now being booked. Immediate application advisable.

Applications for terms and dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

THE CYNTHIA QUARTET (Male Voices) is now booking Engagements for Concerts, Bazaars, At Homes, &c. Glees, Madrigals, Part-Songs, and Solos. Special terms if for charitable purposes. Apply, Secretary, 17, Claremont Road, Cricklewood, N.W.

CONCERT AGENTS.

METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,

83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.
Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. SEXTON'S MUSICAL AGENCY,
205, WARDOUR STREET, OXFORD STREET.
Principal: Mr. WILLIAM SEXTON, Vicar Choral, Westminster Abbey.

MR. SEXTON arranges Concerts and Entertainments of every description. Artists (vocal and instrumental) for Oratorio and Secular works, Ballad and Concert Singing. Send for list and terms.

MR. SEXTON'S SOLO CHOIR BOYS.—First-class Solo Boys for Church Festivals, Concerts, and Oratorio performances. Leading and Solo Boys provided for Cathedral and Collegiate Choirs and Churches.

MR. SEXTON can highly recommend Master DENMAN GROOME as a highly finished singer and splendid voice. He sings most of the difficult solos in the Oratorios with fine effect, and has a large selection of Songs and Ballads for Concert work.

MASTER DENMAN GROOME, the celebrated Soprano Solo Boy, address, WILLIAM SEXTON, 205, Wardour Street, Oxford Street. Personal attendance from 4 to 6. All letters immediately attended to.

MR. F. SLADE OLVER, Concert Organist, of Chicago, U.S.A., desires all communications regarding Recitals, Concerts, Services, &c., during his English tour to be addressed to 2, Harriett Place, Falmouth, Cornwall.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. JAMES STERNDALE BENNETT, M.A.
Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.
Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.
The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The next Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be held in Durham in September next. Examiners: Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon; J. Frederick Bridge, Mus. D., Oxon.; Philip Armes, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.
Full particulars, with Specimen Papers of former Examinations, may be had on application to Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.
Instituted and founded by the Victoria College Corporation.
Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:
The Most Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.
The Right Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.V.C.M. and A.V.C.M.) will take place in London, on July 27. Forms of entry and all particulars on application.
Local Examinations at the different centres during July. Names should be sent in to the Local Secretaries as early as possible for Theoretical or Practical Examinations.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
Prospectuses may be obtained on application.

YORKSHIRE BRANCH.
Principal: STOCKS HAMMOND, B.A., F.C.C.G.
For list of Professors, Classes, Fees, &c., at this Branch, address, The Secretary, Victoria College of Music, Church Institute, Bradford.
By order of the Council,
FREDERICK J. KARN, Mus.D.,
Hon. Secretary.
London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

COLLEGE OF VIOLINISTS, LIMITED.

Patron, Señor PABLO SARASATE.
President, J. T. CARRODUS, Esq.
The Vice-Presidents and Board of Examiners include the most eminent Professors.
The next London Examination will take place at the Birkbeck Institute, Chancery Lane, on Wednesday, July 13, 1892.
Entries must be received not later than Wednesday, July 6.
For full particulars, syllabus, entry forms, list of provincial centres, &c., apply to Mr. G. C. Foucher, Hon. Sec., 14, Gray's Inn Road, W.C.

THE
London College of Music,
7, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, LONDON, W.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.

PATRONS.
The Most Noble THE MARQUIS OF CARMARTHEN, M.P.
Sir FRANCIS W. BRADY, Bart.
Sir ALBERT K. ROLLIT, M.P.
The Hon. Sir W. GRANTHAM.
Sir ROBERT RAPER, Kt.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.
W. J. WESTBROOK, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.
HORTON ALLISON, Esq., Mus. Doc., Dublin; Mus. Bac., Cantab.; F.R.A.M.
C. G. VERRINDER, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantuar; Mus. Bac., Oxon.
 All Examination arrangements and results are subject to the supervision of this Board.
A. J. CALDICOTT, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Principal, Education Department).
G. AUGUSTUS HOLMES, Esq. (Director, Examination Department).
CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Esq. (Chairman of Council).

EXAMINATIONS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING, SINGING, THEORY, and all branches of Music will be held in London and at 350 Provincial Centres in July next. SYLLABUS and FORMS of ENTRY can be obtained of the Secretary. The last day of entry is June 15.
SILVER and BRONZE MEDALS and BOOK PRIZES will be awarded in accordance with the regulations.
APPLICATION for the formation of NEW LOCAL CENTRES should be made to the Secretary, who will furnish all particulars.
The DIPLOMAS granted by the College are A.L.C.M., A.Mus.L.C.M., L.L.C.M., and L.Mus.L.C.M. Regulations may be had on application.
The "Annual Register" will be ready May 30. 1s. 6d.
In the EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Students are received and thoroughly trained under eminent Professors.
T. WEEKES HOLMES, Secretary.

MUSICAL COMPETITION.—Morecambe (Second Annual), July 22. Open Choir, Quartet, and Solo Contests. £40 in prizes. Full particulars from the Hon. Sec., R. G. W. Howson, Morecambe.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892). A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. ALLISON'S Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 42, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

WERREN CURNOW, Organist of Great Queen Street W. Church, receives PUPILS for VIOLIN, PIANO, and HARMONY. Visits in central districts. Schools attended. 84, New Bond Street, W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891; FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1891; F.C.O., JAN., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cambridge, 1890; Intermediate Mus.B., London, 1890; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891; Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L., 1892 (including Candidate with highest number of marks, 1888), A.Mus., T.C.L., 1891; A.C.O., 1891; Tonic Sol-fa College Fellowship, 1889; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., Theory and Pianoforte; and T.C.L. Senior Honours; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Over 30 successes annually.

HERR MAX MUSIHIK, Pianist (from Berlin), instructs Pupils, at his or their own residences, in PIANO, SINGING, and HARMONY, in English, German, or French Language. Elementary and Advanced Lessons.

Herr Musihik, good Reader and Accompanist, accepts engagements for At Homes, &c.

Address, 36, Edith Grove, Fulham Road, S.W.

MR. and MADAME DORIGO-PHILLIPS (from Milan) have just arrived in London, and are ready to receive PUPILS for high-class SINGING, ENGLISH, ITALIAN, FRENCH, and GERMAN. The Production of the Voice, on the Lamperti Method. Address, 8, Montague Place, Russell Square.

Extract from authenticated certificate: "I consider Mr. Phillips one of the few duly qualified to teach the old and true Italian Art of Singing."—FRANCESCO LAMPERTI.

MADEMOISELLE PERETTI, Vocalist (Mezzo-Soprano), gives LESSONS at her own or pupil's residence. Italian method of producing the voice. Highest testimonials. Special terms for Schools. Address, Mdlle. Peretti, The Hollies, St. James's Road, Upper Tooting, S.W.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D. Mus., Lond., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in the THEORY of MUSIC (including Acoustics). 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by Post. Many successes at College of Organists, and other Examinations. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), prepares CANDIDATES for UNIVERSITY and other MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Final Mus. Bac., Cantab., 1890; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Durham, 1890 and 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1892. Address, Dr. Wareing, 150, Bristol Road, Birmingham.

MADAME EDINA (Pupil of the Maëstro Francesco Lamperti, of Milan) has recently arrived in London and is prepared to receive PUPILS for VOICE-PRODUCTION, &c., on the method of her famous master. For terms, &c., write to Madame Edina, 9, Marlborough Road, St. John's Wood, N.W.

PREPARATION for DURHAM UNIVERSITY ARTS EXAM. for 1st MUS. BAC.—RECENT SUCCESSES: At Sept. Exam., 1891, PASSED 8 pupils out of 10, being ONE-SEVENTH OF THE TOTAL LIST; at March Exam., 1892, passed 5 pupils out of 6, being ONE-FIFTH OF THE TOTAL LIST. Class for next Exam. (Sept., 1892) just starting. For testimonials, particulars, &c., apply, The Secretary, London and Durham Correspondence Classes, Durham.

TO INTENDING CANDIDATES for MUS. BAC. DEGREE. PREPARATION by Correspondence for MATRICULATION RESPONSIONS, and other Entrance Examinations at Oxford, Cambridge, London, Durham, and Dublin. Payment may be based on success. Method strictly individual. Single subjects if desired. Address, J. Charleston, B.A., Kenilworth House, Oxford.

MUSIC CLASSES. Teachers trained at Royal College of Music. Fees low. Miss K. O'Reilly, 114, Cambridge Street, S.W.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. ERNEST LAKE, Organist and Choirmaster, All Saints', Notting Hill, W., has a VACANCY for a gentlemanly YOUTH. Fine Church and organ, with engine. First-rate introductions to the profession. Appointment, &c., when qualified. All recent pupils have received Cathedral or other important posts. Small premium only required. 57, Burlington Road, W.

THE ORGANIST, St. John's, Waterloo Road, S.E., has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL (Resident). Thorough Church training. Cathedral Service; monthly Oratorios. Four-manual Organ. Specialty, Choir training. References to former pupils. Vocalists trained for the profession, with frequent opportunities of appearing in Oratorio. H. D., 53, St. John's Park, N.

DR. CORBETT has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Special advantages. Choral service. Modern organ, by WILLIS. References exchanged. Address, Bournemouth.

OXFORD, New College.—CHORISTERS WANTED. Trial of BOYS' VOICES, on Friday, June 24. Apply to the Precentor.

BOYS (Good) WANTED, for St. Bartholomew's Church, Gray's Inn Road, 10s. qr.; also BASS, £5 per annum. Apply at Church, June 7, 8 p.m.

LADIES (Voluntary) WANTED, for the Choir of St. George's Chapel, Albemarle Street, W. Very musical services. Edwin Wareham, 43, Albany Street, N.W.

LEADING BOY WANTED, at St. Augustine's Church, Highbury New Park, at Midsummer. Stipend, £15 per annum. Apply to the Choirmaster, Mr. Charles Strong, 129, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N.

TWO LEADING CHOIR BOYS WANTED, for St. Faith's Church, Wandsworth. Payment, £3 and £4 per annum. Also voluntary Tenor, Alto, and Bass voices. Apply personally to Choirmaster, Mr. Hermann Kloss, any Friday evening, at 8 o'clock.

TREBLE WANTED, for St. Giles-in-the-Fields, Bloomsbury. £6 to £8. Apply to Organist at Vestry; or, 4, Elm Road, Camden Square.

BOYS.—Three LEADING BOYS WANTED, for Church on South Coast. Maintenance and education. Address, Organist, 78, Drayton Gardens, S.W.

CAMBRIDGE.—At St. John's College an Examination will be held on June 10 for the ELECTION of FOUR CHORAL STUDENTS (two Bass and two Tenor). The Studentships are worth £40 per annum, and are tenable, in the ordinary course, for three years. Names of Candidates should be sent early in June to one of the Tutors (Dr. Sandys, Mr. W. E. Heitland, Rev. J. T. Ward).

ALTO (Male) WANTED, at once, for all Saints' Church, Notting Hill. Full musical service. Salary, £15. Address, Mr. Ernest Lake, 57, Burlington Road, W.

ALTO WANTED, for West-end Church, near Marble Arch. Cathedral service. Salary, £15 to £20, according to ability. Must be good reader. S. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Augustine's, Honor Oak. Must be good reader. Liberal salary for a competent man. Address, E. E. Vinen, F.C.O., St. John's, Southwark, S.E.

WANTED, a LEADING TENOR, for Church in Marylebone (surpliced choir). Salary, £25. Also, two CONTRALTOS (Ladies), leading voice, £20; second, £12. Good readers indispensable. Two Sunday services and weekly practice. Apply, by letter, S. B., Stanley Lucas, 84, New Bond Street.

TENOR WANTED, Church St. John's Wood. £10. Address, Mus. Bac., 11, St. James's Square, Holland Park, W.

TENOR WANTED, for St. George's Chapel, Albemarle Street. £15. Edwin Wareham, 43, Albany Street, N.W.

TENOR and BASS WANTED, in return for Organ Lessons and practice. Mus. Bac., 31, Trinity Street, S.E.

BASS WANTED, St. Thomas's Church, Clapton Common. Communicant. £12. Apply to the Organist, S. Moore, Esq., A.C.O., 28, Castlewood Road, Stamford Hill, N.

BASS WANTED, for Christ Church Choir, St. Marylebone. Salary, £20 per annum. Anglican service. Must be good reader and communicant. Apply, enclosing copies of testimonials, to Mr. F. J. Chaffer, the Vestry, Christ Church, St. Marylebone, N.W.

BASS (£12) and BOYS (£6 to £8) WANTED, for City Church. Apply, Mr. Smith, St. Peter's, Cornhill, on Tuesday or Friday, between 6 and 7.

CHOIR BOYS.—Several well-trained, reliable SOLO and LEADING BOYS are available for permanent Choir Appointments; also for Festivals, Concerts, &c., at reasonable terms. Church references and testimonials. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

MUSIC MASTER WANTED, to take entire CHARGE of the MUSICAL EDUCATION of a large School of BOYS (under 15) and devote his time to the duties. Will be required to teach Violin, Pianoforte, and Class Singing, and play Harmonium at Sunday Evening Service. English Public School man preferred. Apply, X., Messrs. Paterson and Sons, Musicsellers, 27, George Street, Edinburgh.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, All Saints', Clapham Park, S.W. £40. Surpliced choir. Two Sunday services. Apply, letter only, to Vicar.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Gentleman), at the Presbyterian Church, Wandsworth. Salary, £25 per annum. Two Sunday services and Wednesday evening. Local resident desired. Apply, by letter, to Rev. E. Joyce, 41, East Hill, Wandsworth.

WANTED, ASSISTANT ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. New Organ and Choral Service. Address, with full particulars of experience, references, &c., to Vicar, Christ Church, Endell Street, W.C.

CHOIRMASTER WANTED (Tenor or Baritone), to sing and train Choir. Cathedral service. Apply to Rev. Prebendary How, Bromley, Vicarage, Bow, E.

CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. Jude's, Southwark, S.E., to Train Boys and take Organ. Choral Services. Salary, £10 per annum. Apply to the Vicar.

ORGANIST REQUIRED, for Bermondsey Parish Church. Salary, £25 per annum. Anthems, Services, and Cantatas. Apply, J. Widdows, 37, Storks Road, Bermondsey, S.E.

AN EXPERIENCED CONDUCTOR, CHOIRMASTER, ORGANIST, &c., holding important position near London, wishes to hear of a similar post, with good Choral Service, good Organ, scope for pupils, &c. A first-class Colonial appointment might be accepted. Highest references, &c. Beethoven, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—Post WANTED. Highest references. Mus. Bac., Oxon., including Arts. Twenty years' wide experience in choir training and accompaniment in full choral services (Anglican and Gregorian), with anthems and choral celebrations. Address, Betarho, care of Advertising Offices, 163, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

AN Associate of the College of Organists (ten years' experience in Matlock as Organist, Choirmaster, Choral Conductor, and Teacher of Music) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Excellent testimonials. Moderate salary. Address, John Goddard Barker, Professor of Music, Matlock, Derbyshire.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—Mr. Twyford Taylor, for the past twenty years Organist and Choirmaster of Rosslyn Hill Chapel, Hampstead, will be open to an ENGAGEMENT after Midsummer day next. 47, Woodsome Road, Highgate, N.W.

ORGANIST (disengaged until September) will be prepared to supply during holidays. Travelling expenses required. Acquainted with Church (Anglican) and Nonconformist services. Apply, Organist, 27, Shelgate Road, Clapham Junction, S.W

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of a London Church, shortly at liberty, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Country appointment preferred, not more than twenty miles from London. Small salary. Address, R., 30, Tasman Road, Stockwell, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT. B.A., Cantab.; experienced; not Gregorian. References. H., 5, Queen Anne Terrace, Cambridge.

AS DEPUTY-ORGANIST.—Experienced Organist wishes to act as above, in exchange for Practice. D. L., 23, Southampton Buildings, W.C.

ORGANIST, &c., desires APPOINTMENT in or near London. Moderate salary. Might deputise. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico.

ORGANISTS, CHOIR and MUSIC-MASTERS, SOLOISTS, &c., desiring APPOINTMENTS should apply to Secretary, Diapason Musical Agency, 55, Chancery Lane, W.C.

WANTED, a MANAGER for a North Country Branch House. State past business experience and salary required. B. H., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER.—WANTED, a First-class TUNER for indoor work. Good wages to thoroughly competent man. Apply to Blüthner and Co., 7—13, Wigmore Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED (Good). One accustomed to Organs and Harmoniums preferred. Town near Wolverhampton Send photo, references, and wages required, to E. P. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED TUNER, possessing first-class credentials, for permanency. Full particulars to Moon and Sons, Plymouth and Torquay.

WANTED, a first-class PIANOFORTE TUNER. Must be steady and of good address Apply, with testimonials, to T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNERS.—WANTED, at once, for the provinces, two first-class TUNERS, capable of doing repairs. Apply, by letter, stating age, experience, and wages, to C. Bechstein, 40, Wigmore Street, London, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—WANTED, Young Man, as OUT-DOOR TUNER; one with knowledge of Harmoniums preferred. Permanent situation. West of England. State salary required, age, and reference. Musicus, Novello, Ewer and Co. 1, Berners Street, W.

REGULATOR.—WANTED, a thoroughly experienced PIANO REGULATOR for a few weeks. Liberal terms to a steady, first-class workman. Only such need apply to Lee and Sons, Belfast.

WANTED, a Gentlemanly ASSISTANT, in a Music and Pianoforte Warehouse. Apply, stating age, salary required, references, and enclosing photograph to Charles Auty, 10, Westgate, Dewsbury.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (Factory experience), with knowledge of repairs, seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Life-long total abstainer. Best references. Address, H. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, experienced with American Organs, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. A. B. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, RE-ENGAGEMENT as JUNIOR TUNER. First-class reference. For particulars, apply, Pianoforte, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN, of good address, seeks SITUATION as ASSISTANT and JUNIOR TUNER and SALESMAN. Six years in trade. Highest references. Address, Crescendo, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, SITUATION as JUNIOR ASSISTANT in Musical Instrument Warehouse. Can tune Pianofortes fairly well; good Repairer; well up in small goods. Two years' experience; excellent references. In London preferred. Address, Kerswell, 21, Slaithwaite Road, Lewisham.

ENGAGEMENT REQUIRED, in High School or College, by a Lady, aged 24. Certificated Pianoforte Teacher, A.R.C.M. Address, A. E. A., Ludgershall Rectory, Andover.

YOUNG LADY requires ENGAGEMENT in Music Warehouse. Brilliant Pianist, good Sight Reader and Teacher; parties attended if required. Nemo, Novello, 1, Berners St.

PIANO SALESMAN or CLERK.—APPOINTMENT WANTED, by Young Man (26), in London. Experienced. Address, A. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ADVERTISER (28) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT as BOOK-KEEPER or ASSISTANT-MANAGER. Knowledge of small goods and can fit up instruments. Violinist. Excellent character and testimonials. Address, W., 47, Winfrith Road, Earlsfield. S.W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals. Bourdon on pedals. Sweet round tone. Price £120. At present in the Wesleyan Church, Hampstead, N.W. To view, apply to the Chapel-Keeper, The Lodge, Prince Arthur Road.

ORGAN.—Two manuals, full compass pedals, 12 stops. Will be sold cheap. Haywood, 179, Drummond Street, Euston.—Established 1872.

TO be SOLD.—CHAMBER ORGAN, very compact. Two manuals, CC to C; Pedals, CCC to F, 10 stops. Recently built by JARDINE, with separate feeders and Otto gas engine. Apply, Hime and Addison, Manchester.

CHAMBER ORGAN, by FATHER SMITH, for SALE. 6 stops, toe pedals, swell, oak case. May be viewed in London. Apply, in first instance, to R. G. K. Wrench, Winchester.

FOR SALE.—ORGAN, built by BISHOP. About fifty years old. 1 manual, 6 stops, 3 composition pedals, 1 octave of pedals. Apply, Vicar, Clifton, Rugby.

FOR SALE.—An ORGAN, suitable for a small Church or Hall. Two manuals, pedals, 10 stops, good tone. Apply, Mr. Townsend, Lingfield, Wimbledon.

TUBULAR ORGANS for SALE.—A large three-manual and pedal Organ, tubular, with A. HUNTER and SON'S patent coupling chamber, 31 speaking stops. Also a two-manual and pedal Organ, tubular, with 19 speaking stops. To be seen at A. Hunter and Son's, 65A, High Street, Clapham, S.W.

ORGAN.—Two manuals and pedals, 18 stops, 16-ft. pedal, open diapason. Handsome case, decorated front pipes. Great bargain. Ingram, Raneleigh Street, Hereford.

NEW ORGAN, two manuals, 26 stops. Suitable for Church, Concert Hall, &c.; now building. Two-manual Organ, 12 stops. Two-manual Organs, from £40; suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, &c. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price, £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

£120 (new) TWO-MANUAL ORGAN. 11 stops, Bourdon pedal, mahogany case. E. O. Yorston, Organ Builder, Dale Street, Clayton Street, Kennington Oval, S.E.

ORGAN WANTED (New or Second-hand). Two manuals, about 20 stops. Send specification and particulars of dimensions and price to Mr. Frank Idle, 10, Sisters Avenue, Lavender Hill, S.W.

WANTED, small old PIPE ORGAN. About 4 stops, no pedals. Must be made before 1800. Write, A. D., 60, Croxted Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

ORGAN (Second-hand) WANTED. Really good two-manual instrument. Price, including erection in South Wales, not to exceed £150. Send full particulars to Mr. Minshall, Organist, The City Temple, London, E.C.

ORGAN BUILDERS.—Specifications invited for an ORGAN (three manuals) for the Boscombe Arcade Winter Gardens and Pavilion. Further particulars obtained from Mr. F. J. Dugard, Mus. Bac., Milton Villa, Church Road, Bournemouth.

VIOLA, by BANKS, for SALE; lately the property of an eminent Amateur. It may be seen, and all particulars given, address, Miss Füidge, 31, Cornwall Road, Bayswater, W.

FOR SALE.—A very fine DOUBLE-BASS (three-string, powerful tone). Played for many years in Exeter Hall Concerts. Price £18. Apply to W. N. Fernie, Maidenhead.

FOR SALE.—An ALEXANDRE HARMONIUM, having 2 manuals and 22 stops. Walnut case. Cost £95. Price £35. Apply, X. Y. Z., 13, Park Crescent, Portland Place.

FOR SALE.—A magnificent genuine STRADIVARIUS VIOLONCELLO. Address, by letter only, W. H. B., 1, Elsham Road, Kensington, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

CHARLES HENSHAW and CO., 83, Piccadilly, Manchester.—The above Business, including Goodwill, all Stock, Fixtures, and Fittings has been purchased by Smith, 179, Oxford Road, who will carry on the same under the style of Henshaw and Co., at 83, Piccadilly, as heretofore.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COMPOSERS experiencing difficulty in disposing of, or desirous of publishing their compositions, are requested to forward their MSS. to us. "Royalties" allowed. AUTHORS' WORK A SPECIALTY. MSS. corrected and revised by an eminent musician, engraved (English or German style), printed on the best paper, and published AT HALF THE PRICE USUALLY CHARGED BY WEST-END HOUSES. Authors' works pushed in the trade by London and Provincial Travellers and Agents. Works scored for large or small bands. Words written to composers' music; music written to authors' words by popular composers. D'Alton and Co., 28, Newman Street, W. Name Paper.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

MS. EXAMINED and REVISED; Copying and Transpositions on very reasonable terms. G. Minns, Ely.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

TO PROFESSORS OF MUSIC.—A large ROOM VACANT, for two or four days each week, furnished, with use of Piano. Address, W. J., 13, Orchard Street, Portman Square, W.

STELLA HOUSE, 54, Paternoster Row, E.C.—The new City Music Warehouse.—H. J. REEKS, many years with B. Williams, has a large and varied STOCK of all new and fashionable MUSIC. Wholesale and retail orders through the Post punctually attended to.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

PIANOFORTE BUSINESS for SALE, in a busy manufacturing market town of the West Riding of Yorkshire. Established nearly twenty years. Music and Small Goods. Excellent tuning connection. Large and beautifully fitted premises. Ill-health cause of sale. Exceptional opportunity for energetic man with capital, or for a Limited Company. R. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. Good position; rising S.W. suburb. Large and commodious premises. Rent only £95; worth £120. Stock £800, part optional. Returns last year, £1,301. Full particulars of Morley Phillips, Valuer to the Trade, 60, Great Portland Street, W.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE, with good connection, long established, and in good repute. A splendid opening for a teacher of piano, organ, and violin; situate in thriving county town, and with fine tuning connection yielding £150 per annum. Price £600—£800, according to stock taken. Tuning connection might be sold separately. Apply, X., Novello, and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE, situate in the best thoroughfare of a large and wealthy city in the West of England. Shop has commanding front and fine show-room, good plate-glass show cases, and every necessary trade appliance and advantage. The stock, both of music and instruments, good; and there is every opportunity for doing a large business in Sales and Hires. Price about £1,600. Satisfactory reasons can be given for disposal. Address, R., Messrs. Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE, in fashionable Seaside town on East Coast. Good Tuning connection. Price about £800; rent, £70. Tempo, Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President: The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN, P.C.
Warden: The Rev. Dr. BONAVIA HUNT, F.R.S.E.
Director of Studies: Professor BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.
Director of Examinations: Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus B.

The HALF-TERM, when new Students are received, dates from TUESDAY, June 7.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

The LAST DAY of ENTRY is JUNE 18 for the THIRTY-EIGHTH HALF-YEARLY HIGHER EXAMINATIONS, which will take place during the week commencing July 11, 1892, as under:—

1. For the Diplomas of Associate in Music (A.T.C.L.) and Licentiate in Music (L.T.C.L.), also for the special distinction of Fellow (F.T.C.L.).
2. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Practical Division (Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, &c.).
3. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Theoretical Division (Harmony, &c.).

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.
SIXTEENTH ANNUAL SERIES.

Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC will take place throughout the Session at the following Centres:—

Aberdeen, Aberystwith, Aldershot, Alton, Ayr, Barrow-in-Furness, Bath, Birmingham, Blackburn, Blackpool, Bradford, Brentwood, Bristol, Bury St. Edmunds, Cambridge, Carnarvon, Chatham, Cheltenham, Chichester, Cirencester, Cleator Moor, Colchester, Crieff, Croydon, Edinburgh, Exeter, Folkestone, Glasgow, Gloucester, Goole and Howden, Greenock, Guildford, Halifax, Harrogate, Hereford, Hull, Inverness, Ipswich, Keswick, King's Lynn, Lancaster, Leamington, Leeds, Leicester, Liverpool, Lowestoft, Manchester, Market Drayton, Newcastle, Newport, Northampton, Norwich, Oldham, Perth, Preston, Ramsgate and Margate, Reading, St. Ives (Hunts), Salisbury, Shrewsbury, Southampton, Southport, Stockport, Stockton-on-Tees, Surbiton, Swindon, Taunton, Torquay, Tunbridge Wells, Walsall, Walthamstow, Wellington (Salop), Weymouth, Whitby, Wisbech, Wolverhampton, Worcester, Worthing, Yarmouth.

Regulations, forms of entry, &c., may be obtained, post-free, from the undersigned.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

COVENT GARDEN OPERA SEASON.

Now Ready.

THE MASTER-SINGERS OF NUREMBERG

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

A Musical Explanation with Eighty-four Musical Examples by ALBERT HEINTZ
Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

TRISTAN UND ISOLDE

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

Explained according to the Musical Development of its Motives by ALBERT HEINTZ
With Sixty-six Musical Examples.
Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BAYREUTH FESTIVAL PERFORMANCES.

Will be Ready Shortly.

PARSIFAL

A FESTIVAL DRAMA

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

Its Origin in the old Sagas, and its Musical Motives explained in the order of their Development, by ALBERT HEINTZ
With Sixty-seven copious Musical Examples.
Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

Complete IRON FRAMES;
All modern IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals and various Honours.

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred their Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	MDME. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	LISZT	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	HELLER	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HENSELT	HALLÉ
BENNETT	E. SILAS	SULLIVAN

Price Lists and Illustrations on application.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.

Annual Subscription, One Guinea.
Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"
Translated by W. ASHTON ELLIS, Editor of
"THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).
Part 8, and No. XVIII. now ready.

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the EDITOR, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO "HENRY VIII."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

CONTENTS.

Morris Dance. | Shepherds' Dance. | Torch Dance.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

(Op. 49.)
IN TWO PARTS.
PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (LOW VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (LOW VOICE).

Price Four Shillings each Part.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
JUNE 1, 1892.

THE MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC EXHIBITION OF VIENNA.

EVEN in these days of rapid communication, it is a long way to the Austrian capital, and the "through" traveller deems himself fortunate who is taken there in something under forty hours. Supposing an English railway company had charge of the entire route, space would be devoured at a quicker rate; but the controllers of French, Belgian, German, and Austrian lines have a way of their own, and it is a leisurely one—so carried out, however, as that the unfortunate persons committed to their charge shall have little time for that support of the inner man which, amid such circumstances, is specially needed. Perhaps I ought not to censure them for this. Anybody who has taken a meal at the station of Darmstadt or Passau may reasonably suspect that, after all, the directors act in a spirit of consideration. At Passau, the waiter poured coffee for self and friend into cups just used by other persons, and seemed quite surprised when my companion resented this with a short, emphatic British word—a group of four letters—which revealed our nationality and, therefore, accounted for our fastidiousness. But, Darmstadt edibles and Passau indifference to other people's coffee "grounds" notwithstanding, musical amateurs should betake themselves to Vienna this summer; having, as a very needful preliminary, followed the advice of Iago, and put money in their purse. The Viennese equivalent for an English shilling, or a German mark, is a piece of paper (dirty, as a rule), eleven examples and a fraction of which are worth a sovereign when the Viennese pay out, and something very much less when they receive. But enough of travellers' grievances, though if an Englishman cannot grumble when he has come back from the Continent to his beloved island home, what return does he get for having "fought with beasts at Ephesus"?

I reached Vienna in the early morning of May 6 and found precisely what I had left in London—that is to say, chilliness, cloud, rain, wind, and mud. My companion, who had never before looked upon the Kaiserstadt, and is a man of sanguine fancy, was heard to sniff contemptuously as a furious Jehu "Rattled our bones Over the stones" (apologies to Thomas Hood) on the way to an hotel. I, who love Vienna, forgave him. There was much to be said in excuse. Anything less suggestive of the eve of festivity could hardly be imagined, nor, when we crossed the arm of the Danube, did the appearance of that famous stream brighten matters. "Beautiful blue Danube, eh!" exclaimed my friend with a snort. Then he threw himself back in the cab and "gave it up."

Next morning: more chilliness, more cloud, more rain, more wind, more mud, and—no cabs. Not one, and why not one? Because the collective Jehu of Vienna, with accurate perception of an opportunity for securing the greatest unhappiness of the greatest number, chose the opening day of the Musical and Dramatic Exhibition as the time for an intimation that he was not quite content with his wages. Of course, in doing this he punished the wrong persons. Strikers—by the way, the English word has entered into the vernacular of Vienna—generally do punish the wrong persons. The Emperor does not go about in a cab; neither do his ministers, nor the chief policeman, nor the Viennese Lord Mayor. These high and mighty ones drove in state behind horses with "Park action," but the smaller officialdom of Court and Municipality (whose salaries must not be estimated by the splendour of their uniforms), the long-haired composers and capellmeisters (some of whom, judging by the faded look of their festkleid, have hardly any salaries at all), and the strangers within the gates of the city—these crushed for seats in trams and 'busses, or walked through miry ways to the distant Prater, the scene of the ceremony. They were not happy, but cabby and his sympathisers evidently enjoyed themselves at the street corners en route. It is pleasant to see the aggregate of human satisfaction sustained, though the measure of it may vary locally. Apart from the application of the cab strike thereto, the opening of the show did not receive much popular notice, and I, for my part, am not going to waste time and space upon the details of a Court ceremony. These things are pretty much the same all over Europe, and what has often been done in England on such occasions was repeated in Vienna, with, however, less of mechanical precision. The etiquette of the Austrian Court is said to be most rigid; nevertheless, in the working of the ceremony there was a marked indecision as to what should be done next, and eyes familiar with the beneficent despotism of a British Lord Chamberlain saw danger of a breakdown. The Emperor—poor man!—seemed rather amused with the proceedings of the amiably fussy persons around him. He was very gracious, and expressed his good wishes for the success of the enterprise in a tone of sincerity. Music? yes, there was music. A bevy of young ladies, drawn from the Conservatoriums, sang the National Hymn prettily, and an orchestra and chorus, under Hellmesberger, performed the Hallelujah from Handel's "Messiah." I at once allay a natural anxiety by stating that Hellmesberger had not previously "transcribed" the mighty strain.

For the purpose of the following remarks upon the character of the Exhibition, I shall make of it three divisions: first, performances; second, the personal and historical department; third, the department of manufacture. There is, truly, a fourth division—the gastronomical; the arrangements for eating and drinking being on a colossal scale, and made in anticipation of tremendous appetites. The grounds, which are not large, contain nine restaurants and beer-halls—some of them very big, while in the building there are two others, also extensive. Even the concert hall is used for refreshment purposes. I am bound to add that this liberal provision seems made upon a pretty accurate calculation of public requirements, and I will venture to declare that at any given time of the day more people are engaged in restoring their bodies than in storing their minds. Our Austrian friends are, however, not singular.

Performances.—The musical and dramatic demonstrations were, during my stay in Vienna, regular as to the drama, infrequent as to music. With what was done in the specially erected theatre I am not now concerned. Enough to say that a company from Berlin held possession during the first week of the Exhibition, playing works by Goethe and other classical writers. Within the same space of time two Concerts were given in the commodious music hall—one (on the 8th ult.) having the character of a solemnity, the other (on the 12th ult.) being a popular Symphony Concert by the orchestra permanently engaged. The second calls for no particular remark, the first was a formal display of the best that Vienna can do, and, therefore, demands attention. Hans Richter acted as Conductor, the orchestra was that of the Philharmonic Society, and the chorus represented not only the same Society, but other associations which more expressly devote themselves to choral singing. As for the programme, it contained only the Overture to "Die Zauberflöte" and the Choral Symphony. English amateurs would, probably, think this a meagre allowance, and a "high and dry" one to boot. But they are Concert-goers, the Viennese are not. Dr. Richter expressed to me his regret that Concerts are not more popular in Austria, and that such associations as the Philharmonic and the Male Voice Choirs depend for support upon a comparatively small circle. The Viennese delight in music, but, if they have to pay for it, they go to the opera. However, the Exhibition Concert-room, which contains over 2,000 persons, filled to the doors on the special occasion of which I speak, and no performance could have been followed with closer attention, or more cordially applauded. My own feeling was a little mixed. Richter had under him a capital orchestra, in number and balance as nearly as possible on an equality with that of the Birmingham Festival, but lacking the fine instruments which give an English orchestra so great an advantage. Thus the quality of the string tone could not compare with that produced at, say, a Concert of the London Philharmonic. But the players were capable, and the entire band worked with the precision of a machine plus the feeling and intelligence of Hans Richter, whose mind and spirit pervaded the whole. A better rendering of the "Zauberflöte" Overture I never expect to hear. It was exquisitely delicate in shading and perfect in simultaneity. It seemed to proceed not from a hundred men, but from one man, and the music flowed on without apparent effort—flowed as though it could not help flowing, as though it moved in the very order of nature and with the perfection of a natural process. This is strong praise, but not beyond desert. Terms less emphatic would fall short of justice. The reading of the Ninth Symphony was that to which the Richter Concerts have accustomed us, and, therefore, need not here be described; while the performance, though not so immaculate as that of the Overture, deserved almost equal commendation, having regard to the nature of the task. The vocalists came much short of the excellence displayed by their instrumental colleagues. Neither the solo singers—who were all drawn from the Imperial Opera—nor the chorus could possibly give entire satisfaction to an English ear. They sang, it is true, with heart and soul—with an almost overflowing enthusiasm; but defects of tone, method, and manner were obvious, and the ensemble could not compare with that to which, on special occasions, we are accustomed in this country. The Viennese audience, however, seemed highly delighted, and, at the close, applauded everybody with heartiness, giving a special call for Richter, to whom the chief honour and glory belonged.

The personal and historical division of the show is by far the most interesting to a purely musical visitor—that is to say, a visitor not concerned with the commerce of the art. Here it may be well to state that the ground plan of the Exhibition represents a circle within a square. The circle encloses a garden over which is a domed roof, and round its circumference runs a broad gallery, which connects, at four equi-distant points, with a similar gallery enclosing the square. These connections are called transepts, and in these, as well as in the circular gallery, the "Fach-Ausstellung" is located; the space being divided amongst Germany, Austria, Russia, Spain, Belgium, Bulgaria, England, France, and Italy, the first two countries, as may be supposed, taking the lion's share. German and Austrian exhibits are treated as those of one people, and placed together without distinction; half the space being devoted to music and the remainder to drama. Here lies the chief interest; for though some other countries make a show similar in character, the completeness with which German art is represented and the personal distinction of German composers, put serious rivalry out of the question. The Italian section is, perhaps, next in value to the German, being especially rich in memorials and relics of composers, in historical illustrations of opera, and in examples of ancient liturgical books. The last-named are a unique feature, for it may be doubted whether such a collection of ponderous and gorgeous tomes has ever before been brought under one roof. The books are shown in glass cases, each open at some choice page where the art of the illuminator, or the skill of the caligraphist, has done its best. Looking over them the eye rests upon marvels of beauty, and the mind is impressed by a sense of the patient labour which produced such results. Almost every stage in the development of musical notation, as applied to church purposes, is here illustrated, and one does not need to be a member of the Mediæval Music and Plain-Song Society in order to grow enthusiastic about a display of ancient art so rich and beautiful. The Italian section is strong also in autograph letters and scores, including examples of many masters from Palestrina to Mascagni, whose "L'Amico Fritz" occupies a conspicuous place. Rossini, Bellini, Donizetti, and the Italian operatic composers generally are well represented, nor are executive musicians forgotten. There are hundreds of printed libretti, dating from the seventeenth century to our own time—but, in point of fact, Italy makes a good show all round and sustains her character as a musical nation.

Bulgaria offers an excellent opportunity for the study of her national music and dances. The instruments in use among the people are numerously represented, as are collections of folk-tunes, while the dances are illustrated by means of photographs. There are a few modern MSS. of musical works in this section, but the little State has chiefly sought to make known the condition and character of music as it exists among the people. In this she has completely succeeded. The French section was not quite finished when I left Vienna, but our artistic neighbours had already made a fine display, set forth with the taste that never fails them. Though not a large exhibition, the objects have been carefully selected and are intrinsically valuable. Autographs abound here, and the scores of many a famous work by past and present masters lie temptingly open in the glass cases, among them that of Massenet's latest production, "Werther," not far from which is shown a MS. of Lulli. The French section, moreover, contains a fine display of tapestries illustrating what may be termed mythological art; a few historical instruments, first editions of well-known operas, &c. I cannot describe the contents of a classic pavilion which occupies the centre of the section, admission having been denied owing to incompleteness. But, judging by the beauty and elegance of the casket, the gems within should be "rich and rare."

The show made by Russia, Spain, and Belgium is comparatively small, but not without features of interest for a student of national music. It will at once be assumed that the fine old Netherland school is illustrated by some of its choicest productions. Poland has filled a limited space with examples of that nationality in art which no combination of eagles, single or double-headed, can suppress. I would gladly speak of an English show, but an English show was invisible. Several times my peregrinations took me through the space it is to occupy when it comes, and I looked round simply upon empty cases. It is much to be regretted, for the sake of our country, that, of all the European nations, England is the last to enter an appearance, though I am bound to add that the foreigner did not seem a bit surprised. He surveyed the emptiness of "England" with perfect composure and passed on. An Englishman, on the other hand, could hardly avoid some feeling, not of a pleasant kind. He naturally wondered why two Committees, each made up of well-known and influential men, could accomplish nothing better, ten days after the opening of the Exhibition, than a barren waste. It may be that, in our slow way, we shall eventually do wonders. Let us, at any rate, hope so.

It is wholly out of the question that the space available for this notice can be made to contain more than a few facts connected with the great display of Germany and Austria—a display all-embracing, and not to be exhausted in half-a-dozen articles such as the present. The musical section is arranged in order of time, the unit of time measurement being the century, and the interest, to the average visitor, increasing with the years till it reaches a climax at the age of the great modern masters. Beginning with examples and illustrations of music as known to the peoples of antiquity, every phase in the development of the art is more or less adequately represented. As our own day is approached personal interest deepens. We find ourselves in close contact with illustrious masters. Everywhere around are evidences of their work and personality—manuscripts they have written, pens they have used, spectacles they have worn, presents they have received, instruments they have touched. In some cases these memorials are very numerous. Schubert, Mozart, and Beethoven, for example, have each a section to themselves, while another Vienna master—good old Father Haydn—is illustrated with almost equal copiousness. Here are in abundance the autograph scores of immortal works. Symphonies, masses, oratorios, quartets, sonatas crowd upon each other in the glass cases. One may see how Beethoven erased the name Bonaparte from the first page of the "Eroica," and how, with hasty pen, he dashed down the opening notes of the bass solo in the Choral. Hard by, Schubert's neat scores arrest attention. There is the beginning of the "Unfinished" Symphony, and yonder the first page of the Allegro in its big successor, disfigured by hurried strokes from the master's amending pen. Mozart manuscripts are shown in profusion, and his admirers can follow him as he writes the first page of the "Requiem" or pens the "Ave, verum corpus." The Symphony in G minor is here, and many another masterpiece for mere mention of which there is no space. But, indeed, no amount of space would serve to convey an idea of the absorbing interest called forth by this great relic show. Of portraits there is no end, but, sooth to say, they puzzle rather than edify the spectator. Did Beethoven look like that, and also like that? Were there several Mozart bodies for one spirit? Did Haydn out-do the chameleon by changing not only colour but form? The artists have been fairly consistent only with Schubert, whose big iron-rimmed spectacles (they are on view with his MSS.) at any rate do not vary. It may be that one should receive the historical evidence of some of these pictures as the Bereans received the Scriptures. Did Schubert, for example, play the pianoforte in gilded saloons, surrounded by distinguished personages in various attitudes expressive of rapture? He may have done so, but the picture is none the less unreal. That is not the poor schoolmaster's son whom we know. But it is ungenerous to cavil at any of the evidences here brought together. What the eye sees the mind will never forget, nor the heart cease to be grateful for. The North German masters are less fully represented than those of Vienna, but lovers of Mendelssohn and Schumann may find much to linger over. There are, also, many memorials of Chopin and Liszt. Wagner has no place among his illustrious predecessors and contemporaries. Workmen are erecting for him a special building in the grounds. It is a reproduction of a Scandinavian fire-hall, and will be known as the "Hall of the Gibichungs." In it, I understand, are to be shown a large number of objects interesting to admirers of the master.

The third, or commercial, department of the Exhibition contains much that is connected but remotely with music or the drama. It would seem that the directors admitted not only everything required for the purposes of the combined arts, but many things which an audience might conceivably wear or consume at concert and opera. "Theatre biscuits," boots, fans, jewellery, and what not beside—space has been found for all, and the effect of the display is that of a Soho bazaar. There is, however, a legitimate element in the miscellaneous array of goods, including a mass of musical instruments of every description and for every kind of use. The reader would scarcely thank me were I to take him for a stroll round these mixed galleries. In point of fact, he would not go, and I, for my own part, decline to proceed alone.

An important annexe to the Exhibition is called Old Vienna. It represents a market-place of the sixteenth century, surrounded by houses which are "practicable" as to the ground floor, where traders of various descriptions expose goods for sale. This enclosure appears to be very popular, especially the beer garden in it. Pilsener and Dreher are there served by damsels in the picturesque costume of the time chosen for illustration.

As to the show as a whole, it must be pronounced a success. The managers have brought together an immense mass of material and secured its orderly arrangement in the manner best adapted to convey information. This is their justification, and this their claim to public support. Whether the enterprise will pay its way time alone can show. During my sojourn in Vienna the admissions were about 10,000 per day, which was regarded as a promising start. But one thing is certain: the holiday maker or tourist who has an opportunity of visiting the Austrian capital this summer and does not avail himself of it will, supposing him interested in music or drama, forego a great gratification. J. B.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. Shedlock, B.A.

The Sketch Books of Beethoven stand alone in the history of musical art. We are permitted, as it were, to enter the art-work studio of the great master, to see him moulding and shaping musical figures, and often with the smallest means achieving the grandest ends. Page after page of these precious volumes is at times covered with notes jotted down in the heat of inspiration, and often, apparently, in inextricable confusion; at other times a certain order prevails, and one can follow, longo intervallo, the composer's train of thought. But even where some plan can be traced, or an intention discovered, there are in most cases sudden breakings off, incomplete bars, or an embarrassing choice offered by oder, besser, &c. Yes, everywhere the pages tell but an imperfect tale, but one, nevertheless, of deep interest, and often of great importance.

Among the Additional Manuscripts of the British Museum are some of these Sketch Books, and of these, one (31,766), purchased of Julian Marshall, contains important sketches of the Pastoral Symphony, the Sonata in A for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 69), the two Pianoforte Trios in D and E flat (Op. 70, Nos. 1 and 2); a second (29,997), among other things, includes sketches of the Quartets in C sharp and A minor (Op. 131 and 132); while a third consists of sketches of the Scotch Songs. That our national library possesses such treasures ought to be better known. A description of their contents, so far as we are able to decipher them, will therefore be attempted; and apart from the natural and legitimate curiosity to trace the workings of genius, to see sonatas and symphonies attempted but left undone, to decipher rough and, at times, unintelligible memoranda, a study of these books may kindle in minds of musicians fresh interest in music which has long been familiar, and, besides, may throw here and there on it some fresh light.

Besides the above-named there is a volume among the Additional Manuscripts numbered 29,801, containing, first, a collection of forty consecutive sheets entitled—

No. 16
Beethoven
Skizzenbuch
B
Skizzen zu den "Ruinen von Athen."
zu "König Stephan," u.a.m.
40 Blätter zusammen.

This is followed by a larger collection of sheets of various shapes and sizes (163 in number). On an outside paper cover is written—

In ink { Notirungsbuch. I 43
In pencil { Aus der 2ten Messe. Aus der C mol Sonate Op. 111.

All this (not in the composer's hand-writing) is, however, scratched through, and so far as we have been able to decipher these sheets, they contain nothing whatever referring to the late period at which the Mass and Sonata were sketched or completed. How these sheets were collected, or how this cover came to be placed before them, appears unknown. On the blank sheet at the commencement of the volume and before the above-mentioned Skizzenbuch, is written—

Purchased of J. Kafka,
12 June, 1875.

The following notice of the former possessor of this volume is taken from Pougin's Supplement to Fétis's "Biographie Universelle des Musiciens"—

"Kafka (Johann-Népomucène), musicien allemand contemporain, a obtenu une certaine popularité dans sa patrie par la publication d'une énorme quantité de petits morceaux de musique légère pour le piano, nocturnes, idylles, mélodies, improvisations, rhapsodies, etc. Le nombre de ses compositions en ce genre s'élève a deux-cents environ. M. Kafka est né a Neustadt (Bohême), le 17 Mai, 1819."*

In the British Museum (Add. MSS. 29,803) there is a published Nocturne of his with his autograph and date, Vienna, December 10, 1872. The volume contains likewise an autograph of Beethoven's Cadenza to Mozart's D minor Concerto and one of a Canzonetta by Rossini.

Beyond the fact that the two collections (the Skizzenbuch and what we may call the Notirungsbuch) were purchased by the British Museum authorities of J. Kafka, we know, as yet, nothing more of their history. It may, however, be mentioned here that Kafka had another Beethoven treasure in his possession, which he offered to the Museum in the following year (1876). In a letter to the Museum authorities, dated March 19, 1876, he says he has "found out lately" a sketch-book of Beethoven; and in a second letter, dated March 30, he gives the further information that this sketch-book contains sketches of the "Choral Symphony, Missa Solemnis, the Symphonies 5 and 8, Egmont, &c." This treasure, we regret to say, was not secured for the Museum, although special interest attached to it, seeing that Beethoven wrote his Ninth Symphony for the London Philharmonic Society. Nottebohm, in his "Beethoveniana," gives sketches of the Pianoforte Sonata (Op. 49, No. 2) which are in this volume. Now "Beethoveniana" was published long before the Notirungsbuch came into the British Museum, but Nottebohm merely refers to the sketches as on a sheet of music paper. In Gustav Nottebohm's posthumous "Zweite Beethoveniana," published in 1887, the editor, E. Mandyczewski, merely describes this Notirungsbuch, which is often quoted, as a "aus vielen einzelnen Bogen und Blättern zuzammengeheftetes Skizzenheft" (a sketch-book consisting of many detached sheets and leaves stitched together). Attention is here called to the fact that with one or two exceptions all the musical illustrations which will be given in the series of articles now commenced appear in print, so far as we are aware, for the first time. Our readers must, therefore, clearly understand that these articles form, as it were, not extracts from, but rather a supplement to Nottebohm's "Beethoveniana" and "Zweite Beethoveniana."

In this so-called Notirungsbuch—to which, for chronological reasons, we shall first draw the attention of our readers—there are sketches dating from the earliest Bonn period, and towards the close there are sketches of a Symphony in C, which was never completed, and at which Beethoven worked shortly before he wrote the Symphony in C (Op. 21). There are also sketches for the Allegro and the Finale of the Pianoforte Concerto in C minor (Op. 37). Both the Symphony (Op. 21) and the Concerto were completed by the year 1800, and thus the contents of this Notirungsbuch may be said to extend from about 1784 to 1800. Now before examining in detail any of its pages, it will be as well to remind our readers of the works on which the composer was engaged during those sixteen years. The Pianoforte Sonatas (Op. 14, Nos. 1 and 2) appeared in December, 1799, and thus, of the published works, we are concerned with Op. 1 to Op. 14. But, in addition, there are the works with a later opus number than Op. 14, but which were sketched or partially completed before the year 1800.

For convenience of reference the list of published works is given:—

Op. 1. Pianoforte Trios in E flat, G and C minor.
2. Three Pianoforte Sonatas.
3. Trio for strings in E flat.
4. Quintet for strings in E flat.
5. Two Sonatas for violoncello and pianoforte (F and G minor).
6. Pianoforte Sonata for four hands.
7. Pianoforte Sonata in E flat.
8. Serenade for strings.
9. Three Trios for strings.
10. Three Pianoforte Sonatas (C minor, F, D).
11. Pianoforte Trio for pianoforte, clarinet, and violoncello.
12. Three Sonatas for pianoforte and violin.
13. Pianoforte Sonata ("Pathétique").
14. Two Pianoforte Sonatas (E and G).

The great interest attaching to this Notirungsbuch will at once become evident when it is mentioned

* Kafka (Johann-Népomucène), contemporary German musician, obtained a certain popularity in his country by the publication of an enormous quantity of pieces of light music for the pianoforte, nocturnes, idylls, melodies, improvisations, rhapsodies, &c. The number of such compositions exceeds 200. M. Kafka was born at Neustadt (Bohemia), May 17, 1819.

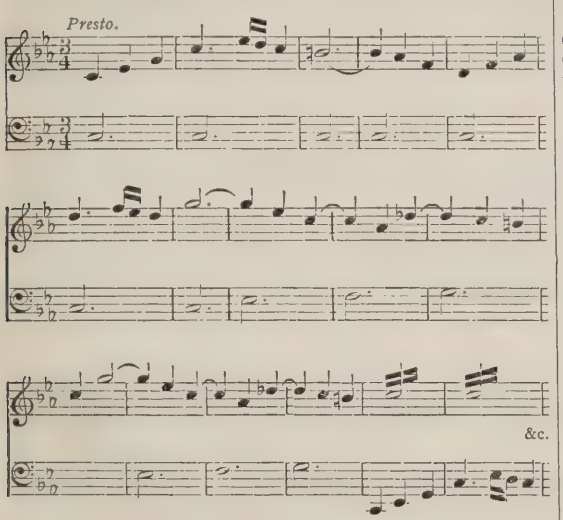
that of the above-mentioned works there are sketches of more or less importance of at least eight out of the fourteen.

But of the later published works, there are sketches of the Pianoforte Concertos in—

C (Op. 15),
B flat (Op 19),
C minor (Op. 37),
the—Quartet in A (Op. 18, No. 5),
the—Quintet for pianoforte and wind (Op. 16),
the—Sextet for wind instruments (Op. 71),
the—Pianoforte Sonatas (Op 49, Nos. 1 and 2);
of— various sets of Variations for Pianoforte,
"Adelaide" (Op. 46),
some numbers of Op. 52,
"Ah! perfido" (Op. 65),
the—"Opferlied" (Op. 121b), &c.

The Bonn sketches, if viewed in the right light, will not be found lacking in interest. In later sketch-books we see the master creating, developing, and completing works which now rank amongst his highest achievements. But here, for the most part, we have to deal with sketches of works of comparatively slight musical interest, and, as is frequently the case, unfinished. These early efforts of the composer have, nevertheless, an attraction of their own.

On sheet seventy we have probably one of the earliest of Beethoven's sketches. It is a movement entitled "Sinfonia," and commences thus:—



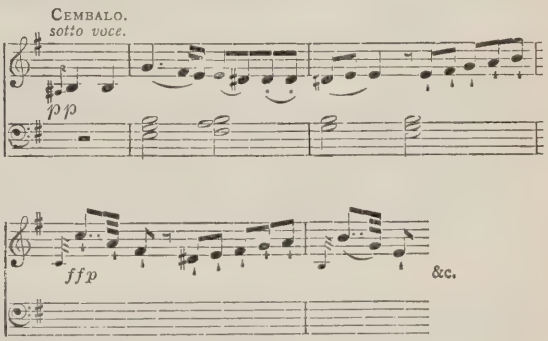
Now in the year 1785 Beethoven wrote three Pianoforte Quartets, the autograph of which bears the title:—

Trois Quatuors pour Clavecin, Violino, Viola e basso, 1785, Composé [de L / par Louis] van Beethoven, âgé 13 ann."

The theme of the Allegro con spirito (the second movement of No. 1 in E flat) commences as follows:—

The Symphony has become a Pianoforte Quartet: the key has changed, and beyond these opening bars no further use was made of the sketch. We, of course, presume that this "Sinfonia" sketch was written out before the Quartet, for it is scarcely likely that Beethoven, having completed the latter, would commence sketching out a Symphony on the same theme. His habit of sketching was then adopted from childhood. The boldness of the theme will not escape notice, nor the fact that it recalls the opening phrase of the Allegro of the Sonata in F minor (Op. 2, No. 1) (especially as it appeared in its original form)—

Another old sketch is the Romance cantabile for cembalo, flute, and bassoon concertante, with accompaniment of two violins, two violas, basso, and two oboes. The first section in E minor, written out in score, commences thus—



Of this there are over fifty bars, and then follows a "Maggiore" section, of which, however, only four bars are written out. Some empty lines below this score contain opening bars of a posthumous Rondo in B flat, for pianoforte and orchestra, and other sketches. This Romance was sold by auction after Beethoven's death. It was No. 179 in the catalogue, and marked thus:—

Unbekannt es Trio für Pianoforte, Flöte, und Fagott frühere Arbeit noch in Bonn.

Beethoven is known to have written a Pianoforte Concerto at Bonn in 1784, and from a letter of his he appears to have made several attempts before the first one published in Vienna. On the following page is given an interesting sketch, or rather epitome of a slow movement of a Concerto, which, if not actually Bonn, is very early Vienna. It is written on a sheet of paper with names of instruments and signatures showing that it was apparently originally intended for some score. These names and signatures, not being in any way connected with the sketch, are now omitted. The writing of the names of the instruments corresponds closely with that of the "Romance" (which was certainly written at Bonn) names of instruments mentioned above; the music and other writing would, however, seem to have been added a little later. We have not thought it necessary to put in bars and treble clefs where Beethoven has omitted them, as in second line; a careful reader can easily supply them. In some bars the notes are not clear, and Beethoven has written the letter names over them. The page contains two more staves below, across which the remarks respecting the Clavier solos are written. The "so langsam als möglich," in the note at bottom of page, recalls Schumann's "so rasch wie möglich." The last words over music marked No. 30 point to a continuation or alteration on other side of page. There are, in fact, some bars, having something to do with the Coda, but the sketch itself is practically complete without them.

in diesem Adagio muss alles durchaus piano gespielt werden nur ein einziges forte darf vorkommen. Die Klavier Solos so kurz und ausdrucksvoll als möglich.

das Tempo muss so langsam als möglich seyn—

(Statt oben N. 14 könnte auch diese Stelle gemacht werden.)

(To be continued.)

FROM MY STUDY.

I AM greatly indebted to Mr. Robin H. Legge for complying with a request made "at large" in last month's MUSICAL TIMES, and examining for me the British Museum copy of "Lyra Davidica." Mr. Legge's observations upon the book I now give in full, assured that my readers will peruse them with interest:—

The copy of the "Lyra Davidica" in the British Museum is a curious little volume, and the following extracts about it from my note books may be of interest to both "X" and his readers. The book has a written note on the title-page—"From Mr. Skillim (?) to Dr. Callcott, 8 July, 1800"—in Dr. Callcott's autograph. There is also a pen-note: "Purchased at the sale of Dr. Callcott's library.—W. Ayrton"; and on the inside of the cover, in pencil, a price—£1 11s. 6d.; but whether this refers to the price paid by Ayrton or the British Museum authorities I cannot tell. Another note on the fly-leaf is as follows: "This work is no less rare than curious. Many of the hymns betray the lewdest wishes, which are attempted to be concealed under the flimsy veil of religious aspirations, particularly those at pp. 14, 26, 40.—W. A." The book was published by J. Walsh in 1708, at the "Harp and Hoboy," in Katherine Street, and is dedicated to William Petersen, "as approved by skill in the Great or Political Harmony," &c. It contains in all thirty-one hymns, and is seventy-nine pages in length. The music is beautifully engraved and printed, but the hymns (words), though distinct enough, are not so good. The first number is signed at the end of the tune: "Francis Hoffman; sculpsit." "W. A." was certainly not entirely unjustified in his strictures on certain hymns, as the following quotations will show. The hymn on page 14, entitled "S. Bernard's Jubile (sic) on the name Iesus (Jesu dulcis memoria)," consists of thirty verses, of which I quote three:—

Verse 14. Tho' worthily I cannot name Thee
I cannot chose yet but proclaim Thee,
For boyling love oft makes us bold,
Breaks way and runs like molten Gold.

Verse 18. My soul each Moment Thee requires
To ease my languors, quench my fires;
And still what transport when I find
And Thee in warm embraces bind.

Verse 22. Fair Virgin Flower, of Virgin Bed
With Lilly White and Rosie Red,
Grow in my heart; then praise shall rise
Heav'n's best Perfume and Sacrifice.

On page 26 is a hymn, "Martyrdom Revers'd; or, the Love Flames," the last (eighth) verse of which runs thus:—

O, we cry, we cannot bear
Love's hot flames which domineer
In our souls, and yet had we Doom'd to death far rather be
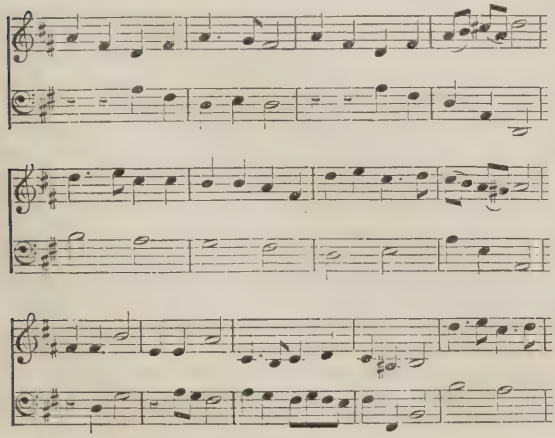
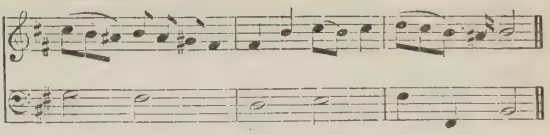
Than to lose those flames that come
To crown us with Love's martyrdom.
O thrice happy soul that dies
Love's eternal sacrifice.

The tune to which this is set runs thus:

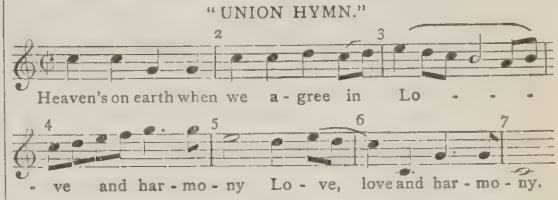
Page 26. "MARTYRDOM REVERS'D."





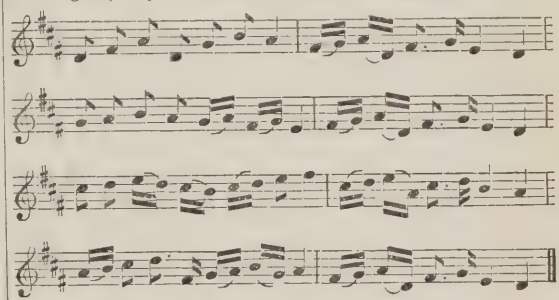
The last number in the book is "A Canon of Seven parts," which some of your readers may like to puzzle for themselves. It is given thus in the book, its name being "The Union Hymn":—

"UNION HYMN."



By the way, the "Lyra Davidica" version of the Easter Hymn is this:—

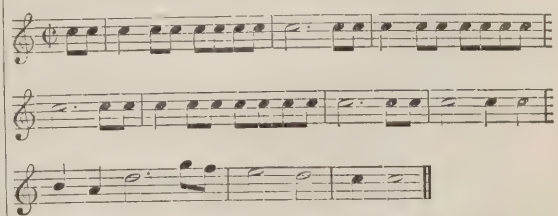
Page 11, "Lyra Davidica." "THE RESURRECTION."



The Editor of this journal has forwarded to me, as coming within the scope of the present article, a communication from Mr. Frank Kidson, of Leeds. Mr. Kidson refers therein to the mention, by Mr. Arthur Grimshaw, of a song entitled "Of an old Courtier of Queen Elizabeth, and how He changed upon the Coming of the King." After stating that this song is well known, and is not a version of the "Vicar of Bray," Mr. Kidson continues:—

Chappell in "Popular Music of the Olden Time" gives a full account of the song. The following in addition may be of interest: No earlier reference than that of Pepys has been discovered, and it was probably just then a new ballad but a few weeks old. Afterwards it is found mentioned by other writers. The song itself became immensely popular, lasting (in a modern version) down to our own time. It was sung to a monotone or chant-like air, and is with the music to be found in "Pills to purge Melancholy," 1719, Vol. III.; "The Convivial Songster," 1782; "Ritson's English Songs," 1783, and in other collections. The song, without music, was printed on broadsides in black letter at the period of its composition, and one or more of these contemporary issues can be consulted in the British Museum Library. There are an immense number of verses, the first (copied from "Pills") is as follows:—

"THE OLD AND NEW COURTIER."



With an old song made by an old ancient pate
Of an old worshipful gentleman who had a great estate,
Who kept an old house at a bountiful rate,
And an old porter to relieve the poor at his gate,
Like an old Courtier of the Queen's.

The verses give us a good picture of an English squire in Elizabeth's days, but the second part of the ballad shows how great an alteration occurs when his son has the management of affairs—

With a new honour bought with his father's old gold,
That many of his father's old manors hath sold,
And this is the occasion that most men do hold
That good housekeeping is now-a-days grown cold.

There are other songs somewhat in this strain to be found in "Pills" to the same air. About the end of the century a song founded upon the above was sung. It was called "Moderation and Alteration." A copy of this is to be seen in "Dale's English Songs," folio, circa 1800, and in the "English Minstrel," &c. In our own time "The Queen's old Courtier" was turned into the song "A fine old English Gentleman, one of the olden time." This, sung to the old tune, will be remembered by many of your readers.

I am indebted to a lady correspondent (who writes from Dallington Vicarage, Sussex) for a communication having reference to Mysteries and Miracle Plays. The request which she so kindly seeks to satisfy was, however, for instances of the performance of such works apart from the well-known celebrations at Chester, Coventry, Dunstable, &c. It is fair to conclude from the representations given at Basingborne in 1511 (cited by me last month) that sacred dramas were a recognised parochial agency tending to edification, and it is just possible that records of their performance in rural parishes may be discovered. I trust that my readers will not overlook this matter should an opportunity for research come in their way.

The Percys of Northumberland once owned a great manor house at Leckenfield near Beverley, Yorkshire, and caused to be inscribed on the walls and ceilings of various rooms a number of so-called "proverbs"—philosophical and moral meditations, aphorisms, &c., upon the conduct of life. One set of these proverbs ornamented a "garret at the New Lodge in the Parke," where, probably the minstrels were housed, since music is exclusively the subject dealt with. A MS. copy of all the inscriptions may be consulted in the British Museum, or they may be found in Grose and Astle's "Antiquarian Repertory," Vol. IV. (London, 1809).

The musical proverbs, like all the others, take the form of rhymed verse. They begin with a reference to the serious purpose of "Patagoras and Tuball," and a warning against over-elaboration in music—in this and subsequent quotations I have modernised the somewhat difficult orthography:—

Out of the true plain-song they judged the melody,
Curious conveying hideth much harmony,
Therefore of the plain notes to set a sure ground
Maketh a modulation of most fit sound.
In curiosity oft-time truth slippeth by,
And in the plain, true notes all the sweetness doth lie.

The teacher continues with counsel to vocalists, and then turns his attention to instruments and their players:

The harp is an instrument of sweet melody,
Rude intelligence of the sound conceiveth no harmony,
But whoso in that instrument hath no speculation,
What resteth within the sound board hath but small relation.

If a man cannot play well the instrument must not be blamed:

He that fingereth well the keys of the Claricordis maketh a good song,
For in the mean is the melody with a rest long,
If the tunes be not pleasant to him that hath no skill,
Yet no lack to the Claricorde for he (it) doeth his (its) good will.

The teacher is emphatically on the side of moderation in performance, and would be a terror now-a-days to sensation pianists:

Immoderate wind in a clarion causeth it for to rage,
Soft wind and moderate maketh the sound to assuage,
Therefore he which in that instrument would have sweet modulation
Blustrous winds must leave and use moderation.

Again to the same purport:

A shawm maketh a sweet sound, for he tuneth bass,
It mounteth not too high but keepeth rule and space,
Yet if it be blown with a too vehement wind,
It maketh it to misgovern out of its kind.

Once more, to a like end:

He that coveteth in Clarysymballis to make good concordance
Ought to finger the keys with discreet temperance,
Too much winding of the pipes is not the best,
Which may cause them to sypher where harmony should rest.

A man should be careful to set down his music correctly:

A perfect modulator maketh his song true,
He measureth in the mean with proportion due,
But whose pen is too swift in pricking of a song
He maketh so his minims from the square that it shall sound wrong.

Our poet next indulges in some "pretty conceits" after the manner of his day. Here is one:

All these musicals well handled and ordered in their kind,
Giveth sounds of sweetness to every good mind:
Yet racionalis lingua expellit instruments all,
Well timed and tuned, for it is master of all.

Here is another:

Music hath her colours of diversities,
Black void, black full, alterations of curiosity,
But the white is more comely, and to cleanness doth accord,
For pureness in the margent maketh a true monochord.

Presently he begins to moralise:

The notes pretending sables of sound most melodious
Must make a mean in our music that we be not oblivious,
But to remember the end of our final cantare,
When for right we shall have right, and pain for sinistre indicare.

If thou a musician a judge shall be,
Prick not thy notes in the line of perversity,
For that shall cause thy notes to have a wrong sound,
And as thou makest thy sound so to thee it will rebound.

The application of the foregoing is obvious, and, no doubt, the minstrels who lodged in the garret at Leckenfield made it. Our teacher now waxes comminatory:

And if thy melody be marred and the sweet sound,
By thy perverse pricking, which concords doth confound,
For perversity of thy pricking and missounding of thy song,
And for thy sophistical sol-faing (solphynge) ite maladicte take it forth.

In the next verse he is more emphatic:

Music is a science and one of the seven,
With sweet sounds to praise the Plasmator of Heaven,
They that of perversity will not tune well,
Ve, ve, ve, their song shall be in hell.

Finally:

The modulation of music is sweet and celestial,
In the spheres of the planets making sound harmonical,
If we modulate our music as the true tune is,
In Heaven we shall sing Osanna in excelsis.

According to the editors of the "Antiquarian Repertory," these curious verses were written about the reign of Henry VII., and internal evidence shows that they could hardly have been earlier. The Manor House at Leckenfield was long ago demolished, the inscriptions being, of course, destroyed. With regard to the British Museum MS. (Bibl. Reg. 18, D. 11), no particulars are given by Grose and Astle. Perhaps one of my readers will look it up.

Information is wanted concerning "A Collection of Songs. Edinburgh. Printed by A. Donaldson and J. Reid. 1762." Save as to the poetic contents, it is a most unsatisfactory volume. I have quoted the entire title-page, with the exception of a motto from Manilius; and there is no indication of the compiler's name. Neither are the authors of the songs mentioned, and even headings to the lyrics are omitted. I am surprised to find that an "Index of First Lines" was not also regarded as superfluous. But the collection itself is one of the very best within my acquaintance, and must be due not only to a man of research, but a true connoisseur of lyric poetry. There is scarcely a piece one could wish away—allowance being made, of course, for a certain freedom of speech; and the sweet music of the genuine old English lyric sounds from every page. Let us hear one pretty strain, addressed to the harbinger of Spring:

Foolish prater, what dost thou
So early at my window do?
Why thy tuneless serenade?
Well't had been had Tereus made
Thee dumb as Philomel;
There his knife had done but well.

In thy undiscovered nest
Thou dost all the winter rest,
And dreamest on thy summer joys,
Free from the stormy season's noise
Free from the ill thou'st done to me
Who disturbs or seeks out thee?

Had'st thou all the charming notes
Of the wood's poetic throats,
All thy art could never pay
What thou'st ta'en from me away.

Cruel bird, thou'st ta'en away
A dream out of my arms to-day;
A dream that ne'er must equalled be
By all that naked eyes can see.

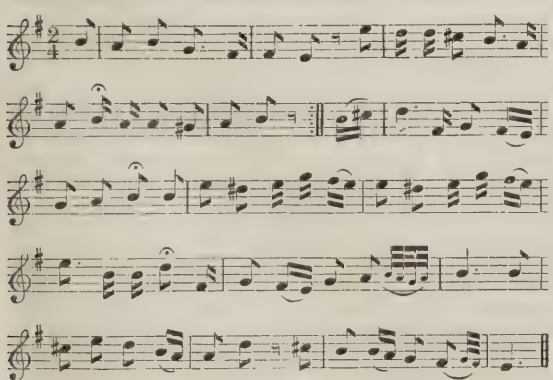
Thou, this damage to repair,
Nothing half so sweet or fair,
Nothing half so good canst bring,
Though men say thou bring'st the Spring.

The book is full of such "native wood-notes," and I should like to know more about its origin than it chooses to tell.

My Birmingham correspondent, Mr. Andrew Deakin, will be interested in the following communication from Miss Kate James, R.A.M., with reference to the tune called "The Flatteries of Fate":—

The air entitled "The Flatteries of Fate" is an old Welsh air. You will find it in the late Mr. Brinley Richards' collection, "The Songs of Wales," p. 64. It is entitled "The Hall of my Chieftain," and the Welsh name of the air is "Y stwffwl" ("The Door-clapper"). It is in the key of G, and the few differences are unimportant ones.

Miss James draws my attention, also, to a remarkable hymn-tune, which, she says, "was a great favourite in the prayer meetings of the chapels of South Wales about twenty years ago." "The words sung to it," continues my correspondent, "were descriptive of the struggles of the Christian in going through the stormy and tempestuous sea of life, and I never heard it sung to any other words than those." An air with more strongly marked characteristics I have seldom met with, and, as it is quite new to me, some information concerning its origin and use would be welcome. Appended is a copy of Miss James's transcription:—



The lady correspondent who is so good as to enquire after the health of my friend W. and to say that she hopes my other friend, Y., has not dropped out of the circle, may be re-assured on both counts. The worst symptoms in W.'s case have abated (the "Catnach" is still in my possession), and I hear from Evalina that he has occupied himself for some time past in the preparation of sarcastic verses levelled at the foibles and vanities of musical people. Evalina hints that the publication of the best of them would please her uncle immensely. Probably it would, but he is only one, while my readers are many, and the health of the majority is the supreme law. However, we shall see in good time what this Juvenal of doggerel can do. As for Y., he has lapsed into silence and mystery. Nevertheless, there is strong reason to suspect him of inditing a book on "The Universality of Error." As it is certain that no one will publish it, I may eventually have the pick of its musical examples. X.

"SEX AND MUSIC."

SIR JAMES CRICHTON-BROWNE'S much-discussed oration, before the Medical Society, on the difference between the sexes in cerebral structure and function has been taken as the text for a short and remarkably dogmatic article in the Lancet of May 14 under the above heading. "There is no room here," remarks the writer, "for the contention that, as compared with the boy, the girl has not had fair play—that opportunities for cultivating the art have in her case been few, in his many. The reverse is the truth. If there is a branch of education in which girls have been schooled to the neglect of every other, it is precisely that of music. It is among the primary subjects to which she is put and among the very last she is allowed to leave off. Not one hour a day, but many hours out of the twenty-four are consumed by her at the pianoforte, to say nothing of other instruments, while singing lessons are usually given in supplement to these. It might have been thought that if practice gives perfection woman would have excelled her male counterpart not only as an executant, but as a composer. But what are the facts? In instrumental performance she cannot for a moment compare with him, while as to composition she is nowhere. Considering the time she has spent over it, her failure to evolve new harmonies or even new melodies is one of the most extraordinary enigmas in the history of the fine arts. It has been remarked, but never explained, by such accomplished æsthetic writers as Lady Eastlake in her celebrated 'Essay on Music,' and by such keen psychological analysts as Mr. G. H. Lewes in his 'Life of Goethe'; it is, indeed, a problem still awaiting solution, unless we can solve it by an appeal to such facts as Sir J. Crichton-Browne adduced in his recent oration on the inferiority of woman to man in the cerebral stratum of ideo-motor energy."

So far the Lancet, in whose energetic pronouncement may be found an admirable example of a good case spoiled by exaggeration on the one hand and under-statement on the other. It is perfectly true that women have had fairer play, so far as educational advantages are concerned, in music than in any other sphere of accomplishment. But it is nothing short of a suppressio veri to limit execution to instrumental performance and to burke all mention of singers and operatic artists. Speaking roughly, the prima donna hardly had a fair chance before the end of the last century. The reign of that unpleasant monstrosity, the male soprano, lasted well on into this century, and much as we may regret the abuse of their powers of which some of the great queens of song have been guilty, no one can assert that music has suffered from exchanging the primo uomo for the prima donna. And what a galaxy of talent has flourished within the compass of that hundred years: Mara, Banti, Catalani, Pasta, Malibran, Viardot-Garcia, Grisi, Sontag, Jenny Lind, Titiens, Clara Novello, Alboni, Patti, Nilsson, Trebelli, Albani—to mention the names which recur most readily to one's recollection. Who shall say that as interpreters they fall short of their brethren? The statement that woman "cannot for a moment compare" with man in instrumental performance is worded in far too peremptory a fashion. It is true enough of the essentially orchestral instruments, but here women do not compete; and very sensibly too. As for the stringed instruments, the greater physical force of men gives them an unquestioned advantage. But it should be borne in mind that in no professional orchestra are women admitted as performers, no matter how gifted they may be, with the sole exception of harpists. In our amateur orchestras ladies are generally to be found amongst the most efficient members. There are many of these mixed combinations, but for purity of tone and precision no amateur orchestra that we have ever heard has surpassed Mr. Moberly's Ladies' String Orchestra. Lastly there remains the pianoforte; and here, if we except a few giants such as Rubinstein, Von Bülow, D'Albert, and Paderewski, there is very little to choose between the men and the women. For a great many years Madame Schumann was generally admitted on all hands to be in the very foremost rank amid the exponents of the best traditions of pianoforte playing. Set aside two or three of the greatest solo violinists, and how many can be ranked as superior to Lady Hallé and Fräulein Wietrowetz? Certainly not enough to warrant the statement of the Lancet that in instrumental performances women "cannot for a moment compare with" man. As regards composition, there certainly the discrepancy in the matter of achievement is immense. At the same time, the number of women who challenge serious attention as composers is probably greater at the present moment than at any previous period in the history of music, and in view of the success achieved in this department by Mdlles. Chaminade and Augusta Holmès in France, Madame Ingeborg von Bronsart in Germany, and by Mrs. Meadows White (Alice Mary Smith), Miss M. V. White, and Miss Ethel Smyth amongst us, it is rather severe to speak of them as "nowhere." Compared with the great composers they may be of little or no account, but alongside of the average male composer of the day they are decidedly in the running.

The French musical Protectionists have not yet learnt wisdom by experience. By this time the Société des Auteurs dramatiques should be in a position to compute the pecuniary results of their agent's proceedings during the last two years. We should be much surprised if those results amounted to a sum sufficient to pay the said agent's salary. The fundamental error made by the Society is this—while in France little else but French music is played and sung (which may or may not be a good thing for native art), here in England it is but one of many claimants for public favour. In fact, if French music were wholly, instead of partially, prohibited here, it would make very little difference. French music labours under the disadvantages of being very expensive, and usually very badly printed. If to these is added the fear of incurring penalties by performing some of it, and the absolute ignorance in which we are kept as to what works are so "protected," French publishers are not likely to grow rich on the money they earn in this country. But if any further step were wanting to bring disaster on the French tax-gatherer's campaign in England, it would be afforded by the methods pursued by its agent. The first skirmishes in the great battle of Moul and Grœnings occurred because the agent refused to show his hand and play fair. This policy he has pursued even up to the present time, a recent instance being afforded by his raid on the Bauers concerning some piece of Godard's. We might point out also, as another specimen of what used to be called in our school days "French fighting," the way in which certain Paris firms print upon the title-page of their publications an announcement that all rights of reproduction and performance are reserved, this warning being in absolutely microscopic type, smaller than what our printers call "diamond." But, after all, it is an ill wind that blows nobody any good. The disfavour into which all French music must necessarily fall should prove the opportunity for some of our native composers. Only—bless the babies!—these lads obstinately refuse to make any use of openings. They prefer to run like a bull at a hedge. France has supplied us with much organ and pianoforte music of a bright, if superficial, character. Why cannot we grow some of this at home? She has also supplied us with much comic opera, but latterly we have shown ourselves able to dispense with this import. Her orchestral music will indeed be a loss hard to supply, but, after all, there is enough non-copyright music to fill all the orchestral concert-programmes that we are ever likely to want. So let us take leave of the French performing-rights question, and await with perfect resignation the day when French composers, like English, will thankfully pay to have their works performed.

Writing upwards of sixty years ago on the state of music in England, Fétis declared that he was above all things struck with the contrast presented by the low estate of opera in this country, when compared with the imposing grandeur of our musical festivals. It is to be feared that this contrast has not yet entirely disappeared, for whilst opera is with us even now an exotic requiring the most tender treatment, the musical festival flourishes and expands. During the past eighteen years the Leeds Festival has taken a very prominent position among these music-meetings, and it has occurred to Mr. F. R. Spark, the Hon. Secretary of the Festival since 1877, to compile, with the assistance of Mr. Joseph Bennett, a history of the institution with which he has been closely connected from the very beginning. The result of their labours, a handsome volume of over 400 pages, is now on the eve of publication, and cannot fail to be of interest to all musical folk; while to the historian it should prove a mine of wealth, full as it is of authentic records of events in which all the chief English musicians of the latter half of the nineteenth century have been more or less intimately concerned. A glimpse "behind the scenes" always has its attractions, and the opportunity afforded by this "History" of becoming acquainted with some of the difficulties which beset the path of festival committees, and of which the public know little or nothing, will be not only welcome to the casual reader, but of service to any who aspire to distinction in the same thorny paths. A perusal of the long list of works performed at the seven Festivals that have already taken place is interesting and not without encouragement, for although its contents are certainly "mixed"—witness the juxtaposition of a Bach Cantata and a Balfe Ballad, of the "Leonora" Overture and an Aria by Bellini—it is satisfactory to find that, as a rule, the more flimsy the piece, the earlier the date of its performance. Excellent portraits of the three Conductors, Bennett, Costa, and Sullivan, and numerous fac-similes of letters from musicians, add to the value and attractiveness of the volume.

THE current number of The Meister contains an interesting article by the Editor, entitled "From Fitzball to Wagner." It is well known, and has been frankly acknowledged more than once by the poet-composer himself, that Wagner adopted the general outlines of his Opera "Der Fliegende Holländer" from H. Heine's version of the old legend. The late Dr. Hueffer, however, carried matters a stage farther back by attributing Heine's inspiration to the witnessing of an Adelphi play on the same subject, by "the immortal Fitzball." It is to this theory, which has already found its way into many sketches of Wagner's life, that Mr. Ashton Ellis devotes his attention in the article above-named, the purpose of which will be evident from its sub-title, "A Flying Dutchman Fallacy" (alliteration was to be expected in a Wagnerian organ). How far the essayist has succeeded in demolishing the hypothesis he attacks we must leave his readers to judge. At any rate, he has reduced the issue to a question whether Heine would have been likely to devote his second evening in London to a performance at "a minor in preference to a major theatre"; for, by laborious research and careful reasoning, he has proved that the play in question was performed for the last time on the day after Heine reached this capital. Mr. Ellis does not seem to have let any obstacle daunt him in his exhaustive enquiry, as will be seen from his calling the Bank of England and the house of Rothschild into the editorial witness-box. The essay is longer than we have hitherto been accustomed to see published in one number of The Meister, but the adoption for the nonce of the first person singular enables the writer to throw a little dramatic interest into the exposition of his argument, and this would necessarily have suffered if bisected.

IN his remarkably interesting and valuable book on Fugue, recently published, Mr. Ebenezer Prout states that "every fugue, however much variety there may be in the details, is in its main outlines constructed in the same general form. That is the form which is commonly known by the name of Ternary, or three-part form." For this idea he acknowledges his indebtedness to Dr. H. Riemann. It is interesting to note that in an article entitled "On the way to study Fugue," which appeared in the Monthly Musical Record in 1882, fugue-form is likened to sonata-form. The writer points out that both have exposition and development, and that the final stretto of the fugue is, in a way, a recapitulation, the principal theme in the primary key being made specially prominent. Both forms, again, have two subjects: in the Sonata called "first" and "second"; in the fugue, "subject" and "counter-subject." This writer's comparison may not be altogether satisfactory as regards the third section, but the middle portion of a fugue—especially a "strict" one—would seem to have more affinity with the "development" section of sonata-form than with the "episode" of ternary form. Anyhow, it is curious and interesting to find two writers attempting to trace connecting links between apparently different forms.

NOTHING has been more remarkable or gratifying in the musical history of the last decade than the attempts made in many quarters to assist the progress of musical education in schools. But there is a great deal to be done yet before music takes its proper place in the curriculum of our public and private educational institutions; and all teachers, therefore, as well as those interested less directly in musical education, will welcome with unanimity the news that a monthly magazine devoted exclusively to the interests of music in schools is issued to-day. The scheme of the new journal, which is called The School Music Review, includes articles on musical subjects of general interest to teachers, reports of school concerts and competitions, school songs in both notations and of varying degrees of difficulty, and solutions to the questions set in a large number of musical examinations in connection with various bodies. All this promises to be of the highest utility, and there is no room for doubt that the attempt to supply such a "long felt want" will meet with general support. The School Music Review will be published on the first of every month by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., at the price originally charged for THE MUSICAL TIMES, the success of which it is hoped the new journal will inherit.

THE present year is the 160th anniversary of the foundation of the great house of Broadwood, and it is not unfit that the musical world should, in contemplating the completion of such a record as that of the famous firm, remember how large a debt it owes to the five generations who, from father to son, have handed on such honourable traditions. There is, indeed, no fear that the debt will be forgotten; but the memory of every amateur will at least be quickened by the handsome illustrated and descriptive catalogue of new instruments which the Messrs. Broadwood have just issued. It contains a lucid—and even accurate—description of every kind of pianoforte made by them, and each description is accompanied by a drawing. The whole is beautifully printed, and should be possessed alike by those who are in want of actual information as to the productions of the house in Great Pulteney Street and those who desire to possess a really artistic memento of this interesting anniversary.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

AN obliging correspondent sends us the following extract from a brochure entitled "Leaves from the Diary and Journal of the late Charles J. Palmer, F.S.A.," recently published at Great Yarmouth:—"August 3, 1831.—Last night Paganini, who has astonished all Europe by his performances on the violin, appeared at our Theatre (Theatre Royal, Great Yarmouth). I was unable to understand or appreciate all his merit from not possessing the necessary knowledge of music, but, notwithstanding, I was both delighted and astonished. He produced such melody from the instrument as I never before deemed it capable of affording, together with tones the most harmonious and beautiful. The hearer can scarcely believe that it is on a violin that this gifted person is performing, so unusual and melodious are the sounds produced. He apparently lets the bow fall smartly on the violin and sparks of music are struck out. The house was well filled, notwithstanding the prices, which were high—viz., boxes, 9s.; upper boxes, 7s.; pit, 6s.; gallery, 3s. 6d. I understand he received £120 for the evening. At Norwich he had £600 for three Concerts, at each of which he played two pieces which lasted about twenty minutes each, so that, comparing his remuneration with the time actually occupied in playing, he received exactly £5 a minute. Paganini is not a handsome man. I saw him no nearer than the stage, and had, therefore, little opportunity of criticising his head, but his forehead appeared large and his eyes remarkably quick and animated, especially whilst playing. His face and hands are pale, thin, and ghastly; his hair, combed off his forehead, falls in large curls over his shoulders. He came on the stage stealthily like a cat, screwed up his instrument, but never tuned it so as to produce any sound, and immediately commenced his performance. When applauded by the audience—which he was most enthusiastically—he bowed repeatedly, seemed much pleased, and grinned a smile which certainly appeared to me, perhaps erroneously, a mixture of satire and malice."

HANSLICK's criticism, in the Neue Freie Presse, upon "L'Amico Fritz" has been translated for the Boston Musical Herald by Mr. B. Cutter. The writer's summing up may be interesting to English readers just now: "Strong points of the new opera are: that it is free from all trivialities, such as occur frequently in 'Cavalleria'; that its style is more unified, refined; that the German, French, and Italian elements are not placed in such evident juxtaposition, but are amalgamated as far as is possible. The orchestra, aside from some few crudities, of which we have spoken, sounds finer, more interesting, than in 'Cavalleria,' and the orchestral part seems to us to show more originality and intellect than the vocal part, although these elements are not lacking here. In spite of its greater outlines, the melodic invention does not flow more luxuriantly in 'Fritz' than in 'Cavalleria.' That which we deplore in this new opera is the immoderate exaltation of dramatic expression, the over-subtle refinement of harmony and rhythm, and, finally, that nervous unrest which never allows the music to collect itself for a minute of beneficent effect. But, despite all this, there is blood, fine blood, in this music, a rare thing with operas written nowadays. Mascagni's strong dramatic talent is undeniable; it seems to have become musically more refined since 'Cavalleria.' 'Friend Fritz' shows us, in reality, the fermentative process of this talent, and suggests to one the clear, strong wine which Mascagni may pour out for us in days to come."

WHEN Mr. Samuel Weller saw his beloved master in the grasp of the law, he knocked down the constable out of hand, having first "floored" a chairman for him to lie on. Musical critics sometimes act upon the same considerate principle, and administer praise in general before censuring in particular. An amusing example of such procedure recently appeared in the columns of a Scottish contemporary. Dealing with the chorus of the Dunoon Choral Union, the critic began by saying that "the choir showed careful study and training," and that he had "seldom heard a choir of the same standing sing with such precision." Having thus floored the chairman he went on to state that the soprano voices were rather young and lacked mellowness; that the tenors were somewhat coarse and, at times, individuals were too prominent; and that if the basses were augmented it would relieve the strain upon some of the voices. "All the soloists acquitted themselves well," but the singing of the soprano was rather throaty; the voice of the contralto sounded very thin; and the bass could not reach some of the high notes. The chief fault all round was lack of proper expression. It is added that, in a certain part-song, the chorus were not quite at home. Nevertheless the Concert was "successful," and the Conductor had gathered round him a "splendid body of singers." Thus the prostrate performers were amply provided with something soft to lie on.

THE following paragraph appeared in the Musical Herald of the 1st ult.: "The Musical Times devotes a leader to a 'rare' pamphlet on Psalmody, by Nahum Tate, of which it possesses the 'only copy.' This pamphlet is fully summarised in Mr. J. S. Curwen's 'Studies in Worship Music,' published twelve years ago. The Musical Times will have to try again." Our contemporary, in its desire effectually to advertise Mr. J. S. Curwen's book, has made two gross misstatements, which can hardly be looked upon as accidental. In the first place, THE MUSICAL TIMES did not devote a leader to Nahum Tate's pamphlet. That work was referred to, and quoted from, in the course of a general article, which touched upon a large number of other subjects. In the next place, THE MUSICAL TIMES did not say that it possesses the "only copy" of the brochure in question. This is what THE MUSICAL TIMES said: "I fancy the pamphlet is now rare. The only copy I know is the one now before me." In turn, we invite our contemporary to "try again"—and try to speak the truth.

STAGE fright is not uncommon, but fright before "going on" rarely attracts attention. We now read, however, of a conspicuous case in San Francisco. A pianist, Mr. Fleischmann, had announced a Recital, but, when the time came and the audience had assembled, there was no performer, nor could he anywhere be found. The story continues: "The family and friends returned to Fleischmann's residence, and it was eleven o'clock before anyone thought of searching the premises for the missing man. He was found in the cellar lying on the floor in a dazed state, with a flute in his hand. When resuscitated he declared that he felt dizzy as he was about to enter the hall and knew nothing more. He evidently walked home, went to an old trunk, got out a flute, which was his favourite instrument when a boy, and attempted to play it. The doctor said it was an attack of vertigo induced by excitement. Fleischmann has not recovered to-day and is confined to the house." The Recital is re-announced, and the incident is likely to have the effect of a first-class advertisement.

IN connection with a recent performance of "The Messiah" in New York the following note was issued by the Conductor, Mr. Damrosch:—"At this performance the experiment will be tried of restoring as far as possible the original Handelian instrumentation. The Mozart wood-wind parts and horns have been eliminated, and the original trumpet and drum parts restored. The strings will be reinforced according to the custom of the period by a choir of oboes and bassoons, the organ filling out the harmonies wherever necessary. The few places where Mozart has carried on the harmonies in the violins and violas to the Handelian bass have been retained. While the Mozart wind parts may be missed in a few of the numbers, notably the trumpets in the Chorus 'For unto us a child is born,' and in the Air 'Why do the nations,' in many other numbers the simpler instrumentation, with the curious effect produced by the addition of the oboes to the violin parts, seems more in keeping with the character of Handel's music.—W. D."

REPORTING a Concert at Ross, the critic of the local Gazette remarked that the "orchestral arrangements were well carried out and some greenhouse plants . . . added a pleasing effect." A facetious correspondent remarks upon this: "In future let us have Handel's original score with greenhouse plant pleasing effects. By so doing we retain our reputation as purists, and, at the same time, encourage horticulture. . . . It would be economical too, as, by a small outlay in plants, the cost of a band might be greatly reduced." For ourselves we would indicate the following passage as an example of delightful naïveté quite befitting the Arcadia through which flows the winding Wye: "Mrs. Randell is such a well-known favourite in Ross that it would be superfluous to praise her. She did two of the parts allotted to her with such good taste that it was a matter of regret that her anxiety to get back to Hereford prevented her singing 'I know that my Redeemer liveth.'"

THE well-known American critic, W. J. Henderson, ends an article on the New York opera season in these terms: "Taken as a whole, the season of opera in French and Italian under Messrs. Abbey and Grau was of beneficent influence. Much as I dislike the undramatic traditions of the so-called Italian stage, much as I despise the inartistic insincerity with which most of its personages approach the lyric drama, treating it as a mere costumed concert, I am bound to say that in the conservation of the art of pure singing it will retain its full measure of influence as long as it can boast of artists like the De Reszke brothers and Lassalle. That these singers have done something toward forcing the New York public to re-fashion its ideas as to what constitutes good singing is not to be doubted, and it is a boon for which we should be appropriately grateful."

A CORRESPONDENT writes us: "New organs have recently been erected in the Parish Churches of Wincanton and Castle Cary, two small towns in Somersetshire. In both cases the blowing apparatus has been so arranged that the blower can be seen doing his duties from most parts of the church. The latter is certainly the worst case of the two, as the blower is by the side of the organ, close to the organist, and during the prayers, whilst the 'Amens' are being sung, he jumps up, fills the bellows with wind, and then sits down again. This can be seen by most of the congregation. Surely, now that organs are brought to such a state of perfection, the blowing apparatus could be arranged so as the blower should be out of sight."

THE Crystal Palace Times was represented at a recent performance of "St. Paul" (Catford Choral Society) by a gentleman who has discovered that many passages in Mendelssohn's earlier Oratorio are "identical with his 'Elijah,'" and found out also that "the Overture has a striking similarity to the well-known chorale 'Sleepers, wake.'" The first achievement is remarkable; the second involves, perhaps, a superfluous statement. But the critic's intention was good. He might say, with the Prologue in the mirthful tragedy of "Pyramus and Thisbe": "My true intent is all for your delight," and he has certainly succeeded in being amusing.

"JOB" is the name and subject of the work which Dr. Hubert Parry has in hand for the Gloucester Festival. Dr. Chipp composed a "Job" some twenty-five years ago, and a story is told of a newspaper proprietor thereanent. The musical critic of this gentleman's weekly sheet devoted an article to the then new work, heading it "Dr. Chipp's 'Job.'" This caught the eye of the great man on opening his early copy. Starting up, he exclaimed: "What's this? What's this? Dr. Chipp's job! I can't have any person accused of jobbery in my paper!" He had failed to see the quotation marks.

HERE are some suggestive remarks by an American writer, Theodore F. Seward: "It is because Handel appreciated the soul of music that in writing a melody to the words 'I know that my Redeemer liveth!' he expressed the strength of confidence and trust by placing the word 'know' on the fundamental tone of the scale, Doh, which has pre-eminently the quality of firmness and strength. It is because Mendelssohn appreciated the soul of music that in writing the words 'O rest in the Lord' he expressed the spirit of restfulness by placing the word 'rest' upon the quiet and tranquil third, or Mi."

FROM the Boston Musical Herald: "Speaking of music critics, they sometimes say worse things in conversation than they do in print. A certain ecclesiastical prima donna soprano, who labours under the twin delusions that she possesses a rare voice and a pretty wit, recently addressed a somewhat mild-looking critic thus: 'Mr. Pedal Point, you are becoming quite too seraphic; you haven't said anything nasty for a month.' Whereupon the scribe smiled with heavenly benignity and answered and said unto her: 'Why don't you give a Concert?'"

WE have received the first number of a monthly journal called The Organ. It is published in Boston and devoted, as hardly need be said, to the service of the "King of instruments" and all its relations and connections. Its contents are biographical (with portraits), historical, descriptive, critical—covering, in fact, the whole available ground. In addition, there are several pieces of organ music. There is, no doubt, a field for such a serial, and, judging by the specimen number, our new contemporary has come permanently to occupy it.

ORGAN music, thanks mainly to Mr. J. K. Strachan, an eminent pupil of Mons. Guilmant, seems to be taking root in Glasgow. Mr. Strachan, we learn, has just arranged a series of twenty Recitals, to be given next season on the fine Lewis organ in St. Andrew's Halls, on Saturday afternoons. The series is financially supported by seven well-known and influential lovers of organ music, who have each become security for a certain sum. Two vocalists will assist at each Concert.

WE quote the following from an American paper, with all reserve: "At a recent performance of 'Die Walküre,' in Halle-on-the-Saale, the magic fire scene in act third was made realistic by the introduction of genuine fireworks, including sky rockets, roman candles, bengal lights, and the discharge of cannon. In fact, the performance was a repetition, on a small scale, of the Gilmorean features originally introduced at the Boston Peace Jubilee."

IT appears that the season of French and Italian Opera in New York was so far a success that, for the first time since the Metropolitan was built, the stockholders were not required to make good a deficit. Upon this the Boston Musical Record pertinently comments: "The person who would not believe in anything except German Opera has had an unpleasant winter. If he revises his mind during the summer he may possibly enjoy himself next season."

We hear, on what should be good authority, that "Elaine" will be produced at Covent Garden on or about the 20th inst., with the following cast: Sir Lancelot, Jean de Reszke; the Hermit, E. de Reszke; Guinevere, Madame Deschamps; Elaine, Madame Melba. M. Jéhin will conduct, and the Opera will be produced under the personal superintendence of the composer. Messrs. Chappell are the publishers.

Scene: Plymouth. Old Lady (looking at Prize Pianoforte exhibited in shop window): "What's all this about 'Sight-reading competition?' How do 'em do it at all?" Mrs. Wiseacres: "Why, don't 'ee see? They keeps a puttin' the moosic furder and furder away, and the one as can read it the furdest off gets the prize!"

Mr. Edward Lloyd has had brilliant success at Boston. On the occasion of a performance of the "Creation," the ladies of the Symphony Orchestral Society presented him with a laurel wreath suitably inscribed. Was the inscription this: "In native worth and honour clad?" Mr. Lloyd sails for home on the 11th inst.

Canadian musical journals received an addition, on the 2nd ult., by the appearance of Arcadia—a semi-monthly, "devoted exclusively to music, art, and literature." The first number is an excellent one, and, should its merit be sustained by subsequent issues, our young contemporary will deserve to live long and prosper.

It has been decided that Dunblane Cathedral is to have an organ when the restoration is completed. Mr. E. Ingram is to build the instrument to the specification of Dr. A. L. Peace. The cost will be about £1,500, and the organ is intended to be ready by September.

Mr. George Grossmith intends to try the effect of his peculiar humour upon the Americans, and sails for New York on October 9. Our cousins being an intensely serious people, we shall watch the experiment with curiosity.

After all there is a probability of hearing Mons. Pachmann at two or three Recitals this season, he having decided to return to London this month.

Messrs. Albeniz and Arbos are co-operating on a comic opera, the "Magic Opal," which they hope to produce in October next. The libretto is by Mr. Arthur Law, and, presumably, the story is Spanish.

Congratulations to Madame Nordica upon her escape from what might easily have been a serious carriage accident.

Forcible! An American musical journal calls comic opera "sickening rot."

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.

Sir Augustus Harris's campaign opened brilliantly on the evening of the 16th ult. with a most attractive double bill, "Philémon et Baucis" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," and a cast which, in addition to such accomplished and popular artists as Madame Sigrid Arnoldson (who made her rentrée after a few years' absence), Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli, and M. Plançon, included a new-comer, Madame Calvé, concerning whose talents the highest expectations had been formed. In this case rumour was happily borne out by results. Mascagni's interesting and forcible music was interpreted by the orchestra with a great deal of vigour—though little finesse—under Signor Mancinelli's direction. The piece was mounted in sumptuous, we had almost said over-sumptuous style. But the splendour of the accessories, which would have thrown mediocrity into glaring relief, were quite eclipsed by the wonderful impersonation of Santuzza by Madame Calvé, in whom the habitués of Covent Garden were not slow to recognise the most notable acquisition to the ranks of dramatic sopranos since the début of Emma Albani in 1872. The Santuzza of Mdlle. Musiani, who first introduced the part in England last autumn, was an excellent piece of acting, but did not rise above mediocrity vocally. Madame Calvé, though more notable for her dramatic than her vocal endowment, has an organ of considerable power and charm, which she uses with consummate art and enviable ease, while her enunciation is faultless. Her success was complete, as it deserved to be, for anything more picturesque, more impassioned, or more pathetic has not been witnessed on the boards for many a long year. Madame Calvé was excellently supported by Signor de Lucia in the rôle of Turiddu. He is an accomplished and spirited actor, and when he forgets his tremolo an excellent singer. Of Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli's Lola we cannot speak in terms of commendation. Her exceedingly faulty intonation was to be accounted for by indisposition, but her conception of the part is wanting in judgment and refinement. M. Dufriche acted well as Alfio, but his vibrato seems incurable. Mdlle. Bauermeister was the Lucia. The performance of "Philémon et Baucis," which preceded "Cavalleria Rusticana," lacked the perfect ensemble attained by the artists from the Opéra Comique who introduced it last autumn. Madame Arnoldson sings with grace and agility, but her voice is smaller than ever. M. Plançon sang superbly as Jupiter, and his fine presence was most imposing; but the gallantry and humour of M. Bouvet's delightful impersonation were greatly missed. MM. Castelmary and Montariol were creditable representatives of Vulcain and Philémon respectively. The Opera was conducted with much ability by M. Jéhin, the Entr'acte being encored.

Madame Eames and M. Van Dyck made their rentrée on Friday, the 20th ult. Madame Eames, who was in excellent voice, sang charmingly throughout, but her stereotyped gestures and studied simplicity were more noticeable than ever in contrast to the spontaneity and sincerity of the new Santuzza. M. Van Dyck, as before, was interesting rather than convincing as Faust. His declamation was brilliant and fiery; wherever force was required he was admirable; but as the languorous lover he seemed out of his element. M. Plançon's Mephistopheles was a magnificent performance and only at two points—the invocation at the end of the Garden scene and the Serenade—suffered from comparison with M. Edouard de Reszke. Mdlle. Passama as Siebel, M. Ceste as Valentine, and Mdlle. Bauermeister as Marthe were all efficient.

"L'Amico Fritz" was announced for Saturday, the 21st ult., but owing to the sudden indisposition of Madame Calvé, who but recently has recovered from a long and serious illness, was postponed to the following Monday and "Orfeo" substituted, with Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli in the title rôle. Her conception of the part remains as poetic and beautiful as ever, and her singing of the elaborate Aria at the close of Act I., her pathetic appeals to the Furies, her wonderfully expressive pantomime in the Elysian Fields, and her delivery of "Che farò" created their usual profound impression. She was adequately supported, from a dramatic point of view, by her sister, Mdlle. Sofia Ravogli, in the part of Euridice, and Mdlle. Bauermeister made a sprightly Amore. Signor Bevignani conducted with ability and the mounting of the piece, though still erring on the side of garishness, was improved by the toning down of some of the details introduced in last year's production. A novel feature in the entertainment was the début of Miss Mabel Love as première danseuse; but her performance, though less exasperating than the antics of Mdlle. Palladino, was hardly less unclassical in its conception.

The première of "L'Amico Fritz" took place on Monday, the 23rd ult., and, so far as the performance and the temper of the audience were concerned, must be pronounced a complete success. More than that, the music in itself marks in some respects a decided advance on the level of "Cavalleria Rusticana." The remark which the late Signor Lamperti is said to have applied to the score of Mascagni's first opera, "Chè bruta musica," is a good criticism of the obstreperously sentimental character of much of "Cavalleria Rusticana"; but the second act of "L'Amico Fritz" is characterised by a delicacy and refinement which renders such a criticism wholly inapplicable. The most obvious defect in the new opera is the disproportion between the music and the story. Signor Mascagni has clothed the ingenuous idyll of MM. Erckmann-Chatrian in a giant's robe of sound. The piece is described as a Lyric Comedy, but there is little in the music to justify the title. With the exception of the opening scenes of Act II., its essential character is melodramatic, and its fantastic and often affected dissonances, its barbaric cadences and harsh modulations, are entirely out of keeping with the genial simplicity of the libretto.

The interpretation of the opera left little to be desired. Madame Calvé, though her voice showed slight traces of her recent indisposition, sang like a consummate artist and acted with delightful simplicity. Both the duets between her and Fritz in Act II. were encored. In the latter Madame Calvé performed a remarkable tour de force by ascending in the final cadence to C sharp in alt, and sustaining it pianissimo with beautiful effect. Altogether her impersonation of the part, though necessarily less striking than that of Santuzza, was of the rarest excellence and fully merited the triple recall with which she was greeted both at the end of the second and third Acts. Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli sang the two songs which fall to the lot of Beppe with great spirit and bore herself picturesquely in the attire of the gipsy minstrel. Signor de Lucia hardly realized one's conception of Fritz as regards the outer man, but sang cleverly and acted with animation. M. Dufriche was dramatically adequate to the demands of the rôle of the Rabbi David, and the minor parts of Caterina and Fritz's two boon companions were efficiently filled by Mdlle. Bauermeister and Signori De Vaschetti and Corsi. Signor Bevignani's excellent exertions as conductor were recognised by his being summoned before the curtain along with Sir Augustus Harris at the close of the performance. We may conclude these remarks by mentioning that the Intermezzo, written in the gipsy fashion, which precedes the last Act shows Signor Mascagni in his coarsest and most sentimental vein, and was rapturously encored.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

The season of the Society so ably presided over by Mr. Barnby was brought to a termination on the 4th ult., at the Royal Albert Hall, with a performance of "Elijah," in which the various contributory elements were of singularly even excellence. No work in the répertoire is a greater favourite with the members or (saving, perhaps, "The Messiah") with the general public, so that the one body is as anxious to give as the other is to recognise an interpretation that affords no excuse for cavil. Madame Albani made her first appearance on returning from her American tour, and, notwithstanding the intimation that she was suffering from severe cold, sang with wonted energy and dramatic intention. Madame Belle Cole, as chief contralto soloist, fulfilled expectations, and Mr. Ben Davies again displayed his capacity as an exponent of oratorio. Mr. Watkin Mills repeated his striking impersonation of the Prophet, and Miss Jeanie Rankin distinguished herself by a smooth delivery of "Woe unto them." The many delicate details of their task, no less than the passages demanding robust treatment, were dealt with by the choir in a manner that could not but command admiration. They not only entered into the spirit of the impressive and beautiful choruses, but succeeded in making the same clear to every listener. Finer renderings of the "Baal" scene and of "Thanks be to God" are not within our remembrance. The band also did well. The performance was a worthy climax to operations that since last autumn have redounded to the credit of all concerned.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The burden of the fifth Concert, on the 11th ult., was chiefly borne by ladies—lionesses, in fact, had the lion's share not only of work but of honour. A new Fantasia for pianoforte and orchestra, composed and played by Miss Dora Bright, served if not to increase at least to sustain the reputation of that clever lady as one of the most promising among women composers; Miss Wietrowetz repeated her extremely fine performance of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, the work by which her fame in this country was first established little more than a month ago; and the Sisters Ravogli sang, in their artistic and sympathetic way, excerpts from the works of Rossini, Mozart, and Gluck. It may be mentioned that the Concert included Beethoven's Overture to "Fidelio," that the Symphony was Brahms in F, and that two members of the sterner sex, Mr. Clinton and Mr. F. H. Cowen, were permitted to figure somewhat prominently—the one as performer of the clarinet obbligato in Mozart's "Non piu di fiori," sung by Miss Giulia Ravogli, the other as Conductor. The audience was large and its enthusiasm quite exceptional, even when compared with other gala nights on which the traditional dignity of the Old Philharmonic has been thrown to the winds.

CARDIFF MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

This year, for the first time in her history, Wales will have experience of a Musical Festival on the lines adopted at Leeds and Birmingham. As is only natural, the wealthy town of Cardiff is responsible for this enterprising step, and in September next the first of what its founders trust will be a long and successful series will be held in the Park Hall. It is barely seven months since the Executive Council was appointed, and it is evidence at least of zeal and hard work that the Festival will take place within twelve months from the inception of the design. The difficulties in the way have been of a character peculiar to a town in which sacred music has never proved altogether a popular form of art. Choral societies there have been, but all have "had their day and ceased to be," and the number of oratorios performed for the past ten years has been lamentably small. The undertaking is all the more courageous because there is no such educated public to fall back upon as exist in towns where classical music has obtained a firm hold on the popular mind. Cardiff is, however, both ambitious and wealthy, and the guarantee fund—which has already reached £2,500—shows evidence of public spirit and a widely spread enthusiasm, which, it is to be trusted, will be maintained with particular vigour during the critical Festival week. The Council has done its utmost to attain as high a standard as was possible with the material to hand and the shortness of the time at its disposal, and a glance at the programme will show that if there be a lack of novelty, there is also evidence of a very judicious spirit of selection. The only absolutely new work is the "Saul of Tarsus," an Oratorio by a Cardiff composer, Dr. Joseph Parry, known in musical circles mainly for his "Nebuchadnezzar"; but although most of the other works are familiar enough to old Festival-goers, they are at least new to the audience which the Council will get from the neighbourhood of Cardiff. Mr. Joseph Barnby has been appointed Conductor, and has already made a visit to the town to meet his coadjutors in the work he has undertaken. Some little clouds which appeared in the otherwise serene sky are by this time quite dissipated. The Council has been severely taken to task by critics, both locally and in the metropolis, on account of the condition they imposed upon Mr. Ben Davies, that he should not sing in a comic opera which was announced to be produced at Cardiff only a month before the Festival week. Ignoble motives have been recklessly assigned for this action of theirs, one of the most freely expressed being that the Council was anxious to "boycott Welsh opera." It is enough to point out, however, that the Council was actuated only by prudential motives, being anxious that, in their hazardous and important undertaking, they should not be handicapped by the appearance of one of their chief vocalists in the same town, for six nights in one week, at popular prices, at so short an interval before their own

Concerts. Mr. Ben Davies had his choice between the Opera and the Festival, and he chose the latter. One action of the Council has met with the approval of Mr. Barnby, and this should be a sufficient guarantee of the good intent of those responsible for it. The vocalists are Madame Nordica, Miss Hilda Wilson, Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Watkin Mills, and Mr. Ludwig. It is a noticeable feature of the Cardiff Festival—one new hitherto in such undertakings—that all second parts are taken by principals. Thus the double Quartet in the "Elijah" will be sung by the eight artists mentioned, Mr. Mills will sing Brander's song in Berlioz's "Faust," and Mr. Ludwig has consented to take the Forester's part in the "Golden Legend." This is a novelty of which the Council feel naturally a little proud. The orchestra has been selected from well-known English instrumentalists, and will be led by Mr. Alfred Burnett, the Council having determined, on patriotic grounds, to engage none but Englishmen. Sir Arthur Sullivan has promised, should circumstances permit, to conduct his "Legend" in person. The following is the programme:—

Tuesday evening, September 20—"God save the Queen" and "Elijah." Wednesday morning (21st)—Overture, "In Memoriam" (Sullivan), "Stabat Mater" (Dvorák), Symphony No. 5 (Beethoven), and "The Revenge" (Stanford). Wednesday evening—"The Golden Legend" (Sullivan), Symphony No. 1 (Schumann), and Overture "Mock Doctor" (Gounod). Thursday morning (22nd)—Overture "Zauberflöte" (Mozart), "Dream of Jubal" (Mackenzie), Overture "Die Meistersinger" (Wagner), Chorus "Blest Pair of Sirens" (Hubert Parry), and "Hymn of Praise" (Mendelssohn). Thursday evening—"Saul of Tarsus" (Joseph Parry). Friday morning (23rd)—"Faust" (Berlioz). Friday evening—"The Messiah." Conductor, Mr. Joseph Barnby.

The chorus, it should be added, is practically a local one, although a few come from Newport and one or two places quite adjacent to Cardiff. It is being trained by three local gentlemen, Dr. Joseph Parry, Mr. T. E. Aylward, and Mr. Walter Scott.

CHAMBER CONCERTS.

IT is not many years since classical concerts were chiefly confined to the winter, but during the present year they bid fair to be numerous until the autumnal recess. In the present notice entertainments which may fairly come under this heading will be mentioned, although their promoters may have described them otherwise. Thus, on Thursday, April 28, Madame Frickenhaus, in St. James's Hall, gave a so-called Matinée, a title which may cover a multitude of sins or merits. She was rewarded by a large audience, who listened with evident appreciation to an excellent programme. Madame Frickenhaus commenced with Beethoven's Sonata in E flat, "Les adieux," &c., of which she gave a generally intelligent reading, though an unfortunate slip of memory in the Finale showed the danger of playing without the printed notes. Madame Frickenhaus was joined by Mrs. Norman Salmond in Saint-Saëns's effective Variations on a Theme from Beethoven's Sonata in E flat (Op. 31, No. 3), and a movement of Scharwenka, both for two pianofortes; and Mr. Norman Salmond, whose wife appears to be an excellent pianist, contributed several songs. Signor Simonetti's violin solos, all carefully and artistically rendered, included some tastefully written trifles from his own pen.

Not for many years has a new chamber work aroused so much interest as Brahms's Clarinet Quintet, and its performance at Mr. Clinton's third Concert, on the 3rd ult., was followed by a crowded and enthusiastic audience. Without making comparisons, which are odious, it may be said that the principal part was beautifully played by our admirable English clarinetist, and that the others received a large amount of justice. The opening piece in the programme was a pleasing and musicianly Allegro and Andante Varié for wind instruments, by Mr. Charles E. Stephens; and the last was a Sextet in B flat for pianoforte and wind, by Ludwig Thuillé, a melodious, if not very original work. Mr. Oscar Beringer gave an extremely vigorous and well-considered performance of Chopin's Ballade in G minor, Mr. Ludwig contributed some violin solos in masterly style, and Madame Clara Samuell was heard to much advantage in Dr. Mackenzie's charming song "In our Boat," with an excellent violoncello obbligato by Mr. W. H. Squire, who appeared at very short notice in place of Mr. E. Howell.

Those talented and steadily progressive young artists, Mr. Harold Bauer and Miss Edith Bauer, gave an interesting Concert at the Princes' Hall on the 10th ult., a prominent piece in their programme being a Sonata in A minor for pianoforte and violin, dating, apparently, from the seventeenth century, though there is no clue to the composer. The manuscript is in the library of the King of Saxony, and the work proved itself well worthy of rescue from the oblivion into which it had fallen for very many years. Miss Bauer was heard to advantage in Beethoven's Thirty-two Variations in C minor for pianoforte and Mr. Bauer in a showy piece by Vieuxtemps. Miss Winifred Bauer's co-operation was serviceable in Schumann's "Stücke" (Op. 132), and Miss Alice Walker contributed some songs.

Mr. E. H. Thorne, a highly esteemed musician, gave his annual Concert on the 14th ult. and secured a considerable audience, though probably not so large as would have been drawn together at a less busy season of the year. Mr. Thorne was ably assisted in concerted works by his pupils, Miss Beatrice Thorne, whose dawning ability as a pianist we have already recognised, Mr. Arthur Cowen, and Mr. C. Ewart Gravely. The pieces in which these young executants took part were a Pianoforte Duet in E minor, by Onslow (Op. 7), a French composer, whose merits, in consequence of a certain dryness of expression, have never obtained full recognition in this country; Raff's clever Chaconne for two pianofortes (Op. 150); and a Suite for the same combination by Mr. Algernon Ashton, an excellent musician, who should endeavour to cultivate greater simplicity of utterance, as his music is, for the most part, not easy to follow. Mr. Thorne's pianoforte solos, which were rendered with care and artistic conscientiousness, included Beethoven's Sonata in E flat, "Les adieux, l'absence, et le retour" (Op. 81), four characteristic pieces from his own pen, and pieces by Chopin.

The friends of Master Max Hambourg have wisely decided that he shall be a prodigy no longer, and after some farewell Concerts he will retire for a time in order to study under Mr. Paderewski. The first of the Concerts took place at the Steinway Hall on the 17th ult., and the young pianist gave ample evidence that he is progressing on the right road, perhaps his best effort being in Bach's Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue, which he played extremely well. Mr. Max Reichel was heard to much advantage in some violin solos, and songs were contributed by Madame de Swiatlowsky and Miss Nepomny, the latter a soprano vocalist of considerable powers.

The first of three Violin Recitals, given by Mr. Emil Sauret at St. James's Hall on the 19th ult., was virtually a Chamber Concert, as it commenced with Beethoven's Quartet in F (Op. 59, No. 1), of which a remarkably fine performance was given, the remaining players being Messrs. Cathie, Emil Kreuz, and W. E. Whitehouse. Mr. Sauret is a brilliant exemplar of the splendid French school of violin playing, and his execution of Ernst's Allegro Pathétique in F sharp minor (Op. 23), Dvorák's Adagio and Rondo (Op. 53), and a "Souvenir de Moscow," from his own pen, called forth the enthusiastic applause of the audience. Mr. Heinrich Lutter gave a beautiful rendering of Liszt's "Bénédiction de Dieu dans la Solitude," the piece being exactly suited to his remarkably refined style. Mr. Hugo Heinz, a baritone vocalist, was unable to appear, and Miss Evangeline Florence sang two extra songs in addition to Liszt's "Lorelei." If she will subject her fine soprano voice to further training she should eventually secure a high position as a vocalist.

Mr. Ernest Fowles should give his Concerts at a period of the year when attention is not so much distracted by the multiplicity of performances as at present. His programme on Tuesday, the 24th ult., was, as usual, interesting because unconventional, among the pieces being a Suite in canonical form for pianoforte and violin, by Ferdinand Hiller; a masterly Duet in E minor for two pianofortes, by Dr. Hubert Parry; and a Pianoforte Trio in B flat, by Woldemar Bargiel (Op. 37) Details concerning these works cannot now be given, but it is pleasant to record that the most interesting is certainly that of our compatriot, which is written somewhat in the manner of early eighteenth century suites. Mr. Fowles gave an energetic, if not very finished performance of Beethoven's "Waldstein" Sonata, Mr. Whitehouse rendered Boccherini's Violoncello Sonata in A with refinement, and Miss Emily Shinner, Miss Ethel Sharpe, and Mrs. Helen Trust completed the list of performers.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

Prolific as the last two or three years have been in entertainments of this nature, the number of Recitals already given and announced this season is probably unprecedented. The first of which we must take cognizance this month is the performance of Mr. Heinrich Lutter, at St. James's Hall, on Tuesday, April 26. This gentleman appeared with much success at private performances last year, and it was reported that he was a performer of phenomenal calibre, and one of the most gifted of the pupils of the late Franz Liszt. But although many of Liszt's pupils adopt the Ercles vein, it must be remembered that the master himself was chiefly distinguished for the exquisite beauty of his touch, and Mr. Lutter has endeavoured to reproduce it, not without success. His rendering of Beethoven's Andante in F and the Sonata in E minor (Op. 90), as also that of two numbers of the Kreisleriana, lacked distinction, and, indeed, must be pronounced cold and perfunctory; but the beauty of his tone was fully perceptible in reflective pieces by Liszt and Chopin. The audience, however, remained rather cold throughout the Recital.

At the second performance, on the 10th ult., but little further opportunity was afforded of judging Mr. Lutter as a solo pianist, for he confined his efforts in this direction to minor pieces, most of which, it is only fair to add, were played with refinement and charm. But he was most praiseworthy in some concerted works—to wit, Beethoven's rarely-heard Sonata in G for pianoforte and violin (Op. 96) and Schubert's Trio in B flat (Op. 99), the artists who assisted him being M. Sauret and Mr. Whitehouse.

On the following Tuesday another new-comer, Mr. Willibald Richter, gave a Recital at the Princes' Hall, and proved himself the possessor of much ability, marred, however, by exaggerations of style and a tendency at times to pound the instrument as if it were an enemy. There was a great deal of over-accentuation in his rendering of Tausig's derangement of Bach's Organ Toccata and Fugue in D minor, the first movement of Beethoven's Sonata Appassionata, and several numbers of Schumann's Carnaval. In all of these, however, and also in pieces by Liszt and Chopin, Mr. Richter evinced great powers of execution, and the quieter movements were played with much charm. On the whole, therefore, he may be said to have made a favourable impression.

On the following afternoon Miss Fanny Davies gave a Recital in St. James's Hall, and had the valuable co-operation of the young lady violinist, Miss Gabriele Wietrowetz, who had made so marked an effect at Mr. Manns's benefit Concert. To deal with her efforts first, we may say that her rendering of Spohr's Dramatic Concerto was marked by immense breadth in bowing and fulness of tone, particularly in the lower register, though perhaps the first and last movements needed a little more brilliancy of style. Miss Wietrowetz's share in Brahms's beautiful Sonata in G, for pianoforte and violin (Op. 78) was unexceptionable; a more admirable performance of the work by both artists could not be desired. Miss Davies commenced with a piece vaguely described as "Prelude and Fugue in A minor" (Bach), which proved to be the well-known Organ Prelude and Fugue in that key. Surely if these wretched transcriptions must be played they should be properly announced. Having said thus much we have nothing but praise for our gifted English artist's quiet and reflective reading of Beethoven's Sonata in A flat (Op. 110) and her truly delightful interpretation of Schumann's Papillons.

On Monday afternoon, the 9th ult., Master Otto Hegner, who had been absent from London for two or three years, made his re-appearance at St. James's Hall, and attracted a goodly audience. The young artist—for Hegner is something more than a prodigy—has made good use of his time, showing improvement alike in manipulative powers and in intellectual comprehension of the works he was called upon to interpret. Of Mendelssohn's Variations Sérieuses, the composer's most important and most exacting work in this form, he gave a reading which was in all respects admirable; and there was much to deserve commendation in his performance of Beethoven's Sonata Appassionata, the slow movement being played with exquisite taste. The audience insisted upon a final encore, to which Hegner responded by giving a tasteful rendering of Chopin's Berceuse.

At the second Recital, on the 18th ult., the youthful executant gave a highly intelligent reading of five numbers from Schumann's Fantasiestücke (Op. 12), and there were many good points in his interpretation of Weber's beautiful Sonata in A flat, a work which, like its companions, is too seldom heard. Master Hegner's versatility was exemplified by his satisfactory performances of Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in E minor (Op. 35, No. 1) and a Nocturne and Scherzo of Chopin. Mention should also be made of some pretty Variations in G from his own pen, which certainly indicate his possession of talent for composition. The large audience was evidently delighted with the Recital and two encores were exacted, the additional numbers being Chopin's Waltz in A flat (Op. 42) and Liszt's transcription of the Spinning-wheel Chorus from Wagner's Opera "The Flying Dutchman." Of the third Recital, announced for the 30th ult., we must speak in our next issue.

The puff preliminary was not employed with reference to Mr. Slivinski, who gave his first Recital on the 17th ult., in St. James's Hall, and we have no certain knowledge of his antecedents; but he is a performer of no mean calibre, his execution being specially noteworthy for fulness of tone without noisiness and clear crisp fingering. These good points were noticeable in Chopin's Polonaise in F sharp minor, Schumann's Papillons, and a group of salon pieces with which the Recital ended; but, on the other hand, there was a lack of tenderness and poetic feeling in his rendering of Beethoven's so-called Sonata Pastorale in D and Chopin's Nocturne in C minor. The audience was small but appreciative.

Mr. Slivinski's second performance, on the 24th ult., merely served to confirm the initial impression that the manipulative powers of this pianist are at present more remarkable than his artistic feelings. He played Beethoven's Variations in C minor with vigour, and his rendering of Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques was extremely forcible and almost invariably correct, but his touch and general style were most to be admired in Liszt's "Murmures dans la Forêt" and the Tarantella "Venezia e Napoli."

The next new-comer was Mr. Gaston de Merindol, who gave a Recital at the Princes' Hall, on the 20th ult. There was nothing distinctive in the playing of this gentleman, so there is no occasion to linger over his performance. He has excellent technique, which enabled him to render Beethoven's Sonata in E flat (Op. 27, No. 2) and a number of pieces by Chopin, Schumann, Raff, and other composers with correctness, the Berceuse of the Polish composer being perhaps his best effort. More than this need not be said.

Miss Estelle Forbes Thomson, who gave a Recital in the Princes' Hall on the 23rd ult., is an extremely quiet, refined performer, with a delicate touch, which would, perhaps, tell to more advantage in the drawing-room than the concert hall. Her principal efforts were Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in E minor (Op. 35, No. 1), Beethoven's Sonata in E flat, "Les adieux," &c., and Chopin's Ballade in A flat. All of these have been heard so frequently of late that Miss Thomson would have been wise to have avoided inevitable comparisons.

SIR CHARLES HALLE'S SCHUBERT RECITALS.

To the very large amount of service rendered by Sir Charles Hallé to the cause of musical education in this country, must now be added the current series of Recitals of Schubert's pianoforte compositions, commenced on the 6th ult., in St. James's Hall. For reasons hard to divine, pianists have generally agreed to ignore the Sonatas of this divinely-gifted master, the work in A minor (Op. 42) and the so-called Fantasia Sonata in G (Op. 78) being alone thought worthy of performance, and that but rarely. There is fashion in this as in aught else, and some day executants will wake up to the fact that Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, and Liszt are not the only composers of first-class pianoforte music. In the volume of sonatas recently published in Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel's complete edition of Schubert's works are four which had hitherto remained in manuscript. These are early works, two dating from 1815 and two from 1817, and they are not included in Sir Charles Hallé's programmes. He commenced with the Sonatas in B (Op. 147) and in A minor (Op. 164), both written in 1817. These are extraordinarily rich in fresh, cheerful melody, and if the development of the subject-matter is rather disjointed, and the balance of the various sections of some of the movements not always symmetrical, such defects—from which Schubert never wholly cured himself—may easily be forgiven when the whole is spontaneous and interesting. The programme likewise included the genial Adagio and Rondo in E, also composed in 1817, and the six charming Moments Musicaux, the date of which is uncertain. The third of these was encored, and the entire performance met with warm applause from the audience, which made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers.

At the second Recital, on the following Friday, the Sonatas were those in E flat (Op. 122) and A minor (Op. 143), the former being one of the numerous works penned in 1817, while the latter was probably not composed until 1823, though in the programme the year 1818 was placed against it—with what authority we know not. The Sonata in E flat is perhaps the most mature though certainly not the most inspired of the earlier works, but in the A minor Sonata the riper Schubertian manner is unmistakable in the first and second movements. While the Sonatas were probably new to the majority of those present, few of the listeners could have been strange to the four Impromptus (Op. 90), which within the last few years have been in very wide demand as teaching pieces. The Recitals are calculated to afford a valuable series of lessons in purely classical playing to young students, who ought to crowd St. James's Hall at every performance. Miss Fillunger's refined and intelligent rendering of selections from the multitudinous Lieder gives welcome variety, six of these exquisite lyrics having been included in the first and seven in the second programme.

THE OUDIN VOCAL RECITALS.

MR. AND MRS. OUDIN, at Princes' Hall, on the 10th ult., commenced a series of vocal Recitals after the pattern made popular by Mr. and Mrs. Henschel. Mr. Oudin primarily achieved a reputation in this country by his embodiment of the fierce Templar in Sir Arthur Sullivan's Ivanhoe, but soon gave evidence that his talents were not restricted to purely dramatic music. His companion, not yet so well known here, possesses a powerful soprano voice fairly under control. The attraction of the opening Recital, however, chiefly consisted in the vocal performances of the male artiste, who also acted as accompanist. The selection covered considerable ground, extending from Legrenzi (1625) to Gounod, Massenet, Messager, Chaminade, Saint-Saëns, and other modern composers. Handel was represented by the air from "Julius Cæsar," "Piangero la sorte mia," sung by Mrs. Oudin, who further acquitted herself satisfactorily in "Il est doux" from the "Hérodiade" of Massenet. Among Mr. Oudin's contributions were Grieg's "Ein Schwan" and "Ausfahrt" and Gounod's "Le Vallon," and throughout he justified a high position rapidly gained. The duet singing was instinct with taste and unanimity of expression. So many vocal treasures have long remained neglected that efforts at reproduction by such artistic methods as those employed by Mr. and Mrs. Oudin merit approval.

MR. BONAWITZ'S HISTORICAL RECITAL.

THIS Recital, which took place at Princes' Hall on the 21st ult., illustrated the progress of music for keyboard instruments from 1452 to about the middle of this century. Pieces for organ, by Conrad Paumann (1410-73), Schlick, Palestrina, and another; for harpsichord, by Byrde, Bull, Frescobaldi, Frohberger, Kuhnau, Couperin, Scarlatti, Rameau, J. S. Bach, and Handel; and for pianoforte, by C. P. E. Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Hummel, Field, Weber, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Schumann, Thalberg, and Liszt were played by Mr. Bonawitz on an organ lent by Messrs. Karn, and a harpsichord and pianoforte lent by Messrs. Broadwood and Sons. A short epitome of the history of keyboard instruments was delivered by Mr. Edgar F. Jacques, who also commented upon many of the works performed. Much interest was manifested by a critical audience in the efforts of both gentlemen.

REV. E. H. MOBERLY'S ORCHESTRA.

THE Princes' Hall presented a novel and pleasing spectacle on the evening of the 19th ult., the platform being occupied by a string orchestra of seventy players, all except four double basses being young ladies. The fortunate Conductor of this fair body of instrumentalists is the Rev. E. H. Moberly, of Salisbury, and we believe they chiefly hail from that city and Winchester. Much interest was felt by the London public in the first appearance of this charming force, the hall being filled with a well dressed audience, probably the majority of whom were surprised as well as pleased at the excellence of the performances. The young ladies have evidently been trained with extreme care and intelligence, their playing being noteworthy for precision, strict attention to the nuances, and general refinement. Their most important effort was the four-movement Suite in canon form of Julius Grimm, an exceedingly clever and effective work by a composer who is little known in this country. It should be said that the canon is chiefly, if not entirely "two in one," with independent accompaniment, which makes this form of composition comparatively easy. The subsequent pieces were transcriptions of Liszt's "Angelus," written for string quartet; Schumann's "Träumerei," and one of Bach's Clavier Fugues; and three movements from Tschaikowsky's Suite for strings in C (Op. 48). Songs were contributed with much success by Mrs. Hutchinson and Mr. Plunket Greene; and Miss Winifred Holiday, the leader of the orchestra, proved herself an able violinist in solos by Schumann and Brahms.

MUSICAL GUILD.

THE young artists forming this Guild have drawn up some highly interesting programmes for their seventh series of Concerts. This began, on the 10th ult., with the first performance of a new Trio in C, for pianoforte, violin, and viola (Op. 21), by Emil Kreuz. The combination of instruments deserves notice, and if it cannot, of course, be called an improvement on the more usual one, the great scarcity of original music for it should make this new Trio welcome, even if its artistic merits were fewer than they are. Mr. Kreuz is one of the most earnest, as he is undoubtedly one of the most gifted of our young musicians, and his Trio bears on every page evidence of high aim and good honest work, while the actual achievements must be pronounced distinctly good. The themes are bold, clear, and well contrasted; their treatment is musicianly, concise, and effective, and there is a manly vigour and an absence of sentimentality about the music which are quite refreshing. Of the four movements we must single out the Scherzo presto, which is one of the best specimens of the form invented by Beethoven that we have met with for some considerable time. The work was excellently played by Miss Ethel Sharpe, Mr. Arthur Bent, and the composer. Miss Annie Grimson and Mr. Bent played pianoforte and violin solos respectively, and Mr. Plunket Greene was the wholly admirable vocalist.

At the second Concert, on the 23rd ult., a new String Quartet in G (Op. 44), by Professor Stanford, was performed. It is in many respects a masterly work, but more especially as regards the first Allegro and Largo, which are movements of great power and elevation. They sometimes recall the manner of Brahms, whose sonority of tone Professor Stanford also rivals. We know few finer things in contemporary Quartet music than this Largo with its yearning themes and poignant harmonies, expressive of acute feeling. The performance, by Messrs. Gompertz, Hopkinson, Kreuz, and Squire, was admirable. Mr. Gompertz gave a surprisingly fine and really masterly rendering of Bach's monumental Chaconne, and a somewhat "scrappy" and rough performance of Brahms's lovely B flat Sextet brought the Concert to a close.

THE KENDAL FESTIVAL.

WESTMORELAND had at one time the reputation of being unmusical; whether that reproach was merited does not now much matter, for, thanks to the efforts of Miss Wakefield and her family, a state of things prevails which might well provoke envy in many an English county. Were all our rural populations as well provided with wholesome musical food as are the good folk who reside within a considerable radius of Kendal, the future excellence of England's music would be assured. Some seven years since Miss Wakefield inaugurated a series of musical competitions for Westmoreland singers and choirs. The good work received the important aid and patronage of the late Mr. W. H. Wakefield, of Sedgwick, and in grateful remembrance of him the gatherings at the Festivals are denominated "The Wakefield Musical Competition." What these gatherings accomplish in the matter of education may be surmised when it is remembered that in the past no less than 2,526 individuals have competed for the various prizes which have been awarded for musical study. At the end of April the annual gathering took place, and there were competitions for solo and sight-singing, pianoforte playing, and for various choirs, some of children's voices only, others for ladies only, and again for mixed male and female voices. The keenest interest was evidenced day by day by an attentive audience gathered in the Town Hall, and as each adjudication was announced by the judge, Mr. William H. Cummings, the result was received with loud marks of approval. The choral singing in many cases presented numerous points of excellence and evidence of diligent study; an admirable feature of the Festival was the massing the best choirs together, to the number of 400 voices, for a final Concert, when Schubert's "Song of Miriam" was performed with orchestral accompaniment, under the able direction of Miss Wakefield, who proved herself on this and all other occasions fully accomplished for the arduous and onerous work she had undertaken. The performance was a fine one and had the aid of Miss Robertson as solo soprano. In a second part of the programme Mr. Plunket Greene contributed several songs with his well-known skill, but the great attraction was the choral singing. Mr. Bird was pianist all through the Festival. Mr. Cummings, in accordance with a custom observed in former years, addressed the audience and the performers on the results of the Festival and the hopes it engendered for the future of music; our space forbids extracts from his speech, but it need only be said that, combined with unstinted praise, he hinted at various points capable of improvement, and concluded by saying that it would be difficult to find in any other part of England more excellent singing than had been heard that night. During the evening the prizes were presented to the successful competitors by Lady Bective, Mrs. Bagot, Miss Cropper, Miss Agnes Wakefield, and Mr. Jacob Wakefield.

BRIXTON CHORAL SOCIETY.

SINCE the great performance of "St. Paul" at the Crystal Palace in 1890, this splendid work has been more and more frequently heard, and it seems likely that it will become as thoroughly popular as the "Elijah." The latest performance in London was that given at Brixton Hall on the 9th ult., by the enterprising Brixton Choral Society, which is doing such excellent work in a district rich in musical possibilities. The crowded state of the hall bore witness to the fact that such enterprise is thoroughly appreciated; while, on the other hand, the scale of completeness on which the Oratorio was presented seemed to warrant the supposition that the Society's finances are in a highly flourishing condition. An excellent quartet of soloists—viz., Miss Clara Samuell, Miss Marie Hooton, Messrs. Edward Branscombe and David Hughes, a capital "full" orchestra, and a choir of some 130 voices were at the disposal of the Conductor, Mr. Douglas Redman, who secured a performance which had some good points. The choir sang generally with spirit, intelligence, and accuracy, but more attention should have been paid to such important matters as accent and phrasing, which left much to be desired. The balance of tone should also in future be bettered, for the tenors are at present extremely weak. Several choruses, notably "Happy and blest are they" and "O be gracious," were taken at a racing pace which robbed them of some of the very qualities which distinguish these two lovely specimens of Mendelssohn's genius.

DULWICH COLLEGE.

A WORK presenting some unusual features was performed for the first time in the Great Hall of Dulwich College on the 17th ult. This was "The compleat Angler; an Idyll in two days, after Isaak Walton." The most striking departure from the ordinary cantata form lies in the recitation, which, indeed, occupies a very considerable portion of the work. The composer, Mr. E. D. Rendall, has selected such passages from old Isaak's book as lead up to the many poems interspersed throughout, and has thus made a connected whole, which, though necessarily devoid of anything of the nature of a "plot," is not without some semblance of a "story." The musical portion consists of the settings of the poems, which latter thus form the raison d'être of the "Idyll." The arrangement recalls—as it was, no doubt, suggested by—Dr. Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal," which beautiful work, as regards the prominence given therein for the first time to recitation, might be called "epoch-making." Except in two instances, where Piscator waxes poetical, the recitation in Mr. Rendall's work is unaccompanied; and this is as it should be, for the old gentleman's chatter about fishes and angling, his continual references to "cups of ale" and something good to "eat to supper" are hardly the sort of language that yearns for musical expression. There is, in fact, too much of this, especially if, as on this occasion, the reciter substitutes modern equivalents for the delightfully quaint phrases of the original. Mr. Rendall has endeavoured to impart an old English flavour to his music; but in spite of occasional signs of inexperience, he is more successful when writing with modern freedom. The charming Overture and the really fine opening chorus raise expectations which are only partly realised, for some of the solos, duets, &c., are laboured and unvocal, while one number, in the style of a Bolero, is tawdry. The bright and flowing soprano song "O live with me," the expressive duet (a canon at the fourth above) "When I listen to thy voice," a ballet madrigal, and the majority of the choruses are much better, and often really charming. An orchestral Intermezzo, "Sunrise," is an agreeable piece of scoring, and with the elaborate final chorus the work comes to an imposing and impressive end. Mr. Rendall conducted a capital performance, the chorus singing with great freshness of tone and certainty. The soloists were less satisfactory, except Miss Hoskyns Abrahall, who sang the mezzo-soprano solos excellently. Mr. Brandram was the reciter, and with the exception of the above-mentioned license was most enjoyable.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

AT the Meeting on the 10th ult., Mr. Banister in the chair, Miss Oliveria Prescott read a paper on "Musical Design, a help to Poetic Intention." She claimed a place for key-design in music similar to that occupied by the greater designs in other arts—that artistic breadth and conception was obtained by the due balance and proportion of the great parts, which were filled up and decorated by the lesser. As architecture depended on the proportions of walls, roof, and foundation; painting on the composition of colour and light and shade; literature on the unity of idea and its sub-divisions, so music depended on the balance and relationship of keys, and on an alternation between long courses of one key and passages in one or many other keys. Upon and around this greater design were built the melodies, harmonies, rhythm, with all its varieties, and other effects. When two arts were used in conjunction, their greater designs, each in their own material, should agree and follow the same course. Joined in this way, music strengthens the effect of poetry upon the emotions, while poetry clears the effect of music on the imagination; neither music nor poetry changed their character when united with the other. The lecturer illustrated this by large references to music by Gluck, Mozart, Weber, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Sullivan, in which the literary design was followed out, strengthened, and literally explained by the course of the key-form. Miss Prescott pointed out the infinite variety that is possible under this elastic principle of key-form. She also noticed that rhythmic regularity and the treatment of musical ideas were the principles of musical design in old music (the one the popular, the other scholastic), but that they had fallen into the background in the modern classical design, though they still had a share in the interest of the work.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

DR. A. C. MACKENZIE presided at the Annual Dinner of the College of Organists, on the 9th ult., at the Holborn Restaurant, and in proposing the toast of the evening, "Success to the College," said that the speed and propulsion of musical progress in this country very much depended on the properly directed exertions of organists. They were in closer and more intimate touch with larger sections of the public than almost any other members of their profession, and could exert greater influence for good or evil. The responsibilities of organists were especially great in the provinces, where, away from the great centres, orchestral concerts were still like angels' visits, and where music in the theatres could hardly yet claim to exercise any particular ennobling influence. It was the duty of organists to act as public guides in matters of musical taste, and to influence generally the minds and direct the endeavours of all who had it in their power to do something for the encouragement of their art. To do this successfully the organist must have an extensive knowledge of, and sympathy with, the various schools of music. Such a firmly-established and far-reaching institution as the College of Organists was of inestimable value in promoting the general recognition of their important position in the musical world. There was one matter to which he would be glad to see the College turn its attention—i.e., the want of English organ music of that kind which Dr. Turpin, in a recent article, had happily called "convincing." From somewhere or other a sickly shade was being reflected on our organ music, and he saw no reason why their College should not consider it quite within their province to encourage and bring about a little reformation, if only on the ground of preserving the characteristics of the instrument. Church music in Italy was in a deplorable condition. In a little diary which he kept during the time he lived there he found many such entries as the following: "Cathedral very fine, only stayed five minutes—driven out by the organist;" "Santa Maria . . . magnificent, left soon; could not stand the 'Brindisi,' from 'La Traviata,' on the organ." There never was a time when responsible institutions had a greater need for a clear vision and a perfect understanding of their duties towards the profession and the public, for there never was a time when the professional corpus was so afflicted with painful internal derangements. To some these appeared mere passing qualms, to others as calling for strong and expulsive measures. The craze for being examined was not half so widespread as the desire to examine. At present we had no Examination Adulteration Act, and so no authority could be brought to bear effectively upon the abuse of examinations. The present chaotic state could be reduced to one of order only by the action of well trained and experienced teachers and musicians, who, by reason of the consciousness of their own strength, of the superior quality of their work, could afford to disdain "fine feathers," and elect to do their work with free arms, unencumbered by superabundant ornaments.

Later in the evening, in replying to some remarks made by Professor Bridge, who in proposing his health expressed regret that his new Oratorio would not be forthcoming, Dr. Mackenzie said that he would be sorry to be classed among the "unready," as it was true that on a former occasion he had withdrawn a work from the Birmingham Festival; but he had done so in ample time to allow the Committee to request some other composer to furnish a substitute He immediately turned his attention to another and a shorter work, which was duly produced last October. With regard to his work primarily intended for the Gloucester Festival, he had never given any but a purely conditional promise to the Committee. Unfortunately he was, to his great regret, compelled to withdraw from this conditional promise. Although he had finished the work, he clearly foresaw that it would be impossible for him to undertake either its publication or the labour of scoring within the limits of time at his disposal. Of course he was not in a position to estimate the exact amount of high pressure which others could bear without risking artistic failure or a breakdown in health; but he thought that any composer might be allowed to opine that a work written under somewhat unusual pressure and conditions might probably require some slight revision before that moment arrived when it could not be called back. He thought that many persons would consider that his decision was neither an unreasonable nor an inartistic one. The other speakers were Dr. E. H. Turpin, Dr. Pole, Mr. James Higgs, Mr. Hoyte, Mr. T. L. Southgate, Mr. de Manby Sergison, Captain Smith, and the Rev. Flood Jones.

ENGLAND AS A MUSICAL NATION.

MR. W. H. CUMMINGS having this year accepted the office of Victoria Lecturer at Trinity College London, commenced there on the 10th ult. a course of three Lectures, entitled "England as a Musical Nation." The lecturer showed by reference to Saxon and Latin documents that music of a well defined harmonic and melodic character existed in England long before the advent in this country of Christianity, and that this national music became absorbed by the church modes. Evidence existed that Aldhelm, Abbot of Malmesbury in the seventh century, and Thomas, Archbishop of York in the eleventh century, had each adapted English folk-songs for church use. Giraldus Cambrensis specially mentioned that the Britons in the North of England sang in parts and "with sweetness of the B flat"; the latter statement pointing to the common use of our present diatonic scale before the introduction of the so-called Gregorian modes. The early Christian fathers in all countries made use of secular folk-songs for missionary purposes. At Ossory there was a volume called the "Red Book," which dated from 1318 to 1360, and contained a large number of Latin hymns which were adapted to old English folk-songs. In the Vatican there were eighty volumes of Masses written on early popular songs and tunes. There could be little doubt now but that the Rota "Sumer is icumen in," of which the date had been fixed—viz., 1226—was merely an adaptation by John Forneste, the Reading monk, of a well and widely known ancient English folk-song. This alone pointed to the attainment of a high musical development long before the Norman Conquest. Rubinstein, when giving his historical Pianoforte Recitals, had been obliged to seek for the earliest specimens of clavier music in the compositions of William Byrde, born in 1538, at Lincoln, where he afterwards became organist to the Cathedral. An interesting witness of the advanced state of Scottish music at this period was afforded by an account of the banquet at the baptism, on May 30, 1594, of Henry, son of James I., in which occurred the following: "Then began their music of green holly hautboys in five parts, and after that followed viols with voices in plaine counterpoint; after which ensued the shrill voices of recorders and flutes; and for the fourth a general consort of all the best instruments. When all the banquet was done there was sung with most dulce voices and sweet harmonies in seven parts the 128th Psalm with fourteen voices." In opera Purcell was a century ahead of his contemporaries. In conclusion, the lecturer thought that he had said quite enough to prove that (apart from our position of to-day) our music in the earliest times of the Christian era, our Come, weary Pilgrims, come.

COMMUNION HYMN.

Words by HENRY KNIGHT. Composed by FERRIS TOZER.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Copyright, 1892, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

Wine, . . Know ye this Feast is Mine, O come then, come then all and of the pre - cious Wine, Know ye this Feast is Mine, O come then all and Drink of the pre-cious Wine, Know ye this Feast, this Feast is Mine, O of the pre - cious Wine, Know ye this Feast is Mine, O come then all and of the pre - cious Wine, Know ye this Feast is Mine, O come then all and

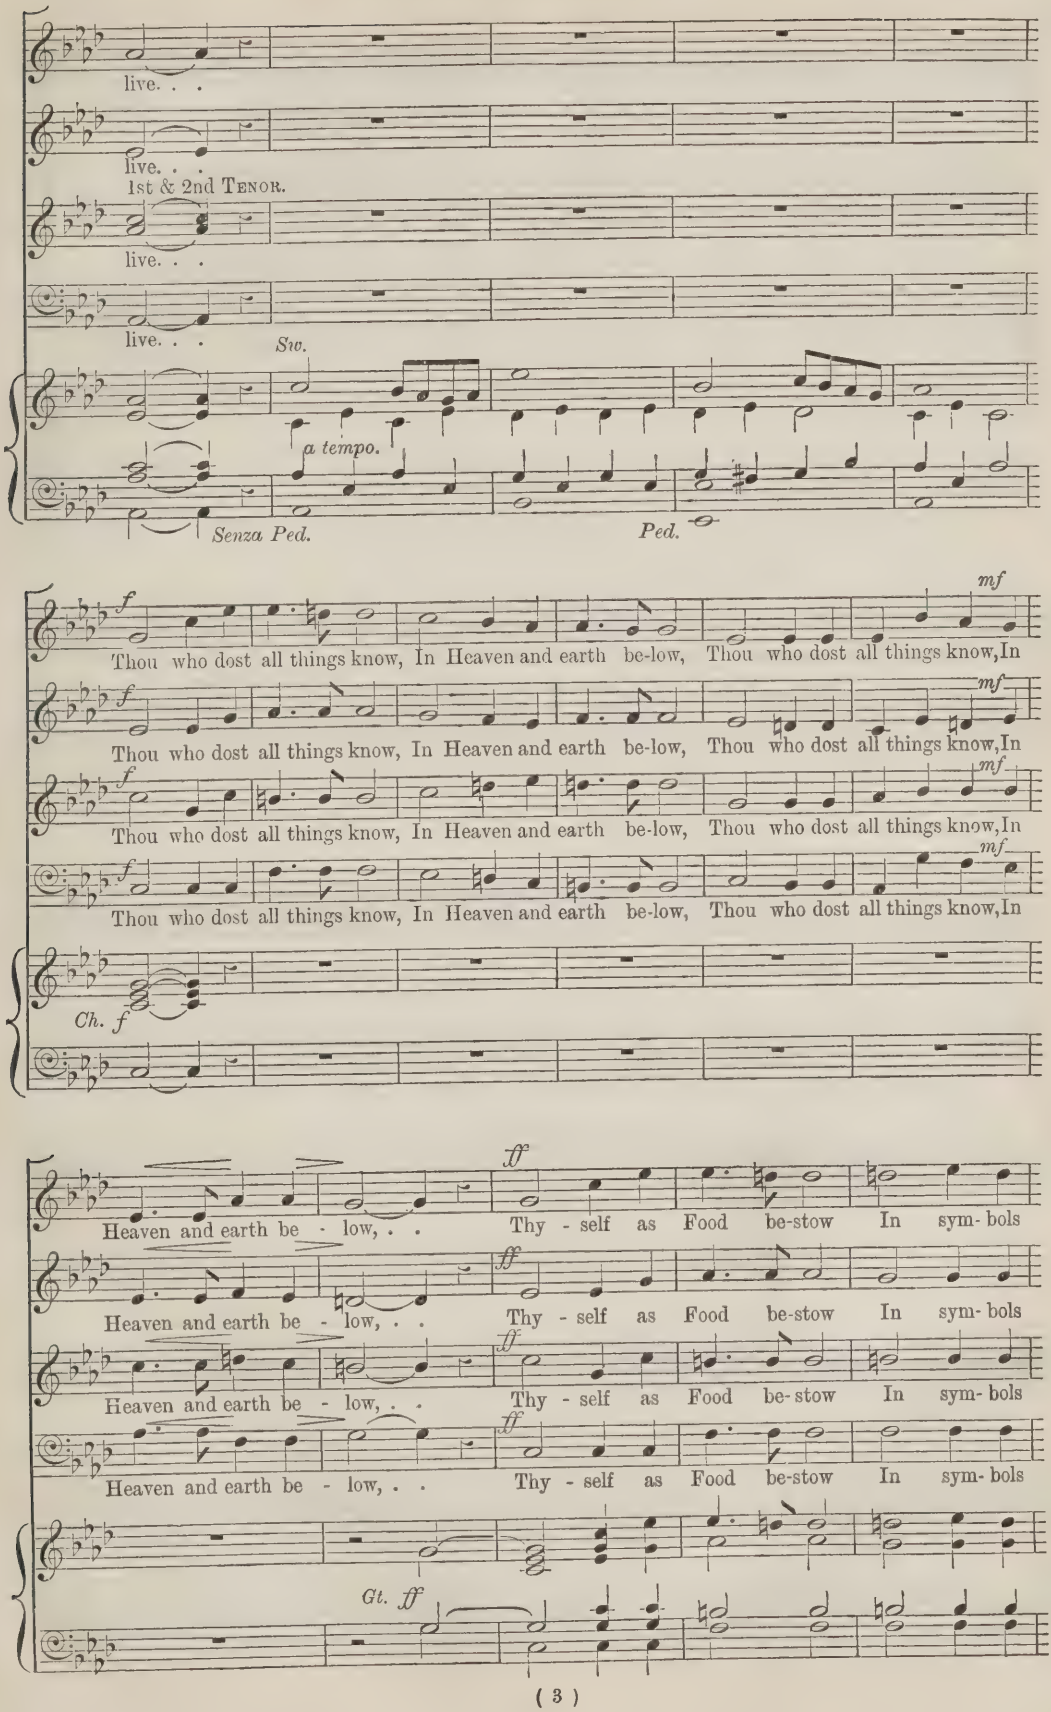
rall.
live, Come . . then, come then all and
rall.
live, O come then, come then all and
cres.
rall.
come then, come then all and live, . . O come then, O come then all and
rall.
live, O come then all and
rall.
live, Come then, come then all and
rall.



live. . .
live. . .
1st & 2nd Tenor.
live. . .
live. . .
Sw.
a tempo.
Senza Ped.
Ped.
f
mf
Thou who dost all things know, In Heaven and earth be-low, Thou who dost all things know, In Ch. f
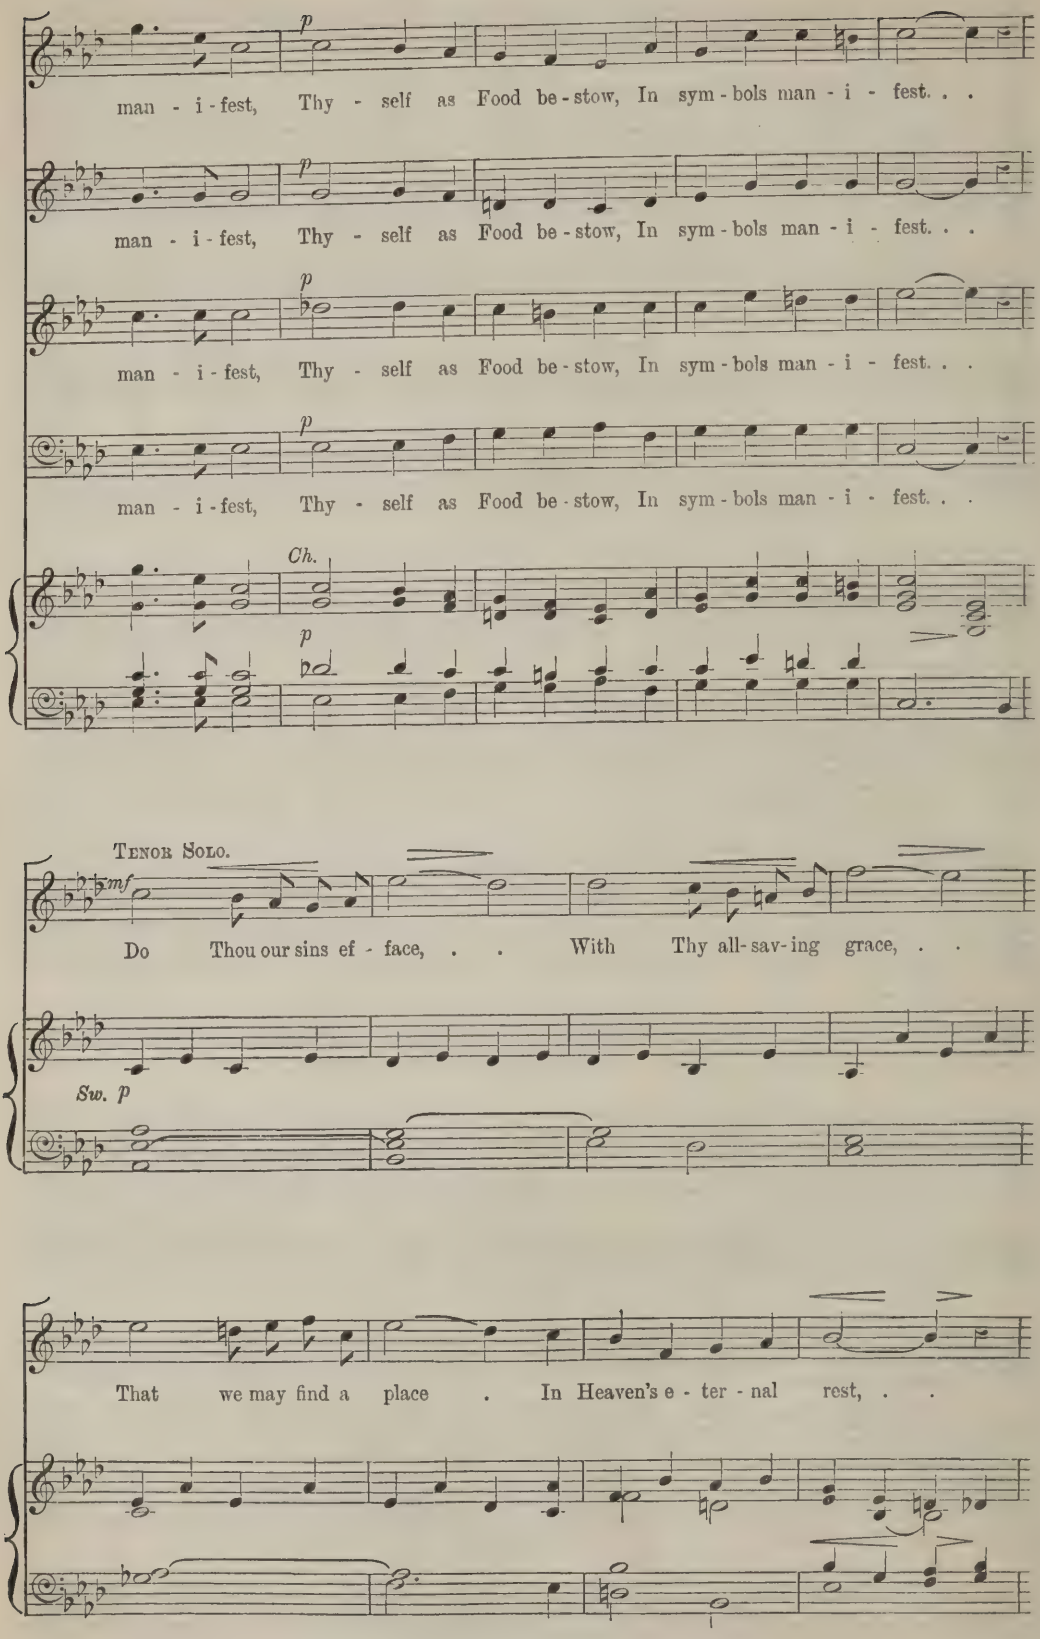
ff
Heaven and earth be - low, . . Thy - self as Food be-stow In sym- bols
Gt. ff



p
man - i - fest, Thy - self as Food be - stow, In sym - bols man - i - fest. . .
p man - i - fest, Thy - self as Food be - stow, In sym - bols man - i - fest. . .
p man - i - fest, Thy - self as Food be - stow, In sym - bols man - i - fest. . .
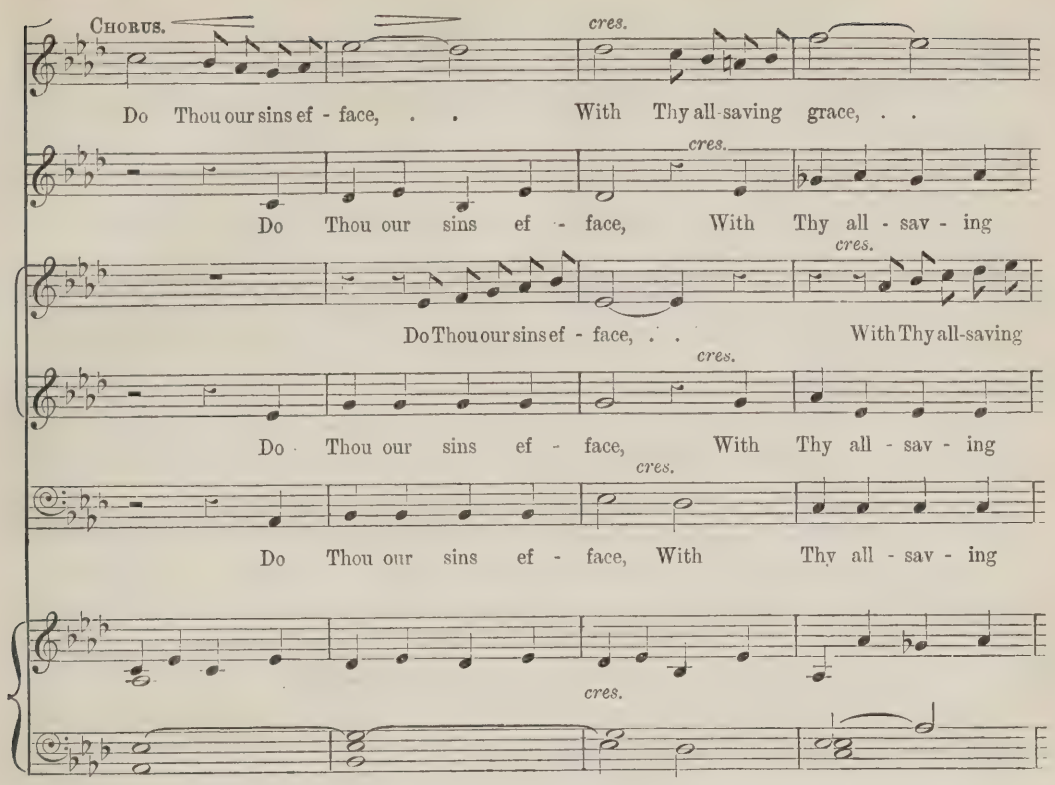
p man - i - fest, Thy - self as Food be - stow, In sym - bols man - i - fest. . .
Ch.
p
Tenor Solo.
mf
Do Thou our sins ef - face, . . With Thy all-sav-ing grace, . .
Sw. p
That we may find a place . In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, . .



Chorus.
cres.
Do Thou our sins ef - face, . . With Thy all-saving grace, . .
Do Thou our sins ef - face, With Thy all - sav - ing
Do Thou our sins ef - face, . . With Thy all-saving
Do Thou our sins ef - face, With Thy all - sav - ing
Do Thou our sins ef - face, With Thy all - sav - ing

That we may find a place . . . In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, . . in Heaven's e - grace, may find a place . . In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, In grace, That we may find a place In Heaven's e - ter-nal rest, In grace, That we may find a place In Heaven's e - ter-nal rest, In grace, That we may find a place In Heaven's e - ter-nal rest, In

- ter - nal rest, in Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, . . That we may find a
Heaven's e - ter-nal rest, in Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, . . That we may find a
Heaven's e - ter-nal rest, in Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, . . That we may find a
Heaven's e - ter-nal rest, in Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, . . That we may find a Heaven's e - ter-nal rest, in Heaven's e - ter - nal rest, . . That we may find a place In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest. . . . .

place In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest. . . . .
place In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest. . . . .
place In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest. . . . .
place In Heaven's e - ter - nal rest. . . . .

greater state of advance during many succeeding centuries, and the cultivation of the art by our forefathers, fully entitled us to style ourselves a "musical nation." The illustrations, which included the "Rota" and English Madrigals, were beautifully sung by students from the "Normal College for the Blind."

J. S. BACH'S CHAMBER MUSIC.

MR. DANNREUTHER delivered a series of Lectures during last month, at the Royal Institution, on the Chamber Music of Sebastian Bach. At the first Lecture Mr. Dannreuther treated of the "Suites" and "Partitas," which, the lecturer said, were collections made by the composer of his most esteemed writings in these forms. The so-called French Suites were six in number, each consisting of six small dance movements, several of which were found in a little MS. clavecin book belonging to Anna Magdalena, Bach's second wife. They dated about 1722-23, and were the earliest and lightest of the Suites. Another set of six, commonly known as the English Suites, were much more solid and weighty in style, and were collected about 1726-27. The origin of their title would appear to have been caused by Bach's admiration for the writings of Charles Dieupart, a musician who settled in this country and from whose Gigue in A Bach had almost wholly developed the Prelude of his English Suite in A. This kind of connecting link with England seemed to have suggested to Bach's family the distinguishing title of the later collection of Suites. The Partitas consisted of six highly-wrought and ambitious sets, which appeared to have been prompted by a desire to emulate the "Clavierübung" of Kuhnau, Bach's predecessor at Leipzig. They were the first published works of Bach, and were issued from 1726 to 1731. Their title was apparently in imitation of those of Kuhnau, on whose plan they were partially designed. There was an important difference to be observed between the Suites and Partitas. The Suites consisted of a series of short movements founded on popular song and dance forms, while the Partitas, although partially founded on the dance form, inclined more to abstract music per se. The Partita was greatly indebted to Frescobaldi and his pupil Froberger, who endeavoured to develop one dance measure from another by means of rhythmical changes. A peculiarity in both Suites and Partitas was all the movements being written in the same key. This was the more remarkable, as composers of this period when writing sonatas or overtures freely availed themselves of the advantages derivable from adopting different keys for consecutive movements. The origin of the former custom was to be found, the lecturer believed, in the important part the lute played in early chamber music. This instrument, in addition to the strings which were stopped in the ordinary manner, had several open strings which had to be retuned whenever the key was changed. To do this was troublesome, and hence lute players were in the habit of leaving blank pages in their lute books after each piece in a different key for the insertion of any new piece they might come across in the same key, which pieces they would afterwards play consecutively. Thus a method instituted for convenience ultimately became an established tradition, which lasted even when the harpsichord had, in great measure, supplanted the lute.

At the second Lecture Mr. Dannreuther said Bach had a passion for perfection and there was scarcely a parallel in music to the persistency with which he strove after his ideal. In those days composers learned their craft by direct imitation of their master's works, and Bach, even when he had attained the full development of his powers, would take another man's Fugue subject, and sometimes a considerable portion of the counterpoint, if it were good, and construct a new piece with these materials. He would frequently take a series of pieces and re-write and expand them; afterwards composing an entirely original piece on their model. He did this with several of Vivaldi's works, sixteen of whose Concertos he had transcribed for harpsichord alone, four for harpsichord with pedals or organ, and one for four harpsichords. After which, as a crowning effort, he wrote the "Italian" Concerto in 1735. The Suite and Partita culminated in Bach. Passing to Bach's Sonatas, the lecturer said they were perfect on their own lines. The majority were in four movements of alternately slow and quick tempo, but each movement was built on one subject, or, if there were two, they were worked simultaneously, while Beethoven's were constructed on two contrasted subjects. It was this that formed the radical difference between Bach's and Beethoven's Sonatas. In the development of one subject there was less provocation to roam far from the tonic than with two subjects worked in contrast, and extended range of modulation greatly increased emotional power. The illustrations included Vivaldi's Adagio and Presto, from the third Concerto in D minor; Bach's Andante in D minor, from the Italian Concerto; the "Concert nach Italiaenischen gusto"; the Sonata in D, for viola da gamba and cembalo (1720-23), and the Sonata in B minor for cembalo and violin, the executants being Mr. Dannreuther, Mr. A. Gibson, and Mr. Charles Ould.

The third Lecture was devoted to Bach's Fugal writing. After referring to the celebrated "48"—the final touches to the first set of which were put about 1722 and the second about 1740-44—the lecturer said that Bach had taken infinite pains with this work, and that the variants alone would fill a volume. Hauptmann used to say that Bach was supreme in this branch of musical art because he aimed at writing music, while most writers strove to write a Fugue; but the lecturer thought there were other reasons. Bach might be credited with a strong hereditary aptitude for polyphonic speech, whereas other composers had to learn it like a foreign language. Then there was his delight in polyphonic subtleties and writing under severe restrictions, his peculiar musical temper, his contemplative pathos, his sedate severity, his occasional excitability, and his passion for perfection. Never before and never since had there been such an extraordinary combination. A Fugue was contained in the subject as the flower in the bud. Bach's Fugue subjects were remarkable for originality and beauty. The best of them were condensed like an aphorism, so that the working-out followed like a detailed explanation. The leading peculiarity of Bach's style was derived from his special principle in polyphony, which consisted in the main steps of the harmonic progress being set forth and emphasised, whilst at the same time each part pursued its own course regardless of any discord that might arise from the simultaneous occurrence of passing notes or the proximity of contradictory accidentals. The harmony thus appeared as the sum of the independent parts, whereas in reality a progression of chords formed the substratum and was as intelligible as the melodies from which it was supposed to spring. This change, from harmony as the casual result of melodies heard simultaneously to a strong and clearly defined harmonic framework consisting of a logical sequence or order of chords, represented the progress of music for two centuries, from Palestrina to Bach.

In addition to the artists mentioned above, Mr. Dannreuther had the valuable assistance of Messrs. Vivian, Hopkinson, Wall, and Kreuz, in the concerted music played during the Lectures.

OBITUARY.

WE have to record the death, on the 6th ult., at Paris, of ERNEST GUIRAUD, one of the most distinguished of modern French composers. The deceased artist was born in 1837, at New Orleans, receiving his first musical instruction from his father, who—as he himself did afterwards—had achieved the much-coveted distinction of the Grand Prix de Rome, at Paris. His first operatic work, "Le Roi David," was produced at New Orleans when its composer was only fifteen. After having distinguished himself in the manner indicated at the Paris Conservatoire (where he was a pupil, in composition, of Halévy), he produced, with more or less success, a number of lyrical stage works, among which may be instanced "Sylvie," a ballet, brought out in 1864 at the Opéra Comique; "Gretna Green," also a ballet, in one act, performed in 1873 at the Grand Opéra; "Piccolino," a three-act opera, first produced at the Opéra Comique in 1876, and by Carl Rosa, at Her Majesty's Theatre, London, in 1879. He is also the composer of some very able and successful orchestral suites, and other instrumental compositions, including a Caprice for violin and orchestra, dedicated to Sarasate. M. Guiraud, who is the author of an excellent "Traité d'Orchestration," succeeded Victor Massé in 1881 in the professorship of composition at the Paris Conservatoire, and was elected last year a member of the Académie des Beaux Arts, in the room of Léo Délibes. An unfinished opera from his pen, entitled "Brunehilde," the libretto by M. Louis Gallet, is to be completed by M. Camille Saint-Saëns.

The death is announced at Paris, on the 13th ult., after many years of bodily suffering, of FERDINAND POISE, the gifted composer of charming light operas. He was born at Nîmes in 1828, and studied at the Paris Conservatoire under Adolphe Adam, upon whose easy and graceful style he to a great extent modelled his own. His principal operatic successes were the early operettas "Bonsoir Voisin," brought out in 1853, and "Les Charmeurs," first produced in 1855, followed, amongst others, by "Les Absents" (1864), "Corricolo" (1868), "La surprise d'Amour" and "L'Amour Medecin," founded upon Merivaux and Molière's comedies (1878 and 1880), and last, not least, "Joli Gilles," first performed in 1884. An entirely completed opera, "Carmosine," left by the deceased musician, and said to represent a new phase in his artistic development, is to be brought out at the Paris Opéra Comique.

JULES DUPRATO, a talented albeit not very successful composer of comic operas, notably of "M'sieu Landry," "Le Chanteur florentin," "La Fiancée de Corinthe," and who also wrote the recitatives to Balfe's "Bohemian Girl" for the French performances of that popular work, died at Paris on the 20th ult., aged sixty-four. M. Duprato, who had obtained the Grand Prix de Rome in 1884, has held a Professorship of Harmony at the Conservatoire since 1866.

The death is announced, on the 2nd ult., at Leipzig, of WILHELM RUST, the successor in 1879 of F. E. Richter in the Cantorate of St. Thomas's School, Leipzig, an excellent organist and composer of church music, and the highly meritorious editor of a number of works by Johann Sebastian Bach, in the edition issued by the Leipzig Bach Society. The descendant of a family more or less distinguished in music for some generations past, Wilhelm Rust was born at Dessau on August 15th, 1822.

We have also to record the following deaths:—

On April 22, at Berlin, Professor GUSTAV JANKE, second musical director of the Berlin Dom-Chor, in his fifty-fourth year.

On April 29, at Schöppenstedt (Brunswick), FERDINAND HAASE, celebrated violin maker of Anhalt, aged seventy-eight.

On the 1st ult., at Como, FRANCESCO LAMPERTI, the celebrated Milanese professor of singing, among whose pupils were Mesdames Artot, Cruvelli, and Albani; author of several works on the art of bel canto, aged seventy-nine.

On the 2nd ult., at Monte Carlo, TOM HOHLER, a favourite London operatic tenor, under Mr. Mapleson's management of Italian Opera some twenty years ago. Mr. Hohler retired from the lyrical stage upon his marriage, in 1880, with the Dowager Duchess of Newcastle.

On the 5th ult., at Prague, JOHANN NEPOMUK SKRAUP, musical director of the Cathedral, formerly director of the German Opera of Prague, successful composer of operas and of church music, aged eighty-one.

On the 6th ult., at Vienna, DR. GERHARD VON BREUNING, son of Beethoven's friend Stephan von Breuning, and author of some Beethoven reminiscences, aged seventy-eight.

On the 8th ult, at Leipzig, MORITZ HANISCH, composer of songs, and highly esteemed vocal teacher, aged sixty-five.

On the 12th ult., at Hamburg, FRANZ GREVE, excellent baritone singer, member of the Stadt-Theater, aged forty-seven.

On the 11th ult., HENRY WHITEHOUSE, at the age of sixty-nine. Mr. Whitehouse was a Gentleman of the Chapels Royal and a member of Westminster Abbey Choir for over thirty years, having previously held appointments at Worcester Cathedral, St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and Eton College. Mr. Whitehouse was also for many years a highly esteemed member of the Choir Benevolent Fund, and for a long time served on the Committee of that Society.

On the 16th ult., at Birmingham, ALFRED W. GILMER, a well-known cornet player and bandmaster, aged fifty-four. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him, and his loss will be greatly felt in local musical circles.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ALTHOUGH our season is over music still lingers with us, and several Concerts with points of interest may be noticed. On April 28 the Edgbaston Philharmonic Society gave an Orchestral Concert in the Vestry Hall, when Spohr's Overture in C minor (Op. 12) was performed for the first time in England. Bennett's "Naiads" Overture, Haydn's "Clock" Symphony, and other pieces were heard. Mr. F. C. Hollander played in a brilliant manner a Flute Concerto by Franz Cramer, and Miss Lillie Davis performed with taste Beethoven's Romance in G for violin. The vocalists were Miss Clare Morgan and Mr. G. K. Dixon. Mr. S. S. Stratton conducted.

The Birmingham Amateur Orchestral Society concluded its season with a Concert in the Town Hall on April 30. The programme included Gounod's Symphony in E flat—heard for the first time here; Edward German's "Gipsy" Suite—also a novelty; Grieg's Concert-Overture "In Autumn"; and smaller works by Del Valle de Paz and Michiels. These were exceedingly well given under the direction of Mr. W. A. Langston. A talented young violinist, Mr. W. H. Henley (pupil of Mr. Henry Holmes), played in masterly style Spohr's Dramatic Concerto and the Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso by Saint-Saëns, and songs were tastefully rendered by Miss Alice L. James and Mr. Percy Taunton.

The annual Conversazione of the Musical Guild was held at the Grand Hotel on the 7th ult. A capital programme was provided, and Mr. Randell's Choir, Miss Nellie Hargreave (pianist), and Mr. Henley (violinist) were effective in its interpretation. There was a large attendance of members and friends.

Mr. Horace Sedger's Company introduced "The Mountebanks" at the Theatre Royal on the 2nd ult., and the work drew crowded audiences during the week. Other comic operas have been given at one or other of the theatres, but no details are necessary.

Mr. C. W. Perkins, the City Organist, continues his Recitals at the Town Hall on Saturday afternoons. Recently he has extended the scope of his undertaking by introducing vocalists and solos for other instruments. Mr. F. Ward and Mr. T. M. Abbott have assisted lately; the pieces for violin and organ have attracted attention, and the audiences have been much larger than usual.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Ladies' Night of the Bristol Madrigal Society, on April 28, was particularly enjoyable. The only novelty was a clever and charming composition—"Just to please my bonnie Belle"—of Mr. F. Humphrey Anger, awarded a gold medal and prize of £10 in 1891 by the London Madrigal Society, which was encored. The additional time at the disposal of the Society since January had been made the best of, and a more than usually fine performance of the various pieces was the result, for which the members and Mr. D. W. Rootham, the indefatigable Conductor, deserve great praise.

Messrs. G. F. Blanchard, Harold Bernard, and Percy Lewis, talented young Bristol artists, gave a highly successful Chamber Concert on April 29.

The finest choral Concert of the month was undoubtedly that of the Bristol Choral Society, which took place on the 16th ult. A large assemblage filled Colston Hall on the occasion. Gounod's "Messe Solennelle" and Stanford's "The Revenge" were brought forward and interpreted in a manner deserving of the highest praise. Miss Maggie Davies, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Montague Worlock were the principal vocalists, and Mr. Riseley conducted.

On the 3rd ult. the North and East Bristol Musical Societies, of which Mr. J. F. Nash is Conductor, jointly gave a performance of Van Bree's "St. Cecilia's Day" in Colston Hall. Save in a few of the most difficult points, the tuneful work went remarkably well, which spoke highly for the assiduity of the members during its preparation. The High Sheriff of Bristol handed the awards to the prize-winners.

A fairly good rendering of Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" was given by the Knowle Choral Society on the 2nd ult., under Mr. C. W. Stears's guidance. Miss Guy, Mrs. McQuade, Mr. C. McGuire, and Mr. W. Purnell were the chief vocalists. Miscellaneous pieces made up the second part of the scheme. Among the most noticeable was a Study of Chopin, admirably played by Mr. Parsons.

The performance of Sterndale Bennett's "Woman of Samaria," in St. George's Church, Brandon Hill, on the 9th ult., was a most creditable achievement; Mrs. Northam, Miss Griffiths, Mr. Lewis, and Mr. W. H. Wickes were the soloists, and Mr. J. V. Cavell conducted.

About twenty choirs, numbering 600 voices, took part in the Bristol Church Choral Union Festival on the 10th ult., in Bristol Cathedral. The service book was one of the best that has ever been presented. The singing of the Psalms to a chant by the Rev. G. W. Torrance, and the third Gregorian tone, fourth ending, was remarkably fine. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were Garrett in F; and the Anthem was Dr. G. Martin's "Magnify His Name." Sullivan's Te Deum in D closed the service. Mr. George Riseley presided at the organ and Mr. John Barrett conducted. The Dean was the preacher.

St. John's (Redland) Choral Society brought forward C. H. Lloyd's "Hero and Leander" at its annual Concert on the 12th ult., Miss Marion Harris and Mr. J. F. Nash sustaining the two characters in the work. Its interpretation under Mr. Ernest Hill's direction was most praiseworthy, though scarcely faultless.

The Weston-super-Mare Philharmonic Society gave its second Concert of the season on the 5th ult., in the Victoria Hall, and brought forward Mendelssohn's "First Walpurgis Night" and Barnett's "Ancient Mariner." Both were spiritedly and intelligently sung. The soloists—Miss F. Cromey, Miss Dutton, Mr. D'Arcy Ferrars, and Mr. Montague Worlock—acquitted themselves well. Mr. Edward Cook was a painstaking and inspiriting Conductor.

The Bristol Orpheus Society journeyed to Shepton Mallet on April 22 and to Trowbridge on the 20th ult., and gave a most successful Concert in each of those towns.

The Bristol Society of Instrumentalists, the largest amateur body of the kind in the kingdom, gave its fourth annual Concert in the Colston Hall on the 4th ult., under Mr. Riseley's direction. Cherubini's "Anacreon" Overture, Schubert's "Rosamunde" Overture, and the same composer's Symphony in B minor were the chief works performed. These, together with others, all now first essayed by the Society, were excellently played, the tone of the strings and the intelligence exhibited by the players being noteworthy points. Mr. Theo. Carrington performed the first movement of Beethoven's Violin Concerto, Miss Florence Bethell and Mr. Sutton Shepley contributed songs, and Mr. Riseley conducted.

At Madame Florence Eyre's final Chamber Concert for the season, on the 12th ult., a Sonata in B minor, for violin and pianoforte, by P. N. Miles, a promising amateur author, was brought forward.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Fortune has smiled on the Dublin Musical Society. Notwithstanding the disadvantages under which the new committee of the Society entered on the task of reversing the decree of dissolution, hastily pronounced by its predecessors, earnest and business-like management has resulted in a state of things that promises well for an artistically and financially successful year. The second Concert, consisting of Gounod's "Gallia" and Sullivan's "Golden Legend," was announced for the 24th ult. (too late for notice in present issue), with Madame Nordica, Miss Alice Lambe, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint as principals.

The Ladies' Concert of the Dublin University Choral Society, which winds up its season, took place on the evening of the 13th ult. in the Dining Hall, Trinity College. The works presented were Gade's "Crusaders" and "Spring's Message." These beautiful works were creditably sung by the choir and principals, but suffered from the lack of orchestral accompaniments, which, from prudential reasons, were dispensed with. What man could do to supply this deficiency with a pianoforte was done by Sir Robert Stewart, the Society's Conductor, who delegated his bâton for the nonce to Dr. W. H. Gater. Mrs. Adelaide Mullen, Mr. W. S. North, and some lady and gentlemen amateurs took the principal solo parts. The Tercentenary fêtes of the University will include the performance by this Society of an Ode by Professors Armstrong and Stewart on July 5, with full orchestra, augmented choir, and Mrs. Hutchinson, Mr. Barton McGuckin, and Mr. Plunket Greene as soloists.

The Dublin Choral Society (Dr. Annie Patterson, Conductor) announced for performance at its third Concert Mendelssohn's "Athalie," with full band and chorus of 150 performers, at the Antient Concert Rooms, on the 20th ult.

The Rathmines Choral Society gave its second Concert on April 26, at the Abercorn Hall, Harcourt Road. Gounod's "By Babylon's Wave," Mendelssohn's "Morning Prayer," and Costa's Cantata "The Dream" made up the programme, Mr. Horan conducting and Mr. G. F. Horan presiding at the organ.

The Donnybrook Choral Union produced Gounod's "Gallia" and Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm on the 2nd ult., at the Parochial Hall, Donnybrook. Mrs. Adelaide Mullen was the principal vocalist, a small band was led by Mr. Poland, and Mr. Saville conducted.

The St. George's Choral Union gave Haydn's "Spring," at St. George's Parochial Hall, on April 29. The soloists were Miss Myra McGuckin and Mr. Lowther Campbell; Mr. Raymond Revelle conducted and Mr. Fleming led the band.

The Dublin Scottish Glee Choir gave a capital performance at its third Concert at the Sackville Hall on the 7th ult., under the direction of Mr. Baxter.

A series of six classical Pianoforte Recitals has taken the place of the Chamber Music Recitals on Monday afternoons in the Theatre of the Royal Dublin Society. On the 9th ult. a Chopin programme was admirably performed by the gifted executant, Signor Esposito.

Two Pianoforte Recitals by Otto Hegner, at the Antient Concert Rooms, on the 3rd and 5th ult., and Herr Werner's Benefit Concert in the same locale on the 12th ult., were well attended. At the last-named Concert an Orchestral Suite by a Dublin composer, Mr. James Culwick, was played by Herr Werner's orchestra and received with considerable favour.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Waddel's Choir has a well-established reputation for serious purpose and honest work. On the 13th ult. very excellent and artistic results were obtained from a careful study of Schumann's "Faust." The chorus sang with precision, care, and taste throughout, the "Dies Iræ" and the final chorus being particularly well rendered. Indeed, the only fault to be found was a certain heaviness, even gloominess, in the style of singing, which interfered with the due effect of some of the charmingly delicate writing in the third part. The solos were undertaken by members of the choir, and, as is usually the case, the individual performances fell somewhat short of the ensemble. Praise, however, must be given to the gentleman who sang Faust's music with great spirit and expression. A small orchestra was of very doubtful assistance to the choir. Mr. J. Millar Craig conducted and Mr. Tom Craig accompanied on the pianoforte.

The performances of the Carl Rosa Opera Company on their visit last month reached an unusually high level. Indeed, such performances as they gave of the "Prophet" (Mr. Helmondt and Miss Estey) and of "Carmen" (Mdlle. Zélie de Lussan and Messrs. Helmondt and Alec Marsh) have not been seen in Edinburgh for many a long year. "Cavalleria Rusticana" was the great attraction and was largely attended at all the numerous performances. "Don Giovanni" suffered as usual from the complacency arising from that familiarity which breeds contempt of rehearsal. "Aïda" (which, like "The Prophet," has not been heard in Edinburgh for many years) and "Romeo and Juliet" were the other interesting works.

The Dundee Amateur Opera Company deserves great credit for a really good performance of "Norma," given in Her Majesty's Theatre last month. The cast was greatly strengthened by the engagement of professionals (Mr. Durward Lely and others), who undertook the principal solo work. They were well seconded by Miss Proctor and Messrs. Sturrock and Baird, members of the Company.

A good audience assembled in the Queen Street Hall on the 24th ult., to hear the second Concert of the Edinburgh Quartet this their third season. From the first there was evidence of more careful rehearsal and better understanding. The first movement of Beethoven's Op. 18 (No. 1) and the Adagio and the spirited Finale of Haydn (Op. 64, No. 5) were particularly successful—the last, indeed, won the players an encore. Mr. Gibson's excellent playing lent additional attraction to the performance of Jadassohn's interesting Quintet (Op. 70). Miss Krüger made her first appearance in Edinburgh, and her sympathetic quality of voice was well shown in "Quando a te lieta." She was encored for Hatton's "Enchantress."

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. John More Smieton's dramatic Cantata "King Arthur" was the pièce de resistance at the annual Concert by the Glasgow Academy Choir, on April 29. A better choice could hardly have been made, inasmuch as the work has been laid out on lines which cannot fail to prove popular amongst the numerous choral societies ever on the alert for novelty. Mr. James Smieton's admirably written libretto has, indeed, afforded opportunity for effective musical treatment, which is not only graceful and melodious, but eminently graphic in its descriptive power; the work, in short, of a craftsman who is steadily making progress amongst contemporary composers. Much care had evidently been bestowed upon the preparation of the Cantata for this occasion; as is customary, many old Academy students gave their valued services, and the tenor and bass sections of the choir were in this way artistically cared for. The musical intelligence exhibited by the boys, was a feature of the evening, and their bright, fresh voices once more lent a special charm to the work assigned them. The incidental solos were well sung by Messrs. H. L. Seligmann and Ross, and a couple of juvenile members of the choir. Mr. John McLaren ably conducted the work, and Mrs. McLaren's services at the pianoforte were simply invaluable. The first part of the programme included Gounod's beautiful part-song "My true love hath my heart," sung in excellent style.

The annual report submitted by the management of the Glasgow Choral and Orchestral Concerts is again a highly satisfactory document, showing that not only had the guarantors' losses been repaid, but that the substantial balance of £708 remains at the credit of the accounts. At the annual meeting of the Glasgow Society of Musicians, held on the 10th ult., the reports also showed a very encouraging state of affairs. The Carl Rosa Opera season closed on the 7th ult., after a fairly successful visit, barring the awkwardness caused by the unfortunate indisposition of one or two members of the company. Mascagni's opera, known in its English dress as "Rustic Chivalry," proved an enormous success and was performed no fewer than five times. The revivals included Verdi's "Aïda" and Meyerbeer's "The Prophet," produced in each case on a wonderful scale of completeness.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent).

The annual report and balance-sheet of the Philharmonic Society was presented to the proprietors on the 9th ult., and, as is usual on these occasions, mutual congratulations were expressed. Mr. Rutherford, however, drew attention to the expenditure attendant upon conductor and orchestra, and suggested that in place of the latter some eminent vocalists or instrumentalists might be engaged for two or three Concerts. Mr. Von Sobbe, the Chairman, replied that this too had been the feeling of the Committee, and that the matter would have further consideration; and Mr. B. L. Benas remarked that excerpts might be given instead of entire symphonies, adding that people went to Concerts, not to be instructed, but for enjoyment. On the other hand, Mr. H. E. Rensburg very properly protested against such a proposal, and it can hardly be imagined that a Society which has, as the last speaker said, built up a position as one of the first musical institutions in the country, could be allowed to sink to the level of giving simple Ballad Concerts. The turnover of the recent season amounted to no less a sum than £5,662 10s. 6d.

Late in April the West Derby Philharmonic Society gave a selection from Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," under Mr. Cooper. At Rock Ferry the Amateur Opera Society, which, as well as the old-established Musical Society, is now conducted by Mr. J. W. Pemberton, has given two performances of the Gilbert-Sullivan "Ruddigore." At Waterloo the Musical Society performed, on the 9th ult., Bennett's "Woman of Samaria," under the conductorship of Mr. A. E. Workman. At Bootle the position of the excellent Subscription Concerts, directed by the last-named gentleman, is to be seriously considered, the Mayor having warmly taken up the matter of their suggested abandonment. At Warrington Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" closed the season far on in April with a band and chorus of two hundred performers, under Mr. F. H. Crossley. On the last day of the same month the Liverpool Orchestral Society, numbering about eighty-five members, performed Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony and other music, under Mr. A. E. Rodewald, at the Philharmonic Hall. The prototype of a host of Welsh cantatas which have since been given to lovers of Celtic song, the late John Owen's "Prince of Wales," was revived in Liverpool early last month by the Arfonic Glee Society, under Mr. D. B. Davies, at Granby Hall. A series of annual festivals has been inaugurated in connection with Congregational music in the English Presbyterian Churches of this city, the first meeting in Everton Brow Church being chronicled as a decided success. At Bangor, on the 10th ult., a Church Festival was held, but the chief prize, of ten guineas, only attracted a couple of choirs, the local Choral Union, under Mr. Broome, being victorious. There were other competitions for quartet and solo singing. On the 16th ult. choirs from Eglwysbach, Nibo, Goar, Capul Garmon, Penmachno, Cwm, Dolwydelen, Conway, Llandudno, Colwyn, Colwyn Bay, Moriah, Bethel, Pensarn, and Llanrwst took part in a Welsh Wesleyan Choral Festival held in the last-named ancient town, nearly 800 choristers being present.

The regular monthly meeting of the North-Western Section of the National Society of Professional Musicians took place in Liverpool on the 14th ult., Mr. Rawson, of Manchester, being in the chair. There was a very large attendance and a paper advocating Behnke's system of teaching singing was read by Dr. W. H. Hunt. In the evening, at the Concert-hall of the Music School, Gerard Cobb's Quintet in C and Prout's Quartet in F were excellently played by Miss L. Ross and Messrs. C. Courvoisier, H. Ross, J. Ross, and Ter Poorten. An earnest effort is being made to extend the ramifications of this important organisation to Wales, and the doings of their near neighbours cannot fail to be carefully watched and encouraged by the members of the North-Western—the parent—section of the Society.

The recently established Music School has commenced a new term with every augury of success. There are, at present, about sixty students, a considerable increase on the number enrolled last term, and the classes for rudiments, harmony, sight-singing, pianoforte and violin technique and ensemble playing are all well attended. Ten of the senior and six of the assistant professors are regularly engaged and in attendance at 5, Hardman Street.

The Liverpool Musical Club, organised in 1884 under the ægis and personal superintendence of the late Sir G. A. Macfarren, has been reconstituted on its original basis as a purely professional institution. A meeting was held on the 7th ult. at the Adelphi Hotel, where Mr. H. R. Eyers presided over the inaugural meeting eight years ago, and the restored position having been approved of, a large number of new members were enrolled. The club in question was the first organisation to petition Parliament against the adoption of the musical clauses of the Teachers' Registration Bills, brought forward and rejected last session.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE healthiness of the faculty of music in the Victoria University was shown at the Installation, on the 25th ult., of Earl Spencer, K.G., as the new Chancellor. Being the first ceremony of the kind here, very considerable excitement was created; and the Town Hall was crowded when the procession of Professors and Lecturers, joined with the Mayor and Corporation of the City, led Lord Spencer to the chair on the high daïs. The Installation Ode was written by Professor W. A. Raleigh, of the Liverpool College, and set to music by Dr. Henry Hiles, of the Owens College, and University Lecturer. The verses are decidedly good and musical, and the well-known critic of the Manchester Guardian thus sums up his verdict on the composition: "The concluding Fugue 'Then hail with loud acclaim' left no doubt as to the large and comprehensive spirit in which the setting of the Ode had been entered upon by Dr. Hiles."

The performance, with a choir of seventy, band of thirty-seven, and the large organ, presided over by the City Organist, Mr. J. Kendrick Pyne, was capital. Dr. Hiles's arrangement of the National Anthem concluded the ceremony.

An excellent Chamber Concert was given on the 14th ult. by Miss Enid Jones—well known here—associated with Herren Hess and Carl Fuchs. In Rubinstein's early Sonata for violoncello and pianoforte, in the so-called "Moonlight" Sonata, and in other smaller pieces Miss Jones displayed her keen musical instinct and facile execution.

Mr. Pyne's Saturday Evening Recitals continue to be crowded, and the programmes are admirably diversified.

MUSIC IN NORWICH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

AFTER an existence of twenty-one years the Norfolk and Norwich Musical Union has ceased to exist. To many who have passed through its ranks and enjoyed the guidance of Dr. Bunnett, the genial Conductor, its dissolution will cause a pang of regret. For several seasons a difficulty has been experienced in making both ends meet; but additional duties that have lately devolved upon Dr. Bunnett have made it imperative for that gentleman to consider what engagement he could most easily relinquish, and as his position in connection with the Musical Union was purely honorary, his decision was but natural. A marked improvement has latterly taken place in the work done by the Society, and with this happy augury for future success it is the more to be regretted that the year of its majority should witness the Society's decease. The concluding Concert took place on the 5th ult., and Sterndale Bennett's pleasing Pastoral "The May Queen" was a fitting work with which to close a useful career. Miss Teresa Blamy, Mrs. Boyton, Mr. Sawford Dye, and Mr. Brockbank were the soloists. In addition to a short selection from Handel's "L'Allegro" and some songs, the second part included a new vocal duet, "Off to the wars," sung by Mr. Dye and Mr. Brockbank, and an original Serenade for strings and wind, both from the prolific pen of the Conductor. The internal working of the Society must have been more than usually harmonious, for not only has the same Conductor officiated for the twenty-one years of its existence, but the onerous part of honorary secretary has been filled for the same period by one gentleman, Mr. S. N. Berry.

With the eighty-third Concert, given in Noverre's Room on the 12th ult., the present season of the Philharmonic Society was brought to a close. The programme included a spirited rendering of Kalliwoda's Symphony in F minor (the charming slow movement being much applauded), Weber's "Oberon" and Suppé's "Poet and Peasant" Overtures, Sullivan's "Graceful dance" (Henry VIII.) and the introduction to the third act of "Lohengrin." Under Dr. Hill's careful beat these were all played with care and precision, but a want of light and shade was too frequently apparent. Dr. Hill had composed for the occasion a Benedictus—a vocal quartet with orchestral accompaniment, the soloists being Miss Owen, Mrs. Arthur Watts, Mr. Sawford Dye, and Mr. B. Steward. This composition (part of a larger work) contains some good part-writing, but the accompaniments were so persistently loud that a fair judgment of its merits was impossible.

Several years ago the late Rev. R. Hobson established St George's Club and Home for working girls, which has proved a very useful Institution. As a source of healthy amusement during the winter evenings a class was formed for the practice of part-singing, which has grown to large dimensions under the guidance of Mr. H. F. Howlett. Encouraged by the success attending the venture, that gentleman encouraged some of the girls to study the violin and other instruments. This idea also "took on" and resulted in the formation of an orchestra of no mean dimensions and such proficiency that a few evenings ago they gave a Concert in St. Andrew's Hall which was heartily enjoyed by a large concourse of visitors. In addition to a very creditable performance of several orchestral pieces, violin, violoncello, and flute solos were played by girls whose everyday employment is in factories, shoemaking or similar occupations. The singing-class has also produced some remarkably good voices—notably, Sarah Browne (who also leads the band) and Ellen A. Miller, whose rich voice would be envied by many in a higher station. Considering the ranks from which the members are drawn, the results achieved under Mr. Howlett's instruction are eminently satisfactory.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BEFORE proceeding to deal with the Concerts of last month reference should be made to two events of local interest which took place near the end of April. The first of these was the performance, for the first time in Sheffield, of Mr. A. R. Gaul's sacred Cantata "The Ten Virgins." The work was taken in hand by the Heeley Harmonic Society, an old established and enterprising suburban association, and performed on April 25. The rendering of the work, under the direction of Mr. W. Chapman, was admirable, and the reception accorded to it so flattering that Mr. Gaul's tuneful Cantata will doubtless be taken up by other societies in the district. On the following evening Benedict's Oratorio "St. Peter" was performed, also for the first time here, by the Upperthorpe Choral Society. The work, which has been too long neglected by the numerous South Yorkshire choirs, was performed under the direction of Mr. J. Beaumont. The fine singing of the chorus was the most successful feature of the Concert, and in the effective number, "Praise the Lord," the choristers further enhanced an already enviable reputation. The soloists were more than satisfactory, and many numbers were encored.

The Amateur Musical Society gave their fifty-seventh Concert in the Albert Hall on the 17th ult., when Smart's Dramatic Cantata, "The Bride of Dunkerron," and Spohr's "God, Thou art great," were performed before a crowded audience. In the Cantata, the splendid singing of the chorus calls for especial praise. The basses, as is frequently the case, won the chief honours; the sopranos, however, running them close, while throughout the work all the choristers sang with spirit and accuracy. The chorus for female voices, "Hail to thee," was especially well done. The soloists selected, in accordance with precedent, from the ranks of the Society sang excellently, and the band was admirable. Spohr's short work was capitally rendered. Mr. Schollhammer conducted.

On the 3rd ult. Dr. Hubert Parry visited the town to conduct his symphonic Suite, at the invitation of the committee of the Amateur Instrumental Society. Dr. Parry's Suite had been carefully rehearsed, and its manifold difficulties were surmounted in a most creditable manner. The charming Idyll was, perhaps, the best liked of the four movements, but it was in the concluding Rhapsody that the efforts of the band were most successful. The strings were exceedingly good, the attack being crisp and the tone full and well balanced, while the wood-wind and brass, so often the weak points in an amateur orchestra, were almost faultless. The composer was enthusiastically applauded at the conclusion of the performance. The programme also included Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas" Overture, a selection from "Norma," and other pieces.

On the same evening a Concert in aid of the Railway Servants' Orphanage was given in the Albert Hall. The principal attraction was the string band of the Royal Artillery, directed by Cavaliere Zavertal. Miss Maggie Davies and Mr. Norman Salmond were the vocalists, and Mr. E. P. Reynolds, solo pianist.

An excellent performance of Reinecke's Cantata for ladies' voices, entitled "Rosebud," was given at the High School for Girls on the 20th ult.

Mr. E. H. Lemare having accepted the post of Organist of St. Peter's Church, Belsize Park, Mr. Hanforth, of York, has been appointed to the Parish Church in his place. Mr. Lemare terminated his duties on the 15th ult., and at the conclusion of the evening service he gave a lengthy Organ Recital to a large congregation. Much regret is expressed at his removal from the town.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

New York, May 9, 1892.

THE occurrence of the semi-centennial anniversary of its organisation gave to the members of the Philharmonic Society fitting occasion to end their season with unusual brilliancy. The event was celebrated by three Festival Concerts at the Metropolitan Opera House. The first was a repetition of the initial programme of the Society, first given on December 7, 1842; it possessed, therefore, a historic interest, and, by contrast with the remaining Concerts, served in a way to illustrate the growth of musical culture, both on the part of the Society and of its audience, these latter being marked by the greater seriousness and dignity of the numbers performed, while additional light has been thrown upon the whole subject in the excellent memorial of the Society prepared by Mr. Henry Edward Krehbiel, and published by Novello, Ewer and Co., which has been eagerly read and favourably noted by the writers and musical critics throughout the country.

Conductor Seidl did not have all the glory, however, for Mr. Damrosch had arranged in commemoration of the Handel Anniversary a series of Handel Festivals of unusual interest and prepared with great care. These took place at the Music Hall. At the first two the delightful Pastoral "Acis and Galatea" was given with full scenery and costume, while such artists as Madame De Verr-Sapio, Fräulein J. Pevny, Mr. Emil Fischer, and Mr. W. H. Rieger, together with a full chorus and orchestra, interpreted the simple yet stately music in a fitting manner. At the third Concert "The Messiah" was performed in a new way—at least to modern ears. The orchestration was that originally written by Handel, for strings and reed wind. The result was eminently satisfactory as the voice parts were brought out with a beauty and distinctness quite unusual.

Mr. Edward Lloyd has stopped in New York on his way to the Cincinnati Festival, to give a series of six ballad Concerts supported by an adequate company of singers. Mr. Lloyd has once more delighted the people of New York by the beauty of his voice and the accuracy of his method.

To revert to another class of music, mention should be made in terms of special praise of the Easter Concert of Mr. Frank G. Dossert, at which was produced for the first time his new "Messe Solennelle" for soli, chorus, orchestra, and organ, under the direction of the composer. This new religious work is characterised by devout feeling, correct "Messe" form, and scholarly writing. Some of the numbers, notably the Gloria in Excelsis and Agnus Dei, are of sterling worth, while the composition as a whole deserves a high place among recent musical productions.

The Concert of the Church Choral Society, under its very competent Conductor, Mr. R. H. Warren, has served to give emphasis to the previously expressed conviction that this gentleman has brought together one of the most intelligent bodies of musicians to be found in this country. Attack, nuances, enunciation, alike were nearly faultless. The Mass in C, by Beethoven, was the pièce de résistance, and the Concert closed with a fine performance of C. Villiers Stanford's beautiful and impressive "God is our Hope and Strength" (Op. 8).

The Apollo Club of Chicago, under the direction of Theodore Thomas, sang the "Reformation Cantata," by Albert Becker, at its third Concert. This fine composition was well sung and was received with great favour.

In Boston the leading musical event has been the production by the Boston Symphony Society, at the last regular Concert of the regular season, of the music for "Hamlet" by Mr. George Henschel, which was given under the direction of the composer. This fine organisation of musicians, under the direction of Mr Arthur Nikisch, has attained the very first rank in the country, and as they are constantly alive to the desire of the public for meritorious novelties, naturally the work of Mr. Henschel, who, as teacher, artist, composer, and conductor has long been favourably known, presented itself as a desirable climax to a successful season. With an able body of instrumentalists enthusiastic in their work, and guided by the artistic feeling of such a director, the music had adequate interpretation and its success was unmistakable. Mr. and Mrs. Henschel are now engaged as soloists to accompany the Boston Symphony Society in its regular tour, and the success of the former as a singer will direct attention to his "New Vocal Studies" recently published.

Of equal importance was the production of "The Messiah" by the Handel and Haydn Society, as also the "St. Matthew" Passion Music, in which latter Mr. Henschel in the Christ parts and Mr. Lloyd as the Narrator received special commendation.

The Choral Association of St. Paul, at its third Concert, gave two works "The Damnation of Faust," by Hector Berlioz, and a new work by the local composer, Samuel A. Baldwin, entitled "The Triumph of Love." The principal soloist of the occasion was the well-known baritone from England, Mr. William Ludwig.

MR. GEORGE FOX, an industrious musician, who was for some time an acceptable baritone singer, afterwards made his mark as a composer of children's cantatas and light operas, one of his most successful efforts being a musical version of Ingoldsby's "Jackdaw of Rheims." Hitherto, however, he has not ventured upon anything nearly so ambitious as his five-act "grand" opera "Nydia," produced at the Crystal Palace on the 10th ult. The book is, of course, based upon Bulwer Lytton's romantic story "The Last Days of Pompeii," which has been several times dramatised, though it had not hitherto been used as the groundwork of a lyric drama. Mr. Fox is his own librettist, and it cannot be said that the construction is altogether satisfactory, the action sometimes halting for the sake of music not in itself interesting. The composer seems to have studied various styles, and his numbers remind us in turn of modern French, Italian, and German masters. It must be claimed for him that if he is not original he is never laboured; the music appears to have flowed easily from his pen, and there are many pleasing melodies and not a few clever effects in the score, but more than this cannot be said. Considering that it was of the nature of a "scratch" production, the performance was as satisfactory as could be expected. Mdlle. de Rideau, as the unfortunate blind girl; Madame Valda, as the aristocratic Ione; Mr. Durward Lely, as Glaucus; Mr. Walter Clifford as the Nazarene, Olinthus; and Mr. Henry Pyatt, as the sinister priest Arbaces, were generally commendable, and the orchestra, chorus, and mounting were adequate. Mr. Edward Jones conducted the opera with care and judgment.

MR. ERNEST KIVER had, as usual, arranged a very interesting programme for his annual Concert, which was given in Princes' Hall on the 5th ult. It is to be regretted that he had not associated himself with artists of recognised ability and experience, for even a much stronger work than Carl Reinecke's String Quartet in D might have failed to make an impression if rendered in the indifferent manner in which the veteran Leipzig musician's Op. 211 was played on this occasion, "for the first time in England." Fortunately the work is so simple in outline, the themes are so straightforward and their treatment is so clear, that there was no difficulty in arriving at a conclusion as to its value. This we regret we cannot set very high, for there is in the music an utter absence of those qualities which are expected and, indeed, are indispensable in a String Quartet. The themes lack individuality and distinction; there is not one which, as Beethoven would have said, comes from and goes to the heart. Even the working-out portions of the movements are devoid of ingenuity and interest. The Adagio is cold and unimpressive to a degree; the Scherzo the merest trifle, and not even a particularly pretty trifle. The Concert concluded with Dvorák's rarely-heard Pianoforte Quartet in D (Op. 23), which is chiefly remarkable for the occasional flashes of genius by which, ut es ungue leonem, we recognise the future composer of those masterpieces—the G major Symphony and the Requiem. A well written, but unimportant Song-wreath, "By the willows," by Mr. Thomas Wingham, and some pianoforte pieces, played by Mr. Kiver, completed the programme.

THE Enfield Musical Society gave its last Concert of the season on Thursday evening, the 5th ult., at the Bycullah Athenæum. The rendering of Sterndale Bennett's Exhibition Ode, "Uplift a thousand voices," and a miscellaneous selection, including Sullivan's Madrigal "Brightly dawns our wedding day" (encored), reflected the greatest credit on all concerned. A feature in the programme was the Norwegian legend "Bergliot," recited by Miss Lena Ashwell, the incidental music of Edvard Grieg being admirably played upon two pianofortes by Miss L. L. Mossop and Mr. H. Stanley Hawley. "An Evening Song" (Blumenthal) and "A Wandering Minstrel" (Sullivan), the latter being encored, were sung by Mr. Henry Body. Duets for clarinet and pianoforte (a) Andantino con moto, (b) Allegro molto vivace (Niels Gade, Op. 43) and Fantaisie "Der Freischütz" (J. C. Eschmann, Op. 47) were played with great taste by Messrs. Leonard Beddome and H. Stanley Hawley; and the latter gentleman joined Miss L. L. Mossop in Schumann's pianoforte duet Andante and Variations (Op. 46). Mr. John C. Ward conducted with his usual ability.

THE Westminster Orchestral Society concluded a successful season on Wednesday, the 25th ult., and, as usual, offered an excellent programme. One piece was entirely new—namely, a Nocturne in E flat, by the Society's talented Conductor, Mr. Stewart Macpherson, suggested by familiar lines from the "Merchant of Venice." It is a refined, melodious, and elegant little piece, daintily scored for small orchestra, and it was warmly received. It can scarcely be said that full justice was rendered either to Beethoven's Symphony in D (No. 2) or Rossini's Overture to "Semiramide"; the playing in the former being somewhat rough and in the latter decidedly tame. It needs another Sir Michael Costa to infuse the requisite spirit into the performance of Rossini's music. Miss Fanny Davies played Schumann's Concertstück in G (Op. 92) with beautiful finish, and was encored in Rubinstein's Staccato Study. In place of Mr. David Hughes, who was unable to appear, Mr. W. H. Cummings sang Beethoven's "Adelaida" and Félicien David's "O ma Maîtresse" with the utmost refinement, and songs were also contributed by Miss Mary Stiven.

A BANQUET of the musical graduates of Durham University took place at Anderton's Hotel, Fleet Street, on the 2nd ult. Dr. Armes, Organist of Durham Cathedral, who presided, was supported by Sir John Stainer, Dr. J. F. Bridge, and the Rev. Dr. Thomas Rogers, formerly Precentor of Durham Cathedral. The Bachelors of Music present were Messrs. A. D. Arnott, G. G. Beale, W. R. Kirby, W. H. Liddle, R. D. Metcalfe, A. Physick, Hamilton Robinson, Orlando J. Stimpson, J. C. B. Tirbutt, H. Davan Wetton, and E. Burritt Lane (Vice-Chairman and Hon. Secretary). The toast of the evening, "The University of Durham," was proposed by Sir John Stainer and responded to by Dr. Armes, and the health of the Examiners in the Faculty of Music was proposed by Mr. E. Burritt Lane and responded to by Sir John Stainer. Dr. J. F. Bridge proposed "The Musical Press," specially mentioning the great services rendered to the art of Music by THE MUSICAL TIMES and Musical News. It is intended that the banquet shall become an annual institution.

ON the 14th ult. Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch gave the last of his present series of Recitals of Old Music at 20, Fitzroy Street. It is impossible to speak too warmly of the interest and utility of these Recitals, or of the skill displayed by Mr. Dolmetsch and his coadjutors. Nowhere else can the student hear such music as—to name one or two of the more interesting pieces in the last programme—Alfonso Ferrabosco's "Dovehouse Pavan," for five viols and harpsichord; or Thomas Mace's Suite for the lute; or the quaint vocal pieces so artistically rendered by Miss Florence Monk and Mr. Albert Fairbairn. Not Mr. Dolmetsch alone, but all his colleagues seem to have the rare faculty of understanding the quaint beauties of these old instruments and the music of their time; and it is to be hoped that these excellent performances may shortly be given on a more extended and public scale. They deserve the sympathy and support of all.

A MOST creditable performance of "St. Paul" was given by the Catford Choral Society at St. James's Hall, Forest Hill, on April 26. This young Society has shown remarkable improvement since its energetic and able new Conductor, Mr. Alfred Furse, has wielded the bâton. Tone and tune, accent, phrasing, and general accuracy have now reached a level of excellence such as is rarely attained by suburban choirs, while the spirit and "go" with which the majority of the choruses were sung proved that Mr. Furse possesses the valuable secret of infusing some of his own enthusiasm into his singers. The solos were in the competent hands of Miss Florence Monk, Mrs. Alfred Furse, Mr. Gordon Fletcher, and Mr. W. H. Coltart. Miss Ethel M. Brissenden and Mr. A. D. Arnott ably played the pianoforte and harmonium accompaniments respectively, and a small but efficient string orchestra added greatly to the effect.

A MOST successful Concert was given by the members of the St. George's Glee Union, in the Pimlico Rooms, on the 6th ult., this being the 279th consecutive monthly Concert of the Society. The chief attraction was Mr. J. Munro Coward's Cantata "The Fishers," which was rendered by artists and chorus alike with excellent taste and precision. Mr. H. M. Higgs too, by his magnificent playing of the difficult accompaniments on the pianoforte, gave invaluable aid towards achieving a thoroughly good performance. It was a matter of regret that through illness the composer could not take his place at the Mustel organ. Miss Gertrude Aylward, Miss Lizzie Jones, Mr. William Fell, and Mr. Frederick Bevan were the soloists. Mr Joseph Monday, the hon. Conductor, is to be congratulated on such a successful occasion.

MR. FREDERIC GRIFFITHS, the young Welshman who, in February last, gave a tentative Flute Recital at the Royal Academy of Music, was emboldened on the 10th ult. to give a similar entertainment at the Steinway Hall. His experiment justified itself, for all that he undertook was carried through in excellent style. He is a really admirable performer on his instrument, being master alike of technique, tone, and expression. His most interesting performance was that of Bach's delightful Suite in E flat minor (No. 2) for flute and pianoforte, in which he was associated with Mr. Septimus Webbe; a graceful Suite by Mr. Edward German, composed for the occasion, was also heard with pleasure. The vocalists were Miss Hannah Jones and Mr. Arthur Oswald, who were, as usual, conspicuously successful.

THE Musical Artists' Society offered some engaging modern compositions at Princes' Hall on the 2nd ult., to an appreciative assemblage. The second part included Mr. Aguilar's string Quartet in A, a thoughtful and compact work, rendered by Messrs. Buziau, Harry Lee, A. Wright, and Albert, who neatly brought out all its more telling points. Mr. Gerard F. Cobb's effective settings of Bryant's poems, "A Spanish Lullaby" and "A Spanish Lament," were sung with much judgment by Mr. Herbert Thorndike. In Beethoven's Trio in B flat (Op. 97) Miss Lily Taylor, Mr. Buziau, and Mr. Albert were advantageously associated, and Mr. Wesché's Trio in E minor (Op. 19), also for pianoforte, violin, and violoncello, was played by Mr. Wesché and the stringed instrumentalists just mentioned.

THE London County Council Musical Society is among the youngest but not the least efficient of associations formed for the practice of part-songs and glees. Some of the clerks of the Council, emboldened by the favour accorded to their vocal efforts at some charitable entertainments, gave a miscellaneous Concert at St. Martin's Town Hall on the 6th ult., with Mr. Barnes as Conductor. Chorally, their most ambitious essay was Mendelssohn's "Ode to the Sons of Art," in which zeal was united to a fair amount of discretion. The choir can boast of some good voices, and entirely satisfactory results may ensue from assiduous rehearsal. Professional aid was rendered by Mrs. Helen Trust, Miss Eleanor Rees, and Mr. Alfred Izard, the latter of whom played in capital style Mendelssohn's Andante and Rondo Capriccioso.

MISS GUERRA DA FONTOURA, one of the most promising pupils of Mr. J. T. Hutchinson, organised an agreeable Concert at the Hampstead Conservatoire on the 13th ult. Oratorio and operatic excerpts and fugitive songs exhibited the well trained voice of Miss Da Fontoura, whose gifts of expression found ample scope in "Angels ever bright and fair" (rendered with much judgment and feeling), and in Cowen's songs "Thy remembrance" and "Snowflakes." The young artist deserved all the applause she obtained. Other excellent features were Miss Alice Farren's rendering of "Nobil Signor" and Mr. J. T. Hutchinson's refined singing of Gounod's "Le Nom de Marie." Miss Edith Middleton contributed pianoforte solos and Mr. Herbert James gave some excellent recitations.

THE 238th Festival of the Sons of the Clergy was held on the 11th ult., according to custom, in St. Paul's Cathedral, and again the proceedings embraced much that was musically interesting. A choir of 300 voices and a band assembled, under the conductorship of Dr. Martin, with Mr. W. Hodge at the organ. Mr. Henry Gadsby had specially composed for the occasion a setting in F of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, happily combining religious sentiment with effectiveness, to which very fair justice was done. A selection from Spohr's "Fall of Babylon," a work too seldom heard, formed the anthem. The service was preceded by Sir Arthur Sullivan's "In Memoriam" Overture, and after the Bishop of St. Asaph had preached a sermon, the "Old Hundredth" and the Hallelujah Chorus from "The Messiah" were sung.

MESSRS. GERALD and Herbert Walenn's annual Concert took place on the 25th ult., at the Athenæum, Camden Road, in the presence of a numerous and appreciative audience. The interesting programme provided on this occasion included Rheinberger's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat (Op. 38), the Fantasia Appassionata for violin by Vieuxtemps, violoncello pieces by Johnson and Popper, pianoforte variations by Thalberg, and songs by Giordani, Gounod, Cusins, Maude V. White, and others. In the interpretation of these numbers the Concert-givers were very ably assisted by Mrs. Frances Ralph (pianoforte), Miss Dorothea Walenn (violin), Mr. Arthur Walenn (viola), and Mrs. Helen Trust, Madame Mudie-Bolingbroke, and Mr. W. Shakespeare (vocalists). Mr. Alfred Izard acted as accompanist.

AN agreeable vocal Recital was given by Miss Marguerite Hall and Miss Evangeline Florence, the latter a new-comer from America, at the Princes' Hall on the 11th ult. Miss Hall's merits as a vocalist are sufficiently well known and it will suffice to state that they were displayed to advantage in various songs by Schubert, Grieg, Schumann, Henschel, and Saint-Saëns. Miss Florence has an excellent soprano voice of such extensive compass that in a song called "The Russian Nightingale," by Alabieff, she touched the A flat in altissimo. But if she is wise she will avoid such notes, which are really of no use, and devote herself to careful training for a time, for her vocal powers are as yet not fully developed. Miss Nettie Atkinson, a proficient violinist, and Master Jean Gerardy took part in the Recital.

MR. CARL FUCHS and Mr. H. S. Welsing were responsible for a Recital of violoncello and pianoforte music, which took place at Princes' Hall on the 18th ult. Mr. Fuchs is a violoncellist of considerable attainments, with an expressive style and adequate technique. His principal solo was the Allegro from Davidoff's Concerto in A minor. Mr. Welsing is a pianist of the somewhat impetuous order, with a charming touch and wonderful facility in the execution of rapid passages. At present he has scarcely enough restraint for the adequate performance of such a work as the "Waldstein" Sonata. The vocalist was Miss Marie Brema, who sang admirably, her contributions including a graceful setting by Mr. Welsing of Shelley's "Love's Philosophy."

SIGNOR LUIGI DENZA, the song composer, held his annual Concert at Princes' Hall on the evening of the 14th ult., when he was assisted in a lengthy programme by several vocalists and instrumentalists, some of whom have already acquired distinction. Miss Kate Bruckshaw gave a spirited reading of Mendelssohn's Andante and Rondo Capriccioso, and Messrs. René Ortmans and Bisaccia headed the catalogue with the second movement of Grieg's Sonata in F for violin and pianoforte. Madame Denza, Miss Effie Stewart (who gave the air "Héro sur la tour solitaire" from Gounod's "Sapho"), Miss Teresa Blamy, and Signor Franceschetti were among the vocalists, several of whom were accompanied by the Concert-giver.

THE performance of "Fra Diavolo" by the operatic students of the Guildhall School of Music attracted so much attention in March that the committee were induced to give another representation on the afternoon of the 10th ult., this time at the Lyric Theatre. Mr. Hermann Klein again conducted, and the soloists, the chorus, and the band showed such an intimate acquaintance with their respective labours as to evoke the commendation alike of professional and amateur musicians. As before, Miss Jessie Bradford was the Zerlina, Miss Annie Fisher the Lady Allcash, Mr. Wilfrid Acfield the brigand Marquis, Mr. Patrick O'Connor the Lorenzo, and Messrs. H. Land and Charles Hinchcliff the two comic desperados.

THE Cecilian Choral Society (Brondesbury) brought its first season to a successful close on April 28, when the third Concert was given at Brondesbury Hall to an appreciative audience. Gade's "Erl-King's Daughter" formed the first part of the programme, the solos being taken by Mrs. Ridler, Miss Leeds, and Mr. A. Johnson, all of whom did ample justice to their parts. The attack and tone of the chorus was good throughout and showed to great advantage in Faning's "Daybreak" and other pieces in the second part of the programme, which was miscellaneous. Mr. P. H. Dignam gave some capital recitations. Dr. J. A. Smith was an excellent accompanist and Mr. F. Leeds conducted.

A CONCERT was given, on the 11th ult., by the members of the British Museum Rifle Association, in their rooms in Chenies Street. Some assistance had been brought from outside, it is true, and the songs contributed by such deservedly popular artists as Miss Eleanor Rees, Madame Emily Squire, and Mr. Dyved Lewys added not a little to the interest of the entertainment; but, these apart, there was a great deal that was pleasurable in the performances of the members themselves, who displayed really considerable promise of future attainment. Two of them call for special mention—Mr. Herbert Gatfield, who gave songs by Adams and Lovett King, and Miss Evelyn Vickers, whose violin solos were very tasteful.

ON Saturday, the 21st ult., the Popular Musical Union gave a capital performance of Handel's Oratorio "Judas Maccabæus" at the People's Palace, Mile End. The magnificent Queen's Hall was crowded by an appreciative and enthusiastic audience, who demanded several encores. The band and chorus, numbering over 200 persons and conducted by Mr. W. Henry Thomas, were especially successful in the difficult choruses "Hear us, O Lord," "Fall'n is the foe," and "We worship God, and God alone." The soloists were Miss Edna Grey, Miss A. B. Devonshire, Miss Rettican, Mr. Wilbur Gunn, and Mr. J. Claus.

THE North-East London Choral Society held its last Concert of the season at the Morley Hall, Hackney, on the 10th ult., when Cowen's "Corsair" and a Dramatic Ballad, "Ivry," by H. Elliot Button, formed the principal pieces of the programme. The latter, an effective setting of Macaulay's poem for baritone solo and chorus, was performed for the first time, the composer conducting, and was enthusiastically received. The soloists for the evening were Miss Kate Fusselle, Madame Clara West, Mr. Lawrence Fryer, and Mr. Morgan Wilkinson. Mr. W. G. Wood accompanied at the pianoforte, Mr. L. B. Prout at the harmonium, and Mr. John E. West conducted.

THE seventh and last Clapham Philharmonic Concert of the present season was given at the Assembly Rooms on April 28, when the Hann family performed a selection of chamber music, including Haydn's Quartet in G (Op. 76), Raff's Quintet in A minor (Op. 107), and solos by Mr. Sidney Hann (pianoforte), Mr. Lewis Hann (violin), and Mr. William Hann (violoncello). The Clapham Choral Society contributed several madrigals and part-songs. It is to be hoped that the untiring efforts of the Director, Mr. Walter Mackway, to give high-class music at popular prices in the neighbourhood, may next season meet with extended encouragement.

THE second Concert of Madame Winn's Choral Society was given at the West Hampstead Town Hall on the 14th ult., when Mendelssohn's "Athalie" and Beethoven's Choral Fantasia were performed. The soloists were Miss Ethel Winn, Miss Bessie Elliott, and Madame Florence Winn, Mr. Charles Fry reciting the verses, and these artists were joined in the second part by Mr. Lawrence Kellie and Mr. T. E. Gatehouse. The solo pianoforte part in the Fantasia was excellently played by Mr. Clement Locknane, and the choir again showed the results of excellent training by Mr. Henry Baker, who directed the performance.

THE 242nd Monthly Concert of the Grosvenor Choral Society took place at the Grosvenor Hall, Buckingham Palace Road, on Friday, the 20th ult., when Prout's Cantata "Hereward" was performed before a large audience. The soloists were Madame Merton Clarke, Miss Lucy Etheridge, and Messrs. S. S. Millen and Charles Akerman, Miss N. Gibbs, and Mr. A. J. Reynolds. The chief praise of the evening was undoubtedly earned by the choir, and Mr. David Woodhouse, their able Conductor, could well feel satisfied. Mrs. France and Mr. George Winny at the pianoforte displayed their usual skill.

THE fourth annual banquet of the London College of Music was held at the Holborn Restaurant on the 16th ult., Mr. Alfred J. Caldicott in the chair. Various speeches were delivered showing what progress the College work had made during the past year, and music was excellently rendered during the evening by Mr. Henry Bailey, Mr. Leonard Russell, Mr. Percy Palmer, and Mr. Seymour Smith. Before the proceedings closed Mr. Thomas Ward intimated his willingness to give a Scholarship of the value of £25 to be competed for by students of the College.

THE Woodside Park Musical Society gave an excellent performance of Handel's Oratorio "Samson" at the Woodside Hall, North Finchley, on Thursday, April 28. The solos were well rendered by Madame Annie Marriott, Miss Mary Morgan, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. John Bridson. The accompaniments consisted of a professional string quintet, led by Mr. Henry Lewis; pianoforte, Miss Preston; and harmonium, Mr. W. Alcock. Mr. Alfred J. Dye, the Society's Conductor, directed the performance.

THE Brockley Choral and Orchestral Society gave as its closing Concert of the season Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus" and Parts I. and II. of Haydn's "Creation," in the Brockley Presbyterian Church, on the 5th ult. The soloists were Miss Gwendoline Martin, Mr. H. E. Cockell, and Mr. Albert Fairbairn. Mr. W. C. Pellatt conducted. Mr. Meriton Sargeant led the band and Miss Imrie presided at the organ.

A PERFORMANCE of Mendelssohn's Oratorio "Elijah" was given on the afternoon of Sunday, the 15th ult., at St. John the Evangelist's, Waterloo Road, when the solos were undertaken by Miss Gertrude Izard, Miss Alice Long, Mr. Joseph Gostick, and Mr. Frederick Winton. Mr. S. S. Martyn conducted, and Mr. Henry J. B. played gave the accompaniments upon the organ. The choir numbered about eighty voices.

A HIGHLY successful Concert was given by the Regent's Park Choral Society, at Christ Church School Rooms, on Friday, the 6th ult., when Mendelssohn's "Lobgesang" and a miscellaneous selection were performed in a highly satisfactory manner, under the conductorship of Mr. John C. Ward. The solos were undertaken by members of the Society, and the choruses gave evidence of careful training.

THE Committee of the South African and International Exhibition are making extensive preparations for first-class musical performances at the forthcoming Kimberley Exhibition. The Grand Concert Organ, built specially by Messrs. Norman Bros. and Beard, is now ready to ship. This is the largest instrument that has been exported to Cape Colony.

THE choir of the Bow and Bromley Institute, under Mr. W. G. McNaught, gave a performance of the "Golden Legend" on April 25. The principals were Miss Thudichum, Miss Edith Hands, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. W. H. Burgon. The band was led by Mr. Frye Parker, and Mr. Herbert Ellingford was at the organ.

ON the 14th ult. the Aldenham Institute Choral and Orchestral Society gave a performance of Romberg's Cantata "The Lay of the Bell." The soloists were Miss K. Grace Richardson, Mr. H. L. Fulkerson, and Mr. James Blackney. The band and chorus, under their able Conductor, Mr. Selman Dearle, showed excellent training.

THE Merchant Taylors' School Choral Society gave their seventeenth annual Concert on the 10th ult. in the large hall of the school. The first part of the programme included Mackenzie's Cantata "The Bride," which was well performed under the direction of Mr. Edmund Rogers, Conductor of the Society.

A SHORT Oratorio, by Mr. Arundel Orchard, called "Easter Morn," was performed at Bloomsbury Hall on April 28. The work is tuneful, descriptive, and, at times, dramatic. Special mention may be made of the chorus "Angels in heaven"; of Mary Magdalen's solo, "Where is my beloved," and of the duet, "Hear not ye."

MENDELSSOHN'S "Elijah" was given by the Kyrle Choir, under the direction of Mr. F. A. W. Docker, on the 10th ult., at St. Peter's Church, Islington. Soloists: Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Rina Robinson, Mr. Herbert Clinch, and Mr. George Tate.

THE series of weekly Organ Recitals now being given in St. Michael's, Cornhill, on Wednesdays, at 1.15, was resumed on the 4th ult., when Mr. Henry Riding (of Chigwell Church) played selections from living composers of the English, German, and French schools.

ON the 24th, 25th, and 26th ult., at a Bazaar held in aid of the Great Northern Central Hospital at the Hampstead Conservatoire, interesting Organ Recitals were given by Messrs. J. E. Borland, Fountain Meen, and Richard A. Northcott.

ON the 26th ult. Sir John Stainer's Cantata "The Daughter of Jairus" was performed at Kensington Chapel. Mr. F. G. Shuttleworth was the Organist and Mr. H. Elliot Button the Conductor.

MR. SYDNEY G. R. COLES gave a Lecture on "Choir Training" before the members and friends of the Church Choir Guild, at 35, Wellington Street, Strand, on the 9th ult.

AT a Convocation held at Oxford, on the 19th ult., Mr. Franklin Peterson, Edinburgh, was presented by the Professor of Music for the degree of Mus. Bac.

REVIEWS.

Octavo Anthems, Nos. 384-393.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

IT is difficult to keep pace with the rapid issue of this valued series of anthems, but, at any rate, ten numbers may be briefly dealt with at the present moment. The first is "Father of Life," by Samuel J. Gilbert, described as a marriage hymn for four voices, though it is really an anthem, as the stanzas of the Rev. Flood Jones have received varied treatment, in spite of a hymn-like character being preserved in the rhythmic flow of the music. The close is solemn and impressive. No. 385, "To Thee, O Lord," by S. Coleridge Taylor, is a short but pleasing anthem, smoothly written for the voices, though an organ accompaniment is essential. No. 386, "We beseech Thee, O Lord," by John E. West, is a setting of the collect for the Feast of the Annunciation, in simple four-part harmony, but musicianly and expressive. No. 387, "We shall not hunger," by A. C. Mackenzie, is the charming unaccompanied quartet in the last part of "The Rose of Sharon." In performing the work it is usually omitted, but as a detached piece it should attain wide popularity. No. 388, "Grant, we beseech Thee," by J. Varley Roberts, is a setting for bass solo and chorus of the Collect for the Twenty-first Sunday after Trinity. It may fairly be described as at once tuneful, devotional, and easy. No. 389, "Hear me when I call," by Theodore Distin, is a very simple but pleasing little anthem for men's voices only (alto, two tenors, and bass). The second tenor part, however, is quite within baritone compass. No. 390, "Blessed are they that mourn," by A. Wellesley Batson, is a solemn and deeply expressive anthem, brief and not difficult, but noteworthy for rich modern harmonies. No. 391, "Lord, I have loved," by F. Iliffe, is quiet, but extremely pleasing, with a melodious soprano solo. No. 392, a setting of the Lord's Prayer, by J. Barnby, is, within its limits of four pages, singularly rich in effective points, the close being specially impressive. It is appropriately marked to be sung "with great solemnity," and is, of course, choral throughout. The last that we can notice this month is "Like as the hart" (No. 393), for soprano solo and chorus, by Thomas Adams, a melodious little anthem written in a refined and musicianly style.

L'Enfant Prodigue. Pantomime in three Acts. By Michel Carré fils. Music (for pianoforte solo) by André Wormser. [Metzler and Co.]

So large a measure of success has attended the production in London of "L'Enfant Prodigue" that the critic is spared the necessity of discussing its numerous and varied merits. There can be no question that the composer has been fortunate in his choice of a collaborateur. The story is from beginning to end thoroughly interesting; but to express dramatic emotion by means of instrumental music alone, the musician must possess an imaginative power—nay, more, a capacity for characterisation which is rarely to be met with. Such a capacity Mr. Wormser exhibits in a way which does honour to him as a dramatic artist as well as a musician. In the work under notice there is much of the sparkling charm and delicacy of touch which belong peculiarly to the French school. But there is also a pathos, a subtlety, and a depth of sentiment which are seldom to be found in works not of Teutonic origin. Technically speaking, Mr. Wormser is, in his instrumentation, harmonisation, and liberal employment of the Leitmotif, Wagnerian. Yet, whilst availing himself of the Bayreuth master's methods, he has by no means discarded the older system in the delineation of emotion; and so deftly has he welded his melodies and representative themes that they form as complete and organic a whole as anyone save the most rabid Wagnerite could desire.

The Philharmonic Society of New York. By Henry Edward Krehbiel. A Memorial, published on the occasion of the fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of the Philharmonic Society, April, 1892. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE title of this interesting little work sufficiently indicates its nature. With regard to its subject we cannot do better than quote Mr. Krehbiel's opening lines: "For half a century the Philharmonic Society of New York has been the most conspicuous, dignified, and stable musical institution in the American metropolis. Its history embraces the whole period in which symphonic music of the highest class has been effectively cultivated by professional musicians in the United States. It is not only the oldest established orchestra in the country, but was also the first organisation capable of performing a classic symphony whose members banded together for that specific purpose. As an influence in the musical development of America it occupies a place by the side of the Handel and Haydn Society of Boston. As the latter inculcated a love for choral music in its members, which, like zealous missioners, they carried into all parts of the country, so the Philharmonic Society has stimulated the organisation of orchestras in the chief cities of the United States, and recruited many of them." The history of such an organisation must necessarily be of interest to musicians. That it has been admirably told all who know anything of Mr. Krehbiel's fitness for such a task will take as a matter of course.

Manual of Musical History. With 129 illustrations of portraits, musical instruments, and fac-similes of rare and curious works. By James E. Matthews. [Grevel and Co.]

THIS is a reprint of the author's "Popular History of Music from St. Ambrose to Mozart," with four additional chapters which bring the record up to the present time. The book makes no claim to original thought on the subject of which it treats, but as a reasonably accurate resumé of the enormous array of facts comprised within the period covered it deserves praise. Mr. Matthews writes pleasantly, avoids going too deeply into technical matters, and is commendably wide in his sympathies. The illustrations have been chosen with much judgment, and reproduced with care and skill; but it is a pity that so few examples in music type are given. More serious than this, however, is the omission of all reference to the harmonised music of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries—that of the Paris school which preceded the Flemish of the fourteenth and fifteenth—an omission for which, in the face of Mr. Matthews's frequent references to Coussemaker, it is difficult to account. In this, however, he can certainly not be said to sin alone. The book is well calculated to stimulate interest among those who approach the subject for the first time; a bibliography has been added to each chapter for the help of adventurous spirits who would go farther.

Collection of Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices. Nos. 241-251. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MUSIC for ladies' choirs is in constantly increasing demand, and conductors will welcome the present addition to their available repertory. The first six numbers consist of pieces by King Hall, whose graceful pen has long rendered excellent service in the lighter forms of the art. They are all duets, and are equally suitable for single voices or for choral classes. It is difficult to give the preference to any of the series, as all are pleasing; but for musicianly taste and expression perhaps the best are No. 242, "Sweet little Bird"; No. 245, "The Garden of Peace"; and No. 246, "Morning Song." No. 247 is the Earl of Mornington's universally popular "Here, in cool grot," arranged for female voices, concerning which criticism would be superfluous; but the next number is Berlioz's little-known "Ophelia," a ballad for two voices, needing very careful training for its proper interpretation, and also much intelligence in its executants. No. 249, "Early Morning," by John Kinross, is a simple and tuneful two-part song, written for the most part in thirds and sixths, and adapted to the qualifications of young singers. The same composer's "Hunters' Song," No. 250, and "Merry Songsters," No. 251, are both lively ditties for two voices, the latter having a delicate and piquant accompaniment.

Short Anthems, Nos. 40-43. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

FOUR more numbers of this interesting series have recently been issued. No. 40, "Come unto Me," by Matthew Kingston, is for St. Mathias's Day or general use. It is a melodious and richly harmonised sketch in 3-4 time. No. 41, "The Sacrifices of God," by Hugh Blair, is, of course, for Lent; but though serious, it is not sad in character, and it would be most effective unaccompanied. The same composer's "I will go forth," No. 42, is bright and more varied in style, containing even some modest fugal writing. Mr. Hugh Blair's "O praise God" has similar characteristics and is extremely vigorous and animated, being, therefore, specially suitable for Festival use.

Original Compositions for the Organ, Nos. 147 and 148. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE first of these numbers contains a Festival March in E flat, by Herbert W. Wareing. This is a remarkably bold and spirited piece, the chord progressions and the general phraseology being suggestive of the modern French school, and especially of Gounod, but without any of the flippancy which, rightly or wrongly, is associated with organ music from Gallic sources. No. 148 consists of a Short Voluntary in F, by Hamilton Clarke, opening in what may be termed a smooth and purely legitimate English style, but being mainly formed of a vigorous fugato passage and a lively movement, in which the original theme is embellished with embroidery in triplet quavers. The piece is effective and not difficult.

Sketches in Music. For the Pianoforte. Book I. Composed by Edward W. Hamilton. [Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co.]

THIS little Album of twelve pages contains six pieces, without titles, but remarkable for rhythmic life and melodic charm. Though presenting no executive difficulties, they should be attempted only by those who command the graces of style, can phrase, and know what tonal gradation means. If Mr. Hamilton's Muse be always as dainty and as discreet as this, she may count on a large circle of admirers.

Christ is risen. Anthem for Easter. By J. H. Maunder. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE words of this little Anthem are taken, by permission, from "Hymns Ancient and Modern." Although the music is appropriately jubilant in character, it is studiously simple, being not only full throughout, but free from anything like contrapuntal elaboration. The part-writing might almost be described as hymn-like, while at the same time the harmonic progressions have frequently a distinctly modern flavour.

FOREIGN NOTES.

PROFESSOR EHRLICH, of Berlin, reports in the Berliner Tageblatt upon a visit recently paid by him to Verdi, at Milan, giving some highly interesting details regarding the conversation he had with the veteran Maëstro. Concerning his young countryman, Pietro Mascagni, whose phenomenal successes naturally formed part of the conversation, Verdi expressed himself at some length, beginning with a comparison of "L'Amico Fritz" and "Tristan und Isolde," and pointing out the frequent change of tempo in both works, a change even more conspicuous in Mascagni's opera than in that of Wagner. "And yet," the Maëstro continued, "in 'Tristan' the changes of tempo are required for the delineation of the most turbulent passions, while their use in the midst of the placid rural scenes of 'L'Amico Fritz' is incomprehensible to me. Nevertheless, Mascagni possesses very great talent, and he has, moreover, introduced an effective novelty—short operas, without needless accessories. The mistake we older ones have made was to think it indispensable to write long operatic pieces which had to fill out an entire evening. Thus we were always compelled to rack our brains in order to provide enough music to last for four hours and a half. The consequence was the introduction of grand choruses, which had little enough to do with the subject-matter of the work in hand; of interpolated scenas and arias, which only impeded the action. Now comes this young composer with his one or two-act operas, with his great talent and easy musical invention; the action moves along uninterruptedly, and he is received with enthusiasm by a delighted public."

Dr. Hans von Bülow, who is just now paying a visit to Italy, has, according to German papers, addressed a letter to Verdi, wherein he renders homage to his genius and "retracts former adverse criticism" of the Maëstro. Verdi has, it is said, replied in most amiable terms. Dr. von Bülow will conduct Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony at the Swabian Musical Festival, which takes place at Augsburg in Whitsuntide.

Another "Cristoforo Colombo," a "ballet-opera" in four acts, the libretto and the music by the Maëstro Dionisio Corradi, has been accepted for performance during the forthcoming Columbus Centenary festivities at Genoa. The number of operatic and other musical tributes to the memory of the great navigator is certainly growing apace.

The first performance in Paris of Brahms's "Schicksalslied" was given on the 7th ult., by the Euterpe Choral Society, under the direction of M. Duetil d'Ozanne. The words of the Cantata have been ably translated into French by M. Amédée Boutarel.

A committee, at the head of which are the composer Antonio Cagnoni and Signor Piatti, the eminent violoncellist, has been formed in Italy for the purpose of erecting a monument to Donizetti at his native town of Bergamo. Provided that sufficient funds have been forthcoming during the time, the monument is to be inaugurated on the occasion of the birth centenary of the composer of "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Favorita," in 1798.

Signor Mascagni has been furnished by the joint librettists of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Rantzau," MM. Targioni-Tozzetti and Menasci, with a new libretto, founded upon a drama entitled "Vestilia," by the Italian poet Signor Rocco de Zerbi.

At the Paris Grand Opéra the long-expected première of M. Ernest Reyer's opera "Salammbò," the libretto adapted from Gustave Flaubert's historical novel by M. Camille de Locle, took place on the 12th ult., and was received with enthusiasm by a brilliant and crowded audience. The work, like its predecessor "Sigurd," from the same pen, was first brought out at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, in Brussels, where it met with a series of representations two years ago. The principal interpreters in the present instance were Madame Rose Caron, Messrs. Saléza, Vergnet, Renaud, and Delmas. The mise-en-scène is described as simply superb, nothing like it having ever been seen on the stage of the Opéra. At the conclusion of the performance M. Reyer presented the autograph manuscript of the score to Madame Rose Caron, as a token of his admiration of her interpretation of the titular part.

M. Auguste Chapuis' opera "Enguerrande" was produced for the first time at the Paris Opéra Comique, on the 9th ult., meeting, however, with a somewhat lukewarm reception. The libretto, the author of which is M. Victor Wilder, is founded upon a poem by M. Emile Bergerat, and the music is described as eminently musician-like, albeit partaking somewhat unduly of a semi-ecclesiastical character, the composer being the present Organist of the Madeleine. The principal parts in the Opera were ably sustained by Mdlle. Boncart (Enguerrande) and M. Gibert (Gaetan).

With reference to the statement contained in our March number, to the effect that the newly built Eden Theatre of Paris was to be taken over by a syndicate for the purpose of operatic performances, under the management of M. Detroyat, a correspondent informs us that the scheme has fallen through, and that the theatre has been leased by M. Posel, the manager of the Odéon, who hopes to compete with the Comédie Française, with a company including Coquelin and Sarah Bernhardt. The new Eden Theatre will contain 1,800 seats and is to be opened on the 1st of October next.

The next novelty to be produced at the Grand Opéra will be the opera "Stratonice," by M. Fournier, who gained the second Grand Prix de Rome at the Conservatoire last year. The work is already in active rehearsal, under the direction of M. Th. Dubois.

M. Alfred Bruneau, the composer of "Le Rêve," is engaged upon the score of a second lyrical drama, the libretto of which, by M. Louis Gallet, is based upon a story by M. Emile Zola, "L'Attaque du Moulin." The new work, which is in four acts, is to be brought out at the Opéra Comique.

The following is the complete programme of the Musical Festival of the Lower Rhine, to be held from the 5th to the 7th inst., at Cologne, and which is to be devoted exclusively to the "Music of the Nineteenth Century"—viz., On the first day—Overture, "Euryanthe" (Weber); 114th Psalm (Mendelssohn); Symphony in D minor (Schumann); "Triumphlied" (Brahms); Finale from "Götterdämmerung" (Wagner); Ninth Symphony (Beethoven). On the second day—Overture, "Anacreon" (Cherubini); Requiem (Verdi); Symphony, "Roméo et Juliette" (Berlioz). On the third day — Concert-Overture (Hiller); 13th Psalm (Liszt); Concert Espagnol for violin (Lalo); Dramatic scene, "Hagar in the desert" (Rubinstein); Cantata, "Schön Ellen" (Bruch); "Tod und Verklärung," symphonic poem (Richard Strauss); Overture, "Leonore," No. 3 (Beethoven); "Liebesfee," violin solo with orchestra (Raff); "Kaisermarsch" (Wagner); Songs (Schubert, Rob. Franz, and Peter Cornelius). Amongst the soloists are Frl. Malten, of Dresden; Frl. Leisinger, of Berlin; and Señor Sarasate. The Festival will be conducted by Dr. Franz Wüllner.

Tschaikowsky's opera "Eugène Onégin" was performed on April 24, for the first time in Germany, at the Darmstadt Hof-Theater, and met with a good reception. The performance, under the direction of Capellmeister de Haan, was an excellent one.

A new opera, entitled "Cornelius Schütt," by Anton Smareglia, has been accepted for performance at the Imperial Opera of Vienna.

At the instance of the Austrian Government a number of sacred compositions by the Emperors Ferdinand, Leopold I., and Leopold II. have just been published at Vienna, where the manuscripts have been preserved in the State archives.

Two hitherto unknown Symphonies by Mozart, in C and F major, have just been published by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, of Leipzig. These interesting scores were formerly in the possession of Herr Mathias von Wenger, and are supposed to have originally been kept in a convent at Hall, in the Tyrol, which Mozart visited in the year 1772.

A. Enna's opera "The Witch," brought out some time since with great success at Copenhagen, is about to be produced at the German Theatre in Prague, under the personal supervision of the young Danish composer.

Ignaz Brüll's new opera "Gringoire," successfully produced recently at the Munich Hof-Theater, has been accepted for performance at some thirty German operatic stages.

Professor Hermann Schroeder, of Berlin, is engaged upon the score of an opera, entitled "Die Wenden," the subject of which is based upon German history in the twelfth century, the fundamental idea being the final triumph of Christianity over heathen idolatry. The libretto is from the pen of M. Marquardt, and will shortly be published.

Johann Strauss's opera "Ritter Pazmann," first produced at the Vienna Hofoper, and recently brought out also with great success at Prague, is about to be produced at the Royal Opera of Berlin.

Rubinstein's opera "Die Maccabäer" was performed, on the 12th ult., at the Krollsche Theater in Berlin, under the personal direction of the composer, and met with a most enthusiastic reception, Frau Meran-Olden singing the part of Leah and Frl. Prosky that of Naëmi. The work was, however, no novelty at Berlin, having been frequently performed at the Royal Opera in former years, with Marianne Brandt as an inimitable interpreter of the part of Leah.

Frl. Marie Joachim, a daughter of the great violinist, has created an immense amount of enthusiasm at Munich upon her recent assumption, at the Hof-Theater, of the difficult and exacting part of Brünhilde in Wagner's "Die Walküre."

The recent successful Concert performance, by the musicians of the Fifth Bavarian Infantry Regiment stationed at Bamberg, of Berlioz's Symphony "Harold in Italy," under the direction of Herr Emil Burow, deserves notice as a remarkable and praiseworthy effort on the part of a military band.

A new critically revised edition of the literary work of Robert Schumann has just been published in two volumes by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, in Leipzig. It has been most ably edited by Herr Gustav Jansen, musical director in Verden.

A Grieg Society has been formed at Leipzig by the Scandinavian students of the Conservatorium, who commemorated the fact by a Concert, given on the 17th ult., at the Leipzig Crystal Palace, the programme of which included the String Quartet in G minor, a pianoforte piece, and a number of songs by the Norwegian composer.

A romantic opera, "Cassilda," composed some forty years since by Duke Ernest of Saxe Coburg-Gotha, was performed on the 3rd ult., both at Leipzig and at Darmstadt, in honour of the Golden Wedding celebrated by the Duke and his Consort on that day.

Madame Adelina Patti has achieved a triumphant success at New York. On the occasion of her farewell Concert last month there was an audience of some 20,000, who received and applauded the diva with immense enthusiasm.

The famous Maennergesang-Verein of Cologne celebrated, on April 27, the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation with the performance, in the Cathedral, of a "Requiem," in memory of its deceased members, and a grand Concert in the Gürzenich Hall.

Herr Johannes Elmblad, formerly a bass singer at the Dresden Opera, is said to be actively engaged upon the organisation of a Scandinavian "Richard Wagner Theatre," for the purpose of performances, in the Swedish language, of the Bayreuth master's music-dramas, more particularly of the "Ring des Nibelungen" and "Tristan und Isolde." The singers are to be of Swedish nationality, while the orchestra will be chiefly recruited from Germany. The undertaking is supported by a number of influential music-lovers in Sweden.

J. S. Svendsen, the well-known Norwegian composer, and Conductor of the Royal Opera, Copenhagen, has written a festive Cantata for the occasion of the Golden Wedding celebrations at the Danish Court.

Peter Tschaikowsky has completed the music to a ballet, the libretto of which is founded upon Hoffmann's popular story of "Nussknacker und Mausekönig." An Orchestral Suite, arranged by the composer from the score of his new work, met with a most enthusiastic reception on its recent first performance at St. Petersburg.

The twenty-fifth anniversary has just been celebrated at Bucharest of the foundation of the Philharmonic Concerts, an institution which has done excellent work in cultivating the taste for high-class music amongst the Roumanian people. The founder of these Concerts is Herr Eduard Wachmann, the present director of the Bucharest Conservatoire.

Ibsen's weird drama "Peer Gynt," with Eduard Grieg's incidental music, has been revived at the Royal Theatre, Christiania, where it is attracting numerous audiences. The work was first performed here in 1877.

The first performance of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" in the Russian language took place last month at the Royal Theatre of Moscow, and met with a very good reception. A season of Russian opera has been inaugurated at the "Nineteenth Century" Theatre of the same town with the performance of Borodine's opera "Prince Igor."

The first performance of an important new opera by Señor Tomas Breton, the composer of "Gli Amanti di Teruel," took place last month at the Teatro del Liceo, in Barcelona. The work is entitled "Garin," the libretto being concerned with the scenic representation of an old Catalanian legend, to which but little dramatic interest attaches; but the music wedded thereto is characterised as of a high order, placing its composer in the very first rank of Castilian composers. The performance met with a highly favourable reception.

A new melodrama in three acts, entitled "Valete de copos," by Gervasio Lobato and João da Camara, the music by Cyriaco de Cardozo, met with conspicuous success on its first performance last month at the Avenida Theatre, in Lisbon. The Portuguese papers are full of praise respecting the ability displayed by the composer.

An International Choral Competition is to take place on the 17th and 18th of next month at Brussels, in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the foundation of the "Orphéon" Male Choral Society in that capital.

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Grétry was celebrated last month at the Royal Theatre of Liège, by the performance of excerpts from the numerous operas by that master, followed by an admirable discourse delivered by M. Arthur Pougin, the eminent Paris musical savant, and the performance of a "Hymne à Grétry," specially written for the occasion by M. Sylvain Dupuis. The proceedings terminated with the fiftieth representation at Liège of Grétry's chef d'œuvre, "Richard Cœur de Lion," which was most enthusiastically received by an audience which crowded every part of the house.

Columbus centenary celebrations are in course of preparation also at Mexico, where the proceedings will include the performance, at the National Theatre, of a new opera, "Cristoforo Colombo a San Domingo," by Señor Giulio Morales, the son of Melesio Morales, a professor at the Conservatorio of Mexico, whose opera "Cleopatra" met with distinguished and lasting success at that capital last year.

CORRESPONDENCE.

ANCIENT AND MODERN FORMS OF HYMN TUNES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In your last issue is a letter from the Rev. Christopher Thompson commenting upon the false accents so frequently met with in iambic-metre hymns. These cases are indeed painfully numerous in the finest hymns—witness such instances as "Keep mé, O keép me, King of kings," and "Sorrów and love flow mingling down." The errors become so noticeable through the poetry being wedded to music—a purpose for which it was probably never intended by the writers. When read, the false accents can be so far palliated as not to interfere materially with the rhythmical flow of the metre; but the result is far different when sung to the inexorable ictus of a metrical tune. The merits of many such hymns are so universally acknowledged that it would be vain—nay, wrong—to advocate their exclusion from hymnals; but I confess I fail to see that the suggestion of reverting to the original form in which some of the tunes were set would afford a remedy. The inconsistency is due to the inevitable accents upon the first and third beats in each bar of the music. Can these accents be modified by doubling the length of the unaccented notes at the commencement of each line?

I was (as far as I know) the first to publish a collection ("The Church Tune and Chorale Book," Novello, 1858) containing common-time tunes written in ONE UNIFORM MEASURE of four beats to a bar, with compensating rests or dots to complete the short, or six-foot, lines. That the consistency of this plan commended itself to other editors is plain from the subsequent issue of "Hymns Ancient and Modern," and of nearly every hymnal of importance, barred upon the same system.

Would that all organists could be drilled into playing hymn-tunes in strict time. How constantly do we hear the beats ruthlessly ignored, to the annoyance of every one possessed of a feeling for accurate time.—Yours, &c.,

T. L. FORBES.

8, Lancaster Place, Belsize Square, N.W.,
May 4, 1892.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN VIOLINS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—On page 273 of your last number you quote from a contemporary a notice of an improvement in violins by Mr. J. D. Herring, and stigmatise it as "meaningless balderdash." I have had this patented improvement applied to two of my violins, and am glad to say that the result is in every way satisfactory. It is well known that however much care may be taken in stringing a violin it is almost impossible to obtain anything like true fifths in all the different positions, and consequently passages across the strings in the higher positions are difficult to play in tune, to say nothing of fifths in double stops. But when Mr. Herring's clever invention is applied, the vibratory power of the instrument is so much increased that these discordant fifths are forced into a sort of sympathetic union, the result being a smooth harmonious sound. Added to this, the tone is much more free and full, and the notes in all parts of the instrument very equal. I can heartily recommend all violinists to give the device a fair trial, and feel sure they will be delighted with the result.—Yours faithfully,

W. BRADLEY.

63, Bowker Street,
Higher Broughton, Manchester.

[The paragraph we quoted was so vaguely worded, no clue to the nature of the invention being afforded, that we think it deserved our strong epithet, which of course could not be intended to refer to the invention itself. We are glad to hear intelligible witness borne to its merits.—ED. M. T.]

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

ANXIOUS.—Write to the Secretary of either the Royal Academy of Music or the Royal College of Music, who will send you full particulars of the Examinations available to you.

G. B. RONCONI (Boston).—Surely you have become confused. Music written in the treble clef, when attempted by a bass or tenor voice, is, of course, sung an octave lower. But every student (in this country, at least) knows that the notation in such cases does not represent the real sounds. Your notion that this is a "secret" is too funny.

MUSICAL.—Much time may be saved by using hand gymnastics (see Ridley Prentice's Book in Novello's Primers) to develop strength and flexibility. They must not, however, be regarded as replacing, but as supplementing practice on the instrument.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ALNWICK.—A fine organ, built by Messrs. Harrison and Harrison, of Durham, for the Parish Church, Alnwick, was opened on the 5th ult. by Mr. J. M. Preston, Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond. Frequent Recitals have been given by Mr. Ions, of Newcastle Cathedral, and others; as well as by Mr. C. Stanley Wise, Organist of the Church, under whose supervision the instrument was built.

BECCLES.—A Concert was given by the Choral Society on the 10th ult. Parry's Ode on St. Cecilia's Day and his Blest Pair of Sirens were the principal pieces; the solo vocalists being Miss Pierce and Mr. Dan Price. Mr. W. H. Williamson was the Conductor BERKHAMPSTEAD, HERTS.—A very successful miscellaneous Concert, under the direction of Mr. J. T. Bavin (Master of Music at Berkhampstead School), was given in the Town Hall on the 16th ult. The vocalists, Miss Annie Matthews, Madame Sutton Shepley, Mr. Lawrence Fryer, and Mr. Sutton Shepley, all well deserved the hearty applause with which their efforts were greeted, and Mr. W. Saunders aroused the enthusiasm of his audience by his violin solos. The Rev. C. J. Langley's pianoforte solo, which was also well received, proved that his power of execution is far beyond that possessed by the majority of amateurs. The programme included Bach's Concerto in C for three pianofortes (Miss Fricker, Rev. C. J. Langley, and Mr. Bavin) and Schumann's Andante with variations (Op. 46) for two pianofortes (Rev. C. J. Langley and Mr. Bavin); while Mr. Bavin also undertook the duties of accompanist.

CAMBRIDGE.—A Lecture upon "Music before the Christian Era" was delivered at the Alexandra Hall, by Mrs. Brownlow, on the 19th ult., under the auspices of the Local Lectures Association. The chair was occupied by Mr. Sedley Taylor, and there was a fairly numerous attendance. The lecturer dealt with pre-historic, Egyptian, Semitic, Greek, and Latin musical practices, and sang several examples in illustration of her remarks.

CHELTENHAM.—Herr Lortzing's Choir gave a very successful "At Home" in the Rotunda on the 7th ult. Hamish MacCunn's Bonny Kilmeny was well rendered, the solos being sung by Miss Rae, Mr. Bentley, and Mr. Prior. Roeckel's Cantata for female voices, Merrie England, was also successfully performed—solos by Mrs. F. Danberry, Miss Boissier, and Miss Wilkins. A couple of pieces for mandolines and guitars completed the programme.

CHIGWELL.—The Grammar School was crowded by appreciative audiences on the occasion of performances of Sullivan's Trial by Jury during Easter week. Miss Ada Palmer, Colonel Huyshe, Messrs. J. E. Browne, Kingsbury, and Leslie Holland undertook the chief characters with great success, and Mr. Henry Riding conducted.

DENBIGH.—The Philharmonic Society gave a performance of Dr. Stainer's Daughter of Jairus and Coward's Bethany in the Drill Hall, on the 19th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. Felix C. Watkins (St. Asaph). The principals were Miss Fannie Sellers, Miss M. L. Booker, Mr. S. C. Jones, Mr. Bartley, and Mr. Hartley Ditchburn. Mr. T. S. Roberts presided at the harmonium, and Mr. Haselden led the orchestra.

EARLSFIELD.—On the 11th ult. the choir of St. Andrew's, which had been largely augmented for the occasion by neighbouring choirs, rendered The Creation with full orchestral accompaniments. The large church was crowded in every part. The solos were effectively sung by Miss Stella Maris, Mr. A. Nash, and Mr. E. Bowles. The Conductor was Mr. G. A. Higgs. Mr. Wheeler, the Organist and Choirmaster, presided at the organ.

FAVERSHAM.—Mr. C. D. Hobday's ninth annual Concert, given at the Lecture Hall on the 16th ult., was very successful. The instrumentalists, all members of the clever Hobday family, played the Novelletten for small orchestra by Gade, and Schubert's Pianoforte Quintet, besides duets and solos for their respective instruments. Miss Jeanie Rankin and Mr. Braxton Smith contributed high-class songs in their usual satisfactory manner.

GRAVESEND.—The fifth season of the St. George's Choral Society closed with a performance at the New Public Hall of Handel's Serenata Acis and Galatea, a miscellaneous selection, and the Overture to Mozart's Figaro. The artists were Miss Maggie Davis, Mr. Edward Branscombe, and Mr. H. Chilver Wilson. The Concert was the most successful yet given by the Society. Mr. F. Newcombe led the orchestra, Mr. H. Armstrong Smith accompanied, while Mr. G. R. Ceiley conducted as usual.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—On the 5th ult. a Concert of chamber music was given in the Town Hall by Messrs. Pyemont and Watts, the artists being Mr. Bernhard M. Carrodus (solo violin), Mr. R. Carrodus (second violin), Mr. W. W. Waud (viola), and Mr. J. F. Carrodus (violoncello). Mr. Arthur L'Estrange was the pianist and Miss Gertrude Bracey (soprano) the vocalist. The Carrodus quartet party gave able readings of Beethoven's Op. 18, No. 2; Brahms's Op. 51, No. 2; and Gerard Cobb's Quintet (Op. 22), a pleasing contribution, which was well received. The Concert was artistically and financially a great success, the latter fact pointing to a distinct advance in the musical proclivities of the district.

JERSEY.—On April 28 a most successful Concert was given by Miss Nellie Aubin, in the Oddfellows' Hall, St. Heliers. The Concert-giver was assisted by Miss Annie Douglas (vocalist), Miss Alice Mary Smith (harpist), Monsieur Lucotte (violin), Mr. A. Amy, and the Misses Aubin. The programme was an enjoyable one, the music given being of high class and, without exception, artistically rendered. The large hall was filled with an appreciative and fashionable audience.

LEICESTER.—On the 12th ult., before a numerous company, in the Town Hall, Mr. J. Herbert Marshall, the Mayor, was presented with a magnificent collection of silver, together with an illuminated address, in recognition of his services in providing high-class music for the inhabitants of Leicester.

LITTLEHAMPTON.—The Choral Society gave the Rose Maiden on the 5th ult., assisted by Miss Alice Holman, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Kelly, and Mr. Clifford Hunnybun as principals; solo violin, Mr. A. G. Whitehead. Mr. J. H. Pulman conducted.

LOUGHTON.—An Invitation Concert was given by the Choral Society in St. John's College, on April 28. Macfarren's May Day and selections from Prout and Caldicott were well rendered, under the bâton of Mr. H. Riding.——A conference of clergy and officials of the Epping Forest Church Choir Association was held at Loughton Hall on the 10th ult. Much interest was shown in the church music questions raised, and it is hoped that benefit to the work of the Association will accrue from the meeting.

LOWESTOFT.—The Choral Society gave its last Concert for the season on the 5th ult., when Gaul's Joan of Arc was effectively given, the principals being Miss Marjorie Eaton, Mr. Charles Chilley, and Mr. J. B. Smith (Peterborough Cathedral). The local chorus was highly satisfactory, and showed careful training by Mr. H. C. Perrin, the Conductor. The second half of the programme was filled by a miscellaneous selection of songs, trios, &c. A small but capable body of instrumentalists, led by Mr. W. A. Tuddenham, supported the voices in the Cantata.

MINEHEAD.—Morning and Evening Concerts were given, under the direction of the Organist, Mrs. Slade, on the 10th ult. F. Howell's Cantata The Song of the Months was well rendered Miss Pattie Michie gave great pleasure by her artistic singing of songs by Handel and Blumenthal. Mrs. T. O. Powlson gained encores for her violin solo and song "Living Poems," by Sullivan. Mrs. Slade presided at the pianoforte, and also performed solos on various instruments, including harp, guitar, mandoline, and flageolet, in good style. The Overtures to Figaro and Tancredi were given with precision by the orchestra.

MORECAMBE.—The Musical Society gave Romberg's The Lay of the Bell on April 27, in the Assembly Rooms. The soloists were Miss Louise Cestria, Mr. George Green, and Mr. J. Holmes. Mr. J. W. Aldous was the Conductor, the band and chorus numbering sixty.

NEWCASTLE.—Recitals of high class pianoforte music were given on April 30 and the 7th and 14th ult. at the New Assembly Rooms, by Miss Frances Simpson. Each contained a Beethoven Sonata and a piece by an English composer. The Recitals were uniformly successful.

NEW SOUTHGATE.—Miss Maud Evans, a young pianist, gave a very successful Concert on the 2nd ult., when her playing of solos by Beethoven, Schumann, Grieg, and other masters met with warm appreciation. She was ably assisted by Miss Marian McKenzie and Mr. W. Reed (violinist).

REIGATE.—The South Park Choral Society performed Cowen's Rose Maiden on the 2nd ult. Principal vocalists: Miss Beatrice Harrington, Mr. Clifford Hunnybun, and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Kelly. Leader of orchestra, Mr. W. Ballard Gritton. Mr. E. Osmond, Organist of St. Luke's, conducted, and is to be congratulated on a most successful performance.

SALISBURY.—Mr. Spinney's annual Students' Concert, which took place at the Assembly Rooms, on Monday, the 2nd ult., was unusually successful. The chair was occupied by E. H. Hulse, Esq., M.P. A delightful feature of the Concert was the singing of the Salisbury Orpheus Society. A young lady flautist gave great pleasure, and Miss L. Lever, the principal vocalist, won encores for all three of her songs. Pianoforte solos from Mendelssohn, Litoff, and Chopin were especially well played. The room was crowded.

STROUD.—The Choral Society (newly-formed, with a greatly augmented roll of members, and under the capable conductorship of Mr. T. Hackwood) gave a capital rendering of J. F. Barnett's Ancient Mariner on April 28, when the large Public Hall was crammed with an enthusiastic audience. Miss Kate Fusselle, Miss Florence Evans, Mr. Charles Blagbro', and Mr. Ineson were the principal vocalists, and acquitted themselves well, though Miss Fusselle was evidently suffering from a severe cold and hoarseness. Mr. Walter Gardner and Mr. C. H. Deavin (both pupils of the Conductor) presided respectively at the pianoforte and harmonium; and the band was ably led by Mr. W. E. Butland. Part II. comprised a miscellaneous selection, including a Fantasia by Dancla, exquisitely played by the composer's pupil, Miss Nettie Atkinson, a local violinist of great promise.

TIVERTON, NORTH DEVON.—Mr. Faithful Pearce (tenor) gave a highly successful Concert in the Drill Hall on the 5th ult., ably assisted by Miss Jessie Hotine, Miss Greta Williams, Mr. T. H. Harrison, vocalists; Miss Maude E. Mason, pianist; and Mr. W. H. Squire, violoncellist.

TWICKENHAM.—An Organ Recital was given by Mr. J. H. Lewis, Organist of the Parish Church, on the 23rd ult. The programme included works by Sterndale Bennett, Bach, Batiste, C. E. Stephens, Salomé, Henry Smart, and others.

WARWICK.—The members of the Musical Society, under the conductorship of Mr. Bellamy, gave their final Concert of the present season on Tuesday, the 10th ult., in the County Hall, when Judas Maccabæus was given in its entirety, for the first time in Warwick. The soloists were the Hon. Mrs. Robert Lyttelton, Miss K. Allen, Mr. C. W. Fredericks, and Mr. A. Foxton Fergusson, all of whom sang most artistically. The Society is to be congratulated on the rapid strides it has made during the past few years, and special thanks are due to the Hon. Mrs. R. Lyttelton and Mr. W. H. Bellamy, whose indefatigable efforts have done so much to raise the standard of music in Warwick.

WELLINGBOROUGH.—Madame Agnes Larkcom and Miss Agnes Bartlett gave an excellent Vocal and Pianoforte Recital in the Corn Exchange on the 12th ult., their highly artistic performances being much appreciated. Two songs by Miss Bartlett were among the most successful pieces, and the programme throughout was of an exceptionally high class. The accompanist was Miss Florence Phillips.

YARM, YORKS.—The Year, by Jackson, of Masham, was given by the Yarm and District Choral Society at its annual Concert on April 29. The principals were Mrs. Inch, Miss M. Spaven, Mr. Nutton, and Mr. Fred. Hunter. The whole performance went capitally, Mr. Nutton's performance of the fine "Rain Song," set to Longfellow's words "How beautiful is the rain," being a noteworthy feature. The second part of the programme contained glees and part-songs, solos by the principals, and Paer's Overture to Agnese played by the band.

YORK.—On Sunday, April 24, there was produced at York Minster Dr. Naylor's latest work for military bands and chorus—an Anthem referring to the death of the Duke of Clarence, "Know ye not that there is a Prince and a great man fallen in Israel." This is one of five military anthems written by Dr. Naylor for the great army services in York Minster, and is distinguished amongst its companions (unique as a class) by an entirely new use of the Scotch pipes in the second section of the work, which takes the form of a "dirge" for instruments only, beginning pianissimo and rising to a climax of passion, which is capped by the dramatic entrance of the bagpipes playing a "Lament," of course unaccompanied except by drums. This is the first time the pipes have ever been used as regular orchestral instruments or in a place of worship. Dr. Naylor's opportunities would have been envied by Berlioz, writing, as he is able to do, for eighty wind instruments, including twenty clarinets, eight trombones, and five tubas.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. A. Canynge Praeger, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Acton.—Mr. R. H. Whall, to the Parish Church, Llandudno.—Mr. John Curran, Organist and Choirmaster to All Saints', Norfolk Square, Hyde Park.—Mr. T. Sharples, Organist and Choirmaster to Christ Church, Salford.—Mr Arthur F. Warner, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Paul's, Dorking.—Mr. Leonard M. S. O'Connor, Organist and Musicmaster of Bedford County School.—Mr. Alfred W. Tomlyn, Organist and Choirmaster to Wallace Green Church, Berwick-upon-Tweed.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Theodore France (Baritone), to the Carmelite Church, Kensington.—Mr. Charles Reay (Alto Lay Vicar), to Chichester Cathedral.

MR. DANIEL MAYER has the honour to announce that he has been appointed SOLE BUSINESS MANAGER for the following CELEBRATED Artists, and desires that ALL COMMUNICATIONS concerning their engagements be addressed to him direct:

MISS MARGUERITE MACINTYRE
MADAME BELLE COLE
MR. BEN DAVIES
MR. NORMAN SALMOND
MR. PLUNKET GREENE

ALSO SOLE AGENT FOR

MISS EVANGELINE FLORENCE & MDME. GIULIA VALDA

MISS THUDICHUM | MR. CORNISH (TENOR)
MISS MARIE BREMA | MR. EUGÈNE OUDIN

MONS. GORSKI | MDLLE. WIETROWETZ
MR. WILLY HESS | MDLLE. YRRAC
AND | AND
M. CÉSAR THOMSON | MONS. EMILE SAURET

MASTER JEAN GÉRARDY AND MR. HUGO BECKER

M. SLIVINSKI

MDLLE. SZUMOWSKA AND MDLLE. CLOTHILDE KLEEBERG | HERR HEINRICH LUTTER
HERR MAX PAUER
AND
MR. PADEREWSKI

&c., &c.

All communications concerning the above artists to be addressed direct to Mr. Daniel Mayer.

COMPLETE LIST OF ARTISTS ON APPLICATION.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS, St. James's Hall—November 3 and 17, December 1, 1892; January 19, February 2 and 16, March 2, 1893.

MR. PADEREWSKI'S SHORT TOUR in October in England.

MR. PADEREWSKI'S SECOND AMERICAN TOUR, commencing November, 1892.

MISS MARGUERITE MACINTYRE'S TOUR, commencing October 10, 1892, assisted by Miss MARIE BREMA, Mr. CHARLES WADE, Mr. JAMES LEY, Mdlle. YRRAC, and Master JEAN GÉRARDY. Accompanist, Mr. WADDINGTON COOKE.

MDLLES. SOFIA and GIULIA RAVOGLI'S TOUR, October, 1892.

HERR HEINRICH LUTTER and MR. NORMAN SALMOND'S TOUR, November, 1892.

MONS. SLIVINSKI'S TOUR, January, February, 1893.

CONCERT DIRECTION DANIEL MAYER,
180, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegraphic Address—"LISZT, LONDON."

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

ERNEST, GUSTAV.—"All the year round." Cantata. For Female Voices with Recitation (suitable for School use). The words by CHARLES KARLYLE and AMY BRIAND. Paper cover, 2s. Book of words, 6d.

HEINTZ, ALBERT.—"The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," by RICHARD WAGNER. A Musical Explanation, with 88 musical examples. Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

—— "Tristan und Isolde," by RICHARD WAGNER. Explained according to the musical development of its motives; with 66 musical examples. Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

KREHBIEL, HENRY EDWARD.—"The Philharmonic Society of New York." A Memorial. Cloth, 5s.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Three Dances (Morris Dance, Shepherds' Dance, and Torch Dance). From the music to "Henry VIII." 2s.

MAYER, MAX.—"Bagatelles." Twelve little Pieces for the Pianoforte (Op. 13). Paper cover, 2s. 6d. (For contents, see advertisement, page 379.)

READ, J. F. H.—"The Death of Young Romilly; or, the Founding of Bolton Priory." Choral Ballad. For Chorus and Orchestra. The poetry by WORDSWORTH. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

POZNANSKI, J. B.—Ten Pieces for Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. (No. 27. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Albums for Violin and Pianoforte.) 2s. 6d. (For contents, see advertisement, page 379.)

VARGE, JOSEF.—"Simplified Music; or, Staff Notation made easy." Paper cover, 1s.; limp cloth, 1s. 6d.

DISTIN, THEODORE—(in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. For Men's Voices. 6d.

MARTIN, G. F. W.—(in E). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 90. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

MAUNDER, J. H.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 2.) 3d.

MORLEY, FELIX W.—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

DOLAN, REV. W. I.—"Regina Cœli." Latin and English words. 1s.

HODGES, EDWARD.—Kyries, Chants, and Tunes. Also similar Compositions by his sons, the Rev. JUBAL HODGES and the Rev. Dr. JOHN SEBASTIAN B. HODGES; his grandson, ELIAS PHILLIPS HODGES; and his daughter, FAUSTINA HASSE HODGES. Paper cover, 2s.

VICARS, HEDLEY—(in G). The Office for the Holy Communion. 3d.

CLARE, EDWYN A.—"The Lord reigneth." An easy Festival Anthem. 3d.

CRAMENT, J. MAUDE.—"In my father's house." Anthem. For Whit-Sunday or Trinity-tide. (No. 403. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

FISHER, ARTHUR C.—"Blessed city, heavenly Salem." Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. (No. 400. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

GICK, THOMAS.—"Hear, O Thou Shepherd of Israel." Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Quartet. 2d.

BATSON, A. WELLESLEY.—"The Fairy Lover." A Four-part Song. The words written by FERGUS HUME. (No. 630. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

CORDER, F.—Four Part-Songs. Founded on Canzonets, by WM. JACKSON (of Exeter):—

No. 2. The day that saw thy beauty rise .. .. 3d.
„ 3. What though I have still to complain .. .. .. 3d.
„ 4. If I love, will you doom me to die? .. .. .. 3d.

GOODHART, ARTHUR M.—"Hail! Hail to the swallow" (ΗΑΘ ΗΑΘΕ ΧΕΛΩΝ). A song of the Dorian people of the Island of Rhodes. (No. 628. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 6d.

MORGAN, VINCENT.—"The Morn of May." Trio. For Female Voices. The words written by J. S. HARDY. 3d.

WILSON, ARCHIBALD W.—"Gather ye rosebuds." Four-part Song. For A.T.T.B. The poetry written by HERRICK. 3d.

MACIRONE, C. A.—"Serenade." Part-Song for Four Voices. The words written by SABILLA NOVELLO. (No. 629. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

CULLEY, ARNOLD D.—"A wet sheet and a flowing sea." A Four-part Song. The words written by ALLAN CUNNINGHAM. (No. 241. The Orpheus. New series.) 3d.

HOLLINS, DOROTHEA.—Six Songs. With German and English words. 2s.

LEVEY, W. C.—"Kind lady, let me go." Song. The words written by Mrs. HEMANS. 2s.

WILLIAMS, C. LEE.—"The Angel side." Song. For Contralto Voice. Words translated from the Italian. 2s.

O'LEARY, R.—"Es ist zu spät" ("In vain"). Für eine Singstimme, mit Pianoforte-Begleitung. Componirt und Mrs. WILLIAM PLAYFAIR gewidmet. 1s. 6d.

CALKIN, GEORGE.—Soft Voluntaries. For the Organ. Book 14. 2s. 6d.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

No. 150. Meditation .. .. .. HAMILTON CLARKE 1s.
„ 151. Andante in D minor .. .. „ „ 1s.
„ 152. Idyl .. .. „ „ 1s.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 756. The Rover .. .. ALAN GRAY 1d.

CLARE, EDWYN A.—"The Lord reigneth." 2d.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The Musical and Dramatic Exhibition of Vienna	329
Beethoven's Sketch Books	331
From my Study	335
"Sex and Music"	337
Occasional Notes	338
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	339
Royal Italian Opera	342
Royal Choral Society	343
Philharmonic Society	343
Cardiff Musical Festival	343
Chamber Concerts	344
Pianoforte Recitals	345
Sir Charles Hallé's Schubert Recitals	345
The Oudin Vocal Recitals	346
Mr. Bonawitz's Historical Recital	346
Rev. E. H. Moberly's Orchestra	346
Musical Guild	346
The Kendal Festival	347
Brixton Choral Society	347
Dulwich College	347
Musical Association	347
College of Organists	348
England as a Musical Nation	348
J. S. Bach's Chamber Music	355
Obituary	355
Music in Birmingham	356
„ Bristol	356
„ Dublin	357
„ Edinburgh	357
„ Glasgow	358
„ Liverpool	358
„ Manchester	359
„ Norwich	359
„ Sheffield	359
„ America	360
Communion Hymn.—"Come, weary Pilgrims, come." Ferris Tozer	349
General News (London)	360
Reviews	364
Foreign Notes	365
Correspondence	367
Answers to Correspondents	367
General News (Country)	367
List of Music published during the last Month	370

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To insure insertion, Advertisements should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTY-THIRD OF EACH MONTH.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. A comprehensive and absolutely progressive school, with numerous Diagrams and Illustrations, reproduced from photographs specially taken for this work. Folio size, 75 pp., paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

A hearty welcome will be accorded to Walter Macfarren's Pianoforte Method, a concise and well worked-out guide."—Daily News.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. A complete Course—concise, lucid, and gradual, with Pianoforte accompaniment to all the original and selected pieces. All the positions fully illustrated from photographs expressly taken for this work. Large quarto size, 147 pp., with separate violin part, 30 pp. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

"Mr. Peiniger deserves the highest praise. His Violin Method is exceptionally thorough in every respect."—Saturday Review.

In the Press.

DR. E. H. TURPIN'S METHOD FOR THE ORGAN.

Other Methods in preparation

F. H. COWEN'S NEW CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

"THE FAIRIES' SPRING" (An Elfin Legend).

Price 2s. 6d. net.; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. net.

"Possesses an unceasing flow of sweet and spontaneous melody." Saturday Review. "A graceful libretto."—Era.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS.

SIXTY-SEVEN NUMBERS, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, including the celebrated Glees "The Village Chorister," "God bless the Prince of Wales," Benedict's "Hunting Song," Kücken's "Blanche," &c.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS FOR LADIES' VOICES.

Detailed Lists on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.

BEST'S COLLECTION of ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

New Editions at reduced prices.

Detailed Lists on application.

By JAMES SHAW.

THREE NEW COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN.

Dedicated to and performed by Mons. ALEX. GUILMANT.
1. Meditation. 2. A Wedding Processional March.
3. A Dream of Mozart (Minuet in D).
Each 2s. net.

DR. E. J. HOPKINS and DR. E. F. RIMBAULT'S

Famous Work on the History and Construction of the Organ.
Complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.
Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN MUSIC.

NEW COMPOSITIONS By EMILE SAURET,

Principal Violin Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.

QUATRE MORCEAUX DE SALON (Op. 45). Price 5s. each.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.

Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.

Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

—CONTINUED.

PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

SHAKESPEARE'S FLOWERS,

Four Sets of Classical Studies,

By ISABEL HEARNE.

In the Press.

LAWRENCE KELLIE'S SONGS.

MESSRS. ROBERT COCKS & CO. beg to announce that they have entered into an arrangement with Mr. LAWRENCE KELLIE by which they become, for an extended period, the Publishers of all this highly popular author's new Compositions.

Now Ready: "THE CITY OF NIGHT"; "I had a Flower"; "My Fairest Child"; "Oh, beautiful Star"; and "Crossing the Bar."

Others in the Press.

List on application.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

COVENT GARDEN OPERA SEASON, 1892.

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS OF OPERAS

NOW BEING PERFORMED.

			s.	d.
GLUCK	ORFEO		3	6
MASSENET	MANON		6	0
WAGNER	LOHENGRIN		3	6
WAGNER	FLYING DUTCHMAN ..		3	6
BEETHOVEN ..	FIDELIO		3	6
MOZART	DON GIOVANNI		3	6
MOZART	LE NOZZE DI FIGARO		3	6

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., or Private Lessons. "Messiah," "Judas Maccabæus," "Belshazzar," &c. Address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano) (Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.) accepts engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Lessons at pupils' residences and at 20, Conduit Street. For terms, address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

BOYS.—Two LEADING BOYS WANTED, for St. Giles'-in-the-Fields, W.C. £6 each. Also BASS. Organ Practice and Lessons in return for services. Apply, F. Boyes, 4, Elm Road, Camden Square, N.W.; or at the Vestry.

TENOR WANTED, at St. Gabriel's, Willesden Green. Two Sunday Services. One practice weekly; occasional Festival Services. £20. Apply to Mr. Henry Baker, 6, Blenheim Gardens, Willesden Green.

BASS (£15) REQUIRED, for a Church in Kensington. Apply, by letter, to Conductor, 13, St. Stephen's Square, W.

REQUIRED, YOUNG LADY, with good voice and figure, to train in Song and Dance for Serio-Comic. No fees or expense. Small salary at commencement. Photo must be sent, which will be returned, and application in first instance made by letter only. Fox, 42, Great Castle Street, W.

MR. R. MACHILL GARTH, Private Organist to Sir Michael Shaw Stewart, Bart., Ardgowan, N.B., composer of the Oratorio "Ezekiel" and Cantatas "The Charge of the Light Brigade," "The Wild Huntsman," &c., has a VACANCY for a gentlemanly YOUTH, as Articled Pupil and Assistant. Must be able to play a moderately advanced Anglican Service. Two good organs by Willis and Sons. Exceptional advantages in choral and orchestral works. Good appointment guaranteed after apprenticeship. Seaside residence and good home comforts. Premium not necessary to suitable applicant. Address, R. Machill Garth, Old Free Manse, Inverkip.

MR. C. T. REYNOLDS, Mus.B., Oxon., F.C.O., Organist of Oswestry Parish Church, desires a RESIDENT PUPIL, who can take a Plain Service. There is a vacancy for a fair player as Organist of a village church in neighbourhood, worth £20 per annum. A moderate premium required. Apply, 92, Park Avenue, Oswestry.

WANTED, ORGANIST.—St. Thomas's Church of Ireland require an ORGANIST. Plain Evangelical service, light duties, fair salary. The appointment is one of the best in Belfast, and is an excellent introduction for teaching. J. Sprott, Hon. Sec., 41, Wellington Park, Belfast.

ST. JOHN'S, Clapham Rise, S.W.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER at once. Choral Celebrations and Oratorios. £60. Address, Vicar.

SUCCESSFUL MANAGER (32) will shortly be DISENGAGED. Well up in all branches of the trade, including book-keeping, &c. Satisfactory reasons for leaving present situation. Apply, W. G. S., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, PIANO TUNER. Young man just out of apprenticeship preferred. Board out. Apply, letter only, E. W. Dace, 21, High Street, Colchester, Essex.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER (also American Organs) requires Situation in Colonies or India. Good practical experience. Tuner, 5, Gordon Grove, Camberwell, S.E.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER (married) desires SITUATION as above. Thoroughly acquainted with all branches of the trade. Salary must be good. Apply, C. L. E., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, YOUNG MAN. Good Salesman. Well up in Catalogues. Can keep books. Good character indispensable. Send photo and salary required. Hermitage and Sons, Eastbourne.

CHAMBER ORGAN, suitable for small Church or Mission Room. In stained mahogany case, containing stopped diapason, treble and bass flute, open diapason; thorough Gamba; thorough hautboy. The two latter new. Spotted metal and two spare stops for dulciana and tremulant, speaking front, two octaves of pedals to keys; foot and side blower. £30. F., 107, King Street, Hammersmith, W.

ORGAN for SALE.—Three-manual, by Hill and Son, 1876; enlarged and action renewed, 1887. Great 10 stops, swell 9, choir 5 (and one prepared for), pedal 2, couplers 5, pneumatic piston, great to ped. Concave pedals. Price £500. Apply, J. Booth, 20, Coolhurst Road, Crouch End, N.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

BROADWOOD 7-octave Full-trichord modern iron Semi-Grand PIANO, in condition as new. 60 guineas; cost 125 guineas. View at Organist of St. John's, 108, Upper Richmond Road, Putney (near Railway Station).

VIOLIN for SALE, by Jean Baptiste Vuillaume. Very fine and handsome specimen and in excellent state of preservation. Price £45. Can be seen at Keith, Prowse and Co., Princes' Buildings, Coventry Street, Piccadilly.

TO COMPOSERS.—A Three-Act LIBRETTO, by a well-known writer, for SALE. Apply, A. B., 36, George Street, Hampstead Road.

THE ELEMENTARY PRINCIPLES

OF

MUSIC FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

A MANUAL

To be employed in Choirs and Singing Classes, with

APPENDICES CONTAINING MUSIC FOR PRACTICAL USE

BY

EDWARD DAVEY RENDALL.

Price Two Shillings.

Pape. boards, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE PSALMS

BIBLE VERSION

POINTED FOR CHANTING

BY THE

REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

Cloth, One Shilling.

The principles on which the pointing has been done are mainly those of the Cathedral Psalter, of which Dr. Troutbeck was Co-Editor, a Psalter which has now successfully endured the test of long experience. The book is not, of course, divided into daily portions like the Prayer Book Psalter, as it is intended for the use of those Christian bodies in which the Psalms are not sung throughout a monthly course, but it can easily be so divided by those who use it.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

SERVICES

OF

SACRED SONG

EDITED BY THE

REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

PRICE SIXPENCE EACH.

1. ABRAHAM.—By the Editor.
2. MOSES.—By the Ven. Archdeacon Farrar.
3. ELIJAH.—By the Rev. R. F. Dale, Rector of Bletchington, Oxon.
4. DANIEL.—By the Rev. A. G. Bowman, Vicar of St. Andrew's, Westminster.
5. ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST.—By the Rev. E. Price, Priest in Ordinary to the Queen and Minor Canon of Westminster Abbey.
6. ST. JOHN THE EVANGELIST.—By the Rev. H. A. Cotton, Priest in Ordinary to the Queen and Minor Canon of Westminster Abbey.
7. SIMON PETER.—By J. H. Brammall.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PRINCE SPRITE

A FAIRY OPERETTA

FOR TREBLE VOICES

The Libretto arranged from Countess d'Aulnoy's Fairy Tale

BY

BERTHA THOMAS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SALE of COPYRIGHTS.—TO be SOLD, on moderate terms, a number of well-introduced COMPOSITIONS for PIANO, VIOLIN and PIANO; likewise various Songs by composers of note, showing a yearly increasing sale, including Plates and Stocks. Particulars on applying to O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

TO SCHOOLS.—Send for Catalogue and Particulars of Selection parcel sent on exceptional terms. TO COMPOSERS.—Manuscripts revised and published in best style on novel system. Prospectus free. Lyric Music Publishing Company, 25, Kenninghall Road, Clapton, N.E.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Monthly accounts. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. Wilcock Bros., 26, Moorfields, London, E.C.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. Wilcock Brothers, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

FOR SALE.—MOZART'S MASSES, complete in two Volumes, bound Maroon calf; full-sized score; very good. HAYDN'S MASSES, complete, three volumes; bound dark green cloth; full-sized score; very good. Davies, 9, West Mall, Clifton, Bristol.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

D'ALMAINE'S
PIANOS AND ORGANS
For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.
Write for Professional Price List.
T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

THE OLD FIRM.
P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),
VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND
CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER and CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

Now ready.
SUITE
FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S HAMLET
COMPOSED BY
G. HENSCHEL.
(Op. 50.)
The Pianoforte Arrangement (for four hands) by BATTISON HAYNES.
Price Five Shillings net.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ESTABLISHED 1843.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS'
PIANOFORTES.
(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)
NOBLE IN TONE.
HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.
UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.
THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.
PIANOS
FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.
ALSO YACHT PIANOS.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS,
60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

WINKELMANN
PIANOFORTES.
"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.
OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS
FROM 65 GUINEAS.
OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS
FROM 110 GUINEAS.
Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.
SOLE IMPORTERS: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,
6, NEW BURLINGTON STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

O CLAP YOUR HANDS
ANTHEM COMPOSED BY
SIR JOHN STAINER.
ORCHESTRAL PARTS ARRANGED BY
BATTISON HAYNES
May be had on hire of the Publishers.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.
BOOK 14
SOFT VOLUNTARIES FOR THE ORGAN
COMPOSED BY GEORGE CALKIN.
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Published this day, No. 1 of

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

A MONTHLY PERIODICAL DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

THE establishment of a Journal specially devoted to the interests of Music in Schools is believed to be called for by the conspicuous development of the systematic teaching of singing and music generally that has taken place in schools during recent years.

Singing by note is now taught in upwards of 20,000 elementary and middle-class schools in the United Kingdom. As most of this music teaching is committed to the care of the ordinary school staff, the tuning of the ear, preservation of the voice, and the musical culture of the nation may be said to depend in a great measure upon the skill and training of the 120,000 teachers composing our educational army. It will be one of the first aims of The School Music Review to deal plainly with the questions of what to do and how to do it that constantly arise in connection with the varied musical needs of both teachers and pupils.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

WILL CONTAIN:—

Articles on Musical Subjects of General Interest to Teachers, contributed by School Music Specialists.
General Notes on Important Musical Events of the Month.
Reports of School Concerts and Competitions.
School Songs in both Notations and Suited to the Capacities of the Children in the Different Divisions of Schools.
Exercises in Sight-Singing in both Notations.
Reviews of School Music.
Solutions to the Questions in Music Set at the Different Examinations in Connection with the Education Department and other Examining Bodies.
Correspondence, Notes and Queries, &c.

The Music will also be sold separately. Price 1½*d.*

Articles on the following topics are in preparation: "How to deal with flat singing," "How to begin Part-singing," "How to train boys' voices," "How to teach change of key and the minor mode," "How to combine time and tune," "How to teach quick six-eight or six-pulse measure," "How to train for telling by ear," "How to teach a school song," "How to classify mixed classes," "How to beat time," "How to work for competition," &c.

Correspondence and contributions should be addressed to the Editor of The School Music Review, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

CONTENTS OF No. 1.

1. Introductory.
2. A Short History of Music in Primary Schools. By W. G. McNaught.
3. The Alterations in the Music Code.
4. A Recommendation as to the Nomenclature of Intervals.
5. On the Training of Pupil Teachers in Music. By C. Tantram.
6. The Revised Music Syllabuses for Pupil Teachers.
7. Reports of School Entertainments.
8. Music (in both Notations):—
   "Stars, that on your wondrous way." Hymn for Children, by J. Stainer.
   "Little Soldiers." Kindergarten Song, by A. Moffat.
   "The Delight of Spring." Vocal Trio, by Franz Abt.
   Exercises in Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught.

A Specimen Copy will be sent free to Teachers on Application.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

Price 1½*d.; Post-free,* 2*d. Annual Subscription, including Postage,* 2*s.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ANTHEMS for WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw	J. Stainer	6d.
And when the day of Pentecost	Charles W. Smith	3d.
*As pants the hart	Spohr	1½d.
*Come, Holy Ghost	T. Attwood	1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost	J. L. Hatton	3d.
Come, Holy Ghost	George Elvey	4d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God is a Spirit	W. S. Bennett	6d.
Grieve not the Holy Spirit	J. Stainer	3d.
Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad spiritum Sanctum)	G. C. Martin	1½d.
I was in the Spirit	Blow	6d.
If ye love Me	C. S. Heap	1½d.
*If ye love Me	W. H. Monk	1½d.
*If ye love Me	Tallis	1½d.
*If ye love Me	R. P. Stewart	1½d.
In my Father's House	J. Maude Crament	3d.
It shall come to pass	G. Garrett	6d.
*Let not your heart be troubled	H. G. Trembath	3d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
Praised be the Lord daily	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
There is no condemnation	H. S. Irons	3d.
When God of old came down from Heaven	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
We will rejoice	Croft	4d.

TRINITYTIDE.

Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and Glory	Boyce	1½d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
*Stand up and bless	J. Goss	4d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt shew me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.

Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

OPEN YE THE GATES

ANTHEM FOR GENERAL USE

(Quartet and Chorus)

BY H. ERNEST NICHOL, MUS. BAC., OXON.

Price Threepence.

Specimen copy sent gratis and post-free to any Choirmaster from the COMPOSER, Marlborough Avenue, Hull.

ANTHEM FOR GENERAL USE.

O LORD GOD OF MY SALVATION. By FRANCES LYSTON. Price Threepence.

"The music is exceedingly good, without being too difficult for the average choir to render efficiently."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.

GREAT IS THE LORD, AND MARVELLOUS. By FRANK ADLAM.

Price Threepence.

MATHIAS and STRICKLAND, 2, Gt. Titchfield St., Oxford Circus, W.

LORD OF THE HARVEST. Anthem for Harvestide. Composed by HERBERT W. RENDELL. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS, &c., BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

THE LORD REIGNETH. 3d. Sol-fa 2d.

PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 9th 1,000 3d.

The above Anthems are suitable for any Festival or special occasion.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 5th 1,000 4d.

Full of vigour and flowing melody.

These compositions are effective and not difficult.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR FESTIVAL ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

THE LORD IS MY LIGHT	3d.
GREAT IS THE LORD	3d.
O GIVE THANKS	3d.
SING UNTO THE LORD	3d.

The above Anthems are especially suitable for Church Festivals. Also published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

VESPER HYMN

TO BE SUNG AFTER EVENING SERVICE

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY

GEORGE KETT.

Peace for the soul that is weary,
With trouble and sorrow opprest;
Peace for the heart that is yearning
For freedom from sin and for rest;
Peace which the world cannot offer,
An earnest of Life that's Divine—
Jesu, we pray for Thy blessing,
And long for the peace that is Thine.

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR ANTHEMS AND SERVICES

By CALEB SIMPER.

BREAK FORTH INTO JOY (4th 1,000)	4d.
GIVE GLORY UNTO THE LORD (11th edition)	3d.
COME UNTO ME (3rd 1,000)	2d.
O HOW AMIABLE (New)	3d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT. Complete, with AGNUS DEI and BENEDICTUS (6th 1,000)	4d.
NEW MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G (4th edition)	4d.
NEW TE DEUM IN G (3rd edition)	4d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E flat (12th edition)	4d.
TE DEUM IN F (18th edition)	3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F (37th edition)	4d.

Sung at numerous Choral Festivals.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

NEW ANTHEM FOR ST. JOHN'S DAY.

PREPARE YE THE WAY OF THE LORD.—By A. C. EDWARDS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O. Price Threepence, of the COMPOSER, Harlow.

I WILL GREATLY REJOICE IN THE LORD. Anthem for Whitsuntide. Music by BENJAMIN CONGREVE.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published. Price Twopence.

EASY CHANT SERVICE

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D

Composed by THOMAS ADAMS, F.C.O.

London: CRERAR & SMITH, 3, Featherstone Buildings, Holborn, W.C.

Just Published. Price Sixpence. For Parish Choirs.

EASY COMMUNION SERVICE, in the key of G, including Introit, Gradual, Alleluias, Sursum Corda (Ancient), Benedictus, Agnus Dei, Pater Noster (Ancient), and Antiphon. Composed by THOMAS ADAMS, Organist of St. Alban's, Holborn.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

F. ABDY WILLIAMS, MUS. BAC., OXON.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. Price 4d.
Worthy of the attention of Choirmasters."—Musical World.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA, in chant form. Price 1d.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in chant form. Price 1d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM IN A

CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR CARNALL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

KYRIE. By ARTHUR MANGELSDORFF. Price 1d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price 3s., cloth, red edges; by post, 3d. extra.

ST. ALBAN'S, Holborn, SUPPLEMENTAL TUNE BOOK.

"One of the few very best tunes I have ever seen is Mr. E. H. THORNE'S 'Lead, kindly Light.' The book is worth buying for that tune alone."—Mus. Doc., Cantab.

London: H. S. WARR, 63, High Holborn, W.C.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

3rd Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition. Price Sixpence.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in A. By I. H. STAMMERS. A second Setting in E flat, 2d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.

	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6

ANTHEMS, &c.

All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FLUTE PLAYING AND FLUTE MUSIC.—See June Musical Opinion and Music Trades Review. Also 190 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. To be ordered everywhere; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post. 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS by R. T. CLARK-MORRISON.—"Some trust in chariots." Easy and effective. Price 2d. "O give thanks unto the Lord." An excellent Anthem for Church Festivals. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY
EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

EASTER.—"If we believe."	Octavo.	Four voices	4d.
„ „ „		Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
„ "I will magnify Thee."	Octavo.	Four voices	3d.
„ „		Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
WHITSUNDAY.—"If ye love Me."	Octavo.	Four voices	3d.
„ "I was glad"		„ „	3d.
„ „		Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E. Octavo	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E „	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
„ „ Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
Cantate Domine and Deus Misereatur in E..	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. Octavo	3d.
„ „ with Welsh words	3d.
„ „ in Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
„ „ in A. Octavo	3d.
„ „ in Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
The Preces and Responses, with Litany, set in simple form for Four Voices	4d.
Twelve Original Tunes, set to favourite Hymns	3d.
Amen (on Card)	1d.

SECULAR.

Song, "By the wayside." Soprano .. .. .. net	1s. 6d.
„ "The Last Prayer." Contralto .. .. .. „	1s. 6d.
Part-Song, "Over hill, over dale." Four Voices	3d.
„ "The Rhine Maiden." „	3d.
„ "Beware"	1d.

List of all compositions by the same Composer to be had of the Publishers, NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now ready.

SIX MORCEAUX
POUR LE
VIOLONCELLE
AVEC ACCOMPAGNEMENT DE PIANO
PAR
J. HOLLMAN.

Price, complete, Seven Shillings and Sixpence; or, singly, 2s. each.

No. 1.	Légende.	No. 4.	Andante.
„ 2.	Pizzicati.	„ 5.	Petite Valse.
„ 3.	Aubade.	„ 6.	Tarentelle.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

UNISON CHANTS

FOR THE PSALTER

A COLLECTION OF SINGLE ANGLICAN CHANTS

APPROPRIATED TO THE DAILY PSALMS IN THE BOOK OF COMMON PRAYER

EXPRESSLY SELECTED AND ADAPTED FOR THE USE OF CHURCH CHOIRS AND CONGREGATIONS

EDITED BY

THE REV. CANON SIR F. A. G. OUSELEY,

Bart., M.A., Mus. Doc., Precentor of Hereford, and Professor of Music in the University of Oxford, 1855-89,

AND

EDWIN GEORGE MONK,

Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Master of the Choir, York Minster, 1859-83.

THE VOICE PART—Price One Shilling. ORGAN HARMONIES—Price Five Shillings.

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

IN furtherance of a more general chanting of the Psalter in Churches, this Book of Unison Chants is an attempt to supply a plan sufficiently easy to secure extensive adoption, yet varied enough to be attractive, upon the one and only basis regarded by the Editors as being universally practicable—viz., the employment of Single Chant Melodies, to be sung "in Unison."

The present Work, projected (and even announced) some score of years ago, is intended to meet the need indicated, by providing a Series of easy and suitable Chants, for Unison Singing only, for the monthly course of the Psalter in the Book of Common Prayer. Not only have small and moderately qualified Choirs been kept in view, but also particularly the Voice of the great Congregation. In order to secure this much to be desired end—Chanting of the Daily Psalms by Choir and Congregation combined—the following means are proposed:—

I. Singing in Unison (strictly speaking, Octave-Singing).

II. Employment of Chants of Restricted Compass only; especially as to all Reciting-Notes.

III. Provision for Change of Chant at every fresh Psalm; and also, whenever in the course of any of the longer Psalms such change could be made to follow the significance of the Sacred Text, conduce to its clearer understanding, or enforce its teaching.

IV. Suggestion for occasional Change of Instrumental Harmony as a further mode (often of much value and potency) of heightening the desired expression; or of calling attention to important divisions, and changes of subject or utterance, in cases when actual change of the voice-part seemed undesirable.

Transposition has been largely resorted to, in order to meet the requirements of a limited vocal range; and, more rarely, slight modifications and excisions have been necessary, to carry through and ensure the specific scope and purpose of the Work.

It will not, it is hoped, be imagined by any that in this advocacy of Unisonal Chanting distinctively for the Psalter there is the slightest wish to discourage the use of Choral Harmony in Divine Worship, with all the moving and noble effects produced by well-balanced and refined Part-Singing; or a desire for the further extension of Unison-Singing; beyond its common employment for the People's Part in Confession, Lord's Prayer, Response, and Creed. Not to mention simple "Anthems" and "Services," which are available for Choirs where practice and discipline prevail, the Canticles with carefully selected Chants, as well as Hymn-Tunes, may readily be sung in Harmony by such Choirs against the Congregational Unison, by reason of constant recurrence, and consequent familiarity: advantages which cannot attach to the Hundred and Fifty Psalms of David, which do not quickly become well known to those singers who chant on Sundays only, and are unaccustomed to daily use of the Psalter in Matins and Evensong.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published. Crown 8vo, 7s. 6d.

WAGNER AS I KNEW HIM

BY

FERDINAND PRAEGER.

 This book gives an account of Wagner's Life and Work. The Author enjoyed an uninterrupted friendship with Wagner for nearly fifty years, and was in his fullest confidence.

London: LONGMANS, GREEN and Co.

BY THE RESTLESS BREAKERS. New Song. By THOS. HUTCHINSON (composer of "Fetters of Gold," and other well-known songs). 2s. net.
G. RICORDI and Co., 265, Regent Street, W.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.
Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

In Crown 8vo, cloth gilt, price 2s. 6d.

MUSICAL GROUNDWORK: Being a First Manual of Musical Form and History for Students and Readers. By FREDERICK J. CROWEST, Author of "Advice to Singers," "Great Tone Poets," &c.
"The book, besides being a capital one to put into the hands of a student, is so written as to be attractive to the reader seeking knowledge on the origin and progress of music as an art."—Musical Standard.

Small Crown 8vo, cloth, price 1s.; post-free, 1s. 2d.

ADVICE TO SINGERS. By FREDERICK J. CROWEST, Author of "The Great Tone Poets," "Phases of Musical England," &c. Fifth and enlarged edition.
"The Author writes in a clear, vivid style, and has managed to compress into small space a large amount of information of the highest value."—Church Times.
FREDERICK WARNE and Co., Bedford Street, Strand.

SIMPLIFIED MUSIC (NOVELLO and Co., 1s.). Names and addresses of teachers willing to instruct in this reformed Staff Notation will be registered, free of charge, by E. R. Turner, Hon. Sec., Simplified Music Association, Epsom.

W. CZERNY'S COLLECTION

OF

LADIES' CHORUSES

FOR THREE OR FOUR VOICES

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

PRICE FOURPENCE EACH NET.

No.
1.	CHORUS OF HOURIS (from "Paradise and Peri"). Quartet.	R. Schumann.
2.	CHORUS OF SPINNING MAIDENS (from "The Flying Dutchman"). Quartet	R. Wagner.
3.	WEDDING SONG (from "Lohengrin"). Quartet	R. Wagner.
4.	THE PILGRIMS' CHORUS (from "Tannhäuser"). Quartet.	R. Wagner.
5.	THE PILGRIMS OF THE NIGHT. Solo and Chorus.	W. J. Westbrook.
6.	SUMMER FANCIES (The Roses Valse). Trio	Oliver Mètra.
7.	NIGHT (Valse). Trio	A. Ergmann.
8.	TO AN INFANT SLEEPING. Trio	W. C. Filby.
9.	WHEN COMES SWEET MAY. Trio	Mendelssohn.
10.	IN MAY. Trio	Dr. U. C. Burnap.
11.	CRADLE SONG ("Blanche de Provence"). Trio	Cherubini.
12.	TO OUR PEACEFUL VALLEY ("Castor and Pollux"). Trio.	Rameau.
13.	CHURCH BELLS. Trio	W. F. Taylor.
14.	OH, WELCOME LOVELY SPRING. Trio	R. Schumann.
15.	HAIL! WELCOME DAY. Trio	J. Concone.
16.	YOUNG HEARTS. Trio	C. Fabiani.
17.	STARS THE NIGHT ADORNING. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
18.	O COME TO HIM ("Crucifix"). Trio	J. Faure.
19.	JOYS BLOOM LIKE ROSES. Trio	Bonoldi.
20.	VILANELLE. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
21.	FOND HEARTS. Trio	J. Concone.
22.	THE FESTIVE DAY. Trio	J. Concone.
23.	TYROLESE MOUNTAINEERS. Trio	Ch. Oberthür.
24.	PRAYER (from "Tannhäuser"). Trio	R. Wagner.
25.	IN YOUNG MAY. Trio	Franz Abt.
26.	IN EARLY SPRING. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
27.	THE MERRY HUNTSMAN. Quartet	R. Schumann.
28.	THE WATER-SPRITE. Quartet	R. Schumann.
29.	SUMMER DAYS. Trio	Franz Abt.
30.	AWAKE! AWAKE! THE DAWN IS HERE. Trio	Franz Abt.
31.	RING ON, YE BELLS! Trio	Franz Abt.
32.	THE NOBLEST. Trio	R. Schumann.
33.	TO THE SUNSHINE. Trio	R. Schumann.
34.	CRADLE SONG. Trio	W. Taubert.
35.	IN YONDER GLADE. Trio	W. Taubert.
36.	AS FADES THE EVENING HOUR. Trio	B. Tours.
37.	THE LILY. Trio	Von Wasa.
38.	IN BRIGHTEST JOYS. Trio	Von Wasa.
39.	A FEARFUL TALE. Trio	R. Schumann.
40.	ON THE BOUNDING SEA. Trio	P. Mazzoni.
41.	SONG OF THE FAIRIES. Trio	Carl Binder.
42.	LUSTROUS ORBS DECK THE NIGHT. Trio	A. Rotoli.
43.	SWEET DAISY. Trio	F. Curschmann.
44.	COME FLIT AROUND. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
45.	SMILING WELCOME. Trio	F. B. Rudall.
46.	THOU BEAMING STAR. Trio	Th. Bradsky.
47.	O'ER BLOOMING MEADOWS. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
48.	HAIL! EVENING BRIGHT. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
49.	JEHOVAH'S POWER AND MAJESTY. Trio	Marcello.
50.	CRADLE SONG. Trio	L. M. Gottschalk.
51.	HEARTS LIGHT AS AIR. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
52.	AVE MARIA. Trio	E. Marlois.
53.	BRIGHT THE YULE LOGS GLOW. Trio	E. Marlois.
54.	THE LORD'S PRAYER. Solo and Chorus	L. Niedermeyer.
55.	VILLAGE WEDDING. Trio	Flotow.
56.	THE SMILING DAWN ("Jephtha). Trio	Handel.
57.	HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS. Trio	R. Schumann.
58.	LOVING FOR EVER. Trio	G. Money.
59.	SATURDAY NIGHT. Trio	E. P. Cockram.
60.	ROSA CLARE. Trio	B. Tours.
61.	THE GIPSIES. Trio	R. Schumann.
62.	THE SLEIGH BELLS. Trio	T. G. B. Halley.

CANTATAS FOR TREBLE VOICES.

	WORDS BY	MUSIC BY	PRICE NET s.	d.
AROUND THE HEARTH (with Pianoforte Duet Accompaniment)	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	Sir G. A. Macfarren	3	0
CHILDREN VISITING THE FAIRIES	Mrs. Richard Mant	H. R. Binfield	1	0
CONVERSION OF ST. PAUL	William Ball	Mendelssohn	2	6
DISCONTENTED CHICKEN (THE)	Mary E. Roper	James Greenhill	1	6
FAIRY FOOTSTEPS	E. Oxenford	Franz Abt	3	0
FISHER-MAIDENS (THE)	Fred. E. Weatherly	Henry Smart	3	0
GIPSY GIRL ("The Bohemian Girl")	Alfred Bunn	M. W. Balfe	2	6
GITANELLA ("Maritana")	Alfred Bunn	W. V. Wallace	2	6
HARVEST QUEEN (THE)	E. J. Eagleman	Godwin Fowles	3	0
KNIGHT OF PALESTINE (THE)	C. J. Rowe	Weber	3	0
LITTLE SUNBEAM	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	M. Erdmannsdörfer	3	0
MAY-TIDE	E. Oxenford	P. Mazzoni	3	0
MINISTERING ANGELS	Frederic Wood	G. B. Allen	3	0
MINSTREL MAIDENS (THE)	E. Oxenford	Seymour Smith	3	0
MOUNTAIN MAIDENS (THE)	F. R. Havergal	F. Romer	3	0
ORPHEUS AND EURYDICE		J. Offenbach	3	0
PAGE (THE). From "Mazeppa"	Jessica Rankin	M. W. Balfe	3	0
SNOWBLOSSOM AND THE ELVES	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	H. Erler	1	0
SNOW-MAIDENS (THE)	E. Oxenford	Franz Abt	3	0
THREE SISTERS (THE)	F. Enoch	Ignace Gibsone	2	6
WISE AND FOOLISH VIRGINS (THE)	Sacred	Thomas Anderton	2	0
WOOD-NYMPHS (THE)	E. Oxenford	Ignace Gibsone	3	0
WRECK OF THE HESPERUS (THE)	Longfellow	Louis N. Parker	2	0

EDWIN ASHDOWN (LIMITED), LONDON, NEW YORK, & TORONTO.

FAMOUS VIOLINS AND VIOLIN MAKERS.

THIS SERIES OF PUBLICATIONS now comprises three Works, each compiled from original sources, and containing much information hitherto unpublished. The books are handsomely bound in cloth, and illustrated with superb coloured plates by Mr. Alfred Slocombe and Mr. Shirley Slocombe.

THE TUSCAN STRADIVARI. A short account of a Violin made by Stradivari for Cosimo de Medici, Grand Duke of Tuscany, in 1690. Illustrated by three coloured plates and fac-simile reproductions of some interesting records concerning the instrument.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

A few copies of the first notice of this Violin appeared printed on hand-made paper in a quaint paper cover, without illustrations, but containing fac-similes of the interesting receipt given at the time of the purchase of the Violin in 1794 and of the label Stradivari inserted in the instrument.

PRICE SIXPENCE.

THE SALABUE STRADIVARI. A History and Critical Description of the famous Violin, commonly called "Le Messie," made by Stradivari in 1716, and afterwards sold by his son to Count Cozio di Salabue. Illustrated by three coloured plates.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE SIX SHILLINGS.

THE LIFE AND WORK OF MAGGINI, the Great Brescian Maker, based on information derived from the archives of the town of Brescia, and from other sources, containing three coloured plates of a Maggini Violin of great beauty, photographs of Brescia and of Maggini's house, with a fac-simile of his handwriting, and numerous other illustrations.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE SEVEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

OTHER IMPORTANT VOLUMES IN THIS SERIES ARE IN PREPARATION.
ORDERS FOR COPIES NOW RECEIVED.

MESSRS. W. E. HILL AND SONS,
38, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

THE OVERTURE

A MONTHLY MUSICAL JOURNAL
WRITTEN BY
MUSICIANS FOR MUSICIANS.

EDITOR: F. CORDER.

PUBLISHED BY
MESSRS. FORSYTH BROS., 267, REGENT STREET, W.

Price 3s. Annually (9 Nos.), or by post, 3s. 6d.

VOL. III., No. 4, JUNE, 1892, CONTAINS—

Men of Letters;
Passing Notes;
On Some Musical Snobs, No. 4;
Reviews, Major and Minor;
The Better Land;
Wisdom of the Ancients;
The History of an Idea;
Thoughts and Reflections, by T. A. M.
Expression in Music;
Academy News;
Correspondence;
&c., &c.

Just Published.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES
WITH RECITATION
(Suitable for School use)
The Words by CHARLES KARLYLE and AMY BRIAND
THE MUSIC BY GUSTAV ERNEST.
(Op. 19.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE ANGEL SIDE

SONG FOR CONTRALTO VOICE
Words translated from the Italian
MUSIC COMPOSED BY
C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

KIND LADY, LET ME GO

SONG
The Words written by Mrs. HEMENS
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
W. C. LEVEY.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S
ALBUMS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.
No. 27.

TEN PIECES

FOR VIOLIN, WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
I. B. POZNANSKI.

No. 1. Chant du Matin.
„ 2. Sur l'Eau.
„ 3. Danse des Naiades.
„ 4. Sans Souci.
„ 5. Le Retour du Paysan.
No. 6. Prière du Soir.
„ 7. Danse Rustique.
„ 8. Gavotte.
„ 9. Valse.
„ 10. Barcarolle.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BAGATELLES

TWELVE LITTLE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE
COMPOSED BY MAX MAYER.
(Op. 13.)
CONTENTS.

Granny's Tale.
A romp and a dance.
Poor Cinderella.
The Knight and the Lady.
Cuckoo.
A quiet dance.
Beauty and the Beast.
Autumn leaves.
Round the May-pole.
Will o' the Wisp.
A game of Tick.
The jolly Dwarfs.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SUITE for ORCHESTRA. Pastorale, Minuet and Trio, Gavotte and Musette, Saraband, and Rondo Scherzoso. By Sir HERBERT OAKELEY. Full score, 5s.; band parts, 16s.
SCHOTT and Co., Mayence, London, Brussels, and Paris.

CANTATAS for FEMALE VOICES.

	s.	d.
FRANZ ABT.
THE FAYS' FROLIC	2	6
THE WATER FAIRIES	2	6
THE SILVER CLOUD	2	6
THE WISHING STONE	2	6
MINSTER BELLS	2	6
THE GOLDEN CITY	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6
SPRINGTIME	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6
SUMMER	2	6
WILFRED BENDALL.
THE LADY OF SHALOTT ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1	0
KAREL BENDL.
THE WATER-SPRITE'S REVENGE	1	0
JOSIAH BOOTH.
THE DAY OF REST	2	6
CHARLOTTE SAINTON-DOLBY.
FLORIMEL	2	6
MYLES B. FOSTER.
THE BONNIE FISHWIVES ...	2	6
THE ANGELS OF THE BELLS	1	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	8
BATTISON HAYNES.
THE FAIRIES' ISLE	2	6
H. HOFMANN.
SONG OF THE NORNS	1	0
H. H. HUSS.
AVE MARIA	1	0
OLIVER KING.
THE NAIADS (Op. 56)	2	6
N. KILBURN.
THE SILVER STAR	1	6
JOHN KINROSS.
SONGS IN A VINEYARD ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6
HENRY LAHEE.
THE SLEEPING BEAUTY ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6
C. H. LLOYD.
THE GLEANERS' HARVEST ...	2	6
G. A. MACFARREN.
SONGS IN A CORNFIELD ...	2	6
F. A. MARSHALL.
PRINCE SPRITE	2	6
MENDELSSOHN.
A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM	1	0
THREE MOTETS	1	0
E. MUNDELLA.
THE VICTORY OF SONG (Chorus)	1	0
PERGOLESI.
STABAT MATER	1	0
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	0	6
E. PROUT.
QUEEN AIMÉE	2	6
HENRY SMART.
KING RENÉ'S DAUGHTER ...	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa Edition	1	0
CHARLES VINCENT.
THE LITTLE MERMAID ...	2	6
THE VILLAGE QUEEN	2	6
HILDA WALLER.
THE SINGERS	1	0

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SECOND EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

WORDS BY

JAMES SMIETON, M.A.

MUSIC BY

JOHN MORE SMIETON.

OLD NOTATION, 2s. 6d.; TONIC SOL-FA, 1s.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

The attention of Conductors is specially directed to the above Cantata, as affording an unusually interesting work for chorus and soloists. It takes about an hour and forty minutes to perform, and has been given with conspicuous success by the Choral Unions of Dundee, Broughty Ferry, and Airdrie, as well as by other societies throughout the kingdom.

SCOTSMAN.

This beautiful work will enhance the reputation won for its composer by his similar composition, "Ariadne." It shows a charming gift of melody and no small musicianly skill in its merely technical qualities. It may be recommended to Choral Societies as well worthy of study.

SCOTTISH LEADER.

The work opens with a charming prelude in sacred style, which sets the mind admirably in tune for the drama which is to follow. In the first scene the Romance sung by the King is a little gem, and would make a beautiful song even apart from its surroundings. In the third scene, the wedding of Arthur and Guinevere gives rise to a whole suite of characteristic novelties. No. 15, which introduces a hymn sung by maidens, is perhaps the finest thing in the whole Cantata; and an effective epilogue brings the work to a striking close. "King Arthur" will certainly add to the reputation of its gifted composer, and will be welcomed by all lovers of music.

DUNDEE ADVERTISER, March 30, 1892.

We have not space to examine every number in detail, and to point out the excellencies which were evidently appreciated by the audience. But as outstanding numbers, memorable both for composition and for the style in which they were sung, we may refer to the Romance "'Mid the glory of the Springtime," splendidly executed by Mr. Iver McKay; the beautiful aria for Guinevere, "Star of departing day," admirably sung by Miss Emily Davies; and the graceful and highly original duet for these two vocalists, "Love of my youthful days." The most marked success gained by Mr. Musgrove Tufnail during the evening was in the very involved legend, "In the vault of the purple night," assigned to Merlin, in which the vocalist entirely identified himself with the part he had to represent.

THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, March 30, 1892.

"King Arthur" is called by the composer a cantata, but the name hardly conveys to the mind an idea of the elaborate, lengthy, and powerful character of the work. It is rather a musical epic, and is characterised throughout by a wealth of musical ideas, by a command of musical resources, by a scholarly knowledge of harmony, by a variety and richness of effect, and notably by a melodiousness throughout that are really remarkable. One notable feature which must be mentioned is the effective character of Mr. Smieton's recitatives. He has succeeded in infusing these with genuine interest, and giving to them melodic treatment which saves them from the charge of monotony too often felt in works of this kind. The beautiful hymn "There is a land" was a much relished item near the close of the cantata, which ended with a powerful chorus, in which the composer calls up all the resources before him to make a telling and impressive finish to the work. Late as the hour was there was a loud and persistent call for the composer, and when at length he stepped upon the platform and bowed his acknowledgments he was greeted with round after round of applause. The production of the cantata was a triumphant success, and the composer is to be congratulated on the general ability with which it was performed and the marked favour by which it was received.

A copy of the cantata will be sent, post-free, to Conductors, on application to the COMPOSER, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Part I. Now ready. Price 2s. 6d. net.

AN ENGLISH NATIONAL SCHOOL OF SINGING

OR

A METHOD OF STUDYING THE ART OF LYRIC AND DRAMATIC SINGING IN ITS INTEGRITY, FOUNDED ON PRINCIPLES OF THE ELEMENTS OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

BY

ARTHUR HELBIG, MUS. DOC.

FOUR VOLUMES QUARTO. TO BE ISSUED IN ABOUT THIRTY PARTS.

Subscription list for the entire work now open. Particulars on application.

"It bids fair to be one of the most important and exhaustive works on the subject to which the century has given birth."—Daily News.

Published for the Author by ROBERT COCKS and Co., 6, New Burlington Street, W.

DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD.

For full information see

MANUAL OF VOICE-TRAINING

(With a complete Course of Exercises)

BY E. DAVIDSON PALMER, MUS. BAC., OXON.

Second Edition, Post-free, 2s., of the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or of the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

SYNOPSIS.

Two ways of producing the voice—The truth about registers—"Chest-voice" and Falsetto—How tenors are spoilt—Why women's voices are supposed to have three registers—"Head-voice," "Mixed voice," &c.—Breaking of the voice—How its natural development is prevented—"Throaty" and nasal tone—The Baritone and Contralto of "short compass"—Children's voices and Nature's method.

MR. PALMER'S PAMPHLET

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES

AND THE SECRET OF VOICE-PRODUCTION.

Third and Revised Edition, Post-free, 6d.

May also be had of the AUTHOR or PUBLISHER, address as above.

TRANSPOSITION AT SIGHT.

FOR ORGAN AND PIANOFORTE STUDENTS, WITH GRADED EXERCISES.

BY H. ERNEST NICHOL, MUS. BAC., OXON.

"The course of study prescribed and the hints given are most useful."—Musical News.

"Will be eagerly read by those to whom transposition is a difficulty."—Musical Herald.

Price 1s. 6d.; post-free from the AUTHOR, Marlborough Avenue, Hull.

Now ready.

THE CHORIC SONG

FROM

THE LOTOS-EATERS

BY

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

Set to Music for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra, by

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

EIGHT PIECES

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

BY

CH. DE BÉRIOT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

CONTENTS.

Non giova il sospirar.	Air varié en ré (Op. 1).
Vanne al mio bene.	Air varié en mi (Op. 3).
Al dolce guidami.	Air varié en mi (Op. 7).
A torto ti lagni amor.	Valses (Op. 58).

(No. 28. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ALBUMS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS AND THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL.

BENEDICTUS

ARRANGED FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA BY THE COMPOSER FROM

SIX PIECES FOR VIOLIN

With Pianoforte Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(OP. 37.)

Full Score, 5s.; Orchestral Parts, 3s. 6d.;
Also, as originally written for Violin Solo with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 2s.

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

As an exceptional case, this movement absolutely gains by the change to which it has been subjected, the impassioned religious melody acquiring force by being played in chorus, and added beauty by a rich accompaniment of strings, horns, and wood-wind. The audience at once pronounced the piece a success, and the composer bowed his thanks for sustained applause from his place in the gallery. . . . Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus" came between the two new works, where its reposeful beauty brought a sense of rest and relief. The long and eloquent melody of the piece was finely played by the first violins, led by Mr. Carrodus, and the whole performance produced an effect which could only come from a display of the highest art. The "Benedictus" was a third demonstration in one morning of the stuff that is in our native composers. (Hereford Festival.)

STANDARD.

Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus" was originally written for violin, with pianoforte accompaniment. Since then the author has appreciated the capabilities of the music in an orchestral sense, and after several attempts—this composer, like Mendelssohn, never being satisfied at the offset—has written his score for a small orchestra. . . . So charming did this piece prove that the applause was unanimous, and was maintained until the composer had appeared at the end gallery and bowed his acknowledgment.

MORNING POST.

There are beautiful harmonies accompanying the phases of melody, and the whole piece, which is replete with dignity and distinguished by originality, forms a most grateful addition to orchestral répertoires.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

The clever musician has since scored it for a small orchestra, assigning the violin solo to the whole of the violins, and providing work for the other strings, flutes, clarinets, bassoons, and horns, in which form it is likely to obtain as much popularity on the platform as the first setting in the salon. It is a beautiful, quietly flowing melody, with such an elegant accompaniment as only a composer of genuine taste and sympathetic nature, having a perfect knowledge of the means of the instruments he introduces, could place upon paper.

THE OBSERVER.

The two leading themes are in themselves beautiful, and their scenic beauty is enhanced by exquisite orchestration, in which the wind instruments above-named, in conjunction with the violas, violoncellos, and double-basses, are happily employed. . . . This "Benedictus" is likely to become popular throughout the musical world.

THE GLOBE.

Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's new "Benedictus" for violin and orchestra (first public performance) is short and comparatively simple, but will add to his fame. . . . The "Benedictus" is a polished gem.

SUNDAY TIMES.

Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's new "Benedictus for Orchestra," a transcription of one of his "Six Pieces for Violin and Pianoforte," Op. 37, is a gem of melody encased in a beautiful instrumental setting.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ANTIPOW, C.—Two Preludes. For the Pianoforte. Op. 8 ..	3	0
No. 1. In E	1	6
„ 2. In D flat	2	0
—— Three Miniatures. For the Pianoforte. Op. 9:—
No. 1.	1	6
„ 2 and 3 .. .. each	2	0
BIBLE, R.—Concerto in D minor. For the Organ, with Orchestra. Op. 64. Full Score .. .. net	5	0
Parts .. .. „	6	0
Organ Part .. .. „	6	0
BLUMENFELD, FELIX.—Valse impromptu. For the Pianoforte. Op. 16	4	0
BORODINE, A.—Finale from the Opera "Mlada":—
Full Score .. .. net	6	0
BRAHMS, JOHANNES.—Quintet in B minor. For Clarinet and Strings. Op. 115. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet ..	16	0
BRAUER, MAX.—Two Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 12:—
No. 1. Gondoliera; No. 2. Rondino .. .. each	3	0
BÜCHNER, TH.—Festival March. For Pianoforte, Harmonium, Flute, and Violin (Violoncello and Bass ad lib.) ..	7	0
CUI, CÉSAR.—Cantabile. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 20 (No. 5)	3	0
EBERHARDT, GOBY.—Studies for the Violin:—
Op. 84 (1st position)	4	0
Op. 89 and Op. 92 .. .. each	6	0
FRANK, CÉSAR.—Celebrated "Panis angelicus." For Soprano or Tenor, with Accompaniment of the Organ and Violoncello (or Violin), or Harmonium and Harp (or Pianoforte) ..	12	0
—— The same. For Baritone or Mezzo-Soprano	12	0
GODARD, B.—Three Pieces. Transcribed for the Organ by GUILMANT:—
No. 1. Andante. Op. 16	5	0
„ 2. Solitude. Op. 27	5	0
„ 3. Idylle. Op. 116	6	0
—— Second Concerto, in G minor. For Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Op. 131	18	0
HEIDRICH, M.—Two Pieces. For Harmonium and Pianoforte. Op. 21:—
No. 1. Elegie, 4s.; No. 2. On the sea	5	0
HETZEL, MORITZ.—Cradle Song. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 12	2	0
—— The same. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	2	0
HILL.—Scotch Sonata. For Violin and Pianoforte	10	6
KJERULF, HALFDAN.—Cradle Song. For Strings. Op. 4 (No. 3). Full Score and Parts	4	0
KRZYŻANOWSKY, IGNACE.—Menuet. For Pianoforte. Op. 48	3	0
—— Two Valses. Op. 49. Nos. 1 and 2 .. .. .. each	3	0
—— Two Notturnos. Op. 50. Nos. 1 and 2 .. .. „	3	0
LAMBERG, J.—Bizarreries. For the Pianoforte. Op. 13 ..	4	0
LANGE, S. DE.—Adagio. For Viola and Organ. Op. 59 ..	5	0
—— Preludes. For Organ. Op. 60. Book I.	5	0
—— Sonata (No. 6) in C. For Organ. Op. 61	5	0
—— Festival March. For Organ	2	0
LEWANDOWSKY, L.—"Inspirations." Nine Pieces. For Harmonium (Organ or Pianoforte). Op. 44	3	0
LIADOW, A.—Final Scene from Schiller's "Bride of Messina":—
Full Score .. .. net	8	0
Vocal Parts	4	0
Orchestral Parts .. .. net	15	0
PFEIFFER.—Adagio from Beethoven's Concerto in E flat. Arranged as a Pianoforte Solo	4	0
POHL, RICH.—"The Pilgrimage to Kevelaar." For declamation, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Words by HEINE	4	0
RHEINBERGER, JAS.—"Rococo." Tempo di Menuetto. For Pianoforte	2	0
RÜFER, PH.—Three Pieces. For Violoncello and Organ. Op. 36	6	0
SAINT-SAËNS.—Rhapsodie Bretonne. For Orchestra:—
Full Score .. .. net	5	0
SCHARWENKA, PH.—"Spring." Symphonic Poem. For Orchestra. Op. 87:—
Full Score .. .. net	13	0
SCHUMANN, R.—"Träumerei" ("Dreaming"). For two Violins, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, by F. STERN ..	2	0
SITT, HANS.—Three Short Pieces. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 45:—
No. 1. Intermezzo	3	0
„ 2. Album Leaves	3	0
„ 3. Walzer	3	0
STÉHERBATCHEFF, N.—Five Mazurkas. For the Pianoforte. Op. 16 .. .. each	2	0
—— "Looking Back." Two Pieces. Op. 18 .. .. „	2	0
—— Two Preludes. Op. 20. No. 1, 1s. 6d.; No. 2	2	0
—— Three "Simili Valses." Op. 21 .. .. each	2	0
—— Three Idylles. Op. 23:—
No. 1 and No. 3, each 2s.; No. 2	3	0
—— Three Andantes Interludes. Op. 25:—
No. 1	3	0
Nos. 2 and 3 .. .. each	2	0
WEIFSHEIMER, W.—Violin Obbligato Part for J. S. Bach's 48 Preludes. Book 1, 24 Preludes	3	0
WERMANN, OSKAR.—Largo Religioso. For Violin and Organ (or Harmonium or Pianoforte)	3	0
WIHTOL, J.—Variations on a Lapland Song. For the Pianoforte. Op. 6	6	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF SHIPS.

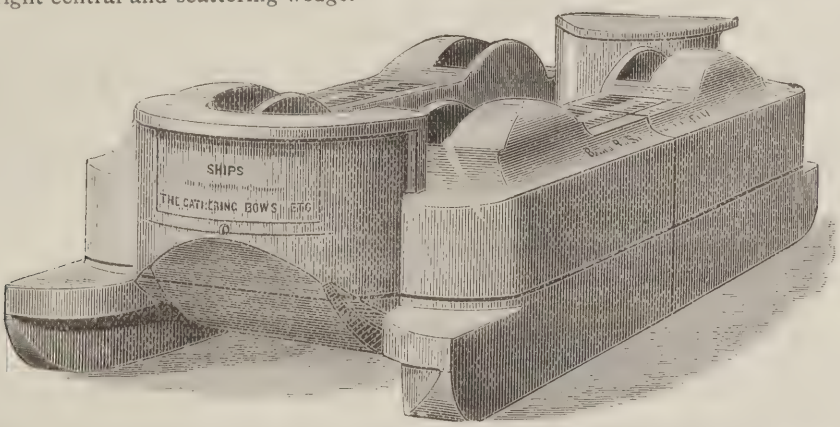
NOVELLO CRAFT.

MOST people crossing the sea suffer from sea-sickness.

All people who read of sea voyages know the sad story of these sufferings occasioned by the up and down motion of the vessel.

It is frightful to read of thousands of deaths resulting from vessels that capsize.

The remedy for all these evils would be found in the substitution of a horizontal wedge for the old-fashioned upright central and scattering wedge.



A ship may be built which shall create no radiating side-wave—which cannot be capsized—and which will not dance. Ships built on this new system I have called NOVELLO CRAFT.

I have addressed an epistle to the Society of Naval Architects which, if it has been read, has never been refuted.

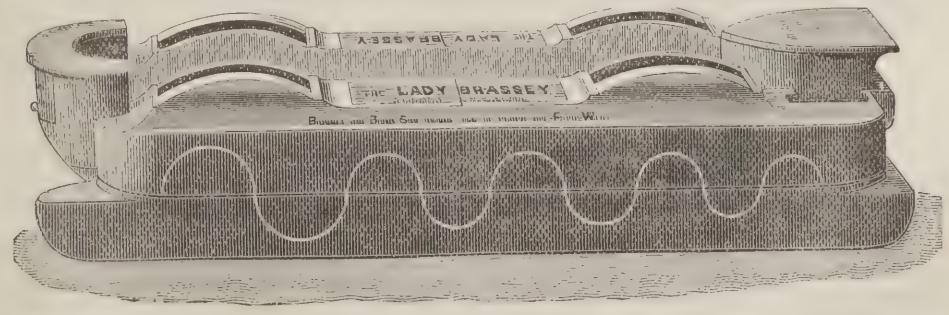
The steam power allotted for driving ships on the existing erroneous plan has equalled three or four horsepower to every ton of displacement with the hope of approaching a speed of twenty miles per hour, which is rarely attained.

This limited speed and waste of power arises from the reluctance of water to be put into rapid motion.

NOVELLO CRAFT vessels at their bows at once take a sufficiently wide path for the passage of every part of their vessel, making no radial side-wave and getting a higher speed with less waste of power.

THE OCEAN TRAMWAYS.

This form of ship provides two or more ocean tramways on which they run when in motion.



At stationary trim these tramways are already in effective order, having been gathered together under the vessel.

The new form of vessel is propelled over the tramways, without removing the water under them.

Near the stern the propellers dip into the tramways and these tramways ultimately disappear at the stern of the vessel.

All patents have been allowed to lapse and the use of NOVELLO CRAFT is free to all Ship builders.

J. ALFRED NOVELLO.

MAY, 1892. VILLA NOVELLO, GENOA, ITALY.

CHAPPELL & CO.'S PUBLICATIONS.

VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE,

LECTURER ON VOCAL PHYSIOLOGY AND TEACHER OF VOICE PRODUCTION,

AND

CHARLES W. PEARCE,

MUS. DOC., CANTAB.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

"Admirable, and doubtless will prove of great utility."—Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley.
"Far more precise in plan than anything I have seen."—Sir Robert Stewart.
"I like the exercises very much; they are scientific, systematic, and ingenious."—Dr. Stainer.

RIMBAULT'S SINGING TUTOR

CHIEFLY SELECTED FROM THE CELEBRATED TUTOR OF LABLACHE.

	s.	d.
Comprising directions for the formation and cultivation of the Voice, after the Methods of the best Italian Masters; also a series of Progressive Lessons, Studies in Vocalisation, Solfeggios, &c., with an Accompaniment for the Pianoforte. Editions for Soprano, Tenor, Contralto, or Bass .. .. each net	2	6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Soprano or Tenor .. .. net	2	6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Medium Voices .. .. net	2	6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano .. .. net	2	6
This Edition can also be used for a Bass Voice.
LABLACHE VOCAL EXERCISES .. .. net	2	6

This celebrated work is very largely used by singing masters, and at all the principal schools of the United Kingdom.

CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS.

A COLLECTION OF

GLEES, MADRIGALS, PART-SONGS, &c., FOR ALL VOICES.

CONTAINING WORKS BY

GOUNOD, ARTHUR SULLIVAN, HENRY SMART, J. L. HATTON, &c.

LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES.

CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS

FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR, AND BASS.

The present Collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small Classes.

LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

CHAPPELL AND CO.,

50, NEW BOND STREET, W.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Wednesday, June 1, 1892.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 593.—Vol. 33. JULY 1, 1892. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

Conductor: Mr. BARNBY.

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for SOPRANOS, ALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES, especially TENORS. Only those who have good powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Assistant-Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

THE TONIC SOL-FA ASSOCIATION

(In union with the Tonic Sol-fa College).

EIGHTH GREAT CHORAL FESTIVAL

CRYSTAL PALACE, SATURDAY, JULY 9, 1892.

11.0.—JUVENILE CHOIR CONTEST. Adjudicator: Mr. W. S. RODDIE.

TWO GRAND CHORAL CONCERTS

8,000 Performers.

1.30.—5,000 JUVENILE SINGERS AND JUVENILE ORCHESTRAL BAND. Conductor: Mr. W. HARDING BONNER; Organist, Mr. J. FRANK PROUDMAN, F.C.O. An Exhibition of Singing from Hand Signs will be given.

4.0.—3,000 ADULT SINGERS will give the first performance of Gaul's new Cantata, ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS, and a Miscellaneous Selection. Full Orchestral Accompaniment. Conductors: Mr. ALFRED R. GAUL and Mr. LEONARD C. VENABLES. Organist: Mr. ALFRED J. EYRE, F.R.A.M., F.C.O. An Ear Test (four-part Hymn Tune) will be given to the Choir.

ORGAN RECITALS by Dr. C. J. FROST, Mr. J. FRANK PROUDMAN, and Mr. HENRY RIDING.

Detailed handbills, or Rail and Admission Tickets from London Bridge, Ludgate Hill, Victoria, Kensington, and Intermediate Stations, 1/6. Moorgate Street, 1/9. (Children, Half-price.)

May be obtained from Conductors or Members of Choirs, from J. Curwen and Sons, 8 and 9, Warwick Lane, E.C.; Novello, 80, Queen Street, Cheapside, and 1, Berners Street, W.; Keith, Prowse and Co., 48, Cheapside, Fenchurch Street, Charing Cross, and Holborn; Cook, Ludgate Circus; Hays, Royal Exchange Buildings, Cornhill, and 26, Old Bond Street; Mitchell's, 5, Leadenhall Street, and 33, Old Bond Street; Ashton's, 38, Old Bond Street; Stanley Lucas and Co., 325, Oxford Street; Marratt and Ellis, 63, King William Street; Stansfield, High Street, Peckham; W. G. Bright, 469, Harrow Road, W.; or from

CHAS. NIXON, Ticket Manager,
48, Calvert Road, East Greenwich.

CHAS. H. SIEBERT, Hon. Secretary,
27, Lausanne Road, Hornsey.

 Reserved Seat Tickets for the Competition or for either Concert may be had of the Ticket Manager or Hon. Secretary.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

N.B.—Candidates' names for forthcoming Examinations must be sent in on or before July 2. F.C.O. Examination, July 12, at 10 (Paper Work); July 13 and 14 (Organ Playing). The Solo-playing Test Pieces will be Passacaglia in C minor (Bach); Postlude in E flat (Smart); Prelude and Fugue in D minor (Mendelssohn). July 15, F.C.O. Diploma Distribution, at 11. A.C.O. Examination, July 19 (Paper Work); July 20 and 21 (Organ Playing). July 22, A.C.O. Diploma Distribution, at 11. July 26, at 8, Annual General Meeting.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

HANDEL'S HOUSE.

The owners of the House at Halle a/S. (Prov. of Saxony) in which the great Handel was born are open to sell the same.

The receipts from rent would be sure to give a good return for the capital invested, altogether apart from the historical value.

Letters and inquiries should be addressed direct to E. Witte, Merseburg, Prov. Sachsen, Germany.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

The Syllabus for the Metropolitan Examination, Dec., 1892 (successful Candidates at which are created Licentiates of the Academy), is now ready, and will be sent on application.

Fortnightly Concert, July 9, at 8.

Orchestral Concert, St. James's Hall, July 26, at 3.

Annual Prize Distribution, at St. James's Hall, July 27, at 3.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

SEPTEMBER 6, 7, 8, and 9, 1892.

Under the Patronage of
H.M.G.M. THE QUEEN and H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

Principal Artists:—

Madame NORDICA.	Miss ANNA WILLIAMS.
Miss HILDA WILSON.	Miss MARY MORGAN.
Miss JESSIE KING.	Miss L. FRANKLIN HIGGS.
Mr. EDWARD LLOYD.	Mr. WATKIN MILLS
Mr. E. HOUGHTON.	Mr. PLUNKET GREENE.

Mr. SANTLEY.

Leader .. .. Mr. CARRODUS.
Conductor .. .. Mr. C. LEE WILLIAMS.

IN THE CATHEDRAL:—

TUESDAY, at 1.30.—ELIJAH (Mendelssohn)

TUESDAY EVENING, at 7.30.—REDEMPTION (Gounod).

WEDNESDAY, at 11.30.—JOSHUA (Handel); THE LORD'S PRAYER (Bridge), conducted by Composer; MY SPIRIT WAS IN HEAVINESS (Bach).

THURSDAY, at 11.30.—JOB (Parry), conducted by Composer; THE FALL OF BABYLON (Spohr); SYMPHONY (Beethoven).

THURSDAY EVENING, at 7.30.—GETHSEMANE (Lee Williams); HYMN OF PRAISE (Mendelssohn).

FRIDAY, at 11.30.—MESSIAH (Handel).

IN THE SHIREHALL:—

CONCERT, WEDNESDAY EVENING, at 8 o'clock.—THE BIRTH OF SONG (Miss Ellicott) and Miscellaneous items.

Prices of Admission: Reserved Seats, 15s. to 1s. 6d.; Unreserved, 2s. 6d. to 1s. Serial Tickets, £4 each.

For Regulations, Programmes, Tickets, &c., apply to Messrs. Partridge and Robins, 155, Westgate Street, Gloucester.

COVENT GARDEN OPERA SEASON,

1892.

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS

OF OPERAS

NOW BEING PERFORMED.

		s.	d.
GLUCK	ORFEO	3	6
MASSENET	MANON	6	0
WAGNER	LOHENGRIN	3	6
WAGNER	FLYING DUTCHMAN ..	3	6
BEETHOVEN ..	FIDELIO	3	6
MOZART	DON GIOVANNI	3	6
MOZART	LE NOZZE DI FIGARO	3	6

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS GERTRUDE BRACEY (Soprano)
(Silver Medalist, R.A.M.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, and Lessons in Singing and Harmony, address, 4, Colville Mansions, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MISS LOUISE CESTRIA (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 45, Bridge Street, Chester.

MISS MAUDE DARLING (Soprano)
(Pupil of David Strong, Esq., Guildhall School of Music).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Oaklands, Addlestone, Surrey.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c., address, care of Miss Mary Willis, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
For Oratorio, Concerts, 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby, formerly her Assistant Professor, Licentiate (Artist) of the Royal Academy of Music).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS CORDELIA GRYLLS (Soprano)
Licentiate, late Reeves Vocal Exhibitioner, and Gold and Silver Medalist, Trinity College, London).
For Concerts, &c., 33, Hamilton Terrace, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MADAME MARIE HAUGHTON (Soprano)
(Pupil of Charles Lunn).
For Oratorios, Ballads, and Operatic Selections, 1, Grantham Road, Cape Hill, Birmingham.

MISS TERESA HAYNES (Soprano)
Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c.
90, Bury New Road, Higher Broughton, Manchester.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Square, N.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS EDITH NIELD (Soprano)
For Concerts, &c., address, 14, Ravenscroft Park, Barnet.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
53, Cromwell Avenue, Highgate, N.

MISS FLORENCE VEREY (Soprano)
130, Maida Vale, W.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS DORA BARNARD (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
6, Lordship Park, N.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER (Contralto)
Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), is prepared to take Oratorio, Concert, and Drawing-room engagements.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
88, Lady Margaret Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
29, Doughty Street, W.C.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., 76, Calabria Road, N.

MISS HILDA READING (Contralto or Mez.-Sop.)
(Pupil of Theodore Distin, Esq.)
Dinners, Club Concerts, &c., address, 27, Addington Sq., Camberwell.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, viâ Leeds.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c., or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. HARRY COOKE (Alto Soloist)
Teacher of Singing. Concerts, &c., 41, St. Lawrence Road, Brixton.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c., 46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. G. GREEN (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Preston Parish Church).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., address, 81, South Meadow Lane Preston.

MR. CH. KARLYLE (Tenor)
"Splendid voice, clear pronunciation."—Musical Standard. "Excellent vocalist."—Era, Echo. "Received quite an ovation." "Creation," "Bride of Dunkerron" (Northampton). "Capital style; enthusiastic recall."—Musical News.
65, Oseney Crescent, N.W.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. EDGAR LUNNON (Baritone)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c. For terms and press notices, address, 45, Filmer Road, Fulham.

MR. D. PRICE (Baritone)
(Westminster Abbey),
6, Wharton Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. W. THORNTON (Baritone)
Addresss, care of Wood and Marshall, Bradford.
"ELIJAH."—"Mr Thornton undertook the title-rôle, and was most conspicuously successful, the technical difficulties of the music were mastered with great power and skill."—Observer.
"He not only possesses a magnificent baritone voice, but he uses it with the skill of a thoroughly cultured artist."—Nottingham Express.
"SAMSON."—"Possessed of a full round voice of excellent quality, capital style, and good intonation, it is not to be wondered at that his popularity is rapidly increasing."—Cumberland Times.

MR. & MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS (Baritone & Sop.)
And Elocutionists. 90, Caledonian Road, Leeds.

MR. JAMES W. CLOUGH (Bass)
For Oratorios, Ballads, Masonic Meetings, &c., New Bank House, Burnley.

MR. C. D. COLLET (Vocal Bass)
Teacher of Singing. 7, Coleridge Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead-on-Tyne.
NATIONAL SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL MUSICIANS' CONFERENCE AT NEWCASTLE, 1892.—RECITAL AT ST. NICHOLAS' CATHEDRAL.—"Mr. Preston's playing throughout his Recital was surprisingly clear, powerful, and artistic Each piece received an admirable rendering, and the impression produced was in every case pleasurable in the extreme. Mr. Preston's reputation as an organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of the representative English organists. Those who had the pleasure of hearing him on the present occasion will not readily forget it, and will, we are sure, be quite content to leave the future upholding of the already high mark which native organists have reached to such as the organist of St. George's, Jesmond. The laurels are being woven for him. We wish him long life and health to wear them."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.
". . . Mr. Preston is a local professor, and a performer of the very first rank, it is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.
"Mr. Preston no doubt felt it incumbent upon him to uphold the reputation of our city, and has not only achieved this, but something more. He has established his right to be regarded as one of our representative English organists. His masterly performance of the Bach A minor Prelude and Fugue, his artistic rendering of Best's 'Air with Variations,' and of Liszt's singular but clever and difficult Fugue on the Chorale 'Ad nos, ad salutarem undam,' created a profound impression, and it is impossible that his reputation can much longer be limited to two or three counties."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

MR. H. A. LUDLAM (Violoncellist)
For Concerts (Orchestral, Choral, Chamber) and At Homes.
Newport House, West Bromwich.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano). For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c. Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'. Engaged: Rhyl, June 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17; re-engaged July 16 to 22. Skegness, Sept. 4 to 11; others pending.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MADAME ANNIE MARRIOTT desires to announce her CHANGE of ADDRESS to 23, Victoria Grove, Fulham Road, S.W.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for ENGAGEMENTS at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor) is now booking Engagements, Season 1892-93. For Oratorio, Ballad, Opera, Concerts, &c. Terms to 247, Hampstead Road, N.W.; or, to W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. PERCY PALMER (Tenor) desires to announce his REMOVAL to 23, Victoria Grove, Fulham Road, S.W., where all communications for engagements and lessons should be addressed.

MR. ALFRED GATES (Baritone) requests that all communications respecting Opera or Concerts be addressed, 104, King Edward Road, Hackney, N.E.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music, and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MISS CARRIE LEWIS (Accompanist, good Reader, and Solo Pianist) accepts Engagements for Concerts, at Homes, &c. 218, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, S.W.; or, Stedman's Musical Agency, 12, Berners Street, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS
FANNY BOUFFLEUR
(SOPRANO)
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool.
Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MISS
MARIE HOOTON
(CONTRALTO)
(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)
AND
MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
(TENOR)
(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)
Are at liberty for Concerts and At Homes of every description, and may be engaged either together, separately, or with a Concert Party.
For terms and dates please address Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.; or, 37, Torrington Square, W.C.

MR. GORDON HELLER
(BARITONE)
(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)
LEEDS SYMPHONY CONCERTS, ALBERT HALL, LEEDS.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.
For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

MR.
WM. SWEETMAN
(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool.
Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

THE
ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY
(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS
"Miss Griffiths, in the air 'Flies fluttering to thy breast a wounded dove" (C. S. Heap), sang not only with fine musical effect, but with a touching realisation of the pathos of the situation. Having quoted the composer's testimony to the effect that he had never heard the air sung better, no higher praise need be given."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS
"Madame Julia Hutchings secured an unequivocal success with 'The Banks of Allan Water' and 'Angus Macdonald.'"—Battersea District Times.

MR. A. BOWYER BRISTOL
"Mr. A. B. Bristol is the possessor of a sweet and resonant tenor voice which has been well schooled; this assertion could be verified by his share in Dr. Heap's Cantata and Salaman's 'I arise from Dreams of Thee.' This at once caught the taste of the audience, and a double recall followed. Mr. Bristol is certainly a valuable acquisition to the tenor department."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS
"Mr. Edmund Edwards could scarcely have been heard to greater advantage than he was in Loder's song 'The Diver.' It suited to perfection his powerful bass, and he interpreted it with true emphasis and with a thorough grasp of the deep rich pathos of the subject. He was loudly encored."—Northampton Daily Reporter.

Solo Pianoforte—
MRS. A. L. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.
"Mrs. A. L. Richardson displayed abilities of the first rank, and her playing is of the best ever given in this hall."—Wandsworth and Battersea Advertiser.

Solo Violin—
MR. W. H. HENLEY
"Mr. W. H. Henley played a couple of violin solos with a cleverness of manipulation which fairly astonished his listeners."—Manchester Courier.

Conductor and Accompanist—
MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Dates for Northern tour, October and November, are now being booked. Immediate application advisable.
Applications for terms and dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S
"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"
CONCERT COMPANY.
All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.
Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

THE CYNTHIA QUARTET (Male Voices) are now booking Engagements for Concerts, At Homes, Banquets, &c. Special terms if for charitable purposes. Glees, Madrigals, Part-Songs, and Solos. Apply, Sec., 17, Claremont Rd., Cricklewood, N.W.

CONCERT AGENTS.
METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,
83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The next Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be held in Durham in September next. Examiners: Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.; J. Frederick Bridge, Mus. D., Oxon.; Philip Armes, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.
Full particulars, with Specimen Papers of former Examinations, may be had on application to Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.
Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. JAMES STERNDALE BENNETT, M.A.
Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.
Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.
The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Instituted and founded by the Victoria College Corporation.
Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:
The Right Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.
The Right Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.V.C.M. and A.V.C.M.) will take place in London, on July 27, and at Bradford, Yorkshire, on July 29.
Local Examinations at the different centres during July. Names should be sent in to the Local Secretaries for Theoretical or Practical Examinations. Theoretical Examination on July 20.
Prospectuses, forms of entry, and all particulars on application. Names (for all Examinations) should be sent in on or before July 5.
Particulars of the Welsh and Yorkshire branches on application.
Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.
By order of the Council,
FREDERICK J. KARN, Mus.D.,
Hon. Secretary.
London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892), A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. ALLISON'S Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 42, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH, Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION.—Master Reginald Butterfield, Solo Boy, may be engaged for Church Festivals, Concerts, at Homes, &c. Testimonials from eminent and distinguished musicians forwarded on application, with terms.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. HOCH'S CONSERVATOIRE for all branches of Music, in Frankfort-on-the-Maine. The Winter Term commences September 1 (the special examination for the Classes of Frau Schumann, end of March). Director, Professor Dr. B. SCHOLZ. Tuition is given by Frau F. Bassermann, and by Messrs. Director Dr. B. Scholz, J. Kwast, L. Uzielli, J. Meyer, E. Engesser, A. Gluck (in Pianoforte); Mr. H. Gelhaar (in Organ); Professor H. Heermann, Professor Naret-Konig, and F. Bassermann (in Violin and Viola); Professor B. Cossmann (in Violoncello); W. Seltrecht (in Contra-Bass); M. Kretzschmar (in Flute); R. Müns (in Oboe); L. Mohler (in Clarinet); F. Thiele (Fagott); C. Preusse (in Horn); H. Weinhardt (in Trumpet); Dr. G. Gunz, Dr. F. Krükl, Mrs. C. Schubart, and H. Herborn (in Singing); Director Dr. Scholz and Messrs. J. Knorr and E. Humperdinck (in Theory and Composition); E. Humperdinck (Partiturspiel and Chorgesang); Dr. G. Veith (in German Literature); Mr. K. Hermann (in Declamation and Mimics); Frl. del Lungo (in Italian Language). The Fee for the Special Branch and necessary accessories is 360 marks; for the Finishing Classes of the Pianoforte and Singing School, 450 marks per annum. Applications to be made to the Direction of Dr. Hoch's Conservatoire.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1891; F.C.O., JAN., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cambridge; Intermediate Mus.B., London; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891; Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L., 1892 (including Candidate with highest number of marks, 1888), A.Mus., T.C.L., 1891; A.C.O., 1891; Tonic Sol-fa College Fellowship; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., Theory and Pianoforte; and T.C.L. Senior Honours; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Over 30 successes annually.

MADAME NELLIN, from the Vienna Conservatory, experienced Professor of Pianoforte and Singing, attends Pupils. Excellent references. Terms moderate. 46, Brookbank Road, Lewisham.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D. Mus., Lond., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in the THEORY of MUSIC (including Acoustics). 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by Post. Many successes at College of Organists, and other Examinations. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), prepares CANDIDATES for UNIVERSITY and other MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Final Mus. Bac., Cantab., 1890; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Durham, 1890 and 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1892. Address, Dr. Wareing, 150, Bristol Road, Birmingham.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, and all subjects for Musical Examinations. DR. BRADFORD'S System, by Correspondence—Per scripta in absentia. Address, 157, Kennington Park Road, London, S.E.

ORGAN, PIANO, and SINGING LESSONS.—The Organist of St. Bartholomew's, Gray's Inn Road, gives LESSONS as above. Terms very moderate. Address, the Church; or, 70, Balcombe Street, Dorset Square, N.W.

BALLAD VOCALIST (Baritone) requires a few LESSONS in "ELIJAH." Experienced Soloists send lowest terms to M. Sandford, 45, Filmer Road, Fulham.

DR. CORBETT has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Special advantages. Choral service. Modern organ, by WILLIS. References exchanged. Address, Bournemouth.

ARTICLED PUPIL (non-resident) REQUIRED, by Organist of large church on South Coast. Three-manual organ. Preparation for examinations. Choir a specialty. Apply, F.C.O., 10, Cannon Place, Brighton.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—An ORGANIST has a VACANCY for a Young Gentleman, to train for the musical profession. 3-manual organ, two choral societies. Moderate terms. Address, Cantab., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a COMPETITION for at least one CHORISTERSHIP, on Tuesday, July 12, at 12 noon, at the Organist's house. Candidates must be between the ages of 8 and 11. Apply for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. E. E. Dorling, The Close, Salisbury.

FOUR LEADING BOYS WANTED, for St. John's, Great Marlborough Street, W. Stipend, £3 to £5 per annum. Also, SOLO BOY, £8 to £10. Address, C. M., 92, Rosendale Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

BOY.—LEADING BOY WANTED, for August. Church South of Scotland; beautiful district. Board with Organist, and all expenses paid. Address, Organist, Scotland, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

LEADING BOY WANTED. £5. Choir of All Saints', Battersea Park. Church close to three stations. Apply, by letter, to the Organist.

CHOIR BOYS.—Several well-trained, reliable SOLO and LEADING BOYS are available for permanent Choir Appointments; also for Festivals, Concerts, &c., at reasonable terms. Church references and testimonials. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—There is a VACANCY in the Choir for an ALTO, either a Lay Clerk or a Choral Scholar. Stipend offered, £100 a year for the former, £90 a year for the latter. Date of competition, August 18. For further information apply to the Dean, King's College, Cambridge.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—An ALTO LAY VICAR REQUIRED. Applicants should be under 30 years of age and communicants. Stipend, £90. Particulars as to character and musical ability to be sent to the Organist, C. F. South, Esq., by July 15.

ALTO WANTED, for Holy Trinity Church, Gray's Inn Road. Salary, £10. Apply to Organist, 23, Gresham Road, Brixton, S.W.

ALTO (Man) WANTED, St. John's Church, Notting Hill. Apply, A. B., 57, Regent Street, W.

BASS WANTED, for Church near City. State full particulars, salary required, &c.; also BASSES, in return for Organ Lessons. Organist, 70, Balcombe Street, Dorset Square, N.W.

A LADY (Pupil of Signor Randegger) is open to an ENGAGEMENT as leading Soprano in Church of England choir. References. Address, V. M., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TENOR VOCALIST.—Professionally trained Singer, two octaves (B) register, can accept Concert or Church work. Pianist. V., care of Yorick Club, Savoy, W.C.

BASS seeks APPOINTMENT in Cathedral Choir. Good reader. Well up in Church Music. Excellent testimonials. J. Cotterill, Codner Park, Alfreton, Derbyshire.

ORGANIST WANTED, for Congregational Church in North London. Address, with full particulars, to the Deacons, Middleton Road Congregational Church, Dalston.

WANTED, in return for Rooms, DEPUTY during August, for St. James's Episcopal Church, Leith, Edinburgh. Two Sunday services. One accustomed to Choral Service. Convenient centre for Highland and Border tours. For particulars apply, Samuel Warren, 40, Restalrig Terrace, Leith, Edinburgh.

WANTED, PARTNER or PERMANENT MASTER in Prov. Conservatoire. Educated musician; gentleman; degree preferred. State age, qualifications, diploma. If partner, small premium or time. Candid, 1, Tresco Road, Peckham Rye, S.E.

ORGANIST, &c., desires APPOINTMENT in or near London. Moderate salary. Might deputise. Anglican. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

MR. TWYFORD TAYLOR, upwards of 20 years ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of Rosslyn Hill Chapel, Hampstead, is now open to a RE-ENGAGEMENT. 47, Woodsome Road, Highgate Road, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM MAITLAND HUTT, Organist and Choirmaster, disengaged. Choral service. Highest testimonials. Northleigh, Endsleigh Road, Ealing, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, of considerable experience, Cathedral training, and highest references, clerical and musical, desires APPOINTMENT, in or near London. Address, Triad, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

G. F. WESLEY MARTIN, Sub-Organist of Edinburgh Cathedral, desires Appointment. Cathedral services. Exceptional testimonials. Address, 23, Torphichen Street, Edinburgh.

WANTED, an APPOINTMENT as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Good references; 6 years' Cathedral training. Country preferred. M. Harvey, 37, St. Peter's St., Canterbury.

THE ORGANIST of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, is prepared to DEPUTISE during the months of July, August, and September. Arnold D. Culley, F.C.O., A.R.C.M., Emmanuel College, Cambridge.

A YOUNG MAN, experienced in Church work, is open to ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, ASSISTANT, or DEPUTY. Correspondence invited. O. R. Ghan, 29, Sterndale Road, West Kensington Park, W.

HOLIDAY ENGAGEMENT.—ORGANIST of large London Church will take duties at Sea-side 3 or 4 Sundays in August, in return for suitable Apartments, with attendance. B. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, competent TUNER and out-door SALESMAN. Liberal salary to pushing man. "Alpha," Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath.

WANTED, a First-class TUNER. Must be steady and have good address. State salary. Apply, with testimonials, to M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

SITUATION WANTED, for a permanency, by a thorough practical Pianoforte, Harmonium, and American Organ TUNER, REPAIRER, and REGULATOR. Thirteen years with late employer. Unexceptional references. Aged 33. Address, Tuner, 26, Alma Street, Newport, Mon.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—WANTED, a first-class PIANOFORTE TUNER, &c. Good salary and commission. Permanency. References, &c., to Phil., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, good TUNER and REPAIRER. Good salary to proficient man. Out-doors Tench White, Canterbury.

TUNER WANTED. One used to Country work preferred. Enclose references and C.D.V., with stamped addressed envelope. State age and wages, and address, Tuner, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, able to repair, WANTED, for Huddersfield. One able to play piano, and young, preferred. Apply, Geo. Rogers and Sons, 60, Berners Street, London, W.

WANTED, competent TUNER; first-class references; send photo. Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath.

WANTED, at once, REPAIRER of Pianos and American Organs. Must be good Regulator and able to Tune. Full particulars to Wood and Marshall, Bradford.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER and REPAIRER. Knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Good references. Address, C., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

TUNER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Experienced with American Organs, &c. Address, Alpha, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Practical and steady; knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Tuner, P. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS PIANO TUNER open to ENGAGEMENT. First-class references where presently engaged. Testimonials, &c., address, Tuner, Alderson and Brentnall, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

FOR a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS in a large town in Scotland.—WANTED, experienced ASSISTANT, thoroughly up in the general Pianoforte and Sheet-music trade, who plays and is a good instrument Salesman. Also an experienced TUNER, energetic, and with business capacity. Proprietor might eventually arrange to dispose of his business to two such parties possessing the necessary capital. Apply to O. E., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

SITUATION WANTED, in the MUSIC BUSINESS, in or about London. Advertiser has a good varied knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums, is an Organist and a fair musician, has been used to cashier's work and bookkeeping, is also a native of London, and wishes to enter the Music business there. Excellent character and testimonials, &c. S. B. H., Rose Villa, Stockton Heath, Warrington.

WANTED, Young LADY ASSISTANT for the Music Counter. Must be experienced, having a good knowledge of the Catalogues and of a general Music Business. Apply to A. Richardson, 43, Bridge Street Row, Chester, giving references, &c., and salary required.

ADVERTISER (28) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT as BOOKKEEPER or ASSISTANT-MANAGER. Knowledge of small goods and can fit up instruments. Violinist. Excellent character and testimonials. W., 47, Winfrith Road, Earlsfield.

ADVERTISER (27) wishes for an APPOINTMENT as ASSISTANT in MUSIC WAREHOUSE. No previous experience. Plays Organ and Pianoforte fairly well. Satisfactory references. Bourdon, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

APPRENTICE WANTED, for old-established MUSIC BUSINESS, where Pianoforte, Organ, and Harmonium Tuning, Repairing, and Selling will be thoroughly taught. Must be respectable, and a player. Premium required. Stanton's Pianoforte Warehouse, 20, Owen Street, Tipton.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

WANTED, a Second-hand ORGAN, for a Church of 600 sittings. Particulars to be sent to L. J. Cowing, Press Office, Barnet.

TUBULAR ORGANS for SALE.—A large three-manual and pedal Organ, tubular, with A. HUNTER and SON'S patent coupling chamber, 31 speaking stops. Also a two-manual and pedal Organ, tubular, with 19 speaking stops. To be seen at A. Hunter and Son's, 65A, High Street, Clapham, S.W.

NEW ORGAN, two manuals, 26 stops. Suitable for Church, Concert Hall, &c.; now building. Two-manual Organ, 12 stops. Two-manual Organs, from £40; suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, &c. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price, £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

£120 (new) TWO-MANUAL ORGAN. 11 stops, Bourdon pedal, mahogany case. E. O. Yorston, Organ Builder, Victoria Works, Durham Street, Kennington Oval, S.E.

ORGAN for SALE.—Three-manual, by HILL and SON, 1876; enlarged and action renewed, 1887. Great 10 stops, swell 9, choir 5 (and one prepared for), pedal 2, couplers 5, pneumatic piston, great to ped. Concave pedals. Price £500. Apply, J. Booth, 20, Coolhurst Road, Crouch End, N.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals; Bourdon on pedals; sweet round tone. Price £120. At present in the Wesleyan Church, Hampstead, N.W. To view, apply to the Chapel-keeper, the Lodge, Prince Arthur Road.

ORGAN.—A good toned modern TWO-MANUAL ORGAN for SALE. 13 stops. Great organ: open diapason, stopped diapason, dulciana. Principal: flute, swell organ, open diapason, Lieblich gedackt. Principal: fifteenth, pedals, Bourdon. Couplers: swell to great, great to pedal, swell to pedal. Decorated front. Price for early clearance, £80. Apply, J. Claypole, Peterborough.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

ORGANS.—Several Two-Manuals, full compass, from 10 to 25 stops. Excellent tone and workmanship. Ready for immediate use. Apply, Henry Speechly and Sons, Organ Works, St. Mark's Road, Dalston, N.E.

FOR SALE.—Large HARMONIUM, suitable for Church or Mission Room, by METZLER. Two manuals, 2½ octaves pedals, 31 stops. Price £90. Apply, Sabin, 123, Colmore Row, Birmingham.

A LADY having two SEMI-GRAND PIANOS (by BROADWOOD) wishes to SELL one. It is in excellent condition, which can be verified by Messrs. Broadwood, if necessary. Apply, by letter, to A. Z., care of Messrs. Dawson and Sons, 121, Cannon Street, E.C.

HARPSICHORD for SALE, by JACOBUS KIRCKMAN, A.D. 1765. F. Roden, 64, Darlington St., Wolverhampton.

MILITARY BAND INSTRUMENTS.—A set of 24, in first-class condition (BOOSEY'S manufacture), to be SOLD for 75 guineas. A decided bargain. W. H. and G. H. Dreaper, 96, Bold Street, Liverpool.

TWO VIOLINS for SALE.—J. B. VUILLAUME, N. F. VUILLAUME. Both in perfect condition and fine tone. Owner has no further use, and will take low price, cash. Apply, E. Cook, 50, Tything, Worcester.

PEDAL PIANO.—Can be detached in one minute. Fine full tone, Handsome case. Organ stool, complete. £25, or offer; cost £50. Can be seen at any time. No. 65, Loughborough Park, Brixton, S.W.

WHY NOT LEARN THE ORGAN IN YOUR OWN HOMES, when it can be done by practising with Rummens' Organ Pedal Attachment for Pianofortes. Price Lists on application to H. J. Rummens, 47, Church Road, Brixton, S.W.

MUSIC of all descriptions. A valuable LIBRARY to be SOLD. Catalogue, H. D., 23, Monnery Road, Tufnell Park, N.

WANTED, to buy Second-hand, ORGAN MUSIC. Send list to 1, Orrington, Lisburn Road, Belfast.

FOR SALE.—The COPYRIGHT, PLATES, and STOCK of Eight MUSIC MANUALS. A good investment. Thos. Smith, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

FOR SALE.—TWENTY VOLUMES "MUSICAL TIMES," bound, 1850 to 1883, cheap. Dale, Oxford Road, Macclesfield.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.—Two STALLS (freehold) to be SOLD. Good position. Apply to Miss Cotton, 19, St. David's Road, Southsea.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

THE QUARTERLY SALE of PIANOFORTES and other MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, Works of Art, Paintings, Books, China, Surgical, Mathematical, and other Instruments, Opera Glasses, Intaglios, Carvings, &c.

On MONDAY, July 4, Miscellanies, as above.

On TUESDAY, July 5, many Thousand Volumes of Books, in all classes of Literature.

On Wednesday, July 6, a continuation of the Quarterly Sale of Miscellanies.

On THURSDAY, July 7, sixty Pianofortes, in walnut, rosewood, and mahogany cases, including some fine Instruments by Broadwood and Sons, Erard, and others; various Musical, Optical, and Surgical Instruments, Bronzes, Microscopes, Telescopes, old China, Books, Paintings, Marble Busts and Statuettes, &c.

On FRIDAY, July 8, Gallery and Cabinet Paintings, by and after esteemed Masters; Prints, Drawings, Etchings, and Miscellanies.

DEBENHAM, STORR and SONS beg to announce the above SALES, at 26, King Street, Covent Garden, commencing daily at 12 o'clock.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

PIANOFORTE TUNING and REPAIRING CONNECTION in Southsea, to be SOLD. Income over £100 a year. Would rapidly increase with ordinary application, present owner having only been able to devote three days weekly to it. Address, Key, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. Good position, rising S.W. suburb. Large and commodious premises. Rent only £95; worth £120. Stock, £800; part optional. Returns last year, £1,301. Morley Phillips, Valuer to the Trade, 60, Great Portland Street, W.

SMALL MUSICAL INSTRUMENT BUSINESS for SALE. North of England. Exceptional opportunity for practical man with capital. Address, T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS and MUSIC BUSINESS (Retail and Manufacturing) for DISPOSAL, in one of the finest watering-places on the South Coast. Large and commodious premises, with factory and stabling, in the best street in the town. Returns about £2,400. Established about eighteen years, and selling through ill-health. Full particulars of Morley Phillips, Valuer, 60, Great Portland Street, W.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Monthly accounts. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. Wilcock Bros., 26, Moorfields, London, E.C.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. Wilcock Brothers, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

THE OLD FIRM.
P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

D'ALMAINE'S
PIANOS AND ORGANS
For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.
Write for Professional Price List.
T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.
COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),
VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.
Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).
THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND
CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.
METZLER and CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W.,
Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

Just Published. 2s. 6d. net.
TRIO (Violin, Piano, and Cello). By W. Y. HURLSTONE. Melodious and moderately easy. Of LAFLEUR'S, Green Street, London, and all Musicsellers.

ESTABLISHED 1843.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS'
PIANOFORTES.
(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)
NOBLE IN TONE.
HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.
UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.
THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.
PIANOS
FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.
ALSO YACHT PIANOS.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS,
60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

WINKELMANN
PIANOFORTES.
"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.
OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS
FROM 65 GUINEAS.
OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS
FROM 110 GUINEAS.
Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.
SOLE IMPORTERS: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,
6, NEW BURLINGTON STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

Now ready.
SIX MORCEAUX
POUR LE
VIOLONCELLE
AVEC ACCOMPAGNEMENT DE PIANO
PAR
J. HOLLMAN.
Price, complete, Seven Shillings and Sixpence; or, singly, 2s. each.

No. 1. Légende.
„ 2. Pizzicati.
„ 3. Aubade.
No. 4. Andante.
„ 5. Petite Valse.
„ 6. Tarentelle.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

PRESIDENT:

The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.

Warden: Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Studies: Professor BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.

Director of Examinations: Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus B.

The next STUDENTS' ORCHESTRAL CONCERT will take place at Princes' Hall, Piccadilly, on SATURDAY, July 9, at 8 o'clock. Conductor, Mr. F. CORDER. The programme will include: Overtures for Orchestra, "Ruy Blas" (Mendelssohn) and "Genoveva" (Schumann), Suite for Orchestra (MS.) (Corder), Concertos for Pianoforte and Orchestra in A minor (Schumann) and G major (Beethoven), Concerto for two Violins and Orchestra (Bach), Caprice for Pianoforte and Orchestra (MS.), A. W. Ketelbey (student), and vocal music by various composers.

Tickets (price 5s. and 2s. 6d.) may be had from the undersigned. Past Students and Diplomés of the College are granted the usual privileges as to tickets.

PRIZE ESSAY.

The last day of entry is November 30 for the GOLD MEDAL of the College for the best essay "On the Theory, Progress, and Present Development of Chamber Music." Only Students and Members of the College (not being Members of the Council) are eligible for the competition, and no competitor shall be eligible who has previously taken this prize. Full particulars on application to the undersigned.

Michaelmas Term begins September 26, when new Students are received.

Prospectuses, &c., may be had from the Secretary.

By order of the Academical Board,

SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

COVENT GARDEN OPERA SEASON.

Now Ready.

THE MASTER-SINGERS OF NUREMBERG

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

A Musical Explanation with Eighty-four Musical Examples by ALBERT HEINTZ

Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

TRISTAN UND ISOLDE

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

Explained according to the Musical Development of its Motives by ALBERT HEINTZ

With Sixty-six Musical Examples.

Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BAYREUTH FESTIVAL PERFORMANCES.

Will be Ready Shortly.

PARSIFAL

A FESTIVAL DRAMA

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

Its Origin in the old Sagas, and its Musical Motives explained in the order of their Development, by ALBERT HEINTZ

With Sixty-seven copious Musical Examples.

Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

Complete IRON FRAMES;

All modern IMPROVEMENTS;

TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;

TOUCH—Facile;

DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals and various Honours.

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred their Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	MDME. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	LISZT	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	HELLER	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HENSELT	HALLÉ
BENNETT	E. SILAS	SULLIVAN

Price Lists and Illustrations on application.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.

Annual Subscription, One Guinea.

Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"

Translated by W. ASHTON ELLIS, Editor of

"THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).

Part 8, and No. XVIII. now ready.

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the EDITOR, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

Just Published.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—
   - I. Morris Dance.
   - II. Shepherds' Dance.
   - III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
JULY 1, 1892.

CERTAIN GRAVES REVISITED.

THE main object of a visit paid by me to Vienna in 1876 was that I might stand beside the graves of the great masters of music whose "earthly part" rests in and near that city. How the pious duty was discharged, and under what circumstances, is told in the Appendix to my "Letters from Bayreuth." Some weeks ago an obligation of another kind took me again to the Austrian capital, with a companion whose fresh enthusiasm and profound reverence suggested the homage which I myself had paid sixteen years before. With him I once more visited the historic tombs.

I knew that, in the interim, the little cemetery at Währing had been rifled of its treasure. At the present time Währing is no more an extra-mural village than is Hampstead. The city has annexed it, and built round and upon it, carrying lines of houses over acres which were once cheerful gardens or quiet country fields. Only the principal street of the place suggests what it once was, and even the distinguishing features that there remain are fast disappearing. One of those features is the entrance to the cemetery, with its carriage-drive up to the level of the gates, and to the quaint house in which the keeper lives. I hear that this also will soon vanish, cemetery and all. The builder has his eye upon God's acre as a site for "eligible" suburban villas, and the first resting-place of Beethoven and Schubert—the spot on which their bodies were committed to the earth by mourning friends—is doomed. At present, however, apart from the fact that the two illustrious graves are empty, the scene remains unchanged, and, in pacing the avenues between crowds of ill-kept or crumbling tombs, the visitor may be assured that he looks upon the very picture presented when Beethoven and Schubert came to join the great company of the dead. Knowing the imminent fate of the cemetery, one understands why the ashes of the great composers were disturbed in 1888 and carried to a securer place. But how much better to have bought the ground, even at a fancy price, and transformed it into a monument of its most famous occupants!

On a tearful May morning my companion and myself set out for Währing behind one of the lanky horses whose attenuated legs scurry through Vienna to the terror of pedestrians. After flying along the Währinger Strasse without, so far as I know, causing mortal injury, we passed the "octroi" station into a region so transformed since my last visit that, when Jehu turned unexpectedly off to the right, I could not be sure that he had gone wrong. Sixteen-year-old recollections are not implicitly to be trusted, but the cemetery at which our driver finally drew rein was so unlike my remembrance of Währing in 1876 that I hesitated. In some respects, however, a strong resemblance appeared. The enclosure was about the same size, its situation, on the gentle slope of a hill, corresponded; the avenues ran in the same direction, and a general untidiness agreed precisely with the impression I had in my mind. The surroundings, on the other hand, were altogether different, and, obviously, not the effect of recent change. To settle the question, I took the avenue on the extreme left and guided my friend to the spot where, that being the right burial ground, I should find some traces of the graves we sought. There were no such traces. Only the undistinguished dead lay around. Returning once more to the gate, we expressed a disappointment which the Herr Kutscher failed to remove. He knew nothing of Beethoven, nor, for that matter, did the keeper of the place, who was drawn into consultation. But both were certain that we stood within the Währinger Friedhof. So, another duty calling us elsewhere, we rattled back to town, baffled for the nonce, yet resolved to try again. The second attempt, carried out entirely on the promptings of memory, was successful. Once more I rang the bell at the custodian's lodge, and again was admitted by that cheerful functionary, whom we had disturbed in the midst of preparations for a savoury dinner. There are two cemeteries in Währing.

I was glad to find that the memorials of the great musicians had not been removed. The little enclosures, almost side by side, were found intact; the heavy stones which had so long covered the remains lay in their old places, and the monument at the head of each grave stood as before, now, however, with an added inscription stating when the body was taken away and whither. Währing is still, therefore, a place of pilgrimage, and so will remain, no doubt, till the speculative builder takes possession. Happily, Buggins can only profane the casket which contained the jewels. But that is bad enough, at any rate, in my eyes. I would have held as sacred every place and thing associated with Beethoven and Schubert, for whose sake even the speculative builder—Moloch of our urban civilisation—should be treated with contumely and his unholy sacrifices despised. On the other side of the avenue, and almost facing the monuments of the masters, still repose the mortal remains of Seyfried, who composed the "Libera" performed at Beethoven's funeral, and of Clement, to whom the illustrious musician dedicated his Violin Concerto. It may be that these men, who died respectively in 1841 and 1842, desired to lie near their great friend. If so, how their rest must have been disturbed when workmen came to take him away!

On a subsequent day, another lanky horse, own brother, in appearance, to that which made the profitless journey Währing-wards, sped us out to the cemetery of St. Mark, where the ashes of Mozart, happy in their indistinguishableness, still peacefully repose. Here, also, the hand of change had been at work, and now a railway runs immediately in front of the burial ground, making surroundings ugly which before were not remarkable for beauty. The existence of this cemetery is threatened no less than that of the burial-ground at Währing, and Buggins waits, with plans of more eligible suburban villas, to enter in and take possession. When he does so, the accumulated dust of generations will be carted away, and with it that of Mozart, never again to have a "local habitation" which can be recognised. But "his name liveth evermore." The appearance of the cemetery has much altered in sixteen years. Life has flourished upon death, as its wont is, and now tall shrubs and vigorous trees limit in every direction views which once were comparatively open. The visitor, in 1876, had no difficulty, once among the graves of the poor, in finding the place in or near which Mozart is supposed to have been buried. High above the level of the humble mounds and wooden crosses all around towered the monument erected by the city of Vienna, some forty years ago, to the memory of her adopted, but sorely-neglected son. That landmark has been removed, and the entire surrounding space is now covered with growing shrubs, among which meander narrow footpaths. In point of fact, there is absolutely no guide to the spot where, as one fondly hopes, the composer's remains are resting. For a long time we wandered about searching vainly in the region of the "third class" burials. At length, however, my attention was drawn to a half-trodden path which, leaving one of the avenues at right angles, struck into a mass of greenery. With more of idle curiosity than active expectation, I followed the track and, after about a dozen steps, almost stumbled over a square mound in the midst of a little "clearing." It was not the mound which attracted instant attention, but a rough slab of stone lying against it—evidently part of some broken monument—with the unworked reverse side outwards. On it had been painted, by an unskilled hand, the letters of Mozart's name and the date of his death. St. Mark's now shows to musical pilgrims just this and nothing more, and even this can be discovered only with difficulty, in the absence of a guide. My companion, standing by the mound with uncovered head, waxed righteously indignant at the neglect of a spot so sacred, and threatened Vienna with "coals of fire" in the shape of English money wherewith to place some fitting memorial on the spot. He is just the man to have done it, if need were, out of his own purse. My irate friend did not then know—nor, indeed, did I—that Buggins was waiting outside, ready to enter upon land "ripe for development." When, sooner or later, he takes possession, the mound and the slab will be carted away as rubbish, and there an end of the pitiful story.

Returning through the unkempt avenues of the doomed burial-ground to our conveyance, the lanky horse sped on towards the Central Cemetery, in which the great Viennese masters, Mozart excepted, have found what, let us hope, is their final resting-place. A Central Cemetery would naturally be looked for in some central position, but jarvey turned the head of his stilted beast in the direction of the open country, and jolted us over a roughly paved road which pushed its way straight as an arrow between fields where the young crops were growing and gangs of women were working. On we went, passing empty agricultural wains returning from the city; meeting hearses, also empty, returning from the cemetery; and speeding by roadside public houses, in front of which sable-clad ministers of death were carousing, after the frequent manner of their English kind; while, pursuing the lugubrious vehicles, the batches of mourners, and hurrying pedestrians unattached, came up a thunderstorm darting out its tongues of fire. Presently luxuriant trees, overtopping a wall that stretched deep into the fields, proclaimed the nearness of our goal, and, in a few minutes, we passed from the untidiness that fringes a great town into a domain of order and beauty. I know no cemetery more perfect than this Viennese necropolis. There are many more advantageously situated for effect, the site here being quite level; but, for orderly arrangement, for careful keeping, for everything that tends to console and cheer by suggesting life and hope, this city of the dead deserves to take the palm. The place is a vast garden of flowers and shrubs and leafy avenues, stretching away far as eye can see. Here, as it seemed to me, all the birds of the air had made a home. Outside they are shot down without mercy; within they find a safe refuge, and song is their thanksgiving. The atmosphere vibrated with the carollings of blackbirds and thrushes; the whole air was vocal above the pretty flowers and the trim grass-plots, and among the branches of the trees, which gently waved under the influence of the approaching storm. Our enquiries for the tombs of the musicians, addressed to chance loiterers, succeeded in bringing us very near the spot, when we met a workman homeward bound after his day's labour. In reply to our question he, with ready courtesy, bade us follow, and a few steps placed us in the centre of a group of graves and monuments which, to musicians, must be the most illustrious in the whole world. It was a happy thought to unite the masters thus, and to lavish upon their common resting-place all that taste and skill could do to the end of beauty. The monuments are so arranged as that the ground plan somewhat resembles a Greek cross. In the midst of a central circle, surrounded by blooming flowers, is the Mozart monument already referred to as having been removed from St. Mark's. The statue, representing the Genius of Music bearing a lyre with one string broken, and looking sadly at a page of the "Requiem," stands upon a new pedestal, and by its mingled dignity and pensiveness gives the proper tone to this musical Walhall. Near at hand, on the circumference of the circle, rests Beethoven, beneath massive granite, and under the shadow of a monument not unlike that which still marks the site at Währing. The emblematic serpent with its tail in its mouth, and the butterfly, are on the new monument as on the old, the only addition being a long inscription in gilded letters, stating that the memorial was erected by the musical societies of Vienna. That might easily have been spared. Here, as at Währing, Schubert is a near neighbour of his mighty contemporary, lying next to him, indeed, but on the farther side of a passage-way. The monument to the composer of the "Unfinished" Symphony resembles, in its general features, that erected to the author of the "Choral." A little distance behind these, and at the end of what may be called one of the arms of the cross, lies Gluck, faced, at the end of the opposite arm, by Haydn, while the monuments of Herbeck, and a few lesser lights, complete the unique group. The whole scene is touching in its charm as in its associations. One recognises a fitting tribute to genius, but the most impressive thought of all is that of proximity to the mortal remains of men who have filled the world with beauty, and conferred upon it a source of lasting pleasure. It is well that they rest where they do; that flowers bloom around them, and birds sing in the trees overhead.

> The tombs
> And monumental caves of death look cold
> And shoot a chilliness to my trembling heart;
> The horror of this place,
> And silence, will increase my melancholy.

But there is no horror here. All was bright and beautiful as I stood under the Mozart memorial and looked round upon a scene lit up by the rays of the Westering sun. The peace that reigned there seemed infinite, and under its influence the pilgrim to the tombs could be thankful not only for life, but for the beneficent order of death.

J. B.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. SHEDLOCK, B.A.

(Continued from p. 334.)

PIANOFORTE TRIOS IN E FLAT, G, AND C MINOR (Op. 1, Nos. 1, 2, and 3).

HERR NOTTEBOHM, in his "Zweite Beethoveniana,"* devotes a whole chapter to the sketches of the second and third of these Trios, some of which, quoted by him, are to be found in the Museum Notirungsbuch, while others exist on loose sheets in the Royal Library at Berlin. There has been some difference of opinion as to the date or dates at which

* Herr Nottebohm's two works relating to the Beethoven Sketch Books are "Beethoveniana," Leipzig, 1872, and "Zweite Beethoveniana," Leipzig, 1887. His "Thematisches Verzeichniss" of Beethoven's works (Leipzig, 2nd ed., 1868) should also be mentioned.

the Trios were finished, and as to which was the earliest. With regard to date, Thayer (Beethoven's Leben, Book 2, ch. 12, "Was hat Beethoven in Bonn componirt?") believes that they were composed, at latest, in the year 1793. He mentions the statement of Ries, who relates that they were played before Haydn, who left Vienna for London, January 16, 1794. Yet over against this must be placed Schindler's declaration that Ries's tale is based on a misunderstanding. Thayer is of opinion that these Trios, which Beethoven showed to Haydn, were written at Bonn at the composer's leisure, and not between his hours of study and during the excitement of new life in Vienna. Thayer, indeed, in support of an early date, refers to a manuscript catalogue which states that the posthumous Trio in E flat was composed in 1791, and originally intended for Op. 1, but was set aside, Beethoven considering it too weak.* Nottebohm, on the other hand, believes that the Trio in G was not ready by the end of 1794, and that the Trio in C minor was completed at a still later period (according to Schindler, however, the C minor was the first one finished). In his "Zweite Beethoveniana" (p. 21) Nottebohm gives a sketch of the principal theme of the Allegro of the Trio in G, commencing thus:—

At the end of the chapter (p. 27) he refers to that sketch as appearing in conjunction with an "Opferlied" sketch. And in his "Beethoveniana" (p. 51) he gives the same "Opferlied" sketch with a foot-note to the effect that as this sketch is followed by treatment of the first movement of the Trio in G (Op. 1, No. 2), its date can be approximately determined, since the Trio was completed at the earliest towards the end of 1794. Now in the Notirungsbuch there is the "Opferlied" sketch quoted in "Beethoveniana," followed by sketches of the first movement of the Trio; but still the sketch quoted by Nottebohm mentioned above is not among them. Indeed, every time the group of notes in the second bar occurs, the notes are written as semiquavers. Did Beethoven write down the "Opferlied" sketch twice in exactly the same way? and were both "Opferlied" sketches followed by Trio sketches? or has Nottebohm mixed his Berlin and British Museum sketches of the Trio? This confusion is mentioned to assist anyone looking closely into the matter, but as bearing upon the date of the work it is not of any moment. The fact may, however, be noted, that in the Notirungsbuch there are sketches of the G Trio not mentioned by Nottebohm. But the confusion does not end here. On the second page of leaf containing the first movement sketches of Trio in G, there is a sketch of the third movement of the Trio in C minor followed by an interesting sketch of the slow movement of the Trio in G. Nottebohm quotes the C minor sketch, and remarks that it was written at latest in 1793 ("Zweite Beethoveniana," p. 27). Why 1793, it may be asked, if it is on the same sheet containing an "Opferlied" sketch to which the date 1794 is assigned?

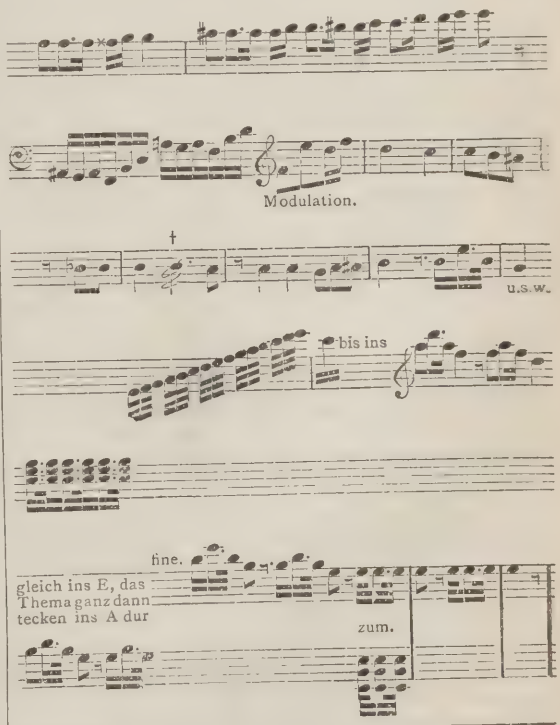
That Beethoven may have written the "Opferlied" sketch later than the others, and yet both on the same sheet, is, of course, quite possible, but then some special reason ought to have been given for assigning to each a different date.

But an attempt has been made by Nottebohm to fix the date of the G Trio. He gives two sketches, one of the third, the other of the fourth movement. The same sheet on which they are to be found contains, he tells us, two two-part fugues and the commencement of a three-part fugue written in connection with Beethoven's lessons with Albrechtsberger. This naturally leads Nottebohm to assign the Trio sketches to the year 1794, during which Beethoven studied with Albrechtsberger.

But here again his argument is not very satisfactory. Referring to Thayer's statement that possibly the Trio was written in Bonn, Nottebohm says that a long time cannot have elapsed between the filling of the first and last pages of the sheet. He also adds that it is not likely that Beethoven brought the half-filled sheet from Bonn to Vienna. The number of sheets containing Bonn sketches in our Notirungsbuch would, however, afford a strong proof to the contrary. We have attempted to show that Nottebohm's statements must be carefully tested. Thayer's reasoning in favour of an early date seems, indeed, more satisfactory than Nottebohm's evidence for a later one. We shall now succinctly describe the Notirungsbuch sketches themselves.

There are sketches in four different parts of the book, but not knowing on whose authority the leaves have been bound together, one must be careful not to consider later sheets equivalent to later dates.

Page 69 contains sketches, referred to above, of the development section of the first movement. The following is the sketch of the Largo, beginning with the second subject in B major. The middle modulatory section does not appear to be settled, yet already the Coda is beginning to take shape in the composer's mind; the sketch form differs, however, from the printed version. We shall have other opportunities of seeing how the composer sketched, as it were, from a definite tone-picture in his mind*—

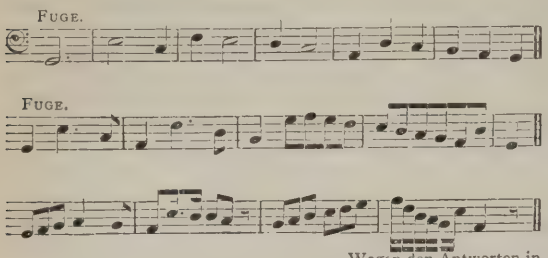


* "Componirt anno 1791 und ursprünglich zu den 3 Trios Op. 1 bestimmt, aber von Beethoven, als zu schwach, weggelassen."

* We know that in later years Beethoven worked to a picture or programme. His statement to Neate as to his practice is as follows:—"I have always," said he, "a picture in my mind when I am composing, and work to it" (Thayer iii., 343). And the picture, no doubt, suggested an outline of the music.

† The middle note is thus scratched through in the sketch.

After this come the following fugue themes:—



Wegen den Antworten in der Fugen einige Täge.

The third Example should, we imagine, be read in the treble clef and in the key of F.

The written sentence at the end (the softened a in "Täge" is, we are informed, an Austrian provincialism) would seem to refer to the lessons with Albrechtsberger. It would, indeed, seem probable that this leaf and the one mentioned by Nottebohm, with the two-part fugue, &c., originally belonged to the same sketch book. It may be mentioned that Albrechtsberger gave Beethoven a set of subjects prepared for fugue-work—i.e., capable of stretto, &c. Beethoven, so far as one can tell from the published studies, always selected one of these subjects for his fugue exercises. They are all in common or alla breve time, whereas—it is curious to note—the three subjects just quoted are in triple time.

On page 86 there are interesting sketches of the second and third Trios, and as they are not mentioned at all by Nottebohm, they shall be briefly described. The first begins thus—and consists of the bass of the passage leading from the exposition to the development section of the Finale of the G Trio. Like the sketches of this movement mentioned by Nottebohm, it is in C time, thereby confirming Wegeler's statement (Biogr. Not, p. 29) that Beethoven originally wrote it in 4-4 time. A good part of the development section is sketched; then comes the principal theme of the last movement, thus—followed by—

Evolutionists will be glad, perhaps, to trace a Beethoven figure from its germ—

The above is an extract from an early sketch, and then—is the printed version. The process was, therefore

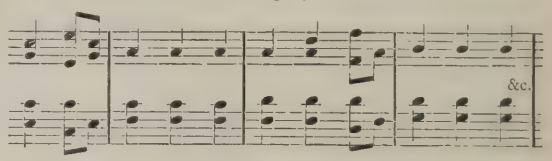
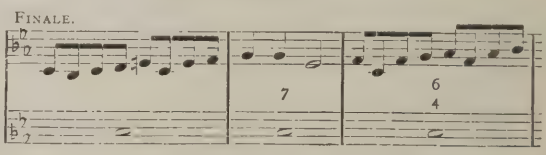
On the other side of the sheet there are sketches connected with two of the movements of the C minor Trio. First, of the third movement, we have—

This is followed by the melody (with a few bass notes) an octave lower, for "violine," and the passage is like the printed version, but with differences which show how minute was the attention given by Beethoven to his works. Then, among sketches for the first movement, we meet with a rough draft of the principal theme of the first movement—

By the way, is the following on this page a sketch of one of the Variations (unpublished) for two oboes and English horn on "Là ci darem la mano"? This should be compared with the sketch in Nottebohm's "Zweite Beethoveniana," p. 30—



The second page of sheet 116 is of great interest. On the first two staves we find—



It almost seems as if this were an early sketch theme for the Finale of the C minor Trio. Underneath it is a sketch of the commencement of the development section of the first movement of the Trio in G—

The similarity of notes and figures in the two last illustrations will not escape observation; and indeed, if similarity counts for anything, it may be noticed that we have also—in the Minore of second Menuetto of E flat Trio for strings (Op. 3), probably written about the same time that the Trios were sketched, if not completed. It is, of course, natural that there should be certain resemblances of mood and mode in works produced simultaneously, but it is interesting to note the fact. Another striking example occurs in the Sonata in B flat and the Thème Varié in G, at which Beethoven worked simultaneously—

The whole of the remainder of the page is devoted to sketches of this first movement. Here is one extract—

a different cadence from the one in the printed version, and one, apparently, of greater power. The X seems to indicate something special. Higher up on the same page there is another attempt at the same cadence.

A half-sheet numbered 126 is also of special interest. On the first page and top lines of second page there is a beautifully written condensed score of the whole of the Scherzo of the G major Trio, with exception of the seven concluding bars. Afterwards come various sketches, and among them one of the third of the "Contretänze," not published until the year 1802. It commences thus—

From the appearance of this and the other sketches they were not written at the same time as the Scherzo, and hence afford no fresh evidence as to the date of the G Trio. Among these sketches is written "Hausdiener Abends Wasser holen."*

No sketches, it is said, have been discovered of the Pianoforte Trio in E flat (Op. 1, No. 1). Was, perchance, the following, occurring on sheet 68 mentioned above, containing sketches of the other two Trios, a sketch for the Finale of the E flat?—

In our next article we shall examine the sketches connected with the Pianoforte Sonatas (Op. 7, 10, and 14, No. 1).

(To be continued.)

* Servant to bring water in the evening.

FROM MY STUDY.

THE correspondent who sends me a description of Purcell's "Orpheus Britannicus" is thanked for doing so none the less because that work is well known. Questions as to value, in the case of old books, are not easily answered without a personal inspection; so much depends upon "state" and so much upon the edition, when more than one have been issued. My correspondent appears to possess the second edition of Vol. I., published in 1706, and the first edition of Vol. II. (1702). Vol. I., first edition, appeared in 1698. There was a third edition in 1721. For the information of my correspondent, I may state that the first part or volume should contain 286 pages; the second, 204 pages. There should also be two portraits of Purcell, by R. White, one representing him at the age of twenty-four, the other at thirty-seven. Lowndes mentions that at the dispersal of the Nassau collection the second part fetched £1 16s.

A Peterhead correspondent directs my attention to several works connected with psalmody. Passing over Ravenscroft's "Whole booke of Psalms" and the "Psalms of King David," as translated by King James, I, in turn, indicate to my readers, as interesting matter for discussion, the following two books:—

Sacred Hymns. Consisting of Fifty Select Psalms of David and others, Paraphrastically turned into English verse.

And by Robert Tailour, set to be sung in five Parts as also to the viole, and lute or orph-arion. Published for the use of such as delight in the Exercise of Music in hir original honour. London: Printed by Thomas Snodham by the assignment of the Company of Stationers, 1615.

The Psalm Singers Jewel or useful Companion to the Singing Psalms being a new exposition in all the one hundred and fifty with Poetical Precepts to every Psalm by William Tansur Senior Musico-Theorico. London: Printed for G. Crowder, at the Looking Glass over against St. Magnus Church, London Bridge, 1760.

The first of these is mentioned by Lowndes, who, for information concerning it, refers to Wood's "Athen. Oxon," by Dr. Bliss., Vol. II., p. 474. The second work appears to have escaped the laborious bibliographer's notice. Particulars regarding either will be welcomed.

Some weeks ago a letter came to me telling the familiar story of earnest effort unrecognised and unrewarded. My correspondent is a young lady who employs her pen in writing verse—a thankless and profitless field of labour—some of which she sends to me that I may be the better able to answer the question why all her aspirations have failed. "I have written verses," she tells me, "almost as long as I can remember—not so very many years, as I am now but four-and-twenty. Still, it is long enough to have practised well, and, if my writings are meritless now, surely they will be ever so! . . . I have tried magazine after magazine—always to meet with failure! I have a great fancy to write words for musical setting, but, with composers as with the journals, always failure! . . . Ought I to be discouraged, or should I hope on, and persevere?" My young correspondent, with whose early disappointments all who have gone through a like experience will sympathise, must not blame the editors and composers who have declined her verses. They are inundated with MSS. and cannot find time even to read a large part of the contributions offered. Being neither editor nor composer, I have examined the specimen lyrics sent me, and, as a result, urge their authoress both to hope and work. For a purpose presently to be mentioned, I quote one of my correspondent's poems:—

AT EVENTIDE.

At eventide I love, with thee,
To wing fair flights of memory
Far, far away; or, spell-bound, reap
Sweet thoughts, half sad, from tones as deep
As murmurs from the troubled sea;

Day slowly dies—then rises free,
An offering to eternity!
My spirit could for envy weep,
At eventide!

In after years, when Life's worn key
Shall ope Death's portal wide for me
To pass across, I fain would creep—
As children to the arms of sleep!—
Where I shall rest, if it might be,
At eventide!

If not faultless, this lyric gives a true indication of capacity, and I have much pleasure in bringing the writer under the notice of composers. Her name and address may be obtained by letter to me, at the Office of THE MUSICAL TIMES.

I have just added to my library a collection of play-bills issued in connection with the Theatre Royal, Hull, between October, 1822, and March, 1824. Their chief interest is, of course, dramatic, but they are not wholly wanting in that which is musical. At the head of the first bill, the manager, Mr. Mansel, "respectfully informs the Public that the Theatre Royal, Hull, will open on Monday, October 21st, brilliantly illuminated with GAS. The introduction of this superior and elegant light is a desideratum long wanted in the Hull Theatre, as it imparts a heat sufficiently strong to make the House warm and comfortable." How curiously this reads now that electricity is reducing gas to mere kitchen work, and making it the Cinderella of light-giving things. Seventy years ago Cinderella dwelt in marble-halls and was styled "superior and elegant."

In October the "Marriage of Figaro" was played for the first time in Hull. No composer's name is mentioned, but, presumably, the opera was partly Mozart, partly a hash compounded by some of the musical cooks of the period. The name of Dr. Bartolo does not appear in the cast, but a lot of characters are there, to us now unknown in opera—Fiorella, Philippo, Ernesto, Ordella, &c. In Act II., the gardener, Antonio, sang a song, "In early life, I got a wife," and the Countess and Susanna warbled a duet, "How gently when the sun's descending." Enjoyment of these things is denied to us now, nor, when "Twelfth Night" is performed, do we, as did the Hull audience seventy years ago, hear Valentine, Curio, Fabian, and the Clown sing a glee, "Come o'er the brook, Bessy, to me." Why this unjust deprivation? In November, 1822, Miss Somerville (Mrs. Alfred Bunn) was the "star," and in January following, Mr. Doré, the principal dancer, danced "an entire new hornpipe in wooden shoes, real fetters, accompanying himself at the same time on the violin, never attempted by any person but himself." Later on I find Miss Leigh reciting Collins's "Ode on the Passions," with appropriate music, after which was played "an entire new opera, in two acts, called 'Maid Marian, or the Huntress of Arlingford.'" "Love in a Village" greatly pleased the Hull playgoers, and the manager thus announced its repetition: "From the flattering applause and approbation bestowed upon the opera of "Love in a Village," Mr. Mansel is induced to repeat the piece, and with pride and pleasure he challenges any provincial company in the Kingdom to produce it in superior style."

At the end of December, 1823, the theatre was given up to a series of Concerts, at which Madame Catalani appeared, supported by Mr. Bedford (surely our old friend, Paul, of that ilk), Mrs. Bedford, and others, with Dr. Camidge as leader of the band. The great Italian vocalist sang, amongst other things, Rode's Air, with variations, "Robin Adair," "Rule, Britannia," "Cease your funning," "Angels, ever bright and fair," and, curiously enough, "Non più andrai," which she had previously performed in London with success. What would now be said were Madame Albani to take up "Why do the nations," or the Calf of Gold song in "Faust"? The play-bill for March 16, 1824, announced: "The Misses Cause (pupils of Sir George Smart) will have the honour of making their first appearance on any stage. These very young ladies have received the most flattering approbation at several Concerts in London, and been greeted with the most rapturous applause at the Rooms in York. An opera is now preparing for the début of Miss H. Cause, at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden." Miss Cause was announced to sing "Vedrai carino," and Miss H. Cause, "Queen Mary's Lamentation," the sisters also joining in two duets. "Cause" may have been the proper name of these ladies, and, in that case, it was afterwards changed to "Cawse." The compilers of our musical dictionaries seem unanimously to have ignored both artists, although the younger of them attained a very respectable position on the lyric stage and in the concert-room. Miss Harriett Cawse took part in the first performance of "Oberon" at Covent Garden, and it was to her that Weber referred when he wrote to his wife, after the first rehearsal: "The young fellow who was to have sung Puck has lost his voice, but I have a charming girl, who is very clever and sings capitally." "Oberon" was brought out sixty-six years ago, yet only two or three years have passed since the original Puck died—the original Mermaid (Mrs. Keeley) is still with us. Miss Harriett Cawse subsisted for many years upon a handsome allowance from the Covent Garden Fund, thanks to which she enjoyed a peaceful and comfortable old age.

Reference to the production of "Oberon" led me to look up Planché's "Recollections and Reflections," and there I see that another artist well known at the Hull Theatre "created" a part in Weber's opera. This was Mr. Charles Bland, who was for long a member of the stock company under Mr. Mansel, and sang songs as a kind of interlude (then in fashion) between the drama and the farce. He also took singing parts, such as Hecate, and was an acceptable Captain Macheath in the "Beggars' Opera." Apropos, I must here transcribe a passage from Planché's book that the reader may form an accurate idea as to how things operatic were managed even at Covent Garden in 1826:—

"None of our actors could sing and but one singer could act—Madame Vestris, who made a charming Fatima. A young lady, who, subsequently, became one of the most popular actresses in my recollection, was certainly included in the cast; but she had not a line to speak, and was pressed into the service in consequence of the paucity of vocalists, as she had a sweet though not very powerful voice, and was even then artist enough to be entrusted with anything. That young lady was Miss Goward, now Mrs. Keeley, and to her was assigned the exquisite Mermaid Song in the Finale to the second act. At the first general rehearsal, with full band, scenery, &c., the effect was not satisfactory, and Fawcett, in his usual brusque manner, exclaimed, 'That must come out! It won't go!' Weber, who was standing in the pit, leaning on the back of the orchestra, so feeble that he could scarcely stand without such support, shouted 'Wherefore shall it not go?' and, leaping over the partition like a boy, snatched the bâton from the Conductor, and saved from excision one of the most delicious morceaux in the opera. No vocalist could be found equal to the part of Sherasmin. It was, therefore, acted by Fawcett, and a bass singer, named Isaacs, was lugged in, head and shoulders, to eke out the charming quatuor, 'Over the dark blue waters.' Braham, the greatest English tenor perhaps ever known, was about the worst actor ever seen, and the most unromantic person in appearance that can well be imagined. . . . Miss Paton, with a grand soprano voice, and sufficiently prepossessing person, was equally destitute of histrionic ability, and, consequently, of the four principal parts in the opera, only one was adequately represented—that of Fatima, by Madame Vestris. Among the minor characters, Miss Harriet Cawse, a pupil of Sir George Smart, distinguished herself as an arch and melodious Puck, and did her 'spiriting' gently, and Mr. Charles Bland, brother of the future king of extravaganza, was happily gifted with a voice which enabled him to execute, at least respectably, the airs assigned to the King of the Fairies." "Ballads, duets, choruses, and glees," says Planché, in another place, "provided they occupied no more than the fewest number of minutes possible, were all that the play-going public of that day would endure. A dramatic situation in music was 'caviare to the general,' and inevitably received with cries of 'cut it short!' from the gallery, and obstinate coughing or other significant signs of impatience from the pit. Nothing but the Huntsman's Chorus and the diablerie in 'Der Freyschütz' saved it from immediate condemnation in England." The reading of this extract must be good for the musical pessimists of our day.

Planché publishes three letters from Weber, some parts of which are interesting even now. "The cut of an English opera," writes the composer, "is certainly very different from a German one. The English is more a drama with songs." Again: "The cut of the whole [libretto of "Oberon"] is very foreign to all my ideas and maxims. The intermixing of so many principal actors who do not sing; the omission of music in the most important moments—all of these things deprive our 'Oberon' of the title of an opera and will make him unfit for all other theatres in Europe, which is a very bad thing for me, but—passons la dessous." In another part of the same letter: "I beg leave to observe that the composer looks more [in a libretto] for the expression of feelings than the figurative; the former he may repeat and develop in all their graduations, but verses like—

> Like the spot the tulip weareth
> Deep within its dewy urn.

or in Huon's song—

> Like hopes that deceive us,
> Or false friends who leave us
> Soon as descendeth prosperity's sun.

must be said only once." And again: "Poets and composers live together in a sort of angels' marriage, which demands a reciprocal trust."

Reading Weber upon the difference between English and German opera somehow reminded me of the prologue to "The Rovers, or the Double Arrangement," published in the Anti-Jacobin, and attributed to Messrs. Frere, Gifford, Ellis, and Canning, or some of them:

> To-night our bard, who scorns pedantic rules,
> His plot has borrowed from the German schools;
> The German schools—where no dull maxims bind
> The bold expansion of the electric mind.
> Fixed to no period, circled by no space,
> He leaps the flaming bounds of time and place.
> Round the dark confines of the forest raves,
> With gentle Robbers* stocks his gloomy caves;
> Tells how Prime Ministers* are shocking things,
> And reigning Dukes as bad as tyrant Kings;
> How to two swains† one nymph her vows may give,
> And how two damsels with one lover live!
> Delicious scenes!—such scenes our bard displays—
> Which, crowned with German, sue for British praise.
> . . . . . .
> View and approve, though in each passage fine
> The faint translation mock the genuine line;
> Though the nice ear the erring sight belie,
> For U twice dotted is pronounced like I;
> Yet oft the scene shall nature's fire impart,
> Warm from the breast and glowing to the heart.
> Ye travelled few, attend—On you our bard
> Builds his fond hope.—Do you his genius guard!
> Nor let succeeding generations say
> A British audience damn'd a German play.

* Schiller's "Robbers."

In the words of immortal Jack Bunsby: "The bearing of this here observation lies in the application on't."

My friend W.'s well-known handwriting appeared in the superscription of a letter which reached me the other day, and I fondly hoped to find the first of his Musical Satires within. Instead of that I read: "Dear X.,—Herewith a noble ballad of 'Undaunted Mary; or, The Banks of Sweet Dundee.' Do you know it? If not, you, with your sense of humour and rigid notions of female propriety, will thank me for discovering it between the pages of an old copy of 'Clarissa Harlowe.' It is not quite in the Richardsonian vein, and you can imagine how, had Richardson read it to his feminine worshippers, they would have gathered up their skirts and fled. Yet it is not naughty. It is only heroic and sanguinary. The beauties of the poetry you will appreciate for yourself. P.S.—I find the writing of satire hard work. It is so difficult to shoot a literary arrow without blunting the point." "Undaunted Mary," which my old chum eulogises, is a ballad of a farmer's daughter, whose parents, dying, left her "£500 in gold." Like the Children in the Wood, she went to live with an uncle, "the cause of all her woe"; but, the poet hastens to say, "You soon shall hear this maiden fair did prove his overthrow," which is satisfactory. Undaunted Mary soon had two lovers—her uncle's ploughboy and a wealthy squire. Naturally, she preferred the ploughboy, while her uncle, after the sordid manner of wicked relatives in general, favoured the wealthy suitor. Hear the poet as to this:—

> It was on one summer's morning, her uncle went straightway,
> He knockèd at her bedroom door, and thus to her did say:
> "Come rise up, pretty maiden, a lady you may be,
> For the squire is waiting for you on the banks of sweet Dundee."

At this juncture Mary behaved in the most spirited manner. She answered and said—

> "A fig for all your squires, your lords, and dukes likewise,
> My William's hand appears to me like diamonds in my eyes."

The uncle at once gave way to an unhappy temper:

> "Begone, unruly female, you ne'er shall happy be,
> For I mean to banish William from the banks of sweet Dundee."

From the next two stanzas we gather that Mary's wicked uncle set the press-gang upon poor William, who, like a virtuous and humble hero, fought one against six—

> The blood did flow in torrents: "Pray kill me now," said he,
> "For I'd rather die for Mary on the banks of sweet Dundee."

Shortly afterwards, Mary, wandering in her uncle's grove, met the squire, and matters at once came to a crisis. The bold bad lover put his arms around her:

> "Stand off, base man," said she,
> "You sent the only lad I love from the banks of sweet Dundee."

* Schiller's "Cabal and Love."
† Goethe's "Stranger."

The squire would not stand off, and during the scuffle, our heroine espied two pistols and a sword beneath his morning gown. Availing herself of this armoury—

Young Mary took the weapons, his sword he used so free,
But she did fire and shot the squire on the banks of sweet Dundee.

Hearing the noise, the uncle—

hastened to the ground:
"Since you have killed the squire, I'll give you your death wound."
"Stand off," then said young Mary, "undaunted I will be,"
She the trigger drew and her uncle slew on the banks of sweet Dundee.

The doctor soon was sent for—a man of noted skill,
Likewise came his lawyer, for him to sign his will.
He willed it all to Mary, who fought so manfully,
And now she lives so happy on the banks of sweet Dundee.

I yield nothing to W. in my admiration of this ballad, which affords so true a picture of domestic life in rural districts. What a libretto (for Mascagni, say) might be constructed out of it, and how the intense realism, attested by plenty of gore, would move the modern audience!

X.

SINCE the time of David, the sweet singer of Israel, kings and queens have cultivated the art of music, and not a few have distinguished themselves as performers and some also as composers. The best teachers are at their command, they hear the best of everything, and they come into contact with the highest representatives not only of music, but of the fine arts generally. They thus enjoy exceptional opportunities for forming and cultivating taste, and when to these are added natural disposition or special gifts, the good results are proportionally greater. At once the names of our own merry monarch, Henry VIII., and of Frederick the Great of Prussia come to remembrance, and many more might be mentioned. If no monarchs, however gifted, however well trained, have come within measurable distance of the greatest composers, it must be remembered that political events, state duties, and court pleasures always absorb much of their time, and even, under the most favourable circumstances, they cannot pursue art with that devotion which alone secures supremacy. The publication, now in progress, by Messrs. Artaria and Co., of the musical works of the Emperors of Germany, Ferdinand III., Leopold I., and Joseph I., embracing a period of seventy-four years (1637-1711), affords not only a striking illustration of what kings living in troubled times have achieved as musicians, but an example, unique of its kind, of several generations of one and the same dynasty taking active interest in music, mastering the technicalities of their art, and producing works of exceeding high merit. Already, towards the end of the fifteenth and beginning of the sixteenth centuries, under Maximilian I., music was cherished, and Josquin Desprès, the great master of the Netherlands school, was one of the brightest ornaments of his Court. Ferdinand II. was one of the most enthusiastic musical amateurs of his day, but his son, Ferdinand III., achieved still higher reputation. He composed music both sacred and secular, motets, hymns, a drama musicum, &c. He was noted for his noble style of writing, his flowing melody, and for the agreement which he established between tone and word. The great Froberger, it will be remembered, was organist at the Court of the monarch. Leopold I. was, as regards music, a worthy son of his father. The number of his compositions is exceedingly great, and from statements of his own, and records concerning him, it is clear that he was not only a skilled writer, but that he used music specially as an expression of his feelings, whether joyous or sad. Marshall Grammont, indeed, in his "Mémoires," mentions his predilection for melodies of a sorrowful cast. It is curious to note that sketches of his famous "Miserere" have been preserved. Though trained in the Italian school, Leopold encouraged native art by writing three German "Singspiele." The reputation of Leopold I. was not confined to his own country. Hawkins, in his "History of Music," speaks of him not only as a judge of music, but as a great master of the science. Of Joseph I. only three compositions have been preserved, but it is said that these give evidence that had he not worn the imperial crown he might have won the laurel wreath. The first volume of the above-mentioned publication will include the sacred works of these three Emperors and an interesting preface by Dr. Guido Adler.

A correspondent writes: "On the 12th ult. Edvard Grieg and his wife celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding day. The composer is at present staying at his beautiful villa, Troldhaugen, near Bergen, in which town, in the year 1843, he first saw the light. A numerous house-party had arrived on the previous day, and on the evening of the 12th ult. Grieg entertained his friends at a supper, served partly in the house and partly in the garden. The weather was delightful, and the evening one of those for which the summer in Norway is so justly renowned. Supper being over the guests gathered round whilst Grieg played his 'Brudefölget,' or Norwegian Bridal March (well known in English Concert-rooms), on the new grand presented to him by Messrs. Steinway, and Mrs. Grieg gave exquisite renderings of several of her husband's songs. Later in the evening an immense procession, drawn from the different musical societies of Bergen, arrived with their banners, and after defiling into the garden joined forces in the performance of a part-song specially composed for the occasion. The leader of the united choirs then stepped forward and, in congratulating the gifted pair, eulogised Grieg as one who, by his influence and example, had raised the standard of music throughout the country, whilst preserving to its music a national character; and spoke of Madame Grieg as the link betwixt her husband's thoughts and the public ear. Several thousand people from Bergen who had accompanied the procession had meanwhile collected, some on the hills overlooking the villa, others in boats on the sea. At midnight, after the departure of the choral societies, dessert was served in the customary Norwegian manner, and a poem by the well-known writer, Jonas Lee, entitled 'A Greeting,' set to music by Sinding, was sung. At 1 a.m. a special train, described as the longest ever seen in those parts, carried back to Bergen the enormous and enthusiastic crowd of well-wishers. The presents were both numerous and costly, and over a hundred congratulatory telegrams were received from England, America, Norway, Sweden, Denmark—in fact, from all parts of the world. It will be a pleasure to Grieg's numberless admirers in this country to learn that the rheumatic gout, from which he has been so terrible a sufferer, has so far yielded to the massage treatment that he hopes now to push forward with fresh work and renewed vigour, and has so far improved in health that he was able on this occasion to enjoy a spell of over two hours in the garden amongst his numerous friends and well-wishers."

THE British Section of the Vienna Musical and Dramatic Exhibition was completely installed early in June. The exhibits, which were collected and in the first instance stored, were last month packed in South Kensington vans and forwarded to Vienna, and on arrival at the Exhibition it was found that no object, however fragile, had been injured. Descriptive labels had been prepared and printed in German in London, and are attached to each respective article, and these labels now serve as the basis of the catalogue so far as the British Section is concerned. The Emperor of Austria visited the British Section on May 30, and expressed great satisfaction with the interest and special excellence of the exhibits. He was received by the Ambassador, Sir Augustus Paget, and the Military Attaché, Colonel Douglas Dawson, who is the representative of His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh as President of the British Section in the Exhibition. The portraits shown, which are of great merit and comprise paintings by Hogarth, Reynolds, Millais, Alma Tadema, Pettie, Sargent, and other artists of fame, are much admired. While admitting that more might have been done with longer preparation, the selection and suitableness of the exhibits could hardly have been surpassed. The insurance, which has been effected at Lloyd's against all risks, amounts to £25,000, which will give at least a money idea of a collection to which Her Majesty the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and many of our well-known collectors and amateurs, including the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music, have liberally contributed. It is true that less has been done on the dramatic side than the musical, perhaps owing to the novelty of the scheme which the dramatic profession had not become familiar with. It has not been so with the musical side, as the experience of the very successful Loan Collection appertaining to the Inventions Exhibition at South Kensington in 1885 was always available. It is, however, satisfactory that, notwithstanding delay caused by want of funds before a subscription was mooted, the response made to the Duke of Edinburgh and the Selection Committee has been adequate to worthily represent this country. A successful endeavour has been made by means of autograph scores and other manuscripts, as well as printed editions, to show the present advance of English composition.

THE late performance of Liszt's "Angelus" at Princes' Hall, by the Rev. E. H. Moberly's String Orchestra of Ladies, seems to have given rise to a good deal of misapprehension. One critic spoke of it as "the late Walter Bache's arrangement"; another, improving upon this, expressed regret that when there are so many original compositions for string orchestra available, such an "arrangement" should have been admitted into the programme. A third spoke of it as a "transcription." It is unnecessary to multiply examples of carelessness or ignorance, but in the interests of truth, and for the avoidance of future misconception, it seems worth while to examine into the history of this charming piece, which the audience would gladly have heard a second time. The composition apparently dates from the year 1880, for in "My Musical Life" the Rev. H. R. Haweis has given an account of a visit he paid to Liszt at the Villa d'Este, near Tivoli, where he was spending the autumn of that year. He relates therein that, àpropos of a talk about bells, Liszt said, "I should like to show you an 'Angelus' which I have just written," and opening the pianoforte sat down and played it. It was originally designed for a string quartet, and in this form it seems to have first been brought to public notice on the occasion of its performance by the Heckmann Quartet, at a Festival of the Allgemeiner Deutsche Musikverein (General German Musical Association), held at Zürich in July, 1882. On the late Walter Bache's wishing to introduce it at his "Liszt" Concert of February 5, 1885 (alas! the last that he lived to give), he asked Liszt's permission for it to be performed by all the strings of the orchestra. To this Liszt replied: "The more the better," and himself added a double-bass part. Bache then took this enlarged version of the score in hand, and did for it what every Conductor would have to do to insure uniformity of bowing and expression; and under his editorship, and with a short preface explanatory of his share in the work, it was published by Messrs. Schott and Co., who have also issued a pianoforte transcription of it in Liszt's "Années de Pélerinage" (3me Année).

ONE of the most valuable papers ever heard at the Musical Association was that on "Fugal Structure," read by Mr. Ebenezer Prout at the last meeting, which was much more numerously attended than usual. Mr. Prout had no difficulty in proving that in fugue, as in other branches of our unfortunate art, practice was, until quite lately, miles ahead of theory. He showed that if the theorists were right then undoubtedly Bach was wrong. Having, however, come to the conclusion that Bach knew what he was about, Mr. Prout has found it necessary to adopt the awful course of regarding theorists as liable to error, and to remodel the rules of Fux and Cherubini in accordance with Bach's practice. This plan of deducing theory from practice, instead of modelling practice upon theory, stamps Mr. Prout, of course, as one of the "dangerous classes" at once; but it is the method "of the future," nevertheless, or we are very much mistaken. During the very interesting discussion which followed Mr. Prout's paper, the use of the term "Binary" to indicate the form seen in the first movement of a sonata or symphony was debated with some warmth. Mr. Prout defended it on the ground that in the old days such movements really contained two sections, divided, of course, by the double-bar, which is still retained. As, however, the music which immediately follows the double-bar has itself long ago grown into what is known as the "development" or "free fantasia" section, it is clear that the modern "first movement" is in three parts—exposition, development, and recapitulation. In the description of this form as "Binary" we again see theory lagging far behind practice. On the other hand, if we call it "Ternary" we confuse it with the form of the rondo, which has always been spoken of as in "Ternary form." Perhaps some of our readers will suggest a "way out"?

OF the many witticisms perpetrated at Wagner's expense there is, perhaps, none that has been more often quoted than the famous mot "Dans la musique de Wagner il y a de beaux moments et de mauvais quarts d'heure." This saying has hitherto been always ascribed to Rossini, but we are enabled to state on the very best authority that whoever uttered it, it was not the composer of "William Tell"; on the contrary, when taxed with it, he indignantly disclaimed its paternity. It seems that shortly after the historic première of "Tannhäuser" in Paris, Liszt called on Rossini, and in the course of their conversation the latter asked him why it was that Wagner had never paid him a visit. Liszt replied: "Well, my dear Maëstro, the fact is you make jokes sometimes and Wagner is sensitive." Rossini asked for an explanation and Liszt then told him of the saying with which he had been credited at Wagner's expense. Thereon Rossini, with great warmth, indignantly denied having ever made use of such an expression, adding "far be it from me to use such language of one who has done so much to enlarge the borders of art." Liszt often alluded to this interview afterwards, but we have never seen the anecdote in print before.

MR. MORRIS STEINERT, of New Haven, Connecticut, U.S.A., has sent a large collection to the Vienna Exhibition of clavichords, spinets or virginals, harpsichords, and pianofortes, which he has gathered together with incredible pains in Europe as well as America. His space in the Exhibition is next to the British Section, and his instruments, together with Mr. Donaldson's clavicytherium, Messrs. Broadwood's old square pianofortes, and Mr. A. J. Hipkins's models of the first pianoforte actions (Cristofori's), form an objective history of the keyboard stringed instruments from A.D. 1500 to A.D. 1830. It is Mr. Steinert's intention to remain at the Exhibition until it closes. All his instruments are playable, and his talent for improvisation upon them is remarkable.

A PARAGRAPH in our last issue on the question of Performing Rights seems to have been considered capable of interpretation in a sense reflecting adversely on the agent of the "Société des Auteurs, Compositeurs, et Editeurs de Musique." We are unfeignedly sorry if, in consequence, Mr. Moul has suffered any annoyance, the more so as he assures us of his willingness to supply, at all times, whatever information is in his power regarding works over which the Société claims a performing right, and in respect of which it demands a fee.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

THE givers of a "comic and popular" Concert at the Spa, Harrogate, are to be congratulated upon the annotator of their programme, who rose to the occasion in a very characteristic way. Doing his best to be as "comic and popular" as the Concert, this gentleman said that Weber, in composing the "Turandot" Overture, had to "take an octave of notes, sort of twist its neck, and then apparently drown it in ting-ting and tom-tom." He describes a well-known jeu d'esprit by Gounod thus: "But the march we have here is what the frank schoolboy would call 'a rum sort of a go.' It starts with a bit of a breeze between two of these mannikins. The first wild skirling tells us that, and somebody gets what that same schoolboy would call 'a wunner.' Listen to that whop on the cymbal. That's it, and it was a murder.

> 'And he sort of smole a sickly smile, and curled up on the floor,
> And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more.'

The mourning thereat was evidently brief, brief as Harrogate sunshine, for there are only two or three bars of it. Apparently it was not of that kind which 'Purges the eyes, and moves the bowels, and drenches handkerchiefs like towels.' But afterwards there is either a grand funeral, or else it's a terribly long journey or something. The row and murder were accomplished in three bars of music only, but the rest—just listen to the procession it is, and to the hoppity-kickettiness of it all. It goes with a soul-harrowing jerk into the major presently, and the cheerfulness seems to point to the idea that somewhere about here there was a public house in the way. But it seems there was more grief than we at first gave them credit for, as they lapse into melancholy again, and indeed seem to be rather overcome at the finish." There is more to the same effect, but the reader must not have all the good things at once.

IT may not be generally known that Crouch, the author of "Kathleen Mavourneen," fought on the side of the Confederates during the American Civil War. Brainard's Musical World has just published a biographical sketch of the song-writer from information supplied by Crouch himself (who, born in 1808, is still living). In it we read: "Elsworth invaded Virginia, the States were seceding, the cry for men and arms was ringing through the land, and the Englishman Crouch enlisted as a private soldier in the 1st Regiment Richmond Grays, quartered at Norfolk. From the day on which he entered the army until the surrender of Lee, at Appomattox Court-house, through exposure, want, hardship, and starvation, Crouch was always at his post, never sick nor absent, and even unflinching in his refusal to accept the furlough which was proffered him. From the last battlefield he made his way, with three broken ribs and his right hand badly smashed, to Buckingham Court-house. Here, glad to earn a crust of bread, he entered into service as a gardener and farm-hand, and in this position he remained until the hostilities of the terrible civil struggle gradually died down." To an interviewer, Crouch said: "'I was doing very well in Richmond, and gave up $4,000 a year for $12 a month when I became a soldier, and the $12 I never got. When I went home after the war was over I found the house destroyed by fire, and all my books, manuscripts, and everything I possessed gone with it. I was about seventy-five when I came to Baltimore, and have remained here ever since. I write chiefly for musical reviews and teach, I don't make any songs now'—and he tapped his forehead, with a sigh."

THE subjoined example of common sense in the guise of pleasantry is taken from Cathedral Chimes: "The following musical incident is related by one who recently attended a fashionable church. The choir started with a reference to the lilies of the field, and after ringing the changes on the word 'consider' until all idea of its connection was lost, they began to tell the congregation, through the mouth of the soprano, that 'Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed.' Straightway the soprano was reinforced by the basso, who declared that Solomon was most decidedly and emphatically not arrayed—was not arrayed. Then the alto ventured it as her opinion that Solomon was not arrayed, when the tenor, without a moment's hesitation, sang, as if it had been officially announced, that 'he was not arrayed.' Then, when the feelings of the congregation had been harrowed up sufficiently, and our sympathies all aroused for poor Solomon, the choir at length, in a most cool and composed manner, informed us that the idea they intended to convey was that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed 'like one of these.' These what? So long a time had elapsed since they sang of the lilies that the thread was entirely lost, and by 'these' one naturally concluded that the choir was designated. Arrayed like one of these? We should think not, indeed! Solomon in a Prince Albert or a cutaway coat! No, most decidedly no! Solomon in the very zenith of his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

THE events which have led to the withdrawal of Mr. Cowen's new Cantata, the "Water Lily," from the programme of the Leeds Festival are worthy of passing note, as is the withdrawal itself, since thereby the Festival loses the most important of its promised novelties. The propriety of consulting the composer about the "cast" of a new work for festival performance becomes self-evident when it is considered that musicians frequently fit their solo music to the qualities of particular artists; and, above all, when, as a matter of fact, the festival authorities do not know what the music is like. For some reason or other, at the nature of which we are wholly unable to guess, the Leeds Committee did not communicate with Mr. Cowen at all, but, of their own motion, appointed certain vocalists to sing in his work. The composer objected to two of these, and requested the Committee to give him others whom he named. His demand was refused, whereupon Mr. Cowen, resolved not to run any risk, withdrew the Cantata. We regret the difficulty and its consequences, and are curious to know how the Leeds refusal of a courtesy which is usual under the circumstances will be explained.

WELSH choirs do well when they win prizes at Eisteddfodau, but badly when they quarrel over the gains. We all remember the scandal of the dispute in Carnarvonshire about the disposal of Mr. Pritchard Morgan's gold bâton. The present case of the Dowlais Harmonic Society is by no means so serious, but resembles it in kind. We gather that the Society, having lately won £205 in competitions, determined to put the money in the bank as a reserve fund in view of their appearance at the Rhyl National Eisteddfod in September and at the Chicago Exhibition next year. This resolution being objected to by certain members, who declared their purpose to obtain a share of the money, the matter was formally re-opened, the malcontents then urging that members unable to go to Chicago should not be deprived of all interest in the amount they had helped to win. Satisfactory assurances having been given on the point, the meeting closed amicably. Squabbles of this sort are by no means edifying, and decidedly tend to confirm the assertions of those who hold that choral singing in Wales is far too closely associated with what we in England know as "pot-hunting."

THE first number of the School Music Review has received the seal of public approval, its success, as anticipated, having fully indicated the need for such a journal. The music, containing Sir John Stainer's "Hymn for Children," set to a simple and singable melody; the Kindergarten song "Little Soldiers," by Alfred Moffat; and Abt's graceful Trio "The delight of Spring," together with some elementary studies in time and tune, is now issued separately from the paper. The number for the present month will include "Fairy Song," two-part song by Herbert Schartau; "Daisy Dell," unison song by A. Scott Gatty; two Songs for Junior Schools, "The Postillion" and "Evening"; a School Round by A. Moffat, and more Studies in Time and Tune. It will also contain General Notes; "What a High School Girl should be able to do," by the Editor, Miss Mundella, and Mrs. Marshall; Test Theory Questions for Pupil Teachers and Students; London School Board Children at Exeter Hall; Retirement of the Music Superintendent of the London Board Schools; the Scotch Schools and Music; Correspondence; and Reports of School Entertainments.

THE following outburst of prose-poetry, under the stimulus of an Organ Recital, has appeared in the North Star: "At times the quietness of the church was accentuated by what seemed like the gentle murmuring of the summer breeze amid the forest trees, and anon there arose birdlike notes, clear and sweet as the song of the thrush. Then the sacred edifice was filled with a sound as of thunder, and a shrill sharp note as of the clarion call to battle went echoing down the aisles, to be succeeded in a moment or two by the cadence of the babbling brook and the tinkling ripple of the wavelets on a summer sea against the side of the fairy craft skimming lightly o'er its surface." Music is not the food of love only. It nourishes the poetic feeling that lies underneath even a reporter's professional indifference, and sometimes, as in this case, there is a running over.

THE critic whom we have so long followed as a man of light and leading seems now to be on the staff of the Auckland Star, engaged in illuminating the Antipodean mind by such remarks as the following: "Some Kudos is also attached to the very accurate playing of the acoustic properties of the hall." Again: "What an orchestra is without a French horn space forbids us to say. What an orchestra is with a bad horn player would necessitate the use of unpublishable language." Again: "The Andante con moto is dreamy, rather languorous; had Mendelssohn not distinctly called it so, the movement might easily be mistaken for an Andante." Once more: "There is always a large contingent who love pizzicato items, and to meet the somewhat depraved musical taste of these the 'Serenata Napolitana' was given." Finally, the critic calls "Lohengrin" the "most philistine of Wagner's operas." We trust the Auckland public will take good care of this writer. Should anything happen to him, the disaster would "eclipse the gaiety of nations."

ONE of our correspondents has, with considerable ingenuity, associated the names of Mr. Edward Lloyd and Mr. Ira D. Sankey. After pointing out that these gentlemen are on the Atlantic, going in opposite directions to their native shores, he continues: "Here are two celebrities whose lines are wide apart, yet they have endeared themselves in the hearts of the people of two Hemispheres, proving the conscientious methods both have adopted to create so deep an impression and draw their eager, overflowing audiences. Nature endowed both with that charm of voice that told and captivated the hearer in the difficult and simple compositions alike, and made no distinction in class of audience or place of rendering. Both gentlemen are identical in their modes of living, chaste and circumspect, with temperate tastes. Only such can last, and let their charms accompany an extended career, which all will hope will long continue. Such models are worthy of press notice." Undoubtedly.

AN American journal, after quoting the remarkable statement that "conservative old London" is now seeking its "musical salvation in German Opera," goes on to say: "The idea of substituting German Opera for oratorio is as novel as it is ridiculous. London is cosmopolitan enough for all forms of musical works, but she will never do away with the oratorio. There are some writers so narrow that they think the success of one school of music means the downfall of all others. Some of the Wagnerites are not satisfied to see the composer of the music-drama take his place among other composers, but they desire that his works shall drive all other operas from the stage. Fortunately, the public is eclectic in its tastes, and does not want all its opera from the pen of one man, whether it be Wagner, Verdi, or Gounod. It also desires oratorio, its symphony, its chamber music, and ballad concerts."

The complete programme of the Gloucester Festival has now been issued. On the first day "Elijah" and "The Redemption" will be given; Wednesday's work includes Handel's "Joshua," Dr. J. F. Bridge's new Motet "The Lord's Prayer," Bach's "My spirit was in heaviness," Miss Ellicott's "The birth of song," an Organ Concerto by Handel, and Schumann's D minor Symphony. Thursday will be devoted to Dr. Parry's new Cantata "Job," Mr. C. Lee Williams's "Gethsemane," the "Hymn of Praise," and Spohr's "Fall of Babylon"; Friday to "The Messiah," Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, Handel's "Occasional" Overture, and Bach's magnificent Organ Fugue "St. Anns." The principal vocalists are Madame Nordica, Misses Anna Williams, Hilda Wilson, Mary Morgan, Jessie King, L. F. Higgs, and Messrs. Edward Lloyd, E. Houghton, Watkin Mills, Plunket Greene, and Santley. Mr. Done and Mr. Sinclair are the organists, and Mr. C. Lee Williams conducts.

From a recently published Report, we gather that the Middlesbrough Musical Union has had a successful season in an artistic sense, but that, financially, there has been retrogression. The Committee say: "But it is a prime necessity for the Society to pay its way, and if this cannot be accomplished in any other manner, the question of some reasonable increase in the rate of subscription may, at some future time, have to be considered. While regarding the present financial position as one which calls for careful management, the Committee have confidence that no well-directed and unselfish effort for the public good will long be allowed to languish for want of support." We should hope not, in the case of a flourishing community like that of Middlesbrough.

With reference to a burning question, the Boston Home Journal makes the following judicious and judicial remarks: "It is not improbable that in years to come the music-dramas of Wagner's later period will be known chiefly by excerpts given in concerts, just as to-day the memory of certain ancient operas is kept alive in Paris by fragments heard at the Conservatory. Time settles all these questions, and time cares not for the adverse criticisms of men of a past day, nor for the hysterical praise of blindly adoring worshippers. The verdict of time is not a response to the impassioned pleas of wrangling advocates. The music of the composer is the evidence in point, and time only weighs the evidence."

Toronto journals are pretty well unanimous in approval of the manner in which Dr. Bridge's "Callirhoë" and Gounod's "Redemption" were performed at the Philharmonic Festival, under Mr. Torrington. One journal, by the way, gives an amusing summary of the "Callirhoë" argument: "The Cantata 'Callirhoë' relates an extremely legendary Greek story of two people who loved each other very much, but as one did not find out the state of her heart until the other had killed himself for love of her, she also suicided, and both soprano and tenor became river deities."

We have received favourable accounts of Madame Schumann, whose health seems to be quite restored. While this great pianist and teacher will, with her elder daughter, remain in Frankfort, her younger daughter, Mdlle. Eugenie Schumann, intends to come to London in October to undertake pupils privately, or in class, who will study with her during the winter season. She will also continue to prepare pupils who may wish to study afterwards in Frankfort with Madame Schumann. Due notice will be given of the date of her arrival and where she will reside.

A New York paper having stated that Mr. Edward Lloyd's Concerts in New York were not appreciated, a Chicago journal answered: "Who supposed they would be? In voice, in method, he has no superiors. He sings in pure English. That is enough. If there is anything that the average New Yorker can't endure it is pure English. If it can only be broken into unrecognisable bits of ze italien or der deutsche it will be relished by the four hundred 'furreners.' Mr. Lloyd is appreciated in Chicago. May he come often."

The correspondent of the Morning Post who wrote complaining that a costermonger's voice, coming through the open windows of St. James's Hall, disturbed his enjoyment of a Schubert Recital, was quite unreasonable. People must live and let live. Probably the "coster" was crying "Fresh, ripe strawberries," making many mouths water with suggestions of colour, fragrance, and flavour. Lovers of Schubert should be tender with lovers of strawberries.

Says the Merthyr and Dowlais Times: "A Merthyr man was much impressed by the bills announcing the performance of 'Blodwen' at Aberdare. Not being conversant with the subject or the merits of Dr. Parry's opera, he asked a friend, 'What is "Blodwen"? I've seen it advertised a good deal.' 'Oh,' was the reply, 'He's the fellow that walks the tight-rope. He's in Aberdare to-day.' And then the band played!"

At this year's Choral Festival in Lichfield Cathedral, on the 7th inst., Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" is to be given with full band and chorus. At the conclusion of the Oratorio the 100th Psalm will be sung, with an orchestral accompaniment specially written by Sir Herbert Oakeley, Honorary Visitor to the Diocesan Choral Association.

An American writer, anxious to escape hearing a German artist sing "He shall feed His flock like a sheep-hayrd," asks, "Cannot this broad land of ours produce any first-rate oratorio singers?" Undoubtedly it can, but most of them come to England, where they are sure of appreciation.

The following item appeared some time ago in the catalogue of a firm of organ-builders:

> No. 363, built in 1872.
> 2 Manuals. 20 registers.
> Deaf and Dumb Asylum.

The Boston Musical Record observes: "Strange to say, no amount of criticism seems to have any effect upon conductors. It is asserted that some of them do not even read the press comments upon their work. What incorrigible men they are, to be sure!"

A correspondent desires to know what should be done to the wretch who perpetrated the following: "What relation is A to B in the ascending scale? A stepfather!"

A writer in the American Art Journal has made a curious slip in speaking of Wagner as "the great American master."

MESSRS. STEINWAY AND SONS have just been appointed pianoforte manufacturers to the Emperor and Empress of Germany.

MR. J. F. BARNETT, Mr. Alfred Gaul, and Sir John Stainer have been invited to contribute works to the next Norwich Festival.

CRYSTAL PALACE.

THE success of "Judas Maccabæus" in the central transept of the Crystal Palace, on the 25th ult., was so great, whether as regards the attraction it had for the public or the character of the performance, that we may look to see the production, from time to time, of other Handelian oratorios. For reasons perfectly understood, the scope of the Handel Festivals is very limited, amounting, indeed, to no more than the liberty of varying the selection given on the second day. Advantage should be taken of the single midsummer performance to make up for this deficiency, and we hope in due time to hear other works of the great master under the impressive conditions which attended the production of "Judas." The Maccabean oratorio was well chosen as a "draw" for the general public. It abounds in solos and choruses widely known and admired, while its story, passing from despair to exultation, and from defeat to victory, presents a large variety of effect and is never dull. We must not, however, attach too much importance to the choice of a work for performance under the conditions which ruled on the 25th ult. Provided it be by some great master, the public, we fancy, are comparatively indifferent; the chief consideration being the grandeur of the scale upon which the chosen oratorio is executed. With 2,000 voices and an orchestra in proportion, the mere tone is a "sensation." There is nothing like it in quality, while the overwhelming power exerted in the case of Handel's massive choruses leads to effects both upon mind and feeling which all, whether musical or non-musical, can in some degree appreciate.

It can scarcely be requisite to say that only the London contingent of the Handel Festival army was "mobilised" for the performance. But these pretty nearly filled the great orchestra, and their united power was not very much less than that of the larger force. It proved enough, at any rate, for a great impression, especially in the more famous of the concerted numbers. The first "hit" was made in "O Father, whose Almighty power," given with remarkable precision and élan. After it, the warlike outbursts "We come" and "Lead on" were felt to be quite safe. "Hear us, O Lord," would have gained by another rehearsal, but "Tune your harps" and "We never will bow down" were quite satisfying—a fact emphasised by long and loud applause. With regard to the choral performance generally, we may say that it indicated rather a gain than a loss of efficiency since last the executants were called together. This is not surprising. Cultivated as music now is, every year must witness an advance in knowledge and skill. The principal solos were in the long-tried hands of Madame Albani, Madame Patey, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley, who had nothing save familiar work to do, and secured, therefore, an easy triumph. With characteristic generosity, the audience gave small heed to evidence that time makes no exception in favour of fine voices, recognising only the fact that in each case they had to recognise the merits of an artist whose name and fame are a possession of all England. It is needless to tell how Madame Albani sang "From mighty Kings," what Madame Patey did with "Father of Heaven," how Mr. Lloyd stirred his audience with "Sound an alarm," or in what manner Mr. Santley, executing the "divisions" of "The Lord worketh wonders" as fluently as ever, excited general admiration. All this can be imagined without much risk. It should be stated, however, that Madame Clara Samuell sang "Wise men flattering" excellently well, and that Mr. M. Humphreys was useful in the second tenor solos. Mr. Manns conducted with care and decision, and Mr. Eyre, though accompanying the recitatives rather too loudly, did good service as organist.

ROYAL ITALIAN OPERA.

WE take up our record of Sir Augustus Harris's very successful French and Italian season with the production, on May 27, of Massenet's "Manon," in French. M. Van Dyck appeared as the Chevalier de Grieux, and repeated the success which he achieved last season when he first made his bow before a London audience. Mdlle. Mravina played the part of Manon, for the first time here, and won general approval. The cast included M. Plançon as De Grieux père, Signor Miranda as Guillot, and M. Dufriche as Lescaut, the performance being conducted with distinguished ability by M. Léon Jehin.

On May 30 there was a revival of Gounod's "Roméo et Juliette," which work the English public, after years of indecision, have so taken to heart that it has become the best paying opera in the repertory of Covent Garden. There was an immense attendance on this occasion, partly accounted for, no doubt, by the re-entry of the De Reszké brothers after their American tour. It may be said at once, with regard to these artists, that hard work and much travel had had its effect upon them, neither being in good voice, though dramatically as excellent as ever. Their reception was truly English in cordiality. Madame Eames was a coldly correct Juliette. She tried to be warm, but could not even simulate passion with success. On the other hand, her voice and phrasing were irreproachable. Mr. Plançon made an imposing Capulet and Mr. Montariol an appropriately fiery Tybalt.

"Lohengrin" was added to the season's repertory on the 2nd ult., Mr. Jean de Reszké playing his accustomed part as the Knight of the Swan, supported by Madame Nordica as Elsa, Mr. Edouard de Reszke as the King, Miss Giulia Ravogli as Ortrud, and Mr. Dufriche as Telramond. This, with Mr. Abramoff as a sonorous Herald, was a very good cast, and the performance, conducted by Mr. Mancinelli, reflected credit upon the establishment. Into matters so familiar there is no need to enter at large. Enough that each artist justified the expectations based on previous efforts, and that a full house seemed quite content—nay, even delighted, with what was done.

"Lohengrin" was immediately followed by the "Flying Dutchman," the representation of which by no means rose to the same level. Wagner's early opera appeared to have been imperfectly prepared and suffered accordingly. Moreover, in our opinion, neither the representative of Senta (Miss Macintyre) nor of the Dutchman (Mr. Lassalle) was equal to a task which calls for special dramatic capacity. It need not be said that both artists sang well, and used their excellent voices unsparingly, but the mysticism of the characters was not grasped and therefore not presented. Miss Macintyre, dressed inappropriately, considering the nature of the part, made but little suggestion of the fateful elements in Senta's nature, while Mr. Lassalle carried the Dutchman's curse with a quite satisfied and unromantic air. The artists undertook a task the exigencies of which they could not, or, at all events, did not properly estimate. On the other hand, some amend was made by a very fine performance of the duet in the second act.

"Les Huguenots" was revived on the 10th ult., with Miss Macintyre as Valentina and Mr. Montariol as Raoul, Mr. E. de Reszké being the St. Bris. Of this performance it is enough to say that Miss Macintyre showed a decided advance and was, on the whole, satisfactory, both as actress and singer.

One of the season's novelties—to wit, Mr. de Lara's "La Luce dell' Asia," was brought out on the 11th ult., in presence of an audience moderate as to numbers, but quite interested in the effort of a composer heretofore known only in connection with drawing-room songs. It is unnecessary to discuss the new work at length, because we are not likely to see it enrolled among accepted things, and because the lesson it conveys can briefly be stated. The "Light of Asia," founded on Edwin Arnold's poem of the same name, was originally a Cantata for the concert-room, with a libretto prepared by Mr. Beatty Kingston. In that form it might have met with success, but the composer was advised to turn his work into an opera, and did so. As a result "La Luce dell' Asia" is, strictly speaking, neither opera nor cantata. There is too little action on the stage; lyrical expression is too constant for a drama, and the character of the choral music in certain instances distinctly suggests oratorio. Where Mr. de Lara attempts dramatic music he is weak, though noisy, and his strength appears only in the more lyrical and sentimental numbers. Here he is at home, and the result is often satisfactory. We advise the composer to change his work back to its first state, and give it in the Concert-room, where its merits would meet with due appreciation. Sir Augustus Harris gave the novelty every chance, allotting Madame Eames and Mr. Lassalle to the principal parts, and providing an effective mise-en-scène. Since the first representation, "La Luce dell' Asia" has had a second hearing.

Passing note should be made of a capital performance of "Carmen," in which Madame Deschamps, as the gipsy, made quite a sensation, and M. Jean de Reszké re-appeared as Don Jose. On the 25th ult., too late for notice here, Meyerbeer's "Prophête" was revived.

GERMAN OPERA.

Exceptional interest has been lent to the opera season at Covent Garden by the engrafting on to the main scheme of a separate series of performances by a specially organised German company, including, as its chief attraction, Wagner's "Ring des Nibelungen" and "Tristan und Isolde." The interest and enthusiasm excited by these performances, which have been attended by crowded audiences both at Covent Garden and at the supplementary performances at Drury Lane, forms a most conclusive and convincing rejoinder to those critics who have chosen to regard the Wagnerian cult as an elaborately inflated bubble which had already collapsed. It was asserted that the Bayreuth Festivals were only kept alive by the artificial stimulus of patriotic enthusiasm, and that a repetition of the experiment of 1882 would inevitably lead to disastrous results. The experiment has been repeated and with the most signal success. Whatever may be the ultimate fate of Wagnerian opera there can be no doubt that, to use the cant phrase of the day, it has "caught on" like wild-fire in the present season, and that the admirers of the Bayreuth master in this country have been doubled in number by the enterprise of Sir Augustus Harris. To this result many causes have co-operated, foremost amongst which must be reckoned the retention of the services of Herr August Mahler, to whose great ability and mastery of his subject the completeness of the representations have been primarily due. Herr August Mahler, though his name was unfamiliar to the bulk of English amateurs on his arrival little more than a month ago, is no novice in the conductor's craft. His first appointment, if we mistake not, was at Cassel, where he conducted an Oratorio-Verein with great ability. Thence he migrated to Leipsic as second in command, where, it is worthy of note that, together with C. von Weber, the grandson of the great composer, he completed the Opera of "Die drei Pintos" from Weber's sketch of 1821, and produced it on January 20, 1888. From Leipsic he moved to Pesth, where he was responsible for the production of a complete cycle of Wagnerian operas. His present appointment is at Hamburg, whence he has brought with him the major part of the excellent orchestra employed at the present series of German Operas at Covent Garden, together with several of the principal vocalists. In this connection we may mention that Herr Max Alvary, whose reputation, previous to his appearance at Bayreuth at the last Festival, had been made at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, under Herr Anton Seidl, hails from Hamburg; and that Frau Sucher, though her fame is known all over Germany, was for several years specially attached to the Hamburg Opera House, where her husband held the post of chief Conductor. Frau Sucher, we may remind our readers, is no stranger to these shores, her impersonation of Isolde having formed one of the principal attractions of the season of German Opera at Drury Lane in 1882, when she also appeared as Euryanthe, Senta, and Elsa.

From a purely business point of view the success of the enterprise was more or less assured from the outset, all the reserved seats for the seven performances at Covent Garden having been subscribed for before the initial performance on the night of the 8th ult. The choice of "Siegfried" for the opening night seemed a little incongruous, inasmuch as the "Ring" was to be given in its entirety; but thereby hangs a tale. Herr Max Alvary, who was to sustain the title rôle, had stipulated that he should make his début in that opera, and the due sequence of the tetralogy was accordingly dislocated to suit the exigencies of the popular tenor. We recommend this instructive episode to the consideration of Dr. von Bülow, whose views on the subject of operatic tenors are too well known to need further particularisation. Apart from this fact the performance of "Siegfried" calls for well-nigh unstinted commendation. It was well mounted, finely acted and sung, and admirably conducted. Following the Bayreuth precedent, the auditorium was darkened throughout the whole course of the opera, a method of procedure which, it must be admitted, is less convincing when, as at Covent Garden, the orchestra and its lights remain in full view of the audience.

The prelude to "Siegfried," so full of sombre and abysmal sonority, applied a test to Herr Mahler's orchestra from which they emerged with great credit, and the course of the first act was followed by the enormous audience with a rapt attention, which never flagged throughout the entire opera—even during the protracted utterances of that heaviest of Wagnerian heavy fathers, Wotan. In the first act Herr Max Alvary, who makes a remarkably pretty Siegfried, sang with judicious reserve and acted with plenty of animation. The forging of the sword was accomplished in a most realistic manner, but the delivery of the splendid Schmiedelieder lacked the fierce dæmonic exultation which M. Van Dyck throws into them, and, for the rest, they were taken at an unduly slow tempo. Herr Lieban, as Mime, proved himself to be a very clever singer and a comedian of the first rank. He is perhaps a trifle inclined to overdo the restlessness of the scheming and malignant dwarf, but, taken all round, his conception of the rôle is extraordinarily subtle and elaborate. Mime's excitement in the second Act, just before Siegfried slays him, was a most thrilling and convincing piece of acting; Herr Lieban's enunciation, again, was marvellously distinct and pointed. Herr Grengg, as Wotan, used his fine bass voice with considerable effect, Fräulein Traubmann sang the part of the Bird with great charm and brightness, and Frau Heink was thoroughly efficient in the somewhat thankless rôle of Erda. Frau Sucher's Brünnhilde is too well known to Wagnerian connoisseurs to call for detailed notice. Her voice may have lost a little of its earlier freshness, but it remains fully adequate to the vocal requirements of the rôle. She sang with wonderful fervour, sonority, and incisiveness of attack, while her acting, notably in the awakening, is characterised by a statuesque picturesqueness, and a heroic energy seldom seen on the operatic boards. Herr Max Alvary improved greatly as the opera went on. His acting, though it lacks spontaneity, is always intelligent, and as a singer he has the great merit of never attempting an effect which is not within his reach. The impressiveness of the last act was not a little impaired by the absence of all attempt to convey the notion of difficulty and danger in Siegfried's ascent to Brünnhilde's rock; but otherwise Wagner's exigent stage directions were, on the whole, satisfactorily carried out, and the menagerie not more ridiculous than usual. Herr Mahler, who conducted more Teutonico from the middle of the orchestra, was called, along with the principal performers, after the second and third acts, and most enthusiastically greeted. The "cuts" in the score were few and so judiciously managed as to render criticism in this regard quite unnecessary.

"Tristan und Isolde," which was given on the night of the 15th ult., is familiarly alluded to by the faithful as "Tristan." With Frau Sucher in the rôle of the heroine, it should always be called "Isolde." Only a heroic tenor of the most Titanic force could hope to match this massive and magnificent impersonation, whereas Herr Alvary, as though still further to emphasize the disparity between his resources and those of Frau Sucher, by an injudicious innovation which would never have been tolerated at Bayreuth, chose to play the part in a make-up suggestive of a boy of nineteen or twenty rather than of a well-tried warrior and diplomatist. Herr Alvary sang cleverly and capably throughout, though he manifests an undue partiality for employing the spoken sound as opposed to musical notes in declamatory passages. In the long dialogue with Kurwenal (excellently played by Herr Knapp) at the opening of the last act—one of the most trying scenes in the whole range of opera—Herr Alvary acquitted himself with real distinction. Herr Wiegand as Marke was thoroughly efficient, but Fräulein Ralph, who played the difficult rôle of Brangäne, must be exempted from criticism in consideration of the short notice at which she undertook the part. The opera was handsomely mounted, the scene on board ship, in the first act, being decidedly effective. Herr Mahler gave a much more sentimental, not to say jerky, reading of the Vorspiel than that with which English audiences have been familiarised by Dr. Richter; but with this exception his share of the performance was marked by rare intelligence and mastery of the score. It is worthy of note, as a characteristic indication of the tone and temper of the audience who frequent Wagnerian opera, that when a cat appeared and remained on the stage for some little time in the last act, there was not the faintest ghost of a giggle throughout the vast auditorium. Frau Sucher has played the rôle of Isolde for upwards of eight years, but it is generally admitted that she never sang or played it more finely than on this night. She was equally successful in delineating the moods of resentment, of rapturous love, and of poignant grief, while her singing in the great love duet was marked in places by a delicacy not always encountered in German artists.

"Rheingold," which in its relation to the rest of the tetralogy may be compared to the porch of a temple, and which was described by Wagner himself as a Vorabend or preliminary evening, was performed on the 22nd ult. The dream of Wagner's life, according to his latest biographer, Mr. Ferdinand Praeger, was "unlimited means." It is rather curious that he should have taken as the root idea of his greatest work the auri sacra fames, the satiation of which only brings death in its train. "Rheingold" is at once the shortest and, in the opinion of the best critics, the least interesting of the sections of the "Ring"; but the unrealities and grotesquenesses of the drama are in a great measure redeemed by the surpassing magic of the orchestration. It cannot be said that what may be styled the pantomimic features of the piece were very happily dealt with at Covent Garden. The stage was far too dark in the first act, and the swimming of the Rhine-maidens was very inferior to their singing, which was admirable. The treasure, again, as brought on by Alberich's satellites, was painfully suggestive of a collection of wedding presents, while the giants, with their thick-soled boots, were more like advertisements for some orthopædic treatment than anything else. The scenery again was less effective than in the other performances. Herr Alvary's Loge was a dapper, finicking personage; but the notion of craft, devilry, and speed might have been more strongly suggested. Frau Andriessen, as Fricka, sang fairly and acted with due dignity, while Fräulein Bettaque made a favourable début as Freia. The Wotan of Herr Grengg was adequate vocally, while Herr Lissmann made an admirably sinister Alberich. Herr Lieban, as Mime, once more proved himself a singularly finished comedian, and the three Rhine daughters found excellent representatives in Fräulein Traubmann, Fräulein Ralph, and Fräulein Heink.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

THERE was little in the programme of the sixth Concert (the 1st ult.) to gratify quidnuncs, who were asked to accept a selection of standard and familiar works, tempered just a little by two movements from Raff's rather uninteresting Violoncello Concerto in D, chosen for the appearance of Mr. Hugo Becker, an artist of quality as well as note. It appears to us that the Philharmonic should not sanction the presentation of fragments. If it was worth while to perform any part of Raff's Concerto—as to which there may be various opinions — respect for the composer's design should have given the whole of it. On the other hand, we can sympathise with the desire of the directors to treat an artist's choice with courtesy. The purely orchestral works in this programme were headed by Mendelssohn's Overture "The Hebrides"—a piece which remains as fresh as when first heard, and can no more be exhausted than the waves that beat on the "sounding shores" of the Western Islands. With this noble Overture the "Unfinished" Symphony of Schubert kept fitting company, and both were admirably played under Mr. Cowen's direction. Great pains were taken with the Symphony, with the usual result that the two superb movements generously rewarded effort by a more complete revelation of their inherent beauties. The orchestral arrangement of Dr. Mackenzie's Benedictus and the Courante from his "Ravenswood" music brought the selection to an effective end. Mr. Frederic Lamond's performance of Beethoven's Pianoforte Concerto in G was a well-considered and generally successful effort, in which classical feeling held sway, resisting the promptings of the mere virtuosity, which even on a Philharmonic audience can make more impression than legitimately belongs to it. Miss Macintyre was the vocalist.

The final Concert of the eightieth season took place in the afternoon of the 15th ult., on which occasion, as at the previous Concert, no novelty was presented. Consistency may be claimed for the directors in this matter. They resolved to have a season mainly for the performance of standard works, and the determination was carried out to the very end, supported, no doubt, by the approval of the subscribers. Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll" stood at the head of the programme. Respecting the choice of this work we will only suggest that it may not be well to challenge comparison with the Richter readings of Wagner's music at the very time when these are available. The field of selection is quite large enough to avoid this. In Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony, conductor and orchestra stood on more advantageous ground, and, we must add, made the most of the position, although Mr. Cowen asked for indulgence on the score of unavoidably imperfect rehearsal. The performance of this master-work was a very fine one. Mr. Arbos gave a brilliant and, at the same time, expressive reading of Max Bruch's first and best Violin Concerto, thereby greatly advancing himself in the estimation of connoisseurs; and Mr. Sapellnikoff, with the halo of a former virtuoso success around him, took in hand Rubinstein's Concerto in D minor, a good deal of which he played less as an interpreter than as a show pianist of strength and dexterity. With an English audience this is the shortest cut to the winning post, and Mr. Sapellnikoff had an easy success—three recalls and an encore. The vocalist was Miss Esther Palliser.

RICHTER CONCERTS.

OF the five Concerts which have now been given of this (the 20th) series, it is obviously possible to speak of four only; and of these four there is little to be said that has not already passed into the "truistic" stage, if such a coinage be permissible. We are all happily familiar with the many qualities possessed by Dr. Richter, and there is no need to explain why he still holds firmly his position as the greatest Conductor known here, or why to say that he has been on his highest level this season is to imply that his Concerts have touched the highest standard known to English amateurs. All this is a thrice-told tale. The programmes, too, have for the most part been drawn from familiar works, and it is only necessary to say (though this also is becoming a truism) that the size and enthusiasm of the audiences have varied in direct proportion to the amount of Wagner's music given. The Wagnerian selections have been as comprehensive as usual; in addition to excerpts from "Tristan," "Die Meistersinger," and the "Ring" cycle, we have had the "Kaisermarsch," the "Siegfried Idyll," and the fine though gloomy "Faust" Overture. Other masters have been represented: Beethoven's "Eroica" and B flat Symphonies, the "Hebrides" Overture of Mendelssohn, Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite, and Brahms's Symphony in C minor have all found place in Dr. Richter's far-reaching scheme. Three works new to these Concerts have been given: Dvorák's "Husitská" Overture, a scene from the first act of Goldmark's "Queen of Saba," and Smetana's delightful "Lustspiel" Overture. The vocalists have been Mr. Barton McGuckin and Mr. Andrew Black.

BACH CHOIR.

The Concerts of the Bach Choir, apart altogether from their merits as musical performances, are above all valuable in this, that they furnish us with almost our only opportunities of acquainting ourselves, through the vocal masterpieces of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, with the modes of musical thought and expression current in those spacious days. It is nothing to the point to urge that such experiences are for the archæologist rather than the artist, for their educational value is as great as obvious. We long ago recognised the importance of having in our art-galleries the best procurable examples of the early schools of painting, that we may study the growth and development of the art as it was practised by successive masters of each epoch; and it is clear that the musical masterpieces of the past are equally worthy of attention, provided only that we bring to bear on their appreciation the artistic as well as the historic temper. To do this is to develop the musical sense far more fully than when we interest ourselves exclusively in the work of our own day. Fortunately, the programme of the last Concert, given on May 31, was chosen with such discretion that every work was for delight as well as for instruction. The settings, by Sweelinck, of Psalms 75 and 134 are a happy instance; for, with all their quaintness and naïveté, they are everywhere beautiful and impressive, and are of immense value on the historical side, since, as has been aptly said, the old Amsterdam organist is the connecting link between the Italian and German schools. Palestrina's noble Mass "Assumpta est Maria" is a work to be received with the same feelings; nor can exception be taken to the inclusion of Pearsall's ballad dialogue "Sir Patrick Spens," or C. Wood's clever part-song "Full fathom five." Brahms's Motets "Fest und Gedenksprüche" have, it must be confessed, little more than academic interest; but they, as indeed all the pieces named, were sung very admirably under Professor Villiers Stanford, to whom so much of the success of the choir is due. It should be added that two movements from Bach's Partita in E major were very creditably played by Miss Lilian Griffiths; that Miss Beatrice Hallet was an excellent accompanist, and that those who took part in the performance of the Mass were Misses Ethel Cain, Maggie Purvis, Jeanie Rankin, and Clara Butt; and Messrs. William White, Stirling Butt, and Sandbrook.

THE SARASATE CONCERTS.

The second of these performances, on the 11th ult., was a Chamber Concert by the Spanish violinist, assisted, as on many previous occasions, by Madame Berthe Marx. The programme consisted chiefly of music for pianoforte and violin in combination, and included Raff's melodious, if somewhat diffuse, Sonata in A (No. 2), a new Suite in D, by Emile Bernard, and four of Dvorák's Slavonic Dances. The Suite, like other efforts by the French composer, is bright and melodious, if not very original, and the third movement—a remarkably piquant Minuet—pleased so much that it was warmly re-demanded. Madame Marx played some solos by Chopin with charming delicacy, and was encored in a sparkling Study by Paul von Schlözer.

The Concert of the 18th ult. was orchestral, and included a new Symphony in C, by the Conductor, Mr. W. G. Cusins. This proved to be a very lengthy if not a very elaborate work, and if the composer intends it for publication he would do well to re-write it in a more concise form, for the themes are pleasing and the treatment full of musicianly touches, the fault being that each movement is too expanded. Perhaps the best of the four is the Scherzo in C minor, with its two trios, the first based on a cheerful hunting call, though in this the influence of Beethoven is strongly apparent. Considering that the audience must have been impatient to hear Mr. Sarasate, the reception accorded to the Symphony was very complimentary to Mr. Cusins, who, though a highly accomplished musician, cannot be accused of unduly forcing his compositions on the attention of the public. The principal works for violin and orchestra were Emile Bernard's Concerto and Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole," for both of which Mr. Sarasate has an obvious predilection, and his third solo was a brilliant Fantasia, full of sparkling effects, from his own pen, performed for the first time.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The Students' Concert of the Royal Academy of Music, on the 20th ult., at St. James's Hall, was rendered interesting by the performance of Bach's Cantata "Liebster Gott, wann werd ich sterben," the English version of which commences "When will God recall my spirit?" This, like the Magnificat a few months ago, was performed as nearly as possible under the conditions with which the composer was familiar, and with more marked success. The voices were twenty in number and the orchestra twenty-one, and the only addition to Bach's score was a very modest organ part contributed by Mr. E. Prout. The subject of the Cantata is a meditation on death, and in the accompaniments will be found some curiously realistic touches foreshadowing the "programme music" of to-day and showing once more that "there is nothing new under the sun." The work was carefully and artistically rendered under the direction of Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, who cannot do better than continue his labours in the same direction—that is to say, to put more of Bach's unknown Cantatas before the young people under his charge. A miscellaneous selection followed in which all the pupils who took part displayed the evidence of good training which, in due course, should bear rich fruit.

The Competition for the Maas Memorial Prize took place at the Royal Academy of Music on the 11th ult. The Examiners were Messrs. Charles Lyall and Joseph Bennett. There were ten candidates, and the Prize was awarded to Reginald Brophy. The Competition for the Parepa-Rosa Prize took place on the 18th ult. The Examiners were Madame Annie Marriott and Miss Liza Lehmann. There were twenty-six candidates and the Prize was awarded to Minnie Robinson; the Examiners highly commended Kate Cove and Elsie Mackenzie. The competition for the Leslie Crotty Prize took place on the 20th ult. The examiners were Messrs. H. Plunket Greene, Eugène Oudin, and Lewis Thomas (in the chair). There were seven candidates, and the Prize was awarded to Arthur Appleby. The examiners highly commended H. Lane Wilson and Albert Henning.

LINCOLN AND PETERBOROUGH FESTIVAL.

(By our Special Correspondent.)

The Lincoln and Peterborough Oratorio Festival, which was held in the noble Cathedral of the former city on the 15th ult., would have been of scarcely more than local interest had it not been made the occasion of the initial performance of a Cantata by Mr. J. M. W. Young, the Cathedral Organist. Though such masterpieces of oratorio as Handel's "Messiah" and Spohr's "Last Judgment," which formed the remainder of the programme, were no doubt thoroughly welcome to the large majority of those who attended the Festival, whose opportunities of hearing these works performed on what may be termed "Festival scale" are possibly as few and far between as other angelic visitations, it can hardly be affirmed that details of their performance are of surpassing interest to the world at large. Consequently, we may (with the remark that they were, on the whole, adequately performed, though occasional symptoms of unsteadiness indicated the absence of a perfect understanding between Conductor and chorus) pass on to the "novelty," Mr. Young's "Return of Israel to Palestine." Though this is not a long work, occupying only fifty minutes in performance, it is divided into three parts, of which the first may be said to deal with the thanksgiving of the Israelites for their deliverance from the Egyptian bondage; the second to be of a prophetic character, and taken up chiefly with a setting of the familiar passage from Isaiah: "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them"; and the third to have for its subject the choice of a ruler over the Chosen People. It will be seen from this that the connection between the parts is but slight, and, indeed, one of the merits of the work is its capability of being cut up into anthem lengths. The music is not offensively original, but is in both form and character based on familiar lines; and, indeed, in parts where the composer has undertaken the difficult task of setting words already associated with the music of well-known composers, it can hardly be said that he has freed himself from the charge of temerity by any striking originality of treatment. In his orchestration Mr. Young makes a feature of an unwontedly liberal use of the organ, not confining it to the comparatively subsidiary position allotted to it by all the great masters since the time when the modern orchestra arrived at perfection, but allowing it to compete with the other instruments, it having been—as he acknowledges in a foot-note to the score—"his firm opinion for many years that, by a judicious combination of the organ and orchestra, new and beautiful effects may be produced." We are inclined to regard this step as a retrogression rather than an advance, and therefore to think it a matter for congratulation that the resources of the temporary organ erected at the West end of the nave by Messrs. Nicholson and Co. did not enable Dr. H. Keeton, who, to use the favourite idiom of the provincial reporter, "presided" at the instrument, to realise all the effects indicated in the score, for to attempt to contrast the orchestral stops of the organ with the actual instruments represented by them can only result in demonstrating the inferiority of the imitations in both timbre and intonation. In Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Henry Piercy, and Mr. Ffrangcon Davies an excellent quartet had been secured, who did full justice to the solo portions of the cantata. The same artists took part in the performance of "The Messiah," except that Mr. Santley took the bass solos, and sang with remarkable vigour. The chorus, numbering about 500 voices and selected from the choirs and choral societies of Lincoln, Peterborough, Nottingham, Grantham, Gainsborough, Louth, and Sleaford, was well balanced and sufficiently powerful, and the band, though it would have been greatly improved by an increased number of strings, did its work well. The very large congregations showed that the Festival was appreciated in the district, and it was satisfactory to notice that seats in the transepts were obtainable at the price of one shilling, so that persons possessing but modest means were not debarred from indulging their taste for good music.

THE HANDEL SOCIETY.

THE name of "the great Saxon" did not appear in the catalogue of pieces performed at the Concert at St. James's Hall on May 26; but no fault could reasonably be found with a programme that contained one of Beethoven's Masses and representative compositions of Haydn among past musicians and of Dr. Hubert Parry among those happily still among us. The growing appreciation, during later years, of Beethoven's great Mass in D, has had the effect of throwing its predecessor in C somewhat into the shade. The latter is, of course, not comparable with the riper effort of genius, but, at the same time, it is instinct with an earnestness and elevation of thought that should save it from positive neglect in the Concert-room. The Handel Society may, therefore, be complimented on the judgment displayed in reproducing it, as well as upon a generally efficient performance. The only indication of choral weakness occurred towards the close of the Credo, but Mr. F. A. W. Docker quickly restored confidence to his forces, and no serious difficulty was apparent later. The solo parts were sustained by Miss Lilian Redfern (soprano), Miss Howard Tooth (contralto), Mr. Vivian Bennetts (tenor), and Mr. Arthur Wills (bass). Dr. Parry subsequently conducted his bold and spirited setting of the Eton Ode written by Mr. Swinburne for the 450th anniversary of the foundation of the College. The rendering, both by band and chorus, had appropriate dash and energy. Haydn's Symphony in G, "The Military," received energetic treatment under the conductorship of Mr. Docker.

SIR CHARLES HALLÉ'S SCHUBERT RECITALS.

THESE performances deserve separate notice on account of their unique interest, and they continue to attract a fair number of amateurs, though St. James's Hall is by no means so full as could be wished. At the third Recital, on May 27, the pianoforte pieces were the Sonata in A minor (Op. 42), the best known of the series and certainly one of the finest, though there is no reason for the exceptional favour which it enjoys; the still more familiar "Wanderer" Fantasia (Op. 15, not Op. 45, as printed in the programme), which Schubert himself declared was almost unplayable, though it is now in the repertory of every pianist; and Nos. 1, 2, and 3 of the popular Impromptus (Op. 142). Miss Fillunger sang five very fine and unhackneyed Lieder with her customary success.

The fourth Recital, on the 10th ult., was more interesting, for the two Sonatas included in the programme are very rarely heard. These were the works in A (Op. 120) and in D (Op. 53), both composed in 1825, though they differ widely in scope and character. The A major Sonata is quiet and reflective and by no means diffuse, but that in D is planned on a very elaborate scale, and its length is of course a disadvantage. But it is written throughout in Schubert's ripest manner, and the slow movement and Scherzo are not only original but indescribably beautiful. The fourth Impromptu from Op. 142, and minor pieces, completed the instrumental selections, and variety was given as before by Miss Fillunger's artistic rendering of several of the Lieder, including the impressive "Kolma's Klage."

The fifth Recital, on the 24th ult., is the last we can notice this month. It included the so-called "Fantasia-Sonata" in G (Op. 78), the splendid, though, perhaps, rather too diffuse Sonata in C minor (the first of the posthumous set of three composed in 1828), and minor pieces. The eight Lieder selected by Miss Fillunger were tastefully rendered, but it was unfortunate that they were for the most part sombre in character.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

THESE performances have been so numerous during the past month that a few words must suffice as regards the majority of them. Taking up the record, we must first speak of Miss Janotha's Recital on May 26 at St. James's Hall. This was noteworthy for the small proportion of pianoforte music, the most important piece being a series of "Mountain Scenes" from Miss Janotha's own pen, inspired, it seems, by a tour in the Carpathians. The sketches are not very easy to grasp at a first hearing, but they are clever and decidedly Schumannesque. A number of songs, chiefly settings of Tennysonian verses, were well rendered by Miss Carlotta Elliot, Miss Marie Brema, and Mr. James Ley, the last-named vocalist being a baritone of promise.

On the same afternoon Mr. Siloti, a pianist from Moscow, gave a Recital at the Princes' Hall, and proved himself a performer of very high calibre even among the crowd of executants who have recently claimed attention. His programme was refreshingly unconventional, and he was heard to great advantage in various pieces by Bach, Beethoven, Liszt, and Rubinstein. A set of Variations in B minor, said to be from the pen of Schubert, needs identification. The theme is Schubertian, but the Variations are not.

On May 27 Miss Kleeberg gave her first Recital at the Princes' Hall, and gave much satisfaction to a numerous audience by her extremely refined and artistic playing. Perhaps her best effort was in Mendelssohn's Variations in E flat (Op. 82), but the gifted French pianist was also heard to great advantage in Handel's Suite in D minor, some pieces by Chopin, and Schumann's "Faschingsschwank aus Wein."

Master Otto Hegner gave his third and last Recital for the present season at St. James's Hall on May 30, and gave highly satisfactory readings, alike in an intellectual and in a manipulative sense, of Beethoven's Sonata in C (Op. 2, No. 3), three of Schubert's Impromptus, Chopin's Ballade in A flat, and other pieces. Master Hegner is making rapid progress in the right direction, and bids fair to take rank among the highest in his profession.

Mr. Isidor Cohn, who gave a Recital on the same afternoon at the Princes' Hall, has been well trained, and rendered Brahms's Sonata in C (Op. 1), together with pieces by Handel, Beethoven, Schumann, Chopin, Mackenzie, and other composers with accuracy and generally good taste. More than this, however, cannot be said.

The second Recital of Mr. Slivinski at St. James's Hall on the 1st ult., Miss Else Sonntag's Recital at the Steinway Hall on the same afternoon, and that of Mr. Benjamin Parsons at the Princes' Hall on the 2nd may pass without criticism; and space precludes detailed notice of Miss Kleeberg's second Recital on the 8th, though it should be mentioned that pieces by no fewer than thirteen composers were played, for the most part in a highly finished style.

The Recital of the season was that of Mr. Paderewski on the 14th ult., when, in spite of largely enhanced prices, St. James's Hall was crowded, many being disappointed who wished to gain admission to the unreserved portions of the room. A successor to Rubinstein has therefore been found in the affections of the public, and it is fortunate in the interests of art that he is worthy of his position. On this occasion the Polish artist excelled all his previous efforts in London, playing throughout with delightful purity of tone and mechanism, and yet with a full measure of that individuality of style and expression without which pianoforte music is mechanical and uninteresting. Mr. Paderewski's best efforts were in pieces in which the utmost delicacy is required, such as Mozart's Rondo in A minor, Schubert's Impromptu in B flat (Op. 142, No. 3), and Chopin's Prelude in A flat and Waltz in C sharp minor; but there was much to admire in his rendering of Bach's Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue, the Sonata in C minor of Beethoven (Op. 111), and, from the virtuoso standpoint, Liszt's Rhapsodie in C sharp minor (No. 12). A Nocturne in B flat, from his own pen, shortly to be published, proved to be a pretty little piece by no means conventional. At the close there was an extraordinary demonstration, and the audience could only be persuaded to leave the hall after Mr. Paderewski had added three more pieces to his already lengthy programme. Such tokens of admiration are rarely bestowed by London amateurs, but we do not say that in this instance they were undeserved.

On the following afternoon the first of three Recitals was given, at the Steinway Hall, by Mr. Max Schwarz, the Director of the Raff Conservatorium at Frankfort. As a musician, and still more as a teacher, Mr. Schwarz enjoys a very high reputation, and several leading pianists of the day may be numbered among his pupils. But good executants do not always make good teachers, nor vice versâ, and as Wagner spoke of Kapellmeister music, so Mr. Schwarz may be described as a Kapellmeister pianist. He played Beethoven's Variations in F (Op. 34), the same composer's Sonata in C minor (Op. 111), and various pieces by Schubert, Brahms, Chopin, Mackenzie, and other composers with unfailing accuracy and good taste, but without much inspiration. In Raff's Chaconne (Op. 150) and Schumann's Variations in B flat (Op. 66), both for two pianofortes, he received able assistance from Madame Blanche Schwarz.

Mr. Buonamici, an accomplished Florentine musician, who visits this country from time to time, gave an interesting Recital on the 16th ult. at the Princes' Hall; for although his programme did not include a single example of Italian pianoforte music, old or new, it was curious to hear the music of Beethoven and Chopin as it appears to an artist from the Southern peninsula. Thus the Sonata Appassionata of the Bonn master was played with unwonted energy, while in a Prelude and two Mazurkas by the Polish composer the sentimental character of the music was accentuated. Mr. Buonamici easily conquered the difficulties of pieces by Rubinstein and Liszt, including the Weimar virtuoso's extraordinary Fantasia on "Lucrezia Borgia." His efforts were very cordially received by a large audience, including a considerable portion of his own countrymen and women.

The next Recital of note was that of Miss Szumowska, the clever pupil of Mr. Paderewski, which took place at St. James's Hall on the 21st ult. Not being a sensational performer, Miss Szumowska did not attract a large audience, but she gave much satisfaction by her sound and intelligent playing, her programme including Chopin's rarely heard Sonata in B minor, smaller pieces by the same composer, Beethoven's Variations in C minor, Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in E minor—without opus number—and pieces by Schumann, Paderewski, Rubinstein, and Liszt. The young artist phrases beautifully and she has brilliant technique.

THE OUDIN RECITALS.

THE second and third of Mr. and Mrs. Oudin's Vocal Recitals at Princes' Hall were largely attended, and at each choice specimens were presented of old and new songs and duets. Considerable diversity of style marked the selections. At the earlier Concert the executants revived with success two rarely-heard duets by the Abbé Clari and Perez respectively, and at the third they gave Herbert Bunning's graceful "When love is nigh." On each occasion Mrs. Oudin more than confirmed the favourable impression made at the initial Recital. Among her solos on the 9th ult. were pieces by Delibes and Godard, and therein she manifested accurate perception of the sentiment of her theme, together with the means requisite for adequate exposition. Mr. Oudin was heard in songs by Cowen and others. He also came forward as a composer with two elegant duets, "Pastorale" and "Constancy," and of these as of the other compositions in which the vocalists appeared together the delivery was exceedingly artistic. In the duets just named considerable curiosity was shown, and the applause received should serve as encouragement for the introduction of other vocal works from the same pen. So much judgment has been evinced in the programmes during the first season that the resumption of the Oudin Recitals will be awaited with interest.

MISS CHAMINADE'S CONCERT.

THOUGH described as a Pianoforte Recital, the performance at which Miss Chaminade appeared for the first time in London at St. James's Hall, on the 23rd ult., was virtually a Chamber Concert, as no fewer than six artists took part in it. Miss Chaminade's name has appeared in the programmes of high-class Concerts of late, and the large audience, including many well-known musicians, testified to the curiosity concerning her. Let it be said at once that, alike as a composer and an executant, the young French musician made a remarkably favourable impression, although it was perhaps somewhat unwise to offer a programme entirely of her own compositions. The impression created by her Pianoforte Trio in A, in which she was ably assisted by Messrs. Johannes Wolff and Hollmann, was wholly favourable, for the work is remarkably bright, fresh, and homogeneous, in the last respect contrasting well with other efforts of the same kind from female hands. The rest of the programme consisted for the most part of elegant salon pieces and refined songs, the latter being artistically rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Oudin. Miss Amina Goodwin joined Miss Chaminade in some compositions originally written for orchestra, but transcribed for two pianofortes.

MADAME DA VEIGA'S HARP RECITAL.

MADAME DA VEIGA, who gave a Harp Recital in St. James's Hall on the 7th ult., is an artist of rare accomplishments. It is seldom, indeed, that the harp is handled with such skill, for Madame da Veiga joins to a thorough mastery of the technique of her instrument a not common degree of artistic intelligence and sympathy. The worst of the matter is that there is very little good music written for the harp, and on this occasion the Concert-giver had not chosen the best of that little; her programme being made up entirely of compositions by her master, Felix Godefroid. But, such as it was, everything was delightfully played, the best rendered piece being, perhaps, "Les Gouttes de Rosée." Madame da Veiga is understood to have a high reputation in Paris, and she will certainly enjoy a not less enviable reputation here if she chooses to visit us again. We ourselves had witnessed with little regret the apparent decline in the popularity of the harp, but so exquisite a player does much to alter such a feeling. The vocalist at this Concert was Señorita de Cardenas, a clever soprano, who was at her best in a Spanish song, "La Juanita."

POPULAR MUSICAL UNION.

A CONCERT was given at Grosvenor House on the 18th ult., in support of the funds of the Popular Musical Union, a Society which is doing much valuable work towards bettering the musical education, and through it the general culture, of the industrial classes. The methods employed are, chiefly, the giving of Concerts consisting largely of selections from oratorios, and the establishment of choral and orchestral classes in various districts. To Mrs. Ernest Hart, who founded the Union in its original form, much of the success that has attended the work is due, for she has thrown herself into it with that philanthropic generosity which characterises her. The justice of the Union's appeal for financial aid must be quite apparent, and there is occasion now only to award general praise to the Concert itself. The first part consisted of selections from "Judas Maccabæus" and the "Elijah," and in these (conducted by Mr. W. Henry Thomas) both chorus and orchestra were extremely good, in point both of precision of attack and tonal balance. The soloists were Mrs. Helen Trust and Mr. Ben Davies, who also sang in the second part; the other artists being Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Lawrence Kellie, and M. Emile Sauret. A selection from the "Creation" was also given, and Mrs. Hart made an interesting speech in which she gave some account of the details of the work done in the past year; making special reference to the services rendered by Mr. Ganz.

MR. HENRY LAZARUS'S FAREWELL CONCERT.

ON May 31 Mr. Henry Lazarus took his farewell of the public he has served so faithfully, and the art to which he has been so loyal. For nearly half a century he has been the greatest clarinet player of his time, and he won his reputation by absolutely artistic methods. His purity of tone and the perfection of his phrasing made him an ideal classic player, and it is not too much to say that he always cared more for his music than himself and his own advancement. It was not wonderful, then, that on the pathetic occasion of his farewell a great number of his distinguished colleagues should have come to make the occasion memorable, or that when Mr. Lazarus himself had played—the piece was Gade's "Fantasiestücke" for clarinet and pianoforte, the pianist being Miss Lily Kornatski—the audience should have emphasised so strongly its regret at witnessing the close of so honourable a career. Amongst those who sang and played were Madame Clara Samuell, Miss Grace Damian, Madame Patey, Mr. Barton McGuckin, Mr. Arthur Oswald, Signor Piatti, M. Tivadar Nachèz, and Mr. Ganz; and the executive committee consisted of Messrs. Arthur Chappell, Charles Coote, Stanley Lucas, A. G. Lazarus, and Lieut. Dan Godfrey. Mr. Coote, of 42, New Bond Street, is acting as treasurer to the fund which is being raised to present some fitting testimonial to Mr. Lazarus.

NONCONFORMIST CHOIR UNION.

THOUGH the youngest of the great amateur choral associations designed for the development and improvement of music in religious services, and for the co-operation of choirs, this Union is not far behind its brethren either in vocal efficiency, in the number of members competent to take part in the annual gathering on the Handel orchestra of the Crystal Palace, or in popularity with the public. It was founded so recently as 1888, and may be credited with having done excellent work in its sphere of operations. The musical success of the present year's meeting at Sydenham (18th ult.) must have answered the expectations of Mr. E. Minshall, the able chairman and conductor; Mr. E. W. E. Blandford, the treasurer; and Messrs. T. R. Croger and A. J. Hawkins, the hon. secretaries. A number of choruses, high-class anthems, and bright part-songs were rendered by a choir of nearly 4,000 adults, who, throughout, gave proof of careful training, and of a desire that the issue of their labours should help to extend the favour bestowed on their organisation. "Sing unto God" ("Judas Maccabæus"), the "Hallelujah" ("The Mount of Olives"), "The Lord be a Lamp" ("St. Peter"), Tours's "Blessing, glory, wisdom, and thanks," and Arthur Briscoe's "Praise the Lord, O my soul," were sung with firmness and genuine impulse combined with correct feeling. The accompanying organist was Mr. J. R. Griffiths. The part-songs included Smart's "Lady, rise! sweet morn's awaking," and Pinsuti's "Eldorado." Relief to this choral host was afforded by a select choir of ten, by organ solos played by Mr. Fountain Meen, and by performances by the Crystal Palace band.

DR. READ'S "SIGUND."

AN acceptable addition to the list of cantatas for men's voices and orchestra—a list which, so far as English words are concerned, is none too lengthy—was made on May 27 at a Concert given in the Hall of Queen's College, Oxford. The libretto of "Sigund," as the novelty of the evening was entitled, is the work of the Rev. P. H. Ditchfield, who has contrived to give a large amount of opportunities for dramatic effect in an exceedingly brief tale. The hero of the story is a Viking chieftain roving through the world with a band of followers in search of adventure, and the main incident of the Cantata is a tournament, at which he overthrows all-comers, and thereby wins the hand of a fair lady. But on learning that the lady's affections have been long bestowed on the bravest of his vanquished foes, he abandons his claim and pursues his adventurous quest. These simple incidents have, however, been arranged so skilfully, and expressed in such excellent verse, that no want of interest is perceptible. Dr. Read has laid out his score in eight numbers, and allotted all the most important and interesting music to the chorus and band. The most striking features are the opening war-song of the Vikings, the graceful "Volkslied" that follows it, and, above all, the three tournament choruses, which reach a very high level of dramatic power; but the whole work is full of life and charm, and as it possesses the further merit of presenting nothing of great difficulty to the performers, is sure to meet with a hearty reception from choirs of male voices. Wherever it is possible, the services of the small orchestra required for the accompaniments should be obtained, as the pianoforte accompaniment gives only a faint idea of the varied orchestral effects that are introduced. The performance of the Cantata was exceedingly good, band and chorus worked well together, and Mr. A. F. Ferguson sang the music allotted to Sigund (bass) with great artistic feeling. The audience was delighted with the work, and insisted on recalling the composer three or four times.

J. S. BACH'S CHAMBER MUSIC.

MR. DANNREUTHER at his fourth Lecture on Bach's Chamber Music, delivered at the Royal Institution, said he proposed on that occasion to refer chiefly to the Toccatas, Capricci, and Divisions. With regard to the first-named, the lecturer said, conscientious Bach players were often greatly exercised concerning the proper style of their performance. No light was thrown on this by either Bach or his contemporaries, but in the preface to the original edition of Frescobaldi's Toccatas, 1614-16, and of his Capricci, 1614, the lecturer had had the good fortune to find that which was wanted. We knew that Bach studied and imitated the works of Frescobaldi and his pupil Froberger, and that the latter was regarded in Germany as a model player of organ and harpsichord music. The links, therefore, between Frescobaldi and Bach were complete, and the precepts of the former could safely be applied to the performance of works by the latter. Concerning his own Toccatas, Frescobaldi said: "This manner of playing is not subject to strict time. . . . The beginning of the Toccatas should be played adagio; tied, slurred, or sustained notes, and, indeed, the bulk of each piece should be taken in proper proportion, one beat to chime with another; but the beat (that is, the nuances of tempo) must be left to the good taste of the executant. . . . Cadences, though written quick, should be somewhat sustained; where they are found at the end of passages preparatory to a final cadence the tempo should be retarded, for the perfection of this style and manner of playing consists in tempo." Speaking of the Capricci and Recercari, he said:

"As a rule the pieces should be started at a slow pace, so that they may gain in liveliness and spirit as they proceed. . . . The major triple and sextuple time (therefore the 3-1) is to be taken adagio; the minor triple and sextuple time (i.e., the 3-2) a little quicker; 3-4 time and also 4-4 in a lively manner; and 6-4 allegro. . . . It is advisable to dwell on certain dissonances near the end of a section, and to retain the closes arpeggiando, so as to impart fire and animation to that which follows." Thus, the modern Bach player was fully justified in doing anything which brought out the beauty and characteristics of the music; but extremes of speed were excluded. The rapid tempo adopted by many would have been impossible on the harpsichord and ineffective on the clavichord. The same remark applied to violinists, owing to the superior elasticity of the modern bow, which enabled them to play at a pace which, with the old form of bow, would have merely resulted in a scramble. Bach's "Variations" were of two kinds, "Divisions on a tune," in which the tune remained the same; and "Divisions on a ground," in which the bass remained the same. In the latter Bach had put forth his full strength. The "30 Veränderungen über eine Aria" were marvels of contrapuntal and artistic skill, with which there was nothing to compare except the thirty-three Variations by Beethoven.

GRESHAM LECTURES.

Professor Bridge concluded, on the 3rd ult., his Easter term Lectures at Gresham College. At the two first the rise and development of the "Madrigal" were considered, and special reference made to Thomas Morley's famous collection "The Triumphs of Oriana," published in 1601 and dedicated to Charles Howard, Earl of Nottingham. The madrigal, the Professor said, occupied in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries an artistic position between secular and church music—the former based on folk-songs, the latter on the church modes. The madrigal originated in the Flemish school, but was perfected in Italy. Its introduction into England seemed to have been due to Nicholas Yonge, probably one of the singing men at St. Paul's Cathedral, who, in 1588, published, at his own cost, a collection by Flemish and Italian writers, entitled "Musica Transalpina." The compositions were adapted to English words, and the preface probably introduced the word "Madrigal" into England. This work appeared to have given the impetus to English composers, whose writings in this style ultimately surpassed those of their Italian contemporaries. Other collections speedily followed that of Yonge, amongst the earliest being one entitled "A Sett of Italian Madrigals Englished," by Watson, and another by Thomas Morley, who afterwards edited "The Triumphs of Oriana." The "Glee," like the anthem, was of purely English growth. The word was mentioned as early as 1673, but the glee chiefly flourished from 1760 to 1860, Sir John Goss being one of the last to write important music of this class. Much confusion had arisen in the minds of many concerning the difference between the madrigal and the glee owing to the misuse of these titles by ignorant composers. It was somewhat difficult to give a terse definition of either, but the madrigal could be sung by any number of voices, while the glee should be sung by solo voices. Moreover, the parts of the madrigal should be of equal melodic value, while those of the glee need not. The majority of the former were also in one movement, but the latter in several and strongly contrasted; added to which the glee was more modern in style.

During these Lectures a number of madrigals, some by little known writers, were admirably sung by members of the Westminster Abbey Choir.

The third Lecture was entitled "Musical Notes in Pepys' Diary." Samuel Pepys, the Professor said, was a capable performer and composer, an enthusiastic listener, a good critic, and one who zealously strove for the propagation of musical art. Four songs witnessed to his skill as a composer, of which one, called "Beauty, retire," was referred to in his diary as follows, under date of February 23, 1666: "Comes Mrs. Knipp to see my wife; and I spent all the night talking with this baggage, and teaching her my song of 'Beauty, retire,' which she sings and makes go most rarely—and a very fine song it seems to be." Mrs. Pepys, judging from the entry of March 1, 1667, was not of a very musical nature: "Before dinner, making my wife to sing. Poor wretch! her ear is so bad that it made me angry, until the poor wretch cried to see me so vexed at her, that I think I shall not discourage her so much again, but will endeavour to make her understand sounds and do her good that way." Pepys seemed never to have been happier than when either listening to music or in company of a musician, whom he usually took to a "taverne" to have a song or ask questions. Thus, under December 10, 1667, we read: "Met Mr. Kingston, the organist, walking, and I walked with him and asked him many questions. I do find that he can no more give an intelligible answer to a man who is not a great master in his art than another. And this confirms me that it is only the want of an ingenious man that is master in musick to bring music to a certitude and ease in composition." Pepys apparently tried to be that man, since we afterwards read "All the evening trying some conclusions on my viall in order to the inventing a better theory of musique than hath yet been abroad, and I think verily I shall do it." The Professor concluded by quoting some of the many valuable references made in the diary to the composers and performances of the time.

The illustrations, sung by Mr. Dan Price and Westminster choir boys, included Pepys' song "Beauty, retire," which proved to be a remarkably expressive setting.

The fourth Lecture described the development of the French horn and its use in the orchestra by the great masters. The Professor is never more happy than when dealing with a technical subject, and his remarks on this occasion concerning the peculiarities and effective treatment of the horn were most lucid and valuable.

The illustrations, played by Messrs. Levsey, Smith, Muskett, and Boreland were of a most instructive and interesting character, and it was satisfactory to observe, as indicative of the increased interest now taken in orchestral music, that this Lecture attracted the largest audience of the series.

THE RHYTHM OF PLAINSONG.

Mr. C. F. Abdy Williams read an exhaustive paper "On the Rhythm of Plainsong," on the 10th ult., before the members of the Plainsong and Mediæval Society. Mr. Williams said all authorities seemed to agree that rhythm played an important part in plainsong, but none appeared to have any exact knowledge of its nature. The difficulties in studying the subject arose from the confusion between plainsong and measured notation in the received authorities. Plainsong at St. Peter's, Rome, and St. John Lateran, was sung without rhythm, and it was not until the lecturer became acquainted with the works of Pothier that he obtained any clue to the original rhythm. This writer explained everything so clearly and logically that it seemed impossible to doubt any longer that the true art of performing plainsong as practised at its best epoch—i.e., that of St. Gregory, had been re-discovered. This manner of performance was set forth in the Solesmes edition of the Church service books of the fifteenth century. The loss of the ancient rhythm was owing to the invention of polyphony, the plainsong notes being gradually reduced to equal length, which were sung very slowly to give greater liberty and scope to the contrapuntal additions. Pius IX., wishing to introduce uniformity into the Church, formed a special commission, the result of whose labours was the Ratisbon edition, which was declared to be authentic. This attempt to enforce uniformity naturally led many to study the matter for themselves, and there were at present two parties in Rome who respectively favoured the Ratisbon and Solesmes editions. The lecturer had heard the Mass sung according to each edition on the same day; and to him there was no doubt of the superiority of the latter in beauty and fitness. There were two kinds of rhythm—i.e., strict and free. The former demanded an equal division of the time values of the various portions of a musical composition, or of the accents in poetry; the latter a general balance of syllables, accents, and phrases as observable in good prose, and this corresponded with the rhythm of plainsong. The

Four Part-Songs

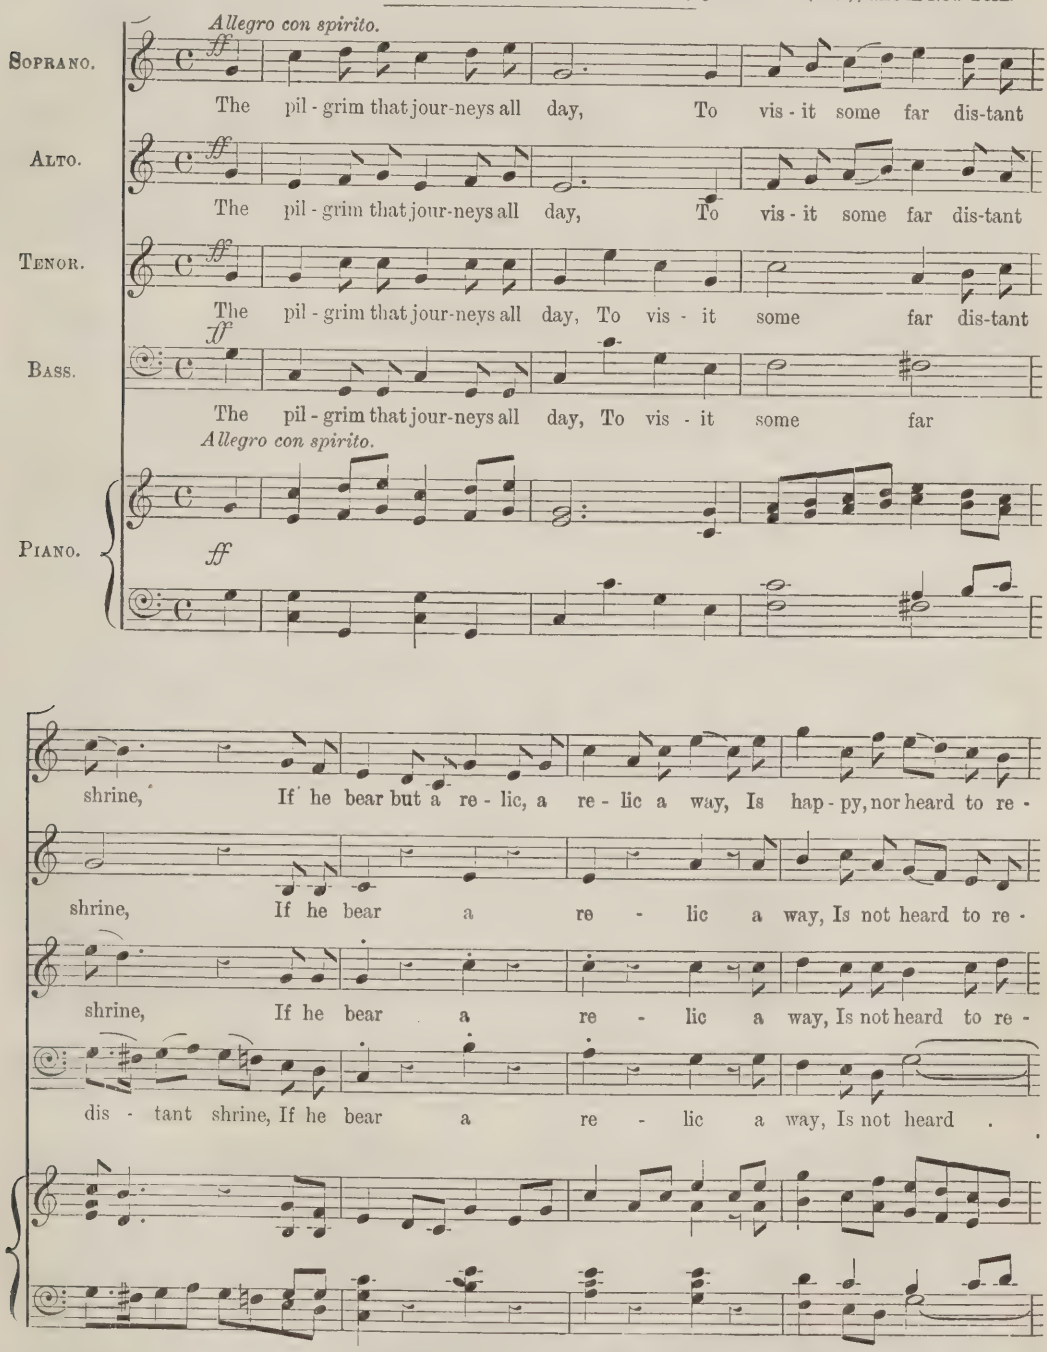
FOUNDED ON CANZONETS BY WM. JACKSON (OF EXETER)

BY

F. CORDER.

No. 1.*—The Pilgrim that journeys all day.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.



Allegro con spirito.
Soprano.
The pil - grim that jour-neys all day, To vis - it some far dis-tant
Alto.
The pil - grim that jour-neys all day, To vis - it some far dis-tant
Tenor.
The pil - grim that jour-neys all day, To vis - it some far dis-tant
Bass.
The pil - grim that jour-neys all day, To vis - it some far
Allegro con spirito.
Piano.
ff
shrine, If he bear but a re - lic, a re - lic a way, Is hap - py, nor heard to re - shrine, If he bear a re - lic a way, Is not heard to re -
shrine, If he bear a re - lic a way, Is not heard to re - dis - tant shrine, If he bear a re - lic a way, Is not heard .

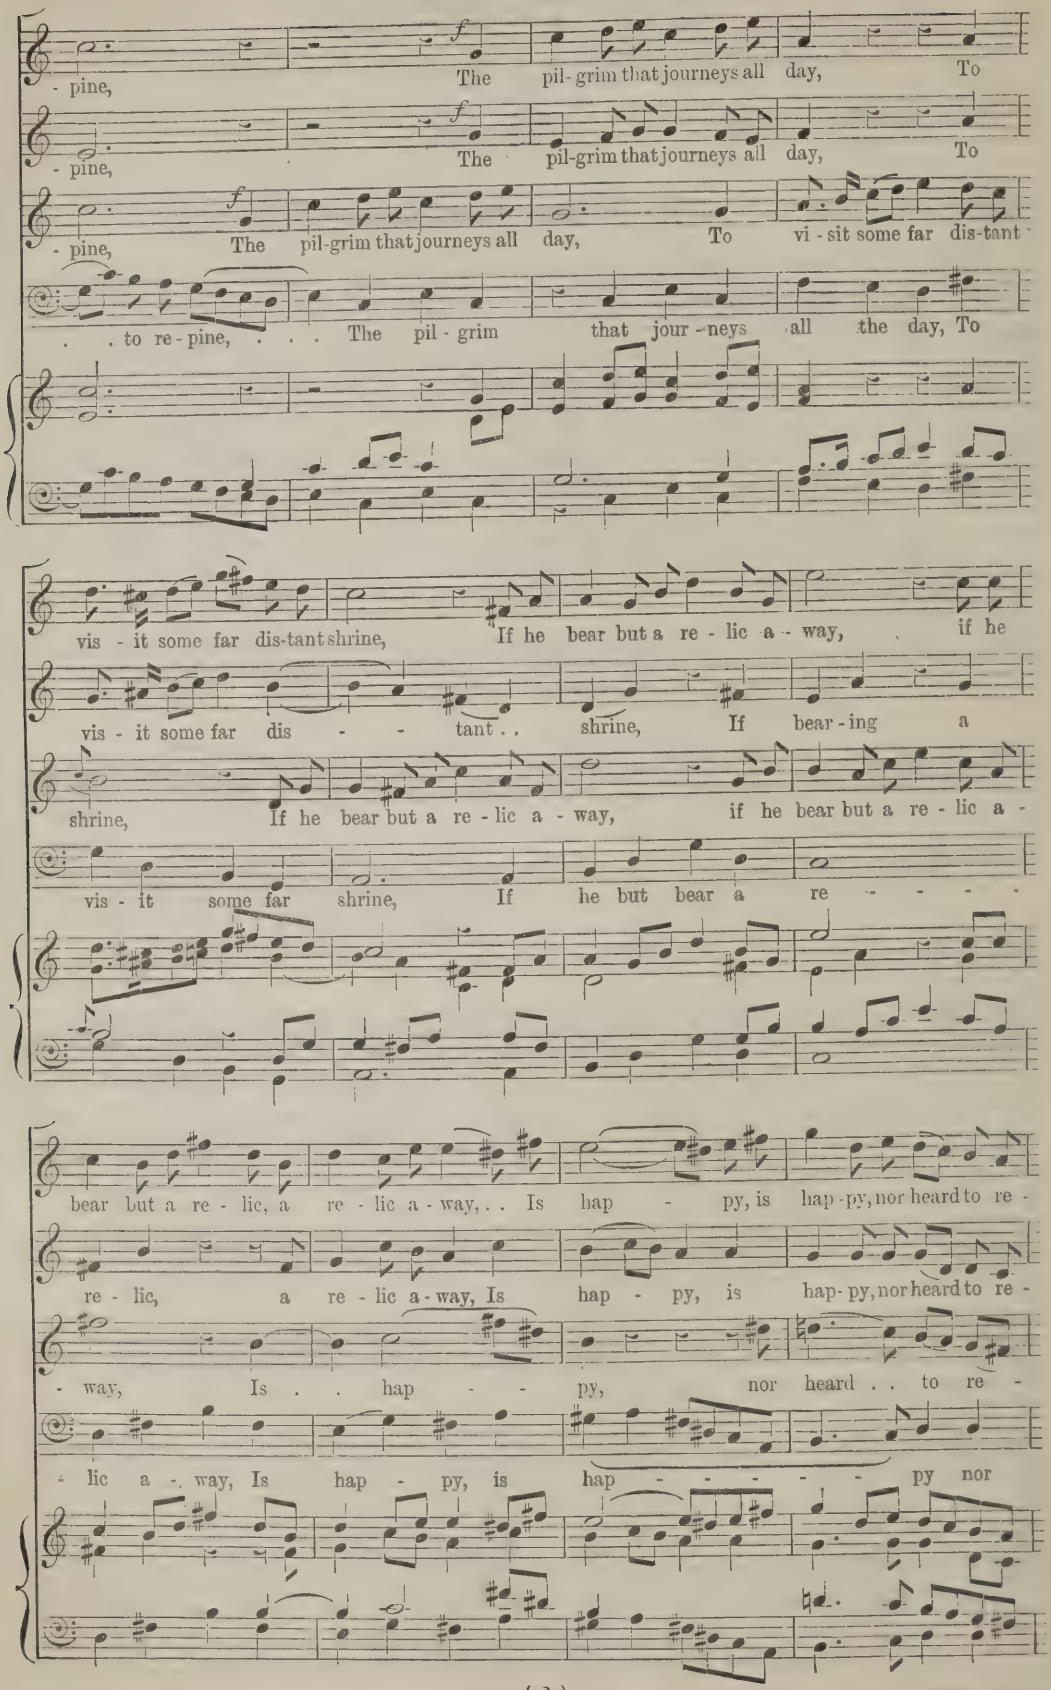
* For Nos. 2, 3, and 4, see Novello's Part-Song Book, Nos. 625, 626 and 627



- pine, The pil-grim that journeys all day, To
- pine, The pil-grim that journeys all day, To
- pine, The pil-grim that journeys all day, To vi - sit some far dis-tant
. . to re - pine, . . . The pil - grim that jour - neys all the day, To vis - it some far dis-tant shrine, If he bear but a re - lic a - way, if he vis - it some far dis - - - tant . . shrine, If bear - ing a shrine, If he bear but a re - lic a - way, if he bear but a re - lic a - vis - it some far shrine, If he but bear a re - - - - bear but a re - lic, a re - lic a - way, . . Is hap - py, is hap - py, nor heard to re - re - lic, a re - lic a - way, Is hap - py, is hap - py, nor heard to re -
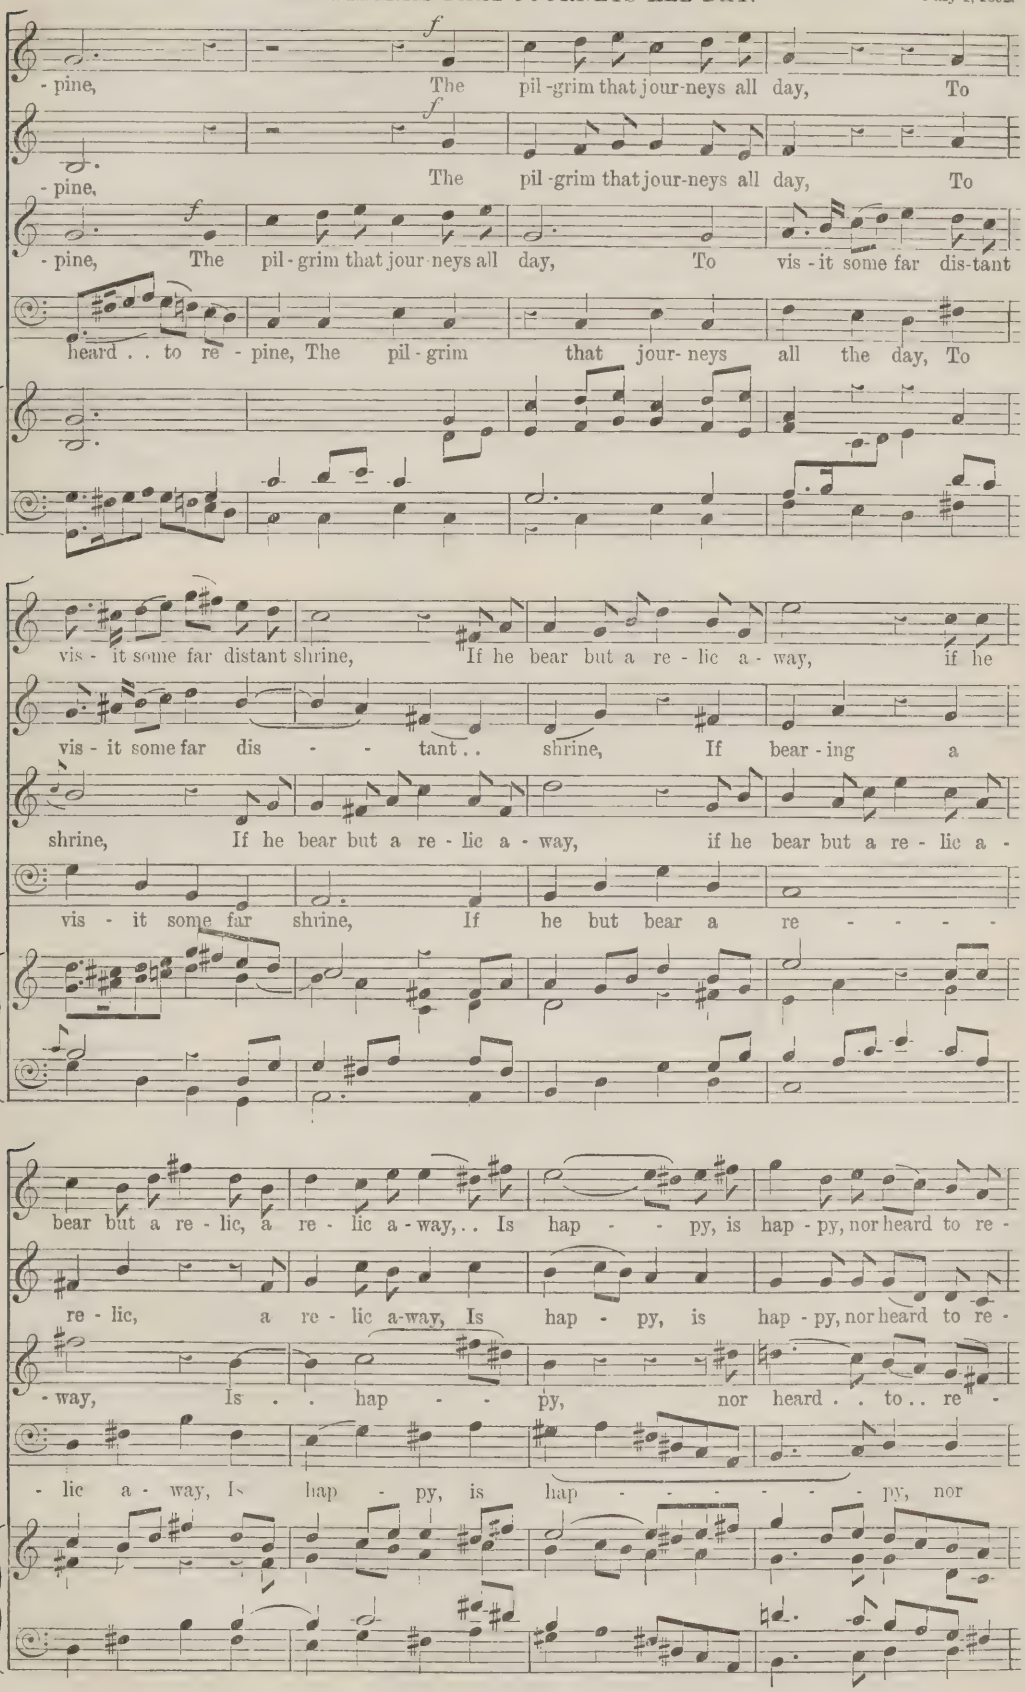
- way, Is . . hap - - py, nor heard . . to re -
- lic a - way, Is hap - py, is hap - - - - - py nor



- pine, The pil-grim that jour-neys all day, To
- pine, The pil-grim that jour-neys all day, To
- pine, The pil-grim that jour-neys all day, To vis-it some far dis-tant heard . . to re - pine, The pil-grim that jour-neys all the day, To vis-it some far distant shrine, If he bear but a re-lic a-way, if he vis-it some far dis - - tant . . shrine, If bear-ing a shrine, If he bear but a re-lic a-way, if he bear but a re-lic avis-it some far shrine, If he but bear a re - - - - - bear but a re-lic, a re-lic a-way, . . Is hap - - py, is hap-py, nor heard to re-
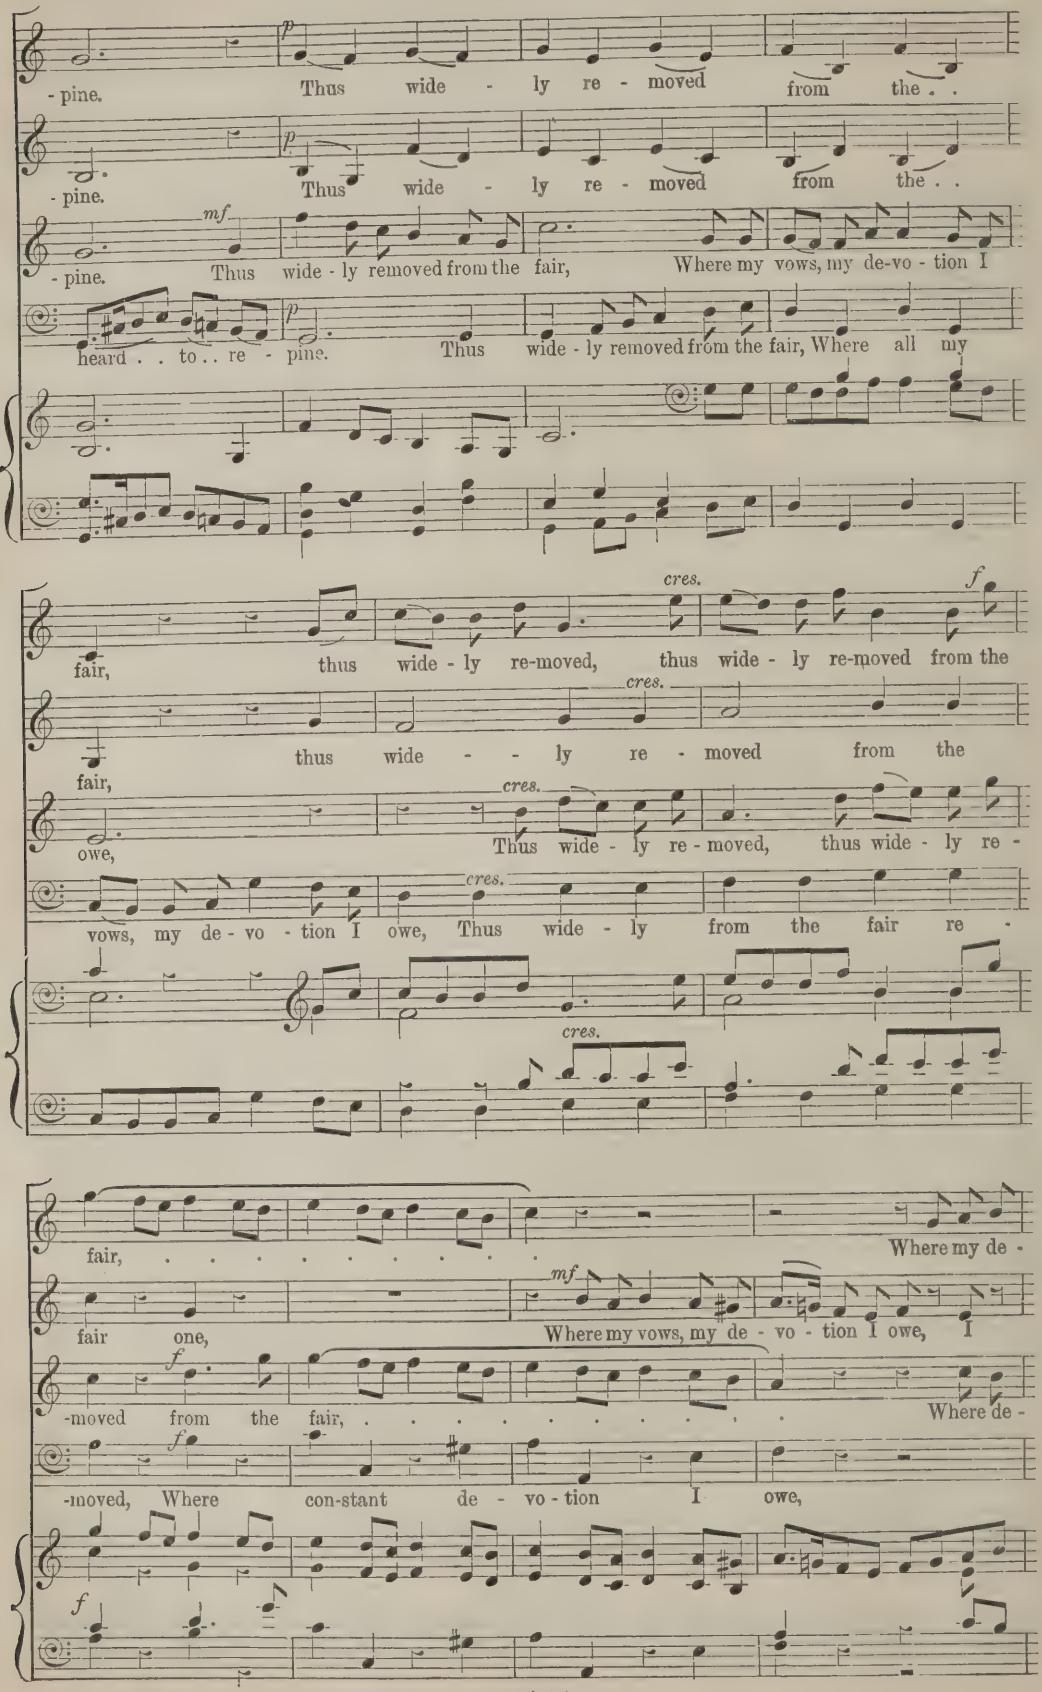
re-lic, a re-lic a-way, Is hap-py, is hap-py, nor heard to re-
-way, Is . . hap - - py, nor heard . . to . . re -
-lic a-way, Is hap-py, is hap - - - - - - py, nor



- pine. Thus wide - ly re - moved from the . .
- pine. Thus wide - ly re - moved from the . .
- pine. Thus wide - ly removed from the fair, Where my vows, my de-vo - tion I heard . . to . . re - pine. Thus wide - ly removed from the fair, Where all my fair, thus wide - ly re-moved, thus wide - ly re-moved from the fair, thus wide - - ly re - moved from the owe, Thus wide - ly re - moved, thus wide - ly re - vows, my de - vo - tion I owe, Thus wide - ly from the fair re - fair, Where my de - fair one, Where my vows, my de - vo - tion I owe, I
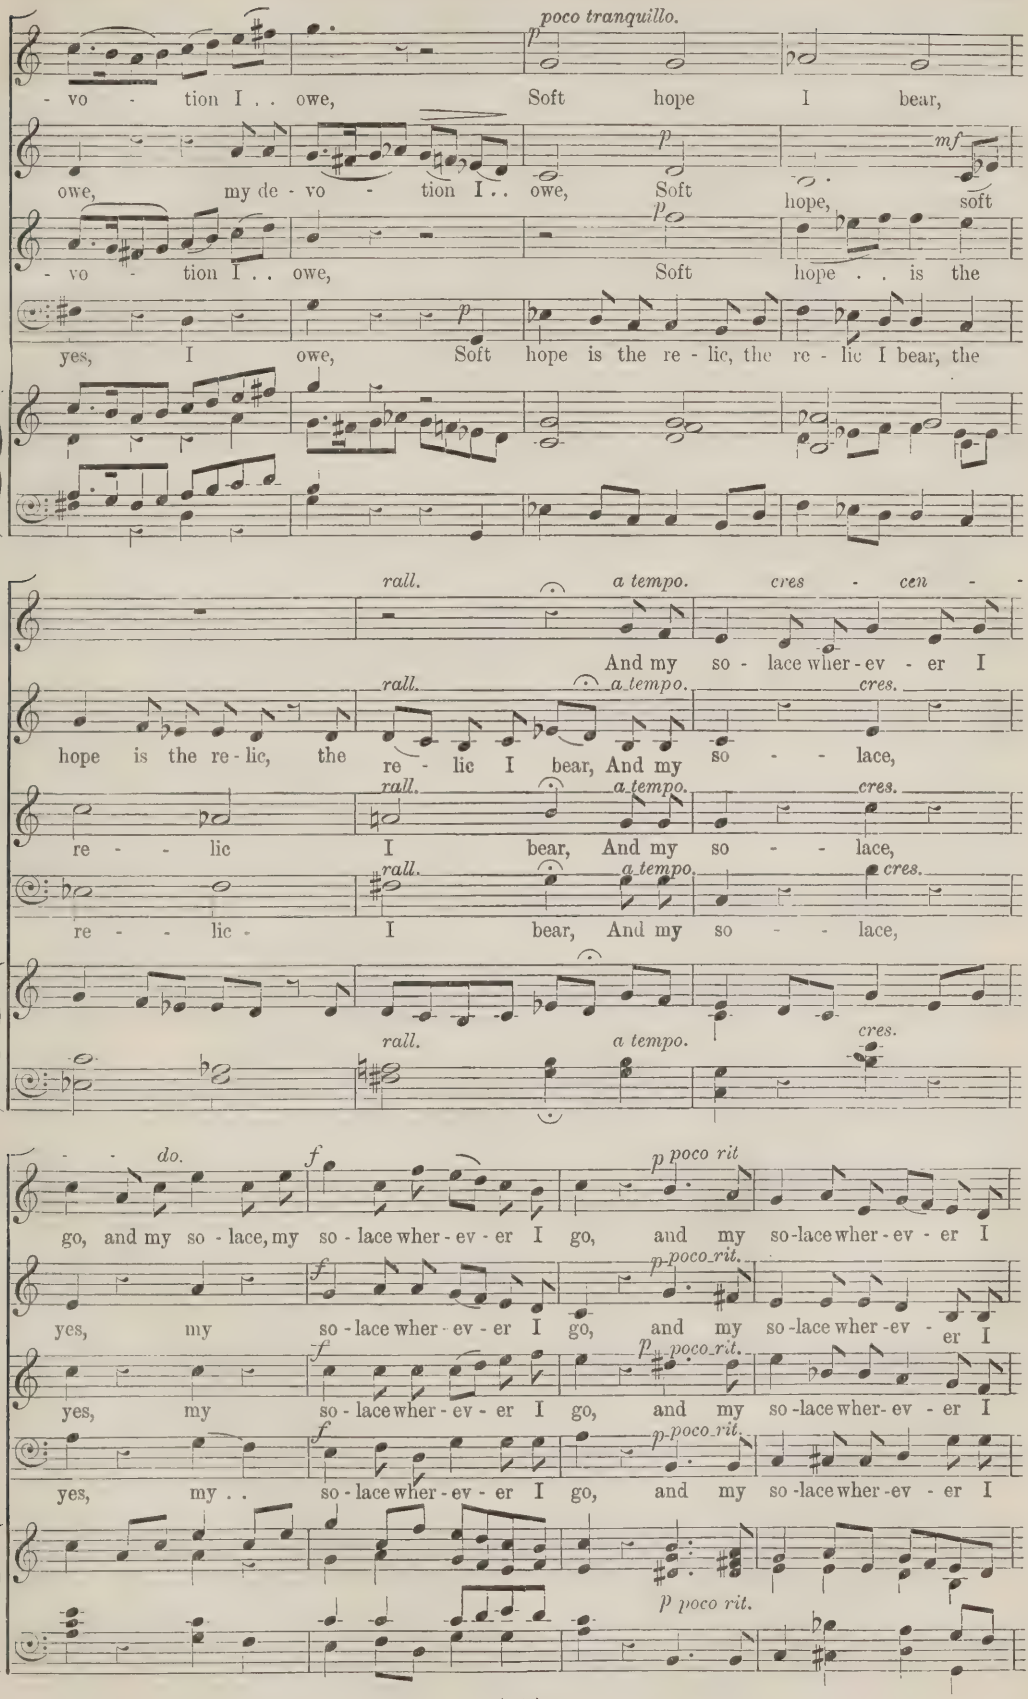
-moved from the fair, Where de -
-moved, Where con-stant de - vo - tion I owe,



poco tranquillo.
- vo - tion I . . owe, Soft hope I bear, owe, my de - vo - tion I . . owe, Soft hope, soft
- vo - tion I . . owe, Soft hope . . is the yes, I owe, Soft hope is the re - lic, the re - lic I bear, the rall. a tempo. cres - cen - -
And my so - lace wher - ev - er I hope is the re - lic, the re - lic I bear, And my so - - - lace,
re - - - lic I bear, And my so - - - lace,
re - - - lic - I bear, And my so - - - lace,
do.
go, and my so - lace, my so - lace wher - ev - er I go, and my so-lace wher - ev - er I
yes, my so - lace wher - ev - er I go, and my so-lace wher-ev - er I
yes, my so - lace wher - ev - er I go, and my so-lace wher- ev - er I
yes, my . . so - lace wher - ev - er I go, and my so-lace wher-ev - er I p poco rit.

a tempo.
p go,
Thus wide - ly re - moved from the . .
a tempo.
p
go,
Thus wide - ly re - moved from the . .
a tempo.
mf
go,
Thus wide - ly removed from the fair,
Where my vows, my de - vo - tion I
a tempo.
p
go, ...
Thus wide - ly removed from the fair, Where all my
a tempo.
cres.
f fair,
thus wide - ly re-moved, thus wide - ly removed from the fair, . . .
cres.
fair,
thus wide - ly re - moved from the fair one,
cres.
f owe,
Thus wide - ly re - moved, thus wide - ly re - moved from the
cres.
vows, my de-vo - tion I owe, Thus wide - ly from the fair re - moved, Where Where my de - vo - - tion I . .
mf
Where my vows, my de - vo - tion I owe, I owe, my de-
fair, ...
Where de - vo - - tion I . . con-stant de - vo - tion I owe, yes, I

poco tranquillo.
owe. Soft hope I bear,
- vo - tion I .. owe, Soft hope, soft hope is the re- lic, the owe, Soft hope . . is the re - lic owe, Soft hope is the re - lic, the re - lic I bear, the re - lic rall. a tempo. cres - - cen - do.
And my so - lace wher- ev - er I go, and my so - lace, my re - lic I bear, And my so - - lace, yes, my
I bear, And my so - - lace, yes, my
I bear, And my so - - lace, yes, my . .
ff rall.
so - lace wher - ev - er I go, and my so - lace wher - ev - er I go.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

LIST OF WORKS SUITABLE FOR

PRESENTS AND SCHOOL PRIZES

	s.	d.
BACH (J. S.)—HIS WORK AND INFLUENCE ON THE MUSIC OF GERMANY, 1685-1750. By Philipp Spitta. Three Vols. .. .. cloth	42	0
BENNETT (Joseph).—MUSICAL BIOGRAPHIES
HECTOR BERLIOZ .. .. cloth	2	0
FREDERICK CHOPIN.. .. .. „	2	0
CHERUBINI .. .. „	2	0
MEYERBEER .. .. „	2	0
ROSSINI .. .. „	2	0
BENNETT (Sterndale)—TWELVE SONGS cloth	2	6
BERLIOZ.—A TREATISE ON MODERN INSTRUMENTATION AND ORCHESTRATION. 8vo, cloth	12	0
BEETHOVEN.—SONATAS. Agnes Zimmermann. folio, cloth	21	0
Elegantly bound in whole morocco, &c.	51	0
BEETHOVEN.—SONATAS. Agnes Zimmermann. 8vo, cloth	7	6
CATHEDRAL PRAYER BOOK, with Music. Special bindings (price lists on application).
CHOPIN (Frederick).—AS A MAN AND MUSICIAN. By Frederick Niecks. Two Vols	25	0
CHRISTMAS CAROLS.—NEW AND OLD. Rev. H. R. Bramley, M.A., and J. Stainer. Beautifully Illustrated .. .. cloth gilt	7	6
CHRISTMAS CAROLS.—NEW AND OLD. Rev. H. Bramley, M.A., and J. Stainer. Library Edition, with Historical Preface .. .. .. Roxburgh binding	7	6
DAY (Capt. C. R.)—THE MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS OF SOUTHERN INDIA AND THE DECCAN. With an Introduction by A. J. Hipkins, F.S.A. Illustrated with 17 plates drawn by William Gibb and printed in the highest style of chromo-lithography and on finest plate paper. Handsomely bound	73	6
DAY (Capt. C. R.)—Ditto, Artist's Proof Copies, entirely printed on finest Japanese paper	147	0
ELLIOTT (J. W.)—NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS. Beautifully Illustrated ..	7	6
ENGEL (Carl).—THE LITERATURE OF NATIONAL MUSIC .. .. cloth	5	0
ENGEL (Carl).—RESEARCHES INTO THE EARLY HISTORY OF THE VIOLIN FAMILY cloth	7	6
HANDEL.—MESSIAH. Elegantly bound in whole calf, gilt edges .. .. folio	34	0
HANDEL.—MESSIAH. Bound in Cloth. folio	10	0
HANSLICK (Dr. Eduard).—THE BEAUTIFUL IN MUSIC. A contribution to the revisal of Musical Æsthetics. Translated by Gustav Cohen .. .. cloth	6	0
HAUPTMANN (Moritz).—THE LETTERS OF A LEIPZIG CANTOR. Translated and arranged by A. D. Coleridge. Two Vols. .. .. .. cloth gilt	21	0
HAWKINS (Sir John)—THE GENERAL HISTORY OF THE SCIENCE AND PRACTICE OF MUSIC. Two Vols... .. .. cloth	21	0
HAWKINS (Sir John).—SUPPLEMENTARY VOLUME OF MEDALLION PORTRAITS .. cloth	16	0
HILL (Lady Arthur).—HOLIDAY SONGS. cloth	2	6
MACKENZIE (A. C.)—EIGHTEEN SONGS. cloth gilt	7	6
MENDELSSOHN.—PIANOFORTE WORKS Elegantly bound in whole morocco .. folio, gilt edges	51	0
folio, cloth gilt	21	0
MENDELSSOHN.—PIANOFORTE WORKS 8vo, cloth gilt	10	6
MENDELSSOHN.—LIEDER OHNE WORTE. The only complete edition. Eight Books .. .. folio	12	0
Elegantly bound in whole morocco, folio	47	0
Ditto ditto 8vo	17	6
Folio, cloth gilt	8	0
8vo, cloth gilt	6	0
cloth gilt	4	6
MENDELSSOHN.—SYMPHONIES (SOLO) folio	12	0
MENDELSSOHN.—SYMPHONIES (DUET) folio	15	0
MENDELSSOHN.—OVERTURES (SOLO) folio	12	0
MENDELSSOHN.—OVERTURES (DUET) folio	15	0
MENDELSSOHN.—ELIJAH. Arranged by B. Tours .. .. folio	5	0
MENDELSSOHN.—SONGS. folio, cloth gilt	21	0
MENDELSSOHN.—SONGS. 8vo, cloth gilt	6	0
MENDELSSOHN.—SONGS (Deep Voice) 8vo, cloth gilt	8	0
MOORE.—IRISH MELODIES. 8vo, cloth gilt	4	0
Folio, cloth gilt	21	0
MOSCHELES (J.)—DOMESTIC LIFE. (Twenty-four characteristic Duets for Pianoforte) .. cloth gilt	4	0
MOZART.—SONATAS. folio, cloth gilt	18	0
Bound in whole calf, extra gilt, &c.	48	0
MOZART.—SONATAS. 8vo, cloth gilt	5	0
MOZART, LIFE OF. By E. Holmes. Including his Correspondence . .. . cloth	5	0
MOZART, LIFE OF. By Otto Jahn. Translated from the German by Pauline D. Townsend, with Five Portraits and Preface by Sir G. Grove. Three Vols. cloth	31	6

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S PIANOFORTE ALBUMS.

Edited by BERTHOLD TOURS.

SIXTY COMPOSITIONS. By J. S. Bach. cloth	4	0
SEVENTY-TWO COMPOSITIONS. By Handel. cloth	4	0
FORTY-FIVE MARCHES. By the most Celebrated Composers .. .. cloth	4	0
FORTY-EIGHT GAVOTTES, MINUETS, BOURRÉES, &c. By the most Celebrated Composers. cloth	4	0
THIRTY COMPOSITIONS. By Wollenhaupt. cloth	4	0
TWENTY-EIGHT COMPOSITIONS. By Spindler .. .. cloth	4	0
FIFTEEN COMPOSITIONS. By H. Goetz. cloth	4	0
TWENTY-FIVE COMPOSITIONS. By J. Rheinberger .. .. cloth	4	0
TWENTY-THREE COMPOSITIONS. By Kjerulf. cloth	4	0
THE NATIONAL DANCE MUSIC OF SCOTLAND. By A. Mackenzie .. .. .. cloth	4	0
TWENTY-THREE COMPOSITIONS. By A. C. Mackenzie .. .. cloth	4	0
FIFTY HUNGARIAN NATIONAL SONGS. cloth	4	0
THIRTY-EIGHT COMPOSITIONS. By Anatole Liadoff .. .. cloth	4	0
THIRTY-ONE COMPOSITIONS. By Cæsar Cui. cloth	4	0
COMPOSITIONS. By Schubert .. .. cloth	4	0
RANDEGGER.—SACRED SONGS FOR LITTLE SINGERS. Words by F. R. Havergal. Illustrated cloth gilt	5	0
RUBINSTEIN.—EIGHTEEN TWO-PART SONGS .. .. cloth gilt	4	6
SCHUMANN.—ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE PIANOFORTE. Edited by Agnes Zimmermann .. .. cloth gilt	21	0
SCHUMANN.—PIANOFORTE ALBUM FOR THE YOUNG .. .. cloth gilt	4	6
SCHUMANN.—SONGS. Edited by N. Macfarren. folio, cloth gilt	10	6
SCHUMANN.—VOCAL ALBUMS. Containing thirty of his most celebrated songs .. .. cloth gilt	4	6
STAINER (J.)—THE MUSIC OF THE BIBLE. With an account of the development of Modern Musical Instruments from Ancient Types .. .. .. cloth	2	6
STAINER (J.)—A THEORY OF HARMONY. With Questions and Exercises for Students .. .. cloth	7	6
STAINER (J.)—A DICTIONARY OF MUSICAL TERMS. By J. Stainer and W. A. Barrett. 8vo, cloth	7	6
VARIOUS COMPOSERS.—THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG. A collection of Sacred and Moral Songs. With forty-six Illustrations. Handsomely bound	5	0
VARIOUS COMPOSERS.—VOLKSLIEDER ALBUM. Forty Songs. (English and German.) cloth gilt	4	6
WALKER (Bettina).—MY MUSICAL EXPERIENCES	6	0

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Anglican chant with its recitation note and subsequent barred music was a mixture of free and strict rhythm. Both kinds were, however, based on the same fundamental law—viz., that each accent-portion and phrase had a specific relation to the others and the whole. The rhythm of plainsong consequently depended very greatly on the correct accentuation of the words to which it was allied. All syllables which were unaccented should be sung lightly and without any forcing or jerking, the time they occupied being dependent on their weight—i.e., the number of consonants contained in the syllable. The unaccented syllables should be viewed as grouped round the accented syllables, and these syllable-groups, or words, corresponded to the feet in poetry: the smaller divisions of the musical sentences to the Greek kola, or musical phrase; the larger divisions, or the whole sentence, to the period or strophe. The Psalms supplied excellent examples of this grouping. In plainsong no attempt should be made to sing in strict rhythm. To do so would be to entirely alter its character. Plainsong was prose music. After describing the neumæ and their manner of performance, the lecturer said the good execution of plainsong required great flexibility of voice to glide lightly and smoothly, and without any apparent effort, over the melody. It should be remembered that this kind of music had its origin where climate and surroundings disposed towards a light and joyful form of art, perhaps a little out of keeping with the severer spirit of more Northern nations. The Gregorian song was essentially a song of joy, hence it required freedom from restraint and a graceful, easy flow in performance. When sung in this way the effect was extremely beautiful. It was like no other music, and it seemed to open a new world of artistic excellence.

MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

THE returns of the Education Departments of England, Wales, and Scotland have just been issued. The tale they tell is still one of progress, if progress can be measured by the increase in the number of children learning to sing by note. The figures for two other years are given for comparison:—

ENGLAND AND WALES.

I. NUMBER OF CHILDREN TAUGHT BY NOTE OR BY EAR.

Year.	Taught by Note.	Taught by Ear.
1884	1,282,586	1,997,572
1890	2,515,545	1,219,357
1891	2,686,138	1,080,513

II. AMOUNT OF GRANTS FOR MUSIC.

	Paid for Note singing at 1s.	Paid for Ear singing at 6d.	Total.
1884	£64,129	£49,939	£114,068
1890	£125,777	£30,484	£156,261
1891	£134,307	£27,013	£161,320

III. RELATIVE PREVALENCE OF METHODS.

School Departments.

	Staff or Ordinary Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.	By Ear.
1884	2,396	6,773	18,593
1890	2,244	13,893	13,054
1891	2,362	15,153	11,833

The returns from the Scotch Department this year give the numbers of children taught by note and by ear. Formerly, only the number of the School Departments was given:—

SCOTLAND.

I. NUMBER OF CHILDREN TAUGHT BY NOTE OR BY EAR.

	Taught by Note.	Taught by Ear.
1891	480,094	50,102

II. AMOUNT OF GRANTS FOR MUSIC.

	Paid for Note singing at 1s.	Paid for Ear singing at 6d.	Total.
1891	£24,004	£1,402	£25,406

III. RELATIVE PREVALENCE OF METHODS.

School Departments.

	Staff or Ordinary Notation.	Tonic Sol-fa.	Both Systems.	By Ear.
1887	101	2,016	19	1,038
1891	83	2,465	40	668

The noticeable features of these statistics are the rapid decrease in the number of children being taught by ear and the increasing popularity of the Tonic Sol-fa method. It will be seen that whereas in Scotland only 5·5 per cent. of the whole grant is paid for ear singing, in England and Wales the proportion is nearly 17 per cent.

OBITUARY.

WE regret to have to announce the death, on the 9th ult., at Berlin, of Dr. WILHELM LANGHANS, the well-known German musical author and composer, in his sixtieth year. He was born at Hamburg on September 21, 1832, and studied the violin at the Leipzig Conservatorium under David, and subsequently also under D. Allard at Paris. Having gained much practical experience as a leading violinist of the Leipzig Gewandhaus and the Düsseldorf orchestras, he took up his residence as a teacher, first in the French capital and afterwards at Berlin, where he obtained a professorship of musical history at the Neue Akademie der Tonkunst, a position which, in 1881, he exchanged for a similar one at the Berlin Scharwenka Conservatorium, of which Institution he had latterly been the acting director. His writings bear witness to the author's substantial knowledge and highly cultured intellect, and must be numbered amongst the most valuable contributions by modern German writers to musical literature. The more important of them are "Das musikalische Urtheil," "Die Musikgeschichte in zwölf Vorlesungen," and "Geschichte der Musik des 17, 18, and 19 Jahrhunderts"; the last-named being a continuation of Ambros's well-known work. He has also furnished an excellent translation into German of the life of Chopin, by Professor Niecks. As a composer, the deceased artist has made himself favourably known by a Symphony, a String Quartet, pieces for the violin, and a number of songs. Dr. Langhans was an occasional contributor to THE MUSICAL TIMES, and was the author, inter alia, of an interesting paper on "Musical Instruction in German Schools," published in the July number of 1879. He was an assiduous reader of our journal, and only a few weeks since, in a letter addressed to the writer, expressed his "admiration of its contents and general artistic tendencies." He had the degree of Doctor conferred upon him by the University of Heidelberg in 1871, and was an honorary member of the Royal Academy of Florence and of the St. Cecilia of Rome.

We regret to record the death of EOS MORLAIS, the Welsh tenor. His health had been failing for some time, but latterly he had rallied, and had even accepted an engagement to appear at Cwm Rhondda within a few days of his death. Originally a collier, he possessed a remarkably fine voice and true artistic instinct, and had been before the public as a singer of repute for more than a quarter of a century. He was in his fifty-fifth year.

The following deaths, not yet recorded by us, have occurred during the past three months abroad, viz.:—

On April 1, at Lisbon, TEODORO QUILEZ, distinguished violin virtuoso, a native of Spain, aged forty-two.

On April 11, at Moscow, Madame ZOË KOTSCHETOFF, gifted Russian operatic singer, aged thirty-four.

On April 18, at Wiesbaden, FRIEDRICH BODENSTEDT, lyrical poet (whose verses, especially his "Lieder des Mirza Schaffy," have been many times set to music), in his seventy-third year.

On April 18, at Vienna, FRANZ TOMS, an excellent performer on the cornet-à-pistons, member of the Hofcapelle, aged fifty-five.

On April 21, at Weimar, CARL IMMISCH, virtuoso on the bassoon, member of the Grand Ducal Orchestra, aged sixty-seven.

On May 2, at Leipzig, CARL AUGUST OTHO, contrabassist and maker of stringed instruments, member of the Gewandhaus Orchestra, aged fifty-two.

On May 5, at Hanover, WILHELM GERTZ, excellent violinist, for over forty years a leading member of the Royal Opera orchestra.

On May 5, at Naples, Giuseppe Lombardo, alias Lombardini, operatic composer, for many years Professor of Singing at the Naples Conservatoire, and author of some valuable treatises upon his art, aged 72.

On May 8, at Dresden, Johannes Martens, at one time a very successful operatic tenor at the Hof-Theater.

On May 9, at Erfurt, Marie Breidenstein, excellent Concert singer and vocal teacher, residing in that town.

On May 16, at Leipzig, Dr. Adolf Emil Wendler, senior director of the Gewandhaus Concert Institution, for some years editor of the Leipzig Allgemeine Musik Zeitung, aged eighty-four.

On May 18, at Paris, Alexis Bouvier, highly popular composer of romances, and also of some operettas, aged fifty-six.

On May 25, at Wiesbaden, Hermann Philippi, for a number of years the much esteemed baritone at the Royal Theatre in that town.

On May 25, at Paris, León Vercken, successful composer of light operas, born at Liège in 1828.

On May 29, at Paris, Marie Donne, for twenty years one of the most highly esteemed vocal professors at the Conservatoire, aged forty-three.

On the 4th ult., at Paris, Alphonse Leduc, chief of one of the most important music publishing firms in France, and editor of the journal L'Art Musical.

On the 5th ult., at Havre, Madame Rossi-Caccia, at one time a greatly admired prima donna of the Paris Opéra Comique, under her maiden name of Juana Rossi, aged seventy-three.

On the 13th ult., at Halle, Wilhelm Halle, for many years the very meritorious orchestral Conductor at the Stadt-Theater, aged fifty-five.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Scarcely have the echoes of the past season died away ere the note of preparation for its successor is sounded. The Festival Choral Society has already decided upon its programme for next winter, during which four Concerts will be given—the usual number, which, however, was curtailed last year owing to the date of the Festival being altered to October. The chief choral works to be brought forward are Gounod's "Redemption," which enjoys an extraordinary popularity here; the "Faust" of Berlioz; the German "Requiem" of Brahms, a perfect novelty here; and a programme devoted to Handel, to include the Serenata "Acis and Galatea," and a selection from "Israel in Egypt." Mendelssohn's "Lobgesang" will also be given.

The Musical Matinées of the Royal Birmingham Society of Artists came to a close on the 11th ult. The programmes were not in any way remarkable, but Mr. Oscar Pollack undoubtedly catered with success for the frequenters of the Society's Exhibition. The performances of an amateur orchestra, with a very young Conductor, Mr. H. W. Stratton, were noteworthy features of the Concerts.

A musical experiment which promises very important development was initiated on the 2nd ult., when the Moseley Botanical Gardens were opened. The grounds comprise the estate of what was formerly Spring Hill College, a theological training school for the Congregational body. Most delightfully situated, and abounding with sylvan charms, the attraction is added of a fine orchestra, under the direction of Mr. W. Moore. It is intended to make music a great daily feature, and eventually Concerts of the highest type will be undertaken. The success of Mr. Ross's venture is, so far, very decided. The college buildings are intact, and there is an organ in the lecture-room, upon which Recitals are given. Mr. Ross owns the estate and is not likely to allow the class of entertainment to deteriorate, so that important musical doings will have to be chronicled in the near future.

Mr. D'Oyly Carte's Company was at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, for the week beginning with the 13th ult., and the "Yeomen of the Guard," the "Gondoliers," and other of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas attracted fairly large audiences.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

There has been very little musical activity in Bristol during the past month, and the few events to be recorded have closed the season. St. Mary's (Tyndall's Park) Choral Society gave a praiseworthy performance of Cowen's graceful work the "Sleeping Beauty," on May 24, the characters being undertaken by Miss Street, Miss Boucher, Mr. W. H. Lewis, and Mr. W. H. Wickes. Mr. S. W. Pullen was the Narrator, and Mr. F. W. Rootham conducted.

Christ Church (Clifton) Choral Society fairly well interpreted Hadow's Cantata "The Soul's Pilgrimage," on May 31, under Mr. John Barrett's direction. The solos were mostly sung by members of the Society.

The season of Popular Chamber Concerts, given by Miss Lock and her associates, was brought to an end, on May 28, by an excellent performance of an admirable programme, of which the brilliant playing by Mr. Theo. Carrington of Max Bruch's Violin Concerto in G minor (Op. 26) was the chief feature.

It is gratifying to record a yet further development in church music, particularly at Christ Church and St. Stephen's, both in the old city.

The daily performances during the summer months by the Bristol and Clifton Public Band commenced on May 30.

MUSIC AT CAMBRIDGE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Of the many and varied events crowded into the brief period of festivity which, in spite of the fact that it has now been transferred to the month of June, still retains its title of "May Week," none have been of more general interest than the Concerts, which have served to introduce more than one new composition of importance to public notice. The first place belongs, as a matter of right, to the Concert given by the University Musical Society, an institution which, under the energetic rule of Professor Stanford, has achieved a more than local celebrity. This year the Concert partook of an official character, having been made the occasion of the performance of the "Installation Ode" with which it is the custom of the University to greet its newly-made Chancellors. As a rule a composition of this kind is of the more or less perfunctory character belonging to pièces d'occasion, but it must be admitted that in the present instance Dr. Stanford, to whom, as Professor of Music to the University, the task had been allotted of setting Dr. Verrall's rhymed Latin verses, has infused an air of novelty into his composition. It may sound somewhat contradictory to assert that the chief novelty in the Professor's music is that not a bar of melody is original, especially since this might be truly predicated of half the "new works" that see the light; but the distinction lies in this, that in the present case the sources of inspiration are acknowledged. After a short introduction, founded on the well-known "Cambridge Chimes," heard at first alone, and then in combination with the chorus, and serving to give a "local colour" to the work, the Ode proper begins, the stanzas being allotted to a reciter, and each followed by a chorus based on the well-known German students' song "Gaudeamus igitur," the orchestra adding a varied but always graceful counterpoint, displaying to great advantage the composer's ingenuity and musicianship. Indeed, from a musical point of view, the Ode might be regarded as a series of variations on "Gaudeamus igitur." Two points in the score call for special notice. The first is where, after an allusion in the poem to the Vice-Chancellor of the University, the composer has introduced, as a counterpoint to the "Gaudeamus" melody, the tune of "D'ye ken John Peel," the appropriateness of which lies in the fact that the present holder of that office is a namesake of the disciple of Nimrod immortalized in the ballad. This is as effective as it is ingenious, but it is equalled by a remarkably clever orchestral "Quodlibet," consisting of the combined melodies, "Rule, Britannia," "Auld lang syne," and "Let Erin remember the days of old," and provoked by a reference to "the triple realm bound to the British Crown." The Ode being intended to follow immediately the Academic Festival Overture of Brahms, the last bars of that work (which, it will be remembered, are founded on "Gaudeamus igitur") are, with the German composer's readily-accorded permission, employed by Dr. Stanford in his final chorus, with the addition of vocal parts. It only remains to be added that the performance, under the composer's conductorship, was a most spirited one, and that the verses were admirably recited by the Hon. Stephen Powys, whose pronunciation of the Latin was, by the way, in accordance with the very latest theories.

The next work in the programme was Dr. C. H. H. Parry's setting of the Choric Song from Tennyson's "Lotos-Eaters," composed expressly for the Society, and performed for the first time on this occasion. Dr. Parry's latest production, which is laid out for soprano solo, four-part chorus, and orchestra, is conceived in a dramatic spirit, the music not being in any conventional form, but following closely, and without a break, the sentiment of the poetry. Consequently it eludes verbal description, which is, however, the less necessary since the Cantata is now published. Suffice it to say that Dr. Parry's music is equal to his best work in refined and thoughtful workmanship, while as regards the orchestration he has probably produced nothing quite so felicitous and showing such a mastery over the materials at his command. The soprano soloist's part is difficult and not always grateful, though it comprises two portions instinct with grace and beauty—the stanzas "How sweet it were, hearing the downward stream," and "But, propt on beds of amaranth and moly." Without adopting the "leading motive" principle in its entirety, the composer has, by the recurring employment of typical themes and figures, given a unity and cohesion to the work. It is worthy of remark that "The Lotos-Eaters" is another instance of Dr. Parry's fastidiousness in the choice of texts, and it was certainly not unfitting that to such "librettists" as Milton, Pope, Shelley, and Swinburne he should at length add the name of our present laureate. The soloist on this occasion was Mrs. Hutchinson, who sang with refinement and good taste, and the Conductor was Dr. Parry, who directed a performance which may be described as adequate, if not in all points marked by the perfection which usually characterises the singing of the Society's excellent chorus. The introductory verses were ably recited by the Hon. Stephen Powys. The remainder of the programme was devoted to Wagner and Beethoven, the former master being represented by the Introduction and closing scene from "Tristan und Isolde," the latter by the Fifth Symphony. Both these were conducted by Dr. Richter with the best possible results.

If from the many College Concerts, whose importance is, as a rule, social rather than artistic, that which was given by the St. John's College Musical Society is selected for notice, it is because it was made the occasion of the production of a Cantata by the Society's Conductor, Dr. Garrett, who has so long occupied a prominent position in Cambridge as Organist to the University and to St. John's College. This work is a setting of Schiller's poem "The Triumph of Love," or, to be more exact, of Herman Merivale's translation of the same, and is for a quartet of soloists, chorus, and orchestra; it was begun some years back, but completed only recently. Dr. Garrett's music is, it need hardly be said, marked by that sense of melodious beauty and refined musicianship which characterise one of the foremost of our living composers of Church music. It may be that some judicious compression, which might be effected by pruning the Cantata of sundry repetitions, would improve it as a whole, and certainly the last chorus, regarded from a musical point of view, savours of an anti-climax, the previous quartet and chorus, "Love—'tis Love that thrills alone," being calculated to form a more dignified and effective conclusion than its successor, which is practically a repetition of the opening number. As regards the performance, the soprano soloist, Miss Florence Monk, deserves especial praise for her thoroughly artistic rendering of her part. The orchestration suffered from the "scratch" character of the band, while the substitution of choir-boys for female voices detracted from the effect of the choruses, though, on the whole, it must be admitted that Dr. Garrett, who conducted, made the most of his materials.

The grand Chapel of King's College was literally crammed on the afternoon of the 15th ult., when Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" was given, under the direction of Dr. A. H. Mann, by his Festival Choir, for the benefit of Addenbrooke's Hospital. The principal vocal parts were sustained as follows:—Soprano, Miss Carrington; contralto, Miss Rina Robinson; tenors, Messrs. W. Driver and E. Iles; basses, Messrs. Carrington, Daniels, and Moore. The chorus, which was fairly evenly balanced, consisted of nearly 200 voices, while they had the support of a band of seventy-one instrumentalists, with few exceptions resident in East Anglia. The acoustical properties of King's College Chapel are very peculiar, and with the endeavour to obviate some of the difficulties Dr. Mann brought his wood-wind and horns to the front centre of the orchestra, having the strings on either side and the remaining brass at the back—the latter raised; but not much improvement was caused by this innovation. The Oratorio was preceded by several collects and the hymn "All hail the power of Jesu's name," sung to "Miles Lane." To this Dr. Mann had composed some most effective orchestral accompaniments which added to the simple grandeur of the hymn. On the whole, the performance of "St. Paul" was good. The choruses went capitally, and the few airs were carefully sung. The recitatives were the weak part, and this not from any lack of ability on the part of either voice or band, but from a want of understanding between the two—another rehearsal was really necessary. The outgoing voluntary was Handel's Fourth Organ Concerto in F, brilliantly played by Mr. F. Dewberry.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Edinburgh Bach Society brought its fourth session to a close with the Annual Concert, which was given on the 1st ult. Even considered as an ordinary Concert, the success would have been cause for congratulation, but viewed in the light of an annual Function (Sollemne) the success was almost unqualified. The resources of the young Society are already quite sufficient for the adequate rendering of the master's concerted works, and the artistic aim and the level of execution are alike high. Encouraged by last year's experience the committee engaged a larger room and was rewarded by an audience which very nearly filled the Queen Street Hall. Undoubtedly the most successful number was the beautiful D major Concerto, played by Mr. Collinson and most delicately accompanied by the orchestra (leader, Mr. H. Dambman), under the direction of Mr. Franklin Peterson, Hon. Sec. of the Society. Other Concertos were those in C major for two pianofortes (Messrs. Dace and Kunz), in D minor for two violins (Miss Macgregor and Mr. Colin McKenzie), and in G major for violin and two flutes (Messrs. McKenzie, Zoblinski, and Smith), all of which were well played. Mr. Waddel's String Orchestra (largely composed of amateurs) was not always quite steady, but there was ample evidence of study and appreciation in its rendering of the C major Orchestral Suite. The most important solo was the Chaconne, played by Miss Nellie Macgregor, who for the last three years has been pursuing her studies under Professor Brodzky, in Leipzig. This young artist commands a full, powerful tone and excellent bowing. She was twice enthusiastically recalled. Mr. Grant McNeill won a hearty encore for the charming rendering he gave of a Sarabande and Bourrée from the Violoncello Suites. Miss Margaret Kennedy contributed the Slumber Song from the "Christmas" Oratorio. The annotated programme, containing a portrait of Bach and numerous musical illustrations, was prepared for the occasion by the Secretary.

The attendance at the ordinary meetings of the Society this year has been most encouraging, the average being eighty out of 200 members.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT).

ENQUIRY at the office of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society has elicited information to the effect that no change, such as that forecast a month ago, in the administration of the programmes is likely to be made and that, as a matter of fact, the orchestra is now actually engaged for the entire twelve Concerts of the coming season. This will be a relief to all true music-lovers, as the remarks made at the recent annual meeting, fully reported in the local press and summarised in this column, were calculated to engender a feeling of no little anxiety. The explanation of the Secretary is to the effect that no such change as suggested had ever been seriously contemplated, but that Chamber Concerts had been talked about—presumably to be given, as was the case many years ago, as an extra series, and that misunderstanding was the result on the part of somebody or other. It is to be regretted that what was given to the public in good faith by the reporters should not have been at once explained by those in authority through the medium of the press.

While Sunday music is exercising the minds of people in the Metropolis, a similar question has been to the front during the past month in the second city. The Liverpool Sunday Society has regularly given Orchestral Concerts during the winter months, with a professional band of about forty performers, under Mr. W. I. Argent, for many years past in the Rotunda Hall. The latter is one of the Corporation buildings and will accommodate about 1,500; but last season thousands were turned away from the doors, while the overcrowding inside, in a not well-ventilated room, was at times fearful. It was sought, therefore, to enlarge the sphere of action by transferring the performances to St. George's Hall, which will accommodate three or four thousand, and to increase the orchestra proportionately. By the narrowest vote in the City Council this proposal was, on the 1st ult., rejected, twenty-three members voting against and twenty-two for it. Of course the opposition, which has been steadily decreasing, will a little later on cease to exist, and in the meantime the usual number of Symphonic Concerts will be commenced in October on the old lines.

Another new departure in regard to Sunday music is that of the Liverpool Brass Band, an excellent organisation which had its origin in the factory lately occupied by Messrs. Gray and Davison in Colquitt Street. Application was made some time ago that permission be given for the performance of music in the parks on the Sunday, but this the City Council refused. On two recent Sunday afternoons the band above-named has taken up its quarters in the large square fronting St. George's Hall, which is under no municipal restrictions, and its music has been listened to by thousands.

The Liverpool Musical Club held a second meeting on its restored basis as a professional organisation on the 11th ult., and the rules as revised by Mr. Heinecke, the Hon. Sec., were passed. Dr. Hunt gave an excellent Lecture at the Music School on the 17th ult., the subject being Corelli and his period. A Concerto by Gemianini, a seventeenth century writer, for two principal violins, viola, and violoncello, two ripieno violins, and organo, was played by a number of the students and professors. The last monthly meeting of the local section of the National Society of Professional Musicians took place on the 18th ult., at Childwall, when a paper on "Imagination the sine quâ non of artistic work" was read by Mr. C. Gressler. Students' Concerts have been given during the month by the pupils of Mr. H. Lawson and Mr. Monk.

At the opening of the Southport centenary celebrations, on the 18th ult., Mr. J. J. White, Mr. Batley, Mr. H. Hudson, and Dr. J. C. Hall acted as Conductors. A descriptive piece, entitled "The Queen of the North-West," composed for the occasion by the first-named gentleman, who is musical director of the local Winter Gardens, was performed in the morning, and Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" followed in the afternoon. The chorus was provided by the Southport and Birkdale Philharmonic Society.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

IN the Summer months we are left in a state of hopeful expectancy rather than of keen enjoyment of music. We look onward and wonder what may be in store for us. And it is rumoured that the coming winter may, possibly, be one of unwonted activity, and that those institutions which have struggled through much depression and have survived several seasons of difficulty and anxiety will be compelled to justify their continued existence and more vigorously to bid for prolonged popular support. The whole future of art among us is, indeed, uncertain; for old things are passing away and the new growth rises but slowly. Concerning the new school of music, little beyond vague surmises as to the mode of its formation and constitution has oozed out; but we trust that no imprudence may be suffered to blight its prospects or endanger its stability, as any narrowing of its basis would unquestionably do. It is fair to await quietly the disclosure of the plans of a Committee which certainly includes some men of calm judgment and ripe experience. But the object in view is far too important to allow those plans to escape the strictest examination, or to be suffered to imperil the future of music here.

But, between whiles, we are not left entirely without sweet sounds. We still have the weekly Organ Recitals at the Town Hall, which continue strongly to attract, and at which Mr. Pyne goes through a very large répertoire of solid music, with, perhaps, rather a superabundance of modern French work and a not altogether unnatural reverence for his old master, Dr. Wesley; and, undoubtedly, contrast of style is thus brightly exhibited. And at the Botanical Gardens we enjoy reminiscences of the Jubilee year, when the Exhibition Committee made us acquainted with the excellences of our best military bands. Fortunately, too, the directors of the speculation entitled "Old America"—or, disrespectfully, "The Slotteries"—are wiser than to supplement the imported brass and reed music by similar provision of home-growth; and therefore they enable their patrons, when tired of the blatant strains outside, to retire to the seclusion of the Concert-room and to listen to the more delicate performances of orchestral works by the small but compact band of Mr. Vetter.

MUSIC IN NORWICH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Winter and Spring Concert season in Norwich was practically brought to a close on the 1st ult. by the fourth annual Concert of the Ladies' Orchestral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. F. W. B. Noverre. The band numbers thirty-three performers, and although several parts are but weakly represented, the general ensemble was highly satisfactory. In one respect the Ladies are worthy of imitation by older bodies of instrumentalists—viz., in their appreciation of the meaning of the words piano and forte. Certainly the Conductor is to be congratulated on the result of his training, for each expression mark was duly observed. The principal works for the band were Haydn's Symphony (Op. 66), letter T; the Overtures to "La Dame Blanche," "L'Italiani in Algieri," and Kreutzer's "Nachtlager in Granada," the Symphony and also the last-named Overture being remarkably well played. The lighter pieces were Massenet's "Le dernier sommeil de la Vierge," Macbeth's pretty Intermezzo "Forget-me-not," and an American novelty, "A Darkey's Dream," by Lansing. A lady professional, Miss Amy Flood-Porter, created quite a sensation by the perfect violoncello playing displayed in her solo "Le Désir," by Servais, an exhibition seldom eclipsed by performers whose names are more prominently before the public. The vocalists were Miss Teresa Blamy, who has established quite a reputation in Norwich; Mrs. John Wilkinson, and the Misses Grace and Delia Woods.

The Glee and Madrigal Concert annually given by the Cathedral Choir took place on May 24, under the supervision of Dr. Bates, the Cathedral Organist. An interesting programme had been compiled, containing excerpts from composers dating from 1589 to 1892. The madrigal "With wreaths of rose and laurel," by William Cobbold, who was Organist of Norwich Cathedral about the year 1600, was naturally listened to with interest, as was Benet's "Flow, O my tears," another madrigal of about the same period, which was charmingly rendered. A novelty was "The Goslings," a new humorous glee by Dr. J. F. Bridge, wherein humour and pathos are happily blended. Reichardt's glee "The image of the rose," or as it would be more properly called, a solo with vocal accompaniment, was capitally sung by Mr. Hemmings, the other parts being cleverly hummed with closed lips by Messrs. Cockaday, Holden, Brookes, Thouless, Davies, Smith, and Brockbank. The only song in the programme was Dudley Buck's "When the heart is young," given in good style by Master Snelling. A welcome break in the flood of vocal melody were several pianoforte solos, exceedingly well played by Mr. J. W. Meers. The large audience repeatedly testified by their applause how much the perfect rendering of the various pieces was appreciated.

In spite of the great heat, the forty-second Concert of the Gatehouse Choir attracted a large audience on the evening of May 27. The work for the choir was smaller than usual, a chorus from Gounod's "Roméo e Giulietta," Locke's music to "Macbeth," and a new part-song composed for the occasion by Mr. R. H. Legge completing their share in the evening's performance. It was quite refreshing to listen again to Locke's once popular strains. The solos were fairly sung by Miss Burrow, Miss Palmer, Miss N. Bond, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Clarke. Mr. Legge's part-song, "Summer," proved an acquisition to the list of similar compositions, wedded, as it is, to more sensible words than is usual in such lucubrations. A short selection of songs and duets was also given by members of the Society. In conjunction with the Conductor at the pianoforte, Messrs. Johannes Wolff (violin) and W. C. Hann (violoncello) gave a fine interpretation of Mendelssohn's D minor Trio. The two latter gentlemen were also heard in solos on their respective instruments. By a strange coincidence the forty-second Concert given by the Society took place on the forty-second birthday of its esteemed Conductor (Mr. Kingston Rudd), advantage of which was taken to present him with a purse containing forty-two sovereigns as a mark of the esteem in which he is held by present and past members of the Choir. The presentation was made in felicitous terms by the Mayor of Norwich (G. M. Chamberlin, Esq.), who was one of the founders, and the first honorary secretary, of the Norwich Gatehouse Choir.

MUSIC IN OXFORD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

As usual in the Spring, comparatively few artists on tour have visited Oxford, the chief of them being Mr. Plunket Greene, Mr. Johannes Wolff (May 18), and Master Otto Hegner (May 25). The main attractions to musicians have been found in the various College Concerts, which have, on the whole, maintained a good standard of excellence. Miscellaneous programmes, of various degrees of interest, were furnished by Exeter, Brasenose, Jesus, and Pembroke Colleges, of which the only notable feature was the breaking out of a mania for duets for two pianofortes. More important and interesting Concerts were given by Merton, Queen's, and Keble Colleges, each of which contrived to produce a Cantata with orchestra. Macfarren's "May-Day" and Goodhart's "Earl Haldane's Daughter" formed the staple of the Merton Concert, and were given with good effect, though deficiencies in the band made themselves severely felt more than once. The orchestra and chorus at Keble were very good. Parry's "St. Cecilia's Day" formed the chief attraction, and two new part-songs by Messrs. Buck and Wilson were also heard. At Queen's there was, as there always is, plenty of novelty. Dr. Read's "Sigund," the work of the evening, is reviewed elsewhere, and it is only necessary here to remark that it went remarkably well for a first performance. A striking chorus by Zabel, hitherto unheard in this country, was also included in the programme. The Concerts at New College and Magdalen took place too late to be noticed here, and the only other fact that needs chronicling is a fine performance of Schubert's Octet, organised by Mr. Farmer, at Balliol.

At Commemoration the Choral and Philharmonic Society gave the most important Concert of the Term on the 20th ult., in the Sheldonian Theatre, under Dr. Roberts's bâton. For this occasion the finest orchestra heard in Oxford for many years, except at Dr. Richter's Concerts, had been commissioned, and the Concert was an exceedingly good one. The works performed were Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride," Cowen's "Language of Fowers" Suite, and Parry's "Blest Pair of Sirens," which was conducted by the composer. The solo parts in Dvorák's Cantata were admirably sung by Miss Mary Davies, Mr. Henry Piercy, and Mr. Watkin Mills, and the chorus sang remarkably well, more especially the sopranos and altos. Altogether, a capital performance to wind up the academical year.

MUSIC IN WALES.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Mr. T. WESTLAKE MORGAN succeeds Dr. Roland Rogers, who recently resigned the appointment of organist at Bangor Cathedral. Dr. Creser attended the final competition (vice Sir John Stainer) at Chester, for which six candidates had been previously selected from the entire number of applicants. Dr. Rogers's retirement took place at the close of June, but though his twenty years' service at the Cathedral has thus terminated, he will still continue his professional work at Bangor.

The list of subjects for competition at the National Eisteddfod to be held at Rhyl in September has been wisely revised, and there are now offered the following prizes. Chief choral contest for choirs of from 150 to 175 voices, £200; second choral contest for choirs of from 60 to 80 voices, £50; male voice contest, 30 to 40 voices, £25; female contest, 20 to 30 voices, £15; children's contest, 45 to 60 voices, £10; orchestral contest for bands of 40, £30; brass band contest, maximum number of performers 25, 1st prize, £15, 2nd prize, £10, 3rd prize, £5. In addition, a prize of £20 is offered to the native of the Principality who shall write the best cantata; and the Dr. Parry Musical Scholarship will be awarded to the best tenor singer.

MUSIC IN BERLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE musical interest of the past month has been confined almost exclusively to the operatic performances at Kroll's Theatre. Most of the members of the reliable company who have for some years past won a reputation for this establishment by their excellent ensemble are once more here, and in many cases show gratifying signs of progress. Of the numerous "Gäste" who have been engaged for special performances, mention must be made of Frau Moran-Olden and Madame Sembrich. The former lady, a genuine contralto with an extensive upper range, achieved a great success as Leah in Rubinstein's "Die Maccabäeus," where her remarkable dramatic talent had every opportunity for display. This singer was also heard to great advantage as Leonore in "Fidelio." The appearances of Madame Sembrich, who always excites a quite exceptional enthusiasm in Berlin, have been a culminating series of triumphs; her performances, which ended with a mixed programme, have included "La Traviata," "Lakmé," "Rigoletto," "Il Barbiere," and "Die lustigen Weiber von Windsor." On every occasion the house has been sold out, and the customary scene of prima donna worship, with waving handkerchiefs, floral tributes, &c., repeated. Madame Sembrich's greatest artistic achievement has been, undoubtedly, her embodiment of Frau Fluth in Nicolai's favourite opera; the part of the merry matron is far better suited to Madame Sembrich's temperament and appearance than the romantic heroines of Verdi and Delibes, and her performance, both dramatically and vocally, was singularly sympathetic.

The only novelty as yet produced at Kroll's has been Alban Förster's "Lorle," an opera in four acts, which had already enjoyed a fair run at Dresden. The first performance, on the 3rd ult., met with considerable success, which was emphasised at the subsequent repetitions. To a very unpromising libretto (a perversion, by Hans Schefsky, of Auerbach's tale "Die Frau Professorin") Herr Förster has written a great deal of very pleasing, if not very dramatic, music; his orchestration is always clever and appropriate, and two or three numbers in Lied form are likely to have a wide success. If Herr Förster, whose reputation has hitherto rested on a number of popular songs, has not quite reached the standard of grand opera, "Lorle" must, in any case, be regarded as a first attempt of great promise.

At the Opernhaus, on the 4th ult., was produced "Ritter Pásmán," by Johann Strauss, libretto by Herr Doczi. Here again the composer has endeavoured to overstep the limits to which he has hitherto confined himself; "Ritter Pásmán" is of far more pretentious proportions than the previous compositions of the "Valse-King," but it must be confessed that its undoubted success is chiefly due to the ballet, a drinking song, and a vocal valse of great charm, but quite inappropriately introduced. An excellent performance is secured with Frau Herzog, and Herren Modlinger, Philipp, and Krollop in the chief parts.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE month of May has been accepted by general sanction and recognised usage as the time for the Musical Festivals with which the season ends, and this year has been no exception; rather has it been unusually marked by the number and character of new works produced, as well as by the prominence and artistic distinction of the forces engaged. First in point of time came the annual Festival of the Hampden County Association, held at Springfield, Mass., on May 4, 5, and 6. This was marked by an enthusiasm both on the part of performers and audience which augurs well for the future. Such well-known artists as Mr. and Mrs. Henschel (who confirmed all their previous successes), Mr. Max Heinrich, Mrs. Lawson and others united with the chorus and Festival orchestra to give a series of Concerts of the highest character, at which were produced, among other works, Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride," George Henschel's "Hamlet" Suite, and Chadwick's "Phœnix Expirans." The "Spectre's Bride" had the place of honour, being set as the sole production for the first Concert. Written as it was for the Birmingham (England) Festival in 1885, and produced under the direction of the composer, it has since had several hearings in this country, and is therefore known to music-lovers; but the anticipated arrival of the great Bohemian composer in this city, the well-remembered production of his "Stabat Mater" at Cincinnati, and the almost simultaneous rendering of the "Requiem" Mass at the same place, all united to give zest to the enjoyment of those fortunate enough to have heard the "Spectre's Bride" interpreted by such intelligent and pleasing singers as Mrs. Corrine Moors Lawson, Mr. Max Heinrich, and Mr. Whitney Mockridge; the success was pronounced, and while it can add little to the established fame of the great composer, it will increase the knowledge of the public as to the marvellous power and dramatic intensity of this greatest master of the modern romantic school.

At the fourth Concert, on Friday, May 6, the great interest centred upon the "Hamlet" Suite, which was given under the direction of the composer, and embraced the Hamlet Prelude, the Ophelia Prelude, the Interlude (Act III.), Pastorale (Act V.), Prelude (Act. IV.), Ophelia's Death, and the Danish March. The impression made by the previous performance of this brilliant composition by the Boston Symphony was greatly strengthened, and as this music will doubtless be heard more frequently next season, it is destined to take a high place in the permanent répertoire of our leading orchestral bodies.

The "Phœnix Expirans," composed for and dedicated to the Association, had its first production at the third Concert, under the direction of Mr. Chadwick, who, as the Festival Director, has naturally come into prominence, and this latest composition will doubtless add to his excellent standing.

The Biennial Festival at Cincinnati, the tenth of the series, drew together Mr. Theodore Thomas and his new orchestra, the Festival chorus, and as soloists Mr. Lloyd, Mrs. Lawson, Mesdames Antonia Mielke-Ritter, Goetze, De Vere-Sapio, and others of equal note. The first Concert was devoted to Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," the last to Dvorák's "Requiem" Mass (Op. 89), and between these great finalities were produced scenes from Gluck's "Alcestis," Bach's "Christmas" Oratorio, "Fidelio," and, on what was officially designated as "Opera Night," notable and characteristic selections from "Euryanthe," "Parsifal," "Tannhäuser," and Act III. of the "Götterdämmerung." Large audiences greeted the performance of these works, on Saturday evening especially, when a great triumph was scored by the singers engaged in the Dvorák "Requiem." As compared with its former production in New York, it is ungracious to discriminate save in the fact that owing to the large forces engaged certain effects were possible in respect of massive tonality which were not to be expected of the small but very choice body of singers whom Mr. Warren Ross brought together.

Contemporaneous with this Musical Festival was that in Indianapolis, which enlisted the services of Mr. Walter Damrosch and his New York orchestra, Madame Fursch-Madi, Miss Margaret Reid, Miss Little, Signor Campanini, and Dr. Carl Martin. Mendelssohn's "First Walpurgis Night," "The Messiah" (unfortunately reduced to fifteen numbers), and the oft-repeated but ever impressive "Redemption" of Gounod, were sung with great effect under the bâton of Mr. Damrosch. The illness of Signor Campanini and sudden indisposition of Miss Burch were unfortunate features, which did not, however, result seriously; the latter event brought out the admirable qualities of Mrs. Ford in "The Messiah," she having responded to a telegram which called her to take Miss Burch's place.

With all these counter attractions, the Apollo Club of Chicago celebrated its twentieth anniversary with a Festival in which 800 singers participated. Preceding, as it did, the Cincinnati Festival by a few days, the Club was thus enabled to engage Mr. Thomas and his orchestra. Here, too, appeared Madame De Vere-Sapio, Miss Buckley, Mr. Knoor, and Mr. Ludwig. The works performed were of the highest order, including the "Creation," Berlioz's "Requiem" Mass, "Acis and Galatea," and Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," and, as a grand climax, the "St. Matthew" Passion Music—that mighty Protestant Mass of Bach—with Madame Joachim, Mrs. Johnston-Bishop, Messrs. Ludwig, Lamson, and Maisch as the soloists. Thus has the West been favoured during this last month, and generously has it responded both in audiences, generous applause, and, what is of equal importance—money.

Mention should be made of the great success of Lord Tennyson's dainty play "The Foresters," which Mr. Daly is carrying in a procession of triumphs through the great cities of the East. It would alleviate Sir Arthur Sullivan's illness, we fancy, to witness the delight with which, nightly, great audiences greet his charming music set to the poet's beautiful words.

Nearer home we have to note the admirable programme prepared for music-lovers at the Testimonial Concert given to Mr. R. H. Humphries, the popular Conductor of the Banker's Glee Club, and of the Amphion. Among other numbers Grieg's "Land Sighting" was especially pleasing, as also Mozart's "Lullaby," arranged by Mr. Humphries, who is doing very good work in the direction of chorus singing.

The rapidly-approaching Summer, with its intense heat, brings a cessation of musical activity, for in New York Grand Opera, high-class Concerts, &c., are things of the past for this season. Open-air Concerts at the Madison Square and light Opera at the Casino are in vogue, albeit a little later Mr. Seidl and Mr. Damrosch each take a turn with their orchestras in an effort to alleviate the distresses of our heated term.

MISS NETTIE ATKINSON gave two Violin Recitals, on the 8th and 20th ult., at Princes' Hall, in the presence of a numerous and sympathetic audience. On the first-named occasion the Concert-giver proved herself at once the possessor of an excellent technique, combined with a good, albeit as yet somewhat thin, tone, and a thoroughly musicianlike appreciation of the works she had selected for interpretation. These were the Allegro from Mendelssohn's only Violin Concerto; the Romance in G, by Beethoven; and a Polonaise by Wieniawski. At her second Recital the violinist played Wieniawski's well-known "Legende." The lady also gave a Rondo Caprice by Saint-Saëns, in which she was deservedly encored, and, in conjunction with Mdlle. Clotilde Kleeberg, Beethoven's Sonata for pianoforte and violin in D major. Miss Atkinson was exceedingly well supported on both occasions by a number of artists, the mere mention of whose names will suffice to indicate the attractiveness of the remaining portions of the respective programmes—viz., in the first Recital: Mdlle. Janotha, Miss Marie Brema, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Norman Salmond; in the second Recital: Madame Belle Cole, Miss Beverley Robinson, Mr. Plunket Greene, and Master Jean Gérardy, Mdlle. Kleeberg's co-operation having already been mentioned. Mr. Waddington Cooke was a very efficient accompanist.

The Summer Concert by the professional students of the London Academy of Music took place in St. James's Hall on the afternoon of the 17th ult., under the direction of Mr. A. Pollitzer, the Principal of that thoroughly sound and prosperous Institution. The programme was exacting, but it was carried out in a way that proved how excellent is the tuition offered to pupils, perhaps the most successful performance being that of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, which, judged by a high standard, was extremely creditable. Miss Theresa Blamy sang with good expression Mendelssohn's "Loreley," and Mr. Mervyn Dene, who sang an air from Handel's "Susannah," showed that he has the makings of a really good singer. Miss Mabel and Miss Stella Fraser are already violinists of more than promise, and Miss Kate Bruckshaw's reading of Weber's Concertstück was clear, firm, and dramatic. Others who performed, in each case with much credit, were Miss Florence Croft, Mr. Gilbert Denes, Mr. Charles Loder, Miss Ada Wray, Miss Grace Meiter, and Miss Alice Hayman.

The Queen Vocal Quartet—formed of the Misses Mina Rees, Amy Sargent, Mary Hutton, and Lucie Johnstone—gave a successful Concert at Collard's Rooms, in Grosvenor Street, on the 16th ult. Association for some time, combined with a desire to ensure perfection of ensemble rather than individual display, has resulted in an evenness of balance and uniform attention to light and shade, rendering the part-singing of these ladies deserving of cordial approval. Among their efforts on this occasion in which unanimity of expression was specially observable were Sullivan's "The long day closes," Brahms's "Fischerlied," an American melody, "The Hazel Dell," and the homely "Banks of Allan Water." The members of the Quartet party also effectively contributed solos—Miss Amy Sargent selecting Goring Thomas's "In Springtime" and Miss Lucie Johnstone the "Little Boy Blue" and "De tout mon cœur" of Josiah Booth. Mr. Braxton Smith, Mr. Arthur Taylor, Mr. Henri Seiffert (violin), and Dr. W. Housten Collisson (pianoforte) appeared during the afternoon.

The South Hampstead Orchestra, conducted by Mrs. Julian Marshall, held its seventh annual Concert at the Hampstead Conservatoire on the 2nd ult. The ability of the body having Madame Charlotte Wilkes for leader was put to a somewhat severe test with pieces demanding such watchfulness and delicacy as Beethoven's C minor Symphony, Grieg's Suite for strings, "Aus Holberg's Zeit," and Sullivan's "Overtura di Ballo"; but the ordeal was passed in a satisfactory manner alike by executants and Conductor. Mrs. Hutchinson sang with her accustomed charm Mozart's "Deh vieni, non tardar," the Romance "Der Vollmond strahlt," from Schubert's "Rosamunde" music, M. V. White's "The Bonny Curl," and Fischhot's "Frühling ist da," being encored in the last-named. Miss Susan Lushington, Miss Diana Massingberd, Miss Lushington, and Mrs. L. Maxse joined with good effect in Dvorák's "Bagatellen" for two violins and violoncello with pianoforte.

Mr. W. G. Cusins, whilst presenting no novelty at his annual Concert at St. James's Hall on the 22nd ult., contrived on the whole to steer clear of the commonplace. Injury to his arm prevented the appearance of Signor Piatti, but as substitute came Señor Arbos, the violinist, who, besides playing a couple of light solos, joined Mr. Cusins in the variations from the "Kreutzer" Sonata. Two of Mr. Cusins's solos were the Berceuse (neatly played) and Ballade in A flat of Chopin, and as examples of his composition there were the Septet in F major and the Ballad "As through the land" (encored as rendered by Mr. William Shakespeare). Madame Giulia Valda, Madame Patey, and Miss Gwladys Wood also sang; but the most interesting of the vocal pieces were a couple of morceaux by Mascagni, "Rosa" and "M' ama, non m' ama," possessing the warmth of colouring that has done so much for "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Mr. Farley Sinkins gave an interesting Orchestral Concert in St. James's Hall on the 9th ult., chiefly, it appears, to give Mr. J. C. Ames an opportunity of introducing himself as a composer and performer on the Janko keyboard. The peculiarities of this keyboard are by this time sufficiently well-known, and, whether or not pianists will ultimately adopt it with anything like unanimity, there can be no doubt of its many merits. As a pianist Mr. Ames has considerable ability, his performance of Grieg's Concerto in A minor being extremely sympathetic. It is impossible to judge of the value of his new Violin Concerto, the true nature of which was completely obscured by the depressingly false intonation of Mr. L. de Reeder. The vocalist was Mr. Plunket Greene, who sang as admirably as ever; and there was a full orchestra, which, under the direction of Mr. Cowen, played in excellent style.

On the 1st ult. the Dedication Festival was held at St. Augustine's, Honor Oak, Sir John Stainer's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat and Sir Arthur Sullivan's Oratorio "The Prodigal Son" being sung in an entirely satisfactory manner by an augmented choir of fifty voices, assisted by an orchestra of thirty led by Herr Ferdinand Hartung. The soloists were Master Brown, Mr. Hiles-Smith, Mr. Cheeseman, Mr. G. W. Bronté-Bramwell, and Mr. A. H. Bevans. The orchestra also played the first movement of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony and Mackenzie's Benedictus, and assisted Mr. W. M. Wait, Organist of St. Andrew's, Fulham, in a fine performance of Handel's Second Organ Concerto. Mr. Wait presided at the organ throughout, and Mr. E. E. Vinen, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Augustine's, ably conducted. There was a large congregation.

An interesting Violoncello Recital was given, on the 11th ult., by Mr. E. Van der Straeten at the new Hall of the North-East London Institute. The programme included three movements from Popper's Suite "In the Forest"; two solos for Viola da Gamba (unaccompanied); Andante from A minor Concerto, Rubinstein; two songs by Grieg; Suite on Old English Airs, by Mr. Van der Straeten; three movements from Suite in D, by Bach, for violoncello solo; Adagio and Allegro, Schumann; song, with violoncello obbligato, Van der Straeten, and song by Jensen; and last, not least, the A major Sonata by Beethoven. Mrs. McNaught was the pianist and Miss Rose Dafforne the vocalist, both of whom deserved the friendly reception which they received. The execution of the programme gave great satisfaction to a numerous audience, and the artists were recalled at the end.

Madame Adelina Patti's re-appearance, after her successful tour in America, brought a crowded audience to the Royal Albert Hall on the 11th ult. The famous singer was, of course, warmly welcomed, and demonstrated that her vocal powers were unimpaired by giving twice as many familiar pieces as she had been set down for. To "Let the bright Seraphim," "Ernani, involami" (rendered with the same brilliancy and neatness as of old), and "Il Bacio," she added, as encores, "On the banks of Allan Water," "The Last Rose of Summer," and one of Arditi's later waltzes. Songs that have figured "many a time and oft" at like entertainments were also given by Mesdames Patey and Amy Sherwin, and Messrs. Santley and Ben Davies. Madame de Pachmann and Master Jean Gérardy played instrumental solos and Signor Arditi presided over an orchestra.

Agreeable proofs of the industry and ability of Miss Marie Wurm, late holder of the Mendelssohn Scholarship, were afforded at a Concert given by her at Princes' Hall on the afternoon of the 11th ult., at which the programme was entirely composed of her own compositions. Amongst these attention is claimed by two agreeable vocal quartets and three vocal trios for female voices, creditably rendered by Mr. Stedman's choir of ladies. Of the instrumental pieces the most noteworthy were a clever Impromptu in B minor, an Etude Fantastique, and a Concerto in B minor, in which the orchestral accompaniment, arranged for a second pianoforte, was performed by Madame Else

Mathis, of Berlin. Mrs. Hutchinson sang three songs, of which a "Child's Song" pleased so much by its quiet charm that a repetition was insisted on.

MISS ANGELA VANBRUGH, a promising violinist, obtained the services of several distinguished artists for her Concert, on the 10th ult., at Princes' Hall. Besides joining Miss Dora Bright and M. Hollman in the Andante and Finale of Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor, Miss Vanbrugh played some solos, beginning with Wieniawski's "Second Polonaise," in which she exhibited breadth of style and facility of execution. Miss Giglio, a young singer who to a fresh and well-trained voice adds a pleasing and unaffected manner, gave a Villanelle by Eva dell' Acqua with a brightness and fluency that made her performance one of the most acceptable of the afternoon. Miss Marian McKenzie was successful in pieces by Raff and Brahms, and Miss E. Florence also sang. Chopin and Jensen were drawn upon by Miss Bright for pianoforte solos.

A PIANOFORTE Recital was given on the 23rd ult., at the Guildhall School of Music, by pupils of Mr. J. Baptiste Calkin, when a programme consisting mainly of representative classical pieces was gone through, on the part of seven young ladies, in a manner which reflected the highest possible credit upon the excellent teaching imparted to them by their distinguished master. Although the occasion was not one on which the mentioning of individual names is usually called for, we feel bound to make an exception in the case of Miss Madeline Payne, a child of twelve, whose advanced technical attainments and truly artistic feeling, as evidenced in her interpretation of Beethoven's Variations on an original theme in F, and of Schubert's Impromptu in B flat, furnish unmistakable promise of a successful artistic future.

ON the 22nd ult., after an interval of thirteen years, Messrs. Stephenson and Cellier's Musical Proverb, "Charity begins at home," was revived at the German Reed entertainment. Mr. Corney Grain and Mr. Alfred Reed appear in their original characters of the Village Beadle and his son Joe, and it is needless to say that both these gentlemen met with the success that usually attends their efforts in this popular entertainment. Miss Fanny Holland was seen to advantage as the Beadle's Wife, and Mr. Avalon Collard played well as the Amateur Photographer and afterwards as the Schoolmaster, singing his one song with good effect. Miss Gertrude Woodall, who made her début as Susan, sang with taste. Mr. Corney Grain also gave two of his entertaining musical sketches.

AN interesting and successful Concert was given at 25, Seymour Street, Portman Square, on Tuesday afternoon, the 21st ult., under the direction of Mr. A. Hughes-Hughes. The programme commenced with J. Dowland's fine part-song "His golden locks," and this was followed by airs from Lawes's "Comus" and Purcell's "Indian Queen." Then came vocal and instrumental music by Corelli, Handel, Mozart, and Beethoven, a Wagner excerpt, a Grieg pianoforte duet, &c.; and this programme, including specimens of music drawn from three centuries, was throughout arranged in chronological order, a fact which deserves attention in these days when pieces are so often strung together without any plan or principle of combination or contrast.

IN the beautiful drawing-room of Mrs. Arthur Wilson's house at 17, Grosvenor Place, Mr. Norman Salmond gave a Concert on the 11th ult., which was, in point of artistic interest, considerably above the level of such entertainments. Mr. Salmond himself is a singer of well-established reputation, and in all respects his own performances were on this occasion of conspicuous value, for he had chosen pieces which served to display to the fullest the many good features of his voice and style. When it is added that Miss Macintyre, Miss Palliser, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Plunket Greene were amongst those who took part, it will be understood that nothing but praise is demanded for the rest of the programme.

MDLLE. ROSINA ISIDOR provided a varied programme on the 13th ult. at the Portman Rooms. A numerous choir of ladies did justice to a Cantata, "Daughters of Acquilija," arranged from Verdi's "Attila," in the course of which they received an encore for their spirited delivery of a martial strain, "Right gallant we appear." Mdlle. Isidor acquitted herself with success in "Ernani involami," and did still better in Palmieri's sacred song "Pilgrim, thou art weary," in which she was accompanied by the composer. Miss Dews gained distinction by the taste and feeling marking her singing of Hullah's "Three Fishers," and further assistance was given by the Misses Le Brun, Mervyn Keatinge, Lisa Dorisi, and Messrs. Herbert Thorndike, Charles Chilley, David Bispham, and Tito Mattei.

AN Orchestral Concert, extremely successful in every respect, was given by Mr. Leo Stern, the accomplished violoncellist, and his wife, the equally talented violinist, Madame Nettie Carpenter, at St. James's Hall on the 13th ult. The principal numbers in the programme were Max Bruch's Violin Concerto in G minor and that of Saint-Saëns in A minor for violoncello, both of which were brilliantly played, as were a number of minor solos. Madame Nordica was highly effective in some vocal pieces, including a fine aria from Massenet's opera "Hérodiade," and the orchestra, under Mr. Cusins, was heard in Mendelssohn's "Hebrides" and Beethoven's "Egmont" Overtures.

A PIANOFORTE and Vocal Recital was given on the 17th ult. at Princes' Hall, by Messrs. Edgar Hulland and Alison Phillips, who had provided an interesting programme for the occasion. Mr. Hulland, a pianist of considerable ability, good technical, acquirements, and endowed with artistic feeling, gave Bach's Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue, Schumann's "Faschingsschwank," and pieces by Chopin, O'Leary, and Liszt, in all of which, but for an unfortunate slip of memory in the Fugue, he acquitted himself in a thoroughly musicianlike manner. Mr. Phillips, who has a good method and sings with earnestness and good expression, contributed songs by Beethoven, Carissimi, Schumann, Brahms, and others. Mr. George Clutsam was the accompanist.

MR. LUARD SELBY gave a Concert at the Steinway Hall on the 9th ult., when he brought forward several compositions of his own. The most noticeable were a Sonata for violin and pianoforte and a song, "I was born when roses were blooming." The Sonata is cleverly written, contains much graceful melody, and is well laid out for both instruments; and the song is instinct with not a little charm and fancy. Praise almost equally warm may be given to several other of the songs, and to certain pieces written for the clarinet and pianoforte. Mr. Selby, himself a pianist of merit, was assisted by Miss Leona Bynnes, Madame Campbell-Perugini, Mr. Jasper Sutcliffe, and Mr. G. A. Hepworth.

THE second of Mr. Sauret's Violin Recitals at St. James's Hall, on the 2nd ult., was not less successful than the first, in an artistic sense. The admirable French violinist gave a brilliant and expressive rendering of Mendelssohn's Concerto, the composer's pianoforte accompaniment being excellently played by Mr. Clutsam; and a highly artistic rendering was given of Beethoven's Sonata in C minor for pianoforte and violin, the pianist being Miss Kleeberg. Solos were contributed with effect by both artists. The vocal pieces, however, which added length but no great interest to the programme, might well have been spared.

THE Swiss colony in London held their annual Soirée at the Portman Rooms on the 17th ult. Mdlle. Tallant and Mr. Faulks played a pianoforte and violin duet; Mr. Billeter displayed his skill on the zither in "Ränd1er Hans Grubon"; a choir of gentlemen from the Swiss clubs rendered with taste "Le Plaisir du Chasseur" and "Mein Vaterland"; the Misses Albrecht gave a vocal duet; and Mdlle. H. R. Milliquet sang in a refined manner "An American Serenade," which was accompanied by the composer, Mr. Richard A. Northcott, the Organist of the Swiss Church. There was a large and enthusiastic audience.

MISS ANNA BIESNER gave a Morning Concert on the 8th ult. at Steinway Hall, before a fairly numerous and appreciative audience. The Concert-giver, a very able and conscientious pianist, was associated with M. Louis de Reeder in an efficient rendering of Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata, and for her solo performance played pieces by Brahms, Henselt, and Chopin. The programme also included some harp solos by Mr. Charles Oberthur, and a number of songs contributed by Mesdames Crewe-Riechelmann and Noëmi Lorenzi. Signor Romili was the accompanist.

AT a representative meeting of the London pianoforte, reed organ, and harmonium manufacturers, held at the Midland Hotel on the 7th ult., it was resolved to recommend a return to the system of apprenticeship by indentures with a view to raise the standard of British workmanship in these trades. It is much to the credit of the pianoforte and organ trade that it should be among the first of English industries to attempt to deal, in a practical manner, with a difficulty which so many without adequate knowledge of the subject have failed to compass.

MISS EDITH HIGGS gave a Concert at Princes' Hall on Thursday evening, the 2nd ult., before an appreciative audience. Miss Higgs sang "A Summer Night" (Goring Thomas) and "Beauty's Eyes" (Tosti), for both of which she was recalled. She was ably assisted by the following artists: Miss Kate Flinn, Miss Macfarlane, Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys, Mr. Gilbert Thorne, Mr. Henry Ward, Herr Poznanski (violin), and Mr. Mortimer (elocutionist). Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Collings officiated as accompanists.

MISS ALICE ROSELLI gave her annual Concert at Chelsea Town Hall on May 31, when she was assisted by Madame Giulia Valda, Madame Enriquez, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Mr. Santley, M. Eugene Wagner (pianoforte), Mr. John Thomas (harp), M. Duloup (violin), and Mr. Charles Fry (recitations). Miss Bessie Waugh, Miss Kuhe, and Mr. Henry Bird acted as accompanists.

A VERY interesting Vocal Recital, consisting chiefly of ballads by Loewe, was given at Steinway Hall on the 13th ult., by Mr. Albert B. Bach, well known as an enthusiastic admirer of this fine composer's works. Mr. Bach sang ten of the ballads with full appreciation of their dramatic requirements, and the accompaniments were very artistically played by Mrs. Bach.

ST. DUNSTAN'S Mass, "Rex Splendens," recently published by the Plainsong and Mediæval Music Society, will be sung at the Festival Service of the Society of St. Osmund, to be held at St. Michael's Church, Paul Street, Finsbury (near Moorgate Street Station), on Monday, the 18th inst., at 11.30 a.m.

AT the annual Council meeting of Trinity College, London, held on the 18th ult., the Rev. Dr. Bonavia Hunt vacated the honorary office of Warden which he, as founder of the College, had held for twenty years. Professor E. H. Turpin was chosen as the new Warden.

MR. E. MINSHALL, the Organist and Director of the Music at the City Temple, has been presented by the congregation with a silver salver and a purse of 250 guineas, as a token of their appreciation of his services during the past sixteen years.

REVIEWS.

History of the Leeds Musical Festivals, 1858—1889. By Fred. R. Spark and Joseph Bennett. With portraits and fac-similes.
[Fred. R. Spark and Son, Richard Jackson, and Novello, Ewer and Co.]

SEVEN Leeds Musical Festivals having come and gone, it is obvious that no more fitting time could have been chosen for the appearance of their history than now, when we are practically on the eve of an eighth. If we leave out of consideration a "Festival of Music at Leeds" which took place in November, 1784—lasting three days and consisting solely of sacred music by Handel—the first modern Festival was given to celebrate the opening in 1858 of the Town Hall. Sterndale Bennett was appointed Conductor, and "The May Queen" then first saw the light. Among the music heard on that interesting occasion was a selection from Bach's "Passion." The Festival lasted four days, and then and there the Yorkshire choristers established their now world-wide reputation. We read in the Times that 'the 'Hailstone' chorus was nothing short of prodigious. . . . Such vigorous, powerful, and full toned voices, it rejoices the heart of the jaded Londoner to hear. The trebles and basses especially are unrivalled anywhere." This first Festival concluded with a people's Concert (at popular prices) and a ball, and resulted in a profit of £2,000, which was presented to the infirmary. For complete lists of the works then heard and the performers engaged, details of expenditure and receipts, and a number of interesting particulars relating to the magnificent organ, the formation of the chorus, and the fees of the solo singers (a comparison of which with those now paid is calculated to "raise a smile"), we must refer the curious to the book itself. There, too, they will find the fullest information on every point connected with succeeding festivals (the second took place in 1874, an attempt made in 1861 having failed); a number of carefully selected extracts from Press criticisms — Metropolitan, local, and foreign — and much curious matter not originally intended for the public eye. On this last account, if on no other, the volume will be widely read. Its value to musical historians and critics needs no showing, but it will appeal also to the student of human nature and "manners," who, being admitted behind the scenes and allowed to read large portions of the correspondence between the Festival Committee and the eminent composers and artists whose co-operation has conferred lustre on these triennial gatherings, will find admirable opportunities of viewing the artistic temperament in its business relations. Some of the disclosures might, perhaps, have been omitted —certainly with advantage to those concerned; otherwise, matter and manner are of the quality one would naturally expect in a volume due to the collaboration of Alderman Spark (the able Secretary of the Festivals) and Mr. Joseph Bennett. Of the letters printed, many are given in fac-simile, one from Raff being remarkable on account of the minuteness of the handwriting. There are also excellent portraits of Bennett, Costa, and Sir Arthur Sullivan; an appendix containing, amongst other things, an interesting sketch of the four Festivals given at York between 1823 and 1835; an alphabetical list of all the works performed, and an excellent index.

The Mastersingers of Nuremberg. By Richard Wagner. A musical explanation with numerous musical examples by Albert Heintz. Translated into English by Constance Bache.

Tristan and Isolde. By Richard Wagner. Explained according to the musical development of its motives by Albert Heintz. With sixty-six musical examples translated into English by Constance Bache.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

BACH, Haydn, Mozart, Schubert, and in a still greater degree, Beethoven and Schumann, were accustomed to derive the whole melodic material of their longest pieces—some of them in several movements—from thematic developments of a few leading subjects. Wagner, as everyone knows, constructed his music on precisely the same principle, carrying it, however, a step farther by connecting his melodies and their developments with the primary and subsidiary incidents of his dramas. The practice has, it is needless to inform musical readers, been universally recognised as the best method of securing that unity in variety without which in art the highest results are unattainable. That in the hands of weaklings the art of thematic development may easily produce mechanical rather than musical results is obvious. Ars est celare artem: and for this great gifts are needed. Compare, for instance, the fugue of an average "degree exercise" with one from the "48," or Bruneau's "Le Rêve" with "Die Meistersinger." The same "system" in both cases; but there the resemblance ends. It would not have been necessary to emphasise this, but that a little while ago we were asked to attribute the crudities of "Le Rêve" to the system on which it is constructed, whereas the real cause was the composer's inability to deal with the requirements of that system with sufficient mastery. What those requirements are may be learnt by going through the vocal score of "Tristan" or "Die Meistersinger," with Mr. Heintz as guide, philosopher, and friend (he is each by turns), and noting with what skill are woven the productions of Richard Wagner's loom.

The authors of handbooks explanatory of the Wag-nerian music-drama have been compelled to invent names for the various themes, and of these titles much fun has been made—not always, it must be admitted, without justification. Mr. Heintz's use of these convenient "labels" is helpful without ever being far-fetched, and his derivations of the various musical passages from their parent themes betoken intelligence of no common order. His grasp, too, of the psychological connections between the various dramatic incidents is firm, and he explains them with remarkable lucidity. The name of the translator is sufficient guarantee that this difficult part of the work has been well done.

Novello's School Songs. Edited by W. G. McNaught. Books 1 to 5. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

These are the first numbers of a series for which it is not difficult to predict wide and lasting popularity. The voice parts are given in both Staff and Tonic Sol-fa notations, and a pianoforte accompaniment of quite moderate difficulty is added. Books 1 to 4 each contain songs by Mr. Alfred Moffat, entitled "Happy Hours for Little Singers," of which twelve are for a single voice, the remainder being in two parts. All are appropriately tuneful and simple. Book 5, six two-part songs for treble voices, by various composers, contains "Under the Greenwood Tree," by C. Wood, in which some clever imitative writing is introduced; "The Swallow's Flight," by B. Haynes; "Merry Songsters," by J. Kinross, which has a pretty accompaniment of florid character; "Waken not the Sleeper," an expressive piece by Reinecke; Mendelssohn's "Evening Song," and Abt's "Whither." All these are admirably adapted to develop the expressive powers of young singers without putting them to too severe a test. It should be added that the contents of each book in the series thus auspiciously inaugurated is published separately, and that the pieces in Book 5 are published in two forms—i.e., with voice parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa notations and pianoforte accompaniment, and with the voice parts only in Tonic Sol-fa notation.

The School Music Review. A monthly periodical devoted to the interests of music in schools. No. 1, for June, 1892. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Whoso considers the enormous number of persons employed in teaching music at the various public and private schools throughout the kingdom, and remembers that until last month no journal specially devoted to their use existed, will find it difficult to deny that the School Music Review "supplies a want." If we may judge from the first number it will supply that want well. Its articles are thoroughly practical, and, what is not unimportant, are written in good English; there are notices of school Concerts and various items of educational information likely to be of use in examinations, &c., and finally, eight pages of music, printed in both notations, and consisting of two songs with pianoforte accompaniment, a trio for treble voices, and exercises in time and tune for the study of sight reading. Truly not dear at three half-pence!

FOREIGN NOTES.

This year's Bayreuth Festspiele, we may remind our readers, will commence on the 21st inst. with a performance of "Parsifal," which will also be given on the 28th inst., and on August 1, 4, 8, 11, 15, and 21, on which day the performances close. "Tristan und Isolde" will be produced on the 22nd and 29th inst., and August 5 and 20; "Tannhäuser" on the 24th inst., and August 7, 12, and 17; "Die Meistersinger" on the 25th and 31st inst., and August 14 and 18. The following is a complete list of the principal vocal interpreters engaged this season, viz.:—1. "Parsifal"—H. H. Van Dyck and Grüning (Parsifal); Frls. Mailhac and Malten (Kundry); H. H. Grengg and Frauscher (Gurnemanz); Kaschmann and Scheidemantel (Amfortas); Liepe and Plank (Klingsor). 2. "Tristan und Isolde"—Frau Sucher (Isolde); H. H. Vogl (Tristan); Gura and Döring (Marke); Plank (Kurwenal); Frau Staudigl (Brangäne). 3. "Tannhäuser"—Herr Grüning (Tannhäuser); Mesdames Hartwig, Hedinger, Mitschiner, and Mulder (Elisabeth); H. H. Döring (Landgraf); Scheidemantel (Wolfram); Frl. Mailhac (Venus). 4. "Die Meistersinger"—H. H. Gura (Hans Sachs); Anthes (Walther); Müller (Beckmesser); Frauscher (Pogner); Bachmann (Kothner); Hofmüller (David); Mesdames Hartwig, Hedinger, Mitschiner, and Mulder (Eva); and Frau Staudigl (Magdalena). The Conductors will be H. H. Levi, Mottl, Richard Strauss, and Hans Richter.

Anton Wallerstein, the popular composer of dance music, whose death we lately recorded, has left in his will a sufficient sum for the purpose of defraying the payment of a handome annual stipend to some talented student at one of the German conservatoriums. The stipend will be in the gift of the municipal authorities of the deceased composer's native town, Dresden.

Balfe's opera "The Bohemian Girl" was revived last month at the Coburg Hof-Theater, under its German title of "Die Zigeunerin," when the melodious work met with a highly favourable reception. Who shall say, after this, that amateurs in the Fatherland are altogether absorbed in the contemplation of the "endless melody" of Wagnerian theory?

A special performance was given on the 11th ult., at the Hof-Theater of Weimar, of "The Birds," by Aristophanes, in Goethe's German adaptation of that satirical comedy, to celebrate the anniversary of Goethe's birth. The choruses and incidental music had been specially written for the occasion by Dr. Lassen.

Karl Reinecke's three-act comic opera "Der Gouverneur von Tours" was produced for the first time at the Leipzig Stadt-Theater on the 5th ult., and was well received, the composer being the recipient of quite an ovation on the part of a numerous audience.

Johann Strauss's grand Opera "Ritter Pazmann" was the novelty produced at the Berlin Royal Opera last month, and met with a favourable reception on the part of an audience bearing in mind the delight so frequently afforded them by the lighter and more spontaneous productions of the composer's talent.

The statue erected to Mendelssohn at Leipzig was unveiled on May 26 with impressive ceremonies, including a discourse delivered by Dr. Günther, President of the Committee, and the performance of the March from "Athalie," executed by the pupils of the Conservatorium, under the direction of Herr Sitt. At a special Concert subsequently given at the Gewandhaus, the performances, under the direction of Herr Reinecke, consisted of Mendelssohn's setting of the 114th Psalm, his "Lobgesang," and the Violin Concerto, the latter played by Dr. Joachim.

The first performance, some few weeks since, of Verdi's well-worn "Rigoletto," at the not unimportant Royal Operatic Institution of Hanover, merits some passing reference as a musical curiosum. The work, it appears, was to have been brought out here in 1852, but was greeted with such noisy and determined demonstrations of disapproval on the part of the Hanoverian public that the performance of one of the composer's chef-d'œuvres had to be stopped at the conclusion of the first act.

A committee has been formed at Halle with the object of providing the necessary funds for the purchase and future preservation, as a national memorial, of the house in which George Frederick Handel first saw the light.

The new opera "The Witch," by the young Danish composer, August Enna, was received with much favour on its first representation on the 1st ult. at the German Theatre in Prague.

Moszkowski's new opera "Boabdil," recently brought out at Berlin, has been accepted for performance also at the Marie Theatre, St. Petersburg, during next season.

A new opera, "Le Prince Sérébreny," by the Russian composer, M. Kazatchenko, recently brought out at St. Petersburg, has been very well received by the public, but somewhat unfavourably criticised by the press.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the foundation of the Flemish College of Music has just been celebrated at Antwerp with festival performances extending over three days. All the works performed were by Flemish composers, most of them former pupils of the College, the principal Conductor being M. Peter Benoit, the able director and co-founder of the Institution referred to.

The Nederlandsche Toonkunstenaars Vereeniging, a Society founded in 1875 by a number of the most prominent musicians of Holland for the purpose of bringing out the works of living native composers and also of encouraging native executive talent, held its seventeenth annual meeting on May 25 and 26 at Utrecht. The musical performances in connection with the gathering included a dramatic cantata for chorus, solo voices, and orchestra, entitled "Die Rache Zahveh's," by W. F. G. Nicolaï, conducted by the composer, which is most highly spoken of in Le Guide Musical. An Overture to Shakespeare's drama "King John," composed by M. J. Wagenaar, also attracted the favourable attention of a critical audience.

A committee has been formed at Milan, including MM. Arrigo Boïto, Cambiasi, Giulio Ricordi, and Count Enrico Dandolo, with the object of inviting subscriptions for the purpose of placing a bust of the late gifted composer and orchestral conductor, Franco Faccio, in the foyer of the Théâtre de la Scala.

According to Italian journals, Signor Mascagni has undertaken to write a Cantata to be performed in connection with the inauguration, next month, of the statue erected to the late King Victor Emmanuel, at Leghorn.

An International Dramatic and Musical Exhibition, similar to that now taking place at Vienna, is being planned at Milan, preliminary steps having already been taken with a view to its realisation either next year or the year following.

A young dramatic composer of undoubtedly considerable talent has recently come to the fore in Italy, and is looked upon as a serious rival of Mascagni in Italian musical circles. We refer to Ricardo Leoncavallo, whose one-act opera "I Pagliacci," brought out some time since by Signor Sonzogno at the Theatre Dal Verme, in Milan, is attracting unusual attention amongst Italian connoisseurs, and great things are expected from the composer, who is as yet but twenty-three years of age. He is a young artist of considerable ambition, pupil of Lauro Rossi, and is said to be at present engaged upon a gigantic trilogy, which is to form a kind of apotheosis of the Italian Renaissance. Signor Leoncavallo, unlike some of his Italian confrères, has gained artistic experience in visits to Germany, France, and to this country, and it may be hoped that the distinguished future predicted for him by his friends will be speedily realised.

M. A. Enna, the successful composer of the opera "The Witch," has nearly completed the score of a new operatic work, entitled "Cleopatra."

An interesting Concert, devoted exclusively to composers of the modern Russian school, was given last month by the enterprising Société des grandes auditions musicales de France, at the Paris Trocadéro, the programme including orchestral and choral numbers by MM. César Cui, Sokolof, Balakiref, Borodine, Rimsky-Korsakoff, and Tschaikowsky. The performances were conducted by M. Gabriel Marie.

M. Taffanel has been appointed orchestral conductor of the Paris Société des Concerts du Conservatoire, in the room of M. Garcin, who has just retired from a position which he has occupied with distinguished success for the last seven years.

The French Academy of Fine Arts has awarded one of its annual prizes, consisting of the sum of 3,000 francs, to M. André Messager, for his comic opera "La Basoche."

Our much-valued and ably conducted French contemporary L'Art Musical, frequently referred to in these columns, has ceased to exist, in consequence of the death, last month, of its editor, M. Alphonse Leduc. The journal had attained the thirty-first year of its publication.

The well-known Choral Association of Amsterdam, one of the finest in Europe, under the direction of M. Daniel de Lange, is on its way to the Vienna Exhibition, where it will be heard in a series of Concerts during the present month.

CORRESPONDENCE.

FUGUE FORM.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In your June issue, referring to Mr. Prout's avowal of indebtedness to Dr. H. Riemann for the idea that well-constructed fugues are modelled in the form known as "ternary," mention was made of an article which appeared in the Monthly Musical Record about ten years ago, in which a similar idea was broached and some analogies between the fugue and sonata forms were pointed out.

But if you will turn to page 184 of the second volume of the "Grammar of Music," by Dr. Henry Hiles (published by Forsyth Bros. in 1879), you will find clearly explained—I believe for the first time—the close resemblance, not merely of broad general outline, but of interior working which allies all compositions classed under the heading of sonata, rondo, or fugue form. The term "ternary," when used to indicate the number of sectional divisions of a movement, is as applicable to a sonata or a fugue as to a rondo, and Dr. Hiles rendered an invaluable service to the student when he pointed out that: "With few theoretical dogmas as to the balance and proportion of the different sections of a movement, the sonata form was substantially adopted by the great fugue writers of olden time, who—working with entirely different views and aims—achieved the compilation of a form perfect in itself according to the most modern notions."

He further made it clear that, although the sonata construction (miscalled binary) had generally been adopted by the great contrapuntal writers, yet splendid specimens exist of the utilisation of the rondo outline; and he consistently derives the principles of musical architecture from the peculiarities of rudimentary pulsations; tracing through rhythms, phrases, and sentences all the developments of the law which he describes as that of the "Da Capo."

I have sought in vain for evidence of any previous appreciation of the necessities of "form" so simple and consistent as shown in that modern and truly valuable work, "The Grammar of Music."—I am, faithfully yours,

WALTER CARROLL, Mus. B., Dunelm.

59, Nelson Street, Manchester,
June 14, 1892.

[At the last Musical Association lecture Mr. Prout announced that Dr. Marx had pointed out this interesting fact long before Dr. Riemann.—ED. M. T.]

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

Y. COVENTRY.—"Annabel Lee" has been set as a song by Dr. Swinnerton Heap, and published by Novello, Ewer and Co.

INQUIRER.—In answer to your question, we can only refer you to the musical authorities at Cambridge.

SUBSCRIBER (Dunedin).—Most of the editions of Mozart's Clarinet Quintet are vague on this point. To us it seems obvious that the direction "con sordino" should apply to all the string instruments.

TENOR.—The following tenor songs contain no reference to the "monotonous" subject you mention:—Sterndale Bennett's "As lonesome," "Dawn, gentle flower"; Smart's "Charge, Chester, Charge," and "Spinning Wheel"; Sydenham's "Eldorado." Sacred Songs:—Coenen's "Beyond," "I shall see Thee," and "Come unto Me"; Mackenzie's "Cross and Crown"; Tozer's "Lead, kindly Light"; Rogers's setting of the same; Barraud's "God, Who madest"; Torrance's "I am the Resurrection" and "Let not your heart."

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

ACTON.—A Concert of Sacred and Secular Music was given on the 1st ult., in the Schoolroom, in aid of the Church Choir Fund. The principals were Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Dora Barnard, and Mr. Sadleur Brown. Miss Nora Clench performed several violin solos and Mr. Praeger played the accompaniments. There was a large attendance, and the performance gave great satisfaction.

ADELAIDE, S.A.—The Port Adelaide Musical Society gave an excellent performance of Gadsby's Lord of the Isles, at the beginning of May. The melodious and effective music was much appreciated, and the choir especially seem to have been greatly taken with the work. It is to be repeated next year.

BRIGHTON.—Mr. Robert Taylor's Annual Concert at Hove Town Hall took place on May 24, when Rossini's Stabat Mater and Sterndale Bennett's May Queen formed the programme. Being the anniversary of Her Majesty's Birthday the Concert commenced with Costa's arrangement of the National Anthem. The principal artists were Miss Maude Bond, Miss Alice Holman, Miss Marion Arber, Mr. Herbert Hedgcock, Miss Edith Hands, Mr. Clifford Hunnybun, and

Mr. Percy Cooper, all past or present pupils of Mr. Taylor's; Mr. Frank Ward completed the double quartet of soloists. The chorus and orchestra were the members of the Brighton Sacred Harmonic Society, numbering about two hundred performers in all. An excellent performance was given before a crowded audience.——The second subscription Concert of the Sacred Harmonic Society's forty-seventh season was given at the Dome on the 16th ult., Miss Emily Davies, Miss Marion Arber, Mrs. W. J. Mobsby, Mr. Clifford Hunnybun, and Mr. Seymour Kelly being the soloists; Mr. W. Baker, leader; and Mr. Percy Starnes, Organist. The chorus of 180 and orchestra of forty gave an excellent account of their respective parts, and the soloists were all that could be wished. The Concert was under the direction of Mr. R. Taylor, who has occupied the post of Conductor of this Society for the past twenty-three years. This veteran society is now rehearsing Parry's Judith for its next Concert——The Half-Term Concert of the School of Music was held in the Concert Room of the School on the 14th ult. A miscellaneous programme was rendered by the students in the most satisfactory manner before a large audience, among the professors present being Messrs. Kuhe, Stern, Wagner, Madame Klanwell, and Dr. A. King and Mr. R. Taylor, Directors.

CANTERBURY.—The Epping Forest Association of Church Choirs held its twelfth annual Festival on the 18th ult. in the Cathedral. The Service included the Anthems "Blessing, glory" (Tours), "Glorious is Thy Name" (Mozart), and a new Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, specially written for the occasion by J. H. Maunder. The Dean preached an appropriate sermon. Mr. J. W. Ullyett conducted, and Dr. Longhurst and Mr. Henry Riding were the Organists.

CHELMSFORD.—The annual Festival Service of the Association of Church Choirs was held on the 21st ult., at the Parish Church. There are eighteen choirs in union, with a total of about 450 voices, surpliced choirs predominating. The processional hymn, "Praise waits for Thee," was written specially for the occasion by the Rev. J. Ellerton, and was set to appropriate music by Mr. F. R. Frye, the Choirmaster to the Association. The recessional hymn was "Sing praise to God," to Bach's grand tune. The other hymns were "The Son of God" (Sullivan's arrangement), "God of pity" (Minshall), and "O come, O come, Emmanuel" (Ancient Plainsong). Tallis's Festal Responses were used, and special Psalms were sung to chants by S. Elvey and Armes. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were by the Precentor, the Rev. Dr. Rogers, a very useful setting. For the Anthem, the first chorus in Mendelssohn's "As the hart pants" was selected. Mr. W. G. Wood was at the organ, which was supplemented by two cornets and two trombones. The preacher was the Rev. Canon Browne. The service was excellent throughout—time, tune, expression, and voice quality being most satisfactory. Mr. F. R. Frye conducted.

CHIGWELL.—On the 9th ult. Miss Ada Palmer, of Turnours Hall, on behalf of the ladies and gentlemen who recently performed in Trial by Jury, presented Mr. Henry Riding, F.C.O., with a very handsome bâton, mounted in gold, suitably engraved and beautifully encased, as a mark of appreciation of his services as Conductor on that occasion. The performances, after expenses were defrayed, realised £20 for the Girls' School Building Fund.

COLCHESTER.—On May 30 a performance of Burnham Horner's Cantata Penelope, in costume, was given at the Theatre by the officers and ladies of the Garrison. Mrs. Giraud, Major Wyon, and Captain Ditmas took the chief characters, and the Cantata was conducted by the composer.

DERBY.—The Orchestral Union gave a Mozart Centenary Memorial Concert at the Temperance Hall, on Wednesday, May 25. The programme included the E flat Symphony, the Overtures to Don Giovanni, Clemenza di Tito, Figaro, and Flauto Magico, the Marches from the last-mentioned opera, and Idomeneo. Miss Mander contributed songs from Don Giovanni ("Vedrai Carino") and Figaro ("Non sa più"), and Miss P. M. Warren gave the two songs of Sarastro in the Flauto Magico. Mr. E. T. King was, as usual, leader, and Mr. Arthur Wilson, Conductor.——On Friday, May 27, the Musical Society gave its second invitation Concert at the Temperance Hall. Mendelssohn's Motet for female voices "Surrexit pastor bonus," Part-songs, "The Silver Swan" and "O trust the learned poets" (Gibbons), "The parting kiss" (Pinsuti), Choruses from Athalie and Jephtha (Handel), the second Violin Sonata by Handel, played by Miss Wilson; and songs by Miss Milnes (who sang Schubert's "Wohin") and Dr. Wilson a Trio by Curschmann, "Ti prego," and a Duet by H. Smart ("In the Greenwood"), formed a very interesting programme. Master Christopher Wilson presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. Arthur Wilson, as usual, conducted.

DUBLIN.—At the "Commencements" of the University, on the 23rd ult., the only recipient of the degree of Doctor in Music was Mr. J. Warriner, Mus. Bac., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Matthew's Church, Denmark Hill. Dr. Warriner's Exercise, consisting of a setting of the 13th Psalm, for tenor solo, eight-part chorus, organ, and orchestra, was performed under the composer's direction in Trinity College Chapel, on the 22nd, Mr. C. G. Marchant, Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, presiding at the organ.

EASTBOURNE.—A very successful Concert was given at the Town Hall on May 31, under the direction of Dr. W. H. Sangster, when excellent performances were given of Gounod's Faust and a short new work for chorus and orchestra, entitled Elysium, from the pen of the Conductor. The artists concerned were Miss Emily Davies, Miss Muriel Hawley, Mrs. G. Hillman, and Messrs. Iver McKay, F. Bevan, P. Coles, and A. Cooper. Miss L. A. Bindon played Bennett's Caprice in E.

LEEDS.—At Gildersome College, on the 4th ult., a large gathering of old students and friends assembled at the presentation of prizes, &c., gained by the pupils at the recent public examinations. In connection with this an entertainment, consisting principally of music and dramatic selections, was given by the masters and students of the College and presided over by the Mayor of Leeds. In recognition of the services Mr. C. R. Fisher has rendered in the cause of music during the seven years he has been Music Master, the pupils presented him on this occasion with a purse of gold.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—On the 2nd ult. a Glee and Ballad Concert was given in the Drill Hall by the Philharmonic Society. The artists were Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Kate Morgan, and Mr. John Sandbrook. Mr. Frank Arnold proved a most efficient and clever violinist and the whole Concert was pronounced a conspicuous success. In the absence of the Conductor (Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan), Mr. Tom Price kindly took the bâton, and conducted in an able manner some glees by Caldicott, Morley, Gaul, Smart, Mackenzie, and Price.——On Whit Monday Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan gave an Organ Recital in St. David's Church.——On the 23rd ult. a Choral Festival took place in the Church of St. David, under the auspices of the Church Choir Guild. There were some 200 voices and a small orchestra to support the magnificent organ, played by Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan, Organist of Bangor Cathedral. The Rev. Minor Canon Downing, of Llandaff, intoned the service, and Mr. J. H. Lewis conducted. The Anthem was Gadsby's "O Lord, our Governour," and the Canticles Tours in F. In the evening Mr. J. H. Lewis gave an Organ Recital which was much appreciated, Mr. R. W. Evans, of Cardiff, proving a most efficient and refined vocalist.

SIDCUP.—In the Public Hall, on May 30, the closing Concert of the season was given by the Musical Society. The programme consisted of the Overture from Cherubini's opera Anacreon, Brahms's Song of Destiny, Wieniawski's Second Violin Concerto, and Dr. Parry's St. Cecil'a's Day. There was a band and chorus of about ninety performers, under the direction of Mr. Alfred E. Butterworth, the popular founder and Conductor of the Society. In every respect the Concert was a brilliant success. The Concerto was played by Miss Christina Brumleu, its execution being most artistic. In the middle of the Concerto the E string of her violin snapped, but, nothing daunted, Miss Brumleu finished her task on another violin which was handed her by a gentleman in the orchestra. The young artist was recalled again and again, and thoroughly merited the applause awarded her. Chorus, orchestra, and soloists worked hard, the result being in every way admirable. Mr. Butterworth received quite an ovation at the conclusion of the Concert from the delighted and enthusiastic audience. Miss Mary Bliss was an efficient soprano, Mr. George Fox rendered the baritone music in his well-known style, and Mr. Harold Moore presided with ability at the organ.

THEYDON BOIS.—The organ in St. Mary's Church, which has been recently enlarged and renovated, was re-opened at a special musical service on the 15th ult. Gaul's Cantata The Holy City was well rendered by a special choir, under the direction of Mr. Donald W. Penrose. The soloists were Miss Archer, Miss Cable, Mrs. Grey, Mr. Hainsworth, and Mr. Bell. Miss Williams (harp) was very effective in the intermezzo "Contemplation," and Messrs. H. Norton, D. Penrose, and H. Riding played an interesting programme of organ solos very skilfully.

TIVERTON, NORTH DEVON.—The Choral Society gave its second Concert on Monday, May 30. Acis and Galatea occupied the first part of the programme; the second part was miscellaneous. The chorus and orchestra acquitted themselves well, and the solos were successfully taken by Miss Wakefield, Mr. Ferris Tozer, and Mr. Harry Ling. A noticeable feature in the second part of the programme was Maurer's Concertante for four violins, played by the Misses Baukart, Dumbleton, Snow, and Herr Otto Milain. Mr. Lewis Mackenzie led the orchestra, and Mr. Allan Allen conducted.

TUNBRIDGE.—Cowen's Rose Maiden, and a miscellaneous selection of songs, glees, &c., were performed in the Public Hall on the 25th ult., by the Musical Society. The solos were efficiently rendered by Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Emmie Finney, Mr. Herbert Clinch, and Mr. W. Gale. The band—led by Sergeant Clements of the Royal Marines—and chorus were most efficient. Harpist, Miss Caro Clifford; Conductor, Mr. B. St. John Waghorne.

VICTORIA, N.Z.—The Malvern Orchestral and Choral Society gave its third Subscription Concert for the season on Thursday evening, April 7, at the Malvern Shire Hall, in the presence of a very large and appreciative audience. The Society was assisted by Miss Alice King, who sang songs by Schumann, Jensen, Rubinstein, and Denza; and by Mr. J. Kendall, who sang Beethoven's "Adelaide" and Lloyd's "Were I the Streamlet." Henry Leslie's Trio "O Memory" was sung by Misses Eva Long, Amy Fuller, and Robertson. The Choral Society contributed six part-songs, including "The Great God Pan" (Farebrother) and "The Song of the Vikings" (Eaton Faning). The orchestra played a selection of five numbers, besides taking part in Mendelssohn's Capriccio in B minor (Op. 22), with Mr. J. Hasler at the pianoforte. Mr. H. I. Bilton conducted the orchestra and Mr. J. Hasler the Choral Society. The next Concert will take place about the beginning of this month, when it is proposed to perform Mendelssohn's Athalie, with miscellaneous selections.

WOODFORD.—An Ascensiontide Choral Festival was held on May 26 at All Saints' Church, when Parts 1 and 2 of Gounod's Redemption were efficiently rendered by a full band and chorus, consisting of eighty members. The soloists were Master Frank Brown, Mr. Miles Mole, and Mr. Broughton Black. The orchestra acquitted itself admirably, under the leadership of Mr. Arthur Payne. Mr. R. T. Gibbon presided ably at the organ, and Mr. G. T. Miles accompanied on the harp. Mr. Arthur T. George conducted with zeal and discretion.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Ernest H. Ruston, Organist and Choirmaster to Christ Church, New Malden, Surrey.—Mr. P. W. Mathers, to Lymm Parish Church.—Mr. G. W. Nusum, to the Cathedral, Demerara, British Guiana.—Mr. Frederick G. Shinn, Organist and Director of Music to St. James's Church, Marylebone.—Mr. A. W. Dunstall, to the Old Parish Church (St. Mary's), Chatham.—Mr. S. E. Davies, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Stephen's Parish Church, Broughty Ferry, N.B.—Mr. Livesey Carrott, to Park Chapel, Chelsea.—Mr. A. Royle, Organist and Choirmaster to the Free High Church, Kilmarnock, Scotland.—Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan, Organist and Master of the Choristers to Bangor Cathedral.—Mr. J. K. Strachan, Organist and Choirmaster to the Free College Church, Glasgow.—Mr. Ralph Dadge, Organist and Music Master to Dorset County School, Dorchester.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Frank Salter (Tenor), to St. James's Church, Marylebone.—Mr. Arthur F. Sterne (Alto Lay Clerk), to Norwich Cathedral.—Mr. Arthur Oliver (Alto), to St. Andrew's, Wells Street.

MR. DANIEL MAYER has the honour to announce that he has been appointed SOLE BUSINESS MANAGER for the following CELEBRATED Artists, and desires that ALL COMMUNICATIONS concerning their engagements be addressed to him direct:

MISS MARGUERITE MACINTYRE
MADAME BELLE COLE
MR. BEN DAVIES
MR. NORMAN SALMOND
MR. PLUNKET GREENE

ALSO SOLE AGENT FOR

MISS EVANGELINE FLORENCE & MDME. GIULIA VALDA
MISS THUDICHUM — MR. CORNISH (TENOR)
MISS MARIE BREMA — MR. EUGÈNE OUDIN
MONS. GORSKI — MDLLE. YRRAC
MR. WILLY HESS — MDLLE. M. EISSLER
AND — AND
M. CÉSAR THOMSON — MONS. EMILE SAURET
MASTER JEAN GÉRARDY AND MR. HUGO BECKER
MADAME DA VEIGA AND MDLLE. CLARA EISSLER.
M. SLIVINSKI
MDLLE. SZUMOWSKA — HERR HEINRICH LUTTER
AND MDLLE.
CLOTHILDE KLEEBERG — HERR MAX PAUER
AND
MR. PADEREWSKI
THE QUEEN VOCAL QUARTET
&c., &c.

All communications concerning the above artists to be addressed direct to Mr. Daniel Mayer.

COMPLETE LIST OF ARTISTS ON APPLICATION.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS, St. James's Hall—November 3 and 17, December 1, 1892; January 19, February 2 and 16, March 2, 1893.
MR. PADEREWSKI'S SHORT TOUR in October in England.
MR. PADEREWSKI'S SECOND AMERICAN TOUR, commencing November, 1892.

MISS MARGUERITE MACINTYRE'S TOUR, commencing October 10, 1892, assisted by Miss MARIE BREMA, Mr. CHARLES WADE, Mr. JAMES LEY, Mdlle. YRRAC, and Master JEAN GÉRARDY. Accompanist, Mr. WADDINGTON COOKE.
MDLLES. SOFIA and GIULIA RAVOGLI'S TOUR, October, 1892.
HERR HEINRICH LUTTER and MR. NORMAN SALMOND'S TOUR, November, 1892.
MONS. SLIVINSKI'S TOUR, January, February, 1893.

CONCERT DIRECTION DANIEL MAYER,
180, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Telegraphic Address—"LISZT, LONDON."

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

STEWART, ROBERT PRESCOTT.—Ode for the Tercentenary Festival of Trinity College, Dublin. The words written by GEORGE FRANCIS SAVAGE-ARMSTRONG. Paper cover, 3s.

SCHUBERT, FRANZ.—Ten Variations, Variations on a Theme by ANSELM HÜTTENBRENNER, Variations on a Waltz by DIABELLI, Andante, Klavierstücke. (No. 50. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Pianoforte Albums.) 1s.

—— Adagio, Allegretto, Three Klavierstücke, and March in E major, &c. (No. 51. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Pianoforte Albums.) 1s.

—— Five Klavierstücke and Two Scherzi. (No. 52. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Pianoforte Albums.) 1s.

ADLAM, F.—(in F). An easy setting of the Te Deum laudamus. 3d.

BATES, F.—(in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

BATSON, A. WELLESLEY—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 89. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

GARRETT, G.—(in A). Benedictus qui Venit and Agnus Dei. (No. 115. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

GOODHART, A. M.—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 92. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

SPALDING, SYDNEY T.—(in C). Te Deum laudamus. 3d.

THOMSON, JAMES.—Holy Communion. Set in the Third Mode. For Voices in Unison or Harmony. 6d.

TAYLOR, W. ARCHBUTT.—(in D). Te Deum laudamus. 3d

WALMISLEY, T. F.—(in C). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 108. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

WARNEFORD, H. L.—(in F). The Nicene Creed, with Kyrie eleison. 4d.

WHEELDON, H. A.—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

WITHERS, F. J.—(in B flat). A short Festival setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 6d.

SUTTON, EDWARD A.—Introits, Graduals, and Alleluias. At the Celebration of the Holy Communion; 16 and 17, Introit and Gradual for Trinity Sunday. 3d.

MACMEIKAN, JOHN A.—"Janua Vitæ." Hymn. Words by EMILY C. ORR. 6d. per dozen.

THACKWRAY, CHARLES.—Four Hymns. 3d.

GARTH, R. MACHILL.—"I have surely built Thee an house." Anthem. 3d. Tonic Sol-fa, 3d.

REYNOLDS, W. JOHN.—"We will rejoice in Thy salvation." Full Anthem. For Four Voices. 4d.

TURNER, R. H.—"Abide with me." Anthem. For Four Voices. 4d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT:—

Book 1.	Six easy Songs	(Set I.)	ALFRED MOFFAT	6d.
„ 2.	„ „	(Set II.)	„ „	6d.
„ 3.	„ Duets	(Set I.)	„ „	9d.
„ 4.	„ „	(Set II.)	„ „	9d.
„ 5.	Six Two-part Songs	..	By various Composers	9d.
„ 6.	„ „ „	..	„ „	9d.
„ 7.	„ „ „	..	„ „	9d.
„ 8.	Five „ „	..	„ „	9d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Separate numbers. No. 67. "Sing a Song of Sixpence." An Action Song, or Operetta for Children. 6d.

G. A. M.—"The Song of the Scug." Words by J. K. S. 6d.

BATSON, A. WELLESLEY.—"Love's Adieu." A Four-part Song. The words written by FERGUS HUME. (No. 631. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

BETJEMANN, GILBERT R.—"Violets." Two-part Song. The words written by ELLIS WALTON. (No. 63. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs for Female Voices.) 3d.

BUNNING, HERBERT.—"Maidens of Zid." Trio for Female Voices. The poetry written by MOORE. (No. 264. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, for Female Voices.) 3d.

CORDER, F.—"The Fairy Dance." Two-part Song. Adapted from "The Bridal of Triermain." (No. 64. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs for Female Voices.) 3d.

MARSHALL, FLORENCE A.—"Hohenlinden." The words written by CAMPBELL. The music composed for choral recitation. 3d.

PEACE, A. L.—"Salvete cives nostri." Ode. For Male Voices. Words by H. A. STRONG. (No. 242. The Orpheus.) 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—"Orpheus with his lute." Song. Arranged from the Trio in the music to "Henry VIII." 2s.

—— "Orpheus with his lute." Trio. For Female Voices. From the music to "Henry VIII." 2s.

GUION, N. CORTELYOU.—"Cradle, rock slow." Lullaby. 2s.

THORPE, COURTENAY.—"Better for both." Song. The words written by HUGH CONWAY. 2s.

WAREING, HERBERT W.—"At the sign of the Golden Bell." Song. The words written by DRUID GRAYL. 2s.

KING, OLIVER.—Twelve Original Voluntaries (Second Set). Composed for the Organ or Harmonium. 1s.

COOKE, W. H.—Mazurka. For the Pianoforte. 2s.

HARBOROUGH, ALFRED.—"Reverie." For the Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

GAUL, A. R.—"A Song of Life." 6d.

VINCENT, CHARLES.—"The Village Queen." 6d.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Certain Graves revisited	393
Beethoven's Sketch Books	394
From my Study	397
Occasional Notes	400
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	402
"Judas Maccabæus" at the Crystal Palace	405
Royal Italian Opera	405
German Opera	406
Philharmonic Society	407
Richter Concerts	407
Bach Choir	408
Sarasate Concerts	408
Royal Academy of Music	408
Lincoln and Peterborough Festival	408
The Handel Society	409
Sir Charles Hallé's Schubert Recitals	409
Pianoforte Recitals	409
The Oudin Recitals	410
Miss Chaminade's Concert	410
Madame da Veiga's Harp Recital	410
Mr. Henry Lazarus's Farewell Concert	411
Popular Musical Union	411
Nonconformist Choir Union	411
Dr. Read's "Sigund"	411
J. S. Bach's Chamber Music	411
Gresham Lectures	412
The Rhythm of Plainsong	412
Music in Schools	421
Obituary	421
Music in Birmingham	422
„ Bristol	422
„ Cambridge	422
„ Edinburgh	423
„ Liverpool	423
„ Manchester	424
„ Norwich	424
„ Oxford	425
„ Wales	425
„ Berlin	425
„ America	426
Four Part-songs.—No. 1. "The Pilgrim that journeys all day." F. Corder	413
General News (London)	426
Reviews	429
Foreign Notes	430
Correspondence	431
Answers to Correspondents	431
General News (Country)	431
List of Music published during the last Month	434

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To insure insertion, Advertisements should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTY-THIRD OF EACH MONTH.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. A comprehensive and absolutely progressive school, with numerous Diagrams and Illustrations, reproduced from photographs specially taken for this work. Folio size, 75 pp., paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

A hearty welcome will be accorded to Walter Macfarren's Pianoforte Method, a concise and well worked-out guide."—Daily News.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. A complete Course—concise, lucid, and gradual, with Pianoforte accompaniment to all the original and selected pieces. All the positions fully illustrated from photographs expressly taken for this work. Large quarto size, 147 pp., with separate violin part, 30 pp. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

"Mr. Peiniger deserves the highest praise. His Violin Method is exceptionally thorough in every respect."—Saturday Review.

In the Press.

DR. E. H. TURPIN'S METHOD FOR THE ORGAN.

Other Methods in preparation

F. H. COWEN'S NEW CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES.

"THE FAIRIES' SPRING" (An Elfin Legend).

Price 2s. 6d. net.; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. net.

"Possesses an unceasing flow of sweet and spontaneous melody." Saturday Review. "A graceful libretto."—Era.

TWELFTH NIGHT.

NEW CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

By ALFRED REDHEAD.

Price 2s. 6d. net; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. net.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS.

SIXTY-SEVEN NUMBERS, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, including the celebrated Glees "The Village Chorister," "God bless the Prince of Wales," Benedict's "Hunting Song," Kücken's "Blanche," &c.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS

FOR LADIES' VOICES.

Detailed Lists on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.

BEST'S COLLECTION of ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

New Editions at reduced prices.

Detailed Lists on application.

By JAMES SHAW.

THREE NEW COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN.

Dedicated to and performed by Mons. ALEX. GUILMANT.
1. Meditation. 2. A Wedding Processional March.
3. A Dream of Mozart (Minuet in D).
Each 2s. net.

DR. E. J. HOPKINS and DR. E. F. RIMBAULT'S

Famous Work on the History and Construction of the Organ.
Complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.
Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

NEW VIOLIN MUSIC

By EMILE SAURET,

Principal Violin Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.

QUATRE MORCEAUX DE SALON (OP. 45). Price 5s. each.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.

Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.

Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

—CONTINUED.

NEW VIOLONCELLO MUSIC

By LEO STERN.

	s.	d.
MONFERRINA (Danse Piedmontèse)	5	0
In the Press.
MÉLODIE ROMANTIQUE	5	0
In the Press.
GAVOTTE ANCIENNE	5	0
MAZURKA FANTASTIQUE	5	0

FRANCES ALLITSEN'S NEW SONGS.

EIGHT SETTINGS OF POEMS BY HEINE.

In Four Parts, 4s. each,

TWO SAPPHIRES THOSE DEAR EYES OF THINE (Saphire sind die Augen dein).
SINCE MY LOVE NOW LOVES ME NOT (Seit die Liebste war entfernt).
FATHOMS DEEP MAY DRIFT THE SNOW (Mag da draussen Schnee sich thürmen).
OH, DEATH, IT IS THE COLD, COLD NIGHT (Der Tod, das ist die kühle Nacht).
DIAMONDS HAST THOU AND PEARLS (Du hast Diamanten und Perlen).
A PINE-TREE STANDETH LONELY (Ein Fichtenbaum steht einsam).
KING DUNCAN'S DAUGHTERS (Die Botschaft).
KATHERINE (Katherine).

Ready shortly. Each Song in two keys.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor)
5, Melbourne Terrace, Bradford.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass)
(Of the Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, Royal Albert Hall, and Promenade Concerts). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. THOMAS CHAPMAN (Accompanist).
TO CHORAL and ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.
In cases where a complete Orchestra is not used, the Wind Parts of any work satisfactorily rendered on the Harmonium from the full score.
Address, 35, Sutherland Place, Westbourne Grove, W.

MR. GEORGE PEARCE (Principal Alto, St. Peter's, Eaton Square). Compass, two octaves, G to G. May be engaged for Concerts, At Homes, and Musical Services. Open for provincial engagements, July 2 to 18. Address, 19, Beaumont Road, West Kensington, W.
"Mr. Pearce possesses a magnificent voice of altogether exceptional range and quality."—West London Press.

CONTRALTO DÉBUTANTE wishes to join Concert tour. Good references. Nominal terms. Agents also required. Write, S. D. R., Willing's, 162, Piccadilly, W.

MR. J. H. MAUNDER begs to notify CHANGE of ADDRESS to Lyndale, Perry Rise, S.E.

ORGANISTS and SOLOISTS desiring appointments should address The Secretary, Diapason Musical Agency, 55, Chancery Lane, London, W.C. Deputy duty arranged free of charge, but stamped envelopes must be sent.

TO PIANOFORTE TEACHERS.—A Lady (A.R.C.M.), experienced Teacher, desires to purchase good TEACHING CONNECTION. Concerto, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ORGANIST (formerly at Cathedral) will be in London during July and August, and would take Sunday duties. Apply, E. M. D., 31, Goldhurst Terrace, Finchley Road, N.W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, by an established House in Scotland. To a competent man good encouragement will be given. Apply, with references, M. M. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—WANTED, Young Man, as OUT-DOOR TUNER; one with knowledge of Harmoniums preferred. Permanent situation. West of England. State salary required, age, and reference. Musicus, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER.—An experienced and thoroughly practical Man desires SITUATION as above. Well up in all departments. Well recommended. Apply, M. O., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., DEAN OF BRISTOL.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.C.C.G.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION (Membership), 10s. 6d.
Choirs Enrolled, 10s. 6d.

July 12 and 13, 1892.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G. Full set of Papers as used at the recent Examination, post-free, thirteen stamps.

The new Calendar contains a Table of Musical Degrees and Diplomas, with Academic Costume, post-free, fourteen stamps.

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL FESTIVAL.

A Choral Festival in connection with the C.C.G. will, by the kind invitation of the Dean, be held in Bristol Cathedral on Thursday afternoon, July 14, 1892, at 4 o'clock.

Preacher—The Very. Rev. THE PRESIDENT.
Organist—Mr. GEORGE RISELEY.
Conductor—Dr. J. H. LEWIS.

Members of the Guild and Choirs desirous of taking part should communicate with the Warden without delay. Music supplied gratis.

For further particulars, see The Church Musician; or, apply to The Warden, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By order of the Council,
C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

FOR THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF MUSICAL ART IN BRITAIN.

METHVEN, SIMPSON & CO.

Have decided to offer the following Prizes for the most meritorious works of the various classes that may be submitted.

FOR THE BEST CANTATA
(Sacred or Secular):
£100.

FOR THE BEST SET OF TWELVE TWO-PART SONGS
(Similar in style to "The Songs of the Bells," by ABT, and "The Songs of the Flowers," by PINSUTI):
£25.

FOR THE BEST SONG:
£10.

FOR THE BEST SET OF WALTZES:
£10.

Full particulars on application to METHVEN, SIMPSON & Co., 83, Princes Street, Edinburgh.

AN ASSISTANT WANTED, in Music Warehouse. State age, nature of experience, references, and wages. Enclose C.D.V. and stamped addressed envelope. Address, Assistant, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, experienced TUNER (Pianoforte Factory experience), well up in American Organ and Harmonium Tuning, for permanent out-door berth in a large seaport and manufacturing city. (Pipe Organ Tuning experience considered an advantage.) Apply to Monochord, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, good TUNER, for general country trade. Send photo and references. State age and wages required. Permanent situation. Garlick, Stratford-on-Avon.

WANTED, Young Man, as UNDER-TUNER and REPAIRER. One able to play the Piano preferred. Must have good character. Apply, X. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

RE-ENGAGEMENT WANTED, by practical TUNER and REPAIRER (Out-door). Understands American Organs and Harmoniums. Good references. Address, W. J. H., 60, St. Augustine's Terrace, Halifax.

TUNER (Practical) desires ENGAGEMENT. Thorough knowledge of American Organs, &c. Highest references. J. G., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

RE-ENGAGEMENT, for town and district work, by PIANO and ORGAN TUNER. Thoroughly competent. Good reference. Apply, A. C. G., Jacksons, Chippenham.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (Collard and Collard and Chappell and Co.) requires partial EMPLOYMENT (out-doors). S. C., 41, Brooke Road, Stoke Newington.

A FIRST-CLASS PIANOFORTE SALESMAN WANTED. Apply, stating experience, salary required, with references, to P. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

TO PROFESSORS of MUSIC.—A large ROOM VACANT, for two or four days each week, furnished, with use of Piano. Address, W. J., 13, Orchard Street, Portman Square, W.

AUGUST and SEPTEMBER.—Comfortable Home offered to Lady Organist. Two hours' daily tuition required. Expenses paid. B., care of E. F. Harris, Esq., Binham, Wighton, R.S O., Norfolk.

SECOND-HAND CHAMBER ORGAN for SALE. One-manual, CC to G, 6 stops: Oboe-Flute, stop dia. Treble, stop dia. Bass, Dulciana, Principal treble, Principal bass; Pedal sub-bass, 16 ft. tone; Pedal coupler. May be seen at Montpellier House, Weston-super-Mare. Apply to Nicholson and Co., Organ Builders, Palace Yard, Worcester.

BROADWOOD modern iron SEMI-GRAND PIANO. 55 guineas; cost 125 guineas. Also, HOPKINSON SEMI-GRAND, in Walnut. 45 guineas; cost 120 guineas. Both 7 octaves, full trichord, and in condition as new. View at Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist, St. John's, 108, Upper Richmond Road, Putney.

ORGAN.—A fine-toned modern TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, containing Fourteen Stops, Couplers, Composition Pedals, &c. Price £200. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London. Established 1837.

FOR SALE.—Set of AMERICAN ORGAN PEDALS (SUBER'S Patent). 30 notes, 8 and 16-ft. stops, complete. With or without Organ. Bargain. G. A. Stanton, Barracks, Buckingham.

ORGANS.—Two full manuals, 10 stops, equal to new. Great bargains. Messrs. JONES and SON'S 100 Guinea Organs have two manuals, Bourdon pedals, 344 speaking pipes. Best and cheapest Pipe Organ manufactured for Church or private use. Note address.—Church Organ Works (established 1854), Marlborough Road, Holloway Road, N.

TO be SOLD.—23 Mercer's Psalter, 17 Mercer's Psalters and Hymns. Apply, G. S., 125, Jamaica Rd., Bermondsey.

MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS in best position, rising suburb, N. Commanding double-fronted premises (30 ft. frontage) situated in the bend of the road. Rent, £85, on eighteen years' lease. Established five years. Owner, through insufficient capital, has accepted an appointment, and will sell at a low figure. Apply, Morley Phillips, Auctioneer and Valuer, 60, Great Portland Street, W.

TWO-WHEEL PIANO VAN for SALE (length, 7 ft. 8 in.; width, 5 ft. 3 in.). Built by ROBSON BROS.; in good condition. Price £22. S. Morley, 258, Clapham Road, London.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, 4s.; in stiff paper, 3s. net.

WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS

For STUDENTS of the PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, ORGAN, and other instruments. By A. LEFFLER ARNIM, author of "Health Maps."

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by two-thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addition to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined and delicate touch. No instrument whatever required.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: ". . . . I have no hesitation in saying that I think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: ". . . . I am confident the exercises you recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: ". . . . Invaluable to anyone studying the violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Hinde Street, W.

THE

LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS

(GLOUCESTER).

Price 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.

Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

3rd Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition. Price Sixpence.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in A. By I. H. STAMMERS. A second Setting in E flat, 2d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)..	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

F. ABDY WILLIAMS, MUS. BAC., OXON.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. Price 4d.
Worthy of the attention of Choirmasters."—Musical World.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA, in chant form. Price 1d.

TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in chant form. Price 1d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS by R. T. CLARK-MORRISON.—"Some trust in chariots." Easy and effective. Price 2d. "O give thanks unto the Lord." An excellent Anthem for Church Festivals. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

EASTER.—"If we believe."	Octavo. Four voices	..	4d.
„ „ „	Tonic Sol-fa	..	1½d.
„ "I will magnify Thee."	Octavo. Four voices ..	..	3d.
„ „	Tonic Sol-fa	..	1½d.
WHITSUNDAY.—"If ye love Me."	Octavo. Four voices ..	..	3d.
„ "I was glad"	„ „	..	3d.
„ „	Tonic Sol-fa	..	2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E.	Octavo	..	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	„	..	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	.. ..	..	3d.
„ „	Tonic Sol-fa	..	1½d.
Cantate Domine and Deus Misereatur in E..	.. .. ..	..	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F.	Octavo	..	3d.
„ „	with Welsh words	..	3d.
„ „	in Tonic Sol-fa	..	1½d.
„ „	in A. Octavo	..	3d.
„ „	in Tonic Sol-fa	..	1½d.
The Preces and Responses, with Litany, set in simple form for Four Voices		..	4d.
Twelve Original Tunes, set to favourite Hymns		..	3d.
Amen (on Card)		..	1d.

SECULAR.

Song, "By the wayside."	Soprano	net	1s. 6d.
„ "The Last Prayer."	Contralto	„	1s. 6d.
Part-Song, "Over hill, over dale."	Four Voices		3d.
„ "The Rhine Maiden."	„		3d.
„ "Beware"	.. ..		1d.

List of all compositions by the same Composer to be had of the Publishers, NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO "HENRY VIII."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

CONTENTS.

Morris Dance. | Shepherds' Dance.
Torch Dance.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

LORD OF THE HARVEST. Anthem for Harvest-tide. Composed by HERBERT W. RENDELL. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.
*Blessed be the Name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Blessed be Thou	E. Bunnett	3d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	1½d.
Bring unto the Lord, O ye mighty	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
*Fear not, O land	C. W. Jordan	6d.
*Fear not, O land	J. F. Bridge	4d.
Give unto the Lord the glory	G. A. Macfarren	6d.
*God said, Behold, I have given you every herb	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
*Great is the Lord	E. J. Hopkins	6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Goss	3d.
*I will magnify Thee, O God	P. Armes	8d.
*I will sing a new song	J. Stainer	6d.
Lo! summer comes again	F. A. J. Hervey	3d.
Make melody within your hearts	B. Tours	1½d.
*O come, let us sing to the Lord	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
*O give thanks	T. M. Pattison	3d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	J. Barnby	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	Herbert Oakeley	4d.
O praise the Lord	J. Goss	6d.
O praise the Lord of Heaven	T. Palmer	4d.
O sing unto the Lord	J. C. Bridge	4d.
O that men would praise the Lord	Emma Mundella	3d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest	E. V. Hall	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. G. Wood	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	H. Lahee	1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul	G. Garrett	1½d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	C. Steggall	1/-
Praised be the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
*Sing praises to God	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
*Sing unto the Lord	J. Maude Crament	2d.
Sowing and reaping	C. S. Heap	4d.
The earth is the Lord's	A. Lowe	3d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
The earth is the Lord's	O. Gibbons	4d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord hath done great things	G. Garrett	3d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man	Herbert Oakeley	4d.
This is the day	E. V. Hall	3d.
Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	W. H. Callcott	2d.
*Thou visitest the earth and blessest it	M. Greene	1½d.
*Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptiste Calkin	4d.
Thou visitest the earth	C. L. Williams	3d.
To Thee, O Lord	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	1½d.
*While the earth remaineth	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land	J. Barnby	4d.
*Ye shall go out with joy

These Anthems are also published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1d. to 4d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE HYMNS WITH TUNES FOR HARVEST.

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

PRICE ONE PENNY.

Sing to the Lord a joyful song	J. Barnby.
O Lord, the heaven Thy power displays	F. Ouseley.
Father, blessing every seed-time	J. B. Dykes.
Lord, in Thy Name Thy servants plead	W. Metcalf.
The wintry time hath ended	H. J. Gauntlett.
Come, ye thankful people, come	George Elvey.
God, the Father, whose creation	H. Smart.
Lord of the harvest, Thee we hail	Anonymous.
Lo, summer comes again	E. B. Whyley.
Praise, O praise our Heavenly King	German.
Summer ended, harvest o'er	J. Adcock.
O Lord of heaven, and earth, and sea	S. S. Wesley.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO BE PUBLISHED IMMEDIATELY.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS

LORD OF THE HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

I WILL FEED MY FLOCK

COMPOSED BY

J. F. BRIDGE.

I WILL MAGNIFY THEE

COMPOSED BY

OLIVER KING.

HARVEST HYMN

COMPOSED BY

FERRIS TOZER.

MY MOUTH SHALL SPEAK OF THY PRAISE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

HONOUR THE LORD WITH THY SUBSTANCE

(WORDS FROM THE AMERICAN LITURGY)

COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

IN THE PRESS.

NEW CANTATAS FOR HARVEST.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS

THE WORDS SELECTED AND ARRANGED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE, &c., INTERSPERSED WITH SUITABLE HYMNS, AND THE MUSIC

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

HARVEST-TIDE

A CANTATA FOR HARVEST

FOR

TENOR & BASS SOLO, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE GLEANERS' HARVEST

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA

(HARVEST CANTATA)

FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. M. VON WEBER.

(Op. 58.)

Edited, and the Pianoforte Accompaniment revised, by EBENEZER PROUT. The words translated from the German version of Wendt by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

Octavo, 1s.; Full Score, 2ls.; Orchestral Parts, 15s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST CANTATA

FOR

CHORUS, SEMI-CHORUS, AND ORGAN

WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY

J. FRANCIS WALLER, LL.D.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A., MUS.D.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Sixpence.

Intended for the use of Parochial and other Choirs at Harvest Festivals. The music is not difficult, and provision is made for the introduction of well-known Harvest Hymns, in order that the Congregation may take part in the service.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

(FULL, FOUR VOICES)

COMPOSED BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence each. Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Three-halfpence each.

SING UNTO THE LORD.

"The style is appropriately bright, but dignified and Churchlike, and parish choirs will find the piece quite within their powers."—Musical Times.

"The Anthem being jubilant and thoroughly pleasing will prove a welcome addition for the forthcoming season of joy and thankfulness."—Leeds Mercury.

"A very fine composition. . . . The whole is very effective, and will not too heavily tax the resources of any choir, and is decidedly worthy the attention of choirmasters."—Lincolnshire Herald.

"An excellent Anthem for thanksgiving occasions."—Accrington Gazette.

"Full of praise and gladness."—English Churchman.

GREAT IS THE LORD.

"A jubilant composition, full of spirit, and a most successful treatment of the words."—Church Times.

"Written with breadth and purity of style."—Musical Times.

"An excellent specimen of a Choral Festival Anthem. . . . Very melodious and easy throughout."—Leeds Mercury.

O GIVE THANKS.

Sung at the Festival of the London Sunday School Choirs, at the Crystal Palace, by 5,000 voices.

"Can be heartily recommended to choirmasters."—Musical Times.

"Easy and melodious, and in all respects suitable for the coming season."—Leeds Mercury.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST CAROLS.

FATHER, BLESSING EVERY SEED-TIME
COMPOSED BY FRANK PESKETT.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST
GRACIOUS LORD, WE GIVE THEE PRAISE
BY HERBERT TOWNSEND.

Words and Music, price 2d. each; Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS.

Easy and Effective.

GREAT IS THE LORD .. .. F. ADLAM. Price 3d.
THE EYES OF ALL .. .. .. G. BELCHER. „ 3d.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

TWENTY-FIVE OLD AND NEW CAROLS. By DAVIS L. MARTYN. Complete, price 1s.; separate numbers, 1d. each.
MATHIAS and STRICKLAND, 2, Great Titchfield Street, London, W.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.,

BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH (New) (quite easy) .. .. 3d.
*ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE (New) (moderate) .. .. .. 4d.
*WHAT SHALL I RENDER (4th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
*LET US THANK THE LORD (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*THE LORD IS LOVING (9th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S (6th 1,000).. .. .. 3d.
*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK (22th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
*FEAR NOT, O LAND (21st 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*PRAISE THE LORD, O MY SOUL (16th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE (15th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
*O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD (14th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS (12th edition) .. .. 3d.
*AND GOD SAID, LET THE EARTH (53rd edition) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM IN G (3rd edition) 4d. TE DEUM IN F (18th edition) 3d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F (37th edition) 4d.
Sung at two Choral Festivals this year.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E flat (12th edition) .. 4d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G (New) (4th edition) .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E flat (6th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
FOUR CHANT TE DEUMS (12th 1,000) (D, A flat, G, and A) each 2d.
FOUR HARVEST CAROLS. Pretty and popular .. .. each 1d.

Those marked (*) are also published in Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

HARVEST ANTHEMS, by THOS. SMITH. Easy and melodious. "Thou crownest the year," "O sing unto the Lord," "Fear not, O Land," "It is a good thing to give thanks," "My heart is fixed," "O worship the Lord." Easy Te Deum in F. Five Easy Kyries. Price 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST ANTHEMS
Suitable for small Choirs.

O SING UNTO THE LORD WITH THANKSGIVING

FULL ANTHEM, COMPOSED BY
DR. J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.
Price Fourpence net.

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

COMPOSED BY
W. J. PRESSEY.
An easy Anthem, within the compass of a Village Choir.
Price Threepence net.

J. & J. HOPKINSON, Temporary Premises, 90, New Bond Street London, W.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.,

BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

These compositions are effective and not difficult.

*THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR (New) .. .. 3d.
SING UNTO GOD WITH THE VOICE OF THANKSGIVING (6th 1,000).. 4d.
Very attractive, effective, and interesting to the Choir.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 9th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD (3rd 1,000) .. .. 4d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE (16th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
*New Festival Anthem, THE LORD REIGNETH (easy) .. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 5th 1,000 .. .. 4d.

Those marked (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.

PUT YE IN THE SICKLE, FOR THE HARVEST IS RIPE. By THOMAS SMITH. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

HARVEST ANTHEM.

THE EARTH IS FULL

COMPOSED BY
EDWARD S. CRASTON.
Price Fourpence.

"The composer of this excellent Anthem has in his music succeeded in reflecting the dignity of the words. The character of the Anthem should make it acceptable to choirs."—Musical Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM IN A

CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
ARTHUR CARNALL.
Price Fourpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

VESPER HYMN

TO BE SUNG AFTER EVENING SERVICE
WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY
GEORGE KETT.

Peace for the soul that is weary,
With trouble and sorrow opprest;
Peace for the heart that is yearning
For freedom from sin and for rest;
Peace which the world cannot offer,
An earnest of Life that's Divine—
Jesu, we pray for Thy blessing,
And long for the peace that is Thine.

Price One Penny.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMNS FOR SOLDIERS

SUITABLE FOR USE AT ALL
MILITARY SERVICES
SELECTED CHIEFLY FROM "THE HYMNARY"
BY THE
REV. ARTHUR ROBINS, M.A.

PRICE ONE PENNY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

KYRIE. By ARTHUR MANGELSDORFF. Price 1d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC

SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE

SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY

ANTHEMS AND HYMNS.	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. .. E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. Sidney Naylor	0	9
Except the Lord build the house .. .. F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts	0	6
Father of Life. Hymn .. .. Jas. Turle	0	3
God, be merciful unto us .. .. .. S. S. Wesley
Octavo	0	3
Vocal parts	1	0
Folio	1	6
O God, Thou art worthy .. .. .. Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts	1	0
Octavo	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Folio	1	6
O Perfect Love (Composed for the Wedding of H.R.H. Princess Louise of Wales and the Earl of Fife) .. .. J. Barnby	0	3
Holy Ghost, to earth descending .. .. Antonín Dvořák	0	4
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee .. .. J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus .. .. .. J. Barnby	0	3

ORGAN MUSIC.
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2.. .. .. .. Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) .. Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
March in "Tannhäuser" .. .. Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March .. .. .. Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece .. .. A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby) Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat .. .. Arranged by E. Silas	1	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SERVICE

FOR THE

SOLEMNIZATION of HOLY MATRIMONY

AS USED IN
WESTMINSTER ABBEY
WITH A SPECIAL ANTHEM
COMPOSED BY
J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.
Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Master of the Choristers.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published. As sung at Canterbury Cathedral by the Epping Forest Church Choir Association, June 18, 1892.

MAGNIFICAT

AND NUNC DIMITTIS (No. 2, in D), by

J. H. MAUNDER.

Price Threepence.

"Specially suitable for Church Choir Festivals."

Specimen copy of this and other Church music, "Good," "Easy," "Effective," "Dignified," "Singable," "Popular," and "Musicianly" (see Musical Times, April 1, 1891; Musical Standard, June 6, 1891; Musical News, Sept. 4 and 25, 1891; Church Musician, Noncon. Mus. Journal, Guardian, &c.), free on application to the COMPOSER, Lyndale, Perry Rise, London, S.E.

(Please note Change of Address.)
Please address orders to the Publishers.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

TWELVE ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES

(SECOND SET)
COMPOSED FOR THE ORGAN OR HARMONIUM
BY
OLIVER KING.
(Op. 61.)
Price One Shilling.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FAMOUS VIOLINS AND VIOLIN MAKERS.

THIS SERIES OF PUBLICATIONS now comprises three Works, each compiled from original sources, and containing much information hitherto unpublished. The books are handsomely bound in cloth, and illustrated with superb coloured plates by Mr. Alfred Slocombe and Mr. Shirley Slocombe.

THE TUSCAN STRADIVARI. A short account of a Violin made by Stradivari for Cosimo de Medici, Grand Duke of Tuscany, in 1690. Illustrated by three coloured plates and fac-simile reproductions of some interesting records concerning the instrument.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

A few copies of the first notice of this Violin appeared printed on hand-made paper in a quaint paper cover, without illustrations, but containing fac-similes of the interesting receipt given at the time of the purchase of the Violin in 1794 and of the label Stradivari inserted in the instrument.

PRICE SIXPENCE.

THE SALABUE STRADIVARI. A History and Critical Description of the famous Violin, commonly called "Le Messie," made by Stradivari in 1716, and afterwards sold by his son to Count Cozio di Salabue. Illustrated by three coloured plates.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE SIX SHILLINGS.

THE LIFE AND WORK OF MAGGINI, the Great Brescian Maker, based on information derived from the archives of the town of Brescia, and from other sources, containing three coloured plates of a Maggini Violin of great beauty, photographs of Brescia and of Maggini's house, with a fac-simile of his handwriting, and numerous other illustrations.

SMALL FOLIO. PRICE SEVEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

OTHER IMPORTANT VOLUMES IN THIS SERIES ARE IN PREPARATION.
ORDERS FOR COPIES NOW RECEIVED.

MESSRS. W. E. HILL AND SONS,
38, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

PRINCE SPRITE

A FAIRY OPERETTA

FOR TREBLE VOICES

The Libretto arranged from Countess d'Aulnoy's Fairy Tale

BY

BERTHA THOMAS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

AT THE SIGN OF THE GOLDEN BELL

SONG

The Words written by DRUID GRAYL.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HERBERT W. WAREING,

Mus. Doc., Cantab.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CROSSING THE BAR (SONG)

(Words by Lord TENNYSON).

BY RUTH EGERTON. 2s. net.

PATERSON, SONS and Co., Perth and Edinburgh.

Just Published.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

WITH RECITATION

(Suitable for School use)

The Words by CHARLES KARLYLE and AMY BRIAND

THE MUSIC BY

GUSTAV ERNEST.

(Op. 19.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUNG BY MADAME ENRIQUEZ.

THE ANGEL SIDE

SONG FOR CONTRALTO VOICE

Words translated from the Italian

MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

KIND LADY, LET ME GO

SONG

The Words written by Mrs. HEMANS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

W. C. LEVEY.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S
ALBUMS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.

No. 27.

TEN PIECES

FOR VIOLIN, WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

I. B. POZNANSKI.

No. 1. Chant du Matin.	No. 6. Prière du Soir.
„ 2. Sur l'Eau.	„ 7. Danse Rustique.
„ 3. Danse des Naiades.	„ 8. Gavotte.
„ 4. Sans Souci.	„ 9. Valse.
„ 5. Le Retour du Paysan.	„ 10. Barcarolle.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BAGATELLES

TWELVE LITTLE PIECES FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

MAX MAYER.

(Op. 13.)

CONTENTS.

Granny's Tale.	Beauty and the Beast.
A romp and a dance.	Autumn leaves.
Poor Cinderella.	Round the May-pole.
The Knight and the Lady.	Will o' the Wisp.
Cuckoo.	A game of Tick.
A quiet dance.	The jolly Dwarfs.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIMPLIFIED MUSIC: A Reform of Staff Notation. By JOSEF VARGE. Price 1s., paper; 1s. 6d., cloth.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

W. CZERNY'S COLLECTION

OF

LADIES' CHORUSES

FOR THREE OR FOUR VOICES

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

PRICE FOURPENCE EACH NET.

No.
1.	CHORUS OF HOURIS (from "Paradise and Peri"). Quartet.	R. Schumann.
2.	CHORUS OF SPINNING MAIDENS (from "The Flying Dutchman"). Quartet	R. Wagner.
3.	WEDDING SONG (from "Lohengrin"). Quartet	R. Wagner.
4.	THE PILGRIMS' CHORUS (from "Tannhäuser"). Quartet.	R. Wagner.
5.	THE PILGRIMS OF THE NIGHT. Solo and Chorus.	W. J. Westbrook.
6.	SUMMER FANCIES (The Roses Valse). Trio	Oliver Mètra.
7.	NIGHT (Valse). Trio	A. Ergmann.
8.	TO AN INFANT SLEEPING. Trio	W. C. Filby.
9.	WHEN COMES SWEET MAY. Trio	Mendelssohn.
10.	IN MAY. Trio	Dr. U. C. Burnap.
11.	CRADLE SONG ("Blanche de Provence"). Trio	Cherubini.
12.	TO OUR PEACEFUL VALLEY ("Castor and Pollux"). Trio.	Rameau.
13.	CHURCH BELLS. Trio	W. F. Taylor.
14.	OH, WELCOME LOVELY SPRING. Trio	R. Schumann.
15.	HAIL! WELCOME DAY. Trio	J. Concone.
16.	YOUNG HEARTS. Trio	C. Fabiani.
17.	STARS THE NIGHT ADORNING. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
18.	O COME TO HIM ("Crucifix"). Trio	J. Faure.
19.	JOYS BLOOM LIKE ROSES. Trio	Bonoldi.
20.	VILANELLE. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
21.	FOND HEARTS. Trio	J. Concone.
22.	THE FESTIVE DAY. Trio	J. Concone.
23.	TYROLESE MOUNTAINEERS. Trio	Ch. Oberthür.
24.	PRAYER (from "Tannhäuser"). Trio	R. Wagner.
25.	IN YOUNG MAY. Trio	Franz Abt.
26.	IN EARLY SPRING. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
27.	THE MERRY HUNTSMAN. Quartet	R. Schumann.
28.	THE WATER-SPRITE. Quartet	R. Schumann.
29.	SUMMER DAYS. Trio	Franz Abt.
30.	AWAKE! AWAKE! THE DAWN IS HERE. Trio	Franz Abt.
31.	RING ON, YE BELLS! Trio	Franz Abt
32.	THE NOBLEST. Trio	R. Schumann.
33.	TO THE SUNSHINE. Trio	R. Schumann.
34.	CRADLE SONG. Trio	W. Taubert.
35.	IN YONDER GLADE. Trio	W. Taubert.
36.	AS FADES THE EVENING HOUR. Trio	B. Tours.
37.	THE LILY. Trio	Von Wasa.
38.	IN BRIGHTEST JOYS. Trio	Von Wasa.
39.	A FEARFUL TALE. Trio	R. Schumann.
40.	ON THE BOUNDING SEA. Trio	P. Mazzoni.
41.	SONG OF THE FAIRIES. Trio	Carl Binder.
42.	LUSTROUS ORBS DECK THE NIGHT. Trio	A. Rotoli.
43.	SWEET DAISY. Trio	F. Curschmann.
44.	COME FLIT AROUND. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
45.	SMILING WELCOME. Trio	F. B. Rudall.
46.	THOU BEAMING STAR. Trio	Th. Bradsky.
47.	O'ER BLOOMING MEADOWS. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
48.	HAIL! EVENING BRIGHT. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
49.	JEHOVAH'S POWER AND MAJESTY. Trio	Marcello.
50.	CRADLE SONG. Trio	L. M. Gottschalk.
51.	HEARTS LIGHT AS AIR. Trio	J. B. Wekerlin.
52.	AVE MARIA. Trio	E. Marlois.
53.	BRIGHT THE YULE LOGS GLOW. Trio	E. Marlois.
54.	THE LORD'S PRAYER. Solo and Chorus	L. Niedermeyer.
55.	VILLAGE WEDDING. Trio	Flotow.
56.	THE SMILING DAWN ("Jephtha). Trio	Handel.
57.	HOME FOR THE HOLIDAYS. Trio	R. Schumann.
58.	LOVING FOR EVER. Trio	'G. Money.
59.	SATURDAY NIGHT. Trio	E. P. Cockram.
60.	ROSA CLARE. Trio	B. Tours.
61.	THE GIPSIES. Trio	R. Schumann.
62.	THE SLEIGH BELLS. Trio	T. G. B. Halley.

CANTATAS FOR TREBLE VOICES.

	WORDS BY	MUSIC BY	PRICE NET s.	d.
AROUND THE HEARTH (with Pianoforte Duet Accompaniment)	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	Sir G. A. Macfarren	3	0
CHILDREN VISITING THE FAIRIES	Mrs. Richard Mant	H. R. Binfield	1	0
CONVERSION OF ST. PAUL	William Ball	Mendelssohn	2	6
DISCONTENTED CHICKEN (THE)	Mary E. Roper	James Greenhill	1	6
FAIRY FOOTSTEPS	E. Oxenford	Franz Abt	3	0
FISHER-MAIDENS (THE)	Fred. E. Weatherly	Henry Smart	3	0
GIPSY GIRL ("The Bohemian Girl")	Alfred Bunn	M. W. Balfe	2	6
GITANELLA ("Maritana")	Alfred Bunn	W. V. Wallace	2	6
HARVEST QUEEN (THE)	E. J. Eagleman	Godwin Fowles	3	0
KNIGHT OF PALESTINE (THE)	C. J. Rowe	Weber	3	0
LITTLE SUNBEAM	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	M. Erdmannsdörfer	3	0
MAY-TIDE	E. Oxenford	P. Mazzoni	3	0
MINISTERING ANGELS	Frederic Wood	G. B. Allen	3	0
MINSTREL MAIDENS (THE)	E. Oxenford	Seymour Smith	3	0
MOUNTAIN MAIDENS (THE)	F. R. Havergal	F. Romer	3	0
ORPHEUS AND EURYDICE		J. Offenbach	3	0
PAGE (THE). From "Mazeppa"	Jessica Rankin	M. W. Balfe	3	0
SNOWBLOSSOM AND THE ELVES	Mrs. Alexander Roberts	H. Erler	1	0
SNOW-MAIDENS (THE)	E. Oxenford	Franz Abt	3	0
THREE SISTERS (THE)	F. Enoch	Ignace Gibsone	2	6
WISE AND FOOLISH VIRGINS (THE)	Sacred	Thomas Anderton	2	0
WOOD-NYMPHS (THE)	E. Oxenford	Ignace Gibsone	3	0
WRECK OF THE HESPERUS (THE)	Longfellow	Louis N. Parker	2	0

EDWIN ASHDOWN (LIMITED), LONDON, NEW YORK, & TORONTO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SECOND EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

WORDS BY

JAMES SMIETON, M.A.

MUSIC BY

JOHN MORE SMIETON.

OLD NOTATION, 2s. 6d.; TONIC SOL-FA, 1s.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

The attention of Conductors is specially directed to the above Cantata, as affording an unusually interesting work for chorus and soloists. It takes about an hour and forty minutes to perform, and has been given with conspicuous success by the Choral Unions of Dundee, Broughty Ferry, and Airdrie, as well as by other societies throughout the kingdom.

SCOTSMAN.

This beautiful work will enhance the reputation won for its composer by his similar composition, "Ariadne." It shows a charming gift of melody and no small musicianly skill in its merely technical qualities. It may be recommended to Choral Societies as well worthy of study.

SCOTTISH LEADER.

The work opens with a charming prelude in sacred style, which sets the mind admirably in tune for the drama which is to follow. In the first scene the Romance sung by the King is a little gem, and would make a beautiful song even apart from its surroundings. In the third scene, the wedding of Arthur and Guinevere gives rise to a whole suite of characteristic novelties. No. 15, which introduces a hymn sung by maidens, is perhaps the finest thing in the whole Cantata; and an effective epilogue brings the work to a striking close. "King Arthur" will certainly add to the reputation of its gifted composer, and will be welcomed by all lovers of music.

DUNDEE ADVERTISER, March 30, 1892.

We have not space to examine every number in detail, and to point out the excellencies which were evidently appreciated by the audience. But as outstanding numbers, memorable both for composition and for the style in which they were sung, we may refer to the Romance "'Mid the glory of the Springtime," splendidly executed by Mr. Iver McKay; the beautiful aria for Guinevere, "Star of departing day," admirably sung by Miss Emily Davies; and the graceful and highly original duet for these two vocalists, "Love of my youthful days." The most marked success gained by Mr. Musgrove Tufnail during the evening was in the very involved legend, "In the vault of the purple night," assigned to Merlin, in which the vocalist entirely identified himself with the part he had to represent.

THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, March 30, 1892.

"King Arthur" is called by the composer a cantata, but the name hardly conveys to the mind an idea of the elaborate, lengthy, and powerful character of the work. It is rather a musical epic, and is characterised throughout by a wealth of musical ideas, by a command of musical resources, by a scholarly knowledge of harmony, by a variety and richness of effect, and notably by a melodiousness throughout that are really remarkable. One notable feature which must be mentioned is the effective character of Mr. Smieton's recitatives. He has succeeded in infusing these with genuine interest, and giving to them melodic treatment which saves them from the charge of monotony too often felt in works of this kind. The beautiful hymn "There is a land" was a much relished item near the close of the cantata, which ended with a powerful chorus, in which the composer calls up all the resources before him to make a telling and impressive finish to the work. Late as the hour was there was a loud and persistent call for the composer, and when at length he stepped upon the platform and bowed his acknowledgments he was greeted with round after round of applause. The production of the cantata was a triumphant success, and the composer is to be congratulated on the general ability with which it was performed and the marked favour by which it was received.

A copy of the Cantata will be sent, post-free, to Conductors, on application to the COMPOSER, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HAMLET

COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

(Op. 50.)

The Pianoforte Arrangement (for four hands) by
BATTISON HAYNES.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

THE TIMES.

The representative themes for Hamlet and Ophelia are so well contrasted, and their treatment is so musicianly, that they suffer no diminution in interest, but rather the reverse, from the transference to the concert-room and a full orchestra, such as no theatre can employ. . . The greatest effect was made by the graceful and melodious "Ophelia" entr'acte; the strenuous Allegro impetuoso in which the theme associated with the heroine is, as it were, derided and cast aside for the more vigorous theme representing Hamlet in a mood of action; the "pastorale," with its pretty dialogue between the wood wind instruments; the interlude called "Ophelia's Death," in which, for concert use, the "snatches of old tunes" have now been introduced on the clarinet and horn; and the "Danish March."

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The second movement, "Ophelia," aims, as already indicated, at suggesting the charm and tenderness of the Danish maiden. A graceful melody, set off, and nowhere obscured, by skilful orchestration, runs through the piece, exercising the spell of real tune, and presenting to our imagination the absolute beauty which is music's greatest power. This Adagio can very well stand alone, and quite firmly, without any support from a dramatic application. . . . A general opinion upon the suite must, as far as we are concerned, be almost entirely favourable. Mr. Henschel's music is not only the work of a master of his craft in a technical sense, but the production of one who has ideas and imaginative power.

STANDARD.

That Mr. Henschel has risen to the height of his argument, and that the "Hamlet" Suite is well worthy of frequent hearing on its own account, cannot be contested. The leading themes are deeply expressive, those representing Hamlet's mental conflict and Ophelia's grief being especially poignant, while, in a purely musical sense at least, three of the five sections are certain to meet with general approval, the most important movement being the Danish March in E minor, in which the composer contrasts his own admirable themes with genuine Danish melodies.

MORNING POST.

The Largo Funèbre intended to picture Ophelia's death is a beautiful lament, sufficiently brief to cause regret at its being so soon over. Altogether Mr. Henschel's work is of considerable interest, throughout well scored, and apparently well suited to the subject.

DAILY NEWS.

The charm is undeniable of the "Ophelia," or first entr'acte (based, of course, upon the heroine's own theme in its pure form), and of the delicious Pastorale in which two shepherds are supposed to be playing upon their pipes, the cor Anglais being answered by the flute. The suite is indeed, as a whole, beyond question the best example of his art which this musician of many-sided talents has yet given us; and the recall which Mr. Henschel was accorded at the close of the concert was as well-deserved as it was hearty.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Striking as it is when heard in conjunction with the stage action, Mr. Henschel's music must still further win commendation in the concert room when ably interpreted. . . . The Danish March in E minor has point and vigour, and as it might stand by itself without reference to the play is almost certain to become popular.

GUARDIAN.

This incidental music seems likely to take a high rank amongst the compositions of its gifted author. It is singularly void of antiquarianism, and yet its modernity never strikes a jarring note.

BOSTON (U.S.) TRANSCRIPT.

It is not often that music, written with so purely dramatic a purpose as this of Mr. Henschel's, for a special production of a play, can hold its own in the concert room; the meaning of the various themes, which may be perfectly plain to the listener at the theatre, is too liable to be a sealed book to a concert audience. But there is enough of purely musical beauty and strength in this dramatic suite of Mr. Henschel's to make it worth listening to for its own sake. . . . It is music that not only pleases, but also interests you; it has consistency and something more than a merely emotional purpose. In a word, it is music worth writing.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE

TO THE

MUSICAL PROFESSION.

UNDER DISTINGUISHED PATRONAGE.

COMPLIMENTARY LETTERS RECEIVED FROM

H.M. THE QUEEN (through Sir Henry Ponsonby).
H.R.H. The PRINCE and PRINCESS OF WALES (through Sir Francis Knollys).
The Lord Bishop of ROCHESTER.
The Rev. H. E. J. BEVAN, Professor of Divinity at Gresham College.
And many others.

AN EXCELLENT BUSINESS AND HOLIDAY GUIDE.

The following only form part of a large number of those who have already taken copies of the work:—
Dr. Mackenzie, Sir John Stainer, M.A., Dr. G. C. Martin, Dr. J. F. Bridge, Rev. Dr. R. O. Davies, Dr. A. J. Greenish, I. Wrigley, F.R.A.M., Dr. Agutter, Dr. W. J. Reynolds, Mrs. R. Legge, A.T.C.L., T. Westlake Morgan, Esq., F.C.C.G., G. J. Bennett, Esq., F.C.O., J. H. Olding, Esq., F.Gld.O., E. C. Winchester, Esq.

Extracts from a few of the Testimonials received:—

"The Work is certainly quite original."
"A great assistance to me."
"A good book in every respect."
"It should facilitate the work both of institutions and individuals."
"I see it is quite unsectarian."
"I should think it would also be useful to the clergy; the articles are particularly interesting."

CONTENTS.

Holders of British Degrees and Diplomas—Particulars of the London Churches, over 500 in number, i.e., Names of Clergy, Organists, History and full description of Organs, date when first built, Organ Builders' names; the various alterations duly noticed; Style of Service and Hours of same, Seating accommodation, and other information—Cathedral Establishments—Collegiate Chapters—Chapels Royal, with full details—London Choral and Orchestral Societies; Country ditto, with Conductors', Accompanists', Secretaries' names; Number of Chorus; Particulars of Works, in rehearsal or performed—Institutions, Colleges, Schools—A General Professional List, containing about 4,000 names, including the same particulars of the most important Country Churches as given about the London Churches.

Those requiring Vocalists, Instrumentalists, Teachers, and others will find that this Work offers exceptional advantages.

Original articles on "Choir Training," "Selection of Vocalists, Organists," "Modern Organ Building," "Organists of Fifty Years Ago," and other interesting subjects. Altogether a most interesting, instructive, and useful book.

SHOULD BE ORDERED AT ONCE.

Price, complete, 2s. 6d. net, post-free.
The first part of the work, "List of British Degrees and Diplomas," to be had separately, price 6d.
J. MAXWELL and Co., 14 & 15, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, W.C.
Messrs. WEEKES and Co., Hanover Street, W.
J. HAWKINS, 17, Paternoster Row, E.C.

DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD.

For full information see

MANUAL OF VOICE-TRAINING

(With a complete Course of Exercises)

BY E. DAVIDSON PALMER, MUS. BAC., OXON.

Second Edition, Post-free, 2s., of the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or of the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

SYNOPSIS.

Two ways of producing the voice—The truth about registers—"Chest-voice" and Falsetto—How tenors are spoilt—Why women's voices are supposed to have three registers—"Head-voice," "Mixed voice," &c.—Breaking of the voice—How its natural development is prevented—"Throaty" and nasal tone—The Baritone and Contralto of "short compass"—Children's voices and Nature's method.

MR. PALMER'S PAMPHLET

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES

AND THE SECRET OF VOICE-PRODUCTION.

Third and Revised Edition, Post-free, 6d.

May also be had of the AUTHOR or PUBLISHER, address as above.

TWO SONGS—(a) "Forget thee," published in three keys, for Tenor, Baritone, and Bass; and (b) "Lovers' Partings," in two keys, for Baritone or Bass; and for Tenor—composed by Emeritus Professor Sir HERBERT OAKELEY (Op. 30). Price 4s. and 3s. respectively.
London: AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate Street, E.C.; and 1, Foubert's Place, W.

Now Ready.

THE CHORIC SONG

FROM

THE LOTOS-EATERS

BY

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

Set to Music for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra, by

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

EIGHT PIECES

FOR

VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE

BY

CH. DE BÉRIOT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

CONTENTS.

Non giova il sospirar.	Air varié en ré (Op. 1).
Vanne al mio bene.	Air varié en mi (Op. 3).
Al dolce guidami.	Air varié en mi (Op. 7).
A torto ti lagui amor.	Valses (Op. 58).

(No. 28. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S ALBUMS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BY THE RESTLESS BREAKERS. New Song. By THOS. HUTCHINSON (composer of "Fetters of Gold," and other well-known songs). 2s. net.
G. RICORDI and Co., 265, Regent Street, W.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.
Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

NEW ORGAN PIECES. By W. T. BEST.—
TOCCATA in A major.
ALLA MARCIA in C major.
Price Four Shillings each.
G. RICORDI and Co., 265, Regent Street, London, W.

'TIS THE LAST ROSE OF SUMMER.
Arranged as Soprano Solo, accompanied by Four-part Chorus. By BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 1½d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.

SEVEN SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

CONTENTS:

Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OBOE FOR AMATEURS.—See July Musical Opinion and Music Trades Review. Also 190 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. To be ordered everywhere; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post. 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

O CLAP YOUR HANDS

ANTHEM COMPOSED BY

SIR JOHN STAINER.

ORCHESTRAL PARTS ARRANGED BY

BATTISON HAYNES

May be had on hire of the Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BLUMENTHAL, P.—Sonata (No. 3). For Organ. Op. 72 ..	5	0
BÖHM, C.—Ballade. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 314	4	0
—— "Album Leaves." Twelve Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. No. 9. Boléro; No. 10. Spinning Song; No. 11. Adagietto religioso; No. 12. Spanish Suite .. .. each	2	0
BRAHMS.—Trio. For Pianoforte, Clarinet, and Violoncello. Arranged as Pianoforte Duet. Op. 114	12	0
BRUCH, M.—"Ave Maria." For Violoncello and Pianoforte	6	0
DOEBBER, JOH.—"Italian Sketches." For Pianoforte Duet. Barcarolle, Serenata, Tarantella. Op. 21. complete	5	0
GADE, N. W.—"Praise the Lord." Fantaisie-Prelude. For Organ	3	0
GOUVY, TH.—Twelve Pieces. For Pianoforte Duet. Op. 83:—
Book I. Prelude, Siciliano, Barcarolla, Burlesca, Impromptu, Fanfare	12	0
Book II. Bagatelle, Chanson portugaise, Intermezzo, Tambourin, Elégia, Alla polacca	12	0
HENSELT, A.—Master Studies (posthumous work). Book I.	8	0
HOFFMANN, C. J.—Two Pieces. For Pianoforte. Op. 15:—
No. 1. Scherzo; No. 2. Mazurka .. .. .. each	3	0
—— Two Pieces. For Pianoforte. Op. 17:—
No. 1. Andante; No. 2. Presto .. .. .. each	3	0
HOFFMANN, RICH.—Eight Studies and Concert Pieces. For Violin and Viola. Op. 82:—
Book I. Nos. 1—4	4	0
„ II. Nos. 5—8	4	0
—— Five Pieces. For Violin and Violoncello. Op. 83	6	0
HOLLÄNDER, G.—Cavatina. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 36	4	0
—— Gavotte. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 37 ..	4	0
KÖHLER, E.—Self Instructor for the Mandoline .. net	3	0
LEOPOLD I. (EMPEROR).—Compositions. Edited by MAX DIETZ:—
No. 2. Requiem (Missa pro defunctis). Full Score net	6	0
No. 3. Missa angeli custodis. Vocal Score .. „	6	0
LUDWIG, A.—"Polnisch." Intermezzo. For Orchestra. Op. 5:—
Full Score .. .. net	4	6
Parts .. .. „	6	0
—— "Ad astra." Overture. For Orchestra:—
Full Score	12	0
Parts	16	0
MALÁH, J.—One Hundred Slavonic National Songs. For Pianoforte and Harmonium, 8s.; bound	12	0
MAYER, CHARLES.—Celebrated Studies (New edition). Fingered by E. PAUER:—
Op. 119. Books 1, 2, and 3 .. .. each	2	0
Op. 271. Twenty Technical Studies. Books 1 and 2 „	3	0
Op. 305. L'Art de delier les doigts. Books 1 and 2 „	2	0
Op. 340. Twenty-five Studies for the Young	3	0
POENITZ, FRANZ.—"Death Dance of the Willys" (Old Scotch Legend). For Harp. Op. 24	3	0
—— The same. For Harp and Harmonium	5	0
RIMSKY-KORSAKOW.—Indian Dance. For Pianoforte ..	2	0
RITTER, H.—Transcriptions. For Viola alta and Pianoforte:—
No. 21. Czardas	2	0
„ 22. Lento (J. S. BACH)	2	0
„ 23. Siciliano „	2	0
„ 24. Adagio „	3	0
„ 25. Four Scotch Songs	3	0
RÜFER, PH.—Adagio. For Violoncello and Organ. Op. 36	2	0
SCHILDKNECHT, J.—One Hundred and Seventy-eight Cadenzas For the Organ. Op. 19	3	6
STRAUSS, R.—"Macbeth." Symphonic Poem. Arranged as a Pianoforte Duet. Op. 23..	12	0
VON DORNBAY, A.—Three Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 51:—
No. 1. Grandmother's Tale	1	0
„ 2. Intermezzo	1	0
„ 3. Dispute	2	0
WEISSENBORN, A. F.—Hungarian Rhapsodie. For Violin and String Orchestra	5	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

BOOKS ON WAGNER AND HIS WORKS.

	s.	d.
MARSOP, DR. P.—Die Aussicht der Kunst R. Wagner's in Frankreich .. .. net	1	6
PLÜDDEMANN, M.—Aus der Zeit—für die Zeit. Aphorismen zur Charakteristik moderner Kunst .. .. .. net	0	9
STOHN, DR. H.—Richard Wagner und seine Schöpfungen „	3	0
WOLZOGEN, H. VON.—Thematic. Leitfaden durch die Musik des "Parsifal" .. .. net	2	0
—— Thematic. Leitfaden durch die Musik des "Ring des Nibelungen" .. .. net	1	0
bound „	2	0
—— Guide through the Music of the "Ring of the Nibelung" „	2	6
bound „	3	0
—— Erläuterungen zu R. Wagner's "Nibelungen" Drama „	1	0
—— Die Sprache in R. Wagner's Dichtungen .. .. „	1	6
—— Unsere Zeit und unsere Kunst .. .. „	4	0
GJELLERUP, KARL.—Rich. Wagner in seinem Hauptwerke "Der Ring des Nibelungen" .. .. net	4	0
PFOHL, F.—Führer durch R. Wagner's "Tannhäuser" (Pariser Bearbeitung) .. .. net	1	0
SCHURÉ, ED.—Das musikalische Drama (Deutsch von H. von Wolzogen) .. .. net	4	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OVERTURE

A MONTHLY MUSICAL JOURNAL

WRITTEN BY

MUSICIANS FOR MUSICIANS.

EDITOR: F. CORDER.

PUBLISHED BY

MESSRS. FORSYTH BROS., 267, REGENT STREET, W.

Price 3s. Annually (9 Nos.), or by post, 3s. 6d.

VOL. III., No. 5, JULY, 1892, CONTAINS—

Wagner in Excelsis.

Passing Notes.

On Some Musical Snobs, No. 5.

Wisdom of the Ancients.

Reviews, Major and Minor.

"What is that, Mother?"

History of the Royal Academy of Music.

Thoughts and Reflections.

The History of an Idea.

Academy News.

&c., &c.

Just Published.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

PIANOFORTE ALBUMS

Edited by BERTHOLD TOURS.

No. 50. THREE SETS OF VARIATIONS, ANDANTE, and KLAVIERSTÜCK. FRANZ SCHUBERT.

„ 51. ADAGIO, ALLEGRETTO, and MARCH in E major, &c. FRANZ SCHUBERT.

„ 52. FIVE KLAVIERSTÜCKE and TWO SCHERZI. FRANZ SCHUBERT.

Price One Shilling each.

The Three Numbers, handsomely bound in cloth, 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE PSALMS

BIBLE VERSION

POINTED FOR CHANTING

BY THE

REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

CLOTH, ONE SHILLING.

The principles on which the pointing has been done are mainly those of the Cathedral Psalter, of which Dr. Troutbeck was Co-Editor, a Psalter which has now successfully endured the test of long experience. The book is not, of course, divided into daily portions like the Prayer Book Psalter, as it is intended for the use of those Christian bodies in which the Psalms are not sung throughout a monthly course, but it can easily be so divided by those who use it.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Published this day, No. 2 of

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

A MONTHLY PERIODICAL DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

THE establishment of a Journal specially devoted to the interests of Music in Schools is believed to be called for by the conspicuous development of the systematic teaching of singing and music generally that has taken place in schools during recent years.

Singing by note is now taught in upwards of 20,000 elementary and middle-class schools in the United Kingdom. As most of this music teaching is committed to the care of the ordinary school staff, the tuning of the ear, preservation of the voice, and the musical culture of the nation may be said to depend in a great measure upon the skill and training of the 120,000 teachers composing our educational army. It will be one of the first aims of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW to deal plainly with the questions of what to do and how to do it that constantly arise in connection with the varied musical needs of both teachers and pupils.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

WILL CONTAIN:—

ARTICLES ON MUSICAL SUBJECTS OF GENERAL INTEREST TO TEACHERS, CONTRIBUTED BY SCHOOL MUSIC SPECIALISTS.
GENERAL NOTES ON IMPORTANT MUSICAL EVENTS OF THE MONTH.
REPORTS OF SCHOOL CONCERTS AND COMPETITIONS.
SCHOOL SONGS IN BOTH NOTATIONS AND SUITED TO THE CAPACITIES OF THE CHILDREN IN THE DIFFERENT DIVISIONS OF SCHOOLS.
EXERCISES IN SIGHT-SINGING IN BOTH NOTATIONS.
REVIEWS OF SCHOOL MUSIC.
SOLUTIONS TO THE QUESTIONS IN MUSIC SET AT THE DIFFERENT EXAMINATIONS IN CONNECTION WITH THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT AND OTHER EXAMINING BODIES.
CORRESPONDENCE, NOTES AND QUERIES, &c.

The Music will also be sold separately. Price 1½*d.*

Articles on the following topics are in preparation: "How to deal with flat singing," "How to begin Part-singing," "How to train boys' voices," "How to teach change of key and the minor mode," "How to combine time and tune," "How to teach quick six-eight or six-pulse measure," "How to train for telling by ear," "How to teach a school song," "How to classify mixed classes," "How to beat time," "How to work for competition," &c.

Correspondence and contributions should be addressed to the Editor of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

CONTENTS OF No. 1.

1. INTRODUCTORY.
2. A SHORT HISTORY OF MUSIC IN PRIMARY SCHOOLS. By W. G. MCNAUGHT.
3. THE ALTERATIONS IN THE MUSIC CODE.
4. A RECOMMENDATION AS TO THE NOMENCLATURE OF INTERVALS.
5. ON THE TRAINING OF PUPIL TEACHERS IN MUSIC. By C. TANTRAM.
6. THE REVISED MUSIC SYLLABUS FOR PUPIL TEACHERS.
7. REPORTS OF SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENTS.
8. MUSIC (IN BOTH NOTATIONS):—
   "STARS THAT ON YOUR WONDROUS WAY." Hymn for Children, by J. STAINER.
   "LITTLE SOLDIERS." Kindergarten Song, by A. MOFFAT.
   "THE DELIGHTS OF SPRING." Vocal Trio, by FRANZ ABT.
   STUDIES IN TIME AND TUNE, by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

CONTENTS OF No. 2.

1. GENERAL NOTES.
2. WHAT A HIGH SCHOOL GIRL SHOULD BE ABLE TO DO. By the EDITOR, MISS EMMA MUNDELLA, and MRS. FLORENCE MARSHALL.
3. TEST THEORY QUESTIONS FOR PUPIL TEACHERS AND STUDENTS.
4. LONDON SCHOOL BOARD CHILDREN AT EXETER HALL.
5. RETIREMENT OF THE MUSIC SUPERINTENDENT OF THE LONDON BOARD SCHOOLS.
6. THE SCOTCH SCHOOLS AND MUSIC.
7. CORRESPONDENCE.
8. REPORTS OF SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENTS.
9. MUSIC (IN BOTH NOTATIONS):—
   "FAIRY SONG." Two-part Song, by HERBERT W. SCHARTAU.
   "DAISY DELL." Unison Song, by A. SCOTT GATTY.
   "THE POSTILLION." "EVENING." } Junior School Songs from LOWELL MASON'S "JUVENILE SONGSTER."
   Round, "TIMOTHY TIPPEN'S HORSE." By A. MOFFAT.
   STUDIES IN TIME AND TUNE, by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

Price 1½*d.; Post-free,* 2*d. Annual Subscription, including Postage,* 2*s.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PRODUCED AT THE BIRMINGHAM MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1891.

REQUIEM MASS

FOR

SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

Paper cover, 5s ; paper boards, 6s. ; cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d. Full Score, £3 3s. Vocal and Orchestral Parts in the Press.

 All communications respecting performances of this work should be addressed direct to the Publishers.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The "Requiem" of Antonín Dvorák is a chef d'œuvre, difficult, no doubt, and imposing much labour upon those who grapple with it for mastery, but all the more on that account, perhaps, the thing I have said; at this no amateur is likely to be surprised. . . . I am not going to set up a comparison between the "Stabat Mater" and the "Requiem." Although the "Requiem" draws more largely than its predecessor upon the resources of highest art, it belongs to the same class of work, and whoever would approach the latter in a spirit of preparedness should do so through the earlier. The two are consecutive links in a golden chain. Following them, we go from glory to glory, and the end we trust is not yet. Dvorák has established himself as the greatest religious composer of the age, not so much, perhaps, in the matter of technique as in the sublime expression of exalted feeling.

STANDARD.

A work in every sense worthy of the gifted Bohemian composer, and one of the noblest settings ever penned of the Roman Catholic Office for the Dead. . . . Even an essay would fail to give an adequate impression of Dvorák's latest masterpiece. . . . The fascination of Dvorák's music consists in the strong individuality of expression which shows itself in almost every line of the score. . . . The "Requiem" (at the Albert Hall) was followed with close attention by a large audience, and, so far as could be judged, made a profound impression.

DAILY NEWS.

To describe the masterly and thoroughly characteristic manner in which Dr. Dvorák treats his orchestra—often in a daring spirit of originality, but always with the happiest effect—is not now necessary. It will suffice that, despite certain minor blemishes, the opinion offered by the analyst, that the "Requiem" is "truly a solemn masterpiece," will be endorsed by connoisseurs, and generally, it is hoped, by the more thoughtful majority of the public.

MORNING POST.

The expectations which had been formed of the new "Requiem," composed at the request of the committee for this Festival by Antonín Dvorák, were fully realised, and Birmingham may once more be congratulated upon having called into existence another work of genius which will stand as a monumental treatment of the time-honoured service in commemoration of the dead.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Antonín Dvorák has at length provided his famous "Stabat Mater" with a fitting companion. . . . From any composer it would be an honourable contribution to art, but from Dvorák it is specially welcome as serving to make manifest that the noble work by which he has hitherto been best known to English concert frequenters was not a solitary specimen of genius in the treatment of sacred subjects.

THE ATHENÆUM.

If it be true, as alleged, that the idea of writing a Requiem originated when the news of the death of Cardinal Newman reached the Bohemian composer, the world is indirectly indebted to that distinguished ecclesiastic for one of the noblest and most beautiful tributes to the dead that ever proceeded from the hand of a musician. . . The effect of the entire combination (in the "Dies Iræ") is, as we have said, stupendous, and has never been surpassed in any setting of the same words.

WEEKLY DISPATCH.

The work itself is a worthy companion to the celebrated "Stabat Mater," though which is the greater of the two I shall not pretend to decide. . . . The great merits of the score consist in the wealth of rich and striking harmony and the strong infusion of fresh and original melody. I have no space to describe it number by number, but I would point to the "Dies Iræ" as one of the grandest settings ever penned of this awful hymn, and to the "Recordare" and the "Offertorium" as containing music unspeakably beautiful. The mind that conceived these things is that of a master.

MANCHESTER GUARDIAN.

A second hearing deepens our admiration for this wonderful "Requiem." It is strikingly original, and quite unlike any other setting of the Mass for the Dead. . . . The "Recordare" surely is one of the most exquisite passages of vocal harmony that can be found in the range of music. . . . The masses of harmony towards the close ("Quam olim Abrahæ") are piled up in a way which excites us more and more, and there was little reason for surprise when it was redemanded.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
P. ARMES.
ST. BARNABAS	2/0	—	—
G. J. BETJEMANN.
THE SONG OF THE WESTERN MEN	1/0	—	—
ETHEL M. BOYCE.
THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY	1/6	—	—
YOUNG LOCHINVAR	1/6	—	—
J. F. BRIDGE.
ROCK OF AGES (Latin & English words) (Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.)	1/0	—	—
CALLIRHOË .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE REPENTANCE OF NINEVEH..	2/6	3/0	4/0
DUDLEY BUCK.
THE LIGHT OF ASIA	3/0	3/6	5/0
F. CORDER.
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/6	—	—
H. COWARD.
THE STORY OF BETHANY .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	—
F. H. COWEN.
SLEEPING BEAUTY .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
ST. JOHN'S EVE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
RUTH .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	4/0	4/6	6/0
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING ..	1/0	—	—
ANTONÍN DVOŘAK.
REQUIEM MASS	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE	3/0	3/6	5/0
A PATRIOTIC HYMN	1/6	—	—
H. J. EDWARDS.
PRAISE TO THE HOLIEST	1/6	—	—
ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.
ELYSIUM	1/0	—	—
ROBERT FRANZ.
PRAISE YE THE LORD (PSALM 117)	1/0	—	—
G. GARRETT.
HARVEST CANTATA .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.)	1/0	—	—
F. GERNSHEIM.
SALAMIS (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
HERMANN GOETZ.
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices) ..	1/6	—	—
CH. GOUNOD.
THE REDEMPTION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
DITTO (French words) ..	8/4	—	—
DITTO (German words) ..	10/0	—	—
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE	2/6	—	—
MORS ET VITA .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)	6/0	6/6	7/6
ADOLF JENSEN.
THE FEAST OF ADONIS	1/0	1/6	—
OLIVER KING.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON (PSALM 137)	1/6	—	—
FRANZ LISZT.
THE THIRTEENTH PSALM	2/0	—	—

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
C. H. LLOYD.
ALCESTIS	3/0	—	—
ANDROMEDA	3/0	3/6	5/0
HERO AND LEANDER	1/6	—	—
SONG OF BALDER	1/0	—	—
THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
A SONG OF JUDGMENT	2/6	3/0	4/0
HAMISH MACCUNN.
LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.)	1/0	—	—
THE LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
A. C. MACKENZIE.
VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS	2/0	—	—
ROSE OF SHARON .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE STORY OF SAYID	3/0	3/6	4/6
THE DREAM OF JUBAL	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE NEW COVENANT	1/6	—	—
THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT	2/0	—	—
C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS	1/0	—	—
JUDITH; or, THE REGENERATION OF MANASSEH	5/0	6/0	7/6
ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	—	—
L'ALLEGRO	2/6	—	—
DE PROFUNDIS	2/0	—	—
CIRO PINSUTI.
PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—
E. PROUT.
THE RED CROSS KNIGHT .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	4/0	4/6	6/0
DAMON AND PHINTIAS (Male Voices)	2/6	—	—
CHARLES B. RUTENBER.
DIVINE LOVE	2/6	—	—
C. SAINT-SAËNS.
THE HEAVENS DECLARE (PSALM 19)	1/6	—	—
SCHUMANN.
THE MINSTREL'S CURSE	1/6	—	—
THE KING'S SON	1/0	—	—
A. SOMERVELL.
MASS (in C minor)	2/6	—	—
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
EDEN	5/0	6/0	7/6
CARMEN SÆCULARE	1/6	—	—
THE REVENGE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
THE VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE ..	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE BATTLE OF THE BALTIC ..	1/6	—	—
J. STAINER.
THE CRUCIFIXION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
THE GOLDEN LEGEND .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	3/6	4/0	5/0
C. M. VON WEBER.
IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn) ..	1/6	—	—
C. LEE WILLIAMS.
THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	2/6	—
CHARLES WOOD.
ODE TO THE WEST WIND	1/0	—	—

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Friday, July 1, 1892

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 594.—Vol. 33.
Registered for transmission abroad.

AUGUST 1, 1892.

Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

SEPTEMBER 6, 7, 8, and 9, 1892.

Principal Artists:

Madame NORDICA.	Miss ANNA WILLIAMS.
Miss HILDA WILSON.	Miss MARY MORGAN.
Miss JESSIE KING.	Miss L. FRANKLIN HIGGS.
Mr. EDWARD LLOYD.	Mr. WATKIN MILLS.
Mr. E. HOUGHTON.	Mr. PLUNKET GREENE.

Mr. SANTLEY.

Leader .. .. Mr. CARRODUS.
Conductor .. .. Mr. C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Prices of Admission: Reserved Seats, 15s. to 1s. 6d.; Unreserved, 2s. 6d. to 1s. Serial Tickets, £4 each.

For Regulations, Programmes, Tickets, &c., apply to Messrs. Partridge and Robins, 155, Westgate Street, Gloucester.

LEEDS SEVENTH TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

TOWN HALL,

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, and SATURDAY,
October 5, 6, 7, and 8, 1892.

Patron, THE QUEEN.

Conductor, Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

Principal Vocalists:

Madame ALBANI, Miss MACINTYRE,
Miss ANNA WILLIAMS,
Miss HILDA WILSON, Miss MARIAN McKENZIE,
Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, Mr. H. PIERCY,
Mr. BEN DAVIES, Mr. NORMAN SALMOND,
Mr. ANDREW BLACK, and Mr. PLUNKET GREENE.

BAND and CHORUS of 430.

Prices of Tickets:—

	£	s.	d.
SERIAL TICKET (transferable), admitting to all the Concerts, except Saturday night	5	0	0
SERIAL TICKET (transferable), admitting to all the Concerts, including Saturday night	6	0	0
FIRST SEATS (Morning)	1	1	0
FIRST SEATS (Evening)	0	15	0
SECOND SEATS (Morning)	0	10	6
SECOND SEATS (Evening)	0	8	0

All Seats are Numbered and Reserved.

Applications for Tickets cannot be attended to unless accompanied by a remittance for the full amount of the Tickets required.

Early application will be entered, and Seats marked off in the order received.

Programmes can now be had.

All communications to be made to
ALD. FRED. R. SPARK, Hon. Sec.
Festival Offices, Municipal Buildings, Leeds.

Now Ready (420 Pages). Price 25s.

A FULL HISTORY
OF THE
LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVALS
FROM 1858 to 1889,

By FRED. R. SPARK (Hon. Sec.) and JOSEPH BENNETT.

With Portraits of the Conductors, and fac-simile Letters from Sterndale Bennett, Liszt, Niels Gade, Gounod, Costa, Sullivan, Verdi, Raff, Brahms, F. Clay, A. C. Mackenzie, F. Corder, C. V. Stanford, and autographs of Macfarren, Smart, and Dvorák.

This History, which has been in preparation many years, is written mainly from the Official Festival Records. It contains complete accounts of the inner and public work connected with the Seven Festivals held in Leeds—viz., 1858, 1874, 1877, 1880, 1883, 1886, and 1889—together with an account of the projected and abandoned Festival of 1861.

Every event of interest in relation to the Leeds Musical Festivals is recorded in the History—including Correspondence with eminent Musicians, complete Lists of Patrons, Committees, Programmes, Principals, Orchestras, Chorus-singers, Balance Sheets, &c.

Leeds: FRED. R. SPARK and SON; also RICHARD JACKSON.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Mr. BARNBY.

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for SOPRANOS, ALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES, especially TENORS. Only those who have good powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Assistant-Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.
Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

The Syllabus for the Metropolitan Examination, Dec., 1892 (successful Candidates at which are created Licentiates of the Academy), is now ready, and will be sent on application.

Michaelmas Term begins September 29.

Particulars of Erard, Thalberg, and Sainton-Dolby open Scholarships are now ready, and will be sent on application.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The Meadowcroft Anthem Prize has been awarded to a Composition by Dr. F. J. Sawyer, F.C.O. Commendation has been given to an Anthem bearing the motto "J'ai foi."

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury.

PRIZE COMPETITION.

THE SUM OF FIVE GUINEAS
IS OFFERED FOR THE
BEST VOCAL MARCH FOR SCHOOLS
UNDER THE FOLLOWING CONDITIONS:—

The Music must be original, but the words may or may not be new.

The piece should be written for two parts, with a dispensable pianoforte accompaniment.

The sole copyright of the successful work must be assigned to the Proprietors of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW.

Compositions must be sent in on or before August 15, addressed to "The Editor, SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, 1, Berners Street, W.," and endorsed "Prize Competition." They should be marked with a motto or nom de plume, and accompanied by a sealed envelope bearing the same motto and containing the name and address of the composer, and also the name of the author of the words.

No manuscript can, under any circumstances, be returned; competitors will therefore retain copies for themselves.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),
35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., DEAN OF BRISTOL.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.C.C.G.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION (Membership), 10s. 6d.
Choirs Enrolled in Union, 10s. 6d.

January, 1893.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G. Full set of Papers, used at the recent Examination, post-free, thirteen stamps.

A Silver Medal and One Guinea will be awarded for the best Andante for the Organ. Other prizes are offered. See The Church Musician; or, apply to The Warden, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By order of the Council,
C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS LOUISE CESTRIA (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 45, Bridge Street, Chester.

MISS MAUDE DARLING (Soprano)
(Pupil of David Strong, Esq., Guildhall School of Music).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Oaklands, Addlestone, Surrey.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c., address, care of Miss Mary Willis, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MADAME MARIE HAUGHTON (Soprano)
(Pupil of Charles Lunn).
For Oratorios, Ballads, and Operatic Selections, 1, Grantham Road, Cape Hill, Birmingham.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS JEAN HUNTER (Soprano)
For Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms and Press notices, Cromer House, Herbert Road, Plumstead.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Square, N.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS EDITH NIELD (Soprano)
For Concerts, &c., address, 14, Ravenscroft Park, Barnet.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Recitals, Ballad Concerts, &c., Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
53, Cromwell Avenue, Highgate, N.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
(Pupil of Fred. Walker, Esq., and Signor Garcia, Opera),
104, Lewisham High Road, New Cross, S.E.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER (Contralto)
Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), is prepared to take Oratorio, Concert, and Drawing-room engagements.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
29, Doughty Street, W.C.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., 76, Calabria Road, N.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, vid Leeds.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c., or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c., 46, Messin Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. G. GREEN (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Preston Parish Church).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., address, 81, South Meadow Lane, Preston.

MR. CH. KARLYLE (Tenor).
"Splendid voice, clear pronunciation."—Musical Standard. "Excellent vocalist."—Era, Echo. "Received quite an ovation." "Creation," "Bride of Dunkerron" (Northampton). "Capital style; enthusiastic recall."—Musical News. 65, Oseney Crescent, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor)
5, Melbourne Terrace, Bradford.

MR. ARTHUR J. WILSON (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 12, Glengall Road, Camberwell, S.E. Sole Agent, Mr. Daniel Mayer, 180, New Bond Street, W.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. D. PRICE (Baritone)
(Westminster Abbey),
6, Wharton Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia)
For Oratorios, Operas, and Ballads.
"Fine quality and thorough reliability of tone are special characteristics of his voice, and his singing is marked by artistic appreciation of every phrase."—North British Daily Mail.
Address, 94, Hill Street, Glasgow.

MR. & MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone and Soprano and Elocutionists).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Operas, &c.; also to Recite "The Dream of Jubal," "Athalie," and similar works.
"Preciosa," by Newcastle Choral Society.—"The soloists (who both recited and sang) acquitted themselves admirably."—Newcastle Chronicle.
"Mrs. Wallis's charm of manner and dramatic ability were particularly apparent."—Musical Times, March, 1892.
Address, 90, Caledonian Road, Leeds.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. C. D. COLLET (Vocal Bass)
Teacher of Singing. 7, Coleridge Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead-on-Tyne.
National Society of Professional Musicians' Conference at Newcastle, 1892.—Recital at St. Nicholas' Cathedral.—"Mr. Preston's playing throughout his Recital was surprisingly clear, powerful, and artistic. Each piece received an admirable rendering, and the impression produced was in every case pleasurable in the extreme. Mr. Preston's reputation as an organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of the representative English organists. Those who had the pleasure of hearing him on the present occasion will not readily forget it, and will, we are sure, be quite content to leave the future upholding of the already high mark which native organists have reached to such as the organist of St. George's, Jesmond. The laurels are being woven for him. We wish him long life and health to wear them."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.
". . . Mr. Preston is a local professor, and a performer of the very first rank, it is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.
"Mr. Preston no doubt felt it incumbent upon him to uphold the reputation of our city, and has not only achieved this, but something more. He has established his right to be regarded as one of our representative English organists. His masterly performance of the Bach A minor Prelude and Fugue, his artistic rendering of Best's 'Air with Variations,' and of Liszt's singular but clever and difficult Fugue on the Chorale 'Ad nos, ad salutarem undam,' created a profound impression, and it is impossible that his reputation can much longer be limited to two or three counties."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

MR. CHARLES SCHUESSLER
(Solo Mandoline and Zither-Banjo).
For Concerts, Garden Parties; also "The Huntley-Schuessler Trio," Mandolinists, &c., 65, Yerbury Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto) (Gold Medalist, L.A.M.). Engaged: August 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 22. 88, Lady Margaret Road, Tufnell Park, N.

FLORENCE FAITHFULL (the new Contralto) is now booking Engagements. Powerful and flexible voice. Large répertoire, including all the standard Oratorios, Cantatas, Masses, modern Songs, Ballads, &c. 6, Christchurch Terrace, Doncaster.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 53, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for ENGAGEMENTS at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. C. H. BARBER (Tenor) (St. James's Church, Westmoreland Street, Marylebone, W.). Address, Sion College, Thames Embankment, E.C.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor), late principal Tenor, Carl Rosa Opera Company, Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Company, and the St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, is now booking Engagements for Opera, Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor) kindly requests that all communications should be sent to 106, Bolingbroke Grove, New Wandsworth, S.W.; or, W. B. Healey and Son, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. SYDNEY JAMIESON (Baritone). At liberty for ENGAGEMENTS in Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, Masonic Festivals, &c. References kindly permitted to Dr. E. H. Turpin, C. J. Dale, Esq. (Conductor, Finsbury Choral Association), and Percy Palmer, Esq. For terms, address, 26, Clifton Rd., Maida Vale, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. J. H. MAUNDER begs to notify CHANGE of ADDRESS to Lyndale, Perry Rise, S.E.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music, and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MISS CARRIE LEWIS (Accompanist, good Reader, and Solo Pianist) accepts Engagements for Concerts, at Homes, &c. 218, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, S.W.; or, Stedman's Musical Agency, 12, Berners Street, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

OTTO PEINIGER'S SCHOOL for PROFESSIONAL VIOLINISTS, Harrow.—A thorough TRAINING in Solo, Quartet, and Orchestral playing, Theory, Piano, &c. The Students are placed with responsible householders. Address, Wardhouse, Harrow.

W. WERREN CURNOW, Organist of Great Queen Street Church, prepares PUPILS for COLLEGE EXAMS., PIANO, VIOLIN, and HARMONY. Schools attended. 16, Great Russell Street, and 84, New Bond Street.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(SOPRANO)

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool.

Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

LEEDS SYMPHONY CONCERTS, ALBERT HALL, LEEDS.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)

AND

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are at liberty for Concerts and At Homes of every description, and may be engaged either together, separately, or with a Concert Party.

For terms and dates please address Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.; or, 37, Torrington Square, W.C.

MR.

WM. SWEETMAN

(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH

(HARPIST)

(Associate of the Royal College of Music),

11, Napier Road, Kensington, W.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS

MR. A. BOWYER BRISTOL

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

"Mr. Walter J. Evans is to be congratulated upon his Concert Party, their performances placing them in the front rank, and for all-round ability would be difficult to beat."—The Wandsworth and Battersea Advertiser.

"The engagement of Mr. Walter J. Evans's Concert Party being a sufficient guarantee of musical excellence."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"We congratulate Professor Jones upon having secured such an efficient troup of artistes."—Barmouth and County Advertiser.

Dates for Northern tour, October and November, are now being booked. Immediate application advisable.

Applications for terms and dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

CONCERT AGENTS.

METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,

83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

"THE LYRIC QUINTET"

CONCERT COMPANY.

Madame CHRISTIAN WILLIAMS .. .. .. Soprano.
Miss JANET RUSSELL .. .. Contralto.
Mr. E. EDWARDS .. .. Tenor.
Mr. CHARLES WILLIAMS .. .. Bass.
Mr. FREDERICK C. NICHOLLS Solo Pianist and Accompanist.
Assisted by (if required)
Mr. ROY WILLIAMS .. .. Humorist.
All communications to 6, Sandon Street, Liverpool.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.
Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. JAMES BATES, Director of the Choir, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W., can supply SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Choral Weddings, Concerts, &c. Apply, Church House, Porchester Terrace, London, W.

CHOIR BOYS.—Several well-trained, reliable SOLO and LEADING BOYS are available for permanent Choir Appointments; also for Festivals, Concerts, &c., at reasonable terms. Church references and testimonials. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The next Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be held in Durham in September next. Examiners: Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.; J. Frederick Bridge, Mus. D., Oxon.; Philip Armes, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.

Full particulars, with Specimen Papers of former Examinations, may be had on application to Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Instituted and founded by the Victoria College Corporation.
Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:
The Right Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.
The Right Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.V.C.M. and A.V.C.M.) will take place in London, on July 27, and at Bradford, Yorkshire, on July 29.

Local Examinations at the different centres during July. Names should be sent in to the Local Secretaries for Theoretical or Practical Examinations. Theoretical Examination on July 20.

Prospectuses, forms of entry, and all particulars on application. Names (for all Examinations) should be sent in on or before July 5.

Particulars of the Welsh and Yorkshire branches on application.

Local Secretaries required for towns not already represented.

By order of the Council,
FREDERICK J. KARN, Mus.D.,
Hon. Secretary.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. James Sterndale Bennett, M.A.
Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.
Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.
The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

WORCESTER CATHEDRAL CHOIR SCHOOL for Sons of Gentlemen and Professional Men. Boys with voices can be admitted. Age between 9 and 10½. Probationers' fees £26 per ann., reduced to £16 on election as full choristers. The boys are under the care of the Precentor, Rev. H. H. Woodward, who will furnish full particulars.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892), A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 81, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 42, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. HOCH'S CONSERVATOIRE for all branches of Music, in Frankfort-on-the-Maine. The Winter Term commences September 1 (the special examination for the Classes of Frau Schumann, end of March). Director, Professor Dr. B. Scholz. Tuition is given by Frau F. Bassermann, and by Messrs. Director Dr. B. Scholz, J. Kwast, L. Uzielli, J. Meyer, E. Engesser, A. Gluck (in Pianoforte); Mr. H. Gelhaar (in Organ); Professor H. Heermann, Professor Naret-Konig, and F. Bassermann (in Violin and Viola); Professor B. Cossmann (in Violoncello); W. Seltrecht (in Contra-Bass); M. Kretzschmar (in Flute); R. Müns (in Oboe); L. Mohler (in Clarinet); F. Thiele (Fagott); C. Preusse (in Horn); H. Weinhardt (in Trumpet); Dr. G. Gunz, Dr. F. Krükl, Mrs. C. Schubart, and H. Herborn (in Singing); Director Dr. Scholz and Messrs. J. Knorr and E. Humperdinck (in Theory and Composition); E. Humperdinck (Partiturspiel and Chorgesang); Dr. G. Veith (in German Literature); Mr. K. Hermann (in Declamation and Mimics); Frl. del Lungo (in Italian Language). The Fee for the Special Branch and necessary accessories is 360 marks; for the Finishing Classes of the Pianoforte and Singing School, 450 marks per annum. Applications to be made to the Direction of Dr. Hoch's Conservatoire.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1891; F.C.O., JAN., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cambridge; Intermediate Mus.B., London; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891; Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L., 1892 (including Candidate with highest number of marks, 1888), A.Mus., T.C.L., 1891; A.C.O., 1891; Tonic Sol-fa College Fellowship; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., Theory and Pianoforte; and T.C.L. Senior Honours; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Fifty successes annually.

TENORS AND VOICE-TRAINING.—DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD.—For terms for Lessons on this method, or for information respecting it, address, E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D. Mus., Lond., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in the THEORY of MUSIC (including Acoustics). 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by Post. Many successes at College of Organists, and other Examinations. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), prepares CANDIDATES for UNIVERSITY and other MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Final Mus. Bac., Cantab., 1890; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Durham, 1890 and 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1892. Address, Dr. Wareing, 150, Bristol Road, Birmingham.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—The Organist of Bangor Cathedral has a VACANCY for a talented and gentlemanly Youth, to train for the Profession. Exceptional advantages. Address, T. Westlake-Morgan, The Cathedral, Bangor.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. HERBERT THORNE, Organist and Choirmaster of Clapham Parish Church, London, S.W., has a VACANCY for above. Three-manual organ, daily choral service, residence in best part of Clapham, facing Common, 2½ minutes' walk from church. The above offers exceptional opportunities for acquiring a thorough musical education, both as a Performer (organ and pianoforte), Accompanist, and Choir-trainer. Comfortable home. Highest references. Address, Gorton Lodge, North Side, Clapham Common, S.W.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. ARTHUR W. MARCHANT, Mus. Bac., Oxon.; F.C.O., Organist and Choirmaster, All Saints' Parish Church, Huntingdon, has a VACANCY for another RESIDENT PUPIL. Daily Choral Service. Very fine three-manual organ (tubular pneumatic) and every facility for a thorough musical training. Preparation for College of Organists and other exams. A small post as Organist can be offered when qualified. Address, The Terrace, Huntingdon.

WANTED, VIOLA and CELLO PLAYERS to form Quartet Party for mutual evening practice and improvement. Apply, W. D. B., 13, Durham Terrace, W.

TO CONCERT AGENTS.—TENOR Vocalist, holding public appointment, requires an Agent to introduce him for Concerts, &c., during the coming season. Address, Vocalist, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, SOLOISTS, requiring APPOINTMENTS, should apply to the Secretary, Diapason Musical Agency, 55, Chancery Lane, W.C. Lists free.

TO COMPOSERS and LYRIC WRITERS. Composers seeking words to Set will find a large selection in THE LYRIC. Lyric authors with words for Sale may insert them in THE LYRIC, which is posted to all the principal Composers. Price 2d. The Lyric Magazine Publishing Company, Ltd., 276, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, in London, advanced PIANOFORTE LESSONS, to prepare for Royal Academy Metropolitan exam. Teacher must have successfully prepared students before. Address, Miss Cooper, care of Miss Wenham, High Street, Buntingford, Herts.

LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL.—SOLO BOY WANTED. Board, lodging, and education free. Good voice; fair knowledge of music; good character. Apply, Rev. the Subchanter, The Close, Lichfield.

WELLS CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, a CHORISTER BOY, prepared to take a leading part as first Treble. Board, lodging, and education at Cathedral Grammar School. Apply, with references, to the Rev. Precentor, Wells, Somerset, before August 31.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—There is a VACANCY in the Choir for an ALTO, either a Lay Clerk or a Choral Scholar. Stipend offered, £100 a year for the former, £90 a year for the latter. Date of competition, August 18. For further information apply to the Dean, King's College, Cambridge.

ARMAGH CATHEDRAL.—WANTED, a BASS. Must be a good Solo Singer and able to read well. Salary, £100. Applications, with copies of testimonials, particulars of age, and range of voice, to be forwarded to the Chapter Clerk, from whom particulars as to duties, &c., may be had.

TENOR Vocalist, Professional Singer, wants London Church Appointment. Powerful voice, of good compass. Excellent testimonials. Also undertakes to Train Boys. G., 8, Woodstock Street, Oxford Street, W.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. James's Church, Muswell Hill, N. Two Choral Services on Sunday, choir practice on Wednesday evening, and to teach and train voluntary surpliced choir. New three-manual organ by Hele and Co. £50 per annum. Apply, by letter, with copies of testimonials, to the Vicar and Churchwardens.

WANTED, an ORGANIST, for the Parish Church of Egham. Twenty-one miles from London. Residence in the parish essential. Salary, £30 a year. Address, The Vicar, Egham, Surrey.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—Appointment desired by Young Man. Good player and excellent trainer of boys' voices. Communicant. Good references. Address, Vox, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER is open to ENGAGEMENT, having just left St. Paul's, Herne Hill. Address, Mr. James Brabham, 207, Norwood Road, Herne Hill.

AN ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER of West End Church would be glad to undertake HOLIDAY DUTIES in the Country or Seaside during the months of either August or September. Usual terms. R., Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST desires ENGAGEMENT (N. London preferred). Full Choral Service (Gregorian or Anglican). Successful choir trainer. E. C. U., Novello, Ewer and Co., Queen St., E.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (late Cathedral Assistant) DISENGAGED. Excellent testimonials and references. E. A. L., 36, Castle Street, Reading.

AN exp. ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, CHOR. SOC. CONDUCTOR, &c. (present app. 10½ years; large church near London; High Church), would accept similar post with high-class musical services, scope for pupils, &c.; also qualified to take charge of choir school. Investigation solicited. During August will give Organ Recitals any part of England; expenses only. Address, Handel, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ASSISTANT ORGANIST desires a POSITION. Efficient. London, W. or S.W. preferred. State remuneration, &c. P., 36, St. Maur Road, Fulham, S.W.

ORGANIST (experienced) and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT in country church. Moderate salary. Address, A. E. H., 16, Pasley Street, Devonport.

AGENT REQUIRED, to obtain ENGAGEMENTS for Young Lady PIANIST. Experienced Accompanist. Press notices, terms, &c., Mdlle. Elisé, Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Might deputise. Anglican. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

WANTED, a first-rate TUNER, for high-class Tuning Connection. Must have good address. Comfortable berth for a superior man. Address, Success, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED. Apply to Ferry and Foster, 3, Bridge Street, Sunderland.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and TONER WANTED, by a first-class firm. A permanent Engagement and good salary offered to a thoroughly efficient man. Apply, stating age, experience, and salary required, to Toner, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a Young Man of good appearance and address, as indoor TUNER, and to assist in Piano Sales, &c. Should play well. Apply to Pigott and Co., 112, Grafton St., Dublin.

WANTED, experienced TUNER (Pianoforte Factory experience), well up in American Organ and Harmonium Tuning, for permanent out-door berth in a large seaport and manufacturing city. (Pipe Organ Tuning experience considered an advantage.) Apply to Monochord, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

APPRENTICE or IMPROVER WANTED, to Pianoforte and Organ Tuning and Repairing. Small wages, board, lodging, and commission given to a smart young man, able to push sales in old-established Pianoforte Business. Town near Birmingham. Apply, W. P. E., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an experienced ASSISTANT, thoroughly up in the Pianoforte and Sheet Music Trade. Twenty miles from London. A good pianist and violinist preferred. An opportunity will be given for learning tuning. Address, with salary required and all particulars, to W. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, for the West of England, an experienced ASSISTANT. Thoroughly up in the Pianoforte and Sheet Music trade; who plays, and is a good Salesman. Apply, X. X., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, for the West of England, a Young LADY ASSISTANT for the Music Counter. Must be experienced and a good Pianist. Apply, N. P., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TRAVELLER REQUIRED, to represent a well-known firm of Pianoforte Makers. Must be favourably known to the provincial dealers throughout the kingdom. Apply, by letter, stating age and experience, to Piano, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (first-class) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Town or country. Aged 30; married. Apply, M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Practical; 13 years' experience; gentlemanly appearance. Good testimonials. Musicus, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANO TUNER.—James Smith and Son, Liverpool, can recommend a YOUNG MAN (just out of his time) as IMPROVER. Wages moderate, and increase according to ability. James Smith and Son, Musicsellers to the Queen, 76 and 74, Lord St.

JUNIOR PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT as TUNER and SALESMAN in a Music Warehouse (or out-door). Knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Good references. Address, F. J. D., care of Mr. C. D. Hobday, Music Warehouse, Canterbury.

ADVERTISER (38), good Salesman; steady, gentlemanly, reliable; experienced TUNER, TONER, and RENOVATOR (all actions); knowledge of small goods, shortly wishes berth, manager or otherwise. Seaport preferred. First-class English and Colonial references. Seaport, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a RE-ENGAGEMENT (non-resident) in a SCHOOL, by an experienced Music Mistress, Associate Pianist, T.C.L. Address, A. R., 24, Raeburn Street, Brixton, S.W.

A YOUNG LADY requires SITUATION in a SHOP, or otherwise. Good violinist, Certificated T.C.L. Plays piano, banjo. Quick sight-reader. B., 53, Bull Street, Birmingham.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

NEW ORGAN, two manuals, 26 stops. Suitable for Church, Concert Hall, &c.; now building. Two-manual Organ, 12 stops. Two-manual Organs, from £40; suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, &c. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price, £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MR. HARRIE STACEY is instructed by Major Butler to include in his SALE at Bletchingley, Surrey, on Thursday, August 4, an extensive and very valuable collection of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS and MUSIC, comprising a Grand Pianoforte, by Collard; a Cottage ditto, by Allison; four Violins, by Georg Klotz, Jacob Stainer, Mathias Albani, and Francisco Juliano; fifteen Flutes, by Siccama, C. Nicholson, Rudall and Rose, and Potter; three Clarinets, by Rudall, Rose and Carte; two Concertinas, by Wheatstone; Oratorios, Operas, &c., by Handel, Mozart, Mendelssohn, Bishop, &c.; and Miscellaneous Music. Catalogues will be forwarded upon application to the Auctioneer, Redhill or Reigate.

MUSIC and MUSICAL INSTRUMENT BUSINESS for DISPOSAL, in well-known watering place on the South Coast. Returns last year, about £2,500. Rent, £150. Stock at valuation. Grand opening for one or two business men. Full particulars of Morley Phillips, Trade Valuer, 60, Great Portland Street, W.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

ORGAN.—Two manuals and pedals, 18 stops, 16-ft. pedal, open diapason. Handsome case, decorated front pipes. Great bargain. Ingram, Raneleigh Street, Hereford.

FOR SALE.—A fine THREE-MANUAL ORGAN, by Hill, containing 8 stops on the great, 9 on the swell, 6 on the choir, 3 on the pedal, and 6 couplers; full compass throughout. Can be seen in London by appointment. Full particulars can be had of Messrs. NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, The Organ Works, Norwich.

CHURCH ORGAN, by Holditch, containing 1 manual and pedals, 8 stops, in good order, TO BE SOLD, to make room for larger instrument. Apply, NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich.

TWO-MANUAL CHURCH ORGAN, by NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, 17 stops, full compass, TO BE SOLD. Full particulars from the Builders, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

ORGANS for SALE.—New and Second-hand; one and two manuals. Full compass. Ready for immediate use. Apply, Henry Speechly and Sons, Organ Builders, St. Mark's Road, Dalston, N.E.

ORGAN for SALE, in handsome mahogany case. Two manuals and pedals, with Bourdon. 13 stops; foot and hand-blowers; nearly new. Price 100 guineas. E. N., 26, Woodsome Road, Highgate.

TWO-MANUAL CHURCH ORGAN (CC) for SALE, HIRE, or can be purchased on the Hire System. 23 stops, 30 notes pedals. E. Whomes, Organist, Bexley Heath, Kent.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two-manuals, pedals, decorated front pipes, 8 stops, 3 couplers. Must be sold; room wanted. Stacy, 16, Highbury Place, N.

ORGAN (Pipe) for SALE. 1 manual, coupler, and pedals. Suitable for home practice. F. J. Price, 36, Soho Square, London, W.

ORGANS (Two-Manuals).—Two fine-toned modern ORGANS, containing thirteen stops each, with couplers, composition pedals, and all the latest improvements. Price £200 each. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London. Established 1837.

TO ORGAN STUDENTS.—For SALE, a TRICHORD PIANO, by Hopkinson, London, with two and a half octaves speaking organ, pedals attached. Price 30 guineas. May be seen at any time. Apply, W. H. Madden, 46, Octavia Street, Battersea, S.W.

FOR SALE.—Cottage PIANO, with Organ Pedals attached. Cash £20. Apply to M., 2, Gloucester Street, Belgrave Road, S.W.

TWO-MANUAL HARMONIUM for SALE, very fine tone, 8 stops, foot and hand-blowers, 30 pedals, and bench complete. Excellent condition, in polished walnut case. Carriage paid to any railway station in Great Britain. Sent carefully packed in case on receipt of 25 guineas. W. Phillips, 83, High Street, Putney, London.

FOR SALE.—VIOLONCELLO, by Franc Ruggeri. Original varnish. Powerful tone; in splendid condition. To be sold cheap. Keill, Klopstock Strasse, 35, Berlin.

FOR SALE.—The COPYRIGHT, PLATES, and STOCK (about 1,000 books) of eight MUSIC MANUALS. £35. Average annual sales, about £12. Thomas Smith, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

THE ORPHEUS CLUB
OF PHILADELPHIA.
MICHAEL H. CROSS, Conductor.

SECOND ANNUAL PRIZE COMPETITION.

The Orpheus Club offers for the year 1892 the following prizes for original composition for male voices, viz.:—

A prize of $200 for the best composition with piano accompaniment, set to words legendary, romantic, or heroic in character, and requiring about fifteen minutes for performance.

A prize of $100 for the best composition, with piano accompaniment, set to words legendary, romantic, or heroic in character, and requiring not more than ten minutes for performance.

A prize of $50 for the best love, dance, drinking, or folk song in light vein, to be sung without accompaniment, and requiring from three to five minutes for performance.

The above offer is made subject to the following conditions:—

1. The compositions must be written to English words, which shall be secular, and while the character of the music is of the first consideration, the words will be open to criticism, and must not be deficient in literary merit, or offend the requirements of good taste. If solos are introduced they must be incidental merely.
2. The compositions must be written for a male chorus of forty, and those offered in competition for the $50 prize, and to be sung without accompaniment, must have a piano accompaniment to facilitate examination.
3. The compositions awarded prizes, and the American copyright thereof, will be the property of the Orpheus Club.
4. No composition previously published or performed shall be eligible to competition, and the submission of a manuscript will be considered equivalent to a statement that the work is in this respect admissible.
5. The compositions must be melodious and vocal—i.e., thoroughly singable and effective when sung, and not merely technically meritorious.
6. Compositions falling below a high standard of male voice music will not be accepted, and the right is reserved to refuse an award of either or all of said prizes in case the judges recommend such action for deficiency in this respect.
7. Each manuscript must be signed by a nom de plume or motto, and must be accompanied by a sealed envelope (which will not be opened until the award is made) containing the nom de plume or motto, and a return address. The unsuccessful compositions can thus be returned without the writer's name being known.
8. Compositions intended for competition for the $50 prize must be sent to the Secretary of the Committee, not later than September 15, 1892; those intended for competition for the other prizes, not later than November 1, 1892.

Messrs. Theodore Thomas, of Chicago, and F. Van der Stucken, of New York, have kindly consented to act with Mr. Cross as judges of the competition.

The decision of the judges will be made public as soon as possible after the compositions have been submitted.

MICHAEL H. CROSS,
ARTHUR L. CHURCH,
EDWARD G. McCOLLIN, } Committee.

EDWARD G. McCOLLIN, Secretary of Committee,
Address: 514, Walnut Street, Philadelphia,
Pennsylvania, U.S.A.

ORGAN BUILDER.—E. O. YORSTON has REMOVED to new Premises, Victoria Works, Durham Street, Kennington Oval, S.E.

PRIEST'S WIFE has 200 SURPLICES, 3s. to 30s.; Tailor Cassocks, 9s. to £1; Stoles, 5s. 6d. to 60s. Surplice, care of The Church Agency, Lombard House, E.C.

SPLENDID PIANETTE, Pedals (RUMMENS') and Seat. Must sell. New September. Cost £35. Maunder, Beaminster, Dorset.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Monthly accounts. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. Wilcock Bros., 26, Moorfields, London, E.C.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

THE OLD FIRM.
P. CONACHER & CO.,
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. Wilcock Brothers, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

D'ALMAINE'S
PIANOS AND ORGANS
For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.
Write for Professional Price List.
T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),
VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879 PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND
CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER and CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W.,
Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

Just Published. 2s. 6d. net.
TRIO (Violin, Piano, and Cello). By W. Y. HURLSTONE. Melodious and moderately easy. Of LAFLEUR'S, Green Street, London, and all Musicsellers.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'
PIANOFORTES.
(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.
HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.
UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS
FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.
ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,
60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

PRIZE ANTHEM COMPETITION.—For full particulars see The Nonconformist Musical Journal for August. Post-free, 2½d. Offices: 44, Fleet Street, E.C.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON

For Musical Education and Examination.—Inst. 1872.

President:
The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.

Warden:
Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Examinations:
Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus.B.

At the Thirty-eighth Half-yearly Higher Examinations the following Candidates have qualified for admission to their respective grades:—

Licentiates in Music.—Jesse Edwards, John B. Heavysege, Marian Reynolds, Joseph Seymour, Mus.B., Dublin.

Associates in Music.—Frederick Ernest Claasen, Benjamin E. Dadley, M.A., Cantab., Mary Julia Davison, John Henry L. Gauntlett, Joseph Douglas Hall, Albert William Ketelbey.

Preliminary Division Certificates (Associate in Music).—Helen Margaret Cruse, Frederick Wm. Farrington, Alfred James Johnson, James Henry Lucas, Lilian Mayhew.

Matriculation Certificates.—Honours: Clara Harriett Clements, Herbert Entwistle, Amy Herbert, Georgina R. Howatson, Maud Raggi, Kate Emily Yeoman.

Pass: Mabel S. Biggs, Violet A. Biggs, Frederick E. Claasen, Arthur F. Johns, Albert Wm. Ketelbey, Lilian Mayhew, Alice Mary Overell, Rosa Money-Taylor, Annie A. Wade, Flora L. Willoughby.

Associate Pianists.—Edith Darlington, Ethelwyn Mary Davies, Lily Marion Davis, Ethel Annie Green, Eleanor Sophie Halkett, Frances L. Hornbuckle, Georgina Izaby, Eleanor L. Johnston, May Litchfield, Mary Cooper Sands, Frances A. Taylor.

Certificated Pianists.—Annie Hunt Baker, Grace Hilda R. Beale, Flora Bettle, Jane Beatrice Brough, Edith Blanche Bryant, Eliza Curd, Emma R. Dawes, Alice Fetter, Daisy Gee, Ada Margaret Goodliffe, Elizabeth Edith Hathaway, John Ingham Heap, Jessie Margaret Hutton, Maude Eliza Kelly, Emma Lewis, Mary Eaton Lury, Emily Mallinson, Charlotte A. W. Müller, Maude Amy Pearce, Sarah Webb Pickering, Irén Répásky, Eleanor Reynell, Annie Caroline Roberts, A.T.C.L., Edith Smith, Edith Josephine Smith, Mabel Janet Weakley, Emily J. White, Ethel Forshaw Whittaker.

Associate-Vocalists.—Priscilla Lacy, Emily Standing.

Certificated Vocalists.—Emily Anne Donagan, Edith Annie Mills, Katharine Swain.

Organ-Associate.—Alfred George B. Archer.

Certificated Organist.—Sarah Jayne.

Harmony Certificates.—Honours: Flora Louisa Willoughby. Pass: Mary Jane Gordon.

Counterpoint Certificate.—Mary Jane Gordon.

Total number of entries, 157. Total number of passes, 80.

Examiners.—G. E. Bambridge, L.T.C.L.; John Francis Barnett; Francesco Berger; Henry R. Bird; W. Creser, Mus.D.; A. E. Drinkwater, M.A.; Alfred Gibson; Professor James Higgs, Mus.B.; Edward J. Hopkins, Mus.D.; Haydn Keeton, Mus.D.; C. W. Pearce, Mus.D.; Henry R. Rose; Professor Gordon Saunders, Mus.D.; C. E. Armand Semple, B.A., M.B.; Professor Bradbury Turner, Mus.B.; Professor E. H. Turpin, Mus.D.; and T. A. Wallworth.

By Order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.

Annual Subscription, One Guinea.
Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"
Translated by W. Ashton Ellis, Editor of
"THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).
Part 9, and No. XIX. now ready.

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the Editor, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

Just Published.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

WITH RECITATION

(Suitable for School use)

The Words by Charles Karlyle and Amy Briand

THE MUSIC BY

GUSTAV ERNEST.
(Op. 19.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

Complete IRON FRAMES;
All modern IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals and various Honours.

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred their Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	Mdme. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	LISZT	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	HELLER	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HENSELT	HALLÉ
BENNETT	E. SILAS	SULLIVAN

Price Lists and Illustrations on application.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

WILL BE PUBLISHED AUGUST 22.

Composed expressly for the Gloucester Musical Festival, 1892.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Dante's Purgatorio, Canto xi.

English Version by E. H. Plumptre, D.D., with Preface by the Rev. Canon Farrar.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

THE BIRTH OF SONG

A CANTATA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

The Poem written by Lewis Morris

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

JOB

AN ORATORIO

FOR TENOR, BARITONE, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

AUGUST 1, 1892.

THE GERMAN OPERA SEASON.

THE most noteworthy feature of the grand operatic campaign recently concluded at Covent Garden and Drury Lane Theatres has undoubtedly been the success of the series of Wagnerian operas, given by Sir Augustus Harris's alternative German company. The enterprise was a formidable one, and the success which it has met with has been as striking as it was unexpected. The measure of support accorded to previous ventures of the sort was by no means of reassuring augury, and the imposing array of talent mustered under the banner of the Italian, or rather the French Legion of Sir Augustus Harris's operatic corps d'armée seemed likely to eclipse the efforts of the German wing. As a matter of fact, the latter has more than held its own in the friendly rivalry of the past couple of months. If the vox populi is to be taken as the final arbitrament in the matter, there can be no question as to the verdict. The fullest houses, the most crowded galleries, the most rapt attention, and the greatest enthusiasm have been invariably displayed on those evenings when the Hamburg company have been in possession of the field.

For this result we are inclined to look for the cause primarily in that quality of artistic co-operation which was first introduced to the notice of the English opera-going public just sixty years ago. In that year a German Opera company visited England for the first time, and a very interesting and valuable testimony to the merits of their method will be found in that charming little book the "Reminiscences of an Old Amateur"—to wit, Lord Mount-Edgcumbe, the grandfather of the present bearer of the title. The "Old Amateur" had been bred up on Italian music. The divinities at whose shrines he worshipped were Banti, Mara, and Pacchierotti. He had but an imperfect sympathy with Haydn and Beethoven, and his criticism of German singing was that it was instrumental rather than vocal. And yet he was fain to admit that for all-round excellence of ensemble the performances of this German company surpassed anything that he had seen on the boards in half-a-century of assiduous opera-going. History repeats itself, and what was true in 1832 is largely true in 1892. In so far as beauty of voice or perfection of method is concerned, there could be no comparison between the stars of the two companies. Madame Melba and MM. Edouard de Reszke and Plançon, to mention no others, are infinitely superior as singers to any of the Hamburg company. Even on the histrionic side—their strong point—there was no single performance by any of the German artists at once so irresistibly natural, so poignantly human, so superbly artistic as the Santuzza of Madame Calvé. As for the orchestra, if we except a few players in the wind department, they were, man for man, decidedly inferior to the executants of the regular Covent Garden orchestra, the quality of the strings being often signally deficient in purity and volume. Nor again can it be honestly said that these shortcomings were glossed over by the beauty of the artists or the brilliancy of the scenic accessories. Wagner's stage directions are notoriously exigent, but the mounting of the "Ring" was at all points inferior to that of "Elaine" or "The Light of Asia."

The secret of the success of the undertaking resolves itself, in our opinion, into three things—the superior musicianship, sincerity, and capacity for co-operation displayed by the artists engaged. The voice of the prompter, so painfully in evidence at most performances at Covent Garden, was agreeably absent when the Wagnerian operas were being performed, while Herr Alvary and his colleagues were seldom under the necessity of watching the conductor. As examples of the sincerity of the German artists, we may note their general avoidance of the footlights; and to take one instance out of many, Frau Klafsky's method of singing Elizabeth's prayer in "Tannhäuser." Herr Alvary was, perhaps, the only offender in this respect, and it may be pleaded in extenuation that his dramatic experience has been chiefly gained in America, which is not the best school for artistic self-effacement. Herr Alvary's refusal to make his début except in "Siegfried," contrasted unfavourably with the readiness of Frau Sucher—a far greater artist—to make her rentrée in an opera in which she did not appear till nearly midnight.

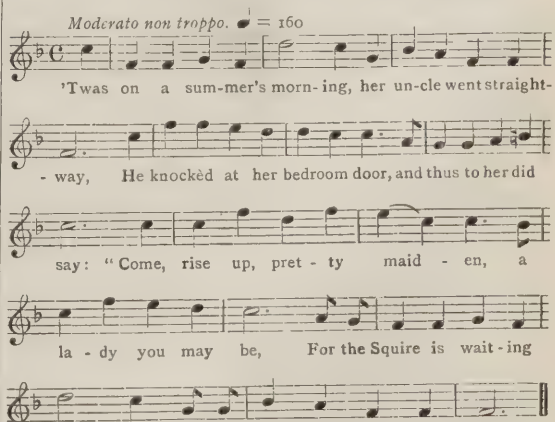
There remains one more potent factor in the success of the German Opera season—the immense growth in recent years of an appreciation of Wagner's music. It cannot be said that this appreciation is invariably intelligent or discriminating, or that it always bears conclusive testimony to the sovereign merit of the object of admiration. But there it is. Nothing could have exceeded the reverential attitude of the Wednesday evening audiences at Covent Garden. Wagner's popularity may have strange vicissitudes yet in store for it, but for the moment his genius has carried everything by storm.

FROM MY STUDY.

I HAVE received several communications from obliging correspondents with reference to the ballad of "Undaunted Mary, or The Banks of Sweet Dundee," quoted in my last. From Bedford, Mr. H. J. Stewardson writes:—

It may not be generally known to your readers that the above song, together with one called "Blackberry Fold"—a couplet from which is introduced into "Yeast" by Charles Kingsley—"Lord Bateman," and many others of a similar character are still sung by the Fenmen. I enclose a copy of the air of "Sweet Dundee," noted down after an evening spent in the Fens a few years ago, in the hope that it may lead others of your readers to preserve such tunes.

The air, as noted by Mr. Stewardson, runs thus:—



Moderato non troppo. ♩ = 160
'Twas on a sum-mer's morn-ing, her un-cle went straight-
-way, He knockèd at her bedroom door, and thus to her did say: "Come, rise up, pret-ty maid-en, a la-dy you may be, For the Squire is wait-ing for you, on the banks of sweet Dun-dee."

My Bedford correspondent writes further: "A collection of these old songs, with the tunes to which they are sung, would be interesting to musical antiquarians, if it could be made." Such a work exists in the late W. A. Barrett's "English Folk Songs" (Novello and Co.), which contains a version of "Undaunted Mary," and also in "Traditional Tunes: a Collection of Ballad Airs, chiefly obtained in Yorkshire and the South of Scotland; together with their appropriate Words, from Broadsides and from oral Tradition. Collected and Edited, with illustrative Notes, by Frank Kidson. Oxford: Chas. Taphouse and Son. 1891." By the kindness of Mr. Kidson, I have just received a copy of his valuable contribution to the literature of the subject, and shall take an early opportunity of discussing its contents at large. At present I desire to point out that Mr. Kidson has included a Yorkshire version of "The Banks of Sweet Dundee." The author says of it, in a note: "This has been popular in nearly every district in England, and in a number of places in Scotland as well. Though sublime doggerel, the song is even now a great favourite with the old folk who still remember it. Perhaps this is on account of the good air to which the song is set. For the present copy of the air I am, in the first instance, obliged to Mr. Benjamin Holgate, of Leeds; but I have met with the same almost note for note in Scotland, in North and other parts of Yorkshire, and in Berkshire. Another Yorkshire termination is appended."

It will be seen that the Yorkshire tune differs materially from that sung by the Fenmen, though the characteristic cadence is the same in both—

It's of a far-mer's daugh-ter, So beau-ti-ful I'm told, Her fa-ther died and left her Five hun-dred pounds, in gold. She liv-ed with her un-cle, The cause of all her woe, But you soon shall hear this maid-en fair, Did prove his o-ver-throw.
Another ending.
And this maid-en fair, as you shall hear, Did prove his o-ver-throw.

I have found another version of the ballad on a Catnach broadsheet. In this the last two lines of the concluding stanza are altered and another verse added, apparently in the interest of poetic justice. The original, as quoted in the July number of The Musical Times, leaves us uncertain what became of the ploughboy, William, and especially whether he rejoined his Mary. A later poet, noticing this serious incompleteness, removes all anxiety. His last two stanzas are as below:—

A doctor had been sent for, a man of noble skill,
And likewise came a lawyer, for him to sign his will;
He willed all his gold to Mary, who fought most manfully,
And shut his eyes no more to rise on the banks of sweet Dundee.

Young William, he was sent for, and speedily home returned,
As soon as he arrived on shore, young Mary ceased to mourn;
The banns were quickly published, they joined their hearts so free,
She now enjoys her ploughboy on the banks of sweet Dundee.

Another poet took a more enlarged view of the interest in young William's fate, and to him we are indebted for a history of the youth's adventures between his impressment and the reunion of the lovers. This supplementary ballad, with its proper tune, may be found in "Traditional Ballad Airs, arranged and harmonised for the Pianoforte and Harmonium, from Copies procured in the Counties of Aberdeen, Banff, and Moray, by W. Christie, M.A., and the late W. Christie, Monquhitter. Edited, with the Words for Singing and with Illustrative Notes, by W. Christie, M.A., Dean of Moray. Edinburgh: Edmondton and Douglas. Vol. I." The first stanza, after recalling the circumstance that William was "torn from his Mary and sent to plough the sea," informs us that "Fortune smiled on William, while he was on the raging main," and this is how she did it:—

Young William, from the foretop, a strange sail did chance to spy,
The captain viewed her and did say, "I think she does lay by;
Come clear the deck for action, my heroes bold and free!"
Then William thought of Mary on the banks of sweet Dundee.
The bloody battle then began, the fiery cannon loud did roar,
And many a wounded seaman lay bleeding in his gore;
Young William by a musket shot was wounded in the knee,
And as he fell, he cried "Farewell to the banks of sweet Dundee!"

At length she struck her colours, and then with victory they were crowned,
And, freighted with great riches, to England they were bound;
When they arrived in England, each man was paid so free,
Then William sought his Mary on the banks of sweet Dundee.

The youth encountered the maiden all alone, and said to her, "My pretty maiden, why do you sigh and moan?" And she, not recognising him, replied: "It is for William that was banished far from me, And sent across the ocean from the banks of sweet Dundee." Then did William, to test her love, make answer and say:

"If William was your lover's name, I knew that young man very well;
When boarding of a Spanish ship, 'twas then your William fell;
And, as he lay in grief and pain, these words he said to me,
'Tell Mary I shall ne'er return to the banks of sweet Dundee.'"

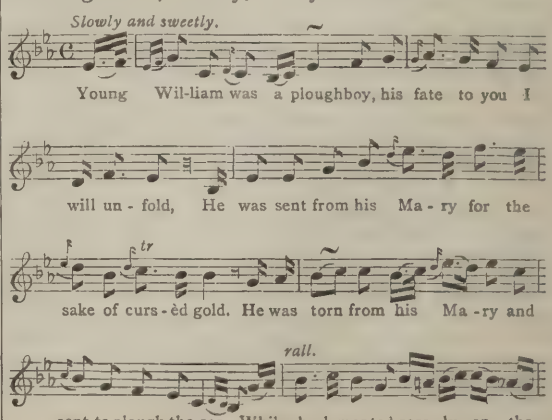
The effect must have gratified young William:

When this she heard she down did fall, and gave a loud and bitter cry,
"If William's dead, with broken heart I'll wander till I die;
It's cursèd gold has causèd all my grief and misery,
And left me broken-hearted on the banks of sweet Dundee."

The lover at once revealed himself:

He said, "My Mary, you are true, I am your William come again,
That was sent from his Mary to plough the raging main;
But though sent from you my sweet love, I ever thought of thee,
When lying wounded far from thee and the banks of sweet Dundee.
Then dry your tears, my Mary, and think no more of grief and pain,
Since I'm returned with gold in store to sweet Dundee again;
For to the sea I'll bid adieu, and we'll now happy be,
And we will soon get married on the banks of sweet Dundee."

The "curly" tune to which the foregoing words are sung is not, I fancy, a very old one:—



Slowly and sweetly.
Young Wil-liam was a ploughboy, his fate to you I will un-fold, He was sent from his Ma-ry for the
tr
sake of curs-èd gold. He was torn from his Ma-ry and
rall.
sent to plough the sea, While she lamented sore-ly on the banks of sweet Dundee. But Fortune smiled on William as he was on the raging main, Yet still the thoughts of Ma-ry oft

tr
filled his mind with pain, Since for the sake of her he loved he
rall.
was sent o'er the sea, . . To . . plough the bri - ny
o - cean from the banks of . . sweet Dun-dee.

Dean Christie has a note to the foregoing: "This Air was arranged by the Editor in 1850 from the singing of a native of Aberdeenshire. He also arranged the ballad here given from that person's recitation, and from a copy on a broad-side. Copies of the ballad are found in different forms in Chap Books and Broad-sides, all having different versions of the story."

With reference to the Misses Cawse, of whom some particulars were given last month, my valued correspondent, Mr. Andrew Deakin, writes:

It is scarcely probable that the following notices of the Misses Cawse, the vocalists referred to in last month's "From my Study," will be interesting for your readers. I send them for you to do as you please with them. The Harmonicon for November, 1826, says: "In this piece" [Attwood's "Castle of Sorrento"] "appeared, for the first time on the stage, Miss Cawse, sister to a young lady who filled a part so agreeably in 'Oberon' last season, and a pupil of Sir George Smart. She possesses more power than her sister, or at least had music assigned to her that enabled her to display more strength; particularly a masterly new song by Attwood, which, in spite of the ill-humour of the public, obtained each night an encore that was too prompt and unanimous to be obtained by a finesse sometimes resorted to in theatres. In her acting, too, she showed more presence of mind and ease than is usually witnessed in the first attempt of so young a female performer, and on the whole her début was favourable." The Quarterly Musical Magazine and Review for June, 1826, notices the addition of Miss H. Cawse to the Covent Garden staff, and says: "In Ariel and Puck she has been very successful, principally by preserving a natural manner, by pure enunciation and expression, and by the plainest use of her excellent voice." The same periodical (March, 1827) says: "The most promising theatrical appearance of the year [1826] was that of Miss Cawse at Covent Garden."

In the same letter Mr. Deakin invites my readers and myself to an enquiry in which he leads the way:—

I wish to secure sympathy for the further pursuance of a branch of musical enquiry you so capitally began and followed up in March, April, May, and June. I mean the history of the old Psalm and Hymn Tunes that have become so firmly rooted in English soil. Will it, for instance, be difficult to trace the progress of Ken's "Evening Hymn" music from the time of the hymn-writing to the present? The Rev. J. Julian's "Dictionary of Hymnology" supplies information about the words, although in quoting the version in Playford's "Harmonia Sacra" the pointing and spelling are altered, and in one instance the wording. Of the music, Mr. Julian says "The Hymn was set by Clarke as a Cantata (sic) for a solo voice, with the Doxology as a chorus in four parts." Playford's book (I am quoting the first edition of 1693, now before me) has at the beginning of the Doxology the words "Chorus, a 3 voc." Mr. Julian seems to have overlooked the fact that the lowest of the four lines is merely a duplicate of the vocal bass with thorough bass figuring. Now, would it not be possible to set before your readers a description of Clarke's music, and an account of the grand old tune to a distortion of which the people all England over sing "Glory to Thee, my God, this night," from its supposed first appearance in Archbishop Parker's Psalter, notifying the marvellous changes made in it by Ravenscroft (1723), Pearson (1732), John Wesley (1742), Ashford (1766), and others? Last autumn a little incident powerfully impressed me with the desirability of doing this. On a Sunday evening in August, the young (and old) sojourners in an hotel at Llanberis joined in singing "sondrie hymnes and spiritual songes," one being Ken's "Evening Hymn." The "Hymns Ancient and Modern" tune was, however, objected to by a discriminating aged lady as not being the tune she had always heard. Ultimately our aged companion played (with praiseworthy vigour and precision) her long-cherished version. This I afterwards found to be a version given in a Psalmist edited by Hugh Bond (circa 1790), of which book it may be noticed that "the chords are expressed in the manner of Dominico Corri," and that the first words of the hymn are "All praise to Thee," not "Glory to Thee." It is probable that no single example of music has ever been so pulled about and re-modelled as has Tallis's tune. The attention you paid to Worgan's (?) Easter Tune encourages me in the hope that you will do as much or more for the older example.

I am quite disposed to take up the attractive investigation suggested by my Birmingham correspondent, but the interval between receiving his letter and the present issue has not sufficed for results of much value. During the month now entered upon I hope to have assistance from the gentlemen who so kindly interest themselves in the compilation of these papers.

In my last I invited particulars concerning Robert Tailour's "Sacred Hymns" (1615) and Tansur's "Psalm Singers' Jewel," to which my attention had been directed by a Peterhead correspondent. On this subject an important communication has been received from Mr. William Cowan, of Edinburgh, whom I heartily welcome into the circle of my colleagues. Mr. Cowan remarks:—

In this month's issue you mentioned Tailour's Psalms (1615) and Tansur's "Psalm Singers' Jewel." I possess copies of these, and as you invite information I venture to trouble you with this communication.

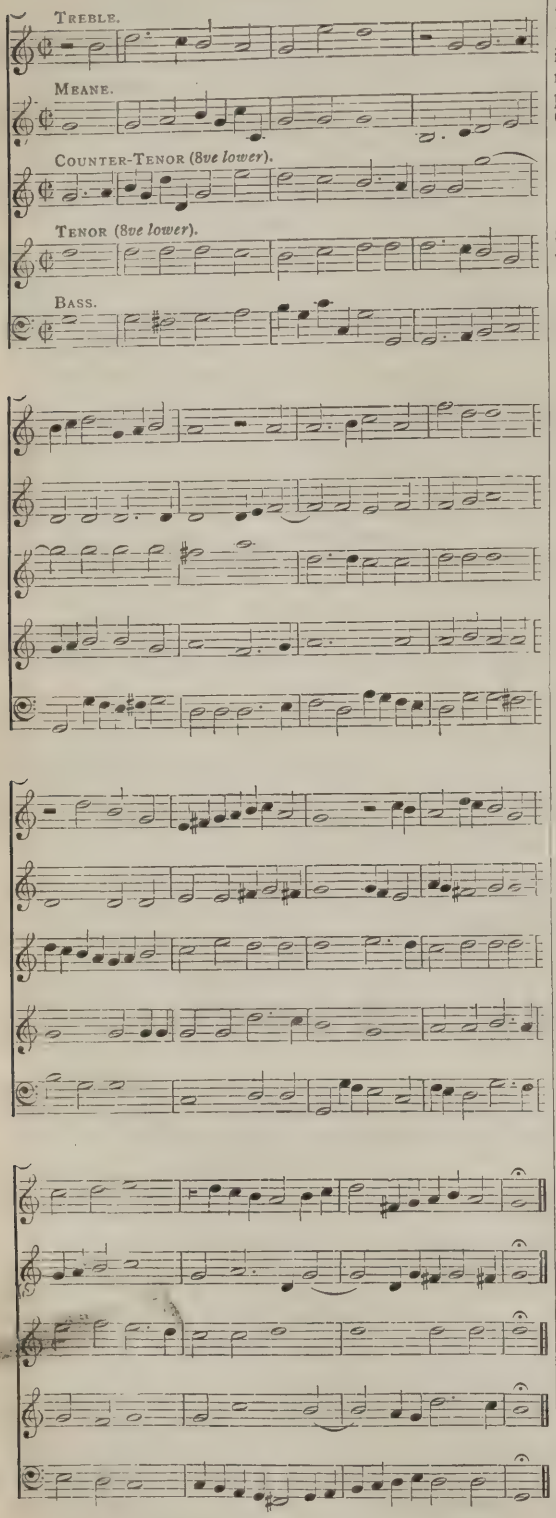
The fifty Psalms or verse contained in the first-named work, are, according to Wood's "Athenæ Oxoninses," by Sir Edwin Sandys. The versification is peculiar and the spelling still more so, the author having been apparently a "law unto himself" in this respect.

The book contains twelve tunes to one or other of which all the fifty Psalms are directed to be sung. The Trelle part is printed first with the words of the first verse of the Psalm below it, and under the words is the accompaniment for the Bass Viole, written in tablature. Then come the other four parts—viz., Meane, Counter-tenor, Tenor, and Base, each printed separately. Lastly there is the lute accompaniment, written, like the viole, in tablature.

In order to get an idea of the style of the music I have transcribed one of the tunes in Score, substituting in the inner part the G clef for the various C clefs of the original. This I enclose thinking it may interest you. This is the tune to the twenty-first Psalm, and the first verse runs thus:—

The King, Lord, toward thy glorious face
Victorious eyes dooth joyful rear.
His strength thy spirit; his health thy grace
With doubled triumph his soule dooth chear.
What hart could wish, what lip did crave,
Thy bounteous hand him strangely gave.

PSALM 21.



Tansur's book contains a sort of commentary on each of the 150 Psalms with a "Precept," in four lines of verse, dealing with the subject of each Psalm. There is also an "Abstract of the Life of Holy David," with some other matter, and finally, "A New and select Number of Psalms, Meditations, Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, &c., set to Music in Two, Three, and Four Musical Parts in Score." The most of these Psalms are from the version by Tate and Brady, but one or two appear to be original. The music is like that in Tansur's other works—rather bald and commonplace, and with little or no originality. One curious piece in the volume is "A Poetical Description of Jesus Christ. By William Tansur, Senior." It begins—

> When great Tiberius Caesar reigned as King
> And Christ's great name did in Judaea ring,
> Then Publius Lentulus writes to Rome
> To tell the Senate who was thither come.

Should you wish more details as to the contents of these volumes I will be happy to give it.

I hope to hear further from Mr. Cowan at a convenient season, meanwhile his curious example of Psalm tunes as they were in 1615 will whet curiosity.

An expenditure of sixpence at a book-barrow lately put me in possession of two little brown-clad volumes entitled "Memoirs of the year Two Thousand Five Hundred, translated from the French by W. Hooper, M.D., London, Printed for G. Robertson in Paternoster Row. 1772." These books appear to have been bought, as soon as issued, by a reading club called the "Pamphlet Society," the members of which body entered on the fly leaf the date of receiving and passing on. The French original was published anonymously under the title "L'An 2,445," which the translator changed to 2,500, as he says in the preface, "for the sake of a round number." Dr. Hooper may be known to some readers as the author of "Rational Recreations, in which the Principles of Numbers and Natural Philosophy are clearly and copiously elucidated by a series of easy, entertaining, interesting Experiments. 1774." As for the French work he presented to English readers, it is curious as an anticipation of the many others in which, since 1772, the human imagination has, so to speak, let itself loose upon the future and indulged in prophetic fiction.

A chapter is devoted to the theatre, and I now take therefrom certain passages of interest to the reader as showing the ideal of 120 years ago:—

"The inside of the theatre formed an advanced semicircle; so that the spectators were all commodiously distributed. Every one was seated, and when I recollected the fatigue I had formerly suffered to see a play, I found this people more prudent, more attentive to the convenience of their fellow citizens; they had not the insolent avidity to cram in more persons than the house would conveniently hold; there were some places always left empty for strangers; the ladies were elegantly dressed and decently disposed. The performance opened with a symphony adapted to the piece that was to be represented. 'Are we at the opera?' I exclaimed, 'this music is sublime!' 'We have found the means of uniting, without confusion, the two exhibitions in one, or, rather, of severing the alliance of poetry and music that was formed by the ancients. During the interacts of our dramas, they entertain the audience with animated songs, that paint the sentiments, and dispose the mind for enjoyment of what is going to be offered. Far from us is banished all effeminate, capricious, and noisy music, that speaks not to the heart. Your opera was a grotesque, monstrous composition. We have reserved all of it that was good. In your own time, it was far from being secure from the just reproach of men of sense and taste, but now . . .' As he said these words the curtain rose."

The bow drawn at a venture in 1772 did not send its arrow altogether wide of the mark. We are a long way from A.D. 2,500, but already the music in our best theatres is adapted to the play. Whether in 500 years' time the opera, as we know it, will have been abolished in favour of entr'actes of song and symphony is a question which remains, for us, among those into which speculation cannot bring the zest of personal concern. The members of the Pamphlet Society seem, however, to have read these volumes with avidity, passing them from hand to hand in promptest fashion.

For a thorough going musical conservative commend me to Master Stephen Gosson, who, in his hot youth, wrote plays, and in his mature age condemned both them and players. Gosson, who became rector of St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, in 1600, was the second Puritan to open a literary fire upon the stage. He published the "School of Abuse" in 1579, with a dedication to "Master Philip Sidney, Esquier" (a compliment not appreciated by that gentleman), and had the satisfaction of seeing it run through more than one edition. Reading it the other day, when in a mood to appreciate good, sound vituperation, I made note of a passage in which the author touches upon music. Au fond, Master Gosson agrees with Pythagoras, who "condemnes them for fooles that judge musike by sound and ear." "If you will bee good scholers," writes our author, "and profite well in the arte of musicke, shut your fidels in theer cases and look uppe to Heaven." But Master Gosson condescends to particulars, and, in the first place, falls foul of the poets and musicians his contemporaries. "We have infinit poets and pipers, and suche peevishe cattel among us in Englande, that live by merrie begging, mainteyned by almes, and prively encroche upon every mans purse. But if they that are in auctority, and have the sworde in their handes to cut of abuses, should call an accompt to see how many Chirons, Terpandri and Homers are heere, they might cast the summe without pen or counters, and sit down with Racha to weepe for her children because they were not." Our author now turns upon new fangled musical instruments: "He that compareth our instruments with those that were used in ancient tymes shall see them agree like dogges and cattes, and meet as jump as German lippes." After referring to the ancient law against adding or diminishing in matters of music, he continues: "But when new-fangled Phrynes becam a fidler, being somewhat curious in carping, and serching for moats with a pair of bleared eies, thought to amend his maisters, and marred al. Timotheus, a bird of the same broode, and a right hound of the same haire, took the 7 stringed harp, that was altogether used in Terpandrus time, and increased the number of the strings at his owne pleasure. The Argives appointed by their lawes great punishments for such as placed above 7 strings upon any instrument. Pythagorus commanded that no musition should go beyond his diapason. Were the Argives and Pythagorus now alive, and saw how many frets, how many stringes, how many stops, how many keyes, how many cliffes, how many moodes, how many flats, how many sharpes, how many rules, how many spaces, how many noates, how many restes, how many querks, how many corners, what chopping, what changing, what tossing, what turning, what wresting and wringing is among our musitions, I believe verily that they would cry out with the countryman, Heu quod tam pinqui macer est mihi taurus in arvo. Alas! here is fat feeding and leane beasts, or, as one said at the shearing of hogs, great cry and little wool, much adoe and small help." Good Master Gosson! Could he now come to life, he would find his vocabulary far too limited and weak, though it be both copious and strong.

X.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. Shedlock, B.A.

(Continued from p. 397.)

PIANOFORTE SONATAS.

Of the pianoforte sketches, those of the two Sonatas in G minor and G major (Op. 49, Nos. 1 and 2) will be first mentioned, for though they bear a somewhat late opus number, and were not published until the year 1805, they are supposed to have been written at an early period, possibly at Bonn (see Thayer, Vol. I., p. 234).

On p. 41 of our Notirungsbuch we meet with—a passage very similar to the major theme of the Rondo of the G minor Sonata, and this is immediately repeated in the key of B major. Again, on p. 66 there are the first seven bars of the first movement, with superscription

Sonatine par L. v. Bthvn.

By the way, the half-sheet on which this is found contains other sketches, apparently written at a later period. There is one of the Rondo of the Sonate Pathétique (Op. 13), quoted by Nottebohm (Zweite Beethoveniana, p. 42), and also the following—and it is marked Rondo mit (?) presto. This reminds one slightly of the principal theme of the Rondo of Op. 13, also of the passage in the Coda of the first movement of the C minor Pianoforte Concerto—and, indeed, of a theme of one of Bach's organ fugues—

Of the Sonata in G major (Op. 49. No. 2) there are important sketches of both movements. These are of special interest, inasmuch as they show that Beethoven's method of working—whether at a grand symphony or small sonata, or even an impromptu, as, for instance, the "Kleines Stück," given in Nottebohm's Them. Verz.—was always the same:

he sketched, polished, and perfected. On the top of the first page of the sheet on which these sketches are found are some bars of "Ah! Perfido." The two previous half sheets, consisting of similar music paper, contain a sketch of "Ah! Perfido," the Menuet and Trio from Sextet (Op. 71) and sketches possibly of Andante of Quintet (Op. 4). Beethoven composed "Ah! Perfido" at Prague in 1796, and the Pianoforte Sonata in G was probably written in the same year. The sketch of the first movement commences thus—and, farther on—which finally became—

The second subject appears first in this form—and then—

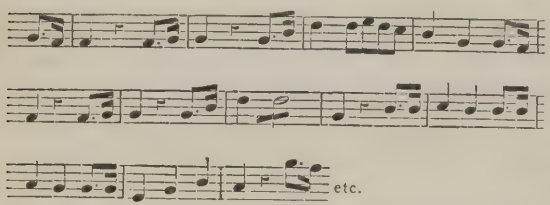
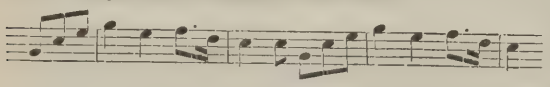
but lower down on the same page it comes much nearer to the printed version form. The theme of the Tempo di Menuetto runs thus—



The C major section was first written—



The Sonata in E flat (Op. 7), published in 1797, next commands attention. There are sketches of the third movement, and various phrases are mixed up in an apparently strange medley. The juxtaposition, however, of the few bars before the pause bar in the Allegro and of the concluding bars of the first section of the Trio, is perhaps not without significance. They appear thus—

One has only to turn the second and third crotchets in each bar of the second illustration into one note, and then tie the minim thus formed to the following crotchet, in order to see the close relationship between the two passages. There are three attempts at the quaver passage of the Allegro. First—then—

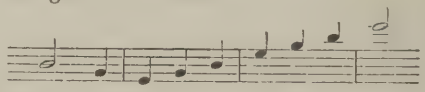
The printed version is again different, and a great improvement; and from a sketch of it, evidently found only after much tribulation and scratching out. Another sketch shows Beethoven's method of widening out his themes—



Of this development, however, he made no use.

Nottebohm has given a long and interesting sketch of the development section of the first movement of the Sonata in F (Op. 10, No. 2), which begins as follows—and here is the form in which it first appears—

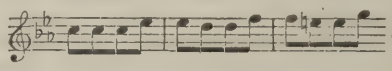
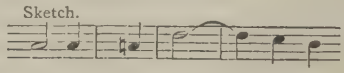
In this shape, it certainly brings to mind a well known passage in the first movement of the C minor Symphony—



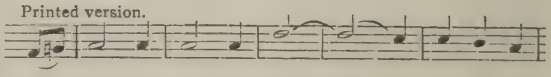
We now give some sketches not quoted by Nottebohm: the first is, evidently, preparatory work for the Allegretto—

and this for the Trio—

Sketch.

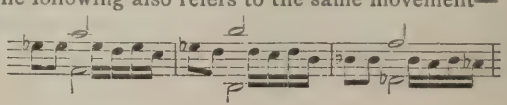


Printed version.



We seem next to have, apparently, a first attempt at the Finale theme—

The following also refers to the same movement—



Of the Sonata in D (Op. 10, No. 3), Nottebohm has given (Zweite Beethoveniana, p. 35) a long sketch of the first movement, but not—which seems to be a foreshadowing and forelengthening of:

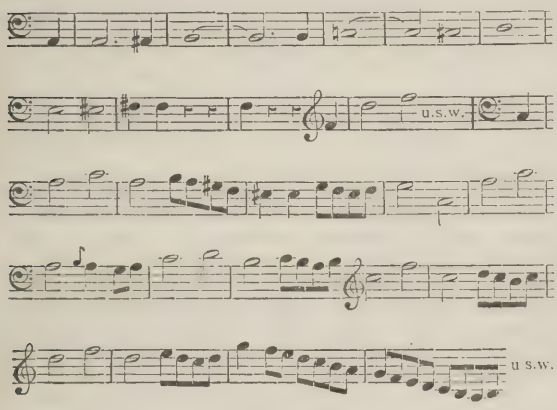
The sketch, given by Nottebohm, is in pencil, but the above semibreve notes, near the bottom of the page, are in ink. Nottebohm also prints a second sketch (p. 37), but not the following, in our Notirungsbuch—



The ascending notes at the beginning refer to the passage in the recapitulation section leading up to the theme in E minor (printed version); in the sketch, however, this theme is indicated first in B minor (as in the exposition section), and then written out in the key of F sharp minor, as if the composer were trying experiments. This theme is to be found in Nottebohm's second sketch (Zweite Beethoveniana, p. 37), but there it is connected with the exposition section. The second sketch of the Largo given by Nottebohm (p. 38) is soon followed by—

Apparently another Coda scheme, different from the printed one.

On this page (last line) we find, all by itself—

Zum Finale.

What does this indicate? To say that it is evolved from the theme of the Largo is perhaps somewhat hazardous, and yet the two are so near to each other in the sketch book one can scarcely help placing this—side by side with—

Compare also this Finale figure with the semitone progressions in above Largo sketch (bars 5 and 6).

There are other links of a similar kind in this Sonata. Let the reader compare the first two notes of the Allegro and the Largo; and again—the opening of the Allegro with—

Other instances could be mentioned.

Of the third movement Nottebohm has given an interesting sketch (from sheet 156), but his quotation of the sketch of the Coda may be given at greater length—

Of the Trio to the third movement we find, among miscellaneous sketches, the following—

but the music is here evidently in the key of A flat. This and the next sketch, though in a different part of the Notirungsbuch, are on the same sort of paper as that on which above-mentioned sketches are written.

Is not the following, on the same page, a first presentation of the third bar of the Finale?—

Of the Finale there are brief sketches of two or three passages, from which it may be seen that the movement was only gradually evolved.

Sketches of the Sonata in E (Op. 14, No. 1) are to be found in this volume, and also on sheets in the Royal Library at Berlin. The long sketch of the exposition section given by Nottebohm (Zweite Beethoveniana, pp. 48-9) is to be found on sheet 121, and the other long and complete sketch of the recapitulation section in Nottebohm (pp. 53-55) is to be found on the second page of same sheet.

Beethoven was at work on the B flat Pianoforte Concerto while sketching this Sonata. Accordingly, on sheets marked 64 and 65, and containing long sketches of the Rondo of the B flat Concerto, we find early traces of this Sonata. The following (the passage leading to the second subject of the first movement)— gives a good idea of a short Beethoven sketch.

The theme of the Rondo appears in this form—

And later on we have the concluding bars of the same movement. Beethoven, as our readers will notice in other places, seemed to see to the end of his movements while as yet the beginning was in an embryonic stage:—

The bold C natural does not appear in the final version.

Of the important sketches on sheets 121 and 122, and of which, as stated, Nottebohm has quoted so much, only the following need be added.

In the first movement Beethoven had the idea of developing the quaver figure of the second subject, for we find—to be read most probably in bass clef.

In conclusion, we would give a brief but interesting opening of a Sonata movement which, so far as is known, was never completed: it illustrates Beethoven's plan of sketching—and in connection with the Sonatas, the following, amongst various sketches on an old sheet belonging, according to Nottebohm, to the Bonn period, deserves notice. The "Moonlight" Sonata, of which we have here something more than a foreshadowing, was not published until the year 1802—

(To be continued.)

REMINISCENCES OF MENDELSSOHN.

In December, 1849, two years after the lamented death of the composer, Sir Julius (then Mr. Jules) Benedict lectured at Camberwell on the life of his friend Mendelssohn. His lecture was shortly afterwards published by Mr. John Murray, but the pamphlet has long been out of print, and its interesting contents are practically unknown to the present generation of Mendelssohn lovers. The following extracts (reprinted by permission of Mr. Murray) record the personal relations between the two musicians. A few verbal alterations have been made, and some obvious errors corrected in the transcription from the original. The "additions" are intended to explain and amplify Benedict's pleasant reminiscences.

Mendelssohn was twelve and Benedict sixteen years old when the first of the following incidents occurred. The Mendelssohn family then resided at 7, Neue Promenade, Berlin. Weber was at Berlin for the production of his opera "Der Freischütz," which was first performed there, at the Schauspielhaus, on June 18, 1821 (the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo). Amongst the audience on that memorable occasion was "little Felix Mendelssohn, with his parents."

"It was in the month of May, 1821, when walking in the streets of Berlin with my master and friend, Carl Maria von Weber, that my attention was directed to a boy of about eleven or twelve years old, who, on perceiving the composer of 'Der Freischütz,' ran towards him, giving him a most hearty and friendly greeting. 'Tis Felix Mendelssohn,' said Weber, introducing me at once to the prodigious child, of whose marvellous talent and execution I had already heard so much at Dresden. I shall never forget the impression of that day on beholding that beautiful youth, with his auburn hair clustering in ringlets round his shoulders, the look of his brilliant clear eyes, and the smile of innocence and candour on his lips. He would have it that we should go with him at once to his father's house; but as Weber had to attend a rehearsal, he took me by the hand and made me run a race till we reached his home. He went briskly up to the drawing-room, where, finding his mother, he said, 'Here is a pupil of Weber's, who knows a great deal of the music of the new opera. Do, mamma, ask him to play it to us'; and so, with irresistible impetuosity, he pushed me to the pianoforte, and made me remain there till I had exhausted all the store of my recollections. When I begged of him to let me hear some of his own compositions, he refused; but played, from memory, such of Bach's Fugues or Cramer's Studies as I could name. At last we parted—not without a promise to meet again."

"On my next visit I found him seated on a footstool, before a small table, writing with great earnestness some music. On my asking him what he was about, he gravely replied, 'I am finishing my new Quartet for pianoforte and strings.' I could not resist my boyish curiosity to examine this composition, and looking over his shoulder saw as beautiful a score as if it had been written by the most skilful copyist. It was his first Quartet in C minor, afterwards published as Opus 1."*

"But while I was lost in admiration and astonishment at seeing the work of a master written by the hand of a boy, all at once he sprang up from his seat, and in his playful manner ran to the piano. He then played, note for note, all the music from 'Der Freischütz,' which, three or four days before, he had heard me play. He asked, 'How do you like this chorus?' 'What do you think of this air?' 'Do you not admire the Overture?' and so on. Then, forgetting quartets and Weber, down we went into the garden, Felix clearing high hedges with a leap running, singing, or climbing up the trees like a squirrel—the very image of health and happiness."

In May, 1830, Mendelssohn started on a long journey through Italy and Switzerland, calling on Goethe, at Weimar, for the fourth and last time. He reached Naples at the beginning of April, 1831, and remained till about the end of May.† Benedict was then Conductor at the San Carlo at Naples.

"My joy when Mendelssohn called upon me at Naples was boundless. We had met in the interval under circumstances less cheering and agreeable than when in connection with Weber. But the passing cloud had now vanished; and as if to compensate for the blank of so many lost years, he unfolded to me all the treasures of his inexhaustible genius. I then heard for the first time his overtures, his numerous songs imbued with the impressions of fresh scenes, and, above all, one of his greatest works, the 'Walpurgis Night,' a work full of solid grandeur and overflowing with the rich ideas of his teeming fancy. In two instances I had an opportunity of witnessing his almost marvellous facility of retaining—stereotyping, as it were, in his mind—any passages of music he had heard, even if only once. At an evening party at the celebrated vocalist's, Madame Fodor-Mainvielle, several airs of Donizetti and Rossini, French romances, and an instrumental duet by Moscheles were performed. Mendelssohn being subsequently invited to play, introduced, without a moment's hesitation, first one theme of the pieces just performed, then another, then a third and fourth, and worked them simultaneously in the most skilful manner. At first playfully mimicking the Italian style, and then adopting the severe forms of the old masters, he contrived to give a perfect musical form to all: and thus the inspiration of the moment seemed as though it had been the result of forethought and study."

"At a party given by Mr. Craven, he performed, from memory, some of the finest choruses in Handel's 'Israel in Egypt,' 'The Messiah,' and some of his 'Suite de pièces' for the clavecin, thus showing his mastery over that school of composition among the rest."

"In society, apart from musical subjects, nothing could be more entertaining or animated than Mendelssohn's conversation on literary topics. The works of Shakespeare and other eminent British poets were quite as familiar to him as those of his own country; and, although his accent was slightly tinctured by his German origin, he spoke as well as wrote the English language with great facility and purity. He sketched from nature and also painted very well; and, indeed, he might be said to possess every social accomplishment."

* This may have been an early version of Op. 1, as the autograph MS. of that work states: "Begun at Secheron, 20 Sept., 1822; ended, Berlin, Oct. 18, 1822"; or Benedict's memory may have failed him as to the time of this particular incident.

† See Mendelssohn's "Letters from Italy and Switzerland," translated by Lady Wallace (Longmans), for a graphic account of his travels.

Benedict might have subsequently added "as well as novelists" to "British poets," in the above reminiscence. When Arthur O'Leary, now the well-known pianoforte professor, entered the Leipsic Conservatorium, early in January, 1847, he had an introduction to Mendelssohn, who encouraged the young student to call upon him from time to time. On one of these occasions Mendelssohn, who had been showing him portraits of his children which he had recently finished, asked O'Leary if he would like to read an English book. As he was only just beginning the German grammar, he readily replied in the affirmative. Mendelssohn then took a copy of the "Pickwick Papers" from a book-case and handed it to O'Leary, saying, "Be sure to take care of this, for I value it very much, as it was given to me by my mother." (This interesting incident is kindly communicated by Mr. Arthur O'Leary specially for the "additions" to Benedict's narrative.)

"Early in 1835 Mendelssohn was invited to Cologne in order to direct the Lower Rhenish Musical Festival. Here we met again, and, thanks to his kindness, I had the pleasure of being present at one of the general rehearsals when Mendelssohn conducted Beethoven's Eighth Symphony. It would be difficult to decide in which capacity Mendelssohn most excelled, whether as a composer, pianist, organist, or conductor of an orchestra. Nobody certainly ever knew better how to communicate, as if by an electric fluid, his own conception of a work to a body of performers. It was highly interesting on this occasion to notice the anxious attention shown by a body of over five hundred performers watching every glance of Mendelssohn's eye, and following, like obedient spirits, the magic wand of this musical Prospero. The admirable Allegretto of this Symphony (Beethoven's Eighth) not going to his liking, he smilingly remarked that 'he knew every one of the gentlemen engaged was capable of performing, and even of composing a Scherzo of his own, but that, just now, he wanted to hear Beethoven's, which he thought had some merits.' It was cheerfully repeated. 'Beautiful, charming!' cried Mendelssohn; 'but still too loud in two or three instances. Let us take it again from the middle.' 'No, no,' was the general reply of the band, 'the whole movement over again, for our own satisfaction.' The orchestra then played it with the utmost delicacy and finish, Mendelssohn laying aside his bâton and listening with evident delight to the improved execution. 'What would I have given,' he said, 'if Beethoven could have heard his own composition so well understood and so magnificently performed?' By thus giving, alternately, praise and blame, spurring the slow, checking the too impulsive, he obtained orchestral effects seldom equalled. He was able to detect at once, even among a large number of performers, the slightest error either of note or accent."

Two important events are connected with Mendelssohn's seventh visit to England in 1842: the performance (for the first time in England) of his "Scotch" Symphony at the Philharmonic Concert of June 13, and his second visit to the Queen and Prince Albert at Buckingham Palace on July 9. Mendelssohn has given a most charming account of his royal and kindly reception in a letter to his mother, printed in "Goethe and Mendelssohn" (Macmillan), p. 143. But Benedict records another interesting event of this time:—

"At his seventh visit to London Mendelssohn was accompanied by his wife (her first visit to England), and they resided at the house of her aunt, Mrs. Benecke, on Denmark Hill. One fine morning an excursion to Windsor had been arranged by Mendelssohn's kind host. Everything was prepared, the carriage was at the door, when at the last moment Mendelssohn excused himself for not going, and he remained at home with the children, with whom he was a universal favourite. When his friends returned from Windsor he played to them a sparkling and delicious melody, the offspring of that day—No. 30 of his 'Lieder ohne Worte' (Book V., No. 6), perhaps one of the most popular of them all."

I may perhaps be allowed to supplement this incident, as recorded by Benedict, by some further details which Mendelssohn's hostess, Mrs. Benecke, kindly gave me when I visited her in 1885. We were seated in the room which Mendelssohn used as his study, overlooking the beautiful garden, and in which he wrote the Lied above referred to. Over the old grand pianoforte, upon which he had often played, was a beautiful oil-painting of him. In the course of a most interesting conversation, Mrs. Benecke said that Mendelssohn and his wife intended staying only a few days till they should find apartments near the concert rooms, as Mendelssohn had engagements with the Philharmonic Society, &c. One day on his return from town he said, "Those lodgings in London are so stuffy after this pleasant house: may we stay here all the time?" The request was readily granted, and the sojourn of a few days extended to one of six or seven weeks. As to the pic-nic, Mr. Benecke thought at the time that the reason of Mendelssohn's absence from the party was owing to some previous musical engagement in London. On the long drive to Windsor Mrs. Benecke said to Frau Mendelssohn: "Why did not Felix come with us to-day?" She replied, "I think he has something in his mind that he wants to write down." "But," said her hostess, "there is nothing for his dinner, only cold meat and rice milk — just the children's dinner." "Oh, never mind," replied Frau Mendelssohn; "he likes nothing better than rice milk. He will be all right." On their return home, Mendelssohn, full of spirits, was waiting in the garden-drive to receive them, and greeted them with a hearty welcome. When they were all assembled in his temporary study he played the lovely "Lied in A" (No. 30), saying, "This is what I have been doing while you have been away." He was very fond of romping with the children, and they with him; and the quaver rests in the bass of this Lied and the frequent staccato notes in the treble, represent the constant withdrawal of his hands from the pianoforte in order to defend himself against the repeated attacks of the little ones, who, being alone with him, wanted to drag him away from the pianoforte and into the garden for a romp. The autograph MS. is dated "London, June 1, 1842," the day of the pic-nic.

Mrs. Benecke told me of other incidents of this visit. She gave a small musical dinner party, at which William Horsley (the glee writer), Moscheles, Benedict, and others were present. After dinner one of the guests suggested that there should be "some playing" (pianoforte). "Oh, yes," said Mendelssohn, "we'll have some playing!" And he at once marched the musicians off to play—not the pianoforte—but the game of "Hen and chickens" in the garden. Horsley, who was not so young as the others, was in fits of laughter as he stood at the window watching the overgrown boys at their "play," Mendelssohn being the life and soul of the game.

Although Mendelssohn was thirty-three at the time of his visit to Denmark Hill, he revelled in a game of leap-frog, played with the tutor to Mr. Benecke's sons; and he once practised the horizontal-bar so vigorously as to take the skin off his hands. He composed for the children a very humorous "Bear's dance" with the following title: "The real, genuine, warranted Bärentanz, as performed with unbounded applause at the Denmark Hill Chamber Concerts, composed and dedicated (by permission) to the Gooseberry-eaters at Benecke Castle, by their humble colleague and servant, Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy, usually called Peter Meffert." This comical little piece, dated "London, 11th July, 1842," is on a rapidly reiterated pedal bass (the lowest F on the pianoforte), and each hand plays at the extreme ends of the keyboard throughout. At the end is the direction: "Da capo, very often." No wonder that Mendelssohn's hostess said: "I am very fond of speaking of that happy time"; and that her daughter, one of the "gooseberry-eaters," adds: "we were all devotedly fond of him."

On his next and eighth visit to England, Mendelssohn arrived in London early in May, 1844, and remained till July 10. He had a most exciting time, and it is no wonder that he was glad to rejoin his wife and children at Soden (near Frankfort) after the ceaseless rush of his visit to England. He thus writes to his sister, Fanny Hensel, from Soden, on July 22, 1844: "After my mad, most mad, life in England—for never before was anything like this season—we never went to bed before half-past-one, every hour of every day was filled with engagements three weeks beforehand, and I got through more music in two months than in all the rest of the year—this life at Soden, with its eating and sleeping, without dress coat, without piano, without visiting cards, without carriage and horses; but with donkeys, with wild flowers, with music-paper and sketch-book, with Cécile and the children—this life is doubly refreshing." In this happy state of dolce far niente Benedict found his friend.

"Here we met (at Soden) once more; and during the fortnight I had the happiness of spending with him it was my good fortune to hear for the first time his six Sonatas for the organ—perfect specimens of his thorough knowledge of that instrument. But another and still greater treat for me was his playing of the music he had just composed for Racine's tragedy of 'Athalie,' a work which, though conceived in a different style from his 'Antigone,' is quite worthy to rank with it. As a proof of the great purity of his taste, it may be mentioned that no French composer ever observed so strictly the rules of prosody in his own language as Mendelssohn has done in 'Athalie,' his first and only composition to French words."

"An interesting episode o our sojourn at Soden was our assisting at the performance of Cherubini's 'Medée,' at Frankfort. Mendelssohn's remarks on the peculiarities of Cherubini, his comparisons between his earlier operas 'Faniska' and 'Lodoïska' with 'Medée,' struck me with amazement. How, with the inexhaustible stock of his own ideas, he found room in his memory for so many works of other composers, dead and living, is only to be explained by the fact of his rare gifts and exceptional organization.

"But our errand to Frankfort was not limited to Cherubini's opera; other and weightier objects occupied Mendelssohn's mind. The birthday of a child of one of his friends was to be celebrated at Soden, and so he wandered from toy-shop to toy-shop, buying walnuts, gold-leaf, penny trumpets, and, more important than all, a small fir tree, to be ornamented with sugar-plums, toys, tapers, etc., hanging from every branch. On returning to Soden, Johann, his faithful and attached servant, was first consulted, and then the whole family set to work decking out the tree, till it looked right cheerful and brilliant. At night-fall the carefully locked door of the drawing-room was opened, and in poured the happy little folks, screaming with joy. 'Let's have a march,' said Carl—Mendelssohn's eldest son, aged six—and they all paced round the tree to the same strains I had heard a few months before at the Hanover Square Rooms, in the presence of the Queen, Prince Albert, and the élite of London society; for it was the Wedding March from 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' that Mendelssohn played."

Benedict's last recorded reminiscence of his gifted friend is as touching as it is brief. In the afternoon of the 9th of October, 1847, Mendelssohn visited his friend Frau Frege, a distinguished amateur singer, and consulted her as to the arrangement of his songs in Op. 71. "I really feel miserable," he said, on entering the room, "so much so that lately I actually cried over my Trio." Frau Frege sang his songs through to him several times, and then he said, "If you are not tired, let us try the last quartet out of the 'Elijah.'" She left the room for lamps, and during her absence Mendelssohn was seized with the first attack of what proved to be his fatal illness. He immediately returned home to be nursed by his anxious wife.

"Three days later, arriving myself at Leipsic, I was permitted to approach him, but only stayed in his presence a moment. Outside of his house, in the König-strasse, there was the din and noise of the fair then going forward. Within was a noble nature struggling against its fearful enemy, which had already taken a fatal hold upon his earthly frame. What a painful contrast! On the following day he felt better, and earnestly desired to see me. He got up and spent almost two hours with me. By way of cheering him, I spoke of all the preparations and rehearsals of 'Elijah' at Vienna, where he was himself engaged to superintend the first performance. Mendelssohn seemed much concerned at not being able to keep his promise with the King of Prussia about the production of his Oratorio at Berlin, which stood for the 15th or 18th, and begged me to convey his apologies to the proper authorities. He hoped to be able to follow me thither soon; and, he added, 'if I could only see Schönlein' (his former physician) 'he would soon restore my health.' In the midst of our conversation he would frequently stop, exclaiming 'Oh! my poor head!'"

"The next day I saw him again, and for the last time. He seemed more cheerful, and said 'I have had a narrow escape, but shall never be well unless I spend a winter in Italy.' We discoursed upon future plans, and I left him with the sanguine hope of hearing soon of his perfect recovery."

Benedict's hope was not to be realised. Almost within three weeks after he had bid his friend a last farewell, the music-loving soul of Felix Mendelssohn passed peacefully away.

F. G. Edwards.

"If, however, the charm of novelty be an absolute necessity, then pardon me if I confess that I fail to properly appreciate, or have no particular sympathy with such a distinction." Thus the closing sentence of a letter written by Brahms in 1887 to the Hon. Secretary of the Leeds Musical Festival, which appears in the recently published "History of the Leeds Musical Festival." The eminent composer had been requested to write a new work, but declined the honour. The sentence, indeed, seems to throw cold water over a policy which has brought fame to composers and honour to the Leeds directors. Bearing such an illustrious signature, it might easily prove a powerful weapon in the hands of those who are opposed to novelties and who look upon them with a jealous eye, as taking up time and attention which could better be employed on the "old masters," and it therefore demands a moment's consideration. Brahms's expressed lack of sympathy with regard to novelty can be looked at from a two-fold point of view: according to one he was right, but according to the other wrong. As an earnest thinker and worker he was right. In place of a new composition he proposed that one of his old ones should be given. Brahms did not like writing to order, for the works which he has given to the world were not mere pièces d'occasion, but the outward expression of inward feeling. He had faith in himself, and preferred to see one of his old works "honoured" rather than to satisfy curiosity at personal risk, perhaps, to his own reputation. In that letter he was writing as one who was conscious of his high calling and properly jealous for his art. But, on the other hand, the Leeds directors were right in seeking to obtain a novelty. The production of a new work at an important Festival like that of Leeds does an immense amount of good. The fact that novelties are sought after stimulates composers to write; it may be that many a one turns out to be a mere pièce d'occasion, is here to-day and gone to-morrow; but, like the great contests in ancient Greece, these great musical tournaments cannot but prove a source of good to the art of music; there may be many failures, or mere succès d'estime, or even works of exceeding great merit, but one day a genius may step in unawares and seize the opportunity. Again, so far as the public is concerned, it is surely wise to call their attention to contemporary art. The musical public will not move of itself, and it naturally prefers the safe past to the uncertain present—Handel and Mendelssohn to the composers of the day, some of whom may, however, become the "old masters" of the future. The bold policy adopted by the Leeds and other Festival Directors has done much to educate and catholicise public taste—for though the Festival is only a local one, the effect of it is felt throughout the length and breadth of the land—and to their credit it should be stated that while they have granted opportunities of being heard to composers of comparatively small reputation, they have also sought for novelties from our best native composers, and from the most illustrious musicians abroad. Their policy has not been novelty for mere novelty's sake.

A valuable suggestion has been made by the Rev. Frederick K. Harford in a recent number of the Guardian. He points out that by slightly altering and re-arranging the verses of the 43rd chapter of Ecclesiasticus a very fine Canticle is formed, "which for general purposes would be not inferior to the Benedicite." The enterprising English composer will no doubt speedily avail himself of this magnificent poem, the text of which, as arranged by Mr. Harford, we subjoin:—

"GREAT IS THE LORD."

"Magnus Dominus.

Preface from Ecclus. xlii. 15, 19, 22, 25, 24.

"xlii. 15. In the Words of the Lord are His Works.

"19. He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and revealeth the steps of hidden things.

"22. Oh, how desirable are all His Works!

"25. One thing establisheth the good of another:

"24. And He hath made nothing imperfect.

"Ecclus. xliii. vv. 1; 2; (5) 6; 9, with part of 10; 11 and 12; 17; parts of 13 and 17, with 18; 20; 29 and 23; 24; parts of 31, 27, and 32; 28.

"xliii. Verse 1. The pride of the height—the clear firmament—the beauty of heaven, with its glorious show.

"5. Great is the Lord. Great is the Lord that made it.

"2. The sun when it appeareth, declaring at his rising a marvellous instrument—the work of the Most High.

"5. Great is the Lord that made it.

"6. He made the moon also to serve in her season for a declaration of times, and a sign for the world.

"5. Great is the Lord that made it.

"9 with part of 10. The glory of the stars, standing in their order, an ornament giving light in the highest places of the Lord.

"5. Great is the Lord that made them.

"11 and 12. Look upon the rainbow, and praise Him that made it; very beautiful it is in the brightness thereof. It compasseth the heaven about with a glorious circle, and the hands of the Most High have bended it.

"5. Great is the Lord that made it.

"17. The noise of the thunder maketh the earth to tremble; so doth the northern storm and the whirlwind.

"5. Great is the Lord that made them.

"Parts of 13 and 17 with 18. By His commandment He maketh the snow to fall apace. As birds flying He scattereth it: and the falling thereof is as the alighting of locusts. The eye marvelleth at the beauty of the whiteness thereof, and the heart is astonished at the raining of it.

"5. Great is the Lord that made it.

"20. When the cold north wind bloweth, and the water is congealed into ice, it clotheth the water as with a breastplate.

"5. Great is the Lord that made it.

"29. Very great and terrible is the Lord. Very great and marvellous is His power.

"23. By His counsel He appeaseth the deep, and planteth islands therein.

"5. Great is the Lord that made it.

"24. They that sail on the sea tell of the dangers thereof, and when we hear it we marvel thereat.

"Parts of 31, 27, and 32. Who can magnify Him as He is? We may speak much, and yet come short, for we have seen but a few of His works.

"28. How shall we be able to magnify Him? for He is great above all His works.

"He is great above all His works.

"Gloria Patri."

We have seen many remarkable things in the way of examination papers, but never any, we will venture to say, so utterly preposterous as those on Musical History, Composition, and Orchestration set this year by the University College of South Wales and Monmouthshire, an institution concerning which we confess to knowing very little. What kind of musical luminaries can that college possess who expect to get answered in three hours, by first-year students, a paper of which the first question alone covers more than the whole ground taken by Rowbotham's huge work? "Write a full account," says the examiner, "of the music, instruments, players, authors—supplying names and dates—of (a) The Egyptians, (b) Hebrews, (c) Assyrians, (d) Chinese, (e) Indians, (f) Greeks, (g) Romans." It seems a pity to have omitted the Etruscans, Aztecs, and Atlantides from this list; the composers' names of these countries are quite as important. Question 2 asks the student (amongst many other things) to "write the four Authentic and four Plagal scales; their authors and centuries." We would like their authors to write us, but as they lived before history begins we fear they must be dead now. After a minute examination of musical history up to the sixteenth century (all included in question 3), question 4 demands "(a) Dates, nationality, and services to music of Meuris (sic), Duffay (sic), Ockeghem, Jusquin de Pres (sic), Willaert, Lassus, Festa; (b) and of the English composers of the sixteenth century, with the respective distinguished contemporaries of each; (c) also of the Italian School (sixteenth century), commencing with Palestrina, his contemporaries and successors." Question 5 is a trifling enquiry concerning oratorio and opera. It expects the unhappy candidate to "(a) Write their history, naming their originators, the various composers, with a list of their oratorios. Give names and dates of each; (b) Give a full account of the English composers of that (sic) century, naming works of each; (c) write a full list of Handel's forty-four operas and twenty-two oratorios, supplying dates of each." Has the reader had enough? We have only quoted about half of this outrageous paper, which winds up by demanding "the characteristics, parts, keys, tempi, measures, starting notes, and national origin of (a) the Allemande, (b) Courante, (c) Sarabande, (d) Minuet, (e) Bourrée, Chaconne, or Passepied, and (f) Gigue, with a full list of keys and numbers of Bach's Suites Françaises, Suites Anglaises, and Partitas.

After this such a question as "Analyse minutely Bach's Fugue in C sharp minor, numbering each bar," is child's play; requiring first-year students to work four-part combined counterpoint is quite rational, and expecting human beings to answer such horrible fugue-subjects as these—excites but mild wonder. In the instrumentation paper, however, there is a compendious question, to answer which would be to write Berlioz's Treatise over again. "Write a fairly full statement of the compass, tone, quality, melodic or harmonic capacity of (a) each string instrument, (b) each wood-wind instrument, (c) each brass instrument, also (e) percussive instruments." The person who can answer this and several other questions, besides scoring two pieces and giving a minute analysis of the form and scoring of Beethoven's "Fidelio" Overture, in the space of three hours, is a person we should be glad to have as an amanuensis, for a short-hand writer would be nowhere beside such a phenomenon. But we have still omitted to quote the best pieces from these papers. In that on Composition occur the following, which need no comment:—"(1) Write a list of the chorales, part-songs, anthems, also the sacred and secular solos and cantata composed by you during the present session (MSS. of which were handed to the Examiner). . . . (5) What, in your opinion, should be the subjects of study for all earnest and ambitious young composers? (6) Define the respective styles of (a) Bach, (b) Beethoven, (c) Berlioz, (d) Wagner, with their dates and the names of the greatest works of each."

Sir John Stainer, in his capacity of Inspector of Music, makes some very interesting remarks in his report upon music in the Scottish Training Colleges. He says: "It is, of course, a very satisfactory sign of the state of music in a college if several students prove to be capable of playing the accompaniments of the songs; but a word of warning is necessary against allowing indifferent players to undertake the duty at the examination. The singer may run the risk of being credited with faults due to the shortcoming of the accompanist." Further he says that "A much better class of song has now for the most part found its way into the colleges; but here, too, a warning is necessary. If classical songs are placed in the hands of students it is of the utmost importance, not only that the reading should be strictly correct, but also that the spirit and intention of the composer should be caught by the singer. The only hope of delivering the next generation from the thraldom of the insipid ballads with which our nation is flooded, lies in the possibility of teaching that there exists something loftier and better; and if young people really appreciate the beauty of the German Lied there need be no fear of their relapse into the mire of sugary sentimentality."

The numerous friends of the late William Alexander Barrett will be gratified to observe how highly Sir John Stainer appreciated the character and labours of his colleague. He says in the same report: "I deeply regret that one of my Assistant-Inspectors, who has always taken the keenest interest in the advancement of music in Scotland, has been suddenly removed by death from his useful sphere of work. As an examiner he had the happy knack of inspiring confidence in those before him, and his sympathy and kindness, not less than his justice, made him universally respected."

Thus Musical News: "It is satisfactory to note that despite the Wagner exultation (sic), which has been going on in connection with the notable performances lately given in London, the largest audiences have been attracted by 'Don Giovanni' and 'Le Nozze di Figaro.'" We should be sorry to damp the enthusiasm of any one for these divine masterpieces, but justice must be done, though the heavens fall. Sir Augustus Harris is our authority for saying that the "largest audiences," by far, have been those which attended the performances of "Roméo and Juliette," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Siegfried," "Tristan," and "Die Walküre." It is, however, a fact that "Don Giovanni" and "Figaro" each attracted a larger audience than "Fidelio"; and from this Musical News is quite welcome to derive what satisfaction it may. For our own poor part we attach no importance whatever to this kind of evidence—everyone knows that statistics, judiciously handled, can be made to prove anything. It would be easy, for instance, to make much of the fact that, of the operas given this season, fifteen are by Germans, six by Frenchmen, three by Italians, and two by Englishmen. It would also be foolish.

Ferdinand Poise, the composer of "La Surprise de l'Amour" and "Joli Gilles," whose death, at Paris, we recently announced, was also gifted with considerable poetical talent, which he occasionally exercised in a practical way, by supplying the lyrics to some of his own charming operettas. The following verses, written by him shortly before he breathed his last, have just been communicated, in handsomely printed form, to his numerous friends by the composer's widow. Apart from the melancholy interest attaching to them, the lines are worth quoting as at once graceful and pathetic, like some of the more seriously conceived melodies which emanated from the pen of this long-suffering musician. The printed communication runs as follows:—

Dernière Pensée de Ferdinand Poise.

O mon piano, mon vieil ami!
Te voilà pour toujours, pour toujours endormi.

Je ne te dirais plus ces douces chansonnettes,
Les airs de Saboly, les Noëls d'autrefois;
Je ne te dirais plus ces vieilles ariettes
Que je trouvais, le soir, sans chercher, sous mes doigts.

O mon piano, mon vieil ami!
Te voilà pour toujours, pour toujours endormi.

Comme nous nous aimions! Je te disais sans trêve
Mes projets d'avenir, ma joie et mon chagrin;
Et tu fixais le chant des oiseaux de mon rêve,
La phrase fugitive en son rythme divin . . .

O mon piano, mon vieil ami!
Te voilà pour toujours, pour toujours endormi.

F. Poise.

Écrit le 12 Mai, 1892, à la veille de sa mort.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

The question of honest musical criticism has come up in America and, as far as the discussion has gone, the managers of newspapers are accounted mainly responsible for musical criticism which is not honest. They do not run their papers straight in this matter, and infinite mischief results. A New York contemporary gives an illustration: "Concert-givers want flattering reports for business reasons: the artist depends upon them for engagements, the manager for the financial success of subsequent Concerts, and the head of a music school for an increase in the number of its students. If these glowing reports are paid for, if they are not an honest expression of the opinion of the authors, then the person who causes them to be published is guilty of practising a deception upon the public and is liable to public censure. In the case of a school faculty concert, mayhap the teacher of violin will appear, and although he may be a performer of the most inferior kind (and possibly a poorer instructor) the principal of the school will manage somehow to have the most wildly extravagant and absurd things said about him in the public press. Unfortunately the report does not stay at home where the violinist is known, and where it will only cause a smile; it goes out into other cities and attracts the attention of somebody who is looking for a teacher. Here is exactly the man he wishes to study under; he accepts the flimsy evidence he holds in his hand of the man's ability without a question, makes his arrangement with the school, packs his trunk, and in a few days has taken a lesson. If he is a person of average intelligence it will not take many lessons to convince him of his mistake; and if he has heard the professor play, not knowing the methods pursued by the managers of the school, he will quickly put down the music critic whom he believes guilty of perpetrating the article which fooled him, as an idiot."

There was the usual wealth of "personal" and descriptive paragraphs in connection with the Cincinnati Festival. Here are a few by way of specimen:—"The flower-decked and filleted chorus, in their snowy, rose and azure gowns, were a lovely sight. Under the stern glare of a lorgnette some rare and radiant maiden would stand out like a St. Cecilia, with rosy flesh, glistening hair, starry eyes, and curving outline, only to be lost again by a turn of the head or change of position." "The sopranos were a pretty sight. How they drooped their pretty heads, and the music bubbled from their lips as if by inspiration. And the altos' rows of fair women, in white and azure, lifting their voices in sweet accord, gave them back melody for melody." "Howard Hinkle and Dr. W. W. Seely were sitting where they could easily swap opinions about music without getting out of their chairs." "A lovely lot of Blue Grass beauties came to town to hear 'St. Paul.'" "At 7.30, when Theodore Thomas, standing on a baize-draped platform, high above the audience, let fall his polished bâton on the first measure of Mendelssohn's superb Oratorio 'St. Paul,' the great Music Hall was a blaze of colour, that flared from the gilded and silvered pipes of the huge organ down through the fan-shaped radiance in which sat the chorus, swept over the top of the copse of violin bows that stretched in a crescent to Thomas's right and left, leaped over the edge of the draped platform, swept through the auditorium, climbed to the balcony, and was stopped at last by the neutral-toned walls of the gallery far above." Even an effete Britisher can appreciate the abounding élan and freedom of the journalist over the water.

Mr. F. H. Cowen gave an Orchestral Concert of his own works on June 26, at the Vienna Exhibition, by invitation of the Committee. The programme included the "Scandinavian" Symphony, the Symphony in F (No. 5), and the Suite de Ballet "The Language of Flowers," all of which were received most enthusiastically by a large audience, the former meeting with a renewal of the great success it obtained ten years ago when Richter first produced it at a Vienna Philharmonic Concert. The Gavotte from the "Language of Flowers" was unanimously encored, and the entire Suite is to be taken into the répertoire of the Exhibition orchestra. After the Concert Mr. Cowen was presented with a large laurel wreath in the name of the Committee of the Exhibition. The Viennese papers all speak in the highest terms not only of Mr. Cowen's music, but also of his abilities as a Conductor, which is a great thing in the city where Richter deservedly reigns supreme. To an extent, which they themselves appreciate, at any rate, all English musicians share in Mr. Cowen's success. By triumphs such as his our island music makes way on the Continent, and already the barriers thrown across its path by ignorance and prejudice are breaking down.

The question of supplying one small pianoforte to about every 2,000 children, anent which the members of the London School Board raged so furiously together awhile back, seems now to have subsided. The schools have got the pianofortes, and London still stands where it did; and there is no bill to pay for pianoforte lessons given to our future masters. It is rather a pity the reports of the Education Department are so long delayed. The following opinion of the Senior Chief Inspector, the Rev. T. W. Sharpe, has only just, as it were, thawed out, although it was written a year ago. It is well worth quoting. He says: "The use of a pianoforte in a school has been attacked by the false assertion that it is introduced to teach boys and girls in elementary schools to play the pianoforte; it might as well be asserted that a soldier is to be taught to play all the instruments in a regimental band because one of the chief uses of a band is to enliven his march and assist the regularity of his step. A school pianoforte has a marvellous effect on the drill and marching of a class, even though the instrument may be a little wheezy or out of tune, or may perhaps have lost a note."

An American professor, Mr. Louis Lombard, has recently uttered words of exceeding plainness with regard to music as it is among his countrymen. With reference to the fact that the male American, as a rule, holds aloof from the art, Mr. Lombard said:—"In our utilitarian country, most fathers wish to make railway presidents, or the like, of their sons, unmindful of the fact that the average boy is better constituted for humbler offices. 'Music is good enough for the girls, but I want to make a practical man of my son.' This is the thought of ninety-nine in one hundred fathers. While there is here no time to criticise parents, there is no reason for not noting the deplorable state of our orchestras, due to the neglect of training boys in music. The number of good native musicians is extremely small. In fact, there exists no American orchestra worthy of the name, the majority of whose members are not foreigners or alien citizens. What a sad confession from America, where the greatest results have been attained in political and physical science!" We English are not so musical as the Americans—at any rate, they tell us so—but no Mr. Lombard can truthfully use the same language here.

The speaker went on to urge that the "national vice of acknowledging no superiors" is a cause of musical imperfection: "Nobody in the United States wants to play second violin. In the helter-skelter chase after the almighty dollar 'vaulting ambition overleaps itself,' and the second violinist wants to be first. No sooner is he promoted than he seeks a leadership; and it is but too true that he easily finds a small body of players in need of a conductor—the blind leading the blind! Then begins, indeed, the struggle for existence, ending with the survival of the noisiest, for most of our small orchestras produce a volume of sound in inverse ratio to their size."

According to a writer in the New York Tribune, music in Cincinnati is damaged by a prevailing spirit of frivolity. He says: "There is a very large cultured element in Cincinnati which is not deceived, and which enjoys the good features of the Festival because of the local dearth of choral and orchestral music; but on the rest of the community the Festivals no longer exert the educational influence which they ought, and which once they did, because of the false light in which they are viewed and the flippant manner in which they are treated by the newspapers. The prevalent spirit of frivolity, of which mention was made in one of the dispatches to this journal, was strikingly illustrated on the morning after the first Concert. Mendelssohn's Oratorio 'St. Paul' had been sung, and the Commercial Gazette celebrated the affair by a sprawling design covering a great part of its first page, the central feature of which was a scroll bearing the notes of 'Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay.'" Surely there must be some mistake! If not, here is a Leitmotif (borrowed) for Cincinnati:—

Apropos to Mr. Vogt, of Toronto, and his crusade against the "oratorio nuisance," a Pennsylvanian paper, the Musical News, observes: "Gounod, although achieving the most eminent success in the operatic field, has not considered that he has wasted his time or talents in the composition of his glorious and immortal oratorios, such as 'Redemption' and 'Mors et Vita.' Brahms, perhaps the most eminent German composer of the day, does not consider it beneath his dignity to write choral music of the same nature. Dvorák, whose magnificent 'Requiem' was recently produced with much success, does not lower his art thereby. Rubinstein, who has achieved such signal success both as virtuoso and composer of pianoforte, orchestral, and operatic music, has also invaded the realm of oratorio and given us the 'Tower of Babel,' and is now putting the finishing touches on a new oratorio. The list might be prolonged, but sufficient instances have been given to demonstrate that the great masters had no idea of perpetrating a 'nuisance' when they penned their oratorios, the Canadian gentleman to the contrary notwithstanding. We are inclined to the belief that the attempt of Mr. Vogt to annihilate oratorio will be quite as successful as that of Mrs. Partington to mop back the Atlantic."

The following remarkable paragraph has appeared in an American paper:—"A better 'organised' church than Grace does not exist in the city (N.Y.)—organs to the right of them, organs to the left of them, and into the very jaws of organs march the six hundred or more worshippers who weekly meet in the church. The great organ, dismembered by building and artifice, includes up and down-stairs organs, with attachments innumerable. An electric motor at the right foot, a small knob at the left, a forest of sleeping cork-like slippery stops, a hard bench, what looks like a small 'melodeon,' and a musical soul work in harmony. Now a thundering peal, again a rustle of angel's wings, now in this corner, again in that crevice; by and by through the ceiling frescoes sweet strains are whisked, switched, and rolled about after the manner of a swinging electric light, and scores of earth-fagged souls are wafted almost to the gates of heaven, out of the weird old building, nestled there in its gray cloak in the midst of the maelstrom of earthly selfishness in the hub of the hub of the universe."

Our Boston contemporary, the Organ, devotes a certain part of its space to what is called "Cipherings," and these serve to lighten the effect of pages necessarily technical. We take a few examples: "The female organist of a Utica church has eloped and married a fourteen-year-old boy who pumped the organ. The affair has taken the wind out of the choir." Our second is in the form of a dialogue: "Pa, what are the stops of an organ for?" "They are for varying the tone of the instrument. One causes a flute tone, another a deep tone, and so on." "I see. Has the hand-organ stops?" "No, my son. There is no stop to a hand-organ till you tell the man you will hit him with a brick if he doesn't move off." Our third pleasantly expresses a truth which has its roots deep down in human nature: "A church choir consists of one accomplished musician, and a lot of other folks who are densely ignorant of music. The accomplished one is the person you are talking with."

The Western Press observes: "If Mr. Riseley's scheme, propounded last autumn, of taking some of our local musicians to Vienna to represent English music at the Exhibition, had been carried to a successful issue, the probability is that many musical Bristolians would now be on the Continent. English music is not entirely neglected at Vienna, however, for Mr. F. H. Cowen recently gave there a performance of a programme consisting entirely of his own works. There are those who say that this is scarcely a fair representation of English music." "Those" cannot know the facts of the case. The Exhibition Committee applied to Mr. Cowen for a selection from his own works. The Concert, therefore, directly represented his talent as a composer, and nothing else. Other English musicians were communicated with, and it was the hope of the Committee that thus they might obtain a fair idea of contemporary music in these islands.

"The music on Southsea Pier," says a correspondent, "has much improved since the appointment of Mr. George Miller as Musical Director." The orchestra consists of the string band of the Royal Marine Light Infantry, of which Mr. Miller is bandmaster. At a recent Concert the Allegro from Brahms's Symphony in D figured in the programme, and Miss Marian McKenzie sang. Seaside music appears to be looking up! It was about time. By the way, it is probable that the band of the Royal Marine Light Infantry will perform at the International and South African Exhibition, an engagement having been offered them by the Mayor of Kimberley, Chairman of the Exhibition. If the Admiralty sanctions its acceptance, the band (of thirty-six members) will be absent from head-quarters for about a hundred days. The cost to the Exhibition will be over £3,000.

Mr. Philip Hale, the able critic of the Boston Home Journal, recently attended a musical festival at Springfield, Mass., and came to the following conclusions:—"The cantata or oratorio heard for the first time neither excites curiosity nor gives, as a rule, genuine pleasure. Certain oratorios (and they may be counted on one hand) are sure drawing cards. A miscellaneous concert, where singers step in turn upon the stage, each armed with a favourite aria and a ballad, is absolutely necessary if the Society is unwilling to lose money. These concerts attract the great audience and promote the longest discussion, for the personality of the singer is brought nearer to the hearer. A concert of an instrumental nature is regarded as a necessary evil, a prop to the dignity of the occasion; and nine hearers out of ten are bored." The application of the foregoing is to America only, we presume.

The circumstances under which Mr. F. H. Cowen and the Philharmonic Society parted company are scarcely a subject for public discussion. The quarrel was purely domestic in its nature, and we all know what happens to the man who interferes in a family dispute. It may have been injudicious in Mr. Cowen to address the audience without the leave of his directors, and it may be that the directors took too serious a view of an act which the public had already forgotten. On these points we will offer no opinion, being content to express regret that a connection of five years' standing has ended unpleasantly. Mr. Cowen not being again invited to take the Philharmonic bâton, it is satisfactory to know that his place will be taken by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, whose qualifications are indisputable, and who will worthily continue the line of Philharmonic Conductors.

Some practical joker in the office of the Sunday Sun has been playing tricks with the music "copy," and the result is curious reading. Mdlle. Szumowska, it is said, introduced a "very clever Pianoforte Trio," name of composer not stated, and we are told that "The Sonata in B flat and Beethoven's Variations in C minor achieved most remarkable results by perfectly legitimate means." In the next paragraph we read that Mdlle. Chaminade gave a Concert "entirely devoted to her own compositions," "and played a long and exacting programme in a thoroughly satisfactory manner, and, in some instances, notably in Chopin, the mastery shown by Mdlle. Chaminade over this form of composition was truly remarkable." It looks as though our contemporary's "jokist" had mixed up the two notices.

We have received from Christ Church, New Zealand, the programme of a Liedertafel Concert in which every piece is headed by a poetical quotation more or less appropriate. Thus, above the words of a song, "The Admiral's Broom," we read—

> The stern delight that warriors feel
> In foemen worthy of their steel.

Mendelssohn's part-song "The Voyage" is introduced by—

> For me the favouring breeze, when loud
> It pipes upon the galley's shroud,
> Makes blither melody.

And Stephen Adams's song "My life for thee" suggests Tennyson's stanza, "And on her lover's arm she leant," &c. Cynical observers of modern "words for music" may observe that this plan has the advantage of giving just a flavour of poetry.

It is sometimes said that the reign of the typical prima donna is over. That may be the case as regards the lyric stage, though we doubt it; but certainly is not true in respect of the lady's position as a giver of trade testimonials. Madame Patti and Madame Marie Roze still recommend a certain soap, but they are behind the times as compared with Miss Lilian Russell, who has graciously testified to the excellence of the G. P. and T. A. Wabash Railroad. Here is the certificate in question: "I desire to thank you cordially for the magnificent train you placed at my disposal on Sunday last, and to compliment you on the wonderful time made. Chicago to St. Louis in six hours, I understand, beats the record, so do your superb parlour and dining cars. I never made a quicker or more comfortable trip."

Mr. G. Elliott Brinkworth, Hon. Secretary of the Ballad Singers' Club, received a gold watch the other day by way of testimonial, and, in returning thanks, said he "thought they stood at the head of London musical clubs, because he did not think that clubs like the Lyric and Meistersingers gave such concerts as the Ballad Singers." Most likely they do not. Among the performers at the Presentation Concert were Mr. Sam Redfern (nigger impersonator), Mr. Charles Bertram (conjurer), Mr. C. Collette (patterer), Mr. Ben Nathan (droll), Mr. John Nash (Jolly Nash), the Brothers Griffiths (knockabouts), and Mr. Sam Wright, of "Hi tiddley hi ti" fame.

Referring to the ballad of "Undaunted Mary," the Dundee Advertiser remarks: "We have sought in vain for the author of this pathetic and realistic ballad amongst the records of local poets. It is very probably more than a hundred years old, although we believe that it is still reprinted now and then in broad sheet form, and circulated in this quarter. But, alas! we long for the return of those halcyon days of innocence, when bloodthirsty poetry of this kind was the staple mental pabulum of the people. Will any one say that 'Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay' appeals to a higher culture?" Verily, no!

The Western Figaro makes a hit: "The following advertisement is from the St. John's Wood Advertiser: 'Respectable young man desires to learn music for piano, in return for window cleaning, &c. Apply——.' There are still a few teachers who would decidedly have the best of it if they availed themselves of this tempting offer, even though the windows were left a bit smeary. The young man, however, may have his ambition to learn music damped by reading the following from The Musical Times: 'Choirmaster Wanted, for St. Jude's, Southwark, S.E., to Train Boys and Take Organ. Choral Services. Salary, £10 per annum. Apply to the Vicar.'"

We are indebted to a correspondent, Mr. E. A. Sutton, for a droll example of the mess into which novelists get when, greatly daring, they venture upon musical ground. The passage quoted below is taken from Mr. W. Black's "Wolfenberg": ". . . in an ordinary ball-room, when there is a pause in the music—a dotted note, for example, in a waltz—that momentary space of quiet is filled with the rustling of silk and muslin . . . but here, in these slight intervals, one caught another sound—the continuous swish of the water along the side of the ship."

We are authorised to state that the Committee of Management of the Norwich Musical Festival have secured Mr. F. H. Cowen's new Cantata "The Water Lily" for performance at the Festival next year. Sir John Stainer has also accepted the offer of the Committee to compose a sacred work, and Mr. J. F. Barnett's new secular Cantata for female voices will also be performed for the first time. Mr. A. R. Gaul's Cantata, to be produced at the same time, will be entitled "Una," founded on Spenser's "Faerie Queene."

The cry is "still they come." We have received a preliminary prospectus of the South Wales and Monmouthshire School of Music (regd.), which is being founded in Cardiff by Dr. Joseph Parry, who "hopes to meet a want long felt by students in the Principality." The first term will commence on October 3, when six scholarships, consisting of one year's free tuition in various branches of the art, will be open to residents in Wales and Monmouthshire.

Messrs. Paterson and Sons' (Edinburgh) sixth series of Subscription Orchestral Concerts will be given in December and January next, under the direction of Mr. August Manns. An orchestra of 100 performers is promised, and one important choral work will be given, with the aid of Mr. Kirkhope's Choir. There is talk of Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal" in this connection.

On the 23rd ult. Mr. Joseph Barnby was presented with a handsome album containing photographs of the past and present members of the Eton College Volunteer band (of which Mr. Barnby was honorary Conductor) and views of Eton. The presentation was made by Mr. Donaldson, and, after a farewell speech by Mr. Barnby, the band played "Auld lang syne."

The return of Sarasate to his native town was celebrated by illuminations and a display of fireworks; he himself receiving the Cross of the Legion of Honour, and a memorial medal bearing the arms of the Province of Navarre. The saying with regard to prophets evidently does not apply to those of the violin!

Recent changes at Trinity College, London, include the appointment of Dr. E. H. Turpin to the post of Warden, vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Bonavia Hunt, who has become a Vice-President. Mr. Joseph Bennett, late a member of the Council, has also been elected a Vice-President.

First steps are now being taken towards the formation of a musical club in Bristol, and invitations to take up membership are out. An institution of the kind, as the Birmingham Clef Club shows, can do much good; but musicians are "touchy," and it needs to be managed with almost superhuman prudence.

Opportunities for musical study in Chelsea have recently been increased by the establishment of a musical branch at the Public Library. We are informed that the collection is already fairly representative of the great composers.

On the occasion of Grieg's silver wedding, the professors and students of Trinity College, London, presented him with a silver inkstand. The composer hopes "to write a great deal of music with its aid." We all trust he may.

Dr. Charles Harford Lloyd has been appointed to succeed Mr. Joseph Barnby at Eton. The choice appears to have given general satisfaction.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

Since we last noticed the doings in connection with the Franco-Italian side of Sir Augustus Harris's dual enterprise, there has been great activity, but not very much calling for remark, apart from the production of Bemberg's "Elaine." This is explained, of course, by the demands of German Opera upon the time and attention of the manager and his assistants. Going back as far as June 25, just prior to which our last month's record broke off, a revival of Meyerbeer's "Prophête" calls for brief mention. This work was put upon the stage less, perhaps, because the public wanted it than because Madame Deschamps-Jehin desired to appear as Fides, and Mr. Jean de Reszke fancies himself greatly as Jean de Leyden. There was a large attendance of persons interested in the two artists, if not in the opera, and the occasion added to the successes of the season. The performance excelled dramatically rather than vocally. Madame Deschamps is an excellent actress, and can give satisfaction even when scarcely equal to the demands of her music; while, in this instance, the Polish tenor was handicapped as a singer by the physical disability which he brought back with him from America. The other characters, sustained by Madame Mavrina, Messrs. Plançon, E. de Reszke, Montariol, and Castelmary, call for no remark.

The production, on the 28th ult., of Mozart's "Nozze," almost the only opera which seems able to defy the ravages of time, was distinguished by the appearance of Mr. Maurel as Figaro "for the first time on any stage." That the impersonation was lacking neither in humour nor vivacity goes without saying; at the same time, it cannot be considered extraordinary that the French baritone had not before been attracted by the part. Madame Eames sang and acted with unwonted sympathy as the Countess, Madame Arnoldson was a charming Cherubino, and Mr. E. de Reszke an artistic but rather heavy Almaviva. The Susanna was Madame Teleki.

Mr. Bemberg's "Elaine" was produced on the 5th ult., in presence of a large and interested audience, who had the advantage of knowing something about the story and being in sympathy with it. For this alone it was worth while bringing the opera out in England. We cannot tell how far the Parisian public are familiar with, or care about, Arthurian legend, but it is hardly dangerous to assume that their knowledge of the subject is rather limited, especially as the tale of the "Lily Maid of Astolat" has not been popularised for them by a favourite poet. It is true, on the other hand, that we Anglo-Saxons have neither part nor lot in Celtic romance, save in so far as the Celtic element has mixed with us. All the same, we generally fancy ourselves inheritors of the traditions of the race we partly dispossessed, and have made the story of Arthur and his Knights our own. Mr. Ferrier, the librettist of "Elaine," was wise enough to follow very closely the order of events as narrated by Tennyson; the opera, therefore, was a stage presentment of incidents which nearly everybody who attended its representation must often have seen in his mind's eye. The advantage of this to the work need not be insisted on. Under the circumstances just pointed out we are spared the necessity of going through the poem. Enough if we mention how the leading incidents are distributed. In the first of the four acts we have the departure of Arthur to the tournament, leaving Guinevere to the care of Lancelot, and the setting out of the knight, in disguise, towards the same scene of action. We also have Lancelot's arrival at Astolat, his hospitable reception as a stranger, the first meeting of Lancelot and Elaine, and the rise of their mutual love. The second act, which is spectacular more than anything else, shows the victory of Lancelot over his rival, Gawaine, and his hurried departure in a badly wounded state. When the third act opens, we find Lancelot nursed by the Hermit and watched by Elaine. To him comes Gawaine with a summons to appear at Arthur's Court. Lancelot obeys, and takes what proves to be a final leave of the Lily Maid. The last act opens at Astolat, where Elaine, broken-hearted and wasted, watches for the return to her of Lancelot, who "cometh never." Guinevere treacherously sends back her love-gage, as from Lancelot, and the maiden dies of the shock. The scene shifts to Arthur's Court, and after a passionate rupture between Lancelot and Guinevere, the barge bearing Elaine's body drifts down the river and halts before the eyes of the faithless knight. No reader needs to be told that this story is a good one, or that, while so far-removed in point of time, it is, in some form or other, present with us every day. We have here purely a tale of human nature, which, like its Maker, is "the same yesterday, to-day, and for ever." Hence it commands our attention and excites our feeling. The picturesque elements in the book are apparent at a glance.

In estimating the music, we must bear in mind that Mr. Bemberg is a young man whose musical life, as far as it has gone, has been spent in contact with, and under the influence of the most fascinating school of opera now in existence. The French are the opera-makers of the present, and the charming talent of men like Gounod, Bizet, and Massenet is just the sort to influence youth. Mr. Bemberg has been affected by it to a very considerable extent, and the music of "Elaine" was manifestly written in a mood of hero-worship. It is French "to the backbone," and suggests one or other of the masters above-named on almost every page. But this, as the parallel case of Mascagni shows us, is not incompatible with a certain individualism—the germ of stronger and more independent character to be developed in after time. As a matter of fact, Bemberg is not a mere imitator. There are many passages in "Elaine" which have traits not to be found in the masters whose lead he has followed, and on those we base our hope of the future. The composer is simply going through a process common to all who have left their mark upon the history of music. He may not reach the goal, but he deserves to be encouraged on his way. Mr. Bemberg is happier in dealing with lyrics than with dramatic scenes, and much of the charm of his music lies in the love songs and duets plentifully provided by the librettist. Here his unfailing tunefulness and happy orchestral colouring, combined with the ring of true feeling, produce results eminently satisfactory. With experience, and the confidence it brings, he may show corresponding merit as a dramatic composer, but for that we shall have to wait. In point of form, the opera follows the modern French fashion, and contains regularly developed "numbers," which satisfy a sense of musical proportiõn. Representative themes are few in number and used in the simplest manner. The opera was very well received, and proved fortunate in its leading exponents, Madame Melba being a most admirable Elaine, both as singer and actress; Madame Deschamps-Jehin giving to the smaller part of Guinevere the full advantage of her ripe talent; and Mr. Jean de Reszke, though not in good voice, presenting a picturesque and passionate Lancelot. Messrs. Plançon, Dufriche, Ceste, Montariol, and E. de Reszke completed a powerful cast.

The turn of "Aïda" came on the 7th ult., when Miss Macintyre appeared in the title-part, Miss Giulia Ravogli as Amneris, Mr. Maurel as Amonasro, and Mr. E. de Reszke as Ramfis. It is only necessary to say of this performance that the Scottish soprano, while as far from being an actress as ever, sang with great intensity and made a corresponding impression. Mr. Dimitresco appeared as Radames, and certainly exerted himself to do his part justice. On the 11th ult. "Don Giovanni" was given a second time, with Mr. Maurel again as the hero; Madame Nordica playing Elvira; Madame Valda, Donna Anna; Mr. E. de Reszke, Leporello; Mr. Dimitresco, Don Ottavio; and Miss Sigrid Arnoldson, Zerlina. This representation had some exceptionally good features, among them a Don Giovanni entitled to respectful consideration as the work of a very thoughtful artist, who never ceases to aim at higher things than those hitherto attained.

On the 23rd ult. Mr. George Fox's "Nydia," lately performed at the Crystal Palace, was produced in Drury Lane Theatre. The qualities, positive and negative, of this work were discussed in the June number of The Musical Times, so that it is only necessary to place on record a graceful impersonation of the blind heroine by Madame Sigrid Arnoldson, the rest of the cast having been the same on both occasions. A few extra performances, which for obvious reasons cannot be noticed here, closed the season.

GERMAN OPERA.

However disputable on ethical grounds the plot of "Die Walküre" may be—and there is no getting over the fact that Wagner accentuated rather than toned down the repulsive features of the Icelandic Saga—there can be no question of the astonishing brilliancy, impressiveness, and force of the score. Nearly all of the artists engaged in the performance on June 29 had already appeared in the previous representation, and in nearly every case had fully justified their inclusion in Sir Augustus Harris's company; nevertheless the announcement which accompanied the cast in the bills was as gratuitous as it was ill-advised. Nothing can possibly be gained by forcing invidious comparisons except the resentment of those whose opinion is worth having. Frau Ende-Andriessen's impersonation of the rebellious daughter of Wotan was a highly meritorious and intelligent performance. She sang with vigour, acted with dignity, and looked the part fairly well. It was, in short, a good but not a great achievement. Herr Reichmann, the Wotan of the cast, is past his prime as a singer, and in the second act his voice was hardly equal to the exigencies of the situation. He improved, however, as the evening advanced, and rendered a good account of himself in the last act, in which his delivery of the famous Abschied was marked by a good deal of expression. Herr Alvary made a decidedly picturesque Siegmund, and was heard to great advantage in the love duet. His mode of producing his voice is not by any means invariably pleasing, but it has this to recommend it—that he rarely shows any symptoms of fatigue, even at the close of a performance. Fräulein Bettaque sang with taste and effect as Sieglinde, and acquitted herself with credit as an actress. The best singing of the evening was that of Fräulein Heink as Fricka. She not only has a very fine voice, but she understands how to make the most of it, which is more than can be always said of German singers. Herr Wiegand was a most formidable and truculent Hunding. The most exciting episode in the opera, the "Walkürenritt," was rendered with spirit by the band and the eight representatives of those heroic horsewomen, but the impressiveness of the situation was seriously impaired by the absurd magic lantern business introduced to represent their ærial evolutions. We may be told that "they always do it that way," but that, in our opinion, is no adequate justification of the practice. The non-appearance of Grane (Brünnhilde's horse) and of Fricka's rams can hardly be counted as sins of omission, the introduction of Wagner's menagerie being generally more conducive to amusement than anything else. The mise-en-scène, though not brilliant, was fairly satisfactory, and the temper of the audience was, as usual, highly enthusiastic in spite of the delay at the beginning of the last act.

Frau Klafsky, who appeared for the first time in London as one of the Rhine-maidens in the performance of "Das Rheingold" given in 1882, made her rentrée on the 2nd ult. in the title rôle of "Fidelio," her impersonation of which is highly and deservedly appreciated in Germany. The performance was rendered additionally attractive by the fact that Beethoven's noble work was given as the composer intended that it should be given—i.e., with spoken dialogue, and without the clever but unnecessary additions made by Balfe and adopted in the Italian version of the opera. To do justice to this dialogue involves an extra demand on the histrionic capacity of the company, and from this test the Hamburg artists emerged with decided credit. They are all good actors and their elocution is excellent. Frau Klafsky—in whose case the puff preliminary was once more resorted to in the bills—is a pleasing rather than a great singer, but she is an admirably sympathetic actress, and the sincerity of her emotion in the dungeon scene visibly moved her audience. In the great air "Abscheulicher" one felt the want of a more sonorous organ, but the artistic intelligence of her impersonation more than outweighed this deficiency. Her stage presence, again, is picturesque, and her play of facial expression varied and natural. Fräulein Traubmann, who has one of the best voices in the company, made a sprightly Marzelline, and Herr Landau sang acceptably as Jaquino. Herr Seidel, the Florestan of the cast, is an accomplished actor, but his deflection from pitch interfered with the success of his singing, and the same remark applies with even greater force to the Rocco of Herr Wiegand, which was, for the rest, a good piece of acting. The cast was completed by Herr Litter as the Minister and Herr Lissmann in the rôle of Pizarro. According to usual custom, the "Fidelio" Overture was played at the beginning and the "Leonora No. 3" between the acts. Herr Mahler's reading of the latter showed marked individuality and contained some original points, some of which were decidedly effective. On the other hand, the tempi adopted both here and in the body of the opera were occasionally open to criticism, and the misguided violence of the drummer was more than once disagreeably in evidence. The opera was fairly mounted, but the appearance of the prisoners—notably one very rotund captive with a short tunic and yellow top-boots—must have proved rather trying to anyone with a sense of the ridiculous.

The performance of "Die Götterdämmerung" began at seven o'clock on the evening of the 13th ult., and, though it lasted till the stroke of midnight, very few persons left the house before Brünnhilde's thrilling act of Suttee. The colossal work was not, however, performed in its integrity; the introductory scene of the Norns being omitted, and a shortened version employed of the duet between Waltraute and Brünnhilde. Frau Klafsky's impersonation of the latter rôle, assuredly one of the most arduous and fatiguing in the whole sphere of the lyric drama, was at almost all points exceedingly fine. Her parting from Siegfried, with its expressive pantomime, as she watches the departing hero, was at once charmingly picturesque and touchingly natural. Again, her horror at the appearance of the untoward and unexpected visitant was conveyed with convincing power; while in the great farewell scene, though her voice showed signs of fatigue, she rivetted the attention of the house throughout by her dignified, yet passionate, conception of the part. Especial praise is due to her for her wonderfully artistic management of her drapery, by which the plastic beauty of her impersonation was greatly enhanced. Herr Alvary's Siegfried was in many respects the best thing he has done. He was more absorbed in his part and less inclined to pose, and altogether more sincere than in his other impersonations. The sense of impending doom was conveyed with much skill, and Herr Alvary's singing of the passage where the effects of Hagen's potion pass away and his memory returns just before his death, was both vocally and artistically of a very high order of excellence. Fräulein Bettaque, in the rôle of Gutrune, lent excellent aid both as singer and actress, and Fräulein Heink's fine voice and incisive style told with admirable effect in the duet mentioned above. One of the most enjoyable things in the entire evening's performance was the delightful singing by Fräulein Traubmann, Ralph, and Froehlich of the lovely trio of the Rhine-maidens at the beginning of the third act. Herr Wiegand played the part of Hagen with a due appreciation of its sinister significance, and Herren Knapp and Lissmann were adequate representatives of Gunther and Alberich respectively. The splendid "Rheinfahrt" music and the famous "Trauermarsch" afforded Herr Mahler and his orchestra opportunities for distinguishing themselves, of which they availed themselves more as regards spirit and intelligence than beauty of tone. The musicianship of the Hamburg orchestra is of a high order, and the playing of the wind instruments—notably the horns—quite admirable; but the quality of the strings, especially in any sustained high notes, often left a great deal to be desired on the score of smoothness and purity of tone. The men's chorus in the second act was sung with an abundance of barbaric force highly appropriate to the situation, but the scenic accessories were only moderately successful. The funeral pyre is a difficult thing to manage, but the vision of Valhalla presented at the back could easily have been made far more effective. A word of praise is due to the exemplary conduct of Grane, Brünnhilde's charger. His singular gentleness of disposition may not have added to the artistic completeness of the representation, but it must certainly have been most reassuring to many ladies present.

Presumably out of a regard for the maxim dulce est desipere in loco, an opportunity was afforded the excellent troupe of German artists engaged for the present season of vindicating their talent for the comic as well as the tragic vein by the production of Nessler's "Trompeter von Säkkingen." It is hardly necessary to recall to our readers the history of this famous or, perhaps, we should say notorious piece, the extraordinary popularity of which was held by some critics to betoken a reaction against the all-pervading influence of Wagner. Such an explanation in reality argues a radical misconception of the conditions of the German musical world. In Germany, as elsewhere, there has always been and there always will be a section of the community addicted to light not to say trivial music, and to this section the muse of Nessler appeals with powerful effect. Moreover, in the present case he has been immensely assisted by the popularity of Scheffel's poem, on which Bunge's libretto is founded. It would be a mistake, however, to regard Nessler's score as a mere reaction of finite against infinite melody. It is certainly full of catchy tunes, swinging rhythms, and undistinguished cadences; but, at the same time, there is an effort after continuity, which proves the composer to have taken a leaf out of Wagner's book, while the orchestration at times soars above the opéra bouffe level. It is, in fine, a sort of compromise between the French opéra comique and the modern German opera—enormously inferior to the first in delicacy and grace, and to the second in depth and strength. Scheffel's poem is vulgarized in the libretto and the music follows suit. The humour is stodgy and lumbering, and the sentiment redolent of the pomatum pot. The opera should be called not "The Trumpeter," but "The Cornet Player of Säkkingen"; a whole page of criticism could not express our feelings more clearly than this homely image. As for the performance, it was worthier of the music than of the artists engaged. Herr Reichmann proved a creditable, though somewhat swaggering representative of the Trumpeter; Fräulein Bettaque was excellent as Maria, and the gouty Freiherr was conscientiously played by Herr Wiegand; Fräulein Heink was grotesque rather than humorous as the Countess, and the fatuous Damian found a clever representative in Herr Landau. The choruses—regular stereotyped Liedertafel music—were well sung, but the "Maitrank" ballet was chiefly remarkable for the exiguous costumes of the coryphées. Herr Feld conducted in creditable style.

The performance of "Tannhäuser," on the 16th ult., afforded convincing proof of the popularity of the German Opera season. It was given on an ordinary subscription night, Italian Opera being relegated for the nonce to Drury Lane, but the audience was as overflowing and enthusiastic as at any of the Wednesday representations. On the whole, the performance was of very great all-round excellence, though the inferior quality of the German strings seriously impaired the effect of the instrumentation, notably in the Overture, Herr Mahler's reading of which was, for the rest, decidedly unimpressive. Frau Klafsky was the Elizabeth, and a better exponent of the part on its dramatic side has not been seen on the English boards. She is eminently a sympathetic actress, and sympathy is of the essence of Elizabeth's character. Her voice, though it has no special beauty of tone or amplitude of volume, was adequate to the needs of the part; and it may be mentioned, in evidence of her artistic regard for dramatic propriety, that she had the courage to sing the Prayer with her face towards the shrine, and her back almost completely turned to the audience. Herr Alvary's impersonation of Tannhäuser was, as a piece of acting, fully equal, if not superior to any of his performances in the "Ring." Especially excellent was his conception of the concluding scene of the second act, where his faltering and stumbling exit was quite a tour de force. Vocally regarded, his performance was less effective than usual, except in the Narrative of the journey to Rome in the third act. Herr Reichmann's impersonation of the part of Wolfram was intelligent and sympathetic. His intonation was not always immaculate, but, apart from this, his reading of the character was laudably free from the exaggerations with which it has been associated of late seasons, and his singing, both of the Fantasy and the "Abendstern" song, marked by considerable depth of feeling. Fräulein Bettaque's Venus, though not of transcendental excellence, was at all points immensely superior to the performance of the representative of the part in last year's production, while the Shepherd's song was admirably given by Fräulein Heink. Of the remaining members of the cast, Herr Landau deserves to be singled out for his spirited singing in the part of Walther. The efforts of the chorus were unequal. The ensemble in the second act was decidedly good, but, on the other hand, the Pilgrims found insuperable difficulties in keeping up to pitch. It is worthy of note that hardly any "cuts" were made in the score beyond those indicated by Wagner himself. The performance was, however, dragged out to four hours and a half by the enormous length of the waits. The customary ovation was accorded to the principal singers, and Herr Mahler was, as usual, summoned at the close of every act.

"Siegfried" and "Tristan" have each been performed four times, "Tannhäuser," "Das Rheingold," "Die Walküre," "Die Götterdämmerung," "Fidelio," and the "Trompeter" twice each. The superb Isolde of Frau Klafsky in the last representation of "Tristan" should not pass without acknowledgment.

RICHTER CONCERTS.

The Richter Concerts came to a worthy end on the 4th ult., when nothing was wanting to crown the success of a series in which the high traditions of these Concerts have been admirably maintained. Neither at the last Concert nor at the preceding one was any novelty introduced, and the programmes call for little criticism beyond what is implied in general praise. It was not, perhaps, very certain that anyone wished to hear Dvorák's "Husitska" Overture again, but Brahms's "Song of Fate," the "Verwandlungs-musik und Graal-Feier" from the first act of "Parsifal," and the Pastoral Symphony would alone have made a Concert of great significance, to say nothing of Mr. Santley's splendid singing of a Handel air. The sixth Concert was still more interesting in its material. The first scene from "Das Rheingold," sung extremely well by Mesdames Amy Sherwin, Minna Fischer, and Girtin Barnard as the three Rhine-maidens, and Mr. Andrew Black as Alberich; the "Tannhäuser" Overture, and the closing scene from "Götterdämmerung" were the Wagnerian pieces, and Beethoven's Overture "Die Weihe des Hauses" and Berlioz's "Symphonie Fantastique" completed the programme. Madame Nordica sang the music of Brünnhilde with astonishing dramatic power, reaching a plane never before touched by her; and the orchestral work was, it is needless to say, done admirably by Dr. Richter's band. In acknowledging the great debt owed to these Concerts by all musicians it is necessary to make a distinct recognition of the analytical programmes written by Sir George Grove and "C. A. B." These are always as interesting as they are helpful; witness the new analysis by the last-named of the "Weihe des Hauses," an extremely valuable contribution to musical literature and knowledge.

SIR A. HARRIS'S OPERA CONCERTS.

Of the four Opera Concerts given by Sir A. Harris, at St. James's Hall, only that of June 29, devoted to compositions by Wagner, calls for description. Many of the principal singers from Covent Garden appeared at the other Concerts, but a programme of miscellanies is no longer received with the approval marking the period of the Floral Hall entertainments. Besides being wholly drawn from one source, the scheme derived interest from the fact that the German orchestra and the instrumental force led by Mr. Carrodus in turn occupied the platform. The chief piece contributed by the visitors was the "Walkürenritt," with the vocal portion sustained by the eight ladies who were to represent the Valkyries in the second of the "Ring des Nibelungen" series the same evening. Under the bâton of Herr Mahler, the picturesque work rendered so familiar at the Richter Concerts naturally made its full effect. With the demand for an encore the Conductor and the Valkyries were willing to comply, but as two or three of the brass representatives were not to be found, the piece was not repeated. The English band began the second part with the Overture to "Tannhäuser," presided over by Signor Mancinelli. Of this a better account has been given elsewhere by the same executants. The most satisfactory of the vocal features were Herr Max Alvary's rendering of the "Liebeslied" from the first act of "Die Walküre," the delivery by Madame Emma Eames and Mdlle. Meisslinger (in lieu of Madame Melba and Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli) of the duet from the second act of "Lohengrin," Mr. Van Dyck's vigorous version of the Schmiedelieder from "Siegfried," and Frau Ende-Andriessen's refined reading of the Liebestod from "Tristan und Isolde."

THE ARTHUR GORING THOMAS MEMORIAL.

The co-operation with British artists of so many foreign singers of repute at the Concert at St. James's Hall, on the 13th ult., on behalf of the Arthur Goring Thomas Memorial, afforded abundant testimony to the respect in which the deceased was held both at home and abroad; whilst the crowded attendance indicated entire approval by the public of the resolve to found a Scholarship bearing his name at the Royal Academy of Music, where for three years he was a student under Mr. Prout and Sir Arthur Sullivan. The selection consisted entirely of Goring Thomas's works, and was made as representative as possible of the different branches of composition in which he gained distinction. Chronological order was also to some extent adopted; thus the Concert began with the performance by the Royal Italian Opera orchestra of the MS. Overture "The Light of the Harem," penned while the composer was at the Academy, and first heard in 1880. To this succeeded eight detached vocal pieces, typical of the delicate grace and refined fancy that specially marked Goring Thomas's treatment of French verse. MM. Edouard de Reszke and Plançon gave the settings of Victor Hugo's "L'Extase" and "Sois Heureuse" respectively; Madame Calvé chose "Avril" and "Ma Voisine" (accepting an encore for the former); Madame Deschamps-Jéhin did justice to the delightful "Une Nuit de Mai," and there were a couple of duets. Madame Emma Eames's contribution was "Winds in the trees." The excerpts from "Esmeralda" (1883), given in French, brought to the platform Madame Melba, Mr. Ben Davies (who had already sung "O vision entrancing," in lieu of Mr. Edward Lloyd, indisposed), and M. Lassalle. The prima donna introduced an air "Dans la plaine blonde et sous les allées" (encored), apparently composed expressly as a vehicle for her fluent execution, and not worthy its surroundings. Then came the Suite de Ballet written in 1887 for the Cambridge University Musical Society, and finally the second act of "Nadeshda," with Madame Nordica, Messrs. Ben Davies, Eugène Oudin, and Norman Salmond as principals, some well-known vocalists for the semi-chorus, the Italian Opera orchestra, and Academy students for the full chorus. Several eminent musicians were at the pianoforte and conductor's desk during the afternoon. As the gross proceeds were to be applied to the Scholarship, there should be no difficulty in making up any balance required to complete the fitting memorial to an esteemed and amiable composer for whom a brilliant future seemed in store.

MR. SAURET'S CONCERT.

The familiar proverb respecting the inadvisability of the employment of a steam-engine to crack a nut was exemplified on the 1st ult. at Mr. Sauret's Concert in St. James's Hall, when he secured the German orchestra associated with the Wagner operatic performances for the sole purpose of playing his accompaniments. It would have been interesting to have heard the Teutonic force in a classical symphony and other selections, but under the circumstances the sparseness of the attendance afforded no room for surprise. The excellent French violinist gave an expressive, if not powerful, rendering of Max Bruch's first and, according to general agreement, best Concerto, in G minor; but he was heard to greater advantage in Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's "Pibroch" (conducted by the composer), which he played with fine technique and brilliancy of style. Minor solos were included, and Miss Marguerite Hall gave some variety to the programme by her tasteful singing of airs by Handel and Goring Thomas; but the general impression left by the Concert was that what might have been a highly

The Musical Times, August 1, 1892.

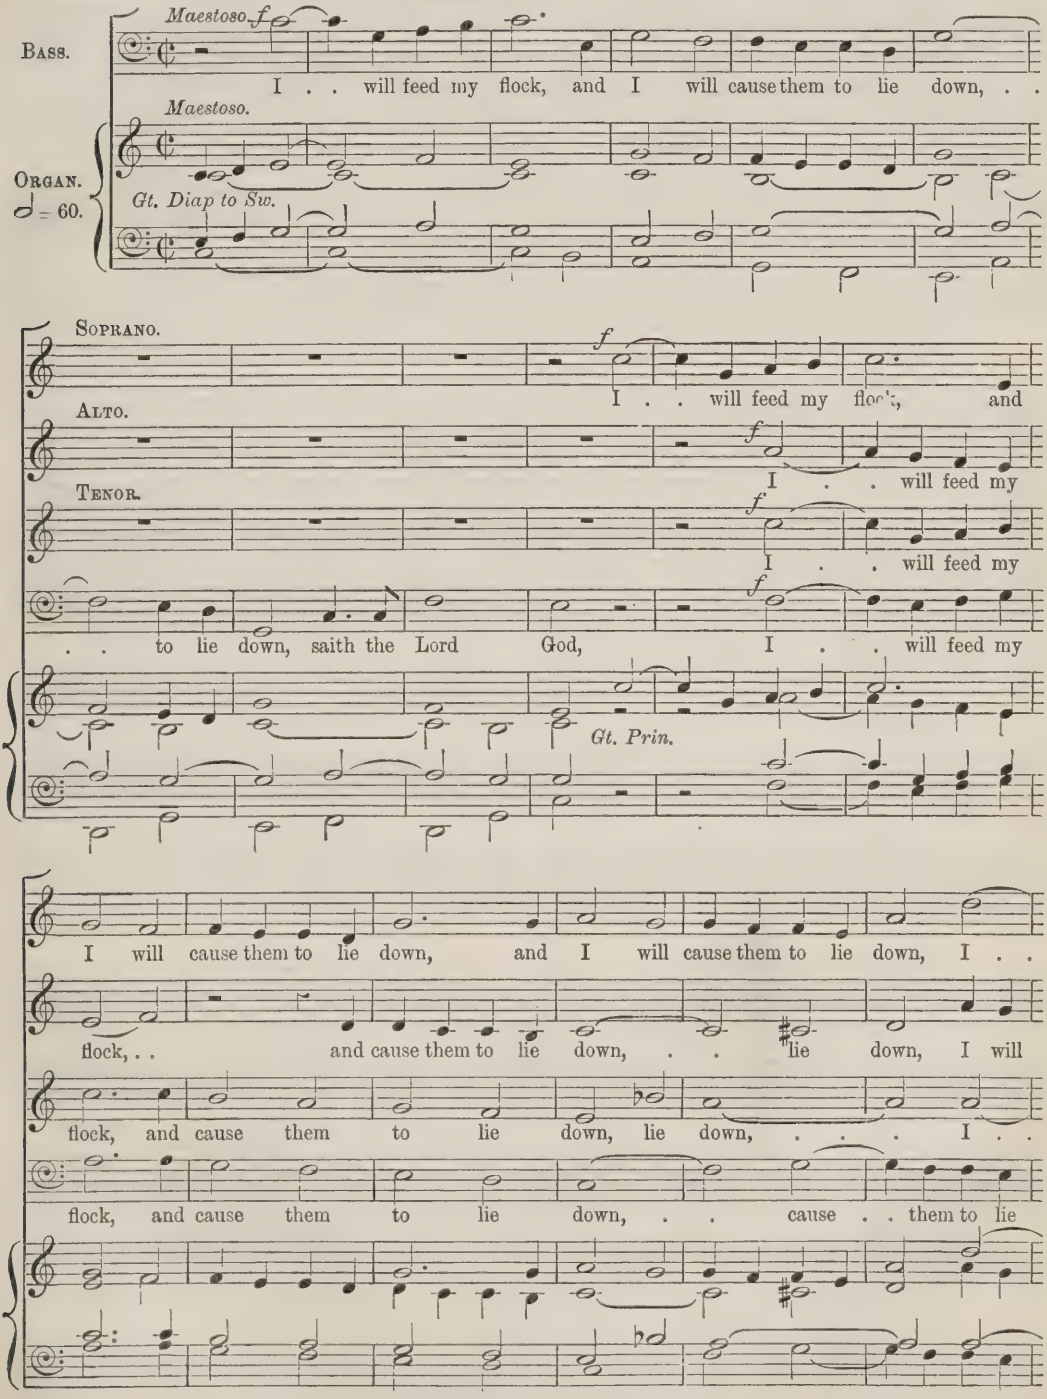
I will feed my flock.

ANTHEM FOR HARVEST.

Ezek. xxxiv. 15, 27, 28, 30.

Composed by J. Frederick Bridge, Mus. D.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E C.); also in New York.



Bass.
Maestoso. f
I . . will feed my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, . .
Organ.
♩ = 60.
Maestoso.
Gt. Diap to Sw.
Soprano.
f
I . . will feed my flock, and Alto.
f
I . . will feed my
Tenor.
f
I . . will feed my
f
. . to lie down, saith the Lord God, I . . will feed my
Gt. Prin.
I will cause them to lie down, and I will cause them to lie down, I . .
flock, . . and cause them to lie down, . . lie down, I will flock, and cause them to lie down, lie down, . . . I . .
flock, and cause them to lie down, . . cause . . them to lie

Copyright, 1892, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

dim.
p
. . will feed my flock, and I will cause them to lie down, . . to lie feed my flock, and cause them to lie down, and cause them to lie
. . will feed my flock, and cause them to lie down, and cause them to lie down, . . . I will cause them to lie down, ...
f
rall.
down, saith the Lord God, I . . will feed my flock, my flock.
down, saith the Lord God, I . . . will feed my flock.
down, saith the Lord . . God, I . . will feed my flock.
. . saith the Lord God, I . . . will feed my flock.
Allegretto Pastorale.
And the tree of the field shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall
And the tree of the field shall yield, shall yield her fruit, and the
And the tree of the field shall yield her fruit, and the earth . . shall
And the tree of the field shall yield her fruit, . . . and the Allegretto Pastorale. ♩ = 108.
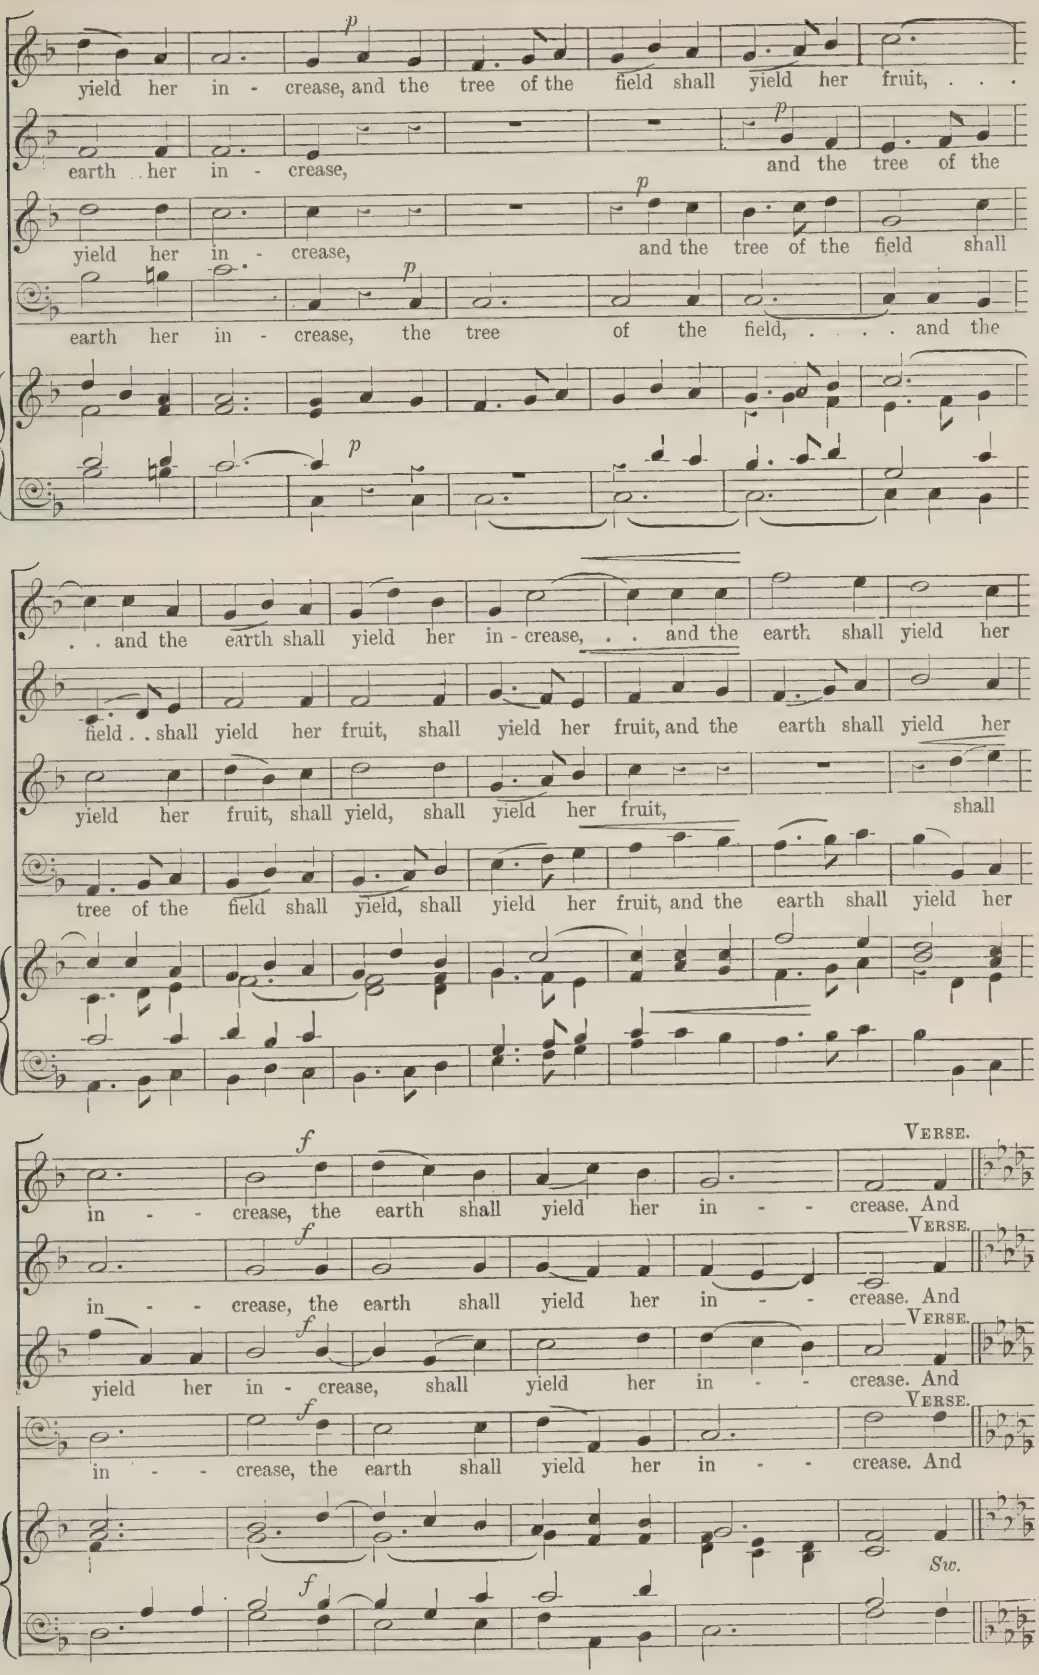
Ch. 8 & 4 ft.



yield her in - crease, and the tree of the field shall yield her fruit, . . .
earth her in - crease, and the tree of the yield her in - crease, and the tree of the field shall earth her in - crease, the tree of the field, . . . and the
. . and the earth shall yield her in - crease, . . and the earth shall yield her field . . shall yield her fruit, shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall yield her yield her fruit, shall yield, shall yield her fruit, shall tree of the field shall yield, shall yield her fruit, and the earth shall yield her in - - crease, the earth shall yield her in - - crease. And VERSE.
in - - crease, the earth shall yield her in - - crease. And VERSE.
yield her in - crease, shall yield her in - - crease. And VERSE.
in - - crease, the earth shall yield her in - - crease. And VERSE.
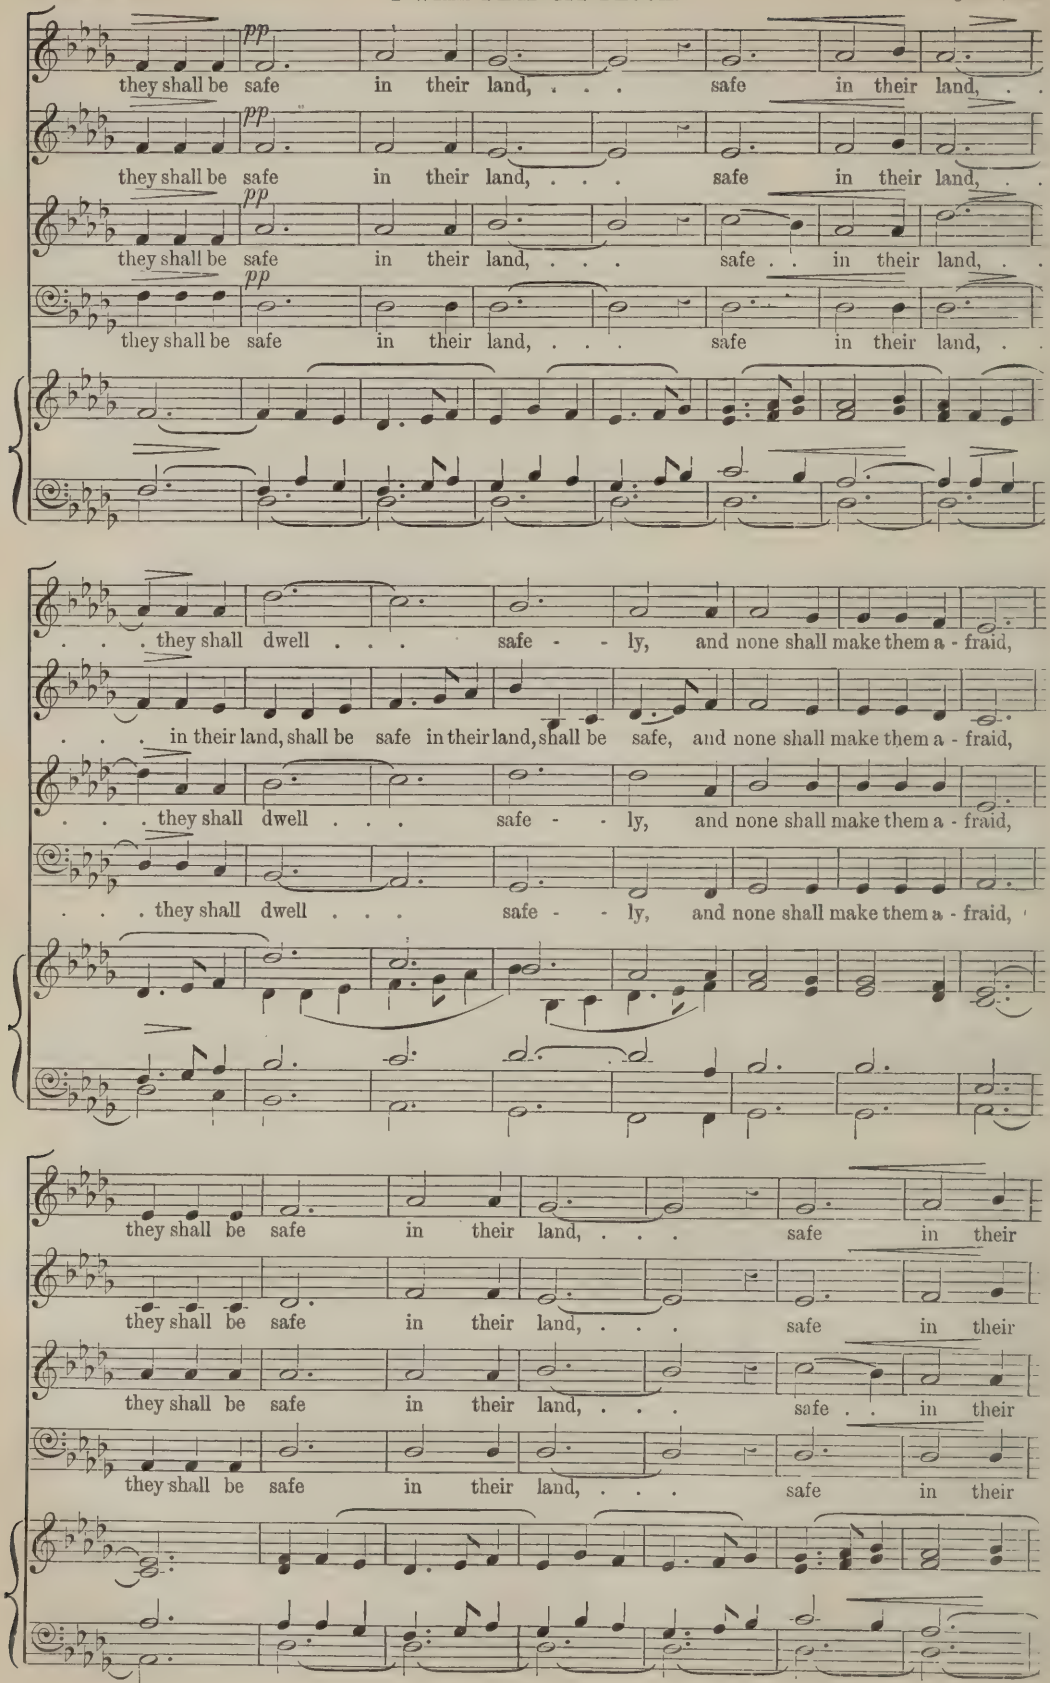
Sw.



pp
they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe in their land, . .
they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe in their land, . .
they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe . . in their land, . .
they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe in their land, . .
. . . they shall dwell . . . safe - - ly, and none shall make them a - fraid,
. . . in their land, shall be safe in their land, shall be safe, and none shall make them a - fraid,
. . . they shall dwell . . . safe - - ly, and none shall make them a - fraid,
. . . they shall dwell . . . safe - - ly, and none shall make them a - fraid,
they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe in their they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe in their they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe . . in their they shall be safe in their land, . . . safe in their land, . . . they shall dwell . . safe - ly, and none land, . . . they shall dwell . . safe - ly,

land, . . . they shall dwell . . safe - ly,
land, . . . they shall dwell . . safe - ly,
Full.
shall make them a - fraid, . .
f
None shall make them a -
Full.
f
None shall make them a -
Full.
f
None shall make them a - f Full.
None shall make them a -
f
p
- fraid, . . shall make them a - fraid. . . The tree of the field . . shall
p
- fraid, . . shall make them a - fraid. . . The tree of the field shall
p
- fraid, . . shall make them a - fraid. . . The tree of the field . . shall
p
- fraid, . . shall make them a - fraid. . . The tree of the field shall Ch.
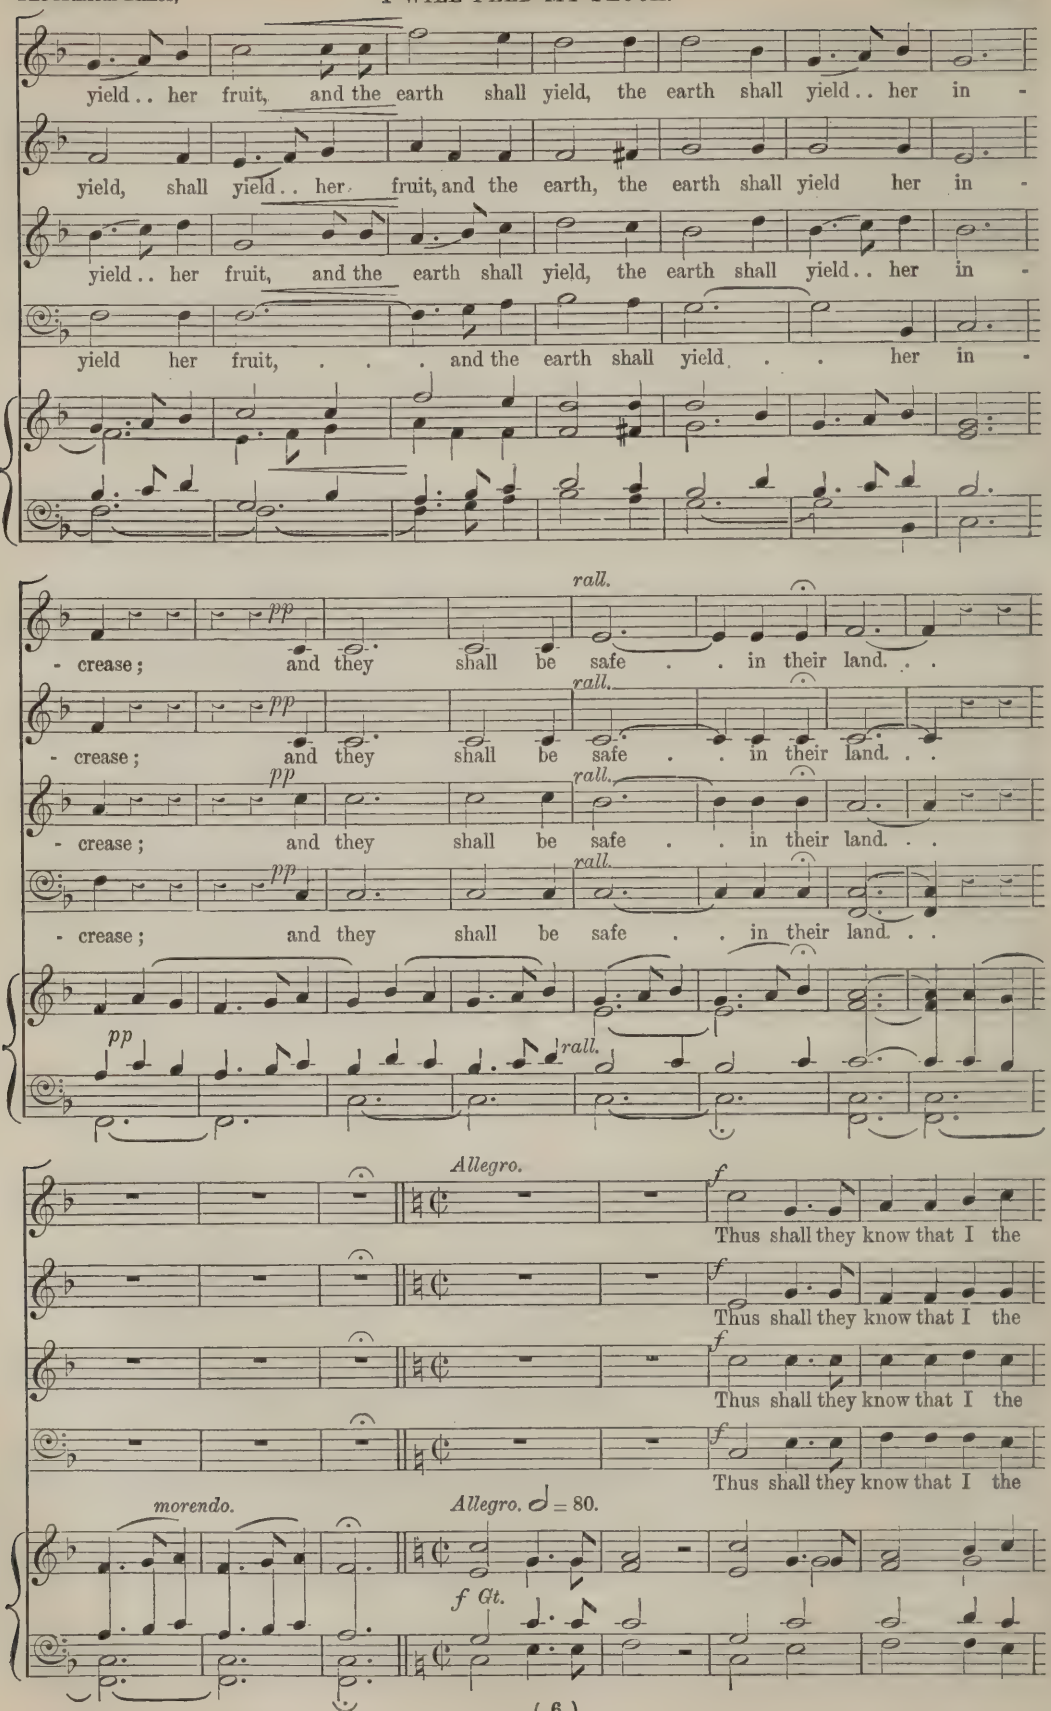
p



yield.. her fruit, and the earth shall yield, the earth shall yield.. her in - yield, shall yield.. her fruit, and the earth, the earth shall yield her in - yield.. her fruit, and the earth shall yield, the earth shall yield.. her in - yield her fruit, . . . and the earth shall yield . . her in - rall.
pp
- crease; and they shall be safe . . in their land. . .
Allegro.
f
Thus shall they know that I the morendo.
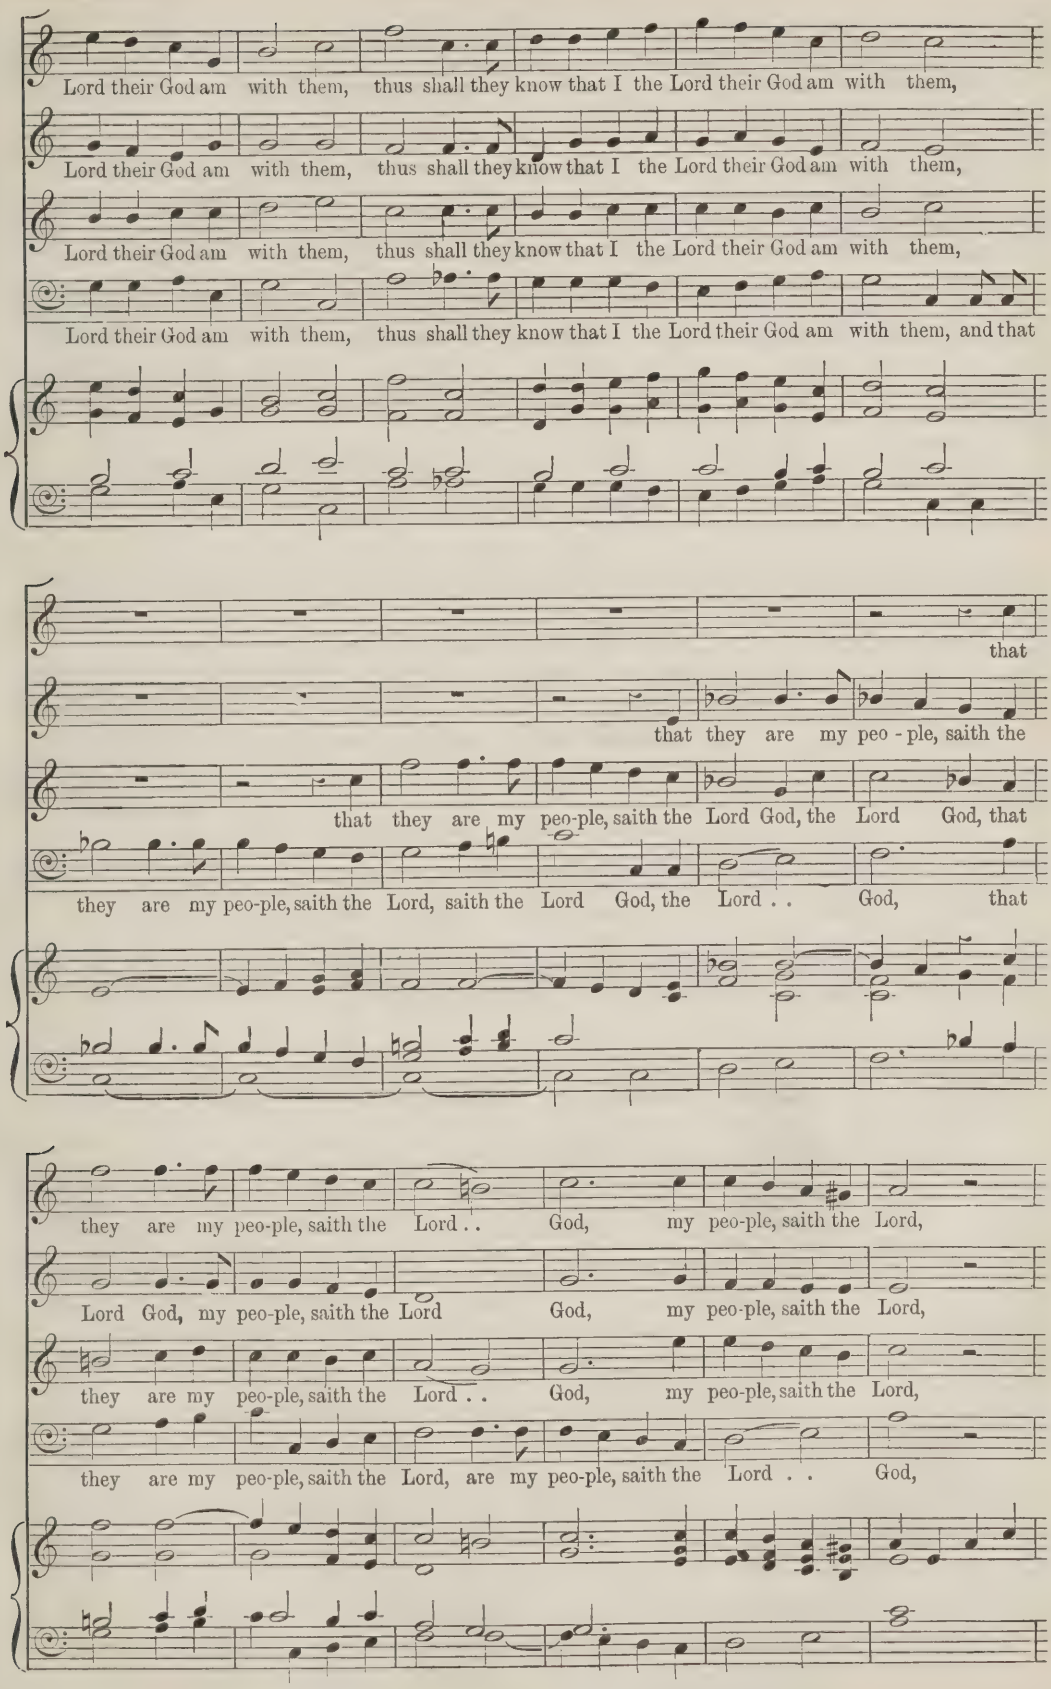
Allegro. ♩ = 80.
f Gt.



Lord their God am with them, thus shall they know that I the Lord their God am with them,
Lord their God am with them, thus shall they know that I the Lord their God am with them,
Lord their God am with them, thus shall they know that I the Lord their God am with them,
Lord their God am with them, thus shall they know that I the Lord their God am with them, and that that that they are my peo - ple, saith the that they are my peo-ple, saith the Lord God, the Lord God, that they are my peo-ple, saith the Lord, saith the Lord God, the Lord . . God, that they are my peo-ple, saith the Lord . . God, my peo-ple, saith the Lord,
Lord God, my peo-ple, saith the Lord God, my peo-ple, saith the Lord,
they are my peo-ple, saith the Lord . . God, my peo-ple, saith the Lord, they are my peo-ple, saith the Lord, are my peo-ple, saith the Lord . . God, cres.

ff
thus shall they know, thus shall they know that I the Lord their God am with . . them, and that they are my peo - - ple,
rall.
saith the Lord God, saith the Lord God.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 759, price 1½*d.*

interesting evening was to some extent wasted. The Concert, with the exception of the "Pibroch," was ably conducted by Mr. Feld, who has proved an intelligent assistant to Mr. Mahler at the German Opera.

PIANOFORTE RECITALS.

A few more entertainments of this nature have to be dealt with before closing the record for the season. Mr. Alfred Reisenauer, who first appeared in London eleven or twelve years ago, gave the first of two Recitals at St. James's Hall on June 28, and certainly astonished if he did not charm a comparatively small audience. The extraordinary contrasts in which he indulged between the most violent fortissimo and the faintest pianissimo gave an unpleasant air of exaggeration to his rendering of Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques and Beethoven's Variations in C minor, which were among the more important works in his programme; but some of the minor pieces were played with welcome moderation, and, on the whole, Mr. Reisenauer left an impression that he has more than ordinary executive powers, but that he needs to bring them under artistic discipline. At his second Recital, on the 9th ult., Mr. Reisenauer was less extravagant, and although his readings of Beethoven's "Waldstein" Sonata and Schumann's Carnaval were in some matters of detail open to question, there was much more artistic balance than at the previous performance and most of the smaller pieces were delightfully played. Five numbers from a Suite "in the old style," from the pianist's own pen, gave a favourable impression of his talent as a composer.

Sir Charles Hallé gave his sixth and last Schubert Recital on the 1st ult., the leading works for pianoforte being the Sonatas in A and in B flat, Nos. 2 and 3, of the so-called posthumous series composed in 1828, the last year of the composer's life. These are both very lengthy works, which may partly account for their general neglect by pianists; and although they abound in beautiful ideas they are less vigorous than some of the earlier Sonatas. The Clavierstück in E flat minor and B major, also composed in 1828, and the Allegro patetico in E, the date of which is unknown, completed the list of solos. Miss Fillunger's rendering of eight Lieder, including "Ständchen," "Am Meer," and "Die Taubenpost," left little, if anything, to be desired. Sir Charles Hallé deserves the heartiest thanks of musicians for these Recitals, and although the audiences were not as large as could have been wished, there is reason to believe that the performances have yielded much pleasure and profit to those who attended them.

Mr. Eduard Zeldenrust gave a Recital on the 1st ult. at Princes' Hall, on which occasion the young Dutch pianist proved himself again an earnest and conscientious artist, entirely free from all sensationalism, and the possessor of an excellent technique. Since we last heard him his touch has gained considerably in lightness and delicacy, as was shown in his performance of Mendelssohn's Scherzo in E minor and numbers by Schumann and Chopin, while his interpretation of Bach's Fantasia and Fugue in G minor, Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 31, No. 2), and Liszt's Rhapsody (No. 6) left scarcely anything to be desired, the artist being throughout received with hearty and well-deserved applause. Madame de Swiatlowsky successfully contributed vocal numbers by Handel, Glinka, and others.

M. MAUREL ON SINGING.

M. Victor Maurel gave a Lecture, entitled "The application of science to the art of speech and song," on the 12th ult., at the Lyceum Theatre, before Sir George Grove, Dr. Mackenzie, and many other specially invited and leading members of the musical and literary world.

M. Maurel began by referring to his previous discourse on the same subject, delivered in the same place in 1890, and to a lecture recently delivered at Milan, which, somewhat amplified, had been since published by Messrs. Quinzard, in Paris. This pamphlet, however, the lecturer said, by no means exhausted the subject, and time on the present occasion would only permit of his speaking on two principal points—viz., the production of vocal sound and the chief errors of modern methods of teaching singing. The remarks he was about to make were not a mere theory, but were the result of long practical and scientific observation; they were, moreover, entirely disinterested and simply made in the interests of vocal art. The production of vocal sound was conveniently divisible into two parts—viz., "Modulation," by which he meant the vocal progression from one note to another; and "Signification"—i.e., the intellectual value of any combination of sounds by which words were formed. Thus divided, it was possible to classify every vocal sound under the four following heads—viz., I. Good tone and intellectual value; II. Tone alone; III. Intellectual value alone; IV. No tone and no intellectual value. There were, of course, three qualities in sound—viz., timbre, pitch, and intensity. Singing depended for its effects upon the relations of these qualities to one another. In each individual, every variety of pitch had a particular timbre (i.e., a vowel sound) and a particular degree of intensity best suited to it. And as individuals differed physically, so these relations differed for each individual. The difficulties of vocalists arose from their having to satisfy the requirements of these three qualities simultaneously. The two chief errors of modern systems of teaching singing were the method of production known as the coup de glotte and the vocalisation at all pitches without modification of the vowel sound used. Physiologically, each step of the scale corresponded with a specific position of the vocal organs, and this position determined the vowel sound; therefore if we altered the pitch we must vary whatever vowel sound was used, or we sinned against physiological laws. By variation of a vowel sound he meant the delicate and infinite gradations of pronunciation of which each vowel was capable. In conclusion the lecturer said that fuller particulars of the laws he claimed to have discovered would be given in his forthcoming volume on the subject.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The Orchestral Concert, usually given in St. James's Hall at the end of a term, took place on the 11th ult. The programme was of that ambitious and interesting character which we now look forward to at these Concerts, and the playing of the orchestra, always the most enjoyable feature, reached the same level of excellence as that to which we have so often called attention on previous occasions. Indeed, it is no exaggeration to say that as regards finish of phrasing and careful observance of even the smallest dynamic and rhythmic nuances, the performance of the purely orchestral numbers in the programme might have served as a model to more than one professional orchestra we have heard in the same hall. The principal piece brought to a hearing was Dvorák's genial and effective Symphony in D (Op. 60). Mr. John Sandbrook was the soloist in a MS. scena for baritone and orchestra, a setting of Lord Tennyson's poem "Merlin and the Gleam," by Mr. E. W. Naylor, an ex-student. It cannot be said that the young composer has succeeded, and it would, of course, have been unreasonable to expect him to succeed in doing for Lord Tennyson's poem what Schumann has been said to have done for the second part of Goethe's "Faust"—viz., elucidated, by the magic of his music, the poet's meaning; but we cannot but admire Mr. Naylor's courage in attacking a poem which, to an average reader, may seem to stand in need of elucidation. The scena, which is of considerable length, is more remarkable for the fanciful, and often melodious and appropriate music given to the orchestra, than for any interesting phrases the voice part may contain; and Mr. Naylor may be urged to try his strength on a work which will give him more scope for exercising his undoubted talent for orchestral writing. Beethoven's Pianoforte Concerto in C minor was played by Mr. William G. Spencer, and his rendering can be highly praised for excellent phrasing and neatness of execution. Miss Clara Butt, who sang an air by Gluck, possesses a fine voice, but her enunciation lacks distinctness. The remaining numbers in the programme were Schumann's Overture to "Genoveva" and the glorious Quintet from Wagner's "Meistersinger," which was beyond the capacities of the singers, and in consequence received but an indifferent interpretation. Professor Stanford conducted.

The ninth Annual Meeting of the Corporation of the Royal College of Music was held at Marlborough House on Thursday, the 14th ult. The Prince of Wales, president, occupied the chair. The attendance at the meeting was very large, among the members of the Corporation and Council present being Prince Christian, Lord Charles Bruce, the Earl of Lathom, Earl Stanhope, Lord Thring, Lord Aberdare, the Duke of Westminster, Sir Charles Hall, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Owen, Sir J. Whittaker Ellis, Sir Arthur Sullivan, Sir Samuel Wilson, Sir W. J. R. Cotton, Sir G. H. Chambers, Sir W. J. Clarke, Lady Ellis, the Hon. G. W. Spencer Lyttelton, Mr. Samson Fox, Sir George Grove (Director), and Mr. George Watson (Registrar).

The director read the report of the Council, and the balance sheets, &c., audited by Sir Charles Lister Ryan, were ordered to be printed and circulated. The report stated that the number of pupils on the books at the end of the Easter term was 317—61 scholars and 256 students, as against 295 in the preceding year; and the reports of the examiners were of a very satisfactory character. Fifteen open scholarships became vacant at the end of 1891, for which 526 candidates competed, 151 going up for final examination. At the associate examination there were 79 candidates, and 39 obtained certificates. Mr. Sidney P. Waddington has been re-elected to the Mendelssohn Scholarship by the committee of that fund for another year, and the College have renewed the special grant of £50 made to him last year. They have also made a grant of £75 to Percy Rideout, composition scholar, to enable him to travel abroad. The entrance exhibition of £10 at the commencement of each term has been abolished, and a second exhibition of £20 created for students of six terms' standing. The following exhibitions, tenable for one year, will therefore be competed for in each term:—(1) £15 to students of not less than one year's standing; (2) £20 each to students who have completed their second year. The new College building will be ready for occupation next spring.

The Prince of Wales, in moving the adoption of the report, said: "We may gather from it that the College is in every respect in a most flourishing condition. The new College, as you are aware, is gradually approaching completion, and I hope that by next summer it may be open—an occasion which, I am sure, will be very gratifying to my friend Mr. Samson Fox, to whose liberality we owe this very fine building. With the new College we shall necessarily require a certain amount of money for furniture and for the maintenance of the fabric, wages of servants, and other items. These expenses will probably be much in excess of the present expenditure, and to provide for this a proper fund is required. This is a matter of somewhat grave importance, and therefore I thought it necessary on this occasion to bring it before you. Another subject I would mention is that of travelling fellowships, for which, as you are aware, power in the charter exists. The want of such an addition to the College studies has already been very greatly felt, but opportunities have been given, either by special grant of the Council or through private liberality with the approval of the Council, of sending some of the good pupils abroad for periods of a year or more. The object of this is not for the purpose of study, as that is completed at the College, but it will give them great experience, and if these travelling fellowships became a systematic part of the College education it would indeed be a great boon. I now move that the report and balance sheets be received and adopted."

His Royal Highness then presented the Hopkinson Gold Medal for pianoforte playing to Amy J. Grimson (scholar) and certificates of proficiency (bearing the title of Associate of the Royal College of Music) to those who were successful at the recent examination.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The usual summer Orchestral Concert of this Institution took place in St. James's Hall on the afternoon of the 26th ult., and was on the whole highly successful. A noteworthy piece in the programme was a vocal scena, composed by Mr. Granville Bantock, of whose great promise as a composer we speak in another column. The present piece is highly declamatory, with interesting accompaniments showing the influence of contemporary masters. The scena was sung with much spirit by Mr. H. Lane Wilson. Two movements from an Orchestral Suite by Mr. Reginald Steggall were also introduced, but these were unfortunately placed at the end of the programme. There was less pianoforte music than usual, and the most promising solo effort was that of Miss Edith Mann in Raff's "Ode au Printemps." Miss Ethel Horton Smith was scarcely equal to the requirements of the first movement of Beethoven's Concerto in E flat, though she played neatly. A very creditable duet performance was that of Mozart's Concerto for two pianofortes, by Miss Llewella Davies and Miss Maude Wilson. Remarkably good execution was displayed by Miss Gertrude Collins in two movements from Wieniawski's Violin Concerto in D minor (Op. 22), and equal praise must be bestowed on Miss Sylvia Wardell, a highly promising soprano, for her rendering of Rebecca's Prayer from "Ivanhoe." Dr. A. C. Mackenzie conducted the Concert with conspicuous ability, and there was a crowded and enthusiastic audience. The work of the Academy is evidently progressing in the most satisfactory manner.

The decision for the Charles Lucas Medal took place on the 9th ult. The examiners were Messrs. August Manns, S. C. Griffiths, and E. H. Turpin (in the chair). There were seven candidates, and the Medal was awarded to Charles Macpherson for a wind sextet. Roland Revell and S. Szczepanowski were commended.

THE "ASSOCIATED BOARD."

The third Annual Report of the Board, which has just been issued, is very pleasant reading. The number of candidates who entered for the Local Centre Examinations amounted to 1,579, as against 1,443 in 1891, and would doubtless have been considerably increased, but for the prevalence of so much illness throughout the country during the winter. Honorary local representatives have been appointed to twenty-one newly formed centres, and the net addition of ninety-five heads of schools and music teachers to the registration list affords evidence of the satisfactory development of the scheme of the local school examination.

Further, the total number of candidates entered in 1892 for the various subjects of examination at the Local Centre and the Local School Examinations were 3,784, as compared with 3,612 in the previous year.

Of the local centre candidates, only 28 failed at the preliminary examination, from which 311 were exempt under the new regulation, 8 were absent, and 17 were allowed to postpone their examination until another year.

In the junior grade only 1·9 per cent. of the candidates failed, as compared with 10·6 per cent. in the previous year; and in the senior grade the failures were 2·38 as against 1·67.

Taking both grades together, the failures were only 2·2 per cent., as compared with 4·3 per cent. last year, and the high average of marks shown by the examiner's returns—an average which has improved year by year—may be taken as evidence of the increased attention now given to the study of the rudiments of music.

At the final examination, 1,589 candidates presented themselves—viz., 1,115 in the senior and 474 in the junior grade. The results are very satisfactory so far as they relate to the passes in both grades, but in honours there is a great falling off from last year, which is much to be regretted. In the senior 50 per cent. and in the junior 58·65 per cent. passed, whereas in 1890-91 46 per cent. of the former and 57 per cent. of the latter were successful. Of those who passed last year only 10·50 per cent. of the senior and 8·60 per cent. of the junior candidates took honours.

The results of the School Examinations (which are given in detail) are altogether encouraging, showing as they do an increase in the passes of nearly 3 per cent. in the higher and of 5 per cent. in the lower division.

The entrances for examination for the year ending June 30, were 1,847—viz., 719 in the higher and 1,128 in the lower division. Of these candidates, 295 took up more than one subject, 22 were excused attendance and had their fees returned, and 92 were absent. Of the 2,028 examined, 1,343 passed. The Board feel that too much importance cannot be attached to these examinations as a means of effecting a salutary influence on the character of the musical training of the young. Cases have been brought to their knowledge where heads of schools have expressed their strong approval of them as testing the efficiency of the music teachers in their schools.

It has been decided that, in future, any candidate shall, on payment of a small enquiry fee, be made acquainted with the number of marks awarded under each of the separate headings on the examiners' report sheets.

The work of the Secretary, Mr. George Watson, is acknowledged in the warmest terms, and the thanks of the Board are conveyed to their honorary local representatives, to the municipal and other public bodies, and to Sir Charles Lister Ryan, K.C.B, for their hearty co-operation.

With the completion of the third year's work of the Board, the term of office for which its original members were elected has expired. It is not surprising that they should "record their satisfaction at the measure of success which has so far marked their undertaking," or that they should "look forward most hopefully to the future." The subjoined list shows the yearly increase in the number of candidates:—

Candidates.	1889-90	1890-91	1891-92	Total.
Local Centre Examinations	1,188	1,495	1,642	4,325	8,582
Local School Examinations	—	2,115	2,142	4,257

This, of course, is very gratifying, but the Report points out that the Board "do not conceal from themselves that much yet remains to be accomplished in furtherance of the object which they have in view. They feel that it will take time for the public fully to realise the importance of a reliable and sound system of local examinations, and they believe that the more the character of the work of the Board becomes known, the more general will be the confidence and approval with which their endeavours to raise the standard of musical culture in the country will be received." In this opinion we most heartily concur.

The annual meeting of the Board was held at Marlborough House on the 15th ult. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales presided, and among those present were Prince Christian, Lord Charles Bruce, Sir Arthur Sullivan, Sir George Grove, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, about fifty of the honorary local representatives, and Mr. George Watson, secretary. Lord Charles Bruce read the report, and the Prince of Wales, in moving its adoption, said he was sure they would agree that it was satisfactory. He had little doubt that all their endeavours and the valuable time which they had given to the matter would bring forth fruit.

The motion was seconded by Prince Christian and carried. On the motion of Dr. Mackenzie, seconded by Sir George Grove, a vote of thanks was passed to his Royal Highness for allowing the meeting to take place at Marlborough House and for presiding. In the evening the members of the joint Board, the local representatives and friends dined together, Lord Charles Bruce presiding.

TRINITY COLLEGE.

An Orchestral Concert was given in Princes' Hall, on the 9th ult., by the students of Trinity College. This must certainly be accounted the best ever given by the pupils of this prosperous and useful Institution. The orchestra—numbering sixty-six players, many of them ladies—was extremely good, and in Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas" Overture and Mr. Frederick Corder's "Roumanian" Suite made a distinctly favourable impression. The pianists were Miss E. Bonavia Hunt and Miss Shuttleworth, both of whom displayed such ability in the matters of expression and phrasing that they may be observed in the future with every confidence. Amongst the violin players, Miss F. Brotherhood, a girl scarcely into her teens, awakened a great deal of interest. She has a very full tone and her style is remarkably broad. Much is to be expected of her. The singing was good throughout, and the Conductor, Mr. Corder, as well as his colleagues, are to be congratulated on the success of a Concert which spoke so much for the credit of the College.

MADAME CONSTANCE HOWARD'S LECTURE-CONCERTS.

There is so much in the plan of this lady's treatment of Wagner calculated to prove useful educationally that it is to be regretted she should have come late in the season and selected "Die Meistersinger von Nurnberg" for analysis, as this music-drama happens to be the only example of the composer's mature style not given in London this year. For instance, had she undertaken the "Ring" tetralogy, an exposition of the governing ideas of the "Nibelungenlied," of the significance of the "leading motives" prefacing or accompanying crises of the action, and of the remarkable ingenuity and dramatic strength of the orchestration, would have been much appreciated by amateurs as a preparation for the performances at Covent Garden and Drury Lane. Perhaps on another occasion Madame Howard will see her way to illustrate the Wagnerian work that for the time may be engrossing the thoughts of the musical public. A competent pianist, and thoroughly versed in the details of the score of "Die Meistersinger," she completed, on the 12th ult., the three Recitals arranged at Steinway Hall. After being played, the purport of all the more important musical passages was explained in clear and unpedantic terms, and the situation upon the stage successfully brought before the imagination of the listeners. These Concert-lectures have been popular on the other side of the Atlantic, and there is reason to believe they would be welcome here in slight advance of the opera season.

TONIC SOL-FAISTS AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The annual Choral Festival of the Tonic Sol-fa Association was held at the Crystal Palace on the 9th ult. The proceedings included a competition between choirs of children, a great Concert by 5,000 juveniles, and the first performance of a new Cantata, entitled "Israel in the Wilderness," composed by Mr. Alfred Gaul, by a choir of 3,000 singers, assisted by the Crystal Palace Band, largely augmented by amateurs. Five children's choirs competed. Each choir had to sing a two-part song, "Silver River," by Dr. Marsden, a two-part sight test, and a piece of its own choice. The adjudicator, Mr. Roddie, of Aberdeen, awarded the first prize (a silk banner) to Neath (South Wales), the second prize (a silver medal) to Portsmouth, the third prize (a bronze medal) to Bow (Malmesbury Road), and honourable mention to Mr. Rotherham's Metropolitan Choir. The programme of the children's Concert was well chosen with a view to popular favour. There were action songs, a piece in which the boys whistled popular airs ("Whistle and Hoe," by W. Harding Bonner), an echo song, a vocal waltz, a vocal march, the usual amusing display of coloured tickets, and singing from hand signs. Of the pieces, Mr. Cowley's "White Sails" and Mr. Donald's "Never say fail" were among the most effective. The juvenile orchestra, albeit it was not nearly strong enough, deserves a word of encouragement. We are not aware that any other great children's concert-organising association has drawn upon this willing source for its accompaniments. The Tonic Sol-fa Association is doing a good work in thus setting the example. The Concert was ably conducted by Mr. W. Harding Bonner, and the organ was efficiently played by Mr. Frank Proudman.

The most important event of the day was the first performance of Mr. Gaul's Cantata. This new work was composed by request expressly for the occasion, and is dedicated to Mr. W. G. McNaught and the members of the Tonic Sol-fa Association. The libretto is by Jetty Vogel and consists of passages selected from Scripture connected by suitable reflective rhymed lyrics, and deals with the deliverance of the Israelites, their sojourn in the wilderness, and the plagues of Egypt. In all this, of course, there is ample scope for the composer to exhibit his powers. We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. It is evident that the composer, while earnestly seeking a natural expression, has steadily kept in view the resources of the choral societies on whose behalf the work was written. Most of the music is easy, straightforward, and flowing—picturesque rather than dramatic—and it is all cast in a mould that enables the most ordinary listener to apprehend its form and purpose. Among the most striking features of the work is an arrangement of an ancient Hebrew theme, said to be one of the oldest extant. In harmonising this melody Mr. Gaul has commendably endeavoured to secure an archaic effect, without which an old subject of this character would be unintelligible. In venturing to set a description of the plagues of Egypt Mr. Gaul invites dangerous comparisons. He was bound at all hazards to avoid imitation of Handel, and to endeavour to strike out a new path. In our opinion the music to this section is the most original and expressive in the whole Cantata. The setting is in the form of a chant in choral unison throughout, the orchestral accompaniment and interludes furnishing harmony and illustrative effects. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances. The execution was, on the whole, very good indeed, but it would have been even firmer if Mr. Gaul had enjoyed more experience of the habits and expectations of large choirs at the Palace. The Cantata was followed by a well-performed miscellaneous selection, including "Hark, the mountains resound" (Haydn's Seasons) and "Ye mariners of England" (Pierson), conducted by Mr. L. C. Venables with skill and decision. Between the parts an ear-test was played on the organ, part by part, the choir writing down the names of the notes and afterwards singing from their copies in full four-part harmony. This demonstration of the educational value of the Tonic Sol-fa method was entirely successful.

CHURCH SUNDAY-SCHOOL CHOIR.

During the twelve years of its existence this choir has materially assisted in the promotion of a taste for good part-music among the young, whilst maintaining a fair standard of executive efficiency. Its scheme resembles that of other organisations, but labourers in the cause of musical improvement can scarcely be too numerous. The annual Concert at the Crystal Palace, on the 16th ult., erred only in the matter of length. Over a dozen part-songs and choruses were given in the first section by 5,000 vocalists, in turn conducted by Messrs. George Hare and H. McLaren, with Mr. F. W. Belchamber at the organ; but notwithstanding the ample programme, the audience were so moved towards the close by the stirring delivery of the vocal March "The Fire Brigade" as to insist upon repetition. The singing generally was marked by steadiness and as much regard for expression as could be reasonably expected. Particularly creditable performances were those of Cowen's "The Children's Home" (as arranged for four voices by Alfred Caldicott), "Sleepers, wake" ("St. Paul"), Ebdon's Magnificat, Oakey's "Sing we with the joyous bells" (a version of "The Bells of Aberdovey"), and G. W. Martin's "Our Saxon Fathers." For the second part 700 members of the Church Choral Union, selected from the School Choir, were responsible. The most substantial feature was Stainer's "The Daughter of Jairus," a Cantata entitled both by its elevation of style and melodic smoothness to more frequent hearing at large choral assemblages. The soloists were Miss Helen Ornarey, Mr. Wilfred Pepper, and Mr. J. Blackney, and the instrumental portion was played by the Crystal Palace Orchestra, led by Mr. Carl Jung. The Conductors of the Choral Union are Messrs. Roston Bourke and George Hare.

LONDON SUNDAY-SCHOOL CHOIR.

The twentieth annual Festival of this Association at the Crystal Palace was held on June 29, and, according to the custom adopted of late years, the number of competent members was attested by a couple of vast choral gatherings on the Handel orchestra. In connection with the choir (established in 1871) an instrumental force was formed in 1885, under the direction of Mr. David Davies, and is now turned to useful account at the Sydenham and Royal Albert Hall meetings. The first body to claim attention on this occasion was the junior choir of over 5,000 voices. Under the conductorship of Mr. J. Rowley (Mr. H. G. Holmes being at the organ), a programme of part-songs was gone through with much success. Among the listeners was the Gaekwar of Baroda, who was so struck with the freshness and spirit of the delivery of the final piece, "Now pray we for our country," that he asked for a repetition, but the youthful vocalists were too rapidly trooping from the orchestra to call them back. Later came the senior choir of 4,000 voices, with more advanced work. In the anthems and choruses of their first part excellent effects of light and shade were produced in "How lovely are the messengers" ("St. Paul"), Stainer's "Leave us not, neither forsake us," and in Mendelssohn's "Morning Prayer," the sacred selection terminating with the Hallelujah from "Judas Maccabæus." In the secular division the rendering of "Awake, the flowers unfold" (Leslie), "The Victor's Return" (Mendelssohn), "Come now, ye maidens" (Clemens), and "The Owl" (Silas) was commendable for precision and balance of tone. Mr. Luther Hinton, as Conductor, had the choralists completely under control, and Mr. David Davies again efficiently presided at the organ.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS.

The 154th Anniversary Festival of this Society took place on the 11th ult., at the Hôtel Métropole, under the presidency of Mr. F. Meadows White, Q.C. The guests included Mr. W. Kuhe, Mr. C. G. Fuller, Mr. E. de Munck, Mr. G. G. Treherne, Mr. F. Berger, Mr. Horton Smith, Q.C., Lieut. F. C. Griffiths, Mr. F. Rose, Mr. Walter Macfarren, Mr. Joseph Barnby, Mr. A. J. Hipkins, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Mr. Alfred Littleton, Mr. Augustus Littleton, Dr. Ringer, Mr. Lennox Browne, Col. T. B. Shaw-Hellier, Mr. August Manns, Mr. W. H. Cummings, Dr. L. B. White, the Sub-Dean of the Chapels Royal, Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, His Honour Judge Lumley Smith, and Mr. Thomas Threlfall. The report stated that during the last season a sum of nearly £4,000 was expended in providing for the maintenance of the widows and orphans and in solacing the declining years of the poorer members of the Society, who, in old age, had been disabled and precluded from continuing the exercise of their profession. In many cases relief had been afforded to deserving persons who had no claim upon the Society's funds. The Chairman, after the usual loyal toasts, proposed that of "Prosperity to the Royal Society of Musicians of Great Britain," and referred to the great advance in musical culture which had taken place in this country during the past forty or fifty years. With that advance the social position of professional musicians had improved and had now become recognised as it deserved to be. But there must necessarily be many members of the profession who, from a variety of causes beyond their control, found themselves at some period in need of the assistance which the Society was established to afford. Increasing competition made it difficult for the aged musician to keep pace with the requirements of his profession, and the scanty rate at which he was paid precluded him from laying by that provision which was requisite for his maintenance and comfort in old age. The Society had met these needs to the best of its ability, unobtrusively yet kindly, and he knew of no institution that was more deserving of support than the one for which he had to ask for aid. Mr. W. Macfarren proposed "The Musical Institutions of the country," coupling with it the names of Dr. A. C. Mackenzie and Mr. Barnby. —The former gentleman spoke of the unbroken harmony which existed amongst the various leading musical institutions, and paid a tribute to Mr. Barnby as the future manager of the Guildhall School of Music.—Mr. Barnby said he felt very strongly the enormous responsibility which would rest upon him in his new position. He might say, indeed, that he approached his duties almost with dismay; nevertheless, he had never turned his back upon any difficulty, and he did not intend, by God's help, to do so now. They might take his word for it that no favouritism would be shown, but that all would have equal justice done them.—Mr. Lumley Smith gave the "Health of the Chairman," and other toasts followed.—Subscriptions to the amount of £1,266 were announced.

MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

The important post of Music Superintendent to the London School Board will shortly become vacant by the retirement of Mr. John Evans, who has served the Board in this capacity for twenty years. We have now and again in these columns expressed our appreciation of the excellent service rendered by Mr. Evans to the cause of popular musical education in the great work now accomplished in London Board Schools. It is a splendid testimony to the efficiency and earnestness of the Board teachers that Mr. Evans in taking his farewell is able to state that every school under the Board now earns the note-singing grant. But it is not merely note singing that is stimulated so successfully. Beauty of execution and the cultivation of good taste are often found in the best schools. A competition of some dozen or so selected choirs that is to be held in Exeter Hall early in November will reveal this to those interested in school music. We trust Mr. Evans will live many years in his well-earned retirement, and that he will be gratified by witnessing even greater developments of the progress of musical study in our elementary schools than we have so far experienced.

A Conference of head teachers and officials interested in elementary schools and the choice of school songs was recently held in Bradford. Mr. J. E. Rooper, one of H.M.'s Inspectors, took the chair, and there were about sixty teachers present. Mr. Rooper gave great praise to the singing of the Bradford Board Schools. He advocated the use of a more vigorous and healthy sentiment than was usually found in school songs. In the course of the interesting discussion that followed the unworthy opinion was expressed that the music is of no consequence provided the words are satisfactory. This side-light helps us to account for the strange fondness many school teachers have for composing school songs; but we are glad to observe that an opinion so disastrous to musical art was promptly condemned by Mr. Watkins and others. Mr. Docksey, the able Music Superintendent of the Board, read a short paper, in which he claimed for the Bradford schools the credit of enjoying the use of an extensive repertory of good music.

OBITUARY.

By the death, on the 13th ult., of Mr. Charles E. Stephens, the musical world loses one of its most respected members—an excellent musician, and a singularly amiable and upright man. Mr. Stephens, who was the nephew of the celebrated "Kitty" Stephens (afterwards Countess of Essex), was born in London on March 18, 1821. He studied the pianoforte under J. M. Rost and Cipriani Potter, the violin under Henry Blagrove, and harmony and composition under J. A. Hamilton; but first became known as an organist. His compositions, which are numerous, include works for orchestra, church, and chamber; but it is as a teacher, speaker, and writer on the art that his services will be longest remembered. For the last twelve years Mr. Stephens had acted as Hon. Treasurer to the Philharmonic Society.

Another old Birmingham musician has passed away. Mr. Henry Synyer, for thirty years a violinist in the Festival orchestra, and for a long period Conductor of the military band formed by him in conjunction with Alfred Gilmer, whose death we chronicled two months ago, died at King's Heath, on the 17th ult., in the seventy-fifth year of his age. As a teacher he had a high reputation, and as a man he was universally esteemed.

With regret we announce the death, at Armadale, Cove, N.B., in his eighty-seventh year, of Mr. J. Muir Wood, the well-known music publisher. He was an eminent authority on Scottish music.

We have also to record the following deaths, viz.:—

On June 24, at Coburg, Heinrich Brückner, the celebrated scene painter of the Coburg Hof-Theater, who, in conjunction with his brother, painted the admirable scenery to "Parsifal," "Tannhäuser," and "Die Meistersinger" for the Bayreuth Festspielhaus. He was in his eighty-seventh year.

On June 25, at Dresden, Professor Gustav Scharfe, an eminently successful teacher of singing, for many years a professor at the Dresden Conservatorium, aged fifty-seven.

On the 8th ult., at Paris, Pierre Tharaud-Mainvielle, for thirty-five years a leading violinist at the Paris Grand Opéra, previous to his retirement in 1872.

On the 9th ult., at Neustadt-on-Oder, Hermann Riedel, for many years a highly-esteemed organist in that town, aged seventy-nine.

On the 14th ult., at Rome, Gaetano Palloni, esteemed vocal professor and meritorious composer of chamber music.

On the 15th ult., at Venice, Raffaele Carcano, excellent choral conductor and professor at the Liceo Marcello.

On the 20th ult., at Milan, Giovanni Faccio, father of the late eminent composer and conductor, Franco Faccio, aged eighty-four.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

There are still one or two musical events perhaps worthy of a brief record. The Midland Institute School of Music gave a Students' Concert on June 27, and some of the work done was very praiseworthy. The Orchestral Class in Beethoven's Symphony (No. 4), Weber's "Jubilee" Overture, and a new March by the Conductor, Mr. F. Ward, showed marked improvement. The extent to which the clarinet is studied here was shown in a Suite by Müller, in which nine executants joined, the whole family of the instruments, including the bass clarinet and corno di bassetto, being represented. This performance, under Mr. T. E. Pountney, was the great feature of the evening. Members of various vocal and instrumental solo classes gave evidence of careful training, and the Concert well displayed the varied work of the school.

Mr. Philip Yorke, a Birmingham tenor, gave a Concert the same evening at Birchfield, assisted by Miss L. Glanville Taylor (pianist), Mr. F. A. Ward (violoncellist), and Mr. B. Nock (Conductor). Mr. Yorke, a recent débutant in the profession, sang with great effect, having a powerful yet dulcet-toned voice. He has been engaged by Mr. William Greet as principal tenor for "La Cigale."

On the 2nd ult. Mr. S. S. Stratton read a paper on the subject of Musical Examinations before the members of the Musical Guild.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Bristol Society of Instrumentalists shows signs of vigour. To meet the demand for the study of orchestral instruments, particularly the violin, a junior branch of the Society is to be formed.

At the third annual meeting of the Bristol Choral Society, recently held, a satisfactory report was presented. The Rev. T. E. Brown, of Clifton College, resigns the presidency of the Society, as he is about to leave Bristol. Dr. Pigou, the Dean, who has accomplished wonders, musically and in other directions, during the comparatively short time he has been in Bristol, will probably be the new President. At present the Society has 563 members. The works to be studied in the coming season are "Elijah," "The Golden Legend," the "Requiem" of Brahms, "Mignon's Requiem" of Schumann, and Parry's "L'Allegro."

Mr. John Harvey, the honorary local representative of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music Joint Examining Board, on the 12th ult. distributed the certificates to the successful candidates, and stated that Bristol stood third on the list as regarded the number of entries and the successes won.

A meeting of professional and amateur musicians was held a few weeks ago with the idea of establishing a musical club for Bristol. Resolutions in favour of the project and appointing a provisional committee were adopted. Circulars inviting gentlemen to become members have since been issued, with what result it is yet too early to determine.

A Choral Festival in connection with the Church Choir Guild, of which Dean Pigou is president, was held in Bristol Cathedral on the 14th ult. In addition to the Cathedral choristers and song men there were eighty-five singers from Weston-super-Mare, Twickenham, and Merthyr Tydfil. Mr. Lewis, Warden of the Guild, conducted, and Mr. Riseley presided at the organ.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

TERCENTENARY OF DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Music entered largely into all the proceedings in connection with the Tercentenary celebrations of Trinity College, Dublin, from the Commemoration Service in St. Patrick's Cathedral to the University Ball with which the festivities terminated. Only the events of the opening day, however, need record here.

On Tuesday, the 5th ult., after the Reception in the Examination Hall, Trinity College, the guests and delegates, with the College Senate and the representatives of the Lord Mayor and Corporation of Dublin, walked in procession through the streets in full academical or official attire to St. Patrick's Cathedral, where a solemn Commemoration Service took place in the presence of the Archbishop of Dublin and nearly all the chief dignitaries of the Church of Ireland. The Service was largely choral, and its principal features were the performance of Stewart's Te Deum in E flat and Blow's Anthem "I beheld and lo!" the verses of which were sung by Messrs. Helmesley, Bapty, T. F. Marchant, and T. G. Kelly. The music was under the direction of Sir Robert Stewart and Mr. Charles Marchant, Organist of the Cathedral.

The Fellows' Garden Party was perhaps the most brilliant gathering ever witnessed in this country—brilliant not alone in respect to colour and sunshine, but as an assemblage of distinguished men and fair women. Amongst the Doctors in Music present (whose picturesque costumes were not the least attractive objects in the landscape) were Sir John Stainer, Sir Robert Stewart, Doctors Hubert Parry, Stanford, Mahaffy, Joze, Smith, Gater, &c., and the Bachelors were represented by Messrs. Marchant, Telford, Seymour, &c. The enlivening strains of military music were alternated with part-songs, &c., performed by the University Choral Society under the direction of Sir Robert Stewart, as follows: "Gaudeamus igitur," "My Ladye Fayre" (Stewart), "Dextra te longe" (Sapphics on the planting of a commemoration mulberry tree), "Come, fairest nymph" (Mornington), "The fairest flower" (Stewart).

On the same evening the Tercentenary Ode was performed in the Leinster Hall by the University Choral Society, with full band and choir of 250 performers, to a crowded and fashionable house. The Ode is the joint work of Dr. Savage Armstrong and Sir R. P. Stewart, and displays the talents of both author and composer to much advantage. It is to be doubted, however, whether an "occasional" work of this nature could by any possibility show a composer at his very best; and Sir Robert Stewart, whilst revelling in the opportunities which the poet afforded him for the classic, melodramatic, and even humorous effects which he knows so well how to achieve, seems occasionally to have been led by the text into a species of imagery which leaves something to be desired in the matter of clearness. The opening chorus, "The hallowed light," descriptive of the dawn of learning, was sung to perfection by the choir. So also were No. 3 (unaccompanied), "In the earth's exultant hour"; No. 4 (fugue), "Here to her lasting home"; No. 6 (in eight parts), "Refreshed from truth's pellucid springs"; No. 11, "Guardian of light" (ending with Valse movement), and No. 13, "Our triumph is the victory of thought," all of which are skilful and effective specimens of high-class choral writing. In No. 9, "The men of old are with us still," the difficulty of dealing with the names of famous men is successfully met. A strange effect is tried during the chorus by the combination of two Irish melodies by solo instruments, whilst the chorus sings staccato; and some unusual designs of the same class are met with in No. 10, which deserves a special description. It opens with an instrumental Symphony of a graceful character, in which harps and horns play a prominent part, at the conclusion of which the tinkling of a spinet is heard playing "The Carman's Whistle," from Queen Elizabeth's Virginal Book, by Byrde (1566). Next comes a tenor recitative, "Mother, since the Lion-Queen," which is presently broken in upon by a storm, in which the drums and cymbals are well in evidence. The recitative ending with fife and drum accompaniment, a chorus succeeds—"And tempered Empire with a softer sway"—in the accompaniment of which are heard snatches of "Rule, Britannia," and "British Grenadiers,"; and in that of the closing phrases of this number, "Till now three centuries," occurs a still more surprising combination of "God save the Queen" with "Garryowen." Besides the above-named recitative, the other solo pieces are "He who with heart unmoved can tread" and "Forward let the venturous mind," for tenor; "The rugged chief in richer cell" and "Aurora of the conquering sun," for bass; "Purge the fair world of ill," for soprano, with chorus; and "Yes, frail of heart and faint of eye," duet for soprano and tenor. Mrs. Hutchinson, Mr. Barton McGuckin, and Mr. David Bispham ably interpreted the solo music; Mr. Th. Werner led the band, Mr. James Culwick was executant of the spinet music, and Sir Robert Stewart conducted. After the performance, amidst much applause, the composer was presented with a costly bâton by the members of the University Choral Society.

Amongst the other musical events connected with the Tercentenary Celebrations were the performances, in Trinity College Chapel, of the "Acts" for the degree of Doctor in Music by Mr. J. Warriner, Forest Hill; and for Bachelor in Music by Mr. Joseph Seymour, Dublin.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Musical stagnation has been the order of the day in this district during the past month so far as relates to public performances and the like. In the meantime gossip is rife as to what may be expected at the hands of the Philharmonic Society now that it is definitely settled to continue the coming season on the lines mapped out during the last half-century or more. Up to date, however, no definite information is to hand.

The new Music School brought the second term of its existence to a successful close on the 28th ult., for which date a Concert was announced, the leading features of which consisted of Handel's Organ Concerto in F, Geminiani's Grosso Concerto (No. 1), and the performance of the Ensemble Class. The winners of the first scholarships were in evidence among the soloists, and have established their claims to the honours awarded them. During the past month there has been a private students' evening and a Lecture on "The Genesis of the Clavier," by Mr. Argent. The music school, in fact, appears to be unostentatiously doing excellent work.

Junketing has prevailed among the numerous members of the Liverpool professoriate during the month just closed. On the 16th ult. about forty members of the North-Western Section made an excursion to Port Sunlight and inspected the extensive works of Messrs. Lever and Co. Among the attractions provided at this replica of More's Utopia—for verily this model village is a beautiful thing—an excellent choir and band has been formed from the ranks of the work-people.

Chief interest, so far as the Principality is concerned, naturally gathers round the coming national Eisteddfod to be held at Rhyl early next month. Other competitions and music meetings have, however, been held elsewhere, and the erst remote but now easily accessible and charming district of Llanwrst has been the scene of another such Festival as that reported recently in connection with Nonconformist bodies. The Bishop of St. Asaph attended at a choral gathering on the 7th ult., in which choirs attended from both churches in Llanwrst, Llandoget, Llangerniew, Eglwysbach, Llanrhos, and Capel Garmon.

Preparations are on foot for the triennial Festival of Parish Choirs, at Chester Cathedral, the date of which is the 28th inst. About fifty choirs will take part and the voices will number nearly 1,000. A brass band will aid the organ, at which Dr. J. C. Bridge will preside. The anthem will consist of a portion of Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm, and the Rev. Hylton Stewart is to conduct.

Mrs. Julian Marshall's Fairy operetta "Prince Sprite" was given for the first time at the West Theatre in the Albert Hall, on the 9th ult., by a company of young ladies, under the direction of the composer. The operetta, the libretto of which is written by Bertha Thomas, is designed for school use, and in this capacity will no doubt be found extremely valuable, the music being tuneful, and, it need hardly be said, musician-like, while the composer's large experience in school work has enabled her to effectively gauge the capabilities of youthful vocalists. The addition of a violin part ad lib. to one or two movements materially added to the effect, especially in the solo sung by Abricotine; and this, with an extremely melodious and graceful dance (which, with only one group of dancers, was perhaps a trifle long), was warmly applauded by the audience. It can hardly be said that the young interpreters showed any remarkable histrionic talent, but Miss Rachel Pezze, as Prince Leander, may be mentioned as giving promise of future capability. The operetta, which was prettily mounted and dressed, was accompanied on the pianoforte by Mrs. Marshall, assisted in the duet parts by Miss Mary Carmichael and by Miss Marshall (violin). The theatre was crowded by a friendly audience, and the composer and authoress were warmly called at the end of the performance. The operetta is one which should find special favour at school entertainments.

The following gentlemen passed at the recent Examination for Fellowship in the College of Organists:—Mr. H. L. Adams, Hull; Mr. G. Beale, Streatham; Mr. A. Bly, Camberwell; Mr. A. H. Edwards, Barrow-in-Furness; Mr. A. L. Holloway, Fakenham; and Mr. W. Stansfield, Dudley. Passed for Associateship: Messrs. W. Attersoll, B. Barrow, R. W. Bartle, F. L. Bax, R. Bareham, F. Bentley, J. C. Billing, G. A. Boulter, W. J. Bunney, W. B. Brierley, L. Butler, R. Cooper, T. Cross, S. F. Dalladay, H. J. Dawson, R. T. M. Darton, E. Dale, Miss M. Ellis, Messrs. A. C. P. Embling, J. A. Freeman, F. J. Gostelow, H. M. J. Gibbon, R. R. Glendining, H. A. Gisby, P. Harmon, C. H. Kirby, C. J. Lee, W. Lee, W. C. Luttman, H. E. Macpherson, H. C. Morris, H. H. Nelson, W. A. Nicholls, H. W. Reyner, W. B. Ross, F. G. Sanders, J. H. Trevor, C. F. Warner, W. C. Webb, Walter Williams, and William Williams. The Examiners were Professor J. F. Bridge, Mr. A. J. Eyre, Dr. C. J. Frost, Dr. G. M. Garrett, Mr. W. S. Hoyte, Dr. C. W. Jordan, Dr. Haydn Keeton, Dr. H. Walmsley Little, Dr. C. Harford Lloyd, Dr. G. C. Martin, Mr. Walter Parratt, and Mr. W. G. Wood. The diplomas for Fellowship were presented to the successful candidates by Professor J. F. Bridge, and for Associateship by Dr. William Pole.

Mr. Ernest Fowles, at the third Chamber Concert of his pupils, held on the 23rd ult. in the St. James's Banqueting Hall, revived an interesting work in Samuel Wesley's Trio for three pianofortes. Though penned so far back as 1811 it remains in MS. and was lent for the occasion by Miss Wesley. In letters to Vincent Novello this Trio was several times referred to by the composer in modest terms, from which it seems to have obtained the favour of Clementi. It is in three movements—Presto assai, Andante grazioso, and Pastorale—with a few bars lento as an introduction. The first and second sections are rather unduly extended, but, on the other hand, the bright and piquant Finale is too brief. The composition throughout suggests the influence of Handel, and being generally pleasing deserved reproduction. Mr. Ernest Fowles, Miss Julie Moncel, and Mr. Bernard Fowles undertook its interpretation, and at the close were warmly congratulated upon the care and ability displayed. Miss Beatrice Fry and Mr. Ernest Fowles played in good style the Allegro molto from Mozart's Sonata in D for two pianofortes, and Mr. J. E. Hambleton (violoncellist) joined in some other pieces.

It is a gratifying sign of the times that such a purely classical work as Gluck's "Orfeo" should have been selected for two performances in aid of the Gordon Boys' Home, at the Grosvenor Club, on June 28 and 30; and it is further pleasant to be able to record that both were well and fashionably attended, the audiences feigning, if they did not feel, much interest in the interpretation of the Franco-German composer's masterpiece. The opera was given with full scenic accessories, and although the score was not followed implicitly, but little violence was offered to Gluck's intentions. The leading part was taken by Miss Meisslinger, a member of Sir Augustus Harris's company, possessed of a fine mezzo-soprano voice inclining to contralto, and a sound and intelligent actress. Very wisely the young artist omitted Bertoni's florid but inexpressive air with which the first act usually concludes. Miss Gherlsen as Eurydice and Miss Pauline Zoran as Eros were commendable, and the chorus and orchestra were equal to their duties. The performances were ably conducted by Signor Arditi.

The Musical Exhibition, which will be held at the Royal Aquarium from September 13 to October 8, has received an unusual amount of support. The names of Dr. Mackenzie, Dr. Bridge, Dr. Turpin, Sir George Grove, Mr. Fuller Maitland, Mr. Hamish MacCunn, Mr. G. A. Sala, Mr. Augustus Littleton, Mr. George Riseley, Dr. Longhurst, Mr. J. F. Barnett, Mr. Joseph Bennett, Sir Herbert Oakeley, Mr. E. T. Treherne, Mr. H. V. Higgins, Dr. Spark, Mr. T. A. Barrett, Dr. Hiles, the organists of thirteen cathedrals, and many others are to be found in the list of those who are aiding the Directors in the formation of the Exhibition. Already the majority of the principal manufacturers have taken spaces, and lectures on subjects interesting to musicians are being arranged; competitions for choirs, orchestral and military bands are being organised, and recitals will also be given by leading organists and pianists.

The pupils of Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch gave a very interesting Concert at the Portman Rooms on June 30, when a programme was presented very similar in construction, and of almost equal interest, to those with which Mr. Dolmetsch has made us familiar. Purcell's Overture and instrumental music for "The Tragedy of Bonduca"; a Sonata by Corelli for two violins and violoncello, with pianoforte accompaniment; Bach's Concerto for three violins, three violas, three violoncellos, and bass; and a Handel Sonata, played by all the violins, were amongst the most interesting pieces performed by these clever and evidently well-taught young people, who also accompanied Miss Florence Monk in a "Salve Regina" by Pergolesi. It is not easy to overrate the educational value of such Concerts, for hearers and players alike. Mr. Dolmetsch is doing admirable work for at least two generations of musicians.

The Edinburgh Society of Musicians held its fifth Annual Business meeting on the 2nd ult., in its own rooms in Queen Street. Notwithstanding the extra call on the resources of the Society, occasioned by the rent and furnishing of new premises, the Treasurer's balance has been kept on the right side. The office-bearers for next session were elected as follows:—President, Mr. Walter Hately; Vice-Presidents, Messrs. Daly and Laubach; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. A. C. Edmunds; Hon. Secs., Messrs. Dibdin and Franklin Peterson. The Benevolent Fund of the Society is growing steadily. Handsome donations have been given this year by members and others, and the Concert which Mr. Waddel's Violin School gave in aid of the fund resulted in a surplus of £45. Several cases of distress have been relieved, and small sums judiciously granted among the more unfortunate members of the musical profession.

St. George's Hall was completely filled on the 23rd ult., the occasion being the annual presentation of diplomas and medals to students of the London Academy of Music; a somewhat arduous function to perform in the presence of some 140 recipients, which, however, was most gracefully discharged on the part of Madame Nordica. The proceedings opened with a miscellaneous Concert given by students of the Institution, and pleasantly terminated with a performance of the second act of Flotow's "Martha," in which Miss Teresa Blamy, Miss Elise Evans, Mr. Gilbert Denis, and Mr. Mervyn Dene took part, all of whom rendered a good account of the teaching carried on, in the dramatic class of the Academy, by Madame Heritte-Viardot. Mr. A. Pollitzer conducted an altogether most creditable performance.

A single-manual organ, to which Messrs. Norman Bros. and Beard, of Norwich, have recently adapted the Hope-Jones electro-pneumatic action, so far as was practicable without sacrificing the work already done, has been erected in the Council Room of the English Church Union, 35, Wellington Street, Strand. This organ was originally built with tubular pneumatic action, and though the builders do not consider it to be a complete example of the new system, they are satisfied that it suffices to show the superiority of the Hope-Jones action. The specimen organ of the company which has purchased the patents is now in course of construction, and will, when finished, be erected at the office of the company, No. 4, Huggin Lane, Queen Victoria Street. The organ at the English Church Union can only be seen on application to the builders.

The annual Harp Concert of Mr. John Thomas, at St. James's Hall, on the 5th ult., attracted a surprisingly large audience, considering that the season was moribund. The orchestra presented an attractive appearance with twenty-two young lady harpists, who were heard in some selections suitable enough for such an unusual combination. The Concert-giver displayed his consummate ability in his solos, and joined Miss Harriet Shaw and Miss Marianne Eissler in duets from his own pen. A curious piece in the programme was Chopin's Marche Funèbre, arranged for the band of harps. Besides the artists already named, Madame Valda, Mr. Hollman, Madame Edith Wynne, Miss Damian, Miss Hannah Jones, Mr. Hirwen Jones, Mr. Daniel Price, and others took part in the Concert.

The Invitation Concert given by Mr. Granville Bantock at the Royal Academy of Music, on the 12th ult., served to confirm the opinion held by many eminent musicians that Mr. Bantock is one of the most promising among "coming" men in the English musical world. The programme consisted entirely of his own compositions, among which a one-act opera "Cædmar," three German Lieder, and a recitation with musical accompaniment may be specially named. The opera reveals gifts which, properly used, should eventually place Mr. Bantock in a very high position. It was well sung by Miss Lilian Redfern, Mr. Edwin Wareham, and Mr. John Walters. Miss Hilda Wilson, Miss Clara Jecks, and Messrs. Learmont Drysdale and Reginald Steggall lent valuable aid.

The most interesting feature of the Concert given by Signor Simonetti on June 24, at the Portman Rooms, was a new String Quartet (Op. 4) from his own pen. This proved to be a most genial and attractive work, generally original and always refined in its melodic material, and bearing throughout the impress of a really artistic mind. It is a welcome addition to the scanty stock of modern chamber music. The Concert-giver was assisted in its admirable interpretation by Messrs. E. Hopkinson, A. Hobday, and Peruzzi. Madame Frickenhaus and Signor Simonetti gave an extremely discreet performance of the "Kreutzer" Sonata, and the vocalists were Miss Marguerite Hall and Mr. Norman Salmond, both of whom were very deservedly successful.

The series of the Sarasate Concerts came to a conclusion on June 25 with a chamber performance in which, as usual, Madame Berthe Marx afforded valuable assistance. The two artists were heard together in Schubert's Fantasia in C (Op. 159), which they have frequently played on previous occasions, and in Schumann's Sonata in D minor (Op. 121), the ensemble being equally admirable in both works. The pianist and the violinist both contributed solos, those of Mr. Sarasate including a new and showy "Sérénade Andalouse" from his own pen. Encores were of course numerous, and everyone will be pleased to learn that Sarasate Concerts will form a noteworthy feature of the autumn musical season.

Mr. Percy Pinkerton gave a Concert at Collards' Rooms on the 12th ult., when a programme was presented which, if in no ways ambitious, was very pleasantly artistic. Mr. Pinkerton sings with excellent taste and refinement, and was conspicuously successful in two songs by Ernest Baughan, who writes very expressively, and not only aims at, but reaches a really high level. His accompaniments are particularly worthy of notice. The violin obbligato to each was played by Signor Simonetti, who also gave solos in his best manner. Miss Jeanne Denys, Madame Amy Sandon, Signor Mhanes, and Mr. Delmar Williamson also assisted, the songs of each being well given and received.

The Western District Orchestral Society held the closing meeting of its second season on Monday evening, the 4th ult., at the Schoolroom of the Methodist Chapel, Queen's Road, Bayswater. The usual band rehearsal was, on this occasion, interspersed with songs, instrumental solos, recitations, &c., contributed by members of the Society. During the evening a handsome ebony bâton, mounted in silver, was presented to the Conductor, Mr. David M. Davis, through whose energetic efforts the orchestra has achieved its success. The Society gives gratuitous Concerts to the working classes in the West of London, and during the past season its work has been greatly appreciated.

The students of the Guildhall School of Music gave a very successful Orchestral Concert in the Guildhall, on the 23rd ult., in presence of the civic authorities and a large general audience. Excellent renderings were given by the orchestra, under Mr. G. W. Collins, of Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas" Overture and Bizet's "Arlésienne" Suite; and Mr. Hermann Klein directed a performance of selections of "Le Nozze di Figaro," which showed how carefully the vocalists had been trained. Miss Levine, in Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, and Miss Jessie Huddlestone, Miss Florence Oliver, and Mr. Edward Epstein in vocal pieces, showed much promise.

Mrs. Amélie Hubert, who gave an evening Concert at the Steinway Hall on June 28, has a good and effective voice of dramatic quality, which was best displayed in the great air from "Samson et Dalila," "Mon cœur s'ouvre à ta voix," though all her solos were very expressively sung. Her coadjutors were Miss Leonora Clench, a young violinist remarkable for her full tone and breadth of style; Miss Adelina de Lara, who played pianoforte solos in her happiest way; Mr. David Bispham, who gave a very dramatic reading of the "Erl-King"; Mr. Leo Stern, and Madame Antoinette Sterling.

A Violin Recital was given at the Portman Rooms, on the 4th ult., by Mr. Otto Peiniger's pupils, who bore more or less convincing testimony to their master's merits as a teacher. The most promising was Mr. Colson, who displayed considerable ability in a Romance by Ersfeld; and a good deal may be looked for from Miss Evelyn Johnson, a child who has obvious musical talent, but needs careful training. Songs were contributed by Miss Louisa Dale and Miss Mowbray-Lingard, and during the afternoon Mr. Peiniger himself played violin solos pour encourager les autres.

Miss Clara Friedländer, who gave an afternoon Concert on the 4th ult., at the Princes' Hall, appears to be a pianist of considerable ability; but it is impossible at present to form a just estimate of her powers, partly because she was only heard in minor pieces by Schumann, Chopin, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, and Liszt, and also because indulgence was claimed for her on account of a sprained wrist. Mr. and Mrs. Oudin, Miss Esther Palliser, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Leo Stern, and others took part in a generally well selected and high-class programme.

An excellent performance of the music of Gounod's opera "Faust" was given on Monday, the 18th ult., at the People's Palace, London, by the People's Palace Choral and Orchestral Societies, before an audience of 4,000 people. The soloists were Miss Edna Gray (Marguerite), Miss Lilian Delves-Yates (Siebel), Mr. Charles Ellison (Faust), Mr. Perry Averill (Valentine), and Mr. Franklin Clive (Mephistopheles). Mr. Orton Bradley conducted, Mr. W. R. Cave led the orchestra, and Mr. B. Jackson was at the organ.

A Concert was given by Miss Meadows, at Messrs. Collards' Rooms, on the 4th ult., when she was assisted by her pupils, the Meister Glee Singers, and Miss Bateman.

The pianoforte playing of the last-named lady was greatly appreciated, and the singing of the Misses Odell, Miss Cheese, Miss Edith Meadows, Miss Hope Hall, and Mrs. Wright was marked by considerable artistic feeling and gave evidence of careful training. Miss Edith Meadows also played two pianoforte solos with much success.

The Annual Dinner of the Royal Academy of Music Club took place at the Criterion Restaurant on the 23rd ult., when very many distinguished musicians were present, either as members or guests. Mr. Walter Macfarren presided, and speeches were also made by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Dr. J. F. Bridge, Mr. Banister, Mr. Cummings, and Mr. Threlfall. The wonderful card tricks of Mr. Charles Bertram and the amusing recitations of Mr. Arthur Helmore were notable features of a most enjoyable evening.

At the recent Higher Examinations at Trinity College, London, the diploma of Licentiate in Music was conferred upon Miss Jessie Edwards, Mr. John B. Heavysege, Miss Marian Reynolds, and Mr. Joseph Seymour. Six candidates took the diploma of Associate in Music, and seventy other certificates were awarded. The Warden (Dr. Turpin) distributed the certificates on Tuesday afternoon, the 19th ult.

Mr. Jan Mulder, a violoncellist of ability, gave a Concert in the Steinway Hall on June 24. His most successful contribution was an Aria by Sebastian Bach; but in a Duet for two violoncellos, with Herr Schuberth, he was not less satisfactory. An occasionally faulty intonation is Mr. Mulder's worst fault. Mr. William Nicholl sang very charmingly, and Miss Anna Goodhart, Mrs. Leith Macgregor, and Count Vinci gave assistance.

The Competition at the Guildhall School of Music for the Soprano Prize took place on the 8th ult., Miss Anna Williams acting as judge. There were sixteen competitors, and the prize was awarded to Miss Emily Briggs. In the Competition for the Warner Prize Mr. Eugène Oudin acted as judge. There were ten competitors, and the prize was awarded to Mr. Edward Epstein.

Mr. Ebenezer Prout will be the Adjudicator of the Prize Essay on "The Theory, Progress, and Present Development of Chamber Music," for which Trinity College offers a gold medal next term.

Dr. Westbrook's Oratorio "Jesus" was performed, for the first time in London, on the 2nd ult., by the choir in connection with the Goldsmiths' Company's Technical and Recreative Institute, New Cross.

REVIEWS.

Pearls from the Instrumental Collection of Paul de Wit, Leipzig.

[Office of the Zeitschrift für Instrumentenbau, Thomaskirchhof, 16, Leipzig.]

This handy book of illustrations of obsolete musical instruments which have been of late years, so to speak, recalled to life, appears with a descriptive text in three languages, German, French, and English, and may be taken as a catalogue raisonné of Herr Paul de Wit's splendid contribution to the special Loan Exhibition of Music and the Drama now going on at Vienna. The illustrations are nearly 200 in number and are pleasing in effect as well as accurate, having been reproduced from original photographs in a coloured process known as Photo-lithochromy. The price in the bound form, 8s., is so low that a book such as this is, largely illustrating musical archæology and history, should be in every musician's library. The large paper edition is not bound. It was subscribed for at 20s., but, since publication, has been raised to 30s. Herr de Wit is well known as the editor of the important musical trade paper at the office of which his book is published. He is a viola da gamba player and an enthusiastic collector. This is his third collection, the first two having of late years been acquired by the Prussian Government wherewith to found a national organographic museum in Berlin. The present collection is worthy of a like distinction and it is to be hoped will follow its predecessors. Museums are fed by the fine sense of those who form collections of any kind. Those of musical instruments have been founded in London, Paris, Brussels, and elsewhere, as recently in Berlin, upon the energy and tact, in the first instance, of collectors, who save all that is good and worth preserving from destruction that would otherwise be inevitable.

Among Herr de Wit's instruments will be found many remarkable specimens of the keyboard kind, clavichords, spinets or virginals, and harpsichords, many of these being of great beauty and originality of decoration; there are also Positive and Portable organs as well as Regals, those scarce instruments of which Herr de Wit has a large and a small specimen. As to lutes and viols and their kin there is all the keenest student may care to see. It is understood that they are, or could easily be made, playable. In the course of next September Herr de Wit will give an Historical Concert after the manner of those that made the Music Section of the London Inventions Exhibition noteworthy, and which were free to the public which had paid for admission to the general exhibition. At Vienna a price will be charged on each of the three occasions that this performance will be given, in order to cover the expenses; at the first it will be a gulden for each seat, the second and third will be at lower prices. The programme is to include vocal pieces for mixed choir with accompaniment of the Regal organ, and instrumental pieces by C. P. E. Bach, Lulli, Couperin, and Rameau, with a Concerto composed for the one-keyed flute with the original accompaniment by Frederick the Great; this will recall to some the celebrated picture by Menzel at Berlin. The performance is to conclude with a chorale played upon eleven Russian one-note horns. There was a Russian band of this kind in London some sixty years ago.

The descriptions of Herr de Wit's "pearls" are evidently intended for the Exhibition catalogue, and are, therefore, not in every case exhaustive. To achieve this fulness of detail would enlarge what is an attractive handbook to an organographic treatise, and has been beyond the author's intention.

Manual of Voice Training. By E. Davidson Palmer. [Joseph Williams.]

This manual has two specialities which in these days should attract many readers. It sets forth an entirely new method of voice production, and reveals that which it declares "has been a secret for centuries." The new method consists in training the voice downwards from that portion commonly known in male voices as the falsetto; and the "secret" lies in the proper development of this part of the voice. Mr. Palmer says that the falsetto is "in reality the foundation of the voice. . . . To train it rightly the extreme high notes must be omitted, and the middle and lower notes must be gently and perseveringly exercised. In this way the weakest part will gradually acquire strength, a new voice will seem to grow out of it, the extremes will develop of themselves, and the whole will form a complete voice, pure, strong, and equal, having only one register, and capable of being freely and unrestrainedly used from its lowest to its highest note without the least painful effort, and with a delightful sense of enjoyment which only those who have experienced it can fully realize." Several arguments are advanced in support of this theory, and a number of clever vocal exercises given for its practical application. Whether Mr. Palmer be a discoverer or a "faddist" will doubtless appear in due time. His theory is, at any rate, new enough to provoke any amount of opposition. The book also includes an excellent scheme for the acquirement of clear articulation, Mr. Palmer justly observing that "good pronunciation is of as great value to the singer as it is to the elocutionist, and hence the subject is one which should be attentively and diligently studied."

A Treatise on Byzantine Music. By the Very Rev. S. G. Hatherly, Mus. Bac., Oxon., Protopresbyter of the Patriarchal Œcumenical Throne of Constantinople.

[Paisley and London: Alexander Gardner.]

This very interesting work is the amplification and completion of an effort made for the first time in English (in the Scottish Review for October, 1889) "to clear up some of the difficulties which beset the student when confronted with Eastern music generally." By "Eastern" Mr. Hatherly explains that he means only nations under the influence of the Roman Empire of the East; India, China, and Japan being, therefore, excluded. The treatise is divided into six chapters. The first and last respectively introduce and summarize the subject; one is devoted to the diatonic genus, another to the chromatic, and the remaining two give classifications of the scales and upwards of fifty examples of Greek, Russian, Turkish, and Egyptian music, ancient and modern. The similarity of several of these with some of the melodies given in Captain Day's book on the "Music of Southern India" (reviewed in our December number) will not escape the notice of students. For instance, melodies in the key of C, with the D and A flattened, are found in both books. Mr. Hatherly's matter is excellent; his manner, however, is not altogether satisfactory. The scales are written out in a needlessly perplexing way that makes the subject seem much more difficult than it really is, and technical terms are occasionally used in a sense quite other than that which obtains among English musicians. For instance, all through the book the tritone is called a "major (!) fourth"; and the term "double-counterpoint" is used to describe the mere inversion of intervals. These defects, however, do not detract seriously from the value of the book, which, like that on Indian Music already referred to, should be in the hands of every student who would know something of the sources from which the broad stream of European music flows.

Three Dances from the music to "Henry VIII." By Edward German. Arranged for pianoforte solo by the Composer. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The thousands who have heard these clever pieces at the Lyceum have now an opportunity of renewing acquaintance with them under conditions which enable their musical merits to be far better appreciated than before, when attention was mainly fixed on the life and movement of a fascinating stage picture. These dances are so well contrasted that a consecutive performance of the three may safely be risked. So played, they make an admirable little "suite." In the first, entitled "Morris Dance," Mr. German has cleverly suggested the old modes without departing from modern needs in the matter of tonality. The "Shepherd's Dance" which follows is full of grace and charm. It might have been danced at Versailles by the courtly ones who used to play at Damon and Phyllis in the "Jardin Anglais." The "Torch Dance" is a very striking bit of tone-colour, the wild, frenzied, almost Bacchanalian character of its themes so vividly suggesting scenes and sounds of revelry by night as to render the title superfluous.

Original Compositions for the Organ. Nos. 150-158. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The first three of these numbers consist of short pieces, entitled respectively, "Meditation," Andante in D minor, and "Idyl," by Hamilton Clarke. They are all elegantly written and melodious, but preference must be given to the Andante, which is a remarkably fresh and piquant trifle. The progressions are unconventional, and Mr. Clarke does not disdain even consecutive fifths. The remaining six numbers are pieces in various styles by E. Townshend Driffield. The composer is evidently in sympathy with the modern French school, and his bright Offertoire in E flat (No. 155) and his March for a Church Festival (No. 156) might be signed by Wély or Batiste. The rest are quieter in style, the most pleasing being an extremely melodious Pastorale (No. 154) in the unusual key of F sharp.

Orpheus with his Lute. Trio for Female Voices from the music to "Henry VIII." By Edward German.
The same, arranged as a Song by the Composer. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

This piece should be welcome in both its forms, the melody being, though modern in style, quite simple and well within the compass of ordinary voices. It ranges from the first line to the fourth space of the treble stave. None who have heard it at the Lyceum will need telling that it is a charming setting of the beautiful words.

The Forty-eight Fugues for the Wohltemperirte Clavier. By J. S. Bach. In score, with proper clefs. Edited by Dr. Charles Vincent. In Two Books, or forty-eight numbers. [E. Donajowski.]

This, we believe, is the first time these wonderful Fugues have been published in this form. There can be little doubt that to extract from Bach's instrumental fugues the fullest amount of artistic nourishment they can be made to yield the student should write them out himself in open score. Not every one has time for this, however, to say nothing of patience; musicians have therefore reason to feel grateful to Dr. Vincent (and his publisher) for the handy volumes now under notice, in which the "daily bread" of every musician worthy of the name is so spread out that even the most familiar morsels acquire an added attraction from the disentanglement. Few are the works which could pass unharmed through the ordeal of such "articulation," since structural weakness, if present in any of the parts, would have no chance of concealment; the "48," however, have nothing to conceal.

New Harvest Anthems. Novello's Octavo Anthems, Nos. 404, 405, and 406. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The first of these is a simple four-part Anthem in hymn-form, by Ferris Tozer, set to words by Henry Knight, beginning "Lord of the rich and golden grain." The music is tuneful and joyous. No. 405, by Oliver King, is a fine setting, suitable for harvest festival or general thanksgiving, of "I will magnify thee, O God, my King." No. 406, "My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord," by John E. West, is written in a popular style and the organ part will be found particularly effective. We may also call attention to the music in this present issue, which is a new Harvest Anthem by the popular Organist of Westminster Abbey.

Soft Voluntaries for the Organ. Book 14. By George Calkin. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Mr. Calkin's facile pen is losing none of its fluency, the six voluntaries in the present book being as noteworthy for pleasing melody and general finish and refinement as any of the preceding instalments. The style is sometimes suggestive of Mendelssohn and sometimes of Henry Smart, and certainly the composer could not have better models. The gem of the present series is an Allegretto pastorale in D, but the rest are not far behind in attractiveness and musicianly feeling.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The original manuscript of the pianoforte score of Weber's "Freischütz," hitherto supposed to be lost, has just been discovered in the possession of a lady residing at St. Petersburg, the genuineness of the composer's handwriting having been confirmed by experts. Weber, we may add, wrote the pianoforte arrangements of all his important operas, a fact which constitutes their peculiar interest and value.

Madame Pauline Viardot, for some years past the possessor of the original manuscript of the score of Mozart's "Don Giovanni," has just presented that precious document to the authorities of the Paris Conservatoire, thereby anticipating the actuality of a gift which the distinguished lady had already made a testamentary one.

The German male Choral Society Arion, of New York, on its way to the Vienna Exhibition, gave a series of highly successful performances last month both at Berlin and at Dresden, under the able conductorship of Mr. Frank van der Stucken. The Transatlantic choristers were assisted by the solo performances of a gifted young violinist, Miss Maud Powell, and of the well-known brilliant pianist, Herr Franz Rummel.

Under the title of "Denkmäler deutscher Tonkunst," Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, of Leipzig, announce the publication of the first volume of a series of musical compositions intended to illustrate German musical art at different periods of its development. This important national undertaking enjoys the active support of the Prussian Government, which has appointed a Committee, including Messrs. J. Brahms, F. Chrysander, Ph. Spitta, Von Helmholtz, and Dr. Joachim as experts to superintend the issue.

This year's meeting of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musikverein will take place, for the first time in its history, at Vienna next month, when Liszt's symphonic poem with choruses, "Prometheus," will form part of the musical proceedings of the Society.

Heinrich Hofmann, the well-known German composer, has just completed the score of an important work for chorus, solo voices, and orchestra, entitled "Prometheus," which is about to be published at Leipzig.

The Berlin Belle-Alliance Theatre is to be re-opened next month as an opera house, under the direction of Herr W. Hock, with Herren A. Raida and K. Junkermann as orchestral conductors. This will be the third lyrical stage existing in the German capital.

A new one-act comic opera, "Der Brautmarkt von Hira," the libretto by Oscar Justinus, the music by Bogumil Zepler, was brought out on the 5th ult. at the Krollsche Theatre, Berlin, and met with a decided success, the music being described as graceful and effective.

A model performance of Wagner's "Rienzi" is to be given, on October 20 next, at the Dresden Royal Opera, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary on that day of the first representation of Wagner's early opera, an event which led to the appointment of the composer—then struggling with adversity in the French capital—as orchestral conductor at the establishment in question. The "Rienzi" performance is to be followed by a complete "cycle" of the Bayreuth master's music-dramas, with the exception, of course, of "Parsifal," which is still, and very properly, reserved for the Bayreuth Festspielhaus.

Dr. Richard Pohl, the distinguished German musical critic, and one of the earliest and most consistent champions of Wagner, celebrated, on the 2nd ult., the fortieth anniversary of his literary connection with the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik, the journal founded by Robert Schumann.

A new comic opera by A. Förster, entitled "Lorle," recently produced with much success at the Krollsche Theater in Berlin, and also at Weimar, has been accepted for performance at several other German lyrical establishments.

Herr Suppé, the successful composer of operettas, has completed a new work of this order, entitled "Der Fakir," the libretto by Herr Schnitzer, which will shortly be produced at the Vienna Hof-Theater.

Herr Friedrich Grützmacher, jun., for some time leading violoncellist at the Royal Opera, Buda Pesth, has been appointed to a professorship of his instrument at the Conservatoire of the Hungarian capital.

The town of Bayreuth has just lost one of its historical features in connection with the traditional associations of the "Festspiele"—viz., the Café Angermann, where Wagner and his friends were wont to foregather, and where many a heated discussion found its amicable solution in a final dictum of the poet-composer, whose inmost nature, notwithstanding occasional appearances to the contrary, was essentially warm-hearted and full of genuine geniality. The café, having been condemned by experts on account of its mature age and ricketty condition, has been pulled down by order of the municipal authorities.

The Berlin Royal Opera will commence its new season on the 16th inst., with a performance of "Tannhäuser." Amongst the novelties to be produced here may be mentioned Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Ivanhoe" (already in course of preparation) and Bizet's "Djamileh"; the right of first performance in Germany of Verdi's "Falstaff" has likewise been acquired by the directors of the Institution.

The performances of operatic works by Bohemian composers recently given at the Exhibition Theatre in Vienna, included the first representation of Dvorák's "Dimitry," which was received with enthusiasm, the music being described as intensely dramatic, and the work generally is looked upon as one of exceptional importance. The performance afforded a genuine triumph to the Czech element in the Austrian Empire.

On the occasion of the recent Coronation festivities in Hungary, a festival play, written and partly set to music by Count Gezá Zichy, the well-known aristocrat-artist, and representing various phases of Hungarian national life, was produced at the Opera House in Buda-Pesth, in the presence of the Emperor and of a highly enthusiastic audience.

Madame Pauline Lucca, who last year established an academy for the training of operatic vocalists at Gmunden, near Ischl, gave an interesting private performance, last month, with her pupils, of Flotow's opera "Martha," in the handsome little bijou theatre attached to her residence. This being the first occasion of the kind, the proceedings were opened with a prologue written by Count Prokesch-Osten.

The performances of the Amsterdam Choral Association at the Vienna Exhibition last month, under the direction of M. Daniel de Lange, have attracted the universal attention of music-lovers present. The programme consisted chiefly of works by the old Dutch and Flemish masters.

Anton Rubinstein has definitely abandoned his projected tour in the United States, and the contract, which engaged him for fifty Concerts, has been cancelled.

A full-dress rehearsal of Rubinstein's new musical drama "Moses" took place recently at the German Theatre of Prague. By the express wish of the composer, who was himself present, the performance was kept strictly private, the object of the rehearsal being to ascertain the suitability of the work for public representation. The result has, however, not been divulged, and meanwhile the proceedings have at all events succeeded in stimulating public curiosity.

Frau Therese Vogl, the famous interpretress of Wagnerian heroines, more especially of Isolde and Brünnhilde, is about to retire from the lyric stage. The gifted artist has been for many years a member of the Munich Hof-Theater, to which royal establishment she will still remain attached in future in an honorary capacity.

Herr Richard Strauss, of the Weimar Court Theatre, who was to have conducted the Bayreuth performances of "Die Meistersinger" alternately with Dr. Hans Richter, has been obliged to cancel his engagement on account of ill-health, and is just now recruiting at Reichenhall, where he occupies his leisure with the elaboration of a new opera entitled "Guntram." His place at Bayreuth has been taken by Herr Muck, of Prague.

Herr Pollini, the manager of the Hamburg Stadt-Theater, proposes to produce M. de Lara's opera "The Light of Asia" at that town during next season. Various alterations will, however, probably be made, including the excision of both prologue and epilogue.

A grand "Festspiel," enacted after the manner of the Oberammergau plays, in the open air, was performed on several days last month at Bâle, in the presence of an immense concourse of people, to celebrate the five hundredth anniversary of the re-union of the two parts of the town known as Grand-Bâle and Petit-Bâle. The Festival play, which consisted of a series of picturesque scenes from Swiss history, is spoken of as a highly artistic production, both as regards the libretto and the music wedded thereto; the former being from the pen of Herr Wackernagel, and the latter by Herr Hans Huber, both natives of Switzerland.

The State-subventioned Musikschule of Munich has just been converted, by a decree of the Bavarian Prince Regent, into a Royal Academy of Music, with an elementary branch to be forthwith added thereto. Herr von Perfall continues to be the director of the Institution, with Professors Rheinberger and Abel as superintendents.

Herr Arrey von Dommer, the present learned librarian of the Municipal Library of Hamburg, author of a very meritorious "Handbuch der Musikgeschichte," and for many years the highly competent, albeit somewhat severe, musical critic of the Hamburger Correspondent, has had the degree of Doctor, honoris causâ, conferred upon him by the philosophical faculty of the University of Marburg.

The Bayreuth Festival performances commenced on the 21st ult. with a representation of "Parsifal." Every seat was occupied, all places having been disposed of for some time previously. After the final drop of the curtain, the cosmopolitan audience enthusiastically applauded the leading artists, the members of the orchestra, and the chorus.

An important collection of letters by the late Franz Liszt is shortly to be published by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, of Leipzig, edited by "La Mara," the well-known German musical authoress.

The seventeenth annual Choral Festival of Mecklenburg took place on the 9th and 10th ult., at Güstrow, under the direction of Herr Schondorf, musical director in that town.

Thirty-three choral societies took part in the performances, which, however, presented no feature of special interest.

At one of the summer Concerts, given last month at the Gürzenich Hall, in Cologne, a young violinist, Miss Ethel Spiller, lately a pupil of the Brussels Conservatoire, created quite a furore by her admirable performance on the instrument, which is described by German critics, judging from a high artistic standpoint, as altogether phenomenal.

A boy violinist, aged nine years, Bronislaw Hubermann, of Warsaw, has recently attracted the attention of Dr. Joachim, who speaks of him as presenting the most wonderful instance of early development of an undoubtedly great musical talent.

MM. Albert Soubies and Charles Malherbe's interesting articles anent the history of the Paris Opéra Comique, recently published in the columns of Le Ménestrel, have just been issued in book form under the title of "Histoire de l'Opéra Comique" (la seconde salle Favart), 1840-1860 (Paris: Librairie Flammarion).

M. Paladilhe, the composer of "La Patrie," has been elected to the chair vacated by the late Ernest Guiraud, at the French Académie des Beaux-Arts.

The second and third divisions of the much-coveted Grand Prix de Rome of the Académie just referred to, for the composition of a Cantata, have been awarded this year to MM. Büsser and Bloch, respectively, both of them pupils of the late Ernest Guiraud. None of the candidates obtained the first prize.

The gratuitous theatrical performances given in Paris, in connection with the national fêtes on the 14th ult., included Gounod's "Faust," at the Opéra, and Boieldieu's "La Dame blanche," at the Opéra Comique, concluding, as usual on these occasions, with the singing of the "Marseillaise."

Berlioz's twin music-drama "Les Troyens" is to be performed during the coming season both at the Berlin Opera and the Dresden Hof-Theater, the performance in each case to occupy two successive evenings. The work was first produced in its entirety some two years since at Carlsruhe, under Felix Mottl's direction, and just lately, in a curtailed form, for the first time in the composer's native country—viz., at the Paris Opéra Comique.

At the Paris Grand Opéra M. Camille Saint-Saëns's "Samson et Dalila" is in course of preparation, and will be produced in October next, with Madame Deschamps-Jehin and MM. Vergnet and Lassalle in the principal parts. A new work, "Stratonice," by M. Fournier, is also to be brought out here.

Amongst the leading novelties to be produced at the Paris Opéra Comique during the coming season are Léo Delibes's posthumous opera "Kassya," M. Massenet's "Werther," and a new opera by M. Salvayre, "Beaucoup de bruit pour rien," M. Louis Gallet, the librettist's, version of Shakespeare's comedy "Much Ado about Nothing."

At the Comedie Française it is proposed shortly to revive the "Antigone" of Sophocles, with the choruses written for the work by Mendelssohn, to be sung behind the scenes.

An unfinished opera, entitled "La Jacquerie," by the late Edouard Lalo, the libretto from the pen of M. E. Blanc, is just now being completed by a very able young French composer, M. Arthur Coquard. The score of the first act has been entirely completed by its composer, and is described by Le Ménestrel as of the highest artistic value. Another unfinished operatic work, "Brünnhilde," by the late Ernest Guiraud, is being completed by M. Camille Saint-Saëns. Both works are to be brought out at the Grand Opéra, under M. Bertrand's energetic management.

At an interesting and extensive sale of autographs recently held at the Hôtel Drouot, in Paris, the highest price in the musical section of the collection—viz., 57 francs, was paid for a letter written by Méhul to Rouget de Lisle, the author of the "Marseillaise." A letter by Grétry, also addressed to Rouget de Lisle, fetched 44 francs; while letters by Spontini, Richard Wagner, and Lesueur were knocked down at 33, 30, and 26 francs respectively.

Señor Sarasate has been decorated by President Carnot with the Cross of the Legion of Honour. Although a Spaniard by birth, the great violinist was educated at the Paris Conservatoire, where he studied under Alard.

The Cross of the Legion of Honour has also been conferred upon M. Eugène Bertrand, the present managing director of the Grand Opéra, and upon M. Widor, the well-known French composer and professor of organ playing at the Paris Conservatoire.

There is some probability of Mozart's opera "Die Entführung aus dem Serail," better known in this country as "Il Seraglio," being revived during the coming season at the Paris Opéra, with Madame Marcella Sembrich in the part of the heroine. This will be good news to French amateurs, as this charming work has not been heard in Paris for many years past, or indeed anywhere.

The Théâtre Lyrique is at length to be resuscitated in Paris, where the Renaissance Theatre is to be opened, under that historical denomination, on the first of January next, under the management of M. Léonce Detroyat.

The Commission recently appointed by Government for the purpose of revising the existing organisation of the Paris Conservatoire have recommended the following reforms to the authorities—viz., The opening of new classes for viola and saxophone, and of additional ones for counterpoint and for singing; an increase of the salary of professors, an increase of the stipend granted to students for their maintenance, and an addition to the Council of the Institution by the election of distinguished musicians and men of letters connected with the art.

A new three-act opera, entitled "Atenaïde," by Signor Adolfo Tirindelli, a noted violin virtuoso, is shortly to be brought out at the Rossini Theatre, in Venice, the première being looked forward to with much interest in Italian musical circles.

Festive proceedings in honour of Rossini, extending over the early part of the present month, are in progress just now at Pesaro, the composer's birthplace, in connection with the opening of the Musical College (Liceo) bearing his name, and of the Museum devoted to his memory, established in that town. Special operatic representations are taking place under direction of Signor Mascheroni, and concert performances conducted by Signor Pedrotti.

A new opera, "Maometto II.," by the Maëstro Lorenzo Fabbris, was brought out last month with much success at the Malibran Theatre, in Venice, the composer conducting his own work. It will be remembered that a "Maometto II." also figures amongst the operatic works of Rossini, although we are not aware whether the same libretto has been made use of in the present instance.

Verdi's new comic opera "Falstaff," with A. Boïto's libretto, is positively to be produced during next year's Carnival season at the La Scala, of Milan.

The first prize for the composition of a Columbus hymn offered by the Genovese Gymnastic Society has been unanimously awarded by the jury to Signor Giuseppe Rota, of Trieste, out of some thirty competitors.

The Italo-American Exhibition, organised by the City of Genoa in celebration of the fourth century of the discovery of America by Columbus, was opened, on the 10th ult., in the presence of the Duke and Duchess of Genoa, the Ministers of Agriculture and Marine, and other dignitaries, besides an immense crowd of the general public. In the evening the new opera by the Baron Franchetti, entitled "Cristoforo Colombo," was produced, for the first time, at the Carlo Fenice Theatre, amidst great enthusiasm. A series of brilliant festivities, musical and otherwise, have been arranged in connection with the Exhibition.

The Royal Academy of Music at Florence, having opened a competition some time since for the musical setting of Metastasio's drama "La Morte di Abele," the first prize has now been awarded by that Institution to Signor Giuseppe Sestini, of Piacenza, honourable mention being conferred upon SS. Guglielmo Zuelli, of Reggio, and Terenziano Marusi, of Parma.

The municipal authorities of Cremona have decided to erect a monument on the Corso Vittorio of that town to Almicare Ponchielli, the composer of "Gioconda." Ponchielli was born in 1834, at Paderno, near Cremona.

At the Avenida Theatre, of Lisbon, a fairy opera, entitled "As Maravilhas do cavalleiro da Rocha Vermelha," the music by Senhor Dias da Costa, was brought out last month with great success.

Signor Pietro Mascagni, in a letter published by the Fanfulla, of Rome, announces that he has completely finished the score of his new opera "I Rantzau," and that the work will be brought out on November 10 next, at the Pergola Theatre, in Florence.

A new journal devoted to music and the drama, and entitled Avvisatore Artistico, has just issued its first numbers at Milan.

A Stradivarius violin, in excellent preservation, was sold recently at Stuttgart, at the fancy price of 41,000 marks (£2,050).

An exceedingly fine specimen of a minstrel's harp, inlaid with ivory, exquisitely carved, has just been presented to the Museum of the Louvre, Paris, by Madame la Marquise Arconato Visconti. This interesting instrument had formed part of Sir Richard Wallace's collection and had been acquired for the absurdly low sum of 600 francs by M. Stein, a well-known Paris dealer in antiquities, who, in his turn, sold it to the lady in question for 15,000 francs; not an exorbitant price under the circumstances.

We have received the most recent numbers of Cäcilia, an interesting and exceedingly well conducted monthly journal, devoted to Catholic Church music, published, in German, at St. Francis (Wisconsin), the organ of the American Cæcilia-Verein.

CORRESPONDENCE.

M. MAUREL'S LECTURE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Following the example of the British press which, with almost one consent, postpones a discussion of M. Victor Maurel's views on the training of the voice until after the publication of his larger work now said to be almost ready for publication, I do not wish to enter into any criticism upon his last Lyceum Lecture.

But I desire, with your permission, to protest against his claim of originality for his objection to the prevailing defective system of practising vocal exercises on one vowel. He tells us that "the student becomes accustomed to combine that particular timbre, and that only, with different degrees of pitch and power; and when he (the pupil) is called upon in the exercise of his profession before the public to employ other combinations he is at fault."—(Vide Saturday Review, 16th ult.)

This is perfectly true, but not by any means new, as may be seen by reference to "Voice, Song, and Speech" (now in the 13th edition), by Mr. Lennox Browne and myself; and to "Voice Training Exercises" (now in the 58th edition), by Mr. Charles W. Pearce, Mus. Doc., and myself, from which it will be seen that I use my Vocal Exercises on all vowels with a view of enabling my pupils to sing with equal facility on every vowel at every pitch. I have only to add that we on our part do not lay claim to any originality for this teaching which is based, to mention only two names, on the discoveries and labours of Helmholtz and Alexander Ellis.—I am, Sir, yours most obediently,

Emil Behnke.

18, Earl's Court Square, July 19, 1892.

[Mr. Behnke (guided possibly by the Saturday Review) has mistaken the main point of Mr. Maurel's remark. It is not so much the use of different vowels that he advocates, but that of different nuances of the "same" vowel. He even discards the use of the word "vowel," substituting for it "nuance," and calls the smaller differences "sub-nuances."—Ed. M. T.]

SCHUBERT'S VARIATIONS IN B MINOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In the notice of M. Siloti's Pianoforte Recital in the July issue of The Musical Times occurs the following sentence: "A set of Variations in B minor, said to be from the pen of Schubert, needs identification." Will you allow me space to say that these variations, written by the composer for four hands, were arranged for pianoforte solo by Tausig? The German title is "Andantino mit Variationen von Schubert, zum Concertvortrag arrangirt von Carl Tausig." They are mentioned in Grove's Dictionary under "Tausig," in the list of his arrangements, but so far as I can at present ascertain are omitted from the list of Schubert's works in the same book, and they are not to be found in Breitkopf und Härtel's catalogue of Schubert's works in the 1885 edition of their "Vollständiges Verzeichniss des Musikalien-Verlages."—Yours faithfully,

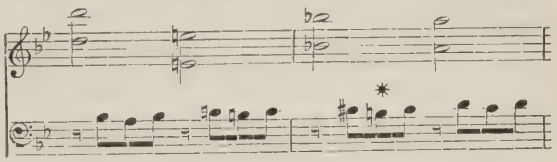
Robin H. Legge.

33, Oakley Street, Chelsea, July 9, 1892.

MISPRINT (?) IN MOZART'S SONATA IN B FLAT (No. 13).

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—May I point out an apparent slip of the pen in Mozart's Sonata in B flat (No. 13 in Zimmermann's edition)? It occurs in the following passage (first movement, bars 44 and 45):—



As it stands thus in all editions that I have seen (including the Breitkopf and Cotta editions), doubtless it is so in the MS. too. But should not the B natural in the second bar (*) be B sharp? B natural is certainly contrary to the accepted laws as to passing-notes, and (what is worse) it offends the ear. The same apparent error exists in the recurrence of the same passage in the Recapitulation, where, I suppose, the E natural should be E sharp.—Yours truly,

George Langley.

Eastbourne, July 21, 1892.

EDVARD GRIEG'S SILVER WEDDING.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Edvard Grieg celebrated his silver wedding on June 11, not on June 12. The grand pianoforte, made by Steinway, was given to him by musical friends in Bergen, not by the maker.—Yours faithfully, Hildegard Werner.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, July 5.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

E. C. L., Molly Bawn, and others.—Get Randegger's "Singing" Primer, or Sabilla Novello's "Voice and Vocal Art," both published by Novello; but we do not believe it possible to learn singing without a teacher.

Paganini.—There are fifteen Rhapsodies Hongroises for pianoforte by Liszt, but they are published only in separate form.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Bangor.—Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan, the new Organist of the Cathedral, has been busy giving Organ Recitals of late. Amongst the more important ones given during the past month, mention may be made of those at Blaengarw, Pentre, Merthyr Tydfil, Aberdare, Tredegar, and The Priory Church, Brecon.

Beckenham.—On Sunday, June 26, the Dedication Festival was observed at Holy Trinity Church. Stainer's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat and Mendelssohn's 13th Psalm were admirably sung by the choir, which had been slightly augmented for the occasion. An orchestra of stringed instruments, under the leadership of Mr. Henry Haarneck, in addition to the organ, was employed. Master Grigg, one of the choristers, gave a good rendering of the solos, and Mr. Charles S. Knight, Organist of the Church, conducted.

Brockley.—At a Dedication Festival Service, held at St. Peter's Church on the evening of St. Peter's Day, June 29, Sir Julius Benedict's Oratorio St. Peter was sung by an augmented choir of about 100 voices, whose rendering of the choral numbers of the work deserves all praise. The principal parts were sung by Miss Crowden, Miss Maud Pawle, Miss Spon, Mr. E. N. Davis, and Mr. Onyon. Mr. J. Curran accompanied and Dr. C. J. Frost conducted.

Cheltenham.—The annual solo and choral Competitions of the Festival Society were recently held in Handel Hall, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Matthews, the Conductor. Mr. E. Brind, Organist of the Abbey Church, Cirencester, was the adjudicator. The following is the list of successes:—Medalists: Mr. E. Attree (tenor) and Mrs. Leatham (contralto). Prizes: Misses F. Jamieson, V. Perry, R. Crickett, H. Wheeler, and Mrs. McFee; Messrs. H. G. Workman, A. W. Bryant, H. W. Thomas, and Col. Kettlewell. Prizes for quartet singing to Miss M. A. Tarrant, Mrs. Leatham, Mr. A. W. Bryant, and Mr. G. J. Matthews (set 4). Set 2 was highly commended (Miss V. Perry, Mrs. McFee, Mr. Thomas, and Mr. F. Willett). The solos and quartet were selected from The Redemption, The Messiah, and Red Cross Knight. At the close of the competition, Mr. E. Brind was heartily thanked for his services, and in acknowledging the vote congratulated Mr. Matthews and the competitors upon the excellent work done, and the Festival Society on advancing high class music in such a manner as shown upon the occasion.

Coventry.—An Organ Recital was given at St. Michael's Church, by Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, on the 21st ult., which included selections from Spohr, Wesley, Handel, Widor, Lemmens, Bennett, and Wagner.

Grahamstown, Cape of Good Hope.—A most successful Concert was given in the Town Hall, on June 13, by the pupils of the Grahamstown College of Music, the principal of which is Mr. Alfred H. Day, Organist of the Cathedral. The programme—a very long one—included songs and choruses, solos for violin, pianoforte, and organ, and a few duets and trios, the performance of which gave evidence of careful training and, in many cases, of prominent talent.

Guernsey.—On the 14th ult. Miss Isemonger, assisted by some of her pupils and several talented amateurs, gave a grand evening Concert in aid of the Rev. L. N. Seichan's Mauritius Fund. His Excellency Sir E. G. Bulwer, K.C.B., Lieutenant-Governor, accorded his patronage and was present with a distinguished party. Sir Edgar McCulloch and Julius A. Carey, Esq., Her Majesty's Receiver-General, were also patrons of the Concert. The whole of the music, both instrumental and vocal, was of high class, and its performance left nothing to desire. Miss Isemonger played two pieces by Thomé (a native of Mauritius) and a Prelude and Gavotte by Grieg with her usual skill and taste. Violin solos were contributed by Miss Standen, and songs by Miss Stuart Smith, Miss Corbin, Miss Carey, Miss Kilgour, Mr. Bushnell, and Mr. Newnham.

Lowestoft.—On the 14th ult., on the Pier, the Balfe Quartet, consisting of Miss K. Fusselle, Miss S. Fenn, Mr. Sinclair Dunn, and Mr. F. Swinford gave a costume Recital of Balfe's Sleeping Queen. The performance was a great success. Dr. Bunnett conducted.

Maidstone.—On Sunday, the 24th ult., the choir of St. Faith's Church (augmented to sixty voices) gave a splendid rendering of Sir A. Sullivan's Oratorio The Prodigal Son. The solos were well sung by Miss Kate Trendall, Miss Teale, Miss Nye; Messrs. Saunders, Wind, M. Crowe, and Lamb. Mr. F. W. Dutnall presided at the organ with his usual ability.

Malvern.—On the 9th ult. Dr. Swinnerton Heap gave a Recital, the large hall being well filled. The programme opened with the famous "Kreutzer" Sonata, Dr. Heap (pianoforte) and Mr. Willy Hess (violin). The piece was splendidly performed, and the playing much applauded. The programme included two solos from Mr. Willy Hess, two from Dr. Heap, and two instrumental duets. The heartiest applause rewarded the efforts of both artists. The vocalist was Madame Berry, whose artistic singing also met with warm appreciation. Mr. W. J. L. Higley very ably discharged the duties of accompanist.

New York City.—At Calvary Church, on the 1st ult., Mr. Clement R. Gale, the Organist and Choirmaster, was presented with a beautiful timepiece and ornaments, by the members of the church choir, to commemorate the event of his marriage with Miss Blanche Kunz, which took place in St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, on the 28th ult. Mr. Gale has secured the services of Mr. H. Stringer as Choirmaster during his absence.

Rhyl.—The Pavilion Concerts continue to be well patronised. On the 16th ult., however, there was a very large attendance and an excellent programme. Mr. de Jong's flute solo, which is the feature of the evening in the Saturday Concerts, was given with masterly skill, and a vociferous encore was the result. Miss Fanny Sellers has delighted her audiences daily with her exquisite and tasteful renderings of her various songs. The other vocalist is Mr. G. Green, a tenor, whose engagement has proved deservedly acceptable and popular. The band is improving daily under Mr. de Jong's capable conductorship, its renderings of compositions by the great masters being highly satisfactory and artistic.

Sherborne.—A Diocesan Festival of Parish Choirs was held on the 20th ult., at Bradford Abbas, near Sherborne. One hundred and twenty singers took part in the Service, which included Dr. Bridge's Evening Service in C and Dr. Stainer's Anthem "O clap your hands," and was accompanied by a small but efficient orchestra, in addition to the organ. The latter was efficiently played by Mr. R. Hillyar and Mr. J. Burt, pupils of the Conductor, Mr. G. E. Lyle, Organist of Sherborne Abbey. After the Recessional Hymn, the Conductor's "Marche Imperioso" was played as the Postlude by the band and organ.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. Thomas Crickmay, to the Mission Church, Nunhead.—Mr. James H. Ledger, Organist and Choirmaster to Kelvinside Church, Glasgow.—Mr. J. Sterndale Grundy, Assistant Organist to Canterbury Cathedral.—Mr. C. J. May, to Bermondsey Parish Church.—Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, Organist, Choirmaster, and Music Master to Tonbridge School.

Choir Appointment.—Mr. C. H. Barber (Tenor), to St. James's Church, Westmoreland Street.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The German Opera Season	457
From my Study	457
Beethoven's Sketch Books	461
Mendelssohn Reminiscences	465
Occasional Notes	467
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	470
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	473
German Opera	474
Richter Concerts	476
Sir Augustus Harris's Opera Concerts	476
The Arthur Goring Thomas Memorial	476
Mr. Sauret's Concert	476
Pianoforte Recitals	485
M. Maurel on Singing	485
Royal College of Music	485
Royal Academy of Music	486
The "Associated Board"	486
Trinity College	487
Madame Constance Howard's Lecture-Concerts	487
Tonic Sol-faists at the Crystal Palace	487
Church Sunday-School Choir	488
London Sunday-School Choir	488
Royal Society of Musicians	488
Music in Schools	489
Obituary	489
Music in Birmingham	489
„ Bristol	489
„ Dublin	490
„ Liverpool	490
Anthem for Harvest.—"I will feed My flock." J. Frederick Bridge	477
General News (London)	491
Reviews	493
Foreign Notes	494
Correspondence	497
Answers to Correspondents	497
General News (Country)	497
List of Music published during the last Month	499

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To insure insertion, Advertisements should reach the Office NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTY-THIRD OF EACH MONTH.

Will be Published August 20.

THE

ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir John Stainer.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys will also be published separately.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Suite from the Music to Shakespeare's "Henry VIII." Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892. The Pianoforte arrangement, for four hands, by the Composer. 5s.

VINCENT, CHARLES.—"A Night in Fairyland." Cantata for Treble Voices. String Parts, 6s.; Triangle, 1s.

GOUNOD, CHARLES.—"The Redemption." Book of Words. Parts I., II., and III. 3d. each.

—— "Mors et Vita." Book of Words. Part I., 3d.; Parts II. and III., 3d.

GAUL, ALFRED R.—"A Song of Life." Book of Words. 5s. per hundred.

PARRY, C. H. H.—"De Profundis" (Psalm cxxx.). Vocal Parts. 4s.

MASSER, J. T.—A Supplemental Tune Book. Comprising a selection of Hymn-Tunes and Chants, compiled, arranged and partly composed. 2s.

NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR BOOK:—

No. 104. Te Deum laudamus in F (Chant Form) J. Varley Roberts 1½d.
" 105. " " D (Chant Form) " 1½d.
" 106. " " C " " 1½d.
" 107. " " G " " 1½d.
" 112. Benedictus qui Venit and Agnus Dei, from Service in C .. .. G. C. Martin 3d.
" 114. Benedictus qui Venit and Agnus Dei in C J. B. Calkin 3d.
" 116. Benedictus qui Venit and Agnus Dei in F John Stainer 3d.
" 117. Benedictus qui Venit and Agnus Dei in E George Elvey 3d.
" 119. Te Deum laudamus in D (Chant Form) F. Ouseley 3d.

GREENISH, ARTHUR J.—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. Chiefly Unison. 3d.

RIDSDALE, C. T.—"Cantio Dominica." Communion Service (No. 1, in Four parts), Kyrie (two short and a final developed Movement), Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei, and Gloria. Composed for Chorus and Soli, with an Organ Accompaniment and Orchestral Parts ad lib. 1s.

WELCH, H. T.—The Preces and Responses, with Litany. Paper cover, 4d.

LISSANT, G. B.—Hymn to be used at the Dedication of a Stained Glass Window. Written by J. Bownes, M.A. 1½d.; or, 9d. per dozen. Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

METCALFE, JOHN A.—"O God, Thy wondrous bounty." Harvest Hymn. Written by Andrew P. Mitchell. 1d.

CLARE, EDWYN A.—"Thou crownest the year." An easy, melodious, and effective Harvest Anthem, 3d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

KING, OLIVER.—"I will magnify Thee." Anthem for Harvest Festival or General Thanksgiving. (No. 405. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

SMITH, THOMAS.—"Put ye in the sickle." Full Anthem, for Four Voices. 3d.

TOZER, FERRIS.—Harvest Hymn. Words written by Henry Knight. (No. 404. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"My mouth shall speak the praise." Harvest Anthem. (No. 406. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

BANKS, COLLINGWOOD. — "Carmina." Written expressly for use as School Songs, at Christ's Hospital, by W. Craig-Brown. 6d.

WURM, MARIE J. A.—"Some strain that once thou heardest" ("Einst thät ein Lied erklingen"). Four-part Song (s.s.a.a.). (No. 265. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

—— "About the sweet bag of a bee." Four-part Song (s.s a.a.). (No. 266. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

HOLLINS, DOROTHEA.—Four Songs. 2s.:—

No. 1. If I were loved by thee. Words by Alfred, Lord Tennyson.
2. Lead, kindly Light. Words by Cardinal Newman.
3. Ballata. Words by Dante G. Rosetti.
4. Boot and Saddle. Words by Robert Browning.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Edited by W. G. McNaught:—

Book 9. Six Two-part Songs .. By various Composers 9d.
" 10. Five " " .. " " 9d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Separate numbers:—

No. 13. The Wasp and the Bee (Duet) .. Alfred Moffatt 1½d.
" 14. Who am I that shines " .. " 1½d.
" 15. The selfish little Snails " .. " 1½d.
" 16. Come and play .. " .. " 1½d.
" 17. Autumn Flowers .. " .. " 1½d.
" 18. Pretty Flower, tell us why " .. " 1½d.
" 19. Spring Song .. " .. " 1½d.
" 20. Winter Flowers .. " .. " 1½d.
" 21. The Sparrows .. " .. " 1½d.
" 22. Time to rise.. .. " .. " 1½d.
" 23. Breakfast and Puss " .. " 1½d.
" 24. Going to Bed .. " .. " 1½d.
" 25. Under the Greenwood Tree (Two-part) C. Wood 2d.
" 26. The Swallow's Flight .. " B. Haynes 2d.
" 27. Merry Songster .. .. " J. Kinross 2d.
" 28. Waken not the Sleeper .. " C. Reinecke 1½d.
" 29. Evening Song .. .. " Mendelssohn 1½d.
" 30. Whither? .. .. .. " .. Abt 2d.
" 31. The Violet's Plea .. .. " .. " 1½d.
" 32. Evening .. .. .. " H. Smart 1½d.
" 33. After the Rain .. .. " Pinsuti 2d.
" 34. The Merry Maidens .. " Rubinstein 1½d.
" 35. Spring Song .. .. " Schumann 1½d.
" 36. Sweet Bells of Eve .. " B. Haynes 2d.
" 37. All seek for rest .. .. " .. Abt 1½d.
" 38. May Song .. .. .. " Schumann 1½d.
" 39. Song from "Ruy Blas" .. " Mendelssohn 2d.
" 40. Good night .. .. .. " C. Reinecke 1½d.
" 41. I sing because I love to sing " Pinsuti 2d.
" 42. Violets .. .. .. " F. H. Cowen 2d.
" 43. O come, ye Flow'rets .. " .. Abt 1½d.
" 44. The Hunter's Song .. " J. Kinross 2d.
" 45. Cleansing Fires .. .. " F. H. Cowen 2d.
" 46. O Beautiful Violet.. .. " C. Reinecke 2d.
" 47. The Sabbath Bell .. .. " H. Smart 2d.
" 65. Butterfly Wings (Action Song) " Alfred Moffat 3d.
" 66. Fairy Circles " " 3d.

CLARKE, REGINALD B.—"A Lament." Song. The words written by Wordsworth. 1s. 6d.

SELBY, B. LUARD.—Six Love Songs. Words by John Todhunter. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

No. 1. Homeward. | No. 4. Absence.
" 2. Longing. | " 5. Nocturne.
" 3. Parting. | " 6. Song.

TAYLOR, SEDLEY.—"The Cradle Song of the Poor." Song. For Soprano or Contralto Voice. The words written by Adelaide Anne Proctor. 2s.

CALTHORPE, L. EVELYN G.—Impromptu. For the Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

CARNELL, FRANCIS DRAKE.—"Idyll." Sketch. For the Pianoforte. 1s. 6d.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

		s.	d.
No. 153.	Meditation .. .. E. Townshend Driffield	1	0
" 154.	Pastorale .. .. " "	1	0
" 155.	Offertoire .. .. " "	1	6
" 156.	March (for a Church Festival) " "	1	0
" 157.	Tempo di Minuetto .. " "	1	0
" 158.	{Andante / Fugue} "Ave Maria" " "	1	6

FAULKES, WILLIAM.—Wedding March. For the Organ. 1s. 6d.

MISS TERESA HAYNES (Soprano)
Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c.
90, Bury New Road, Higher Broughton, Manchester.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

MR. JOHN BARTLETT
(TENOR)
(PRINCIPAL, PRO-CATHEDRAL, KENSINGTON)
AND OF
CRYSTAL PALACE ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS,
COVENT GARDEN PROMENADE CONCERTS,

Is now Booking Engagements for next Season for Oratorio Concerts, &c., and will be pleased to make special arrangements as to terms for first appearances for Choral Societies or Concert-givers.

Mr. Bartlett sang last season for most public societies in London, including, besides above, People's Palace, Royal Victoria Hall, Bow and Bromley Institute, National Sunday League, &c., and in Provinces at Newcastle, Rugby, Portsmouth, Bournemouth, Llanelly, Southsea, Hastings, Truro, Falmouth, &c., &c., &c.

References to Conductors of many Choral Societies.

For press notices and terms, address, Mr. John Bartlett, Balmuir, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, S.W. Or Agents.

MR. RIDSDALE BOWLEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 11, School Street, Eccles New Road, Salford; or, Forsyth Bros., Manchester.

"Mr. Ridsdale Bowley has an excellent tenor voice and knows how to use it; in the songs allotted to him he has given the utmost satisfaction."—Manx Sun, June 11, 1892.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. A comprehensive and absolutely progressive school, with numerous Diagrams and Illustrations, reproduced from photographs specially taken for this work. Folio size, 75 pp., paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

A hearty welcome will be accorded to Walter Macfarren's Pianoforte Method, a concise and well worked-out guide."—Daily News.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. A complete Course—concise, lucid, and gradual, with Pianoforte accompaniment to all the original and selected pieces. All the positions fully illustrated from photographs expressly taken for this work. Large quarto size, 147 pp., with separate violin part, 30 pp. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

"Mr. Peiniger deserves the highest praise. His Violin Method is exceptionally thorough in every respect."—Saturday Review.

In the Press.

DR. E. H. TURPIN'S METHOD FOR THE ORGAN.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS.

SIXTY-SEVEN NUMBERS, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, including the celebrated Glees "The Village Chorister," "God bless the Prince of Wales," Benedict's "Hunting Song," Kücken's "Blanche," &c.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS

FOR LADIES' VOICES.

Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S

NEW EDITION OF

STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES,

Thoroughly Revised, Re-fingered, and Newly Engraved, specially for the Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations.

"This series is one of the best musical publications of the day, highly to be recommended to Professors and Teachers."—The Graphic.

151 Numbers ready. List on application.

CLASSICAL MUSIC

SELECTED, FINGERED, AND EDITED BY

ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER,

Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.

New Series, 72 Numbers ready. List on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.

BEST'S COLLECTION of ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

New Editions at reduced prices.

Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORGAN

By DR. E. J. HOPKINS and DR. E. F. RIMBAULT.

This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.

Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.

Translated by John Bishop. The only version approved by Spohr. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.

Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

FRANCES ALLITSEN'S NEW SONGS.

EIGHT SETTINGS OF POEMS BY HEINE.

In Four Parts, 4s. each.

Ready shortly. Each Song in two keys.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

MR. HARRISON BROCKBANK (Baritone)
Concerts, Opera Recitals, Festivals. Address, Farley Sinkins, 24, Brook Street, W.

MR. JOHN COATES (Baritone)
Frizinghall,
Bradford.

MR. HENRY POPE (Bass)
(Royal Choral Society Concerts, Carl Rosa Opera, &c.).
Address, 19, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

THE ORPHEUS (Male Voice Quartet)
(Gentlemen of St. George's Chapel and of Her Majesty's Private Chapel, Windsor Castle).
For Concerts, Banquets, Garden Parties, At Homes, &c. For terms, address, Marsham Cockaday, St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle.
N.B.—Special terms for Charities.

MISS M. LISTER-NEWMAN (Soprano), Bronze and Silver Medalist, Certificate of Merit, Royal Academy of Music, accepts Engagements for Concerts. Address, Hollow Gates, Barnsley, Yorkshire.

MR. GEORGE PEARCE (Principal Alto, St. Peter's, Eaton Square). Compass, two octaves, G to G. May be engaged for At Homes, Concerts, Banquets, and Musical Services. Terms, 13, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W. "This gentleman has one of the finest alto voices that I have ever heard."—St. James's Gazette.

FULHAM PARISH CHURCH.—There are VACANCIES in the Choir of this Church for TREBLE, TENOR, and BASS (not Baritone). Stipend, £10. Apply, by letter, to Mr. F. C. Grizelle, 4, Fulham Park Gardens, S.W.

MALE VOICE QUARTET.—ALTO and BARITONE WANTED, to complete party, on mutual terms. Gentlemen with good trained voices will kindly write, stating experience and compass, to L. K., care of Messrs. Street Brothers, 5, Serle Street, Lincoln's Inn.

MEN'S VOICES WANTED, for City Church. Small Salary. Apply, by letter, to Organist, 16, Storks Road, Bermondsey, S.E.

MR. LORAINE HOLLOWAY, F.C.O., has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL (Resident). Three-manual organ (43 stops), pedal piano, &c. Moderate terms. Address, Fakenham, Norfolk.

ORGANIST.—NICE.—A Gentleman of experience in Church Music and Choir Training WANTED, from October 1 till June 1 next, for the American Church. Application at once to Mr. Stedman, Musical Agency, 12, Berners Street, W.

A GENTLEMAN, who has a large experience in the Pianoforte and Music Trade, is now on a professional visit to all the large centres. Having much leisure, he is desirous of REPRESENTING an established PIANOFORTE or MUSIC FIRM on commission. Apply, Intermezzo, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

AS MANAGER or otherwise.—Situation desired, by a first-class Tuner possessing good business capabilities and thorough knowledge of the Trade. Highest references. Rex, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, position as ASSISTANT PIANO SALESMAN or BOOKKEEPER, by Young Man (26). Five years' experience. Good references. B. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNING WANTED, in or near London, by First-class TUNER. Exceptional references. Octavio, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE FINISHER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER requires permanent Situation. Able to tune. A. T., 40, York Street, Westminster, S.W.

ASSISTANT REPAIRER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Pianos, Harmoniums, and Organs. Address, E. B., Collingwood, Trowbridge, Wilts.

ORGAN.—Two manuals, 20 stops, all in good condition; hydraulic engine and pump; beautifully carved case. The Vicar of Meanwood Church is prepared to receive offers for the above. To view, apply, Rev. Annesley Powys, The Vicarage, Meanwood, near Leeds.

GOTHIC HARP, by Erard, for SALE. A superior Instrument, in perfect order. Inspection and trial invited. 1, Devonshire Villas, High Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

FINE old VIOLAS, by Morechi and B. Banks; also Four-string Double Bass, in case; splendid tone. Beta, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

Octavo, 3d.

THE HARVEST TRULY IS GREAT

SHORT, FULL ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.

EDITED BY W. G. McNAUGHT.

A COLLECTION OF ACTION SONGS, UNISON SONGS, DUETS, TRIOS, &c., FOR TREBLE VOICES.

Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notation, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Where no prices are given, the A Edition only is published:—

BOOK I.

		A d.	B d.
SIX EASY SONGS		6
1. Getting up	A. Moffat
2. The Lark	,,
3. Lazy Sheep	,,
4. The Snowdrop	,,
5. The Autumn Daisy	,,
6. A Riddle	,,

BOOK II.

SIX EASY SONGS		6
7. The Little Fish	A. Moffat
8. The Spring Nosegay	,,
9. The Old Beggar Man	,,
10. The Three Little Ants	,,
11. The Child's Evening Prayer	,,
12. The Meadow	,,

BOOK III.

SIX EASY DUETS		9	4
13. The Wasp and the Bee	A. Moffat	1½
14. Who am I that shines so bright	,,	1½
15. The Selfish Little Snails	,,	1½
16. Come, and Play in the Garden	,,	1½
17. Autumn Flowers	,,	1½
18. Pretty Flower, tell us why	,,	1½

BOOK IV.

SIX EASY DUETS		9	4
19. Spring Song	A. Moffat	1½
20. Winter Flowers	,,	1½
21. The Sparrows	,,	1½
22. Time to Rise	,,	1½
23. Breakfast and Puss	,,	1½
24. Going to Bed	,,	1½

BOOK V.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
25. Under the Greenwood Tree	C. Wood	2	1
26. The Swallow's Flight	B. Haynes	2	1
27. Merry Songsters	J. Kinross	2	1
28. Waken not the Sleeper	C. Reinecke	1½	1½
29. Evening Song	Mendelssohn	1½
30. Whither?	Abt	2	1

BOOK VI.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
31. The Violet's Plea	Abt	1½	1½
32. Evening	H. Smart	1½
33. After the Rain	Pinsuti	2	1
34. The Merry Maidens	Rubinstein	1½	1½
35. Spring Song	Schumann	1½
36. Sweet Bells of Eve	B. Haynes	2	1

BOOK VII.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
37. All seek for rest	Abt	1½	1½
38. May Song	Schumann	1½
39. Song from "Ruy Blas"	Mendelssohn	2	1½
40. Good-night	C. Reinecke	1½
41. I sing because I love to sing	Pinsuti	2	1
42. Violets	Cowen	2	1

BOOK VIII.

FIVE TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
43. O come, ye Flow'rets	Abt	1½	1½
44. The Hunter's Song	J. Kinross	2
45. Cleansing Fires	Cowen	2	1
46. O Beautiful Violet	C. Reinecke	2	1
47. The Sabbath Bell	H. Smart	2	1½

BOOK IX.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
48. In the Distance	Abt	1½	1½
49. The Sabbath Morn	Mendelssohn	1½
50. Out in the Sunshine	Pinsuti	2	1
51. The Angel	Rubinstein	2	1
52. To the Nightingale	Schumann	1½	1½
53. Now the Bright Morning Star	C. Wood	1½

BOOK X.

FIVE TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
54. Winds are blowing	B. Haynes	2	1
55. In a Gondola	Abt	2	1
56. If Hope were but a Fairy	Myles Foster	1½	1
57. O Summer Morning	Macfarren	2	1
58. In April	Hatton	2	1

BOOK XI.

SIX KINDERGARTEN SONGS		6
59. Rowing	A. Moffat	1
60. The Old Clock	,,	1
61. Churning	,,	1
62. Feeding Hens and Chickens	,,	1
63. The Merry Harvesters	,,	1
64. Little Soldiers	,,	1

BOOK XII.

ACTION SONGS		9
65. Butterfly Wings	A. Moffat	3
66. Fairy Circles	,,	3
67. Sing a Song of Sixpence	S. Hardcastle	6

To be Continued.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WINKELMANN PIANOFORTES.

"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.

OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS

FROM 65 GUINEAS.

OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS

FROM 110 GUINEAS.

Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.

SOLE IMPORTERS: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,

6, NEW BURLINGTON STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.

And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

3rd Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition. Price Sixpence.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in A. By I. H. STAMMERS. A second Setting in E flat, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6

ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)..	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE-BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.
EASTER.—"If we believe."	Octavo. Four voices	4d.
„ „ „	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
„ "I will magnify Thee."	Octavo. Four voices ..	3d.
„ „	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
WHITSUNDAY.—"If ye love Me."	Octavo. Four voices ..	3d.
„ "I was glad"	„ „	3d.
„ „	Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

SERVICES.
Te Deum laudamus in E. Octavo	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E „	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E	3d.
„ „ Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
Cantate Domine and Deus Misereatur in E..	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. Octavo	3d.
„ „ with Welsh words	3d.
„ „ in Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
„ „ in A. Octavo	3d.
„ „ in Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
The Preces and Responses, with Litany, set in simple form for Four Voices	4d.
Twelve Original Tunes, set to favourite Hymns	3d.
Amen (on Card)	1d.

SECULAR.
Song, "By the wayside."	Soprano .. .. .. net	1s. 6d.
„ "The Last Prayer."	Contralto .. .. .. „	1s. 6d.
Part-Song, "Over hill, over dale."	Four Voices	3d.
„ "The Rhine Maiden."	„	3d.
„ "Beware"	.. ..	1d.

List of all compositions by the same Composer to be had of the Publishers, NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO "HENRY VIII."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

CONTENTS.

Morris Dance. | Shepherds' Dance. | Torch Dance.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BAYREUTH FESTIVAL PERFORMANCES.

Now Ready.

THE MASTER-SINGERS OF NUREMBERG

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

A Musical Explanation with Eighty-four Musical Examples by ALBERT HEINTZ

Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready]

TRISTAN UND ISOLDE

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

Explained according to the Musical Development of its Motives by ALBERT HEINTZ

With Sixty-six Musical Examples.

Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Will be Ready Shortly.

PARSIFAL

A FESTIVAL DRAMA

BY

RICHARD WAGNER

Its Origin in the old Legends, and its Musical Motives explained in the order of their Development, by ALBERT HEINTZ

With Sixty-seven copious Musical Examples.

Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—
   I. Morris Dance.
   II. Shepherds' Dance.
   III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

VERSES BY

JETTY VOGEL

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

(OP. 43.)

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"The chief point of interest was the production of Mr. A. R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness.' . . . The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. . . . The various solo and choral movements display Mr. Gaul's facility for the composition of genuine, effective music; clear in purpose, melodious, vigorous, and expressive by turns, and constructed by an experienced thinker and worker. Such music will indeed ever be welcome, and Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.' The performance was excellent, and the composer, who conducted, had ample reason to feel satisfied with the reception of his latest effort."—The Referee.

"Within the means of ordinarily efficient choirs. . . . The work bears throughout traces of a musicianly hand, and is full of agreeable melody. The best portion is a number entitled 'The Plagues of Egypt,' written in a sort of free chant form, in which Mr. Gaul has introduced some very clever orchestral effects. The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"Mr. Gaul's music is exactly what is required for large choral gatherings, for it is effective without presenting any overwhelming difficulties. The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"The music is of that pleasant character which all Mr. Gaul's works possess."—The Christian World.

"The afternoon was particularly interesting owing to the first performance of Mr. Alfred R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness,' which had been composed expressly for the event. . . . Like the majority of Mr. Gaul's productions, it is bright and engaging. . . . The most pleasing of the twenty-three numbers are No. 3, 'So He brought forth His people with joy,' a telling chorus; No. 9, the chorus, 'Declare His honour unto the heathen'; No. 15, the pretty duet between the soprano and tenor voices, 'As the manna falling from the morning skies' (encored on Saturday); and the concluding march, 'Onward moves the guiding pillar,' a chorus full of spirit. Mr. Gaul has in the section devoted to the Plagues contrived to instrumentally illustrate the jumping of the frogs, the buzzing of the flies, the falling hailstones, the fire mingled with the hail, the gusty east wind, and the feeling of darkness. Several of these are clever examples of the imitative in orchestration. At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, though only the above-mentioned encore was permitted Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with chora societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS

READY AUGUST 2.

LORD OF THE HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price Fourpence.

NOW READY.

I WILL FEED MY FLOCK

COMPOSED BY

J. F. BRIDGE.

Price Three-halfpence.

READY AUGUST 2.

SING WE MERRILY

COMPOSED BY

E. V. HALL.

Price Fourpence.

NOW READY.

I WILL MAGNIFY THEE

COMPOSED BY

OLIVER KING.

Price Fourpence.

NOW READY.

HARVEST HYMN

COMPOSED BY

FERRIS TOZER.

Price Twopence

NOW READY.

MY MOUTH SHALL SPEAK THE PRAISE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Fourpence.

READY AUGUST 10.

HONOUR THE LORD WITH THY SUBSTANCE

(WORDS FROM THE AMERICAN LITURGY)

COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

Price Fourpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.
Bless thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.
*Blessed be the Name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Blessed be Thou	E. Bunnett	3d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	1½d.
Bring unto the Lord, O ye mighty	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
*Fear not, O land	C. W. Jordan	6d.
Give unto the Lord the glory	J. F. Bridge	4d.
*God said, Behold, I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	6d.
*Great is the Lord	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d.
*I will magnify Thee, O God	J. Goss	3d.
I will sing a new song	P. Armes	8d.
Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	2d.
Make melody within your hearts	F. A. J. Hervey	3d.
My mouth shall speak the praise	J. E. West	4d.
*O come, let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*O give thanks	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
O praise the Lord	Herbert Oakeley	4d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.
O sing unto the Lord	T. Palmer	4d.
O that men would praise the Lord	J. C. Bridge	4d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	E. V. Hall	4d
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. G. Wood	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	1½d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	1½d.
Praised be the Lord	C. Steggall	1/-
*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
*Sing unto the Lord	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
Sowing and reaping	J. Maude Crament	2d.
The earth is the Lord's	C. S. Heap	4d.
The earth is the Lord's	A. Lowe	3d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100)	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
This is the day	Herbert Oakeley	4d.
Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth and blessest it	W. H. Callcott	2d.
*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	1½d.
Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptiste Calkin	4d.
To Thee, O Lord	C. L. Williams	3d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.

* These Anthems are also published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1d. to 4d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE HYMNS WITH TUNES FOR HARVEST.

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

PRICE ONE PENNY.

Sing to the Lord a joyful song	J. Barnby.
O Lord, the heaven Thy power displays	F. Ouseley.
Father, blessing every seed-time	J. B. Dykes.
Lord, in Thy Name Thy servants plead	W. Metcalf.
The wintry time hath ended	H. J. Gauntlett.
Come, ye thankful people, come	George Elvey.
God, the Father, whose creation	H. Smart.
Lord of the harvest, Thee we hail	Anonymous.
Lo, summer comes again	E. B. Whyley.
Praise, O praise our Heavenly King	German.
Summer ended, harvest o'er	J. Adcock.
O Lord of heaven, and earth, and sea	S. S. Wesley.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

E. A. SYDENHAM'S POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

O GIVE THANKS (55th 1,000).
SING UNTO THE LORD (9th 1,000).
GREAT IS THE LORD (28th 1,000).

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST CAROLS.

FATHER, BLESSING EVERY SEED-TIME
COMPOSED BY FRANK PESKETT.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST
GRACIOUS LORD, WE GIVE THEE PRAISE
BY HERBERT TOWNSEND.

Words and Music, price 2d. each; Words only, 2s. 6d. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR HARVEST FESTIVAL
BY
J. H. MAUNDER.

"GOOD," "EASY," "EFFECTIVE," "DIGNIFIED," "DEVOTIONAL," "SINGABLE," "POPULAR," "MUSICIANLY," &c. See Guardian, Musical Times, Musical Standard, Musical News, &c.

TE DEUM, No. 1 (Chant Form) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM, No. 2 (in B flat) 3d.
COMMUNION SERVICE (in G) .. .. 8d.
EVENING SERVICE, No. 1 (in C) .. .. 3d. (Sung at several Choral Festivals.)
EVENING SERVICE, No. 2 (in D) .. .. 3d. (Sung at Canterbury Cathedral).

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Specimen copies from the COMPOSER, Lyndale, Perry Rise, London, S.E.

NEW ANTHEM FOR HARVEST
AND GOD SAID LET THE EARTH BRING FORTH GRASS
BY RICHARD RICHARDS, A.C.O.

Price 3d., of the COMPOSER, Buxton House, Handsworth, Birmingham.

Fifth Edition. Now ready. Price Fourpence.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

Full Anthem, of moderate difficulty, for Harvest Festivals
BY
JOSEPH C. BRIDGE,
M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist of Chester Cathedral.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

LORD OF THE HARVEST

A HARVEST ANTHEM
FOR TENOR SOLO AND CHORUS
COMPOSED BY
ETHEL MAY CLAPTON.

Price Fourpence.

"The whole work is of a high standard of excellence."—Musical Standard.
"An effective composition, without being overtaxing to the choir."—Musical Age and Journal.
"The Anthem is well written and will be found as effective as it is tuneful."—Musical News.
"A well-written Anthem for tenor solo and chorus."—Illustrated London News.
"Possesses a freshness and rhythmic flow which will gain for it a cordial reception at harvest festivals."—Daily Chronicle.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH. Anthem for Harvest. Quartet and Chorus. By W. H. HOLLOWAY. Price 3d.
"A pleasing and tuneful composition."—Manchester City News.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

LORD OF THE HARVEST. Anthem for Harvest-tide. Composed by HERBERT W. RENDELL. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S HARVEST ANTHEM

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

Price Threepence.

Short, easy, full, and effective. Composed expressly for Parish Choirs.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S HARVEST CAROL

HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals. Octavo, Twopence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.,
BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH (New) (quite easy) (3rd 1,000) .. 3d.
*ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE (New) (moderate) (3rd 1,000) .. 4d.
*WHAT SHALL I RENDER (4th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
*LET US THANK THE LORD (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*THE LORD IS LOVING (10th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S (7th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK (20th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
*FEAR NOT, O LAND (22nd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*PRAISE THE LORD, O MY SOUL (16th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE (15th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
*O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD (14th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS (12th edition) .. .. 3d.
*AND GOD SAID, LET THE EARTH (53rd edition) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM IN G (5th edition), 4d. TE DEUM IN F (19th edition) 3d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F (39th edition) 4d.
Sung at numerous Choral Festivals.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E flat (12th edition) .. 4d.
Selected for Choral Festival in Llandaff Cathedral.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G (New) (4th edition) .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E flat (6th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
FOUR CHANT TE DEUMS (12th 1,000) (D, A flat, G, and A) each 2d.
FOUR HARVEST CAROLS. Pretty and popular .. .. each 1d.
O HOW AMIABLE. Festivals (2nd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. Festivals (6th 1,000) .. .. .. 4d.
GIVE GLORY TO THE LORD. Festivals (10th edition) .. .. 3d.

Those marked (*) are also published in Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

HARVEST ANTHEMS, by THOS. SMITH. Easy and melodious. "Thou crownest the year," "O sing unto the Lord," "Fear not, O Land," "It is a good thing to give thanks," "My heart is fixed," "O worship the Lord." Easy Te Deum in F. Five Easy Kyries. Price 3d. each.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST ANTHEMS
Suitable for small Choirs.

O SING UNTO THE LORD WITH THANKSGIVING

FULL ANTHEM, COMPOSED BY
DR. J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.
Price Fourpence net.

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

COMPOSED BY
W. J. PRESSEY.

An easy Anthem, within the compass of a Village Choir.
Price Threepence net.

J. & J. HOPKINSON, Temporary Premises, 90, New Bond Street, London, W.

HARVEST ANTHEM. Words from Psalms and 6th chapter of St. John. Price 6d. each; or, 4s. per dozen. Apply to A. M. JARRETT, Camerton Court, Bath.

Now Ready.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS.
Easy and Effective.

GREAT IS THE LORD .. .. .. F. ADLAM. Price 3d.
THE EYES OF ALL .. .. .. G. BELCHER. „ 3d.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

TWENTY-FIVE OLD AND NEW CAROLS. By DAVIS L MARTYN. Complete, price 1s.; separate numbers, 1d. each.
MATHIAS and STRICKLAND, 2, Great Titchfield Street, London, W.

O GOD, THY WONDROUS BOUNTY. New Harvest Hymn, written by Rev. ANDREW P. MITCHELL, M.A., with music by JOHN A. METCALFE. Price 1d. Copies from COMPOSER, Guisborough, N. R. Yorkshire; or, Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

READY AUGUST 2.

NEW CANTATAS FOR HARVEST.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS

THE WORDS SELECTED AND ARRANGED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE, &c., INTERSPERSED WITH SUITABLE HYMNS, AND THE MUSIC

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Two Shillings.
Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

READY AUGUST 10.

HARVEST-TIDE

A CANTATA FOR HARVEST

FOR

TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN, OR SMALL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE GLEANERS' HARVEST

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA

(HARVEST CANTATA)

FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. M. VON WEBER.

(Op. 58.)

Edited, and the Pianoforte Accompaniment revised, by EBENEZER PROUT. The words translated from the German version of Wendt by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

Octavo, 1s.; Full Score, 2ls.; Orchestral Parts, 15s.
Words only, 10s. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST CANTATA

FOR

CHORUS, SEMI-CHORUS, AND ORGAN

WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY

J. FRANCIS WALLER, LL.D.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A., MUS.D.

Price One Shilling. Words only, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Sixpence.

Intended for the use of Parochial and other Choirs at Harvest Festivals. The music is not difficult, and provision is made for the introduction of well-known Harvest Hymns, in order that the Congregation may take part in the service.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VOCAL SCORE, OLD NOTATION. 21ST TO 25TH THOUSAND

RUTH

A HARVEST PASTORAL

SUITABLE FOR USE IN PLACES OF WORSHIP

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

SUITABLE FOR

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

"The Biblical story of which Ruth is the central figure lends itself with remarkable suitability to an illustration of a harvest celebration. The country landscape, the ripened corn, the sturdy reapers, the standing sheaves, the active gleaners, and the busy farmer, all combine to fill the mind's eye with a pleasant scene of excitement. Set to music by a competent composer such as Mr. A. R. Gaul, the narrative of Ruth's eventful episode lends itself to a pathetic, picturesque, and pleasant performance. The bereaved and sorrowful trio of women on whom the calamity of poverty and famine has fallen, as if to give intensity to their greater grief, and the unexpected and happy influence of patriarchal benevolence displayed by the mighty Boaz, who so quickly transforms sorrow into joy, are all introduced and aptly take their allotted place in the melodious music of Gaul's interpretation of the tale."—Gloucester Citizen.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM, ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.
The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. Band Parts on loan.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.,

BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

These compositions are effective and not difficult.

*THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR (New) (2nd 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
SING UNTO GOD WITH THE VOICE OF THANKSGIVING (7th 1,000) .. 4d.
Very attractive, effective, and interesting to the Choir.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 9th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD (3rd 1,000) .. .. 4d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE (16th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
*New Festival Anthem, THE LORD REIGNETH (easy) .. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 5th 1,000 .. .. 4d.

Those marked (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.

PUT YE IN THE SICKLE, FOR THE HARVEST IS RIPE. By THOMAS SMITH. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

HARVEST MUSIC

BY

DR. CHARLES VINCENT.

HARVEST ANTHEM—"The eyes of all wait upon Thee" .. .. 3d.
(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)
EVENING SERVICE—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G major .. 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM IN A

CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR CARNALL.

Price Fourpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Published this day, No. 3 of

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

A MONTHLY PERIODICAL DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

THE establishment of a Journal specially devoted to the interests of Music in Schools is believed to be called for by the conspicuous development of the systematic teaching of singing and music generally that has taken place in schools during recent years.

Singing by note is now taught in upwards of 20,000 elementary and middle-class schools in the United Kingdom. As most of this music teaching is committed to the care of the ordinary school staff, the tuning of the ear, preservation of the voice, and the musical culture of the nation may be said to depend in a great measure upon the skill and training of the 120,000 teachers composing our educational army. It will be one of the first aims of The School Music Review to deal plainly with the questions of what to do and how to do it that constantly arise in connection with the varied musical needs of both teachers and pupils.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW will contain—

Articles on Musical Subjects of General Interest to Teachers, contributed by School Music Specialists.
General Notes on Important Musical Events of the Month.
Reports of School Concerts and Competitions.
School Songs in both Notations and Suited to the Capacities of the Children in the Different Divisions of Schools.
Exercises in Sight-Singing in both Notations.
Reviews of School Music.
Solutions to the Questions in Music Set at the Different Examinations in Connection with the Education Department and other Examining Bodies.
Correspondence, Notes and Queries, &c.

The Music will also be sold separately. Price 1½*d.*

CONTENTS OF No. 1.

1. Introductory.
2. A Short History of Music in Primary Schools. By W. G. McNaught.
3. The Alterations in the Music Code.
4. A Recommendation as to the Nomenclature of Intervals.
5. On the Training of Pupil Teachers in Music. By C. Tantram.
6. The Revised Music Syllabus for Pupil Teachers.
7. Reports of School Entertainments.
8. Music (in both Notations):—
   "Stars that on your wondrous way." Hymn for Children, by J. Stainer.
   "Little Soldiers." Kindergarten Song, by A. Moffat.
   "The Delights of Spring." Vocal Trio, by Franz Abt.
   Studies in Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught.

CONTENTS OF No. 2.

1. General Notes.
2. What a High School Girl should be able to do. By the Editor, Miss Emma Mundella, and Mrs. Florence Marshall.
3. Test Theory Questions for Pupil Teachers and Students.
4. London School Board Children at Exeter Hall.
5. Retirement of the Music Superintendent of the London Board Schools.
6. The Scotch Schools and Music.
7. Correspondence.
8. Reports of School Entertainments.
9. Music (in both Notations):—
   "Fairy Song." Two-part Song, by Herbert W. Schartau.
   "Daisy Dell." Unison Song, by A. Scott Gatty.
   "The Postillion." "Evening." } Junior School Songs from Lowell Mason's "Juvenile Songster."
   Round, "Timothy Tippen's Horse." By A. Moffat.
   Studies in Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught.

CONTENTS OF No. 3.

1. General Notes.
2. How to arrange a School Singing Class. By J. Evans.
3. Sir J. Stainer on Music in Scotch Training Colleges.
4. Test Theory Questions for Pupil Teachers and Students.
5. The Choice of School Songs—Conference at Bradford.
6. What a High School Girl should be able to do.
7. H.M. Inspectors' Reports on School Music.
8. School Children at the Crystal Palace.
9. London School Board.—Vocal Music Competition.
10. Reviews of School Music.
11. Reports of School Entertainments.
12. Music (in both Notations):—
    "To a Violet." Unison Song, by Sir J. Stainer.
    "Little Bo-Peep." Action Song, by J. W. Elliott.
    Specimen Tune and Time Tests for Schools and Pupil Teachers.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

Price 1½*d.; Post-free,* 2*d. Annual Subscription, including Postage,* 2*s.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MUSIC

SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE

SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY

ANTHEMS AND HYMNS.	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. .. E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. Sidney Naylor	0	9
Except the Lord build the house .. .. F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts	0	6
Father of Life. Hymn .. .. Jas. Turle	0	3
God, be merciful unto us .. .. .. S. S. Wesley
Octavo	0	3
Vocal parts	1	0
Folio	1	6
O God, Thou art worthy .. .. .. Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts	1	0
Octavo	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Folio	1	6
O Perfect Love (Composed for the Wedding of H.R.H. Princess Louise of Wales and the Earl of Fife) .. .. J. Barnby	0	3
Holy Ghost, to earth descending .. .. Antonín Dvořák	0	4
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee .. .. J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus .. .. .. J. Barnby	0	3

ORGAN MUSIC.
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2.. .. .. .. Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) .. Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
March in "Tannhäuser" .. .. Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March .. .. .. Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece .. .. A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby) Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat .. .. Arranged by E. Silas	1	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SERVICE

FOR THE

SOLEMNIZATION of HOLY MATRIMONY

AS USED IN

WESTMINSTER ABBEY

WITH A SPECIAL ANTHEM

COMPOSED BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Master of the Choristers.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

VESPER HYMN

TO BE SUNG AFTER EVENING SERVICE

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY

GEORGE KETT.

Peace for the soul that is weary,
With trouble and sorrow opprest;
Peace for the heart that is yearning
For freedom from sin and for rest;
Peace which the world cannot offer,
An earnest of Life that's Divine—
Jesu, we pray for Thy blessing,
And long for the peace that is Thine.

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price One Shilling.

THE OFFICE of HOLY COMMUNION (Introit, Kyrie, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei, and Gloria). Set to Music by A. M. JARRETT.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

INTROITS, GRADUALS, and ALLELUIAS. Music by EDWARD A. SUTTON.

No. 20. Introit for a Harvest Festival.
No. 21. Gradual for a Harvest Festival.

Price, together, Fourpence.

"Well worthy the attention of organists."—Graphic.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORIGIN OF DEGREES IN MUSIC.—See August Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 190 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. To be ordered everywhere; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post. 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

MS. EXAMINED and REVISED; Copying and Transpositions on very reasonable terms. G. Minns, Ely.

PRINCE SPRITE

A FAIRY OPERETTA

FOR TREBLE VOICES

The Libretto arranged from Countess d'Aulnoy's Fairy Tale

BY

BERTHA THOMAS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Preliminary Announcement.

IMPORTANT TO CHORAL SOCIETIES. SEASON, 1892-93.

SULLIVAN'S ORATORIO

THE

LIGHT OF THE WORLD

WILL SHORTLY BE ISSUED IN TONIC SOL-FA

TRANSLATED BY

MR. E. MASON, F.T.S.C.

Price Two Shillings net.

Messrs. J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent Street, London, W.

Now Ready.

THE CHORIC SONG

FROM

THE LOTOS-EATERS

BY

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

Set to Music for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra (with Recitations), by

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO SONGS.—(a) FORGET THEE, just published in three keys, for Tenor, Baritone, and Bass; and (b) LOVERS' PARTING, in two keys, for Baritone or Bass; and for Tenor. Composed by Emeritus Professor Sir HERBERT OAKELEY (Op. 30). Price 4s. and 3s. respectively.

AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate St., and 1, Foubert's Place, London.

Just Published.

WEDDING MARCH, for the Organ. By WM. FAULKES. Price 1s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
Or, of the COMPOSER, 23, Rocky Lane, Anfield, Liverpool.

Invaluable to Music Professors, School Principals, and all engaged in Teaching Music or superintending Pupils' practice.—Vide Press.

MUSIC PUPILS' REGISTER

BY DR. JACOB BRADFORD.

6th Edition, 18th Thousand, One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition. Price 6d.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

Second Edition. Price 2s.

MANUAL OF VOICE-TRAINING. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Contains full information concerning Mr. Palmer's Method of Voice-Production, important Chapters on Falsetto and Breaking of the Voice, and a complete Course of Exercises. Post-free from the AUTHOR or PUBLISHER. Address as above.

MY WILL IS GONE TO SLEEP, DEAR. Love Song. The words written by WALTER HERRIES POLLOCK. The music composed by MARGUERITE MARIGOLD. Price 2s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BY THE RESTLESS BREAKERS. New Song. By THOS. HUTCHINSON (composer of "Fetters of Gold," and other well-known songs). 2s. net.

G. RICORDI and Co., 265, Regent Street, W.

ASHDOWN EDITION

OF STANDARD PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

VOL.		NET. S.	D.
1.	Chopin's Twenty-seven Studies	2	6
2.	Stephen Heller's Album. Op. 138	1	6
3.	Henri Roubier's Twenty Melodies of Franz Schubert	2	0
4.	Stephen Heller's Twenty-four Preludes. Op. 81	1	6
5.	Chopin's Eighteen Nocturnes	2	0
6.	Czerny's One Hundred and One Exercises ...	1	0
7.	Czerny's Etude de la Vélocité	1	6
8.	Schumann's Phantasiestücke. Op. 12... ...	1	6
9.	Schubert's Eight Impromptus	1	6
10.	Liszt's Soirées de Vienne	2	6
11.	Clementi's Six Sonatinas. Op 36	1	0
12.	Stephen Heller's Thirty-two Preludes. Op. 119	1	6
13.	Rubinstein's Soirées à St. Petersbourg (Six Morceaux). Op. 44	1	0
14.	Chopin's Forty-three Mazurkas	3	0
15.	Schumann's Album für die Jugend. Op. 68 ...	1	6
16.	Dussek's Six Sonatinas. Op. 20	1	0
17.	Gottschalk. Selection No. 1 (Six pieces) ...	1	0
18.	Kuhlau's Six Sonatinas. Op. 55	1	0
19.	Chopin's Eight Waltzes	1	6
20.	Kullak's Youthful days. Twenty-four characteristic pieces	1	6
21.	Kessler's Twenty-four Studies	2	6
22.	Clementi's Six Sonatinas. Op. 37 and 38 ...	1	6
23.	Chopin's Twenty-five Preludes	1	6
24.	Clementi's Gradus ad Parnassum. Twenty-eight Studies ... ... (Selected and edited by Walter Macfarren.)	2	6
25.	John Field's Six Nocturnes	1	0
26.	Lott's Circle of Diatonic Scales	1	6
27.	Diabelli's Seven Sonatinas. Op. 168... ...	1	0
28.	Kullak's Les fleurs animées. Seven characteristic pieces	1	6
29.	Mendelssohn's Thirty-six Lieder ohne Worte	1	6
30.	Czerny's Forty Daily Studies	1	6
31.	W. S. Bennett's Six Studies. Op. 11 ...	1	0
32.	Stephen Heller's Restless Nights. Op. 82	1	6
33.	Kuhlau's Four Sonatinas. Op. 88	1	0
34.	F. Hiller's Sei capriccetti. Op. 35	1	0
35.	Bertini's Twenty-five Studies. Op. 29 ...	1	0
36.	Mayer's Six Etudes Mélodiques. Op. 149 ...	1	0
37.	Schumann's Scenes in the Forest. Op. 82 ...	1	0
38.	Chopin's Four Ballades	1	6
39.	Stephen Heller's Promenades d'un solitaire. Op. 78	1	0
40.	Kalkbrenner's Twenty Studies. Op. 169 ...	1	0
41.	Schmitt's L'Indispensable. Op. 16	1	0
42.	Bennett's Suite de Pièces. Op. 24	1	6
43.	Czerny's Fifty Etudes. Op. 740. Book 1. Studies 1 to 24	1	6
44.	Czerny's Fifty Etudes. Op. 740. Book 2. Studies 25 to 50	1	6
45.	Mayer's Six Etudes. Op. 31	1	0
46.	Stephen Heller's Promenades d'un solitaire. (2nd set. Wanderstunden.) Op. 80 ...	1	6
47.	Schubert's Posthumous Works	1	0
48.	Bache, F. E. Five characteristic pieces ...	1	0
49.	Lott. Selection No. 1 (Six pieces)	1	0
50.	Cramer's Studio. Book 1. Studies 1 to 42 ...	1	6
51.	Cramer's Studio. Book 2. Studies 43 to 84...	1	6
52.	Beethoven's Twelve Waltzes	1	0
53.	Silas' Six petits morceaux. Op. 17	1	0
54.	Beethoven's Five Sonatinas	1	0
55.	Gibsone's Meditations (First series)	1	0
56.	Bennett's Preludes and Lessons	2	0
57.	Heller's Douze Valses. Op. 97	1	6
58.	Bertini. Twenty-five Elementary Studies. Op. 137	1	0
59.	Wollenhaupt. Selection No. 1 (Six pieces)...	1	0
60.	Edouard Dorn's Mountain Memories	1	0
61.	Czerny's Introduction to the Etude de la Vélocité. Op. 636	1	0
62.	Schubert's Moments musicaux and Valse nobles	1	0
63.	Schumann's Faschingsschwank aus Wien. Op. 26	1	0
64.	Diabelli. Four Sonatinas. Op. 151	1	0
65.	Pfeiffer. Twenty-five Studies. Op. 70 ...	2	0
66.	Raff. Douze Romances. Op. 8	1	6

(To be continued.)

ASHDOWN EDITION

OF STANDARD VOCAL MUSIC.

VOL.		S.	D.
1.	Concone. Fifty Singing Lessons (pour le médium de la voix). Op. 9	1	6
2.	Constantino Perugini. Six Lessons in Solfeggio for two voices	1	0
3.	Niels W. Gade. Eight Vocal Duets (English and German words)	1	0
4.	Franz Abt. Ten Vocal Duets (English and German words)	2	0
5.	Romanini and Nava. Twelve Solfeggios for Contralto voice	1	0
6.	Keller. Eight Vocal Duets (English and German words)	1	0
7.	Panseron. The Elements of Singing	1	0
8.	W. S. Bennett. Six Songs (English and German words). Op. 23	1	0
9.	J. L. Hatton. Five Chamber Duets	1	0
10.	F. Lachner. Three Trios for Soprano Voices (English and German words)	1	0
11.	Mendelssohn. Six Two-part Songs. Op. 63	1	0
12.	F. Romer. Six Vocal Duets	1	0
13.	Bordogni. Twelve nouvelles vocalises. Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano	1	6
14.	Marcello. Five Sacred Duets for female voices	1	0
15.	Rubini. Twelve Lessons on the modern style of Singing (Soprano or Tenor)	1	6
16.	Garcia. School of Singing	1	0
17.	Franz Abt. Sixty Solfeggi and vocal exercises	1	0
18.	Giardini. School of Singing for Baritone and Bass	1	0
19.	Concone. Twenty-five Lessons. Op. 10 (to follow Op. 9)	1	0
20.	Concone. Thirty Singing Lessons. Op. 11 (to follow Op. 10)	1	0
21.	Concone. Forty Lessons for Deep Voices. Op. 17	1	6
22.	Concone. Fifteen Vocalises. Op. 12	1	0
23.	Rossini. Gorgheggi e Solfeggi	1	0
24.	F. E. Bache. Six Songs with English and German words	1	0
25.	Pinsuti. Five Two-part Songs	1	0

(To be continued.)

LONDON: EDWIN ASHDOWN (Limited), HANOVER SQUARE, W.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ALIO, F.—Barcarola. For the Pianoforte	5	0
ARNAN, L.—"Baciar." Canzonetta. For Medium Voice. French and Spanish words .. .. net	2	6
—— "Confidenza." Song. For Soprano. Spanish and French words .. .. net	2	6
—— "Lamento." Melody. For Violin and Pianoforte .. „	2	0
BORODINE, A.—"The Sea." Song. For Medium Voice. Russian, German, English, and French words	4	0
—— "The Sleeping Princess." Song. For Medium Voice. Russian, German, English, and French words	3	0
BRESCIA, DOMENICO.—Suite Mignonne. For Pianoforte and Violin. Op. 2:—
No. 1. Minuettino	2	6
CAPPOCCI, F.—"The Divine Service." Pieces for Harmonium or Organ. Book I. .. .. net	2	6
CELEBRATED OVERTURES.—For Pianoforte, Violin, Violoncello, Flute, and Cornet. Arranged as Duets, Trios, Quartets, or Quintets (ad lib.) .. .. .. each net	2	0
BRUCKNER, A.—4th Symphony (Romantic). For Orchestra:— Parts .. .. net	40	0
DECKER-SCHENK, J.—Oriental Album. 25 Caucasian, Armenian, Persian, and Turkish Melodies. Arranged for the Pianoforte .. .. net	2	0
DWELSHAUVERS-DERY.—"Love Song." For Soprano. English words	3	0
—— "May Song." For Soprano. English words	3	0
EBNER, C.—Largo. For Violoncello and Pianoforte, or Organ	3	0
ESPINO, J.—"Zambra Morisca" (Moorish Rhapsody). For Pianoforte	5	0
—— Menuetto. For Pianoforte	5	0
GANDOLFO, E.—Marche héroïque de "Don Quichotte." For String Orchestra:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	3	6
Pianoforte Solo .. .. „	3	0
GOUNOD, CH.—4th Mass. For Two Voices:—
Vocal Score .. .. net	3	0
Parts .. .. each „	0	6
—— 5th Mass. For Three Voices:—
Vocal Score .. .. net	4	0
Parts .. .. each „	0	6
GRANADOS, E.—Spanish Dances. For the Pianoforte net	3	0
GIORDANO, UMBERTO.—"Mala Vita." Melodramma in tre Atti:—
Vocal Score (Italian words) .. .. net	12	0
KLEINMICHEL, R.—National Dances. For Pianoforte Duet	4	0
LASSEN, E.—"Resolution." Song. English words	1	6
LASZLO.—"Ungarik." Original Hungarian Dance. For Pianoforte. With explanations for dancing	2	0
LESCHETIZKY, TH.—Three Studies. Op. 41:—
No. 1. Humoresque	4	0
„ 2. La Toupie	4	0
„ 3. La Babillarde	4	0
LIPPACHER.—"Le Christ." Drame sacré:—
Pianoforte Score .. .. net	6	0
MEYER-HELMUND.—Four Songs. Op. 104:—
No. 1. The March Wind	2	0
„ 2. Venetian Serenade	2	0
„ 3. 'Tis false, I know	2	0
„ 4. At night	2	0
NAGEL, W.—"Johannes Brahms, the successor of Beethoven." Essay. German words .. .. net	1	0
PFEIFFER, TH.—Adagio from Beethoven's 5th Concerto. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo	4	0
POENITZ, F.—Meditation on Bach's 6th Prelude. For Violin and Harp, or Pianoforte and Harmonium, or Organ ad lib.	4	0
PADEREWSKI, J. J.—Nocturne. Op. 16, No. 4..	4	0
REHFELD, FABIAN.—Six Little Concert Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 56:—
No. 1. Hymne	2	0
„ 2. Dedication	2	0
„ 3. Menuet	2	0
„ 4. Birthday March	2	0
„ 5. Evening Song	2	0
„ 6. On the Sea	3	0
ROSENTHAL, M., AND SCHYTTE, L.—"Higher Art of Piano Playing." Three Books .. .. each	8	0
RUBINSTEIN, A.—"Es war ein alter König." Song. Transcribed for the Harp	2	0
—— Romanza. For the Pianoforte. Op. 44, No. 1. Arranged as a Song, with English and German words	3	0
SCHUËCKER, E.—Elegie. Solo for the Harp. Op. 16 ..	4	0
—— Three Pieces. For the Harp. Op. 17. Serenade, Evening rest, Dance	4	0
STECK, P.—"Nous deux!" For Violin and Violoncello, with Accompaniment for String Orchestra:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	1	6
—— The same. Arranged for Pianoforte Solo .. .. „	2	0
—— The same. Arranged for Pianoforte and Violin .. „	3	0
STEINHÄUSER, C.—Festival Preludes. For Organ. Op. 36	3	0
SURZYNSKY, JOS.—Missa in honorem Sanctae Theresiae, ad duas voces aequales, Organo comitante. Op. 15:—
Vocal Score .. .. net	2	0
Parts .. .. each „	0	6
THOMA, ALB.—"Léa." Gavotte pizzicato. For String Orchestra:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	1	6
Pianoforte Solo.. .. .. „	2	0
WERNER, JOS.—Romance, No. 2. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 32	4	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Now Ready.

A SONG OF LIFE

(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
„ 2. King Cricket. „ 4. The Charge. „ 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.—SUITE for ORCHESTRA Full Score, 5s.; Band parts, 16s. Op. 27. Also Six Hymns for Chorus and Orchestra, for use either for instruments alone or as accompaniments at Festivals. Full Score, 2s. 6d.; parts, 5s. Composed by Sir HERBERT OAKELEY, Op. 31 (a).

SCHOTT AND CO.: London, Mayence, Brussels, and Paris.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.

SEVEN SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

CONTENTS:

Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S

PIANOFORTE ALBUMS

Edited by BERTHOLD TOURS.

No. 50. THREE SETS OF VARIATIONS, ANDANTE, and KLAVIERSTÜCK. FRANZ SCHUBERT.
„ 51. ADAGIO, ALLEGRETTO, and MARCH in E major, &c. FRANZ SCHUBERT.
„ 52. FIVE KLAVIERSTÜCKE and TWO SCHERZI. FRANZ SCHUBERT.

Price One Shilling each.

The Three Numbers, handsomely bound in cloth, 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE PSALMS

BIBLE VERSION

POINTED FOR CHANTING

BY THE

REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

CLOTH, ONE SHILLING.

The principles on which the pointing has been done are mainly those of the Cathedral Psalter, of which Dr. Troutbeck was Co-Editor, a Psalter which has now successfully endured the test of long experience. The book is not, of course, divided into daily portions like the Prayer Book Psalter, as it is intended for the use of those Christian bodies in which the Psalms are not sung throughout a monthly course, but it can easily be so divided by those who use it.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
P. ARMES.
ST. BARNABAS	2/0	—	—
G. J. BETJEMANN.
THE SONG OF THE WESTERN MEN	1/0	—	—
ETHEL M. BOYCE.
THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY	1/6	—	—
YOUNG LOCHINVAR	1/6	—	—
J. F. BRIDGE.
ROCK OF AGES (Latin & English words) (Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.)	1/0	—	—
CALLIRHOË .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE REPENTANCE OF NINEVEH..	2/6	3/0	4/0
DUDLEY BUCK.
THE LIGHT OF ASIA	3/0	3/6	5/0
F. CORDER.
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/6	—	—
H. COWARD.
THE STORY OF BETHANY .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	—
F. H. COWEN.
SLEEPING BEAUTY .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
ST. JOHN'S EVE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
RUTH .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	4/0	4/6	6/0
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING ..	1/0	—	—
ANTONÍN DVOŘAK.
REQUIEM MASS	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE	3/0	3/6	5/0
A PATRIOTIC HYMN	1/6	—	—
H. J. EDWARDS.
PRAISE TO THE HOLIEST	1/6	—	—
ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.
ELYSIUM	1/0	—	—
ROBERT FRANZ.
PRAISE YE THE LORD (Psalm 117)	1/0	—	—
G. GARRETT.
HARVEST CANTATA .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.)	1/0	—	—
F. GERNSHEIM.
SALAMIS (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
HERMANN GOETZ.
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices) ..	1/6	—	—
CH. GOUNOD.
THE REDEMPTION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
Ditto (French words) ..	8/4	—	—
Ditto (German words) ..	10/0	—	—
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE	2/6	—	—
MORS ET VITA .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)	6/0	6/6	7/6
ADOLF JENSEN.
THE FEAST OF ADONIS	1/0	1/6	—
OLIVER KING.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON (Psalm 137)	1/6	—	—
FRANZ LISZT.
THE THIRTEENTH PSALM	2/0	—	—

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
C. H. LLOYD.
ALCESTIS	3/0	—	—
ANDROMEDA	3/0	3/6	5/0
HERO AND LEANDER	1/6	—	—
SONG OF BALDER	1/0	—	—
THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
A SONG OF JUDGMENT	2/6	3/0	4/0
HAMISH MacCUNN.
LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.)	1/0	—	—
THE LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
A. C. MACKENZIE.
VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS	2/0	—	—
ROSE OF SHARON .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE STORY OF SAYID	3/0	3/6	4/6
THE DREAM OF JUBAL	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE NEW COVENANT	1/6	—	—
THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT	2/0	—	—
C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS	1/0	—	—
JUDITH; or, The Regeneration of Manasseh	5/0	6/0	7/6
ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	—	—
L'ALLEGRO	2/6	—	—
DE PROFUNDIS	2/0	—	—
CIRO PINSUTI.
PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—
E. PROUT.
THE RED CROSS KNIGHT .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	4/0	4/6	6/0
DAMON AND PHINTIAS (Male Voices)	2/6	—	—
CHARLES B. RUTENBER.
DIVINE LOVE	2/6	—	—
C. SAINT-SAËNS.
THE HEAVENS DECLARE (Psalm 19)	1/6	—	—
SCHUMANN.
THE MINSTREL'S CURSE	1/6	—	—
THE KING'S SON	1/0	—	—
A. SOMERVELL.
MASS (in C minor)	2/6	—	—
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
EDEN	5/0	6/0	7/6
CARMEN SÆCULARE	1/6	—	—
THE REVENGE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
THE VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE ..	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE BATTLE OF THE BALTIC ..	1/6	—	—
J. STAINER.
THE CRUCIFIXION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
THE GOLDEN LEGEND .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	3/6	4/0	5/0
C. M. VON WEBER.
IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn) ..	1/6	—	—
C. LEE WILLIAMS.
THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	2/6	—
CHARLES WOOD.
ODE TO THE WEST WIND	1/0	—	—

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

VOICE TRAINING STUDIES

SEQUEL TO "VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES"

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

WITH TONIC SOL-FA TRANSLATION BY KATE BEHNKE.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

The unprecedented success of "Voice Training Exercises" is the best proof that they supplied a real want with regard to the cultivation of the singing voice, and we are thereby encouraged to issue a set of "Voice Training Studies" as an additional step in the same direction. These Studies are intended for the formation of style and are written progressively in three different parts, corresponding in compass with those of the Exercises, so that they may serve as companion volumes or as supplements.

58TH EDITION.

VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

"Admirable, and doubtless will prove of great utility."—Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley.
"Far more precise in plan than anything I have seen."—Sir Robert Stewart.
"I like the exercises very much; they are scientific, systematic, and ingenious."—Dr. Stainer.

RIMBAULT'S SINGING TUTOR

CHIEFLY SELECTED FROM THE CELEBRATED TUTOR OF LABLACHE.

Comprising directions for the formation and cultivation of the Voice, after the Methods of the best Italian Masters; also a series of Progressive Lessons, Studies in Vocalisation, Solfeggios, &c., with an Accompaniment for the Pianoforte. Editions for Soprano, Tenor, Contralto, or Bass .. .. each net s. 2 d. 6

LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Soprano or Tenor .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Medium Voices .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano .. .. net 2 6
This Edition can also be used for a Bass Voice.
LABLACHE VOCAL EXERCISES .. .. net 2 6
This celebrated work is very largely used by singing masters, and at all the principal schools of the United Kingdom.

CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS.

A COLLECTION OF

GLEES, MADRIGALS, PART-SONGS, &c., FOR ALL VOICES.

CONTAINING WORKS BY

GOUNOD, ARTHUR SULLIVAN, HENRY SMART, J. L. HATTON, &c.

LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

NEW WORK FOR SINGING CLASSES.

CHAPPELL'S PENNY OPERATIC PART-SONGS

FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR, AND BASS.

The present Collection of Part-Songs is entirely new, being selected and adapted from the most striking and popular Choruses in the favourite Foreign Operas. The Arrangement is purely Vocal, such Choruses only being chosen as can be sung without the aid of an Instrumental Accompaniment. The words have been expressly written for the work, and the harmonies arranged in four parts, as likely to be most useful in small Classes.

LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

CHAPPELL AND CO.,

50, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.) Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Monday, August 1, 1892.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 595.—Vol. 33. SEPTEMBER 1, 1892. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.

Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

LEEDS SEVENTH TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

TOWN HALL,

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY, and SATURDAY
October 5, 6, 7, and 8, 1892.

Patron, THE QUEEN.

Conductor, Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

Principal Vocalists:
Madame ALBANI, Miss MACINTYRE,
Miss ANNA WILLIAMS,
Miss HILDA WILSON, Miss MARIAN McKENZIE,
Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, Mr. H. PIERCY,
Mr. BEN DAVIES, Mr. NORMAN SALMOND,
Mr. ANDREW BLACK, and Mr. PLUNKET GREENE.

BAND and CHORUS of 430.

Prices of Tickets:—

	£	s.	d.
SERIAL TICKET (transferable), admitting to all the Concerts, except Saturday night	5	0	0
SERIAL TICKET (transferable), admitting to all the Concerts, including Saturday night	6	0	0
FIRST SEATS (Morning)	1	1	0
FIRST SEATS (Evening)	0	15	0
SECOND SEATS (Morning)	0	10	6
SECOND SEATS (Evening)	0	8	0

All Seats are Numbered and Reserved.

Applications for Tickets cannot be attended to unless accompanied by a remittance for the full amount of the Tickets required.

Early application will be entered, and Seats marked off in the order received.

Programmes can now be had.

All communications to be made to
ALD. FRED. R. SPARK, Hon. Sec.

Festival Offices, Municipal Buildings, Leeds.

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

SEPTEMBER 6, 7, 8, and 9, 1892.

Principal Artists:

Madame NORDICA.	Miss ANNA WILLIAMS.
Miss HILDA WILSON.	Miss MARY MORGAN.
Miss JESSIE KING.	Miss L. FRANKLIN HIGGS.
Mr. EDWARD LLOYD.	Mr. WATKIN MILLS.
Mr. E. HOUGHTON.	Mr. PLUNKET GREENE.

Mr. SANTLEY.

Leader .. .. Mr. CARRODUS.
Conductor .. .. Mr. C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Prices of Admission: Reserved Seats, 15s. to 1s. 6d.; Unreserved, 2s. 6d. to 1s. Serial Tickets, £4 each.

For Regulations, Programmes, Tickets, &c., apply to Messrs. Partridge and Robins, 155, Westgate Street, Gloucester.

CARDIFF TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL,

PARK HALL, CARDIFF, September 20, 21, 22, and 23.

Patron: H.R.H. the DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
President: The Most Hon. the MARQUIS OF BUTE, K.T.

WORKS:—

ELIJAH.	SAUL OF TARSUS.
REVENGE.	STABAT MATER (Dvorák).
DREAM OF JUBAL.	GOLDEN LEGEND.
Reciter, Mr. CHARLES FRY.	HYMN OF PRAISE.
BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS.	FAUST (Berlioz).

MESSIAH.

Principal Vocalists:—

Madame NORDICA.	Miss MAGGIE DAVIES.
Miss ANNA WILLIAMS.	Miss HILDA WILSON.

Miss ELEANOR REES.

Mr. EDWARD LLOYD.	Mr. WATKIN MILLS.
Mr. BEN DAVIES.	Mr. W. LUDWIG.

Conductor, Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

Seats can be booked daily at Mr. William Lewis's, 22, Duke Street, Cardiff. Prospectuses containing full particulars can be obtained from W. A. Morgan, Hon. Sec., Festival Office, Charles Street, Cardiff, or at the Booking Offices.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

There are now VACANCIES in the CHOIR for SOPRANOS, ALTOS, TENORS, and BASSES, especially TENORS. Only those who have good powerful voices, and who can read music at first sight, will be accepted. Address, Assistant-Secretary, Royal Choral Society, Royal Albert Hall, S.W.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Michaelmas Term begins September 29. Entrance Examination therefor, Monday, September 26, at 11 a.m. Entrance Forms may be obtained on application, and should be sent in by September 23.

The Syllabus for the Metropolitan Examination, Dec., 1892 (successful Candidates at which are created Licentiates of the Academy), is now ready, and will be sent on application.

Particulars of Erard, Thalberg, and Sainton-Dolby open Scholarships are now ready, and will be sent on application.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

FINSBURY CHORAL ASSOCIATION AND METROPOLITAN COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

HOLLOWAY HALL.

INCORPORATED 1889.

Conductor and Principal, Mr. C. J. DALE.
Vice-Principal, Dr. E. H. TURPIN, Warden of Trinity College, &c.

November 24.—Berlioz's FAUST. January 19, 1893.—Professor Bridge's THE LORD'S PRAYER (first time in London) and Miscellaneous Selection. March 16.—ST. PAUL. April 27.—GOD, THOU ART GREAT and MARTYR OF ANTIOCH.

Madame Clara Samuell, Mrs. Hutchinson, Mrs. Mary Davies, Madame Annie Marriott, Miss Dews, Madame Hope Glenn, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Charles Chilley, Mr. Iver McKay, Mr. Durward Lely, Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, Mr. Santley, Mr. Watkin Mills.

Prospectus on application to the Secretaries.

The next term of the Metropolitan College of Music opens on Monday, September 26.

The Certificates and Prizes will be presented by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, on Tuesday, November 1. Full prospectus on application to the Hon. Secretary, College House, 455, Holloway Road, N.

CHORAL SOCIETY in connection with the NATIONAL SUNDAY LEAGUE.—This Society will study and perform the best Oratorios, under the direction of Mr. ORTON BRADLEY, M.A. Ladies or Gentlemen desirous of joining may obtain all further particulars of HENRY MILLS, Secretary.
Office, 221, High Holborn, W.C.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The following are the Solo-Playing test pieces at the F.C.O. Examination, to take place early in January: Bach's Fourth Sonata (1st and 2nd movements), Merkel's Sonata, No. 6, in E minor, and Wesley's Fugue in G (three-line copy).

The College Library is closed until September 5.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE.

(FOR EXAMINATIONS ONLY.)

Principal: Professor EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.
Local Theoretical Examination, November 30, 1892.
Practical Examinations throughout the Kingdom.
HEDLEY CARUS, Esq., Hon. Sec.

270, Cornwall Road, Notting Hill, London, W.

MR. WILLIAM SAMUEL LING, Deceased.—Persons having CLAIMS against the ESTATE of WILLIAM SAMUEL LING, late of No. 6, King's Parade, Cambridge, Music-seller, deceased (trading as Ling and Sons), are requested to send particulars thereof to me; and all amounts due to the Estate should be paid to Mrs. Harriet Grant, the Administratrix, at No. 6, King's Parade aforesaid, forthwith.

Dated this 15th day of August, 1892.

JOHN F. SYMONDS, Solicitor to Administratrix.
9, Benet Street, Cambridge.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS EVELEEN CARLTON (Soprano)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts, and At Homes. Also gives Lessons. For terms, and other particulars, address, 126, Cromwell Road, S.W.

MISS ZILLAH CHILD (Mezzo-Soprano)
Concerts, &c., Woodleigh, Bishops Road, Highgate, N.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS MAUDE DARLING (Soprano)
(Pupil of David Strong, Esq., Guildhall School of Music).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Oaklands, Addlestone, Surrey.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c., address, care of Miss Mary Willis, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne
"'Hero and Leander.'—An accomplished artist, sang most charmingly."—Dover Express, March 4, 1892.
"'Samson.'—Miss Eaton, as soprano, acquitted herself with the greatest credit."—North British Mail (Glasgow), February 8, 1892.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MADAME MARIE HAUGHTON (Soprano)
(Pupil of Charles Lunn).
For Oratorios, Ballads, and Operatic Selections, 1, Grantham Road, Cape Hill, Birmingham.

MISS TERESA HAYNES (Soprano)
Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c.
90, Bury New Road, Higher Broughton, Manchester.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS JEAN HUNTER (Soprano)
(Gold Medalist and Diplomée, L.A.M.; Bronze Medalist and Student, R.A.M.) For Concerts of every description.
Cromer House, Herbert Road, Plumstead.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Square, N.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS EDITH NIELD (Soprano)
For Concerts, &c., address, 14, Ravenscroft Park, Barnet.

MISS LILY PEARCE, L.R.A.M. (Soprano)
(From the Weimar Conservatorium).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., 25, Cliff Road, Leeds.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
53, Cromwell Avenue, Highgate, N.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
(Certificate of Merit, Exhibitioner, Silver Medalist. Pupil of Fred. Walker, Esq., and Signor Garcia).
For Oratorio, Opera, and Ballad.
"Miss Agnes Walker sang with much expression."—Musical Times.
"Miss Agnes Walker was rewarded with an encore for her capital rendering," &c.—Luton Times.
104, Lewisham High Road, New Cross, S.E.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER (Contralto)
Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), is prepared to take Oratorio, Concert, and Drawing-room engagements.

MRS. CRESER (Contralto)
25, Adamson Road, N.W.; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, W.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
Gold Medalist, L.A.M. 88, Lady Margaret Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
29, Doughty Street, W.C.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., 76, Calabria Road, N.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS (Contralto)
York Villas, Smethwick, Birmingham.
"Secured an unequivocal success."—Wandsworth and Battersea District Times. "Stirred the feeling of the audience in a remarkable degree."—Birmingham Daily Post. "Clear, rich contralto. Cultured vocalist."—Birmingham Daily Gazette. "Won great honours. A most capable contralto."—Birmingham Daily Mail. "Rich contralto voice, of good timbre and range. Most artistic style and finish."—Wolverhampton Chronicle. "Received quite an ovation."—Barmouth Advertiser. "Sang very sweetly, with much feeling, and very effectively."—Cleethorpes Chronicle. "Rendered in an excellent manner."—Blackpool Times.

MISS MINNIE KIRTON (Contralto)
12, Upper Tollington Park, N.; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork St., W.

MISS HELEN SAUNDERS (Contralto)
(Sainton-Dolby Prizeholder, R.A.M.)
25, Cloudesley Street, Barnsbury, N.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, viâ Leeds.

MISS VERKRÜZEN (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 392, Stretford Road, Manchester.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c., or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c., 46, Messin Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. T. HENRY BREARLEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., address, 13, Earl St., Claremount, Halifax.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. G. GREEN (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Preston Parish Church).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., address, 81, South Meadow Lane, Preston.

MR. CH. KARLYLE (Tenor).
"Splendid voice, clear pronunciation."—Musical Standard. "Excellent vocalist."—Era, Echo. "Received quite an ovation." "Creation," "Bride of Dunkerron" (Northampton). "Capital style; enthusiastic recall."—Musical News. 65, Oseney Crescent, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor)
5, Melbourne Terrace, Bradford.

MR. ASHBRIDGE MILLER (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
Address, 88, Windsor Road, Forest Gate, E.

MR. WILLIAM WHITE (Tenor)
Address, 70, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. ARTHUR J. WILSON (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 12, Glengall Road, Camberwell, S.E.
Sole Agent, Mr. Daniel Mayer, 180, New Bond Street, W.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex

MR. JOHN COATES (Baritone)
Frizinghall,
Bradford.

MR. D. PRICE (Baritone)
(Westminster Abbey),
6, Wharton Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia)
For Oratorios, Operas, and Ballads.
"Fine quality and thorough reliability of tone are special characteristics of his voice, and his singing is marked by artistic appreciation of every phrase."—North British Daily Mail.
Address, 94, Hill Street, Glasgow.

MR. WILLIAM RILEY (Baritone), Huddersfield.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address as above.

MR. R. E. STUTCHFIELD (Baritone)
Concerts, &c., 34, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. W. THORNTON (Baritone)
Address, care of Wood and Marshall, Bradford.
"ELIJAH."—"Mr. Thornton undertook the title-rôle, and was most conspicuously successful, the technical difficulties of the music were mastered with great power and skill."—Observer.
"He not only possesses a magnificent baritone voice, but he uses it with the skill of a thoroughly cultured artist."—Nottingham Express.
"SAMSON."—"Possessed of a full round voice of excellent quality, capital style, and good intonation, it is not to be wondered at that his popularity is rapidly increasing."—Cumberland Times.

MR. & MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone and Soprano and Elocutionists).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Operas, &c.; also to Recite "The Dream of Jubal," "Athalie," and similar works.
"PRECIOSA," BY NEWCASTLE CHORAL SOCIETY.—"The soloists (who both recited and sang) acquitted themselves admirably."—Newcastle Chronicle.
"Mrs. Wallis's charm of manner and dramatic ability were particularly apparent."—Musical Times, March, 1892.
Address, 90, Caledonian Road, Leeds.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HENRY POPE (Bass)
(Royal Choral Society Concerts, late Carl Rosa Opera, &c.).
Address, 19, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead-on-Tyne.
NATIONAL SOCIETY OF PROFESSIONAL MUSICIANS' CONFERENCE AT NEWCASTLE, 1892.—RECITAL AT ST. NICHOLAS' CATHEDRAL.—"Mr. Preston's playing throughout his Recital was surprisingly clear, powerful, and artistic. Each piece received an admirable rendering, and the impression produced was in every case pleasurable in the extreme. Mr. Preston's reputation as an organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of the representative English organists. Those who had the pleasure of hearing him on the present occasion will not readily forget it, and will, we are sure, be quite content to leave the future upholding of the already high mark which native organists have reached to such as the organist of St. George's, Jesmond. The laurels are being woven for him. We wish him long life and health to wear them."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.
"... Mr. Preston is a local professor, and a performer of the very first rank, it is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.
"Mr. Preston no doubt felt it incumbent upon him to uphold the reputation of our city, and has not only achieved this, but something more. He has established his right to be regarded as one of our representative English organists. His masterly performance of the Bach A minor Prelude and Fugue, his artistic rendering of Best's 'Air with Variations,' and of Liszt's singular but clever and difficult Fugue on the Chorale 'Ad nos, ad salutarem undam,' created a profound impression, and it is impossible that his reputation can much longer be limited to two or three counties."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

MR. CHARLES SCHUESSLER
(Solo Mandoline and Zither-Banjo).
For Concerts, Garden Parties; also "The Huntley-Schuessler Trio," Mandolinists, &c., 65, Yerbury Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MR. THOMAS CHAPMAN (Accompanist)
TO CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.
In cases where a complete Orchestra is not used, the Wind Parts of any work satisfactorily rendered on the Harmonium from the full score.
Address, 35, Sutherland Place, Westbourne Grove, W.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 53, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

MISS M. LISTER-NEWMAN (Soprano), Bronze and Silver Medalist, Certificate of Merit, Royal Academy of Music, accepts Engagements for Concerts. Address, Hollow Gates, Barnsley, Yorkshire.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address, Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'. Engaged, Rhyl, June 11 to 18, and July 16 to 22.—"A popular favourite with Rhyl audiences."—Rhyl Journal.
"Has delighted her audiences daily with the exquisite renderings of her various songs."—Rhyl Advertiser, July 23, 1892.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

FLORENCE FAITHFULL (the new Contralto) is now booking Engagements. Powerful and flexible voice, Large répertoire, including all the standard Oratorios, Cantatas, Masses, modern Songs, Ballads, &c. 6, Christchurch Terrace, Doncaster.

ALBERT E. ENTWISTLE (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral Choir (late Principal Alto, Lichfield Cathedral), is at liberty to accept Engagements for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, and Masonic Banquets, &c. For terms and vacant dates, address, 4, Gubyon Avenue, Herne Hill, S.W.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. NELSON J. STOKES (Principal Alto, and Master of the Choristers of Manchester Cathedral) requests that all communications respecting Engagements, Church Festivals, Quartet Party, Masonic Banquets, At Homes, &c., be addressed to him at the Cathedral, Manchester.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for Engagements at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. GEORGE PEARCE (Principal Alto, St. Peter's, Eaton Square). Compass, two octaves, G to G. May be engaged for At Homes, Concerts, Banquets, and Musical Services. Terms, 13, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W. "This gentleman has one of the finest alto voices that I have ever heard."—St. James's Gazette.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor), late principal Tenor, Carl Rosa Opera Company, Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Company, and the St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, is now booking Engagements for Opera, Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. JOSEPH HEALD (Tenor) has REMOVED to 5, Hyde Park Mansions, London, W.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor) kindly requests that all communications should be sent to 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.; or, W. B. Healey and Son, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. PERCY PALMER (Tenor) desires to announce his REMOVAL to 23, Victoria Grove, Fulham Road, S.W., where all communications for Concert Engagements and Lessons should be addressed.

MR. SYDNEY JAMIESON (Baritone). At liberty for Engagements in Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, Masonic Festivals, &c. For terms, address, 26, Clifton Road, Maida Vale, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. HENRY WARD (Basso) wishes to notify his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 108, College Place, Camden Town.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

MISS FRANCES POWELL, certificated Pupil of Kapellmeister Deppe (with whom she studied several years), gives PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Highest references, London, Berlin. 24, Ealing Common.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music, and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE taught by Mr. W. A. FROST (of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C.; or at the City School of Music, 26, Knightrider Street. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions.

OTTO PEINIGER'S SCHOOL for PROFESSIONAL VIOLINISTS, Harrow.—A thorough TRAINING in Solo, Quartet, and Orchestral playing, Theory, Piano, &c. The Students are placed with responsible householders. Address, Wardhouse, Harrow.

TO INTENDING CANDIDATES for MUS. BAC. DEGREE.—PREPARATION by Correspondence for MATRICULATION RESPONSIONS and other Entrance Examinations at Oxford, Cambridge, London, Durham, and Dublin. Payment may be based on success. Method strictly individual. Single subjects if desired. Address, J. Charleston, B.A., Kenilworth House, Oxford.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(SOPRANO)

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool.

Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

SACRED CONCERT AT THE PALACE, DOUGLAS.—"The quartet of singers at the Palace, on Sunday evening, July 24, 1892, were Miss Fanny Bouffleur (Soprano), Miss Emilie Lloyd (Contralto), Mr. Henry Piercy (Tenor), and Mr. Musgrove Tufnail (Basso). As will be seen, these are all vocalists of established reputation, and they were at their best on this occasion, being under the inspiring influence of an audience of between two and three thousand appreciative listeners. Miss Fanny Bouffleur sang the first solo, "The Holy City," to which her pure and powerful soprano voice, sympathetic expression, and clear enunciation gave fine effect, with the result that she was enthusiastically recalled, an experience which does not often happen at these concerts to the first soloists of the evening. The recall would have developed into an encore only that the audience very sensibly paid heed to the request inscribed on the programmes, that they should not insist on encores."—The Isle of Man Times, July 26, 1892.

SACRED CONCERT AT THE PALACE, DOUGLAS, July 31, 1892.—"The vocalists were the same as on the previous Sunday evening. The most enthusiastic demonstration of the evening was evoked by Miss Bouffleur's fine rendering of "The Soul's Awakening," the closing portion of which she sang with considerable dramatic effect. She thrice came forward and bowed her acknowledgments; but as the applause continued, Miss Bouffleur at length gratified and pacified the audience by repeating the two last verses. Miss Bouffleur was quite right in not responding too readily to the re-demand, and right too in responding as soon as the audience made it clear that they would be satisfied with nothing short of an 'encore.' It is only just to say that in her effective rendering of this song, Miss Bouffleur was greatly aided by the exquisite accompaniment of the orchestra. It may be added that it is well these 'encores' are made very rare exceptions to the general rule of ignoring re-demands; because if an error is made in drawing up the programme for these concerts, it is in giving the audience a little too much for their money."—The Isle of Man Times, August 2, 1892.

"'ELIJAH.'—On Good Friday evening Mendelssohn's sublime oratorio 'Elijah' was given by the Winter Gardens Choral Union, in the Pavilion, to an audience of about 11,500. The principals comprised one or two artists familiar to Blackpool audiences. Miss Bouffleur won fresh laurels by her sweet singing. She was exceptionally good in the aria 'Hear ye, Israel,' her rich voice being heard to much advantage."—Blackpool Times, April 20, 1892.

FREE TRADE HALL, MANCHESTER.—"Among the more successful pieces were 'Il Bacio' (Arditi), sung by Miss Fanny Bouffleur, for which song she was twice recalled; she also gave 'Killarney,' in response to an encore for 'The dear little Shamrock,' with good effect. This lady made her first appearance in Manchester, and gave such satisfaction that there is little doubt that we shall soon see her again."—Manchester Evening Mail, February 4, 1892.

"Miss Fanny Bouffleur is a soprano of considerable range. Her selections were 'Il Bacio' (Arditi) and 'The dear little Shamrock' (Cherry), both of which were received with the appreciation they fully deserved."—Manchester Courier, February 4, 1892.

"Miss Fanny Bouffleur has a very pleasant soprano voice, and a self-possession which enables her to do justice to considerable natural talents."—Manchester Guardian, February 4, 1892.

"There was an exceptionally good audience at Mr. Lane's Concert at the Free Trade Hall last evening. A most attractive programme was submitted, and the concert seemed to be thoroughly enjoyed. The particular 'star' was Miss Fanny Bouffleur, whose artistic rendering of 'Il Bacio' and 'The dear little Shamrock' were obviously appreciated."—Manchester Evening News, February 4, 1892.

MISS ADA LEE

(Pupil of Dr. Hiles)

(SOPRANO).

"Miss Ada Lee possesses a rich voice, and has considerable enunciatory power and musical skill."—Harrogate Advertiser, Aug. 13, 1892.

"Possesses a sweet and melodious voice, which is remarkably pure and round in quality."—Workington News, April 23, 1892.

"A remarkably sweet and charming vocalist."—West Cumberland Times, April 23, 1892.

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 45, Monton Street, Greenheys, Manchester; or, Messrs. Forsyth Bros., Manchester and London.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

LEEDS SYMPHONY CONCERTS, ALBERT HALL, LEEDS.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

MR.

WM. SWEETMAN

(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music) is at liberty for Concerts of every description.

Miss Hooton has fulfilled Engagements at—

Alfreton	Finchley	Mansfield
Bath	Fulham	Middlesbrough
Beckenham	Glasgow	Newcastle-on-Tyne
Beeston	Grantham	Northallerton
Blackburn	Great Yarmouth	Nottingham
Bradford	Harrogate	Plymouth
Bromley	Heanor	Redcar
Buxton	Hornsey	Richmond
Cambridge	Ilkeston	St. Ives
Castle Donington	Leicester	Southampton
Cowes	Lichfield	Southsea
Cheltenham	Llandudno	Stapleford
Derby	Long Eaton	Sutton-in-Ashfield
Dewsbury	Loughborough	West Bromwich
Dundee	Luton	&c., &c.
Ealing	Maidstone

For terms and vacant dates, please address, 37, Torrington Square, W.C.; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Is now booking Engagements for the ensuing season for Concerts and Masonic Work of every description.

Mr. Branscombe has fulfilled Engagements for the following Choral and other Societies:—

Accrington Choral Society
Airdrie Choral Union
Alloa Musical Association
Armagh Philharmonic Society
Ayr Choral Society
Bach Choir
Beckenham Choral Society
Belfast Philharmonic Society
Bow and Bromley Institute Choir
Braintree Choral Society
Brentwood Vocal and Instrumental Society.
Brighton Sacred Harmonic Society
Brighton and Hove Choral and Orchestral Society
Bristol Musical Association
Brixton Choral Society
Cambridge University Musical Society
Cecilian Choral Society (Brondesbury)
Chelmsford Musical Society
Chesterfield Harmonic Society
Croydon Philharmonic Society
Dewsbury Choral Society
Dover Amateur Musical Society
Dover Catch Club
Dover Choral Society
Dr. Rea's Choir (Newcastle)
Droylsden Philharmonic Union
Dublin Musical Society
Dumfries and Maxwelltown Choral Society
Dundee Amateur Choral Union
Dunfermline Choral Union
East Cowes Choral Society
East Moulsey Choral Society
Edinburgh Choral Union
Electro-Harmonic Society
Falkirk Choral Society
Finsbury Choral Society
Finsbury Park Musical Society
Glasgow Choral Union
Gloucester Choral Society
Godalming Choral Society
Greenock Choral Union
Guildford Choral Society
Halifax Choral Society
High Wycombe Choral Society
Hornsey Musical Society
Jarrow Philharmonic Society
Kendal Choral Society
Kentish Town Musical Society
Kilmarnock Philharmonic Society
Kirkcaldy Musical Association
Kyrle Choir
Lloyd's Musical Society
Luton Choral Society
Maidenhead Choral Society
Maldon Philharmonic Society
Musical Guild
Newport (I.W.) Choral Society
Northampton Choral Society
North-East London Choral Society
Nottingham Sacred Harmonic Society
Orpheus Choral Society (Kentish Town)
Paisley Choral Union
Perth Musical Society
Peterhead Choral Society
Pollokshields Lyrical Society
Princes Concert Society
Reading Temperance Choral Society
Redhill and Reigate Harmonic Society
Rochester, Strood, and Chatham Choral Society
Ryde Choral Union
St. Andrew's Musical Society (Streatham)
St. Cecilia Choral Society (Glasgow)
St. Cecilia Musical Society (Sheffield)
St. George's Choral Society (Gravesend)
St. Mark's Choral Society (Lewisham)
St. Paul's Choral Society (Canonbury)
St. Paul's Choral Society (Walworth)
Selkirk Choral Union
South Acton Choral Society
Southampton Choral Society
South London Institute Orchestral Society
Southport Choral Union
South Shields Choral Society
Streatham Choral Society
Sunderland Philharmonic Society
Sutton Choral Association
Tunbridge Wells Vocal Association
Twickenham Choral Society
Wakefield Choral Society
West Lambeth Choral Society
Westminster Orchestral Society
Wood Green Musical Society
Woodside Park Musical Society
Woolwich Choral Union

For terms and vacant dates, address, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

N.B.—Miss Hooton and Mr. Branscombe are prepared to accept en route dates for Scotland and the North of England during December and January, 1893, at special terms, either separately or together.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CONCERT GIVERS, &c.

MR. JOHN BARTLETT

(TENOR)

(PRINCIPAL, PRO-CATHEDRAL, KENSINGTON)

AND OF

ST. JAMES'S HALL,
CRYSTAL PALACE ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS,
COVENT GARDEN PROMENADE CONCERTS,
MADAME FANNY MOODY AND MR. CHAS. MANNERS' CONCERT AND OPERATIC TOUR, &c.

Is now Booking Engagements for Oratorio Concerts, &c., and would be pleased to make special terms for first appearances for Choral Societies, &c. Large répertoire, including "Messiah," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," "Creation," "Last Judgment," "Crucifixion," "May Queen," "Ancient Mariner," "Rose Maiden," "Daughter of Jairus," &c.

Mr. Bartlett can give highest references to conductors of Choral Societies, &c., for whom he has sung.

For terms and press notices, address, Mr. John Bartlett, Balmuir, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, London, S.W. Or Agents.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH

(HARPIST)

(Associate of the Royal College of Music),
11, Napier Road, Kensington, W.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS

MR. A. BOWYER BRISTOL

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

"Mr. Walter J. Evans is to be congratulated upon his Concert Party, their performances placing them in the front rank, and for all-round ability would be difficult to beat."—The Wandsworth and Battersea Advertiser.

"The engagement of Mr. Walter J. Evans's Concert Party being a sufficient guarantee of musical excellence."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"We congratulate Professor Jones upon having secured such an efficient troup of artistes."—Barmouth and County Advertiser.

Dates for Northern tour, October and November, are now being booked. Immediate application advisable.

Applications for terms and dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

"THE LYRIC QUINTET"

CONCERT COMPANY.

MADAME CHRISTIAN WILLIAMS .. .. .. Soprano.
MISS JANET RUSSELL .. .. Contralto.
MR. E. EDWARDS .. .. Tenor.
MR. CHARLES WILLIAMS .. .. Bass.
MR. FREDERICK C. NICHOLLS Solo Pianist and Accompanist.
Assisted by (if required)
MR. ROY WILLIAMS .. .. Humorist.

All communications to 6, Sandon Street, Liverpool.

MR. JAMES BATES, Director of the Choir, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W., can supply SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Choral Weddings, Concerts, &c. Apply, Church House, Porchester Terrace, London, W.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communication, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

CONCERT AGENTS.

METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,

83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

MR. CECIL BARTH,

CONCERT AGENT, &c.

Mr. Barth can arrange for the appearance of high-class Vocalists and Instrumentalists at Concerts, Oratorio Performances, Garden Parties, At Homes, Public Dinners, &c. Concert Parties provided, and Tours booked.

All communications respecting Madame Louise Wylford's English Tour to be addressed to—

Mr. Cecil Barth, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained—For Harvest Festivals.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Thoroughly reliable—For Harvest Festivals.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Always successful—For Harvest Festivals.

Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS.

MASTER ERNEST HOWLAND,
MASTER HAROLD OHLSON,
and others, for Solo work, &c.
Permanent Boys provided. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The next Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be held in Durham in September next. Examiners: Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.; J. Frederick Bridge, Mus. D., Oxon.; Philip Armes, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.

Full particulars, with Specimen Papers of former Examinations, may be had on application to Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.
INCORPORATED 1891.
Patrons:
The Right Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.
The Right Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.V.C.M. and A.V.C.M.) will take place during January, 1893.

Practical and Theoretical Local Examinations in December.

Annual Subscription for Members, 10s. 6d.

Particulars and advantages of membership, prospectuses, forms of entry for examinations, &c., on application to the Hon. Secretary.

By order of the Council.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. JAMES STERNDALE BENNETT, M.A.

Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.

Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.

The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),
35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. FRANCIS PIGOU, D.D., DEAN OF BRISTOL.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.C.C.G.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION (Membership), 10s. 6d.
Choirs Enrolled in Union, 10s. 6d.

January, 1893.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G. Full set of Papers, used at the recent Examination, post-free, thirteen stamps.

A Silver Medal and One Guinea will be awarded for the best Andante for the Organ. Other prizes are offered. See The Church Musician; or, apply to The Warden, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By order of the Council,
C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

THE

London College of Music,

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET,

LONDON, W.

PATRON.

The Most Noble THE MARQUIS OF CARMARTHEN, M.P.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

W. J. WESTBROOK, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.

HORTON ALLISON, Esq., Mus. Doc., Dublin; Mus. Bac., Cantab.; F.R.A.M.

C. G. VERRINDER, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantuar; Mus. Bac., Oxon.

ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Principal, Educational Department).

CHURCHILL SIBLEY, Esq. (Chairman of Council).

G. AUGUSTUS HOLMES, Esq. (Director, Examination Department).

EXAMINATIONS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING, SINGING, THEORY, and all branches of Music will be held in London and at 300 Provincial Centres in December next, when certificates will be granted to all successful candidates.

SYLLABUS and FORMS of ENTRY can be obtained of the Secretary. The last day of entry is November 15.

SILVER and BRONZE MEDALS and BOOK PRIZES are offered for competition in accordance with the regulations.

APPLICATION for the formation of NEW CENTRES should be made to the Secretary, who will supply all particulars.

The DIPLOMAS granted by the College are Associate A.L.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.L.C.M.), Licentiate (L.L.C.M.), Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.L.C.M.), and the Diploma of Proficiency (D.P.L.C.M.). Regulations and list of Diplomées may be had on application.

The "Annual Register" of the College is now ready. Price 2s.

In the EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Students are received and thoroughly trained under eminent Professors.

T. WEEKES HOLMES, Secretary.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892), A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. ALLISON'S Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Akerman Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 42, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1891; F.C.O., JAN., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cambridge; Intermediate Mus.B., London; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891; Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L., 1892 (including Candidate with highest number of marks, 1888), A.Mus., T.C.L., 1891; A.C.O., 1891; Tonic Sol-fa College Fellowship; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., Theory and Pianoforte; and T.C.L. Senior Honours; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Fifty successes annually.

TENORS AND VOICE-TRAINING.—DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD.—For terms for Lessons on this method, or for information respecting it, address, E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D. Mus., Lond., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in the THEORY of MUSIC (including Acoustics). 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by Post. Many successes at College of Organists, and other Examinations. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), prepares CANDIDATES for UNIVERSITY and other MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Final Mus. Bac., Cantab., 1890; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Durham, 1890 and 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1892. Address, Dr. Wareing, 150, Bristol Road, Birmingham.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. ARTHUR W. MARCHANT, Mus Bac., Oxon.; F.C.O., Organist and Choirmaster, All Saints' Parish Church, Huntingdon, has a VACANCY for another RESIDENT PUPIL. Daily Choral Service. Very fine three-manual organ (tubular pneumatic) and every facility for a thorough musical training. Preparation for College of Organists and other exams. A small post as Organist can be offered when qualified. Address, The Terrace, Huntingdon.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. R. K. SIMONS, Organist of Christ Church, Tunbridge Wells, has a VACANCY for a Young Gentleman to train for the Profession. Choral service; large organ. Comfortable home. Moderate terms. Address, Oak View, Tunbridge Wells.

ARTICLED PUPIL (Vocal).—MR. F. ST. JOHN LACY, A.R.A.M., Assoc. Phil. Soc., Member Incorporated Society of Musicians, in and after October next will have a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL to train for Operatic or Concert Singer. Former pupils have passed direct from Mr. Lacy's tuition to salaried appointments on operatic stage. 4, Brompton Square, S.W.

ARTICLED PUPIL, Worcester Cathedral. A VACANCY. Apply to Hugh Blair.

TO COMPOSERS and LYRIC WRITERS. Composers seeking words to Set will find a large selection in THE LYRIC. Lyric authors with words for Sale may insert them in THE LYRIC, which is posted to all the principal Composers. Price 2d. THE LYRIC MAGAZINE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Ltd., 276, Strand, W.C.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a Competition for one CHORISTERSHIP on Tuesday, September 20, at 12 noon, at the Organist's House. Candidates must be between the ages of 8 and 11. Apply for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. E. E. Dorling, The Close, Salisbury.

TONBRIDGE SCHOOL.—CHORAL SCHOLARSHIPS.—Two Choral Scholarships will be awarded this month to boys between the ages of 10 and 12. The Scholarships are of the value of £84 per annum. Apply to Mr. A. Herbert Brewer, vacation address, Cromwell Street, Gloucester.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Mary Abbots, Kensington. Salary, £25 per annum. One month's holiday in August and September. Apply, by letter (with references), to Henry B. Bird, 8, Longridge Road, S.W.

ALTO, disengaged during September and October —own Church closed for repairs—would DEPUTISE. Address, Junior, 25, Graham Road, Dalston, N.E.

SOLO TENOR WANTED, for the Choir of St. Mary's, Clapham. Catholic preferred. Stipend, £16 per annum. Apply (letter only) to Choirmaster, 52, Rectory Grove, Clapham, S.W.

WANTED, TENOR and BASS, for All Saints', Ennismore Gardens. Must be good readers and have powerful voices. Stipend, £15. Address, Mr. F. W. Belchamber, 1, Crondace Road, Fulham, S.W.

BASS and SOPRANO WANTED, for Church (Noncon.) near Sydenham. No week-day Services. State terms, &c., by letter only, to A. N. G., 5, Minden Road, Anerley.

THE SONS OF ORPHEUS.—Those interested in a Male Voice Choir under this name are invited to communicate with X. Q., Organ Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross.

GOOD SOPRANO, thoroughly trained under best Masters, wishes to meet with someone able to influence ENGAGEMENTS and willing to share results. Address, Meta, 41, Talgarth Road, West Kensington.

TENOR (excellent quality and compass, good sight reader in modern notation) is open to ENGAGEMENT for Cathedral or Church Choir. Thoroughly conversant with classical music and has had much experience in training boys' voices. Testimonials of the highest order. Address, Hill, King Street, Saffron Walden, Essex.

BARITONE, aged 24 (well trained and experienced), desires APPOINTMENT in good Church Choir. Prize winner, 1892. Highest testimonials. Elcho, 84, Warwick Road, Stratford E.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for St. Michael's Parish Church, Coventry. Stipend, £130 per annum. Voluntary choir. The Organist will be responsible for two full choral services on Sundays, one service on Wednesday Evening (weekly) and such other services as may be prescribed by the Vicar. New four-manual organ, built by WILLIS and SONS. Applicants will be required to submit to examination by two eminent Organists in London. Applications and testimonials to be sent to the Vestry Clerk, St. Michael's Church, on or before September 10.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Largs Parish Church, Ayrshire. Organ, by WILLIS, costing nearly £2,000. Prospects of Teaching, Private and in School. Minimum salary, £60. Apply to Rev. J. Keith, Manse, Largs, N.B., stating terms, &c.

ORGANIST WANTED.—An Organist is required, at the end of September, for Drumragh Parish Church (Omagh, Co. Tyrone), in room of Organist who has obtained preferment in England. Salary, £50 per annum. All information may be obtained from Mr. N. Mains, Omagh, to whom applications are to be sent.

WOULD any Gentleman kindly undertake to act as ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER at a Congregational Church in the North-West district? If so, please reply to A. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER requires RE-ENGAGEMENT near Hammersmith. Would give first twelve months' services free. Organist, 10, Shaftesbury Road, Hammersmith.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (experienced) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Good Organ essential. First-class testimonials. B. S., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, with excellent testimonials, desires APPOINTMENT, having just left St. Paul's, Herne Hill. Mr. J. Brabham, 207, Norwood Road, Herne Hill.

AN accomplished ORGANIST (Cathedral trained), experienced trainer of choirs, Choral Unions, &c., desires position. Address, Prof. Barrett, 21, Sandford Street, Birkenhead, Cheshire.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Might deputise. Anglican. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

MR. F. W. BELCHAMBER (Organist, All Saints', Ennismore Gardens) is open to DEPUTISE, September 25 and during October. Address, 1, Crondace Road, Fulham.

ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, MUSICMASTERS, &c., desiring APPOINTMENTS should address the Secretary, Diapason Musical Agency, 55, Chancery Lane, W.C.

A THOROUGHLY experienced CONDUCTOR is open to undertake the direction of a Choral Society in or near London. Bâton, 55, Dalston Lane, London.

TO VIOLINISTS.—Lady Pianist, of good position and some experience in Concert-giving, desires to meet excellent VIOLINIST, near Glasgow or Edinburgh, for mutual aid in series of Chamber Concerts. Reply, full particulars, strictest confidence, L. Z., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER.—An energetic and experienced Gentleman (32) desires APPOINTMENT as above. Thoroughly experienced in all branches. Tuning, paper, book-keeping, &c. Has already held similar position and increased the business. Would be willing to invest small capital. Well recommended. Apply, C. E. L., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED. Must also be thoroughly experienced in regulating and used to high-class work. Permanent situation and good salary to a capable man with good address. Apply to Alderson and Brentnall, 125, Northumberland Street, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

TUNER WANTED, for abroad. Must have some knowledge of Repairs and Regulating Pianos. Apply, by letter, stating age and qualifications, to Mr. Courtice, 83, Castle Road, N.W.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER. Used to Organs, Harmoniums, and all kinds of Repairs. Must be energetic, steady, willing to canvas. State if married, wages required, with references. T. C. L., Messrs. Novello and Co., Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED, by an old-established Midland firm. Permanent and comfortable situation. Must produce first-class references as to capacity and character. Apply, stating salary required, &c., to J. P., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED TUNER WANTED. Must be steady, reliable, of good character, and know his business thoroughly. To a suitable man a permanent situation, with good wages, is offered. Concordia, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER WANTED. Permanency. Apply, with photo and references, to Phil, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER REQUIRED, for the country (out-door). Must be first-class and of excellent character. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER, by a Young Man who has been educated at the York School of Music for the Blind, and holds their certificate for proficiency. He is also an accompanist. Apply to F. Slipper, Gilbert Lane, Lorne St., Halifax.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER and REPAIRER. Knowledge of American Organs, Harmoniums, &c. Good references. Address, D., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

TUNER and REPAIRER (first-class) seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT, in town or country. High-class testimonials. A., 5, Hawthorne Villas, Ladypool Road, Birmingham.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (Good) requires SITUATION. Small repairs. First-class out-door experience. Knowledge of Organs and Harmoniums. Steady. Married. Aged 33. Good References. Address, Tuner, 72, Murray Street, London, N.

TUNER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Address, Tone, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, by experienced Man, TUNER, REGULATOR, REPAIRER. Tuner, 30, Wordsworth Street, Lodge Lane, Liverpool.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (Practical). Situation WANTED. Good Repairer. Used to organs, harmoniums, &c. Good references. Apply, Tuner, 33, Westgate, Lincoln.

WANTED, SITUATION as PIANOFORTE TUNER. Indoors. Apply, H. L. P., Scripps's Advertising Office, 13, South Molton Street, W.

JUNIOR TUNER or IMPROVER.—A Young Man, having had two years' factory experience, chipping and roughing up, would give a short time in a good house as above. Tunes very fairly; fine ear; plays violoncello, pianoforte, and organ a little. Energetic; height, 5 ft. 11; good address and references. H. Blanchett, Pianoforte Warehouse, Slough.

YOUTH (18) seeks ENGAGEMENT as IMPROVER to Tuning and Repairing. Indoor preferred, with small salary. Two years' experience. C. J. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, Young Man, used to the Provincial Music Trade, as CLERK and SALESMAN. Address, with full particulars of experience, references, and salary required, to Fides, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COUNTER ASSISTANT REQUIRED.—Address, stating age, married or single, previous experience, references, and salary required, Messrs. Harrison, Music Warehouse, Birmingham.

YOUNG LADY desires SITUATION in Pianoforte Show-room. Certificated Pianist. Plays Violin and Banjo. Good sight reader; would teach. H., Melton Rd., Woodbridge, Suffolk.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President: The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN, P.C.
Warden: Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Studies: Professor BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.

CLASSES AND LECTURES.

The next term commences September 26, when new Students (Professional and Amateur) are received.

The following is a list of the subjects taught, and Professors: Harmony, Counterpoint, Form and Orchestration, Composition, Musical Acoustics, Pianoforte, Organ, Solo Singing, Violin, Violoncello, Orchestral Practice, Sight-Singing, Flute, Oboe, and Clarinet, &c., Vocal and Aural Physiology, Voice Production (Lectures), Elocution, French, Italian, German, &c. There are evening as well as day classes.

Professors Higgs, Saunders, Turpin, and Turner; Messrs. Addison, Bambridge, Barrett, Beuthen, Bird, Bolton, Carrodus, B. Carrodus, Child, Clinton, Cole, Corder, Dubrucq, Dunn, Edwards, Gibson, Goodworth, Hales, Hutchinson, Lazarus, Lewis, Lockwood, Malsch, Mann, Matthay, Ogbourne, Pearce, Pinney, Pinsonnat, Radcliff, Reynolds, Ricci, Semple, Swinford, Szczepanowski, J. Turpin, Tyler, Visetti, Warriner, Wells, Willing, and Woolhouse.

The Inaugural Address will be delivered by the Warden (Dr. E. H. Turpin) on Tuesday, September 27, at five o'clock.

Prospectuses, with full particulars as to fees, &c., can be obtained Post-free from the undersigned.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.

Annual Subscription, One Guinea.
Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"
Translated by W. ASHTON ELLIS, Editor of
"THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).
Part 9, and No. XIX. now ready.

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the EDITOR, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

In course of Publication.

NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION
OF THE
DIATONIC & CHROMATIC SCALES

Complete, with the addition of the Scales in Double Octaves legato and Minor Scales in Melodic Form (single notes).

THE WHOLE NEWLY REVISED AND SYSTEMATICALLY FINGERED BY ARTHUR O'LEARY.

Price Six Shillings.

NEW CONTRALTO SONG BY ROSETTA O'LEARY
"ES IST ZU SPÄT" (In Vain).

ARTHUR O'LEARY'S FAVOURITE BERCEUSE
New Edition (partly re-written).

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC
IN ITS RELATION TO THE INTELLECT & ITS EMOTIONS
BY
JOHN STAINER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

Complete IRON FRAMES;
All modern IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)
PIANOFORTE MAKERS
BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN
THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH
AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals and various Honours.

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred their Pianos :—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	MDME. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	LISZT	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	HELLER	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HENSELT	HALLÉ
BENNETT	E. SILAS	SULLIVAN

Price Lists and Illustrations on application.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

Will be published September 22.

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY FOR THE LEEDS TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1892.

ARETHUSA

POEM BY SHELLEY
SET TO MUSIC FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
BY ALAN GRAY.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SELECTION FROM THE WORKS OF HANDEL.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE MUSIC
TO SHAKESPEARE'S HAMLET

Composed for the production of the Play at the Haymarket Theatre, London, January, 1892,
BY
G. HENSCHEL
(Op. 50).

FULL SCORE.
Price Thirty Shillings.
String Parts, 7s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 15s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
SEPTEMBER 1, 1892.

LOAN COLLECTION OF THE VIENNA EXHIBITION.*

Perhaps as early as might be expected, the Commission of the Vienna Exhibition has published an important instalment of a Catalogue which, when complete, will be as remarkable as the splendid collection of all objects connected with music and the drama which Vienna has attracted to the Rotunda in the Prater. This instalment consists of the united contributions of Austro-Hungary and Germany, and the chief among its compilers, in fact, the responsible editor, is Dr. Guido Adler, Professor of the German University of Prague, whose position as one of the editors of the musical Vierteljahrschrift, in which he is associated with Drs. Spitta and Chrysander, places him throughout Europe as one of the most eminent in that branch of art with which we are concerned. There is no reference to the remainder of the catalogue, which is to contain the British Section, in this comprehensive volume of 591 pages, but we learn from another and still official source that it is not yet ready. It is the misfortune inherent in these great gatherings, as it was at South Kensington in 1885, that the compilation of a catalogue, however simple, must follow the collection and installation of an Exhibition; and Dr. Adler is justified, in the present instance, in saying that unless extraordinary exertions had been made even this instalment of the catalogue of loans could hardly have been expected before this Exhibition closed.

The historical musical section in which Austria, Hungary, and Germany are united occupies the space of the Rotunda extending from the South to the West transept, and is divided into twenty-six rooms, besides the Hall of the Gibichungs, where music and the drama join hands in memory of Richard Wagner. There are also rooms appertaining to Music and Concert Societies between the East and North entrances, and a special section for instruction in the East gallery. In several of the rooms are particular collections devoted to the most eminent composers in modern music. Room 1 is an interior dedicated to the Imperial House of Hapsburg and Lorraine. The only illustration in the catalogue is a photographic representation of the contents of this apartment. Most prominent are portraits of the Emperor and Empress of Austria, the Archduke Carl Louis, "protector" of the Exhibition, and other illustrious personages belonging to the Imperial family; an upright harpsichord and three grand pianos; also a Marie Antoinette harp, a quartet of fiddles which belonged to the Emperor Francis the First, and the zither of the present Empress. Palaces become museums very often from the respect which follows the lives of their occupants, and they help to preserve what was cared for in past days for those who, in later years, interest themselves in archæological studies. In this room are many compositions by members of this illustrious family.

Room 2 is devoted to Antiquity and the East, and begins an objective history of music which is of the highest value. It starts with the Jewish, which is, however, modern. Of the old Hebrew music nothing can be certified as remaining, and any traditions of it must be sought for, crystallised, in the Christian Church Service, or in the cantillations, handed down traditionally, of the Jewish synagogues. We cannot go farther back for the foundations of our modern European music than the ancient Greeks and Persians, and we must be content with the fact that the Tetrachord, or four-note series, was the basis of their music, as it is of ours, and also of Indian music. If the single instance of the pipes discovered recently in Egypt by Mr. Flinders Petrie, and made public by Mr. Southgate, is sufficient for acceptance as evidence, we may say that we have proof of the Tetrachord B.C. 1100. Pythagoras came later and introduced an artificial system that fettered music for ages. In this same Room 2 the treatises of Boethius and Meibomius are witnesses to the lasting power of this famous philosopher. It was not until the great uprising of modern thought, contemporary with the invention of the printing press, that the system of Pythagoras was entirely put aside.

Although we know nothing of the ancient Greek music, the musical instruments of that gifted race are more or less familiar to us, and among the pictures and casts that adorn the walls of this department there are two large wall tabulations, the diagrams chosen by Herr von der Launitz, that represent every instrument, wind, string, and percussion, that was used in the sacred or popular life of the Greeks. They are contributed by the University of Vienna, and, like nearly every object in this admirable catalogue, are sufficiently and accurately described.

Among the rarities in this division is a fragment of a papyrus roll of the Augustan age, containing a score, if the term may be allowed, of the Orestes of Euripides. There are the text of the choruses, indications in the lines of the appropriate instrumental accompaniment, and lastly, over the lines, that which would represent to us the vocal part. This treasure is contributed from the collection of Papyri of the Archduke Rainer, and is conjectured to be the oldest piece of written music in the world. In another way the Roman theatre tickets should attract attention. The Latin and Greek languages are used on these tesseræ; they are from the Cassel Library.

Room 3 brings under notice the oldest Christian music. These manuscripts show the early use of Neumes, the introduction of lines, the use of the B flat, the transition to choral notes and employment of coloured lines. Passing from the Western or Gregorian, the Armenian and Byzantine manuscripts are records of Eastern tradition. There are here many pictures elucidatory of the instruments used, and the familiar legend of Saint Cecilia has many illustrations.

Room 4 is devoted to the Gregorian Theorists and those of the Netherlands, the "organum," or parallel polyphony, and the "discant," or crossing polyphony. This room leads us from Hucbald in the ninth century to Willaert in the sixteenth, the famous founder of the Venetian school. In the illustrative part we pass from the Mediæval epoch to the rich outburst of the Renaissance. An historical society in Vienna exhibits, in a fac-simile, the old English canon "Sumer is icumen in," the composition of which, fixed as it is by experts in this country about A.D. 1240, yet remains unexplained in the historical development of the art.

Room 5 concerns Palestrina and the polyphonic music generally of the sixteenth century, the oldest popular sacred music going back to the twelfth century; and also the Volkslied, starting from the Lochamer Liederbuch, which contains the oldest polyphonic settings of popular secular song, dating from the close of the fourteenth to the beginning of the fifteenth centuries. The Minnesingers and Meistersingers are included in this division. Towards the end of this period the organ and lute prevail, and Herr Paul de Wit shows two specimens in this room, although of later date, of that rare keyboard instrument, the regal.

German and Austro-Hungarian Musical Section.

Room 6 introduces the stepping-stone to the new order in music—the Catholic and Protestant Chorale (Psalm or Hymn). The Catholic hymn books begin with a collection published at Leipzig in 1537, bearing the name of Michael Vehe. The Protestant hymn books are represented earliest here by the Wittenberg collection, by Johann Walther, Luther's friend—under date of 1537 also; but this is not the first edition, which preceded by some years. The Antiphonals, Psalters, and Graduales of the Bohemian-Moravian Brothers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries assume an important place in this noble historical collection. The theorists of this epoch are also in force. Dr. Emil Vogel places as the earliest printed work on Mensural music one by Nicolaus Burtius, lent by the Jesuit College at Vienna, the date being A.D. 1487. Virdung's "Musica getutscht" very properly appears as the oldest work in the instrumental category; it is dated A.D. 1511. It is unfortunate there is no copy here (even the reprint) of Arnold Schlick's work upon the organ, dated in the same year. Luscinius, stated in a foot-note as being a parallel to Virdung, should be rather (A.D. 1536) a translation of Virdung into Latin. Among the theorists of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries appear, of course, Zarlino (1571) and the Spanish Salinas (1577), the perfecter of the mean tone temperament, which broke up the Pythagorean tuning; the first steps towards it are to be found in the work already mentioned of Schlick. It was the battle of the major third.

Room 7 contains the complete collection, rightly characterised by Dr. Adler as priceless, of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand. Here are three cases of wind and stringed instruments of nearly every kind appertaining to the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Among the famous makers of stringed instruments appear the names of Tieffenbrucker, Laux Maller, Gaspar da Salò, Maggini, Stainer, and Stradivarius. The handiwork of Wendelin Venere, the maker of the writer's grand lute that was Carl Engel's, and of Mr. Lock's beautiful theorbo, neither of which are at Vienna, occurs in four specimens in the Archduke's collection. There is a theorbo, "1611, Padova Vvendelio Venere"; a lute, "Padova Vvendelio Venere de Leonardo Tiefembruker, 1582"; a small lute, "Vvendelino Venere"; and a "harpcither," "Padova Vvendelio Venere de Leonardo Tieffenbrucker." Now what was the connection between this Wenzel Venus, possibly a Tyrolese, with his possible fellow-countryman, at least by descent, Leonard Tieffenbrucker? The "de" is Latin, not Italian, and is here to be translated "with." But the question is not quite so easily answered, as in the same case there is a Lyra di Gamba, inscribed "In Padoa Vendelinus Tieffenbruker," and written in ink on the peg-box, "Vendelinus Tieffenbruker F. in Padoua." Was this Wendelin and he bearing the surname Venere one and the same person? While Padua is prominently before us, what we in England write and call Pavane is in this Exhibition usually Paduane; which may be fatal to the peacock theory in the modern revival of the dance. The arrangement of these instruments, as of nearly all, has been placed in the able hands of Herr Paul de Wit; himself, as we shall see, an important exhibitor in this specialty. In the same Room 7 is shown the development of music printing and engraving, beginning with a Venetian Roman missal dated 1485, in which the text and lines are printed and the notes inserted in writing. But the Gaforius shown in the Music Loan Collection of the Inventions Exhibition in London, 1885, printed in this way, was dated 1480. Here the earliest Gaforius, as already said, is dated 1490. A stempel is used for the notes in a Venetian processional, dated 1494. Then comes the Burtius of 1487, another copy of the work already mentioned, done by wood-block printing. Moveable metal types first occur here in a Mass by Josquin, printed at Venice by Petrucci, in 1502; and very soon such printing became common, as is shown by numerous examples.

In Room 8 we arrive at the Madrigal of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, as the polyphonic expression of secular artistic song and the stepping-stone to monody, which was attained by the Florentines Caccini, Peri, and the Venetian Monteverde, in the very first years of the seventeenth century. The copy of Caccini's "L'Euridice" that is here is dated 1600. From this point it becomes impossible, owing to the limitations of space, to further continue the History of Musical Composition as it is placed before those who visit this remarkable Exhibition.

Room 9 is devoted to Orlando di Lasso, and the growth and flowering of music in the Bavarian School in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The first number is a lithograph of the monument in the Frauenkirche, Munich, to the oldest known organist, the blind Conrad Paumann. He died in 1476. There is a plaster cast of this monument in South Kensington Museum. Here is also the "Buxheimer" organ book, a manuscript in mensural notes on seven lines, with an organ tablature written beneath. It contains, amongst other fifteenth century music, the "Fundamentum" of Paumann. His organ performance, thus indicated, was upon the positive, or narrow keyboard small organ. The wide-keyed church organ of that date was not advanced enough for Paumann's technique.

Room 10 continues the development of music printing and engraving and the works of the Theorists of the seventeenth century, with examples, of course, of Praetorius, Mersenne, and Kircher. There is a manuscript instruction book in composition by Sweelinck, copied by Reincken, another famous organist. It should, however, be noted in passing that Sweelinck was a Dutchman; but we may assume that, like Carissimi and others who were not Germans, his work appears as having influenced the German school. In this room is shown the splendid instrumental contribution of Herr Paul de Wit, of Leipzig, the energetic and enthusiastic collector, to whom Berlin owes the foundation of its fine Instrumental Museum. An expression of regret may be justified that our own very comprehensive collection of musical instruments belonging to South Kensington Museum is treated as if the insufficient accommodation accorded to it were grudged.

In Room 11 organ and lute music in tablature is well displayed with German, Italian, and French examples of the best composers. Room 12 is devoted to an excellent selection from the Royal collection of the Hoch-Schule at Berlin. It is chiefly intended to show German progress in instrument making, but some foreign examples are introduced to assist comparison. Room 13 contains the complete musical collection of Baron Nathaniel von Rothschild, arranged by himself. Room 14 is devoted to popular song among Austrian nationalities. Among the instruments which are distributed through all the rooms, without exact accordance with the contents in the cases, is an Italian Portative organ, an instrument even more rare than the regal. There is also, in this room, a collection of the works composed by Princes and other exalted personages. In Room 15 Opera as performed in the seventeenth and part of the eighteenth centuries at Munich, Vienna, Dresden, Hamburg, and Salzburg is shown. Rooms 16 and 17 are for music of the eighteenth century, and in the latter is a stringed instrument collection contributed by Herr Karl Zach, of Vienna, containing specimens of the violins of Stainer, the Amatis, Stradivarius, and Joseph Guarnerius del Gesù.

Room 17 must be one of the most interesting in the whole Exhibition, as here are the special collections devoted to Handel, the Bachs, Gluck, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, and Schubert—in short, the great classics of the art. The objects exhibited relating to Handel are materially supplemented in the British Section by the loans of H.M. the Queen, from Buckingham Palace and Windsor. The autograph score of "Israel in Egypt" and the harpsichord Handel left to the King in his will need only be named. In the Bach collection is the harpsichord that was John Sebastian's, lent from Berlin. By the bye, Haydn's harpsichord, made by Shudi and Broadwood, of London, with two keyboards and Venetian swell, is shown here in the collection of the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde, without any reference to its having belonged to the great composer and subsequently to Herbeck.

In the Beethoven collection is the grand pianoforte made by John Broadwood and Sons, of London, and given to the great musician by Thomas Broadwood in 1818. This pianoforte remained with Beethoven until his death. He would allow only one man, Stumpff, to tune it. Madame Schumann's father, Friedrich Wieck, recorded Beethoven's affection for this instrument. His letter in acknowledgment of the gift has been often quoted. This pianoforte was long in the possession of Franz Liszt, who kept it at Weimar, and it was due to his being in Rome when asked to lend it for the Music Loan Collection of 1885 that it was not then exhibited in London. It now belongs to the National Museum at Budapesth. Quoting from the catalogue, the name "Beethoven" is inlaid, and the wrestplank bears the following inscription: "Hoc Instrumentum est Thomæ Broadwood (Londini), donum propter ingenium illustrissimi Beethoven." This is followed by the autographs, written in ink, of Ferd. Ries, J. B. Cramer, G. G. Fe—ai (? sic), and C. Knyvett. Let us supply the illegible name. It is G. G. Ferrari, who visited Beethoven at Vienna with Thomas Broadwood.

The Romantics are located in Room 21. These are Weber, Meyerbeer, Spohr, Marschner, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Liszt, and Chopin. The Chopin collection is stated to be the beginning of a special division under the control of a Committee for Polish Art. There is shown a Pleyel pianoforte that was Chopin's from 1847 to 1849; and a pianoforte upon which he played in the salon of the Potocki family. He was in England in 1848, when he used Broadwood's pianos. It seems strange, but there is no pianoforte shown as having belonged to Liszt; but yet more strange that the name of Henselt occurs only once in this voluminous catalogue, and that is only by chance on account of his portrait happening to appear in a lithographed plate of pianists. Perhaps Russia supplies this deficiency. There appears to have been a difference of opinion as to whether Richard Wagner should appear in the music or drama division. The musical votes, however, gained the day, and the separate exhibition contained in the Hall of the Gibichungs is here catalogued, a worthy monument to this composer. It is impossible to dissect this splendid special collection, but much that belongs to the dramatic side should not pass unnoticed. The sketches for the scenery at Bayreuth, the Maquettes for the music-dramas made expressly for the King of Bavaria, the studies for the costumes in "Parsifal," may be taken almost haphazard from the catalogue as provoking interest.

All the rooms throughout the Exhibition are hung with portraits and appropriate pictures. There is a special department for the Musical and Concert Societies, and also for education, presided over by the Freiherr von Weckbecker.

Unlike in this country, where the State institutions cannot lend to loan exhibitions, the Austrian and German museums and libraries are among the most important contributors. In conclusion, we have to say that the indispensable Index is here very well done, and we have observed few errors, and those are attributable to the printer. One, however, is more serious. Professor Ernst Pauer should not be classed among the deceased composers and virtuosi of Germany. He has been settled in London for the past forty years, and should appear, in this catalogue, among the living Austrian composers and pianists.

A. J. H.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. SHEDLOCK, B.A.

(Continued from p. 465.)

PIANOFORTE CONCERTOS.

AMONG the works composed by Beethoven during his first years in Vienna (1792-5) were the two Pianoforte Concertos in C and B flat (Op. 15 and Op. 19); and from a letter addressed by the composer to Breitkopf and Härtel (April 22, 1801) we learn that the second of the two was written first. Beethoven speaks of the B flat Concerto as "one of my first Concertos" ("eines von meinen ersten Konzerten"). He had, as a matter of fact, composed at least one work of that kind in Bonn. One is mentioned by Thayer (Vol. I., p. 128) as having been written in 1784; and an old sketch of an Adagio in D for a Concerto in A has already been published in these columns. On sheets (64 and 65) is to be found a long sketch of the Rondo theme of the B flat Concerto. It commences—with the up-beat, thus differing from the printed version. A trace of this original form may be seen in the score (B. and H., p. 47)—

This very passage is in the sketch under notice. The phrase in G minor commences also in similar fashion—

The following gives one some idea of the master's gradual evolution of themes. In the published score (transition passage to the dominant key) we find—but in sketch book we first meet with—

The above, of course, should be read in the treble clef. On another sheet there are further sketches for the Finale. The theme in the dominant key appears thus—

There are also some sketches of the 1st movement. It is, for instance, interesting to compare—of the published score, with sketch—

The same sheet contains long sketches of the slow movement of this Concerto.

While at work on this Rondo Beethoven was sketching the three movements of the Pianoforte Sonata in E (Op. 14, No. 1; not published, however, until the end of 1799). On the page before the beginning of the Rondo sketch, we find—which may be the germ whence sprang the middle movement (Allegretto) of that Sonata. It is followed immediately by the lovely bit of phrase (most probably in the key of D)—

Other sketches have been noticed in connection with the Sonata itself (see MUSICAL TIMES for August). On page 89 of the Notirungsbuch there are a few bars written out in score; it is the return to the principal theme of the first movement of the Concerto, but differs from the printed version. On the next page there are some jottings down, possibly for a Cadenza. The following sketch is interesting—

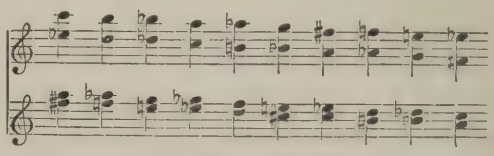
On the same sheet we meet with—which is the familiar figure of the opening Allegro of the C major Concerto. The following may very possibly refer to the passage leading to the return of the principal theme in the same movement—



Now with regard to the two Pianoforte Concertos in C and B flat, there is some doubt as to the period of their composition and of their completion. Thayer (L. von Beethoven's "Leben," Vol. I., p. 294) tells us that the one in C was played by the composer at a Concert given in the Burgtheater on March 29, 1795, and Sir George Grove quotes that statement of Thayer's in his article "Beethoven," in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians." G. Nottebohm, on the other hand, in his Zweite Beethoveniana, states as his opinion that the Concerto performed on that occasion was the one in B flat, and adds that there is no proof that the one in C was ready by that date. Our sketch book just throws a little fresh light on this matter.

On the first page of sheet 97-98 we have—a sketch for the Finale with the later (commencing on the down beat) form of the principal theme. Again this later form is shown in—written lower down on the same page.

Now at the top of the next page stands—which is surely an early sketch of the principal theme of the opening movement of the Concerto in C; and then follows a sketch marked zten Theil in Es, which bears a resemblance to the E flat section of the same movement. This would certainly seem to show that when the Concerto in B flat was well advanced, the principal theme of the one in C was, as yet, in undetermined shape. There are many other sketches on this sheet, and, so far as some of them can be made out, they seem to refer to an early period. Does not this—recall another early sketch (mentioned in first article on the Trios) connected with the Finale of the Trio in G (Op. 1, No. 2)? And this—the Andante theme in the Serenade (Op. 8)?

Again, on November 22, 1795, "Zwölf Deutsche Tänze," by Beethoven, were performed in the Redoutensaal, Vienna, at a ball given by the Gesellschaft der bildenden Künstler. Now, on the first page of sheet 72 there is a long and interesting sketch of the whole of the Coda to these dances—

This sketch agrees exactly with the printed version, and most probably the dances were sketched and completed not long before their production. And on the other side of the page we meet with—which recalls the opening of Cadenza (No. 1) written by Beethoven for his Concerto in C, while the following—is the well-known phrase from the first movement of the same. It almost seems as if Beethoven were still at work at the Concerto late in 1795, and as if Nottebohm were correct in his supposition.

The two Concertos in C and B flat were not published until the year 1801—the former in the spring, the latter towards the close of that year. On sheet 113 there is a long sketch of the Allegro of the C major Concerto; it covers the whole of the first page. On the other side we find—the theme of the Largo, but in a different key and time (3-4 instead of common time).

Of the Concerto in C minor there are three sketches. One—for the first movement, and—one of the Rondo, which, the first two notes excepted, differs entirely from the printed version.

No. 3 is apparently for the Cadenza—

(To be continued.)

FROM MY STUDY.

THE familiar heading of these papers is just now inapplicable. I am not writing in my study, and several weeks ago I ceased, pro tem., to be a student of books, unless he is a student of books who now and then takes up Mr. Jerome's Idler, or dips into the pages of "Shirley" for a hearty laugh at Currer Bell's delicious curates. In the beginning of August, I found the study hot and close; pervaded, moreover, by an odour of old leather, and curiously contracted, as though the walls had somehow been drawn in. Ordinarily, it is large enough, for, though I can march from wall to wall in a few strides, its contents open to me boundless horizons, stretching away to infinity. But with August came a change, and I put it all down to a blackbird. That shy musician of the woods and fields still lingers in some old gardens within five miles of Charing Cross, and, at the season when spring flowers bloom and love stirs anew, he pipes his lay and fills the air with delight. He is fond of my garden, and so constant to it that we look upon him as part of the establishment. He is "our blackbird." We hail his first notes in spring-time, and, during the silent season, a glimpse of his plump form is as refreshing as the hand-grasp of a friend. There are moments during that silent season when he suddenly becomes vocal, and, under pressure of controlling emotion, sings in a fitful, evanescent way. Thus he burst forth on one of the closing days of July, and when the familiar but unexpected notes struck my ear, there came over me a sensation such as one feels who is "cribbed, cabined, and confined." Like Sterne's famous starling, I wanted to "get out." I had thoughts of breezy hill-tops, and the murmur of the wind among beeches and maples; of winding lanes, trending down into shady valleys and up again to where fleecy clouds hang just overhead and receive the larks into their recesses. In fancy's ear I heard the music of the mill-stream, and, with an equally ethereal sense, felt the sweep of the breeze over a lofty moorland. So potent was the voice of the blackbird, though untimely.

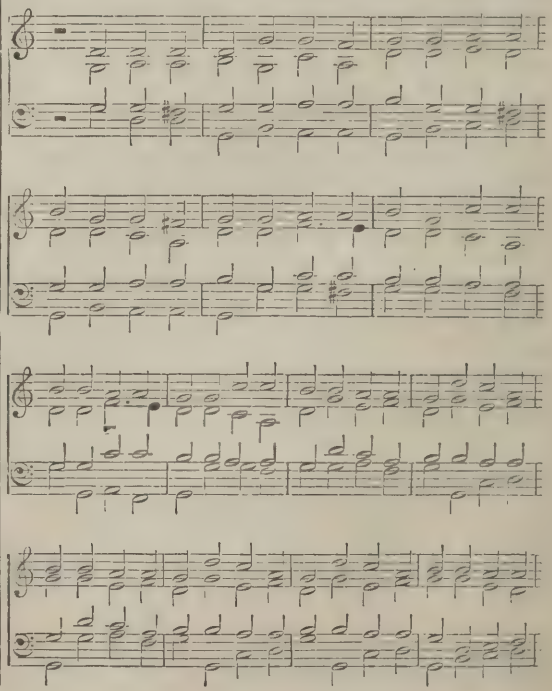
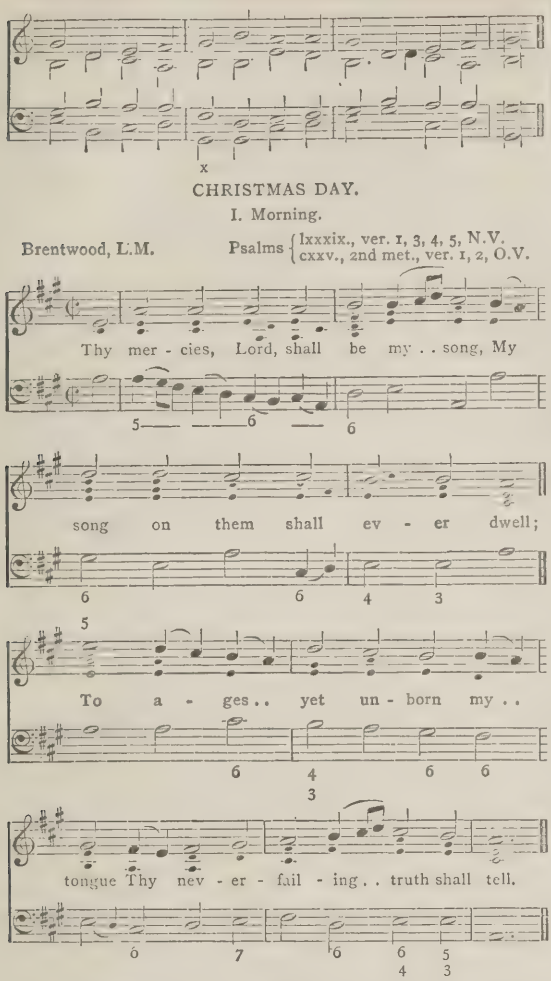
I am writing this on the hill-top of my vision, "close to the edge of a noble down," as sings the Laureate, and when I raise my eyes from the paper they range over miles of woodland and pasture, of ripening grain crops and rugged heath. That expanse is my present study, and he must be a dullard indeed who cannot find here "books in the running brooks," who cannot learn the lesson of the glorious light that floods the scene, of the shadows that darken it, of the thousand voices of nature, of the stillness that comes when night hushes them, and of the little flower that, under the lee of a thorn bush, closes its tender eye in sleep. Music!—one scarcely wants it. A robin sings before my door in spasms of uncontrollable delight. His notes tumble over each other in their hurry to get out, and almost choke him. The burst is soon over, and soon renewed. The brave red breast heaves, and the little form vibrates with excitement. Last night thunder rolled. It came with a sharp cracking overhead that presently swelled to a roar; the hills caught it and flung it to each other in gigantic sport; it lumbered away up one ravine and came back down another; it played at cresc. and dim. in the recesses of the landscape, and then grumbled itself to silence in the far distance. Between the shrill clatter of the robin's hurrying notes and the loud bass of the thunder, ears attuned to such music distinguish a thousand intermediate voices, all blending in subtlest harmony. That other music, about which we write, and sometimes quarrel, comes here with the air of an intruder. But it does come; various as to form, diverse as to effect on temper and spirit. The other day, a youngster started up from behind a hedge of wild clematis and whistled "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay." I could have kicked him. Through the hush of a still evening came the notes of the "Maiden's Prayer," played on an ancient pianoforte. Distance lent to the strain such enchantment as it had. Sometimes the booming of an organ is heard over the rugged common which separates me from the village church, and, by intent listening, I make out "Dundee" or "Rockingham," or "plaintive 'Martyrs,' worthy of the name." More rarely, the village brass band blares and drums in the chapel schoolroom above, and once I caught the twang of a Tyrolean hurdy-gurdy, lost, I should say, among these hills. A propos, I met a man the other day who assured me that the family of instruments, wind and string, once expelled from our villages—mainly by cheap organs and wheezy harmoniums—is coming back to them again, and putting in an appearance at church and chapel, as their wont was. I accepted his statement because I wanted to believe it. There have been few days more dark for music in England than that which saw the village orchestra turned out of the Church. It was not always tuneful. It often provoked the mirth of men who did not share with Theseus, Duke of Athens, a belief that nothing should come amiss when simpleness and duty tender it. But the village orchestra was the beginning of possibly great things, and its revival is a consummation ardently to be desired. Hereabouts, I have met with no case of resuscitation. Have any of my correspondents done so?

I have received from Mr. Andrew Deakin a compressed score of Tallis's canonic tune, now sung to Ken's Evening Hymn, as it appears in Parker's Psalter. Also a copy of the same tune in its most degraded form, taken from Hugh Bond's "Psalms of David in Metre." Bond was an organist and lay-vicar at Exeter towards the close of the last century, and his version of the tune is the one commonly used in the West of England, where, however, it has since been even more corrupted. I place the ancient and modern versions in juxtaposition as presenting a striking case of perversion, and because I wish, with the help of my readers, to trace the changes which led from one to the other:—

Compressed score of Tallis's Tune, inserted in "The Life of Ken, by a Layman" (1854), transcribed by J. Helmore from Archbishop Parker's Psalter, in British Museum.





CHRISTMAS DAY.
I. Morning.
Brentwood, L.M.
Psalms { lxxxix., ver. 1, 3, 4, 5, N.V.
cxxv., 2nd met., ver. 1, 2, O.V.
Thy mer - cies, Lord, shall be my . . song, My song on them shall ev - er dwell;
To a - ges . . yet un - born my . .
tongue Thy nev - er - fail - ing . . truth shall tell.

Mr. Deakin is also thanked for a useful contribution to the bibliography of the seventeenth century crusade against the stage. He writes:—

In connection with "Gosson" and "School of Abuse" question I send you some titles from my MS. list, which may prove new contributions to the subject:—

1521.—Maner of Dauncyng base daunces after the vse of Fraunce, and other places, Translated out of Frenche into Englishe by Robert Coplande.

1578.—A booke wherein Dycing, Dauncing, vaine playenge and Interludes with other idle pastimes, &c., comonlie vsed on the Saboth Daie, are reproved, by J. Northbrooke.

Circa 1579.—A Treatise in Defence of Plays, by Thomas Lodge.

1580.—A Dialogue of Dauncing (Anon.).

1580.—A Ringing Retraite Courageouslie sounded, Wherein Plays and Players are fytlie confounded (Anon.).

1580.—A second and third Blast of Retrait from Plaies and Theatres; the one whereof was sounded by a Reverend Byshop, dead long since; the other by a worshipful and zealous Gentleman now alive. One shewing the filthiness of Plaies in times past: the other the abomniation of Theatres in the present time: both expressly proving that that Commonweale is nigh unto the Curse of God wherein either Plaies be made or Theatres maintained; set forth by Anglo-Phile Eutheo.

1580.—Playes confuted in five Actions, proving that they are not to be suffered in a Christian Commonweale; by the waye both of the Canils of Thomas Lodge, and the Play of Playes, written in their defence, and other objections of Players frendes, are treely set downe and directly aunswered, by Stephen Gosson.

1581.—A Dialogue between Custom and Veritie, concerning the Use and Abuse of Dauncing and Minstrelsie. (in verse), by Thomas Lovell.

1582.—Dialogue against Light, Lewde, and Lascivious Dauncing, wherein are refuted all those reasons which the common people bring in defence thereof; by the Rev. Charles Featherstone.

1586.—The Praise of Musicke: wherein its Antiquity, Dignity, Delectation, and Use, are discussed by John Case.

1587.—A Mirrour of Monsters: wherein is plainly described the manifold Vices and spotted Enormities that are caused by the infectious sights of Playes, with the description of the subtile slights of Sathan in making them his instruments, by William Rankins.

1595.—The Overthrow of Stage-Plays, by the Way of Controversie betwixt D. Gager and him; by John Rainholds.

1610.—Apology for Actors; containing three briefe treatises—i., Their Antiquity; ii., Their Ancient Dignity; and iii., The true Use of their Quality; by Thomas Heywood.

1629.—A short treatise of Altars, Altar-Furniture, Altar-cringing, Musick of all the Time, Singing Men, and Choristers, when the Holy Communion was administered in the Cathedral Church of Durham, by Prebendaries, and Petty Canons, in glorious copes, embroidered with Images (Anon.).

1633.—Histrio-Mastix, the Players Scourage, &c., by William Prynne (? 1632).

Here the Controversy about Plays seems to have ended, to be succeeded by one concerning Organical and Instrumental Music in Churches.

Will readers who possess such of the foregoing works as are little known, or who may have leisure at the British Museum, send me whatever particulars concerning them may appear interesting?

In the sketch of Charles Dibdin's life written by "W. H. H." for Grove's Dictionary, it is stated: "He (Dibdin) composed some of the music for the Shakespeare Jubilee at Stratford-on-Avon in that year" (1768). The private library of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., in Berners Street, contains a thin folio entitled:

"Shakespeare's Garland, or the Warwickshire Jubilee, being a Collection of Ballads, &c., as performed in the Great Booth at Stratford-upon-Avon, composed by Mr. Dibdin. London, Printed and Sold by John Johnston, at No. 11, York St., Covent Garden, of whom may be had the Ode to Shakespeare, composed by Dr. Arne; Queen Mab, a Cantata, by the Author and Composer of the Padlock,* and new Minuets, Cotillions, and Country Dances, composed for the Jubilee at Stratford-on-Avon."

"Shakespeare's Garland" is in two parts; the first containing four ballads, as sung in the Great Booth at Stratford; the second being a collection of pieces for one or two voices, "as performed at the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane," about the time of the Jubilee. Taking the collection in order, we first have a ballad entitled "Sweet Willy." It is a glorification of Shakespeare in five stanzas:

The Pride of all Nations was sweet Willy O;
The first of all Swains,
He gladdened the Plains;
None ever was like to the sweet Willy O.

The second stanza, in accordance with the Arcadian taste of the period, represents the poet as melting each maid with the skilful strains of his pastoral pipe. Then the song goes on:

All Nature obey'd him, the sweet Willy O;
Wherever he came,
Whate'er had a Name,
Whenever he sang, followed sweet Willy O.

* The "Padlock" was a very successful musical piece written for Drury Lane by Dibdin, who achieved further distinction in his admirable performance of Mungo, one of the leading parts.

The next stanza is suggested by the tradition that Shakespeare once served in the wars:

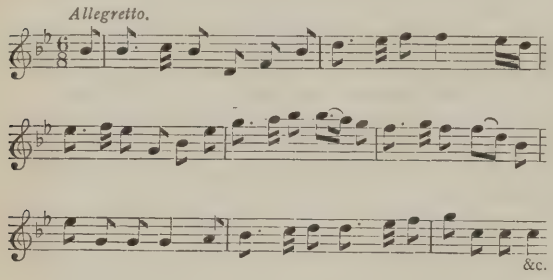
He would be a Soldier, the sweet Willy O;
When arm'd in the Field,
With sword and with shield,
The Laurel was won by the sweet Willy O.

The song thus ends:

He charm'd them when living, the sweet Willy O;
And when Willy dy'd,
'Twas Nature that sigh'd
To part with her All in sweet Willy O.

The tune set to the foregoing words is quite characteristic of Dibdin in youth*:—

The following extract will give a sufficiently accurate idea:



In the second of his Stratford songs, Dibdin celebrates the mulberry tree said to have been planted by Shakespeare in the garden of New Place. From the wood of this tree a cup had been carved, and was, if I remember rightly, presented to David Garrick, then Dibdin's patron. Our ballad-maker does not overlook the cup:

Behold this fair Goblet, 'twas carv'd from the Tree
Which, O my sweet Shakespeare, was planted by thee;
As a Relick I kiss it and bow at thy Shrine,
What comes from thy Hand must be ever divine.

Here follows a refrain:

All shall yield to the Mulberry Tree,
Bend to thee,
Blessed Mulberry;
Matchless was he
Who planted thee,
And thou, like HIM, immortal shall be.

The bard vaunts the superiority of the mulberry over all the trees of the field—

Ye trees of the forest, so rampant and high,
Who spread round your branches, whose heads sweep the sky,
Ye curious exotics, whom taste has brought here,
To root out the natives at prices so dear,
All shall yield to the mulberry tree, &c.

The bard declares there is no garden like that of Shakespeare—

Let Venus delight in her gay Myrtyle (sic) Bowers,
Pomona in Fruit trees and Flora in Flowers,
The Garden of Shakespeare all Fancies will suit,
With the sweetest of Flowers and the fairest of Fruit.
And all shall yield, &c.

The bard finds in Shakespeare the highest good—

With learning and knowledge the well-letter'd Birch
Supplies Law and Physic and Grace for the Church,
But Law and the Gospel in Shakespeare we find,
And He gives the best Physic for Body and Mind.
And all shall yield, &c.

Finally, the bard makes a proposition—

Then each take a Relick of this hallowed Tree,
From Folly and Fashion a charm let it be;
Fill to the PLANTER the Cup to the Brim,
To honour your Country do Honour to HIM.
And all shall yield, &c.

The third song, "The Jubilee, a Roun-de-lay," is much the best of the group, as regards both words and music. After invoking the Muses to follow him to Stratford, the poet proceeds—

On Avon's banks, where Shakespeare's Bust
Points out and guards his sleeping Dust,
The Sons of scenic Mirth agree
To celebrate this Jubilee.

Come, Daughters, come, and bring with you
The Ariel Sprite and fairy Crew,
And the Sister Graces three
To celebrate this Jubilee.

From Birnam Wood and Bosworth Field,
Bring the Standard, bring the Shield,
With Drums and Martial Symphony,
To celebrate this Jubilee.

In mournful Numbers now relate
Poor Desdemona's helpless fate,
With frantic Deeds of Jealousy,
To celebrate this Jubilee.

Now in jocund Strains recite
The humours of the braggart Knight—
Fat Knight and Ancient Pistol, He,
To celebrate this Jubilee.

The tune to these verses is very animated, and singularly Handelian in character. Dibdin wrote few better, of its kind.

Last of the Stratford songs is one entitled "The Warwickshire Lad," and in it we have praise of Shakespeare in another form—

Ye Warwickshire Lads and ye Lasses,
See what at our Jubilee passes,
Come, revel away; rejoice and be glad,
For the Lad of all Lads was a Warwickshire Lad.

* * * *

Our Shakespeare compared is to no Man,
Nor Frenchman, nor Grecian, nor Roman;
Their Swans are all Geese to the Avon's sweet Swan,
And the Man of all Men was a Warwickshire Man.

Old Ben, Thomas Otway, John Dryden,
And half a score more we take Pride in,
Of famous Will Congreve we boast, too, the skill,
But the Will of all Wills was a Warwickshire Will.

The tune is commonplace.

Among the songs sung at Drury Lane, and not in the "Great Booth" at Stratford, is one for two voices, entitled "A Serenade." From this I shall make no extract, seeing that both words and music are pointless. A better example is an effusion headed "Sung by Miss Radley," in which the bard speaks from the point of view of one who despises poetry. "About whom is all this fuss?" he asks, and goes on—

A Prince or a Statesman!
It can't be a Poet, O no;
Your Poet is poor,
And nobody, sure,
Regards a poor Poet, I trow.
The rich ones we prize,
Send them up to the skies;
But not a poor Poet, who lived
Lord knows how long ago.

The last piece is a duet (sung by Mrs. Baddeley and Miss Radley), in which it appears that there is some comfort in not having a Shakespeare amongst us—

Let us sing it and dance it,
Rejoice it and prance it,
That no Man has now such an Art;
What would come of us all,
Both great ones and small,
Did he now live to peep in each Heart?

Though sins I have none,
I am glad he is gone,
No Maid could live near such a Man.

Which is certainly an ingenious compliment.

A fresh breeze, health-laden, comes through my open casement; clouds are chasing each other across a vast expanse of sky, and playful shadows are mocking them on the hill-sides. The sun shines merrily and—there is the robin again! Pardon me, gentle reader, if I now put aside Messrs. Novello's old book, turn from the ghosts of those who strutted their little hour at Stratford a hundred and thirty years ago, and go for a stroll.

X.

* The Composer was twenty-three in the Jubilee year.

THE MUSIC OF WATER.

The Music of Water may be divided into two orders—the natural and the artificial. The existence of the latter may come as news to many, for although music has made use of many strange mediums for the exhibition of sound, has extracted harmonious notes from the most unlikely substances, water has never, within the scope of ordinary experience, been subjected to such a treatment for the purposes of art. Doubtless the peculiarly romantic sound of water in cascades and mountain torrents first impressed man with the conception that water might be employed as a material for consciously producing music. Water, more than any other element in nature, is the essentially musical substance in the world. Wind, which can whistle, sigh, and moan, if we were to trust only to the encomiums of poets, would undoubtedly be conceded the superiority over water; but its sound is more commonplace, more coarse, and more intermittent. While the wind on a moor sighs in gusts and dies a hundred times ere one has walked a mile, the prattle of the brook by the wayside is continuous; and its never-ceasing murmur can be analysed with far greater success than can the spasmodic utterances of the blast. The gurgling of a brook is one of the most musically satisfying sounds in nature, because it embodies the trill—the essence of all variety, the sweetest decoration of musical melody, and the main element in the music of birds, whose warbling we acknowledge to be the most finished utterance of uneducated minstrelsy. None of the sounds intoned by the wind can compare for a moment with so artful an expression of tone as this. The rippling of a cascade owes its beauty to that same embodiment of the trill which is found in the brook, and even down to its most diminished form, the mere trickling of water from one moss-grown stone to another exhibits this special feature. Many find a singular beauty in the tone of a cascade when, almost dried up in the summer time, it does little more than drip in silvery drops from its hollowed basin above to a slab of rock below. The secret of this pleasure is the regularity of the sound, which, by recurring moment after moment with a trifling interval between each, mimics the effect of musical rhythm and is mysteriously charming to the mind. Water alone, of all substances in nature, is capable of such rhythmic effects in its own natural state. Such, likewise, is the secret of the pleasure which many feel in listening to the patter of rain. There is a rhythm in the sound of rain, still more in that of hail, which has a fascination to those who choose to study it. It may be heard to perfection in the thundershower, owing to the lull in the air which generally precedes the advent of a storm; and in the pauses of a thunderstorm the rhythm of the rain may be listened to with awe as the essentially musical moment in the conflict of the elements.

To sit on a bridge and drop pebbles in a brook by moonlight, when all the world is still, is an occupation which those who are interested in nature's sounds will sometimes beguile their fancy by pursuing, and never without delight. The crisp staccato note of the water as the pebble enters it is no less beautiful than the full and copious tone with which the stone buries itself in the depths. The splash of water is a very varied thing, and, strange to say, it was this feature of water's music which first attracted the attention of man to the artificial imitation of its melody. The Greeks, whose ear for the nicest gradations of sound must have been marvellously acute, were accustomed to amuse their idle hours by a highly æsthetic game, the object of which was to divine good or ill fortune in love. Originating presumably with listening to the splash of falling water and taking omens from some nymph-haunted fountain, where the deities were supposed to give signs by the sound, the game was framed at least with an allusion to such an original: A large basin of polished metal, of such fine material that the slightest concussion would produce a sharp and ringing sound, was suspended in the air at a convenient height from the ground, and generally with a large tank of water beneath it so as to prevent the floor being splashed when the metal basin was missed by the thrower. At a certain distance from this a chalk line was drawn on the floor, and the players stood toeing this line, each with a cupful of water in his hand ready to throw the contents in turn into the metal basin, at the signal given by the director of the game. Sometimes wine was used instead of water by the better classes, but in all cases the method of procedure was the same. The player stretched out his arm and with a quick turn of the wrist launched the water of his cup in a full and well collected stream through the air, having so directed it that it should fall exactly in the middle of the metal basin. There was an interval of silence, while all present listened to the splash of the water on the metal. According as it was firm, strong, faint, thin, unsteady, or scattered, so was the excellence of the cast determined. Each player in the party threw in turn, and over and over again in the course of the game; yet there seems never to have been any difficulty in deciding the respective superiority of the various casts. To us, unaccustomed to pay any attention to a sound so homely as the splash of water, a decision on its various grades of timbre would be plainly out of the question; yet the possibility of analysing such a sound has been shown by what we have mentioned above, analysing it too with as much minuteness as separates the various notes of the scale. So fond were the Greeks of this extraordinary game, that public courts were built in their cities for the purpose of playing it, and among the idlers of the towns the artistic pastime was as favourite and engrossing a pursuit as tennis or racquets with us.

The natural melody of which water is susceptible, without any human interference to direct it in any way, has been shown most conclusively by a philosophical experiment, made by the French chemist, De la Rive. This gentleman, suspecting that an inherent melody resided in the substance, which, under certain conditions, was made palpable to the ear, tried several plans for extracting the sound of water in the most abstract manner possible, and succeeded in eliciting the pure tone of the element at last. His method was to condense vapour in a thermometer by a peculiar process, not necessary to be alluded to here. The vapour in the bulb of the thermometer (when it passed off into liquid) emitted, at each condensation, musical notes of great power and sweetness, for which he could assign no reason, and which we must be content to explain on the same principle merely, that when a tightened string is struck a musical tone comes. Even when water is hardened and has become ice the element does not lose its musical capabilities, and recent observations have gone to show that through any large sheet of ice there is always some one note humming, whose pitch varies according as the ice is thick or thin. In thin ice the dominant note is a high one; in thick ice a low one. An enthusiastic experimentalist has even gone so far as to insist that he can determine the safety of the ice for purposes of skating by reference to the note which the pond at large is humming. According to this ingenious discoverer no ice is safe unless its note is lower than C on the first ledger line above the bass clef.

Possibly, in a primitive state of society, before men had become chained to particular types of instrument, the melody of water would strike the human mind as possessing certain possibilities which would be ignored by civilised man. When a savage was hollowing out a log to make into a drum, the prattle of the brook hard by would seem as natural a source of musical possibilities as the trees around him, from the stump of one of which he had with labour begun to fashion his primitive musical instrument. Certain it is that uncivilised men develop and employ the sound of water for the purpose of musical enjoyment to an extent which we can have no conception of. Among certain tribes of the Lower Amazon, in South America, a musical instrument is in use which for oddity has had no parallel in the world. The sound is simply that of flowing water, and the instrument itself is so contrived that the water from one vase or vessel may be poured automatically into the other, and so continue without any labour to the listener in regulating the arrangements. As to what intervention is necessary with regard to starting the instrument and periodically attending to it we are not aware, as the accounts are discrepant which describe it to us. Its patrons and inventors, however, the Brazilian tribes with whom it is found, are said to sit listening entranced to the melody. Occasionally, an ardent admirer of the instrument will linger by it for hours together, with as much delight as we should dally over lute or guitar.

Certain North American tribes used to exhibit a partiality for the sound of splashing water over trickling, and to compass their desire, they formed instruments almost as singular as the preceding, and more intelligible to general comprehension. A bull's hide was sown into the shape of a tortoise, and, all the interstices being made watertight, was filled with water and hermetically secured. A large volume of water was in the inside of so enormous a receptacle, and most sonorous was the splashing which ensued when this instrument was played. The method of playing upon it was to strike the hide with heavy drumsticks, which produced the necessary effect upon the liquid within. So singular was this instrument deemed, even by the Indians themselves, that they invented a fable to account for its existence. They declared that into such an instrument the waters of the Deluge, when they covered the earth, were drawn off, and that to perpetuate the great blessing which this conferred on mankind they continue to manufacture such instruments to the present day. In the medicine mysteries of many of the tribes, this latter idea was carried to its logical completion. Four tortoises were declared to have received the waters of the Deluge—each tortoise swallowing the inundation of one quarter of the world. Accordingly the drums in the medicine mysteries were always four in number, and so disposed as to indicate the four points of the compass. Similar instruments, though less elaborate in shape, have occasionally been found in South Africa by travellers, and possibly we might hear of their existence elsewhere, were our information with respect to uncivilised peoples more exact than it is at present.

A singular fact in connection with the subject we are treating of is the immense mass of legends among all people and in all ages, which derive instruments of music in a fabulous manner from the water. From the simple natives of Guiana, who declare that a spirit, named the Orehu, dived into the water to fetch up their chief musical instrument, the rattle, to the cultivated and refined Greeks, who averred that the lyre, the gift of Mercury to man, was originally brought out of the abysses of the ocean; countless have been the stories relating to the same element, and connecting it similarly with music. The Assyrians believed that all their instruments were brought to them by a fish god, probably the prototype of the Phœnician Dagon, who swam from the Persian Gulf with these priceless gifts in his possession; and the Mexicans averred that Tezcatlipoca, the god of music, brought the art to Mexico, and, being compelled to traverse the sea in order to reach the country, made a bridge of whales and turtles for this purpose, walking over their backs through the waves. The Hindoos, Chinese, and other nations have legends no less singular, relating to the same fictitious origin of music. Such coincidence presents an inexplicable riddle, which, meanwhile, there has been no satisfactory attempt at solving.

But we are allowing ourselves to drift from the "music of water" to the yet more recondite consideration of water as the origin of music—a fanciful theme we do not propose to pursue.

In antiquity the adaptability of water to musical purposes early attracted the attention of inventors. Water-clocks were a useful and important discovery, which speedily assumed an artistic and musical form. The original idea of these pieces of mechanism was the dripping of water from one vase into another, which proceeding at the rate of drop by drop gave an exact indication of the time occupied in the exhaustion of the vase, and thus served for all the purposes of a clock. So thoroughly identified were the two things that the expression, "What is the water?" was a perfect equivalent for "What is the time?" and the Greek orators spoke freely of "the water of their orations," meaning the space of time consumed in their delivery. Since water-clocks, though admirable indications of time by day, would plainly be of no service at night, an inventor bethought himself of a plan by which the water, creating wind by the propulsion of a little wheel, should thus breathe air through a tiny flute, which thereupon uttered a soft and melodious sound. This flute was so contrived, or, rather, the revolution of the wheel which formed it, that the hours of the night could be sounded in their order. From these beginnings a most extraordinary musical instrument was invented, more elaborate than any we have yet described, yet difficult to grasp in its complete mechanism, owing to no specimen or no drawing of it having been preserved to us. It was a box of flutes, wherein the instruments were set on end similarly to the method adopted with the pipes of an organ. This box was placed above a large vase containing water, the ends of the flutes being open and turned downwards towards the water. According to the commonly received account, the water was agitated by a boy, and the wind thus created in the interior of the instrument set the flutes playing. Such motion of the water, however, seems inadequate to producing the effect designed. More probably wind was pumped through the water by means of pistons and levers, and the current of air thus admitted into the pipes caused them to sound.

In order to convert this mechanism of quaint and ill-regulated melody into a practicable and manageable instrument, nothing more was wanted but the addition of slides to the pipes, which could open and shut them at pleasure. By this simple means the sound could be directed and governed; and nothing more but the addition of keys, connected by strings with the slides so as to command them at the will of the player, was required to turn this water-flute into an organ.

Water remained the concomitant of organs for almost a thousand years from that date onwards. The office fulfilled by the water was not that of a mere hydraulic appendage that can be dispensed with, as with us; the element was part and parcel of the organ, and the organist, wherever he went, was in company with vases full of water, funnels, pistons, and other apparatus which the water rendered necessary. This water-organ, clumsy as it may appear to be, was nevertheless not necessarily so, but certain kinds of it could be carried from place to place with ease and convenience.

Into the history of the water-organ we do not propose to enter, having already treated it at length in a former contribution to this paper. It is interesting to remark, however, for what a long time the water-organ endured in preference to that other form of the instrument which employed bellows. Even in the time of Louis the Pious, the son of Charlemagne, water-organs were still the popular form, and all organs made by George the Venetian, the celebrated builder of the age, were furnished with the hydraulic apparatus of which we propose immediately to give a description. Researches into the early history of the organ, it may be remarked, have remained a barren field for most investigators, owing to their confining their attention to the notices in Latin writers, which are few and far between. The real home of organ-building during the dark ages was not at Rome, in Italy, or even in Europe, but at Constantinople, where the organ, instead of being an obscure and neglected mechanism, was the fashionable instrument of the Greek world for centuries, being employed in the circuses, at banquets to usher in the guests, at state ceremonials, and on other public occasions, as, for instance, at those ceremonies in the Golden Hippodrome on the first Monday after Easter, when the Emperor received the acclamations of the people. Up till the downfall of the Western Empire, the fortunes of the water-organ can be followed in Italy, and receive illumination from quarters and from writers whose professed aim in description is not a musical one. Gibbon speaks of the "enormous water-organs of the theatres," which in the later Imperial times were employed in Rome; while delicacy of structure had attained a high degree of perfection, judging from the accounts in Ammianus of the portable water-organs which slaves were accustomed to carry about from house to house, in order to take part in the private concerts of their masters. At present, however, we are not considering the subject of the water-organ, but merely the water mechanism connected with the instrument, which in so far as it was auxiliary to the playing of the organ, may justly be considered as coming within the scope of "The Music of Water." This mechanism, in conclusion, we will now describe. There was, first, a large vase half full of water, which had an inverted funnel in it, connected by a pipe with a flat box or wind-chest above, which contained the wind. On each side of this vase were cylinders with pistons inside them, which were worked with levers from below like pumps. These cylinders had pipes running from them into the central vase, down through the water into the bell of the funnel. There were valves at the top, hanging by moveable chains. When, therefore, it was necessary to fill these cylinders with air, the lever was raised, the valve immediately descended, and through the hole the air rushed into the cylinder. But directly the lever was pumped downwards and the air sent rushing up the cylinders of the piston, at the first puff the valve closed at the top, the air, therefore, rushing through the pipe into the central vase of water, and down into the bell of the funnel, whither the pipe reached. From thence with redoubled force, owing to the weight of the funnel, it was driven up the funnel's pipe and into the wind-chest.

A valued correspondent sends us the following: "The Wagner performances at Covent Garden and Drury Lane have been so good that some stay-at-home critics have been wondering in what respects the chief German opera-houses, and especially the Wagner Theatre at Bayreuth, could furnish anything better. As far as concerned the principal artists, Sir Augustus Harris procured the best that was to be had, and it is obvious that even Bayreuth can do no more. It is, therefore, less in the abilities of the leading artists than in the many small matters of detail which go to make up perfection that we must look for the marks of distinction between London and Germany. Leaving for the nonce such important matters as the thoughtful and artistic stage-management, or the concealment of the orchestra—the effect of which, by the way, on not merely the balance, but even the quality of tone, is perhaps scarcely appreciated—let me take a single point in which it has always seemed to me that the German opera-houses had a distinct advantage. I refer to the lighting of the stage, a matter which has more to do with the effectiveness of a dramatic performance than seems to be generally admitted by stage-managers on this side of the Channel, if, indeed, we may judge of their principles by their practice. The erratic conduct of stage moonbeams, which always seem to dance a servile attendance on the prima donna, quite regardless of natural laws, is proverbial, and the marvellous power of the smallest property lantern to brilliantly illuminate the gloomiest and most spacious of dungeons is equally well known. It may be interesting, therefore, to quote the example of the Munich Opera House, taking two well-known scenes as an illustration: In the Dungeon Scene in 'Fidelio,' when Rocco makes his appearance, he sets his lantern near the grave, to the left of the spectator, whereupon the footlights on the same side of the stage are partially turned on, the other side of the stage being left in comparative darkness. When, however, Rocco crosses with his lantern to see whether his prisoner be still alive, the lights on the corresponding side of the stage are raised and the others lowered. Again, the second act of 'Lohengrin' furnishes an excellent illustration of this praiseworthy attention to details. As we are accustomed to see this scene presented, the complaisant moonbeams make their appearance the instant Elsa comes out into the balcony, and are turned off so soon as she retires. At Munich this is differently ordered. Before the scene between Ortrud and Telramund is over, the moon has risen and has, by degrees, illumined the balcony, so that when Elsa appears she is in a flood of light, which gradually disappears after she has left, to give way to the approach of dawn. This is, in its turn, no less artfully contrived, and though necessarily more rapid than is customary in these latitudes, is not so sudden and spasmodic as to be ludicrous. At first the pinnacles of the buildings assume a slightly pinkish hue, which spreads downwards and grows in intensity until, by degrees, the whole stage is flooded with the light of day. The different aspects under which the Wartburg is seen in the first and last acts of 'Tannhäuser,' as presented at Bayreuth; or the moonrise in the second act of 'Die Meistersinger,' at the same theatre; or, again, the storm in the first act of Verdi's 'Otello,' as given in Vienna, might be quoted from numerous instances that occur to one's mind of this thoughtfulness; and the effect that a close attention to such details has in enhancing the general impression made by a dramatic work is much greater than might be imagined. They may be trifles, but then is not art, as well as life, made up of such?"

PREVIOUS to starting upon his recent visit to Italy, Dr. Hans von Bülow addressed a letter to Verdi, in which the writer refers to his former disparagement of the works of the composer of "Il Trovatore," and to which the Italian maëstro, soon after, returned a courteous reply. This brief correspondence is at once so interesting and so thoroughly characteristic of its respective authors, that a translation of the letters will doubtless be welcome. The gifted pianist-conductor, who has evidently studied his Victor Hugo to some purpose, writes, or rather gushes forth, as follows:—

ILLUSTRIOUS MASTER,—

Deign to listen to the confession of a penitent sinner. It is now some eighteen years ago that the undersigned committed, in public journals, a gross blunder in regard to the last of the five Kings amongst the representatives of modern Italian music. Alas! how often since has he repented him of it; how often blushed with shame at the recollection! Be it said, however, that at the time of perpetrating the libel in question (which, mayhap, in your magnanimity, you have quite forgotten), I was virtually in a state of mental aberration. Suffer, then, this fact to plead for me as an "attenuating circumstance." My spiritual vision was obscured by an ultra-Wagnerian fanaticism. During the last seven years, light has gradually dawned upon me. Fanaticism, being purified, has become enthusiasm.

Fanaticism—petroleum! Enthusiasm—electric light! Light, in the intellectual world, is called justice. Nothing there is more destructive than injustice; nothing more intolerable than intolerance—as has been aptly said before by the excellent Giacomo Leopardi.

Since I have attained to this degree of knowledge, how my life has become enriched, how enlarged the vista of the most precious joys—those afforded by Art! I began to study your latest works—"Aïda," "Otello," the Requiem—a recent performance, though imperfect, of which latter has moved me even to tears. I studied them, not merely according to the letter, which kills, but according to the spirit, which giveth life. In fine, illustrious master, I now admire, I love you!

But will you forgive me? Will you avail yourself of the privilege of sovereigns to grant a free pardon? In any case, and were it only in order to set the example to those of my brethren in art who, being younger than myself, still persist in error, it behoves me to confess the fault I committed in the past. True, therefore, to the Prussian device of "Suum Cuique," I heartily exclaim Evviva Verdi, the Wagner of our esteemed allies!

H. VON BÜLOW (born 8th of January, 1830).

To this grandiloquent epistle the Italian maëstro replied as follows:—

MUCH ESTEEMED MAËSTRO,—

You have not committed the shadow of a fault, and no absolution is called for. If your present opinions differ from those you formerly held you have done right to say so, although I should never have complained. Besides, who knows? Perhaps you were right before. In any case, however, your unexpected letter, coming as it does from a musician of such worth, and of such importance in the world of art, has afforded me the greatest pleasure, not from a feeling of personal vanity, but because it proves to me that highly-placed, genuine artists are able to judge without the prejudice of schools, of nationality, or of time. Since the artists of the North and of the South have different aspirations, be it so, and let them be distinguished from each other. They should unite in the determination to remain faithful to the genius of their nationality, as Wagner has so justly observed. Happy indeed are you in being able to call yourselves the sons of Johann Sebastian Bach. As for ourselves, we also, who are the sons of Palestrina, have had once a grand school which was truly our own. Nowadays it has become degenerate and threatens to come to grief altogether. Ah, if we could only begin over again!

I am sorry that I cannot come to the Musical Exhibition at Vienna, where, besides the pleasure of meeting so many celebrated musicians, I should have had the delight of shaking hands with you. I trust that my great age will plead for me with the gentlemen who so kindly invited me, and that they will excuse my absence.

Your sincere admirer,

G. VERDI.

THE history of arrangements, or derangements, of musical compositions has yet to be written, and if any such work fails to see the light it will not be for lack of material. As a small contribution towards the subject-matter, a correspondent calls attention to Locke's "Macbeth" music as adapted to sacred words! The title of this remarkable publication, which was issued in the forties, is "Praise God on high! Sacred Cantata . . . written by Alfred Morland, and adapted to the celebrated music composed by Matthew Locke, A.D. 1605 . . . by E. J. Westrop." Without making a detailed comparison between the original and its perversion, we shall refer to one or two striking points of difference. After the symphony, the words of the Fourth Witch, "Speak, sister, speak, is the deed done?" are replaced by "Praise God on high! praise His great Name." Later on, the same gentleman's suggestion "Now let's dance" is changed to "Praise the Lord." The original "And nimbly dance we still" appears as "And in that day the dead shall wake," the nimble quavers in the first two bars of the 2-4 time (p. 11, Novello's Octavo Edition) being changed into more sedate crotchets, and the time-signature altered to suit. The first Recit. of Act iii., Scene 5, is completely transformed; instead of "Hecate (we almost seem to hear "Hack it"), come away," the words are "Holy, holy is His name," and the music is also altered and given to four voices in chorus. The following air, "My little merry, airy spirit see, sits in a foggy cloud and waits for me," is adapted to the words "The cherubim and seraphim continually do cry, Holy, holy, holy." The music of the last chorus of this act, "We fly by night 'mongst troops of spirits," is arranged to "And live for aye with happy spirits." The cauldron scene has not been adapted. Here then is "tinkering" with a vengeance, and it is quite a wonder that as the arranger has altered the music of Locke he did not change the key. The "Macbeth" music has also been adapted (by the same hand) to suit a Pastoral Cantata, entitled "The Festival of Spring!" Other derangements are two separate sets of "Macbeth" Quadrilles, by J. T. Craven and Joseph Hart respectively, which, however, are not quite so outrageous as the sacred version already referred to. The subject of quadrille adaptations recalls a jeu d'esprit of the late "J. W. D." In the Musical World of October 20, 1842, an advertisement announces: "The Stabat Mater Quadrilles, arranged from the melo-dramatic music adapted by Rossini to the 'Stabat Mater,' by J. W. Davison. Price 4s.; as Duets, 4s. N.B.—In the press, 'A defence of the Stabat Mater Quadrilles,' to be presented to the purchasers." In the following week appeared this fiery criticism: "Works received for review:—'The Stabat Mater Quadrilles'—to which we have given the warm reception we some time since promised them—they have enlightened our washerwoman's copper fire." It is not generally known that there exists a set of quadrilles on themes from "The Messiah." Copies are naturally scarce, and, we hope, will remain so.

THE chorus rehearsals for the approaching Leeds Musical Festival, recently resumed after a well-earned holiday, have been in progress for some months, long enough to make it possible to form an opinion as to the quality of the chorus, a matter of especial interest on the present occasion, having regard to the distinct deterioration which was noticeable in this department in 1886. Impressed by the necessity of a change of tactics, the executive committee, after much discussion, determined to enlarge the area from which the singers are drawn. It had been noticed that for the past two or three Festivals the chorus had become more and more exclusively a Leeds one. The practical advantages of having the singers on the spot were obvious, but it was equally obvious that if the area of choice were widened the quality of the chorus could hardly fail to be improved, for not only would the adoption of this plan make it possible to select the candidates by reference to an even higher standard than heretofore, but it is notorious that some of the best chorus-singers in the West Riding hail from the neighbourhood of Huddersfield and Halifax, localities which have formerly been practically, if not nominally, excluded from participation in a Festival which appeals for support not merely to the town of Leeds, but to the whole of the County of York. It is worthy of note that it was on this very point of making the chorus too exclusively local that, as appears from the "History" by Alderman Spark and Mr. Bennett, the late Mr. R. S. Burton resigned his post of Chorus-master to the Festival in 1874, so that by the new policy his contention has been in great measure vindicated. For the coming Festival, therefore, choral contingents are being trained under local conductors at Leeds, Bradford, Huddersfield, Halifax, and Dewsbury, all meeting at Leeds for occasional rehearsals of the entire body. Several of these full rehearsals have already taken place, under the superintendence of Sir Joseph Barnby, who very readily complied with the request that he should act as the deputy of his friend Sir Arthur Sullivan, and, so far as it is possible to form a judgment without being duly precipitate, the chorus, whether as regards tone or style, promises to fully justify the new system of selection that has been adopted. Sir Arthur Sullivan, on his first visit to Leeds in connection with the present Festival, expressed himself thoroughly satisfied with his forces, and alluded to the change of policy as one which he had himself strongly advocated.

At the moment of writing not a single theatre in London is occupied with any species of operatic entertainment, a circumstance unexampled for many years. But it is the calm which precedes the storm, for if reports may be trusted, opera of every description is coming like a flood in the course of a few weeks. Sir Augustus Harris will have a season at Covent Garden consisting chiefly, in all probability, of French works performed in the Gallic tongue. That plucky impresario, Signor Lago, who has several times played a trump card when least expected, is busy making arrangements for an Italian season at the Olympic. His engagements already include Madame Fanny Moody, Miss Lily Moody, Signor Vignas (who made such a favourable impression last year in "Cavalleria Rusticana," and who it is said will appear in "Lohengrin"), Mr. Eugène Oudin, and Mr. Manners. Hopes are entertained that Madame Albani and Miss Macintyre will also join the company. Signor Lago is scarcely likely to find another "Cavalleria," but he will probably try a new opera by Signor Puccini, a fellow pupil of Signor Mascagni under the late Ponchielli, and the latest representative of a celebrated Italian musical family. Then the new Trafalgar Theatre is to be inaugurated with comic opera, and the Lyric and Prince of Wales' will both re-open their doors with the same form of art. Further, a bold speculator is credited with the intention of reviving Offenbachian opera-bouffe at the Shaftesbury. Last, but not least, we are to have Mr. Sydney Grundy and Sir Arthur Sullivan's new work at the Savoy. This, it is understood, will be a genuine Opéra Comique, the period being that of the Roundheads and the Cavaliers, and the principal episode the elopement of Dorothy Vernon with Sir John Manners from Haddon Hall. The heroine is to be played by Miss Lucille Hill, who will be remembered as the country girl in "La Basoche" at the Royal English Opera House, and Messrs. W. H. Denny and Rutland Barrington are said to have good parts. Obviously lovers of the lyric stage have a good time at hand.

Our scanty stock of fifteenth century music has lately been considerably enriched through the publication by Dr. Riemann of several chansons, by Gilles Binchois, the contemporary of Dunstable and Dufay. No one has yet discovered the dates at which these musicians were born, but Binchois is said to have died in 1460, Dunstable in 1453, and Dufay in 1474. So little of the music of these worthies has come down to us that, by his addition to its store, the eminent German historian has considerably increased our debt to him—already a large one. The songs he has just given to the world have been transcribed (and translated into modern musical notation) from a MS. in the State Library at Munich, which consists of "four double sheets of vellum, still showing the original foliation 7, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 19, 20, and leaving us, therefore, to mourn the loss of twelve sheets." Dr. Riemann goes on to say: "The MS. is a Chorus book—i.e., the parts belonging to one number are on the pages opposite each other; on the left the discant with the text, on the right the tenor and countertenor"; he also fully describes the notation. The chansons printed consist of six "à 3"—to which, we regret to say, Dr. Riemann has adapted German words in place of the old French ones—and the incomplete parts of five others, two being discants with text, and three, tenors and counter-tenors, without text. As far as a necessarily limited knowledge enables comparison to be made, these chansons compare very favourably, in musical merit, with other works of the period to which they belong. This is especially the case with regard to the freedom and expression of the melodic writing.

Unmindful of the wisdom enshrined in the popular proverb, Mr. Stocks Hammond, living in a glass house, threw stones at Mr. Akeroyd. The latter, it is true, had previously thrown stones at Mr. Hammond, but then Mr. Akeroyd doesn't live in a glass house—which makes all the difference. The result was that Mr. Hammond's missile, after the manner of a boomerang, returned to its sender, but in the shape of a writ for an action for libel; and this was so fruitful in revelations concerning Mr. Stocks Hammond's "degrees" that his fate will probably act as a warning to others who, deriving undue confidence from the present unsatisfactory state of the law, may feel inclined to assert themselves, not wisely, but too well. Holders of titles that will not bear investigation should now realize that an attitude of defence is, though quite sufficiently difficult, at any rate much safer than the operation known as "carrying the war into the enemy's country."

To judge from the list of lectures and classes which Professor Niecks has sketched out as his work (or part of it) during the forthcoming session, it is clear that the wits of Edinburgh will find it difficult to work in jokes concerning the "easy chair" of Music in their University. Professor Niecks announces twenty lectures on the "History of Music," forty lectures and lessons (duration, two hours each) on "Harmony, Melody, and Rhythm," and twenty lectures on "Formal and Æsthetical Analysis," besides hinting that Recitals and "lectures, with musical illustrations, will be given from time to time"—these, we suppose, by way of relaxation!

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

The arrangements for the First Cardiff Triennial Festival, to be held in the Park Hall, Cardiff, on the 20th, 21st, 22nd, and 23rd inst., are as follows:—Tuesday evening: "Elijah." Wednesday—Morning: Overture, "In Memoriam" (Sullivan); "Stabat Mater" (Dvorák); Symphony, No. 5 (Beethoven); "The Revenge" (Stanford); Evening: "The Golden Legend" (Sullivan); Symphony, No. 1 (Schumann); Overture, "Mock Doctor" (Gounod). Thursday—Morning: Overture "Die Zauberflöte" (Mozart); "The Dream of Jubal" (Mackenzie); Overture,

"Die Meistersinger" (Wagner); "Blest Pair of Sirens" (C. H. H. Parry); "Hymn of Praise" (Mendelssohn); Evening: "Saul of Tarsus" (new Oratorio), Joseph Parry. Friday—Morning: "Faust" (Berlioz); Evening: "The Messiah." The principal vocalists will be Madame Nordica, Miss Anna Williams, Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Hilda Wilson, Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Watkin Mills, and Mr. W. Ludwig; Mr. Charles Fry will recite the verses in the "Dream of Jubal"; Mr. Alfred Burnett will lead the orchestra; Mr. Hugh Brooksbank is the Organist; and the Conductor in chief will be Sir Joseph Barnby. Dr. Mackenzie, Dr. Joseph Parry, and Sir Arthur Sullivan will conduct their respective works.

We sympathise entirely with those who wish to see the establishment of cheap opera, but advocates of reform in the present system should not talk at the expense of common sense. It is a fact that such an enterprise as that carried out by Sir Augustus Harris last season would have been impossible at lower prices than were actually charged. To say that the thing was done on too vast a scale is, no doubt, a plausible retort, because it is easy to argue from diminished outlay to cheaper seats. But modest operatic ventures, charging popular prices, have often been made in London, almost invariably without success; proof accumulating upon proof that metropolitan opera-goers will not look at representations which fall short of the traditions of the lyric stage in this country. It is of no use to contrast London prices with those at Vienna or Berlin. In those capitals, opera is endowed by the State, and carried on in buildings for which there is no rent to pay. Truth to tell, the complaints we frequently hear on this subject are childish. The grumblers want an expensive article at far less than cost price, and when they are offered a shilling's worth for a shilling they refuse to trade.

According to a Welsh contemporary, the Lord Mayor of London was treated with scant respect at Bridgend Eisteddfod by an audience much less concerned to see him than to know whether Llanelly could beat Dowlais in chorus-singing. Speeches were rudely cut short by the impatient crowd, and we read that had not the orators succumbed "a storm would have arisen which would not have been easily allayed." This is no uncommon occurrence at Eisteddfodau, where the amenities, as between the body of the hall and the platform, are not very carefully cultivated. To say sooth, a Welsh audience can be, and often is, very rude indeed. But there is something to be said on the other side. The Eisteddfod platform is rich in orators, who lose no chance of striking in and, when in, keep there as long as possible. Nowhere does the cacoethes loquendi flourish more rankly, and we are never surprised to hear of measures designed for its summary suppression. But we are sorry for Lord Mayor Evans.

Our Welsh contemporary, after recording the ill manners at Bridgend, must needs fall into flattery of the misdemeanants, and say: "The fact that the masses in Wales are so far above the masses in England, and that this superiority emphasises itself at an Eisteddfod, is the allurement which entices me to these gatherings." Hm!

The writer criticises Eisteddfodau, nevertheless. He says they are narrow—"Wales for the Welsh"; that they encourage only one class of music—namely, oratorio and its kindred, the consequence being that flexibility of voice is lost (we do not exactly see the connection, but never mind); and that Eisteddfod adjudications tend to make note and expression purely mechanical. "They take no notice of style at an Eisteddfod, and originality is at once suppressed. If Rubinstein were to play at an Eisteddfod, the adjudication would be something like this: 'M. Rubinstein played with great spirit and fire, but he occasionally struck a false note, and the passage marked andante was taken too quickly. Miss Jones's rendering was not marked by any of these blemishes. She played the piece most correctly, and, though her light and shade were not so accentuated, yet we have decided to give her the prize.'" Messieurs les juges, la parole est à vous.

The Wolverhampton Festival is dead, but not so the Wolverhampton Festival Choral Society, which has just issued the prospectus of its coming season. There will be three Concerts. The first promises Schumann's "Paradise and the Peri," Goring Thomas's "Out of the Deep," and a miscellaneous selection. At the second, "Elijah" will be presented; the third is described as "Miscellaneous." A curious feature in the prospectus is some short eulogistic remarks upon the artists engaged. We extract a few as specimens: "Miss Mary Reeve is announced as 'the coming contralto,' with a grand voice and an excellent method of production." "Mr. Musgrove Tufnail is a most accomplished artist with powers of a high order." Miss Medora Henson is "specially recommended by Sir Arthur Sullivan," and Miss Sarah Berry "has been specially successful in the music of this Oratorio ('Elijah')." These testimonials may be of some use in cases where ordinary reporters are turned on as musical critics.

Mr. Justice Cave objects to music! Shall we exclaim "Poor man!" or "Poor music!" On that point, perhaps, it will be well to keep silence, but we may discuss the circumstances under which the learned judge professed dislike of the art. Not being able legally to vote money for a town band, the conscript fathers of Yarmouth bethought them of a device which would keep within the law and yet attain the end desired. Accordingly, they voted a sum of £100 to the Mayor, with an understanding that he would spend the money on the band. This proceeding was challenged in the Court of Queen's Bench before Lord Coleridge and Justice Cave: "It is perfectly regular," said the musical C. J. "It is evident your client objects to music, and there I agree with him," added the unmusical Cave; but, on the point of law, he agreed with his chief. Result: the Mayor receives his £100 and Yarmouth rejoices in a town band. But poor Music comes off badly. She is under the frown of Mr. Justice Cave.

The late Mr. W. H. Summerscales was a musical professor of note in Keighley and its neighbourhood, and so well discharged various duties—among them those of honorary conductor of the Keighley Musical Union—that, on his death, in 1890, a Summerscales Memorial Fund was started and over £200 subscribed. The income from this fund is devoted to the encouragement of musical culture by offering prizes for competition. The first concours will take place on the 24th inst., when the three candidates who come best out of the trial will each receive two guineas and a silver medal bearing a portrait of Mr. Summerscales. The competition is limited to violinists, sopranos, and basses, and the competitors must be natives of the West Riding under twenty-five years of age. The committee may be felicitated upon having turned a small fund to the best possible use.

There was a "function" at Portland, Maine, on the 3rd ult., to celebrate the eighty-fourth birthday of F. N. Crouch, composer of "Kathleen Mavourneen." "Woman" came out greatly on the occasion. Mrs. Marcia Bradbury Jordan read a poem specially written by Caroline Dana Howe, and followed up by reading one of her own. Mrs. Clara Marcelle Green delivered herself of a sonnet; Miss Varnum read a "note" from Mr. Parker Pillsbury, of Concord; Mrs. E. S. Osgood read an original poem; and Miss Bessie Varnum wound up by reciting verses written by Miss E. W. Varnum. All that the poor old man received by way of consolation for his sufferings as a listener was—what does the reader suppose? The sum of eighty-four dollars! "Woman" gratifies her vanity cheaply over in Portland, Maine.

Mr. W. H. Statham's letter to a daily contemporary on the balance of the modern orchestra is worth serious consideration. It complains that, while modern usage has nearly doubled the strings, it has left the "wind" where it was, and that, consequently, in forte passages, important phrases given to the last-named are often inaudible. Of course they are, but such is the demand of modern taste for brilliancy and power that Mr. Statham's remonstrance is like "a voice crying in the wilderness." He suggests that the "wind" should be doubled in order to restore the lost balance, but there are many and obvious objections to such a step. Suppose we revert to the old order, and play Mozart and Beethoven with the orchestra for which those masters wrote. No musician would complain, whatever others might do.

The editor of a Sydney contemporary should keep an eye upon the "devil" in his office. That grimy imp lately got hold of a set-up musical criticism and played with it such pranks as might make an angel weep. He made the unfortunate writer talk of "Spolier's great ninth concerto" and "Hans Sett's graceful Baracole." Then, being, no doubt, of Cockney origin, he changed "Fantasia appassionata" into "Fantasia appassionater," and finished up by declaring that a certain pianist played "Lizst's 'Le Prophête' (Les Palmeurs) and Chopin's prelude to a Study of Paganini, arranged by Lizst." Having accomplished this, the imp appears to have "shut up in measureless content"—a condition very different from that of the poor critic, next morning.

Some surprise has been expressed that certain eminent members of the musical profession were passed over in the recent distribution of Knighthoods, and at first sight it would, indeed, appear as though a mistake had been made. But it is obvious, on reflection, that the profession generally were not "in the running" on this occasion. Sir W. G. Cusins has long held a Court appointment; Sir Walter Parratt has, for some years, been a Court Organist; and Sir Joseph Barnby is closely identified with a quasi-Royal institution at South Kensington. Nobody grudges these gentlemen the honour bestowed upon them, especially as it casts no reflection upon others, whose turn will come later.

The discussion between Mr. F. H. Cowen and the Philharmonic Society has been continued during the month just passed, but the question at issue is so entirely of a domestic character that we see no reason why outsiders should intervene. We must, however, express sincere regret that a dispute has arisen upon a point of procedure which ought never to have been in doubt. Whether or no a Conductor has a right to address an audience without reference to those whom he serves is assuredly a question concerning which the most distinct understanding should exist. The Philharmonic incident will probably settle it for the future.

In its issue for August, 1892, our Canadian contemporary, Arcadia, publishes a letter from London, signed "W. C.," which states, inter alia, that the Sacred Harmonic Society, of London, has collapsed, leaving oratorio "almost confined to the Royal Choral Society"; that Stanford's "Eden" was produced by the Royal Choral Society last season; and that the centenary of Mozart's death was commemorated "on the 5th of December." Arcadia being a very young journal, it could not have kept back these extracts from ancient history, and we can only surmise that "W. C." is a connection in some degree of Rip van Winkle.

Why so much fuss about what Madame Nordica might, could, would, or should have done at Bayreuth? It is all of the smallest possible concern, and surely, by this time, amateurs and professionals alike should know how the wires are pulled in the interests of prime donne. The matter, however, is of significance with regard to Bayreuth, which cannot afford, even in fiction, to be associated with operatic "stars" and the intrigues that go on around them. With that association, should it ever come to pass, begins the "beginning of the end."

Among the arrangements in connection with the coming Leeds Festival is a gallery specially erected in the Victoria Hall by the Festival Committee. The structure which served on previous occasions had, we understand, to be taken down by desire of the Municipal Council, who, it is believed, made some difficulty about consenting to the building of a temporary successor. But no gallery, no Festival, and the objectors gave way. The new gallery, which is thrown well forward at the sides, appears to be a vast improvement upon its predecessor.

The Finsbury Choral Association (Conductor, Mr. C. J. Dale) announces a series of four Concerts for the coming season. The first Concert will be given on November 24, when Berlioz's "Faust" will be performed; the other works included will be "St. Paul," Dr. Bridge's setting of "The Lord's Prayer" (written for the Gloucester Festival), Spohr's "God, Thou art great," and Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch." The prizes and certificates awarded to successful students at the Metropolitan College (associated with the Finsbury Choral Association) will be distributed by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie on November 1.

As was anticipated at the time of its production, Messrs. Gilbert and Grossmith's "Haste to the Wedding" had but a short and inglorious career. The public did not care for a good farce spoiled, or for music which had few redeeming features. Apparently it is not enough to be a writer and singer of comic songs in order to blossom forth as a composer of comic opera. Strange that so obvious a lesson could not be learned without the mortification of experience!

Dr. J. F. Bridge is a truthful man and bold. In distributing diplomas to gentlemen who had successfully passed the examination for F.C.O. (only six out of sixty-six) the Gresham Professor told a wondrous tale. It appears that in harmonising a certain melody seventeen did so in the wrong key, and forty-two failed. Only nine passed in counterpoint, and only ten answered the fugue subject correctly. This is astonishing, and gives rise to very disquieting thoughts. Things evidently are not what they seem.

A musical contemporary describes the compiler of the "Dictionary of Hymnology" as "a small parson who holds a vicarage somewhere in Yorkshire." This is obviously "wrote sarkastic," and we are tempted to ask what objection can lie against a dictionary because it is the work of a "small parson who holds a vicarage somewhere in Yorkshire"? It would appear that not only the parson is small.

The growing practice of performing single divisions of the Oratorios, &c., has induced Messrs. Novello and Co. to issue, separately, at a very low price, the words of each part of "The Redemption" and "Mors et Vita." Choral Societies will doubtless appreciate the new departure, which may confidently be expected to encourage further developments in the same direction.

On the 27th and 28th inst. Organ Recitals will be given by Dr. A. L. Peace, of Glasgow Cathedral, at Queen's College Chapel, Cambridge, to inaugurate the new three-manual instrument recently erected there by Mr. J. J. Binns, of Bramley. The programmes contain an exceptionally varied selection of pieces, chosen to exhibit the capabilities of the organ as a solo instrument.

Death has recently removed a once conspicuous figure on the scene of the Leeds Festivals. Mr. R. S. Burton was the trainer of the wonderful chorus which, in 1874, largely helped to start that enterprise upon its career of success. Recollection of his achievement eighteen years ago will long keep him in mind.

The American Protectionists are thorough-going. They have just tried to stop the passage of a Canadian band through Chicago, on the way to fulfil an engagement at Denver, the plea being that its members came under the law which closes the United States against hired foreign labourers. Happily for common-sense and decency, the Court dismissed the case.

The popular pianist and teacher, Mr. Willem Coenen, is spending his holidays in the West Indies. The energetic artist, however, does not intend to remain idle while abroad, but purposes to give Recitals at Surinam, Demerara, Trinidad, Barbadoes, and other places where he was formerly well known. Mr. Coenen will return to England and resume his professional duties about the second week in October.

This is the way the Gazetta Musicale di Milano announces a recent event: "Crocifissioni.—S. M. la Regina ha fatto cavalieri i signori Walter Parrot (sic), Organista della Corte e della Cappella Reale di S. Giorgio, dott. (sic) Barnby, anziano del Collegio Eton e nuovo capo della Scuola di musica 'Guildhall' in Londra, e W. G. Cusins, maestro direttore della banda di S. M."

Organiser of Village Concert (to small Farmer, reputed owner of a pianoforte): "Excuse me, Mr. Mangold, but would you be so kind as to loan us your pianoforte for the Concert at the schools?" Small Farmer: "Take it, take it, but, mind, I doan't suppose ye'll vind all the noates in't, for when my missis wants a bit o' wire, she allus goes to the old pianner." Fact!

A French paper states that the Wagner Association is in a bad way, no fewer than 1,100 members having retired during the past year. This may be the result of a natural process of disintegration, common to all organisations, or it may arise from belief that there is now no necessity for a formal propaganda. We have a choice of explanation.

Mr. Henschel has been asked by the authorities of the Vienna Musical and Dramatic Exhibition to conduct a Symphony Concert some time in the present month. He is quite entitled to the honour of this recognition, and also to avail himself of the opportunity for a performance of his "Hamlet" Suite.

It may surprise many to learn that the widow of Edward Loder is still living, but few will be astonished when told that she is in need of pecuniary assistance. Here is an opportunity not only for individuals, but for the Royal Society of Musicians, which is not ungenerous to non-members when a good case can be made out.

Really! The American Song Friend tells readers that "Sullivan seems to be the only English composer that has been able to make music the Germans will tolerate." If that be so, then repeated performances of works by Goring Thomas, Stanford, Cowen, and Mackenzie have never been given in the Fatherland. Which is it?

Accounts from Gloucester indicate a successful Festival as far as public patronage is concerned. So many applications for seats came in prior to the advertised date of allotment that a Sub-Committee of Stewards worked for ten hours at a stretch in dealing with them.

It is proposed, in America, to raise $100,000 and start an orchestra to play nothing but American music. Sport, Music, and Drama says, unkindly: "A committee has been appointed to look into this matter—and will have to look pretty deep to get a glimpse of the $100,000."

The rage for reminiscences continues, and we now learn that Mr. Santley, who aims to distinguish himself in many ways, is preparing the story of his experiences. He should have some interesting anecdotes to tell.

Concert-goers seeking for detailed information concerning the coming season will be glad to know that Mr. Basil Tree's useful Panel List will be issued in the course of a few days.

It has been stated that Verdi means to write another opera, "Falstaff" being finished. He is the "grand old man" of music.

So Pietro Mascagni is unfitted to be a municipal councillor of Leghorn, in the opinion of the electors. They are probably right, and he need not be ashamed.

The "National Society of Professional Musicians" will in future be known as the "Incorporated Society of Musicians."

NEW WORKS FOR THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL.

In offering a few preliminary observations concerning the novelties about to be presented at the Birmingham Festival last October, we explained that they were "neither critical nor meant to anticipate the judgment which, in gross and in detail, may have to be passed after performance heard. Their purpose is simply to convey some idea of what the compositions are like in design and purport, as far as that may be accomplished in a necessarily brief space." The following notes respecting the unusual number of new works to be given to the world at the meeting of the Three Choirs next week are written in a similar spirit.

Place aux dames, and we will commence with Miss Ellicott's Cantata "The Birth of Song," being a setting of a poem by Mr. Lewis Morris. The subject is an enquiry as to the best method by which a poet can attune his mind: whether he should seek for inspiration "In fair spring mornings with the soaring lark, or amid roaring midnight forests dark? . . . In some ideal heaven, some happy isle," or amid "Loud onsets, shatterings, awful battle-joys." The conclusion is that "Rather amid the throng of toiling men He finds the food and sustenance of song," so that at last "Every step of life his feet have trod, Leads by broad stairs of glory up to God." Miss Ellicott's musical illustration of this philosophical theme occupies only thirty-nine pages in vocal score, and is written for soprano and tenor solo and four-part chorus, the latter being divided into six parts in one brief episode. Speaking generally, the style is vigorous and—if the fair composer will pardon us—masculine, the phraseology frequently reminding the reader of Dr. Hubert Parry's later choral works. The most conspicuous sections are a very spirited and agitated chorus in G minor, "Nor 'mid the clang and rush of mightier thought," and the melodious soprano solo, in direct contrast, which immediately follows. "The Birth of Song" is the clever utterance of a musician who has not neglected to profit by the latest developments in her branch of the divine art.

Professor Bridge's work, "The Lord's Prayer," is a setting of Dante's version from the eleventh Canto of the "Purgatorio," as translated by the Rev. E. H. Plumptree, late Dean of Wells. The scene is supposed to be the lowest of the seven terraces which encircle the mountain of Purgatory. It is set apart for the punishment of pride, and the souls are bowed to the earth with heavy weights, under which they crawl along, chanting the Lord's Prayer, thus learning the lesson of humility. For the illustration of this musical elaboration would be distinctly unfit, and Dr. Bridge contents himself with four-part chorus and orchestral accompaniment, the whole setting only occupying eighteen pages. It commences with a majestic Andante religioso in C, 4-4 measure, leading, after some striking harmonic transitions, to an Allegro cantabile, 6-8, in the same key. This is developed at some length with points in imitation, though without regular fugal treatment, until we arrive at a long pause after a chord of the dominant ninth (third inversion) in the key of G minor. This, however, is only a feint, for the original measure and key are resumed, and, after thirty-five more bars, the little work comes to an end in the quietest manner.

"Gethsemane," a Church Cantata by Mr. C. Lee Williams, the words written and compiled by Mr. Joseph Bennett, was composed at the request of the Stewards for the Festival, and is evidently intended as a companion to the same composer's "Last Night at Bethany," which has met with such widespread favour since its first production at the Festival of 1889. Many musicians of repute are now devoting their energies to the composition of church Cantatas resembling in foundation those of Bach, but simpler in general construction—being intended not so much for well-trained choirs as for use in parochial and other services at special seasons of the year, and in "Gethsemane" an important addition has been made to the number of such works. As in "The Last Night at Bethany," Mr. Bennett has mingled Gospel texts with metrical verses from his own pen. These last are in the main reflective and prayerful, while the passages from Scripture deal solely with the awful scene in the Garden of Olivet, the first text being "And when they had sung an hymn they went out into the Mount of Olives," and the last "Then all the disciples forsook Him and fled." In the narrative portions of the libretto the music is mainly in what is, or was, known as accompanied recitative, extensive use being made of one theme or rather figure, which may be supposed to suggest the sacred garden and the Saviour's agony therein. The setting of Mr. Bennett's expressive verse is partly hymn-like in character, but there are some vigorous choruses, or rather choral episodes, though as a matter of course elaborate contrapuntal devices are carefully eschewed. Whether the new Cantata is an advance upon its earlier companion we cannot at present pretend to determine; that it is in every respect worthy to compare with it there need be no hesitation in saying with emphasis.

Dr. Hubert Parry's Oratorio "Job" is, in length and elaboration, the most important of the Gloucester novelties, though it is what, in ordinary nomenclature, is called a one-part work, and will only occupy an hour, or perhaps a little more, in performance. The libretto is chiefly taken from the book which, by many commentators, is regarded as one of the oldest of the sacred writings, the revised version being followed; and there are some additions of a lyrical nature, presumably from the pen of the composer. Thus before the calamities came upon Job's flocks and herds a shepherd boy has some pretty lines descriptive of pastoral peace and plenty, and Satan invokes the destroying storm and tempest in vigorous verse. The epic character of the original, however, is, on the whole, well preserved, and the composer does not trench on the domain of the dramatic musician, though he is as picturesque in the structure of several sections of his score as in the finest portions of "St. Cecilia's Day" and "L'Allegro." The work begins and ends with a majestic and prolonged phrase, which may be taken to represent, or at any rate to suggest, the unfathomable ways of Divine Providence. The part of the Narrator is assigned to a baritone voice, that of Job himself to a bass, while Satan curiously enough is made to speak through the medium of a tenor vocalist. The lines of the shepherd boy give opportunity for a soprano solo of a pastoral though thoroughly unconventional character, with frequent changes of rhythm, and this leads without break into a vigorous chorus describing the destructive work of the Sabean hordes. A fierce declamatory solo for Satan, in which harsh dissonances of seconds are employed with peculiar effect, is followed by another and more extended chorus describing how the elements completed the ruin of Job's possessions. The most remarkable section of the Oratorio is "The Lamentation of Job," a solo extending over fourteen pages of the score. Its form is of necessity irregular, and the themes are many and very varied, though the recurrence from time to time of the opening figure binds the whole together. We shall be surprised if the effect of this piece in performance is not strikingly impressive. The approach of Job's friends is mentioned, but they are not personally introduced, and we pass at once to the remonstrance of God, His words being given to the chorus. Here again we have no symmetrical or formal movement, the character of the music changing in accordance with the poetry. Three pages before the close the chorus ceases, the sufferer acknowledges his error, the Narrator tells simply how Job was more blessed at the end than at the beginning, and with eighteen bars of symphony the Oratorio comes to an imposing climax. The temptation to break the rule we laid down for ourselves at the head of these notes is very great in the instance of Dr. Parry's work, but we will be content with predicting that it will be accorded a lofty position among his efforts of a similar nature.

THE CO-OPERATIVE FESTIVAL.

Music again formed an important element of the fifth annual National Co-operative Festival at the Crystal Palace, on the 20th ult. In addition to exhibitions and other demonstrations of the progress of the principles of co-operation, there were a choral contest and a Concert on the Handel Orchestra of about 6,000 voices. For the first of these musical features competitive bodies (each numbering from forty to sixty persons) came from Falmouth, Nottingham, Bacup, Portsmouth, Brighton, Blaenau Festiniog, Bedminster (Bristol), Wolverton, and Kettering. Each choir sang Hatton's "Forget-me-not" and a piece of their own selection. Eventually Mr. W. G. McNaught, the adjudicator, gave the palm to Nottingham, whose selected essay was Pinsuti's "There is music by the river." Bacup was second, and honourable mention was made of Blaenau Festiniog and Bedminster. The 6,000 singers (both Old Notation and Tonic Sol-faists) who a few hours later mustered under the conductorship of Mr. G. William Williams, with Mr. F. Wilson Parish (of All Saints', Maidstone) at the organ, included representatives from various parts of England. The programme was of course of a popular description. Mr. G. W. Williams's hymn "O bless the Lord" was followed by the Credo (to English words) of Haydn's "First Mass" and a number of lighter pieces, Mr. W. J. W. Goodworth's "Lullaby" arrangement of a seventeenth century melody eliciting an encore. Other pieces cordially received were Mr. Charles Nixon's bold swinging strain "Forward," specially composed for the occasion; a choral medley by G. F. Vincent; and the massive "O Father, whose Almighty power" ("Judas Maccabæus"). Speaking generally, the lengthy catalogue was creditably gone through.

Mr. W. G. McNaught, the adjudicator, sends us the following detailed account of the choral competition :—

Nine choirs competed. There was no difficulty in assigning the first place to Nottingham (Conductor, Mr. H. Freeston). Besides singing the test piece with great delicacy and tasteful expression, they sang Pinsuti's "There is music by the river" with even greater refinement. It was not so easy to place the second choir. The Bacup choralists (Conductor, Mr. Hallows) had not much tone, but they sang the test piece with considerable feeling, and the blending was good. The position thus gained was greatly strengthened by a highly intelligent rendering of Callcott's five-part glee "O snatch me swift." Some passages in this piece were very finely done, but the expression at the words "resigned submissive" was much too forceful. The choir from Blaenau Festiniog (Conductor, Mr. Hugh Jones) was a formidable competitor for the second place, but their performance of the test piece was colourless, and gave the impression that its style and beauty were not felt. The pianissimos, notwithstanding their obvious importance to the proper rendering of the piece, were entirely disregarded. Not even a really first-rate performance of the Anthem "How amiable are Thy tabernacles" (by Joseph Parry) could redeem these shortcomings. The difference between the execution of the Part-Song and the Anthem was almost startling. It was as though two quite different choirs had sung. Although the Anthem can scarcely be described as a good show piece, the Welsh choralists, uttering their own beloved tongue and interpreting music peculiarly Welsh in idiom, sang with a freedom and abandon that excited the audience to enthusiasm and at the same time probably obscured the judgment of many listeners. The choir next in order of merit came from Bedminster (Conductor, Mr. Morgan). Their singing of "The Forget-me-not" and of Pinsuti's "The parting kiss" was very meritorious, but the expression was exaggerated; the fortes were too fierce and the tempi too fast in both pieces. The other choirs all made a creditable appearance. The marks given below show how near the second and third choirs were together :—

Maximum Marks for each Piece = 50.

	1st piece.	2nd piece.	Total.
Nottingham	.. 47	.. 47	.. 94
Bacup	.. 40	.. 42	.. 82
Blaenau Festiniog ..	.. 36	.. 44	.. 80
Bedminster	.. 37	.. 40	.. 77

NOTES FROM BAYREUTH.

History tends to repeat itself, and the present year has resembled 1882, when English amateurs had unexampled opportunities of making acquaintance with the whole of Richard Wagner's representative music-dramas. The Carl Rosa Company, it may be remembered, led the way with meritorious performances in English of "Tannhäuser" and "Lohengrin"; under the direction of Mr. Angelo Neumann "Der Ring des Nibelungen" was presented for the first time in London; "Die Meistersinger" and "Tristan und Isolde" were given for the first time with the aid of an excellent company from Hamburg; and, finally, the master's crowning work, "Parsifal," saw the light at Bayreuth, the Wagner Theatre being opened for the first time since its inauguration six years previously. After a slumber of ten years, German Opera—which to all intents and purposes means Wagnerian music-drama—has been resuscitated in London, with results eminently favourable to all concerned, one enthusiastic admirer of the poet-composer going so far as to declare that Bayreuth has been despoiled of its laurels by the performances at Covent Garden. A statement of this sort, given in perfect good faith and with a justifiable sense of gratitude to the enlightened and enterprising impresario who is at present at the head of operatic affairs in our metropolis, was certain to be utilised as capital by scribblers who criticise the Bayreuth performances from a distant standpoint. It would be idle to import any angry feeling into the matter, as the truth is plain to those who take the trouble to make themselves acquainted with it, but it is nevertheless irritating to be compelled to repeat that in a Wagner music-drama all the arts take equal footing and that a selection of first-rate artists for the principal rôles only ensures one element towards a successful performance. In this one respect the recent performances at Covent Garden were in nowise inferior to those at Bayreuth, but in all others comparison would be little short of ridiculous. I will suppose for a moment that the reader of these notes is an earnest admirer of Wagner, and is about to visit the Franconian temple of art for the first time. He will discover at once that its founder had as keen a knowledge of effect as Meyerbeer himself has evinced in "Les Huguenots" and "Le Prophète," although Wagner went to work in a different way. The Bayreuth pilgrim finds himself in a beautiful mountainous situation, more than a thousand feet above the sea, with a dry and sandy soil and a clear, bracing atmosphere. He is in vacation, and when the trumpets summon him to enter the temple he is not fagged out by a heavy day's work. Once inside, everything conduces to his full appreciation of the entertainment to be placed before him. All are in their places before the extinction of the lights indicates that the time of commencement has arrived, and there are no late-comers to distract attention while passing to their places. The Conductor does not invite criticism by the peculiarities of his beat, for he is invisible, and the magnificent orchestra appeals to the ear with mellow and organ-like effect. The stage management is perfect, and not only is the voice of the prompter conspicuous by its absence, but everything behind the scenes is conducted with absolute noiselessness. The chorus and supers are so perfectly drilled that there is no suggestion of perfunctoriness from beginning to end, and the stage at any moment you please presents a picture which an artist would find it advantageous to copy. Lastly, between each act there is an interval of an hour, which the spectator can utilise as he pleases for the recoupment of his jaded energies, and so be ready when the call is heard to re-enter the theatre. From this brief description of the conditions under which Wagner's art work is heard and seen at Bayreuth it will be obvious that not even Sir Augustus Harris can enter into direct competition; though in some of the points named, notably those having reference to the arrangements behind the curtain, improvements can be effected at Covent Garden. Stress should be laid on these because much depends on the manner in which the several sections of "The Ring" and the other dramas are presented whether they are to become integral portions of the ordinary London repertory. At any rate, few among those who patronised the Covent Garden performances and afterwards made the journey to Bayreuth are likely to regret the trouble. For the first time four of the works were placed upon the stage in one season, and amateurs had the opportunity of witnessing "Tannhäuser," "Die Meistersinger," "Tristan und Isolde," and "Parsifal" within a week. The presentation of the earliest of these works remains remarkable, if not unique, in a spectacular sense, and the enormous sum of £16,000 spent upon its preparation last year has not been thrown away. The Venusberg scenes in the first act compelled admiration by reason of their plenitude of sensuous beauty, and the sunset and sunrise effects, separated by the cloudy representment of the Venusberg revels, in the last act, have probably never been surpassed on any stage. It is understood that the authorities are anxious to secure young artists worthy to replace the veterans whom the relentless hand of time is robbing of their artistic powers, and "Tannhäuser" naturally offered the most suitable medium for the more juvenile members of the company to display their dawning abilities. The leading part was taken by Mr. Grüning, who was certainly a noteworthy advance, vocally speaking, upon Mr. Winkelmann last year, though he has still something to learn with respect to the management of the voice. He acted with earnestness and with artistic self-restraint, avoiding the melo-dramatic effects in which some artists indulge in the last act. Among the recruits of the last few years, however, Miss Mailhac, of Carlsruhe, holds the foremost place. I unfortunately missed her impersonation of Kundry, which was said to be very fine, but certainly as Venus Miss Mailhac displayed vocal and dramatic capabilities of a very high order. Her voice is powerful and well produced, and her acting was at once forcible and graceful, the reader of course bearing in mind that the part is of a far greater significance in the Paris edition, which is used at Bayreuth, than in the original version to which Londoners are accustomed. If the representative of Elizabeth should be young and girlish, Miss Wiborg, a Norwegian aspirant, fulfils these conditions admirably at present. She has been only two or three years before the public and her voice is as yet not fully developed, but it is of agreeable quality, and she sang the beautiful Prayer with chaste and delightful expression. Mr. Scheidemantel remains unsurpassable as Wolfram, and the chorus was vocally admirable, though curiously enough the stage management left something to desire in the distribution of the choral force in the important Finale of the second act.

In "Die Meistersinger" I heard a new Walther and a new Eva, the former being Mr. Anthes, of Dresden, and the latter Miss Mulder, of Stuttgart. Mr. Anthes has a robust tenor voice, happily free from the throatiness which characterises so many German singers. He has gained his reputation chiefly in the concert-room, and of his qualifications as an actor it is impossible to speak, as Walther is little more than a singing part. Miss Mulder's voice is powerful, but rather hard in the upper register, and her Eva, though on the whole a satisfactory impersonation, was rather deficient in charm. Nor can undeserved praise be given to Mr. Nebe, the successor to the lamented Friedrichs, in the rôle of Beckmesser. There was just a little too much suggestion of buffoonery in the portrait of the town clerk, without the oily craftiness which should partially conceal the real disposition of the man. The Hans Sachs of Mr. Plank and the David of Mr. Hofmüller remain embodiments without flaw, and the chorus singing in the last act was the finest I have ever heard on any operatic stage.

Of the performances of "Tristan und Isolde" and "Parsifal" there is little to be said, as the principal characters were all in familiar hands. It would be like gilding refined gold to praise the Tristan of Mr. Vogl, whose voice, by the way, was in splendid order; or the Isolde of Madame Sucher, the Parsifal of Mr. Van Dyck, and the Kundry of Miss Malten, these being impersonations which defy criticism of any sort. As King Mark Mr. Döring, who is at present engaged at Mannheim, made a highly favourable impression, thanks to a rich and well-produced baritone voice; but Mr. Kaschmann, who alternated the difficult part of Amfortas with Mr. Scheidemantel, cannot at present be compared with his fellow-artist. The rare excellence of the chorus training was again exemplified in "Parsifal," the flower girls, the boys, and the Knights of the Graal vying with each other in the refinement and strict attention to the nuances which characterised their singing. The orchestra this year was extraordinarily fine, the tone of all the instruments, with the exception of one or two of the wood-wind family, being very full and rich. To the Conductors, Messrs. Levi and Mottl, who take no remuneration whatever for their arduous duties, the warmest thanks are once more due for the perfection which at all times characterised the ensemble. In short, Bayreuth remains an art centre to which all interested in operatic work should repair from time to time, for they cannot fail to carry away valuable lessons. It has, however, been wisely decided to give the artists a holiday next year, and nothing has been settled as yet with respect to any performances in 1894. But a revival of "Der Ring des Nibelungen" on a magnificent scale in 1895 is possible, and, should the decision be in the affirmative, the work of preparation will be commenced at no distant date.

SIR JOHN STAINER'S REPORT ON MUSIC IN TRAINING COLLEGES FOR 1891.

In our last number we referred to the report issued by H.M. Inspector with regard to Scotch Training Colleges. Sir John Stainer's report on the music in English and Welsh Training Colleges is now before us. He says:—

"I am glad to be able to say that there is no falling off in the efforts of teachers to make the course of musical study as profitable as possible to the students, and although some are found on entering college to be very deficient in musical knowledge, this is generally traced rather to some early discouragement than to any actual and permanent inability to master the groundwork of the art. There seems to be a steady increase in the number of students who are instrumentalists of more or less proficiency. No doubt, this is one of the results of the general spread of musical study and taste throughout the whole country, and merely points out the fact that the class from which our masters and mistresses are drawn is itself partaking in this important national movement. The advantages of the cultivation of instrumental music in training colleges are, of course, obvious; the students can, and do, help each other in their studies and preparation for examination; in fact, a few good pianists or violinists may raise the whole character and standard of the music during their career. On the other hand, it is necessary to caution the music professors in colleges against allowing an indifferent or careless instrumentalist to exercise much influence over the studies of fellow-students. I have on several occasions found that an accompanist who is a bad timeist or incorrect reader has produced (though giving his or her services generously, and with the best intentions) the most disastrous results on the performance of songs. The same remark applies to the performance of concerted vocal music or of cantatas; unless the college is fortunate enough to possess a really good accompanist, it would be better to provide an outsider to accompany everything while the students are under examination. A remarkable improvement has taken place during the last few years, both in the character of the songs sung and the manner of performing them. It is evident that the teachers in the majority of colleges have been good enough to devote a little time to giving the students hints as to taking breath, pronouncing words, phrasing, and voice production; the value of such hints cannot be overestimated. In two or three colleges the songs have been sung entirely from memory, always with the best results. One college signalised itself by performing before me a whole cantata from memory. As another proof of the interest shown by the teachers in their pupils, I may mention that in some colleges the students are allowed to take the bâton and conduct a choral class, a very useful experience. I should be glad to find more uniformity in the system of beating time adopted in colleges. Long experience has, I think, shown that for simple common time, 'down, left, right, up'; and for simple triple, 'down, right, up,' is the best. For compound duple time, 'down, right, up, down, left, up,' in each bar is best."

ZELIA TREBELLI.

With Madame Trebelli-Bettini, whose death, on the 18th ult., at her villa residence at Etretat, has been the subject of numerous sympathetic notices in the daily press, one of the most distinguished of modern prime donne, as well as a truly great artist, has disappeared from the artistic world. Although of world-wide celebrity and admired as much in all parts of the Continent of Europe as in America, Madame Trebelli was best known and, perhaps, appreciated in this country, which for a number of years she had adopted as her own, and in the lyrical establishments of which her artistic activity mainly centred. Zélie Thérèse Caroline Gillebert was born in Paris in 1838, and being a precocious, gifted child, was able to play Bach and Beethoven on the pianoforte at a very tender age. The seriousness, thereby implied, of her early musical training exercised a most beneficial influence upon her after career. She never did things by halves, and when, after discovering that she possessed a voice, she was placed under the experienced tuition of M. Wartel (the teacher also of Madame Nilsson), she devoted fully five years to earnest study under that master in order to prepare herself for an operatic career. Thus, when that career began, she had virtually "organised" the series of victories which immediately followed. She made her début at the Teatro Reale, Madrid, in 1859, under the assumed name of Trebelli (an inversion of her surname of Gillebert, minus the initial letter) as a member of Merelli's Italian Opera Company, in the character of Azucena in "Il Trovatore," with Mario as the Manrico, and was received with enthusiasm. The success of the young débutante was increased tenfold upon her subsequent appearance, with Merelli's troupe, on the lyric stages of Berlin, Leipzig (where she also sang at the Gewandhaus), and in other parts of the Continent, including Russia. Her first appearance before an English audience was made in May, 1862, during Mr. Mapleson's first season at Her Majesty's Theatre when, as Maffeo Orsini in "Lucrezia Borgia," she was accorded a most enthusiastic reception which led to her permanent engagement for leading contralto parts at that establishment. Afterwards she became completely identified with musical life in this country, singing for the first time at the Philharmonic Concerts during the season of 1864, and becoming one of the most popular vocalists at our great festivals and concerts. In 1863 Mdlle. Trebelli was married to the late Signor Bettini, the once well-known operatic tenor, and is survived by a daughter, Antoinette, who in recent years has become a favourite concert soprano. It is unnecessary to enumerate here the many and diversified parts in which Madame Trebelli has appeared in this country. Those who remember her in her frequent association with the late Mdlle. Tietjens (with whom she had formed a lifelong friendship) as Cherubino in "Le Nozze di Figaro," as Arsace in "Semiramide," and last, not least, as Fatima in "Oberon," will understand to what special characteristics, both of vocal charm and power, and of dramatic intensity, we referred when alluding to her, at the outset, as having been not merely a distinguished prima donna, but a truly great artist. Madame Trebelli was seized, some few years ago, with a stroke of paralysis, from the effects of which she never quite recovered; the immediate cause of her death, however, which occurred quite suddenly, was heart disease.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Reed Larwill, who had occupied the post of Choirmaster at Catholic churches in London and Liverpool, died at Southport on the 13th ult. He was interred on the 16th ult. at St. Marie's, of which church he had, for some time, been musical director.

Mr. Frank Attwells, a well-known musicseller, and also Mayor of Reading, died there on the 25th ult.

The death is announced, on the 15th ult., at Paris, of Armand Limnander de Nieuwenhove, a musical composer of considerable talent. Born at Ghent on March 22, 1814, of a highly aristocratic family, he studied the art at the Jesuit College of Freiburg, in Switzerland, under the Père Lambillotte, and afterwards under Fétis, in Paris. Having, in 1838, taken up his residence at Malines, he there founded a choral society, which in a very short time acquired a prominent position in Belgium, and for which he composed a great number of works both sacred and secular. In 1849 Limnander, having in the meantime taken up his abode in Paris, succeeded in bringing out his first opera, "Les Monténégrins," at the Opéra Comique, which was received with much favour. His subsequent operatic works—viz., "Le Château de Barbe Bleue," produced on the eve of the coup d'état in 1851, and a grand opera, "Le Maître Chanteur," were less successful; while his last one, the opera "Yvonne," brought out at the Opéra Comique in 1859, again met with good success. If none of these operatic productions are likely to be revived, even in their composer's native country, they nevertheless occupy a very respectable position, artistically, in the period from which they emanate, and will have their place assigned to them by its historian. The deceased composer also wrote a symphony and other instrumental works, and many of his choral compositions are frequently performed in France and Belgium to this day.

We have also to record the following deaths, viz.:—

On July 25, at Vienna, E. Dubsky Edler von Wittenau, an esteemed author on musical subjects.

On July 31, at Herrenalb, Black Forest, Rudolph Ibach, chief of the well-known firm of pianoforte makers, R. Ibach and Son, of Barmen, aged forty-nine.

On the 3rd ult., at Leipzig, Robert Wilhelm Lücke, head of the firm of Schmidt and Co., music publishers.

On the 3rd ult., at Asnières, M. Pickaert, musical composer, for many years organist at the Church of Notre Dame des Victoires, Paris, aged seventy-five.

On the 5th ult., at Berlin, Heinrich Kahl, Court Capellmeister, aged fifty-three.

On the 6th ult., at Berlin, Oscar Gadebusch, chief of the firm of Langer and Co., pianoforte makers.

On the 16th ult., at Guernsey, in his fifty-third year, Armand Gouzien, composer of the famous "Légende de Saint Nicholas" and of many popular chansons, also a journalist, highly esteemed in literary and theatrical circles of Paris.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

August being a holiday month music has lain dormant with the exception of the daily performances of the Bristol and Clifton Public Band, an excellent body of musicians, whose playing has been greatly enjoyed by residents and visitors. The final Concert took place on the 20th ult., when an excellent programme was presented. Miss Cromey and Mr. Lawford Huxtable were the vocalists.

A special musical Service was held on the 4th ult. in Wells Cathedral, an event indirectly associated with the jubilee of Mr. C. W. Lavington, the Cathedral Organist, whose labours were marked by a presentation about a week later. The songmen and choristers of Bristol and Exeter Cathedrals were associated with the choir of Wells Cathedral in rendering the musical portions of the service, and the results were admirable. Each contingent selected an anthem, the solo parts being sung by members of the respective sections. Wells chose Bach's "Blessing, Glory, Wisdom," which Mr. Lavington accompanied; Exeter brought forward Smart's "Sing to the Lord," Mr. D. J. Wood, the Organist of Exeter Cathedral, accompanying; and Bristol added Stainer's "I saw the Lord," and in the absence, in Norway, of Mr. Riseley, the Wells organist accompanied it. The united choirs joined in rendering Handel's Hallelujah Chorus. A large congregation of the residents of Wells and the district, together with visitors from a distance, was present at the service. The Bishop, Dean, and Chapter hope this may be the precursor of other services on a much larger scale.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

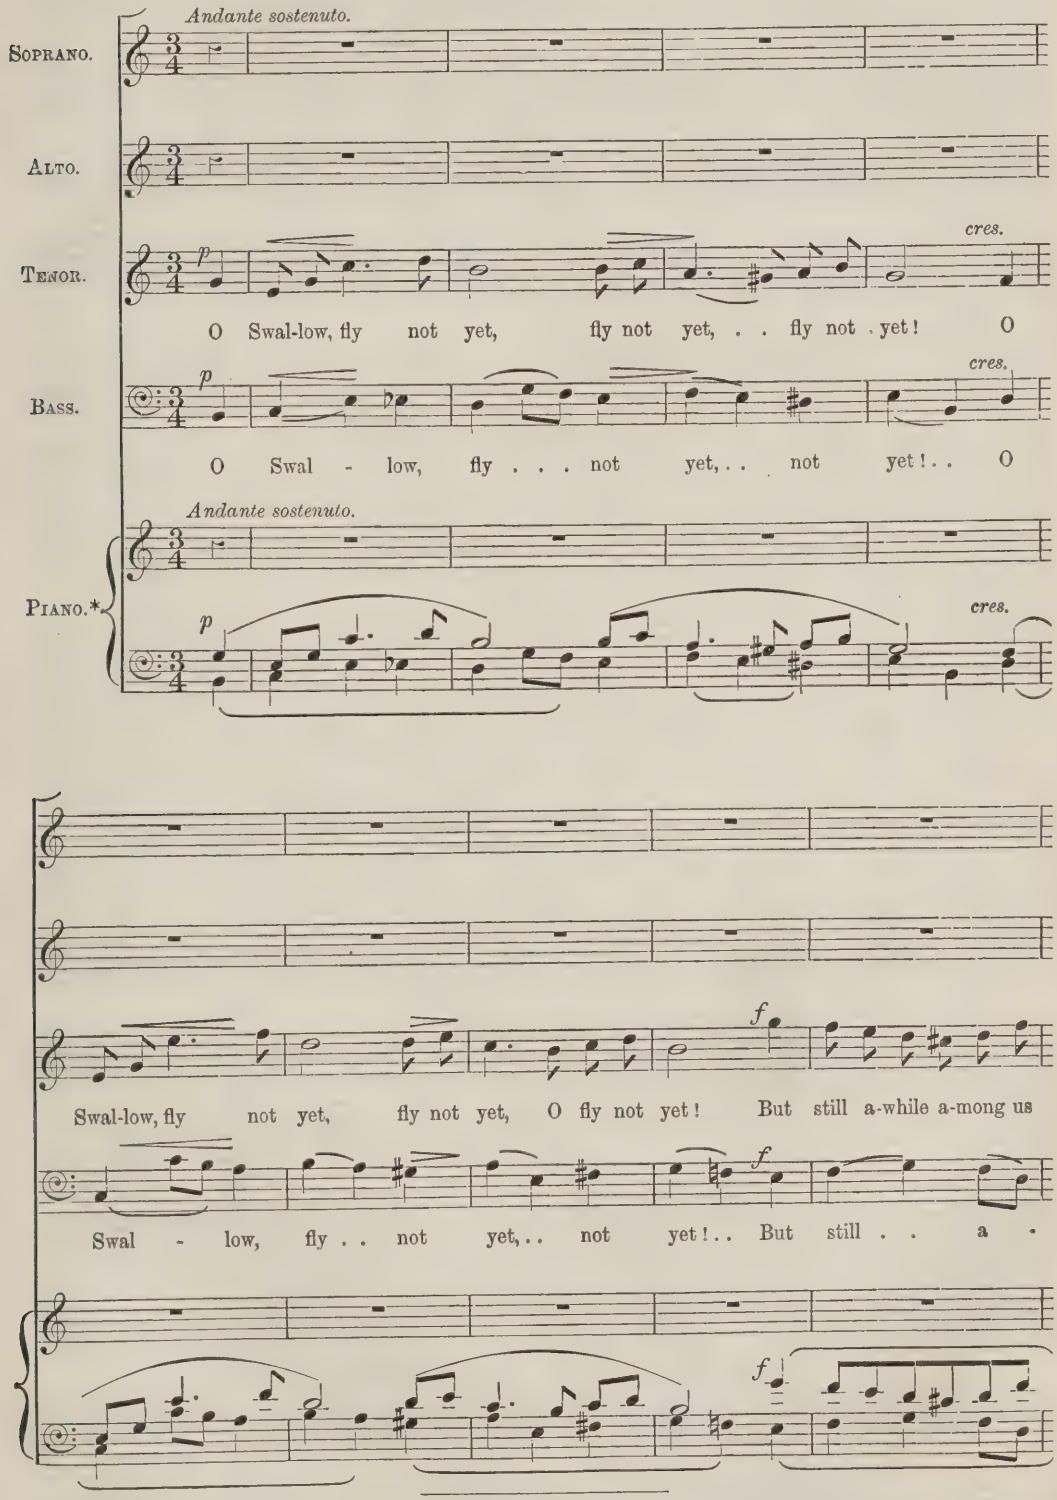
The Glasgow Choral Union will celebrate its Jubilee during the coming season. It, therefore, goes without saying that unusual interest centres in the commemoration. Many curious records will be found in the history of our premier Choral Society since its advent in the early forties, when a small band of enthusiasts met together in the old Argyll Street Coffee House and sang glees. From this interesting organisation there arose "The Society for performing the Oratorio of 'The Messiah.'" Handel's work was given on April 2, 1844, for the first time North of

O Swallow, fly not yet!

A FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD. Composed by WALTER W. BROOKS.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.



Andante sostenuto.
SOPRANO.
ALTO.
TENOR.
BASS.
PIANO.*
cres.
O Swal-low, fly not yet, fly not yet, . . fly not yet! O
O Swal - low, fly . . . not yet, . . not yet! . . O
Swal-low, fly not yet, fly not yet, O fly not yet! But still a-while a-mong us Swal - low, fly . . not yet, . . not yet! . . But still . . a -

* For practice only.

Copyright, 1892, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

p
O Swal-low, fly not yet, fly not
O Swal - low, fly not
dim.
stay, . . but still a - while . . among us stay! O Swal - low, fly not
- while . . a - mong . . us stay! O Swal - low, fly . . not
cres.
yet, . . fly not yet! O Swal-low, fly not yet, fly not yet, . . fly not yet, not yet! . . O Swal - low, fly . . not yet, not yet, not yet! O Swal - low, fly not yet, . . not yet, . . not yet! O Swal - low, fly not yet, . . not
f
yet! But still a-while a-mong us stay, . . but still a - while . . a-mong us yet! But still a - while . . a - mong . . us yet! But still a-while a-mong us stay, a - mong . . . us . .
yet! . . But still a-while a - mong us stay, a - mong us

mf
dim.
stay! The sea - son sure - ly you for - get, For sum-mer has not pass'd a - stay! The sea - son sure - - ly you . . for - stay! The sea - son sure - - ly you for - stay! The sea - son sure - - ly you . . for - cres.
dim.
- way! The trees are green, the flow'rs are fair, And scent per- vades the balm - y
- get, For sum - mer has . . not pass'd . . a -
- get, . . For sum - mer has not pass'd . . a -
- get, For sum - mer has . . not pass'd a - dolce.
air, The fields are cloth'd . . in gold - en rays, That on - ly fall in sum-mer
- way! The fields are cloth'd in gold - - en
- way! . . The fields are cloth'd . . in gold - - en . .
- way! The fields are cloth'd in gold - - en days! O Swal-low, Swallow, fly not yet, . . fly not yet, . . fly . . . . not rays, That on - - ly fall . . in . . sum - mer, in sum - -

rays, That on - - ly fall . . in . . sum - mer, in sum - - rays, That on - ly fall in sum - - mer, yet! . . .
- - mer days!
- - mer days! O Swal-low, fly not yet, fly not yet, . . fly not sum - mer days! O Swal - low, fly . . . not yet, . . not yet! O Swal-low, fly not yet, fly not yet, . . fly not yet! For yet! . . O Swal - - low, fly . . not yet, . . not yet! . . For

p
O Swal-low, fly not
O Swal - low,
dim.
win-ter time is still a - far, . . for win-ter time . . is still a - far, O Swal - low, win - ter time is still, . . is . . still . . a - far, O Swal - low, yet, fly not yet, . . fly not yet! O Swal-low, fly not yet, fly not yet, . . fly not fly not yet, not yet! O Swal - low, fly . . not yet, not fly not yet, not yet! O Swal - low, fly not yet, not fly . . not yet, not yet! O Swal - low, fly not yet, not
f
yet! For win - ter time is still a - far, . . for win-ter time . . is still a - yet! For win - - - ter time . . is . . still . . a - yet! For win - ter time is still a - far, for win - ter is still a - yet! . . For win - - ter time is still, . . is . . still a -

mf
p
cres.
far! The sky is all in a-zure set, And soft-ly beams the ev'ning star! The far! The sky is all . . . in a - - zure set, And far! The sky is all . . . in a - - zure set, . . And far! The sky is all in a - - zure set, And mf
p mp
dim.
f sky is all in a-zure set, And soft-ly beams the ev'ning star! When chil-ly winds of autumn soft - ly beams the ev - - 'ning star! When chil - - ly . .
soft - ly beams the ev - - 'ning star! When chil - - ly blow, And leaves are on the earth laid low, O then it will be time, be time to fly To winds of au - - tumn blow, O then . . . . it will . . be winds of au - - tumn blow, O then . . . . it will . . be winds of au - - tumn blow, O then it will be lands where . . flow'r - ets nev - - - er die, where . . . flow'r - ets time to . . fly . . . To . . lands . . . where flow'r - - time to . . fly, . . . to fly, . . . to . . .

to fly . . To lands . . . where flow'r - - time to . . . . fly, . . . to . . .
u - - - en - - do. . . . pp con affetto.
nev - - - - er die. . . . . O Swal - low,
- ets . . nev - - - er . . . die. cres.
fly. . . . . O Swal - low,
- - ets . . nev - - - er . . die. p cres.
fly. . . . . O Swal - low,
u - - - en - - do. . . . pp p cres - cen - do.
fly . . not yet, . . O fly not yet, . . . O . . fly not yet! dim e rall.
fly . . not yet, . . O Swal - low, fly . . not yet, . . . fly not yet!
fly not yet, O Swal - low, fly . . . . not yet!
fly not yet, . . . fly . . . . not yet!
sf p cres. dim. e rall. p

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
P. ARMES.
ST. BARNABAS	2/0	—	—
G. J. BETJEMANN.
THE SONG OF THE WESTERN MEN	1/0	—	—
ETHEL M. BOYCE.
THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY	1/6	—	—
YOUNG LOCHINVAR	1/6	—	—
J. F. BRIDGE.
THE LORD'S PRAYER	1/0	—	—
ROCK OF AGES (Latin & English words) (Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.)	1/0	—	—
CALLIRHOË .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE REPENTANCE OF NINEVEH..	2/6	3/0	4/0
DUDLEY BUCK.
THE LIGHT OF ASIA	3/0	3/6	5/0
F. CORDER.
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/6	—	—
H. COWARD.
THE STORY OF BETHANY .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	—
F. H. COWEN.
SLEEPING BEAUTY .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
ST. JOHN'S EVE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
RUTH .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	4/0	4/6	6/0
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING ..	1/0	—	—
ANTONÍN DVOŘAK.
REQUIEM MASS	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE	3/0	3/6	5/0
A PATRIOTIC HYMN	1/6	—	—
H. J. EDWARDS.
PRAISE TO THE HOLIEST	1/6	—	—
ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.
THE BIRTH OF SONG	1/6	—	—
ELYSIUM	1/0	—	—
ROBERT FRANZ.
PRAISE YE THE LORD (PSALM 117)	1/0	—	—
G. GARRETT.
HARVEST CANTATA .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.)	1/0	—	—
F. GERNSHEIM.
SALAMIS (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
HERMANN GOETZ.
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices) ..	1/6	—	—
CH. GOUNOD.
THE REDEMPTION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
DITTO (French words) ..	8/4	—	—
DITTO (German words) ..	10/0	—	—
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE	2/6	—	—
MORS ET VITA .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)	6/0	6/6	7/6
ADOLF JENSEN.
THE FEAST OF ADONIS	1/0	1/6	—
OLIVER KING.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON (PSALM 137)	1/6	—	—
FRANZ LISZT.
THE THIRTEENTH PSALM	2/0	—	—

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
C. H. LLOYD.
ALCESTIS	3/0	—	—
ANDROMEDA	3/0	3/6	5/0
HERO AND LEANDER	1/6	—	—
SONG OF BALDER	1/0	—	—
THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
A SONG OF JUDGMENT	2/6	3/0	4/0
HAMISH MACCUNN.
LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.)	1/0	—	—
THE LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
A. C. MACKENZIE.
VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS	2/0	—	—
ROSE OF SHARON .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE STORY OF SAYID	3/0	3/6	4/6
THE DREAM OF JUBAL	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE NEW COVENANT	1/6	—	—
THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT	2/0	—	—
C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
JOB	2/6	—	—
BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS	1/0	—	—
JUDITH; or, THE REGENERATION OF MANASSEH	5/0	6/0	7/6
ODE ON ST. CECILIA'S DAY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	—	—
L'ALLEGRO	2/6	—	—
DE PROFUNDIS	2/0	—	—
CIRO PINSUTI.
PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—
E. PROUT.
THE RED CROSS KNIGHT .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	4/0	4/6	6/0
DAMON AND PHINTIAS (Male Voices)	2/6	—	—
CHARLES B. RUTENBER.
DIVINE LOVE	2/6	—	—
C. SAINT-SAËNS.
THE HEAVENS DECLARE (PSALM 19)	1/6	—	—
SCHUMANN.
THE MINSTREL'S CURSE	1/6	—	—
THE KING'S SON	1/0	—	—
A. SOMERVELL.
MASS (in C minor)	2/6	—	—
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
EDEN	5/0	6/0	7/6
CARMEN SÆCULARE	1/6	—	—
THE REVENGE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
THE VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE ..	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE BATTLE OF THE BALTIC ..	1/6	—	—
J. STAINER.
THE CRUCIFIXION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
THE GOLDEN LEGEND .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	3/6	4/0	5/0
C. M. VON WEBER.
IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn) ..	1/6	—	—
C. LEE WILLIAMS.
GETHSEMANE	2/0	2/6	—
THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	2/6	—
CHARLES WOOD.
ODE TO THE WEST WIND	1/0	—	—

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

the Tweed. Henry Phillips sang the bass solos, and the tenor airs were in charge of "Mr. J. S. Reeves," then, of course, a mere youth in his profession. Several years elapsed ere the Society just referred to assumed the name of the Glasgow Choral Union. The alternations in its career were, in turn, droll and serious; but by sturdy adherence to the faith within them the management surmounted many grave difficulties, and Glasgow may fairly congratulate itself on the arrival of the Jubilee period of its excellent choir. It has been suggested that a short history of the Society ought soon to be circulated, and it may be taken that the Council will give the matter the attention it so well deserves. Meanwhile they are busy with the arrangements for the coming season. Mr. August Manns happily returns as chef of the Orchestral Concerts, and he will again have under his bâton a band of about ninety executants. Mr. Joseph Bradley resumes his acceptable position as Conductor of the Choral Concerts, and an attractive list of soloists will be found in the prospectus, which may be expected at an early date. Six choral works have already been fixed, and this goodly provision for the taste of a large number of subscribers comprises the "Elijah," the "Rose of Sharon," "Messiah," Dvorák's "Requiem," Handel's "Belshazzar," and the "Creation." The guarantee fund exceeds £5,000, and further additions are confidently looked for.

Generally speaking, the local musical season promises to be somewhat lively. Numerous touring parties—too many it is to be feared—are booked for Glasgow, and during this month "Marmion," with Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's incidental music, will be revived at the Theatre Royal.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE first official announcement of its policy for the coming season can hardly satisfy to the full those who patronise the Philharmonic Society for art's sake alone. As usual, the list of vocal and instrumental soloists is a lengthy one, but not a single word is vouchsafed as to the music to be rendered, further than that on November 8 and December 20, respectively, the "Stabat Mater" of Rossini and Mendelssohn's "Elijah" will be given. It is truly a pity that this fine Society should do so little to assist the progress of music as it is understood elsewhere at the close of the nineteenth century. A crumb of comfort is, however, to be found in an announcement specially made to the choristers that Gounod's "Mors et Vita" is to be put in rehearsal, and this points to a solitary novelty at least during the coming season. This Birmingham Oratorio may not, however, be expected till Lent in 1893.

The Triennial Festival of Parish Choirs at Chester Cathedral took place on July 28, and proved to be one of the most successful gatherings ever held hereabouts. The choristers, numbering a thousand and recruited from about fifty different choirs, gave evidence of the high position in church music attained in the district of which the city of St. Werburga forms the centre. Dr. J. C. Bridge was at the organ, and the Rev. Hylton Stewart conducted, the chief feature of the performance being an important selection from Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm.

The famous Dowlais Choir and four others have entered for the chief choral competition at the Rhyl Eisteddfod, the prize awarded being £200. Four choirs will compete in the Welsh choral contest, six in that for female voices, and the same number of children's choirs are enrolled. There are ten entries for the male voice choral competition, and six brass bands will complete the list of contestants for the chief musical prizes.

Anent such a subject, words of advice and wisdom have often been spoken relative to the comparatively low position held by Wales in regard to orchestral music. The most recent utterances on the subject are those of Alderman Samuelson, of Liverpool, erst a member of the Philharmonic Orchestra, and a well-known amateur, who has for a considerable time resided in Wales. Speaking at a gathering of Welsh musicians and others on the 10th ult. on the subject of the Crwth, Pibcorn, and Telyn, and tracing the progress of modern instrumental music from these primitive types of modern violins, wind instruments, and harps, the Alderman strongly advocated the cultivation of instrumental music in the Principality. It is probable that the Eisteddfod of 1893 may still further develop orchestral music.

Mr. Westlake Morgan, the new Organist of Bangor Cathedral, has been busy in the locality of Merthyr in forming a Welsh section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, till now better known as the National Society of Professional Musicians. In this he has been eminently successful, and it is to be surmised that he will make his influence felt in the same direction in his present field of labour. Such stimulus and cohesion would be as excellent a factor for the good of the profession in North as well as in South Wales, as it has proved to be elsewhere.

The Southport and Birkdale Philharmonic Society, under Mr. H. Hudson, propose giving Mendelssohn's "Elijah" on November 9 and Handel's "Messiah" on December 16. The third Concert of the season is not yet decided upon. The Warrington Musical Society, under Mr. F. H. Crossley, announces four Concerts. At the first, Schubert's "Song of Miriam" and Mendelssohn's "Judge me, O God"; at the second, Mendelssohn's "Elijah"; at the third, a new Cantata by the Conductor; and at the fourth, Mendelssohn's "Athalie" will be given.

THREE open Scholarships will be competed for at the Royal Academy of Music within the next two months: (1.) The Erard Centenary Scholarship, founded by Mr. Daniel Mayer, and open to all British-born subjects between the ages of fourteen and twenty-one who shall not be nor ever have been students at the Royal Academy, the Royal College, or the Guildhall School. This will be awarded to that candidate considered to possess most latent talent and to show most promise as a pianist, and will entitle the holder to three years' free tuition at the Academy and the loan of an Erard "Grand" during that period. (2.) Lady Jenkinson's Thalberg Scholarship, open to male pianists between the ages of fourteen and twenty-one, and British born; tenable for two years, and entitling the holder to £20 a year towards his fees at the Academy. (3.) The Sainton-Dolby Scholarship, open to soprano vocalists between the ages of seventeen and twenty, and who never have been students at the Academy. This will be awarded to the candidate with the best voice in conjunction with musical aptitude. It consists of fifteen guineas a year which are appropriated towards the holder's fees at the Academy. The two last-named Scholarships are to be competed for on the 27th inst., the first-mentioned towards the end of October. The pieces to be prepared for this Competition are Beethoven's Sonata (Op. 2, No. 3) and any piece by Chopin selected by the candidate, who will also have to play a piece at sight. Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Mr. Franklin Taylor, and M. Paderewski will act as judges.

AT the West Riding Summer Assizes, on July 29, the cross actions for libel of Akeroyd v. Hammond were heard before Mr. Justice Day and a special jury. Mr. Waddy, Q.C., M.P., and Mr. Waugh were for the plaintiff, and Mr. J. L. Walton, Q.C., and Mr. W. Beverley for the defendant. Both parties practised as professors of music in Bradford, and the defendant was principal of the recently established Bradford branch of the "Victoria College of Music." Plaintiff, in the course of a correspondence in the Bradford Observer, commented upon the quality of the degrees held by the defendant, who was advertised as "B.A.," "F.S.A.," and "L. Mus." The latter thereupon wrote of Mr. Akeroyd as having "ignominiously failed" at a "preliminary musical examination," the fact being that he had failed at the Durham examination in general subjects, which is preliminary to the musical examination. It was proved during the proceedings that the defendant's B.A. degree was conferred by an American society at Buffalo, without examination; that his "F.S.A." meant Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland; and his "L. Mus." a distinction conferred by the London College of Music. The jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, damages one farthing, and dismissed the defendant's counter-claim. The Judge ordered the costs in both actions to be borne by defendant.

THE annual distribution of prizes to successful students of the Royal Academy of Music took place at St. James's Hall on July 27, when the pleasing though somewhat arduous task of presenting the awards was gracefully fulfilled by the Countess of Kilmorey. The Principal, in making his customary speech, referred in feeling terms to the loss sustained by the Academy and the musical world generally in the decease of Mr. Goring Thomas, and stated that the memorial Concert recently given resulted in a profit of over £1,500. Mr. Threlfall, in proposing a vote of thanks to the Countess of Kilmorey for her presence, made special reference to the indebtedness of the Academy to the Earl of Kilmorey for the active interest he had shown in the Institution.

At Trinity College, London, the Tallis Gold Medal has been awarded to Marian Reynolds, the Gabriel Prize to Albert W. Ketelbey, the Benedict Exhibition to Eleanor M. Shuttleworth, the Reeves Exhibition to Bertha Acworth, and the College Violin Exhibition to Claude S. Fenigstein. At a special Examination for the Queen Victoria Scholarship, Albert W. Ketelbey, the late Queen Victoria Scholar, was re-elected for the term of three years, the adjudicators being the Warden (Professor E. H. Turpin), Professor Bradbury Turner, and Professor James Higgs.

Messrs. John Brinsmead and Sons are about to rebuild their pianoforte show-rooms in Wigmore Street, and will occupy 104, New Bond Street as temporary premises till the beginning of September next year.

REVIEWS.

Der Endreim in der Musik. Ein Kapitel von der musikalischen Declamation. Von Dr. Wilhelm Langhans. [Leipzig: F. E. C. Leuckart.]

In this very interesting and thoughtfully written brochure, the author deals with a subject which nearly concerns vocal composers generally, and dramatic composers, as well as translators of operatic libretti, in particular. "Thanks to the efforts of a number of eminent vocal masters, more especially of Richard Wagner," Dr. Langhans says in his preface, "the time is happily long since gone by when Voltaire could, with some degree of justice, maintain that 'ce qui est trop sot pour être dit, on le chante'; and every cultured amateur now demands that in vocal music the poem should be in every way worthy of the melody wedded thereto. How far we are, nevertheless, yet removed from this universally desired goal it is the object of the present essay to show."

The author refers, in the first place, to some notable failures on the part of contemporary German translators of operatic libretti, on account, chiefly, of the more or less complete unsuitability of their verses to the musical setting from a declamatory point of view. "There is but one right and proper course for the translator to pursue," he maintains in this connection, "which consists in the utmost regard being had to the intentions of the composer, and not a whit more to the author of the original book than may be practicable without detriment to the music." This is no doubt a perfectly sound maxim, as far as the ordinary run of libretti is concerned. Its application is, however, bound to undergo some degree of modification in those, as yet, rare instances where composer and librettist are united in the same individual; particularly if, as in the supreme instance of Richard Wagner, the librettist happens to be a genuine poet, in whose most truly inspired moments the words and their characteristic melos are frequently conceived simultaneously. It was otherwise with that greatest of musicians the world has ever seen, Mozart, whose musical ideas crowded upon his mind in such superabundance that he sometimes but too eagerly seized upon almost the first libretto offered to him, in order to graft upon it some of the melodies which, as he remarks in one of his charming letters to his father, "have already been wandering about in my head for some time." Having to deal with indifferent books, he often treated the verses they contained with equal indifference. That such was actually the case, Dr. Langhans here demonstrates with admirable tact and judgment in quoting examples from the master's operas, especially that of "Don Giovanni," and concluding with a truly masterly analysis, from the declamatory standpoint, of the famous "Serenade" in that opera, showing how both rhyme and rhythm of Da Ponte's verses have been entirely ignored by what our author aptly calls the "musical rhyme" (Musik-reim) and rhythm adopted by the composer. We regret that space does not permit us to refer at greater length to the author's interesting observations concerning the relations of rhyme in word-poetry to musical composition. We must content ourselves with warmly recommending to musicians and amateurs alike the perusal of the essay itself, the last published production of an accomplished and most competent pen, which has since been arrested by the death of him who so ably wielded it.

Seed-Time and Harvest. A Sacred Cantata. By John E. West.

Harvest-Tide. A Cantata for Harvest. By Hugh Blair. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Each succeeding year witnesses greater activity in the provision of sacred music suitable for special seasons, and that of harvest is now receiving remarkable attention, as a careful perusal of our advertising columns will show. Of the two Cantatas above-named, the first is the more important in scope. The words consist of selections from Scripture, interspersed with hymns, in which it is suggested the audience or congregation should join, the whole being pervaded by the spirit of humble thanksgiving. Mr. West's score requires soprano and tenor soloists and four-part chorus, and the general style of the music is church-like and dignified, but melodious and never dull or tedious. Simplicity has, of course, been studied, but there is no suggestion of triviality, and while the Cantata is interesting it is within the means of any fairly well-trained church or chapel choir.

Mr. Hugh Blair's work is for tenor and bass soloists, chorus, and organ, or small orchestra, and is of less dimensions than that of Mr. West, occupying only thirty-five pages in vocal score. The libretto, however, is similar, consisting of Biblical texts and hymns, and the composer states that an attempt has been made "to set forth not only the praise we owe to God for the blessings of harvest-time, but also—and this more particularly—to emphasise the spiritual lesson that should be learnt from the observance of this season. For this purpose 'the Parable of the Wheat and the Tares' and references to 'the Resurrection, and Harvest of the World' are employed." In the illustration of these thoughts, three leading motives, or as the composer terms them "attendant themes," are employed, but they are not sufficiently distinctive to need quotation. While never elaborate in detail, the music is modern in feeling, Mr. Blair indulging freely in sudden changes of tonality, though he wisely avoids polyphony alike in the voice parts and the accompaniments. The impression left by a perusal of this virile little work is that the composer might employ his talents in wider directions, but this, of course, must only be taken as a suggestion. At any rate, we are at present of opinion that "Harvest-tide" does not fully indicate the limits of Mr. Blair's ability.

Suite from the Music to Shakespeare's "Hamlet." Composed by G. Henschel. (Op. 50.) Arranged as a Pianoforte Duet by Battison Haynes. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The publication of this music in duet form will no doubt be hailed by many as an opportunity for reviving pleasant memories, but, beyond this, will also most assuredly win for it troops of friends among those who have not been privileged to hear it on an orchestra, either in connection with the play, or as a Suite—the form in which it now appears. There are five movements, entitled respectively "Prelude," "Ophelia," "Interlude and Pastorale," "Ophelia's Death," and "Danish March." The first of these is founded on three themes, typifying—(1), Hamlet's irresolution; (2), his longing for action; and (3), Ophelia. In the second movement the gentle, loving nature of Ophelia forms a "poetic basis" on which a structure full of beauty has been reared. The "Interlude" brings before us again the tragic conflict in the mind of Hamlet; and the "Pastorale" contrasts with this the placid indifference of Nature to the griefs of humanity. The following movement, practically a short funeral march, is an exquisitely beautiful lament for the "poor wretch" whose "muddy death" it commemorates. It is curious that the succession of notes forming the theme of this movement should occur also in an ancient Danish melody which Mr. Henschel has utilized as the Trio of the March which forms the concluding number of the Suite. If undesigned, this coincidence is remarkable; if intended, its cleverness is quite exceptional, for as regards rhythm the two have no similarity whatever. Whilst of course it is obvious that such poetically conceived music as this will need an orchestra for its full effect, the "Hamlet" Suite comes out surprisingly well on the pianoforte. This, no doubt, because it has been admirably adapted to the instrument; but also, we venture to think, because its merits lie in melody and harmony even more than in orchestral "colour." Young composers will do well to take the hint.

Novello's Octavo Anthems, Nos. 394—401.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE first of this latest instalment of a valuable publication is "I will love Thee, O Lord," by Matthew Kingston, and consists of a smoothly-written and church-like chorus, followed by a verse in which some florid triplets occur in the accompaniment. The Anthem concludes with a vigorous chorus, extended to considerable length, with effective fugal passages. No. 395, "O Lord, Thou art my God," by Charles H. Lloyd, was composed for the London Church Choir Association Festival of the present year, and from its length and importance might almost be described as a Cantata. After an elaborate chorus, written in a free and modern style, we have a more fragmentary movement, with declamatory passages, followed by the final chorus, which is discursive in character, the composer having resisted the temptation to introduce a formal fugue. Mr. Lloyd's Anthem is well worthy of a festival occasion, and will certainly sustain his reputation. No. 396 is Sir John Goss's brief but impressive Full Anthem, "I heard a Voice," concerning which criticism would be an impertinence. No. 397, "Jesu, Lover of my soul," by Frederick Iliffe, is for men's voices only—that is to say, alto, two tenors, and bass—and is appropriately simple and hymn-like in character. No. 398, "The Lord is my strength," by S. Coleridge Taylor, is stated to be for Easter, but it would be suitable for any season. It is flowing and placid in character, and finishes with a choral. No. 399, "At the Lamb's high Feast," by the Rev. E. V. Hall, is, of course, an Easter Anthem. It is throughout rhythmical and hymn-like, but each verse receives different treatment. No. 400, "Blessed City, heavenly Salem," by Arthur C. Fisher, is a cheerful Anthem, unpretentious but decidedly pleasing. It needs a tenor soloist. The last on our list for the present is "Have mercy upon me," by James Shaw. It is for Lent, but it is by no means dismal in character, and recalls Attwood's familiar Anthem "Turn Thy face from my sins," being also written for treble solo and chorus.

Vorträge über Akustik. Von L. A. Zellner.
[Vienna and Leipzig: A. Hartleben.]

WITH the publication, in two handy volumes, of the above series of lectures on acoustics, delivered at the Vienna Conservatorium, Herr Zellner, the General Secretary of the Gesellschaft der Musikfreunde, has rendered a real service to intelligent musicians and musical students who—and their number is, we should think, not a few—desire some really profitable instruction in a science so intimately connected with their art. That art has, as may be inferred, been specially kept in view by the author, whose exposition moreover is throughout most lucid, and whose general treatment of his subject may be best characterised as popular without being superficial. Herr Zellner presents his most able digest of an almost over-abundant material under three principal heads—viz., 1. "Die physikalische Entwickelung des Ton-Materials"; 2. "Die Analyse der Klänge und das Hören"; and 3. "Die künstlerische Verwendung des Ton-Materials," in all of which sections he succeeds in conveying, if not exhaustive instruction upon the matter dealt with, at least a sufficient preparatory knowledge and the requisite stimulus for the acquisition of more complete information. There exists, as far as we know, no similar work in the English language in which the subject is so succinctly and popularly treated, with especial regard to its relations to music as an art. But the knowledge of German is fairly widespread nowadays in this country, more particularly amongst musicians, and were it otherwise a work like the present should almost supply a sufficient inducement to aspiring students to acquire that knowledge. The lectures are further elucidated by over three hundred diagrams, as well as by a number of musical illustrations interspersed throughout the text, and the general get-up of the work reflects the highest credit upon the publishers.

Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Albums for Violin and Pianoforte. Nos. 23 and 26. Six pieces by Rosalind F. Ellicott. Eight pieces by Ethel M. Boyce.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

MISS ELLICOTT has long ago taken high rank among composers of the sex to which she belongs, and indeed it would not be difficult to show that in qualities usually regarded as peculiarly masculine her compositions are vastly superior to those of many male writers who have the public ear. The album of pieces now before us gives fresh proof of her powers, natural and acquired. An easy flow of graceful and expressive melody, refined taste, an excellent knowledge of effect and ample command of the resource which make it possible, are among the merits to be found in these well-contrasted pieces, which consist of a brilliant Prelude, a capital Polonaise, a broadly conceived Aria, a Ballade, a Gavotte, and a very charming Romance. "Style" is needed for their adequate performance—otherwise they are of moderate difficulty.

Miss Boyce's pieces are less ambitious than the foregoing—shorter and altogether lighter in style. They, too, abound in musicianly touches that enhance the charm of the bright and tuneful strains supplied so plentifully by Miss Boyce's graceful muse. Their titles are as follows: "Berceuse," "Valse Caprice," "Adieu," "Aubade," "Mazurka," "Musette," "Reverie," "Alla Burla." Of these the "Aubade" and the three last-named will probably find most admirers.

Suite from the Music to Shakespeare's "Henry VIII." Composed by Edward German. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet by the Composer. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE recent issue of three dances from the music to "Henry VIII.," arranged for pianoforte solo, was duly noticed in these columns. We have now to direct attention to a four-hand arrangement, not only of the dances, but also of the Overture and four Preludes. There is a straightforward character about the whole of this music, admirably in keeping with at least one side of the play. With Wolsey Mr. German has preferred not to deal. Perhaps he considered that no music could be got out of one so "fit for treasons, stratagems," and all the rest of it. The Overture is a vigorous and tuneful piece in the usual form, containing some good solid writing and a particularly graceful second subject. The first Prelude, entitled "Intermezzo Funèbre," undoubtedly marks a higher level than is reached anywhere else in the Suite. There is a simple dignity in the phrases and a sombre richness in their harmonic treatment that speak volumes concerning the young composer's familiarity with the deeper mysteries of his art. The Prelude to Act iii. is full of graceful, flowing melody; that to Act iv. is a brilliant and stately March, "popular," almost to a fault, in style; and that to Act v. is a "Thanksgiving Hymn," treated with appropriate breadth and simplicity. The three charming dances already noticed form an admirable conclusion.

Albums of English Song. No. 5. Twenty-one songs. Composed by Edward James Loder. Edited by William Alexander Barrett. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE publication in this convenient form of a collection of Loder's best songs is an act of justice which will, we trust, be recognised as it deserves by all who take an interest in our treasury of national song. Over-production, the disease which affects music no less than other branches of human activity, is responsible for much undeserved neglect; the new so constantly demands our attention that we cannot find time to distinguish, among the old, that which is worthy of preservation. Let us, therefore, be grateful to those who from time to time rescue a treasure from the oblivion into which it has temporarily fallen. Two or three of the songs here gathered together have, it is true, held their ground to a certain extent, "The Diver" being an "easy first"; but the majority will come upon the ears of the present generation as absolutely new. Loder, who was born in 1813, and was a pupil of Ferdinand Ries, produced his first opera in 1834. The songs in this volume were composed between 1835 and 1848. They represent therefore, approximately, a style in vogue about fifty years ago; and some of us, regarding them, may be excused for doubting whether we have much improved upon it since. A melancholy interest attaches to this fifth number of the English Song Albums—it was the last work of its lamented editor.

Progressive Studies for the Voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Composed by G. Henschel. (Op. 49.) In two books. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE first book of these useful studies is for the practice of "sustained" singing; in the second that of "florid" singing is kept in view. The exercises in both books are arranged on the same plan—i.e., progressively, according to intervals. Each interval, from the second to the tenth, becomes in turn the largest used in the course of one exercise. This plan has been adopted to assist in training the ear as well as the voice, and to this end, also, unfamiliar harmonies and modulations have occasionally been introduced in the accompaniments with the happiest effect. The two books are intended to be used together, and the studies contained in the first book are to be used as "Vocalises" as well as "Solfeggi." Mr. Henschel's position in the musical world necessarily lends weight to anything proceeding from his pen, but as a teacher his name ranks so high that we have special reason for confidence when he puts forward such a work as this. Familiar, as so popular a teacher must be, with the difficulties of pupils and the wants of those who instruct them, Mr. Henschel is peculiarly fitted for the task of producing a standard book of exercises on the art of which he is such a master. That this work will at no distant date be regarded in this light we have little reason to doubt.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat. By Hugh Blair. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THIS setting of the Evening Canticles is composed expressly for the forthcoming Gloucester Festival, and will be heard for the first time at the closing service on Friday (9th inst.). Critical remarks would, of course, be premature at present, but a few words respecting the general scope and features of the work may be offered. It opens with a modified form of the 8th Gregorian Tone in unison, and the same figure pervades the Magnificat throughout, though it is made to appear in many keys and with many modifications. No soloists are required, and the writing is studiously unpretentious. Occasionally the voices are divided into six parts, but an organist or choirmaster possessing an elementary knowledge of the rules of harmony would find no difficulty in re-arranging the chords in four parts, when necessary, without much loss of effect.

Voice-training Studies of medium difficulty. By Emil Behnke and Charles W. Pearce, Mus. Doc. [Chappell and Co.]

THESE studies are intended to aid in the acquirement of "style"; and to do justice to the many beauties they contain, good phrasing and careful attention to dynamic contrasts and variety of tone-colour will, of course, be needed. They are twenty-four in number, and each has a title which sufficiently indicates the character of the music. Thus we have a "Berceuse," an "Autumn Song," a "Nöel," a "March," a "Serenade," and so on. The accompaniments are by no means the least interesting part of these studies—they not only "support" the voice, but also contribute largely to the melodic and rhythmic interest of the music. The studies are issued in six different editions to suit every kind of voice, and a Tonic Sol-fa translation accompanies the vocal part throughout.

Oriental Album. Twenty-five Caucasian, Armenian, Persian, and Turkish melodies, arranged for pianoforte by J. Decker-Schenk. [St. Petersburg: J. H. Zimmerman.]

EASTERN music has, of late, been so frequently brought before us in one way or another that a fairly accurate knowledge of its peculiarities will soon be a matter of course with every musician who regards his art as something more than a mere means of livelihood. The present contribution to the subject appears in a popular guise, which, if it be regretted by more serious students, will, on the other hand, not lack the appreciation of weaker brethren. Both classes may safely add the album to their collections. The group of pieces includes songs, dance-tunes, choruses, and a march, the unfamiliar rhythms and tonality of which supply ample matter for reflection.

Fumées. Suite de quatre morceaux pour le piano. Par L. A. Bourgault-Ducoudray. [Paris: Ph. Maquet et Cie.]

THESE pieces, respectively entitled "l'Appel sous les Eaux," "Poétique Apparition," "Tendres Emois," and "l'Enterrement d'Ophélie," may be unreservedly recommended. They represent French musical art in its most attractive dress, being full of grace, fancy, refinement, and poetic charm. The "Burial of Ophelia," indeed, has higher qualities in addition, but its companions are equally faithful to their titles. From an executive point of view these pieces are not difficult; for all that, none but experienced players should meddle with them.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THIS year's Bayreuth Festival performances concluded on the 21st ult. with "Parsifal," in the presence of a crowded audience. Amongst those present were the Duchess of Edinburgh, the Hereditary Princess of Saxe-Meiningen, and a large number of foreigners. The performance is stated to have been most admirable, and the enthusiasm of the audience is characterised as "indescribable."

There are to be no Festival performances at Bayreuth next year, but it is expected they will be resumed in 1894, when the "Nibelungen" tetralogy, with which the Festspiele were inaugurated in 1876, may be re-mounted.

Some steps having been taken on the part of the Commission of the forthcoming World's Fair, at Chicago, with the view of obtaining the right of performance of "Parsifal," the management of the Bayreuth Festspiele, as was to be expected, have declined to make the concession.

One of the most interesting Concerts given last month in connection with the Vienna Musical and Theatrical Exhibition was that of Johann Svendsen, the eminent Norwegian composer and orchestral conductor at the Royal Opera of Copenhagen. The principal works in the programmme—viz., the D major Symphony, "Paris Carnival," and the "Legend of Zorahayda," by Svendsen, were all novelties to a Viennese audience, who were delighted with the music and offered quite an ovation to the Norwegian master.

Andreas Hallén, the Swedish composer and principal conductor of the Royal Opera, Stockholm, has also been invited to give a Concert of Swedish music at the Vienna Exhibition, when some of his own compositions and of those by J. Södermann and L. Normann will be performed.

After the close of the Exhibition at present being held in the Austrian capital the Exhibition Theatre is to be removed in its entirety to Salzburg, where it will be opened as a "Festspielhaus" for the performance of Mozartian and other classical works—i.e., pre-Wagnerian operas by German composers.

Dr. Wilhelm Langhans, of Berlin, whose death we recently recorded, has bequeathed the sum of 100,000 marks to the Leipzig Conservatorium, the interest of which is to be applied in stipends for talented pupils. Dr. Langhans was himself at one time a pupil of the Institution referred to.

The Concert-Verein of the University of Giessen has just celebrated the 100th anniversary of its institution with a performance of Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," and other special Concert performances extending over several days, and in the presence of large audiences. The present conductor of the Society, Herr A. Felchner, received a decoration from the Grand Duke of Hesse upon this occasion.

The Vienna Imperial Opera re-opened its doors last month with a performance of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana." This was the eighty-third performance here of this remarkable work, the famous Intermezzo in which has been redemanded regularly on every one of these occasions. The opening performance in question was associated with that of Rossini's "Il Barbiere."

The Munich Royal Opera-house resumed its performances on the 1st ult. with Wagner's early opera "Die Feen," which has proved a source of attraction at this establishment during several seasons.

Benedict Randhartinger, the Nestor of Austrian composers, celebrated the ninetieth anniversary of his birth on July 27 last, at Gloggwitz, when he was the recipient of numerous congratulatory messages and other tokens of esteem. Randhartinger was well acquainted with both Beethoven and Schubert, and was the first to introduce the compositions of the latter to the Viennese public. He at one time held the position of first Capellmeister at the Vienna Opera, and is the composer of an opera, "König Enzio," and of numerous other works.

On July 31 last, the anniversary of the death of Franz Liszt, the grave of the pianist-composer was decked with a number of beautiful floral offerings, contributed by his pupils and admirers as well as by the Bayreuth municipality. On the following day the annual commemorative mass was sung in the Bayreuth Stadt-Kirche.

Eugène d'Albert has completed a grand opera entitled "Der Rubin," of which some fragments have already been performed at one of the annual meetings of the German Tonkünstler-Verein some two years since.

Unusual activity is to be displayed during the season about to commence at the Frankfort-on-Main Opera, where, besides the leading operatic works of Mozart, Weber, Beethoven, Meyerbeer, Verdi, and others, a "cycle" of Wagner's music-dramas is to be given, extending from "Rienzi" to the "Nibelungen" tetralogy, the latter to be produced several times. In addition to these attractive features, Mascagni's "Cavalleria" and "L'Amico Fritz," both on the same evening, will be included in the répertoire. The Frankfort Opera, we may add, is not one of the State-subventioned institutions of the fatherland.

The musical performances in connection with the meeting of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musik-Verein, on the 16th and following days of this month, at Vienna, will include a scenic representation at the Imperial Opera of Liszt's "St. Elizabeth" (16th inst.); the same composer's symphonic poem, with choruses, "Prometheus" (as already announced by us), and orchestral works by Wagner, Goldmark, R. Strauss, and Brahms. Liszt's "Coronation Mass" ("Krönungs-Messe") is to be given in the Court Chapel on the 18th inst., under the direction of Professor Hellmesberger.

Some incidental music to Shakespeare's "A Winter's Tale," including an introduction to the last act, and a March, written by Herr Carl Hess, was performed at a recent Orchestral Concert at Marienbad, under direction of Herr Zimmermann, and is spoken of as most graceful and appropriate to its theme.

A very successful Concert was given last month, at Düsseldorf, in aid of the monument to be erected to Robert Schumann at his native town of Zwickau. The programme included an excellent performance of Schumann's "Paradies und Peri," under the conductorship of Musik-director Buths.

Two important new symphonic works were performed recently by the Leipzig Liszt-Verein—viz., a Symphony in C minor (Op. 58) by Herr A. Klughardt, and portions of a "dramatic" Symphony entitled "Orpheus," from the pen of Herr Conrad Ansorge. Both compositions excited much interest and were very favourably received.

The Würzburg Choral Society "Liedertafel" has just celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation with a Concert performance which happened to be the three-hundredth given by this active Society. The performances included an Overture and Festival Chorus specially written for the occasion by Herren Mayer-Olbersleben and Weinberger respectively; as well as a Cantata, entitled "Columbus," by Herr Zöllner, the director of the New York "Liederkranz."

The Berlin Royal Opera is preparing to celebrate, on the 7th of next month, the 150th anniversary of its existence. The house was inaugurated on October 7, 1742, by the first performance of an opera written to an Italian libretto by Graun, and entitled "Cesare e Cleopatra." The first performance of any opera in Germany was that of Heinrich Schütz's "Daphne," produced at Torgau in 1627.

M. Saint-Saëns's opera "Samson et Dalila" is to be produced in the course of next month, for the first time in Germany, at the Berlin Royal Opera, when the part of Dalila will probably be sung by Madame Rosa Sucher.

M. Saint-Saëns has accepted an invitation to visit the Chicago Exhibition next June, with a view of conducting several concerts of his own works, and to give some Organ Recitals.

Some two years since, it will be remembered, the musical works of Frederick the Great, of Prussia, were published in an édition de luxe in Germany. Messrs. Artaria, of Vienna, now announce a somewhat similar publication—viz., the musical compositions of the Austrian Emperors, Ferdinand III. and Joseph I., both of them musicians of considerable attainments. The collection is introduced by an interesting preface from the pen of Herr Guido Adler.

A new opera, "Die Teufelsglocke," the libretto by Bernhard Buchbinder, the music by Robert Fuchs, the Viennese composer, is to be brought out next month at the Leipzig Stadt-Theater. Herr Jahn, the director of the Imperial Opera in Vienna, will be present on the occasion, with a view to the subsequent production of the new work in the Austrian capital.

Fräulein Marie Deppe, a niece of the late Ludwig Deppe, the eminent Berlin orchestral conductor, has been engaged for three years as a leading soprano at the Berlin Royal Opera. The young lady is said to be a highly gifted, promising artist.

A new opera, "Die Welfenbraut," by Alfred Zamara, of Vienna, the libretto by Max Tull and R. Genée, has been accepted for first performance during the present season at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater.

Hans Sommer's successful opera "Loreley" is just now being mounted at the Darmstadt Hof-Theater.

Another lyrical establishment is to be added to the musical attractions of the German capital, Herr Federmann, for many years Capellmeister at the Berlin Friedrich-Wilhelm Stadt-Theatre, having, it is said, rented the Alexanderplatz Theatre for the purpose of operatic performances during the winter months. This, together with the projected conversion of the Belle Alliance Theatre into an opera house, would place "Spree-Athens" in the proud, if somewhat precarious, possession of four high-class lyric stages!

Continental journals announce the impending performance at Copenhagen (some say at Coburg) of an opera, the libretto of which is attributed to "Carmen Sylva," the talented consort of the King of Roumania, and the music to His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh. The title of this interesting production of joint-royalty has not, so far, transpired.

Anton Bruckner, the veteran Viennese composer, is just now occupied with his tenth symphonic work, which is to bear the suggestive title of "Gothic Symphony."

The Vienna Männergesang-Verein has, as a special mark of distinction, bestowed the Schubert medal upon the New York Male Choral Society, Arion, during the recent sojourn of its members in the Austrian capital.

Frau Amalie Joachim, who lately returned to Germany from a highly successful American Concert tour, proposes to visit the United States again in January next.

Dr. Lampe Vischer is to replace Dr. O. Günther in the directorship of the Leipzig Conservatorium.

Madame Melba has been added to the list of Mr. Abbey's American company, and will make her New York début on the second night of the season, which commences on November 21, with M. Jean de Reszké as Faust. After five weeks the troupe will go to Chicago for three weeks and then return to New York for eight weeks. Massenet's "Werther" and Mascagni's "L'Amico Fritz" will be the chief novelties.

At the Paris Opéra performances of Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine" and "Les Huguenots" took place last month, while the same composer's "Robert le Diable," which has not been produced here for a considerable length of time, is in course of being re-mounted.

The foundation capital of the Paris Théâtre Lyrique Company—viz., 300,000 francs—has been fully subscribed for, and active preparations are going forward at the former Renaissance Theatre for the realisation of the new scheme. M. Detroyat, the managing director, has appointed M. Jehin, the husband of Madame Deschamps, of the Opéra, to the post of orchestral conductor. Amongst the works to be produced under the new régime will be a new opera by M. Messager entitled "Madame Chrysanthème," the libretto founded upon Pierre Loti's romance; and another novelty, "Daphnis et Chloe," composed by M. Maréchal. Cherubini's "Les deux Journées" is to be revived, with a completely revised libretto by Jules Barbier.

M. Widor, the well-known composer of "La Korrigane," has just completed the score of a Symphony for orchestra, organ, and choral parts, which is to be produced at Geneva upon the occasion of the inauguration of a new concert hall in that town some few months hence.

The same composer has been requested by the manager of the Paris Grand Théâtre (formerly the Eden) to write some incidental music for the forthcoming revival at that house of Beaumarchais's "Le Marriage de Figaro."

The Paris Municipality again offers a prize of ten thousand francs for a work in symphonic or dramatic form, for solo voices, chorus, and orchestra, competitors to hand in their manuscripts between January 16 and February 15 of next year. The successful work, as in previous instances, is to be publicly performed at the expense of the Municipality.

The Paris Société des Grandes Auditions Musicales has also opened a competition for a serious opera and one of a lighter order, each to comprise not more than two acts. In this case also the successful works will be brought out publicly under the auspices of the Society in question.

Under the title of "Pélerinage à Bayreuth," an interesting contribution to French Wagner literature has just been published in Paris (Savine, éditeur) from the pen of M. Emile de Saint Alban. The author, until lately an unreasoning antagonist of the Bayreuth master, has returned from the Festspiele his ardent and unconditional admirer.

Pietro Mascagni is expected on the 12th inst. at Vienna, where he will conduct, for the first time outside Italy, his operas "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "L'Amico Fritz" at the theatre of the Exhibition.

According to Italian papers, Verdi has requested the manager of the Argentine Opera House, at Rome, to send his principal scenic artist and costume designer to England, to obtain sketches of old authentic views of Windsor and the English costumes in the reign of King Henry IV., for the forthcoming production of "Falstaff." M. Maurel has been staying lately at Verdi's country residence, and it is said that the veteran Maëstro devoted three hours daily to coaching up the French baritone in his part of the fat knight.

At the Carlo Felice Theatre, at Genoa, which has just been entirely redecorated, a new season of opera was announced to commence, on the 22nd ult., with Verdi's "Otello." Signor Franchetti's new opera "Cristoforo Colombo" is likewise to be produced here shortly.

A new one-act opera, entitled "Birichino," by the Maëstro Mugnone, was brought out with much success last month at the Malibran Theatre, Venice. At the conclusion of the performance the composer, who conducted the work, was called before the curtain eleven times.

The Italian composer Signor Cippolini is engaged, at the instance of Signor Sonzogno, the enterprising Milanese music publisher, upon the score of an opera entitled "Il piccolo Haydn," the libretto being founded upon a drama by Checchi.

The coming operatic season at the Theatre La Scala, at Milan, is to be inaugurated with Signor Franchetti's "Cristoforo Colombo." Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" is also in course of preparation at this leading establishment where, it is hoped, Verdi's "Falstaff" will likewise be brought out during the season.

The first performance, in the course of this month, of an opera, "La Tradita," by a very promising young Italian composer, Signor Ferrucio Cusinati, is looked forward to with much interest at the Ristori Theatre, Verona.

A new opera, "Tilda," by the young Maëstro Ciléa, was brought out on the 13th ult. at the Malibran Theatre, of Venice, and met with a very favourable reception. The libretto is described as weak, but the music is highly spoken of in competent quarters.

An opera, entitled "Quaresima d'Amore," composed by the Prince de Teora, a wealthy Neapolitan amateur, met with a successful performance last month at the Pezzana Theatre, of Milan.

Madame Teresina Tua, the distinguished violinist, who has not appeared in public since her marriage with the Count Verney della Valletta, will give a series of Recitals during next winter in Germany and Austria.

A new opera, "La Zingara di Granata," by Signor Bartolucci, a promising young composer, was brought out last month at the Quirino Theatre, Rome, and was received with much favour.

Verdi, having handed the complete score of his comic opera "Falstaff" to his publisher, Ricordi, of Milan, is reported to be already quietly engaged upon a new operatic work. Questioned upon the subject recently by a friend, the Maëstro replied: "What am I to do? I cannot possibly remain inactive. 'Falstaff' is finished, and was to be my last opera. At the same time, I am still alive and well, and so I have taken in hand a new work." "And the title of it, dear Maëstro, will be?" inquired his interlocutor. "The title," smilingly responded Verdi, "you shall know as soon as the score is quite finished."

The Court of Cassation, in Turin, has just confirmed the judgment delivered by the Milan tribunal in the copyright action which Signor Verga, the author of the novel upon which the libretto of "Cavalleria Rusticana" is founded, has brought against Signor Mascagni and his publisher, Signor Sonzogno. The latter will have to pay a royalty of twenty-five per cent. upon all the proceeds hitherto realised for the disposal of the right of performance of the opera either in Italy or elsewhere. It is estimated that the sum so realised already amounts to over 500,000 lire.

Señor Breton, the well-known Spanish composer, whose opera, "Fray Garin," recently scored a great success at Barcelona, has, it is said, been presented by his fellow citizens with a purse containing £1,000, in recognition of his having dedicated his new work to the above town. In addition to this, his name has been given to a street in Barcelona. The Spaniards evidently know how to honour and encourage native talent.

The Marquis d'Alta Villa, a very able musician and author, has been appointed to the vocal professorship, formerly held by the celebrated Ronconi, at the Royal Conservatorio of Madrid.

On journeying to a bull-fight at Fontarabia last month with a party of gentlemen, Señor Sarasate narrowly escaped a carriage accident. He was in the first carriage, but desiring to converse with a friend he changed to the second carriage. A few moments afterwards the horses of the first carriage took fright and bolted, upsetting the travellers, injuring three and killing one outright.

Herr Ferdinand Held, an esteemed author on musical subjects, has been appointed to the directorship of the Geneva Conservatoire, Dr. Girard, for many years director of the Institution, having retired on account of his mature age.

The Brussels Théâtre de la Monnaie will re-open its doors in the first week of the present month with "Aïda." Among the novelties to be produced during the season will be Massenet's "Werther"; an opera, "Maître Martin," by M. Jan Blockx; and another, in one act, by M. Jeno Hubay, of the Prague Conservatorium, the libretto of which is founded upon François Coppée's "Le Luthier de Crémone."

The French Opera Company in the Hague, under the management of M. Josef Mertens, will resume its performances towards the end of this month. An attractive répertoire is being provided, including promises of "Tannhäuser," "Oberon," M. Saint-Saëns's "Samson et Dalila," and Massenet's "Werther."

Antwerp has been en fête lately to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of M. Peter Benoit's assumption of the directorship of the Antwerp College of Music, which, owing mainly to his efforts, has done so much in fostering and developing the Flemish element in the musical productions of the country. An imposing procession, in which over 150 corporations and societies from all parts of Flanders took part, paraded the streets, and in the evening a Festival Concert took place in which, besides works by Benoit, some compositions specially written for the occasion were performed.

The German Theatre maintained hitherto by the Russian Court at St. Petersburg having been officially closed last year, a new theatre for the performance of opera, &c., is to be opened during the coming winter under the auspices of the German Society "Palme" and under the artistic management of Herr Richard Thomas. The Russian capital, it appears, numbers 100,000 Germans amongst its inhabitants; a more than sufficient number to support a national theatre.

Anton Rubinstein has promised to play on the occasion of the opening, shortly, of the new Concert Room which is being constructed at Berlin by Messrs. Bechstein. The Russian pianist-composer will also conduct some performances of his works during the coming season both in Germany and Austria.

CORRESPONDENCE.

OPERA, NEW AND OLD.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—I have always been a profound believer in the virtue of iteration, in spite of the uncomplimentary epithet prefixed to it by Shakespeare, and my belief has only been strengthened by the events of the recent opera season. We live in an age of advertisement, and iteration is the very pith and essence of advertisement. The great bulk of average people attach a superstitious reverence to anything they see in print, and it naturally follows that the value they assign to a thing is in a direct ratio to the frequency with which its merits are cast in their teeth. Go where they will within the limits of the four seas, it is impossible for them to escape the assertion that Appleby's soap, or Cadman's mustard, or Mussel's pills are the best. It is dinned in their ears in and out of season until they are wearied into accepting it with a faith as implicit as that which they place in the proposition that two and two make four. If they were assured with equal persistency that Appleby's soap, Cadman's mustard, and Mussel's pills were not the best, I have no doubt that their faith would be shattered, or, at any rate, that they would preserve an open mind on the points in question. But the fact remains that they never are subjected to this destructive influence, and so it comes about that the fallacy of the affirmative instance, as the logicians call it, once more maintains its dominion over the minds of the average mortal. These reflections have been suggested to me by the events of the recent opera season at Covent Garden and Drury Lane. We have been assured again and again that there never was such a season, and have been told that the operatic firmament has never been ablaze with so many luminaries of the first order. We have been assured that the annals of opera might be ransacked in vain to furnish a parallel for the casts, the costumes, the scenery, and the mise-en-scène of the past season. And as no one has been at pains to challenge the accuracy of these reiterated assertions, they have been accepted with such equanimity by the public that I fear I shall be regarded as a profane infidel for avowing my disinclination to accept as gospel truth estimates which, so far from being the spontaneous outgrowth of public opinion, have been dictated and suggested much in the same way that the merit of Appleby's soap, Cadman's mustard, and Mussel's pills are brought home to the impressionable mind of the average materfamilias.

Now, before I go any farther, let me disclaim in the most emphatic manner any desire or intention to belittle or disparage the signal services which have been rendered of late years by Sir Augustus Harris to the opera-going and opera-loving sections of the community. I, for my own part, am free to confess in the most candid way how much, as an opera-goer, I owe to his energy and enterprise. In spite of the sinister forebodings of those who declared that it spelt ruin, he has succeeded in making Italian opera a "going concern," and I do not suppose that any one else could have carried through the venture so successfully. The operas produced under his direction have almost invariably been lavishly, though not always tastefully mounted, and his companies have always included a large proportion of the finest singers of the day. But when Sir Augustus Harris and his faithful henchmen in the press talk of "unprecedented combinations," "the best casts ever known," and so forth, I am bound to protest. Vixere fortes ante—Druriolanum. The vicissitudes and disasters of Mr. Mapleson's career must not blind us to the fact that he was instrumental in introducing to the public artists who, vocally at any rate, were superior to any of those who have emerged above the operatic horizon in the last fifteen or twenty years. A new generation of amateurs have grown up since the death of Mr. Gye, sen., but that is no reason why his long and notable services as an impresario in the field of Italian opera should be forgotten. Of the palmy days of the Mapleson and Gye régimes many middle-aged opera-goers must yet retain a vivid recollection. I see that Mr. Santley is about to publish a volume of reminiscences shortly, and I trust that he may devote some space to the period in question, when, to mention no other names, Titiens, Patti, Nilsson, and Trebelli were all in their prime. If my memory serves me right the three first-named artists were circ. ann. 1868 all to be heard on the same stage in "Don Giovanni" and "Le Nozze di Figaro." The average histrionic capacity of the latter-day operatic artist may have improved, but who can contend that three vocalists equal to those named could be found even by Sir Augustus Harris? It must have been twelve years later when I heard Lucca, Albani, and Sembrich in the "Nozze," a combination at all points superior to that which appeared in the course of the season of 1892. It is no doubt possible that if a comparison were instituted between a prospectus of a season of Mr. Mapleson or Mr. Gye in the sixties and one of Sir Augustus Harris's in the nineties, the latter might have some slight advantage as regards the numbers of the artists engaged. But superiority does not always belong to the side of the big battalions—at least, operatically speaking; and as events proved, the brunt of the work in the past season fell on comparatively few shoulders, so that, except for the honour and glory of the thing, a list one-half as long would have sufficed. A considerable number of the principal artists retained for the past campaign appeared very seldom indeed—except on the prospectus, and for the excellent reason that there was no room for them, a state of affairs which is hardly conducive to the equanimity of that very highly strung and sensitive personage, the operatic singer. London in the season is a very nice place, but it is trying to a performer who has to spend a couple of months there for only a couple of appearances. Still I have no wish to labour this point. When "unprecedented combinations of talent" are spoken of, it is doubtless on the score of quality rather than quantity that Sir Augustus Harris is anxious to challenge comparisons with his predecessors. The desire is most laudable, since every ambitious impresario ought to aim at "going one better" than his forerunners. But as I have endeavoured to show above, it is one thing to challenge comparisons with the past glories of the Italian operatic stage; it is quite another thing to extort the confession of superiority from those whose opinion is worth having—those who can remember the great artists who shone in the pre-Augustan epoch. I have mentioned several of these above, and if they are not enough, I may go back a little farther and add Jenny Lind, Viardot-Garcia, Grisi and Alboni, Lablache, Mario, and Ronconi. The list might be indefinitely extended: I have just put down the first few names that occur to me; but it will serve in conjunction with the others mentioned above to show the futility of attempting to claim altogether unparalleled supremacy for the artists who have appeared at Covent Garden and Drury Lane in the course of the last season.

If we turn from the artists engaged to the works produced, it cannot be said that the use of the term "unprecedented" is a whit better justified by the achievements of the past campaign. The best test of the artistic value of an operatic season is to be found in its novelties. Let us accordingly apply this test to the greatest opera season on earth, and what is the result? The novelties produced in the past season were four—"L'Amico Fritz," "La Luce dell' Asia," "Elaine," and "Nydia." To these remain to be added the quasi-novelties "Philémon et Baucis" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," neither of which had been previously heard in the course of the summer season at Covent Garden. Now no one blessed with the critical faculty in its most rudimentary form can profess enthusiasm about any of the four first-named works. "L'Amico Fritz" barely achieved a succès d'estime. From the point of view of the music it was not without interest, and showed in some respects an advance in construction on its predecessor. Then it had an Intermezzo, which being by the composer of "the only Intermezzo," naturally appealed to the many-headed monster. For the rest, the chief attraction in the piece was Madame Calvé, a fine singer and a superb actress, though very little scope for the display of her talents was afforded by the colourless, undramatic character of the plot. Mr. De Lara's "Light of Asia," though a great deal better than one had any reason to expect from the composer of "The Garden of Sleep," afforded a conclusive proof that operas cannot be written by the light of nature. Sir Augustus Harris has had opportunities such as have fallen to the lot of few operatic directors of encouraging native talent, but it cannot be said that he has made good use of them. I do not deny that there is a thin vein of talent in the work of Messrs. De Lara and George Fox, but to give these writers the preference over all other British composers is simply to put a premium on mediocrity. "Elaine" stands in a different category. M. Bemberg is at least versed in the grammar of his art; but, on the other hand, he has not emerged from the stage of assimilative discipleship. In opera one wants more than prettiness. One looks for individuality and backbone, and one may look in vain for either of these qualities in the luscious muse of M. Bemberg.

"Ah," but some one will object, "you are wilfully slurring over the chief attraction and the greatest triumph of the season—the performances of German opera in German by the German company specially organised and brought over by Sir Augustus Harris." I am quite ready to admit that these performances were the chief event of the season, as they were certainly the most popular and successful. But I cannot help harbouring a shrewd suspicion that to no one was the success of the German season a greater revelation than to Sir Augustus Harris himself. Let us look at the facts of the case. A limited number of performances were announced as a sort of pendant to what I may call the orthodox season. The result of the experiment transcended the most sanguine expectations of the most ardent devotee of the Wagnerian cult. The orthodox season was eclipsed by its rival. German opera was an easy first in the race for popularity, while Italian opera, except in its one-act form, was simply nowhere. The Juggernaut car of Wagner overrode all opposition. Everything has been submerged beneath the billows of his tremendous orchestra except the still small voice of the Intermezzo and the strident strain of Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay. And, what is the strangest thing of all, this immense and unprecedented success was achieved, speaking vulgarly, by a fluke, or something very like it.

The annals of opera are full of strange and unexpected surprises, and the recent season has certainly contributed its share. For example, an outsider like myself is hopelessly bewildered by the attempt to ascertain the principles on which new works are selected. The production of an opera, on the scale which Sir Augustus Harris has it in his power to produce it, is about the greatest compliment that can be paid to a composer. One would naturally expect, therefore, that the honour would only be conferred on the most meritorious aspirants. Apart from the question of novelties, certain serious and disquieting considerations are suggested by the course which events have recently taken in operatic circles. People seem to have gone mad over things which are either very short or portentously long. Has it come to this, then, that Wagner has made grand opera by other composers impossible, and are we, apart from Wagner, to live on musical snippets for the rest of our lives? It will be curious to see what will be our fate next year, when fashionable society allows us to have opera once more. Will it, I wonder, be Wagner again in excelsis, or a triple bill of one-act after-dinner operas of various nationalities? Or is there any chance of a hearing being granted to the work of British musicians on account of its intrinsic artistic value? For this last we shall, I fear, have yet to wait a while, though I hope not indefinitely.

I am, Sir, yours obediently,

G MINOR.

NORWEGIAN FOLK-MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—The following airs here given for the violin are some of the most familiar among the peasant musicians of Norway, and may be of interest to your readers. The greater part of the national songs and dances of these people have never been written, though handed down through generations of fiddlers. Their music possesses in consequence a verve and accumulated individuality which must have been lost had it been acquired from notation. The few dances now set down must, for this very reason, forfeit much of their original charm, while also further allowance must be made for their translation from the national fiddle to the Italian model.

The "spielemann" always performs on the national "Hardanger" violin, the chief peculiarity of which is the possession of five silver strings beneath the catgut. These strings have almost the effect of a pedal, giving great resonance to the sound, especially when the tone is upon the open strings, which frequently occurs, since the musician rarely quits the first position, where he is a master. The gut strings are tuned thus—and the silver strings thus—

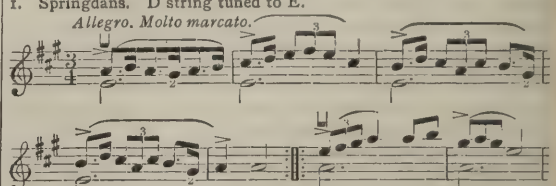
The airs performed by the "spielemann" are chiefly dance music, of which the "Halling" and "Springdans" are the favourite kinds. These are not unlike the Scotch reel in character, but are more boisterous in their action, the men, for instance, turning frequent somersaults. The music is correspondingly vigorous and marcato, and contains a great deal of double stopping, to facilitate which effect the pitch of a string is often altered, as in No. 1, where the D string is raised to E.

The ignorance of notation among these strolling players well-nigh defeats one's efforts to put their music into form. They never play a tune twice alike, and seem to be quite unable to do so; their time especially is shifting. Again, if asked to repeat a passage, they must start afresh from the commencement of the air, and the phrase desired must be caught as it passes.

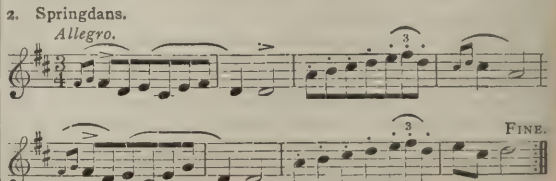
1. Springdans. D string tuned to E.

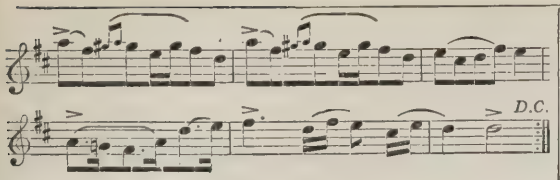
Allegro. Molto marcato.



2. Springdans.

Allegro.





3. Halling. G string tuned to A.

4. Halling.

Truly yours,
GLADYS L. EVANS.

M. MAUREL'S LECTURE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In my anxiety not unnecessarily to trespass on your valuable space, I am afraid I have not been sufficiently explicit in my letter in your last issue; but I cannot admit that I have "mistaken the main point of M. Maurel's remark."

The greater includes the less; and if it is right to train voices on all vowels, the vowel quality must be altered at different pitches as a matter of necessity. This is particularly noticeable in the vowels at either extreme of the "vowel scale of nature," oo and ee: let any one sing them, with even the slightest regard to beauty of tone, over the whole compass of the voice, and it will be found that these words are sung with a very different quality at the bottom of the voice as compared with that at the top of the voice, the alterations taking place in almost imperceptible gradations, though the singer may be quite unaware of the science underlying the fact. There would certainly, in our present state of knowledge, be no excuse for any teacher to let his pupils ignore these changes.

The whole matter is fully discussed in Messrs. Novello's primer "Pronunciation for Singers," by Alex. Ellis, which is an abbreviation of a much larger work on the same subject published many years ago by Messrs. Curwen and Sons. The subject is also carefully explained in "Voice, Song, and Speech."

In conclusion, I desire to call attention to the time-honoured advice, given by all good teachers of singing, to "close" the voice as the higher regions of it are approached; if this means anything it means that the vowel quality must be altered. I repeat, therefore, that, excellent as M. Maurel's observations undoubtedly are, he has no claim to originality in this very important matter.—I am, Sir, yours most obediently,

EMIL BEHNKE.

18, Earl's Court Square,
August 15, 1892.

MOZART'S SONATA IN B FLAT.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—In your issue of August 1 appears a letter from Mr. George Langley, two sentences in which call for notice—viz., "But should not the B natural in the second bar be B sharp? B natural is certainly contrary to the accepted laws as to passing notes, and (what is worse) it offends the ear." In answer, I quote from Macfarren's "Rudiments of Harmony." In chapter vii., section 11, speaking of a "passing note," he says: "When it resolves on the third of a chord it may be at an interval of tone or semitone," after which an illustration is given. Again, in the recent work on "Harmony," by Mr. Ebenezer Prout, in chapter xi., paragraph 248, these words occur: "But if it be below the harmony note it should be a semitone below it, unless such harmony note be the major third of a chord, in which case the auxiliary note may be either a tone or semitone below the harmony note."

According to these quotations it is not compulsory that the passing note should either be a semitone or a tone beneath the third.

In the instance taken from Mozart's Sonata, the B flat and the C sharp are, by the context, undoubtedly the chord of the diminished seventh—i.e., the first inversion of the chord of the minor ninth; and the C sharp in the bass is, therefore, the major third from the root of the chord; thus, the passing note B natural is in accordance with "the accepted laws as to passing notes." Mozart, in using the B natural, did so in accordance with the custom of his time, which prevails with us now. It must remain a matter of taste as to whether the B sharp, as suggested by Mr. Langley, would be preferable to what Mozart wrote.

The apparent false relation between the B flat in the right hand and the passing note B natural in the left—i.e., the major second as a passing note against the minor ninth—has been dealt with in the second Lecture on "False Relations," by Mr. James Turpin, given at the College of Organists, and which appeared in the columns of the Musical World.—Yours truly,

MOZARTEAN.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

M. ALLCOCK.—We do not know of any publication that would answer your requirements.

MUSICAL.—Allargando means broader and broader by degrees—i.e., a gradual increase of tone and slackening of speed combined.

F. WOODS.—Mr. Ben Davies has appeared at the Royal Italian Opera, Covent Garden, as Faust, and Mr. Alec Marsh as the Herald in "Lohengrin," and also in De Lara's "Luce dell' Asia." We do not remember any appearance of the other Tenor referred to at the Italian Opera.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

DOUGLAS.—The quartet of singers at the Sacred Concert given at the Palace on Sunday evening, July 31, were Miss Fanny Bouffleur, Miss Emilie Lloyd, Mr. Henry Piercy, and Mr. Musgrove Tufnail.

Miss Bouffleur's rendering of "The Soul's Awakening," the closing portion of which she sang with considerable dramatic effect, evoked specially hearty applause.

Eastbourne (Devonshire Park).—An excellent Concert was given on the 11th ult., being one of a series of Classical Concerts given under the direction of Mr. Norfolk Megone. Mr. George Langley was solo pianist, and delighted the appreciative portion of the audience by his playing of Sterndale Bennett's Concerto in F minor and Schubert's Impromptu (Op. 142, No. 1). The orchestral pieces were Beethoven's Leonora Overture, Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony, and a selection from Die Meistersinger. Miss Hendon Warde sang Gounod's "Entreat me not to leave thee," and Mr. Arthur Taylor gave a fine rendering of the same composer's "Nazareth." The programme on the 18th ult. included Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony and Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor, the soloist being Miss Margaret Gyde, who was recalled with much heartiness. Miss Gyde also played the Wagner-Liszt "Spinnerlied," and being recalled gave Paderewski's Minuet. Mr. Reginald Groome was successful in songs by Handel and Schubert. These Concerts are satisfactory indications of an improvement in summer music at our fashionable seaside resorts.

Edinburgh.—Before the British Association for the Advancement of Science an Organ Recital was given in the University Music Classroom on the 4th ult., by Mr. G. F. Wesley-Martin, Sub-Organist, St. Mary's Cathedral Church, Edinburgh. The programme included works by Schubert, Spohr, S. S. Wesley, Mendelssohn, Sterndale Bennett, Kullak, and Handel.

Epping.—A successful performance of Gaul's Holy City took place at the Parish Church on July 27. Mr. Donald Penrose, Organist of the Church, conducted, the choruses being sung by members of his special choir. The soloists were Miss Archer, soprano; Miss Bell, contralto; Mr. James Bell, tenor; Mr. Constanduros, bass. The organ accompaniment was efficiently rendered by Mr. Horace Norton, and Miss G. Williams supplied the harp obbligato. At the close Mr. H. Riding played a new Festival March, recently written by Dr. H. W. Wareing. Mr. Penrose may be congratulated on the success of his efforts at Epping to supply good musical services for the people. There was a crowded congregation.

Fakenham.—A most successful District Choral Festival of choirs in union with the Norfolk and Suffolk Church Choral Association was held, by the kind permission of the rector, the Rev. A. E. Humphreys, in the magnificent Parish Church at Fakenham, on July 27. There were in all about 200 voices, from the following parishes:—Fakenham, Hempton, Burnham Deepdale, Ryburgh, Rudham, Wood Norton, Stibbard, Dunton, Toftrees, Edgefield, Tatterford, Tattersett, and Wighton. Dr. F. Bates, Organist of Norwich Cathedral and honorary Organist to the Association, to whose patient and skilful exertions these Festivals are so deeply indebted, again kindly acted as Conductor. The Magnificat and Nunc dimittis were sung to a setting composed expressly for these Festivals by Dr. Bates. The Anthem after the third collect was "O come, let us sing unto the Lord," by Tours, and that after the Offertory Hymn, "I will give thanks unto Thee, O Lord," by Barnby. This account would be incomplete without some recognition of the able and willing assistance rendered by the Organist of the Church, Mr. L. Holloway.

Lowestoft.—At the Pier Concert, on the 4th ult., was produced for the first time a Comedietta written by Mrs. Edward Adams, entitled Incognita, with music composed by Dr. E. Bunnett. The construction of this libretto is naturally not very elaborate, the dramatis personæ being confined to three. The musical numbers are a short pianoforte introduction; contralto song, "When a husband's cross and weary"; soprano song, "In the summer of life"; duet for soprano and contralto, "'Tis the fashion of this fin de siècle day"; concluding with a trio, "Terpsichorean Festival." Each number is bright and pleasing, the duet being very melodious, and the little work was received with such favour that a repetition may be expected shortly. The artists engaged were Miss Powell, Miss Money, and Mr. Frank Hollis.

Melbourne (Australia).—A second series of Organ Recitals was given by Mr. Ernest Wood at the Cathedral on the Wednesdays in June. The programmes, as before, included compositions by Bach, Mendelssohn, Handel, S. S. Wesley, Best, Grison, Merkel, Chauvet, Guilmant, Smart, Saint-Saëns, Widor, and Gambini. The audiences which thronged the Cathedral on each occasion made it clear that the interest taken in Mr. Wood's performances has increased in a marked degree. The next series will be given during October and November.——The Malvern Orchestral and Choral Society gave its last subscription Concert of the present season in the local Shire Hall on Tuesday evening, July 5, in the presence of an audience that completely filled the hall, despite unfavourable weather. A very successful performance of Mendelssohn's Athalie was given by the band and chorus of the Society, the solo parts being sung by Miss Eva Long, Miss Amy Fuller, and Mrs Ramsden. Mr. J. F. Bradley was the reader, the orchestra was led by Mr. Schieblich, and Mr. H. Bilton presided at the organ. The work was conducted by Mr. John Hasler. The performance of Athalie was preceded by a short programme of miscellaneous selections. The first Concert of season 1892-3 will be given early in October.——The North Suburban Choral Union gave a very successful performance of Cowen's St. John's Eve on July 5, under its able Conductor, Mr. E. A. Jäger. The principal parts were filled by Miss Armstrong, Miss A. Carter, Mr. G. H. Sutton, and Mr. S. Lamble, who all sang most artistically. The work had not previously been given here, and was so successful that a second performance has been asked for.

Merthyr-Tydfil.—Organ Recitals were given by Mr. Alfred J. Silver, in St. David's Church, on the 1st and 18th ult. Works by Handel, Kullak, Chipp, Spinney, Widor, Silas, Calkin, Mendelssohn, Thomé, Bach, Batiste, Smart, and Wagner were included in the programmes, and on the second occasion a melody for violoncello and organ by Moszkowski was given, the violoncello part being played by the Rev. W. C. Frost.

Monaghan.—The following music was sung at the dedication of Saint McCartin's Cathedral on the 21st ult.: Kyrie, Gloria, Sanctus, and Benedictus, from Hummel's Mass in D (No. 3); Credo and Agnus Dei, from Gounod's Troisième Messe Solennelle; and Witts' Te Deum in C. The music was rendered by the choir from St. Peter's, Phibsborough, under the direction of Mr. P. Goodman, the accompaniments being played on the new three-manual organ, by Telford and Telford, of Dublin.

Sawbridgeworth (Herts).—On the 11th ult. Mr. A. C. Edwards, of Harlow, gave an Organ Recital at Great St. Mary's Church. The Recital in the afternoon commenced at 3 o'clock, and was well attended; in the evening a short service was held, and the choir rendered the two choruses by Handel, "Lead on, lead on," and "Hail, Judea, happy land," most effectively, under the direction of Mr. J. Bell, Organist and Choirmaster. Mrs. Coleman's rendering of the solos was all that could be wished. Mr. Edwards presided at the organ with ability.

Walmer.—On Thursday, July 28, two Organ Recitals were given by Dr. Lloyd, of Christ Church, Oxford, vocal pieces being contributed by Mr. J. H. Dutton, Mr. A. Kenningham, and Mr. R. E. Miles, of St. Paul's Cathedral, and by Masters Brown and Lee. The Recitals were arranged by the Organist of the Church (Mr. T. Forward), whose energy in arranging them has been much appreciated.

Wareham.—A Diocesan Festival of Parish Choirs was held on July 28, at the Parish Church. About 190 singers took part in the service, the following choirs being represented:—Branksome, Broadstone, Bourne Valley, Canford, Longfleet, Lytchett, Poole, Wareham, and Sandford. The service included Processional Hymn, "King Eternal"; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (Dr. Bridge); Anthem, "O Lord my God" (Wesley); March from Sir F. Ouseley's Polycarp; and Anthem, "The sun shall be no more" (Woodward). Mr. F. W. Bussey presided at the organ, and an orchestra of twenty-four performers added very much to the general effect of the music. Dr. Lemare, of Bournemouth, was the Conductor, and the Festival was considered to be one of the most successful held in the diocese.

Whitehaven.—An Organ and Vocal Recital was given at St. James's Church, on the occasion of the annual Choir Festival, by Mr. H. C. Bowker, on July 31. Organ works by Bach (Prelude and Fugue in C minor, Toccata and Fugue in D minor), Guilmant (Marche Funèbre et Chant Seraphique), Salomé, and Merkel were given, and Mr. W. G. Scott sang most effectively "In native worth."

Organ Appointments.—Mr. W. C. Carter, Organist and Choirmaster to the Wandsworth Presbyterian Church.—Mr. Carolus King, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Philip the Evangelist, Islington.—Miss Frances M. Shortis, to Christ Church, Carlton Hill.—Mr. Llewelyn Jones, to Christ Church, Llanfairfechan.—Mr. A. C. Edwards, Organist and Choirmaster, to St. Neot's Parish Church, Hants.

Choir Appointments.—Mr. W. Fuller (Bass), to St. Thomas's Church, Upper Clapton.—Mr. H. W. Koblich (Alto), to Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Loan Collection of the Vienna Exhibition	521
Beethoven's Sketch Books—No. 4. Pianoforte Concertos	523
From my Study	525
The Music of Water	529
Occasional Notes	531
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	533
New Works for the Gloucester Festival	537
The Co-operative Festival	538
Notes from Bayreuth	538
Sir John Stainer's Report on Music in Training Colleges for 1891	539
Obituary—Zelia Trebelli	539
Music in Bristol	540
„ Glasgow	540
„ Liverpool	549
Four-part Song.—"O Swallow, fly not yet!" Walter W. Brooks	541
General News (London)	549
Reviews	550
Foreign Notes	552
Correspondence: "Opera, Old and New"	555
Answers to Correspondents	557
General News (Country)	557
List of Music published during the last Month	559

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To insure insertion, Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE

TWENTY-THIRD

OF EACH MONTH.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

HENSCHEL, G.—The Music to Shakespeare's "Hamlet." Composed for the production of the Play at the Haymarket Theatre, London, January, 1892. Full score, 30s.; string parts, 7s. 6d.; wind parts, 15s.

BLAIR, HUGH.—"Harvest-tide." A Cantata for Harvest. For Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Organ, or small Orchestra. Paper cover, 1s.

BRIDGE, J. F.—The Lord's Prayer. Dante's Purgatorio, Canto XI. English Version by E. H. PLUMPTREE, D.D. With Preface by the Rev. Canon FARRAR. Set to music for the Gloucester Musical Festival, 1892. Paper cover, 1s.

ELLICOTT, ROSALIND FRANCES. — "The Birth of Song." A Cantata. For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. The poem written by LEWIS MORRIS. Composed expressly for the Gloucester Musical Festival, 1892. 1s. 6d.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"Job." An Oratorio. For Treble, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Composed expressly for the Gloucester Musical Festival, 1892. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

TOZER, FERRIS.—"King Neptune's Daughter." A Cantata. For Female Voices. The words written by HENRY KNIGHT. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

WEST, JOHN E.—"Seed-time and Harvest." A Sacred Cantata. For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus. The words selected and arranged from the Holy Scripture, &c., interspersed with suitable Hymns. Paper cover, 2s. Book of Words, 5s. per 100.

WILLIAMS, C. LEE. — "Gethsemane." A Church Cantata. The words written and compiled by JOSEPH BENNETT. Composed for the Gloucester Musical Festival, 1892. Paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.

MOODY, MARIE. — "Der sterbende Krieger." Concert Ouvertüre für Grosses Orchester. Full Score. Paper cover, 4s.

—— Ouvertüre in A dur für Grosses Orchester. Full Score. Paper cover, 5s.

HOFMANN, HEINRICH. — "The Trumpeter of Säkkingen" and Two Valses Caprices (Op. 52 and 2). (No. 53. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Pianoforte Albums.) 1s.

—— "Italian Love Tale," and Five other Pieces. (No. 54. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Pianoforte Albums.) 1s.

—— Fourteen Pieces. (No. 55. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Pianoforte Albums.) 1s.

MARTIN, GEORGE C.—"The Art of Training Choir Boys." (No. 39. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers.) Paper cover, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d. The Exercises only, for the use of boys. Paper cover, 1s.; paper boards, 1s. 6d.

SULLIVAN, ARTHUR. — Nine Transcriptions from the "Golden Legend." For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Arranged by BERTHOLD TOURS. (No. 7. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Albums for Violoncello and Pianoforte.) 2s. 6d

WHITE, A. C.—Appendix to the Double-Bass. (No. 32a. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers.) Paper cover, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.

STAINER, JOHN.—"Music in its relation to the Intellect and the Emotions." Paper cover. 1s. 6d.

HEINTZ, ALBERT.—"Parsifal, by Richard Wagner." Its origin in the old Legends and its musical motives explained in the order of their development. With sixty-seven musical examples. Translated into English by CONSTANCE BACHE. Paper cover. 1s. 6d.

BLAIR, HUGH—(in B flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. Composed expressly for the Gloucester Musical Festival, 1892. 6d.

HODSON, HENRY EDWARD—(in A). Magnificat. 3d.

WALMSLEY, THOMAS FORBES—(in C). Te Deum Laudamus. (No. 109. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

—— (in C). Jubilate Deo. (No. 120. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

BARNBY, J.—"Lord of the Harvest." Anthem for Harvest Festivals. (No. 411. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"Lift up your heads." Short Festival Anthem. (No. 409. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

HALL, E. V.—"Sing we merrily." Festival Anthem. For Harvest or any Festival. (No. 410. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

HOPKINS, JOHN L.—"The fost'ring earth." A Harvest Chorus. (No. 413. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

RIDSDALE, C. J.—"Now let the faithful choir." Sequence for The Festival of the Dedication of a Church; or for All Saints' Day. 4d.

STAINER, JOHN.—"Honour the Lord with thy substance." Harvest Anthem. For Tenor and Bass Soli and Chorus. (No. 412. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

STATHAM, F. REGINALD. — Natal Anthem ("To Thee, O Lord Almighty"). Words by Miss STEAD. 6d.

PALLOT, E.—"Thou knowest, Lord." Hymn (Staff Notation and Tonic Sol-fa). 1½d.

RELTON, HELEN E.—"O brightest day." Christmas Hymn. Words by SYMONS S. TOVEY. 1d.

HARDING, J. P.—"Flow, thou regal purple stream." Arranged as a Part-Song for Male Voices (for the Civil Service Vocal Union). 3d.

JOHNSON, W. NOEL.—"Love wakes and weeps." A Four-part Song. The words written by Sir WALTER SCOTT. (No. 632. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT:—

Book 12. Three Action Songs .. By various Composers 9d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Separate numbers:—

No. 48.	In the distance	ABT	1½d.
„ 49.	The Sabbath Morn	MENDELSSOHN	1½d.
„ 50.	Out in the Sunshine	PINSUTI	2d.
„ 51.	The Angel	RUBINSTEIN	2d.
„ 52.	To the Nightingale	SCHUMANN	1½d.
„ 53.	Now the Bright Morning Star	C. WOOD	1½d.
„ 54.	Winds are blowing	B. HAYNES	2d.
„ 55.	In a Gondola	ABT	2d.
„ 56.	If Hope were but a Fairy	MYLES FOSTER	1½d.
„ 57.	O Summer Morning	MACFARREN	2d.
„ 58.	In April	HATTON	2d.

VARGE, JOSEF.—Musical Duration Guide. Showing the durations or values of notes and rests in the various kinds of time. (Simplified Music Series, No. 2.) Price 1s., on card.

BLANCHARD, VIOLET F. M.—"Love's Power." Song. 2s.

CROSSLEY, HASTINGS.—Three Duets. For Soprano and Tenor. No. 1. "Absence." No. 2. "The days of old." No. 3. "What thou art" ("Widmung"). 2s. each.

MARIGOLD, MARGUERITE. — "My will is gone to sleep, dear." Love Song. The words written by WALTER HERRIES POLLOCK. 2s.

SPALDING, SYDNEY T.—"Rest." Song. The words written by J. JENNINGS. 2s.

LOCKETT, WALTER J.—Impromptu. For the Pianoforte. 2s. 6d.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

			s.	d.
No. 159.	Tempo di Minuetto	W. A. C. CRUICKSHANK	1	6

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 759.	I will feed My flock	J. F. BRIDGE	1½d.
„ 760.	The Word went forth	MENDELSSOHN	1½d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS:—

Book 5.	Six Two-part Songs.	By various Composers	4d.
„ 6.	„ „	„ „	4d.
„ 7.	„ „	„ „	4d.

COBB, GERARD F.—"A Message to Phyllis." 3d.

MISS ADA DUMVILLE (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 14, Duke Street, Broughton, Manchester.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass)
(Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, and Royal Albert Hall Concerts).
For Oratorios and Concerts, 9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. WALTER NORTH (Bass). Italian method. Pending engagements: Liverpool, St. Helen's, Southport, Lake District, Town, &c. Oratorio, Banquets, At Homes, &c., 41, Calabria Road, Highbury, N.

TWO SOLO BOYS, with knowledge of Music, WANTED, for St. Thomas's, Regent Street. Payment, £10 to £12 per year. Also TENORS. Travelling expenses paid. Write A. H. Crowest, 57, Canonbury Park, North London.

LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL.—SOLO BOY WANTED. Board, lodging, and education free. Good voice; fair knowledge of music; good character. Apply, Rev. the Subchanter, The Close, Lichfield.

ALTO WANTED, at once, for Holy Trinity, Stroud Green. Stipend, £10. Apply, H. J. Dean, 17, Upper Tollington Park, N.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. H. MORETON, F.C.O., Organist and Director of the Choir of Plymouth Parish Church (St. Andrew) and Conductor of the Plymouth Vocal Association, has VACANCIES for TWO ARTICLED PUPILS, who would receive complete instruction in Pianoforte, Organ, one Orchestral Instrument, Theory, and Composition in all branches and Choir-Training, and also be prepared for any Examinations. Two fine organs, of four and three manuals respectively, for practice, and every facility offered for thorough musical education. Address, 89, Durnford Street, East Stonehouse, Devon.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. A comprehensive and absolutely progressive school, with numerous Diagrams and Illustrations, reproduced from photographs specially taken for this work. Folio size, 75 pp., paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

"A hearty welcome will be accorded to Walter Macfarren's Pianoforte Method, a concise and well worked-out guide."—Daily News.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. A complete Course—concise, lucid, and gradual, with Pianoforte accompaniment to all the original and selected pieces. All the positions fully illustrated from photographs expressly taken for this work. Large quarto size, 147 pp., with separate violin part, 30 pp. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

"Mr. Peiniger deserves the highest praise. His Violin Method is exceptionally thorough in every respect."—Saturday Review.

Ready immediately.

DR. H. KEETON'S

CHURCH AND CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD.

In the Press.

DR. E. H. TURPIN'S ORGAN METHOD.

EDWIN HOLLAND'S

METHOD OF VOICE PRODUCTION.

CHAS. WEBB'S

TONIC SOL-FA CLASS-SINGING METHOD.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS.

SIXTY-SEVEN NUMBERS, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, including the celebrated Glees "The Village Chorister," "God bless the Prince of Wales," Benedict's "Hunting Song," Kücken's "Blanche," &c.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS

FOR LADIES' VOICES.

Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S

NEW EDITION OF

STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES,

Thoroughly Revised, Re-fingered, and Newly Engraved, specially for the Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations.

"This series is one of the best musical publications of the day, highly to be recommended to Professors and Teachers."—The Graphic.

151 Numbers ready. List on application.

ALSO "CLASSICAL MUSIC" (NEW SERIES)

SELECTED, FINGERED, AND EDITED BY

ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER,

Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.

72 Numbers ready. List on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.

BEST'S COLLECTION of ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

New Editions at reduced prices.

Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORGAN

BY DR. E. J. HOPKINS AND DR. E. F. RIMBAULT.

This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.

Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.

Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.

Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

FRANCES ALLITSEN'S NEW SONGS.

EIGHT SETTINGS OF POEMS BY HEINE.

In Four Parts, 4s. each.

Ready shortly. Each Song in two keys.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

MADEMOISELLE PERETTI (Vocalist) receives and visits pupils, town or country, for Singing Lessons. Italian method. Highest testimonials from pupils' parents. Special terms for Schools. Apply by letter for terms, Mdlle. Peretti, Messrs. Weekes, 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (18 years' experience), Violinist, and Orchestral Conductor, wishes a change for private reasons. Boys' voices a specialty. Highest testimonials. R.C. College or Seminary preferred. Address, Pulsator, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a First-class PIANO TUNER for a town in Yorkshire. State age and salary required, to W. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, Young Man, as SECOND TUNER (Pianoforte). One used to canvassing. State salary required and reference. U'Glow, Music Stores, Falmouth.

WANTED, a SITUATION as SALESMAN or TRAVELLER. Twenty-four years' experience in two Manchester houses. Well up in Catalogues, G. W., Novello and Co.

MUSIC ASSISTANT for Counter REQUIRED, a Young Man, about 20 years, who can play the Piano and read at sight. Would have to keep books during spare time. A young man not afraid of work would find the situation a good one. Apply, O. E., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A GENTLEMAN who travels for a first-class Foreign Pianoforte would like to hear of an APPOINTMENT to represent a good and reliable ENGLISH PIANO at same time. For particulars, apply to Reeve, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWO-MANUAL PRACTICE ORGAN. Pedal Bourdon, 12 stops; walnut case. Suitable for drawing-room. £110. G. W. Rowe, Organ Builder, 17, Townshend Ter., Richmond.

PIANOFORTE BUSINESS for SALE, in one of the most important towns in the South of England. First-rate opportunity for a good Tuner. Price of goodwill, £500. Stock and book debts optional. Address, Business, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. Good position, rising S.W. suburb. Large and commodious premises. Rent only £95; worth £120. Stock, £800; part optional. Returns last year, £1,301. Morley Phillips, Valuer to the Trade, 60, Great Portland Street, W.

MR. MORLEY PHILLIPS can negotiate the SALE of a MUSIC BUSINESS in leading West End thoroughfare on very advantageous terms. Returns about £1,300. Rent much under value. The nominal price of £100 will be accepted for goodwill, fixtures, and lease. Offices as above.

TUNING CONNECTION for DISPOSAL.—A First-class Connection in important town in the South of England. About £500 worth of yearly Tunings. Address, Sussex, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

NEW MUSIC.—PIANISTS and BANDMASTERS requiring selected new Foreign Music (Dances, &c.) for the coming season, should write to Selector, 3, Oakley Road, Southgate Road, N.

TEA LEAD.—12 to 15 tons fine clean LEAD for SALE. Suitable for Organ Builders, Typefounders, &c. Offers to "Tea Lead," Charles Tayler and Co.'s Advertisement Offices, 154 to 157, Fleet Street, E.C.

Fourth Thousand. Now Ready.

HARVEST ANTHEM.

O PRAISE THE LORD

BY EDWARD HARVEY.

(Effective, whether performed by small or large choirs.) Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO-PART SONGS

FOR FIRST & SECOND TREBLES.

ELEVEN PART-SONGS. By FRANZ ABT	net 1s.
SONGS OF THE BELLS. By FRANZ ABT	„ 1s.
SONGS OF THE FLOWERS. By CIRO PINSUTI	„ 1s.
TEN PART-SONGS. By FRANZ ABT	„ 1s.

Tonic Sol fa Editions of the above, 4d. each net.

All the above Two-part Songs (45 Numbers) may be had singly (O.N.). Price 2d. net.

These Two-part Songs are now in use in many of the principal Ladies' Schools in the country, and are acknowledged to be the BEST and CHEAPEST COLLECTION of Two-part Songs in the market.

Copies will be forwarded on receipt of stamps by

METHVEN, SIMPSON and Co., Musicsellers to the Queen, 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

IMMENSE SUCCESS. 2nd Edition.

STARS OF THE SUMMER NIGHT (Serenade), for Voice, Violin, and Piano. By BARTLE GRANT. To be obtained only of the Publisher, TENCH WHITE, 42, St. George's Street, Canterbury. Post-free, 1s. 8d.

SITUATION WANTED, by a Gentleman (28), in the MUSIC BUSINESS. Has held a very responsible position as cashier and book-keeper, is an organist, and a fair musician. Has a great knowledge of harmoniums and American organs. Excellent testimonials, &c. S. B. Hambling, 41, Fortune Gate Road, Harlesden, W.

VIOLIN MAKER and REPAIRER seeks post as ASSISTANT in Music Warehouse. Specimen of work can be seen. Address, H. B., 292, Alfred Road, Brightside, Sheffield.

WANTED, a SITUATION for intelligent Youth of 14. Shows adaptability for a musical calling. Moderate premium. B., 13, Granville Street, Aylesbury.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE WANTED, in the N.W. or W.C. districts. Address, with terms, W. M. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

PIANO PRACTICE ROOMS.—4d. per hour. Granby House, 247, Hampstead Road, N.W.

BOARD and RESIDENCE.—A good HOME, at moderate and inclusive charge. Every facility for Practice. 18, Ampthill Square, N.W.

FOR SALE (a Bargain).—PIPE ORGAN, 5 stops. Full set sliding pedals, all enclosed in general swell. Suitable for small Church or Chapel. Good as new. No reasonable offer refused. Apply, 2, St. Mark's Villa, Peterborough.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned modern TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, containing thirteen stops, couplers, composition pedals, and all the latest improvements. Price £200. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London. Established 1837.

NEW ORGAN, two manuals, 26 stops. Suitable for Church, Concert Hall, &c.; now building. Two-manual Organ, 12 stops. Two-manual Organs, from £40; suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, &c. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

CHURCH ORGAN, by HOLDITCH, containing 1 manual and pedals, 8 stops, in good order, TO BE SOLD, to make room for larger instrument. Apply, NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich.

TWO-MANUAL CHURCH ORGAN, by NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, 17 stops, full compass, TO BE SOLD. Full particulars from the Builders, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

GOOD old VIOLINS offered CHEAP to the TRADE, having again made some bargains. Paul Petzold, Wiesenstrasse, 50, Chemnitz, in Saxony.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d. post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

FINE old VIOLAS, by MORECHI and B. BANKS; also Four-string Double Bass, in case; splendid tone. Beta. Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

CURIOUS SPECIMEN of FOSSIL FISH for SALE. Property of an Old Choirman in need. Zingarelli, 18, Odessa Road, Forest Gate, London, E.

FOR SALE.—The COPYRIGHT, PLATES, and STOCK (about 1,000 books) of eight MUSIC MANUALS. £35. Average annual sales, about £12. Thomas Smith, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841).
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

THE OLD FIRM.
P. CONACHER & CO.
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Monthly accounts. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

D'ALMAINE'S
PIANOS AND ORGANS
For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.
Write for Professional Price List.
T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.
COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),
VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.
Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).
THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND
CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.
METZLER and CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

ESTABLISHED 1843.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS'
PIANOFORTES.
(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)
NOBLE IN TONE.
HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.
UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.
THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.
PIANOS
FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.
ALSO YACHT PIANOS.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS,
60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

PRIEST'S WIFE has 200 SURPLICES, 3s. to 30s.; Tailor Cassocks, 9s. to £1; Stoles, 5s. 6d. to 60s. Surplice, care of The Church Agency, Lombard House, E.C.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.
RUMMENS'
ORGAN
PEDAL ATTACHMENT
FOR
PIANOFORTES.
NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.
EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.
ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.
AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR
AT THE
INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.
NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.
WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

WINKELMANN
PIANOFORTES.
"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.
OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS
FROM 65 GUINEAS.
OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS
FROM 110 GUINEAS.
Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.
SOLE IMPORTERS: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,
6, NEW BURLINGTON STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

Just Published.
ALL THE YEAR ROUND
CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES
WITH RECITATION
(Suitable for School use)
The Words by CHARLES KARLYLE and AMY BRIAND
THE MUSIC BY GUSTAV ERNEST.
(Op. 19.)
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Book of Words, Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIMPLIFIED MUSIC.—A Reform of Staff Notation. By JOSEF VARGE. Price 1s., paper; 1s. 6d., cloth. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.

EDITED BY W. G. McNAUGHT.

A COLLECTION OF ACTION SONGS, UNISON SONGS, DUETS, TRIOS, &c., FOR TREBLE VOICES.

Published in two forms. A. Voice Parts in Staff and Tonic Sol-fa Notation, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8vo size; B. Voice Parts only in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Where no prices are given, the A Edition only is published:—

		A d.	B d.
BOOK I.
SIX EASY SONGS		6
1. Getting up	A. Moffat
2. The Lark	,,
3. Lazy Sheep	,,
4. The Snowdrop	,,
5. The Autumn Daisy	,,
6. A Riddle	,,
BOOK II.
SIX EASY SONGS		6
7. The Little Fish	A. Moffat
8. The Spring Nosegay	,,
9. The Old Beggar Man	,,
10. The Three Little Ants	,,
11. The Child's Evening Prayer	,,
12. The Meadow	,,
BOOK III.
SIX EASY DUETS		9	4
13. The Wasp and the Bee	A. Moffat	1½
14. Who am I that shines so bright	,,	1½
15. The Selfish Little Snails	,,	1½
16. Come, and Play in the Garden	,,	1½
17. Autumn Flowers	,,	1½
18. Pretty Flower, tell us why	,,	1½
BOOK IV.
SIX EASY DUETS		9	4
19. Spring Song	A. Moffat	1½
20. Winter Flowers	,,	1½
21. The Sparrows	,,	1½
22. Time to Rise	,,	1½
23. Breakfast and Puss	,,	1½
24. Going to Bed	,,	1½
BOOK V.
SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
25. Under the Greenwood Tree	C. Wood	2	1
26. The Swallow's Flight	B. Haynes	2	1
27. Merry Songsters	J. Kinross	2	1
28. Waken not the Sleeper	C. Reinecke	1½	1½
29. Evening Song	Mendelssohn	1½
30. Whither?	Abt	2	1
BOOK VI.
SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
31. The Violet's Plea	Abt	1½	1½
32. Evening	H. Smart	1½
33. After the Rain	Pinsuti	2	1
34. The Merry Maidens	Rubinstein	1½	1½
35. Spring Song	Schumann	1½
36. Sweet Bells of Eve	B. Haynes	2	1
BOOK VII.
SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
37. All seek for rest	Abt	1½	1½
38. May Song	Schumann	1½
39. Song from "Ruy Blas"	Mendelssohn	2	1½
40. Good-night	C. Reinecke	1½
41. I sing because I love to sing	Pinsuti	2	1
42. Violets	Cowen	2	1
BOOK VIII.
FIVE TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
43. O come, ye Flow'rets	Abt	1½	1½
44. The Hunter's Song	J. Kinross	2
45. Cleansing Fires	Cowen	2	1
46. O Beautiful Violet	C. Reinecke	2	1
47. The Sabbath Bell	H. Smart	2	1½
BOOK IX.
SIX TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
48. In the Distance	Abt	1½	1½
49. The Sabbath Morn	Mendelssohn	1½
50. Out in the Sunshine	Pinsuti	2	1
51. The Angel	Rubinstein	2	1
52. To the Nightingale	Schumann	1½	1½
53. Now the Bright Morning Star	C. Wood	1½
BOOK X.
FIVE TWO-PART SONGS		9	4
54. Winds are blowing	B. Haynes	2	1
55. In a Gondola	Abt	2	1
56. If Hope were but a Fairy	Myles Foster	1½	1
57. O Summer Morning	Macfarren	2	1
58. In April	Hatton	2	1
BOOK XI.
SIX KINDERGARTEN SONGS		6
59. Rowing	A. Moffat	1
60. The Old Clock	,,	1
61. Churning	,,	1
62. Feeding Hens and Chickens	,,	1
63. The Merry Harvesters	,,	1
64. Little Soldiers	,,	1
BOOK XII.
ACTION SONGS		9
65. Butterfly Wings	A. Moffat	3
66. Fairy Circles	,,	3
67. Sing a Song of Sixpence	S. Hardcastle	6

To be Continued.

LONDON AND NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1892.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

DANTE'S PURGATORIO, CANTO XI.

English Version by E. H. PLUMPTRE, D.D., with Preface by the Rev. Canon FARRAR.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

THE BIRTH OF SONG

A CANTATA

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

The Poem written by LEWIS MORRIS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

JOB

AN ORATORIO

FOR TENOR, BARITONE, AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

APPENDIX
TO THE
DOUBLE-BASS

BY

A. C. WHITE

Professor at the Royal Academy of Music and Royal College of Music.

(No. 32A. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers, Edited by Sir John Stainer.)

Price Three Shillings.
Paper boards, Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S
PIANOFORTE ALBUMS

Edited by BERTHOLD TOURS.

No. 53. THE TRUMPETER OF SÄKKINGEN, and TWO VALSE CAPRICES. HEINRICH HOFMANN.
" 54. ITALIAN LOVE-TALE and FIVE other PIECES. HEINRICH HOFMANN.
" 55. FOURTEEN PIECES. HEINRICH HOFMANN.

Price One Shilling each.
The Three Numbers, handsomely bound in cloth, 4s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

THE
ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately.
Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

KING NEPTUNE'S DAUGHTER

A CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES
The Words written by HENRY KNIGHT.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
FERRIS TOZER
Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO. EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—
   I. Morris Dance.
   II. Shepherds' Dance.
   III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Preliminary Announcement.
IMPORTANT TO CHORAL SOCIETIES. SEASON, 1892-93.

SULLIVAN'S ORATORIO
THE
LIGHT OF THE WORLD

WILL SHORTLY BE ISSUED IN TONIC SOL-FA

TRANSLATED BY

MR. E. MASON, F.T.S.C.

Price Two Shillings net.

Messrs. J. B. CRAMER and Co., 201, Regent Street, London, W.

OBOE and BASSOON PLAYING and MUSIC.—See September Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 190 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. To be ordered everywhere; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

VERSE BY

JETTY VOGEL

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

(OP. 43.)

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. Mr. Gaul evidently does not feel disposed, though we think he is well able to write a magnum opus which may have to wait a generation to be understood; he appeals successfully to the tens of thousands of people who take an interest in sacred stories set to singable music which can be at once appreciated. We do not say that Mr. Gaul's cantatas will not receive the approbation of posterity; we think they will, but it is certain that they do meet with deserved recognition as fast as they appear. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The chief point of interest was the production of Mr. A. R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness.' . . . The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. . . . The various solo and choral movements display Mr. Gaul's facility for the composition of genuine, effective music; clear in purpose, melodious, vigorous, and expressive by turns, and constructed by an experienced thinker and worker. Such music will indeed ever be welcome, and Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.' The performance was excellent, and the composer, who conducted, had ample reason to feel satisfied with the reception of his latest effort."—The Referee.

"The best portion is a number entitled 'The Plagues of Egypt,' written in a sort of free chant form, in which Mr. Gaul has introduced some very clever orchestral effects. The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"Mr. Gaul's music is exactly what is required for large choral gatherings, for it is effective without presenting any overwhelming difficulties. The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"The afternoon was particularly interesting owing to the first performance of Mr. Alfred R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness,' which had been composed expressly for the event. . . . Like the majority of Mr. Gaul's productions, it is bright and engaging. . . . The most pleasing of the twenty-three numbers are No. 3, 'So He brought forth His people with joy,' a telling chorus; No. 9, the chorus, 'Declare His honour unto the heathen'; No. 15, the pretty duet between the soprano and tenor voices, 'As the manna falling from the morning skies' (encored on Saturday); and the concluding march, 'Onward moves the guiding pillar,' a chorus full of spirit. Mr. Gaul has in the section devoted to the Plagues contrived to instrumentally illustrate the jumping of the frogs, the buzzing of the flies, the falling hailstones, the fire mingled with the hail, the gusty East wind, and the feeling of darkness. Several of these are clever examples of the imitative in orchestration. At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, though only the above-mentioned encore was permitted, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. It is evident that the composer, while earnestly seeking a natural expression, has steadily kept in view the resources of the choral societies on whose behalf the work was written. Most of the music is easy, straightforward, and flowing—picturesque rather than dramatic—and it is all cast in a mould that enables the most ordinary listener to apprehend its form and purpose. In venturing to set a description of the plagues of Egypt Mr. Gaul invites dangerous comparisons. He was bound at all hazards to avoid imitation of Handel, and to endeavour to strike out a new path. In our opinion the music to this section is the most original and expressive in the whole Cantata. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HAMLET

COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

(Op. 50.)

The Pianoforte Arrangement (for four hands) by BATTISON HAYNES.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

The complete incidental music is also published in Full Score, 30s. String Parts, 7s. 6d.; Wind Parts, 15s.

THE TIMES.

The representative themes for Hamlet and Ophelia are so well contrasted, and their treatment is so musicianly, that they suffer no diminution in interest, but rather the reverse, from the transference to the concert-room and a full orchestra, such as no theatre can employ. . . The greatest effect was made by the graceful and melodious "Ophelia" entr'acte; the strenuous Allegro impetuoso in which the theme associated with the heroine is, as it were, derided and cast aside for the more vigorous theme representing Hamlet in a mood of action; the "pastorale," with its pretty dialogue between the wood-wind instruments; the interlude called "Ophelia's Death," in which, for concert use, the "snatches of old tunes" have now been introduced on the clarinet and horn; and the "Danish March."

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The second movement, "Ophelia," aims, as already indicated, at suggesting the charm and tenderness of the Danish maiden. A graceful melody, set off, and nowhere obscured, by skilful orchestration, runs through the piece, exercising the spell of real tune, and presenting to our imagination the absolute beauty which is music's greatest power. This Adagio can very well stand alone, and quite firmly, without any support from a dramatic application. . . . A general opinion upon the Suite must, as far as we are concerned, be almost entirely favourable. Mr. Henschel's music is not only the work of a master of his craft in a technical sense, but the production of one who has ideas and imaginative power.

STANDARD.

That Mr. Henschel has risen to the height of his argument, and that the "Hamlet" Suite is well worthy of frequent hearing on its own account, cannot be contested. The leading themes are deeply expressive, those representing Hamlet's mental conflict and Ophelia's grief being especially poignant, while, in a purely musical sense at least, three of the five sections are certain to meet with general approval, the most important movement being the Danish March in E minor, in which the composer contrasts his own admirable themes with genuine Danish melodies.

MORNING POST.

The Largo Funèbre intended to picture Ophelia's death is a beautiful lament, sufficiently brief to cause regret at its being so soon over. Altogether Mr. Henschel's work is of considerable interest, throughout well scored, and apparently well suited to the subject.

DAILY NEWS.

The charm is undeniable of the "Ophelia," or first entr'acte (based, of course, upon the heroine's own theme in its pure form), and of the delicious Pastorale in which two shepherds are supposed to be playing upon their pipes, the cor Anglais being answered by the flute. The Suite is indeed, as a whole, beyond question the best example of his art which this musician of many-sided talents has yet given us; and the recall which Mr. Henschel was accorded at the close of the concert was as well-deserved as it was hearty.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Striking as it is when heard in conjunction with the stage action, Mr. Henschel's music must still further win commendation in the concert-room when ably interpreted. . . . The Danish March in E minor has point and vigour, and as it might stand by itself without reference to the play is almost certain to become popular.

GUARDIAN.

This incidental music seems likely to take a high rank amongst the compositions of its gifted author. It is singularly void of antiquarianism, and yet its modernity never strikes a jarring note.

BOSTON (U.S.) TRANSCRIPT.

It is not often that music, written with so purely dramatic a purpose as this of Mr. Henschel's, for a special production of a play, can hold its own in the concert-room; the meaning of the various themes, which may be perfectly plain to the listener at the theatre, is too liable to be a sealed book to a concert audience. But there is enough of purely musical beauty and strength in this dramatic Suite of Mr. Henschel's to make it worth listening to for its own sake. . . . It is music that not only pleases, but also interests you; it has consistency and something more than a merely emotional purpose. In a word, it is music worth writing.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS

NOW READY.

LORD OF THE HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

Price Fourpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition in the Press.

NOW READY.

I WILL FEED MY FLOCK

COMPOSED BY

J. F. BRIDGE.

Price Three-halfpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Three-halfpence.

NOW READY.

SING WE MERRILY

COMPOSED BY

E. V. HALL.

Price Fourpence.

NOW READY.

I WILL MAGNIFY THEE

COMPOSED BY

OLIVER KING.

Price Fourpence.

NOW READY.

HARVEST HYMN

COMPOSED BY

FERRIS TOZER.

Price Twopence.

NOW READY.

MY MOUTH SHALL SPEAK THE PRAISE

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Fourpence.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition in the Press.

NOW READY.

HONOUR THE LORD WITH THY SUBSTANCE

(WORDS FROM THE AMERICAN LITURGY)

COMPOSED BY

JOHN STAINER.

Price Fourpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, Three-halfpence

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO EWER AND CO.

HARVEST ANTHEMS.

All Thy works praise Thee	E. H. Thorne	3d.
Bless thou the Lord	Oliver King	3d.
*Blessed be the Name of the Lord	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Blessed be Thou	E. Bunnett	3d.
*Break forth into joy	Oliver King	1½d.
Bring unto the Lord, O ye mighty	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
*Fear not, O land, be glad and rejoice	J. Goss	6d.
*Fear not, O land	C. H. Lloyd	1½d.
*Fear not, O land	C. W. Jordan	6d.
Give unto the Lord the glory	J. F. Bridge	4d.
*God said, Behold, I have given you every herb	G. A. Macfarren	6d.
*Great is the Lord	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
I will give thanks unto Thee	E. J. Hopkins	6d.
*I will give thanks unto Thee	J. Barnby	4d
*I will magnify Thee, O God	J. Goss	3d.
I will sing a new song	P. Armes	8d.
*Lo! summer comes again	J. Stainer	6d.
Lord of the rich and golden grain (Harvest Hymn)	F. Tozer	2d.
Make melody within your hearts	F. A. J. Hervey	3d.
My mouth shall speak the praise	J. E. West	4d.
*O come, let us sing to the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*O give thanks	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
*O how plentiful is Thy goodness	T. M. Pattison	3d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	J. Barnby	1½d.
*O Lord, how manifold are Thy works	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
O praise the Lord	Herbert Oakeley	4d.
*O praise the Lord of Heaven	J. Goss	6d.
O sing unto the Lord	T. Palmer	4d.
O that men would praise the Lord	J. C. Bridge	4d.
Our God is Lord of the harvest	Emma Mundella	3d.
Praise, O praise our God and King	E. V. Hall	1½d.
*Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	E. V. Hall	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. Hayes	4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem	W. G. Wood	4d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul	H. Lahee	1½d.
*Praise ye the Lord for His goodness	G. Garrett	1½d.
Praised be the Lord	C. Steggall	1/-
*Rejoice in the Lord	B. Tours	1½d.
*Sing praises to God	H. W. Wareing	1½d.
*Sing unto the Lord	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
Sowing and reaping	J. Maude Crament	2d.
The earth is the Lord's	C. S. Heap	4d.
The earth is the Lord's	A. Lowe	3d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
The eyes of all wait upon Thee	O. Gibbons	4d.
The fostering earth, the genial showers	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
*The harvest-tide thanksgiving (Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100)	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The Lord hath done great things	H. Smart	4d.
*The Lord is loving unto every man	G. Garrett	3d.
This is the day	Herbert Oakeley	4d.
Thou, O God, art praised in Zion	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Thou visitest the earth and blessest it	W. H. Callcott	2d.
*Thou visitest the earth	M. Greene	1½d.
Thou visitest the earth	J. Baptiste Calkin	4d.
To Thee, O Lord	C. L. Williams	3d.
While the earth remaineth	C. Swinnerton Heap	4d.
*While the earth remaineth	B. Tours	1½d.
*Ye shall dwell in the land	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Ye shall go out with joy	J. Barnby	4d.

* These Anthems are also published in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1d. to 4d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE HYMNS WITH TUNES FOR HARVEST.

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

PRICE ONE PENNY.

Sing to the Lord a joyful song	J. Barnby.
O Lord, the heaven Thy power displays	F. Ouseley.
Father, blessing every seed-time	J. B. Dykes.
Lord, in Thy Name Thy servants plead	W. Metcalf.
The wintry time hath ended	H. J. Gauntlett.
Come, ye thankful people, come	George Elvey.
God, the Father, whose creation	H. Smart.
Lord of the harvest, Thee we hail	Anonymous.
Lo, summer comes again	E. B. Whyley.
Praise, O praise our Heavenly King	German.
Summer ended, harvest o'er	J. Adcock.
O Lord of heaven, and earth, and sea	S. S. Wesley.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING MARCH

FOR THE ORGAN

BY

J. BAPTISTE CALKIN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

E. A. SYDENHAM'S POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS

FULL, EASY, EFFECTIVE.

Price Threepence; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

O GIVE THANKS (55th 1,000).
SING UNTO THE LORD (9th 1,000).
GREAT IS THE LORD (28th 1,000).

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR HARVEST FESTIVAL

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

"GOOD," "EASY," "EFFECTIVE," "DIGNIFIED," "DEVOTIONAL," "SINGABLE," "POPULAR," "MUSICIANLY," &c. See Guardian, Musical Times, Musical Standard, Musical News, &c.

TE DEUM, No. 1 (Chant Form) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM, No. 2 (in B flat) 3d.
COMMUNION SERVICE (in G) .. .. 8d.
EVENING SERVICE, No. 1 (in C) .. .. 3d. (Sung at several Choral Festivals.)
EVENING SERVICE, No. 2 (in D) .. .. 3d. (Sung at Canterbury Cathedral.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Specimen copies free from the COMPOSER, Lyndale, Perry Rise, London, S.E.

Fifth Edition. Now ready. Price Fourpence.

O THAT MEN WOULD PRAISE THE LORD

Full Anthem, of moderate difficulty, for Harvest Festivals

BY

JOSEPH C. BRIDGE,

M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist of Chester Cathedral.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH. Anthem for Harvest. Quartet and Chorus. By W. H. HOLLOWAY. Price 3d.

"A pleasing and tuneful composition."—Manchester City News.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S HARVEST ANTHEM

THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S

Price Threepence.

Short, easy, full, and effective. Composed expressly for Parish Choirs.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALBERT LOWE'S HARVEST CAROL

HOLY IS THE SEED-TIME

Composed expressly for Harvest Festivals. Octavo, Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.,

By CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*WHILE THE EARTH REMAINETH (New) (quite easy) (4th 1,000) .. 3d.
*ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE (New) (moderate) (4th 1,000) .. 4d.
*WHAT SHALL I RENDER (5th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
*LET US THANK THE LORD (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*THE LORD IS LOVING (10th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
THE EARTH IS THE LORD'S (7th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*I WILL FEED MY FLOCK (21st 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
*FEAR NOT, O LAND (22nd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*PRAISE THE LORD, O MY SOUL (17th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
MAKE A JOYFUL NOISE (16th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung at Choral Festivals.
*O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD (14th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
THEY THAT SOW IN TEARS (12th edition) .. .. 3d.
*AND GOD SAID, LET THE EARTH (56th edition) .. .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM IN G (5th edition), 4d. TE DEUM IN F (19th edition) 3d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F (39th edition) 4d.
Sung at numerous Choral Festivals.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E flat (12th edition) .. 4d.
Selected for Choral Festival in Llandaff Cathedral.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G (New) (4th edition) .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E flat (6th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
FOUR CHANT TE DEUMS (12th 1,000) (D, A flat, G, and A) each 2d.
FOUR HARVEST CAROLS. Pretty and popular .. .. each 1d.
O HOW AMIABLE. Festivals (2nd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. Festivals (6th 1,000) .. .. .. 4d.
GIVE GLORY TO THE LORD. Festivals (10th edition) .. .. 3d.

Those marked (*) are also published in Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

OCTAVO, 3d.

THE HARVEST TRULY IS GREAT

SHORT, FULL ANTHEM FOR HARVEST

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HAIL! TO OUR HARVEST HOME. Part-Music for Harvest. By BENJAMIN CONGREVE. Price 1½d.

"This is a spirited composition."—The Orb.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST ANTHEMS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

ALL THY WORKS PRAISE THEE, O LORD. Two Choruses and Tenor Solo .. .. 3d.
THOU VISITEST THE EARTH. Two Choruses and Quartet 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR HARVEST.

HE HATH MADE THE EARTH, and I WILL MAGNIFY. Two popular Harvest Anthems, by WM. JOHNSON, A.C.O. Price 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC for HARVEST or GENERAL USE. By F. R. GREENISH, Mus. Doc., Oxon. 6th Thousand. Price 3d.

O GOD, MY SOUL THIRSTETH. Anthem, with expressive Solo for Treble or Tenor. Easy and very effective. Sung at the Bedford Choral Association Festivals, 1888, and Launceston, 1891.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. Price 3d. Composed for re-opening of St. Mary's, Haverfordwest, 1889. Bright in style. Melodious and not difficult.

SIX KYRIES. Price 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

HARVEST.—"Blessed be Thou." Octavo. Four voices .. .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
" "I will magnify Thee." Octavo .. .. .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
" "I was glad." Octavo .. .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. 2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E. Chant form .. .. 3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E " " .. .. 3d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. .. 1½d.
" " " A .. .. 1½d.
" " " E .. .. 1½d.

HARVEST HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord. With words .. .. 1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 3d.
Amen (on Card) .. .. 1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ .. net 2s. od.
Ave Maria .. .. " 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat .. .. " 1s. od.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR SALE, ARNOLD'S EDITION of HANDEL'S MUSICAL WORKS. Magnificent copy, handsomely bound in Calf, quite complete, and in splendid condition; the property of the late S. Grosvenor, Esq., Mus. Bac., Oxon. Apply, 62, Upper King Street, Dudley.

ACCOMPANIMENTS to the LORD'S PRAYER, on G. By H. TOWNSEND. One Shilling.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS. Easy and melodious. By W. A. ORCHARD. Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

A SONG OF LIFE

(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
" 2. King Cricket. " 4. The Charge. " 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

NEW CANTATAS FOR HARVEST.

SEED-TIME AND HARVEST

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR

SOPRANO AND TENOR SOLI AND CHORUS

THE WORDS SELECTED AND ARRANGED FROM HOLY SCRIPTURE, &c., INTERSPERSED WITH SUITABLE HYMNS, AND THE MUSIC

COMPOSED BY

JOHN E. WEST.

Price Two Shillings.
Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

NOW READY.

HARVEST-TIDE

A CANTATA FOR HARVEST

FOR

TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN, OR SMALL ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

HUGH BLAIR.

Price One Shilling.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE GLEANERS' HARVEST

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

COMPOSED BY

CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE JUBILEE CANTATA

(HARVEST CANTATA)

FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

C. M. VON WEBER.

(Op. 58.)

Edited, and the Pianoforte Accompaniment revised, by EBENEZER PROUT. The words translated from the German version of Wendt by the Rev. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

Octavo, 1s.; Full Score, 21s.; Orchestral Parts, 15s.
Words only, 10s. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARVEST CANTATA

FOR

CHORUS, SEMI-CHORUS, AND ORGAN

WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY

J. FRANCIS WALLER, LL.D.

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A., MUS.D.

Price One Shilling. Words only, 5s. per 100, or 2d. each with Music to the Hymns.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, Sixpence.

Intended for the use of Parochial and other Choirs at Harvest Festivals. The music is not difficult, and provision is made for the introduction of well-known Harvest Hymns, in order that the Congregation may take part in the service.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

VOCAL SCORE, OLD NOTATION. 21ST TO 25TH THOUSAND.

RUTH

A HARVEST PASTORAL

SUITABLE FOR USE IN PLACES OF WORSHIP

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

SUITABLE FOR

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

"The Biblical story of which Ruth is the central figure lends itself with remarkable suitability to an illustration of a harvest celebration. The country landscape, the ripened corn, the sturdy reapers, the standing sheaves, the active gleaners, and the busy farmer, all combine to fill the mind's eye with a pleasant scene of excitement. Set to music by a competent composer such as Mr. A. R. Gaul, the narrative of Ruth's eventful episode lends itself to a pathetic, picturesque, and pleasant performance. The bereaved and sorrowful trio of women on whom the calamity of poverty and famine has fallen, as if to give intensity to their greater grief, and the unexpected and happy influence of patriarchal benevolence displayed by the mighty Boaz, who so quickly transforms sorrow into joy, are all introduced and aptly take their allotted place in the melodious music of Gaul's interpretation of the tale."—Gloucester Citizen.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM, ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.
The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. Band Parts on loan.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.,

BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

These compositions are effective and not difficult.

*THOU CROWNEST THE YEAR (New) (3rd 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
SING UNTO GOD WITH THE VOICE OF THANKSGIVING (7th 1,000) .. 4d.
Very attractive, effective, and interesting to the Choir.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 10th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 voices at Doncaster.
O LORD, HOW MANIFOLD (3rd 1,000) .. .. 4d.
*THE EYES OF ALL WAIT UPON THEE (16th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.
*New Festival Anthem, THE LORD REIGNETH (easy) .. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 5th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Those marked (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEM.

PUT YE IN THE SICKLE, FOR THE HARVEST IS RIPE. By THOMAS SMITH. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

TE DEUM IN A

CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR CARNALL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM IN F

FOR VOICES IN UNISON AND ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

REV. W. J. PRESSEY, M.A.

Price Threepence.

London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s.	d.			s.	d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4	0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3	0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5	0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3	0

THIRD SERIES.

		s.	d.			s.	d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2	0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1	6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1	6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s.	d.			s.	d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5	0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3	6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6	0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3	6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition. Price Sixpence.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in A. By I. H. STAMMERS. A second Setting in E flat, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s.	d.	Sol-fa. s.	d.
The Ancient Mariner	2	6	0	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
May Day	1	0	0	6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1	0	0	6

ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0	3	0	1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0	2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0	3
There were shepherds (Christmas)..	0	2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0	4
Six Kyries	0	2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0	3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MORNING and EVENING SERVICE in A. By FELIX W. MORLEY, M.A., Mus. Bac., Cantab. Te Deum, 4d.; Benedictus, 3d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 3d. (The solo portions may all be taken by Trebles.) Also, MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F (just published), 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Dedicated to the Right Rev. Lord Bishop of Dover.

MUSIC for the OFFICE OF THE HOLY EUCHARIST, in the Key of A flat, being the Kyrie, Gloria Tibi, Gratias, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei, and Gloria in Excelsis. Composed by ALFRED OAKE, L.R.A.M., F.C.O., Organist and C.M. Parish Church, Folkestone. Price One Shilling and Fourpence net. London: E. DONAJOWSKI.

Special terms of the COMPOSER, St. Denys, Folkestone.

SUITABLE FOR HARVEST.

EASY TE DEUM IN F

Price Twopence.

EASY MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN C

Price Threepence.

BY

LORAINE HOLLOWAY, F.C.O.

Second Editions of both these Settings will be published shortly.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUN CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE PRECES and RESPONSES with LITANY. By H. T. WELCH. Paper cover, Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.—TE DEUM LAUDAMUS, in the Key of F. By CHARLES WARD. Price 2d. For copies, address, C. WARD, Armley, Leeds.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA

FOR ADVENT. Price 2d.

BY CHARLES W. WILKES.

Organist and Choirmaster of St. Laurence, Catford.

"Appropriate, melodious, and devotional; interesting for choirs, and easily sung by congregations."

Specimen copy free from the COMPOSER, Coomera, Brownhill Road, Catford, S.E.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

VESPER HYMN

TO BE SUNG AFTER EVENING SERVICE

WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY

GEORGE KETT.

Peace for the soul that is weary,
With trouble and sorrow opprest;
Peace for the heart that is yearning
For freedom from sin and for rest;
Peace which the world cannot offer,
An earnest of Life that's Divine—
Jesu, we pray for Thy blessing,
And long for the peace that is Thine.

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price One Shilling.

THE OFFICE of HOLY COMMUNION (Introit, Kyrie, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei, and Gloria). Set to Music by A. M. JARRETT.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

INTROITS, GRADUALS, and ALLELUIAS. Music by EDWARD A. SUTTON.

No. 20. Introit for a Harvest Festival.
No. 21. Gradual for a Harvest Festival.
Price, together, Fourpence.

"Well worthy the attention of organists."—Graphic.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO COMPOSERS and CONDUCTORS.—Cantatas, Songs, Dance Music, &c., scored for any sized orchestra by an experienced Musician. Conductor, 26, Hatfield Street, New Cross.

CONCONE'S LESSONS

NEW EDITION

WITH MARKS OF EXPRESSION AND PHRASING

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE EACH.

50 LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE.

25 LESSONS (JUST PUBLISHED). A SEQUEL TO THE FIFTY LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE.

40 LESSONS FOR CONTRALTO.

40 LESSONS FOR BASS OR BARITONE.

The sterling value and great usefulness of Concone's Lessons have been so long recognised and so generally admitted, that their extensive adoption caused, as a natural consequence, the issue of numerous editions in almost every country where the study of the Art of Singing is cultivated. No edition, however, which has hitherto come under my notice, seems to me as correct, complete, and reliable as it should be.

I have endeavoured to rectify this deficiency by adding in the present edition signs of expression and phrasing, where I considered it expedient to do so, completing, and in some cases altering, the breathing marks, and altogether carefully revising the whole work.—ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

INSTRUCTION BOOKS.

	s.	d.
Aspa, Rosario—Exercises and Observations, intended to assist in the cultivation of the voice	2	6
Gadsby, Henry—Supplemental Book of Exercises for the use of those learning to sing at sight 8vo	1	0
Henschel, G.—Progressive Studies for the Voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. In two Parts.—
Part I. Studies in Sustained Singing (Low Voice)	4	0
Part II. Studies in Florid Singing (Low Voice)	4	0
Higgs, James—A Collection of Two-part Solfeggi in the principal major keys, designed for the practice of choristers and vocal classes generally. Selected from Durante, Handel, Leo, Scarlatti, Steffani, Nares, Webbe, &c.	1	0
Jackson, W.—The Singing-Class Manual, 8vo, paper	2	0
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. .. each	0	6
Mainzer.—Music Book for the Young. A series of Easy Two-part Songs	0	8
Mann, Richard—A Manual of Singing, for the use of Choir Trainers and Schoolmasters. New Edition, with additions by J. Stainer, 8vo, paper	1	0
Marshall, Florence A.—Five Minutes' Exercises, in two Parts, for the use of Singing Classes in Schools	0	6
Metcalfe, Rev. J. Powell—Rules in Rhymes and Rounds, or Musical Precept and Example	0	6
Novello, Sabilla—Voice and Vocal Art. A Treatise written for the use of Teachers and Students of Singing, with anatomical illustrations 8vo, paper	1	0
—— Vocal School	3	0
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. .. each	0	6
—— Sabbatini. Sequel to the above. Vocal Exercises, for two voices, in the form of Canons and Rounds	3	0
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. .. each	0	6
—— Exercises for a Contralto voice..	1	6
Rendall, E. D.—The Elementary Principles of Music for Public Schools .. .. paper cover	2	0 paper boards	2	6
Stockhausen, Julius—Method of Singing. Translated into English by Sophie Löwe ..	5	0
Winter—Elementary Vocal Exercises	1	3

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

SECOND EDITION.

KING ARTHUR

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR

THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

WORDS BY

JAMES SMIETON, M.A.

MUSIC BY

JOHN MORE SMIETON.

OLD NOTATION, 2s. 6d.; TONIC SOL-FA, 1s.
Full Score and Band Parts on hire.

The attention of Conductors is specially directed to the above Cantata, as affording an unusually interesting work for chorus and soloists. It takes about an hour and forty minutes to perform, and has been given with conspicuous success by the Choral Unions of Dundee, Broughty Ferry, and Airdrie, as well as by other societies throughout the kingdom.

SCOTSMAN.

This beautiful work will enhance the reputation won for its composer by his similar composition, "Ariadne." It shows a charming gift of melody and no small musicianly skill in its merely technical qualities. It may be recommended to Choral Societies as well worthy of study.

SCOTTISH LEADER.

The work opens with a charming prelude in sacred style, which sets the mind admirably in tune for the drama which is to follow. In the first scene the Romance sung by the King is a little gem, and would make a beautiful song even apart from its surroundings. In the third scene, the wedding of Arthur and Guinevere gives rise to a whole suite of characteristic novelties. No. 15, which introduces a hymn sung by maidens, is perhaps the finest thing in the whole Cantata; and an effective epilogue brings the work to a striking close. "King Arthur" will certainly add to the reputation of its gifted composer, and will be welcomed by all lovers of music.

DUNDEE ADVERTISER, March 30, 1892.

We have not space to examine every number in detail, and to point out the excellencies which were evidently appreciated by the audience. But as outstanding numbers, memorable both for composition and for the style in which they were sung, we may refer to the Romance "'Mid the glory of the Springtime," splendidly executed by Mr. Iver McKay; the beautiful aria for Guinevere, "Star of departing day," admirably sung by Miss Emily Davies; and the graceful and highly original duet for these two vocalists, "Love of my youthful days." The most marked success gained by Mr. Musgrove Tufnail during the evening was in the very involved legend, "In the vault of the purple night," assigned to Merlin, in which the vocalist entirely identified himself with the part he had to represent.

THE EVENING TELEGRAPH, March 30, 1892.

"King Arthur" is called by the composer a Cantata, but the name hardly conveys to the mind an idea of the elaborate, lengthy, and powerful character of the work. It is rather a musical epic, and is characterised throughout by a wealth of musical ideas, by a command of musical resources, by a scholarly knowledge of harmony, by a variety and richness of effect, and notably by a melodiousness throughout that are really remarkable. One notable feature which must be mentioned is the effective character of Mr. Smieton's recitatives. He has succeeded in infusing these with genuine interest, and giving to them melodic treatment which saves them from the charge of monotony too often felt in works of this kind. The beautiful hymn "There is a land" was a much relished item near the close of the Cantata, which ended with a powerful chorus, in which the composer calls up all the resources before him to make a telling and impressive finish to the work. Late as the hour was there was a loud and persistent call for the composer, and when at length he stepped upon the platform and bowed his acknowledgments he was greeted with round after round of applause. The production of the Cantata was a triumphant success, and the composer is to be congratulated on the general ability with which it was performed and the marked favour by which it was received.

A copy of the Cantata will be sent, post-free, to Conductors, on application to the COMPOSER, 12, Victoria Chambers, Dundee.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES AND CHORUS

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

(OP. 42)

COMPOSER OF "THE HOLY CITY," "RUTH," "PASSION SERVICE," "JOAN OF ARC," &c.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. If composers would have their works popular with choral societies, it is only reasonable to expect that they will bestow a fair share of their attention upon the choruses. The old masters knew this, and there is no doubt that the fact has much to do with the long-continued popularity of their works; and there is equally little doubt, we think, that the principal cause of the failure of so many works produced now-a-days is the uninteresting nature of the choruses. Compare the choruses of the three most popular works ever produced—'The Messiah,' 'Creation,' and 'Elijah'—with a large number of modern works, and our meaning will be clear. If we mistake not, such thoughts as these passed through Mr. Gaul's mind when he set himself to compose those works which have placed him in the front rank of English composers—the 'Holy City,' 'Joan of Arc,' and 'The Ten Virgins'—and that the public endorse his views is proved by the enormous sale which these works have had."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"The subject is an excellent one for a Cantata . . . a stronger work than 'Joan of Arc.' . . . Melodious, vocal, and of moderate difficulty, and, like Mr. Gaul's earlier Cantatas, will be eagerly welcomed by societies in search of new works having these characteristics."—Newcastle Daily Leader, Dec. 16, 1890.

BOW AND BROMLEY INSTITUTE CHOIR.—"The hall was overcrowded by an audience that was disposed to encore every other number of the work. If the verdict of a miscellaneous audience, that could have no possible reason for being favourably prejudiced, is of any account in estimating the merit of a new work, a career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.' That Mr. Gaul should have secured this undoubted popular success with a work far more contrapuntal than any of his former works, is a remarkable tribute to his power of welding science and beauty into one whole."—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Eleventh to Fifteenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

		s. d.			s. d.
Paper cover ..	.. price	2 6	Tonic Sol-fa ..	.. price	1 6
,, boards ..	.. ,,	3 0	Vocal parts ..	each ,,	1 0
Scarlet cloth ..	.. ,,	4 0	Words only ..	per 100 ,,	7 0

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ASHDOWN EDITION
OF STANDARD PIANOFORTE MUSIC.

VOL.		NET. S.	D.
1.	CHOPIN'S Twenty-seven Studies	2	6
2.	STEPHEN HELLER'S Album. Op. 138	1	6
3.	HENRI ROUBIER'S Twenty Melodies of Franz Schubert	2	0
4.	STEPHEN HELLER'S Twenty-four Preludes. Op. 81	1	6
5.	CHOPIN'S Eighteen Nocturnes	2	0
6.	CZERNY'S One Hundred and One Exercises ...	1	0
7.	CZERNY'S Etude de la Vélocité	1	6
8.	SCHUMANN'S Phantasiestücke. Op. 12... ...	1	6
9.	SCHUBERT'S Eight Impromptus	1	6
10.	LISZT'S Soirées de Vienne	2	6
11.	CLEMENTI'S Six Sonatinas. Op. 36	1	0
12.	STEPHEN HELLER'S Thirty-two Preludes. Op. 119	1	6
13.	RUBINSTEIN'S Soirées à St. Petersbourg (Six Morceaux). Op. 44	1	0
14.	CHOPIN'S Forty-three Mazurkas	3	0
15.	SCHUMANN'S Album für die Jugend. Op. 68 ...	1	6
16.	DUSSEK'S Six Sonatinas. Op. 20	1	0
17.	GOTTSCHALK. Selection No. 1 (Six pieces) ...	1	0
18.	KUHLAU'S Six Sonatinas. Op. 55	1	0
19.	CHOPIN'S Eight Waltzes	1	6
20.	KULLAK'S Youthful days. Twenty-four characteristic pieces	1	6
21.	KESSLER'S Twenty-four Studies...	2	6
22.	CLEMENTI'S Six Sonatinas. Op. 37 and 38 ...	1	6
23.	CHOPIN'S Twenty-five Preludes	1	6
24.	CLEMENTI'S Gradus ad Parnassum. Twenty-eight Studies ... ... (Selected and edited by Walter Macfarren.)	2	6
25.	JOHN FIELD'S Six Nocturnes	1	0
26.	LOTT'S Circle of Diatonic Scales	1	6
27.	DIABELLI'S Seven Sonatinas. Op. 168... ...	1	0
28.	KULLAK'S Les fleurs animées. Seven characteristic pieces	1	6
29.	MENDELSSOHN'S Thirty-six Lieder ohne Worte	1	6
30.	CZERNY'S Forty Daily Studies	1	6
31.	W. S. BENNETT'S Six Studies. Op. 11 ...	1	0
32.	STEPHEN HELLER'S Restless Nights. Op. 82	1	6
33.	KUHLAU'S Four Sonatinas. Op. 88	1	0
34.	F. HILLER'S Sei capriccetti. Op. 35	1	0
35.	BERTINI'S Twenty-five Studies. Op. 29 ...	1	0
36.	MAYER'S Six Etudes Mélodiques. Op. 149 ...	1	0
37.	SCHUMANN'S Scenes in the Forest. Op. 82 ...	1	0
38.	CHOPIN'S Four Ballades	1	6
39.	STEPHEN HELLER'S Promenades d'un solitaire. Op. 78	1	0
40.	KALKBRENNER'S Twenty Studies. Op. 169 ...	1	0
41.	SCHMITT'S L'Indispensable. Op. 16	1	0
42.	BENNETT'S Suite de Pièces. Op. 24	1	6
43.	CZERNY'S Fifty Etudes. Op. 740. Book 1. Studies 1 to 24	1	6
44.	CZERNY'S Fifty Etudes. Op. 740. Book 2. Studies 25 to 50	1	6
45.	MAYER'S Six Etudes. Op. 31	1	0
46.	STEPHEN HELLER'S Promenades d'un solitaire. (2nd set. Wanderstunden.) Op. 80 ...	1	6
47.	SCHUBERT'S Posthumous Works	1	0
48.	BACHE, F. E. Five characteristic pieces ...	1	0
49.	LOTT. Selection No. 1 (Six pieces)	1	0
50.	CRAMER'S Studio. Book 1. Studies 1 to 42 ...	1	6
51.	CRAMER'S Studio. Book 2. Studies 43 to 84...	1	6
52.	BEETHOVEN'S Twelve Waltzes	1	0
53.	SILAS' Six petits morceaux. Op. 17	1	0
54.	BEETHOVEN'S Five Sonatinas	1	0
55.	GIBSONE'S Meditations (First series)	1	0
56.	BENNETT'S Preludes and Lessons	2	0
57.	HELLER'S Douze Valses. Op. 97	1	6
58.	BERTINI. Twenty-five Elementary Studies. Op. 137	1	0
59.	WOLLENHAUPT. Selection No. 1 (Six pieces)...	1	0
60.	EDOUARD DORN'S Mountain Memories	1	0
61.	CZERNY'S Introduction to the Etude de la Vélocité. Op. 636	1	0
62.	SCHUBERT'S Moments musicaux and Valse nobles	1	0
63.	SCHUMANN'S Faschingsschwank aus Wien. Op. 26	1	0
64.	DIABELLI. Four Sonatinas. Op. 151	1	0
65.	PFEIFFER. Twenty-five Studies. Op. 70 ...	2	0
66.	RAFF. Douze Romances. Op. 8	1	6

(To be continued.)

ASHDOWN EDITION
OF STANDARD VOCAL MUSIC.

VOL.		S.	D.
1.	CONCONE. Fifty Singing Lessons (pour le médium de la voix). Op. 9	1	6
2.	CONSTANTINO PERUGINI. Six Lessons in Solfeggio for two voices	1	0
3.	NIELS W. GADE. Eight Vocal Duets (English and German words)	1	0
4.	FRANZ ABT. Ten Vocal Duets (English and German words)	2	0
5.	ROMANINI and NAVA. Twelve Solfeggios for Contralto voice	1	0
6.	KELLER. Eight Vocal Duets (English and German words)	1	0
7.	PANSERON. The Elements of Singing	1	0
8.	W. S. BENNETT. Six Songs (English and German words). Op. 23	1	0
9.	J. L. HATTON. Five Chamber Duets	1	0
10.	F. LACHNER. Three Trios for Soprano Voices (English and German words)	1	0
11.	MENDELSSOHN. Six Two-part Songs. Op. 63	1	0
12.	F. ROMER. Six Vocal Duets	1	0
13.	BORDOGNI. Twelve nouvelles vocalises. Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano	1	6
14.	MARCELLO. Five Sacred Duets for female voices	1	0
15.	RUBINI. Twelve Lessons on the modern style of Singing (Soprano or Tenor)	1	6
16.	GARCIA. School of Singing	1	0
17.	FRANZ ABT. Sixty Solfeggi and vocal exercises	1	0
18.	GIARDINI. School of Singing for Baritone and Bass	1	0
19.	CONCONE. Twenty-five Lessons. Op. 10 (to follow Op. 9)	1	0
20.	CONCONE. Thirty Singing Lessons. Op. 11 (to follow Op. 10)	1	0
21.	CONCONE. Forty Lessons for Deep Voices. Op. 17	1	6
22.	CONCONE. Fifteen Vocalises. Op. 12	1	0
23.	ROSSINI. Gorgheggi e Solfeggi	1	0
24.	F. E. BACHE. Six Songs with English and German words	1	0
25.	PINSUTI. Five Two-part Songs	1	0

(To be continued.)

LONDON: EDWIN ASHDOWN (LIMITED), HANOVER SQUARE, W.

THE

CAPTIVES OF BABYLON

AN ORATORIO, COMPOSED BY

GEO. SHINN, MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

(SUITABLE FOR CONCERT ROOM OR CHURCH.)

Price 2s. Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

"May be highly commended as an interesting and valuable addition to our shorter Oratorios and Cantatas, and contains several solos of much beauty; also duets, quartets, and choruses in great variety."—Sunday School Chronicle.

"The music is appropriate, interesting, melodious, and but of moderate difficulty. The work is one of Mr. Shinn's best efforts, and we all know that Mr. Shinn has written some charming music."—Essex County Chronicle.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the writer of many popular pieces for choral societies; but this is certainly the best thing he has produced."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

"In our judgment no better work of the kind has yet been published. It is brimful of pretty melodies, and the harmonic effects show the skill of a painstaking and talented musician."—Free Methodist.

"The libretto is well chosen, and forms a good base whereon to compose a first-rate work. With regard to the music we feel we can hardly do it justice. . . . Where all is so good it is difficult to mention any special numbers."—United Service Gazette.

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

DR. CHIPP'S "NAOMI." New and cheap Edition. 2s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.
2. The Nightingale.
3. The Dove.
4. The Skylark.
5. The Owl.
6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
,, scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MY WILL IS GONE TO SLEEP, DEAR. Love Song. The words written by WALTER HERRIES POLLOCK. The music composed by MARGUERITE MARIGOLD. Price 2s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRINCE SPRITE

A FAIRY OPERETTA

FOR TREBLE VOICES

The Libretto arranged from Countess d'Aulnoy's Fairy Tale

BY

BERTHA THOMAS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC

SUITABLE FOR USE AT THE

SERVICE OF HOLY MATRIMONY

ANTHEMS AND HYMNS.	s.	d.
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. .. E. G. Monk	1	6
Vocal parts	1	0
Blessed are all they that fear the Lord .. Sidney Naylor	0	9
Except the Lord build the house .. .. F. A. G. Ouseley	0	6
Vocal parts	0	6
Father of Life. Hymn .. .. Jas. Turle	0	3
God, be merciful unto us .. .. .. S. S. Wesley
Octavo	0	3
Vocal parts	1	0
Folio	1	6
O God, Thou art worthy .. .. .. Arthur Sullivan
Vocal parts	1	0
Octavo	0	4
Tonic Sol-fa	0	1½
Folio	1	6
O Perfect Love (Composed for the Wedding of H.R.H. Princess Louise of Wales and the Earl of Fife) .. .. J. Barnby	0	3
Holy Ghost, to earth descending .. .. Antonín Dvorák	0	4
There was a marriage in Cana of Galilee .. .. J. Stainer	0	3
Protect them, Almighty. Chorus .. .. .. J. Barnby	0	3

ORGAN MUSIC.
Wedding March (Gounod), No. 1. Arranged by G. C. Martin	2	0
Wedding March, No. 2.. .. .. .. Charles Gounod	2	0
Wedding March (Mendelssohn) .. Arranged by W. T. Best	2	0
March in "Tannhäuser" .. .. Arranged by F. Archer	2	0
Processional Wedding March .. .. .. Henry R. Bird	1	0
A Wedding Piece .. .. A. C. Mackenzie	1	0
The Bride's March ("Rebekah," J. Barnby) Arr. by James Shaw	1	0
March in B flat .. .. Arranged by E. Silas	1	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition. Price 6d.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

Second Edition. Price 2s.

MANUAL OF VOICE-TRAINING. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Contains full information concerning Mr. Palmer's Method of Voice-Production, important Chapters on Falsetto and Breaking of the Voice, and a complete Course of Exercises. Post-free from the AUTHOR or PUBLISHER. Address as above.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published. 2s. 6d. net.

TRIO (Violin, Piano, and Cello). By W. Y. HURLSTONE. Melodious and moderately easy. Of LAFLEUR'S, Green Street, London, and all Musicsellers.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ASHTON, A.—Arioso. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 43	4	0
—— Sonata. For Viola and Pianoforte. Op. 44	16	0
ENNA, A.—"Die Hexe." Opera, in 3 Acts. Arranged for the Pianoforte .. .. net	8	0
—— Overture from the same. For Orchestra :— Score .. .. „	5	0
FERENCZI.—Bulgarian Valses. For Pianoforte Duet. Op. 17	4	0
—— The same. Arranged for Pianoforte and Violin	3	0
FLÜGEL, G.—Two Organ Pieces. Op. 103:— No. 1. Toccata	3	0
„ 2. Andante serioso..	3	0
FRANCK, C.—Prelude, Fugue, and Variations. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Harmonium .. .. net	3	0
—— Celebrated "Panis angelicus." Arranged for Pianoforte and Harmonium	4	0
—— The same. Arranged for Organ..	4	0
GENG, CH.—"La Grève des Musiciens." Marche burlesque. For Orchestra .. .. net	3	0
GLAZOUNOW, A.—"The Kremlin." Symphonic Tone-Picture. For Orchestra. Op. 30:— Full Score .. .. net	22	0
Parts .. .. „	43	0
—— The same. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	16	0
GLINKA, M. J.—Trio pathétique (D minor). For Pianoforte, Clarinet, and Bassoon	15	0
GOUVY, TH.—2nd Serenade. For Flute and Strings (Two Violins, Viola, Violoncello, and Bass). Op. 84:— Score .. .. net	7	6
Parts .. .. „	11	6
HENDRIKS, C. F., JR.—Sonata (E minor). For Organ. Op. 4	5	0
—— Præludium and Fuga (C minor). For Organ	4	0
HUBER, H.—Kindergarten Album. For Pianoforte Duet. Op. 108:— Book I. .. .. net	3	9
Book II. .. .. „	3	9
KAUN, H.—Octet. For Clarinet, Horn, Bassoon, Two Violins, Viola, Violoncello, and Bass. Op. 34:— Score .. .. net	12	6
Parts .. .. „	7	6
LACOMBE, P.—Parade hongroise. For Orchestra. Op. 35:— Full Score .. .. net	5	0
Parts .. .. „	10	0
—— Suite d'Orchestre. (Barcarolle, Serenade, Menuet):— Full Score .. .. net	5	0
Parts .. .. „	8	0
LIADOW, A.—"Marionettes." For Pianoforte. Op. 29 ..	4	0
MAILLY, A.—Three Pieces. For Organ	6	0
MARIE, GABRIEL.—Andante religioso. For Organ	4	0
—— The same. Arranged for Orchestra .. .. .. net	2	0
—— "Aubade." For Orchestra .. .. „	2	0
—— "Nuit à Venise." Rêverie. For Orchestra .. .. „	2	0
—— "Vieille histoire." For small Orchestra .. .. „	3	0
MASSENET, J.—"Les Larmes" (from "Werther"). For Soprano	3	0
MONTALENT, R. DE.—"The Infant's Dream." Rêverie. For Two Violins, Viola, Violoncello, and Bass .. net	1	0
NEMEROWSKY, A.—Classical Album (Bach, Beethoven, Scarlatti, Haydn, Mozart). Seven Pieces. Arranged for the Harmonium	9	0
OBERTHÜR, CH.—"Album Leaves." Three Musical Sketches. For Harp Solo	6	0
PACHE.—House Concerts. Pieces for Violin and Pianoforte, with 2nd and 3rd Violins, Violoncello, Triangle, and Drum ad lib. Nos. 1 to 6. Op. 135 .. .. .. each net	3	0

No. 1. Wedding March. | No. 4. Gavotte.
„ 2. Festival Reminiscences. | „ 5. Wanderer's Song.
„ 3. Bohemian Piece. | „ 6. May Dances.

PAUER, MAX.—Three Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op 6:— No. 1. Rire de Fantômes	4	0
„ 2. Mazurka	3	0
„ 3. Petite Valse	3	0
PEARLS from the INSTRUMENTAL COLLECTION of PAUL DE WITT. (German, French, and English words):— Bound .. .. net	10	0
Large Paper Edition (Edition de luxe) .. .. „	30	0
RADECKE, R.—Capriccio. For Orchestra :— Full Score .. .. net	21	0
Parts .. .. „	27	6
—— The same. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet	7	0
SEITZ, FR.—"The Little Violinist." (First Position.) Série I. Books 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. For Violin Solo .. .. .. each	2	0
—— The same. Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte .. „	4	0
—— Two Easy Drawing-Room Pieces:— No. 1. Album Leaf	3	0
„ 2. Gavotte	3	0
SPOHR, L.—Andante and Variations. For Violin and Strings. Op. 34 .. .. net	2	0
TANEÏW, SERGE.—Quartet. For Strings. Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 2, No. 3	24	0
THOMÉ, F.—"Le Menuet de la Mariée." For Pianoforte and Violin. Op. 89	6	0
TOMBELLE, DE LA.—"Cavalier Mongol." Song. For Baritone. French words	5	0
TSCHAÏKOWSKY, P.—Chant sans Paroles. For String Orchestra .. .. net	1	8
—— Barcarolle. For String Orchestra .. .. .. „	1	2
VIDAL, PAUL.—"Eros." Fantaisie lyrique. Vocal Score „	12	0
WIELAND.—Sérénade. For Violin and Pianoforte	3	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WORKS BY F. DAVENPORT,

Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Mu
Published under the Authority of the Committee of the Royal Academy of Music.

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC. Crown 8vo, 1s.

"In the space of some fifty pages the reader will find all that necessary to be known about the pitch of notes, intervals, and sca rests, time, and abbreviations, and will, we doubt not, also find h much there is of which he was ignorant concerning these subje although he had already flattered himself that he had mastered th elements a long time ago."—Saturday Review.

ELEMENTS OF HARMONY AND COUNTERPOIN

Crown 8vo, 2s. 6d.

QUESTIONS AND EXERCISES.

For the Use of Students of Music. By F. DAVENPORT, Professor Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music, and PERCY BAKER, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music. Crown 8vo, 1s.

A GUIDE TO PIANOFORTE STUDENTS.

By F. DAVENPORT and J. PERCY BAKER. Crown 8vo, 1s.

London: LONGMANS, GREEN and Co.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, in stiff paper, 3s. net.

WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS

For STUDENTS of the PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, ORGAN, other instruments. By A. LEFFLER ARNIM, author of "Health Ma

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by t thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addit to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined delicate touch. No instrument whatever required.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: ". . . . I have no hesitation in saying th think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: ". . . . I am confident the exercises recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: ". . . . Invaluable to anyone studying violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Hinde Street, W.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO "HENRY VIII."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

CONTENTS.

Morris Dance. | Shepherds' Dance. | Torch Dance.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition.

SEVEN SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

CONTENTS:

Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

THE CHORIC SONG

FROM

THE LOTOS-EATERS

BY

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

Set to Music for Soprano Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra (with Rec tion), by

C. HUBERT H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOVELLO'S CONCERT EDITION.

HANDEL'S SONGS

FROM THE

ORATORIOS.

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

SOPRANO

lited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing,

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

—"Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion" (Messiah).
—"Come unto Him" (Messiah).
—"How beautiful are the feet" (Messiah).
—"I know that my Redeemer liveth" (Messiah).
cit.—"No more in Zion" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
—"Wise men flatt'ring, may deceive you" }
cit.—"O grant it, Heaven" .. .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
—"So shall the lute and harp awake" }
cit.—"O let eternal honours crown His name" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
—"From mighty kings he took the spoil" }
cit.—"To Heaven's Almighty King we kneel" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
—"O Liberty! thou choicest treasure" .. }
—"Pious orgies" (Judas Maccabæus).
cit.—"Ye sacred Priests" .. } (Jephtha).
—"Farewell, ye limpid springs" }
—"O! had I Jubal's lyre" (Joshua).
cit.—"O, worse than death" .. } (Theodora).
—"Angels ever bright and fair" }

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

CONTRALTO

ited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing,

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

cit.—"Behold! a Virgin shall conceive" .. } (Messiah).
—"O thou that tellest good tidings to Zion" }
cit.—"Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened" } (Messiah).
—"He shall feed His flock like a shepherd" .. }
—"He was despised and rejected" (Messiah).
—"Father of Heav'n" (Judas Maccabæus).
—"Return, O God of Hosts" (Samson).
—"Their land brought forth frogs" (Israel in Egypt).
—"Thou shalt bring them in" (Israel in Egypt).
—"O Lord, whose mercies" (Saul).
—"Lord, to Thee each night and day" (Theodora).
cit.—"Great prophetess, my soul's on fire" } (Deborah).
—"In the battle fame pursuing" .. .. } cit.—"'Twill be a painful separation" } (Jephtha).
—"In gentle murmurs will I mourn" }
cit.—"See, she blushing turns her eyes" } (Semele).
—"Hymen, haste! thy torch prepare" }

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

TENOR

Edited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing,

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

Recit.—"Comfort ye, my people" } (Messiah).
Aria—Ev'ry valley shall be exalted" }
Recit.—"Thy rebuke hath broken his heart" .. } (Messiah).
Arioso—"Behold, and see if there be any sorrow" }
Recit.—"He was cut off out of the land of the living" } (Messiah).
Air—"But Thou didst not leave his soul in hell" .. }
Recit.—"He that dwelleth in Heaven" } (Messiah).
Air—"Thou shalt break them" .. .. }
Recit.—"'Tis well, my friends" } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"Call forth thy powers" .. }
Recit.—"Thanks to my brethren" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"How vain is man who boasts in fight" }
Recit.—"My arms! against this Gorgias will I go" } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"Sound an alarm!" .. .. }
Recit.—"O loss of sight" } (Samson).
Air—"Total eclipse" .. }
Recit.—"Deeper and deeper still" } (Jephtha).
Air—"Waft her, angels" .. .. }
Air—"The enemy said" (Israel in Egypt).
Recit.—"My grief for this" .. .. .. } (Samson).
Air—"Why does the God of Israel sleep?" }
Air—"Where'er you walk" (Semele).
Recit.—"O God, who from the suckling's mouth" } (Esther).
Air—"Sing songs of praise" .. .. }

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

BARITONE OR BASS

Edited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing.

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

Recit.—"Thus saith the Lord" .. .. } (Messiah).
Air—"But who may abide the day of His coming" }
Recit.—"For, behold, darkness shall cover the earth" } (Messiah).
Air—"The people that walked in darkness" .. .. }
Air—"Why do the nations so furiously rage together?" (Messiah).
Recit.—"Behold, I tell you a mystery" } (Messiah).
Air—"The trumpet shall sound" .. }
Recit.—"I feel the Deity within" } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"Arm, arm, ye brave" .. }
Recit.—"Be comforted" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"The Lord worketh wonders" }
Recit.—"The good we wish for" .. .. .. } (Samson).
Air—"Thy glorious deeds inspir'd my tongue" }
Air—"Honour and arms" (Samson).
Air—"How willing my paternal love" (Samson).
Recit.—"It must be so" .. .. } (Jephtha).
Air—"Pour forth no more unheeded pray'rs" }
Air—"Revenge, Timotheus cries" (Alexander's Feast).
Recit.—"I'll hear no more" } (Esther).
Air—"Pluck root and branch" }

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Published this day, No. 4 of

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

A MONTHLY PERIODICAL DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW will contain—

Articles on Musical Subjects of General Interest to Teachers, contributed by School Music Specialists.
General Notes on Important Musical Events of the Month.
Reports of School Concerts and Competitions.
School Songs in both Notations and Suited to the Capacities of the Children in the Different Divisions of Schools.
Exercises in Sight-Singing in both Notations.
Reviews of School Music.
Solutions to the Questions in Music Set at the Different Examinations in Connection with the Education Department and other Examining Bodies.
Correspondence, Notes and Queries, &c.

The Music will also be sold separately. Price 1½d.

CONTENTS OF No. 1.

1. Introductory.
2. A Short History of Music in Primary Schools. By W. G. McNaught.
3. The Alterations in the Music Code.
4. A Recommendation as to the Nomenclature of Intervals.
5. On the Training of Pupil Teachers in Music. By C. Tantram.
6. The Revised Music Syllabus for Pupil Teachers.
7. Reports of School Entertainments.
8. Music (in both Notations):—
   "Stars that on your wondrous way." Hymn for Children, by J. Stainer.
   "Little Soldiers." Kindergarten Song, by A. Moffat.
   "The Delights of Spring." Vocal Trio, by Franz Abt.
   Studies in Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught.

CONTENTS OF No. 2.

1. General Notes.
2. What a High School Girl should be able to do. By the Editor, Miss Emma Mundella, and Mrs. Florence Marshall.
3. Test Theory Questions for Pupil Teachers and Students.
4. London School Board Children at Exeter Hall.
5. Retirement of the Music Superintendent of the London Board Schools.
6. The Scotch Schools and Music.
7. Correspondence.
8. Reports of School Entertainments.
9. Music (in both Notations):—
   "Fairy Song." Two-part Song, by Herbert W. Schartau.
   "Daisy Dell." Unison Song, by A. Scott Gatty.
   "The Postillion." "Evening." } Junior School Songs from Lowell Mason's "Juvenile Songster."
   Round, "Timothy Tippen's Horse." By A. Moffat.
   Studies in Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught.

CONTENTS OF No. 3.

1. General Notes.
2. How to arrange a School Singing Class. By J. Evans
3. Sir J. Stainer on Music in Scotch Training Colleges.
4. Test Theory Questions for Pupil Teachers and Students.
5. The Choice of School Songs—Conference at Bradford.
6. What a High School Girl should be able to do.
7. H.M. Inspectors' Reports on School Music.
8. School Children at the Crystal Palace.
9. London School Board.—Vocal Music Competition.
10. Reviews of School Music.
11. Reports of School Entertainments.
12. Music (in both Notations):—
    "To a Violet." Unison Song, by Sir J. Stainer.
    "Little Bo-Peep." Action Song, by J. W. Elliott.
    Specimen Tune and Time Tests for Schools and Pupil Teachers.

CONTENTS OF No. 4.

1. General Notes.
2. Sir J. Stainer on Music in the English and Welsh Training Colleges.
3. Answers to Test Theory Questions for Pupil Teachers and Students.
4. Music Printing.
5. Correspondence:—
   "What a High School Girl should be able to do."
6. Reports of H.M. Inspectors on Music in the Training Colleges.
7. General News.
8. Music (in both Notations):—
   "Sabbath Stillness." Unaccompanied Trio, by Franz Abt.
   "St. George for England." School Trio, by G. A. Macfarren.
   "Oh, dear! what can the matter be?" Arranged as a Two-part Song.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

Price 1½d.; Post-free, 2d. Annual Subscription, including Postage, 2s.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Printed by Novello, Ewer and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.
Sold also by Kent and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Thursday, September 1, 1892.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 596.—Vol. 33. OCTOBER 1, 1892. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.

Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

October 5, 6, 7, and 8, 1892.

Conductor, Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

BAND and CHORUS of 450.

PRINCIPALS.—Madame ALBANI, Miss MACINTYRE, Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Miss HILDA WILSON, Miss MARIAN McKENZIE, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, Mr. HENRY PIERCY, Mr. BEN DAVIES, Mr. NORMAN SALMOND, Mr. ANDREW BLACK, Mr. PLUNKET GREENE. Principal First Violin: Mr. J. T. CARRODUS. Organist: Mr. A. BENTON.

	£	s.	d.
Serial Ticket (transferable), admitting to all the Concerts, except Saturday night	5	5	0
First Seats (Morning)	1	1	0
First Seats (Evening)	0	15	0
Second Seats (Morning)	0	10	6
Second Seats (Evening)	0	8	0
Unreserved Seats (Morning)	0	5	0
Unreserved Seats (Evening)	0	3	6
SATURDAY EVENING ONLY.
First Seats, Gallery and Ground Floor (A)	0	15	0
First Seats, Gallery and Ground Floor (B)	0	10	6
Second Seats (A)	0	8	0
Second Seats (Unreserved)	0	3	6

Applications for Tickets cannot be attended to unless accompanied by a remittance for the full amount of the Tickets required.

Full Programmes (free) on application.

FRED. R. SPARK, Hon. Sec.

Festival Office, Municipal Buildings.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.

President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.

Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

TWENTY-SECOND SEASON, 1892-93.

PROSPECTUS.

The series will comprise ten Concerts, at which the following works will be performed:—November 2, Dvorák's "REQUIEM"; November 23, Berlioz' "FAUST"; December 7, "THE GOLDEN LEGEND"; January 2, "MESSIAH"; January 18, "SOLEMN MASS" (E. M. Smyth) and "CREATION" (Parts I. and II.); February 15, "REDEMPTION"; March 8, "ISRAEL IN EGYPT"; March 31, "MESSIAH"; April 19, "ST. PAUL"; and May 10, "ELIJAH."

Arrangements have been made with the following Artists:—

Madame ALBANI	Mr. EDWARD LLOYD
Madame NORDICA	Mr. BEN DAVIES
Miss ANNA WILLIAMS	Mr. IVER McKAY
Madame CLARA SAMUELL	Mr. WATKIN MILLS
Madame PATEY	Mr. ANDREW BLACK
Miss HILDA WILSON	Mr. NORMAN SALMOND
Madame BELLE COLE	Mr. HENSCHEL
Miss CLARA BUTT

Organist, Mr. HODGE.

The Band and Chorus will consist of 1,000 performers.

The enthusiastic reception accorded to Dvorák's "Requiem," in March last, has suggested the desirability of repeating the work at the opening Concert of the season.

On January 18 there will be performed, for the first time, a "Solemn Mass" (composed by E. M. Smyth). Of this work several distinguished German conductors have spoken in the highest terms; and in its production Her Majesty the Queen and members of the Royal family have taken a deep interest. The performance will also be honoured by the presence of Her Imperial Majesty the Empress Eugénie.

Of the ten Concerts to be given, eight will be included in the Subscription series. Prices of Subscription for these eight Concerts: Stalls, 3 guineas; Arena, 2 guineas; Balcony (reserved), 1½ guineas.

Prices for each Concert: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

Subscribers' names can now be received, seats secured, and Prospectuses obtained at the Royal Albert Hall.

First Concert on Wednesday, November 2, at 8. Dvorák's "Requiem." Artists: Madame Albani, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.—MR. H. C. TONKING will be the Organist on SUNDAY, October 16, 1892, at 3.30 p.m.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Michaelmas Term commenced September 29.

Half-term begins November 10.

The Syllabus for the Metropolitan Examination, Dec., 1892 (successful Candidates at which are created Licentiates of the Academy), is now ready, and will be sent on application. Last day for receiving entries, October 22.

Fortnightly Concert, October 22, at 8.

Lecture by W. S. Rockstro, Esq., Wednesday, October 5, and each succeeding Wednesday, at 3.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Established by the Corporation of London in 1880.

Principal: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

The next Concert takes place in October.

The Term commenced Monday, September 26.

For prospectuses and all further particulars apply to the Secretary.

By order of the Committee,

CHARLES P. SMITH, Secretary.

Victoria Embankment, E.C.

HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY,

THE ATHENÆUM, HIGHBURY NEW PARK, N.

Conductor: Mr. G. H. BETJEMANN.

October 17, 1892.

CONVERSAZIONE.

Recitations by Mr. CHARLES FRY, and VOCAL MUSIC.

November 14, 1892.

HAYDN'S "CREATION."

Madame FANNY MOODY.
Mr. PHILIP NEWBURY. Mr. CHARLES MANNERS.

January 16, 1893.

DR. C. H. H. PARRY'S "JOB."

Schumann's "NEW YEAR'S SONG."
Cowen's "THE LANGUAGE OF FLOWERS."

Miss EVANGELINE FLORENCE.
Master R. WEIR. Mr. PLUNKET GREENE.
Mr. ALBERT CORNISH. Mr. JAMES LEY.

March 20, 1893.

SIR W. G. CUSINS'S "GIDEON."

Walthew's "THE PIED PIPER" (First Performance).
Mascagni's "CAVALLERIA RUSTICANA" (Selection).

Madame GUILIA VALDA. Mrs. KATHARINE L. FISK.
Mr. BEN DAVIES. Mr. SANTLEY.

May 8, 1893.

BERLIOZ' "FAUST."

Mrs. HELEN TRUST. Mr. EDWARD LLOYD.
Mr. ANDREW BLACK. Mr. KEMPTON.

Subscriptions for Seats: 15s., 12s. 6d., 10s. 6d., 7s. 6d.;

Vocal and Orchestral Members, One Guinea.

Prospectus and full information may be obtained from—

WILLIAM THORNTHWAITE, 14, Highbury Hill, N., } Hon. Secs.
HENRY SCRUTON, 48, Highbury Hill, N., }

MESSRS. HANN'S CHAMBER CONCERTS.—Seventh Series, at Brixton Hall, on Mondays, October 31, November 10, and December 1, at 8 p.m. Programme of first Concert: Quartet in G major, Op. 18, No. 2 (Beethoven); Suite for Pianoforte and Violoncello, "Im Walde" (David Popper); Pianoforte Quintet in F minor, Op. 34 (Brahms); Pianoforte Solo, Ballade in G minor (Chopin).

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS RHODA BILLINGTON (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. For terms, address, 34, Hanover Sq., Leeds.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
53, Robert St., Upper Brook St., Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester. Terms for Oratorios and Concerts, &c., and Press Notices on application.

MISS HARRIET COOPER (Soprano)
(Honours Certificate, Royal Academy).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 19, Lendal, York.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS MAUDE DARLING (Soprano)
(Pupil of David Strong, Esq., Guildhall School of Music).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Oaklands, Addlestone, Surrey.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c., address, care of Miss Mary Willis, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.
"'Messiah.'—Her singing is well-nigh perfect. 'I know that my Redeemer' was indeed a very fine performance."—Penrith Observer.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS NELLIE GOSNELL (Soprano)
For Oratorio, Orchestral and Ballad Concerts, 40, Compton Road, Wolverhampton. References kindly permitted to C. Swinnerton Heap, Esq., Mus. Doc., Birmingham.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS TERESA HAYNES (Soprano)
Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c.
90, Bury New Road, Higher Broughton, Manchester.

MISS MARIE HENSHAW (Soprano)
Oratorio, Concerts, &c., Alderley Edge, Cheshire.

MISS HEROD (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Ballads, &c., address, Woodley, near Stockport.

MISS HOLDEN (Soprano)
(Associate Royal College of Music).
Concerts, Oratorio, 61, Toller Lane, Bradford; or, Mr. N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ELLEN INGHAM (Soprano)
(Late Student, Royal Academy of Music, London).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 9, Albert Road, Colne, Lancs.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Square, N.E.

MISS LILY MARSHALL-WARD (Soprano)
MISS JESSIE MARSHALL-WARD (Contralto)
Address, 14, Peel Street, Nottingham.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS EDITH NIELD (Soprano)
For Concerts, &c., address, 14, Ravenscroft Park, Barnet.

MISS LILY PEARCE, L.R.A.M. (Soprano)
(From the Weimar Conservatorium).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., 25, Cliff Road, Leeds.

MISS ANNIE PULLEIN (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. North Shore, Blackpool.

MISS VIOLET ROBINSON
(Mezzo-Soprano or Contralto, Certificated R.A.M.).
Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c. 64, Abbey Rd., St. John's Wood.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c., Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS EDITH STEVENS (Soprano)
(Of the Crystal Palace Concerts).
Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Beverley House, Barnes, S.W.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS DORA BARNARD (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c. 6, Lordship Park, N.

MISS ALICE BERTENSHAW (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 312, Katherine Ter., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER (Contralto)
Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), is prepared to take Oratorio, Concert, and Drawing-room engagements.

MISS TERESA DEVIENE (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 70, St. George's Avenue, Tufnell Park, N.
"St. James's Hall.—Miss Teresa Deviene is decidedly a promising Contralto vocalist."—The Stage.

MISS ANNIE DOUGLAS (Contralto)
Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, At Homes, address, 30, Russell Road, Kensington. "Miss Douglas, with her beautiful voice and good style, well rendered 'As we love to-day.'"—Chronique de Jersey.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
29, Doughty Street, W.C.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., 76, Calabria Road, N.

MADAME ALICE GORSE (Contralto)
(Gold Medalist).
88, Broad Street, Birmingham.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS (Contralto)
York Villas, Smethwick, Birmingham.
"A most capable contralto."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

MISS JUANITA JONES (Contralto and Pianist)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 49, Bedford Street, Liverpool.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., 10, Springfield Road, N.W.

MISS ELSA ODELL (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Epping, Essex.

MISS HELEN SAUNDERS (Contralto)
(Sainton-Dolby Prizeholder and Sub-Professor, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Banquets, At Homes, &c. 25, Cloudesley Street, Barnsbury, N.

MISS ETHEL SMITH (Contralto)
(Pupil of Signor Gustav Garcia, and 3½ years' student at the Royal College of Music).
For Oratorios, Concerts, and At Homes.
Opinions of the Press.
"Perhaps the vocal gem of the evening was Cowen's exquisite song 'It was a Dream.' Miss Ethel Smith was heard at her best in this song, her finished rendering eliciting enthusiastic applause and a unanimous encore."—South Bucks Free Press.
"Miss Ethel Smith was very successful in the solo 'There is a green hill far away.'"—Chichester Observer.
"The rendition of an 'Old Garden' was accomplished by Miss Ethel Smith with a voice which for purity of tone and excellence has few equals. She is a brilliant vocalist, and heartily deserved the applause bestowed upon her. The chief characteristics other than the above were Miss Ethel Smith's 'A Summer Night.'"—Grays and Tilbury Gazette.
"Undoubtedly the chief feature of the evening was Miss Ethel Smith's charming vocalisation. . . . She possesses a beautiful contralto voice, which was heard to much advantage throughout the evening."—Sussex Daily News.
"She possesses a rich contralto voice, and sang Goring Thomas's 'Summer Night' with such sweet expression that there was a unanimous recall. . . . 'In sweet September' Miss Ethel Smith scored another grand success."—West Sussex Gazette.
"Miss Smith sang with a finish many might envy."—The Barrow News.
"Miss Smith's duet was especially enjoyable, every word was heard at the bottom of the church."—Ulverston News.
Miss Smith also gives Lessons in Solo and Class Singing, Piano, Harmony, Counterpoint, and Italian. She holds testimonials on these subjects from Sir Walter Parratt, Mus. Doc., Dr. Bridge, Signor Garcia, and other eminent professors; and visits several towns on the L. B. & S. C. Railway weekly.
Home address: Grayling Wells, Chichester.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, vid Leeds.

MADAME ELIZA THOMAS (Contralto)
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts, &c., Zion House, Harlesden, London, N.W.

MISS MARY TUNNICLIFFE (Solo Contralto)
(Of St. Nicholas, Cole Abbey, E.C).
For terms, address, 94, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MISS FRANCES TURNER (Contralto)
("Rutson" Prize-holder. Bronze and Silver Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Agent, Mr. Farley Sinkins, 24, Brook Street, W.

MISS VERKRÜZEN (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 392, Stretford Road, Manchester.
"Of Miss Verkrüzen's singing (which displayed great taste throughout) we could not speak in too high terms."—Yorkshire Gazette, 1892.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, &c., or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c., 46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. RIDSDALE BOWLEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Répertoire includes "The Creation," "Messiah," "Elijah," "Samson," "St. Paul," "Jephtha," "Prodigal Son," "Rose Maiden," "Sleeping Beauty," &c.
For terms and press opinions, 11, School Street, Weaste, Manchester; or, Messrs. Forsyth Bros., Deansgate, Manchester.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. CLIFFORD CONSTABLE (Tenor)
(Musical Director, Parish Church, Bromley, London).
Address, Cromer Villa, Rockbourne Road, Forest Hill, S.E.; or, Mr. Cecil Barth, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Opera, his popular Entertainments, or Concerts, and the "Balfe Quartet," address, 67, Berners Street, W.

MR. C. W. FREDERICKS (Tenor)
(Of the Trocadero Concerts, Paris; Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall, London; and Hereford Musical Festivals).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
Testimonial letters from M. Gounod, M. Guilmant, Professor Yeatman, Dr. Stainer, August Manns, Esq., and other eminent musicians, with recent Press Notices, will be forwarded on application.
Mr. Fredericks has had the honour of singing for most of the Provincial Choral Societies during last season and was favoured with engagements from the following towns (in many instances providing the whole of the solo artists):—Swindon, Wolverhampton, Leicester, Tenbury, Southampton, Walsall, Hereford, Rochdale, Melton Mowbray, King's Lynn, Hunstanton, Brighouse, Nottingham, Chesterfield, Burton, Tamworth, Denbigh, Bradford, Dunfermline, Merthyr, Ilkeston, Brierley Hill, Buxton, Newcastle, Holmfirth, Chepstow, Devizes, Calne, Cirencester, Warwick (twice), &c.
To Choral Societies and others, Mr. Fredericks is prepared to submit the names of a well-known Quartet of Solo Vocalists, together with vacant dates, terms, and recent Press Notices. Address, Mr. Fredericks, 98, St. John's Hill, Clapham Junction; or, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

MR. G. GREEN (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Preston Parish Church).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., address, 81, South Meadow Lane, Preston.

MR. T. W. HANSON (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Quartets, for Masonic Banquets, At Homes, &c. Address, 23, Belvoir Road, Lordship Lane, S.E.; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

C. EMLYN JONES (Tenor)
AND
MADAME EMLYN JONES (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 348, Kennington Road, S.E.

MR. ALBON NASH (Tenor)
For Concerts, &c.
Address, 23, Gladstone Road, Wimbledon.

MR. T. OLDROYD (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral, Rochester.

MR. J. J. SIMPSON (Solo Tenor)
(Ripon Cathedral).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Cathedral.

MR. FRED. THOMPSON (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
47, Rushall Street, Walsall.

MR. WILLIAM WHITE (Tenor)
Address, 70, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. CHARLES WIGNALL (Tenor)
(Of the Liverpool, Blackpool, and Cheshire Concerts)
Is open to Engagements for Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Address, 47, Coniston Street, Breck Road, Liverpool.

MR. ARTHUR J. WILSON (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 12, Glengall Road, Camberwell, S.E.
Sole Agent, Mr. Daniel Mayer, 180, New Bond Street, W.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON (Baritone)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. For terms, address, 34, Hanover Sq., Leeds.

MR. JOHN COATES (Baritone)
Frizinghall,
Bradford.

MR. GEO. DENHAM (Baritone)
The Downs, Dane Park, Ramsgate.
"Mr. Denham's finished style won warm recognition."—Herne Bay Press.
"A splendid baritone voice. His rendering was absolutely grand."—Thanet Advertiser.

MR. D. PRICE (Baritone)
(Westminster Abbey),
6, Wharton Road, West Kensington Park, W.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia)
For Oratorios, Operas, and Ballads.
"Fine quality and thorough reliability of tone are special characteristics of his voice, and his singing is marked by artistic appreciation of every phrase."—North British Daily Mail.
Address, 94, Hill Street, Glasgow.

MR. WILLIAM RILEY (Baritone), Huddersfield.
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Address as above.

MR. BINGLEY SHAW (Baritone)
(Late Principal Bass, L'Eglise Americaine, Paris, and Southwell Cathedral).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Festivals, &c. Terms and Press notices on application to 50, Long Row, Nottingham.

MR. W. THORNTON (Baritone)
Address, care of Wood and Marshall, Bradford.
"Elijah."—"Mr. Thornton undertook the title-rôle, and was most conspicuously successful, the technical difficulties of the music were mastered with great power and skill."—Observer.
"He not only possesses a magnificent baritone voice, but he uses it with the skill of a thoroughly cultured artist."—Nottingham Express.
"Samson."—"Possessed of a full round voice of excellent quality, capital style, and good intonation, it is not to be wondered at that his popularity is rapidly increasing."—Cumberland Times.

MR. & MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone and Soprano and Elocutionists).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Operas, &c.; also to Recite "The Dream of Jubal," "Athalie," and similar works.
"Preciosa," by Newcastle Choral Society.—"The soloists (who both recited and sang) acquitted themselves admirably."—Newcastle Chronicle.
"Mrs. Wallis's charm of manner and dramatic ability were particularly apparent."—Musical Times, March, 1892.
Address, 90, Caledonian Road, Leeds.

MR. CARL BRANDT (Basso Profundo)
Oratorio, Concerts, Dinners, &c. Concert Party provided. Moderate terms. 12, St. Mark's Villas, Dalston, N.E.
"Mr. Brandt, a promising Basso, has talent."—Era.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. BYRON DEWHURST (Bass)
"'Messiah.'—The various numbers allotted to the bass were sung by Mr. Byron Dewhurst in admirable style, his rich voice and artistic method being heard to great advantage. His renderings of 'Why do the nations' and 'The trumpet shall sound' were given with finished skill and fine effect, and both elicited the heartiest applause."—Dover and County Chronicle.
For terms, vacant dates, &c., address, Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. THOS. KEMPTON (Bass)
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., and Quartet Party. 55, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park.

MR. T. E. MACKIE (Bass)
(Pupil of Hamilton White, Esq., N.S.P.M.),
Queen's Terrace, West Field, Retford.

MR. JOSEPH MATTHEWS (Bass)
For Concerts and Oratorios.
Address, 119, Upper Highgate Street, Birmingham.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass)
(Of Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, and Royal Albert Hall). For Oratorio and Concerts, address, 9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. J. SKELTON (Bass)
Compston Place, Ambleside; or, 1, Dolbey St., Weaste, Manchester.

MR. CHAS. H. SIEBERT (Basso)
For Concerts, Dinners, Soirées, &c.
"Sang artistically."—Dr. C. W. Pearce (Examiner in Music, University of Cambridge).
"Fine bass voice . . . enthusiastic encore."—South London Press.
"Sang with the power and finish of his excellent voice."—Musical Herald.
"Audience demanded an encore . . . much manifestation of delight."—Grimsby News.
Address, 27, Lausanne Road, Hornsey.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN, L.R.A.M. (Bass)
For Concerts, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. ALEXANDER TUCKER (Basso Profundo)
New address, St. Audries, Enfield, N.

MADAME BAER (Pianist)
(Pupil of the Academy for Music, Berlin).
For At Homes. Plays Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Weber, &c.
150, Hartfield Road, Wimbledon.

MISS CHRISTINA BRUMLEU (Violinist)
(Gold Medalist, L.A.M., A.L.A.M.)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Address, Mossbank, Sidcup, Kent.

MR. THOMAS CHAPMAN (Accompanist)
TO CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.
In cases where a complete Orchestra is not used, the Wind Parts of any work satisfactorily rendered on the Harmonium from the full score.
Address, 35, Sutherland Place, Westbourne Grove, W.

MISS ETHEL GORDON (Accompanist)
At Homes, Concerts, Choral Societies.
Care of Mr. Ashbee, 23, Spring Street, Hyde Park.

MR. W. ERNEST HOMER
(Solo Zither, Banjo, and Mandoline).
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c., 344, Brixton Road, S.W.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboeist and Oboe Maker)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 51, Lydgate Hill, Pudsey, near Leeds.

MISS ALICE SIMPKIN (Solo Violinist)
Terms for Concerts, At Homes, &c., on application, 1, Wintoun Street, Leeds. References permitted to Herr B. Hollander, Signor Piatti, Herr Frantzen, and Señor Albeniz.

MISS ELIZA CHADWICK (Soprano), of the Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Leeds Concerts, accepts Engagements for Sacred or Secular Performances. 51, Netherhall Road, Doncaster.

MISS MARGARET HOARE requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 15, Mowbray Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano) is now booking dates for coming season. Address, 41, Hampden Street, Nottingham.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 53, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

MISS MAUD LESLIE (Soprano) begs to announce her return to town for the season. For terms and vacant dates, address, 41, Crystal Palace Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MISS M. LISTER-NEWMAN (Soprano), Bronze and Silver Medalist, Certificate of Merit, Royal Academy of Music, accepts Engagements for Concerts. Address, Hollow Gates, Barnsley, Yorkshire.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano Vocalist and Harpist) will forward her répertoire of Oratorios, Songs, Harp Solos (including Mozart's Concerto and Spohr's Sonata in E flat), on application to 53, High Street, Doncaster.

ALBERT E. ENTWISTLE (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral Choir (late Principal Alto, Lichfield Cathedral), is at liberty to accept Engagements for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, and Masonic Banquets, &c. For terms and vacant dates, address, 4, Gubyon Avenue, Herne Hill, S.W.; or, The Cathedral.

GEORGE MAY (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late St. George's Chapel, Windsor), requests that all communications respecting Engagements be addressed to 100, Loughborough Road, S.W.; or, the Cathedral.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto), Gold Medalist, L.A.M. Engaged: October 4, Brixton; 5, Bethnal Green; 6, 10, Bermondsey Town Hall; 11, Hackney; 13, West Ham; 14, 18, Hampstead Town Hall; 19, Kilburn Town Hall; 25, Edmonton; 26, Bow and Bromley Institute; 27, West Ham; 28, Royal Victoria Hall; 31, Islington. For terms, &c., address, 88, Lady Margaret Road, London, N.

MADAME MINNIE LYNDSEY (Contralto) begs to announce her return to town. High-class répertoire, includes Oratorio, Cantatas, Operatic Selections, Ballads, Schubert and Schumann's Songs, &c. "Madame Lyndsey's rich contralto tones and sympathetic rendering delighted her audience."—Ipswich Journal. 2, Henwood Villas, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for Engagements at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. E. DUNKERTON (Tenor), Lincoln Cathedral, is booking Engagements for Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts. Address, Cathedral, Lincoln.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor) kindly requests that all communications should be sent to 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.; or, W. B. Healey and Son, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. E. JACKSON (Baritone) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For terms and vacant dates, address, Principal Bass, New College, Oxford.

MR. WALTER J. HOBSON (Bass) requests in future that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., be addressed to 18, Esmond Street, Breck Road, Liverpool.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. NEWMAN STRATTON (late Solo Bass, St. Alban's, Holborn) has REMOVED to 44, Ockenden Road, Canonbury, N., where all communications respecting Concerts, &c., should be addressed.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

OTTO PEINIGER'S SCHOOL for PROFESSIONAL VIOLINISTS, Harrow.—A thorough TRAINING in Solo, Quartet, and Orchestral playing, Theory, Piano, &c. The Students are placed with responsible householders. Address, Wardhouse, Harrow.

MISS CARRIE LEWIS (Accompanist, good Reader, and Solo Pianist) accepts Engagements for Concerts, At Homes, &c. 218, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, S.W.; or, Stedman's Musical Agency, 12, Berners Street, W.

MASTER LEONARD BROUGH, aged 11 years (Solo Clarinet), of the Manchester Concerts (references and Press notices on application). Terms for Concerts, &c., address, 150, Cornbrook Street, Chorlton Road, Manchester.

MR. C. RAWDON-BRIGGS (Joachim Pupil) takes Engagements for At Homes, Quartets, &c. Violin or Viola. Vacancies for three pupils. References. 95, Messina Avenue, N.W.

TYMPANI.—For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. For terms, apply, 41, Bower Street, Bedford.

MR. C. H. ALLEN GILL, A.R.A.M., Violoncellist, Conductor, &c., begs to announce his REMOVAL to 2, Lawford Road, Camden Town, N.W., where all communications respecting Engagements, Lessons, &c., may be addressed.

MR. JAMES BATES, Director of the Choir, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W., provides SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Choral Weddings, Concerts, &c. Address, Church House, Porchester Terrace, London, W.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(SOPRANO)

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool.

Agent, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

Engaged to sing at the "Blue Hungarian Band" Concerts. Irish Tour, Five weeks, commencing October 3—Dublin, Cork, Limerick, Clifden, Waterford; week in each place.

MISS ADA LEE

(Pupil of Dr. Hiles)

(SOPRANO).

For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 45, Monton Street, Greenheys, Manchester; or, Messrs. Forsyth Bros., Manchester and London.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the R.A.M.),

AND

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements, either separately or together, for the ensuing season.

ALREADY ENGAGED:—

Blackpool, Douglas, Derby, Glasgow, City, Kennington, Bermondsey, Salisbury, Aberdeen ("Judas"), Leamington ("Redemption"), Keighley ("Stabat Mater" and "Walpurgis Night"), Perth ("Elijah"), Belfast (two Concerts, "Messiah"), Nottingham ("Messiah"), Derby ("Messiah"), Northampton ("Messiah"), Glasgow Choral Union ("Messiah"), Darwen (Ballads), &c., &c.

For terms and dates, please address, 37, Torrington Square, Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

N.B.—Special terms for en route dates in Scotland or the North.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CONCERT-GIVERS.

MR. JOHN BARTLETT

(TENOR)

(PRINCIPAL, PRO-CATHEDRAL, KENSINGTON)

AND

COVENT GARDEN PROMENADE,
CRYSTAL PALACE ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS,
MADAME FANNY MOODY AND MR. CHAS. MANNERS' CONCERT TOUR, &c.

Is now Booking Engagements for Oratorio Concerts, &c. Special Terms for first appearances. Répertoire includes "Messiah," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," "Elijah," "Crucifixion," "Daughter of Jairus," "Messe Solennelle," "May Queen," "Ancient Mariner," "Rose Maiden," &c.

Evening News says: "Mr. John Bartlett possesses a voice and style that should qualify him for high position."

Western Morning News.—"Fine voice, considerable range, which manages well in both operatic and ballad music."

Hampshire Post.—"'Messiah.' . . . sang well throughout, rendering of recitatives and 'Thou shalt break them' being very fine."

Hastings Advertiser.—"With respect to the artists, Mr. John Bartlett sang splendidly. . . . has a fine voice."

For press opinions, terms, &c., address, Mr. John Bartlett, Balmuir, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, London, S.W. Or Agents.

TENOR.

MR. BRAXTON SMITH

OF THE

Monday Popular Concerts
Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts
Glasgow Choral Union Concerts.

61, Carlisle Mansions, S.W.

Agent: Mr. Farley Sinkins, 24, Brook Street, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

Leeds Symphony Concerts, Albert Hall, Leeds.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

MR. CHARLES COPLAND

(Of the St. James's Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts, and late Baritone-Principal of the Royal English Opera)

Is now at liberty to accept Engagements for Oratorio, Opera, and Concerts, &c. Address, 10e, Oxford and Cambridge Mansions, W.

MR.

WM. SWEETMAN

(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS

"A soprano who is rapidly making her way to the front."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS

"Possesses a powerful and pleasant contralto voice." — Lichfield Mercury.

MR. BOWYER BRISTOL

"Is a very welcome reinforcement to the ranks of our first-class tenors." —Birmingham Daily Post.

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS

"Has a strong and powerful bass voice."—Mid-Surrey Gazette.

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY.

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Applications for vacant terms and dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

THE ANGLO-HUNGARIAN QUINTET (Hungarian National Uniform), now booking Engagements for Concerts, Banquets, &c. Charming Solos. Violin, Cembal, Harp, Xylophone, Cello, &c. Always encored, vide press notices. Address, Edward Crosse, 30, Gloucester Crescent, Regent's Park.

THE COMUS GLEE SINGERS

(Male Voice Quartet).

For Concerts, Banquets, &c. Part-songs and Solos. Address, The Secretary, 66, Ivydale Road, Nunhead, S.E.

THE MINNESINGERS.—MALE VOICE QUARTET.—Having returned from their summer tour are now prepared to accept ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts, Dinners, &c. For vacant dates, terms, &c., Arthur Carlyle, Neston, Perry Vale, Forest Hill.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.
Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS.

MASTER ERNEST HOWLAND,
MASTER HAROLD OHLSON,
and others, for Solo work, &c.

Permanent Boys provided. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

MR. CECIL BARTH,

CONCERT AGENT, &c.

Mr. Barth can arrange for the appearance of high-class Vocalists and Instrumentalists at Concerts, Oratorio performances, At Homes, Public Dinners, &c. Complete list of artists on application. Concert Parties arranged and tours booked. Mr. Cecil Barth, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, London, W.

CONCERT AGENTS.

METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,

83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

THE

London College of Music,

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET,

LONDON, W.

PATRON.

The Most Noble The Marquis of Carmarthen, M.P.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

W. J. Westbrook, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.

Horton Allison, Esq., Mus. Doc., Dublin; Mus. Bac., Cantab.; F.R.A.M.

C. G. Verrinder, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantuar; Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Principal, Educational Department).

G. Augustus Holmes, Esq. (Director, Examination Department).

EXAMINATIONS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING, SINGING, THEORY, and all branches of Music will be held in London and at 300 Provincial Centres in December next, when certificates will be granted to all successful candidates.

SYLLABUS and FORMS of ENTRY can be obtained of the Secretary. The last day of entry is November 15.

SILVER and BRONZE MEDALS and BOOK PRIZES are offered for competition in accordance with the regulations.

APPLICATION for the formation of NEW CENTRES should be made to the Secretary, who will supply all particulars.

The DIPLOMAS granted by the College are Associate (A.L.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.L.C.M.), Licentiate (L.L.C.M.), Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.L.C.M.), and the Diploma of Proficiency (D.P.L.C.M.). Regulations and list of Diplomées may be had on application.

The "Annual Register" of the College is now ready. Price 2s.

In the EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Students are received and thoroughly trained under eminent Professors.

T. WEEKES HOLMES, Secretary.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.—MR. WILLIAM CARTER'S CHOIR. Nov. 30, Jan. 25, and March 17. Madame Albani, &c. There are a few VACANCIES. Apply, at 23, Colville Square, Notting Hill, any Saturday in October, between 5 and 7.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. Karn, Mus. Doc., F.C.C.G.

Annual Subscription (Membership), 10s. 6d.
Choirs Enrolled in Union, 10s. 6d.

January, 1893.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G. Full set of Papers, used at the recent Examination, thirteen stamps.

October.—Choral Festivals at Sherbourne Abbey and Birkenhead. Lecture by Mr. Sydney S. R. Coles, Mus. Bac., F.C.O.

November 3.—Annual Guild Banquet, at which the President will preside.

For further particulars see The Church Musician; or, apply to The Warden, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By order of the Council,
C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

UNIVERSITY OF DURHAM.

The next Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music will be held in Durham in September next. Examiners: Sir John Stainer, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.; J. Frederick Bridge, Mus. D., Oxon.; Philip Armes, M.A., Mus. D., Oxon.

Full particulars, with Specimen Papers of former Examinations, may be had on application to Dr. Armes, The Bailey, Durham.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. James Sterndale Bennett, M.A.

Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.

Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.

The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE.

(For Examinations Only.)

Principal: Professor EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.
Local Theoretical Examination, November 30, 1892.
Practical Examinations throughout the Kingdom.
HEDLEY CARUS, Esq., Hon. Sec.
270, Cornwall Road, Notting Hill, London, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd.
INCORPORATED 1891.
Patrons:
The Right Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.
The Right Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.V.C.M. and A.V.C.M.) will take place during January, 1893.

Practical and Theoretical Local Examinations in December.

Annual Subscription for Members, 10s. 6d.

Particulars and advantages of membership, prospectuses, forms o entry for examinations, &c., on application to the Hon. Secretary.

By order of the Council.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

COLLEGE OF VIOLINISTS,

Limited.
Founded 1890. Incorporated 1891.
Patron: Señor Sarasate. President: J. T. Carrodus, Esq.

The Vice-Presidents and Board of Examiners include the most eminent Professors.

The next London Examination will take place at the Birkbeck Institute, Chancery Lane, in December.

Entries must be received not later than November 14.

For full particulars, list of Provincial Centres, Syllabus, Entry Forms, &c., apply to Mr. G. FOUCHER, Hon. Sec.
14, Gray's Inn Road, W.C.

SOUTH LONDON CHORAL ASSOCIATION.

Established 1869. Incorporated 1890.

Conductor: Mr. Leonard C. Venables.

The following works will be performed at the South London Institute of Music:—

TWENTY-FIFTH SEASON, 1892-93.
Mackenzie's "THE BRIDE."
Handel's "MESSIAH."
Stanford's "THE REVENGE."
Haydn's "THE SEASONS."
Mendelssohn's SCOTCH SYMPHONY
AND VIOLIN CONCERTO.

For Prospectus (post-free), apply to the Secretary, Institute of Music, Camberwell New Road.

MISS CHRISTINE BRUMLEU'S CONCERT, Steinway Hall, Tuesday, October 25.
Artists:
Madame Osborne Williams. Mr. Percy Palmer.
The Ladies' Vocal Quartet.

Miss Christine Brumleu (Violin).
Mr. Arthur Walenn (Viola). Mr. Herbert Walenn (Cello).
Conductor, Mr. A. E. Butterworth.

Mr. Cecil Barth, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892), A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. (1892). FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Akerman Road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MISS FLORENCE L. FRICKER, A.R.A.M., receives PUPILS for PIANOFORTE, SINGING, VIOLIN, and HARMONY. Lessons given at own or pupil's residence; Schools attended. Miss Fricker accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Address, 43, St. Julian's Road, Kilburn, N.W.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE taught by Mr. W. A. FROST (of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many former pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions. Latest successes at Norwich Cathedral and the Chapel Royal.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; FINAL and FIRST MUS. BAC., DURHAM, 1891; F.C.O., JAN., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Cambridge; Intermediate Mus.B., London; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891; Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L., 1892 (including Candidate with highest number of marks, 1888), A.Mus., T.C.L., 1891; A.C.O., 1891; Tonic Sol-fa College Fellowship; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., Theory and Pianoforte; and T.C.L. Senior Honours; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. J. H. LEWIS, Mus.D., D.C.L., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by correspondence. Silvermead, Twickenham, S.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Fifty successes annually.

TENORS AND VOICE-TRAINING.—DAVIDSON PALMER'S METHOD.—For terms for Lessons on this method, or for information respecting it, address, E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon., 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D. Mus., Lond., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in the THEORY of MUSIC (including Acoustics). 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN and PIANOFORTE LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by Post. Many successes at College of Organists, and other Examinations. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., TEACHES HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), prepares CANDIDATES for UNIVERSITY and other MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Final Mus. Bac., Cantab., 1890; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Durham, 1890 and 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1892. Address, Dr. Wareing, 150, Bristol Road, Birmingham.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

ARTICLED PUPIL (Vocal).—MR. F. ST. JOHN LACY, A.R.A.M., Assoc. Phil. Soc., Member Incorporated Society of Musicians, in and after October will have a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL to train for Operatic or Concert Singer. Former pupils have passed direct from Mr. Lacy's tuition to salaried appointments on operatic stage. 22, Montpelier Square, S.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Torquay, has VACANCIES for one or two GENTLEMEN to prepare for University or Metropolitan Exams. Board and residence if required.

A WELL-KNOWN LONDON MUS. DOC. can RECEIVE a Resident Professional PUPIL. Special and unique advantages, with comfortable home, on moderate terms, if talented and promising. Dr. B. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PREPARATION for METROPOLITAN or UNIVERSITY EXAMS., with Board and Residence in comfortable home, OFFERED by experienced Coach, in Watering place on South coast. Mus. Doc., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH, Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION.—Master Reginald Butterfield, Solo Boy, may be engaged for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Testimonials from eminent and distinguished musicians forwarded on application, with terms.

TO COMPOSERS and LYRIC WRITERS. Composers seeking words to Set will find a large selection in THE LYRIC. Lyric authors with words for Sale may insert them in THE LYRIC, which is posted to all the principal Composers. Price 2d. The Lyric Magazine Publishing Company, Ltd., 276, Strand, W.C.

TWO SOLO BOYS, with knowledge of Music, WANTED, for St. Thomas's, Regent Street. Payment, £10 to £12 per year. Also TENORS. Travelling expenses paid. Write A. H. Crowest, 57, Canonbury Park, North London.

TWO CHOIR BOYS WANTED, with good voices, for St. Michael's, Chiswick. Well paid. Also an ALTO. Address, Mr. A. J. Winter, 30, Elliott Road, Chiswick, W.

SOLO BOY REQUIRED, for St. James's Church, West Hampstead. Good reader; powerful voice. Salary, £10. Edward Croager, 6, Fordwych Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

ALTO WANTED, for Church on South Coast. Cathedral Services. Salary, £15. State profession or trade, as a situation may be found. Apply, by letter only, Musicus, 61, Westmoreland Road, Bayswater, W.

WANTED, for Truro Cathedral, a Gentleman as JUNIOR MASTER of the Grammar School and to sing in the Choir. Alto Voice preferred. Apply, Canon Donaldson, Truro.

ALTO WANTED, St. Mary-the-Virgin, Aldermanbury. Stipend, £8. Apply, by letter, to W. Hale, Organist, &c.

GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.—TENOR and ALTO REQUIRED. Candidates must be Communicants of the Church of England. The salary varies with the services performed, and generally ranges between £60 and £70 per annum. Applications, stating age and place of residence, with testimonials as to character, voice, and musical capacity, to be forwarded to the Rev. the Precentor, the King's School, Gloucester, on or before October 24.

SOUTH YORKSHIRE ASYLUM, Wadsley, near Sheffield.—ATTENDANT WANTED (Tenor or Bass Singer). Must possess a good voice and be able to read vocal music at sight. Wages, £30, increasing £2 annually to £50, with board, lodgings, and uniform, and 1s. 6d. weekly in lieu of beer. Applications stating age, height, and whether married or single, to be sent to the Medical Superintendent; and those only deemed suitable will receive communications in reply.

LLANDAFF CATHEDRAL.—TENOR WANTED. Salary, £40 per annum. Duties include one service daily, at 5 p.m. Apply, before Oct. 14, to Minor Canon Skrimshire.

BASS WANTED, for the Choir of St. Matthew's, Bayswater. Communicant; good reader. £10 per annum. Two services on Sundays, Christmas Day, and Good Friday. Weekly practice. Apply, by letter, to the Musical Director, Mr. F. G. Ogbourne, 7, Matheson Road, West Kensington, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON

For Musical Education and Examination.—Inst. 1872.

President:
The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN, P.C.

Warden:
Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

Director of Studies:
Professor BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.

Director of Examinations:
Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus.B.

The Half-Term, when new Students are received, dates from Monday, November 7.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

Sixteenth Annual Series.

The LAST DATE of ENTRY is NOVEMBER 9 for the next Half-yearly Examination in MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory), which will take place on Friday, December 9, 1892, at 150 Centres throughout the United Kingdom.

Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC will take place throughout the Session at the various Centres, a list of which may be had on application.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

The LAST DAY of ENTRY is DECEMBER 10 for the THIRTY-EIGHTH HALF-YEARLY HIGHER EXAMINATIONS, which will take place during the week commencing January 9, 1893, as under:

1. For the Diplomas of Associate in Music (A.T.C.L.), and Licentiate in Music (L.T.C.L.), and for the special distinction of Fellow (F.T.C.L.).
2. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Practical Division (Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, &c.).
3. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Theoretical Division (Harmony, &c.).

The Examinations of the College, both Higher and Local, are open to all persons, whether Students of the College or not.

Regulations, forms of entry, &c., can be obtained from the undersigned.

By Order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.

THE
LORD IS MY SHEPHERD
(Psalm 23)

FOR CHORUS ONLY, WITH ORGAN OR ORCHESTRAL ACCOMPANIMENT

BY

N. KILBURN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

Price One Shilling.

Also by the same Composer:

THE SILVER STAR

AN EASY CANTATA FOR LADIES' VOICES (Two-Part Chorus).

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Also:

EVENTIDE

PART-SONG FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR and BASS.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW SACRED CANTATA.

FROM CROSS TO CROWN

LIBRETTO COMPILED BY

JOSEPH DESPICHT

MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDMUND ROGERS

64 pp., Royal 8vo, 9d.

"Rapidly becoming popular."—Wiltshire County Mirror.
"Will doubtless be much liked."—Musical News.
"Created a highly favourable impression."—Queen.
"Decidedly effective."—Magazine of Music.

Special terms to Choirs and Schools on application to TRADE MANAGER, West London Auxiliary Sunday School Union, 133, Edgware Road, Hyde Park, W.

 A specimen copy sent FREE to Choirmasters, Conductors of Choral Societies, and others, on receipt of two stamps.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

Complete IRON FRAMES;
All modern IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals and various Honours.

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred their Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	Mdme. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	LISZT	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	HELLER	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HENSELT	HALLÉ
BENNETT	E. SILAS	SULLIVAN

Price Lists and Illustrations on application.

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.

Annual Subscription, One Guinea.
Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"
Translated by W. Ashton Ellis, Editor of
"THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).
Part 9, and No. XIX. now ready.

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the Editor, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

Now Ready.

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY FOR THE LEEDS TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL, 1892.

ARETHUSA

Poem by Shelley

SET TO MUSIC FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

ALAN GRAY.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE LEEDS TRIENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

SELECTION FROM THE WORKS OF

HANDEL.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

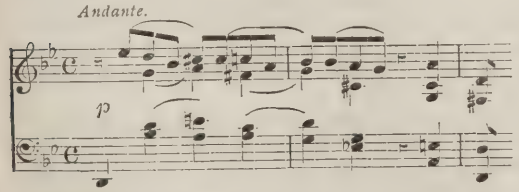
THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
OCTOBER 1, 1892.

TSCHAIKOWSKY'S OPERA "EUGENY ONEGIN."

In view of the approaching production of this work by Signor Lago a slight account of it may not be unwelcome to our readers. First as to the composer. Although he visited England only three years ago, and produced some of his orchestral works at the Philharmonic Society, the British public, which has no memory, may need to be reminded of his biographical particulars. Peter Tschaikowsky was born in Russia on April 25, 1840, and is, therefore, fifty-two years old. He was one of those who began serious study late, not having entered the St. Petersburg Conservatoire till he was two-and-twenty. He studied harmony and counterpoint under Professor Zaremba and composition under Anton Rubinstein. He became a professor at the Moscow Conservatoire, under Nicholas Rubinstein, in 1866, and taught there for twelve years. At present he does little but compose, and has produced a large quantity of works in every branch of the art. He may be compared with Rubinstein as a writer, both having the same kind of technique and a slight national flavour pervading the music of each. With Tschaikowsky this results in a rather immoderate love of sequential repetitions of two-bar or one-bar rhythmical phrases—a weakness from which his teacher is tolerably free.

"Eugeny Onegin" (the accent is on the second syllable in both names and both g's are hard) is the composer's fourth opera and has been frequently performed in Russia, and, we believe, in some parts of Germany, since its production. Our description is gathered from the vocal score, which does not afford as clear an insight as could be wished into the motives and individuality of the hero and heroine. The story is taken from one of Alex. Pushkin's romances, and we can believe that the original is interesting enough, though the manner in which it has been adapted for the purposes of a libretto is the very infancy of art. To begin with, there are several changes of scene in each act, a thing allowable in the spoken drama, but much to be dreaded in opera (pace "Ivanhoe"). And each scene contains such a fragment of the story that there is no chance of working up the dramatic interest. However, criticism should be waived for the present.

There is a short instrumental prelude of thirty-eight bars in length, constructed entirely upon one plaintive theme, which may be taken to represent the heroine Tatjana, since we meet with it in her music several times during the opera, but in no important connection—



This having prepared us for the flavour of disappointment in love which pervades the whole work, the opera opens in a very charming and original fashion. In the garden of a Russian farm-house the heroine Tatjana and her sister Olga (the contralto) are singing a pretty duet, supposed to be "an old song," while their mother, Larina, who owns the farm, is engaged in some domestic occupation with her servant. These two go on chattering general conversation in a sort of patter recitative all through the duet, and it must be admitted that this is a highly realistic touch.

Next, the usual peasants come on with congratulations for some one's birthday; we do not gather whose, and it really doesn't matter. But they have a very bright chorus, full of national colour and based on the rhythmical pattern of this phrase—

Next Olga has a ballad about nothing in particular with an agreeable refrain—another example of Tschaikowsky's mannerism of repeating his phrases. After some conversation, from which we gather that Olga has a lover, a young officer named Lenski, this gentleman pays a visit, introducing his friend Eugene (or Eugeny) Onegin. With a laudable contempt for tradition the composer makes the contralto's lover a tenor, and, therefore, his hero a baritone. There is a dialogue scene in which all four characters are expressing their sentiments simultaneously but in a kind of recitative in measure, of which there is a good deal in the opera. Its effect here we shall be curious to note. Then Lenski has a song of decidedly passionate and interesting character, of which the opening bars are as follows—and the two couples thereupon pair off. This ends Scene 1.

Next we have Tatjana in her chamber, for this is going to be her scene. The theme of the prelude is heard, and after a queer little conversation with the old domestic, whom she questions about her youthful experiences of love, the heroine indulges in a long and very emotional scena, in which she writes, after many vain attempts, a letter to Eugene, disclosing her love for him. It would seem that the young man is very cold and the young lady very ardent. Hence these tears. Scene 3 takes place in the garden. Of course we have the inevitable chorus of maidens—who they are or why behind the scenes we don't know. Then Tatjana meets Onegin and they have a curious scene together. Whether he is disgusted at her forwardness or is simply not of a coming-on disposition we cannot say, but he tells her that a fraternal affection is all he has to offer at present. And with this not very exciting state of things the Act ends.

Act II. shows us a ball scene at the farm. The opportunity for characteristic ballet music is here amply taken advantage of, and Onegin, out of pure wilfulness, thinks proper to rouse his friend Lenski's jealousy by dancing and flirting with Olga. Of course he overdoes it, and the result is a challenge from the young officer. There is a great disturbance, which enables the scene to end with a powerful concerted piece. Scene 2 shows us a winter landscape in the grey of dawn, where the tenor comes to whine a last ballad before being mercifully put out of his misery. The duel scene should be effective, as such a thing always is on the stage; but what was the librettist about to make the combat with pistols?

Swords are a thousand times more dramatic, and everyone hates the sound of firearms. Besides, it is so unmusical.

Act III. takes place apparently some years later, as the characters find a difficulty in recognising one another. We are in another and more aristocratic ball room—this time in St. Petersburg, so there is a Polonaise for the entry of the company. Eugene Onegin wanders restlessly about, a prey to remorse for the slaughter of his friend. He perceives among the guests a familiar face, and on enquiring of a friend, Prince Gremin, finds it is the latter's wife. It is Tatjana. At this point, Gremin indulges in a song as irritating and serio-comic as that of Daland in the second act of the "Fliegende Holländer." Onegin then has a solo, in which he gives us to understand that now Tatjana is beyond his reach he finds he loves her desperately. This is all very well, but what becomes of the unhappy Olga? We never hear of her again. In the original story there is doubtless a great deal of interesting matter which the librettist failed to work in, but the last scene seems terribly disconnected. It is a room in Princess Gremin's house, and consists of a Rhoda Broughtonish scene between the hero and heroine. He tries hard to get her to run away with him—there is one fine melodic phrase in their powerful duo—but with a last effort she refuses, and rushes from his presence. He exclaims, "Despised, rejected! O what misery is mine!" and the curtain falls. Of course fine acting and singing may put a different complexion on this climax, but it does not look strong on paper.

Musically, however, the work seems decidedly interesting, there being plenty of clear outline to the melody, variety in the accompaniment (even in the bass), and life in the rhythm. Mr. Lago has our best wishes for the success of his enterprise.

FROM MY STUDY.

With reference to Dibdin's share in the proceedings at the Stratford Shakespeare Festival, a valued correspondent has sent me the following extract from Dibdin's "Musical Tour," letter lxx., April 23, 1788—

The Jubilee, written by Mr. Garrick, and performed in October, 1769. It would be an endless task to go through the variety of circumstances which distinguish this memorable business; but nothing deserves notice more truly than that Shakespear might have laid very quietly in Stratford Church—nobody would have disturbed his ashes—had not such a popular measure been the probable means of insuring a plentiful harvest to Drury Lane on the following season. And yet, it was managed with so much caution, so much wariness, that, according to the representation of the matter to everybody who was concerned in it, there did not appear any such thing in agitation. This cautiousness answered two purposes—it not only drew many to Stratford who would otherwise have suspended their curiosity till they should see it in London, but it served as a feasible excuse for requesting everybody's trouble and attendance for nothing. Thus, among the rest, I took unwearied pains—not seeing that I should materially assist in filling the coffers of Drury Lane treasury—without any emolument to myself. All this, however, I could have forgiven, if I had not been obliged to sustain fifty humiliations. I venture to say that had it not been for my music the audience would have shown much more dissatisfaction. They were not in very good humour as it was. They heard, certainly, Dr. Arne's beautiful oratorio of Judith, and his charming music of the Ode—and what was the most exquisite and inexpressible treat that ever transcendent abilities could convey, or longing ears experience—they heard Garrick repeat that Ode. Yet, being disappointed of the Pageant—being wet through at the Masquerade*—they were certainly very much discontented; which dissatisfaction would more than silently have manifested itself had not "The Warwickshire Lads," &c., brought them into good humour—yet was that very song privately set by Mr. Aylward, and the "Mulberry Tree," by Dr. Boyce, and had my kind friend, Mr. Garrick, been told at a rehearsal, where I was not present, that mine were the best for effect, he would have waived all delicacy to me, and have had theirs performed. George Garrick, who, where David's immediate interest did not clash, could be just to all the world, informed me of this fact. In short, Garrick, in relation to the Jubilee, manœuvred everywhere. He procured abuse to be inserted in the papers, which he got all his friends to answer. He enlisted a prodigious number of volunteers, whose exertions he pretty liberally extracted at their expense; and at length performed the same entertainment ninety-five times in one season at Drury Lane which he sent people an hundred miles not to see. The music of the Jubilee, having sold it, previous to the performance, at Stratford—except some trifling part of it—yielded altogether about forty-three pounds.

Reference was made in a former paper to a collection of traditional tunes† by one of my correspondents, Mr. Frank Kidson, of Leeds. The book is of such interest that I am induced now to give it fuller attention.

In his introduction the editor says—

The collection of songs here given claims nothing heroic in association. They are simply homely ditties, such as were sung by the humbler classes in England round the fire-side of farm-kitchens or at the plough-tail, and the little wit or brilliancy they may possess must not be judged by a very high standard. . . . This class of song is fast disappearing before the modern productions, and any ploughboy who should sing the songs his father or grandfather sang would be laughed to scorn. Before easy means of transit existed, the songs of a country-side remained unaltered for a great length of time, and people delighted to sing the songs which were venerable with age. Now, however, cheap trips to the larger towns enable the country lad to compete with the town's boy in his knowledge of popular musical favourites. The old traditional tunes are fast dying out, never to be recalled. They are now seldom or never sung, but rather remembered, by old people. I have found in the course of my search how quickly this class of old airs is disappearing, for I have frequently been told of some old man, then dead, from whom I could have got certain songs had I been a few months earlier in my enquiries.

In a preface, Mr. Kidson observes—

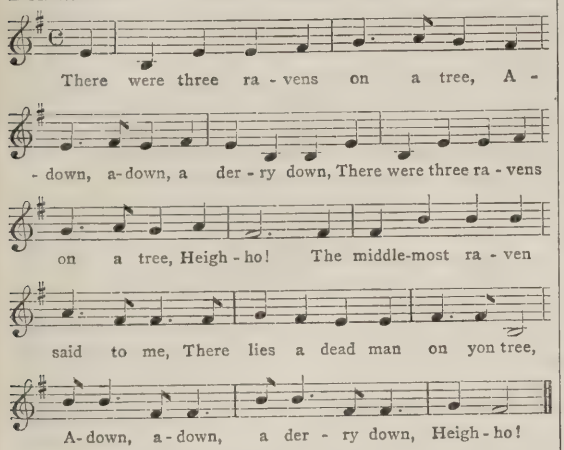
The Editor believes that all the airs here set down, with the exception of two or three (which he has himself contributed to the Leeds Mercury Weekly Supplement), are now printed for the first time. In this belief he may, perhaps, in some instances, be mistaken; he, however, has made diligent search among early collections, and, for reasons which he gives in the introduction, he feels sure that this class of melody is purely traditional.

The foregoing quotations indicate the special value of Mr. Kidson's book. Many—perhaps most—of the ballads it contains are known, but the tunes seem to be of purely local origin and habitat, taking their rise among the people as wild flowers of song which no man, save the Kidsons, et hoc genus omne, regardeth.

* The booth being built on a swamp close to the river, and nobody having considered that sometimes in the month of September it rains, the company had scarcely assembled when the wet began to ooze through the crevices; in five minutes after they were paddling in the wet; five minutes after that it was over their shoes, and presently they were obliged to take to the benches, then to the orchestra, and then to the windows—thus there was not a creature out of about four hundred people that escaped being wet through.

† Traditional Tunes. A Collection of Ballad Airs, chiefly obtained in Yorkshire and the South of Scotland; together with their appropriate Words from Broadsides and Oral Tradition. Collected and Edited with illustrative Notes, by Frank Kidson. Oxford: C. Taphouse and Son.

Turning to the first piece in the book, I come upon what is, as far as I am concerned, a new setting of the "Three Ravens," obtained from a gentleman who remembered it as sung by his mother, in a remote village among the Derbyshire hills. The same air is said to be current among the people of Denmark—



There were three ra - vens on a tree, A -
- down, a-down, a der - ry down, There were three ra - vens on a tree, Heigh - ho! The middle-most ra - ven said to me, There lies a dead man on yon tree,
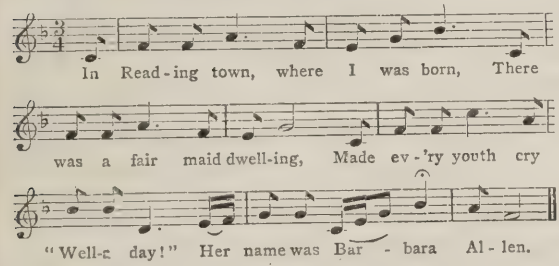
A-down, a-down, a der - ry down, Heigh - ho!

Mr. Kidson prints three versions of a tune set to "Barbara Allen"—the air itself being different from those usually given with the words. One of these versions was taken from the lips of an English girl at Ghent some forty years ago—



Mr. Kidson prints a ballad, "On Board of a Man-of-War," which, he says, is much thought of among the seafaring classes round about Hull. It tells of a young damsel, Susan by name, who, being valiant, stout, and bold, put on the dress of a sailor and accompanied her lover to sea, all unbeknown to the "sweet William" in question. Susan quickly distinguished herself:—

When in the Bay of Biscay, she aloft like lightning flew,
Respected by the officers and all the jovial crew;
In battle she would boldly run, not fearing wound nor scar,
And did her duty by her gun, on board of a man-o'-war.

In his next stanza the poet tells us that Susan "faced the wall of China, where her life was not insured," and there received a wound. Young William, seeing her fall, ran to offer aid. To him, Susan—

My jolly sailor, I've for you received a scar,
Behold your faithful Susan bold, on board of a man-of-war.

William gazed "with wonder and surprise," remarking, in a not very original vein, that he would rather have received the scar than that she should suffer it.

At length to England they returned and quickly married were
The bells did ring, and they did sing, and banished every care.

Mr. Kidson reminds us that the ballad of "Billee Taylor" chronicles a like adventure on the part of a love-sick maid, and observes: "The incident of a girl going to sea disguised in sailor's attire during the last century's naval wars was really not an uncommon one; there are many such recorded." It, of course, appealed strongly to the ballad-maker's imagination and moved him, time and again, to sing the praises of dauntless females. In my collection of Catnach broad-sheets is a ditty called "The handsome cabin boy," telling how an adventurous damsel shipped herself in a humble capacity, not for love but out of simple frolic, and met with a disaster which called forth the sympathy rather than the reprehension of the crew—

Then each man took a bumper and drank success to Troy,
And likewise to the cabin boy, neither man nor boy;
And if the wave rise again our sailors to destroy,
We'll ship some pretty fair maid like the handsome cabin boy.

That the sailors drank success to Troy is, perhaps, explained by the poet's need of a rhyme to boy. At any rate, no other reason appears on the face of the ballad.

Another broad-sheet tells of a "Female Rambling Sailor," who lived at Gravesend—

Her lover, he was pressed away,
And drowned in a foreign sea,
Which caused this maiden for to say,
I'll be a female sailor.

The young lady distinguished herself, as all female sailors seem to do—

When in a storm upon the sea,
She was ready at her station;
Her mind was calm as calm could be,
She loved her occupation.

From stem to stern she'd freely go,
She braved all dangers, feared no foe, &c.

At length her sex was discovered—

This maiden gay did a wager lay
That she would go aloft with any,
And up aloft she straight did go,
Where times she had been many.

This maiden bold, O sad to tell!
She missed her hold, and down she fell,
Then calmly bid this world farewell,
Did this female rambling sailor.

The necessary attentions being paid to the body—

She proved to be a female frame,
And Rebecca Young, it was the name
Of this female rambling sailor.

Moral—

So all young men and maids around,
Come listen to my story,
Her body is anchored in the ground,
Let's hope her soul's in glory.

On the river Thames she was known well,
Few sailors could her excel,
One tear let fall as the fate you tell
Of the female rambling sailor.

A third and less tragic story is that of "Caroline and her young Sailor bold." Caroline was the only daughter of a nobleman with thirty-five thousand a year, and she—

One day from her drawing-room window,
Admired a young sailor so bold.

The youthful tar, whose name, of course, was William, had such a profusion of manly charms that Caroline rushed forth and accosted him—

She said, "I'm a nobleman's daughter,
Possessed of ten thousand in gold,
I'll forsake both my father and mother,
And wed my young sailor bold."

William appears to have been rather taken aback at the suddenness of this proposal, and presented to her mind various prudential considerations—

Said William, "Young lady, remember
Your parents you are bound to mind,
On sailors there is no dependence,
When they leave their true lovers behind.
Be advised, stay at home with your parents,
And do by them as you are told,
And never let anyone tempt you
To wed with a young sailor bold."

But the wilful nobleman's daughter would have her way—

She dressed herself like a young sailor,
Forsook both her parents and gold,
Two years and a half on the ocean
She sailed with her young sailor bold.

On the return of the ship to England—

Caroline went straightway to her father,
In her jacket and trousers of blue,
He received her, and that moment fainted,
When first she appeared in view.

In the end—

Her father admired Young William,
And vowed them in sweet unity,
If he could be spared until morning,
Together they married should be.
They are married, and Caroline's portion
Is twenty-five thousand in gold,
Now they are happy and cheerful,
Caroline and her young sailor bold.

Those who admire the quaint touches and delightful naïveté of the people's poems quoted above will thank me for directing attention to Mr. Kidson's book, which is a valuable contribution to the literature of its subject, and distinctly worth possessing.

The Editor of this journal has favoured me with the following communication :—

A month or two ago I picked up (at a bookstall near the British Museum) a quarto vol. (about 400 pp.), lettered on back "Bystander," but without title page. The first page is headed "The Bystander," and against this someone has written in ink "1789." This page commences with an "Introduction" showing that it belonged to the first number of the publication, which appears to have been issued weekly. The contents are of considerable literary and artistic merit and comprise articles on the history of the Drama, &c., a novel, poems, letters, and a "Weekly Retrospect," chiefly theatrical and operatic. But my reason for bringing it to your notice is that at the end of the vol. there are 24 songs by Dibdin, most of them "written and composed for Mr. Dibdin's new entertainment called 'Oddities,'" and from their size and the fact that the first song is called "The Bystander," I imagine that a song was given away each week with the periodical. I can find no mention of this publication in any of my books, but I have taken no special pains to look it up yet. One of Dibdin's pieces is a catch—

Here lies a Philosopher, knowing and brave,
From whom Madame Nature ne'er hid the least wonder;
Who, looking to Heaven, fell into his grave,
And disdained that same earth which he rotting lies under.

At the moment of writing I am far away from my books. Perhaps some of my correspondents know the "Bystander" and can communicate further information, especially as to Dibdin's connection (if any) with that journal.

I have before me a little book of thirty-six pages, entitled "The Burlettas, Duets, Interludes, &c., as performed at the Spa Gardens, Bermondsey, since the Commencement of a License granted by the Worthy Magistrates of the County of Surrey in the Year 1784, pursuant to an Act of Parliament, granted in the reign of George the Second. To be had in the Exhibition Room or at the Bar." Where were the Spa Gardens, Bermondsey, and what is their history? There were several such places of amusement on the Surrey side, and, within my recollection, one of them flourished amid the market-gardens through which the Greenwich Railway ran in days before the builder absorbed all that low-lying region. The books about London which are accessible to me at the present moment are silent with regard to the Bermondsey Spa. Malcolm tells me nothing about it, and Leigh Hunt does not condescend to say more regarding transpontine regions than is incumbent upon a chronicler of doings in more exalted neighbourhoods. Perhaps some of my correspondents can furnish particulars of the Gardens in question.

The little book contains nine musical sketches, the most important of which is "The Friars," a burletta by a writer whom it is not thought worth while to name. These pieces are of interest as showing what kind of musico-dramatic entertainment was popular in the closing decades of the last century. We cannot suppose that the Spa Gardens, Bermondsey, were a resort of the aristocracy, or even of the well-to-do citizens. They were frequented, most probably, by persons of the class still abounding in that hard-working neighbourhood, and, if so, I can only say that the taste of such people a century ago was, at least, equal to that of their successors who, in our own time, applaud the songs and sketches of music halls. To show this I will give "The Friars" in outline.

Friar Peter and Friar Gosmo enter. They remark that cloistered individuals are thirsty souls, and forthwith proceed to drink. Then the brethren sing a song, decidedly Anacreontic in character :—

Peter. Some think we lead a life that's sad
Because we look so thin—
What! though our outsides look so sad,
Yet we're well lined within.—
So, brother, here's to thee.—
Gosmo. And, brother, here's to thee.—
Both. Good wine, we know, will banish woe,
So, brother, here's to thee.

From the dialogue ensuing, we learn that the Friars have arranged to set free certain nuns who, finding a religious life not to their liking, have bribed the reverend men with gold. When the two brethren have retired, the nuns, Mrs. Byrn and Miss Pay, appear. From the last-named we learn that both ladies have been made to take the veil by a wicked guardian, and that their lovers are far away in foreign climes—

Had I the pinions of a dove,
I'd fly these gloomy cells;
Ne'er rest till I had found my love,
Though distant far he dwells.
I'd soar aloft, my wings expand,
And dart down on his breast;
To perch upon his lovely hand
Would set my heart at rest.

Their discourse is overheard by the Abbess, who reproves them—

I am sorry, dear children, love does your minds taint,
You never, I fear, will be loved by our saint;
Your talk plainly shows that the world's your delight,
And by such imprudence our order you'll spite.

Mrs. Byrn retorts with spirit—

You're wrong, Lady Abbess, so cease to upbraid,
Had we ne'er been in love, we had ne'er been betray'd;
Yet while 'tis return'd, 'twould be sinful, you know,
E'er to be ungrateful, pray would it not so?

The Abbess retires, expressing a belief that her fair charges are not fit to be nuns, and presently enters Friar Peter, who leads the ladies off as they sing—

Happy, happy we shall be
When from here we are set free.

The Abbess and a third nun meet on the stage with exclamations of surprise and fear. The sisters have escaped, and when Friar Peter re-appears he is told of the disaster. To them enters immediately and in a passion the ladies' wicked guardian—

O whither shall I fly from my fate?
O zounds! I could break my own pate.
They'll sue me, I fear, for forcing them here,
Go, seek them, I say; or, by gad,
My passion I'll vent and make ye repent;
Odzooks, I shall surely go mad!

All go off, save Friar Peter, who is joined by Friar Gosmo, and the two proceed to share the bribe. A third Friar, Benedict by name, interposes :

Benedict. One third of that, I say, belongs to me,
Or else, I swear by holy Becket's shrine—
Peter. Soft, brother, soft! here, take it, it is thine.
Gosmo. Mind now, be secret—
Peter. The secret ne'er disclose—
Benedict. No, no, don't fear, 'tis all beneath the rose.
Peter. Well, to our convent let us all retire,
And drink success to every jovial Friar.

A concluding chorus follows.

Upon this harmless stuff were the leather-dressers of Bermondsey regaled when Farmer George was King. Insipid it is, no doubt, but that is the worst which can be said against it. X.

P.S.—Since writing as above with reference to the Bermondsey Spa, I have met with the following in Knight's "London":—

In a road called the Spa Road, leading eastward to Bermondsey New Church, we meet with the Spa from which the road derived its name. A chalybeate spring was discovered here about seventy years ago (Knight's "London" was issued in 1851), and the place was converted into a sort of tea-garden by an ingenious man, who had exhibited some talent for painting and who decorated his house of entertainment with subjects from his own pencil. The following description, from Hughson, compared with the "Mount Heclas" and "Mount Vesuviuses" of modern exhibitions, will make us doubt whether there is really anything "new under the sun." Mr. Keyse, the proprietor, established a sort of Vauxhall at the Bermondsey Spa, and, finding this to succeed, his ingenuity "suggested various improvements, and, amongst others, he entertained the public with an excellent representation of the siege of Gibraltar, consisting of transparencies and fire works, constructed and arranged by Mr. Keyse himself; the height of the rock was fifty and the length two hundred feet, the whole of the apparatus covering about four acres of ground." X.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. Shedlock, B.A.

(Continued from p. 525.)

VARIOUS SKETCHES.

Many connecting links have from time to time been shown by Mr. E. Dannreuther and others between the various movements of certain of Beethoven's pianoforte sonatas. How far they were conscious, how far unconscious workings of genius will probably for ever remain a mystery; the process was undoubtedly a compound one. There is a page in our Notirungsbuch which sets one meditating on this problem. This page (50) is full of brief sketches, and Beethoven seems as if he were trying to present one thought in various shapes. We have—and then immediately after—and again lower down on the page—

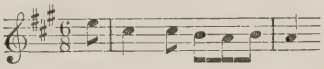
both of which metamorphoses may have been workings of the intellect. But just above the first of these three quotations we find the opening of the "Nel cor piu" theme—



The similarity of figure will not escape notice. Reducing the last to its simplest expression, and comparing it with the first of the above three we have—

The interval from the first to the second note is different, key and measure are so also, but there is a likeness between the two, and this may well have shaped itself unconsciously. Certain figures, indeed, in other writers besides Beethoven seem to have become, as it were, part of the stock in art of the composer. Let us name only one—the little turn to be found in Wagner from the Rienzi Prayer to the Brünnhilde theme in the "Ring des Nibelungen." In Beethoven this often happens. Thus in the very case before us, of the two figures—the first reminds us of the opening theme, and still more of a subsequent passage in the Finale of the Sonata, Op. 27, No. 1, while the second recalls a long sketch in our Notirungsbuch of some unfinished piece; it begins thus—

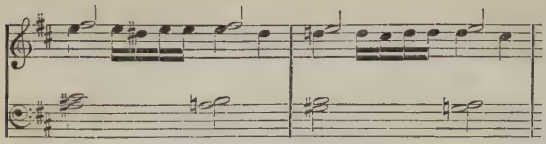
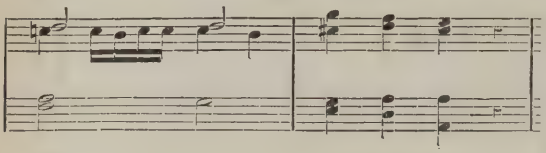
Judging from many places in the Notirungsbuch Beethoven was fond of jotting down ideas in sequential form. Thus, to pick a few instances out of many, we have—

and—

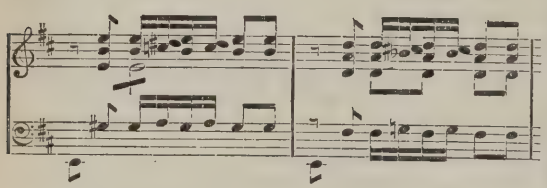
and—

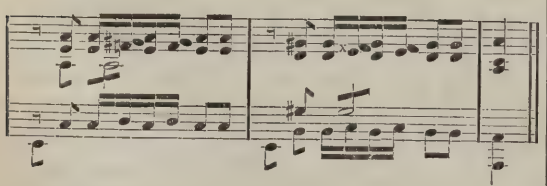




and—

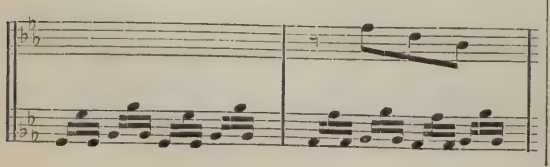
and—



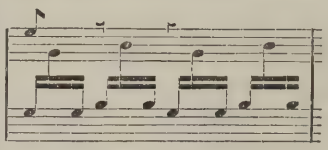


which would make a capital technical "Rosalia" study.

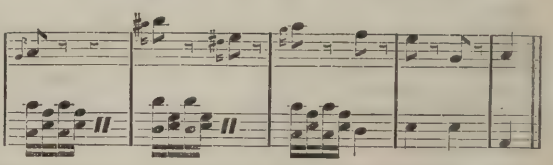
Quite a little series of similar studies might indeed be culled from our Notirungsbuch. Nottebohm (Zweite Beethoveniana, ch. 37) has quoted many. Two more are added here—



and—



and—



The signature of the last quotation ought probably to be that of the key of F, changing at the sixth bar, as marked by Beethoven, to that of F minor; in bars eight and nine the bass wants a G flat in each second group—at any rate, in the second.

There is a sketch of a piece, possibly for pianoforte alone, which occupies two whole pages of the Notirungsbuch, and from this one is tempted to select two passages. But it will first be necessary to quote the opening bar of the piece to show the thematic character of the music—

The first passage, apparently the beginning of the Coda, runs thus—

The augmentation is truly characteristic of Beethoven. The piece concludes with the following lively bars—

And here we have one more proof of the composer's Alpha-Omega mode of sketching. The opening bars of the piece seem complete, and so—with the exception, perhaps, of bar 4—do the above, but the middle of the sketch shows many a gap.

The song "Im Arm der Liebe" (Op. 52, No. 3) offers another and interesting illustration of Beethoven's art of writing out, as it were, from some inward vision. The following sketch, if compared with the printed version—shows differences; but they are in detail, not in outline. Over the last bar but one there is a mark pointing to—lower down on the same page. Now the printed version has—

The intention was vague, but it was a low note of some kind. Beethoven first writes g, then f, and, lastly, d: the mental neume pointed downwards, but the exact pitch was only found by experiment. The attention which Beethoven devoted to this small composition deserves attention; in another place of our Notirungsbuch a few bars of the same song are to be found.

We will mention lastly the sketches of a first movement of a Symphony in C at which, according to Nottebohm, Beethoven worked before the published one in C (Op. 21). Nottebohm (Zweite Beethoveniana, p. 228) mentions these sketches and gives two short quotations. He also speaks of one of them in his edition of "Beethoven's Studien," though he describes it there as the opening of the Finale of Op. 21, which he tells us is to be found after a Fugue in the 12th. In the "Zweite Beethoveniana" he mentions this as an error on his part. The sketch commences thus—

Now in our Notirungsbuch (p. 56*b*) we come across—not a fugue, but an attempt at canonic imitation in the 12th, with inversion of the same in the 10th. There are other workings of the above-quoted theme on the first page of same sheet. Much later in the book, but on similar music paper, we have more sketches of this movement. In the article on the Pianoforte Sonatas we gave an example of the widening out of a theme. Here is another—

Of course, the resemblance of the theme to that of the Finale of Op. 21 scarcely needs pointing out, but in a long sketch of the unfinished Finale we have—which, in rhythm, recalls a passage near the double bars of this Op. 21 Finale. It is curious to note that while sketching this unfinished Symphony movement he was at work most probably at the Pianoforte Concerto in C, which also has a similar run—

(To be continued.)

GIOVANNI AND BENVENUTO CELLINI.

The results of recent criticism have tended to establish the proposition that the history of music—like other history—follows a continuous line of development, and cannot be explained as a series of detached and isolated periods. The one recognised exception to this law—the one point of dynamic change which is supposed to break the regularity of evolution—is the movement which took place in Florence in the latter part of the sixteenth century. The little knot of men who assembled in Count Bardi's palace to discuss the Nuova Musica have been accepted by posterity as the Dantons and Robespierres of a bloodless revolution, as the arch conspirators of a revolt against choral polyphony, and the inventors of the melodic style and its natural successor, the instrumental. Ritter, in his "History of Music," marks the transition with great clearness, and even gives reasons why the development of instrumental music was obliged to wait until melody had been officially substituted for the old counterpoint.

But it should be remarked that revolutions more often restore than create. Even the Jacobins invented nothing: they only helped to re-establish what had been the legal constitution of the Ancien Régime; and it is no detraction from the merit of Caccini and Galilei to hold that the changes associated with their names had existed, at any rate in part, in an earlier generation. Moreover, it is more in accordance with scientific method to believe that the line of musical history admits of no really dynamic change, and that Galilei was no more the "inventor" of monody than C. P. E. Bach of Binary form, or Dunstable of counterpoint. Hence the few musical facts which are known about the two Cellini may be of some interest to historians, as indicating the existence of a school of instrumentalists earlier than the Florentine Revolution. No doubt the data are very scanty, and, it may be, very inconclusive; but the period with which they deal is so little explored that every detail is of importance.

Of the date of Giovanni Cellini's birth we have no very certain information; but as his father Andrea was born in 1403,* and Giovanni himself was married about 1478,† we may safely put him down in the latter half of the fifteenth century, contemporary with Josquin Desprès. He was brought up an architect, but learning from Vitruvius that music and drawing were the foundation of all artistic success, he set himself, after the fearless fashion of his day, to master the two new professions; and so, as his son tells us, "essendo Giovanni fattosi buon disegnatore, cominciò a dare opera alla musica, e insieme con essa imparò a sonare molto bene di viola e di flauto."‡ The phrase "insieme con essa" is curious, for Benvenuto says scarcely a word of any music other than instrumental; but the remarkable fact in the passage is that Giovanni, wishing to become a musician, should proceed to carry out his designs "on viol and flute." It is scarcely credible that he would have chosen this branch of study unless instrumental music had been at the time in some sort of recognised position; and it is clear from the context that the passage refers to the period before his marriage—i.e., before 1478.

In 1500 Benvenuto Cellini was born, and in 1505 came the famous day when he saw the Salamander and had his ears boxed that he might remember it. He recalls all the circumstances, how the day was cold, how there was a fire of oak wood on the hearth, and how "Giovanni con una viola in braccio sonava e cantava soletto intorno a quel fuoco."§ We may deal with the Salamander episode as we please; but it is hard either to ignore that picture of Giovanni Cellini or to fit it into any polyphonic background. Even if we imagine him to have been singing a canto fermo and playing the counterpoints on the viol (an extreme supposition), we are even then attributing to him a practice which most historians have dated at least half-a-century later.

But not only was Giovanni himself an instrumentalist: he had the greatest ambition that his son should follow his example. Unfortunately, the boy showed the greatest distaste for music. "Io ne avevo dispiacere inestimabile," he says, with his usual candour;‖ though out of love for his father he set to work and learned to sing from note and to play the flute.¶ Meanwhile Giovanni had added to his other professions that of instrument maker. "Mio padre," says Benvenuto, "faceva in quei tempi organi con canne di legno maravigliosi, gravicembali, i migliori e piu belli che allora si vedessino, viole, liuti, arpe bellissime ed eccellentissime." Making all allowance for filial enthusiasm (and there is certainly a Ciceronian array of superlatives), we have here a very interesting list. And it is worth noting that a cancelled passage in the same paragraph says that Giovanni took into his house a certain Messer Francesco dell' Aiolle "il quale era gran sonatore di organo e bonissimo musico e compositore," who taught young Benvenuto to play, sing, and compose.

By a curious irony of fortune the boy seemed destined to become a musician in spite of himself. In the next chapter we find him taken by his father to play duets "al libro," as he says with some pride, before Piero Soderini "il magnifico." On receiving the great man's congratulation Giovanni answered "io non voglio che e' faccia altra arte che 'l sonare e comporre: perche in questa professione io spero fare il maggiore uomo del mondo, se Iddio gli darà vita." Surely there must have been a considerable opening for instrumental music in an age when a

* "Vita di Benvenuto Cellini," ch. 4.
† Ibid, ch. 3.
‡ Ibid, ch. 3.
§ Ibid, ch. 4.
‖ Ibid, ch. 5.
¶ Ibid, ch. 5.
 The passage is given in a foot-note in Camerini's edition of the Autobiography.

boy is told that if he sticks to his flute and his composition he may become the greatest man in the world.

A short time after, Benvenuto was sent to Bologna for the express purpose of continuing his musical studies with Maestro Ercole del Piffero. These he carried on with such success that, as he naïvely tells us, "in brevi settimane feci molto gran frutto di questo maledetto sonare"; though he was simultaneously working at the goldsmith's trade in which he afterwards made his reputation. At the end of six months he returned to Florence and was taken by his father to display the newly acquired skill to one Pierino Piffero, with whom, by the way, Giovanni quarrelled bitterly on the subject of his son's future education.* One result of his stay at Bologna had been the acquisition of a new instrument, the cornetto,† on which Benvenuto achieved such eminence that he got together a quartet "il piu unito e meglio che si sentisse mai a quel tempo," and gave concerts, one of them being a serenade to Phillipo Strozzi.‡ One cannot help feeling that his distaste for music may have been a little overstated, and that he had some personal incentives in addition to "il desiderio di compiacere al povero vecchio padre."

Even when he ran away to Rome, the exile from his country did not succeed in escaping from himself. He was scarcely established in the shop of Messer Lucagnolo when he received a message from a certain Gianiacomo "piffero da Cesena e molto mirabil sonatore," bidding him come and assist at a Concert in the Belvedere, before no less a personage than the Pope.§ Gianiacomo was attached to the Papal household, and was apparently organising a special festival for the Ferragosto: whence it says something for Cellini's reputation that he should be summoned at once into a presence so distinguished. Another of the company was Lorenzo, "trombone lucchese," who knew Cellini, and may have been the means of his introduction. After some hesitation (for he was hard at work on a silver cup) he consented to take his place in the Concert, and to play the soprano part of certain Motets on his cornetto. Then followed eight days' rehearsal, and then the performance, in which "sonammo quelli disciplinate mottetti in modo che il papa ebbe a dire non aver mai sentito musica piu suavamente e meglio unita sonare." It is worth adding that the Pope asked the name of the new player, and on hearing it recognised him at once as the son of Maestro Giovanni.‖ The phrase "sonar di sobrano parecchi mottetti" may possibly imply that the instruments were used to double voice-parts; but it is noticeable that Cellini says nothing at all about singers. It is conceivable that the Motets were played after the manner of the instrumental canzone, which appear in the next century.¶ In any case we read of certain "pezzi spirituali" for the flute, which seem to have been treated as instrumental solos.

Here the facts end so far as they can be gathered from Cellini's autobiography. The inference from them would seem to be that instrumental music had its own place and its own significance as early as the beginning of the sixteenth century, and even during the latter part of the fifteenth. It remains, therefore, to collect certain pieces of external evidence in support of this conclusion.

First we have the early organ composers: Francesco Landino in the fourteenth century, and, in the fifteenth, Bernhard, Antonio Scarcialupi, and Conrad Paumann. Of the last-named some pieces have been preserved, and Ritter ("History of Music," pp. 342-3) prints two of them, which consist (1) of a single melody, (2) of two-part harmony, mainly in thirds and sixths, on a pedal bass. Secondly, we have the tradition that "Duiffoprugcar" or Tieffenbrücker was making violins in Bologna before 1520. Of course this is only a tradition, but even so it has some weight. And it may be noted that the new instruments must have had time to acclimatise themselves in France before the end of the century,* since Monteverde speaks of them as "Piccoli violini alla Francese" in the score of his "Orfeo." Moreover, France would have been better able to patronise Italian art before 1525 than after. Thirdly, we have the fact that in the early sixteenth century the lute was used as a solo instrument. Ambros ("Geschichte der Musik," iii., 513) mentions an "Intabulatura di lauto" in two volumes, published by Francesco Spinaccino in 1507, and gives an account of the pieces which it contained in terms which are wholly inapplicable to a simple accompaniment. In 1536 Francesco di Milano published a piece of programme-music—"La Battaglia"—for the lute, and a complete set of similar pieces was published at Zurich in 1550. Again, collateral evidence of the growth of dramatic expression during this period is afforded by the appearance of a programme-piece for four voices—"La Battaglia Taliana"—published by Matthew Le Maistre in 1552. All of which facts tend to indicate that the revolution which took place at the end of the sixteenth century did not do more than adapt and develop forces which had been in existence for nearly a hundred years.

It is not, of course, claimed that these data are of prime importance, or that the inferences from them are certain. But "the imperfection of the record" has always been so serious an obstacle to the application of scientific principles that we cannot lightly afford to disregard any evidence, however slight or fragmentary. The value of the passages quoted from Cellini may be a matter of debate, but at least he is a first-hand authority, and it is possible that his words deserve some more regard than has been paid to them by musical historians.

The other day Mr. E. A. Du Plat began to study musical history, and almost at once the singular openness of his mind enabled him to make an astonishing discovery, which, to his everlasting credit, he immediately made known to the editors of the London daily newspapers. Mr. Du Plat actually discovered that the principle of the moveable Do was expounded in old Playford's "Introduction to the Skill of Musick"! As there were merely about twenty-five editions of this book published between 1654 and 1730 it is obvious that no one but the most dryasdust antiquarian was likely to know anything about early English solmisation. Besides, it is only in Grove's Dictionary, Stainer's Dictionary, and a dozen or so other obscure works dealing with musical history that anything like full information is given upon the matter. And it was all very well for Mr. McNaught to point out in the Standard that the Sol-fa syllables had been moveably employed for centuries before Playford's time (1613—1694), that their use as names for fixed sounds is a comparatively modern practice, and that Tonic Sol-fa and moveable Do are but thoroughly systematised reversions to the older plan, and, further, that

* "Vita," ch. 9.
† "A rough reed instrument of the oboe type."
‡ "Vita," ch. 15, marginal note.
§ Clement VII. Cellini calls him "il papa nuovo," which fixes the date of this Concert at about 1523. See ch. 19 and ch. 23.
‖ "Vita," ch. 23.
¶ Mr. Payne (Grove, iv., 277) mentions that the phrase "buone da cantare e sonare" occurs as early as 1539. Turini's Sonatas were published in 1624.

* The history of the clarinet and the pianoforte shows us that this acclimatisation is usually a long process.

Sir John Stainer entered St. Paul's Choir as a boy chorister just at the time when the new system—i.e., the fixed Do system—was first tried. Mr. Du Plat, however, was not to be put off with this nonsense. He sarcastically remarked that he had "been under the impression that the majority of the advocates of the Tonic Sol-fa system claimed that their pet scheme was an invention of the present century," and further, that "it does, however, appear to be the characteristic of the Sol-fa system that it seems possible to trace it back beyond the 'original inventor.'" Of course, it was hardly to be expected that Mr. Du Plat would know that Tonic Sol-faists claim newness for their notation only, and still less could he be expected to be aware that a leaflet, entitled "An account of the Tonic Sol-fa method," which has been distributed in thousands during the last thirty years, gives a short history of the old moveable Do plans. We hope Mr. Du Plat will be encouraged to continue his laborious researches. When he reaches the eighteenth century he will find Rousseau a perfect mine of discovery.

In the interesting series of papers entitled "Musique de Table," now appearing in the Ménestrel, there are some amusing anecdotes of Rossini, the gastronome par excellence of musicians. In one of his letters to a friend he sums up his philosophy as follows: "To eat and love, to sing and digest, these are the four acts of that opéra bouffe which we call life, and which vanishes like the foam of champagne." In the same letter he speaks of the stomach as the maître de chapelle who directs the orchestra of our passions. The mention of any town in his presence invariably called up gastronomic associations. When a friend came to bid him good-bye before starting for St. Petersburg, Rossini burst out "Lucky dog! you'll be able to get real fresh caviare!" Italy was rich in such memories, and he greatly delighted in telling the story of the aria dei rizi, or rice song, as it pleased him to style one of his most famous compositions. It appears that at Venice, when "Tancredi" was being produced, the prima donna refused to sing the air specially written for her by Rossini. Returning to his house in a very bad temper, Rossini was met by his cook, who asked him if he might put the rice on the fire—the dish with which every orthodox Italian meal begins, and the cooking of which only occupies about four minutes. "Go ahead," said Rossini, and sitting down at his desk he dashed off a whole page of music. When the rice was ready "Di tanti palpiti" was practically finished. Whenever he dined with the Rothschilds he never failed to have a chat with Carême, their famous chef, of whom it is said that his days were shortened by the news that Rossini was about to return to Italy. As early as 1829 Perigord Cadet dedicated his "Gourmand's Almanack" to Rossini, prefixing to the volume a long letter to the Maëstro in which he draws analogies between music and gastronomy. Berlioz once explained the antipathy between Gluck and Handel by saying that the former was un homme de cœur, the latter un homme de ventre, but the latter description is certainly equally applicable to the "Swan of Pesaro."

The papers are still full of the doings of the composer of the ubiquitous Atto unico—Signor Pietro Mascagni. Thus we learn from the Trovatore—the well-known Italian musical journal—that the organist of Bergamo one Sunday recently accompanied the Mass with fragments of "Cavalleria Rusticana," playing the Siciliano during the progress of the Sanctus. As our contemporary, the Ménestrel, very properly remarks, we seem to have got back to the time of the Mass known as L'homme armé, when the Mass was commonly adapted to secular tunes, and are in need of another Palestrina to set things right again. A more practical proof of Signor Mascagni's popularity is to be found in the announcement that he has purchased a palazzo in his native town of Leghorn, in the neighbourhood of the Teatro Goldoni. A palazzo is, however, an elastic term, and the price which he is reported to have given for it, £1,600, is by no means exorbitant. Since then the young composer has repaired to Vienna, where the furore created by his appearance has surpassed all the demonstrations of which he has been the object in his native land. He was mobbed in the Exhibition grounds by a crowd of excited admirers, who threatened to tear him limb from limb, and was only rescued from their perilous caresses by the exertions of twelve stalwart policemen. The very cigar he was smoking was snatched from his lips and carried off in triumph as a precious relic by one of these idolatrous admirers. This sort of frantic infatuation generally burns itself out rapidly. When the young Pretender entered Edinburgh it is recorded that the blacking was kissed off his boots by his impassioned adherents. And one cannot help contrasting the attitude of the Viennese mob of 1892 with that of their great-grandfathers in 1791—the year in which the remains of Mozart were shovelled into a pauper's grave—to say nothing of the lack of appreciation displayed to Schubert a generation later.

Concurrently with the startling news that the promoters of the World's Fair at Chicago are about to purchase Sir Walter Raleigh's mansion and his yew tree, comes the tidings that the house in which Handel was born at Halle is in the market, and will not improbably be converted into a lager beer brewery. According to a writer in the Daily News, a committee is about to be formed to receive subscriptions with a view to purchasing the house, but no details are given as to its composition, while the Echo Musical of Brussels makes no mention of anything so definite. Several plans have been mooted as to the best course to be adopted, the most obvious being that the house should be converted into a museum on the lines of the Mozarteum at Salzburg, and the similar institutions designed to perpetuate the memory of Schiller, Goethe, and Körner. Another suggestion is that it should be utilised as a sort of retreat for broken down musicians. But the discussion of such plans is premature and gratuitous until the house has been secured. If only sufficient publicity is given to an appeal for funds, we have no doubt that the desired and desirable end could be easily accomplished. The sale of Sir Walter Raleigh's mansion, "plundered to make a Yankee holiday," as a contemporary has it, and of H.M.S. Foudroyant, are certainly discouraging incidents. But the music of Handel means more to his adopted compatriots than even the heroism of a national and native hero like Raleigh. If an attempt is made to rescue the house from a beery grave by public subscription, we feel sure that many English lovers of the great Saxon master would gladly contribute according to their means.

The life and works of Antonin Dvorák form the subject of an interesting article by the eminent American critic, Mr. Krehbiel, which appears in the Century Magazine for September. After pointing out that "the forcefulness and freshness of Dvorák's music come primarily from his use of dialects and idioms derived from the folk-music of the Czechs," and that "Ever since the beginning of the Romantic movement the influence of folk-music has been felt, but never in the degree that it is felt now," the writer makes interesting comparisons between Bohemian and Russian music: "There are," he says, "many places in which the folk-songs and dances of Bohemians and Russians touch hands, but the more ancient culture of the Czechs is seen in the higher development of their forms and rhythms, as it is also manifest in the refinement of Dvorák's treatment of the national elements in his compositions. The Bohemian language is unique among modern languages in that, like Latin and Greek, it possesses both accent and quantity independent of each other. The circumstance may have had something to do with the development of the varied rhythms which a study of Dvorák's music reveals. More than melody, rhythm proclaims the spirit of a people." The whole article is, of course, well worth reading; but we may permit ourselves one growl of slighted patriotism. Mr. Krehbiel should have stated that the now world-wide fame of Dvorák is practically due to the recognition of his genius by England.

We cheerfully find space for the letter which appears on another page, from the pen of Mr. A. S. Vogt, of Toronto. Mr. Vogt conceives himself to have been misrepresented, in the first instance by one of our own Canadian correspondents, and, next, by ourselves, in the course of some remarks upon the information conveyed. It may be in the memory of our readers that Mr. Vogt was accused of initiating a crusade against Oratorio in Toronto, and of talking about an "Oratorio nuisance." We are now assured that the opprobrious words just quoted were never used by Mr. Vogt, but by the editor of a New York journal remarkable for the rabid hate with which it writes down everything English or that bears an English stamp. Anything we may have done, in ignorance or inadvertence, to fasten upon Mr. Vogt a charge of which he is innocent we, of course, regret; and it gives us much pleasure to know that Mr. Vogt does not look upon Oratorio as a nuisance, but recognises its value as an exalted form of art. Of the gentleman in question we know nothing personally, but our impression is that his years are comparatively few, and our knowledge is that youth often acts with more impetuosity than judgment. Very likely music in Toronto has its defects, but these are best removed by harmonious co-operation among its professors, or, if that be impossible, by quiet and respectful reasoning. Unfortunately, there is too much of Ancient Pistol about many musical professors in these our days, and bluster is a very common quality.

An American writer on music, discoursing on "Expression," thus delivers himself: "Anachronism in feeling is a great mistake. No player has a right to introduce into a piece a feeling incompatible with the period at which it was written. If we were to play a simple, unpretentious, yet charming Gavotte of Sebastian Bach with the same fire, energy, and dash which it is quite right to infuse into the execution of Weber's brilliant Polacca in E major—if we were to play Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith" in the same style as Thalberg's "Home, sweet home"—this would be anachronism; because we should be employing certain means which the state of the instrument in Bach's time did not admit, and therefore those effects could not have possibly entered into the composer's mind and intention." There seems to us a considerable confusion of ideas here. How there can be such a thing as anachronism of feeling we fail to understand, having always believed that father Adam had the same passions and emotions as ourselves. No one either could or would play a Gavotte in the same way as he would Weber's Polacca, the difference of character rendering this impossible, and still more is this the case with the other two pieces named. But we are always employing "means which the state of the instrument in Bach's time did not admit," and can neither attempt nor desire to make any music sound as it did in former ages. The mechanism of expression alters with time, like every other artistic convention.

The writer continues: "Even if we do not go so far as to lay down a rule that the soft pedal ought not to be used for delicate passages in Scarlatti's, Rameau's, Bach's, and Handel's works, for the reason that the pedal was invented at a much later period than that in which they wrote, we must protest against the growing and pernicious fashion of substituting for the venerable, quiet, sedate, and dignified expression of these masters, the modern, rather exaggerated, and sometimes spasmodic character which most of the present performers consider the exponent of real feeling. 'Regard it as something abominable,' says Schumann, 'to meddle with the pieces of good writers, either by alteration, by omission, or by the introduction of new-fangled ornaments. This is the greatest indignity you can inflict on art.'" Here is still worse confusion of thought. Firstly, the modern pianoforte being an entirely different instrument to the clavichord of Scarlatti and Bach, these authors' works cannot but suffer various modifications in the translation. Secondly, the "venerable, quiet, sedate, and dignified expression of these masters" is a pure myth evolved from the performances of respectable old fossil players who, because they are old, are supposed to know the traditions. We have, on the other hand, reliable evidence that Mozart used the rubato freely, and considered that in the recapitulatory section of a sonata the player should always modify and alter the music considerably, in order to avoid monotony. Critics are mostly with Schumann, but history and the practice of great musicians are dead against him. The only definite idea in the paragraph we have last quoted is the platitude that exaggeration is bad. But who shall decide what constitutes exaggeration?

Not much has been heard of late of the operations of the Guild of St. Cecilia, which proposes to reinforce the ministrations of the healing art with the gentle influences of music. But we gather from the London correspondence of a well-known provincial paper that the Rev. F. K. Harford, the enterprising founder of the Guild, has by no means abandoned his hopes of developing the therapeutic side of music. At the present moment an unusually favourable opportunity presents itself, in his opinion, for a series of experiments on the patients who crowd the wards of the fever hospitals in London. He admits that there may be some difficulty in procuring artists ready to face the perils of infection in their anxiety to carry out his theories. Malicious persons might be tempted to remark that the irrepressible and incompetent amateur, whose efforts too often impair the well-being of healthy hearers, might, according to the law of contraries, be admirably qualified to promote the convalescence of those who are sick; and that, furthermore, if they fell victims to their benevolent enthusiasm, their loss would be by no means irreparable.

In Alderman Thomas Rees, Cardiff possesses a Mayor not only able to speak eloquently in the cause of music, but to uphold the credit of his native town. At a gathering in the Town Hall, on the 21st ult., whilst welcoming the Festival musicians and strangers, the Mayor said that for several reasons he was glad to greet so many who had hitherto been unknown to him. He wanted them to see Cardiff, which but a few years ago was simply "an exaggerated village," in order that they might note its rapid growth and commercial influence. With simple but forcible eloquence he pointed out the fitness of establishing a musical festival among a people so devoted to song as the Welsh; and after some poetical allusions to the abundance of music in nature he declared that people of musical taste and genius were benefactors to their fellow men. The Mayor's address was throughout marked by the happiest references to the art pursued by the majority of his guests, and was delivered with a fervour of speech and gesture that bespoke genuine sympathy with the theme on which he had elected to discourse.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

Would that some fairy spirit were able to exercise a spell over those foreigners who have to write English names! A fresh proof that there is still room for improvement in this respect is furnished by the catalogue of the British section of the Vienna Musical Exhibition, which has now been issued. In this useful book of reference the names of some of the members on the English committee appear in a slightly different form from their native patronymics. Mr. Bancroft is called "S. B. Bankroft"; Sir George Grove—always growing in knowledge, if not in stature—comes out as "Sir George Grow"; Dr. Mackenzie is let off easily as "A. C. Mackencie"; but Mr. Barclay Squire fares worst of all in having his name turned topsy-turvy—he is called "W. Squire Barclay." It is strange that all these mis-spellings should occur in the official list of the committee as prefixed to the catalogue of the Great Britain and Ireland section, as, with the exception of "Viscount Pewerscourt" for Powerscourt, the names of the committee-men, as well as other exhibitors, seem to be correctly given in the body of the book.

The summer heats have passed, otherwise contact with the subjoined cool advertisement would be distinctly precious:—"Violinist.—Wanted immediately, in a private family of position, a thoroughly competent violinist. He will receive full board and residence for 12s. 6d. weekly in return for three hours' daily tuition, when he likes, to a young lady of the house. All his other time free. Address, Musical, The Library, Blackheath, S.E." If we understand the announcement aright the head of this "family of position" is anxious to accept 12s. 6d. weekly from a thoroughly good violinist, also three hours' teaching daily, in return for bed and board! It may be that he accounts residence with a "family of position" worth a good deal, and we must not forget that the artist who pays the 12s. 6d. weekly, and gives three hours' tuition daily, is graciously permitted to do what he pleases with the rest of his time. Now, violinists, rush to the Library, Blackheath, S.E.

The first performance in suburban London of Dr. C. H. Parry's "Job" will be given by the Highbury Philharmonic Society, at its Second Concert, on January 16 next. The season commences on the 17th inst. with a Conversazione, at which Mr. Charles Fry will recite, and vocal music will be given; Haydn's "Creation" is down for November 14, Sir W. G. Cusins's "Gideon" for March 20, and Berlioz's "Faust" for May 8. Among the artists engaged are Madame Giulia Valda, Madame Fanny Moody, Miss Evangeline Florence, Mrs. Katherine L. Fisk, Mrs. Helen Trust, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Santley, Mr. Plunket Greene, and Mr. Andrew Black. In addition to "Job," the programme of the Second Concert contains Schumann's "New Year's Song" and Cowen's Suite "The Language of Flowers."

A country professor, having sent round circulars announcing a performance of "Elijah," received the following reply from one of the recipients: "Thank you for your notice to hand. I might perhaps have gone to the performance had it been Handelian. I think a good deal of Mendelssohn's music is clever, but washy; the 'Elijah,' though containing many good things, being no exception." It is quite singular, in these days, to meet with an amateur who stops short at Handel. What a curiosity he must be to the advanced ones, who, however, would demur to his admission that a good deal of Mendelssohn's music is clever! But it may be, after all, that the writer only invented an excuse for keeping the price of tickets in his pocket.

From an American contemporary: "Mme. Patti, that incomparable 'fareweller,' has signed a contract with Marcus Mayer for a tour of forty operatic concerts next season, beginning in New York, November 10. This, the diva declares, will positively be her last American tour professionally, and she authorises Mr. Mayer to so announce it. She even asserts her intention to write a letter to that effect, which she will permit to be published over her signature. Now, then, who will say Patti is not in earnest about it this time? And yet, come to think of it, the published declarations of great folks, even when signed, don't always count these days; and we will not despair of ever hearing the divine enchantress again after next season."

The Toronto Saturday Night makes some very wise remarks upon our statement that, on a recent occasion at Gloucester, forty amateur orchestral players, of whom thirty-seven were "strings," came forward to assist at a special service. We mentioned this as showing the spread of a taste for orchestral music in England. The Saturday Night, perpending this statement, oracularly remarks that "a modern orchestra cannot be made effective without its proper complement of wind players," and adds, "To designate such a gathering as that instanced by the (Musical) Times an orchestra is unique, to say the least." Sagacious Saturday Night! We listen with reverence to the conclusions of its profound research and judgment.

A contemporary states that "up to the present (20th ult.) two local bodies—namely, St. Anne's (Westminster) Vestry and St. Saviour's (Southwark) Board of Works—have agreed to address a letter to the Chief Commissioner of Police, calling attention to the alleged defective state of the law relative to street music, and suggesting that every organ-grinder should be compelled to take out a licence, and to exhibit on his organ a number for the purpose of identification." 'Tis a consummation devoutly to be wished; and other "local bodies" should follow suit without delay.

Signor Mascagni was so severely "lionised" during his stay at Vienna last month that life in the Austrian capital became a burden to him. He was "pestered wherever he went by so-called enthusiasts, tortured by letters and telegrams, and when he went to his apartments found dozens of ladies, young and old, waiting for him." During a performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana," which he conducted, the composer was "repeatedly and mercilessly called before the curtain, until he finally broke down in a swoon." No wonder that the Fremdenblatt found it necessary to severely lecture the Viennese public for trying to "kill the young Maëstro with supposed kindness."

The Sunday Organ Recitals at the People's Palace, London (two of which are given each Sunday throughout the year, except during August), were resumed on the 11th ult. by Mr. B. Jackson, Organist of the Palace, the programmes consisting of works by Bach, Rheinberger, Guilmant, Handel, Sullivan, Sterndale Bennett, Smart, &c. The attendances were very large. These Recitals are entirely free, no fee whatever being charged for admission, and a printed programme is given to each person on entering the building.

The Bayreuth correspondent of a French paper (who is quoted in the Daily News) says: "As to the public attending these fêtes, it changes more or less every year. It is remarked that the number of French visitors is on the increase. There were four thousand of them this year, the list, in point of number, however, being headed by the English, of whom there were seven thousand. The Germans were not present in large numbers." It has been suggested that the Germans have had enough, and therefore stay away; but this may be slanderous.

The Middlesbrough Musical Union has issued its prospectus of the coming season. There will be three Subscription Concerts, at the first of which Berlioz's "Faust" will be performed. The second will be miscellaneous, with a Song Recital by Mr. and Mrs. Henschel as a leading feature. Nothing has yet been determined with respect to the third. Mr. Kilburn retains his post as Conductor.

Like the Middlesbrough Society, the Finsbury Choral Union opens its next season (fourteenth) with "Faust." Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" is set down (a good choice) for the second Concert, and for the third, Spohr's "God, Thou art great," with Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch." The programme of an extra (miscellaneous) Concert in January includes Professor Bridge's "Lord's Prayer"—first performance in London. Eminent vocalists have been engaged; Mr. Carrodus will lead the orchestra; and Mr. C. J. Dale will conduct.

"The Cholera" is the cheerful and distinctly "up to date" title of a six-act drama, which Herr Miniemann, of Parnessburg, recently submitted to Mr. Blumenthal, the manager of the Berlin Lessing Theatre, for performance at that house. Musard's "Cholera Galop," it is true, enjoyed a brief and ghastly existence half-a-century ago; but a six-act play on the subject! . . . Mr. Blumenthal is said to have declined the offer.

It is now settled that Dr. A. C. Mackenzie will go to Chicago in September next "to represent English music by conducting performances of his own compositions." As at present arranged, he will conduct three performances, but of course developments may take place. Rumours of this engagement have been in circulation for some time, but, as a matter of fact, it was concluded only about a fortnight ago.

Messrs. Novello and Co. have in the press, and will shortly publish, a collection of Pianoforte Studies, old and new, edited by Mr. Franklin Taylor, which have been arranged on a somewhat unusual plan, being grouped according to the various technical difficulties which have to be encountered by students, the object being to illustrate a complete course of pianoforte technique.

In connection with a recent paragraph in these columns referring to the improvement of music at Seaside towns, a correspondent who has been holiday-making at Deal writes that much good music is played there and at Walmer by the fine band of the Royal Marines, under Mr. Batson. We are glad to hear it. Our military orchestras have it in their power to do much for the elevation of public taste.

We have received the programmes of 150 Organ Recitals given at South Church, New York, by Dr. Gerrit Smith. They contain 525 pieces, which have been performed in the course of seven years, the church on all occasions being open to all-comers, without fee. The little brochure is a remarkable record, and reflects upon Dr. Smith the highest credit as a disinterested and zealous artist.

Dr. Mackenzie is rapidly completing the score of his "Bethlehem," which is to be produced at the Chicago Exhibition in September next. The work will shortly be in the hands of the printers. There is little risk in foretelling that its special and attractive features will go a long way towards winning success.

The result of the Prize Competition in connection with the School Music Review, for the best Vocal March for School use, is announced in the October number of that paper. The adjudicators—Messrs. Berthold Tours and W. G. McNaught—have awarded the prize of five guineas to the composer who, writing under the nom de plume "Snowdrift," proves to be Dr. Roland Rogers, of Bangor.

Sir Arthur Sullivan was much pleased with the performance of his "Golden Legend" at Cardiff. Telegraphing to a friend on another matter, he said, "Much pleased last evening. Chorus excellent." The Cardiff singers are entitled to consider this volunteered and private opinion as a feather in their cap.

An effort is being made to establish a good Choral Society in the district of Shepherd's Bush, with Mr. Frank Braine as Conductor. The first season's works will be selected from Cowen's "Rose Maiden," Gade's "Spring's Message," and Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus." May the enterprise prosper.

The Sunderland Philharmonic Society announces three Concerts, the first miscellaneous, with Madame Nordica as star; for the second Verdi's "Requiem" has been chosen; and for the third, the "Hymn of Praise" and a mixed selection. Conductor: Mr. Kilburn.

Among the foreign compositions produced for the first time in the United States last year were two Cantatas by Becker, Bruckner's Te Deum, Dvorák's Requiem, Saint-Saëns's "Samson and Dalilah," and Mackenzie's "Story of Sayid."

The operatic class at the Royal Academy of Music will re-open with Lortzing's "Peter the Shipwright" ("Czar und Zimmermann"), and a public performance will be given at an early date.

Mr. Basil Tree, of St. James's Hall, has issued his ingenious Panel Concert Date List for the coming winter season. All the fixtures made up to date are here presented in a manner most easy for reference. It is the London musical season at a glance.

A handsome "composer's pianoforte," by C. Bechstein, has been presented by the maker to Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. Mr. Bechstein, by the way, has just been appointed manufacturer to the German Empress.

The Gravesend and Milton Choral Association opens with a Ballad Concert, followed by performances of Dvorák's "Stabat Mater," the "Walpurgis Night," and Benedict's "St. Peter." The third Concert, like the first, is miscellaneous.

Mr. G. H. Krehbiel has put an end to his connection with the Cincinnati Courier. We do not always agree with Mr. Krehbiel, nevertheless we can sincerely cry, "So much the worse for the Courier!"

GLOUCESTER MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

The meeting of the Three Choirs which began at Gloucester on the 6th ult. was not merely a provincial gathering. Of course, however, much provincialism was there, for the Festival, alike in its origin, its purpose, and many of its features, is of local concern. Some of those features, let me say, are exceedingly pleasant and, could they be got rid of, would be parted with reluctantly. A Three Choir Festival is a meeting of friends—a coming together of county and general society under pleasant conditions, and all its official proceedings are marked by cordiality with a very becoming tinge of the dignified. The whole is intensely respectable. Over it Mother Church spreads her wings, even when, as happens triennially at Gloucester, the Bishop runs away. On this occasion the hospitable phase of festival life was more marked than ever; the Mayor of Gloucester being good enough to invite a large company to breakfast in the new and handsome Guildhall which the old city has built for itself. All, so far, was local, but the fact that four new works had places in the programme gave the musical proceedings a wider interest, and attracted towards them the regards of amateurs everywhere. Readers of The Musical Times have already been told much of interest concerning those works. They will now learn what impression was made in performance.

I pass lightly over the artistic resources of the Festival, but it is imperative to dwell a moment upon the chorus, in the organisation of which a new departure was made, on the assumption that the county of Gloucester could provide its own singers. This hypothesis was looked upon in some local quarters as bold to the point of riskiness. Nevertheless, the Conductor, Mr. C. Lee Williams, worked loyally to put the matter to a fair test, securing contingents from Bristol (nearly 100 voices), Cheltenham, Tewkesbury, and other places within the shire. These, with the usual help from Worcester and Hereford, made up, as the result proved, a capital body of singers, fit for anything. The question is now settled and Gloucestershire is relieved from the ignominy of calling in assistance from Leeds and Cardiff. The orchestra, led by Mr. Carrodus, was as good as usual, and the principal singers included some of the best available artists.

If I refer to the opening service on the morning of the 6th ult., it is mainly to applaud the way in which its music was rendered by the united choirs of the three Cathedrals. Usually on these occasions there is a good deal to criticise, each choir having its own habits, which sometimes are not those of the rest. For once, however, the singers showed a single mind, and the effect was improved accordingly. The Dean of Gloucester preached on his favourite theme—the splendour of Gothic architecture in general and his own Cathedral in particular. His text was from Haggai: "Who is left among you that saw this house in her first glory?" Musical proceedings proper began, according to invariable custom at Gloucester, with "Elijah," and the audience attracted to the Cathedral by that familiar masterpiece was immense. There is still no question of taking Mendelssohn's work from the programmes. It is as safe a "draw" as ever—a prop upon which the stewards may lean with all their weight, confident that it will not break under them, and they are as thankful for it as for "The Messiah." I need not dwell upon the performance, in which Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Santley took part. The last-named had been specially engaged for the great character in representing which he is still peerless, and right well the veteran baritone justified the course taken by the managers. The entire performance ran its course with smoothness and effect, under the admirable guidance of Mr. Lee Williams, so opening the Festival with éclat. In the evening there was a less numerous, but still a large, audience, the theme being Gounod's "Redemption," which remains, in great measure, a work to conjure with. The Trilogy had been substituted for an Oratorio, "Bethlehem," by Dr. Mackenzie (the production of which was unavoidably deferred), and its preparation was not as complete as that of the other works. Mr. Williams, in point of fact, drew a bow at a venture with the "Redemption," and if he managed to hit the mark it was not without some drawbacks. The marvel is that music of such a character could be undertaken without a general rehearsal, and carried out, on the whole, successfully. Madame Nordica, Miss Jessie King, Miss F. Higgs (a young Gloucestrian of merit), Mr. E. Houghton, Mr. Watkin Mills, and Mr. Plunket Greene were the soloists, all of them efficient.

Old Handel figured largely in the programme of Wednesday morning. It is not often that an Oratorio by him, other than "The Messiah," is performed at these Festivals, but the experiment of producing "Joshua," with many "cuts," turned out well. The counties are strong in Handel-lovers, and "Joshua" contains many of his best airs and choruses. So there was a large gathering of those to whom the great master's directness and force appeal as little else can. The occasion brought with it an opportunity for the chorus, who, like most English singers, fairly revelled in the massive and effective music. They had it on their lips and in their hearts, and in doing it justice made their strongest appeal for high consideration as an efficient body. Miss Anna Williams, Miss Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills undertook each a more or less arduous task, for Handel does not spare his airs, and there are, in "Joshua," many which it is impossible to excise. The heaviest burden fell upon Mr. Lloyd, by whom the Jewish hero was impersonated. He bore it well, singing the numerous and arduous solos of his part with unflagging energy and, of course, conspicuous success. The florid airs were brilliantly given by him. Scarcely less justice was done to their music by Mr. Lloyd's associates. Miss Anna Williams made her mark in "Oh, had I Jubal's lyre," Miss Wilson in "Heroes when with glory burning," and Mr. Mills in "Shall I on Mamre's fertile plain." The Handelian performance gave much satisfaction all round. Before the Oratorio began, its composer's Concerto in F, for organ and orchestra, was appropriately played, with Mr. Sinclair, of Hereford Cathedral, at the organ. The soloist deserved hearty congratulations upon an effort marked by singular good taste and skill. He made no attempt to "show off" at Handel's expense, but evinced fitting reverence for the composer's clear intentions. Technically his performance was highly finished, and altogether the work of an organist of distinction. Bach's Cantata "My spirit was in heaviness" brought the long programme to a close, its solos being taken by Miss Anna Williams, Miss Mary Morgan, Mr. Houghton, and Mr. Plunket Greene. The executants must have been tired, but they gallantly met the requirements of the great Cantor's piece, and, indeed, made one of the best efforts of the week. So far the standard works in Wednesday morning's programme. They had an untried companion in Dr. J. F. Bridge's setting of the "Lord's Prayer," as translated from Dante by Dean Plumptre. This piece turned out to be a success. It shows greater restraint than appears in "Nineveh," and is altogether a solemn and dignified composition, seeking its effect by means which are quite legitimate. Hence there is nothing in the Prayer which can be accused of sensationalism—nothing eccentric; nothing which places the means before the end. In each of the three sections the composer is impressive in the very spirit of the text, between which and the music exists a most intimate alliance. Technically, the work is the product of an accomplished hand, and Dr. Bridge may be felicitated upon making a happy addition to our store of sacred music. It should be added that the piece offers few difficulties, and that it lies well within the scope of the average choral society. The composer came expressly from Scotland to conduct the performance, after which he returned North, much pleased with his interpreters and with the reception accorded to his music. The evening of Wednesday was devoted to the only secular Concert in the scheme of the Festival. There used to be three such Concerts, but, for reasons creditable to public taste, they have dwindled to one, and that will soon go. The survivor has friends among the Stewards, who, however, will see the propriety of making the Festival exclusively a Cathedral solemnity, and throwing open the great church on every occasion, instead of shutting it that a few hundred people might put on evening dress and listen to operatic airs and part-songs. What was probably the last of the Gloucester secular Concerts derived local distinction from the fact that it served for the production of a Cantata, "The Birth of Song," composed by Miss Ellicott, daughter of the Bishop. This, as was explained last month, is a setting for soprano and tenor soli, chorus, and orchestra of some verses in which Mr. Lewis Morris puts and answers a question as to the environment best serving to kindle poetic fire. The poem has no particular connection with music. It is a train of reasoning more than an expression of feeling, and should be read rather than sung. But some of it approaches music, the last stanza, for example, and this may have led Miss Ellicott to its choice. It will be understood that the division of the music into chorus and solo is entirely the composer's own, the text neither inviting nor repelling one treatment or the other. Want of definite musical suggestiveness in the verses left the composer free in another respect, and this may account for passages which seem to have but a vague relevancy. These things are, however, incidental to the choice of Mr. Morris's poem, which placed the composer at an obvious disadvantage. The music, while occasionally somewhat awkward for the singers, is creditable to the fair amateur from whom it has proceeded, and strengthens her place among musicians of her sex. In some respects, I may add, it challenges comparison with masculine work. There is certainly strength in the orchestration, and occasionally a display of vigour in construction and expression, such as would warrant the qualification "manly." Miss Ellicott, as a composer, has ambition, and her next choral work is likely to be of larger dimensions than "The Birth of Song." The new piece was well received, as a matter of course, and the composer, after shaking hands with the Conductor, Mr. Lee Williams, bowed her thanks to the audience from the platform. Mozart's "Jupiter" Symphony and a new, effective Part-Song by Mr. Brewer were the only specially noticeable features in the rest of the programme.

The two remaining novelties were produced in the Cathedral on Thursday: Dr. Hubert Parry's "Job" in the morning, Mr. Lee Williams's "Gethsemane" in the evening. With the first was associated Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, with the second, Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," which no Festival managers seem able to keep out of their scheme. On both occasions a large audience attended; that of the morning being in part, no doubt, a tribute to the personal popularity of Dr. Parry in his own county, and pride in his connection with a Festival to the management of which his father, the late Mr. Gambier Parry, conspicuously contributed during many years. In other part, the numerous attendance was a recognition of success already achieved—of lofty talents used in the best manner and with a single eye to the glory of art. Readers of these remarks have been told that "Job" is quite unconventional. I may add that it is daringly so, but in going so far Dr. Parry knew that he would have influential support. There are many persons in our day to whom the unconventional is dear, simply because of its unconventionality. In the domain of music such individuals should not be allowed too much influence. They tend towards extravagance and license, which are dangerous in all the arts, in music more especially. While "Job" has features decidedly new, I do not see that the composer has gone beyond bounds. He has written a declamatory bass solo seventeen pages long, but length is its only special peculiarity. To this a chorus equally voluminous makes reply. Then the work ends, not with a chorus, but a solo—a circumstance which may detract from musical effect, but accords with the natural treatment of the story. The music is of a character not easily discussed in the straitened space of a notice like the present. It should be the subject of separate and leisurely discussion, under circumstances which admit of dealing with not only its technical character but its tendencies. Dr. Parry here takes a step towards what is known as "advanced" music, departing to that extent from the solid and dignified classic style shown in the works immediately preceding. But taking the piece as it stands, there can be no dispute as to its masterfulness. Whether "Job" will become popular is a question I shall not take upon myself to answer, but musicians will always turn to its pages with interest, and with admiration for the strong sustained flight of which Dr. Parry shows himself capable. There is an admixture of lyrical beauty in the work, as, for example, the naïve and melodious song of the Shepherd Boy; but its greater characteristic is dramatic vigour. Of this quality Job's "Lamentation" and the answering argument of the Almighty (set as a chorus) afford a supreme illustration. As already intimated, the Cantata must be dealt with by itself, not as one of a series of novelties, and I shall be glad if its performance by a London Society in the course of the approaching season affords an early and excellent opportunity. Musicians gathered at Gloucester from all parts to hear "Job," and, though there were some in whose eyes its general character did not meet with favour, only one opinion existed as to the great power shown on every page. It is certainly a remarkable production, sufficient of itself to make memorable the Festival it adorned. The composer conducted a capital performance, and had every reason to be satisfied, not only therewith, but also with the sympathetic reception accorded to his music. The Beethoven Symphony gave Mr. Williams's orchestra an opportunity which they turned to good account, while Spohr's "Fall of Babylon," now so rarely heard, was listened to with the marked attention deserved by a rendering at once careful and enthusiastic. The Cassel master still commands admiration through his choral works. Mesdames Nordica, King, and Mary Morgan, Messrs. Houghton and Mills answered for the solos, acquitting themselves more or less well.

The Cathedral was fuller than ever on Thursday evening, when "Gethsemane" and the "Hymn of Praise" presented diverse but powerful attractions; the first-named as of local origin and as a successor to the "Last Night at Bethany," the second because of the love which amateurs bear to so great a favourite. The structure of "Gethsemane" was described in these columns last month, but, anyhow, it would suffice to say that in plan the new work precisely resembles "Bethany." From a musical point of view it is an advance upon that Cantata. The grasp of means is firmer, the scope is broader, and details are worked out with greater skill. In the one as in the other Mr. Williams strikes the chord of devotional feeling with a strong hand. His chorales are models of their kind; his airs are tenderly expressive, or bold and stirring, and nowhere does the subject travel whither he cannot accompany it. Considering the nature of the theme this is very high praise, but not more high than deserved. The effect of such music, heard in a Cathedral, was very fine, and upon all the great audience fell a stillness in itself impressive. An admirable performance was taken part in by Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr.

Lloyd, and Mr. Santley, who remained in Gloucester to assist his friend the composer on so important an occasion. Miss Wilson gave the sacred narrative with just emphasis; Mr. Lloyd's delivery of Christ's words was a marvel of pathetic singing; and Mr. Santley threw himself heart and soul into the two vigorous airs belonging to his part. The "Hymn of Praise" (solos by Madame Nordica, Miss Higgs, and Mr. Houghton) was given with customary effect.

On Friday morning "The Messiah" filled every part of the Cathedral till there was not even standing room, and some hundreds of persons were admitted to the usually reserved choir. All went well, the principal singers of the Festival taking part, and the proceedings closed in the evening with a special free Service, at which were performed, amongst other things, Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony and Mendelssohn's "Hear my prayer." As a business matter the Festival did not quite pay its expenses, the balance on the wrong side being about £130—a much smaller deficit than on former occasions. But the charity benefited to the extent of some £1,500. While, therefore, the stewards have to pay, say, a pound each with what resignation they can command, the hearts of widows and orphans rejoice.

CARDIFF MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

For some years past, in fact, ever since the National Eisteddfod visited Cardiff in 1883, when a London orchestra went down and made a revelation, the musical public of the great Welsh port have had the question of a Festival before them. There were difficulties in the way of a solution, not unconnected, I am told, with local rivalries; but when, some time since, the promoters made up their minds to start the enterprise, they did not entertain half-measures. Cardiff should emulate Bristol in 1874, and begin with a series of performances occupying the orthodox four days, with eminent artists, a big London orchestra, and a programme made up of works chiefly "caviare to the general." One must admire such pluck even when doubtful of its prudence, but the promoters may be accepted as knowing their own needs and resources. They wisely formed a guarantee fund, amounting to £2,000 or thereabouts, and having, after some debate, chosen Sir Joseph (then Mr.) Barnby as Conductor, went to work with a will, determined to deserve success, if they could not win it. The risk lay in an untried public—a doubtful quantity altogether, and the result proved that a smaller number of performances would have been in better proportion to the support received. It was resolved to raise a chorus in the town itself, and that, also, was a risk; so that the adventurers, under heavy obligations, advanced to the test of success with reasonable cause for some misgiving. On the whole, matters turned out better than many local men expected, and there is reason to believe that when the public of Cardiff understand thoroughly the interest and value of a Festival, there will be little difficulty in establishing the enterprise just set on foot.

The performances were given in Park Hall, a room too large for the audiences, but not large enough, even when filled, for brilliant pecuniary results. Thither on Monday, the 19th ult., repaired the London Conductor, the metropolitan soloists, the London orchestra (Mr. Burnett at its head), and the Cardiff chorus for a hard day's rehearsal. The question of the hour was "How about the chorus?" and those who heard the local singers then, or at the performance of "Elijah" on Tuesday evening, prophesied evil things. The Cardiff amateurs appeared to be decidedly inefficient, showing lack of power, poor tone quality, and a very small degree of confidence. Yet later they came out as a really well qualified body, wanting only in depth and volume of sound. The change was marvellous and took everybody by surprise. How to explain it? Were the singers timid at starting, or were they tired? I know not, and must record the phenomenon without accounting for it. For the reason just assigned the opening performance of "Elijah" (badly attended) was not satisfactory, though the band and soloists—Mesdames Nordica and Wilson, Messrs. Lloyd and Watkin Mills (supported by Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Ludwig)—did very well. It left an impresssion of impending artistic failure—happily not destined to come about.

On the following morning the surprising improvement referred to above set in. Just before the Concert hour the Mayor had given a breakfast, but I did not hear that the chorus were present to be exhilarated by civic good things. Nor were the good things needed. The opening numbers of Dvorák's "Stabat Mater" had proceeded but a little way when critics began to rub their eyes and ask "Are these the singers of yesterday"? I do not want to hear Dvorák's choral music better sung than by the Cardiff folk, who knew their work and did it well. Stay a moment!—the choir had no fewer than three trainers. Who prepared "Elijah," and who the "Stabat"? I do not ask to know, but simply to indicate a possible solution of the puzzle. The orchestra was not as good as it might have been in Dvorák's work. There is no excuse for such slips as some of the performers made. But the soloists (Miss Anna Williams, Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Ludwig) were quite up to the demands of an exacting composition. Other features in the programme of the first morning were Sir Arthur Sullivan's pathetic Overture "In Memoriam," finely played; Beethoven's C minor Symphony, and Stanford's "Revenge," in which the chorus proved that their success in the "Stabat" was no fluke. Of other things it is not necessary to speak.

Sir Arthur Sullivan came down to Cardiff specially to conduct his "Golden Legend," and the presence of the popular musician, aided by the fame of his latest Cantata, enticed the public to fill up more seats than usual. The audience, in fact, judged by the Cardiff Festival standard, was a good one, satisfying the proprieties of the occasion. Once more the chorus made it plain that their normal standard is high. They sang the "Evening Hymn" splendidly, not dropping a shade, and fairly won an encore. As in this number so in others, the result being that Sir Arthur Sullivan was delighted, and made no secret of his satisfaction. The soloists were Madame Nordica, Miss Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Ludwig, and Mr. Mills, all of whom discharged a familiar task as might have been expected. Madame Nordica, however, was obviously suffering from indisposition. It is superfluous to dwell upon the general success of the performance, the pleasure of the audience, or the applause directed to Sir Arthur Sullivan, the hero of the occasion. All this may be imagined. With the Cantata were given Schumann's Symphony in B flat, the "Mock Doctor" Overture, and one or two vocal pieces. The first-named work was finely played under Sir J. Barnby's direction.

In the programme of Thursday morning Dr. Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal" had the place of honour, and this performance also proved an artistic success. On the other hand, more seats remained vacant than were pleasant to contemplate—a fact not without reasonable explanation in the almost absolute novelty at Cardiff of a work which has for some years been known to the English public. Whatever may have been the feeling of the public with regard to accompanied recitation, they heard the "Dream" to the end with unflagging attention, applauding the choruses, attempting to encore the "Song of the Sickle," showing great delight with the Love duet, and at the close giving hearty cheers for the Composer-conductor. Mr. Charles Fry was again the reciter, and once more showed the familiarity of perfect knowledge as to the task in hand. His delivery of the introduction to the "War March" and the Song of Consolation was as effective as ever, as was the solo singing of Madame Nordica and Mr. Lloyd. "The Meistersinger" Overture, Hubert Parry's "Blest Pair of Sirens," and the "Hymn of Praise" made up the balance of the programme. These works were conducted by Sir J. Barnby with great skill and vigour.

In the evening we had a novelty—Dr. Joseph Parry's Oratorio "Saul of Tarsus"—performed on this occasion for the second time, its first hearing having taken place at the Rhyl Eisteddfod in August. The honours, and the major part of the interest, were now with the Welsh, who assembled in considerable numbers to cheer their countryman's effort, and, perhaps, easily to persuade themselves that, even in Oratorio, Cambria can hold her own with the best. Dr. Joseph Parry is a famous musician in Wales, and a typical one to boot, inasmuch as he has worked his way up, I believe, from the mine. Welsh sympathy, therefore, went out to him in full volume, with perfect propriety and laudable fraternity. "Saul of Tarsus" is too complicated and has too many peculiar features for discussion within the limited space remaining to me. Besides, it is not quite certain that the work will come before the English public, who would hardly be in sympathy with some of its characteristics. "Saul of Tarsus" is, in my opinion, an Oratorio for the Welsh, with whom a certain demonstrativeness and effusion is natural. Enough that Dr. Parry has here pressed every musical resource into service, and sustains a degree of excitement from beginning to end. The composer conducted a performance which was not the best of the week, and had, as soloists, two Welsh singers, Miss Maggie Davies and Mr. Ben Davies, and an Irishman, Mr. Ludwig. These did him and his work full justice. Applause was frequent and warm. The Oratorio obviously appealed to the Welsh imagination, and, so far, justified its creation.

The last day of the Festival was devoted to Berlioz's "Faust" and Handel's "Messiah." In the rendering of these works the chorus showed that their previous exertions had fatigued them, and there was, consequently, a falling off in executive merit. Having said this it is needless to enter into detail. The attendance at "The Messiah" was large. Concerning the pecuniary results of the Festival I am not in a position to speak. Probably the guarantors will be taxed rather heavily. But it was worth while to purchase the knowledge that, given adequate support, Cardiff can run a Triennial Festival as well as other towns.

"HADDON HALL" AT THE SAVOY THEATRE.

A new Opera from the pen of Sir Arthur Sullivan, however light in calibre, must necessarily command interest, and circumstances united to invest the production of "Haddon Hall," on the 24th ult., with peculiar significance. The score was penned, for the most part, during a period of grievous bodily weakness, and it was understood that an endeavour had been made to imitate the distinctive features of legitimate opéra comique rather than those of the lower form of art known as opéra bouffe. This view derived support from the known fact that Mr. Sydney Grundy, the librettist of the work, had taken as the main incident in his book the semi-historical, semi-mythical amours of John Manners, younger son of the Earl of Rutland, and Dorothy, the daughter of Sir George Vernon, known as "King of the Peak," and the elopement of the young lady from her ancestral home. The legend dates from the time of Queen Elizabeth, but Mr. Grundy has placed it at the close of the Commonwealth for the purpose of introducing the Roundheads and subjecting their sour notions of life to merciless ridicule, in which more or less significant allusions are made to latter-day Puritanism. It is not our province to deal at length with the dramatic foundation of the opera, though it may be said that the author's ability has displayed itself to far more advantage in the humorous than in the sentimental episodes, and similar remarks will apply to the music. The songs and duets of the lovers, with the exception of an expressive air for Dorothy, "To thine own heart be true," which may be regarded as the leading theme of the opera, seeing that it recurs from time to time with more or less significance, are not very original, though of course elegantly written. Of the other sentimental numbers the best are a pathetic song for Lady Vernon, "Queen of the Garden," and a very pretty duet for the temporarily bereaved parents, both in the third act. The prettiest of the concerted pieces is the so-called madrigal, "When the budding bloom of May," but this is certainly not written in imitation of the Elizabethan style, and, moreover, it has an accompaniment. The Finales to the first and second acts are extended, but more elaborate music will be found in some of the earlier series of operas. Sir Arthur Sullivan is at his best in the mock-serious music of the Puritans, in which we are reminded of the trio of Anabaptists in "Le Prophète." His orchestration is as delicate and refined as ever, and, speaking generally, the score of "Haddon Hall" is quite worthy of the composer, though it is impossible to regard it as an advance upon the Gilbertian series. The performance is less noteworthy for the merits of individual artists than for the excellence of the ensemble. Mr. Courtice Pounds and Miss Lucille Hill sing well, and it is not their fault that the lovers are dramatically uninteresting. Mr. Richard Green and Miss Rosina Brandram, as Sir George and Lady Vernon, make their best effect in the tender little duet in the third act, already referred to, and Miss Dorothy Vane, a new-comer, shows promise. Mr. Rutland Barrington and Mr. W. H. Denny are provided with humorous parts, which they are well qualified to sustain. The orchestra and chorus are unexceptionable, and the scenic arrangements are brilliant even for Mr. D'Oyly Carte's theatre.

"CIGARETTE."

Three brains have conspired to produce "Cigarette," the comic opera which, first produced at Cardiff in August last, was in September brought up to London and mounted at the Lyric Theatre. The brains are those of Mr. Barry Montour, Mr. Warham St. Leger, and Mr. J. Haydn Parry; of whom the first wrote the plot, the second the lyrics, and the third the music. The plot could very well have been spared, for it is distressingly attenuated and proportionately dull. It could easily have been told in three verses and turned into a ballad of the common type. The work of the two other gentlemen named is on a much higher level. Mr. St. Leger is a versifier of a facile fancy, and if his lyrics do not mount very high, at least they never grovel on the level of Mr. Montour's dialogue. Mr. Haydn Parry is the best of the three. His score presents many pleasant features—so many that general praise becomes easier than blame. His memory is, perhaps, a thought too tenacious, and his music, therefore, is at times frankly reminiscent. But his judgment is good and his sense of dramatic propriety sound. At present he is not sufficiently master of his materials to achieve all that he desires, and his most ambitious flights are the least successful. Nevertheless, there is in his score a deal of attractive and spontaneous melody, and he shows that he possesses a good eye for orchestral colouring. He has, too, a sense of humour, and he is, in a word, deserving of warm encouragement. The cast of the opera has undergone various alterations, but Madame Annie Albu (who succeeded Madame Amy Sherwin in the principal part), Miss Hannah Jones, Mr. Joseph O'Mara, and Mr. Cairns James are the performers of most merit. At the end of the last month the opera was transferred to the Shaftesbury, with Miss Geraldine Ulmar in the title part.

"THE WEDDING EVE."

A number of cooks have been engaged in the preparation of "The Wedding Eve," a comic opera of the modern French stamp, with which Mr. Levenston has opened the Trafalgar Square Theatre. Four names are mentioned in connection with the "book," whilst Mr. Ernest Ford (the Conductor) and "Yvolde" have striven to strengthen the original score of M. Frédéric Toulmouche, a process certainly advisable. The French composer manifested a few graceful ideas in "La Veillée des Noces," but treated them in too elementary a fashion to call for critical consideration. Were music the most important element in such productions, the place of honour would have to be assigned to Mr. Ford's romance in the second act, "Was ever artless maid." As it happens, however, the special success of the English performance is a ditty that would be hailed with quite as much applause on the variety stage. Miss Kate Chard, Miss Decima Moore, and Mr. Joseph Tapley deserve as vocalists better work than is found for them in "The Wedding Eve."

NATIONAL TEMPERANCE CHORAL UNION.

At the third annual fête of this Association, held on the 6th ult., at the Crystal Palace, reliance was again justifiably placed upon the attractiveness of choral contests and concerts by united choirs. Three years ago the National Temperance Choral Union was founded to assist the cause of total abstinence by musical work alone. The formation of choirs in districts where none previously existed, the loan of music to needy choral bodies, the holding of musical temperance fêtes, and encouragement to the production of music breathing temperance sentiments are among objects received with so much approval that no less than forty-eight choirs are already banded together in the Union. That sympathy with the purposes thus declared is not restricted to membership was proved on this occasion by the large attendance from all parts of the Kingdom. From Barrow-in-Furness and Whitby in the North to Plymouth in the South came contingents, and in the two great Concerts—morning and afternoon—on the Handel orchestra an aggregate of 9,000 abstainers joined, the total number of choirs represented being 127. Five choirs appeared in the junior contest, each choir singing Mendelssohn's "May Bells" and a piece of its own selection. In this Mr. Rotherham's (London) party carried off first honours and the Chesham cadets the second. In the competition of temperance choirs of from forty to sixty singers (Danby's "Awake, Æolian Lyre," and a self-chosen piece) the merits of seven choirs were tested, and the palm was awarded to Wellingborough, with Nottingham second, Reading third, and Lockhart's Mission, Chester, Tideswell, and Chichester in the rear. Only two choirs were in the contest (Macfarren's "The Three Fishers" and another piece) of from sixty to one hundred singers—namely, the Portsmouth Temperance Choral Union and Llanelly Temperance Choir, the judgment as regards place being in the order named. The Trinity Band of Hope (Brixton) Choir won the banner for musical drill, the Llanelly Choir contributed selections of Welsh music, and the West Brighton Temperance Association gave a Concert on its own account. The contests evidently possessed great interest both for the friends of the participants and the general public.

THE MUSICAL AND ECCLESIASTICAL EXHIBITION.

The Musical Exhibition, opened on the 13th ult. by Mr. G. A. Sala, at the Royal Aquarium, Westminster, although small, is comprehensive in character, and contains much that is interesting and likely to prove instructive to the musical student. It is divided into two sections: trade exhibits, which are located on the ground floor, and a loan collection placed in the gallery. In the former are found the latest developments of applied science for the production of more or less musical sounds, and a variety of ingenious inventions for facilitating musical performances and the production of varieties of tone-colour by the solo performer. Messrs. Gray and Davison exhibit a working model of their tone signal fog horns, which apparently satisfies the cravings of many visitors; Messrs. Erard have sent their gorgeous "Paderewski Grand"; Mr. A. Adamson, an automatic Tonic Sol-fa harmonium for teaching in class, the instrument showing to player and pupil the Sol-fa name of each note struck in relation to any pre-arranged tonic; and Mr. C. Klitz exhibits an ordinary looking upright pianoforte, but from which the sounds both of pianoforte and harmonium can be produced at will from the same keyboard. Perhaps the most ingenious device is shown by Mr. R. D. Maldifassi, by which obbligato flute or reed parts can be performed on any pianoforte. Violinists will be attracted to Mr. William Atkinson's case of new violins, which are coated with that which he claims to be the re-discovered varnish of the old makers; and to Messrs. Paul Bailly's and Messrs. Beare's stands, each of whom exhibit an original "Strad," that of the last-named firm being a particularly fine specimen. Mr. Leveson's "comfortable music-stool" deserves attention, and will doubtless excite the gratitude of many an embryo Paderewski; and those to whom the laws of vibration have attraction may profitably spend a week or so in watching the registration of compound-vibration curves by Mr. Joseph Goold's sensitive apparatus.

The chief interest in the loan collection is centred in the books, of which the majority are lent by Mr. T. W. Tapphouse, Mr. A. G. Leigh, and Mr. John Young. It is pleasant to notice, amongst several seventeenth century pamphlets denouncing the use of organs, &c., in churches, one entitled "The well-tuned Cymball, or a vindication of the Modern Harmony." This is opened at the page in which the would-be peace-making, albeit somewhat timid author, Sydenham Humphrey, observes: "Doubtless in harmony we may discover the misticke portraitures both of vice and virtue and the mind thus taken with some resemblances, falls often in love with the things themselves . . . and therefore there must be a discreet caution had, that it is grave and sober, and not over-wantoned with curiositie or discant." Another interesting passage is found in "The Compleat Tutor of the Harpsichord or Spinnet," in which we are specially bidden to "note that in fingering your thumb is the first finger, and so on to the little finger which is the fifth"; while a volume, dated 1749, entitled "Reflections on Antient and Modern Musick, with the application to the cure of diseases," would apparently show the origin of a recent too sanguine society. A volume of musical autographs containing music written and signed by De Beriot, Malibran, and other celebrities excites a wish to examine it at greater leisure; and five autograph letters by Dr. Burney reveal somewhat of the progress music has made since his time. Lovers of Gregorian music will find much to interest them in a volume numbered seventy-one and dated 1736; and will doubtless be attracted by an excellent specimen of a leaf from an English missal of the fourteenth century lent by Mr. T. L. Southgate.

The musical instruments sent form a comprehensive history of their development and differentiation, from the now well-known Egyptian flutes, found by the side of the Lady Maket, down to the latest invention of the brass family, of which an excellent display is made by Messrs. Besson. Mr. E. A. Du Plat, to whom was entrusted the arrangement, &c., of the Exhibition, has provided an admirable catalogue, which also contains many instructive remarks.

THE EISTEDDFOD AT RHYL.

The production of a new Oratorio—Dr. Joseph Parry's "Saul of Tarsus"—lent distinction to this year's meeting of the bards and literary men of Wales. The work itself is cast in an ambitious mould, and Dr. J. Parry has, in its pages, developed to a very ample extent those qualities which made themselves apparent in his Cantata "Belshazzar," written for the Liverpool Eisteddfod of 1886. Its composer belongs evidently to the more advanced school of musical thinkers, and has made a special study of orchestral ways and means. The work was rendered creditably on the 8th ult., though, naturally, a chorus and orchestra of something less than three hundred failed to make any great impression in so vast a building as the Eisteddfod Pavilion at Rhyl. Sufficient, however, was achieved to evoke from the thousands of auditors assembled such plaudits as must have been heard to be realised, and it is not probable that the latest contribution to the music of Wales will for a long time be lost sight of. The soloists were Miss Maggie Davies, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Ffrangçon Davies, a namesake trio who did ample justice to the work; the chorusmaster was Mr. Felix Watkins, and the performance was conducted by the composer. The other important Concert of the gathering consisted of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," given on the 6th ult. by the Bangor Choral Union and neighbouring societies, under Dr. Roland Rogers. The two other evenings were devoted to performances of the ballad order and call for no special comment.

In regard to the Competitions, naturally the chief interest gathered round the tournament of song between such doughty jousters as were to be found respectively under the banners of Dowlais and Birkenhead. The Cheshire Choir was the first to show its mettle and it was at once evident that the firmness of attack, perfection of time, fulness of tone, and appreciation of colour exhibited would leave but little chance for those who were to follow. These were expected to be the Carnarvon Choral Society, the Dowlais Choral Society, and the Chester Harmonic Society. The famous South Wales choir was, however, the only one to put in an appearance, and it proved a formidable foe; but no dissentient voice could be raised against the ruling of the umpires, and the chief choral prize of £200 went to Birkenhead. So also did that for choirs of women's voices, the local "Gitanas" beating five similar organisations. The second choral prize was won by a Portmadoc choir, and children from Carnarvon carried off the honours in a contest arranged for juveniles. There were, besides these competitions, many others of lesser interest in which solo vocalists and instrumentalists and brass bands were concerned. A prize had been also offered for the best orchestra, and this was carried off by Mould (unopposed).

The mention of the last-named proposed competition elicited comment upon the dearth of orchestral music in Wales, and in the course of the four days occupied by the Eisteddfod this subject was more than once alluded to. The ban which for generations has been placed over instrumental music in the divine worship of one very large section of the population has been of late considerably relaxed, and prejudices too long existing are fast dying out. In the near future it is to be hoped that Wales will assert herself in orchestral as she has done in regard to choral work, and the advice given by the speakers last week at Rhyl in this respect ought to carry weight.

EARLY ARABIC MUSIC.

During the ninth Congress of Orientalists, held last month under the presidency of Professor Max Müller at Burlington House, an important paper was read by Professor J. P. N. Land on the "Earliest development of Arabic Music." The Professor said it was necessary to distinguish between the native Arab custom of singing poetry set to very simple tunes, still existing in the desert as it was centuries ago, and the musical art (al-ghinā al-motqan) developed among town Arabs under foreign influence since the first century of Islam. This latter might be studied from existent MSS. in various libraries. The art had been frequently considered by Orientalists as a mere continuation of Persian court music. On the contrary, however, it was distinctly intended for the enjoyment of the Arabic aristocracy, who possessed strong national feelings which were dominant in the empire during the early Eastern Khalifs; and their musical art was based upon the Arab scale and construction of their instruments. The authorities for the period in question were all of the tenth century A.D.: 1st, the Kitābo'l-aghānī; 2nd, Al-Fārābi's treatise on music; 3rd, that of the Brethren of Purity; and 4th, the vocabulary of Mohammed of Khowarezm, the scribe. Of these, nothing had been printed but parts of Nos. 1 and 2. Al-Fārābī was not a mere abstract theorist; he codified and rationalised the existing practice, and became the founder of the whole school of Arabic and, subsequently, Persian theorists, whose writings still remain in MSS. In the Kitābo'l-aghānī it was stated that the negro slave, who about 670 A.D. began the whole musical movement in question, listened at Mekka to certain Persian builders singing their national song, and that he composed similar tunes to Arabic words. Having obtained his liberty, he travelled to Syria to learn from the Greek barbiton-players and theory-teachers; and to Persia, where he learned more songs and the use of stringed instruments. But on his return he did not adopt such of the Persian and Greek intervals as were foreign to the singing of the Arab, and his example was generally followed. Accordingly his improvements were engrafted upon a native root, the scale being the most distinct point of exposition. From the same source, in another passage, confirmed by many occasional remarks, we knew that there were in use two scales, distinguished by the difference of a major and minor third. All the specimens of native popular melodies, together with other considerations and parallels, tended to prove that these scales were tetrachords, say C, D, E, F, and C, D, E flat, F. The Arabs also had a national instrument, invariably called by the native name of Al'ūd, meaning "the wood" (whence our word lute?). It had but one string, and on this the first interval was made by pressure of the fore-finger, the minor third by the middle finger, the major third by the ring-finger, and the highest interval by the little finger. The usual names of these intervals were taken to the very last from that original fingering. The Arab lute was distinguished, as old drawings showed, from the well-known nefer or pandura of Egypt, and of Assyrian and Persian provinces by a short neck and large round belly. The origin of the lute was as yet unknown. The nefer in question, probably known amongst the Persian musicians as the pandur, had usually three strings, was provided with frets, and had a scale of at least an octave corresponding to our major diatonic scale with the seventh flattened. From it the Arabs adopted the use of frets and borrowed a second string, the latter being used in the higher octave to accompany women's and boys' voices. The origin of both these features was also shown by their bearing Persian names. The places of the frets were of old determined by rule of thumb. The interval of the fourth was of course three-fourths of the string; between this point and the head of the instrument the string was divided into five equal parts, the first tone being nine-tenths, the major third four-fifths, the minor third seventeen-twentieths; the latter being an interval unuseable in Persian, but indispensable in Arabic music, though to judge by the many attempts made by Arabian musicians not satisfactory even to them. In the course of their experiments, the celebrated lute-player Zalzal (about A.D. 780) invented the semitone third, placing the minor third from C as it were midway between D and F, determining it, as performers of old were wont to do, without any learned calculation. The diatonic system had, however, been gaining general acceptance, and Zalzal's D was not nine-tenths but eight-ninths. The Persians placed their E flat midway between D and E, or as $\frac{8}{9}\frac{8}{1}$, and Zalzal took for his neutral third the middle point between this and $\frac{8}{8}\frac{4}{1}$, his E—i.e., $\frac{8}{8}\frac{6}{1} = \frac{3}{2}\frac{2}{7}$. Of this there were even now survivals, perhaps in imitation of Indian examples. Zalzal also modified the shape of the lute, marking the neck closer into the body, as seen in two of our old MSS. At length the tetrachord was put right by marking back from the F, and taking a major tone ($\frac{8}{9}$) between that and E flat, and another from E flat to D flat. The latter interval had been used for some time as an occasional ornament, and so needed definitely fixing. Meanwhile, composers had extended the compass of their tunes, and the lute had to follow. Between the two strings two others were inserted having Arabic names, the whole were tuned in fourths, say C, F, B flat, E flat, the highest sound played with the little finger, or zir, thus becoming A flat. To attain the octave of the lowest sound and complete the perfect system of the Greeks, or the normal compass of the human voice, a fifth string was afterwards added called hhadd, or sharp, to avoid touching the zir string at a lower point than $\frac{3}{4}$'s. The pandur was known to the Arabs as tanbur or tunbur, partly because they had no p, and partly, perhaps, because they were thinking of words in their language meaning something like "voice-string." All subsequent Arabic musical teaching and the treatises of Persian writers were but further developments of that of Al-Fārābī.

A SWISS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Those who come to Switzerland not only to enjoy the scenery, but to study the character, customs, and institutions of the people, more especially in those parts of the country whose prosperity, like that of the picturesque Cantons of Zurich, Appenzell, and St. Gallen, is not dependent on the annual influx of tourists, can hardly fail to be struck with the want of public Concerts, that "music for the million" of which, in other and neighbouring countries, such as Austria and Germany, there is a never failing abundance. Indeed, to look at those sturdy Swiss with their almost Scottish solidity, one would be disposed at first sight to rush to the conclusion that they can have but little music in their souls, and are not much moved by the concord of sweet sounds. But if we take up any of the local papers, we are surprised to find how large is the number, and how frequent are the meetings of choral and instrumental societies, of which even the outlying Alpine villages boast at least one or two, and which afford the most eloquent proof that beneath that grave and undemonstrative surface there is a widely diffused and deep love of the art of music in its best sense. For from their youth up they are taught part and choral singing, and hence it is that often on seeing children coming home from school, and walking along the country road with their arms linked in each other, we stop to admire the taste and accuracy with which their young and fresh treble and alto voices sing the songs they learn at school—a curious contrast to children in Italy, for instance, who either shout the melody of some popular air at the very top of their voices or disfigure the air by the nasal intonation and fearful portamento they imbibe in their churches from the slovenly chanting of the liturgy by the priests and choirs. The astounding number of choral and instrumental societies in Switzerland—and they are composed of all classes of this eminently, and in the best sense, democratic community—is the natural outcome of the careful teaching of part-singing in both elementary and higher schools. This love of harmony, of which Naegeli, the founder of choral societies in Switzerland, was an indefatigable advocate, tends to the cultivation of music not so much for public or drawing-room show as for its own sake; and, after all, this latter, if it is the less demonstrative, and, perhaps, the less brilliant, is the more solid, satisfactory, and ideal form of the two. There is, perhaps, no country where, in travelling more especially in the parts not entirely monopolised by the ubiquitous tourist, so many of those choral and instrumental societies are to be met with as in Switzerland, the former characteristically predominating in the German, the latter in the French and Italian speaking Cantons. Either these societies are on an excursion, or they are going to or returning from some local, district, or cantonal musical gathering; some rifle match, athletic sports, or similar meetings at which music is a sine quâ non; and whether you meet them on the top of a mountain, or on a lake, or at an hotel in a town or village, or waiting at a railway station, their love of music always impels them to sing some of their favourite part-songs or play some of their orchestral pieces. Their great and legitimate ambition, moreover, is not pecuniary gain, but to earn distinction by being ranked "first class," and a laurel or oak wreath at the periodically recurring federal or cantonal festivals. The term festival as applied to these gatherings is really a misnomer; for, in contrast to musical festivals in other countries, where the general verdict as to the merits of the compositions and the performances is simply left to the audience and to the press, the Swiss gatherings are more properly matches or contests in which, as in the ancient "Courts" held by the troubadours and trouvères, a carefully selected jury criticises the works and performances, awards prizes, and publishes an official and elaborate report on the execution of its mandate.

The order of proceedings at these festivals, whether Federal or Cantonal, is pretty much the same in all cases. On the first day the solemn reception takes place of the guests by the local choral and instrumental societies of the town in which the gathering is held; then comes a procession of all the societies—each headed by its banner and its leaders wearing badges and plumed hats—to the Cathedral or to the specially erected Festival Hall, gaily adorned with flags and allegorical groups of Helvetia and the Confederacy. Here, on the platform, the presentation of the societies takes place, and the festival is formally opened by patriotic speeches of welcome, and by the ceremony of the Cantonal or Federal banner being consigned to the custody of the president of the festival; and the day is wound up by a grand Concert given by the local societies as a welcome to and in honour of the guests. On the second day, another procession with banners and music to the hall or church where the contest between the various societies takes place. On the third and last day, a grand performance of all choirs or bands combined, followed by a meeting for the award and distribution of prizes by the Court of three or more judges, and for deciding by lot in which town the next festival is to be held. It is hardly necessary to add that these proceedings are freely interspersed with firing of guns, separate Concerts, banqueting, and similar festivities, although the conductor of each society, being primarily responsible for the success or failure in the coming contest, issues strict orders to all members to abstain from all over-indulgence in the pleasures of the table, while the tenors are even obliged to forego, for the time being, the luxury of smoking. Discipline on these occasions is indeed no light matter.

One of these festivals took place not long ago at St. Gallen, the picturesque and thriving capital of the Canton of the same name, which has long and justly been famed for the natural gaiety, the culture, and the enthusiastic devotion to music of its inhabitants. The Festival was divided into two parts—the choral part, or Cantonal gathering, properly speaking, in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of its foundation; while the second, or instrumental part, marked the twentieth anniversary of the foundation of the municipal orchestra of St. Gallen, one of the best in Switzerland. This instrumental gathering, or, as it was styled, the Musical Festival of Eastern Switzerland, was thrown open to competing bands from all parts of the country.

The town of St. Gallen possesses no less than five choirs for male voices which, with those for mixed chorus, represent over 500 executants. All these combined with the municipal orchestra to give the welcome to the guests of the Choral Festival, the grand welcome Concert comprising the entry scene of the Minnesänger at the Wartburg Festival from "Tannhäuser," and Mendelssohn's "First Walpurgis Night," for soli, chorus, and orchestra; while the Contest gathering was attended by no less than twenty-eight associations, including among the guests from other cantons the famous Zurich Choral Union, headed by its distinguished conductor, Professor Attenhofer. The programme of the match was divided into two parts—viz., part-songs and compositions for chorus, with soli, comprising works by most of the well-known composers of this class of music, among them the Swiss composers Attenhofer, Angerer, Wiesner, Heim, and others.

The instrumental gathering, which took place a week later, opened with a Welcome Concert, at which a selection from Wagner's "Nibelungen" was performed by the St. Gallen orchestra. At the match, which was held in the spacious St. Lawrence Church, and in which no less than thirty associations from all parts of Switzerland competed, the compositions performed were of the most varied character, ranging from Donizetti, Rossini, and Verdi, to Kreutzer, Lachner, and Wagner; while the Concert of the massed bands, numbering close upon six hundred performers, included Beethoven's "Die Himmel rühmen des Ewigen Ehre," Zwyssig's stirring Schweizer Psalm "Trittst ins Morgenroth," which, together with the national hymn "Rufst Du, mein Vaterland," is never absent at Swiss patriotic gatherings of this kind; and finally, compositions by Professor Wolfenberger, one of the judges, and by Haubold, the conductor of the St. Gallen orchestra.

As regards the "Courts," or "Kampfgerichte," they were at both Festivals composed of distinguished Swiss musical authorities selected from the Cantons outside St. Gallen with a view to ensure perfect impartiality. The principles upon which the Courts gave their awards were those laid down in the "Rules and Regulations for Federal Musical Matches," the heads being harmony, rhythm, pronunciation, modulation, execution, and general effect for choral performances; and for the instrumental, adequacy of the composition, purity of tone, rhythm, power, conception, and general effect. The awards for choral performances were divided into three classes, from excellent downwards, while the marks given varied from eight for the best to fourteen for the least meritorious performance; the instrumental awards, on the other hand, were grouped in nine classes, the marks extending from eighteen to ninety; and the prizes consisted of laurel wreaths for the highest and oak wreaths for the lower classes, the former being moreover accompanied by special awards in the shape of valuable presents.

The official reports, only recently published, of the two Courts are extremely exhaustive; the criticism on each performance which gained a prize or marks, while it is encouraging and free from academical narrowness, is at the same time fair and even unsparing in pointing out shortcomings, however slight; while, on the other hand, it marks whatever is meritorious, even the copying of the score with which the Court has to be supplied in the case of each choral or instrumental work performed. In order to illustrate the minute attention to detail with which the judges scrutinise the performances, suffice it to quote one report each of the choral and instrumental series respectively, the shortest being selected for the purpose:—

"1. Choral performance: 'Gott grüsse Dich mein Heimatland,' by Attenhofer. Award: Very good, $10\frac{7}{10}$ marks. Harmony: Intonation rose half a tone (to E flat) soon after first stanza, and remained there. In second bar the C sharp of second basses was indistinct. The semitone progressions in second tenor and first bass parts not quite true; final chord somewhat impure. Rhythm: Page six, first stanza, tempo too slow. The choir should cultivate the habit of taking breath more quickly. Pronunciation: The vowels e, i, and o frequently not open enough, and syllables sometimes clipped or indistinct: Modulation: Very good on the whole; quality of voices good. Execution: Very satisfactory on the whole; power, volume, and ensemble good. General effect: Very good; although now and then impaired by too much fortissimo."

"2. Instrumental performance: Selection from 'Simon Boccanegra,' by Verdi. Award: Seventh class, forty-seven marks, oak wreath. In the introduction the first B flat alto horns too loud. In the Trio movement the quavers too short in the accompaniment. The D's of the French horns not quite clear. Page three of score, reed instruments on coming in not quite in tune; the pianissimo insufficiently marked. In the Allegro the attack not precise enough; the staccato at times almost drags into legato. Clarinets at times impure. Accompaniment of reed instruments, pages four to ten, not always neat and clear; bar eight of Allegro, breath not taken at right time. Ensemble and modulation imperfect in Finale; general effect and power good on the whole. More minute attention to modulation and chromatic scales recommended."

The reports on the performances of the forty-one choral and instrumental societies which obtained prizes or other distinctions are all drawn up in the same conscientious, artistic, and impartial spirit, the judges being true to the adage that among genuine artists and musicians, as among men of science, truth is the greatest compliment; and, in conclusion, the Court of the instrumental match recommends not only closer attention to light and shade, to tempi and other particulars, but proposes that at the next gathering the powers of reading and performing at first sight should be put publicly to the test by each competing society.

Such are the principles on which musical festivals are conducted in Switzerland. The work done at these gatherings in the pursuit of true art is good, sound, and solid, and compels our respect and admiration for the earnestness, thoroughness, and, withal, modesty and simplicity, which are national characteristics of the Swiss, who, in music as in everything else, are deeply imbued with the maxim: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might."

C. P. S.

OBITUARY.

We regret to announce the death of the well-known voice-trainer and physiologist, Mr. Emil Behnke, which occurred at Ostend on the 17th ult. Mr. Behnke may be almost said to have created the profession in which he so prominently distinguished himself; a peculiar position, midway between that of a physician and musician, but partaking of the nature of both. To him was given the gift of imparting relief to clergymen, singers, actors, and other public voice-users suffering from throat troubles induced by no disease, but by misuse and faulty production of their voices. These troubles were speedily rectified either by a course of exercises in diaphragm breathing, or by being taught how to properly use register, tongue, and palate. Such pupils came to him from all parts of the world, and many are the written testimonies to the success of his teaching. In his public life Mr. Behnke was a popular lecturer at the Musical Association, College of Organists, Trinity College, London, and the Tonic Sol-fa College. Had he been spared, he would have contributed a valuable paper to the programme of the next Annual Conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, to be held in London in January. He was also the author and co-author of "The Mechanism of the Human Voice," "Voice, Song, and Speech," "The Child's Voice," "Voice-Training Exercises," and "Voice-Training Studies." Present and future voice-sufferers may be glad to know that Mr. Behnke's highly successful methods may still be acquired from his widow and daughter, who are fully prepared and qualified to carry on his life-work, from which he has been called away just at the very time when he was only beginning to reap the well merited reward of so much patient toil and investigation.

Victor Wilder, whose name we have had frequent occasion to mention in our Foreign Notes, on account of his surprising literary activity in the service chiefly of musical art, died at Paris on the 8th ult., aged fifty-seven. He was a native of Ghent in Belgium, where he studied at the local University, proceeding, in the usual course, for his doctor's degree in philosophy and civil law, and he was also a pupil of the Conservatoire of that town. In 1860 he took up his abode in Paris in the capacity of a litterateur and musical critic, and soon came to be identified with the literary and artistic life of the French capital. Being an excellent linguist, he turned his attention to the adaptation and consequent popularisation in the French language of a series of songs by Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, and many others, which he followed up by a number of admirable French versions of German and Italian operatic libretti, from "L'Oca del Cairo," of Mozart, and the "Sylvana," of Weber, to the more ponderous Wagnerian music-dramas. Nor should his able versions of Handel's "Messiah," of "Judas Maccabæus," and the "Alexander's Feast" be omitted in this connection. M. Wilder's painstaking and, on the whole, very successful translation of Wagner's dramas, from "Lohengrin" to "Parsifal," will probably be considered hereafter as his most important achievement; and it is the more melancholy to reflect that his existence should have been prematurely cut short on the eve of the production of one of Wagner's chef-d'œuvres at the Paris Opéra—viz., "Die Meistersinger," a performance the realisation of which his own able translation of the book had done so much to render possible. M. Wilder, who was the author of valuable biographies on Beethoven and Mozart, was a contributor to Le Ménestrel and Le Guide Musical, and for some years past the much esteemed and influential musical critic of the Paris Gil Blas.

The following deaths, not yet recorded by us, have occurred during the past three months abroad, viz.:—

On July 10, at Neustadt-on-Oder, Hermann Riedel, meritorious composer of church music; musical author; for many years Organist at Neustadt, in his eightieth year.

On July 11, at Stadthagen, Professor Rudolph Westphal, author of a history of ancient and mediæval music, and other learned and valuable works concerning the art, aged sixty-six.

On July 20, the anniversary of the death of his son, Franco, at Milan, Giovanni Faccio, of mental malady.

On July 26, at Nuiderberg, near Amsterdam, Henriette Heinze, the wife of the composer G. A. Heinze, able authoress of musical librettos, aged eighty-two.

On August 6, at Berlin, Heinrich Kahl, for many years Capellmeister at the Berlin Opera, and Conductor of the Symphony Concerts in that capital, aged fifty-three.

On August 7, at Berlin, Hilmar Schönburg, composer for the pianoforte, formerly cantor at the Church of the Holy Trinity, aged sixty-four.

On August 18, at Brescia, Alfredo Azzaroli, military Conductor and able composer.

On August 19, at Budweis, Franz Zdenko Skuhersky, popular composer of operas in the Czech language, aged sixty-two.

On August 20, at Görlitz, Bernhard Völkel, cantor, founder of the Kirchen Musik-Verein of Silesia, aged sixty-five.

On August 23, at Augsburg, Carl Kammerlaender, musical director of Augsburg Cathedral, Conductor of the Liedertafel of that town, and popular composer of male voice quartets and songs, aged sixty-three.

On August 24, at Paris, Jules Ruelle, musical writer, translator of many operatic libretti, &c., aged fifty-eight.

On August 28, at Coblenz, Carl Mand, well-known pianoforte manufacturer, in his eighty-first year.

On August 29, at Paris, Marie Tayau, celebrated violinist and professor at the Conservatoire.

On August 30, at Hamburg, Dr. Paul Miersch, musical critic of the Hamburger Nachrichten, aged thirty-six, of cholera.

On August 31, at Vienna, Carl Lucca, for many years a popular singer at the Imperial Opera, aged seventy-three.

On the 1st ult., at Hamburg, Berthold Cobelli, composer, of cholera.

On the 3rd ult., at Kreuzlingen (Switzerland), Theodor Gangler, composer and teacher at the musical seminary of that town, aged fifty-two.

On the 12th ult., at Kudowa (Silesia), Carl Faust, one of the most popular German composers of dance music, aged sixty-six.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Our musical interregnum has not been of very long duration, and though we shall not be in the full swing of the season until well on to the present month, its harbingers have not been few or unimportant. Ere August quitted us, in storm and rain, we had a visit, beginning on the 29th, of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company at the Prince of Wales' Theatre, the chief event of which was the revival of "Patience" on the 1st ult., the whole of the scenery and appointments being new. The most striking feature of the performance was Mr. George Thorne's assumption of the part of Bunthorne.

On the 8th ult. a very creditable performance of Gaul's "Holy City" was given, under the direction of Mr. S. Locker, at the Wesleyan Chapel, Belmont Row, the composer presiding at the organ.

It is now the custom for the shopkeepers in some lines of business to close their establishments on Wednesday afternoons, and a courageous attempt is being made by Mr. F. W. Beard to cater for the entertainment of the assistants thus liberated. The first of a series of mid-week Concerts took place in the Town Hall on the 21st ult., the artists engaged being Miss Fanny Moody, Mr. Charles Manners, Mr. John Child, Mr. Tivadar Nachèz, and the Concert-giver as solo pianist and Conductor. There was a good attendance.

On the 26th ult. Miss Lizzie Neale, a Birmingham contralto, gave a Concert in the Masonic Hall, too late for present notice.

Mr. C. W. Perkins, the City Organist, resumed his Recitals on the Town Hall organ on Saturday, the 3rd ult. During the season we are to have the pleasure of hearing Mr. W. T. Best and Mr. George Riseley for the first time in our Town Hall, and other engagements of eminent performers have been concluded.

The popular Saturday Evening Concerts commenced on the 3rd ult., Mr. F. W. Beard introducing Miss Antoinette Trebelli with other artists, and being rewarded with an overflowing attendance. On the 10th ult. the Birmingham Temperance Philharmonic Choir occupied the platform, but did not meet with the success its performance deserved. A week later the Midland Musical Society, conducted by Mr. H. M. Stevenson, gave a good all-round performance of the greater part of Handel's "Samson," and on the 24th ult. Mr. Geo. W. Halliley started with the first of his popular miscellaneous Concerts.

The arrangements for the principal serial Concerts are now completed, Messrs. Harrison leading the way with a brilliant array of artists on the 3rd inst. Exactly a month later the Festival Choral Society will follow with Gounod's "Redemption," Mr. Stockley bringing up the rear with the first of his Orchestral Concerts on November 24. Everything points to a busy and, it is to be hoped, prosperous season; but one kind of artistic presentation—the Chamber Concert—will be conspicuous by its absence. The Schiever Quartet have gallantly arranged to put in an appearance, but all others, taught by past experience, have given up these Concerts. Perhaps there are few places where chamber music is more practised in private than in Birmingham, but it is equally certain that no town so poorly supports its public exposition than that from whence these lines are sent. The Autumn Exhibition of the Birmingham Royal Society of Artists opened on August 31, and the Musical Matinées, so successful hitherto, will be resumed on the 15th inst. Orchestral music, on a more ambitious scale than formerly, will be introduced occasionally.

A musical Festival took place at Hagley Church on the 10th ult. There was a large attendance. After a shortened service Mr. Anderton's English Requiem was given, the Rev. E. V. Hall singing the Recordare and the Hon. Mrs. R. H. Lyttelton, Miss Allen, and Mrs. Anderton the trio "From gorgeous flashing wall." The Hon. Mrs. R. H. Lyttelton sang the solo part to Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer" with exquisite feeling. As an interlude, Mr. and Mrs. Anderton played Haydn's "Emperor's Hymn" and an Andante by Mendelssohn (organ and violin), and then followed selections from "Elijah," in which the Hon. Mrs. R. H. Lyttelton, Miss Allen, the Rev. E. V. Hall, and the Hon. and Rev. E. Lyttelton took part. The recitative and duet from the Widow scene were tellingly rendered by Mrs. Lyttelton and Mr. E. Lyttelton; and Miss Allen and Mr. Hall also sang most effectively. The programme was happily conceived and happily carried out. Mr. J. Harris and Mr. T. Anderton took the organ parts in an able manner.

MUSIC IN BRADFORD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

In a few days we shall have our great Yorkshire Festival, in the success of which Bradford musicians feel as much concern as the rest of the county. Bradford prides itself on being able to furnish a stalwart contingent of voices. The local section had on this occasion the benefit of preliminary training by Mr. Henry Coates, a young musician of great promise, Conductor of the Bradford Musical Union, and an able organist and choirmaster, in whom the Bradford vocalists had every confidence. The Festival is being looked forward to with keen interest, tinged with regret that it is only the people with long purses who will have the full enjoyment.

Apart from the Festival, of which it may be remarked there is an impression that it has a stimulating influence, there is, in Bradford this season, the promise not exactly of a revival, but of a greatly augmented show of enterprise, which many people will be inclined to think is scarcely warranted by the material prosperity of the town.

The Subscription Concerts Committee, rejoicing in the possession of a good balance at the bank, are, by way of bonus to their subscribers, arranging for seven Concerts instead of six as heretofore. There will be many novelties. One feature is to be the performance at a Choral Concert of the concluding acts of "Tannhäuser" and "Lohengrin."

The principle of co-operation is apparently extending itself to music. Among Saturday night entertainments, which were highly appreciated a few seasons ago, were the Orchestral Concerts promoted by Mr. W. B. Sewell. The returns were, however, out of proportion to the expenditure, and the Concerts were dropped. This season the scheme will be resuscitated on a co-operative basis, in which the members of the orchestra will share the responsibility and divide the proceeds, if any. Under this arrangement it is hoped to carry out a programme of entertainments which will comprise many novel features.

Choral Society Concerts will once more be a strong feature of the arrangements for the season. The Bradford Old Choral Society—which was brought back to life last winter—promises to have a vigorous lease of existence, and now, at the beginning of the winter, reports a substantial accession of membership; and, what is still better from the point of view of those who will attend the Concerts, a very respectable orchestra has been got together. The works promised are Benedict's "St. Peter," Dr. Parry's "Ode to St. Cecilia," and Bennett's "May Queen."

The Festival Choral Society has changed its Conductor since last winter, Mr. W. H. Garland, of Halifax, having succeeded Mr. R. H. Wilson. The work now in hand is "The Seasons."

The Bradford Kyrle Choir is another organisation which, for two seasons, under the conductorship of Mr. Arthur T. Akeroyd, has made rapid strides. The Choir are making arrangements for the performance of "The Erl-King's Daughter," the "Sun Worshippers," the "Bridal of Triermain," and "The Song of Miriam." The second and third are novelties. It is hoped, if financial arrangements prove satisfactory, to have the services of an orchestra.

Mr Midgley and Mr. Misdale will continue their series of Chamber Concerts.

Sir Charles Hallé's band will once more include Halifax in its itinerary, under the auspices of the flourishing Choral Society of that town. At the first Concert in November Mendelssohn's 114th Psalm and "The Revenge" will be Whosoever drinketh of this water.

ANTHEM FOR BASS SOLO AND CHORUS.

St. John iv. 13, 14. Composed by J. T. Field.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Andante moderato.
Organ.
♩ = 72. mf
cres.
dim.
rall.
p
Ped. 16 & 8 ft.
Soprano.
Who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this wa - ter shall thirst a -
Alto.
Who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this wa - ter shall thirst a -
Tenor.
Who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this wa - ter shall thirst a -
Bass.
Who - so - ev - er drink - eth shall thirst a -
a tempo.
Ped. 16 & 8 ft.
- gain, shall thirst . . a - gain, . . who - so - ev - er drink - eth,
- gain, shall thirst . . a - gain, who - so - ev - er drink - eth,
- gain, . . shall thirst . . a - gain, . . who - so - ev - er drink - eth,
- gain, shall thirst . . a - gain, who - so - ev - er,

Copyright, 1892, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

cres.
f
drink - eth of this wa - ter, who - so - ev - er drink - eth shall thirst a - gain:
drink - eth of this wa - ter, of this wa - ter shall thirst a - gain:
drink - eth of this wa - ter, who - so - ev - er drink - eth shall thirst a - gain:
who - so drink - eth of this wa - ter shall thirst a - gain:
Bass Solo.
mf
But who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of the wa - ter . . that I shall give him shall nev - er thirst, who - so - ev - er drink-eth of the wa - ter that
p
rit. molto.
a tempo.
I shall give him shall nev - er thirst, shall nev - er thirst; but the wa - ter that I shall give him shall be in him a well of cres.

f
mf
8 ft.
wa - ter spring - ing up in - to ev - er - last - ing life
rall. molto.
Ped. 16 & 8 ft.
Full. Tempo 1mo.
pp
Who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this Adagio.
rall.
Voix Celeste.
wa - ter shall nev - er thirst, shall nev - er thirst,
Dec. who - so - ev - er
who - so -
Ped.

CAN.
who - so - ev - er,
CAN.
who - so - ev - er,
DEC.
drink - eth, drink - eth of this wa - ter, who - so - ev - er drink - eth shall drink - eth, drink - eth of this wa - ter, who - so - ev - er drink - eth shall drink - eth, drink - eth of this wa - ter, who - so - ev - er drink - eth shall ev - er, who - so - ev - er, who - so - ev - er drink - eth shall mf
mf
nev - er thirst, who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this nev - er thirst, who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this nev - er thirst, who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this nev - er thirst, who - so - ev - er drink - eth, drink - eth of this Gt. Diaps.
dim. e rall.
molto rit.
Lento.
wa - ter shall nev - er thirst, shall nev - er thirst. A - men.
wa - ter shall nev - er thirst, shall nev - er thirst. A - men.
wa - ter shall nev - er thirst, shall nev - er thirst. A - men.
wa - ter shall nev - er thirst, shall nev - er thirst. A - men.
Sw.
dim. e rall.
pp molto rit.
Lento.

produced. The Keighley Musical Union have promised three Concerts, at one of which it is thought will be produced a work by Molique, the Oratorio "Abraham." The Yeadon Choral Society, the Idle Harmonic Union, the Shipley Choral Society, and the Baildon Choral Society are also preparing for a season of fresh activity.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Although no musical event of importance has taken place in Bristol during the past month, there is active preparation going on everywhere for the coming season. The Bristol Musical Festival Choir have re-assembled, and are engaged in rehearsing those works (already mentioned in The Musical Times) upon which they spent considerable time before the holidays. The executive committee of the Festival Society are in communication with some of our leading composers with a view to securing a new work for production at the Festival next year.

The Bristol Choral Society, besides continuing the preparation of the compositions already referred to in these columns, may probably take up "Job" and "Gethsemane," and give them in the Cathedral, where also other suitable compositions are to be rendered from time to time.

Barnett's "Ancient Mariner" and Haydn's "Creation" are among the works to be given by the Bristol Musical Association during the season.

Mr. John Barrett's Choir will practise Barnett's "The Building of the Ship," choruses from Schubert's "Rosamunde," and a new Madrigal (five parts) by Mr. J. Humfrey Anger, with a view to their performance later on.

The District Musical Associations and the many smaller choral societies of Bristol have nearly all re-assembled for their winter's labours.

Chamber Concerts promise to be numerous.

The expansion of church music continues, and in the next six months there will be a yet further advance made in this direction. Several Organ Recitals are to be given in the Cathedral.

The only new departure at present notified is the division of the Bristol Society of Instrumentalists—the largest body of the kind in the Kingdom—into senior and junior branches, with the view of affording further facilities to less advanced players of practising together and qualifying for taking their places in an orchestral band.

It is uncertain yet whether the Monday Popular (orchestral) Concerts will be resumed. The committee have not met to determine this point.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The annual visit of the Carl Rosa Opera Company, during the four weeks ending 10th ult., has been the principal recent event of musical interest here. Some novelties were provided on this tour by the management, for which the provincial public are grateful. Mascagni's two operas, "Rustic Chivalry" and "Amico Fritz," were each performed several times during the month, and Bizet's "Djamileh" once. Revivals of "Aïda" and the "Prophet" were presented, and several performances of "Carmen," "Faust," "Trovatore," "The Daughter of the Regiment," "The Bohemian Girl," and "Maritana" filled up the season. The expected productions of "Lohengrin" and "Tannhäuser" were, perhaps wisely, abandoned. "Rustic Chivalry" at its several presentations was received with the greatest enthusiasm. Mesdames Ella Russell and Alice Esty alternately took the rôle of Santuzza, as did Mr. Barton McGuckin and Mr. E. Hedmont the part of Turiddu, and Mr. Alec Marsh and Mr. Max Eugene that of Alfio. The parts of Lucia and Lola were well filled by Mdlles. Meisslinger and Minnie Hunt respectively. The performances of "Amico Fritz" made no such furore, but Miss Pauline Joran in her joint capacity of vocalist and instrumentalist reaped well earned applause.

Bizet's "Djamileh" was reserved till the very last evening of the season. As a performance it was unsatisfactory and was coldly received. Besides the artists above-named, Madame De Lussan, Miss Laubach, Messrs. Robert Eadie, Rhys Thomas, Aynsley Cook, Bowman Ralston, and Lemprière Pringle sang principal parts and also gave their services at a grand Concert in the Leinster Hall, on the 8th ult., in aid of the sufferers by the great fire at the City Markets, whereby a sum of £148 was realised.

As regards the performances during the recent visit, the concensus of musical opinion seems to be that while the Carl Rosa standard is well maintained in the leading and minor parts, and the stage management is perhaps improved, a falling off is evident in the efficiency of the chorus, and that the band suffers from incomplete resources.

Messrs. Cramer, Wood and Co., in conjunction with Mr. Vert, of London, gave a very enjoyable series of seven Concerts during the week ending August 27, in the Antient Concert Rooms, Brunswick Street. Miss Florence Daly, Miss O'Neill Potter, the admirable quartet of vocalists calling themselves the "Meister Glee Singers," and the Hungarian Band were the attractions of the series.

Dr. Houston Collisson has issued the prospectus of his Popular Concerts for the season 1892-93, which includes the names of so many artists of eminence that the success of his Concerts should be assured.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The ensuing season promises to be a particularly lively one in Edinburgh. Messrs Paterson have secured a strong "bill" for their sixth series of Orchestral Concerts. Of the six Concerts two will be choral. At the first Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride" will be given by Mr. Kirkhope's Choir; and at the second Dr. Mackenzie is to conduct the Choral Union in his "Dream of Jubal." Mr. Charles Fry, who is so identified with the part, has been engaged to recite the poem. At the Orchestral Concerts the chief novelties are Brahms's Fourth Symphony, Cliffe's new Symphony (written for the Leeds Festival), Wallace's "Passing of Beatrice," Moszkowski's "Boabdil" (selection), Cornelius's "Barber of Bagdad" Overture, and a Benedictus by Franklin Peterson. Besides these Concerts, Messrs. Paterson have arranged an afternoon Orchestral Concert, Ballad Concerts (Madame Nordica, &c.), and Recitals (Señor Sarasate, &c.).

The feature of the musical year will be the invasion of Edinburgh by Messrs. Harrison, the enterprising Birmingham firm of impresarios. They offer a series of four Subscription Concerts with varied programmes and a perfect army of famous names, including Madame Adelina Patti, Madame Amy Sherwin, Miss Macintyre, Lady Hallé, Master Jean Gérardy, &c. Messrs. Methven and Simpson are the local managers. Messrs. Methven and Simpson also announce M. Paderewski's only appearance in Edinburgh this season (the 10th inst.); and Messrs. Wood have arranged for the annual visit of Sir Charles and Lady Hallé (November 5), also for one appearance of Hallé's Orchestra (March), while M. de Pachmann will appear at one of Messrs. Townsend and Thomson's Concerts. The Choral Union is to give its annual performance of "The Messiah" on New Year's Day, and "Judas Maccabæus" has been chosen for its third appearance (in March).

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The arrangements in connection with the Choral and Orchestral Concert scheme are now well advanced; they may, indeed, be said to be practically completed. Fourteen subscription Concerts will be given during the season, and of these, six will be choral, six orchestral, and two of chamber music. The series of Popular Concerts will, as heretofore, take place on the Saturday evenings. A forecast of the choral works was given in last month's Musical Times, and it may now be recorded that the artists who have accepted engagements include the best available talent, the list showing an attractive group of vocalists and instrumentalists. The new leader of the orchestra is Mr. Elkan Kosman, who was, till recently, solo violinist at the Lamoureux Orchestral Concerts in Paris. Mr. August Manns will introduce to his Scotch friends several of the novelties to be found in the forthcoming Sydenham programmes, and altogether the Jubilee of the Glasgow Choral Union ought to rank as a memorable year in the annals of music on the shores of the Clyde.

The Messrs. Harrison of Birmingham, in conjunction with Messrs. J. Muir Wood and Co., announce the first season of a set of Subscription Concerts upon the same lines and under the same principles of management as their series in the centre of the hardware industry. It need hardly be said that the arrangements provide for the appearance of Madame Adelina Patti, who inaugurates the scheme on the 26th inst. Messrs. Paterson, Sons and Co. are also in the field and with, as usual, a goodly array of leading artists, chief amongst whom are Madame Nordica and Mr. Sarasate. The South Side Choral Society take up Handel's "Samson," a revival which all amateurs cordially welcome, and a similar recognition of the enterprise shown by the Paisley Choral Union is also due. That flourishing organisation will give during the season Gounod's "Redemption" and Sullivan's "The Golden Legend," as also an Orchestral Concert by the band of the Glasgow Choral Union under Mr. Manns's direction. The Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society, now in its twenty-second year, and a model of really youthful prowess, has resumed its season's work and announces a series of three Concerts. The Glasgow Quartet and other societies are also buckling on their armour, and it may safely be taken that a peculiarly active winter is in store for musical Glasgow.

A richly-staged performance of Rossini's "Cinderella" took place at the Theatre Royal on the 5th ult. and five following nights. The pasticcio—for such it avowedly is—was, moreover, admirably sung and acted by the opera company under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Crotty, who are themselves provided with exhilarating parts. The City Hall Saturday Concerts, now in their thirty-ninth season, were successfully inaugurated on the evening of the 10th ult., and at the theatre just-named Messrs. Howard and Wyndham have revived their fine production of Sir Walter Scott's "Marmion." As on previous occasions, a feature of the work is the incidental music specially written by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Sisters Ravogli are to sing at the first Concert of the Philharmonic Society on the 11th inst., and the resident choristers have been of late dividing their attention between Gounod's "Mors et Vita" and the choral accompaniments to Bellini's "Casta Diva," which florid air from the threadbare opera of "Norma" is to be unearthed on the opening evening. The Symphony promised will, however, come as a relief to music lovers, Dvorák's No. 4, in G, being underlined. Sir Charles Hallé retains his hold of the bâton, Mr. Willy Hess is still leader, Mr. W. T. Best, organist, and Mr. H. Branscombe, chorus-master.

The Post Office Choral Society, an organisation already to be credited with much good work, has been placed under the conductorship of Mr. W. I. Argent, the work taken in hand being Mendelssohn's "Athalie." This will be given in the Philharmonic Hall on the 29th prox., with Mr. Charles Fry as reciter. Mr. Argent has also been appointed to the conductorship of the Wallasey Musical Society, from which the previous excellent chief, Mr. John Ross, had to retire in consequence of a necessary change of the rehearsal night clashing with his other engagements.

The West Derby Philharmonic Society, under Mr. Cooper, have in hand Handel's "Messiah," Mozart's "King Thamos," Dr. W. H. Hunt's "Stabat Mater," and Bennett's "May Queen." At Rock Ferry, the old established musical society under Mr. Pemberton are rehearsing Beethoven's "Mount of Olives," Massenet's "Narcisse," and Mozart's "Twelfth Mass."

The Newton-le-Willows Musical Society are preparing Cowen's "St. John's Eve" and Macfarren's "May Day," under Mr. E. Corlett.

The Runcorn Musical Society has been passing through an unpleasant ordeal, and the local papers report that difficulty has arisen in regard to the appointment of officers and conductor. Something of the same sort took place a year ago, and this kind of thing is to be regretted as the Society is an excellent one and has done good work. It is probable, however, that the present troubles will be bridged over, and there is no reason why this should not be the case, judging by the present attitude of the committee.

The Liverpool Orchestral Society, under Mr. Rodewald, have in hand, among other things, Beethoven's "Eroica," Haydn's No. 2, in D, two movements from Schubert's C major, and Schumann's C major Symphonies. This is a heavy order for the amateur performers during the coming season, in the course of which half-a-dozen Concerts will be given.

The Sunday Society announces seven Orchestral and two Ballad Concerts, as well as a Lecture on Carols for Christmas Day, during the coming session, and the band is to be increased to close upon fifty performers. It is hoped that these musical afternoons may, a little later on, be transferred to St. George's Hall. Such a project was recently defeated by only one vote in the City Council, and the latter body appears to be steadily growing more generous in such matters year by year.

The Birkenhead Cambrian Choral Society have naturally received the heartiest congratulations from their local friends on the victory scored at the Rhyl Eisteddfod, and it is suggested that the prize-money might be very well spent in a trip to Chicago, whither it is also rumoured the Dowlais Choir think of going. The Birkenhead people propose to produce J. Parry's "Saul of Tarsus" very shortly.

The Subscription Concerts at Bootle, Liscard, and West Kirby have been abandoned owing to the scant support extended to what were really admirable entertainments. Local societies will, however, probably in these districts and elsewhere render the season a fairly busy one.

A series of four Subscription Concerts is announced at the Liverpool Philharmonic Hall by Messrs. Harrison of Birmingham. Madame Adelina Patti is engaged for the first, and an immense array of vocal and instrumental soloists appears on the prospectus.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

After the long dormant season evidences of returning musical life and activity are at length multiplying all around. First, we had the visits of several roving operatic companies, such as those of Messrs. J. W. Turner and Valentine Smith, preceding the coming of the more completely established Carl Rosa corps. Then various Tonic Sol-fa and other competitions betokened the close of the summer holiday, while the announcements of the many useful city and suburban choral societies show that amateurs are again flocking round their several standards and renewing the studies whereby they beguile the tediousness of the winter. And now our larger Concert-givers are opening their subscription lists and eagerly bidding for public support. Mr. Barrett, for his campaign in the immense St. James's Hall, has issued an absolutely bewildering list of engagements, having apparently ransacked the whole musical world in search of novelty and talent; and Mr. G. W. Lane has, in a spirit of due emulation, seized upon the Free Trade Hall for the Saturday evenings which Mr. De Jong has vacated. Whether it is quite wise to concentrate so many efforts on that one evening in the week is very questionable. The rivalry is costly and its advantage extremely doubtful. The Wednesday evening Concerts were so safe, and attracted such crowds of the people who then enjoy comparative leisure that, almost certainly, other ambitious speculators will rush in and avail themselves of the opportunity which Mr. Lane's relinquishment affords. Mr. Cross, also, will continue his more modest Saturday evening entertainments of somewhat mixed character at the Y.M.C.A., and at these will probably utilize some of the results of his newly and rather grandiloquently announced "Manchester School of Music," which must on no account be confused with the real Manchester College, the details of which Sir Charles Hallé will soon make public.

For the undertakings already mentioned we have been supplied with lists of solo performers rather than with the names of important works to be undertaken. But for the Thursday evening Concerts of Sir Charles Hallé we are favoured with the information that the choral nights are again to be eight in number; that Mendelssohn will be represented by his "St. Paul" as well as by the "Elijah" and the "Hymn of Praise"; that Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride" will again be given; and that Gounod's "Messe Solennelle"—which several years ago became popular here—will be revived. The selections from "Tannhäuser" and "Lohengrin" will be repeated, and we are once more promised Parry's "Judith." It is said that the choir has been boldly weeded by its able director—Mr. R. H. Wilson—certainly not too soon; and that a strong reserve of fresher voices has been secured ready for the filling of all vacancies. It is, therefore, to be hoped that Manchester choral work may once again become noted for its excellence.

The Directors of the Gentlemen's Concerts seem determined to persevere in their efforts to infuse fresh vitality into the oldest Society of the kind in the kingdom, and to overcome the difficulties with which past neglect has surrounded it. They have issued a prospectus which ought fairly to test the possibility of continuing the Concerts upon the old basis. In addition to the afternoon Recitals of Sir Charles Hallé, Orchestral Concerts will be given, at which some new works are to be produced; and at the intervening gatherings artists of the highest celebrity —such as Señor Albeniz, Señor Arbos, M. Sapelnikoff, Mdlle. Wietrowitz, Mr. Henschel, and Mr. Santley—may be looked for. Perhaps more interesting than all—because more completely within the proper scope of the Institution —is the provision of excellent Chamber Concerts. In this way, as well as by the Pianoforte Recitals, a really educational work will be accomplished, a great want met, and an approach made to that completeness of purpose towards which the Concert Hall must struggle if it is to continue.

A Harvest Festival was held at the Clapton Wesleyan Chapel on the 18th and 19th ult. The musical parts of the services were ably rendered by a strong and effective choir, under the leadership of the Choirmaster, Mr. Ronald. On Monday a performance of Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm, "Come let us sing," was given, Miss Ada Patterson, Mrs. Ronald, and Mr. Albert James being the soloists. Miss Patterson also contributed "Let the bright Seraphim," "Rejoice greatly, O Daughter of Zion," and "I will extol Thee." Mr. William Bolton, the Organist of the Chapel, gave a short Recital before and after each service.

A new Mass, written by the Rev. F. W. Bussell, formed part of the usual Morning Service held at the Italian Church, Hatton Garden, on the 25th ult. The work is scored for chorus and solo voices with small orchestra and organ obbligato, and contains some clever and musicianlike writing, the effect of which would probably have been enhanced had the composer made a somewhat more sparing use of the fugato. Mr. Bussell is evidently an earnest musician, whose work merited a more careful and accurate performance than was accorded it on this occasion.

To-day, October 1, the Tonic Sol-fa Composition Club celebrates its twenty-fifth anniversary by a dinner at Armfield's Hotel. The object of this Club is the mutual improvement of its members in musical composition. All musical forms are studied and written, and the Club, which now consists of thirty-two members, is in a flourishing condition. All its work is done on the Tonic Sol-fa method and through the medium of the Tonic Sol-fa notation.

The Concert season at the Royal Victoria Hall, Waterloo Bridge Road, will commence on the 6th inst., when a Ballad Concert will be given at which Madame Antoinette Sterling and other well known artists will sing and play; on the 13th selections from the "Bohemian Girl" will be sung with tableaux to illustrate the story; on the 20th there will be another Ballad Concert and Mr. Charles Fry will recite; and for the 27th selections from "Fra Diavolo" are set down.

Mr. H. C. Tonking has been the Organist at the International Horticultural Exhibition since the opening, May 7 last, and has played 126 pieces per week—giving three Organ Recitals every day. Mr. Tonking has therefore played pieces by several hundred different composers, selecting principally from the works of Bach, Best, and Henry Smart. The organ is built by Messrs. Lewis and Co., of Brixton.

The North-West London Philharmonic Society (Conductor, Mr. Bernhard Carrodus) has issued the prospectus of its second season. Members will meet for the practice of orchestral music at the Royal Park Hall, Park Street, Camden Town, on Wednesday evenings, and Concerts will be given occasionally during the winter. The first meeting takes place on the 12th inst.

Miss Emily Upton gave an interesting Concert at the Victoria Hall, Bexhill, on the 2nd ult., assisted by Mr, Grosvenor Gooch, Miss Bessie Waite (vocalists), and Miss C. Walger (violin). Miss Upton played pianoforte solos by Mendelssohn, Schubert, Liszt, Nicodé, and Paderewski, enthusiastic applause testifying to the success of her efforts.

The Weekly Organ Recitals at St. Michael's, Cornhill, were resumed on Wednesday, the 28th ult., and will continue up to and including Wednesday, November 23. Arrangements have been made whereby the programmes of each Recital will appear in the Wednesday morning issue of the City Press. These Recitals commence at 1.15 p.m.

Mr. Frederic Griffith has been engaged to direct four Concerts for the Wind Instrument Chamber Music Society this season. His third Flute Recital will take place in the last week of this month, when works by Reinecke, Widor, Saint-Saëns, Kuhlau, and Edward German will be performed.

We understand that the Hope-Jones electric action is being applied by Messrs. Norman Bros. and Beard to the following organs:—Hastings, All Souls' Church; London, St. Frideswide's Church; Liverpool, Presbyterian Church, Sefton Park; Blackheath, Christ Church.

We understand that Mr. Myles Birket Foster is severing his connection with the Foundling Hospital, after thirteen years' service, at Christmas next, intending to devote himself entirely to composition.

Messrs. Hann's seventh series of Chamber Concerts at Brixton Hall will commence on Monday, 31st inst., and will include a very interesting selection of compositions.

REVIEWS.

Novello's Part-Song Book. Second Series, Nos. 601-623. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The demand for vocal part-music has not been in the slightest degree checked by the rapid increase in the study of orchestral playing, and members of choral societies and singing classes will find some attractive novelties in the series before us, of which a concise description may be given. No. 601, "The broken flower," by Oliver King, is an expressive and richly harmonised setting of some rather sad verses by Mrs. Hemans. The next is Hatton's bright part-song, "The hunt is up," which needs no recommendation. No. 603, "When golden day has passed," by Arthur C. Fisher, is very simple and tuneful, and will suit elementary classes. No. 604, "Full fathom five," by Charles Wood, was noticed some time since in our account of the Bach Choir Concert. The same composer's "The hemlock tree," No. 605, is a very piquant setting of some stanzas translated from the German by Longfellow. It requires to be sung with crispness and perfect precision. No. 606, "Cupid's Lottery," by Siegfried Jacoby, is a light and tripping part-song, the verses being by Thomas Moore. No. 607, "The Cavalier," by Cecil Goodall, is a remarkably spirited and melodious setting of verses by Sir Walter Scott. There is a pianoforte accompaniment, and solo voices are advisable though not essential. No. 608, "Wind that softly bloweth," by E. A. Sydenham, is at once simple, melodious, and expressive, with very effective harmonic progressions. The next seven numbers are by the lamented composer, Hermann Goetz. There is no occasion to go through them seriatim, as, although they vary in style in accordance with the spirit of the words, they are all equally fresh and charming. Of course they require to be sung with much expression and intelligence, but they are within the means of ordinarily efficient choral societies. Nos. 616 to 620 are by E. A. Sydenham. Here again we hesitate to give the preference to any particular example, as each of the series of five is noteworthy for tunefulness and a certain naïveté of expression certain to win favour from miscellaneous audiences. It must not be inferred from this that Mr. Sydenham's are not musicianly, for they are so to a high degree, being, indeed, noteworthy for smoothness and elegance of style. No. 621, "Winter," by Edmondstoune Duncan, is a remarkably vigorous and unconventional setting of words by Shakespeare, from "Love's Labour Lost." The piece would prove extremely effective if sung with spirit. The same composer's "Hunting Song" (No. 622) is also fresh and written with much freedom in all the parts, so that the singers would be likely to feel interest in their work. The last of the series is "Song and Summer," by Herbert Brewer, an effective part-song, modern in feeling, with an extremely elegant refrain.

Wood-notes Wild. Notations of Bird Music. By Simeon Pease Cheney. Collected and arranged, with Appendix, Notes, Bibliography, and general Index, by John Vance Cheney. [Boston, U.S.A.: Lee and Shepherd.]

"The Music of the Spheres" is a metaphor of such hoary antiquity that weak brains have been known to mistake it for a scientific fact. Another, less figurative, though scarcely less venerable, "The Music of Nature," has long been a favourite with poets and imaginative writers generally. Latter-day scientific habits, however, have bred a desire for accuracy—even in language, which, as every schoolboy knows, was given to us to disguise our thoughts—so that, of late, "The Music of Nature," as a phrase, has fallen into disrepute, and, like "Snakes in Iceland," has come to be regarded as synonymous with the non-existent. "There is no music in nature," says a popular writer, "neither melody nor harmony." And, of course, if by "music" is meant only the higher manifestations of the art, it is obvious that he is right. The sounds of wind and water, the cries of animals, the hum of insects, the "songs" of birds cannot be said to resemble in any important particular the symphonies or sonatas of a Beethoven or a Mozart, the nocturnes of a Chopin, or even the valses of a Strauss. But the complexity of music, as of other things, has its degrees; and if the simplest forms be taken into consideration, it will be found that the "music" of nature and that of art have much in common. And that in earlier times they had still more may be inferred from some of the music of savage tribes, and even of certain Eastern nations already far advanced on the road towards civilisation. In limited tonal range, uncertain intonation, lack of rhythmic variety, and, above all, in the incessant repetition of a simple musical figure, certain songs and dance tunes of these people exactly resemble the best examples of bird music. How much this is so the curious in such matters may learn from the entertaining volume before us, which contains hundreds of examples of bird song in musical notation, together with a large amount of information from innumerable sources, old and new, on the subject of "music" in nature generally. Such a book is valuable, and should be widely read. From it we may learn how plentifully nature has supplied the raw material, so to speak, of our art; and, at the same time, how little the music of Nature, plentiful as it is, has contributed to the music of Art as we moderns know it. No fairy godmother furnished the splendid equipment in which the Cinderella of the arts appears to-day. Her glory is due to a mighty host of lovers—whose names and deeds, are they not written in the dictionaries of Fétis and Grove?

Notations Artistiques. Par F. Guy Ropartz. [Paris: Librairie Alphonse Lamerre.]

In this volume M. Guy Ropartz, author of a very able essay on Victor Massé, and of a volume of delicately written verses, gives us the impressions of the combined poet and musician, gathered in the course of some travels in Northern and Southern parts of Europe. Thus his Notes have the merit of being "artistic" in more than one sense. His description, for instance, of scenery, more especially that of Sweden and Norway, where our traveller made the most prolonged stay, while always interesting, becomes occasionally truly poetic. Nor is his observation of men and manners devoid of shrewdness and originality. During his sojourn in Scandinavia M. Ropartz had, of course, many opportunities to make himself acquainted with the musical status prevailing at the various social centres, and arrives at the conclusion that, apart from the two leading personalities, Grieg and Svendsen, the creative faculty is not very strongly developed in the nation; although the latter is very proud of such of its native composers as Hallstroem, Soedermann, and others. On the other hand, the author is full of praise as regards the condition of the choral societies, more especially of Sweden, which he has found most excellent, both as regards the quality of the voices and the training. From the Northern extremity of Europe the traveller made his way to the South of Germany, where he paid a visit to Bayreuth and its Festspielhaus. His observations on Wagnerian art, albeit not particularly new or remarkable, have at least the charm of poetic feeling impressed upon them, and are, moreover, thoroughly sympathetic. As we have to confine ourselves here to the musical portions of the volume, we will only add that in the final chapter of his "Notations" M. Ropartz furnishes a short essay on the symphonic works of some prominent French composers of modern days, including Eduard Lalo, César Franck, C. Saint-Saëns, and Vincent d'Indry, thus winding up his observant and appreciative wanderings abroad with a survey of at least one of the artistic aspects of his native country. The volume is divided into six chapters with the following headings—viz., "Stockholm en hiver," "A Bayreuth," "Vers L'Adriatique," "En Savoie," "Jeu de Massacre," and "Apropos de quelques symphonies Modernes," all of which will well repay a perusal.

Methodist Free Church Tune-Book. Harmonies revised and edited by Battison Haynes. The same in Tonic Sol-fa notation. [Andrew Crombie.]

This handsomely printed volume is a welcome addition to the already large store of Nonconformist hymn books that have been issued during the last few years. It was prepared by direction of the Annual Assembly, to provide music for the Methodist Free Church Hymns. Six gentlemen were entrusted with the selection of tunes and chants from existing collections, and nineteen new tunes have been composed expressly for the work by Sir Joseph Barnby, Professor Bridge, Dr. Rea, and Messrs. J. F. Barnett, M. M. Barton, J. D. Macey, and the Editor. There are in all four hundred and eighty-four tunes, the selection including standard melodies of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, known and loved throughout the Christian world, and favourite modern tunes from the most famous collections, comprising compositions by Sir Arthur Sullivan, Dr. Hopkins, Dykes, Gauntlett, &c. Among the hymn books thus placed under contribution are "The Hymnary," "Hymns Ancient and Modern," the "Home Hymn Book," the "Presbyterian Hymnal," the "Wesley Tune Book," and others. The harmonies of the old hymns have been carefully revised by Mr. Battison Haynes, whose editorial work throughout bears conspicuous evidence of conscientiousness and good taste. The name of the composer is affixed to each tune, the print is large and clear, and the Indices have been compiled with considerable care.

Concert für Violine. Von Oliver King. Op. 37. Ausgabe für Violine mit Pianoforte vom Componisten. [Breitkopf and Härtel.]

This work is not a recent effort of its talented composer, as it is dated "Ottawa, 1882," but it is noteworthy for ripe musicianship, showing no traces whatever of crudeness or juvenility. The first movement, in G minor, opens in a solemn, not to say religious style, but it soon becomes brisker, and the second subject, in B flat, is at once melodious and cheerful. From thence ordinary concerto form is followed with tolerable closeness, though no opportunity is given for an improvised cadenza. The slow movement, Andante con moto, in D major, commences with a long-drawn melody, and the continuation, in which the tonality is shifted first to F sharp and then to A, is wild and very impassioned, the close, however, being quite peaceful. The Finale, in G major, is a very spirited Allegro All' ongarese, written in what may be termed free rondo form, with episodical matter in excellent contrast with the leading subject. The solo part in the Concerto is, throughout, brilliant and difficult, and a work at once so musicianly and effective would well repay the attention of violinists capable of rendering it justice.

Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Pianoforte Albums. Nos. 50, 51, and 52. Various pieces by Franz Schubert. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

To the "Impromptus" and "Moments Musicals" contained in Nos. 47, 48, and 49 of this valuable series have now been added the ten Variations in F, the set on a theme by Hüttenbrenner, the Scherzi, the Klavierstücke, and other pieces—in all, eighteen numbers. Though, perhaps, less widely known than the "Impromptus," these works, we trust, are sufficiently familiar to the readers of The Musical Times to render unnecessary any description of their beauties. The three albums may be had separately or bound together.

FOREIGN NOTES.

A commemorative tablet was unveiled on the 11th ult. at a house in Wechmar, a village near Gotha, once inhabited by Veit Bach, a master baker, the founder of the great family of musicians. The tablet bears the following inscription in German—viz., "In this house Veit Bach, at about the year 1600, and later also his son, Hans Bach, pursued the baker's trade. Hans, having studied music at Gotha, also distinguished himself in that art. Amongst the more than one hundred descendants of this Bach family there have, in the course of seven generations, been a number of great musical artists and learned musicians, including Johann Sebastian Bach, one of the most eminent composers the world has ever seen; the greatest contrapuntist and organist of his time. Honour be to their memory.—Instituted by the community of Wechmar, and the Boehner Society, in Gotha."

Gluck's "Alceste" will meet with a special performance on the 8th inst. at the Weimar Court Theatre, in connection with the celebration on that day of the golden wedding of the Grand Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Weimar.

Moritz Moszkowski's opera "Boabdil," recently brought out at the Berlin Opera, is to be shortly produced also at the Imperial Opera, Vienna.

An important and, hitherto, unknown pianoforte trio by Franz Liszt, the only one extant from his pen, is about to be published by Messrs. Schott, of Mayence. Although not, strictly speaking, an original work—being, in fact, a transposition of the composer's "Carneval de Pesth" for pianoforte—the trio in question, according to a lengthy article on the subject in the Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung, must nevertheless be considered a distinctive production, by virtue of the surprising and masterly development of the existing themes and the singular charm of colour imparted to the score.

A number of hitherto unpublished compositions by Frederic Chopin are shortly to be issued by Messrs. Gebetner and Wolff, of Warsaw, the cause of the delay in publication having been an action as to proprietary rights which has been long pending between the composer's heirs and the firm in question, and which has at length been decided in favour of the latter by the authorities in St. Petersburg.

Some highly-interesting Concert performances are announced to take place at Berlin in connection with the forthcoming opening of the new Bechstein Hall. On the 4th inst. Dr. von Bülow will be the pianist, and will introduce some new unpublished compositions by Johannes Brahms. On the following day there will be a Concert of Chamber Music, in which Dr. Joachim and Johannes Brahms will take part. And, finally, on the 6th, Anton Rubinstein, as already mentioned in our last number, will give a Pianoforte Recital. Messrs. Bechstein may be congratulated upon so brilliant and auspicious a house-warming.

The conductorship of the Berlin Philharmonic Concerts will be divided this season between Dr. von Bülow, Dr. Hans Richter, and Herr Maszkowski.

Herr Xaver Scharwenka, the excellent pianist-composer, well known in this country, has returned to his post of director of a Musical Academy in New York, after a brief stay in his native Germany, where he completed a new opera entitled "Mataswintha." The Berlin Conservatorium bearing his name has just passed into the joint possession and directorship of his brother, Philipp Scharwenka, and of Dr. Hugo Goldschmidt.

The New German Opera (formerly the Belle Alliance Theatre) was opened on the 3rd ult., at Berlin, with an opera by Herr Theodor Hentschel, entitled "Die schöne Melusine," the new work being very well received, albeit the performance is generally spoken of as a very mediocre one. Scarcely more favourable, in this respect, are the reports concerning the performance, on the 4th ult., of "Fidelio" at the same house, where matters have apparently been pushed forward with undue haste.

The annual meeting of the Allgemeine Deutsche Musikverein, which was announced to take place at Vienna on the 16th ult., has not been held, in view of the existing cholera scare on the Continent.

A monument is shortly to be unveiled at Dessau in honour of Friedrich Schneider, the composer of the once highly valued and widely-heard oratorio "Das Weltgericht," and an organist of great reputation, who died at Dessau in 1853. The monument is the work of the eminent sculptor, Professor Schubert, of Dresden.

A new comic opera in one act, entitled "Gringoire," the libretto founded upon De Banville's play, and set to music by Herr Ignaz Brüll, the well-known Viennese composer, was brought out on the 6th ult. at the Leipzig Stadt-Theater, where it was very favourably received.

On August 28 forty-two years had elapsed since the first performance on any stage of Wagner's "Lohengrin," at Weimar, under the direction of Franz Liszt. The now highly popular work has just been produced for the first time at Buenos Ayres, by the Ferrari troupe, and was greatly appreciated. It appears that the "Flying Dutchman" is the only other of Wagner's Operas hitherto produced in the River Plate Republic.

It is stated that M. van Dyck has been offered an enormous sum for taking part in a series of operatic performances to be given in connection with the forthcoming World's Fair at Chicago, but that the great tenor has declined the tempting offer.

The first novelty to be produced this season at the Imperial Opera of Vienna will be a three-act comic opera entitled "Signor Formica," the libretto, founded upon Hoffmann's well-known story, by F. Keppler, and the music by Ed. Schütt. The performance is to take place on the 4th inst., the Emperor's name-day.

The Viennese press gives currency to the following interesting statement: "Professor Tilgner, the sculptor, has recently come into the possession of a portrait in pastel, bearing the signature W. M. and the year 1786, which is believed to be the genuine and life-like portrait of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. It is a half-length life-size, in profile, and painted on parchment. So convinced is Professor Tilgner of the authenticity of the portrait that he has been induced to make some corresponding modifications in his nearly completed statue of the great composer. The picture has been examined by a number of experts in the matter, who are all of opinion that it represents a genuine and most successful portrait of Mozart."

Herr Ignaz Brüll has nearly completed a new operatic work entitled "Check to the King," the libretto founded upon a comedy of the same title by Herr Schauffert.

Operatic performances by a Polish company from Lemberg took place at the Vienna Exhibition Theatre last month, the representations including an opera, "Halka," by Moniuszko, which met with a most enthusiastic reception, the Polish element being, of course, largely represented amongst the audience.

Bizet's opera "Djamileh" is in active preparation at the Berlin Royal Opera, where its performance is looked forward to with much interest. The Berlin Institution will be the first to revive this charming work by the composer of "Carmen."

Liszt's oratorio "St. Elizabeth" will be performed next month by the united Wagner Societies of Berlin and Potsdam, under the direction of Herr Klindworth.

Anton Rubinstein is said to be occupied with writing his memoirs, the publication of which is, however, to be deferred until after his death.

Another Concert-room is to be opened shortly at Berlin by Herr Blüthner, the well-known pianoforte manufacturer of Leipzig, who has a branch establishment in the German capital. The firm in question is about to record the completion of the forty-thousandth instrument of its own manufacture.

Wagner's early opera "Die Feen," hitherto performed only at the Munich Hof-Theater, is to be produced at the German Theatre of Prague, the director of which, Herr Angelo Neumann, having acquired the right of performance from the curators of the unfortunate King Otto of Bavaria, the legal proprietor of the work.

The total receipts of this year's Bayreuth Festival performances amounted to some 600,000 marks. The Festspiele were witnessed by 7,000 English and American visitors, 4,000 Frenchmen, besides some 15,000 persons of German and other nationalities.

So far as is at present known, there will be eight performances next year of "Parsifal" only at the Bayreuth Festspielhaus, while rehearsals on a large scale will also be going forward of "Der Ring des Nibelungen," to be produced here in 1894.

A training school for young artists of both sexes is to be opened next month at Bayreuth, in connection with the Festspiele, and under the patronage of the directors of that Institution. The instruction, which will comprise the vocal, declamatory, and histrionic branches of operatic art, is to be entirely free, the only qualification being the requisite amount of talent.

The Stadt-Theater at Münster, once a flourishing institution which numbered A. Lortzing (the composer of "Czar und Zimmermann") amongst its operatic Conductors, is for sale, and will probably be converted into a commercial emporium. Want of public support is the reason for this collapse.

The Court Theatres of Southern Germany re-opened their doors last month—that of Darmstadt with Rossini's "Tell"; that of Mannheim with the "Zauberflöte"; Carlsruhe with "Der Freischütz"; and Cassel with "Don Giovanni."

The Stadt-Theater of Bremen will celebrate, on the 16th inst., the one hundredth anniversary of its foundation.

Herr Gottlieb Krüger, pianist and harpist of European reputation, the friend of Spontini, Auber, Berlioz, and Wagner, has just retired from his post as Capellmeister at the Stuttgart Opera, after fifty years' service in connection with musical art. The veteran artist received a decoration from the King of Wurtemberg on the occasion.

Dr. Muck, hitherto Capellmeister at Prague, has been appointed to the Conductorship at the Berlin Royal Opera lately become vacant by the death of Herr Kahl.

Herr Wilhelm Jahn, the director of the Vienna Opera, celebrated, on the 14th ult., the fortieth anniversary of his entering upon his artistic career, on which occasion he was presented by the members of that Institution with a marble bust of himself modelled by Professor Tilgner.

Under the title of "Anton Rubinstein. Ein Künstler-Leben," a biography of the celebrated pianist-composer, from the pen of Herr Eugen Zabels, is about to be published by the firm of B. Senff, Leipzig.

A collection of valuable musical books and manuscripts has been unearthed recently within the precincts of the Church of St. Bartholomew, at Blankenburg, in Saxony, now in course of restoration. Amongst the most rare books discovered are the Cantiones Sacræ, of H. Schütz; a Thesaurus musicus, of 1564, printed at Nuremberg; "Chansons aimables et joyeuses," by Christoph Praetorius (1581); "Nouvelles et joyeuses Chansons allemandes et françaises" (1574); a similar collection by Jean de Castro (1771); and Selectissimæ Cantiones, by Orlando Lasso. The manuscripts, some of which are unfortunately incomplete, include a number of cantatas by Benda, Kleeberg, Kirchner, and Erdmann; two masses by Haydn; and compositions by Dittersdorf and Phillip Emmanuel Bach.

It appears likely that the works of Bohemian operatic composers will ere long be introduced to German audiences, Herr Max Kalbeck, of Vienna, being just now engaged upon a German version of Smetana's operas, to be published shortly, with the music, by Messrs. Bote and Bock, of Berlin.

At one of the Concerts given last month at the Kurhaus of Scheveningen, under the direction of Herr Rudolph Herfurth, Mr. A. Bouman, violoncello virtuoso, was the recipient of a perfect ovation on the part of the audience after his performance of an Andante and Allegro from a Concerto of his own composition.

A series of model performances of opera is being planned for next year at the Coburg Court Theatre, a competent and influential committee having been formed for the promotion of the scheme, under the presidency of Duke Ernst. In connection with the project, a prize of five thousand marks has been offered by the Duke for the best one-act opera, to be competed for by composers of German and Austrian nationality.

Herr Cyril Kistler's new opera, "Kunihild," is to be produced during the present season at the Wurzburg Stadt-Theater, under the auspices of a syndicate of admirers of the composer who have subscribed a sufficient fund for the purpose.

Madame Elise Wibürg, the young Norwegian singer who interpreted the part of Elizabeth at the recent "Tannhäuser" performances at Bayreuth, has been presented by Frau Cosima Wagner with a gold watch set in diamonds, as a memento of her participation in the Festspiele.

A monument was unveiled on August 26, at Heligoland, to the poet Hoffmann von Fallersleben, whose lyrics have been repeatedly set to music by German composers.

It is stated that after a few months' tenure of the office, Count Geza Zichy has resigned the directorship of the Buda-Pesth Theatre, owing to disagreement with the committee of management of that Institution.

Both M. Massenet and M. Camille Saint-Saëns have entered upon an agreement to conduct a series of Concerts at the Chicago Exhibition.

Mozart's "Zauberflöte" is to be revived shortly at the Paris Opéra Comique, with Mdlle. Sibyl Sanderson as the Queen of the Night; a part not easily filled by modern prime donne.

M. Massenet is just now engaged upon the score of a new opera, entitled "Thaïs," the libretto of which, from the pen of M. Louis Gallet, is founded upon a novel by M. Anatole France.

At the Paris Folies-Dramatiques, a three-act operetta, "Le Meunier d'Alcola," music by M. J. Clérice, is just now in course of being mounted. The work was first produced some three years since at Lisbon, where it achieved an enormous success.

The statue of Méhul, erected at his native town of Givet, in France, is to be unveiled on the 2nd inst., amidst appropriate ceremonies, including the performance of a cantata, specially written for the occasion. The statue is the work of the eminent French sculptor, M. Croisy, and was exhibited at the Paris Salon of 1889.

A new operatic work, entitled "Le Drack," jointly written by the brothers Hillemacher, of Paris, has been submitted to the director of the Théâtre de la Monnaie, Brussels, and will probably be brought out ere long at that establishment. The libretto of the work is founded upon one of the many picturesque legends associated with Brittany.

In connection with the recent Rossini celebrations held at Pesaro, a one-act opera, "La Bella d'Alghero," by a pupil of the Liceo Rossini, Giovanni Fara-Musio, was performed at that Institution, and met with a complete success, the work being considered of high promise for the future career of the young composer.

A new comic opera by the talented Portuguese composer Senhor Cyriaco de Cardozo, entitled "Solar das Barrigas," is shortly to be produced at the Theatre of the Rua dos Condes, in Lisbon.

Signor Sonzogno, the enterprising Italian publisher, having recently opened a fresh competition for a new opera, his invitation has been responded to by no less than sixty Italian composers, out of whose works twelve were selected as of superior merit by the jury, before whom their respective composers played their works through at the pianoforte. Two prizes were eventually awarded, the first to Signor G. B. Coronaro, of Vicenza, for his opera "Festa a Marina," and the second to Signor Ernesto Boezi, of Rome, for one entitled "Don Paez." The successful works will be performed during the autumn.

Signor Mascagni, having completed his new opera "I Rantzau," is said to be already engaged upon two short operatic works, entitled "Zanetto" and "Vestilia," after the completion of which he will take in hand an important and ambitious score, the libretto of which is being written for the young Maëstro by SS. Menasci and Torgioni-Tazetti. The title of this new work is to be "Nero," and the book will be founded upon Robert Hammerling's brilliant and powerful poem "Ahasuerus in Rome."

A committtee, with Cardinal Bianchi, Bishop of Palestrina, at its head, has been formed in Italy, for the purpose of raising the necessary funds for the erection, in that town, of a monument to Palestrina, the greatest of Italian composers for the church. It is hoped that the monument in question will be unveiled in February, 1894, the tercentenary of the composer's birth, when some special festivities are to take place in his native town.

A marble bust of Verdi has just been placed in the vestibule of the Theatre La Fenice, Venice, where it forms a pendant to that of Rossini, placed there some years ago. The bust is the work of an eminent sculptor, Signor Augusto Benvenuti, and is said to be in every respect a most successful work of art. At the base of the bust are engraved the titles of the five operas written by the Maëstro expressly for the Fenice, and produced here for the first time—viz., "Attila," "Ernani," "Rigoletto," "La Traviata," and "Simon Boccanegra."

A hymn, written for the occasion by Signor Mascagni, was performed in connection with the inauguration, on August 28, of the monument erected to the late King Victor Emanuel at Leghorn.

Signor Salvatore Gallotti, a distinguished composer of church music, has been appointed musical director of Milan Cathedral in the room of the Maëstro Gallignani, who has succeeded the late Franco Faccio in the directorship of the Conservatorio at Parma.

A monument has just been unveiled, at Rome, to the composer Eugenio Terziani. A number of musical societies and artists assisted in the ceremonies, which included the performance of some portions from Terziani's opera L'Assedio di Firenze."

Columbus celebrations are to be held at Rio de Janeiro, among other places in America, for which occasion a festival cantata entitled "Colombo" has been written by the Brazilian composer Senhor Gomez, the successful author of the opera "Guarany."

It is stated that the new score upon which Verdi is now engaged is that of an opera, "King Lear," the libretto by Arrigo Boïto, which the veteran Maëstro had taken in hand some years ago, and after sketching a few scenes had laid aside again.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MOZART'S SONATA IN B FLAT.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—My thanks are due to "Mozartean" for his endeavour to throw some light upon this question. I, however, fail to see that the two authorities he mentions show that the B natural is "in accordance with the accepted laws as to passing notes"—firstly, because the paragraph he quotes from Macfarren's Harmony seems to refer only to passing notes by leap; and secondly, because that in Mr. Prout's Harmony does not embrace the case in point, as appears from section 262 of the same book. As this section refers to an example in which the chord and passing note are identical with the passage under discussion, it may be worth while to give it here in Mr. Prout's own words. He says: "Another curious example of an auxiliary note at the distance of a diminished octave from the harmony note is found in one of Bach's Church Cantatas:—

Here the effect is much harsher than in the passage from Beethoven just quoted, and the extract is not given for the student's imitation, but to show its harmonic possibility." To mention only one other authority, the B natural seems contrary to the laws as laid down by Richter in his "Counterpoint" (translated by Mr. Franklin Taylor), page 36.

However, when I spoke of the laws as to passing notes I did not mean so much what can be found in the works of the great composers as the general laws revealed by such works taken as a whole and by the tendency of progress. So far as I can read the law relating to passing notes, it seems to be one requiring the passing note below to be semitonic. The very fact of a leaning towards the change proves a feeling after a natural law. In the case of the fifth of the chord, the tone below passing note soon gave way under the light thus dawning, as Mr Prout recognises in the foot-note to the very section quoted by "Mozartean." Why the tone below passing note to the third of the chord should survive longer is possibly because it is much more tolerable, and is consequently to be found much more frequently. The question is whether there is any real difference between the one and the other, and whether, in looking at the works of the great composers as a whole, we do not find one and the same law regulating both.

So far as both notes are permissible as passing notes, law can be only a matter of taste; and surely one can hardly consider the B natural good taste. Seeing Mozart's leaning to the semitonic passing note even to the third of the chord, it seems strange (to say the least) that with a choice before him he should have written the B natural when that sounds so execrable; it is also out of keeping with the sequence in the bass, and is increased in offensiveness by the B natural having in the previous chord already served as a passing note to C natural.—Yours truly,

George Langley.

Eastbourne, September 22, 1892.

THE MUSIC OF WATER.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—At this holiday season of the year one expects even the most erudite of litterateurs to become light-some and the most earnest of journals to relax its stern-ness, but surely the article on "The Music of Water" in your last issue exceeds permissible licence. I do not think there is a single statement of fact, argument, or assertion in it from beginning to end which is not open to challenge. To prove my words, let us take merely the first paragraph of the article. This contains fifteen sentences, each containing at least one proposition, not one of which claims my assent. The statements of the second and third sentences are contradicted by the accounts later on (for which one would like to know your contributor's authority) of the wonderful games of the Greeks and the Brazilian savages. Sentence 4 says that "Water, more than any other element in nature, is the essentially musical substance in the world." Why so, more than stones or sticks of wood? Sentence 7 says that "The gurgling of a brook is one of the most musically satisfying sounds in nature, because it embodies the trill." Well, I merely reply that it isn't and it doesn't. Sentence 12 says: "Water alone, of all substances in nature, is capable of such rhythmic effects in its own natural state." Not at all: the rustle of leaves or other substances in the wind, the rumble of thunder (not a substance, though, this), the crackle of thorns under the pot and that which Solomon has likened thereto, all these are sounds of nature, and far more definitely rhythmical than the patter of rain-drops, which is no more striking than the patter of stones down a cliff when the sun shines after frost. But, indeed, that much abused word rhythm is wholly out of place in such connection. Rhythm implies regular patterns of accents and these do not exist in nature.

"The splash of water," says the writer, "is a very varied thing." Yes, just as varied as the body, the concussion of which provokes it. Then comes the account of that Greek game which is very charming—if true. But is it an ascertained fact that this feeble pastime was "as favourite and engrossing a pursuit as tennis or racquets with us"?

The statement about De la Rive's experiment is, as it stands, pure nonsense. Vapour, it seems, was condensed in a thermometer until the inherent melody came out in chunks. This must indeed have been a "peculiar process," and by deeming it "not necessary to be alluded to here," your contributor has deprived his article of its strongest feature. Then we are told that "through any large sheet of ice there is always some one note humming," and, presumably, waiting for some one to boil it out in a thermometer bulb. About the Brazilian perpetual-motion machine I need say nothing; I too would gladly "linger by it for hours together," and make a little fortune by patenting it too. But it is a pity your contributor did not end with the imposing climax of these Munchausenisms. The subsequent information about water-clocks and hydraulic motors is sadly flat, besides having nothing in the world to do with the subject. As well, in speaking of human music, describe the common organ-blower.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

F. C.

MR. VOGT AND ORATORIO IN CANADA.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—I notice in The Musical Times for August some extracts from the Reading (Penn.) Musical News relative to a "crusade" against oratorio, which has been represented by certain parties as having been written by me. The journal you quote has since investigated the matter, and in the interests of fair play I forward you its more recent and enlightened editorial comments with reference to the supposed "onslaught" on the "oratorio nuisance," trusting you may do me the justice to publish them as well.

I feel certain that, had you been in possession of the facts of the case, no such influences as inspired your attack upon me in your issue of last May would have had the effect desired by your informant, whose hazy conduct in this affair has been severely and generally commented on here, where the merits of the case are understood. I have given your informant an opportunity of discussing the points raised in my letter, which he has misrepresented to you. He has, instead, seen fit to forward you the misleading comments of a New York journal as the basis of a personal attack upon me.

A recent issue of the Musical Standard contains the indignant repudiation of Mr. F. H. Torrington, of this city, of any connection with the cowardly intrigue which inspired comment on supposed statements of mine. While Mr. Torrington in this way openly disapproves of such conduct, I regret that he should feel that any suspicion should attach to him in the matter. The original letter, as written by me, was simply a plea for the encouragement of orchestral music in our midst. It was admitted on all sides to have been a timely article, and I am pleased to notice that many suggestions contained in it are now being acted upon. It contained absolutely nothing reflecting on oratorio as an institution, nor upon the part played by it as an educator.

It is a feature of musical life in Toronto that any independent expression of opinion is frowned down in certain quarters, especially if said opinion emanates from musicians "just returned from school." It is worthy of note that such exceptions are taken by men who have never attended any school.

It will be found as difficult to stifle honest opinion here as to set up a musical dictatorship, and, as in the past, I will continue to express myself when occasion demands it, asking no other favour than that my opinions may be judged upon their merits, and not, as in this case, upon untruthful reports of the same.—Yours truly,

A. S. Vogt.

Toronto, August 13, 1892.

"THE MESSIAH" IN SCOTLAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Would you kindly permit me to correct an error which appears in the notice sent by your Glasgow correspondent last month. In it he says "Handel's work ('Messiah') was given on April 2, 1844, for the first time North of the Tweed." The date is correct so far as Glasgow is concerned, but it is in error as regards other places in Scotland. The Edinburgh Musical Society, which existed from 1728 to 1800, had Handel's special permission to perform his oratorios, and they frequently gave complete performances of "The Messiah." Of other complete performances may be mentioned Urban's Choir (Edinburgh), 1803; Edinburgh Musical Festival, 1815; Edinburgh Musical Festival, 1819; Edinburgh Musical Festival, 1824; Edinburgh Professional Society of Musicians, 1819-1824; Aberdeen, 1828; Wilkinson's Choir, 1839; Edinburgh Choral Society, 1840; and Edinburgh Festival (opening of Music Hall), 1843.—Yours truly,

R. A. M.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

Baritone.—It is impossible to say; the "break" does not occur exactly at the same place in all voices of the same kind.

C. M. Lees, Conway.—We know no biography of the gentleman you name.

Viola.—Certainly not—unless, indeed, you have an exceptionally weak brain.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Catterick, Yorks.—A series of Organ Recitals after Evening Service on Sundays has been commenced at the Parish Church. Mr. Jas. Finlay, of Peebles, gave the first, which was much appreciated, on the 11th ult. His programme included works by Haydn, Mendelssohn, Gounod, Widor, &c.

Crewkerne.—An Organ Recital was given in the Parish Church on Monday, the 12th ult., by the Organist, Mr. Louis A. Brookes. The following programme was listened to by a large congregation—Allegro, Mozart; Hear my Prayer, Mendelssohn; Largo Cantabile, Haydn; Fugue on "St. Anne's" Tune, Bach; "Gondola Song," Spohr; Poco Adagio, Kozeluch; Larghetto, Beethoven; Marche Militaire, R. H. Pearce.

Eastbourne.—On the 15th ult. the seventh Classical Concert was given at Devonshire Park, under the direction of Mr. Norfolk Megone. The orchestra gave a good account of itself in Beethoven's First Symphony and pieces by Berlioz, and also played the accompaniments to the first movement of Rubinstein's D minor Concerto. the pianoforte part of which was ably rendered by Miss Margaret Gyde, and to Saint-Saëns's Rondo Capriccioso, of which the violin part was well rendered by Miss Joseph Harmer. Vocal pieces were contributed by Miss Lucille Saunders and Mr. Albert McGuckin. Miss Gyde also played Saint-Saëns's Caprice on Airs from Alceste, gaining an encore.

Epping.—On the 4th ult. a Festival Evensong was well rendered in the new Parish Church of St. John's, by the Epping Forest Church Choir Association. Mr. J. W. Ullyett conducted, and the organists were Mr. Henry Riding and Mr. Donald Penrose. A similar service was also held in St. John's, Loughton, on the 14th ult.

Herne Bay.—An Organ Recital was given in the Parish Church on the 14th ult., after the Evening Service, by Mr. E. A. Cruttenden, Organist, when the following programme of music was rendered:—Overture to Samson (Handel), Reverie des Alpes (E. A. Cruttenden), Grand Fantasia, "The Storm" (Lemmens), "O for the wings of a dove" (Mendelssohn), Marche des Rois Mages (Dubois), "My heart ever faithful" (Bach), and March in C (Spohr).

Kimberley (South Africa).—A most successful Concert was given by the Trinity Church Choir on Thursday, August 11, Mr. A. R. Gaul's Sacred Cantata The Holy City being heard in its entirety for the first time in Kimberley. The work was well received. The soloists were Miss Anderson, Mrs. W. J. Atkinson, Miss Alexander, and Messrs. E. Vincent, R. Blaine, and D. Edwards. The choristers were well up to their work and under their able Conductor, Mr. Neville, everything went smoothly. Mr. J. W. Ellison, the Organist, very ably discharged the duties of accompanist.

Lowestoft.—On the 15th ult. an excellent costume Recital of Balfe's pretty operetta the Sleeping Queen was given on the Pier by Miss Kate Fusselle, Miss Susetta Fenn, Mr. Sinclair Dunn, and Mr. F. Swinford. The same party gave The Waterman on the 17th. Dr. Bunnett conducted.

Malvern, Jamaica.—A miscellaneous Concert, part of which was of a high order, was given in aid of the funds of a local church on the evening of August 26. Vocal and instrumental solos and duets were ably given by Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Fyfe, Mrs. Earle, Miss Isaacs, Miss Earle, Miss Lofthouse, Miss Geddes, Mr. Harvey Clark, Mr. Delapenha, and Mr. Harold Isaacs. The violoncello playing of Mr. Carl Hindermann, accompanied by Mrs. Earle, is worthy of special commendation.

Newcastle-on-Tyne.—Mr. George Dodds, jun., gave an Organ Recital in the Heaton Road Wesleyan Methodist Chapel on the 7th ult. The programme included works by Mendelssohn, Gounod, Hérold, and Thomas.

Ripon.—Mr. J. Allanson Benson's Oratorio King Hezekiah was given in the Congregational Church of this town by a large choir, under the direction of the composer, on the 19th ult. Miss Fanny Sellers was especially good in the soprano solos; while Miss Barraclough, Mr. S. Sewell, and Mr. W. E. Morley ably sustained the other principal solo parts. Mr. G. Musgrove (of Harrogate) presided at the organ.

Choir Appointments.—Mr. W. H. Cradock (Bass) to Armagh Cathedral.—Mr. Albert Jole, Conductor to the Royal Indian Engineering College Musical Society.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. John E. V. Bostock, Organist to the Moss Side Unitarian Free Church, Manchester.—Mr. Munro Davison, Organist to St. Anne's, Pooles Park, Holloway.—Mr. Lovell Harrison, Organist and Choirmaster to St. James's, Muswell Hill.—Mr. C. Randolph Standen, Organist and Choirmaster to Free High Church, Kilmarnock.

MARRIAGES.

On the 3rd ult., at Holy Trinity Church, Llandudno, by the Rev. J. Morgan, Rector, Herbert Walter Wareing, Mus. Doc., Cantab., to Louisa, eldest daughter of E. J. Millward, Esq., of Monyhull Hall, King's Norton.

On the 8th ult., at Christ Church, Brondesbury, J. E. Augustus Toop (Organist of St. Peter's Church, Vere Street, and Pianist to Mr. Stedman) to Mary Amy, eldest daughter of Barron A. Mordaunt, of Stoneleigh, Cricklewood.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Tschaikowsky's Opera "Eugeny Onegin"	585
From my Study	586
Beethoven's Sketch Books—No. 5. Various Sketches	589
Giovánni and Benvenuto Cellini	592
Occasional Notes	593
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	596
Gloucester Musical Festival	598
Cardiff Musical Festival	600
"Haddon Hall" at the Savoy Theatre	601
"Cigarette"	601
"The Wedding Eve"	601
National Temperance Choral Union	601
The Musical and Ecclesiastical Exhibition	602
The Rhyl Eisteddfod	602
Early Arabic Music	603
Swiss Musical Festival	603
Obituary	605
Music in Birmingham	606
„ Bradford	606
„ Bristol	611
„ Dublin	611
„ Edinburgh	611
„ Glasgow	611
„ Liverpool	612
„ Manchester	612
Anthem.—"Whosoever drinketh of this water." J. T. Field	607
General News (London)	613
Reviews	613
Foreign Notes	615
Correspondence	617
Answers to Correspondents	618
General News (Country)	618
List of Music published during the last Month	620

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
To ensure insertion, Advertisements should reach the Office
NOT LATER THAN THE
TWENTY-THIRD
OF EACH MONTH.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

DR. H. KEETON'S
NO. 5.—CHURCH AND CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD.
Paper cover, 2s., net; cloth, 3s., net, post-free. Just issued.

In the Press.
DR. E. H. TURPIN'S ORGAN METHOD.

EDWIN HOLLAND'S
METHOD OF VOICE PRODUCTION.

CHAS. WEBB'S
TONIC SOL-FA CLASS-SINGING METHOD.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS.

SIXTY-SEVEN NUMBERS, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, including the celebrated Glees "The Village Chorister," "God bless the Prince of Wales," Benedict's "Hunting Song," Kücken's "Blanche," &c.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS

FOR LADIES' VOICES.
Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S

NEW EDITION OF
STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES,
Thoroughly Revised, Re-fingered, and Newly Engraved, specially for the Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations.
"This series is one of the best musical publications of the day, highly to be recommended to Professors and Teachers."—The Graphic.
151 Numbers ready. List on application.

Also "CLASSICAL MUSIC" (NEW SERIES)
SELECTED, FINGERED, AND EDITED BY
ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER,
Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.
72 Numbers ready. List on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.
BEST'S COLLECTION OF ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
New Editions at reduced prices.
Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORGAN
By DR. E. J. HOPKINS and DR. E. F. RIMBAULT.
This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.
Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN MUSIC.

NEW COMPOSITIONS by EMILE SAURET, JOHANNES WOLFF, OTTO PEINIGER, and TIVADAR NACHEZ.
List on application.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.
Translated by John Bishop. The only version approved by Spohr.
Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.
Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

Ready shortly. Each song in two keys.
NEW SERIES OF ARTISTIC $\frac{a}{b}$ SONGS.
EIGHT SETTINGS OF POEMS BY HEINE
(English and German words)
By FRANCES ALLITSEN.

SIX SETTINGS OF POEMS BY ROBERT BRIDGES
By HAMISH MacCUNN.
Detailed Lists on application.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

DAVID, FERDINAND.—Five pieces for Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 31. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Albums for Violin and Pianoforte.) Paper cover, 2s. 6d. For list of contents, see Advertisement, page 622.

GRAY, ALAN.—"Arethusa." Poem by Shelley. Set to music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. To be performed at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

HANDEL SELECTION. To be performed at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

HOFMANN, HEINRICH.—"Kirmess." Rustic Pictures. For Pianoforte Duet. Books I. and II. Paper cover, 3s. each. For list of contents, see Advertisement, page 638.

PHILLIPS, ALFRED.—Thirteen Voluntaries. For Organ, Harmonium, or American Organ. Paper cover, 1s.

TOZER, FERRIS.—"King Neptune's Daughter." A Cantata for Female Voices. Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

VIEUXTEMPS, H.—Four pieces for Violin and Pianoforte. (No. 32. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Albums for Violin and Pianoforte.) Paper cover, 2s. 6d. For list of contents, see Advertisement, page 622.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, No. 4. "Sabbath stillness." Unaccompanied Trio, for S.S.A. By Franz Abt. "St. George for England." Trio, for S.S.A. (or S.C.B.), with ad libitum accompaniment. By G. A. Macfarren. "Oh! dear! what can the matter be?" Arranged for Two Parts (Unaccompanied.) Old English Song. Specimen Tune and Time Tests, for Pupil Teachers and Schools. For Division IV. and 2nd Year Pupil Teachers. 1½d.

FREWER, FRANK.—(in F.) Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

BARNICOTT, O. R.—"The heavens are telling." Harvest Anthem for Treble and Bass Soli and Chorus. 3d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR S.—"O ye that love the Lord." Short Anthem for Four Voices. (Novello's Short Anthems, No. 44.) 1½d.

DAVIES, ROCHFORT.—"I will lift up mine eyes" and "Send out Thy light." Two Introits or Short Anthems. 3d.

HARDING, J. P.—"Brightest and best of the sons of the morning." A Carol. For Christmas. 2d.

HODSON, H. E.—"Praise the Lord, ye heavens adore Him." Anthem for Four Voices. 4d.

HORAN, J.—"I was glad." Anthem. 4d.

JONES, W. OWEN.—"Not unto us, O Lord." Anthem. 4d.

SPALDING, SYDNEY T.—"While the shepherds were abiding." Christmas Anthem. For Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus. 3d.

HASLAM, WALTER E.—Kyrie eleison. 1d.

HOPE, MILDRED BERESFORD.—Eucharistic Hymns. For the Church's Seasons. Paper cover. 3d.

TOZER, FERRIS.—Six Offertory Sentences. 2d.

WEBSTER, J. H.—Hymn. To be used at the conclusion of Divine Service. 1d.

MEE, JOHN H.—"Love's Name." A cheerful Glee. The words written by Samuel T. Coleridge. 3d.

BARNBY, JOSEPH.—"Constancy." Song. 2s.

CELLIER, ALFRED.—"Cradle Song." Song. 2s.

CORDER, F.—"Love's Journey." Song. 2s.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—"Truant wings." Song. 2s.

GOODHART, ARTHUR M.—"Love." Song. Poetry by Thomas Davidson (1680). 2s.

LLOYD, CHARLES H.—"In summer weather." Song. 2s.

MACCUNN, HAMISH.—"A Song of the South." Song. 2s.

MACKENZIE, A. C.—"Robin, sly." Song. 2s.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"The Maid of Elsinore." Song. 2s.

SOMERVELL, ARTHUR.—"A pretty Maid." Song. 2s.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

STANFORD, C. V.—"For ever mine." Song. 2s.

THOMAS, A. GORING.—"To welcome you." Song. 2s.

WOOD, CHARLES.—"The Windflower." Song. 2s.

NICHOL, H. ERNEST.—"Cressida." Gavotte. For the Pianoforte. 2s.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

			s.	d.
No. 160.	Adagio, in A	Otto Dienel	1	0
„ 161.	Scherzando, in A minor	Otto Dienel	1	0
„ 164.	Two Preludes	Percy W. Pilcher	1	6

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNaught.

No. 758.	Absence	J. L. Hatton	1d.
„ 761.	Honour the Lord	J. Stainer	1½d.
„ 762.	Lo! Summer comes again	"	3d.
„ 763.	My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord"	John E. West	1½d.
„ 764.	Lord of the harvest	J. Barnby	1½d.
„ 765.	Lift up your heads	S. Coleridge-Taylor	1d.
„ 766.	Dies Iræ	Cherubini	3d.
Hope		Charles Vincent	1½d.
I will lay me down in peace		H. Gadsby	1d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS:—

Book 3.	Six easy Duets	A. Moffat	4d.
„ 4.	Six Easy Duets	A. Moffat	4d.
„ 5.	Six Two-part Songs	Various Composers	4d.
„ 6.	Six Two-part Songs	Various Composers	4d.
„ 7.	Six Two-part Songs	Various Composers	4d.
„ 8.	Six Two-part Songs	Various Composers	4d.
„ 9.	Six Two-part Songs	Various Composers	4d.
„ 10.	Five Two-part Songs	Various Composers	4d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Separate Numbers:—

No. 25.	Under the greenwood tree	Charles Wood	1d.
„ 26.	The Swallow's flight	Battison Haynes	1d.
„ 27.	Merry Songsters	John Kinross	1d.
„ 28.	Waken not the sleeper	Carl Reinecke	1½d.
„ 29.	Evening Song	Mendelssohn
„ 30.	Whither	Franz Abt	1d.
„ 31.	The Violet's plea	Franz Abt	1½d.
„ 32.	Evening	Henry Smart
„ 33.	After the rain	Ciro Pinsuti	1d.
„ 34.	The merry maidens	Rubinstein	1½d.
„ 35.	Spring song	Schumann
„ 36.	Sweet bells of Eve	Battison Haynes	1d.
„ 37.	All seek for rest	Franz Abt	1½d.
„ 38.	May Song	Schumann
„ 39.	Song from "Ruy Blas"	Mendelssohn	1½d.
„ 40.	Good-night	Carl Reinecke
„ 41.	I sing because I love to sing	Ciro Pinsuti	1d.
„ 42.	Violets	F. H. Cowen	1d.
„ 43.	O come, ye flow'rets	Franz Abt	1½d.
„ 44.	Hunter's Song	John Kinross
„ 45.	Cleansing fires	F. H. Cowen	1d.
„ 46.	O beautiful violet	Carl Reinecke	1d.
„ 47.	The Sabbath bell	Henry Smart	1½d.
„ 48.	In the distance	Franz Abt	1½d.
„ 49.	The Sabbath Morn	Mendelssohn
„ 50.	Out in the Sunshine	Ciro Pinsuti	1d.
„ 51.	The Angel	Rubinstein	1d.
„ 52.	To the Nightingale	Schumann	1½d.
„ 53.	Now the bright morning star	Charles Wood
„ 54.	Winds are blowing	Battison Haynes	1d.
„ 55.	In a Gondola	Franz Abt	1d.
„ 56.	If Hope were but a Fairy	Myles B. Foster	1d.
„ 57.	O Summer Morning	G. A. Macfarren	1d.
„ 58.	In April	J. L. Hatton	1d.

MUSICAL NEWS

24 Pages and Cover. 1d. Weekly.

Posted to Subscribers, 6s. 6d.; Abroad, 8s. 6d. per annum.

Sold at Messrs. Smith's Railway Bookstalls.

A high-class paper for the Profession, Students, and Amateurs. Reports and comments on musical events at home and abroad. Leading Articles. Correspondence. Critical notices of the best Concerts and other performances. Lectures reported. New music and books reviewed. Technical information about instruments and new inventions. Supplements given with Portraits of eminent musicians; illustrations for special articles, music, fac-similes of MSS. Examination papers for which Prizes are given.

MONTHLY POPULAR PRIZE COMPETITIONS.

A valuable medium for Advertisements.

Office: 130, Fleet Street, London.

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.—SUITE for ORCHESTRA. Full Score, 5s.; Band parts, 16s. Op. 27. Also Six Hymns for Chorus and Orchestra, for use either for instruments alone or as accompaniments at Festivals. Full Score, 2s. 6d.; parts, 5s. Composed by Sir Herbert Oakeley, Op. 31 (a).

Schott and Co., London, Mayence, Brussels, and Paris.

MADAME

CARLOTTA IDE

(SOPRANO)

Is now booking Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, At Homes, &c.

Répertoire includes—

"Messiah,"
"Creation,"
"Last Judgment,"
"Crucifixion,"
"St. Paul,"
"Hymn of Praise,"
"Judas Maccabæus,"
"Rose Maiden,"
"May Day,"
&c., &c.

For terms, Press notices, and references, address—

MADAME CARLOTTA IDE,
2, Dorville Road, Lee, S.E.

MR. T. HENRY BREARLEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., address, 13, Earl St., Claremount, Halifax.

MR. R. E. STUTCHFIELD (Baritone)
Concerts, &c., 34, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. HENRY POPE (Bass)
(Royal Choral Society Concerts, late Carl Rosa Opera, &c.).
Address, 19, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor), late principal Tenor, Carl Rosa Opera Company, Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Company, and the St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, is now booking Engagements for Opera, Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. HARPER KEARTON (in consequence of rumours to the contrary which have reached him) begs to announce that he is now perfectly restored to health, and will sing in October as follows: Newcastle, 3; Armourers' Hall, 6; Pimlico Rooms, 7; Southport, 10; Carpenters' Hall, 11; Ashford, 13; Cannon Street Hotel, 14; Shoreditch Town Hall, 16; Wolverhampton, 17; St. George's Hall, 23; Canterbury, 27; St. James's Hall, 28; Southsea, 29. Address, 38, Salcott Road, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

ALTO (Parchment Cert. Master) seeks RE-APPOINT. in Cathedral (or other) School, and in good choir. Exceptional voice. Cathedral experience. Ref., Dean and Chapter and Dr. Monk of Truro Cathedral. Address, E., 27, Broad St., Truro.

VOLUNTARY CHOIR.—WANTED, for a Choir in the West-End, gentlemen with TENOR and BASS Voices; good readers, who would take an interest in Choir work and attend regularly. Practice on Friday evening; two Services on Sunday. Fine Church and good Organ. M. O., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FOUR or FIVE VOLUNTEERS (Male Voices) will be welcomed in the Choir of Holy Trinity, Gray's Inn Road. Full choral services. To a leading Alto and Tenor a moderate stipend offered. Apply, by letter, to Rector, 252B, Gray's Inn Road.

MASTER A. CATTERALL (aged 9 years). Open for Concerts as a SOLO VIOLINIST. Performed twice, by desire, before H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh. Also, Concerts at Liverpool, Naval Exhibition, Manchester, Kendal, Usher College. Solos played as by matured man. See opinions of the press. All pronounce him a prodigy. 15, Stanley Street, Preston, Lancashire.

SINGING and THE VOICE.—INSTRUCTION GIVEN by Mr. FREDERIC PENNA (Baritone). All rules practically illustrated in Italian and German Song, and English Oratorios. 2, Clarendon Gardens, Maida Vale, W.

ORGANIST WANTED. Thorough musician and Choirmaster. Good Churchman; communicant. Apply, with copies of testimonials, Rector, Parish Church, Ledbury.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST.—WANTED, by a West-End Organist (Mus. Bac.), a gentleman able to take plain Service and the training of the Choirboys on one evening in the week. Practice allowed in return on good 3-manual Organ with hydraulic engine, and possibly Lessons to anyone willing to work. Apply, M. O., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

SITUATION in the Colonies as ORGANIST WANTED, by an experienced man. 17 years' references. Address, M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, by a London Firm, for out-door work. Must be thoroughly competent and reliable. Apply, stating age, experience, and salary required, to Unison, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED TUNER WANTED. Must be steady, reliable, of good character, and know his business thoroughly. To a suitable man a permanent situation, with good wages, is offered. Concordia, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER and REGULATOR, just leaving factory (four years), requires SITUATION. Disengaged end of October. London preferred. Good references. H. M., Novello, Ewer and Co.

WANTED, a First-class PIANO TUNER, for the North. State age and salary required, to A. B. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The following are the earlier arrangements for the Session: November 1, Lecture; December 6, Lecture; January 10, 11, 12, F.C.O. Examination; January 17, 18, 19, A.C.O. Examination.

The following are the Solo-Playing test pieces at the F.C.O. Examination, to take place early in January: Bach's Fourth Sonata (1st and 2nd movements); Merkel's Sonata, No. 6, in E minor; and Wesley's Fugue in G.

The College Library and Rooms open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

FOR SALE, STEINWAY PIANO. No. 2, Upright Grand, handsome black case; carefully used under two years. Also sixteen volumes Handel's works; full score; accompaniment for organ or piano; large print, perfect. Mrs. Rogers, Richmond, Yorks.

MUSICAL MONTHLY MAGAZINE for SALE, through owner leaving London. Established five years. Large and genuine circulation. Address, first instance, C., 24, Eckstein Road, Clapham Junction, S.W.

PARTNERSHIP.—WANTED, a PARTNER, with about £15,000, in a large and well-known PIANOFORTE MANUFACTURING BUSINESS. Established over fifty years. Ample and undeniable security for capital invested. Principals or their Solicitors only need reply. For full particulars, apply to Mr. W. E. Pearse, Chartered Accountant, 145, Cannon Street, E.C.

Pianofortes by the leading Makers, Harps by Erard, Organs, Harmoniums, and other Musical Instruments, Books, Paintings, &c.

DEBENHAM, STORR and SONS will Sell by Auction, at their Mart, King Street, Covent Garden, on Monday, October 3, at Twelve o'clock, Wednesday, the 5th, and Saturday, the 8th, SURGICAL, MUSICAL, OPTICAL, and other INSTRUMENTS, VALUABLE BRONZES, PAINTINGS, BOOKS, and CURIOSITIES.

On Tuesday, the 4th, Books in all classes of Literature, many in handsome bindings.

On Thursday, the 6th, Harps by Erard; Pianofortes by Broadwood, Collard, Holdernesse, Erard, and other well-known makers; American Organs, Harmoniums, Musical Boxes, Violoncellos, Guitars, rare Enamels, China and Bronzes, and other interesting items.

On Friday, the 7th, Gallery and Cabinet Paintings, principally by modern Artists, Proof Etchings and Engravings, beautiful Drawings, &c.

On Monday, the 10th, modern Pianofortes, Harmoniums, &c., rare English and Foreign China, Miniatures, Bronzes, Telescopes, Microscopes, Opera and Marine Glasses, Carvings.

On Tuesday, the 11th, the second portion of the Collection of Paintings.

On Wednesday, the 12th, and following day, Optical, Surgical, and Scientific Instruments, Guitars, Banjos, Clarinets, and other Musical Instruments, Paintings, Drawings, and Miscellanies.

Ten Days' Sale.—On View the day before and morning of Sale. Catalogues Post-free.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE
TO THE
MUSICAL PROFESSION.

For the Season, 1892-3.

CONTENTS.

Holders of British Degrees and Diplomas.—Particulars of the London Churches, over 500 in number—i.e., Names of Clergy, Organists, Historical descriptions of the Organs, with Builders' names; Style of Service and hours of same, Seating accommodation, and various other information.—Cathedral Establishments.—Collegiate Chapters.—Chapels Royal, with full details.—London and County Choral and Orchestral Societies, with Conductors, Accompanists, Secretaries' names, number of Chorus, particulars of Works in Rehearsal or Performed.—Institutions, Colleges, Schools.—A General Professional List, containing about 4,000 Names and Addresses, including the same class of details respecting the principal Country Churches as given about the London Churches. There are also many interesting articles about different Institutions and on various subjects.

THOSE REQUIRING ANY KIND OF ENGAGEMENTS will find that this work offers exceptional advantages. It is also referred to by Concert-Givers and those requiring Vocalists and Instrumentalists of any description.

First Part of Work, price 6d.; Complete, 2s. 6d.

Messrs. Weekes and Co., Hanover Street, W.
J. Maxwell and Co., 14 and 15, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, W.C.
J. Hawkins, 17, Paternoster Row, E.C.

ADVENT.—NEW HYMN: "Say, watchman, what of the night?" By the Rev. Canon Ellerton. Specially suitable for Advent, and written expressly for the setting, by R. Brown-Borthwick, of an older Hymn in the same metre and commencing with the same first line. Price Threepence net; per dozen, Half-a-crown. Copies of the words only, for congregational use, price One Shilling per 100. London: Henry Frowde, Amen Corner, E.C.

ANCIENT CHRISTMAS CAROLS

ARRANGED FOR FOUR VOICES

BY

EDMUND SEDDING.

THREE SERIES.

MUSIC, 1s. EACH SERIES. WORDS ONLY, 1½D. EACH SERIES.

FIRST SERIES.

1. THE FIRST NOWELL.
2. A VIRGIN MOST PURE.
3. THE LORD AT FIRST.
4. GOD'S DEAR SON.
5. WHEN GOD AT FIRST.
6. A DAY OF GLORY.
7. SING OF MAIDEN MARY.
8. MASTERS, IN THIS HALL.
9. OUR MASTER HATH A GARDEN.

SECOND SERIES.

1. THE CEDAR OF LEBANON.
2. LET US THE INFANT GREET.
3. TO-DAY IN PERFECT GLADNESS.
4. TIDINGS TRUE.
5. WHO IS THERE THAT SINGETH SO, NOWELL?
6. WASSEYL.
7. JOY HATH COME TO EARTH AGAIN.

THIRD SERIES.

1. THE CEERRY-TREE CAROL.
2. LET CHRISTIANS ALL.
3. GOD REST YOU MERRY, GENTLEMEN.
4. THE ANGEL GABRIEL.
5. ALL YOU THAT ARE.
6. A PEAL AT SILENT MIDNIGHT-TIDE.
7. THE HOLLY AND THE IVY.
8. AWAY WITH GRIEF AND MOURNING.
9. YULE-LOG CAROL.

"We are much pleased with them all, and have very little doubt that they will become popular."—Church Times.

"An admirable batch for Christmas and other tides, and we advise all lovers of Carols to get them at once."—Church Review.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S
ALBUMS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.
No. 32.

FOUR PIECES

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE
BY
H. VIEUXTEMPS.

CONTENTS.

No. 1. Yankee Doodle.
„ 2. Air Varié.
No. 3. Rêverie.
„ 4. Tarantelle.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S
ALBUMS FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.
No. 31.

FIVE PIECES

FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE
BY
FERDINAND DAVID.

CONTENTS.

Trois Caprices:—
No. 1 in G.
„ in B minor.
„ 3 in F.
Introduction et Variations sur le Thème:
"Je suis le petit Tambour."
Andante et Scherzo Capriccioso.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA

FOR ADVENT. Price 2d.
By CHARLES W. WILKES.
Organist and Choirmaster of St. Laurence, Catford.

"Appropriate, melodious, and devotional; interesting for choirs, and easily sung by congregations."

Specimen copy free from the COMPOSER, Coomera, Brownhill Road, Catford, S.E.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MY WILL IS GONE TO SLEEP, DEAR. Love Song. The words written by WALTER HERRIES POLLOCK. The music composed by MARGUERITE MARIGOLD. Price 2s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO SONGS.—(a) FORGET THEE, published in three keys, for Tenor, Baritone, and Bass; and (b) LOVERS' PARTING, in two keys, for Baritone or Bass; and for Tenor. Composed by Emeritus Professor Sir HERBERT OAKELEY (Op. 30). Price 4s. and 3s. respectively.

AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate St., and 1, Foubert's Place, London.

A SIMPLE METHOD OF SIGHT-SINGING. By J. C. WALKER. Price 8d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S
HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,
By EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.
PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Published this day, No. 5 of

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

A MONTHLY PERIODICAL DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

THE establishment of a Journal specially devoted to the interests of Music in Schools is believed to be called for by the conspicuous development of the systematic teaching of singing and music generally that has taken place in schools during recent years.

Singing by note is now taught in upwards of 20,000 elementary and middle-class schools in the United Kingdom. As most of this music teaching is committed to the care of the ordinary school staff, the tuning of the ear, preservation of the voice, and the musical culture of the nation may be said to depend in a great measure upon the skill and training of the 120,000 teachers composing our educational army. It will be one of the first aims of The School Music Review to deal plainly with the questions of what to do and how to do it that constantly arise in connection with the varied musical needs of both teachers and pupils.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW will contain—

Articles on Musical Subjects of General Interest to Teachers, contributed by School Music Specialists.
General Notes on Important Musical Events of the Month.
Reports of School Concerts and Competitions.
School Songs in both Notations and Suited to the Capacities of the Children in the Different Divisions of Schools.
Exercises in Sight-Singing in both Notations.
Reviews of School Music.
Solutions to the Questions in Music Set at the Different Examinations in Connection with the Education Department and other Examining Bodies.
Correspondence, Notes and Queries, &c.

The Music will also be sold separately. Price 1½*d.*

MUSIC IN No. 1 (in both Notations).

"Stars that on your wondrous way." Hymn for Children, by J. Stainer.
"Little Soldiers." Kindergarten Song, by A. Moffat.
"The Delights of Spring." Vocal Trio, by Franz Abt.
Studies in Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught.

MUSIC IN No. 2.

"Fairy Song." Two-part Song, by Herbert W. Schartau.
"Daisy Dell." Unison Song, by A. Scott Gatty.
"The Postillion." "Evening." } Junior School Songs from Lowell Mason's "Juvenile Songster."
Round, "Timothy Tippen's Horse." By A. Moffat.
Studies in Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught.

MUSIC IN No. 3.

"To a Violet." Unison Song, by Sir J. Stainer.
"Little Bo-Peep." Action Song, by J. W. Elliott.
Specimen Tune and Time Tests for Schools and Pupil Teachers.

MUSIC IN No. 4.

"Sabbath Stillness." Unaccompanied Trio, by Franz Abt.
"St. George for England." School Trio, by G. A. Macfarren.
"Oh, dear! what can the matter be?" Arranged as a Two-part Song.

CONTENTS OF No. 5.

1. General Notes.
2. How to teach Rounds. By W. G. McNaught.
3. Training for Telling by Ear.
4. Music at Chester Training College.
5. The New Practical Musical Examination for Pupil Teachers.
6. Reports of H.M. Inspectors:—(a.) England. (b.) Scotland.
7. Manchester School Choir Competition.
8. Vocal March Competition—Result.
9. Music (in both Notations):—
"Dawn, Gentle Flower." Song, by W. Sterndale Bennett.
"John Gilpin." Trio, for s.s.a. (or s.c.b.), with ad libitum accompaniment. By G. A. Macfarren.
Tune and Time Tests for Schools and Pupil Teachers.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

Price 1½*d.; Post-free,* 2*d. Annual Subscription, including Postage,* 2*s.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

ORATORIOS, CANTATAS, &c.,

RECENTLY PUBLISHED.

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
P. ARMES.
ST. BARNABAS	2/0	—	—
G. J. BETJEMANN.
THE SONG OF THE WESTERN MEN	1/0	—	—
ETHEL M. BOYCE.
THE LAY OF THE BROWN ROSARY	1/6	—	—
YOUNG LOCHINVAR	1/6	—	—
J. F. BRIDGE.
THE LORD'S PRAYER	1/0	—	—
ROCK OF AGES (Latin & English words) (Tonic Sol-fa, 4d.)	1/0	—	—
CALLIRHOË .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE REPENTANCE OF NINEVEH..	2/6	3/0	4/0
DUDLEY BUCK.
THE LIGHT OF ASIA	3/0	3/6	5/0
F. CORDER.
THE BRIDAL OF TRIERMAIN .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/6	—	—
H. COWARD.
THE STORY OF BETHANY .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	—
F. H. COWEN.
SLEEPING BEAUTY .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
ST. JOHN'S EVE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
RUTH .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	4/0	4/6	6/0
A SONG OF THANKSGIVING ..	1/0	—	—
ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.
REQUIEM MASS	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE SPECTRE'S BRIDE	3/0	3/6	5/0
A PATRIOTIC HYMN	1/6	—	—
H. J. EDWARDS.
PRAISE TO THE HOLIEST	1/6	—	—
ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT.
THE BIRTH OF SONG	1/6	—	—
ELYSIUM	1/0	—	—
ROBERT FRANZ.
PRAISE YE THE LORD (Psalm 117)	1/0	—	—
G. GARRETT.
HARVEST CANTATA .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.)	1/0	—	—
F. GERNSHEIM.
SALAMIS (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
HERMANN GOETZ.
THE WATER LILY (Male Voices) ..	1/6	—	—
CH. GOUNOD.
THE REDEMPTION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
Ditto (French words) ..	8/4	—	—
Ditto (German words) ..	10/0	—	—
TROISIÈME MESSE SOLENNELLE	2/6	—	—
MORS ET VITA .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, Latin and English Words, 2/-)	6/0	6/6	7/6
ALAN GRAY.
ARETHUSA	1/6	—	—
ADOLF JENSEN.
THE FEAST OF ADONIS	1/0	1/6	—
OLIVER KING.
BY THE WATERS OF BABYLON (Psalm 137)	1/6	—	—
FRANZ LISZT.
THE THIRTEENTH PSALM	2/0	—	—

	Paper Cover.	Paper Boards.	Cloth Gilt.
C. H. LLOYD.
ALCESTIS	3/0	—	—
ANDROMEDA	3/0	3/6	5/0
HERO AND LEANDER	1/6	—	—
SONG OF BALDER	1/0	—	—
THE LONGBEARD'S SAGA (Male Voices)	1/6	—	—
A SONG OF JUDGMENT	2/6	3/0	4/0
HAMISH MacCUNN.
LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 8d.)	1/0	—	—
THE LAY OF THE LAST MINSTREL (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/6)	2/6	3/0	4/0
A. C. MACKENZIE.
VENI, CREATOR SPIRITUS	2/0	—	—
ROSE OF SHARON .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	5/0	6/0	7/6
THE STORY OF SAYID	3/0	3/6	4/6
THE DREAM OF JUBAL	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE NEW COVENANT	1/6	—	—
THE COTTER'S SATURDAY NIGHT	2/0	—	—
C. HUBERT H. PARRY.
JOB	2/6	—	—
BLEST PAIR OF SIRENS	1/0	—	—
JUDITH or, The Regeneration of Manasseh	5/0	6/0	7/6
ODE ON ST. CECLIA'S DAY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	—	—
L'ALLEGRO	2/6	—	—
DE PROFUNDIS	2/0	—	—
CIRO PINSUTI.
PHANTOMS (Italian and English Words)	1/0	—	—
E. PROUT.
THE RED CROSS KNIGHT .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	4/0	4/6	6/0
DAMON AND PHINTIAS (Male Voices)	2/6	—	—
CHARLES B. RUTENBER.
DIVINE LOVE	2/6	—	—
C. SAINT-SAËNS.
THE HEAVENS DECLARE (Psalm 19)	1/6	—	—
SCHUMANN.
THE MINSTREL'S CURSE	1/6	—	—
THE KING'S SON	1/0	—	—
A. SOMERVELL.
MASS (in C minor)	2/6	—	—
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.
EDEN	5/0	6/0	7/6
CARMEN SÆCULARE	1/6	—	—
THE REVENGE .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
THE VOYAGE OF MAELDUNE ..	2/6	3/0	4/0
THE BATTLE OF THE BALTIC ..	1/6	—	—
J. STAINER.
THE CRUCIFIXION .. .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 9d.)	1/6	—	—
ARTHUR SULLIVAN.
THE GOLDEN LEGEND .. .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2/-)	3/6	4/0	5/0
C. M. VON WEBER.
IN CONSTANT ORDER (Hymn) ..	1/6	—	—
C. LEE WILLIAMS.
GETHSEMANE	2/0	2/6	—
THE LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY .. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1/-)	2/0	2/6	—
CHARLES WOOD.
ODE TO THE WEST WIND	1/0	—	—

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

BASS SINGER REQUIRED, for the American Church of the Holy Trinity, Paris. Must be possessed of good voice, thorough knowledge of church music, and ability as a soloist. Apply to Mr. Stedman, Musical Agency, 12, Berners Street, W.

SOUTHWELL CATHEDRAL.—LAY CLERKSHIP VACANT. BASS (not Baritone). Applicants must be Communicants of Church of England, and under 28 years of age. Stipend, £60 per annum. Apply, with testimonials, to R. W. Liddle, Rector. Chori.

SOPRANO (Lady) desires APPOINTMENT in a London Church Choir. Two years' good training. Would give three months' services. Voice, Plummer's Library, Norfolk Terrace, Bayswater.

SOPRANO will give SERVICES for expenses in Oratorios and Concerts till Xmas. Press notices on application. Soprano, 56, Florence Road, Stroud Green, N.

TO CONCERT AGENTS.—Contralto Vocalist requires an AGENT to introduce her for Concerts, &c. Address, Contralto, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ALTO and CHOIR-TRAINER is open to accept ENGAGEMENT in London. Late Solo Alto at St. Marylebone and Choir-Trainer at St. Mary Abbotts. Highest testimonials. Address, M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TENOR (Full voice and sight-reader) will give services at West-End or City Church in return for SITUATION as CLERK or CORRESPONDENT. Good figures and French. Will pay own expenses for trial of vocal abilities. A. B., Post Office, Derby.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Ewell Parish Church. Full Choral Service. Temporary, possibility of permanency. Apply, with full particulars as to age, salary, &c., to Vicar, Ewell Vicarage, Surrey.

EXPERIENCED ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Trinity Congregational Church, Poplar, E. Two Services on Sunday and one on Thursday evening. Apply, by letter, with copies of testimonials marked "Organist," to Trinity Parsonage, East India Road, Poplar, E.

CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for a Presbyterian Church in the North of London. Salary, £35 per annum. Apply, by letter only, stating qualifications, to A. Shepherd, 123, Bishopsgate Street Within, E.C.

VOLUNTARY ASSISTANT WANTED, for All Saints', Norfolk Square, W. Duties light. Resident in W. district preferred. Use of organ in return for services. Apply, John Curran, 29, Camden Grove, Peckham Road.

AN exp. ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, CHOR. SOC. CONDUCTOR, &c. (present app. 10½ years; large church near London; High Church), would accept similar post with high-class musical services, scope for pupils, &c.; also qualified to take charge of choir school. Investigation solicited. Address, Handel, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST (Lady) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. London experience. Thoroughly efficient. London or suburbs. Travelling expenses only, or small stipend. Highest references. X., 3, Argyll Street, W.

ORGANIST desires ENGAGEMENT. London or suburbs. Excellent references. Organist, 80, Elgin Avenue, Maida Vale, W.

ADVERTISER desires a post as ORGANIST in Evangelical Church, where there would be Mission Work. 4½ years Organist in present church. Has had experience in parochial work. Highest references. Address, E., care of Mr. Wilson, 7, King's Road, St. Leonards-on-Sea.

AN ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (27 years in present appointment) will be at liberty at Christmas to accept a similar ENGAGEMENT. Sussex preferred. Reference from present Vicar. Address, Edward A. Basley, 60, Gipsy Hill, S.E.

ORGANIST, &c. (disengaged), desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Might deputise. Anglican service. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ORGAN.—DEPUTY requires ENGAGEMENT on Sunday Afternoon and at any other time if requisite. In or near London. Salary of little consequence. C. W. Aires, 33, Great Smith Street, Westminster, S.W.

A YOUNG VIOLINIST, of excellent capabilities, desires position as LEADER of a CHAMBER MUSIC SOCIETY in the Country. Will also accept Pupils. All answers must be sent, before the 8th inst., to Claude Madden, 11, Devonshire Place, Portland Place, London, W.

COMFORTABLE HOME, moderate terms, for one or two YOUNG LADIES or Gentlemen, musical students, with use of concert grand piano, violin, or cello, and music library. Musical society. Address, Musicus, care of Mr. W. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

PIANO TUNER WANTED, for three days per week. Must be thoroughly competent. W. Phillips, Putney.

WANTED, First-class TUNER. State age, experience, salary, references, and if married. Send photo. Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath.

WANTED, for the country, a thoroughly practical and experienced TUNER (equal temperament), capable of doing ordinary repairs, also of repairs to Harmoniums and American Organs. Apply, stating age, if married, salary required, testimonials, and photo to J. Bentley, Beethoven House, Nantwich.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER (with Factory experience preferred) well up in American Organs and Harmoniums, for permanent out-door berth in a large Seaport and Manufacturing City. Knowledge of Pipe-Organ Tuning considered an advantage. Apply to Diapason, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.; or, George Rogers and Sons, 60, Berners Street.

PIANO TUNER WANTED. Must understand American Organs. Full particulars to Wood and Marshall, Bradford, Yorkshire.

WANTED, at once, a good PIANOFORTE TUNER, must be experienced in all kinds of Repairs, for two or three days per week in the S.E. of London. An abstainer preferred. Apply, by letter, with references, to Furlong's Music Warehouse, Deptford Bridge, Greenwich, S.E.

TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED, in large manufacturing town (Lancashire). State age, experience, salary required, and enclose photo. W. C. E., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER WANTED, at once. Thoroughly qualified Man. Liberal Salary and Commission. J. B. Cramer and Co., 26, Church Street, Liverpool.

WANTED, gentlemanly Young Man, with good address, as PIANOFORTE TUNER. Must have practical knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Apply, with testimonials, &c., to Turner and Phillips, George Street, Plymouth.

PIANOFORTE TUNER REQUIRED, by Musicsellers on the South Coast. Must be first-class workman and of good address. Chiefly out-of-door work. Permanency. Apply, stating salary required, and enclosing carte if possible, to Gamma, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a Young Man of good manners and address, to act as INDOOR TUNER and SALESMAN in Piano Department. Should play well. One who has had some experience preferred. Apply to Pigott and Co., Grafton Street, Dublin.

WANTED, an ASSISTANT PIANOFORTE TUNER, with knowledge of organs, harmoniums, and repairs. Energetic, steady, and willing to canvass for country. State age, wages, with references. Permanent berth to reliable man. Q. S., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

CAPABLE BUSINESS MAN, to manage details of a CONCERT TOUR in the provinces. Apply, stating experience and references, to M. S. Z., Novello, Ewer & Co., Berners St.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER (Brinsmead) seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Many years' experience in London and Provinces. Address, L., Rock Cottage, Wiveliscombe, Somerset.

WANTED, SITUATION as Medium PIANOFORTE TUNER. Three years' Factory and Wareroom experience. First-class references. L., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

YOUNG MAN (21) desires SITUATION as OUT-DOOR TUNER. Best references. At present Tuning for first-class Firm. Factory experience; understands repairs. Good pianist. Permanency desired. Address, M. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER (factory and out-door experience), able to play Piano and Organ well, seeks ENGAGEMENT as SALESMAN or OUT-DOOR TUNER. Good references. Address, Organ, care of A. Waldon, Auctioneer, Victoria Rd., Surbiton.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Thoroughly understands American Organs and Harmoniums. Experienced. Nine years in last employment. Address, J. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN (20) requires SITUATION as JUNIOR TUNER. Has had considerable experience, and been in present situation three years. Apply to W. B., at Daws's Music Warehouse, Dorking.

YOUTH (18), with two years' experience, seeks ENGAGEMENT as IMPROVER to the Tuning and Repairing. Indoor preferred. Address, 7, Leamington Place, Cheltenham.

WANTED, a SITUATION as SALESMAN or BOOK-KEEPER in Music Warehouse. Thorough knowledge of sheet music, small goods, and catalogues. Seven and a half years' experience. Married. Aged 26. First class testimonials. Apply, Sonatina, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG LADY, aged 19, desires a SITUATION in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Good reader, knowledge of sheet music. Testimonials. B., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGAN LESSONS.—The Organist of one of London's historic churches desires additional PUPILS for the pianoforte and organ. Terms moderate. Address, Organist, 233, Shaftesbury Avenue, W.C.

ORGAN LESSONS on a fine four-manual instrument, blown by hydraulic engine. For terms, &c., address, Mr. C. Lacock, Organist, Italian Church, Hatton Garden; or, 142, Fairbridge Road, Upper Holloway, N.

ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE in W.C. district, upon large three-manual organ. Special attention to beginners. Terms very moderate. Musician, 61, Chandos St., Strand.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

WANTED, EVENING LESSONS on VIOLIN or ORGAN. Neighbourhood of Piccadilly. B., 6, Queen's Road, Kingston-on-Thames.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

CHURCH ORGAN, by Holditch, containing 1 manual and pedals, 8 stops, in good order, TO BE SOLD, to make room for larger instrument. Apply, NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich.

TWO-MANUAL CHURCH ORGAN, by NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, 17 stops, full compass, TO BE SOLD. Full particulars from the Builders, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned modern TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, containing thirteen stops, couplers, composition pedals, and all the latest improvements. Price £200. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London. Established 1837.

ORGAN.—Two manuals and pedals, 18 stops, 16-ft. pedal, open diapason. Handsome case, decorated front pipes. Great bargain. Ingram, Raneleigh Street, Hereford.

ORGAN.—Two Manuals. Pedals, full compass; 12 stops. In good condition. Haywood, 179, Drummond Street, Euston Square, N.W. Established 1872.

ORGANS.—One and two manuals. Full compass, excellent tone and workmanship. Ready for immediate use. Henry Speechly & Sons' Organ Factory, St. Mark's Rd., Dalston, N.E.

TO be SOLD, ORGAN, first-class, in perfect order. Builder, Hill, London. Three manuals, 23 stops; pedal, 3 stops. Can be seen and tried. Apply, by letter, to Box 191, Post Office, Manchester.

FOR SALE, a MUSTEL ORGAN, in perfect condition. Cost £230 about five years ago. Price £130. Can be seen and tried at Dr. Oakes Warialda, Carlisle Road, Eastbourne.

SECOND-HAND CHURCH ORGAN, nine years old, containing two manuals and pedal organ, 25 stops, full compass, with tubular pneumatic throughout, TO BE SOLD. The Organ is enclosed in handsome oak case, with two fronts of decorated pipes. The mechanism is equal to new and the tone excellent, and the only reason for selling is to make room for larger instrument, to meet the requirements of an increasing congregation.

Full particulars may be had on application to
NORMAN BROS. and BEARD,
The Organ Works, Norwich.

ORGAN (Pipe), 8 ft. 9 in. high. Nice appearance. Decorated front pipes (blue and gold), 6 stops, pedals. Really good instrument; perfect order; lead about 400 persons; suit Village Church admirably. Price £35. Photo, six stamps. Stoneham, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park London, W. Appointments, please, evenings preferred.

NEW IMPERIAL PIPE ORGANS (Two manuals). Suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, practice, &c. From 40 guineas. Made in portable sections. ORGANS (new and second-hand), Two manuals, with 6, 9, 12, 17, and 26 stops. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN for SALE. Three manuals, nearly new. 20 stops, spotted metal, 8-ft. front, pedal organ complete, Bourdon, oak case with stool, concave pedals, 4 composition ditto. By Hunter and Son, London. Gas engine and fittings if required. Appy or write, Organ, 1, Princes Road, Kennington Cross, London, S.E.

CLARABELLA AMERICAN ORGANS, U.S.A. New styles for the Organist, Church, Boudoir, School, and Cottage. From 5 to 150 guineas. Large discounts, and carriage paid to any railway station in the United Kingdom. These popular organs contain fine orchestral effects and patents to be found in no other make. For Catalogues and Price lists, address, Clarabella Co., Wholesale Depôt, North Place, Cheltenham, England.

VIOLONCELLO for SALE.—A genuine fine Old English VIOLONCELLO, made by Thos. Smith, at the "Harp and Hautboy," Pickadilly, London, 1769. Magnificent tone and in perfect condition. Suit either amateur or professional. Lowest price, 15 guineas. Can be tried by appointment with Mr. Jewson, 34, Clarendon Gardens, Maida Vale, London, W.

TO STUDENTS and PROFESSORS.—J. and J. HOPKINSON have several excellent PIANOFORTES with their patent Organ Pedal Attachment, very slightly used, which they are now offering at the remarkably low price of £26 each. Full particulars on application. Temporary address, 90, New Bond St., W.

COTTAGE PIANO, handsome Walnut case, check action, iron frame, good tone and touch, to be SOLD cheap. Bartlett, 26, Ducie Street, Ferndale Road, Brixton.

VIOLINS.—For SALE, three very fine Violins, possessing exceptional qualities. Present owner no further use for them. H. J. Sharp, March Cottage, Conisbro', near Rotherham.

GOOD old VIOLINS offered CHEAP to the TRADE, having again made some bargains. Paul Petzold, Wiesenstrasse, 50, Chemnitz, in Saxony.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d. post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

WANTED, Organ Pedals to Piano (Second-hand). Miss Trail, Victoria Street, Fraserburgh.

WANTED, small Second-hand COTTAGE PIANOFORTE, of good make, Broadwood preferred. Reply, stating maker's name and where can be examined, to Z., 41, Old Broad Street, E.C.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.

London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MUSIC and PIANOFORTE BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. Good position, rising S.W. suburb. Large and commodious premises. Rent only £95; worth £120. Stock, £800; part optional. Returns last year, £1,301. Morley Phillips, Valuer to the Trade, 60, Great Portland Street, W.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS.—An exceptional opportunity occurs for acquiring an old-established BUSINESS on the South Coast. Premises in first-class position, with good dwelling house over. Rent, £120 a year, on lease. The whole of the stock can be taken at a valuation. Present proprietor retiring. Full particulars of Rawlinson and Co., Auctioneers, 109, King's Road, Brighton.

ADVERTISER wants PARTNER to join him in commencing business (Pianoforte and Music, &c.). E. K., 1, Wilton Terrace, Cambridge.

ORGAN MUSIC for SALE. Good and clean copies. List sent. Cheap. Apply, Organista, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Monthly accounts. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841).

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),

VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,

USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,

AND

CONSIDERED BY MASTERS

THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER and CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

WINKELMANN

PIANOFORTES.

"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.

OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS

FROM 65 GUINEAS.

OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS

FROM 110 GUINEAS.

Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.

SOLE IMPORTERS: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,

6, NEW BURLINGTON STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

D'ALMAINE'S

PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.

Established 106 years.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

TO COMPOSERS.—RIDGEWAY & CO., Music Publishers, 10, Argyll Street, London, W., undertake the Revising, Printing, and Publishing of Musical Works upon exceptionally low terms. The finest work in the trade. Estimates upon receipt of MSS. IMPORTANT.—Composers' works included in catalogue and introduced without extra charge.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT

FOR

PIANOFORTES.

NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.

EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR

AT THE

INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.

NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO

H. J. RUMMENS,

47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

Just Published.

APPENDIX

TO THE

DOUBLE-BASS

BY

A. C. WHITE

Professor at the Royal Academy of Music and Royal College of Music.

(No. 32A. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers, Edited by Sir John Stainer.)

Price Three Shillings.
Paper boards, Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

THE

ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately.
Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIMPLIFIED MUSIC.—A Reform of Staff Notation. By JOSEF VARGE. Price 1s., paper; 1s. 6d., cloth.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

VERSE BY

JETTY VOGEL

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

(Op. 43.)

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. Mr. Gaul evidently does not feel disposed, though we think he is well able to write a magnum opus which may have to wait a generation to be understood; he appeals successfully to the tens of thousands of people who take an interest in sacred stories set to singable music which can be at once appreciated. We do not say that Mr. Gaul's cantatas will not receive the approbation of posterity; we think they will, but it is certain that they do meet with deserved recognition as fast as they appear. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The chief point of interest was the production of Mr. A. R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness.' . . . The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. . . . The various solo and choral movements display Mr. Gaul's facility for the composition of genuine, effective music; clear in purpose, melodious, vigorous, and expressive by turns, and constructed by an experienced thinker and worker. Such music will indeed ever be welcome, and Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.' The performance was excellent, and the composer, who conducted, had ample reason to feel satisfied with the reception of his latest effort."—The Referee.

"The best portion is a number entitled 'The Plagues of Egypt,' written in a sort of free chant form, in which Mr. Gaul has introduced some very clever orchestral effects. The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"Mr. Gaul's music is exactly what is required for large choral gatherings, for it is effective without presenting any overwhelming difficulties. The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"The afternoon was particularly interesting owing to the first performance of Mr. Alfred R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness,' which had been composed expressly for the event. . . . Like the majority of Mr. Gaul's productions, it is bright and engaging. . . . The most pleasing of the twenty-three numbers are No. 3, 'So He brought forth His people with joy,' a telling chorus; No. 9, the chorus, 'Declare His honour unto the heathen'; No. 15, the pretty duet between the soprano and tenor voices, 'As the manna falling from the morning skies' (encored on Saturday); and the concluding march, 'Onward moves the guiding pillar,' a chorus full of spirit. Mr. Gaul has in the section devoted to the Plagues contrived to instrumentally illustrate the jumping of the frogs, the buzzing of the flies, the falling hailstones, the fire mingled with the hail, the gusty East wind, and the feeling of darkness. Several of these are clever examples of the imitative in orchestration. At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, though only the above-mentioned encore was permitted, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. It is evident that the composer, while earnestly seeking a natural expression, has steadily kept in view the resources of the choral societies on whose behalf the work was written. Most of the music is easy, straightforward, and flowing—picturesque rather than dramatic—and it is all cast in a mould that enables the most ordinary listener to apprehend its form and purpose. In venturing to set a description of the Plagues of Egypt Mr. Gaul invites dangerous comparisons. He was bound at all hazards to avoid imitation of Handel, and to endeavour to strike out a new path. In our opinion the music to this section is the most original and expressive in the whole Cantata. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MUSIC FOR ADVENT.

ANTHEMS.

*It is high time	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The grace of God that bringeth salvation	J. Barnby	1½d.
When shades of night. Hymn	J. Barnby	2d.
*O that I knew where I might find Him (St. Thomas's Day)	W. Sterndale Bennett	3d.
Dies iræ, dies illæ	W. T. Best	3d.
*The night is far spent (two-part Anthem)	M. B. Foster	3d.
*Rejoice greatly	H. Gadsby	3d.
*Prepare ye the way of the Lord	Dr. Garrett	3d.
*Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace	H. J. Gauntlett	3d.
*The wilderness and the solitary place	J. Goss	6d.
*Blessed is He who cometh	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
*And the angel said unto her	King Hall	1½d.
To Thee do I lift up my soul	King Hall	1½d.
How beautiful are the feet	Handel	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
When the Son of Man	Kent	4d.
Who is this that cometh?	Kent	6d.
Arise, O Jerusalem	Oliver King	1½d.
*Hosanna to the Son of David	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
The great day of the Lord is near	George C. Martin	1½d.
Day of anger, day of mourning ("Dies iræ," from the Requiem)	Mozart	6d.
Rejoice in the Lord	S. Reay	1½d.
Rejoice in the Lord	John Redford	3d.
The night is far spent	Montem Smith	1½d.
*Hosanna in the highest	J. Stainer	1½d.
Lord, what love have I	Steggall	6d.
*Hearken unto Me, My people	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Beloved, now are we the sons of God	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Thou Judge of quick and dead	S. S. Wesley	3d.
*Rejoice greatly	H. H. Woodward	1½d.
Far from their home	H. H. Woodward	3d.

 Anthems marked thus () may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., or 2d. each.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

GEORGE J. BENNETT (in E flat)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in G)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in D)	3d.
W. T. BEST	3d.
J. F. BRIDGE, James Turle, and Dr. Hayes	1½d.
J. W. ELLIOTT	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (with a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (No. 2, in F)	1½d.
PERCY H. FROST	2d.
HENRY GADSBY	1½d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Chant Form)	3d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Unison)	1½d.
FREDERICK ILIFFE (No. 1)	1½d.
GEORGE C. MARTIN (No. 1, in F; No. 2, in E flat; No. 3, in G) each	4d.
C. E. MILLER	2d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)	2d.
C. E. MILLER (third setting)	2d.
BOYTON SMITH (in A flat)	1½d.
J. STAINER, R. de Lacey, A. Gibbs, and F. Champneys	1½d.
J. STAINER, W. Winn, and F. Walker	1½d.
S. S. WESLEY (easy setting)	2d.
J. BARNBY
JOHN FOSTER
MONTEM SMITH (two settings)	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)
C. A. WICKES (two settings)
W. G. WOOD (in D)	1½d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

EUCHARISTIC HYMNS

FOR THE

CHURCH'S SEASONS

BY

MILDRED BERESFORD HOPE.

Price Threepence.

Permission to set these words to Music must be obtained of the Author through Novello, Ewer and Co.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW ANTHEMS for ALL SAINTS' DAY. By J. Charles B. Tirbutt, Mus. Bac., Dunelm.

The Lord redeemeth. 2nd Edition 4d. net.
The righteous live. Just published 6d. „
Full, easy, and effective.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR ADVENT.

SUITABLE FOR USE IN THE CHURCH SERVICE.

THE TWO ADVENTS

A CHURCH CANTATA

WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

Rev. E. W. BOWLING, M.A.,

Rector of Houghton Conquest, Beds.

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A.,

Mus.D., F.C.O.

(Op. 23.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH"

By SCHUMANN

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

By the Rev. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

For Soprano Solo and Chorus, with Orchestral Accompaniment.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW MUSIC FOR ADVENT & CHRISTMAS.

THE

BIRTH OF CHRIST

NEW SACRED CANTATA

FOR

ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS

BY

CLEMENT LOCKNANE

FOR S.T.B. SOLI, WITH CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

Price 1s. 6d. net.; Words only, 2d.

Twenty-five Old & New Christmas Carols

EDITED AND ARRANGED BY

DAVIS L. MARTYN

Price, complete, 1s. net; separate Nos., 1d. each.

TWO NEW ANTHEMS.

UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN. Price 3d.

By Frank Adlam.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. Price 3d.

By Clement Locknane.

Now Ready.

Eight New Books of Favourite Melodies

Arranged for the Organ by Dr. SPARK.

Price 2s. each net.

MATHIAS & STRICKLAND, Music Publishers,
2, Great Titchfield Street, London, W.

MORNING and EVENING SERVICE in A. By Felix W. Morley, M.A., Mus. Bac., Cantab. Te Deum, 4d.; Benedictus, 3d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 3d. (The solo portions may all be taken by Trebles.) Also, MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F (just published), 4d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW HARVEST ANTHEMS, &c.,
By CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*While the earth remaineth (New) (quite easy) (5th 1,000) .. 3d.
*All Thy works praise Thee (New) (moderate) (6th 1,000) .. 4d.
*What shall I render (5th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
*Let us thank the Lord (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*The Lord is loving (11th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
The earth is the Lord's (8th 1,000).. .. .. 3d.
*I will feed My flock (22nd 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival at Woodstock.
*Fear not, O land (23rd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*Praise the Lord, O my soul (19th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung at Choral Festivals at Sudbury and Penkridge.
Make a joyful noise (17th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sung in Bath Abbey by 250 Voices, also in the Archdeaconry of Coventry at three District Choral Festivals.
*O Lord, how manifold (14th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
They that sow in tears (14th edition) .. .. 3d.
*And God said, let the earth (56th edition) .. .. .. 3d.
Te Deum in G (5th edition), 4d. Te Deum in F (19th edition) 3d.
Favourite Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F (39th edition) 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Lismore, Derry, and Downpatrick Cathedrals; also at Barrow, Skegness, Great Budworth, East Devon, &c.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in E flat (13th edition) .. 4d.
Selected for Choral Festival in Llandaff Cathedral.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G (New) (4th edition) .. 4d.
Easy Holy Communion Service in E flat (6th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Holy Communion Service in F (5th edition) .. .. .. 6d.
Both these Services are complete, with Agnus Dei and Benedictus.
Four Chant Te Deums (13th 1,000) (D, A flat, G, and A) each 2d.
Four Harvest Carols. Pretty and popular .. .. each 1d.
O how amiable. Festivals (2nd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Give glory to the Lord. Festivals (11th edition) .. .. 3d.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

*The Glory of the Lord (New) (moderate).. .. .. 4d.
*Rejoice greatly (New) (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*Break forth into joy (6th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral and at Begelley.
*The Heavens are telling (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*Blessed be the Lord God (12th edition) .. .. 4d.
Let us now go even to Bethlehem (5th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
We have seen His star (21st edition) .. .. 4d.
Sing, O Heavens (13th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Glory to God (12th edition) .. .. 3d.
And He shall reign (11th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
There were shepherds (12th edition) .. .. 3d.
Behold I bring (31st edition) .. .. 3d.

POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

Price 1d. each. Nos. 9 to 12 are just published.

1. Carol Sweetly.
2. O Lovely Star.
3. What say these Bells?
4. Come, hail the Day.
5. Good News we bring.
6. Sweetest Music.
7. Awake, awake!
8. O so sweetly.
9. Happy Morning.
10. Sweet Angels, ever bright.
11. Oh, Christmas Bells.
12. Bethlehem's peaceful Hill

Words only, Nos. 1 to 6, 3s. 3d. per 100; Words only, Nos. 7 to 12, 3s. 3d. per 100.

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

ARISE, SHINE, FOR THY LIGHT IS COME. Anthem for Christmas. By M. Oulton. Price 3d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY
EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

ANTHEMS.

Harvest.—"Blessed be Thou." Octavo. Four voices .. .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. .. 1½d.
" "I will magnify Thee." Octavo .. .. .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa.. .. .. 1½d.
" "I was glad." Octavo .. .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. 2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E. Chant form .. .. 3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E " .. .. 3d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. .. 1½d.
" " " A .. .. 1½d.
" " " E .. .. 1½d.

HARVEST HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord. With words .. .. 1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 3d.
Amen (on Card) .. .. 1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ .. net 2s. 0d.
Ave Maria .. .. " 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat .. .. " 1s. 0d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by H. R. COULDREY.

ANTHEMS, &c.

COME UNTO ME. Solo and Chorus (Novello's Octavo Anthems, No. 256) .. .. 3d.
O LORD MY GOD. Tenor Solo and Chorus .. .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM AND BENEDICITE (in Chant form) and four KYRIES (4th Edition) .. .. 4d.
(Dedicated to Sir Joseph Barnby.)
Published by Novello, Ewer and Co., London and New York.

SONGS.

THE ORGANIST (in two keys). Dedicated to Sir John Stainer net 2s.
THE CAVALIER. Compass, C to E or G sharp. Dedicated to Mrs. Cunningham Boosey .. .. 2s.
A BUNCH OF VIOLETS (with Violin Accompaniment) .. 2s.

VIOLIN AND PIANO.

NOCTURNE in G (1st and 3rd positions) .. .. .. 1s. 6d.
CAVATINA in D, for Concert use (just published) .. .. 1s. 6d.
Published by Reid Bros., 436, Oxford Street, W.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY
J. H. MAUNDER.

"Good," "Easy," "Effective," "Dignified," "Devotional," "Singable," "Popular," "Musicianly." &c. See Guardian, Musical Times, Musical Standard, Musical News, &c.

TE DEUM, No. 1 (Chant Form) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM, No. 2 (in B flat) 3d.
COMMUNION SERVICE (in G) .. .. 8d.
BENEDICITE, No. 1 (in A) 1½d.
BENEDICITE, No. 2 (in G) 2d.
CHRISTMAS CAROL—"Once in Bethlehem" .. 2d.
EVENING SERVICE, No. 1 (in C) .. .. 3d.
(Sung at several Choral Festivals.)
EVENING SERVICE, No. 2 (in D) .. .. 3d.
(Sung at Canterbury Cathedral.)
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Specimen copies free from the Composer, Lyndale, Perry Rise, London, S.E.

POPULAR HARVEST ANTHEMS.
By EDWYN A. CLARE.

*Thou crownest the year (New) (4th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
Sing unto God with the voice of thanksgiving (7th 1,000).. 4d.
O Lord, how manifold (3rd 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem (11th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
*The eyes of all wait upon Thee (17th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
*Easy Festival Anthem, The Lord reigneth .. .. .. 3d.

POPULAR CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS.

We have seen His star (New) (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Sing, O Heavens (5th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Behold, I bring (8th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D (5th 1,000) .. .. .. 4d.
Those marked * may be had in Sol-fa.
These compositions are very effective and not difficult.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Now Ready.

A SONG OF LIFE
(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
" 2. King Cricket. " 4. The Charge. " 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS
BY
ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. By R. R. Terry (Org. and Chm., Antigua Cathedral). Price 3d.
"A very good and effective service. . . . For a choral festival or other similar occasion, would be very suitable, and would go with fine effect."—Musical Standard, Oct. 24, 1891.
"A musicianly and effective service of moderate difficulty. The free organ accompaniment is very good."—Church Musician, Nov., 1891.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE SOULS OF THE RIGHTEOUS. Short Anthem or Introit, for the Festivals of All Saints and All Souls. By Mary E. Nicholson. Price 6d. Messrs. Novello, Ewer & Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

Revised and Cheaper Edition. Price 6s.

PARR'S PSALMODY: 402 Tunes, 321 Chants, Responses, &c., with 400 Memoirs giving information nowhere else to be found.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Bristol: W. and F. Morgan, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by William S. Vinning, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)..	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries		3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries		1s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TE DEUM IN A
CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
ARTHUR CARNALL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW WORK ON CHURCH MUSIC.
To be published by Subscription.

CHAPTERS ON CHURCH MUSIC (about 360 pages). By Rev. R. B. Daniel. Post-free to Subscribers, 5s. 6d. "We recommend our readers to send the subscription, in return for which we can promise them a book not only readable, but instructive."—Musical Standard. "The author's chief object seems to be to inquire how the congregational character of the music in our Church services can be improved. Mr. Daniel is an enthusiastic musician, who has written extensively on music in our Church, and should give us some thoughts of value on this matter."—Musical News. Among the prominent musicians whose names are already on the subscription list are Mr. Best, Dr. Turpin, Sir J. Stainer, and Dr. Martin.
Orders received by the Author, 68, Ashbourne Road, Derby.

THE PRODIGAL SON. A new Oratorio. 83 octavo pages. 1s. 2d. "The Sacred Chorister," containing new Solos, Duets, and Choruses; 14 Nos., 4d. each. Post-free, of the Author, C. Ward, Speen, Princes Risboro'.

PRIEST'S WIFE has 200 SURPLICES, 3s. to 30s.; Tailor Cassocks, 9s. to £1; Stoles, 5s. 6d. to 60s. Surplice, care of The Church Agency, Lombard House, E.C.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By George Riseley.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. St. J. B. Joule. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. St. J. B. Joule. Price 3d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE PRECES and RESPONSES with LITANY. By H. T. Welch. Paper cover, Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

VESPER HYMN
TO BE SUNG AFTER EVENING SERVICE
WRITTEN AND COMPOSED BY
GEORGE KETT.

Peace for the soul that is weary,
With trouble and sorrow opprest;
Peace for the heart that is yearning
For freedom from sin and for rest;
Peace which the world cannot offer,
An earnest of Life that's Divine—
Jesu, we pray for Thy blessing,
And long for the peace that is Thine.

Price One Penny.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SACRED MUSIC FOR CHURCH, CHORAL SOCIETIES, &c.

IMMANUEL
BY
WM. SPARK, Mus. D., Organist, Town Hall, Leeds.

TONIC SOL-FA EDITION, NOW READY.

Part I.—SACRED CANTATA.—Vocal Score, 2s.; Cloth, 3s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.; Orchestral Parts, 5s. (9 Instruments); Chorus Parts, 6d.; Words, 2s. 6d. per 100.

Part II.—AN ORATORIO.—Vocal Score, 3s.; Bound, 4s. 6d. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Chorus Parts, 9d.; Words, 2s. 6d. per 100. Band Parts on hire.

The Cantata deals with the theme of the Childhood of Christ and the Oratorio with Our Lord's Ministry down to His triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

The following Anthems are taken from "Immanuel":—

IT CAME UPON THE MIDNIGHT CLEAR (a Christmas Carol). 4 pp., 1½d.

I DELIGHT TO DO THY WILL. 4 pp., 1½d. Quartet and Chorus.

THIS IS THE DAY WHICH THE LORD HATH MADE (Trio, Soli, and Chorus); THOU ART MY GOD (Recitative, Air, &c.); O GIVE THANKS UNTO THE LORD (Full Chorus), 20 pp., 6d.; HOSANNA TO THE SON OF DAVID (March and Chorus), 16 pp., 6d.

UNTO THEE, O LORD (Duet for Soprano and Tenor, and Chorus), 12 pp., 3d.

WHY ARE YE SO FEARFUL? (Tenor and Bass Solo), 8 pp., 3d.

John Heywood, Deansgate and Ridgefield, Manchester; 2, Amen Corner, London, E.C.

PRODUCED AT THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL, 1892.

JOB

AN ORATORIO

FOR TREBLE, TENOR, BARITONE, & BASS SOLI, CHORUS, & ORCHESTRA

BY

C. H. H. PARRY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be had on hire.

THE TIMES.

The whole monologue is an extraordinary exhibition of sustained power and effect, such as very few composers of any period have surpassed. . . . The various instances of God's omnipotence are treated with consummate skill, and a fine climax is reached at the words "Then shall God also confess that thine own right hand hath saved thee," which are set to a passage of broad seven-part writing, without accompaniment. . . . The impression produced by the work was very great, and it must be said deliberately that recent years have not seen a composition more free from flaw or weak point of any kind.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Dr. Parry's music is of the sort which cannot readily be dealt with by a critic who would do it justice. In its general character, in its details, and in special peculiarities, it calls not for a hurried, but for a leisurely survey. The reason is that our brilliant English composer—perhaps the foremost musical man in these islands—never brings forward a new work which can be labelled as belonging to such-and-such a category and then put on its proper shelf with a few common-place words. Whatever Dr. Parry does has a stamp of its own, and the stamp, I do not hesitate to say, is that of genius—that of a man who thinks for himself and has thoughts which, unlike many others, it is worth while to express. . . . It made to-day a profound impression upon an audience which included a host of musicians drawn from all parts by the reputation of our "English Bach."

STANDARD.

To describe the numberless changes of time, rhythm, and manner would be impossible, the music sometimes rising almost to fury, and then quieting down with sobbing accents as the mood of the afflicted Patriarch changes. Mention, however, must be made of an exquisite melody in D flat, given out by the violoncellos, and supported by the trombones pianissimo, at the words "Man that is born of woman." This is truly a bit of inspiration, such as only comes at rare intervals even to a gifted composer. . . . That "Job" will materially add to the composer's growing reputation may be said with confidence; it is an honour to English art, lofty in conception, and masterly in execution.

MORNING POST.

His setting of the beautiful lines "Man that is born of a woman is of few days," to quote only one instance, is a marvel both of beauty and appropriateness. The succeeding scene, in which the answer of God from the whirlwind is set for the full chorus, is also portentous in length, but in this the picturesqueness and variety of the words have helped the composer immensely. They would indeed inspire any musician, and in Dr. Parry's hands they form the text of the most remarkable piece of writing that he has yet given us. It is impossible within the limits of a brief and hurried notice to do justice to this astonishing chorus. The general verdict will no doubt declare "Job" to be Dr. Parry's masterpiece.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

It literally teems with beautiful phrases—in fact, the possession by Dr. Parry of the inestimable gift of melody has, I am inclined to think, never been so evident as in the verses commencing "Why died I not?" and "Man that is born of woman." . . . From whatever point of view it may be criticised, "Job" is thoroughly worthy the composer of the stupendous "De Profundis."

THE GUARDIAN.

As for the music, it is worthy at all points of the composer of the "De Profundis." . . . The ballad in the second scene is preluded by a charming solo for clarinet, and breathes throughout a spirit of exquisite freshness and simplicity. . . . One of the most effective passages in the work is the interview between the messenger and Job, which Dr. Parry has set to music of the rarest tenderness. . . . Satan's invocation of the winds is a brilliant declamatory solo, admirably orchestrated; but an even higher level is reached in the noble chorus that concludes the second scene, "See the clouds that sweep o'er the heavens." . . . Those wonderful "lamentations," in which the speaker sounds the very depths of heroic despair, have inspired the composer with a chain of musical phrases invariably dignified and at times rising to heights of real tragic grandeur and lofty ecstasy. . . . Very powerful and impressive again is the long chorus in the last scene, in which the unfailing picturesqueness and variety of the orchestration shows a decided advance on any of Dr. Parry's previous works. The great sombre chords which follow the words "The waters are hid as with a stone, and the face of the deep is frozen," are a veritable inspiration, while the passage, "Hast thou given the horse strength?" is treated with intrepid and irresistible vigour.

THE ATHENÆUM.

It opens with a theme of striking grandeur, fully scored for orchestra and organ. . . . The work of destruction is described in two wonderfully energetic and descriptive choruses, separated by an equally vigorous air for Satan. . . . The "lamentation" is not only one of the longest declamatory solos in existence, but also one of the finest. . . . An episode in D flat commands special attention by reason of its wonderful melodic beauty and expressiveness, and there are many other points from which admiration cannot be withheld, though to describe them would be impossible without copious illustrations in music type. . . . That Dr. Parry has written nothing finer than "Job" is generally admitted, and his boldness in dispensing with set airs, fugal choruses, and an elaborate Finale is abundantly justified by results; indeed, he might say, with Haydn, that "the rules are all my obedient, humble servants."

THE

CAPTIVES OF BABYLON

An Oratorio, composed by

GEO. SHINN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.

(SUITABLE FOR CONCERT ROOM OR CHURCH.)

Price 2s. Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

"May be highly commended as an interesting and valuable addition to our shorter Oratorios and Cantatas, and contains several solos of much beauty; also duets, quartets, and choruses in great variety."—Sunday School Chronicle.

"The music is appropriate, interesting, melodious, and but of moderate difficulty. The work is one of Mr. Shinn's best efforts, and we all know that Mr. Shinn has written some charming music."—Essex County Chronicle.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the writer of many popular pieces for choral societies; but this is certainly the best thing he has produced."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

"In our judgment no better work of the kind has yet been published. It is brimful of pretty melodies, and the harmonic effects show the skill of a painstaking and talented musician."—Free Methodist.

"The libretto is well chosen, and forms a good base whereon to compose a first-rate work. With regard to the music we feel we can hardly do it justice. . . . Where all is so good it is difficult to mention any special numbers."—United Service Gazette.

London: Hart and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by Edward Oxenford.

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by Edward Oxenford

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.
2. The Nightingale.
3. The Dove.
4. The Skylark.
5. The Owl.
6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
,, scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by Alfred Allen.
Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HOLLINGWORTH'S PSALMODY. 303 Original Hymn Tunes, Chants, and Kyries. Price 3s.; post-free to any address for 2s. 6d. each.
Bradford, Yorkshire: Wm. Hollingworth, 16, Horton Green.
Postal Orders made payable at Little Horton. Special arrangements for quantities.

Third Edition. Price 6d.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Post-free from the Author, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, Joseph Williams, 24, Berners Street, W.

Second Edition. Price 2s.

MANUAL OF VOICE-TRAINING. By E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Contains full information concerning Mr. Palmer's Method of Voice-Production, important Chapters on Falsetto and Breaking of the Voice, and a complete Course of Exercises. Post-free from the Author or Publisher. Address as above.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. Edward Stubbs, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BOY'S VOICE

BY

J. SPENCER CURWEN.

A book of practical information on the training and management of boys' voices.

"Collecting his information from a large number of Cathedral and parochial choir-trainers of admitted ability, and supplementing their ideas by many shrewd observations and hints picked up in the course of travel, Mr. Curwen has put together a few pages of inestimable value to choirmasters in town and country."—Church Times.

"It is full of practical information, and the weight which Mr. Curwen's name carries with it, as President of the Tonic Sol-fa College, gives double value to his observations."—The Record.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London: J. Curwen and Sons, 8 & 9, Warwick Lane, E.C.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, 4s.; in stiff paper, 3s. net.

WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS

For STUDENTS of the PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, ORGAN, and other instruments. By A. Leffler Arnim, author of "Health Maps."

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by two-thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addition to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined and delicate touch. No instrument whatever required.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: ". . . . I have no hesitation in saying that I think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: ". . . . I am confident the exercises you recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: ". . . . Invaluable to anyone studying the violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

Post-free from the Author, 2, Hinde Street, W.

VOX HUMANA.—Voice production and development, and the art of singing. An entirely novel and original method of study for the voice. Practical and artistic. In 262 paragraphs, and with 33 illustrative music exercises. By J. W. Bernhardt, F.R.A.M. Crown quarto, in stout paper, 5s.; in cloth, 7s.
Simpkin, Marshall, Hamilton, Kent and Co.

WANTED (both Notations), Copies Mozart's 12th Mass, Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion," Smart's "Bride of Dunkerron." Lowest price, to Felix Watkins, Beethoven House, St. Asaph.

SIGHT SINGING MANUALS

(STAFF NOTATION)

BY

J. SPENCER CURWEN

(Fellow of the Royal Academy of Music).

MUSIC AT SIGHT	6d.
THE GUILD OF MUSIC	6d.
PRACTICE FOR SINGERS. Parts I. and II.	each 6d.
THE CHORAL SINGER	1s.

London: J. Curwen & Sons, 8 and 9, Warwick Lane, E.C.

LADIES or BOYS in CHURCH CHOIRS?—See October Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 190 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. To be ordered everywhere; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

Produced at the Gloucester Festival, 1892.

THE LORD'S PRAYER

DANTE'S PURGATORIO, CANTO XI.

ENGLISH VERSION BY

E. H. PLUMPTRE, D.D.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling.

Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be had on Hire.

THE TIMES.

His writing is, as usual, scholarly and generally tasteful, and the unpretentious character of the little work is not its least merit.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

Dr. J. F. Bridge may at once be congratulated upon a work which distinctly raises his reputation, and, as I believe, gives him a place among composers of high rank. . . . First comes an Andante religioso, ending in the ascription of praise to the Holy Name. An Allegro cantabile follows, and continues as far as the petition for deliverance from evil. A brief Andante then brings the work to a dignified end. . . . In fine, this setting of the Lord's Prayer ranks as a very notable achievement, and it had, I am glad to say, a very notable rendering.

STANDARD.

The most noteworthy feature of Dr. Bridge's work is its extreme simplicity. It is for chorus and orchestra only, no solo voices being required. Opening quietly in the key of C, Andante religioso, the music becomes more vigorous, but still solid and dignified. . . . The little work gave no trouble whatever to the executants, and it is quite within the means of ordinarily efficient choral societies.

DAILY NEWS.

Professor Bridge has contributed a setting of Dean Plumptre's words which may fairly be described as admirably suited to the text. The Motet, which is, of course, for chorus accompanied by the orchestra, opens Andante religioso, with great solemnity, but at the words "Praised be Thy name" a more jubilant tone prevails. A flourish for the harp, and a change to Allegro cantabile, introduce us to the stanza "Upon us may Thy kingdom's peace alight"; but one of the most effective sections of the Motet is the following verse, which answers to the words "Thy will be done" and opens with a passage for female voices accompanied by the harp, the full chorus entering at the cry "Hosanna!" . . . Comparatively unpretentious as it may be, this Motet as an example of effective choral writing is a veritable little masterpiece.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Dr. Bridge has preferred to take the words independently of the surroundings provided by the poet, and by stateliness of manner and skilful massing of the voices holds attention. The composition is quite as suited to the church as to the concert platform, and having the double attraction of imposing solidity and freedom from complication, appeals to a very large circle of music lovers.

MORNING POST.

The Motet begins with a passage remarkable for solemn grandeur of expression in four-part harmony, ending, after a vigorous climax, with a pianissimo passage to harp accompaniment. . . . Dr. Bridge has been felicitously inspired by the words "Do Thou forgive," which he has set to strains of exquisite plaintiveness. . . . It was evident that Dr. Bridge's new work created a profound impression. It forms a worthy successor to his beautiful "Rock of Ages," and though of very modest dimensions shows that the composer has complete command over the resources of his art.

Produced at the Gloucester Festival, 1892.

THE

BIRTH OF SONG

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE POEM WRITTEN BY

LEWIS MORRIS

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

ROSALIND FRANCES ELLICOTT

Price One Shilling.

Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be had on Hire.

STANDARD.

There is no feeling of hesitation in the music; but, on the contrary, it marches onward with virile strides to the imposing climax. The most noteworthy portions of the score are a very energetic chorus in G minor, "Nor 'mid the clang and rush of mightier thought," the melodious and expressive soprano solo which succeeds, and the stately final movement, in which the chorus is joined by the soprano and tenor soloists. There need be no hesitation in placing "The Birth of Song" among Miss Ellicott's most successful achievements. Its reception was extremely favourable, the composer being twice summoned to the platform.

DAILY NEWS.

It would perhaps be an excess of gallantry to include "The Birth of Song" among those which our Teutonic friends aptly describe as "epoch making" works, but it is nevertheless a distinct advance upon "Elysium," and it will tend to place Miss Ellicott in an even higher position than she has yet achieved among lady composers.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

"The Birth of Song" was very well received. In all she has hitherto done this composer has exhibited steady advance both in the idea governing her work and in its execution. Her setting of Lewis Morris's poem is unquestionably her most creditable achievement up to the present. To the grace and fancy that have generally been observable in her productions, Miss Ellicott now displays a certain amount of dramatic energy. . . . The choral portion is marked by refreshing spontaneity, and a very telling soprano solo in E major begins with the line "Rather amid the throng." . . . The composer has adroitly reserved her strength for the concluding passages, which are as bold and unforced as could be wished. To sum up, the Cantata is no mean work, and one that, whilst satisfactory in itself, gives promise of yet better things.

MORNING POST.

It shows a decided advance upon the composer's maiden effort, both in a more decided vein of original thought and in an increased knowledge of choral and instrumental effect. . . . With the second stanza comes a suave tenor solo, a graceful melody, which after an episode of martial character is repeated with choral accompaniment. The part-writing is of the simplest description, but the effect is extremely pleasing. This is succeeded by a chorus on a far more elaborate scale, "Nor 'mid the clang and rush of mightier thought," a dramatically-written number in which the composer has put forth her full powers with complete success. The soprano solo which follows is in happy contrast to the vigour of the choral climax.

THE ATHENÆUM.

Her work is laid out for soprano and tenor solo and chorus, and is in six movements, the most striking sections being the very vigorous chorus "Nor 'mid the clang" and the final duet and chorus "And every thought," the climax of which is very imposing. A soprano solo, "Rather amid the throng," shows a pleasing vein of melody. Miss Ellicott's Cantata will certainly not lower, if it does not greatly enhance her reputation as a composer.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MORLEY'S PART-SONG JOURNAL

EDITED BY

ALFRED J. CALDICOTT.

The increasing demand for these popular Part-Songs has induced the Publishers to make arrangements for a long series of similar works, and it is hoped by this means, not only to provide an abundant source of pleasure to the musical home circle, but also to supply Glees and Part-Songs that shall be as acceptable to Choral Societies as they undoubtedly will be to the public.

No.
1.	THE CHILDREN'S HOME (S.A.T.B.)	F. H. Cowen.
2.	THE OLD BRIGADE (S.A.T.B.)	Odoardo Barri.
3.	THE BROKEN PITCHER (S.A.T.B.)	Henry Pontet.
4.	LADDIE (S.A.T.B.)	Ciro Pinsuti.
5.	CARRIER JOHN (S.A.T.B.)	Ciro Pinsuti.
6.	THE TROUBADOURS (Male voices)	Danish Melody.
7.	JACK FROST (S.A.T.B.)	H. J. Stark.
8.	THE CONQUERORS (Male voices)	Theo. Bonheur.
9.	THE HOLLY CROWNED KING (S.A.T.B.)	A. J. Caldicott.
10.	THE OLD BRIGADE (Male voices)	Odoardo Barri.
11.	THE CLANG OF THE HAMMER (Male voices)	Theo. Bonheur.
12.	THE SCOUT (Male voices)	F. Campana.
13.	A MERRIE CHRISTMASTIDE (S.A.T.B.)	Theo. Bonheur.
14.	THE VIOLET AND THE BEE (S.A.T.B.)	A. J. Caldicott.
15.	THE MERRY MAY (Minuet) (S.A.T.B)	A. J. Caldicott.
16.	WITH HORSE AND HOUND (S.A.T.B.)	A. J. Caldicott.
17.	THREE FISHERS (S.A.T.B.)	A. W. Marchant.
18.	A SONG IN AUTUMN (Male voices)	A. H. Mann.
19.	UNDER THE CRESCENT MOON (S.A.T.B.)	Theo. Bonheur.
20.	THE SONG OF THE SEA (S.A.T.B.)	Theo. Bonheur.
21.	CELIA'S CHARMS (S.A.T.B.)	A. W. Marchant.
22.	SUMMER (S.A.T.B.)	Pearson Bridgford.
23.	READY (S.A.T.B.)	F. N. Löhr.
24.	GAIN THE LAURELS (S.A.T.B.)	Charles Tirbutt.
25.	OUR QUEEN (S.A.T.B.)	R. Limpus.
26.	GIVE IT UP? Humorous. (S.A.T.B.)	Hamilton Clarke.
27.	THE DIVER (S.A.T.B.)	Edward Loder.
28.	PEACEFUL ECHOES (S.A.T.B.)	Theo. Bonheur.
29.	LADIES versus GENTLEMEN.	Humorous. (S.A.T.B.) A. W. Marchant.
30.	BEST OF ALL (S.A.T.B.)	F. L. Moir.
31.	LITTLE PILGRIMS (S.A.T.B.)	Ciro Pinsuti.
32.	LET'S AWAY (S.A.T.B.)	Theo. Bonheur.
33.	VESPER BELLS (S.A.T.B.)	Theo. Bonheur.
34.	PUNCH AND JUDY (S.A.T.B.)	A. H. Behrend.
35.	O NIGHT, MOST BLESSED (S.A.T.B)	Ciro Pinsuti.
36.	MERRY MOUNTAINEERS (S.A.T.B.)	Theo. Bonheur.
37.	ONE UNITED REALM (S.A.T.B.)	J. Barnby.
38.	THE BUSY BEE (S.A.T.B.)	A. J. Caldicott.
39.	THE CHILDREN'S PRAYER (S.A.T.B.)	Wm. Spark.
40.	THE HARBOUR LIGHTS AT SEA (S.A.T.B.)	Ciro Pinsuti.
41.	WHEN THE LIGHTS ARE LOW (S.A.T.B.)	Gerald Lane.

Price 3d. each. Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d. each; twelve or more of one number supplied at Half-price.

HOW ABOUT A NEW SONG?

You are thinking of some new songs?
That is good.
You want the prettiest and best?
That is better.
But which are the best?

SONGS AND SINGERS	By C. Francis Lloyd.
MY LIEGE LADY	By C. Francis Lloyd.
WHEN ROSES BLOOM AGAIN	By Otto Cantor.
THE FLOWER OF FORGETFULNESS	By Otto Cantor.
THE CROWN OF LIFE	By Gerald Lane.
TIME TO SPARE	By Charles Deacon.

W. MORLEY AND CO., 127, REGENT STREET, LONDON, W.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Blow, Western Wind!	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers	2d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.)	2d.
The Lake	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.)	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal)	3d.	The Dream of Home	2d.
The River	3d.	Summer and Winter	2d.
Over the mountain side	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
Soul of living music	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (50th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (8th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
*Ben Bowlegs (Edward Oxenford)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES for S.A.T.B.

Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer, Elmham, Dereham.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean (6th thou.)	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (32nd thou.)	3d.
The Lifeboat	4d.	The Jäger Chorus (6th thou.)	3d.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SECOND-HAND MUSIC for SALE.—16, "The Norman Baron," for 5s. 6d.; 36, "Lollipop Dick," 12s.; 10, "John Gilpin," 8s. 6d.; 14, "Ode to the North-East Wind," 4s. 6d.; 16, "Lay of the Last Minstrel," 13s. 6d.; 21, "With a Laugh as we go round," 2s. 6d.; 26, "Faithful and True," 1s. 6d.; 26, "From Oberon," 9d.; 26, "Wreck of the Hesperus," 4s. 6d.; 13, "Ave Maria," 9d.; 11, "New Year's Carol," 6d.; 33, "We come from the Norseland," 3s. James Shepherd, 31, Newgate Street, E.C.

BATISTE'S ORGAN WORKS (complete). Pedal obbligato. Set of Four handsome volumes; half calf, gilt, marble edges. New, cost £10. Cash, £4 10s. Make handsome present. L. A., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail! Merry Christmas	24th thousand		2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all	8th	„	3d.
A Happy New Year	5th	„	3d.
England's Glory, and Forest Echoes	8th	„ each	3d.
O Anglia! land of the brave	2nd	„	3d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	9th	„	3d.
Fairy Revels	13th	„	3d.
I love the Merry Springtime	26th	„	2d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood	54th	„	2d.
Sunny Rays, and The Streamlet	5th	„ each	3d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.; Manchester: Hime and Addison.

THE CLANSMEN. By T. W. Blakey. "This is a stirring part-song (S.A.T.B.) dedicated to Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. The music is bright and cheerful, without being commonplace."—Monthly Journal (N.S.P.M.). Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published. Threepence each.

NEW PART-SONGS for S.A.T.B.

BLOW, WESTERN WIND!

AND

STARS OF THE NIGHT.

Words by Edward Oxenford.

MUSIC BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW WORKS FOR THE ORGAN.

Just Published.	s.	d.
CAPOCCI, F.—Marche Nuptiale, Madrigal, Intermezzo. Three Pieces. Complete, in one book net	4	0
MARCHOT, V.—Elevation, Offertoire, Prière, Cortège, Lento tristo, Méditation. Six Pieces. Complete, in one book net	4	0
DEVRED, P.—Prière, Offertoire, Communion, Fugue. Three Pieces. Complete, in one book net	4	0
DETHIER, E.—Offertoire, net 2s.; Communion „	1	0
TILBORGHS, J.—Scherzo (free style) „	2	6

London: Laudy and Co., 139, Oxford Street, W.

Edwin Ashdown's selection of Choruses for Treble Voices.

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT. Price 4d. each net.

1. Steersman, steer our bark. Three-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
2. The winds now are still. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
3. Spinning chorus. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) .. Wagner
4. Singing liketh me. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
5. Parting. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
6. The Mermaids. Three-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
7. Raise high the song. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. Wagner
8. Adown the wav'ring billows. Three-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
9. 'Tis ours this happy season. Two-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
10. Barcarolle ("Oh! 'tis pleasant"). Three-part (Oberon) Weber
11. Whispering breezes. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
12. Joy! joy! joy! Three-part (Knight of Palestine) .. Weber
13. The earth is clothed in flowers. Four-part (Fall of the Leaf) O. Barri
14. With hearts of joy. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. O. Barri
15. Sing, sweet bird. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. .. O. Barri
16. Haste to the church! Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
17. Chorus of angels. Four-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
18. Awake from slumber. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. F. Abt
19. O'er the flower-bespeckl'd meadows. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
20. I saw a land of wondrous beauty. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
21. Come, let us wreathe the bridal flowers. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
22. Now on music's wings. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
23. Homeward we are wending. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
24. Trip it lightly, gaily, brightly. Three-part (Harvest Queen) Godwin Fowles
25. Angel of peace. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. .. Wagner
26. In Thee we trust. Three-part (Pilgrims' Chorus, Tannhäuser) .. .. Wagner
27. Awake! awake! Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
28. Music and sunshine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
29. Joyous our life. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
30. Sing, sisters, sing. Four-part (All-Hallow Eve) .. B. Gilbert
31. Sunrise. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. .. F. Romer
32. Sunset chorus. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. F. Romer
33. Our old piano. Three-part .. .. F. Auger
34. Home bells. Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
35. Dear home. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
36. Summer. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
37. For thee hath beauty. Three-part (Oberon) .. .. Weber
38. I remember one eve. Three-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
39. Vintage time. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
40. Odours come with quiet spell. Three-part (A Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
41. Sad is the parting. Two-part (Volkslied) .. .. .. German
42. Not in our grief alone. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
43. A Christmas song. Two-part .. .. A. Adam
44. The Hymn of peace. Two-part .. .. .. W. H. Callcott
45. O! Southern wind. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
46. Dwellers of the spirit land. Two-part .. .. .. O. Barri
47. 'Tis summer. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
48. O! come to the grove. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
49. The snow. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
50. Come back. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
51. A Christmas carol. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
52. The midnight bell. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Roeckel
53. Where the scented violet. Two-part (The Magic Well) F. Abt
54. See, the star of eve. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
55. The cuckoo kept calling. Two-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
56. Come, let us go. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
57. We will seek thee. Two-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
58. We are only village maidens. Two-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
59. John Peel. Two-part (Hunting song) .. .. D. Pentland
60. O! come hither. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
61. O! give thanks. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
62. O! praise the Lord with me. Two-part (Sacred Mendelssohn
63. Hark! the hunter's merry horn. Two-part .. L. Zamboni
64. Old English pastimes. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
65. The organ-grinder. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
66. The happy fireside. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
67. Hark! from yon old abbey. Two-part .. .. J. Barnett
68. Merry May. Two-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
69. The Alpine sisters. Two-part .. .. .. D. Tagliafico
70. Heap high the golden corn. Two-part .. .. .. Raphael
71. Lull'd by the silence. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
72. Fairy sisters. Two-part .. .. F. Packer
73. Merry May. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
74. The swallows' return. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
75. The sea-nymphs. Two part .. .. T. Distin
76. Merrie gipsies. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
77. Hail! pretty babe. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
78. Sleigh-bells. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
79. For so hath the Lord. Two-part (St. Paul) .. Mendelssohn
80. And Paul came to the congregation. Two-part Mendelssohn
81. To God on high. Three-part (Chorale, St. Paul) Mendelssohn
82. O! Thou true and only light. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
83. How lovely are the messengers. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
84. Away! away! Three-part .. .. J. L. Roeckel
85. The angels' song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
86. A farewell. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
87. The dawn. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
88. Come away to the woods. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
89. Miserere Domine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
90. Rest while the noon. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
91. At break of day. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
92. Haste away. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
93. The morn is bright. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
94. Hail to thee. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
95. Around the maypole. Three-part (May-tide) .. P. Mazzoni
96. O'er the smiling meadows. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
97. O! praise the flow'ret sweet. Three-part .. F. F. Rogers
98. She sleeps. Three-part (The Magic Flower) .. F. F. Rogers
99. So pure, a sister's tender love. Three-part .. .. Weber
100. Gone is every pleasure. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
101. From Oberon in fairyland. Three-part .. .. .. Stevens
102. Blow, gentle gales. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
103. Hark! Apollo strikes the lyre. Three-part .. .. Bishop
104. The winds whistle cold. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
105. The chough and crow. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
106. Sound the loud timbrel. Three-part .. .. .. Avison
107. Ye shepherds tell me (The wreath). Three-part Mazzinghi
108. Harvest home. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop and Foster
109. But now the pearl-crown'd moon. Three-part E. Aguilar
110. O! find a song. Three-part (Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
111. When the wind blows. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
112. A lullaby Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
113. Come over the hills. Three-part .. .. H. Foster
114. The sower. Three-part .. .. D'Albano
115. Home and rest. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
116. Memories. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
117. Good-bye, sweetheart, good-bye. Three-part .. J. L. Hatton
118. The city of the king. Three-part .. .. O. Barri
119. Erin mavourneen. Three-part .. .. .. J. L. Hatton
120. Blessed are the poor in Spirit. Three-part (Sacred) .. Mozart
121. Through the old cloisters. Three-part .. .. Beethoven
122. Roll on, fair orb. Three-part .. .. .. Beethoven
123. In Thee I trust. Three-part (Sacred) .. .. .. Handel
124. Ring on, sweet bells. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
125. The minstrel. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
126. An evening song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
127. The wood-nymph's home. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
128. The songs our fathers loved. Three-part .. Wagner
129. Gipsy chorus. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
130. Now to the fair. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
131. Yet droops the maiden. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
132. Deign to forgive the gipsy maid. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
133. The maiden's dream. Three-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
134. From out Thy starry dwelling. Three-part (Prayer, Moses in Egypt) .. .. Rossini
135. Father of Heaven. Three-part (Prayer, Masaniello) Auber
136. A sylvan song. Three-part .. .. Wagner
137. A lady fair (Villanelle). Three-part .. .. Niedermeyer
138. Stay, prithee, stay. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
139. O! skylark for thy wing. Three-part .. .. Mendelssohn
140. Light as fairy foot can fall. Three-part .. .. .. Weber
141. The evening bell. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
142. Haste thee, boatman. Two-part .. .. .. F. Kücken
143. On the margin of that river. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
144. Bird of the morn. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
145. Wandering wind. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
146. Song of the sea breezes. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
147. Heavenly music. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
148. Adieu, ye woodlands. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
149. Nightingales are singing. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
150. Sing to me, gondolier. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
151. Now, merry fays. Two-part .. .. C. Gounod
152. The voices of Spring. Two-part .. .. .. Offenbach
153. The haymakers. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
154. Now the meadows. Two-part .. .. Lotti
155. In Thy service. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. J. Blockley
156. I think of thee. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
157. O! ye sunny hours. Two-part .. .. .. R. Schumann
158. Good night. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
159. Cradled by the heaving billow. Two-part .. .. H. Foster
160. Serenade. Two-part .. .. J. B. Wekerlin
161. The sailor's return. Three-part .. .. .. Wagner
162. The song of June. Three-part .. .. .. Mendelssohn
163. Singing in the rain. Two-part .. .. .. J. P. Knight
164. The ferry boat. Two-part .. .. L. Williams
165. When spring descendeth. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
166. Where art thou, beam of light? Three-part .. .. Bishop
167. Far away. Two-part .. .. J. R. Thomas
168. Italy's music. Three-part .. .. C. E. Horn
169. Nina's farewell. Two-part .. .. Pergolesi
170. The gipsy home. Two-part .. .. Herbert Foster
171. Three vivandières. Three-part .. .. F. Schira
172. Peace. Two-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
173. Sing, pretty maiden. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
174. Angelus. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
175. Pretty gitana. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Wallace
176. Alas! those chimes. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
177. Turn on, old time. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
178. God save the Queen. Three-part .. .. National
179. Say, sad heart, why art thou beating? Two-part .. F. Abt
180. Eve's lamentation. Two-part .. .. .. M. P. King
181. Thy spirit is near. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart

EDWIN ASHDOWN, LIMITED,

NEW YORK. HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON. TORONTO.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES AND CHORUS

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

(Op. 42)

Composer of "The Holy City," "Ruth," "Passion Service," "Joan of Arc," &c.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. If composers would have their works popular with choral societies, it is only reasonable to expect that they will bestow a fair share of their attention upon the choruses. The old masters knew this, and there is no doubt that the fact has much to do with the long-continued popularity of their works; and there is equally little doubt, we think, that the principal cause of the failure of so many works produced now-a-days is the uninteresting nature of the choruses. Compare the choruses of the three most popular works ever produced—'The Messiah,' 'Creation,' and 'Elijah'—with a large number of modern works, and our meaning will be clear. If we mistake not, such thoughts as these passed through Mr. Gaul's mind when he set himself to compose those works which have placed him in the front rank of English composers—the 'Holy City,' 'Joan of Arc,' and 'The Ten Virgins'—and that the public endorse his views is proved by the enormous sale which these works have had."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"The subject is an excellent one for a Cantata . . . a stronger work than 'Joan of Arc.' . . . Melodious, vocal, and of moderate difficulty, and, like Mr. Gaul's earlier Cantatas, will be eagerly welcomed by societies in search of new works having these characteristics."—Newcastle Daily Leader, Dec. 16, 1890.

Bow and Bromley Institute Choir.—"The hall was overcrowded by an audience that was disposed to encore every other number of the work. If the verdict of a miscellaneous audience, that could have no possible reason for being favourably prejudiced, is of any account in estimating the merit of a new work, a career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.' That Mr. Gaul should have secured this undoubted popular success with a work far more contrapuntal than any of his former works, is a remarkable tribute to his power of welding science and beauty into one whole."—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Eleventh to Fifteenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

		s. d.			s. d.
Paper cover ..	.. price	2 6	Tonic Sol-fa ..	.. price	1 6
„ boards ..	.. „	3 0	Vocal parts ..	each „	1 0
Scarlet cloth ..	.. „	4 0	Words only ..	per 100 „	7 0

For the use of Choral Societies.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. Elliott. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s. d.
BUFALETTI, F.—Suite dans le Style ancien. For the Pianoforte	6 0
CASELLA, FILS (CÉSAR).—Scherzo Impromptu. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	6 0
CHAVAGNAT, ED.—"The Good Old Time." Six Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 181. Book I. "Chez le Roi." Book II. "Aux Champs" .. .. each book	6 0
CHERUBINI.—Scherzo and Trio. For Strings. Score and Parts .. .. net	1 6
DUBOIS, V.—Three Meditations. For Harmonium	4 0
—— Fantasia. For Harmonium	5 0
ENNA, A.—Eight Pieces. For Pianoforte. Book I. Menuet, Barcarolle, Melodie, Gavotte, Scherzino. Book II. Impromptu, Menuet, Humoreske .. .. .. each book	4 0
—— Three Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte:—
No. 1. Spinning Song	4 0
„ 2. Bridal Music	4 0
„ 3. Bridal Chorus and Wedding March	4 0
FOOTE, A.—Quartet. For Pianoforte, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 23	16 0
—— Serenata. For String Orchestra. Op. 25 .. .. net	3 6
GILIS, A.—Easy Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte:—
Marche Héroique. Op. 51	5 0
Marche Ecossaise. Op. 75	4 0
Parade Marsch. Op. 80	4 0
Fantaisie Bohémienne	6 0
GLINKA.—Menuet and Trio. For Strings. Score and Parts. net	1 6
HOFFMANN, RICH.—Four Pieces. For Oboe and Pianoforte. Op. 81:—
No. 1. Nocturne	3 0
„ 2. Lied ohne Worte	3 0
„ 3. Romanza	3 0
„ 4. Scherzo	3 0
HORVATH, MIKSA.—Five Hungarian Songs and Dances. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 19	5 0
HUBER, HANS.—Concerto, No. 2. For the Pianoforte. Op. 107	16 0
KIEL, C.—Easy Pieces. For the Pianoforte (Four hands) and Violin. Books 1, 2, and 3 .. .. each	3 0
LAMBERG, Z.—Two Pianoforte Pieces. Op. 14:—
No. 1. Valse expressive; No. 2. Barcarolle .. each	3 0
—— Two Pieces for the Pianoforte. Op. 15:—
No. 1. Berceuse	2 0
„ 2. Fileuse	3 0
LANGE, S. DE.—Andante. For Violoncello and Organ ..	3 0
LEFÈVRE, E.—Berceuse. For Violin and Pianoforte ..	4 0
LISZT, FRANZ.—Mephisto-Walzer:—
Orchestral Parts .. .. net	20 0
Full Score .. .. „	12 0
MENDELSSOHN.—Canzonetta. For Strings. Op. 12:—
Score and Parts .. .. „	1 6
—— Intermezzo. For Strings. Op. 13:—
Score and Parts .. .. „	1 6
MOHR, H.—Three Easy Quartets. For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello	6 0
NEURY, J.—Sérénade Complainte. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 37, No. 2	6 0
POPPER, DAVID.—Three Pieces. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 64:—
No. 1. Remanbranza	6 0
„ 2. Tarantella	10 0
„ 3. Berceuse	6 0
—— Requiem. For Three Violoncellos and Pianoforte. Op. 66	10 0
PUCHAT, MAX.—Quartet. For Strings (Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello). Op. 25:—
Score .. .. net	4 0
Parts	8 0
RITTER, G. P.—"Evenings at Home." Three Easy Pieces. For Three Violins (First position). Op. 69	4 0
—— Easy Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 70	6 0
SCHUBERTH, F.—Scherzo and Trio. For Strings:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	1 6
—— Menuet and Trio. For Strings:—
Score and Parts .. .. „	1 6
SCHUMANN, R.—Abendlied, Träumerei, Nordisches Lied. Arranged for Strings:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	1 6
SLUNICKO.—Romanza. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 10	4 0
THOMÉ, F.—2me Andante religioso. For Violin and Pianoforte	5 0
TOBY, H. P.—Canzonetta. For Harmonium Op. 112	4 0
TOMBELLE, F. DE LA.—Aubade. For Harmonium	5 0
TSCHAIKOWSKY, P.—Andante cantabile. For Strings. Op. 11:—
Score and Parts .. .. net	1 6
—— Sextet. For Strings. Op. 70:—
Full Score .. .. „	8 0
Parts	40 0
VAN'T KRUŸ'S, M. H.—Sonata, No. 4. For Organ. Op. 32	5 0
WEICKMANN, A.—Six Easy Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 8. Books 1 and 2 .. .. each	5 0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

Novello's List of the newest and most celebrated Foreign Publications—Pianoforte, Instrumental, and Vocal Works —may be had free on application.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED, SEPARATELY.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

TWELVE NEW SONGS

BY

BRITISH COMPOSERS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HAROLD BOULTON.

	Composed by
Constancy	Joseph Barnby.
Cradle Song	Alfred Cellier.
Love's Journey	F. Corder.
Truant Wings	Frederic H. Cowen.
In Summer Weather	Charles H. Lloyd.
Robin sly	A. C. Mackenzie.
A Song of the South	Hamish MacCunn.
The Maid of Elsinore	C. Hubert H. Parry.
A Pretty Maid	Arthur Somervell.
For ever mine	C. V. Stanford.
To welcome you	A. Goring Thomas.
The Windflower	Charles Wood.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

RED RIDING HOOD: a Play for Children. Words by Evelyn L. Thomas. Music by John Farmer, author of "Christ and His Soldiers," &c. Joseph Williams and Co., Berners Street.

Just Published.

KIRMESS

(Rustic Pictures)

FOR PIANOFORTE DUET

COMPOSED BY

HEINRICH HOFMANN

(Op. 102).

IN TWO BOOKS.—Book I.

No. 1. Arrival of the Visitors. | No. 3. Drinking Song.
„ 2. Ländler. | „ 4. In the Arbour.

Book II.

No. 5. The Travelling Show:—
(a) Indian Dance.
(b) Sword Dance.
(c) Chinese Jugglers.
(d) The Strong Man.
No. 6. Good Night!

Price Three Shillings net each.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO "HENRY VIII."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

Contents.

Morris Dance. | Shepherds' Dance.
Torch Dance.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

VOCAL SCORE, OLD NOTATION. 21st to 25th THOUSAND.

RUTH

A HARVEST PASTORAL

SUITABLE FOR USE IN PLACES OF WORSHIP

WORDS BY

EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

SUITABLE FOR

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

"The Biblical story of which Ruth is the central figure lends itself with remarkable suitability to an illustration of a harvest celebration. The country landscape, the ripened corn, the sturdy reapers, the standing sheaves, the active gleaners, and the busy farmer, all combine to fill the mind's eye with a pleasant scene of excitement. Set to music by a competent composer such as Mr. A. R. Gaul, the narrative of Ruth's eventful episode lends itself to a pathetic, picturesque, and pleasant performance. The bereaved and sorrowful trio of women on whom the calamity of poverty and famine has fallen, as if to give intensity to their greater grief, and the unexpected and happy influence of patriarchal benevolence displayed by the mighty Boaz, who so quickly transforms sorrow into joy, are all introduced and aptly take their allotted place in the melodious music of Gaul's interpretation of the tale."—Gloucester Citizen.

"The work, like the 'Holy City,' is full of beautiful orchestral passages, while the vocal score abounds with charming numbers."—Bucks Herald.

"'Ruth' is a work of sterling power; its musical form is that of perfect tunefulness combined with simplicity and strength. . . . The composer has grasped his theme in a thoroughly sympathetic manner, and has produced a work which is worthy of the subject."—Bradford Observer.

"Bright, tuneful, fresh, and musicianly—this work will be a great favourite, and will add to Mr. Gaul's reputation."—Birmingham Weekly Dart.

"'Ruth' has been set to music by several composers; none, however, has become so worthily popular as the Cantata under notice. . . . It contains some charming music, and is highly characteristic of the story it so vividly illustrates."—South Wilts Express.

"Full of flowing melody."—Salisbury Times.

PERFORMED IN THE TOWN HALL, BIRMINGHAM, ON TWELVE OCCASIONS.

Vocal Score, paper cover, 2s.; ditto, paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 4s.
The Choruses (only) in Vocal Score, for Musical Societies, paper cover, 1s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 9d. Band Parts on loan.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MUSICAL STUDENTS.

To be Published by Subscription.

THE MUSICAL STUDENT'S PRACTICAL

GUIDE TO KNOWLEDGE

AND

EXCELLENCE OF EXECUTION,

Which clearly points out to all who aspire to become thorough musicians, composers, extempore players, and brilliant performers on the piano, the organ, the violin, cello, and other musical instruments, the most effective way for training the intellect and the fingers simultaneously, in order to obtain the best results.

This is a Text Book with numerous illustrations and exercises for mental and practical training, and the following is a brief summary of its contents (12 Chapters): 1. On the nature of the higher understanding of the musical language. 2. The practice of scales and scale passages on an entirely new principle—i.e., course of training the imagination. 3. Course of training the inventive faculty. 4. Explanations of all possible chords. 5. Course of training the memory. 6. Course for application of the higher understanding, when studying and practising the classical composers. 7. Separate chapters for violinists, cellists, singers, aspiring composers, and extempore players, &c.

The subscription price to be 3s. per copy, and after the List of Subscribers is closed it will be 5s. 6d. per copy. Names and addresses of intending subscribers, together with P.O. for 3s., to be sent direct to the Author, Herr A. Hoering, 5, Montpelier Terrace, Teddington, Middlesex, who will have it published by a first-rate firm of London publishers immediately when the List of Subscribers is completed. A large number of subscribers' names have already been entered, so that he expects that this work will go to print at a very early date.

MUSIC

IN ITS RELATION TO THE INTELLECT & THE EMOTIONS

BY

JOHN STAINER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PRODUCED AT THE GLOUCESTER FESTIVAL, 1892.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings. Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be had on hire.

THE TIMES.

"Gethsemane," as the new work is called, is, at least, as meritorious as its predecessor, and will, no doubt, attain a like success. . . . The opening chorus is really impressive, with its solid harmonies supporting an ornamental theme which seems to be identified with the garden itself. The chorales are for the most part original, and are generally set for four-part choir (sometimes for male voices alone), supported only by the organ pedals. The first of the vigorous baritone solos, "Come, armed host," gives the suggestion for a succeeding chorus in the same militant vein. . . . The second of the baritone songs, "Awake! awake!" leads on to the resumption of the Saviour's soliloquy, the subject of which is soon taken up by the contralto voice, in an air of considerable beauty, "As Thou wilt, Father," at the close of which an "Amen" is sung in five-part harmony without accompaniment. At the description of the appearance of the strengthening angel, a harp solo is introduced, and this passage is almost the only instance in which the composer has yielded to convention. The succeeding chorus, "In the day of consternation," allotted again to male voices, is in the form of a litany—a form which, it will be remembered, was used with great success in the earlier work. An expressive air for contralto, suggested by the Saviour's words, "It is enough," leads to the final chorus, which, like the former one, ends with a hymn-tune, the familiar "Rockingham" being used this time. The appropriateness of this tune will appear when it is remembered that it is usually associated with a well-known hymn on the Crucifixion.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

The Gloucester conductor's second work is a marked advance upon his first. Mr. Williams has a remarkable and very moving faculty of expressing devotional feeling without going beyond the use of comparatively simple means. Hence the story of Gethsemane was musically told this evening with a directness and force that held the audience spellbound.

STANDARD.

Mr. Williams's Cantata is evidently meant as a companion to his devotional and pleasing work, "The Last Night at Bethany," produced three years ago—that is to say, it is intended less for the concert-room than for church use at special seasons, musical elaboration being studiously avoided so as not to exceed the capabilities of fairly efficient choirs. Mr. Joseph Bennett, as in the previous work, has mingled tasteful verses from his own pen with portions of the Gospel narrative. . . . "Gethsemane" is certain to be in request wherever music is recognised as a handmaid to religion.

MORNING POST.

It is of course intended for church use, and is therefore designedly simple in style; but though he avoids elaborate choral writing, the composer has by no means sacrificed vigour to simplicity. The chorus of "Saviour Christ" is a powerful piece of writing, and several of the solos have a very distinct individuality. The Cantata is admirably adapted for Lenten use in churches where choral services are a prominent feature. It is commendably free from that particular kind of sentimentality which so often is the bane of compositions of this class.

DAILY NEWS.

No detailed description is necessary of a work of this character, which being intended for ordinary church as well as for Festival use, is for the most part studiously simple and unpretentious, although when occasion arises, as in the fine chorus of the "Christian Church," the composer furnishes a worthy example of his sound musicianship. . . . The whole work is admirably suited to the purpose for which it was avowedly written, and there is every reason to believe that it will become quite as popular as its predecessor.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Mr. Bennett's narrative of the departure for the Mount of Olivet and of the scene in the Garden is partly original verse, excellently adapted to music, and partly well-chosen sentences from Scripture, the blending of the two being so dexterous that there is nothing to interfere with the steadily flowing current of the touching story. As effectively as before Mr. Lee Williams shows his aptitude for dealing with a sacred theme in a manner readily understood by the humblest worshipper in the slightest degree susceptible to the influence of music.

THE ATHENÆUM.

It is a worthy companion to the same composer's "Bethany." Mr. Joseph Bennett's libretto deals exclusively with the scene in the garden of Olivet, the first text being, "And when they had sung an hymn they went out into the Mount of Olives," and the last, "Then all the disciples forsook Him and fled." The talented organist of Gloucester Cathedral has contrived to avoid monotony in his music, notwithstanding its studious simplicity and necessary general sombreness. The impulsiveness of the Apostle Peter is well portrayed in his solos, and there is a vigorous chorus of the Church.

THE GUARDIAN.

At the evening performance, a new Church Cantata entitled "Gethsemane," by Mr. Lee Williams, was heard for the first time, and made a deservedly favourable impression by its agreeable blending of sound scholarship with unforced and genial melody. The spirit of the music is excellent. It abounds in sentiment, but never lapses into mawkishness. Alike in his writing for chorus and orchestra, Mr. Williams shows an admirable sense of tone. The work is naturally of a grave character, but excellent relief is afforded by two spirited airs for baritone.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

VOICE TRAINING STUDIES

SEQUEL TO "VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES"

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

WITH TONIC SOL-FA TRANSLATION BY KATE BEHNKE.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

The unprecedented success of "Voice Training Exercises" is the best proof that they supplied a real want with regard to the cultivation of the singing voice, and we are thereby encouraged to issue a set of "Voice Training Studies" as an additional step in the same direction. These Studies are intended for the formation of style and are written progressively in three different parts, corresponding in compass with those of the Exercises, so that they may serve as companion volumes or as supplements.

58th EDITION.

VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

"Admirable, and doubtless will prove of great utility."—Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley.
"Far more precise in plan than anything I have seen."—Sir Robert Stewart.
"I like the exercises very much; they are scientific, systematic, and ingenious."—Dr. Stainer.

RIMBAULT'S SINGING TUTOR

CHIEFLY SELECTED FROM THE CELEBRATED TUTOR OF LABLACHE.

Comprising directions for the formation and cultivation of the Voice, after the Methods of the best Italian Masters; also a series of Progressive Lessons, Studies in Vocalisation, Solfeggios, &c., with an Accompaniment for the Pianoforte. Editions for Soprano, Tenor, Contralto, or Bass .. .. each net s. 2 d. 6

LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Soprano or Tenor .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Medium Voices .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano .. .. net 2 6
This Edition can also be used for a Bass Voice.
LABLACHE VOCAL EXERCISES .. .. net 2 6
This celebrated work is very largely used by singing masters, and at all the principal Schools of the United Kingdom.

CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS.

A COLLECTION OF
GLEES, MADRIGALS, PART-SONGS, &c., FOR ALL VOICES.
CONTAINING WORKS BY
GOUNOD, ARTHUR SULLIVAN, HENRY SMART, J. L. HATTON, &c.
List of Contents on Application.

NEW WORKS FOR TONIC SOL-FA.

FAUST

A Dramatic Legend by HECTOR BERLIOZ. Price 3s. 6d. net.
A Tonic Sol-fa Edition of this celebrated Work. Just Published. Price 2s. 6d. net.

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS

Cantata written by Thomas Ingoldsby. Music by GEORGE FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net.
Edition for Tonic Sol-fa. Just Published. 1s. 6d. net.

Orchestral and Chorus Parts of the above may be had on Hire of—

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, New Bond St., London.

Printed by Novello, Ewer and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.) Sold also by Kent and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Saturday, October 1, 1892.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 597.—Vol. 33. Registered for transmission abroad. NOVEMBER 1, 1892. Price 4*d.*; Post-free, 5*d.* Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5*s.*

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

TWENTY-SECOND SEASON, 1892-93.

First Concert, Wednesday, November 2, at 8.

DVOŘÁK'S "REQUIEM."

Artists: Madame ALBANI, Miss HILDA WILSON, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS. Organist, Mr. HODGE.

Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

Second Concert, Wednesday, November 23, at 8.

BERLIOZ'S "FAUST."

Artists: Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Mr. IVER McKAY, Mr. ROBERT GRICE, and Mr. HENSCHEL.

Ten Concerts will be given during the season, eight being Subscription.

Prices for the Subscription Series of Eight Concerts: Stalls, 3 guineas; Arena, 2 guineas; Balcony (reserved), 1½ guineas. Seats may now be secured, and prospectuses obtained, at the Royal Albert Hall.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Michaelmas Half-Term begins November 10.
Entrance Exam. therefor, November 7, at 2.
Fortnightly Concerts, November 5 and 19, at 8.
Lectures every Wednesday, at 3:—
On November 2 and 9, by W. S. Rockstro, Esq.
On November 16, 23, and 30, by Walter Macfarren, Esq., R.A.M.
Last day for completing entry for the Metropolitan Examination, 1892-3, November 30.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

KENSINGTON GORE.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D.

HALF-TERM.

The Half-Term will commence on November 7.

EXHIBITIONS.

To be competed for during the term: Three Council Exhibitions—one of £15 for Students of three terms standing; two of £20 each for Students of six terms standing.

ASSOCIATE.

Associate of the Royal College of Music (A.R.C.M.)—The next examination for certificate of proficiency with the above title will take place at the College, on March 27 to 30, 1893.

The list of pieces in which Candidates will be examined and other particulars may be obtained from Mr. George Watson, Registrar, at the College.

Application forms must be returned with the examination fee so as to be received at the College not later than February 13.

CHARLES MORLEY, Hon. Sec.

GRESHAM COLLEGE.

MICHAELMAS TERM, 1892.

Professor BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., will deliver his Lectures as follows:—

TUESDAY, November 15.—"The Triumphs of Oriana." (No. 3.)
WEDNESDAY, November 16.—"Haydn in England."
THURSDAY, November 17, and FRIDAY, November 18.—"A Talk about the Orchestra" (the Percussion).

The Lectures are free to the public, and commence at 6 o'clock p.m.

GLOUCESTER CATHEDRAL.

The WINTER SERIES of FREE RECITALS are fixed for the following dates:—

November 10, 24.
December 8, 26.
January 12, 26.
February 9, 23.
March 9, 23.

C. LEE WILLIAMS, Palace Yard, Gloucester.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC

FOR

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

President—H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD:

THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD CHARLES BRUCE, Chairman.
A. C. MACKENZIE, Esq., Mus. Doc., Principal of R.A.M.
Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D., Director of R.C.M.

Professor JAMES DEWAR, F.R.S., &c.,
ALBERTO RANDEGGER, Esq.,
THOMAS THRELFALL, Esq.,
FREDERICK WESTLAKE, Esq.,
F. MEADOWS WHITE, Esq., Q.C.,
} R.A.M.

EDWARD W. HAMILTON, Esq., C.B.,
Sir WALTER PARRATT, Mus. Bac.,
C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., Mus. Doc.,
Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus. Doc.,
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Esq.,
} R.C.M.

HONORARY TREASURER:
CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

HONORARY AUDITOR:
Sir CHARLES LISTER RYAN, K.C.B., Comptroller and Auditor-General.

SECRETARY:
GEORGE WATSON, Esq. Central Office, 52, New Bond St., London, W.

BANKERS:
BANK OF ENGLAND, Western Branch, Burlington Gardens, London.

SYLLABUS A.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS.

LAST DAY FOR RECEIVING FORMS OF APPLICATION FROM CANDIDATES—

JANUARY 31, 1893.

THE PRELIMINARY LOCAL EXAMINATION (Paper Work) for CANDIDATES in PRACTICAL SUBJECTS will take place at the various Centres on February 22, 1893.

THE FINAL LOCAL EXAMINATIONS for CANDIDATES in PRACTICAL SUBJECTS will commence on and after March 28, 1893.

THEORY OF MUSIC EXAMINATION (Paper Work) for CANDIDATES entering for THEORY will take place at the various Centres on February 22, 1893.

SYLLABUS B.

LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

LAST DAY FOR RECEIVING APPLICATIONS FOR REGISTRATION FROM SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS OF MUSIC—

FEBRUARY 27, 1893.

THE LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS will be arranged in Circuits, and will be conducted by a School Examiner appointed by the Board.

They will be held during four periods as follows:—

(a) December.
(b) March, April.
(c) June, July.
(d) October, November.

Schools and Teachers will, so far as is practicable, be allowed to select the period which they prefer for Examination, provided that they notify the same to the Secretary within seven days after receiving notice that their Applications to be Registered have been accepted.

NAMES OF CANDIDATES FROM SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS OF MUSIC can only be entered on Forms supplied from the Office, and must be sent with the Examination Fees as follows:—

For period (a) not later than December 1, 1892.
" " (b) " " " February 4, 1893.
" " (c) " " " May 13, 1893.
" " (d) " " " October 4, 1893.

Copies of either Syllabus may be obtained at the Central Office, 52, New Bond Street, London, W.

GEORGE WATSON, Secretary.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MADAME ASHWORTH-HUGHES (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c., address, Katherine Terrace, Ashton-under-Lyne; and Messrs. Forsyth Bros., Manchester.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c., address, Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire. In Scotland from December 19.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
53, Robert St., Upper Brook St., Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester. Terms for Oratorios and Concerts, &c., and Press Notices on application.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c. Lyndhurst, Hendon, N.W.

MADAME FLORENCE DICK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., address, 245, Prescot Road, Fairfield, Liverpool.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.
"Has a magnificent voice of extraordinary range."—Standard.

MISS MARIANNE FENNA (Soprano)
25, Maitland Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

WILLIAM CHAS. GRIBBLE (Soprano)
Address, 102, Robert Street, Hampstead Road, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS HEROD (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Ballads, &c., address, Woodley, near Stockport.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 41, Hampden Street, Nottingham.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ELLEN INGHAM (Soprano)
(Late Student, Royal Academy of Music, London).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 9, Albert Road, Colne, Lancs.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Square, N.E.

MISS LILY MARSHALL-WARD (Soprano)
MISS JESSIE MARSHALL-WARD (Contralto)
Address, 14, Peel Street, Nottingham.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS LILY PEARCE, L.R.A.M. (Soprano)
(From the Weimar Conservatorium).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., 25, Cliff Road, Leeds.

MISS ANNIE PULLEIN (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. North Shore, Blackpool.

MISS VIOLET ROBINSON
(Mezzo-Soprano or Contralto, Certificated R.A.M.).
Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c. 64, Abbey Rd., St. John's Wood.

MISS LIZZIE SCOTT (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 38, York Road, Northampton.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c. Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS EDITH STEVENS (Soprano)
(Of the Crystal Palace Concerts).
Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Beverley House, Barnes, S.W.

MISS ADELINE TREISS (Mezzo-Soprano)
Concerts, &c., 203, Upper Street, Islington, N.
"A conspicuous feature of the concert was the singing of Miss Adeline Treiss, a vocalist of much promise. She sang with great taste and ability."—West London Observer.

MISS AGNES WALKER (Soprano)
104, Lewisham High Road, New Cross, S.E.
Agent: Mr. Farley Sinkins, 24, Brook Street, W.

MISS ETHEL WEBB (Soprano)
Concerts, Opera, &c. 14, Balmoral Road, Nottingham.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS ETTA WRIGHT (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c., address, Brightholme, 28, Albany Road, Stroud Green, N.

MISS DORA BARNARD (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c. 6, Lordship Park, N.

MISS ALICE BERTENSHAW (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 312, Katherine Ter., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MRS. CRESER (Contralto)
25, Adamson Road, N.W.; or, N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, W.

MISS TERESA DEVIENE (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 70, St. George's Avenue, Tufnell Park, N.
"St. James's Hall.—Miss Teresa Deviene is decidedly a promising Contralto vocalist."—The Stage.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 76, Calabria Road, N.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS (Contralto)
York Villas, Smethwick, Birmingham.
"Contralto vocalist with an excellent voice."

MISS MINNIE KIRTON (Contralto)
12, Upper Tollington Park, N.; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork St., W.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c. 10, Springfield Road, N.W.

MISS ELSA ODELL (Contralto)
For Oratorios, &c. Epping, Essex.

MISS HELEN SAUNDERS (Contralto)
(Sainton-Dolby Prizeholder and Sub-Professor, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Banquets, At Homes, &c. 25, Cloudesley Street, Barnsbury, N.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, vid Leeds.

MISS MARIANNE TOMLINSON (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 12, St. Andrew's Place, Bradford.

MISS MARY TUNNICLIFFE (Solo Contralto)
(Of St. Nicholas, Cole Abbey, E.C).
For terms, address, 94, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MISS VERKRÜZEN (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c, 119, Petherton Road, Highbury, N.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c.
46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. CUTHBERT BLACOW (Primo Tenore)
Oratorio, Opera, Ballad, Masonic, &c. Address, De Jong and Blacow, 15, Victoria Street, Manchester.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. T. HENRY BREARLEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., address, 13, Earl St., Claremount, Halifax.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Opera, his popular Entertainments, or Concerts, and the "Balfe Quartet," address, 67, Berners Street, W.

MR. G. GREEN (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Preston Parish Church).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., address, 81, South Meadow Lane, Preston.

C. EMLYN JONES (Tenor)
AND
MADAME EMLYN JONES (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 348, Kennington Road, S.E.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor)
5, Melbourne Terrace, Bradford.

MR. T. OLDROYD (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral, Rochester.

MR. SYDNEY THOMAS (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Cottesbrooke, Wallington, Surrey.

MR. FRED. THOMPSON (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
47, Rushall Street, Walsall.

MR. WILLIAM WHITE (Tenor)
Address, 70, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. ARTHUR J. WILSON (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 12, Glengall Road, Camberwell, S.E.
Sole Agent, Mr. Daniel Mayer, 18, Gt. Marlborough Street, W.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON (Baritone)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. For terms, address, 34, Hanover Sq., Leeds.

MR. JOHN COATES (Baritone)
"'Messiah.'—Mr. John Coates sang with strict accuracy and exactly according to copy; besides which, he has a magnificent voice which he knows well how to use. His first essay gave a good impression, which he more than sustained later on. His clever and powerful delivery of the favourite air 'Why do the nations' more than realised the expectations of the audience, and twice he had to rise and bow his acknowledgments before they would be satisfied. We should say that Mr. Coates has decidedly the kind of material in him for the making of a great artiste. He reaped an equal success in 'The trumpet shall sound.'"—Halifax Courier, December 27, 1890.
55, Beamsley Road, Frizinghall, Bradford.

MR. JOHN J. DAVIS (Baritone)
(Curzon Chapel, Mayfair, W.)
(Late Pupil of R. Latter, Esq., G.S.M.)
Terms, vacant dates, address, 144, Tachbrook St., St. George's Sq., S.W.

MR. EDWARD MARLOWE (Baritone)
Oratorio, Ballad, and Operatic Concerts. 25, Winterwell Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. D. PRICE (Baritone)
(Westminster Abbey),
37, Torrington Square, W.C.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia)
For Oratorios, Operas, and Ballads.
"Fine quality and thorough reliability of tone are special characteristics of his voice, and his singing is marked by artistic appreciation of every phrase."—North British Daily Mail.
Address, 94, Hill Street, Glasgow.

MR. GILBERT THORNE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

MR. W. THORNTON (Baritone)
Address, care of Wood and Marshall, Bradford.
"Elijah."—"Mr. Thornton undertook the title-rôle, and was most conspicuously successful, the technical difficulties of the music were mastered with great power and skill."—Observer.

MR. & MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone and Soprano and Elocutionists).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Operas, &c.; also to Recite "The Dream of Jubal," "Athalie," and similar works.
"Preciosa," by Newcastle Choral Society.—"The soloists (who both recited and sang) acquitted themselves admirably."—Newcastle Chronicle.
"Mrs. Wallis's charm of manner and dramatic ability were particularly apparent."—Musical Times, March, 1892.
Address, 90, Caledonian Road, Leeds.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone)
Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, and Operatic work. 22, Ferndale Road, Clapham, S.W.

MR. CARL BRANDT (Basso Profundo)
Oratorio, Concerts, Dinners, &c. Concert Party provided. Moderate terms. 12, St. Mark's Villas, Dalston, N.E.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. THOS. KEMPTON (Bass)
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., and for Quartet Party. 55, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass)
(Of Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, and Royal Albert Hall). For Oratorio and Concerts, address, 9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. CHAS. H. SIEBERT (Basso)
For Concerts, Dinners, Soirées, &c.
"Sang artistically."—Dr. C. W. Pearce (Examiner in Music, University of Cambridge).
"Fine bass voice . . . enthusiastic encore."—South London Press.
"Sang with the power and finish of his excellent voice."—Musical Herald.
"Audience demanded an encore . . . much manifestation of delight."—Grimsby News.
Address, 27, Lausanne Road, Hornsey.

MR. J. SKELTON (Bass)
Compston Place, Ambleside; or, 1, Dolbey St., Weaste, Manchester.

MADAME BAER (Solo Pianist)
(Pupil of Royal Academy of Music, Berlin),
Requires Engagements for At Homes. Address, 150, Hartfield Road, Wimbledon.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead.
"Mr. Preston's reputation as an Organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of our representative English Organists."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.
"Mr. Preston is a local Professor, and a performer of the very first rank. It is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.
"He has established his right to be regarded as one of our representative English Organists."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

MISS CHRISTINA BRUMLEU
(Violinist, A.L.A.M.),
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, The Fernery, Sidcup, Kent.

MISS ALICE SIMPKIN (Solo Violinist)
Terms for Concerts, At Homes, &c., on application, 1, Wintoun Street, Leeds. References permitted to Herr B. Hollander, Signor Piatti, Herr Frantzen, and Señor Albeniz.

MR. THOMAS CHAPMAN (Accompanist)
TO CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.
In cases where a complete Orchestra is not used, the Wind Parts of any work satisfactorily rendered on the Harmonium from the full score.
Address, 35, Sutherland Place, Westbourne Grove, W.

MR. W. ERNEST HOMER
(Solo Zither, Banjo, and Mandoline).
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c., 344, Brixton Road, S.W.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboeist and Oboe Maker)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 51, Lydgate Hill, Pudsey, near Leeds.

MISS ELIZA CHADWICK (Soprano), of the Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Leeds Concerts, accepts Engagements for Sacred or Secular Performances. 51, Netherhall Road, Doncaster.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 53, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER, Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Will take pupils. Agent, Mr. D. Mayer, 18, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto) (Gold Medalist, L.A.M.). Engaged: November 1, Middleton Hall; 3, Woodford; 7, West Ham; 8, 9, 10, Stratford; 14, 15, Bermondsey; 17, West Ham; 22, Walworth; 25, 26, Brixton; 29, Bloomsbury. 88, Lady Margaret Road, N.

MISS MARGARET HOARE requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 15, Mowbray Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MADAME MINNIE LYNDSEY (Contralto) has a few vacant dates in November for Oratorios, Concerts, Public Dinners, &c. Highly recommended for Classical and Operatic Recitals. Entertainments for charitable purposes attended for expenses only. 2, Henwood Villas, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

ALBERT E. ENTWISTLE (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral Choir (late Principal Alto, Lichfield Cathedral), is at liberty to accept Engagements for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, and Masonic Banquets, &c. For terms and vacant dates, address, 4, Gubyon Avenue, Herne Hill, S.W.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. HAYDN GROVER (Alto, Temple Church), at liberty for Special Sacred Festivals, Concerts, Banquets. Terms, 55, Elm Grove, Peckham, London.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for Engagements at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

M. HENRI G. RIVIERE (Alto), Vicar-Choral of Wells Cathedral (late Principal Alto, St. Andrew's, Wells Street), is open to accept Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, Church Festivals, &c. A Quartet provided. Address, The Cathedral, Wells.

MR. RIDSDALE BOWLEY (Tenor) is now booking for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. For terms, press opinions, &c., 11, School Street, Weaste, Manchester.

MR. WILLIAM FELL (Tenor), Lay Vicar of Westminster Abbey and late Choral Scholar of King's College, Cambridge, begs to announce his REMOVAL to 37, Torrington Square, W.C.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

LLOYD JAMES, the Birmingham Tenor, is open to accept Engagements for Oratorios, Ballads, &c. Address, Smethwick, Birmingham. References permitted to A. R. Gaul, Esq.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor) kindly requests that all communications should be sent to 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.; or, W. B. Healey and Son, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. E. JACKSON (Baritone) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For terms and vacant dates, address, Principal Bass, New College, Oxford.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—MR. DAN PRICE (Baritone, of Westminster Abbey) begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 37, Torrington Square, W.C., where all communications respecting Concert, Masonic, Oratorio Engagements, and Private Lessons, should be addressed.

MR. WALTER NORTH (Bass). Italian method. Pending Engagements: Liverpool, St. Helen's, Southport, Bolton Philharmonic, Town, &c. Oratorio, Banquets, At Homes, &c., 41, Calabria Road, Highbury, N.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MR. ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Mus. Bac., begs to announce that his PERMANENT ADDRESS is 239, Cromwell Mansions, Cromwell Road, S.W.

MR. C. H. ALLEN GILL, A.R.A.M., Violoncellist, Conductor, &c., begs to announce his REMOVAL to 2, Lawford Road, Camden Town, N.W., where all communications respecting Engagements, Lessons, &c., may be addressed.

MR. EDWIN W. FLAVELL desires communications concerning Engagements, &c., addressed, 10, Oberstein Road, New Wandsworth, S.W.

MR. BRUCE STEANE, Mus. Bac., Trin. Coll., Toronto, A.C.O., begs to give notice of CHANGE OF ADDRESS to Chancellor Cottage, Chancellor Road, West Dulwich, where all communications are to be sent.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

PIANOFORTE LESSONS given to Young Pupils. Address, E. P., 67, Seymour Street, Hyde Park, W.

HARP LESSONS. — MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

HARPIST.—MISS ALICE MARY SMITH, ex-Scholar and Associate of the Royal College of Music; Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (harpist to H.M. The Queen). For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, address, 11, Napier Road, Kensington, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

OTTO PEINIGER'S SCHOOL for PROFESSIONAL VIOLINISTS, Harrow.—A thorough TRAINING in Solo, Quartet, and Orchestral playing, Theory, Piano, &c. The Students are placed with responsible householders. Address, Wardhouse, Harrow.

PIANOFORTE LESSONS.—Some first-class LESSONS desired by a fairly advanced Amateur. Reply, by letter, stating terms, to A., 10, Gt. James St., Bedford Row, W.C.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(SOPRANO)

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool.

Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MADAME

CARLOTTA IDE

(SOPRANO)

Accepts Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, and Organ Recitals.

RÉPERTOIRE INCLUDES:—

"Messiah," "Jephtha," "Judas Maccabæus," "Samson," "Theodora," "Israel in Egypt," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," 95th Psalm, 42nd Psalm, "Hear my Prayer," "Lauda Sion," "Calvary," "Last Judgment," "Creation," "Eli," "Song of Miriam," "Daughter of Jairus," "Judith," "Woman of Samaria," "The Holy City," "Ruth," "May Queen," "May Day," "Rose Maiden," "Song of Balder," "Hero and Leander," &c.

For terms, Press notices, and references, address, 2, Dorville Road, Lee, S.E.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)

AND

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements for the present season.

ALREADY ENGAGED:—

Crystal Palace, Glasgow, Polytechnic, Kennington, Aberdeen ("Judas"), Salisbury, Bermondsey, Leamington ("Redemption"), Woolwich, Northampton ("Lobgesang" and "Bride of Dunkerron"), Bradford, Keighley ("Stabat Mater" and "Walpurgis Night"), Bristol, Clapton, Perth ("Elijah"), Belfast ("Messiah," two Concerts), Pollokshields, Dunfermline ("May Queen"), Paisley ("Redemption"), Dundee ("Messiah"), Nottingham ("Messiah"), Derby ("Messiah"), Greenock ("Acis"), Northampton ("Messiah") Glasgow Choral Union ("Messiah"), Edinburgh Choral Union ("Messiah"), Nottingham (Ballads), Woolwich, Shoreditch, Newport (I.W.), Darwen, Banbury ("Messiah"), &c.

For vacant dates and terms, please address, 37, Torrington Square, Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR.

CLIFFORD CONSTABLE

(TENOR)

(Musical Director, Bromley Parish Church, London).

Address: Cromer Villa, Rockbourne Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

Agents, Messrs. BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

MR.

WM. SWEETMAN

(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

LEEDS SYMPHONY CONCERTS, ALBERT HALL, LEEDS.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS

"A soprano who is rapidly making her way to the front."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS

"Possesses a powerful and pleasant contralto voice." — Lichfield Mercury.

MR. BOWYER BRISTOL

"Is a very welcome reinforcement to the ranks of our first-class tenors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS

"Has a strong and powerful bass voice."—Mid-Surrey Gazette.

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY.

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Applications for vacant terms and dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

THE MINNESINGERS

MALE VOICE QUARTET.

For Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c. Special terms for Charities. Address, Arthur Carlyle, Neston, Perry Vale, Forest Hill.

THE NOMAD GLEE UNION

Concerts, At Homes, Banquets, &c. Complete programmes of Vocal and Instrumental Music can also be arranged. Address, H. Glenton-Kerr, Elmwood House, Ardville Road, Brixton.

THE ANGLO-HUNGARIAN QUINTET (Hungarian National Uniform) now booking Engagements for Concerts, Banquets, &c. Charming Solos, Violin, Cembal, Harp, Xylophone, Cello, &c. Always encored; vide press notices. Address, Edward Crosse, 30, Gloucester Crescent, Regent's Park.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.
Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

MESSRS. BARTH & BLACK

CONCERT AGENTS

Beg to announce that they have undertaken the business hitherto carried on by Mr. Cecil Barth, at 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford St., W.

A Musical Agency under professional direction.

Messrs. BARTH and BLACK are sole Agents for—

THE LADY VOCAL QUARTET,
THE WALENN STRING QUARTET,
A MALE VOICE QUARTET,
AND
THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS (OPERATIC CONCERT PARTY), under the direction of Mr. BROUGHTON BLACK.

Concerts arranged. Tours booked. Vocal and Instrumental Soloists of the highest class provided for every description of Concerts and Musical Performances. A Full Orchestra furnished at short notice. Special Parties for Oratorios, Operas, and Costume Recitals. Artists carefully selected for At Homes, &c.

BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

CONCERT AGENTS.

METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,

83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

CHOIR BOYS.

MASTER ERNEST HOWLAND,
MASTER HAROLD OHLSON,
and others, for Solo work, &c.

Permanent Boys provided. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

MIDDLESEX & LONDON COUNTIES' CHORAL UNION.

Patron: H.R.H. the DUKE OF YORK, K.G.
President: His Grace the DUKE OF FIFE, K.T.
Vice-President: The Right Hon. the EARL OF STRAFFORD.
Orchestra and Chorus, 500.
Leader: Mr. ALFRED BURNETT.
Organist: Mr. MARTIN SHAW.
Conductor: Mr. JAMES SHAW.

FIRST CONCERT, THURSDAY, December 15, 1892, at 8 o'clock, at St. James's Hall.
JOSHUA (Handel).

Miss ANNA WILLIAMS.	Mr. BEN DAVIES.
Miss HILDA WILSON.	Mr. ROBERT NEWMAN.

SECOND CONCERT, March, 1893.
JOB (Dr. C. H. H. Parry).
MOUNT OF OLIVES (Beethoven).

THIRD CONCERT, May, 1893.
FAUST (Gounod).

Eminent Artists have also been retained for the second and third Concerts.

Subscription for the Series of Three Concerts.

Sofa stalls (numbered and reserved) ..	..	£1	1 0
Area stalls	,, ...	0	10 6
Balcony stalls	,, ...	0	10 6

It is intended to take up the work of the late Sacred Harmonic Society, particularly by providing, in the centre of London choral performances on a grand scale.

Ladies and gentlemen with good voices, desirous of joining the Society, are requested to communicate, without delay, with the Hon. Sec., Wm. Woodward, Esq., 10, Church Row, Hampstead, N.W.

MR. JOSEPH HEALD (TENOR)

Begs to announce his first EVENING CONCERT, at the Steinway Hall, Lower Seymour Street, Portman Square, W.,

On MONDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1892, at 8 o'clock, assisted by the following Artists:—

Miss FLORENCE BETHELL. Mrs. CECIL NEWLING.
Madame GERTRUDE POWNALL
(first appearance in London).
Miss GRAINGER KERR. Madame EDINA RIGA.
Miss VIOLET ROBINSON
(Trafalgar Square Theatre, by kind permission of M. Levenston, Esq.)
Mr. ARTHUR STRUGNELL.
Mr. CHARLES COPLAND (Royal English Opera).
Violin, Mr. A. M. WALL. Pianoforte, Miss MAUD HOLDOM.

Conductors, Mr. TURLE LEE and Mr. R. B. ADDISON.

Tickets from 2s. 6d. to 10s. 6d. May be obtained at the Steinway Hall and principal Libraries, or from Mr. Joseph Heald, 5, Hyde Park Mansions, London, W.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The following are the Solo-Playing test pieces at the F.C.O. Examination, to take place early in January: Bach's Fourth Sonata (1st and 2nd movements); Merkel's Sonata, No. 6, in E minor; and Wesley's Fugue in G (St. Cecilia, No. XI.).

The following are the earlier arrangements for the Session: November 1, Lecture "On Organ Accompaniments to Oratorios," &c., by Mr. Fountain Meen; December 6, Lecture "On Fifths," Dr. G. M. Garrett, M.A.; January 10, 11 and 12, F.C.O. Examination; January 17, 18 and 19, A.C.O. Examination.

The College Library and Rooms open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd. Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:

The Right Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.

The Right Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.Mus. V.C.M. and A.Mus. V.C.M.) and of Associate and Licentiate Organist, Pianist, Vocalist, and Violinist will take place during January, 1893.

Practical and Theoretical Local Examinations in December.

Particulars and advantages of Membership (Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d.), Regulations, and forms of entry for examinations, &c., on application to the Secretary.

All names for Local Examinations should be sent in by November 30.

By order of the Council.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.

A First Grade Public School.

Head Master .. .. James Sterndale Bennett, M.A.

Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.

Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.

The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

COLLEGE OF VIOLINISTS,

Limited.

Founded 1890. Incorporated 1891.

Patron: Señor Sarasate. President: J. T. Carrodus, Esq.

The Vice-Presidents and Board of Examiners include the most eminent Professors.

The next London Examination will take place at the Birkbeck Institute, Chancery Lane, in December.

Entries must be received not later than November 14.

For full particulars, list of Provincial Centres, Syllabus, Entry Forms, &c., apply to Mr. G. FOUCHER, Hon. Sec.

14, Gray's Inn Road, W.C.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY OLD BOYS' CLUB.—The first ANNUAL DINNER will take place at the Westminster Palace Hotel on Saturday, December 3, at 7.30 p.m., when the Chair will be taken by the Very Reverend the Dean of Westminster. All Old Abbey Boys being desirous of becoming Members of the Club are requested to communicate with A. Beckham, 51, Beauchamp Road, Clapham Junction, S.W.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Fairmont Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892), A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. (1892). FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

EMIL BEHNKE'S System of VOICE TRAINING is carried on by Mrs. and Miss Behnke and assistant. Also Emil Behnke's method of treating STAMMERING. References to doctors whose patients have been cured. Pamphlet, 1s., post-free, of Mrs. Emil Behnke, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: DURHAM MUS. BAC. and First Exam., Sept. 1892; CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; F.C.O., and A.C.O., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891, Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., 1892; F.T.S.C.; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., and T.C.L., Theory and Pianoforte; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Upwards of 260 Diplomas and Degrees gained by pupils, and several Medals. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. J. H. LEWIS. Mus.D., D.C.L., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by correspondence. Silvermead, Twickenham, S.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Fifty successes annually.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D. Mus., Lond., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in the THEORY of MUSIC (including Acoustics). 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.C.O. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., personally or by post. Preparation for Examinations. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus., T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, HISTORY, &c., by Post. Pupils specially prepared for Examinations.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), prepares CANDIDATES for UNIVERSITY and other MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Final Mus. Bac., Cantab., 1890; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Durham, 1890 and 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1892. Address, Dr. Wareing, 150, Bristol Road, Birmingham.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH, Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION.—Master Reginald Butterfield, Solo Boy, may be engaged for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Testimonials from eminent and distinguished musicians forwarded on application, with terms.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE taught by Mr. W. A. FROST (of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many former pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions.

VOICE-TRAINING AND SOLO SINGING.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N. Mr. Palmer's Method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

DEPPE SCHOOL OF MUSIC for PIANOFORTE. First term from September 26; half-term, November 7. For particulars apply to Miss Nellie Chaplin, 116, Marylebone Road, N.W.

ARTICLED PUPIL (Vocal).—MR. F. ST. JOHN LACY, A.R.A.M., Assoc. Phil. Soc., Member Incorporated Society of Musicians, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL to train for Operatic or Concert Singer. Former pupils have passed direct from Mr. Lacy's tuition to salaried appointments on operatic stage. 4, Brompton Square, S.W.

DR. H. WALMSLEY LITTLE, F.C.O., Organist of Holy Trinity, Tulse Hill, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL (resident or non-resident). Special advantages and terms if able to play easy service. Former pupils successful in Diplomas and Appointments. Huntsville, Palace Road, Tulse Hill Park, S.W.

MR. C. E. MILLER, F.C.O., Organist of St. Augustine and St. Faith's, Watling Street, E.C., can receive PUPILS for ORGAN and THEORY of MUSIC at the above Church, or for Theory, Piano, Singing, at his residence, 49, Elgin Crescent, W.

THE ORGANIST of St. John's, Waterloo Road, S.E., has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL, resident or otherwise. Terms moderate. Choirmastership a specialty. Large four-manual organ. Cathedral services. Oratorios, Organ Recitals. Henry J. B. Dart, 53, St. John's Park, N.

SOLO BOY WANTED, for a Parish Church. Must be able to lead choir. One living in N.W. district preferred. Apply, C. H. E. Clarke, 7, Gayton Road, Hampstead.

ST. JOHN'S (Waterloo Road) ORATORIO CHOIR. —There are VACANCIES for Six SOPRANO Voices (ladies). Performances given Monthly. Rehearsals on Tuesday evenings. No Subscription. Music provided. Good readers only should apply, by letter, to Henry J. B. Dart, 53, St. John's Park, N.

TWO SOLO BOYS, with good voices and musical knowledge, REQUIRED for Choir of St. Paul's, High Road, Kilburn (Rev. Bonavia Hunt, Mus. Doc., Incumbent). Three Sunday services and practices; £12 and £10 respectively. A. W. S. Hanes, Organist and Choirmaster, 39, Princess Road, Kilburn, N.W.

YOUNG LADY WANTED, with good voice, to Train and Introduce, by well-known Vocalist and Teacher. Highest references. Refined home, near London. Letters only, in first instance, to W., 19, King Street, Twickenham.

BRISTOL CATHEDRAL.—ALTO VACANCY.—Salary £70, with a few extras, and £5 reserved annually as a bonus. Two days a week off duty. All Lay Clerks obtain other employment in the City. Only those need apply who have really good Alto voices, are thoroughly competent soloists, are able to read at sight with facility, and have had experience in Cathedral music. Candidates must send testimonials, stating age and all particulars, before November 15, to the Rev. The Precentor.

ALTO WANTED. £10. Apply Fridays, 8.30, St. Mary's, Berkeley Square, W.

ST. ANNE'S, Soho.—ALTO and BASS WANTED. Apply at the Church on Friday Evening at Nine.

GLEE SINGING.—An ALTO and TENOR REQUIRED, to complete an old-established Double Quartet Party, meeting at present near Charing Cross, purely for private practice. Fairly good reading necessary. No remuneration. Address, R. G. S., 33, Great George Street, Westminster.

ALTO and TENOR WANTED, for the (Male Voice) Choir of St. Columba's (Church of Scotland), Pont Street, Belgravia. Write, stating qualifications, age, and stipend expected, to the Hon. Secretary, at the Church.

YORK MINSTER CHOIR.—TENOR REQUIRED. Candidates must be communicants of the Church of England and possess a thorough knowledge of Cathedral music. Stipend, £75 per annum. The successful candidate must be prepared to sign an agreement to stay two years. Testimonials and applications to be sent in before November 15, and addressed, The Organist, Song School, The Minster, York.

TENOR (£20) WANTED, for a Church in Kensington. Apply to Conductor, 13, St. Stephen's Square, W.

BASS VACANCY, St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W. SOLOIST and CHORUS LEADER WANTED. Dependable: good reader. None need apply who are otherwise engaged on Sundays. The Festival and Saints'-Day Services probably double the salary which is offered at first—viz., £20. Apply, by letter, to Mr. Sergison, Precentor, St. Peter's Vestry.

BASS WANTED, at Catholic Church in N.W. district. Must be good reader and accustomed to the service. Salary, £15 per annum. Apply, by letter, W. Wall, 1, St. Paul's Crescent, Camden Town, N.W.

BASS WANTED. Organ Lessons and Practice for Services. Fine Organ. Choral Services, Oratorios, &c. W.C. District. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.,1, Berners Street, W.

BASS SINGER REQUIRED, for the American Church of the Holy Trinity, Paris. Must be possessed of good voice, thorough knowledge of church music, and ability as a soloist. Apply to Mr. Stedman, Musical Agency, 12, Berners Street, W.

ALTO and CHOIR-TRAINER is open to accept ENGAGEMENT in London. Late Solo Alto at St. Marylebone and Choir-Trainer at St. Mary Abbotts. Highest testimonials. Address, M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TENOR.—High powerful voice, good reader, thorough knowledge of Church music and all the principal Oratorios—"Last Judgment," Bach's "Passion," "Hymn of Praise," "St. Paul," &c., seeks ENGAGEMENT as SOLOIST at a London Church. Address, R. P. C., care of Street and Co., 30, Cornhill, E.C.

ASSISTANT-ORGANIST.—M. O. begs to thank the gentlemen who replied to his advertisement, and to inform them that the APPOINTMENT is now FILLED. The large number of letters received made it impossible to answer them individually.

KING WILLIAM'S TOWN, South Africa.—Certificated MUSIC TEACHER for PIANOFORTE and SINGING (solo and class) REQUIRED. Salary, £100, with Board and Residence. First-class passage. Apply to E. W. Maunder, Ryde House, Ulundi Road, Blackheath.

ORGANIST WANTED, for Airdrie Parish Church. Salary, £50. Excellent field for Teaching. Apply, on or before November 7, to Mr. Swan, Willowpark, Airdrie.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER in a small country town, having a very good Teaching connection, is desirous of making an EXCHANGE for a similar post in a large manufacturing town. Address, A. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, at Christmas, for Clerkenwell Parish Church. Commencing salary, £50. A form, containing the particulars and conditions of the appointment, may be had on application, by letter, to the Vestry Clerk, the Vestry Hall, Clerkenwell, E.C. All applications to be sent, on or before Monday, November 14, to the Director, Royal College of Music, Kensington Gore, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Wilmington Church (a mile and a quarter from Dartford Station). Communicant; well recommended. Stipend, £25 a year. Apply to Rev. H. Cowell, Wilmington Vicarage, Kent.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. John's Church, Meads, Eastbourne. Salary, to begin with, £30 per annum. Apply to the Vicar.

ORGANIST desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Choral Service. Good testimonials. Disengaged. A. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER requires APPOINTMENT. Country or Seaside town. Many years' London experience. Accustomed to Choral Service. Highest testimonials. Give whole time; no teaching connection necessary. J. E., 23, Hayter Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, F.C.O., Conductor of Choral Society, desires APPOINTMENT. Over ten years' Cathedral and Parish Church experience. Accustomed to fully Choral celebration. Highest references from Rev. S. W. E. Bird, St. Sidwell's Rectory, Exeter, and others. Address, A. S. V., care of D. J. Wood, Esq., Mus. Bac., F.C.O., Cathedral Organist, Exeter.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (15 years in present appointment) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT after Christmas. In or near London preferred. Highest references. Churchman; Communicant. Address, Organist, Bleak House, Brentwood, Essex.

MR. ALFRED H. GASTER, F.C.O., F.Gld.O., for upwards of 10 years Organist of St. Paul's, Stratford, desires RE-ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST, &c. Good Piano and Organ Tuner. Address, 104, Chobham Road, Stratford, E.

AN exp. ORGANIST, CHOIRMASTER, CHOR. SOC. CONDUCTOR, &c. (present app. 10½ years; large church near London; High Church), would accept similar post with high-class musical services, scope for pupils, &c.; also qualified to take charge of choir school. Investigation solicited. Address, Handel, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Excellent testimonials. Might deputise. Moderate salary. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

MASTERSHIP desired in CHOIR SCHOOL (or similar position), with or without Choirmastership. 1st Class Certificated Master; ex-Cathedral Choirman. Highest testimonials to ability as teacher of usual English Subjects and Music. Excellent results in Voice Training. Address, E. R., Northaw, Potter's Bar, N.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER (with Factory experience preferred) well up in American Organs and Harmoniums, for permanent out-door berth in a large Seaport and Manufacturing City. Knowledge of Pipe-Organ Tuning considered an advantage. Apply to Diapason, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.; or, George Rogers and Sons, 60, Berners Street.

TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED, in large manufacturing town (Lancashire). State age, experience, salary required, and enclose photo. W. C. E., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, for Country, by January, first-rate TUNER. One holding M.T.A. Certificate and having a knowledge of Organs preferred. Apply, stating salary, experience, and references, to C. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

TUNER WANTED, for Manchester. Preference given to one who understands American Organs and can do ordinary repairs, and who would not object to canvass, to work up a young and promising connection. Terms: Salary and Commission. State age and send references and photo to Energy, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER REQUIRED, for West Midlands (Out-doors). Permanent situation to a thoroughly reliable man. Address, S. T., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED. A thoroughly first-class Man for out-door work in a Watering-place on the South Coast. Must be experienced, intelligent, and gentlemanly address, and have good references. Apply, enclosing carte and stating salary required, to Tuner, 16, Shaftesbury Avenue, W.

TUNER WANTED, at once, for the West of England. One who understands Harmoniums and American Organs preferred. Permanent situation. Apply, Joseph Wallis and Son, 135, Euston Road, London.

ASSISTANT-TUNER WANTED, who has had General Experience. Enclose Photo., with addressed envelope. Address, Work, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

For Musical Education and Examination.—Inst. 1872.

President:
The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.
Warden: Professor E. H. Turpin, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations: Professor Jas. Higgs, Mus.B.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.
(Seventeenth Annual Series. Session 1892-93.)

The HALF-YEARLY LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) will be held on December 9, 1892, and on June 23, 1893, at about 150 centres. Last days of entry, November 9, 1892, and May 23, 1893.

The LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC take place at the various Centres throughout the United Kingdom, and include Pianoforte, Organ, and Harmonium Playing, Pianoforte Duet Playing, Solo Singing, Violin, or other Orchestral Instruments. The Examinations are conducted in Three Divisions—Senior, Junior, and Primary, and Honours Certificates and Pass Certificates are awarded. Arrangements are being made for holding Examinations during the present Session (November, 1892, to July, 1893) at the following amongst other centres:—

Aberdeen, Aberystwith, Aldershot, Altrincham, Ayr, Barrow-in-Furness, Ballymena, Banbury, Bath, Bedford, Belfast, Birmingham, Bishop Auckland, Blackburn, Blackpool, Bodmin, Bolton, Bournemouth, Bradford, Brecon, Brentwood, Brighton, Bristol, Brockley and New Cross, Bury St. Edmunds, Cambridge, Cardiff, Carlisle, Carmarthen, Carnarvon, Chatham, Cheltenham, Chesterfield Chichester, Cirencester, Cleator Moor, Colchester, Crieff, Croydon, Derby, Douglas (Isle of Man), Dover, Dublin, Dumfries, Dundee, Eastbourne, Edinburgh, Exeter, Falkirk, Folkestone, Galashiels, Glasgow, Gloucester, Goole and Howden, Halifax, Harrogate, Hastings, Haverfordwest, Hereford, Holywell, Hull, Ilminster, Ipswich, Jersey, Keighley, Keswick, King's Lynn, Lancaster, Leamington, Leeds, Leicester, Lincoln, Liverpool, Llandudno and Colwyn Bay, London, Londonderry, Lowestoft, Macclesfield, Maidstone, Manchester, Newark, Newcastle, Newport, Northampton, Norwich, Nottingham, Oldham, Oxford, Perth, Peterborough, Plymouth, Portsmouth, Preston, Ramsgate, Reading, Redhill, Redruth, St. Ives, Salisbury, Sheffield, Shrewsbury, Sleaford, Southampton, Southport, Stockport, Stockton-on-Tees, Stroud, Surbiton, Swansea, Swindon, Taunton, Tiverton, Torquay, Truro, Tunbridge Wells, Wakefield, Walsall, Walthamstow, Ware, Wellingborough, Wellington (Salop), Weston-super-Mare, Weymouth, Whitby, Wisbech, Wolverhampton, Worcester, Worthing, Yarmouth, York.

Regulations, forms of entry, &c., may be obtained Post-free from the undersigned. By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.
THE
LORD IS MY SHEPHERD
(Psalm 23)
FOR CHORUS ONLY, WITH ORGAN OR ORCHESTRAL ACCOMPANIMENT
BY
N. KILBURN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.
Price One Shilling.

Also, by the same Composer:
THE SILVER STAR
AN EASY CANTATA FOR LADIES' VOICES (Two-Part Chorus).
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Also:
EVENTIDE
PART-SONG FOR SOPRANO, ALTO, TENOR and BASS.
Price Twopence.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW SACRED CANTATA.
FROM CROSS TO CROWN
LIBRETTO COMPILED BY
JOSEPH DESPICHT
MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDMUND ROGERS
64 pp., Royal 8vo, 9d.

"Rapidly becoming popular."—Wiltshire County Mirror.
"Will doubtless be much liked."—Musical News.
"Created a highly favourable impression."—Queen.
"Decidedly effective."—Magazine of Music.

Special terms to Choirs and Schools on application to TRADE MANAGER, West London Auxiliary Sunday School Union, 133, Edgware Road, Hyde Park, W.

 A specimen copy sent FREE to Choirmasters, Conductors of Choral Societies, and others, on receipt of two stamps.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

NEW MODELS;
IRON FRAMES;
Recent IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile; Responsive;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons
(ESTABLISHED 1732)
PIANOFORTE MAKERS
BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN
THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH
AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals, London, Paris, Society of Arts, &c. (last—that of the Tasmanian Exhibition, 1892).

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred the "Broadwood" Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	Mdme. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	JANOTHA	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	LISZT	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HELLER	HALLÉ
BENNETT	HENSELT	SULLIVAN

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street),
LONDON, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.
Annual Subscription, One Guinea.
Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"
Translated by W. Ashton Ellis, Editor of
"THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).
Part II, and No. XIX. now ready.

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the Editor, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

Just Published.

TWELVE NEW
CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE
WRITTEN BY
SHAPCOTT WENSLEY
SET TO MUSIC BY

J. BARNBY.	G. M. GARRETT.
J. F. BRIDGE.	BATTISON HAYNES.
EATON FANING.	EMMA MUNDELLA
MYLES B. FOSTER.	JOHN STAINER.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.
Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence. Words only, Twopence.

Each Carol may be had separately, price 1½d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
NOVEMBER 1, 1892.

ROBERT FRANZ.

THE great song-writer passed peacefully away to his rest on the 24th ult., in the city where he was born on June 18, 1815. He had all the advantages of a good education placed before him, but his predilection for the study of music led him to neglect other work. It is curious to note that the father of the illustrious composer of "The Messiah," also born at Halle, detested music and musicians, and opposed his son's wishes, and that more than a century later we find Robert Franz's parent acting in a similar manner towards his son. At length, in 1835, young Robert was placed under the well-known F. Schneider at Dessau, in order to study harmony and counterpoint. On his return home he led a dreary, aimless life until the year 1843, when he was appointed Organist of the Ulrichskirche and Conductor of the "Singakademie," and subsequently "Königslicher Musikdirector." In 1861 the title of Doctor of Music was conferred on him by the University of Halle. Already, in 1841, his hearing became impaired, and this affliction, coupled with a serious nervous disorder, caused him to give up writing. It was, however, only in 1885 that he resigned his post of musical director at the University. Pecuniary troubles followed, but these were considerably alleviated by the generous exertions of Liszt, Joachim, and others, who organised a series of Concerts which realised the sum of £5,000. His latter years were devoted to editing the works of Bach and Handel. He married Marie Hinrichs, who was also a composer of songs. It was only last summer that Robert Franz presented the writer of these lines with a set of his wife's songs, at the same time pointing out those which pleased him best. Marie Franz died in May, 1891. In 1885 the seventieth birthday of Robert Franz was duly celebrated at Halle, and on that occasion the composer published, under the title of "Albumblatt," his first composition for the pianoforte.

Robert Franz is known chiefly by his songs, which rank next to those of the greatest song-writers, and higher praise than this is scarcely possible. It was in the year 1843 that he published his first set of twelve, and of these Robert Schumann remarked: "Of the songs of Robert Franz much may be said; they are no isolated phenomena, but stand closely related to the whole development of our art during the last ten years." And again in the same article: "He aims at something more than well or ill-sounding music; his desire is to reproduce the poem with its real depth of meaning." Franz's second set of songs was dedicated to Schumann, the third to Mendelssohn, and the fourth to Liszt. The last-named composer, who wrote a long and remarkable article on Franz's songs in the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik of 1855, afterwards reprinted as a brochure, says: "His songs are mostly moods which are absorbed in themselves, and rarely tend dramatically beyond themselves." And again, the unobtrusive character of Franz's music has been aptly described by a modern writer, Mr. Fred. Niecks, the present Professor of Music at Edinburgh University, in the following sentence: "Robert Franz is like one of those quiet, unpretentious people you are apt to pass heedlessly by in a crowd, but who, if you once come in close contact with them, fascinate you, draw you to their hearts, and there hold you with fetters light as gossamer, strong as iron." And what Franz wrote about himself as a song-writer will certainly not be out of place here. He says: "That I almost exclusively cultivated the song-form and wrote only very little else, was at first the consequence of an irresistible need; afterwards I became convinced that in this form culminated my most individual contents. It was, therefore, a matter of principle with me not to leave this path, and it is not likely that I shall try my fortune on other roads." In the matter of original composition, he never left that path, but, advancing steadily along it, achieved lasting fame.

The number of Robert Franz's songs exceeds 250. His favourite poets were Heine, Lenau, Rückert, and Burns. Of the songs, thirty of the best have had English words adapted to them by the late Mr. Francis Hueffer, one of the composer's most sympathetic admirers. These have helped to popularise Robert Franz in this country, but now German is becoming more familiar and they are heard in both languages. The fact that Franz's songs do not often appear on concert programmes does not prove that they are ignored, for most of them are for home enjoyment rather than for concert use. Besides his achievements in the department of song, Franz became known through his "additional accompaniments" to Handel's "Messiah" and "L'Allegro, il Penseroso ed il Moderato," Bach's "Mattäus Passionsmusik," Magnificat, and other works. Widely differing views have been expressed with regard to their merits, and the present is certainly not the moment to open up the vexed question. But even in this brief record of his life and art-work, his attempt to revivify the scores of old masters cannot be ignored. To him it was a labour of love, and even those who question his methods would scarcely doubt his sincerity and earnestness. Robert Franz has fully expounded those methods in his "Oeffener Brief an Eduard Hanslick," published in 1871, and his preface to his score of "The Messiah" also contains much that will prove serviceable to those who desire to become further acquainted with the matter. Essays on Robert Franz's songs and arrangements have been written by Saran, Ambros, Liszt, Hueffer, and others. Now that the composer has at last paid the debt of nature, attention will, for a time, be specially directed to his songs, but future generations will still respect his memory and enjoy his music; and to Franz Schubert and Robert Schumann will be added the name of Robert Franz.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. SHEDLOCK, B.A.

(Continued from p. 592.)

CHAMBER MUSIC, &c.

OF the two Sonatas for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 5), No. 1 in F is only represented by the opening bars of the principal theme of the Allegro:—

with the second bar in the form in which it appears at the commencement of the development section; also—and other rough memoranda which indicate that Beethoven was working at the first movement.

Of the Sonata in G minor (No. 2) there is more to be said. There is a long sketch of a piece, apparently for pianoforte and some stringed instrument, in which occurs the following—

The piece was never finished, and from these and other passages we may perhaps consider the G minor Sonata indirectly evolved from it. The opening phrase in the major key of this sketch presents, indeed, a foreshadowing of the Trio of the third movement of Beethoven's Symphony in A, for it commences—and a little farther on we have—which certainly recalls the prominent horn passage in the same movement.

On another sheet there are actual sketches for the first movement of the G minor Sonata, and from their close resemblance to the printed version the work must have been already far advanced. For a well-known passage in the Coda Beethoven, however, writes—

followed by—

not one of which represents the master's latest word; this was how he tried, tried, and tried again.

In chapter 46 of his "Zweite Beethoveniana" Nottebohm describes two sketch books of the years 1798 and 1799, both of which are of importance in connection with the history of the origin of the Quartets (Op. 18). In the second of these books (formerly in the possession of Aloys Fuchs, afterwards in that of F. A. Grasnick) there are sketches of the first, second, and last movements of the Quartet in A (Op. 18, No. 5). Nottebohm also informs us that some sheets of that sketch book are missing. The half sheet marked 152 in our Notirungsbuch may very possibly be one of those missing sheets. On it we find variation 3 of the Andante indicated thus—and variation 5 thus—

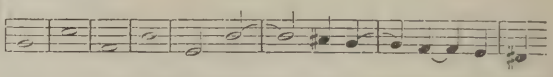
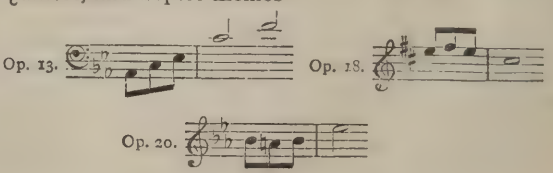
Then there is a long sketch of the Finale almost down to the double bar, with the second subject in E presented in a somewhat different version from the printed one—



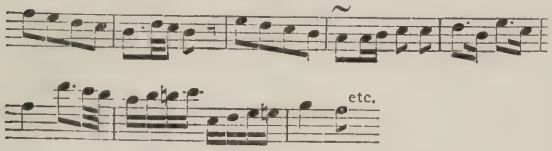
By the way, the resemblance of this theme to the one in A flat in the Rondo of the Sonata pathétique is striking. Beethoven was engaged in writing both works at about the same period. Of another work, the Septet which also then engaged his attention, we seem to catch a glimpse in the following—

Those three up-beat quavers are in the Sonata, Quartet, and Septet themes—



In other cases it will also be found interesting to compare works composed at the same time, and to note certain outward resemblances of figure and theme; but to this attention has already been called. See, for instance, the Sonata (Op. 53) and the Quartet in E minor (Op. 59, No. 2).

On sheet 81 there is a long sketch of the Andante of the Pianoforte Quintet in E flat (Op. 16), which was played by Beethoven at Vienna on April 2, 1798. The theme is given, but in less ornate fashion than in the printed version—



The form of the oboe solo passage seems to have been, for a time, uncertain. We have—and at the top of the page, probably an afterthought—

The bars leading to the second entry of the theme on the pianoforte are written somewhat à la Liszt, thus—and so, with certain differences, the sketch (which occupies a whole page) goes down to the very last bar of the movement. On the other side of the page is a fairly long sketch of a movement in E with the superscription Sinfonie.

In another part of the Notirungsbuch, and on similar paper to the above, is the second subject of the Rondo of this Quintet—

The Notirungsbuch contains the Minuetto and Trio of the Sextet (Op. 71), written out in score; on another sheet there are a few bars relating to the Finale of this work.

Mention has been made in these articles of fugue themes and of fugal work, relating evidently to the days when Beethoven was being initiated into the mysteries of counterpoint by his teacher, Albrechtsberger, but to our previous remarks and illustrations one or two additions of interest may be made. On the first page of a half sheet (marked 45) the first eight bars of Handel's great Fugue in G minor—are written down. Why Beethoven wrote thus much and no more it is, of course, impossible to say. The eighth bar, with a plain bar-stroke, is immediately followed by a scale passage in 6-8 time. This is not the only bit of Handel to be found in the sketch books. In one there is the commencement of "I know that my Redeemer liveth," written down in a sort of score-sketch (for flute, clarinet, and bassoon).

Among a lot of short sketches we come across the following light canonic imitation—and on another sheet the two following canons in the unison—

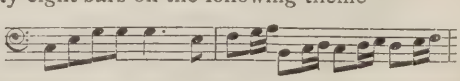
On page 158 there is an interesting fugue à quatre of thirty-eight bars on the following theme—



From the Notirungsbuch, as of old from the enchanted gardens of Armida, it is indeed difficult to escape, though our subject-matter is by no means exhausted. On many a page are unfinished sketches which tempt one to pause and speculate as to what they were or what they might have become; there are mysterious notes, reminding one of the eccentricity and genius displayed by Turner in some of his drawings, and tempting one to unravel their secrets; and there are mystic signs, like the handwriting on the wall, but, alas! without a Daniel to decipher them. For the present, however, we must leave this magic and fascinating volume. It is to be hoped that the patience of our readers has not been too severely taxed; for it is one thing to gaze on the master's sketches, another thing to describe them. The style of writing, the size or shape of the notes, indicates now care, now impatient haste; the scratchings out and alterations give, as it were, a reflection of the composer's processes of thought; the colour of the notes (in pencil, black or red ink) suggests varying degrees of meaning; and finally the juxtaposition of sketches differing in key and character, and the confusion which reigns supreme on many a page, present almost a photograph of the vivid workings of the master's brain. Without a sight of all these things even the most interesting of the sketches quoted lose much of their life and importance; they bear a relation to the autograph sketches somewhat similar, perhaps, to that which the handmarks themselves of Beethoven bore to the thoughts by which he was possessed when he penned them. In our concluding article next month we shall speak about the birth of a Symphony—viz., the "Pastoral."

(To be concluded.)

FROM MY STUDY.

Evalina called the other day with her uncle's congratulations upon my return to town. I made many inquiries as to the state of my old friend, and learned with some concern that he continues to write what he calls poetry. "He does not compose so many ballads as formerly," quoth Evalina, "but has taken to more serious things, elegies and such like. I fear that he has begun an epic, and have heard something about a drama in blank verse." "My dear," said I, "this is serious. I am deeply sorry for your uncle. Has his condition been aggravated by the death of Tennyson?" This was an artful question. I knew what was coming when the maiden flushed and her little hand stole into the recesses of a bag she was carrying. "Dear Mr. X.," exclaimed Evalina, "it had a very bad effect indeed. Uncle sat up all one night working hard, and tearing up, oh! so many sheets of paper. But he achieved what he called an act of poetic homage, and—don't be angry, please—he has sent it to you by me with a request for its publication in one of your chatty articles." With this the child laid before me an envelope inscribed in my friend's well-known hand. "Evalina," said I, "this is ridiculous. Is your uncle posing as a candidate for the Laureateship?—the attitude ascribed to everybody who has written lines on this subject, and therefore one to be religiously avoided." "I am very sure," said Evalina, "that he has not considered that matter. But he is proud of his little poem, and I—if you will excuse me, dear Sir—don't think so badly of it myself." "Tut, tut, child," I cried, "are you an aider and abettor in his folly? However, let me look at the precious effusion." So saying, I opened the envelope and read. Now I am myself no judge of poetry, being inclined to look upon that form of literature in much the same light as did Mr. Thomas Carlyle. Nevertheless, I am not debarred from criticising the thing by the fact that I do not like it and know nothing whatever about it. Hence I remarked judicially: "With all respect to you, my dear, and all proper regard for my friend, the author, this is very poor stuff indeed." "Please, Mr. X.," quoth the damsel, "in what consists its poverty?" I evaded the question, remarking that I could only give satisfactory answer to an expert. "Oh! but you will print it, won't you?" pleaded Evalina. "H'm, child—only on condition that I be allowed to wash my hands of all responsibility. But there is another consideration: the Editor of The Musical Times may object to open his columns for the reception of ——" "Nay," was Evalina's timely interruption, "he is known to be a most amiable man." "Amiable, but dutiful," said I. "Ah, well! dear Mr. X.," returned the maiden, brightening, "you send on the poem and I will plead with the Editor." Said I, "You shall have your way, as far as I am concerned. You always do. Now go, and tell your uncle how deeply sorry I am that the symptoms of his disorder are more aggravated than ever." Here are my poor old friend's lines:—

Like thine own Arden, thou hast "crost the bar,"
And sailed o'er seas mysterious to the Golden Isles;
Yet not forgetting thy dear England there,
If it so be that memory survive,
And earthly love lives on in blessèd souls.
My fancy paints thy Spirit's glad return,
After long years, to see again the home,
And them who dwell therein; listing sweet talk
Of one who liveth still in English fame,
Whose music waketh yet the Island lyre.
What if thou find'st another in thy place,
O'er all thy fair dominion holding rule?
What if thy country hear another's song,
And loves the singer? E'en so must it be,
For Art's inheritance will lack not heirs
Whose voices, fresh as tune of birds in spring,
Shall charm the ear with strange new melodies.
Yet may'st thou know thyself our own,
And, in the evening hush or Sabbath hour,
Mark the clear cadence of thy rhythmic chant
O'er all the vocal land, constant and low,
Like murmurous anthems of the solemn sea
Heard inland in the quiet of the night.

Evalina had scarcely left me before Y. called with crusty congratulations, which, as not being an ensample for ceremonial procedure, I forbear to repeat. These over, said he: "Country air has a strange effect on some people. I read your gush about the blackbird, the robin, the hill-tops, and all the rest. What are you becoming? A Jefferies without insight?—a mere wordy vapourer?—a retailer of cheap sentiment? Faugh! Stay in town, where sometimes you do avoid writing nonsense." I answered nothing, and he went on: "I have another complaint against you. Why fill up those articles of yours with talk about, and extracts from, ballads neither true nor beautiful?" Quoth I: "Why don't you send me a paper on musical fallacies?" "That's not the question," said he; "and if it were, let me tell you that facts wherewith to explode fallacies are sometimes hard to run down and bag. But better do nothing than inflict upon the public column after column about folk who never existed, and if they had lived, would have been whipped or hanged." "Y.," I remarked severely, "you are a Philistine." "Pooh," was the reply, "call me something else if you want to hurt. Gath and Askelon were decent places to dwell in when David saw Bathsheba. We did not compass the death of Uriah. Keep to the point, which is useful facts versus worthless ballads." "But what," I exclaimed, "is the good of discussing with Mr. Obstinate, who would not be persuaded though one rose from the dead?" "Certainly not," chuckled Y., "I don't believe in ghosts." "Nevertheless, you must have some respect for high authority. You know Aiken?" "He had talents," growled my friend, "and has, long ere this, been chastised for not turning them to better account." "Listen to Aiken," I went on: "'The ballad may be considered as the native species of poetry in this country. It very exactly answers to the idea of original poetry, which is confined to description of external objects, and the narration of events, and is strictly rude, uncultivated verse ("Hear, hear," from Y.) in which the popular tale of the times was recorded. . . . Many of the ancient ballads have been transmitted to the present times, and in them the character of the nation displays itself in striking colours. The boastful history of her victories, the prowess of her favourite kings and captains, and the wonderful adventures of the legendary saint and knight-errant are the topics of the rough rhyme and unadorned narration, which was ever the delight of the vulgar (a chuckle from Y.), and is now an object of curiosity to the antiquarian and man of taste.' (A snort.) Now hear Addison: 'An ordinary song or ballad, that is the delight of the common people, cannot fail to please all such readers as are not unqualified for the entertainment by their affectation or their ignorance ("Oh, oh"), and the reason is plain, because the same paintings of nature which recommend it to the most ordinary reader will appear beautiful to the most refined.' ('Rubbish.') Shall I go on to quote from Dryden and Shenstone; from Pepys ('Old twaddler') and Selden; from Lamb, who called ballads 'Vocal portraits of the national mind'; and from Longfellow, who styled them 'gipsy children of song, born under green hedgerows, in the leafy lanes and by-paths of literature, in the genial summer-time'?" "Good day," said Y., and went out with a bang of the door, I shouting after him: "Don't forget the musical fallacies." "Fallacy yourself," he roared back.

Histories of musical festivals are in evidence just now, and I learn that even the Cardiff Festival, which is but a year old, has already found its historiographer. A complete collection of these works would be of interest and some value, but it is somewhat difficult to make. After halting a considerable time, I have recently, however, taken another step toward that end by securing a thin brown-paper covered quarto entitled "An Account of the second Yorkshire Musical Festival held on the 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th of September, 1825, in York Minster, by Permission, and with the Sanction, of the Very Reverend the Dean, and of the Venerable the Chapter of York. To which is added an Account of the grand Fancy Ball and a correct List of the Nobility and Gentry who attended the Festival. York. Printed and sold by John Wolstenholme, Minster Gates." Crosse's history of the first Yorkshire Festival (1823)—an imposing volume, rich in illustrations—is pretty well known, but its more modest successor, issued in a fragile form, rarely comes into the market. It is, I doubt not, familiar to many of my readers. To many others it may be new, and a glance at the contents will scarcely fail to prove interesting.

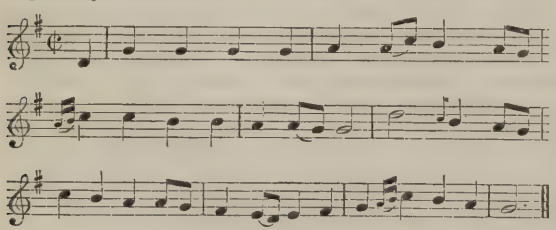
The Festival of 1823 excited Yorkshire Society greatly, and demands were made for another in 1824. First of all, however, it was necessary to build a suitable hall for the secular Concerts, which was done in 1824, and the second Festival fixed for September in the following year. Madame Catalani being then the reigning queen of song, an effort was made to secure her services. Terms were agreed upon, and all went well till, suddenly, the lady's agent preferred a demand that she should be at liberty to transpose any air set down for her, even in connected works, as at a Newcastle Festival, where she sang Handel's "Sing ye unto the Lord" (introductory to "The Horse and his Rider") in B flat. The Committee very properly refused, and Madame Catalani stayed away from the Festival. On this point our historian waxes very wroth indeed, excusing the lady but assailing her agent as one who "by the extreme insolence of his pretensions, and the meanness and illiberality which mark his conduct, has succeeded in producing a most unfavourable impression against Catalani, and has not only injured her professional interests, but, what we have no doubt she feels more keenly, has caused one whose disposition is open and generous as the day, and who is an honour to her sex and profession, to be classed with the horde of needy foreigners with which England is inundated, who bask in the sunshine of our liberality till they have enriched themselves at the expense of our too credulous countrymen, and afterwards turn round and sting the hand which feeds them." Thus the historian, at a moment of blazing indignation. Unable to have Catalani, the Committee sought Pasta, then just returned to her operatic duties in Paris after a season in London. High and mighty personages were concerned in this negotiation, even his Britannic Majesty's representative at the French Court moving, on the application of the Archbishop of York, to obtain leave of absence for the artist. Unfortunately, Monsieur le Vicomte de la Rochefoucauld, in charge of the department of Fine Arts, felt compelled to refuse, being unwilling to make himself liable to "the just complaints of the French public, which so well appreciates the admirable talents of this performer." Eventually, the Committee consoled themselves with Madame Caradori and Mdlle. Garcia, with whom were Kitty Stephens, Miss Travis, Braham, Vaughan, Phillips, De Begnis, and others. The chorus numbered 350 voices, and the orchestra 240 instruments, made up thus: violins, 94; violas, 32; violoncellos, 24; double basses, 16; flutes, 6; oboes, 12; clarinets, 6; bassoons, 12; serpents and bass horns, 8; trumpets, 6; horns, 12; trombones, 9; double drums and harp. The chorus singers, it may just now be of interest to state, were drawn from Leeds, Huddersfield, Halifax, Hull, Sheffield, and Wakefield.

Our historian gives the various programmes item by item, in each case adding a descriptive and critical note. First, however, he devotes a few lines to the ball which opened the Festival, telling us that 700 persons were present. The first performance in the Minster was one of selections, including the recit. and air "O thou bright orb," with the chorus "Behold the list'ning sun," from "Joshua." Mr. Sapio had been set down for the air, and was present on the orchestra, but absolutely declined to sing it, whereupon Dr. Camidge played the vocal part on the organ, the band accompanying. Queer discipline! but, for that matter, the Festival was a conspicuous example of bad management. Thus the chorus basses, in the concert-room, could see nothing of the Conductor, and when they were wanted to take part in a Rossinian finale, it was found that they had decamped. "Some disapprobation," we are mildly assured, "was manifested by the audience at this circumstance." The Concert was so long that the final overture was played after midnight—to an audience of eighteen persons, all told. At the second secular Concert the Overture to "Der Freyschütz" was substituted for Beethoven's "Leonora," to the great disappointment of many persons, who, when all was over, called for the omitted work. "At this time," says the historian, "nearly two-thirds of the performers, including most of those of note, had left the orchestra, and, of course, it (the 'Leonora') was miserably performed. We really must censure this proceeding as extremely disrespectful to the audience. The band ought not to withdraw till the conclusion of the performance." Another strange incident of the Festival arose out of the action of two singers,

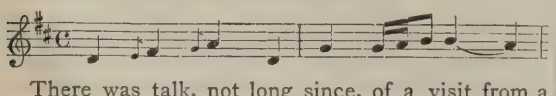
Miss Stephens and Miss Travis, "each of whom insisted on adding a song to the selection contained in the printed books." Here our historian again puts his foot down: "We maintain that performers are engaged to sing the piece which may be allotted to them. Performers who fancy that they have not sung enough should not be allowed to detain an audience of several thousand persons. In justice to the public the appointed scheme should be executed, and then let the solo singers go on as long as the audience will stay to hear them." Shade of Sir Michael Costa, what a proposition!

We next have a long description of the Fancy Ball and a list of the persons attending, with the characters they represented ("Where is dat barty now?"). "The principal vocal performers," says the historian in his capacity as the Jenkins of the occasion, "mixed in the crowd, and appeared very much to enjoy the festive scene after the conclusion of their arduous exertions." I have gone through the long list of guests to see if they attended in character, but not even their names are mentioned, and they appear simply to have been tolerated amid the nobility and gentry. The book ends with a "correct list" of the persons who attended the Festival, classified under the counties from which they came. It occupies sixteen pages of small print, in double columns, and includes 143 persons of title, with 231 clergymen, among them the Rev. Sydney Smith. The list of London visitors contains the names of Mr. Charles Clementi, Cheapside, and Mrs. Novello. Never, I should say, was such a gathering in the cause of music—and dancing. The aggregate attendance reached 24,755, and the receipts were £20,200; the number of ball guests just fell short of 3,000. By the side of these figures the statistics of Festivals at the present time look small.

Mr. Richard Richards, of Handsworth, near Birmingham, has been good enough to send me a copy of Tallis's tune, taken from a book entitled "A Companion to the Magdalen Chapel, containing the Hymns, Psalms, Ode, and Anthems used there. Set for the Harpsichord, Voice, German Flute, or Guitar. The music composed by the most eminent Masters." The date of this volume is not mentioned, but at the time of its publication the tune had been degraded to much the same state as that shown in The Musical Times for September last. I give the melody as copied by Mr. Richards:—



My correspondent also sends, as taken from the same book, a version of the Easter Hymn tune, in the first bar of which are some "graces" I do not remember to have met with before—



There was talk, not long since, of a visit from a Russian horn band, similar to that brought to London about forty years ago. In Leigh Hunt's "Table Talk" there is a description of the horn band copied from "an authority whose name I have forgotten." "The Russian horn music," says the anonymous writer in question, "was invented by Prince Galitzin in 1762. This instrument consists of forty persons, whose life is spent in blowing one note. . . . The band consists of twenty-five individuals, who play upon about fifty-five horns, all formed of brass, of a conical shape, with the mouthpiece bent. . . . When the performance began, notwithstanding all we had read, although we knew that each demisemiquaver of a rapid octave must be breathed by a separate individual, we were astonished at the unity of effect and correctness of time, and this feeling continued undiminished to the end."

Leigh Hunt expatiates upon the function of these horn blowers in characteristic fashion: "This, to be sure, is sounding the very 'bass note of humility.' A man converted into a crotchet! An A flat in the sixtieth year of his age! A fellow-creature of Alfred and Epaminondas, who has passed his life in acting a semitone! in waiting for his turn to exist, and then seizing the desperate instant and being a puff!" One or two other good things on music may be found in the "Table Talk." The vivacious author says, for example, "An air played on the bagpipes, with that detestable, monstrous drone of theirs for a bass, is like a tune tied to a post." Of Handel, he remarks: "What is sweet in his compositions is surpassed in sweetness by no other, and what is great is greater than in any." On the relation of words and music, we read: "Music is an art that, in its union with words in general, may reasonably take, I think, the higher place, inferior as it is to poetry in the abstract. For when music is singing, the finest part of our senses takes the place of the more definite intellect, and nothing surely can surpass the power of an affecting and enchanting air in awakening the very flower of emotion. On this account I can well understand a startling saying attributed to the great Mozart: that he did not care for having good words to his music. He wanted only the names (as it were) of the passions. His own poetry supplied the rest." After referring to Paesiello's air, "Il mio ben," in the opera "Nina Pazza per Amore," the table-talker goes on: "I admire the rich accompaniments of the Germans, but more accompaniment than the author has given to that song would be like hanging an embroidered robe on the shoulders of Ophelia." In another place, after relating an instance of Mozart's compassion for the poor and needy, Hunt exclaims: "This is the way that great musicians are made. Their sensibility is their genius." X.

THE MUSICAL GRADUATES' UNION.

When we wrote in these columns, a very few months back, on the subject of the manufacture of degrees and the traffic in bogus diplomas, and took the initiative in suggesting that the leaders of the profession should call a public meeting to discuss the question and take such steps as seemed desirable to meet the exigencies of the situation, it was with very faint hopes of meeting with so prompt a response to our appeal. But the unexpected always happens, and the issue of the scheme for the formation of a Union of Musical Graduates and Holders of Honorary Degrees of Music of Great Britain and Ireland is a welcome and bold move in the right direction. Here, at any rate, is no hole and corner conspiracy. The circular is issued in the names of Sir John Stainer, Dr. Stanford, Sir Robert Stewart, Dr. Bridge (of Westminster), Dr. Armes (of Durham), and Dr. Hiles (of the Victoria University). More than that, the scheme—of which more anon—has met with the cordial approval of nearly all the foremost men in the profession. It is already backed by Sir Arthur Sullivan, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Dr. Hubert Parry, Dr. Harford Lloyd, Dr. Martin (of St. Paul's), Dr. Pole, Sir George Elvey, Dr. Garrett, Dr. Hopkins, Dr. Pearce, Dr. Varley Roberts, and Messrs. C. A. Barry,

Basil Harwood, and many others. That the movement should, in its initial stage, have gained such powerful support is of happy augury for its future operations. And now for the scheme itself. To quote from the circular:—

"It is proposed to form a Union of Musical Graduates and Holders of Honorary Degrees in Music of Great Britain and Ireland. The Association would have for its object not only the promotion of close personal intercourse among its members, but also the protection of the value and dignity of the musical degrees legitimately conferred in this country.

"The Union will not be an aggressive institution; the moral influence of such a body of men will, it is thought, be quite sufficient to give weight to any resolutions it may pass, or any protests it may think advisable to publish. But in order to be strong, it is absolutely necessary that the Union should be very comprehensive, and include all British Musical Graduates; thus, membership of the Union will be a guarantee of the status of those belonging to it.

"The public generally, the clergy in particular, and the authorities of our educational institutions would be very glad to know of the existence of a recognised body who could give exact information as to the true worth of the many claims now made to graduateship, and whose Annual Calendar would contain an authentic list of all British Musical Graduates.

"Musical Graduates of the following Universities will be included in the Union: Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin (Trinity College), Durham, London, Royal University of Ireland, St. Andrew's, Victoria (Manchester). . . . When the answers to this circular have been received, a general meeting will be held to settle the constitution of the Union, nominate a Council, and appoint officers."

In addition to the Universities specified above, it is further proposed to include in the Union "such other British institutions as shall at any future time give musical degrees under the powers conferred by Royal Charter."

Should the above scheme take practical shape, as there is every reason to suppose it will, backed as it already is by nearly all the leaders of the profession, the conflict which has been carried on so long between pretentious incompetence and solid merit is likely to enter on a new and decisive stage. Hitherto the efforts of the representatives of the latter to assert their claims have been sporadic, irregular, and disorganised. Now for the first time an opportunity is afforded to all the "regulars" of the musical world of enlisting under their proper leaders, and on such terms as will effectually secure the exclusion of the whole ragged regiment of mercenary and ill-equipped stragglers. The metaphor of warfare, however, is to a certain extent inappropriate, inasmuch as it is expressly stated in the circular that the new Union will not be an aggressive institution. Once the forces of knowledge and ignorance are ranged in two opposing camps, it will be the aim of the former to assume a purely defensive attitude, or, in the words of the circular, to protect the value and dignity of the musical degrees legitimately conferred in this country. And it is high time that some such device for the sifting of the wheat from the tares was decided upon. A recent cause célèbre served to show the extraordinary gullibility of the public in such matters. But even where no positive fraud or robbery is contemplated, the carelessness of the public and its accessibility to flattery constitute the most powerful incentive to organised charlatanry in art. The growth of self-constituted colleges and academies proceeds with unabated rapidity and, in default of any easily accessible test, parents and guardians rush to the conclusion that whatever is most widely advertised is best, and entrust their children and wards to the tender mercies of professors whose competence is generally in an inverse ratio to the number of letters which they affix to their names. Such a test or touchstone will be supplied by the formation of the contemplated Union of Musical Graduates, and the publication of an Annual Calendar containing an authentic list of all musicians who have graduated at those Universities or institutions empowered by Royal Charter to grant musical degrees.

It will not be contended by the most sanguine promoters of the new scheme that inclusion in the list will be a guarantee of first-rate ability. Standards differ at different Universities. But at least its composition will secure the exclusion of that glaring incompetence which at the present day is so often suffered to compete on equal terms with solid merit.

TENNYSON IN SONG.

To the genuine and widespread sorrow at Lord Tennyson's death must be added that of the musician, who, by the nature of his art, is not a little qualified to appreciate the melodic loveliness and the graceful imagery of the dead Laureate's verse. But was Tennyson a musician's poet? That is to say, did his lines attract the fancies of composers? One answer to this question may be found in a MS. "Bibliography of Musical Settings of Lord Tennyson's verse," compiled by the present writer, the receipt of which, only a short time before his death, "interested" the late poet. In this "long list of songs" there are no less than 513 published compositions, in every variety of musical setting, of which the words are by the late Poet Laureate. This total, which most probably does not include all the settings, is made up of 454 songs, 7 duets, 4 trios, 37 four-part songs, and 11 cantatas, or odes—each complete work of the last-named being counted as one item. These compositions are by all sorts and conditions of composers, and therefore it is not surprising that so few—we may say so very few—of the 513 are really known.

The poem which has mostly attracted the fancy of composers is that tender little lullaby from "The Princess"—the well-known "Sweet and low," which has been set at least thirty times. "Break, break, break," however, with 29 settings, makes a good second. As showing how the same words may appeal to the varied imaginations of 30 composers, it would be exceedingly interesting to issue in one volume these 30 settings of "Sweet and low"; but as that would be almost impossible, a comparative analysis of them may be of interest at this time. As one is "out of print" and not in the British Museum (where it ought to be), the number must be reduced to 29, of which 24 are songs, 4 are four-part songs, and 1 is a duet. They are composed by 7 ladies and 22 gentlemen, ranging from such able musicians as Mrs. Marshall and Sir Joseph Barnby (whose beautiful setting has never been excelled) to the modest amateur who hides his, or her, greatness beneath the cloak of anonymity. There is a charming variety of keys. In the key of C there are 4 settings; in D flat, 2; in D, 3; in E flat, 3; in E, 2; in F (evidently the favourite key), 6; in G minor, 1; in A flat, 2; in A, 3; in A minor, 1; in B flat, 1; and there is 1 in B, which is the composition of Edward Lear, the author of the inimitable "Book of Nonsense." There are only 2 settings in the minor key, against 27 in the major. Much variety is shown in the accompaniments, ranging from the portrayal of a gentle rocking movement to an apparent desire to introduce a feeble representation of the "rolling waters" of the "western sea." Any preconceived idea that a lullaby should be written in compound-duple (or quadruple) rhythm is quite dispelled by the discovery that only 12 of the 29 (less than one-half) have the time signatures of 6-8 or 12-8. Next in order come 2-4, C, or ¢, with 10; and lastly 7 have the signature of 3-4. As to the literal interpretation of the title, we may conclude that most, if not all, the several composers would consider their settings to be sweet; but there is no apparent unanimity in keeping the melodies low. Indeed, some of the songs might be more truthfully designated "sweet and high," as the high G sharp occurs in 1, G natural in 3 others, F sharp once, and F in 8 others; so that each of these 13 songs provides material enough to effectually rouse the baby instead of soothing it to slumber "on mother's breast." But, on the other hand, the majority of the melodies are low and thus more in keeping with a mother's song over her "babe in the nest." Interesting as it would be to compare the different musical garbs of other well-known poems from the rich store of the late Laureate's verse, we must be content with having drawn attention to the musical settings of one of the daintiest lyrics in the whole realm of English poetry.

The best known settings to words by Tennyson are Balfe's "Come into the garden, Maud," and Sir Joseph Barnby's "Sweet and low." The former was composed expressly for and dedicated to Mr. Sims Reeves, who first sang it forty-four years ago. Balfe sent his MS. from Paris for the approval of the great tenor, who sent the laconic reply, "Yes, it will do"; and all the world knows that it did "do." Sir Joseph Barnby's "Sweet and low," whose music reflects the tender beauty of the words, was first performed at the Hanover Square Rooms, on January 14, 1863, by Mr. Henry Leslie's choir, to whose conductor it was naturally dedicated. The new part-song was encored, and at once met with that success it has ever since maintained.

Lord Tennyson showed his practical interest in music and in a musician, now well known to fame, by writing for Sir (then Mr.) Arthur Sullivan "The Window; or, The Songs [Loves originally] of the Wrens." The preface reads: "Four years ago Mr. Sullivan requested me to write a little song-cycle, German fashion, for him to exercise his art upon. He had been very successful in setting such old songs as 'Orpheus with his lute,' and I drest up for him, partly in the old style, a puppet whose almost only merit is, perhaps, that it can dance to Mr. Sullivan's instrument. I am sorry that my four-year-old puppet should have to dance at all in the dark shadow of these days*; but the music is now completed, and I am bound by my promise.—A. Tennyson.—December, 1870." This "song-cycle," which contains some charming music, was published in 1871 by Mr. Strahan, in a handsome quarto volume. But it is not generally known that these miniature poems were privately printed (without music) four years earlier. Amongst the treasures in the British Museum is a gaily bound small quarto, its few pages tastefully printed only on one side, bearing the title "The Window, or the Loves of the Wrens, by Alfred Tennyson, D.C.L., Poet Laureate [then underneath a vignette of the mansion], Canford Manor, MDCCCLXVII." A pencil note in the copy reads: "F. T. Palgrave, Jan., 1869. Only six copies printed by Sir I. and Miss Guest." The first-named "printer" is now Lord Wimborne, and Canford Manor is his country seat; but it is understood that the copies were actually printed by the lady referred to. Another page must be quoted: "These little songs, whose almost sole merit, at least till they are wedded to music, is that they are so excellently printed, I dedicate to The Printer." The poet's dedication to the fair printer loses none of its charm by the graceful deference it pays to the musician's art.

The year 1809 will remain a memorable one in the twin spheres of poetry and music. Within its months were born Tennyson, Mendelssohn (half-a-year before the poet), and Chopin. Sad enough to relate, the "reaper whose name is death" swept away the two musicians in the flush of their early manhood, now more than forty years ago; but our Laureate was spared to us for "length of days." Therefore, the tender note of sorrow, vibrating yet, which recently thrilled the nation, should naturally be blended with the chorus of thanksgiving for his long and useful life, his exalted genius, and the splendid heritage of song which has been bequeathed to us by Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

* The reference is to the Franco-German war.

The opinion of experts is generally worth listening to, and in view of the exceptional success which attended on the employment of the long trumpets in Bach's Mass in B minor at Leeds, we recommend all readers interested in orchestral instruments to turn to the valuable paper on "The Trumpet; its History, Construction, and Use," by Mr. Walter Morrow, in a recent issue of the Victorian Magazine. It is unnecessary to dwell on Mr. Morrow's qualifications to treat of the subject. His services in introducing and improving the Kosleck trumpet have laid all lovers of Bach under a deep debt of gratitude, and the magnificent results achieved at Leeds, when, for the first time in England, the three trumpet parts in the Mass were played on three instruments of the same construction and timbre, were primarily due to his perseverance and devotion during the last six years. The long trumpet is no joke to play. As Mr. Morrow tells us, a fortnight's practice on this instrument is indispensable in the case of an artist essaying to play the first trumpet part in the Mass, and even then only partial success can be looked for. The occasions on which the long trumpet is used are so rare that a player has practically to go into training for it, the conditions of performance on the valve trumpet, or cornet, being widely dissimilar. With regard to the rival claims of cornet and valve trumpet—the slide trumpet being now practically obsolete—Mr. Morrow pleads energetically for the latter, and every man of taste will echo his plea. We offer no apology for transcribing his interesting remarks on this question. As a result of the invention of pistons and cylinders, Mr. Morrow points out how "all great modern foreign composers, and English composers who have been educated abroad, have written freely for the piston trumpet (also called valve trumpet or ventil trumpet); but unfortunately our orchestral trumpet players have not met their ideas in an artistic spirit. When a trumpet part is placed in front of a performer, he first looks through it, and if he finds other notes than the natural harmonics, he growls at what he calls 'the inability of the composer to write for the trumpet,' and takes up his cornet-à-pistons in order to render his part. Indeed it happens in an instance like Mendelssohn's Scotch Symphony where, at the end of the first movement, the composer has thought proper to raise the fourth harmonic a semitone, that a performer must of necessity leave out several bars, while he changes from one instrument to the other, and a few more bars further on, to re-change; or else, not caring for the trouble, he leaves out the notes, which are 'not on the instrument.' A third and more general resource, and one which involves the least trouble, is to play the whole part on the cornet-à-pistons, and thus unconsciously and inartistically frustrate the noble effect the composer intended. Conductors of orchestras, when their attention is called to this shortcoming on the part of the instrumentalists, content themselves with saying that they deplore it, but that they cannot get trumpet players. As a reply to this, a recent circumstance may be mentioned. One of our most eminent composers wrote a work with important parts for trumpets, and stipulated that the parts were to be played on valve trumpets; this was accomplished, ergo, let our conductors insist upon the use of that instrument in grand orchestras and players will readily be found. We admit that the cornet-à-piston is a very beautiful instrument in its place; that is, in a military band, where its use as a solo instrument in operatic cavatinas, romances, themes, and variations is very valuable. Also when it is written for in combination with trumpets in orchestras, as, for example, in such works as Berlioz's 'Faust,' 'Le Carnaval Romain' Overture, and many of Meyerbeer's works. But that it should be used to the total exclusion of the trumpet is much to be deprecated. Our academies and music schools should also insist upon trumpets being used in their orchestras, as they do in continental conservatoires; so that this, the noblest sounding of brass instruments, may not be allowed to sink into the oblivion which threatens it."

The writer of the analytical programme notice (unsigned) of Mr. C. A. Lidgey's Ballad for Orchestra, after Doré's picture, "A Day Dream," which met with a signally warm reception on the occasion of its production at the Crystal Palace on the 15th ult., confessed that the only other music inspired by a picture, that he could recollect, was Liszt's "Todtentanz," after Dürer's "Dance of Death." The task of furnishing a tolerably complete list of instances of composers drawing their inspiration from paintings would not be an uninteresting one, but for this we must look for assistance from our readers. In the meantime we content ourselves by calling to mind a goodly array of Liszt's works. The six scenes of which his Oratorio "St. Elizabeth" consists were suggested by Moritz von Schwind's exquisite frescoes at the Wartburg of scenes from the life of St. Elizabeth. His "Faust" Symphony is a musical illustration of Ary Schaeffer's picture of the three most prominent figures in Goethe's "Faust." His Symphonic Poem "Die Hunnenschlacht" ("Battle of the Huns") was inspired by Kaulbach's cartoon at Berlin. The "March of the Three Holy Kings," in his Oratorio "Christus," was suggested by Stephen Lochner's famous "Dombild" in Cologne Cathedral, and the "Sposalizio," by Raphael's celebrated painting at Milan. Mendelssohn's well-known song without words "In a Gondola" probably owes its existence to Giorgione's "Cithern Player" at Venice; for, in a letter written to his sister, Fanny Hensel, on September 13, 1839, just as she was starting for Italy, he says: "Do not forget the Manfrini Gallery, with its marvellous 'Cithern Player' by Giorgione. . . . Compose something in honour of the 'Cithern Player.' . . . I did so. . . . Sail in a gondola at night, meeting other black gondolas hurrying along. If you don't think of all sorts of love stories, and other things which might occur within them while they glide by so quickly—then I am a dolt!" While considering the sympathy which exists between painters and musicians, it would be scarcely less interesting to investigate the instances in which painters have been indebted to the sister-art of music for their ideas. We recall Moritz von Schwind's pictures of Beethoven's Choral Fantasia and scenes from some of Weber's operas as notable examples. Some years ago a certain painter (it is said) was a regular attendant at the Crystal Palace Concerts with a view to translating some of the movements from Beethoven's Symphonies into the language of colour, but with what result we are unable to say. Mr. Whistler has appropriated terms specifically musical (e.g., "Symphony," "Nocturne," &c.) as titles for some of his most eccentric drawings, but we cannot recall that he has been influenced by the spirit of music.

It is hardly possible to imagine a more happy lot than that which falls to the young student who, having completed his course of studies at the Paris Conservatoire de Musique, is awarded the Grand Prix de Rome. This prize—probably the most valuable in existence—is awarded to students who show the most promise in composition. The successful candidates are sent to Rome, where, at the expense of the French Government, they reside four years in the beautiful Villa Medici, which on the Monte Pincio towers so conspicuously over the Eternal City. Here, with scarcely any other constraint but that of every year sending home a new composition, they have the fullest opportunity of enlarging their minds and emancipating themselves from the academical groove. We can imagine nothing more inspiring to the young composer than a lengthened residence in a city which, with its classical surroundings, abounds in the most soul-stirring examples of monumental art, and is within an easy distance of the most beautiful country. It was doubtless under some such feelings as these that our Mendelssohn and Liszt Scholarships, each of which has its foreign side, were founded. The constitution of the Royal College of Music also admits of the establishment of Travelling Fellowships. Though these have not yet come into actual being, during the last four years the experiment has been tried of sending some of the most promising students abroad, not for further academical instruction, but with the view of enabling them to gain further culture and experience. Thus, Mr. Sydney Waddington (since elected to the Mendelssohn Scholarship) was sent to Vienna and Germany; Mr. Percy Ridout to Berlin, Munich, and Vienna; Mr. W. G. Spencer to Cologne, &c. (at the expense of the Duke of Westminster); and lastly, Miss Ethel Sharpe to Vienna and Berlin. Any attempt to judge of the result of this experiment in these individual cases would of course be premature, but there can be no doubt that it is a move in the right direction and therefore one to be applauded and upheld.

Present-day composers ought to be thankful—as they doubtless are—for the facilities afforded them for the production and publication of their oratorios. It was not always so. The success of Dr. Parry's "Job" at the recent Gloucester Festival suggests a comparison with the presentation of an earlier work bearing the same title. "Job," by William Russell, Mus. Bac., Oxon., was announced to be given for the first time at the Hanover Square Rooms on June 7, 1813, with the assistance of Braham and S. Wesley. There does not seem to be any account of the performance, and probably there were few purchasers of tickets at half-a-guinea each. Russell did not live long to enjoy his success or mourn his disappointment. He died on the following November 21, aged thirty-six. In the next year "Job" was given at the Foundling, where Russell had been organist, "for the benefit of his widow and infant children." The "particulars" were "too long for an advertisement," so the daily papers record. Twelve years later (in 1826) "Job" was published, price two guineas to subscribers (of whom there were ninety-four), and half-a-guinea extra to non-subscribers. The volume is a substantial folio of 268 pages, with accompaniment arranged from the score by Samuel Wesley, and is dedicated to the Governors of the Foundling Hospital by the composer's widow. The work was adversely reviewed in the Harmonicon and has long since entered the region of oblivion. Russell is now only remembered by his organ pieces (are they too venerable to be played now?), printed in Novello's "Short Melodies" and "Select Organ Pieces," and his melodious chant in E.

In January, 1888, the Charity Commissioners promised to devote a sum of £150,000 from the funds of the City of London Parochial Charities towards the endowment of Polytechnic Institutes in South London, provided that a similar sum was raised from the public. A Committee was formed, with Mr. Evan Spicer as its Chairman; and owing mainly to his efforts it has been possible to found three Institutes—one at New Cross, one near the Elephant and Castle, and one at Battersea. The second of these was opened by the Earl of Rosebery on September 30. It includes the usual reading circles, clubs, and societies found at such institutions, and in addition a musical branch which promises far higher results than such ventures are generally able to give. We are led to this opinion by the names which appear in connection with the School of Music at the Borough Road Polytechnic, which include those of Dr. A. C. Mackenzie as Hon. Musical Director, Mr. Battison Haynes as Musical Director "in ordinary," and Mr. P. Elliott, Mr. W. Mackway, and Miss H. Cunningham as professors of the violin and singing respectively. Choral and orchestral societies and classes for the study of the elements of music will be conducted by Mr. Battison Haynes. The fees, for members and non-members, are fixed at rates with which it is clear no private teacher in the neighbourhood will be able to compete. Whether this be an unmixed blessing or no we need not at present stop to inquire, since it seems to be agreed on all hands that the elevation of the masses is of more importance than the existence of the classes who obtain their daily bread by giving lessons.

In our last issue we announced Dr. Mackenzie's acceptance of an invitation to conduct a certain number of Concerts at the Chicago Exhibition of 1893. The indefatigable trio constituting the "Bureau of Music"—Messrs. Theodore Thomas (Musical Director), William L. Tomlins (Choral Director), and G. H. Wilson (Secretary)—had, however, also sent invitations to a number of other eminent composers of various nationalities, and several have since replied, among them Brahms and Joachim, who, with much regret, decline—mainly, it would seem, on account of distance. Saint-Saëns accepts, and will not only conduct, but play, several of his own compositions. It being anticipated that no less than 300 Concerts will be given at which the services of an orchestra will be required, a sum of $175,000 has been set aside for the engagement of a permanent orchestra of 120 players. It is also hoped that the Boston Symphony Orchestra, under Mr. Nikisch, and that of the New York Philharmonic, under Mr. Anton Seidl, will play at several Concerts. The choral societies of the entire country have been urged to co-operate, both by separately giving Concerts and by uniting forces for the performance of oratorios, &c., by Bach, Handel, Beethoven, Mozart, Brahms, Gounod, Mackenzie, Sullivan, Dvorák, Verdi, and others. This will give some idea of the scale on which the musical arrangements of the "World's Fair" have been planned, and of the energy with which they are being carried out by the three gentlemen entrusted with the work. At the proper time we shall give fuller details.

We have received from Signor Vicenzo Menozzi, of Rome, a list of the prices obtained for the musical treasures disposed of by him at the sale of the Borghese library a few months ago in that city. The sums range from 2,800 fr. to 1 fr. The former was given for the second edition of Peri's opera "Eurydice" (1608). Caccini's "Eurydice" (1600), with which was bound his "Nuove musiche," fetched 2,100 fr.; and the same composer's "Fvggilotio Mvsicale" (1630) was knocked down for 1,350 fr. Of this work it is stated that no other European library possesses a copy. 1,250 fr. was given for a volume containing five books of Madrigals by Carlo Gesualdo, Prince of Venosa; 1,110 fr. for Marco da Gagliano's "Dafne" (1608), and a similar sum for Laudi Stefano's "La morte d'Orfeo" (Venice, 1619). Nine books of Luca Marenzio's Madrigals, bound together and dating from between 1594 and 1609—the last-quoted date being printed "1069" (!)—were disposed of for 1,220 fr., and a book of madrigals by an almost unknown composer, Claudio Pari, for 1,500 fr. An enumeration of the works for which prices between 150 and 500 fr. were given would fill a column. Those interested in such matters cannot do better than obtain a catalogue from Signor Menozzi—the price is quite reasonable. It may be mentioned that the sum total obtained for the musical works—about 300 "lots"—was 44,864 fr.

The announcement of the revival of a pianoforte school of extempore playing in Paris calls for a passing word of comment. The anecdote related by Ferdinand Ries in his Biographical Notices of Beethoven, à propos of the second performance of the Concerto in C minor, shows, as Sir George Grove remarks in his annotations to the work in question, that "even at the beginning of the century cadences were studied beforehand and had ceased to be—what they no doubt originally were—an extempore display of the invention and daring of the player." According to the same authority, "The last player to play real extempore cadences was Mendelssohn, whose feats at the performance of the Beethoven G major Concerto at the Philharmonic, June 24, 1844, and of Bach's triple Concerto, June 1 of the same year, are now historical among English musicians." We take it, however, that the practice, though now long obsolete, of including improvisations on a given theme in the programme of pianoforte recitals, lasted down to a considerably later date. For there is a delightful story, which a contemporary has recalled, in connection with a visit of Stephen Heller to this country, of a young lady who, on being told that he was prepared to extemporise on anything that might be given him, naïvely inquired of her informant: "Do you mean to say that he could improvise on a sponge?"

We have received a letter from a musician of some standing in the North who is much exercised at the recognition accorded to musical degrees granted by the University of St. Andrew's, which, he points out, has neither Professor nor Faculty of Music. We have only to reply that by its charter the University in question has legal power to grant musical degrees. When, if ever, it abuses that power, it will then be time to consider the subject.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

We have this year again to call the attention of our readers to the issue of a Special Number of The Musical Times devoted to the Life and Works of Beethoven, which will be issued on December 15. The literary matter will be edited and partly written, as before, by Mr. Joseph Bennett, and special interest will be imparted by the inclusion of numerous illustrations, fac-similes of manuscripts and letters of great interest, hitherto unpublished. It may safely be anticipated that the attractiveness of the forthcoming Special Number will be even greater than that of the Mozart number last year.

Newcastle-upon-Tyne is just now concerned with the question whether or no it should join the increasing number of towns in which triennial festivals are held. We are not sufficiently conversant with the local resources and conditions to express an opinion upon the subject, but no special knowledge is required for assurance that in order to establish a festival there should be practical unanimity. This condition does not appear to exist in Newcastle. The Newcastle Daily Chronicle, for example, expresses itself unfavourably: "We must recognise that serious difficulties stand in the way of holding a musical festival in this city. To begin with, where could it be held? Our Town Hall is wholly inadequate, and altogether unworthy for such a purpose; and it is precisely in Town Halls that such gatherings take place. Theatres have been occasionally utilised for such performances; but it has been found that buildings laid out for theatrical entertainments are, as a rule, ill-suited for the representation of oratorios, cantatas, and miscellaneous concert music. There are other objections to be urged against the scheme so far as Newcastle is concerned; but on these we need not dwell. Our city stands very much in the position of the man who had a hundred reasons for not getting himself a new suit of clothes—the first being that he had no money. We have no hall fit for a musical festival, and until that difficulty be surmounted it seems idle to discuss anything else."

Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. will shortly publish a re-arrangement for modern organs of the two sets of six Organ Pieces by the late Dr. S. S. Wesley, which, it will be remembered, were written for the G organ. The work of editing and re-arrangement has been confided to Dr. G. M. Garrett. It should be stated that, although a re-arrangement of Dr. Wesley's organ works was proposed recently in a contemporary by Mr. W. T. Best, the credit of the suggestion properly belongs to Mr. Hamilton Robinson, who initiated it as far back as last spring. It may further be remarked that the suggestion has led to a consideration of Dr. Wesley's "English Hymn and Psalm Tunes," which were likewise written for G organs, and a new edition of this work will shortly be published by Messrs. Novello. In this instance, also, Dr. Garrett is the Editor, and has worked in consultation with several other eminent pupils of Dr. Wesley; there is, therefore, every reason to suppose that the new edition will be issued with the most faithful and reverent care.

A medical man sends to a Glasgow paper the following "case": "A relative of mine who for many weeks had been suffering from insomnia, and become sadly reduced in bodily and mental strength, and, indeed, was in extreme depression of mind, was visited by a friend, a distinguished master of the piano, and one who has made a study of music as a means towards recovery of health. During his visit to the invalid he, by request, played some light, airy music, then went on to a Nocturne of Chopin, and finally played the first two movements of Beethoven's 'Moonlight' Sonata, where he proposed to stop, but was beseeched by the patient to finish the piece. The result was the sufferer was lulled into sleep, and rested well that night. The cure was repeated for some subsequent nights, and now the insomnia is overcome. Surely this cure is preferable to chloral or other dangerous draughts, but doubtless it must be skilfully administered." The Guild of St. Cecilia will not fail to note.

The establishment of a College of Music in Manchester seems now to be assured. No doubt the city knows its own wants better than outsiders, and we are bound to wish the enterprise all success. Sir Charles Hallé has given a conditional promise to superintend the working. Apropos, we read in the Manchester Guardian: "A course of three years' instruction is contemplated, and no one will be admitted except with an undertaking to remain at least three terms at the College. The curriculum will be a complete one, and all students will be required to study harmony, and one or two extra subjects in addition to the special subject of study which they may select, whether the cultivation of the voice or of some particular instrument. It is obvious that such a College must primarily have for its object the training of persons who desire to qualify themselves to exercise the profession of music.

There is at Melbourne a "North Suburban Choral Union," and the latest report of that body, signed by Mr. E. A. Jäger, hon. Conductor, is now before us. From it we gather that the energies of the Union are largely devoted to part-singing, and we read the following àpropos: "As evidence of the good the Union is doing in showing how rich and varied is the British school in this form of composition, it may be stated that of the total twenty-two only four were by foreign composers." From the repertory appended to the report we learn that England does not maintain this supremacy in the department of orchestral music. The sixteen pieces performed were all of foreign origin. Our composers should see to this. Is it impossible for them to write such unassuming and engaging pieces as those with which the foreigner carries all before him, even in far-away Melbourne?

The Reading Institute of Music opened pleasantly on the 10th ult., and, in the course of the evening, some national airs were sung under novel conditions. We transcribe from the programme the following directions: "The national airs are intended to be sung by all, whether able to read music or not. At the sound of the bell, it is suggested that positions, according to the following plan, be taken with the least possible loss of time (plan shown). Eight measures will be played before singing each piece. Careful attention should be given to the conductor's beating, and it is hoped that the singing will not lack heartiness. Singers may disperse at the conclusion of each performance."

Listen to the plaint of a reverend gentleman who signs himself "Semi-Lunatic," and makes a confidant of the St. James's Gazette: "I am a parson, and have to produce some kind of sermons on Sunday. I have a son and a daughter, both having to work hard for their living and dependent on brain rest. Organs, costers, street-singers, children playing in the day-time, have nearly reduced us to imbecility. And now a real infernal machine has been superadded—a powerful organ drawn by a pony, and a man playing an accompaniment upon a cornet! The row can only be described as infernal." The letter suggests a new cause of bad sermons.

A critic of the Boston Home Journal holds that the solo phrase "The night is departing" ("Lobgesang") should be made "a burst of joyous exultation." It is, no doubt, open to that rendering, and also to another, with which Christine Nilsson made an electrical effect once upon a time in Exeter Hall. The tenor had just been demanding "Watchman, will the night soon pass?" and the reply dropped softly down as though from the battlements of heaven. It was a new idea that thrilled the audience. By the way, Mendelssohn has not marked the phrase p or f, but the orchestral cadence is directed to be played softly.

The sketch programme of Messrs. Paterson and Sons' Edinburgh Concerts has been sent to us, and we find it a remarkable illustration of the development of private enterprise in connection with music. One performance, by the Nordica Concert party, has already taken place, and will be followed by a second of the same kind, at which Messrs. Boosey's party will appear. Then come a Recital by Sarasate, a series of Orchestral Concerts, under the direction of Mr. Manns, and a few choral performances, at which Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride" and Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal" will be produced. The programmes of these Concerts are extremely interesting.

An Association for the Encouragement of Music in Primary Schools was formed at Cork some time ago, and is now about to enlarge the scope of its action. Says an Irish contemporary: "It has been considered that a service of great value and importance to the community would be performed if an effort were made to have the cultivation of music made more thorough and more systematic, if a healthy spirit of emulation among schools could be engendered, if occasional competition of choirs chosen from different schools took place, prizes being awarded to the successful school."

Music at the Kimberley (S.A.) Exhibition seems to be receiving the treatment which long ago earned for her the title of the "Cinderella" of the arts. The Concerts are allowed to go "anyhow," and the arrangements generally are described by the press and private correspondents as "chaotic." There are "bright spots," however, such as the Pianoforte Recitals of Mr. Frank Bradley, the singing of Madame Stefani and Mrs. Drummond, and the performances of a Viennese band; but these, it would seem, serve but to deepen the surrounding gloom. Why should this be?

We have received a prospectus of the "Metropolitan College of Music," established in connection with the Finsbury Choral Association three years ago, and now, presumably, undergoing development. It is gratifying to read: "The enterprise has so far met with perfect success. The artistic results have been highly satisfactory, and the fact that in less than three years the number of students has risen to four hundred and fifty abundantly proves the necessity which existed for such an institution in this important district." While the College does good work may it prosper.

In an advertisement of Mr. Edgar Haddock's "Musical Evenings" at Leeds may be read the following: "Her Imperial Highness Princess Eugenie di Cristiforo Palæologæ-Nicephoræ-Comnenæ, who will be visiting England, has most kindly consented to sing at one of the 'Evenings' of the series." We have never heard of the lady, which must be our excuse for asking to what "imperial" family she belongs, unless that which reigned over the Eastern Empire as far back as the twelfth century. A long-descended vocalist indeed!

In the same advertisement we note signs of the advance of luxury in Concert-rooms: "The body of the Hall will be arranged as a luxurious and comfortable drawing-room."

From the seventh of an interesting series of articles appearing in the South African Trade Journal, it would appear that music in Cape Town is in a highly flourishing condition. The article is mainly devoted to a description of the largest South African music store, that of Messrs Darter and Sons; but it is easy to see from the European houses for which the firm are agents, and from the list of works mentioned as in demand, that musical taste "over there" has already reached a high level. We offer our congratulations to Cape Town.

The Hampstead Popular Concerts of Chamber Music enter upon their ninth season on the 11th inst., and six performances will be given between that date and the end of February. Joseph Joachim will appear on February 24, and among other artists engaged are Mesdames Fanny Davies, Eibenschütz, Kleeberg, and Wurm; Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, Mr. Borwick, Mr. Shakespeare, and Miss Fillunger. The management of this enterprise cannot be charged with lacking spirit, nor the Hampstead folk, apparently, with failing to appreciate good music.

Messrs. Dale, Forty and Co.'s Cheltenham Concerts for the present season began on the 5th ult., when the Nordica party appeared. Mr. Paderewski was announced for the 24th, but, of course, could not keep the engagement. The Macintyre party are responsible for the music of the third Concert, and on December 10 Mr. Pachmann will give a Recital. Mr. Sarasate follows, on February 8; Mr. Edward Lloyd's party appear on February 22; and the series will end on March 7 with an Orchestral Concert, conducted by Sir C. Hallé.

Colonel Shaw Hellier, Commandant of the Royal Military School of Music, the Staff, and the Bandmasters and Bandsmen of the British army at home and abroad, have placed in the chapel of Kneller Hall a brass tablet to the memory of the late Mr. Charles Cousins, who for many years occupied the post of Director of Music at that Institution. They have also subscribed for a handsome Sicilian marble cross over Mr. Cousins's tomb in Twickenham Cemetery.

It is gratifying to note that at the close of the Annual General Meeting of the Wakefield Music Competition Society, held in the Town Hall, Kendal, on the 1st ult., a pendant, set in precious stones was presented to Miss Wakefield by Mr. P. Mason, on behalf of the members of the competing choirs and others who had taken part in the competitions, in recognition of "their gratitude for the great work she had done in the county and the neighbourhood."

We can record with satisfaction the "banquet" tendered by the professors of the Guildhall School of Music to their new chief, Sir Joseph Barnby, without saying that "no other musical academy in the world could have furnished from its own staff so many men of 'light and leading' in their profession." Such assertions are provocative even when they are true, and they are out of harmony with a peaceful occasion, at which, by the way, the new Principal's most formidable rival, Sir William Cusins, presided.

A beautifully decorated grand pianoforte has been on view during the last few days at Messrs. John Broadwood and Sons, who have made the instrument for Mr. Athelstan Riley, from designs by Mr. T. G. Jackson, A.R.A. A description of it, with illustrations, has been published by the firm, from which we learn that this instrument de luxe has altogether taken a little more than two years to make. A "grand" pianoforte indeed!

An American paper, referring to a French Wagnerian brochure, says: "The author, until lately an unreasoning antagonist of the Bayreuth master, has returned from the Festspiele his ardent and unconditional admirer." Sudden conversions are doubtful, and it may be better to shape the sentence thus: "The author, until lately an ardent and unconditional antagonist of the Bayreuth master, has returned from the Festspiele his unreasoning admirer."

Miss Oliveria Prescott is preparing the "Music Book" in the series called the "Victoria Library for Gentlewomen," now publishing by Messrs. Henry and Co. Her book is an endeavour to put some of the higher points of music in a way that may be understood by the average musical mind—to be, in fact, an introduction to the study of form and forms, style, and some of the relations between music and poetry.

The eighth series of the Stock Exchange Orchestral Society's Concerts will be given in St. James's Hall, on December 6, February 21, and April 25. The male-voice choir connected with the Society will sing at each of these Concerts, and will in addition give, at Cannon Street Hotel, two Smoking Concerts on December 15 and March 2, and a Ladies' Concert on March 20.

Our youthful and promising Montreal contemporary, Arcadia, should stir up its London correspondents. The gentleman who discourses on Art in this metropolis announced, on the 1st ult., the issue of Mr. C. G. Harper's "English Pen Artists of To-day." The book in question belongs to last season's publications, and was long ago discussed before being assigned to the shelf where it now reposes.

The second season of the admirable series entitled the "Thursday" Subscription Concerts is announced to take place in the Steinway Hall (instead of, as formerly, in the Princes' Hall). The programmes will be formed on the same plan as last season, and the chief executants will be, as before, Mr. William Nicholl, Mr. Septimus Webbe, and Herr Adolph Brousil.

Officers of the Worshipful Company of Musicians for the current year: Master, J. F. Bridge; Senior Warden, John Collard; Junior Warden, John Stainer. The Company sealed these appointments over the flowing bowl at the Albion on the 18th ult., and spent a merry evening. May the Company flourish, root and branch!

According to the Western Press the Cardiff Festival did not result in so heavy a loss as was generally expected. The expenses amounted to £3,100; the receipts were £2,600; leaving about £500 for the guarantors to make good. For a first Festival, conducted by inexperienced hands, this result is not at all discouraging.

The Musical Mutual Protective Union of America continues to protest that "the general run of musicians are simply workmen, and that consequently all musicians brought to this country on contract must come under the provisions of the alien contract labour law"—that is to say, they must be kept out of the country. This is Protection gone mad.

The President of the Musical Protective Union of New York has called the Treasury Secretary's attention to the fact that in the notorious McKinlay Bill musical instruments are classed as working men's tools.

No, no, Mr. G. H. Wilson, you are mistaken. The examination at which only six candidates out of sixty-six passed, and seventeen harmonised a melody in the wrong key, was not "an examination of musical students at an English University," as you say, but one held in connection with the College of Organists. Quite a different thing, you will admit.

A select Choir of about 100 voices is in course of formation to assist at Mr. and Mrs. Henschel's Recitals and possibly, later on, in the London Symphony Concerts. The members are being selected with the greatest care, only persons having exceptional voices and reading ability being admitted. The Secretary is Mr. J. Stedman.

A number of former choristers of Westminster Abbey have recently formed themselves into a Society entitled Westminster Abbey Old Boys' Club, and their first dinner will be held on December 3 at the Westminster Palace Hotel, on which occasion it is understood that the Dean of Westminster will preside.

Mr. H. C. Banister will deliver a Lecture on "Music: how to Study, Understand, and Enjoy it," with illustrations on the pianoforte, on Monday evening, the 7th inst., at 8 o'clock, in Whitfield's Tabernacle, Tottenham Court Road (Iron Hall). Admission free.

The members of the Musical Guild begin their eighth series of Concerts in Kensington Town Hall on Tuesday next. Four performances will be given. The works named in the prospectus include no novelty, unless some duets by Gade, for clarinet and pianoforte, may be so considered.

The 800th anniversary of the consecration of Winchester Cathedral will be celebrated on April 18 next, with performances of sacred music on a festival scale. The Portsmouth Philharmonic Society has accepted an invitation to take part on this interesting occasion.

Mr. Algernon Ashton is publishing by subscription a set of thirty-three Songs in six books. No doubt these works will be interesting, but why does Mr. Ashton confine himself to German poetry when in the lyrics of our great masters of song he may find, we make bold to say, far better material?

Mr. F. Griffith announces three Flute Recitals, the first of which took place in Steinway Hall on the 27th ult. There can be no doubt that the young Welsh flautist deserves support in these efforts to make known the good music which has been written for his instrument.

The Blackheath Philharmonic Society (Conductor, Mr. Alfred Burnett) announces the following works for the present season: "Blest Pair of Sirens," "Golden Legend," "Creation," "Athalie," "The Revenge," Gounod's "Faust," and two Concertos. Excellent!

One of the most important theatres in Palermo, the Teatro Bellini, has lately changed hands, and will be converted, by its present proprietor, into a music hall. There seems to be a growing tendency in this direction in fin de siècle Europe generally.

Professor H. Clay Wysham recently lectured at Berkeley (Cal.) on "Musical Echoes of Home Songs," and "illustrated the popular tunes of the nations upon seven different varieties of flutes." Shade of Cherubini!

Mrs. Josephine Chatterton, daughter of Frederic of that ilk, has established a harp school in Chicago. This is claimed as being the first institution of the kind in America.

Mr. Theodore Thomas has given it as his opinion that "New York is not the world, and only a very small part of it." This is called by a journal of the Empire City an "insulting allusion."

Mr. Arthur Taylor has been engaged by a Syndicate as the baritone for a Concert tour of some months' duration through India, and sailed for his destination on the 21st ult.

Mr. Hollman will play the Andante from his Six Morceaux for violoncello at all the Concerts throughout his present tour.

Modest! A gentleman advertising in America for a teaching post, describes himself as "a musician of universal gifts."

Mr. Frederick Corder has undertaken to contribute a monthly London letter to the Boston Musical Herald.

LEEDS MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

(From our Special Correspondent.)

As I begin this notice, the subject of which it is to treat seems far back in the past, so rapid is the movement of modern things. But one who writes for a monthly journal must needs sometimes deal with that which, in the sense and degree just pointed out, is ancient history. He has, however, a distinct advantage. Taking up his pen after his colleagues have laid theirs down, he can benefit by their united wisdom, and discourse with the authority such a privilege confers. A general consideration of the Festival which began at Leeds on the 5th ult. must largely occupy itself with two conspicuous features—namely, the comparative absence of new works from the programme, and the measures taken to arrest decadence in the chorus and bring that organisation back to its pristine state. The Leeds Committee have received much advice—some good, some bad, all well intended—and it has especially been impressed upon them that they should be chary in accepting new works, because of the heavy labour necessarily imposed upon the chorus. This particular counsel has not carried much weight with it; the best proof of its practical rejection being the fact that the Committee's arrangements for the recent Festival included four novelties, three of them Cantatas. Fate, apparently agreeing with the advice ignored, at once stepped in, and so ordered matters that two of the Cantatas were not forthcoming. Sir Arthur Sullivan could do nothing by reason of illness, while, as the managers and Mr. Frederic Cowen were unable to agree upon a point of procedure, the work made ready by that composer was withdrawn. This left the Committee with two novelties only—a short Cantata, "Arethusa," written by Mr. Alan Gray to Shelley's well-known words, and an Orchestral Symphony by Mr. Frederic Cliffe. No one denies that the production of new music by Sullivan and Cowen would greatly have augmented the interest of the occasion, but it is open to question whether the actual arrangement had not a countervailing advantage in allowing more time for the rehearsal of standard works. Be this as it may, the programme, as finally decided upon, met with unconditional acceptance, and no one was found to complain because of the missing Cantatas. I cannot, however, approve the action of the Committee in choosing a substitute for Mr. Cowen's "Water Lily." When Mr. Alderman Spark brings out a continuation of his "History of the Leeds Festivals," we shall probably know who proposed Schumann's "Pilgrimage of the Rose," and by what arguments its choice was supported. The reasons which the Committee found sufficient I cannot even conceive. Schumann's work, admirable in its fitness for performance under certain conditions, is not at all adapted for a great Festival. Originally written with a pianoforte accompaniment, it is a Cantata for the salon, or small choral society, and to bring to bear upon it the enormous resources at Leeds was sheer waste. As may be supposed, the simple music quickly lapsed into monotony and people were glad rather than sorry when it ended.

Fate was not called upon to intervene in the matter of the chorus, because the managers acted wisely. In this case they listened to advice, and by the adoption of a very obvious procedure got rid of a fertile source of trouble and secured a first-rate body of singers. Their action involved a reversal of past policy, which had sought to obtain a Leeds chorus instead of one drawn from the West Riding generally. But the Committee let not pride stand in the way of recognising failure. Simple indeed was the new machinery they adopted. No more for the Committee the task of selecting voices and encountering the anger of rejected candidates. They had but to wire a chosen chorus-master in Leeds, Bradford, Huddersfield, Halifax, and Dewsbury, "Select and train so many voices," and the thing was done, without fuss or heartburning, by a process as easy as the touch upon an electric button with which Von Moltke could set the German armies in motion. The result of the new system proved to be all that even hypercriticism desired. Never has a Festival had a more superb chorus. The sopranos were a wonder, and the tenors, for the first time since the Leeds meetings began, displayed the proper quality of voice.

The solo vocalists engaged were Mesdames Albani, Macintyre, Anna Williams, Hilda Wilson, and Marian McKenzie; Messrs. Lloyd, Piercy, Ben Davies, Norman Salmond, Andrew Black, and Plunket Greene. Principal first violin, Mr. Carrodus; Organist, Mr. Benton; Conductor, Sir Arthur Sullivan. So much for the personnel, and no comments are called for. The orchestra included forty violins, fourteen violas, and as many violoncelli and basses, with double wind—in all, 110 instruments. These, together with the chorus, made up a total strength of 450 performers. It is pleasant to add that all came up to their work on the opening day quite fresh and fit, and not, as in 1889, tired out. Sensible, though costly, new arrangements for rehearsal gave the executants a fair chance of doing themselves justice, and again was Wisdom justified of her children.

"Elijah," restored to its old place at the head of the programme, after having been omitted from one Festival and put at the fag-end of another, enjoyed a splendid triumph. The public were right glad to see their favourite Oratorio back at the post of honour. They made a run upon the tickets, soon securing all seats, and in some cases parting with them at a profit of cent. for cent. Hundreds more might have been sold. The Committee have, no doubt, learned the lesson of this eagerness, and will not again assume that the love of English amateurs for popular works has abated. A better performance has rarely, if ever, been given. The solos were in the safe hands of the principal artists named above, Mr. Norman Salmond essaying the part of Elijah with very promising results; but the honours of the occasion fell to the chorus, who acquitted themselves in faultless style. Here it should be remarked that Sir Arthur Sullivan rehearsed the Oratorio, holding an opinion that it is one worth taking pains with. He was right, and he had his reward in the unmingled satisfaction of an audience comprising not a few excellent judges.

The Concert on Wednesday evening, when Schumann's "Pilgrimage of the Rose" formed the bulk of the programme, was somewhat dull, for reasons already stated. Miss Macintyre, Miss McKenzie, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Plunket Greene did all they could for the solos, and the chorus rose easily to the level of the work; but the music was too small for the occasion and nobody's heart seemed in it. Beethoven's Symphony in F (No. 8) diffused a different and more cheery atmosphere at the beginning of the second part. It was finely played, after having been carefully rehearsed. The choir, later on, did justice to Walmisley's elegant Madrigal, "Sweete Floweres," and the Concert ended vigorously with Berlioz's Overture "Le Carnaval Romain."

At the head of the scheme for Thursday morning stood Mozart's "Requiem," in which the solos were taken by Misses Williams and Wilson, Messrs. Lloyd and Black. The singing by these artists of the two quartets, "Recordare" and "Benedictus," was unusually good; and the accompaniments, under the watchful guidance of Sir Arthur Sullivan, well supported the efforts of the vocalists. But the solo singers at this Festival were in a secondary position, through no fault of their own. Do what they would, the talk was still of the magnificent ensemble of chorus and orchestra—the ensemble which thrilled the audience in such numbers as "Dies iræ," "Rex tremendæ," and "Confutatis maledictis." The performance of the "Requiem" made a great impression. It was one of the most successful of the week and reflected honour upon all concerned. Mr. Cliffe's new Symphony headed the second part, and was given under the composer's personal direction. By the time this notice appears in print, the Symphony will have been performed at the Crystal Palace in a revised form. It will be better, therefore, to reserve a full criticism till that rendering can be discussed; but I may say at once that both the first Allegro and the Scherzo remain untouched, while the changes made in the slow movement and Finale comprise only an abbreviation of the "Serenade" in the first and are modelling of the Finale in the second. The Symphony will bear shortening. It is a long work, for the composer has much to say—more, perhaps, than the small stock of patience possessed by a modern audience will complacently endure. While withholding detailed criticism, it is a duty at once to acknowledge the generally happy manner in which Mr. Cliffe has illustrated his programme—"Sunset," "Night," "Fairies' Revel," "Morning." These are suggestive themes as a poetic basis, and Mr. Cliffe has worked upon them in the fullest and most conscientious manner—if anything, with more elaboration than necessary to the end in view. A composer, however, must be allowed to write as he feels and perceives, and, in the present case, we undoubtedly get some fine tone-pictures showing remarkable talent and being worthy of uncommon praise. The music is by no means easy, but, under the composer's bâton, all went well till near the end of the last movement, when there was a moment or two of danger. That the Symphony made a distinctly favourable impression upon its first audience appeared in cordial applause and recalls of the composer. Between the Symphony and Mendelssohn's Psalm, "When Israel out of Egypt came," Mr. Lloyd sang Sullivan's "Come, Margarita, come," very charmingly. Of course, the choir had a chance in the Psalm which they were not likely to miss. Never have Mendelssohn's broad unison phrases and massive harmonies been given with grander effect. The Yorkshire singers simply revelled in music so suited to their style and taste, and with it made an impression of grandeur—I might even say sublimity—which will remain in the memory of all present.

Much of the Concert given on Thursday evening was taken up by a long selection from Wagner's "Mastersingers," including the Overture, part of the first act, and a great deal of the third act. The policy of giving operatic fragments on these occasions is open to question. One can, of course, understand the existence of a desire to hear Wagner's music, and there is no reason for denying it gratification. But this should be done, as at the Richter Concerts, by performing orchestral excerpts and arrangements sanctioned by the composer. Nothing could be less satisfactory than the "Mastersinger" scenes as given on a Concert platform without the essentials of scenery, costume, and action. It was mangled Wagner with a vengeance. Nevertheless, praise is due to the artists who took part, and to Sir Arthur Sullivan, who laboured very zealously to make the selection a success. In the second part of the same Concert Dr. Mackenzie conducted a capital performance of his "La Belle Dame sans Merci"—a work which seems to reveal new beauties at every fresh hearing. Dr. Mackenzie, whose "Story of Sayid" is not forgotten in Leeds, had a cordial reception, and was much applauded at the close of his task. After two or three vocal pieces, solo and concerted, which I need not even mention, the Concert ended with the Overture to "Oberon."

The following morning was devoted entirely to Bach's Mass in B minor, performed on this occasion as a consequence of the remarkable success made with it in 1886, and a lively public recollection of the same. Sir Arthur Sullivan, whose zeal for this fine example of the Leipzig master cannot be over-praised, presented the Mass under precisely the same conditions as before—that is to say, such conditions as the composer ordained. Again we had the old German trumpets and the oboi d'amore for which Bach wrote; but the great Sebastian never dreamed of such a performance as was again given in Leeds. The solo vocalists, Miss Williams, Miss Wilson, Mr. Piercy, and Mr. Salmond did their very best with a task made the more ungrateful by knowledge that the audience were chiefly interested in the choruses. No labour was ever entered upon and carried out with greater conscientiousness than that which the excellent singers just-named brought to their work. But the concerted numbers were "the thing," and these made even greater effect than in 1886, the reason lying in a better chorus. It was a supreme pleasure to hear Bach's difficult music rendered with absolute precision, and given with a fulness and majesty which seemed to reveal loftier heights than had before been imagined. The entire performance was a feather in the cap of the Festival, which might proudly be worn before the world.

Friday evening's Concert opened with the second and last novelty of the week—Mr. Alan Gray's setting of Shelley's "Arethusa." I must confess—though, perhaps, I should feel shame in doing so—that I had never heard of Mr. Gray till his name appeared in connection with this work. The more satisfaction was there in finding that the music of "Arethusa" is that of an accomplished musician, who has ideas and as much of the faculty of apt and forcible expression as can reasonably be looked for from inexperience. The new Cantata is not likely to be withheld from metropolitan amateurs, and therefore I shall not prolong an already extended notice by entering into details which can better be discussed later on. Let it be stated, however, that Mr. Gray has dealt skilfully with the difficulties incidental to a narrative poem, and, generally speaking, made the most of its opportunities. With regard to the character of the music, it is only needful to say that Mr. Gray obviously admires Brahms and has adopted much of his manner. There is no objection to this so long as the imitation is not carried too far. The performance, with Mr. Andrew Black as an efficient soloist, was conducted by the composer, and passed off with marked success. Other notable features in this Concert were Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, a liberal selection from Sullivan's "Tempest" music, Brahms's "Song of Destiny," and Mr. E. German's Overture to "Richard III." The variety appeared to sustain the interest of the audience, who, moreover, may have found the contrast between Sullivan's elegant and fanciful music and the sombre intensity of Brahms a very striking feature. Much impression was made by the Schubert Symphony, which was finely played, nor had Mr. German reason to complain of the effective interpretation his Overture received. Altogether, this Concert was very interesting and successful.

The last morning performance had as its distinguishing feature Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride," which, it is pleasant to state, the Committee adopted although the work is a creation of the rival Festival at Birmingham. Now let Birmingham carry on the amicable relationship set up. With Miss Macintyre, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black as soloists the Bohemian master's picturesque and striking work had every justice done to it, and was received with marked approval, although opinions differed as to the suitability for musical treatment of so peculiar a subject. The music, at any rate, conquered, as it needs must wherever heard. The performance was admirably conducted by Sir Joseph Barnby, whose aid in superintending a number of the choral rehearsals, at the request of Sir Arthur Sullivan during his illness, was thus publicly recognised. In the second part of the programme came a Suite de Ballet by the late Goring Thomas—three pretty and graceful movements, well worked out. Miss McKenzie sang a rather ineffective air from the "Samson et Dalila" of Saint-Saëns, and the proceedings closed with Dr. H. Parry's "De Profundis," followed by the "Hallelujah" from the "Mount of Olives." Dr. Parry's piece, conducted by himself, put the Yorkshire singers on their mettle; but they were fully equal to its requirements, and it may be that the noble music never had so entirely adequate a rendering.

The Festival closed on Saturday evening with a popular programme, made up of selections from the airs and choruses of Handel and the whole of the "Hymn of Praise." Here I might lay down my pen for any necessity there is to use it in describing how principals, chorus, and orchestra dealt with themes so familiar. The Handel selections comprised many pieces usually chosen for the second day of the Handel Festivals, and all of them rank among the old master's greatest achievements. Miss Anna Williams, Miss Wilson, Mr. Lloyd, Mr. Piercy, and Mr. Norman Salmond answered for the airs, and Madame Albani took part in the "Hymn of Praise." It may be imagined that the Festival, under these circumstances, ended triumphantly, and that the congratulations, when all was over, were hearty and prolonged. Amateurs all over the Kingdom join in felicitating the Committee, and especially Mr. Alderman Spark, the indefatigable and courteous hon. secretary, upon the splendid result of their labours.

COVENT GARDEN OPERA.

Whether Sir Augustus Harris resolved upon an autumn season because Mr. Lago had done the same, or whether example had nothing to do with the matter, are questions of no public concern. Enough that Covent Garden Theatre was opened for lyric drama on the 10th ult., when "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Orfeo" filled the bill and attracted an audience crowded in every part. Gluck's opera had the advantage of the cast which on previous occasions gave so much satisfaction; that is to say, the parts of Orfeo and Euridice were taken by the sisters Ravogli, and that of Love by Mdlle. Bauermeister. Again the wonderfully finished and powerful embodiment of the Greek hero commanded admiration, and gave to Miss Giulia Ravogli the honours of the evening. Miss del Torre appeared in Mascagni's work, taking the part which, last season, the genius of Madame Calvé made so pathetic. We draw no comparisons between the two artists. Miss del Torre did fairly well, and should be praised rather than blamed for giving proof that she had sympathetically studied Madame Calvé's creation. Turiddu was represented by Mr. Cremonini, a young tenor with a small but effective voice, which he uses well. This gentleman's years are so few that a fuller development of his physical powers may be anticipated. In that case he will be a satisfactory artist. Lola was played by Miss Guercia.

"Il Trovatore," introduced on the following evening and received by a large audience, need not long detain us. This opera had not been performed for some time, and, thanks to a good performance, its melodies were heard again with unconcealed pleasure, while the "Miserere" scene made an unwonted impression. In short, the effect of the music neutralised all that is repugnant in the melo-dramatic story, as it has often done before. Leonora was played by a new-comer, Miss Rosita Sala, who is quite young, and, judging from her manner and bearing on the stage, has not had much experience. She cannot be said to have made a success, but her possession of a good voice and some skill in using it encourages hope that, in course of time, she will do better. Miss Tremelli was again a picturesque and forcible Azucena; Mr. Giannini, no stranger to the London boards, made a vigorous Manrico, and Mr. de Anna a good singing Conte di Luna, whose rendering of "Il Balen" had to be repeated. Both chorus and orchestra were efficient, as on the opening night.

From the "Trovatore" to "Lohengrin" was a long step, but the public were as ready for the one opera as the other, and Wagner's romantic masterpiece had a multitudinous hearing. The representation was not good in all respects. Madame Melba repeated her Elsa, with some improvements in the direction of greater dramatic effect. Nevertheless, she did not satisfy us, because we were left in some doubt whether she quite felt the character. She seemed self-conscious to a fault, and this interfered with the spontaneity of her action. Her singing, on the other hand, was excellent throughout, and commanded great applause. Miss Guercia was a conventional but not ineffective Ortruda, and Mr. Cremonini presented a very youthful Lohengrin, wanting in power, but having an interest of its own. He sang tastefully and pleasantly where special exertion had not to be made. The Telramond of Mr. Dufriche and the Henry the Fowler of Mr. Castlemary call for no remark. A serious drawback to the efficiency of the representation was due to the chorus; false intonation being sometimes of a very grave character indeed.

"Faust" was performed on the 15th ult., with Madame Melba as a familiar Marguerite, and with Mr. Giannini in the title-part. We need not dwell upon what was done by these artists and their associates, but the fact must be recorded that on this occasion the manager put on his stage, for the second time, the Walpurgis Night scene prepared by Gounod for the Grand Opéra in 1869. The spectacle was effective, and the music, as all know, is charming; but "Faust" is better in its old form. The ballet is an undesirable excrescence.

"Carmen" had the stage on the 22nd ult., the Spanish gipsy being represented by Miss de Lussan, whose embodiment of the part is familiar, and was again in its way successful. The honours of the evening were, however, gained by Mr. Durward Lely. This artist has greatly strengthened his Don José, and he acted and sang with freedom and power which repeatedly evoked loud applause. Miss Sofia Ravogli made but little effect as Micaëla, but the representation generally was approved by the house. We can only mention a performance of "Rigoletto" on the 24th ult., with Madame Melba as Gilda and Mr. Dufriche as the unhappy Jester, and of "Il Barbiere" on the 25th ult., with Miss Nevada as Rosina and Mr. Padilla as Figaro. All the performances noted above were conducted by Mr. Bevignani with his well-known care and skill.

SIGNOR LAGO'S OPERA SEASON.

The production of Tchaikowsky's opera "Eugene Onegin," on the opening night, the 17th ult., was a feature of interest. The Russian composer enjoys considerable fame in his own country, but here he is principally known by his songs and short but graceful pianoforte pieces. An analysis of the opera having already appeared in these columns, it will be only necessary to add a few words about the work and its performance. Skilful orchestration adds much to the effect of the music, especially in the best portions of the opera, such as the letter scene in the first act, the duel scene in the second, and the farewell at the close of the last act. But not only in his colouring, but also in his writing generally, the composer shows so much savoir faire that he manages to sustain the interest of his audience through an opera which contains some pages which are uninteresting, and some which are even commonplace. Of the concerted music, the characteristic opening duet and quartet, and the quaint chorus of reapers deserve special mention. Miss Fanny Moody (Tatiana) was earnest in her acting and sang artistically. Miss Lily Moody as Olga, Mdlle. Selma (Larina), and Madame Sviatlowsky (The Nurse) are entitled to a good word. Mr. Iver McKay, as the young poet Lensky, was scarcely heard to as much advantage as usual; but as he was suffering from a severe sore throat and has since been unable to appear, his efforts should hardly be criticised. Mr. Oudin, as Onegin, won a well-deserved success, both as actor and singer; he looked the part to perfection. Mr. Charles Manners (Prince Gremin) and Mr. G. Appleton (Monsieur Triquet) added to the success of the evening. The orchestra was under the direction of Mr. Henry J. Wood, and the playing at times was not all that could be desired.

The production of "La Favorita" on the following evening (18th ult.) served to introduce three new artists—Signorina Domenici (Leonora), Signor Bernardo Zerni (Fernando), and Signor Mario Ancona (King). The two first-named, though not at present artists of the first rank, were acceptable both vocally and histrionically; Signor Ancona is a baritone with an excellent voice perfectly under control, and a general distinction of style, both as singer and actor, that received prompt and hearty recognition. This gentleman is welcome. The Baldassare on this occasion was Signor Luigi Rossato. He sang fairly well, but evidently thought the name should have been spelt Bawl-dassare. The occupants of front seats thought that he carried his notions of realism too far. Signor Arditi kept the orchestra together with a master-hand throughout the evening.

"Lohengrin," on Saturday, the 22nd ult., was brought forward chiefly, we presume, on account of Madame Albani, whose impersonation of Elsa has lost nothing of its force and dramatic intensity. The Lohengrin was Signor Zerni, who did his best to fill a part too big for him; Signora Elandi was the Ortrud, and Signor Ancona again sang and acted finely as Frederick. Signor Arditi conducted.

On Tuesday evening, the 25th ult., two works were given differing totally in character. The first was "Der Schauspieldirektor." An occasional piece bearing that title was written by Mozart for some Court festivities at Vienna in 1786; the plot was an amusing one, describing the difficulties of a theatre manager engaging a company. After the composer's death both music and libretto were re-arranged, and in various ways. The version used at the Olympic was the one made by L. Schneider, in which Mozart himself appears on the stage. The piece, from the beginning, was merely a clever joke, and perhaps the tampering with the composer's text, though a crime, is not a very serious one. Miss Marra and Miss Elena Leila, who represented the rival prime donne, were good. Mr. Richard Temple was amusing as the manager, and sang his music very effectively. Mr. G. Tate was the Wolfgang. The second piece was Mr. Granville Bantock's "Cædmar," in one act. The libretto, by the composer, tells how a lady loves a knight, and how the latter slays her husband. The music at every step reminds one of Wagner, but it is cleverly written, and one day, when Mr. Bantock has escaped from the influence of the Bayreuth master, he will probably distinguish himself. The performance, under his direction, was rather rough. Madame Duma as the wife acted well, Mr. Isidore Marcel was the husband, and Mr. C. Harding the knight.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

The thirty-seventh annual series of the Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts opened on the 15th ult., with a programme excellently devised to suit all classes of amateurs. There are a few new names in the band—Mr. Fransella efficiently supplying the gap created by the lamented death of Mr. Wells, the principal flautist, and Mr. Busby, a most valuable recruit, being agreeably in evidence amongst the horns—but its composition is practically the same as in former years. The great blot on this admirable orchestra is the encouragement given by Mr. Manns to the substitution of the cornet for the valve trumpet. The latter is now rarely heard at Sydenham, and the result is a distinct deterioration in the nobility of the instrumental ensemble, while in solo passages the difference is naturally even more strongly marked. A slight alteration had been made in the programme as originally announced, Sir Arthur Sullivan's "In Memoriam" Overture being substituted for a work of Bach as being a more fitting expression of the national feeling on the death and burial of Lord Tennyson. The Overture, which was exceedingly well played, was followed by a performance of Beethoven's Pianoforte Concerto (No. 3) in C minor, with M. de Pachmann as soloist, this being his first appearance at the Crystal Palace since 1886. M. de Pachmann, who played from notes, rendered the opening movement in a robuster, or, perhaps we should say, a more energetic style than we have hitherto been accustomed to from him. But the impression conveyed was rather of a conscious straining after enhanced sonority than of the legitimate exercise of the player's energies. The Cadenza introduced at the close of the movement was that by Liszt, and was played with extraordinary fluency. But M. de Pachmann spoilt everything by what followed. The opening movement of the Concerto is in C minor. The Largo is in E major, and the sequence of keys apparently jarred on the nerves of the susceptible virtuoso, for he must needs preface the slow movement with a modulatory improvisation of his own, an act of inartistic impertinence for which he deserved to be hissed. What was good enough for Beethoven should be good enough for M. de Pachmann. We don't want the sweetness of violets enhanced by libations of Ess. bouquet. For the rest, M. de Pachmann played the Largo with an entire lack of simplicity and an extravagant use of the tempo rubato. The crispness and daintiness of his touch were displayed to great advantage in the concluding Rondo. But, as a whole, the performance was artificial, affected, and irreverent. Later on he played two pieces by Chopin—the Nocturne (Op. 37, No. 1) and the Rondo (Op. 16)—with all his wonted delicacy of execution and exasperating extravagance of gesture and facial expression. Mr. C. A. Lidgey, whose Ballad for Orchestra constituted the novelty of the programme, has sought his inspiration in Doré's picture "A Day Dream," in which a young monk, seated at the organ, is haunted by the vision of a beautiful girl whom he has loved and lost. He has a "motto" theme—the Gregorian penitential "Tonus Peregrinus"—a "Love" theme, and a "Monastery" theme; and with the aid of the full modern orchestra, reinforced by the harp and organ, he has elaborated a tone-picture marked by a good deal of emotional sentiment. In the long run the Monastery theme conquers, and Love retires, routed (as Love could not fail to be) by the blare of the cornets. Mr. Lidgey was cordially applauded at the close of his work. M. André Wormser's Symphonic Poem "Les Lupercales" proved to be a strange and orgiastic amalgam of archæology and vulgarity. Where it is not bizarre the work is simply banal. The composer employs three kettle-drums, bass drum, tambourine, triangle, cymbals, and gong, and the result is, in places, a mere outlandish din. We may be thankful that he did not add parts for a siren. The programme was completed by Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, delightfully played by the band, and songs from Mr. Oudin, who was especially successful in Grieg's "Ein Schwan."

The 22nd ult. was the eighty-first anniversary of Liszt's birthday, and the second part of the programme was accordingly devoted to a representative selection of his works. Of these the most important was the second of the Symphonic Poems, "Tasso: Lamento e Trionfo," of which a spirited rendering was given by the band. Excellent performances were also given of the "Angelus," for string orchestra, and the brilliant Hungarian Rhapsody in F (No. 1). Earlier in the afternoon Herr Popper introduced his short Concerto for violoncello (No. 3, in G), a pleasing work brilliantly written for the solo instrument, and admirably interpreted by the composer. For his solos Herr Popper played three familiar pieces of his own, adding a fourth as an encore. Native music was represented by a new Concert-Overture in C minor, by Mr. Barclay Jones, a young member of the teaching staff at the Guildhall School of Music, who was born in 1869. Mr. Jones, in this work at least, is a thorough-going classicist, and his well-written and scholarly Overture bears tr aces of a faithful study of the best exemplars. His themes are not very striking, but he handles them with freedom and ingenuity, and his scoring is free from the prevalent vice of "thickness." The Overture was capitally played, under Mr. Manns, and met with a very friendly reception. The programme, which opened with Handel's genial "Semele" Overture, included an Aria from "Der Freischütz" and Liszt's "Lorelei," both sung in very pure style by Madame Clara Samuell.

THE POPULAR CONCERTS.

The thirty-fifth series of these performances opened in the usual quiet and unostentatious fashion on Monday, the 24th ult., and Mr. Arthur Chappell's faithful patrons mustered in fairly large numbers, despite the absence of Mr. Paderewski, whose co-operation would have given more than ordinary éclat to the commencement of the season. Under the circumstances, a programme of the ordinary type was provided, and, so far as could be judged, fully appreciated, the applause being lavish after every piece. Mr. Arbos, who was called upon to occupy the responsible position of leader, is no stranger to London, and as an extremely intelligent pupil of Mr. Joachim he was well qualified to take the first desk in a performance of Beethoven's Quartet in E flat (Op. 74), one of the master's most characteristic productions. Mr. Arbos was associated with Messrs. Ries, Straus, and Whitehouse, and a good ensemble was secured. The only other concerted piece in the scheme was Schumann's beautiful Pianoforte Trio in D minor (Op. 63), which was also finely interpreted. The pianist of the evening was Miss Szumowska, a pupil and compatriot of Mr. Paderewski, and already an established favourite with metropolitan amateurs. Her performance of Beethoven's Sonata in D (Op. 28), generally known as "Sonata Pastorale," was marked by extreme neatness and refinement, though there was no lack of expression. The charming young artist was thrice recalled, and eventually gave Chopin's Waltz in C sharp minor as an encore. Miss Liza Lehmann, who was warmly greeted after her prolonged absence, speedily proved that her vocal powers have undergone no deterioration. She gave an interesting serenade from Grétry's opera "L'Amant Jaloux" and Thomé's "Les Perles d'Or" in her best manner, the latter being vociferously encored.

MR. SARASATE'S CONCERT.

The crowd that besieged St. James's Hall on Saturday afternoon, the 8th ult., afforded practical testimony of the weariness of amateurs at the too lengthy musical interregnum, and perhaps at some date, not too far distant, concert-givers will awaken to the advisability of not suspending their work for so long a period. Meanwhile enthusiasts may be thankful for small mercies, for year by year autumnal activity has a tendency to set in earlier, to the relief of the dull weeks which were so long allowed to supervene after the close of the legitimate holiday season. There was nothing of an exciting nature in the pianoforte and violin performance of Mr. Sarasate and Madame Berthe Marx on the above-named date. The exquisitely polished if not very powerful rendering of Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata and Schubert's Rondeau Brillant in B minor (Op. 70) by these artists has been so frequently described as to render further comment unnecessary. Mr. Sarasate's solos included Raff's brilliant "Fée d'Amour" and pieces by Wieniawski and Bazzini. It is needless to say that he was repeatedly encored, and a similar compliment was paid to Madame Marx after her refined and, perhaps, somewhat too quiet performance of Schubert's by no means brief Fantasia in C (Op. 15), sometimes known as "The Wanderer," the pianist responding with Rubinstein's Staccato Study.

MR. SLIVINSKI'S PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

If reports may be trusted, Pianoforte Recitals will be given in even increased numbers during the season now commencing, but at present only one performance of this nature has to be chronicled—namely, that given by a Polish executant who attracted some attention last season owing to his unquestionable abilities, and in some measure to his superabundant energies. The latter were happily repressed on the occasion now under notice, and if any fault could be found with Mr. Slivinski's playing, it certainly could not be said against him that he indulged in exaggerations or eccentricities of any kind. He was heard to very great advantage in three of Chopin's smaller pieces, playing the Nocturne in D flat instead of that in A flat which was set down for him. Some other pieces by Hummel, Liszt, and Schubert were also beautifully rendered, especially the last-named composer's Impromptu in C minor. In Schumann's Fantasiestücke (Op. 12) Mr. Slivinski was not quite so happy, though he deserves thanks for presenting the audience with the entire series of these piquant trifles. A set of cleverly written Variations in A minor by his compatriot, Mr. Paderewski, was included in the programme.

LYRIC THEATRE.

The production of light comic operas has formed a notable feature in the world of amusement this autumn, perhaps the most striking, regarded as a spectacle as well as a musical entertainment, being "Incognita" at the above-named theatre, on the 6th ult. This is founded on Lecocq's "Le Cœur et la Main," but inasmuch as the original contained matter objectionable to English audiences, the adaptor, Mr. F. C. Burnand, has thought it advisable to introduce fresh matter, particularly in the third act, which, indeed, is practically new. Similarly, while part of Lecocq's score has been sacrificed, original music has been added by Mr. Herbert Bunning and "Yvolde." Whether changes of this sort are artistically justifiable is a large question which we do not at present propose to discuss. Enough that in its English shape the comic opera is very bright, musically, while the mounting is perhaps more gorgeous than any similar production even in these days of sumptuous stage arrangements. A minute analysis of the music is of course not desirable, but among the best written and most attractive portions are a drinking song and a round with chorus in the first act, a duet and bolero in the second act, all by the French composer; and Mr. Bunning's contributions to the third, including a very picturesque and musicianly Prelude. The most capable performers, musically speaking, are Miss Aïda Jenoure, Mr. Wallace Brownlow, and Mr. John Child; Miss Sedohr Rhodes is certainly attractive in appearance, but, vocally, she was disappointing on the opening night.

ROYALTY THEATRE.

There is much bright and graceful music in Mr. Cotsford Dick's three-act comic opera "The Baroness," with which the Royalty Theatre re-opened on the 5th ult. The composer relies chiefly upon tunefulness, and, possibly with a view of rendering his work suitable for performance in private circles, has adopted the simplest methods of treatment wherever practicable. That he might, with success, have taken a bolder flight, had he been so disposed, is sufficiently proved by a couple of duets, a trio, a quintet, and the Finale to the first act, the latter displaying ingenuity as well as appreciation of musical parody. The book, also provided by Mr. Dick, is not remarkable for originality of idea, but the humour of Mr. Lionel Brough and other comedians is turned to account in the course of the confusing incidents springing from the attempt of a lover to delude a couple of uncles respecting his fiancée. Miss Agnes Giglio, a young soprano who has obtained very favourable notice on the Concert platform, sings the music of the heroine with considerable taste and fluency, and further valuable vocal assistance is rendered by the Misses Jessie Moore, Olga Schuberth, Marian Asquith, and Mr. Charles Conyers.

BAUER-WALENN CONCERTS.

Miss Ethel Bauer, Mr. Harold Bauer, and Mr. Herbert Walenn, on the 22nd ult., gave the first of a series of three evening Concerts at the Hampstead Conservatoire to a large assemblage, and by enlisting the services of Miss Winifred Bauer were enabled to commence and to conclude their programme with works in which the viola had an important share. Being a pianist, Miss Ethel Bauer was absent from Beethoven's Trio in C minor (Op. 9) for strings, but took her place in Brahms's Quartet in C minor (Op. 60) for pianoforte, violin, viola, and violoncello. Both pieces were played with decision, point, and commendable regard for expression. Between came solos, instrumental and vocal, the latter being sustained by Miss Daisy Defries and Mr. Paul Mahlendorff. Chopin's Polonaise in F sharp minor, a composition quite within her means, was selected by Miss Ethel Bauer, who thoroughly deserved the compliments freely bestowed. The executive facility of Mr. Harold Bauer was evinced in Ernst's "Airs Hongroises," and Mr. Herbert Walenn manifested perfect command of his instrument, together with richness of tone, in Johnson's "Idylle" and Popper's "Papillons."

DR. PARRY'S "JUDITH" AT BRIGHTON.

Dr. Hubert Parry's Oratorio was performed at the Dome, by the Brighton Sacred Harmonic Society, on Thursday evening, the 13th ult., before a numerous audience, who, by their keen attention, testified admiring appreciation of the work. The performance was a noteworthy success, and soloists, chorus, and orchestra, with their Conductor, Mr. Robert Taylor, have reason for much congratulation. Miss Emily Davies interpreted the part of Judith in unexceptional style. Miss Mary Reeve proved herself a capable exponent of the part of Meshullemeth. Mr. Henry Beauchamp was heard to advantage as Manasseh, especially in the solo "God breaketh the battle," which was enthusiastically applauded. Mr. Peter Musson sang the part of the High Priest at the commencement of the Oratorio, and later on the words of the Messenger from Holofernes; whilst the parts of the Children were entrusted to Masters Percy Mock and Percy Taylor. All the choruses were well sung, the attack being admirable; indeed, as regards finish and accuracy, the performance, as a whole, was superior to any of the season. Amongst the most effective numbers were those in the third scene, when the sacrifice is about to take place; and in the last impassioned appeal to Moloch, the voices were again heard to excellent effect. The work of the orchestra, led by Mr. W. A. Baker, was throughout very creditable. The organ was in the hands of Mr. P. J. Starnes, Organist to the Society, and Mr. Robert Taylor, as usual, proved himself an excellent Conductor.

OBITUARY.

On September 29, at Sanna, Sweden, after four weeks' illness, there passed away a singularly amiable and gifted man, Mr. Julius Cyriax, for a long time Secretary of the London Branch of the Wagner Society, and an intimate friend of the Bayreuth master's family. Mr. Cyriax was only 52, and the news of his death came as a great shock to those—they were very many—who knew and loved him. Though an excellent musician, Mr. Cyriax practised the art only en amateur.

The death was announced on September 29, at Paris, of Hector Crémieux, author of numerous operatic libretti, notably of "Orphée aux enfers" and of "Le Petit Faust." He had also written several successful dramas. The deceased was in his sixty-fourth year.

We have to record with much regret the death on the 2nd ult., at Edgbaston, of Mr. S. V. Cornish, the Secretary of the Birmingham Festival Choral Society. Mr. Cornish had been connected with the Society for many years and was held in high estimation by its members.

Mr. E. W. Thomas, a pupil of Moira and Spagnoletti, at one time leader and chorus-master of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, and earlier the associate of Weber, Spohr, and Mendelssohn, died on the 4th ult., at Dinas Dinlle, North Wales. At one time the deceased stood, with the late Messrs. Isaac and Toms, at the head of his profession in Liverpool, but of late years his existence had become little less than a memory. Mr. Thomas was in his seventy-ninth year, and had been ailing for a considerable time.

We have also to record the following deaths, viz.:—

On September 20, at Weimar, Louis Jungmann, one of the earliest pupils of Liszt, composer and professor of the pianoforte at the Weimar Sophien-Stift, in his sixty-first year.

On September 21, at Zehlendorf, Madame Taubert, widow of the late Berlin conductor and well-known composer, and sister of the once famous singer, Nanette Schechner, aged seventy-six.

On September 23, at Varese, Francesco Sangalli, professor of the pianoforte and composer of merit.

On the 20th ult., at Vienna, Frau Josephine Richter, mother of Dr. Hans Richter, the eminent musical conductor; in her youth a successful teacher of singing; aged seventy.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Birmingham and Midland Musical Guild opened its winter session with a Conversazione at the Grand Hotel on the 1st ult. A Concert followed, the programme being devoted to the compositions of Dr. Hubert H. Parry. The President, Mr. S. S. Stratton, in an introductory address, gave a sketch of the life and writings of the composer, and Dr. C. S. Heap (pianoforte), Messrs. T. M. and T. R. Abbott and J. Owen (strings) afterwards gave fine performances of the Trio in E minor and Quartet in A flat, Mr. T. M. Abbott also playing the Partita in D minor for violin. Madame Oscar Pollack sang, in a tasteful manner, "The Lord is long suffering," from "Judith," and two beautiful little songs, "Willow, willow!" and "The Poet's Song"; Mr. William Evans was also very successful in two of the Anacreontic Odes. Mr. Henry Taylor accompanied, and the musical arrangements were admirably carried out by Mr. Oscar Pollack. There was a large assembly of members and friends.

The Handsworth Parish Church Dedication Festival was held on the 5th ult., when Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion" was given by an augmented choir, with orchestral accompaniment. Beethoven's Symphony in C (No. 1) was performed, this being probably the first proceeding of the kind in any church in Birmingham. The band was led by Mr. F. Ward; Mr. W. T. Jenkins, Organist of St. Michael's, Handsworth, presided at the organ; and Mr. George Halford conducted.

The Cardiff National Welsh Choir gave a Concert in the Town Hall on the 7th ult., but there was little of the national character in the programme, although the ladies wore the national costume.

Miss Marie Fromm and Mr. A. J. Priestley gave a Chamber Concert in the Masonic Hall on the 13th ult. The programme included the Sonata in E minor (Op 38), for pianoforte and violoncello, by Brahms, which was heard for the first time in Birmingham. The lady is an accomplished pianist, excelling rather in pieces requiring energy and fire than in those calling for delicate, sympathetic touch. Mr. Priestley is advancing in public estimation as a violoncellist.

The Musical Matinées of the Royal Society of Artists commenced on the 15th ult., when Mr. Oscar Pollack provided a popular programme. The vocalists were Miss F. H. Berry, Mr. S. Fenn, and Mr. Frank A. Wood. Mrs. Basnett (pianoforte) and Mrs. S. Fenn (violin) played, among other pieces, two movements from Mendelssohn's Sonata in F minor (Op. 4), which possibly had never been given in public here before. The same afternoon Mr. Frederic Dawson gave a Pianoforte Recital at the Clef Club, and in a series of pieces ranging from Bach to Liszt displayed extraordinary powers of execution.

At the Society's Matinée, on the 22nd ult., there was a complete orchestra—the Edgbaston Philharmonic Society, conducted by Mr. S. S. Stratton—and the experiment was tried of introducing an entire Symphony in the programme. Beethoven's No. 1 was chosen, and its production was altogether successful. Other orchestral pieces were an Entr'acte, by J. L. Hatton ("Faust et Marguerite"), and Bishop's "Guy Mannering" Overture. The vocalists were Mr. Evans and Miss Florence Howle, whose singing was highly appreciated.

The Popular Saturday Evening Concerts in the Town Hall are now becoming an important part of our musical life. On the 8th ult. the Choral Union, conducted by Mr. T. Facer, gave a very good performance of Handel's "Messiah," with Miss Mabel Grove, Miss F. Bladon, Mr. W. Molineaux, and Mr. W. Bennett as principals, Mr. Perkins being Organist. On the 15th ult. the Choral and Orchestral Association (Conductor, Mr. Geo. Halford) presented Haydn's "Creation," Parts I. and II., in a creditable manner, with full band and chorus; and, with even better results, Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion," the vocal principals being Madame Lizzie Mathews, Miss Nellie Pritchard, Mr. Horace Wilson, and Mr. William Bennett, the last a rising young bass singer. This Society is what remains of the Musical Association started under such brilliant auspices in 1879, and the Concert was the 192nd given since it was called into existence. There is abundant vitality left and plenty of scope for usefulness, although it now has more than one rival.

The Midland Musical Society, which occupied the Town Hall platform on the 22nd ult., can now command a chorus of close upon 400. Many members, however, are inexperienced, and the tone produced is by no means proportionate to the numbers engaged. Mr. Gaul, on this occasion, conducted a generally successful performance of his popular Cantata "The Holy City," the solos being taken by Miss Rose Long, Miss Florence Bourne, Mr. Lloyd James, and Mr. T. Horrex. There was an excellent orchestra, and Mr. Perkins presided at the organ. The attendance was such as to crowd the hall in every part. Mr. H. M. Stevenson, the founder and Conductor of the Society, is one of the most zealous amateurs in this city.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Only one Choral Concert has been given in Bristol during the month. It was the opening performance of the Bristol Musical Association, on the 1st ult. Part-songs and glees were crisply sung by the choir and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience. Songs by Madame Gomez and Mr. Montague Worlock, instrumental solos, and overtures performed by the band made up the programme.

The Recitals of sacred music in Bristol Cathedral have been resumed. The first one took place on the 20th ult., when there was a good congregation. The service paper contained the air "Jerusalem, thou that killest the Prophets," from "St. Paul," and the following selections from "Elijah": the airs, "It is enough" and "O rest in the Lord"; the recitatives, "See, now he sleepeth," "Arise, Elijah," and "O Lord, I have laboured in vain"; the beautiful trio, "Lift thine eyes"; and the choruses, "He watching over Israel" and "He that shall endure." Two excerpts were taken from Sullivan's "Golden Legend"—viz., the air "Slowly, slowly up the wall," and the exquisite unaccompanied evening hymn "O gladsome light"; Gounod's "There is a green hill" was the other vocal piece. The soloists were Miss Florence Cromey, Miss Clara Aldersley, and Mr. W. Thomas; Master Reed, a chorister of the Cathedral, assisted in the trio; and the choir consisted of over 100 members of the Orpheus Glee and Bristol Choral Societies. Principals and choir sang admirably, every piece being given with much taste and impressiveness. The congregation joined in singing several hymns. Mr. Riseley contributed an organ solo, an Andante of Spohr; and Mr. J. H. Fulford, Assistant-Organist, played Handel's "Samson" Overture as a concluding Voluntary. The Recitals will be given at intervals during the winter.

The marriage of Mr. W. Garnett and Miss Harvey, members of musical families, at the new Church of St. Mary, Leigh Woods, on the 19th ult., is worthy of note because of the new departure, musically, made at marriage ceremonies in Bristol and neighbourhood. The choristers, song-men, and organist and deputy-organist of Bristol Cathedral, and an orchestral band, conducted by Mr. Riseley, were in attendance. Prior to the arrival of the bride, the band played Handel's Largo and the Intermezzo from "Cavalleria Rusticana," and, as the bride entered the church, the bridal music from "Lohengrin." The service was that used at Westminster Abbey, ending with the Anthem "The Blessing of the Lord," in which occurs the phrase "We wish you good luck." As the bride and bridegroom left the church, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played. After such an admirable example of what a musical wedding may be, it is probable that many similar ones will take place hereafter in Clifton.

We have had a week of opera performances in Bristol by the Carl Rosa Company, and, on the whole, admirable results have been obtained. The new works, so far as our city is concerned, were Bizet's trivial "Djamileh," the charming "Rustic Chivalry" of Mascagni, "Aïda" and "The Prophet," with gorgeous spectacles, and "L'Amico Fritz."

New musical societies are still on the increase in Bristol and neighbourhood. A choral association has been established at Kingswood, and a male voice glee society has been formed at Frenchay.

Visits have been paid us by Madame Nordica, Madame Patti, and Señor Sarasate. Miss Wakefield lectured on "Scotch Melodies" on the 11th ult.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Paderewski's serious illness was a sore disappointment to his many admirers here. He should have opened our Concert season on the 10th ult., and although Messrs. Methven and Simpson, with most commendable spirit, secured the services of Mr. Slivinski as a substitute, the musical public refused to be comforted, and stayed away in large numbers from what proved a most interesting Concert. Mr. Slivinski came to us as a stranger, but the applause which greeted his rendering of Paderewski's Variations grew more enthusiastic as the evening went on, and a well-deserved ovation of approval was bestowed on his very poetical reading of Schumann's "In der Nacht" and his brilliant execution in a Tarantella by Liszt. A Rondo by Hummel—interpreted, certainly, in a modern sense—was a delightful surprise, and "Auf dem Wasser zu singen" (Schubert-Liszt) won the pianist an encore. Mr. Slivinski was not so happy in his selection from Chopin's works. The other numbers were a Fugue by Handel, Schubert's C minor Impromptu ("Himmlische Länge!") and the entire set of Schumann's Fantasiestücke.

Professor Niecks opened the first session of his Music Classes at the University, on the 20th ult. There was a good attendance of students and others. As already intimated, there are three sets of Lectures in the curriculum—on History, on Harmony, and on Form—in all, eighty Lectures.

In the St. Andrew's University centre, Mr. Franklin Peterson, University Extension Lecturer, began courses of Lectures last month on Musical History and Form, in the United College, St. Andrew's, and at Perth.

The fifth session of the Edinburgh Society of Musicians was inaugurated on the 15th ult., when the President, Mr. Walter Hately, delivered a Lecture on "Music in Old Edinburgh." Limelight views and musical illustrations added interest to an interesting subject.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Theatrical rather than musical matters have absorbed attention here during last month. Messrs. Tree, Alexander, Hare, and several other well-known actors have fulfilled

Four Christmas Carols

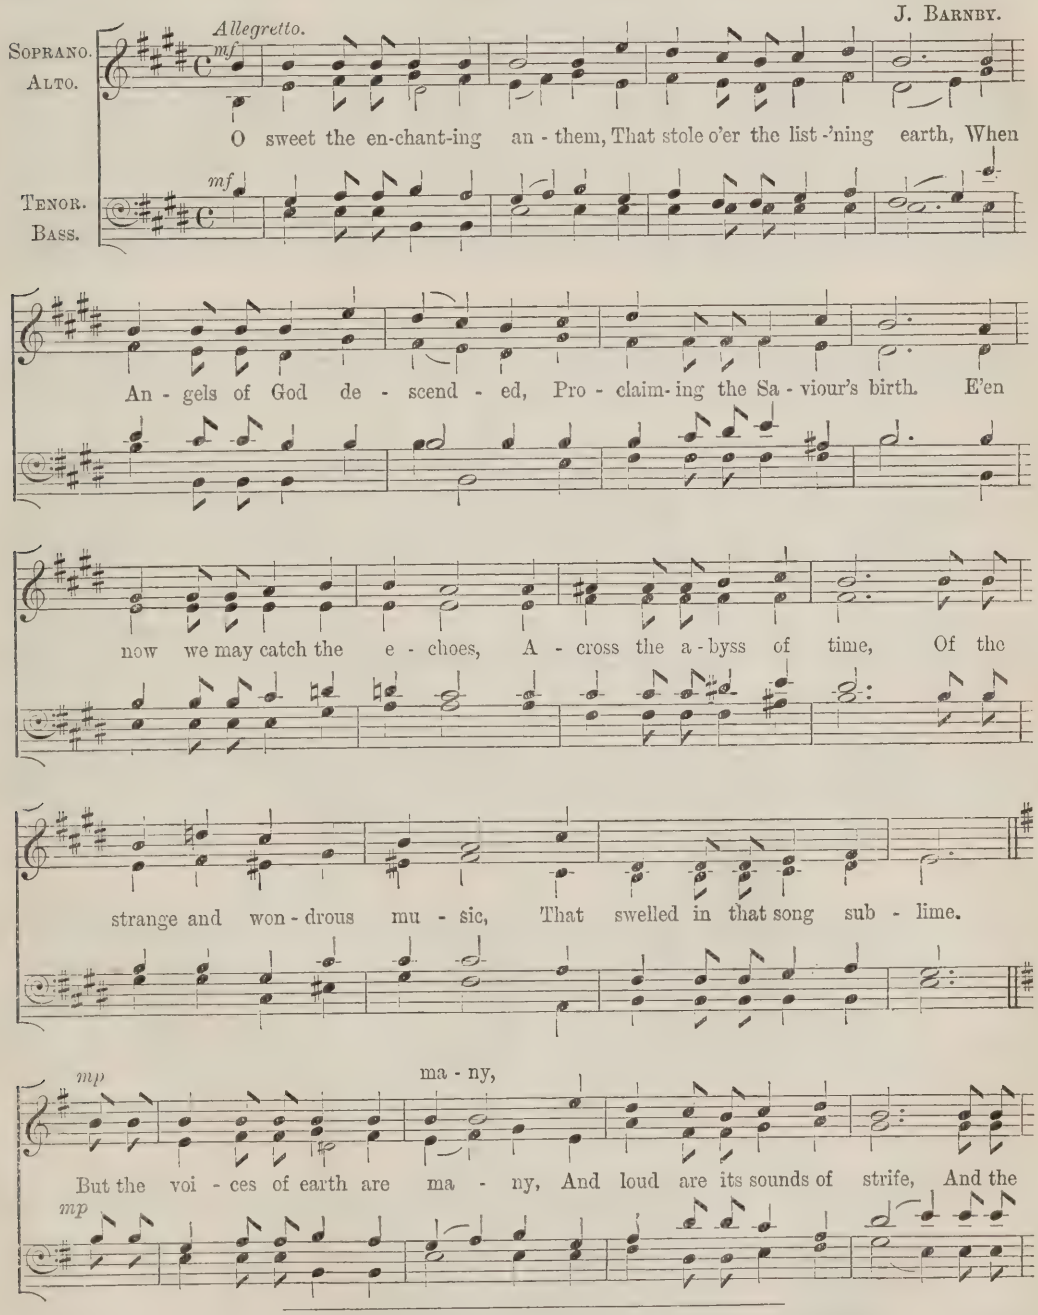
COMPOSED AND ARRANGED BY

J. BARNBY
A. C. MACKENZIE
G. C. MARTIN
J. STAINER.

London: NOVELLO EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

No. 1. The Anthem of Peace.*

J. BARNBY.



Allegretto.
Soprano.
Alto.
Tenor.
Bass.
mf
O sweet the en-chant-ing an - them, That stole o'er the list-'ning earth, When An - gels of God de - scend - ed, Pro - claim-ing the Sa - viour's birth. E'en now we may catch the e - choes, A - cross the a - byss of time, Of the strange and won - drous mu - sic, That swelled in that song sub - lime.
mp
ma - ny,
But the voi - ces of earth are ma - ny, And loud are its sounds of strife, And the

* From "Twelve New Carols for Christmastide." Paper cover, price One Shilling.

Copyright, 1892, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

song of the deathless An - gels, Grows faint in the rush of life. Yet oft in the lull of tu - mult, We hear the far mu - sic roll, And soft - ly the song of the An - gels, Is dim.
Is borne . .
pp borne to the list-'ning soul, Is borne to the list-'ning soul. O beauti - ful an - gel -
pp
cres.
f
- an -them, Earth waits thy full tones a - gain, . . Till loud o'er the Ba - bel of na - tions, Is
f
dim. e rall.
p heard thy ma-jes - tic strain, And the ma-ny dis-cord-ant voi - ces, Grow faint, and faint-er, and
p f rall.
f
cease, In the heav'n of thy blest en - chant - ment, Sweet An - them of joy and peace.
f
pp
f
pp

No. 2. On Christmas Morn.

Words by G. Weatherby.
(From The Quiver, by permission.)

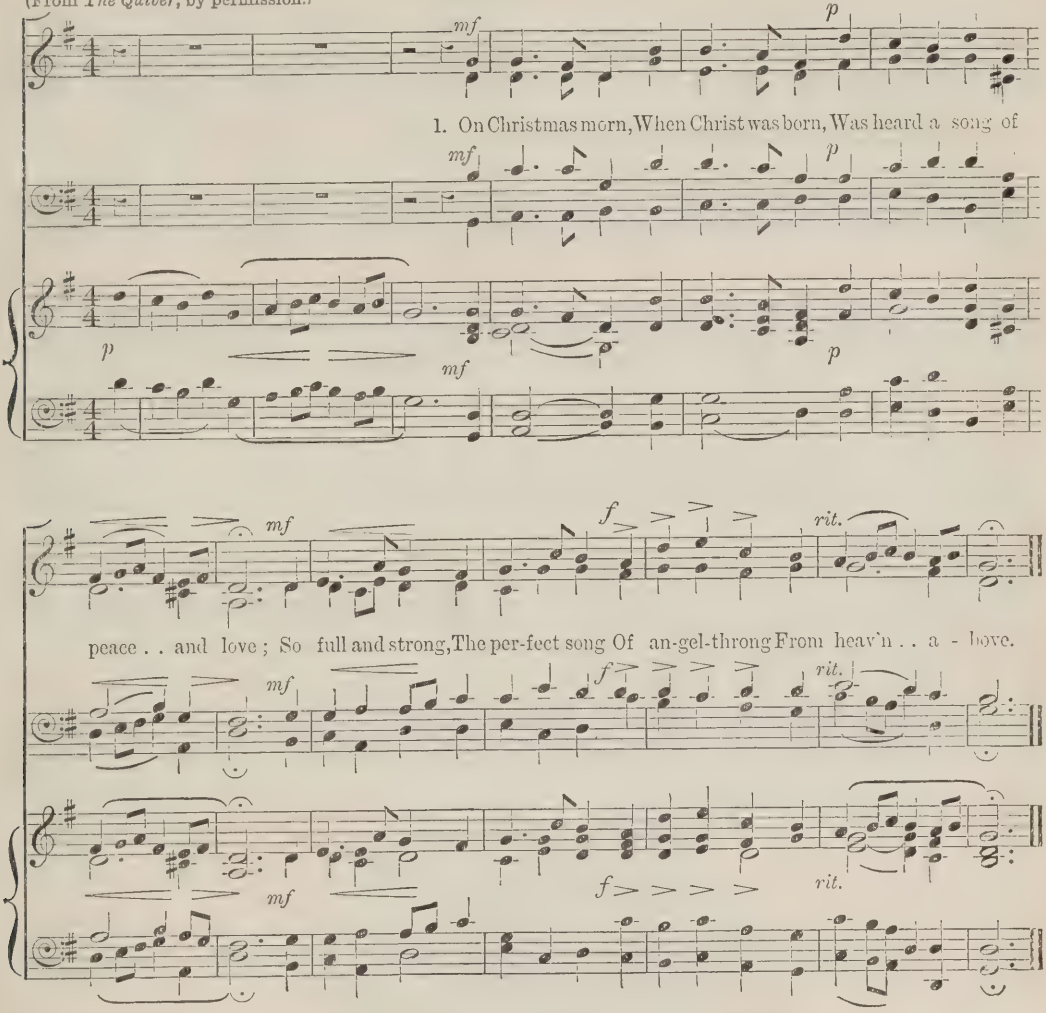
A. C. Mackenzie, Mus. Doc.



mf
p
1. On Christmas morn, When Christ was born, Was heard a song of peace . . and love; So full and strong, The per-fect song Of an-gel-throng From heav'n . . a - bove.
f rit.

2.

That song, we know
Sung years ago,
Was sweetest carol ever heard;
And through the year
We all may hear
An echo clear
Of every word.

3.

And now to-day
It seems to say,
To each of us, "Let discord cease,
Put by your fears,
Your griefs and tears,
While in your ears
I tell of peace!"

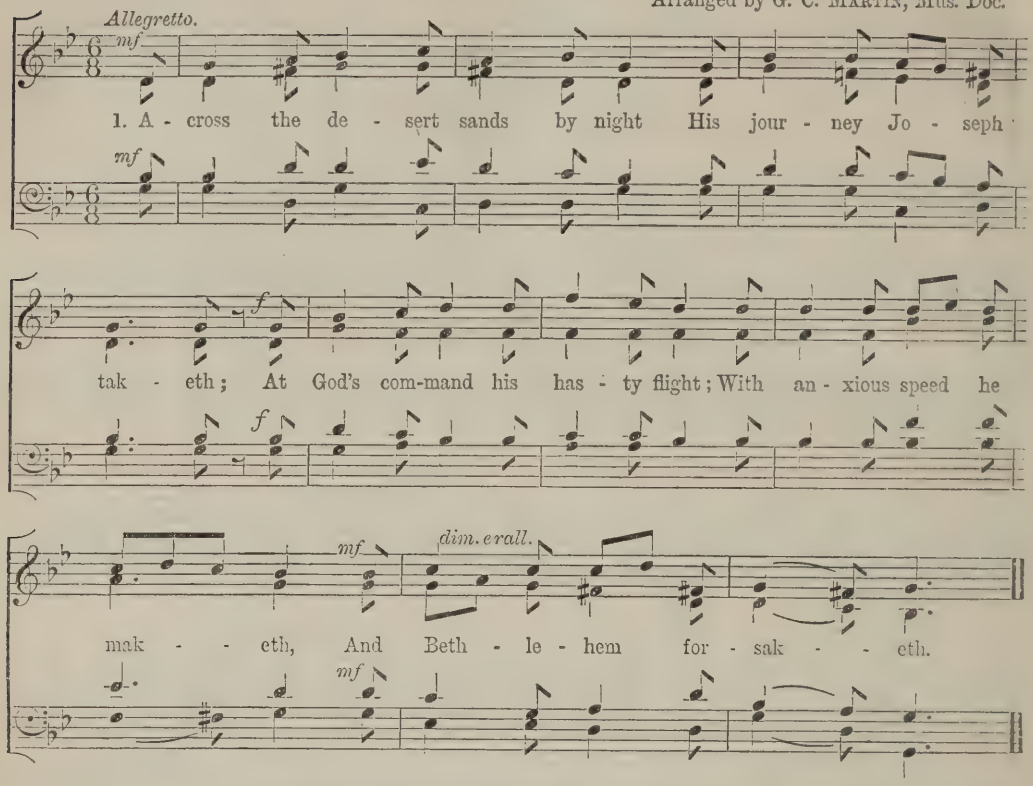
4.

And on this morn,
When Christ was born,
Let all to Him an offering make
A victory won,
A good deed done,
Some work begun,
For His dear sake.

No. 3. Across the desert sands by night.*

HOLY INNOCENTS' DAY.

Arranged by G. C. Martin, Mus. Doc.



Allegretto.
mf
1. A - cross the de - sert sands by night His jour - ney Jo - seph
mf tak - eth; At God's com-mand his has - ty flight; With an - xious speed he
f
f
mf
dim. e rall.
mak - - eth, And Beth - le - hem for - sak - - eth.
mf

2 For Herod seeks the child to slay,
And grudgeth e'en a manger,
Thus early Christ is driven away,
A King, and yet a stranger;
A Babe, and yet in danger.

3 At Herod's court the noise is heard
Of soldiers swiftly arming:
Have heralds come to bring him word
Of night-attack alarming?
Of foes his country harming?

4 He hears that Christ the King is born;
With craven fear he quaketh:
His armament God puts to scorn,
Nor heeds the care he taketh,
Nor heeds the speed he maketh.

5 But nought can harm that holy Child,
For angels watch are keeping;
And nought can harm that mother mild,
Who sadly goes and weeping,
And folds her infant sleeping.

6 He slays the babes of Bethlehem,
Her children, Rachel weepeth;
But God great honour gives to them—
Their souls He safely keepeth,
Who slumbereth not nor sleepeth.

Rev. Bernard Reynolds.

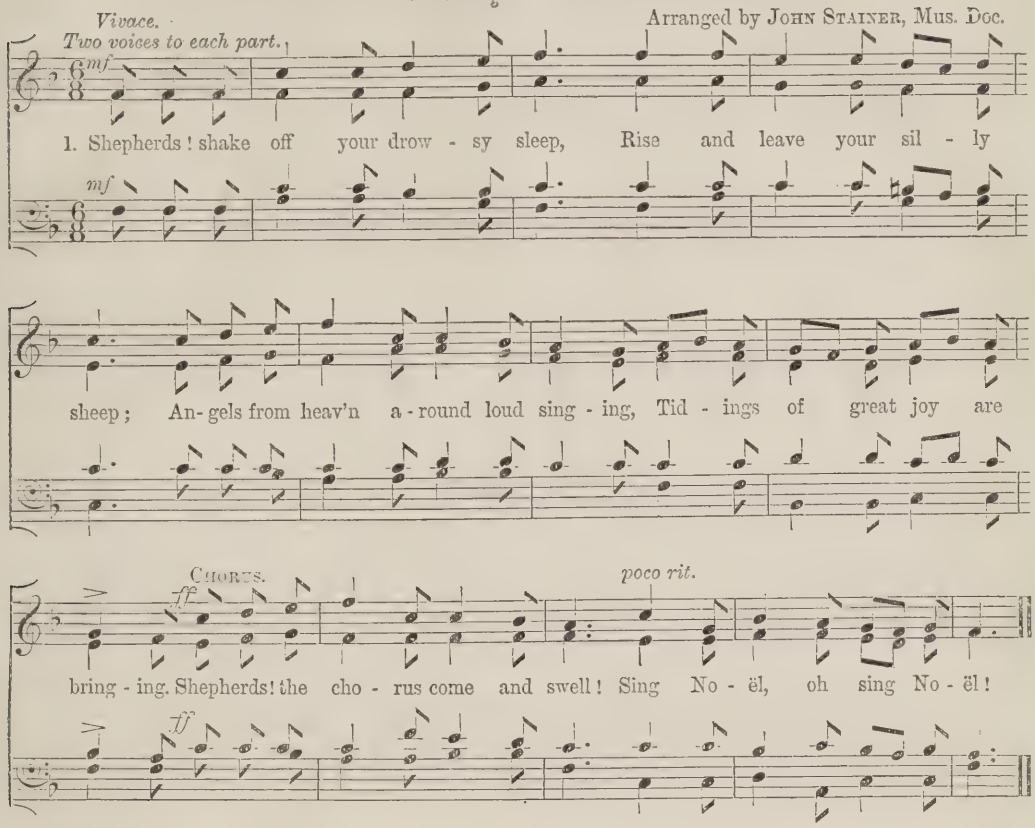
---

* From 'Eight Christmas-tide Carols" (Old Breton Melodies), harmonized by George C. Martin. Price Sixpence.

No. 4. Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep.*

BESANÇON CAROL.

Arranged by JOHN STAINER, Mus. Doc.



Vivace.
Two voices to each part.
mf
1. Shepherds! shake off your drow - sy sleep, Rise and leave your sil - ly sheep; An-gels from heav'n a-round loud sing - ing, Tid - ings of great joy are CHORUS.
ff
poco rit.
bring - ing. Shepherds! the cho - rus come and swell! Sing No - ël, oh sing No - ël!

2 Hark! even now the bells ring round,
Listen to their merry sound;
Hark! how the birds new songs are making,
As if winter's chains were breaking.
Chorus. Shepherds! the chorus come and swell!
Sing Noël, oh sing Noël!

3 See how the flowers all burst anew,
Thinking snow is summer dew;
See how the stars afresh are glowing,
All their brightest beams bestowing.
Chorus. Shepherds! the chorus come and swell!
Sing Noël, oh sing Noël!

4 Cometh at length the age of peace,
Strife and sorrow now shall cease;
Prophets foretold the wondrous story
Of this Heaven-born Prince of Glory.
Chorus. Shepherds! the chorus come and swell!
Sing Noël, oh sing Noël!

5 Shepherds! then up and quick away,
Seek the Babe ere break of day;
He is the hope of every nation,
All in Him shall find salvation.
Chorus. Shepherds! the chorus come and swell!
Sing Noël! oh sing Noël!

---

* From "Twelve Old Carols" (English and Foreign), adapted and arranged by Sir John Stainer. Price, in paper cover, One Shilling; words only, One Penny.

READY ON DECEMBER 15.

A

SPECIAL NUMBER

OF THE

MUSICAL TIMES

DEVOTED TO

BEETHOVEN

HIS LIFE AND WORKS

EDITED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

WILL BE ISSUED ON

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15.

THE NUMBER WILL CONTAIN NUMEROUS ILLUSTRATIONS, FAC-SIMILES OF MANUSCRIPTS, AND LETTERS OF GREAT INTEREST, HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED.

PRICE SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

engagements at the Theatre Royal and the Royalty, and as "Hamlet" was in the répertoire of the Haymarket manager considerable interest centred in the music, specially written for the play by Mr. George Henschel. An augmented band, under the skilful direction of Mr. E. T. de Banzie, had charge of this, and testimony frank and full to the expressive and altogether appropriate character of the music was promptly accorded.

On the evening of the 4th ult. Mr. Paderewski's regrettable illness necessitated, of course, a change in the arrangements for the great Polish artist's Concert, announced for the 11th ult. An admirable substitute was fortunately at the call of Messrs. Muir Wood and Co., and if Mr. Slivinski did not crowd St. Andrew's Hall—that could hardly have been expected under the circumstances—he soon won recognition as a pianist of high attainments. He will be welcomed back to Glasgow.

The Glasgow Quartet opened its season on the 18th ult. with a rather inviting programme, which included Beethoven's Rasoumoffsky's Quartet in C (Op. 59, No. 3).

The guarantee fund in connection with the nineteenth series of the Glasgow Choral Union Concerts now amounts to £5,100, a sum far in excess of any previous record. This may be claimed as a harbinger of excellent omen, and yet another indication of the interest shown in the Jubilee celebration of our premier musical organisation. A publication, by the way, will soon be issued dealing with its formation, its early struggles for existence, and its subsequent history down to the present time. The opening Concert for the season ("Elijah") takes place on the 6th prox., and three nights later St. Andrew's Hall will, it is expected, present a gathering after a somewhat unique fashion—the much talked of fancy dress ball in aid of the Benevolent Fund of the Glasgow Society of Musicians. If all stories be true the terpsichorean art will be dwarfed by historical tableaux, illustrating episodes in the lives of the foremost composers. A song album will shortly pass through the press as a souvenir of the occasion, and amongst the contributions there will be found several specimens from the pens of well known local musicians. The sister art has also been requisitioned and with success, thanks to the helping hand of a few sympathetic knights of the brush.

The Park Parish Church Choir has placed Mr. Lee Williams's Cantata "Gethsemane" in rehearsal, and on the 16th ult. it gave, under Dr. Hulton Middleton's direction, Professor Bridge's setting of "Crossing the Bar" with fine effect. The simple, unpretentious music was selected as the Anthem at evening service, and was listened to with rapt attention. The Bridgeton Choral Society has taken up Smieton's "King Arthur," and will repeat, during the season, Cowen's "Rose Maiden." The Crosshill Musical Association will soon give another performance of the last-named composer's "St. John's Eve," a work which has also secured the favour of the Bridge of Allan Choral Society. Gounod's "Gallia" will be repeated by the Kyrle Choir, and at the Athenæum the Ladies' Choir has been provided with Cowen's "The Fairies' Spring." The Operatic Class at the Athenæum promises to be a success, and no doubt a good account of Ignaz Brüll's "The Golden Cross" will have to be recorded at the proper time. The Vale of Leven Choral Society has accepted Gadsby's "The Lord of the Isles," and the Gourock Choral Union will give a performance of Gaul's "Holy City" before long.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Sisters Ravogli were the vocalists engaged for the opening Concert of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society on the 11th ult., but a fine performance of Dvorák's Fourth Symphony in G lent distinction and special dignity to the evening's work. The other orchestral pieces were also good, and consisted of Saint-Saëns's Symphonic Poem "Le Rouet d'Omphale," Weber's "Euryanthe," Schumann's "Genoveva," Auber's "Sirene," and Sullivan's "In Memoriam" Overtures, the latter being suggested by the recent death of Tennyson. The chorus were reduced to the level of accompanying "Casta Diva," from Bellini's "Norma," and the "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen." For the second Concert, on the 25th ult., Miss Wietrowetz was announced to play Brahms's Violin Concerto in D, Mr. Edward Lloyd being the vocalist. Two movements from Reinecke's Suite "From the cradle to the grave," and the Overtures "Ali Baba" (Cherubini), "Rienzi" (Wagner), and "Otello" (Rossini) were included in the scheme.

An important gathering of professional people took place on the 8th ult., when a Conference was held of the members of the North-Western section of the newly incorporated Society of Musicians. In addition to the latter there was a large concourse of amateurs and those interested in the cause of education at the morning and evening meetings, the whole being held at the Adelphi Hotel, under the general direction of Dr. W. H. Hunt. In the morning Mr. E. Chadfield, of Derby, took the chair, and an admirable paper on bogus examinations, and the like, was read by Mr. A. T. Akeroyd, of Bradford. A Concert of Ancient Music followed, in the afternoon the usual business of the annual meeting was held, and in the evening a performance of the works of members of the Society took place.

During the day occasion was taken to hold the first regular statutory meeting of the Incorporated Society of Musicians. It was announced that Mr. W. H. Cummings would preside, but indisposition prevented this, and Mr. J. Dawber, of Wigan, took the chair. This arrangement was necessary according to the articles of association, but the only business done was to fix the first annual meeting, the date of which is to be January 8, 1893, during the London conference, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie being appointed chairman.

The difficulties of the amateur musical society, alluded to a month ago, have been happily surmounted by the appointment of Mr. F. H. Crossley, of Warrington, to the conductorship. The rehearsals are once more in full swing, the work first taken in hand being Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." The once flourishing societies at the neighbouring towns of Widnes, Frodsham, and Garston seem to be again making no sign this season, more's the pity.

Concerts on the star system have been given during the past month and others are in the air, and notably a series of four under the direction of Messrs. Harrison, of Birmingham, at the Philharmonic Hall. There has been opera of various shades of lightness at the theatres, and one or two Recitals by local people. Among the latter order of things, naturally those by Mr. W. T. Best on the famous organ of St. George's Hall as usual claim first attention. They form an uninterrupted chain of all that is worthy in music, and prove a strong factor for good amidst a great deal that is locally degenerate in the present day. One performance of the past month, however, claims special attention—namely, a Song Recital by Miss Frederika Taylor and Mr. Carl Courvoisier, the novelty and excellence of which alike entitled it to notice.

The first Concert of the Sunday Society was announced for the 30th ult., with an orchestra of nearly fifty performers, and a programme which, if not ultra-classical, was thoroughly worthy. In a somewhat similar direction songs and so forth are being made to do duty at a large number of what are termed "pleasant Sunday afternoons" in various places of worship. If choral societies could only be attached to such establishments it would be a move in the right direction.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Some years ago public attention was called to the necessity for taking some steps to bring the culture of music into line with the increasing taste for art and the continually augmenting facilities for higher education generally. Unfortunately, just at that time most influential appeals were being made to aid in the establishment of a new Metropolitan Institution, and it was thought well to avoid all appearance of antagonism or interference, and to pause awhile before attempting any large provincial scheme. But it was felt that, at a fitting time, a comprehensive plan would effectually stir up the enthusiasm of our music lovers if it provided for the absolutely independent development of our resources and had perfect freedom of action. During the intervening years immense progress has here been made in almost all other departments of learning. The rapid expansion of the Owens College under its genial head, Dr. A. W. Ward; the success of the Victoria University in meeting and guiding the temperament and aspirations of three busy sections of this side of England; the network of most efficient Board Schools of all grades which now covers this city and suburbs; the establishment by the Corporation of technical schools of all kinds, and the taking over by the Municipality of the schools of drawing and painting, have rendered the long neglect of music a striking anomaly, and have excited a general desire to complete the circle of our higher curriculum, and to close up the breach which has, to the present time, existed by the withholding of due recognition of the claims of that art which, more than any other, ministers to the enlivening of life and to the elevation of its enjoyments. Whether an entirely new institution should be founded, either municipal or self-supporting, or a new department of practical music should be added to the faculty of musical construction now firmly established in the Owens College, was a question carefully considered; and at last a plan has been propounded securing unity of purpose and economy of labour and cost by the drawing together of the Corporation, the College authorities, and those who are anxious to provide for the sustenance and advance of Art among us. In the early summer, Sir Charles Hallé was invited to sketch the outline of a programme which was submitted to and adopted by an influential town meeting held lately, under the presidency of the Mayor. At that meeting, the more than willingness of the College Council and Senate frankly and earnestly to co-operate was declared; and the speeches of the Mayor and others pointed to the probability of the warm sympathy of the Council of the city being given to the project. The equipment fund of £1,500 has been almost wholly secured, and an annual subscription of £1,000 per annum for five years has been promised spontaneously, and without any canvass of the district or general solicitation. How great is the interest felt in a movement designed to perpetuate the musical proclivities which have—from the earliest times of which record remains—distinguished the people of the North of England, is shown by the adherence of upwards of thirty of the Mayors of Lancashire and the nearer Yorkshire towns. It is not intended to admit to the new College of Music any but serious students showing previous good training, and desiring to pursue a path leading to highest excellence in their selected branch of the art. No fear need, therefore, be entertained by the vast body of teachers in the district of a diminution of their work. On the contrary, the stimulus supplied by bringing among us a means of carrying on the cultivation of the art to a loftier point, and in a more complete manner than has heretofore been possible, must increase the number of earnest students; and the entrance examinations of the College will soon prove an encouragement to good, and a deterrent of bad, teachers among those who either prepare—or neglect to prepare—their pupils for further progress.

It is understood that the musical undergraduates of the Owens College have proved very successful at the University examinations crowning the first year of the three years' course marked out for them, the papers being specially trying in history, as well as thoroughly testing the student's knowledge of advanced harmony. Dr. J. Frederick Bridge was associated with Dr. Hiles as external examiners. The opening of the new session has brought a considerably increased number of candidates for the degrees, now open to women as well as to men.

During the last few weeks we have enjoyed a few opportunities of listening to renowned singers and players, and specially must be mentioned the visit of Madame Melba, with her beautiful voice and highly-trained vocalisation; of Mr. Slivinski, so marvellously clear in execution; and of Señor Albeniz, with his no less refined and delicate mastery of the pianoforte keyboard.

But our season, with its full wealth of orchestral enjoyment, really commences, as usual, on the last Thursday in October, for which Concert Sir Charles Hallé arranged an attractive programme, including Bizet's "Petite Suite" (Op. 22) as the novelty, with Lady Hallé as the soloist, and Miss Edith Palliser as the vocalist.

Early in October the Carl Rosa Company concluded a campaign here which must have largely benefited the exchequer. Unfortunately, the English version of Verdi's "Otello" was not ready till the last evening, when it was enthusiastically applauded by a crowded audience. But the great attractions have been Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "L'Amico Fritz"—the second work, however, scarcely sustaining the interest created by the former, and giving the idea of the spinning out of its subject-matter to the fullest possible extent. Miss Ella Russell has proved herself a most valuable acquisition, and the recruits, generally, have been acceptable; especially enjoyable being the clear enunciation and singing of Mr. Rhys Thomas and the violin playing of Mdlle. Joran. The return of Mr. Barton McGuckin relieved the corps from a special difficulty.

A largely attended and interesting Conversazione introduced once more the claims, social and artistic, of the Gentlemen's Concerts; and over the coming winter a varied series of Orchestral and Chamber Concerts and of Pianoforte Recitals will be spread.

The Vocal Society of Dr. Henry Watson showed, on the evening of the 19th ult., undiminished smoothness of blended tone and the old carefulness as to light and shade. The programme included "The Ancient Mariner," Dr. Garrett's "Just Judge of Heaven," and Dr. Bridge's setting of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," in which the composer has, with admirable judgment, so clothed the words as to leave their simple and exquisite beauty undimmed.

MUSIC IN NORWICH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

With the advent of October music in our old City began to show signs of renewed life; most of the societies devoted to its culture have commenced their weekly practices—notably, the Philharmonic and the Gate House. The Festival chorus are also busy preparing for the last of their series of interim Concerts, which will take place this month, "Acis and Galatea" occupying their attention.

Music was the principal attraction at a Soirée given by the Mayor (G. M. Chamberlin, Esq.) on the 3rd ult., in honour of the visit of the Incorporated Law Society. Miss M. Girtin Barnard was the solo vocalist, the Gate House Choir sang several part-songs, while classical instrumental compositions were rendered by Mr. Kingston Rudd and Mr. J. W. Meers (pianoforte), Mr. W. E. Tuddenham (violin), Mr. E. Burton (violoncello), and Dr. Bunnett (organ).

On the 12th ult. the large Agricultural Hall was used for the first time as a Concert-room, upon the occasion of Madame Adelina Patti's premier appearance in Norwich. Madame Patti had a most gratifying reception, each piece being vociferously applauded and re-demanded. The other members of the Concert-party were Mdlle. Douilly, Madame Alice Gomez, Mr. Charles Chilley, and Signor Novara; with Miss Angela Vanbrugh (solo violin) and Miss Fanny Davies (solo pianoforte). Mr. Sieveking ably fulfilled the duties of accompanist. With such heavy fees as Madame Patti is known to exact, profit was not to be hoped for by the entrepreneurs, Messrs. Howlett and Son, but we believe the balance sheet will not be found to show any loss.

The seventh annual Concert, organised by Mr. Hodgson A. Craig for the benefit of the Railway Guards' Universal Friendly Society, was given in St. Andrew's Hall on the 19th ult. Much interest is always evinced in this adjunct to a very valuable institution, and the engagements on this occasion brought together a very large audience. The vocalists were Madame Fanny Moody and her husband, Mr. Charles Manners; Miss Kate Cove, Miss Edith Hands, and Mr. J. Gawthrop. Madame Moody's extraordinary voice and charming manner were much appreciated, while the quiet artistic style imparted to her songs by Miss Kate Cove was warmly applauded. Mr. Bernhard Carrodus was solo violinist, with Mr. Kingston Rudd at the pianoforte and Dr. Bunnett at the organ.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On the 1st ult. the Nottingham Nonconformist Choir Union celebrated the conclusion of its first year of organisation by a Concert in the Mechanics' Institution. About 200 members of the Union formed the chorus, and rendered a good programme of sacred and secular music very creditably. This Union should do much to elevate Nonconformist worship music while they can successfully sing such things as Stainer's "O clap your hands," Benedict's "The Lord be a lamp," and Beethoven's "Hallelujah." The principals were Miss Honeybone, Madame Fannie Lymn, Mrs. Bramley, and Mr. Sudworth, to whom praise is due for their solos and quartets. Miss Honeybone's singing of Handel's "Let the bright seraphim" (trumpet obbligato, Mr. Scattergood) was enthusiastically applauded. Mr. W. Wright presided at the organ, giving as a solo Handel's Tenth Concerto (Guilmant's arrangement). Mr. G. Middleton accompanied the songs on the pianoforte and joined Mr. Wright in Guilmant's charming "Pastorale" for organ and pianoforte.

The opening of the new organ at Southwell Cathedral, on the 13th ult., was an interesting event. The new instrument has four manuals and pedal, and contains fifty-four sounding stops, besides a goodly provision of couplers, combination pistons, and pedals. The work reflects great credit on the builders, Messrs Bishop and Son, and an examination of the mechanism, from the elaborate blowing apparatus worked by a Tangye gas engine, stationed some 150 yards from the Cathedral in an outbuilding, to the organ itself on the screen, revealed great constructive skill on their part. The music was under the direction of Mr. R. W. Liddle, the Cathedral Organist, and was sung by a fine choir composed of the Cathedral singers, assisted by a contingent of ladies and gentlemen from the local Choral Society. At Matins the service was Stainer in E flat; the Anthem, Purcell's "O give thanks." At Evensong Gadsby in F and Smart's Anthem "Sing to the Lord" were given. Mr. Liddle gave Recitals after each service, the principal pieces being Sonata (No. 2), Mendelssohn; Toccata and Fugue in D minor, J. S. Bach; Concerto (No. 2), Handel; and Fantasia in E, Silas. Mr. Liddle's fine playing and the impressive rendering of the services were most acceptable to the large congregations which assembled from all parts of the diocese.

The Nottingham musical season promises to be a brilliant one, judging from the array of talent advertised by the various societies and others, and may be said to have commenced with a miscellaneous Concert by the Nordica party on the 22nd ult. The programme was unusually good for a miscellaneous Concert, and included songs and quartets by the Meister Glee Singers, who are now established favourites here.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The forthcoming season promises to demonstrate in a marked degree the improvement which has of late years taken place in the musical education of this district. To this end the multiplication of choral and instrumental societies, encouraging the study and appreciation of the best standard and contemporary compositions, is a valuable factor. The committees of several of these organisations still seem disinclined to tackle new works, but present indications lead to the hope that before long they will discover that a successful Festival novelty, well performed, is a wise investment.

With laudable enterprise the managers of the Sheffield Musical Union (Mr. Henry Coward, Conductor) have adopted a bold policy, and have announced Dr. Parry's "Judith" for the 10th inst. The composer will conduct the performance, which is already an assured financial success. The same Society announces "The Messiah" (December 24), and, for the April Concert next year, Hiller's "Song of Victory" and Schubert's "Song of Miriam." Dr. Parry's "De Profundis" and Berlioz's "Faust" are also included in the future scheme of this admirable Association.

The Amateur Musical Society (Mr. Schollhammer, Conductor) is rehearsing Bach's "Passion" (St. Matthew) for performance in December. Music lovers look to this Society to introduce a new work at its spring Concerts, and this will probably be done.

The Choral Union (Mr. Suckley, Conductor) announces a Concert performance of Balfe's "Satanella" on the 17th inst., and "The Messiah" and a repetition of Bottesini's "Garden of Olivet" later in the season.

Mr. H. Coward's "Story of Bethany," which has reached its eighth local performance, is to be done by the Attercliffe Choral Society (Mr. W. W. Chisholm).

The Heeley Harmonic Society (Mr. W. Chapman) is preparing Haydn's "Creation," and the Ranmoor Choral Society (Mr. J. C. V. Stacey) Barnett's "Ancient Mariner."

The Amateur Instrumental Society (Mr. H. Coward) announces for its first Concert (December 14) Mr. E. Prout's new Orchestral Suite, Beethoven's C minor Symphony, and other works. At the two succeeding Concerts novelties will be produced.

Among other interesting fixtures of the season are Mr. E. P. Reynolds's excellent Chamber Concerts, at which Madame Pachmann and Mr. David Popper will play; Dr. Bridge's Lecture on "John Jenkins," Mr. H. Coward's Lecture "Humour in Music," Sir Charles Hallé and orchestra, and numerous Ballad Concerts.

On the 7th ult. a most enjoyable Lecture was delivered by Dr. Creser, Organist of the Chapel Royal, St. James's, the subject being "Art Songs." The Lecturer paid a high tribute to the talent of Sterndale Bennett (a native of Sheffield), and dealt with the distinctive characteristics of English, Scotch, Irish, and Norse ballads. Mrs. Creser sang very artistically illustrations by Schubert, Brahms, Bennett, Barnby, and other composers.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The echoes of our great Triennial Festival have barely died away, yet active preparations are being made in all directions for the ordinary season's work. Far from being exhausted by the brilliant efforts of the early part of the month, the choristers of Huddersfield, Dewsbury, Halifax, and Bradford, together with their conductors and secretaries, have returned to their respective centres with seemingly renewed energy; and the various prospectuses to hand bid fair to rival those of last season in the matter of enterprise and variety.

The Leeds Philharmonic Society has arranged a "Sullivan" programme for its opening Concert—a pretty sure attraction—including "The Golden Legend," the Festival Te Deum, and the "In Memoriam" Overture; "The Messiah" next, as usual; then a third Concert, for which Dr. Parry's "Ode for St. Cecilia's Day" and Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night" are promised. The Subscription Concerts will be four in number, two Orchestral (Hallé) and two Chamber. No absolute novelties are as yet announced, but the programmes are strong and attractive.

The Carl Rosa Opera Company will give a short season at the Grand Theatre, with the inevitable "Cavalleria Rusticana" and several revivals.

The Symphony Society promises two Concerts, encouraged by the success of last season. Mozart's E flat Symphony, Bach's Suite in D, and Svendsen's volcanic "Fest-Polonaise" are amongst the good things in the prospectus.

Mr. Edgar Haddock will give his Musical Evenings in the Town Hall, instead of in the smaller Concert-room in the Albert Hall, a circumstance to be regretted on acoustical grounds, the Victoria Hall being much too large for the proper performance of chamber music. Amongst the artists announced are Madame Albani, Messrs. Edward Lloyd and Charles Santley, and Her Imperial Highness Princess Eugenie di Cristiforo Palæologæ-Nicephoræ-Comnenæ.

Variety is again a leading feature in the plan for the Huddersfield Subscription Concerts, which will be twelve in number, and will include an evening devoted to chamber music for wind instruments (Mr. Clinton's Wind Quintet Party) and two visits of Sir Charles Hallé and his orchestral The Huddersfield Choral Society announces three Concerts: Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," Handel's "Joshua," and "The Messiah."

The Halifax Choral Society's programmes include Mendelssohn's 114th Psalm, Dr. Stanford's "Revenge," "The Messiah," and "The Golden Legend."

The Dewsbury Choral Society will open the season with Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," Dr. C. H. Lloyd's "Song of Balder," Sullivan's "Tempest" Music, and Mr. Edward German's spirited Overture to "Richard the Third." Sir Joseph Barnby's Psalm "The Lord is King" (conducted by the composer), Mendelssohn's 114th Psalm, and the same composer's "Hear my Prayer" are in the scheme for the third Concert.

The Ilkley Vocal Society promises performances of MacCunn's "Lay of the Last Minstrel," Schumann's "New Year's Song," and Mendelssohn's Psalm "Not unto us."

Chamber Concerts are announced in many quarters—a healthy sign. The works of the great classical masters are mostly drawn upon for the programmes.

Harvest Thanksgiving Services were held on the 2nd ult. at the Willoughby Road Wesleyan School Chapel, Hornsey. The special music comprised the Anthems "O give thanks" (Elvey), "Earth below is teeming" (Caldicott), "Blessed be the Name" (Gadsby), and "Fear not, O Land" (Berridge); also the Quartets "Fear thou not, be not dismayed," and "O be joyful" (Haydn), all of which were well sung. On the following evening a Concert was given consisting of Garrett's Harvest Cantata and miscellaneous selections. The soloists in the Cantata were Madame Barter, Miss Gray, Mrs. Cross, Messrs. H. Crook and G. Jarrett. In the second part solos, &c., were sung by Mesdames Barter, Bradford, Cross, and Phillips, and Mr. R. Wolfenden; also Anthems by the choir, and the chorus "The heavens are telling," the Trio of which was taken by Mrs. Agnew, Mr. S. Scutt, and Mr. G. Andrews. Both soloists and choir were well up to their work, and gave much satisfaction to the audience by their efforts. Mrs. Jarrett and Mr. R. Wolfenden accompanied on the pianoforte and American organ respectively, and Mr. J. R. Kilner, the Organist and Choirmaster, conducted, as usual. The proceeds of the Services have been devoted to the building fund of the new church now in course of erection.

An interesting ceremony took place on the 24th ult. at the Guildhall School of Music, when a presentation was made, by a number of his pupils, to Mr. Wallace Wells, one of the vocal professors of the School. Sir Joseph Barnby, the Principal, was in the chair, and after the address making the presentation had been read by one of the pupils (Mr. J. A. Bauer), the chairman expressed in felicitous terms the pleasure he felt in presiding over the meeting, and his cordial sympathy with the object thereof. He had personally known and esteemed Mr. Wells for a number of years, and it was peculiarly gratifying to him to find this esteem was so universally shared by the pupils of an Institution at which he (Mr. Wells) had now been for a period of six years so able and painstaking a professor. Mr. Wells briefly responded, thanking the pupils present for their valuable gift (a handsome silver epergne), and after a short speech by Mr. Smith, the Secretary of the Institution, a vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman, and the proceedings terminated.

At the Royal Academy of Music the Competition for the Sainton-Dolby Scholarship took place on September 27. The Examiners were Messrs. W. H. Cummings, Fred. Walker, W. Nicholl, F. King, and Ettore Fiori (chairman). There were four candidates, and the Scholarship was awarded to Winifred Peake. The Competition for the Lady Jenkinson's Thalberg Scholarship took place on September 28. The Examiners were Messrs. F. Corder, H. R. Eyers, S. Macpherson, T. A. Matthay, and F. Westlake (chairman). There were five candidates, and the Scholarship was awarded to Percy Harmon. The final Competition for the Erard Centenary Scholarship took place on the 25th ult. The examiners were Messrs. George Henschel, Franklin Taylor, and Dr. A. C. Mackenzie (in the chair). There were twenty-two candidates, and the Scholarship was awarded to Evelyn M. Bigg. The examiners commended William Willis, Charlotte A. W. Müller, and Clara E. M. Hutchinson.

Miss Christina Brumleu, a young violinist, must be credited with discretion in the selection of pieces for solo display at her Concert at Steinway Hall on the 25th ult. Neatness and ease, rather than breadth or strength, are the chief characteristics of her execution, so that she did well to avoid compositions inevitably recalling the virtuosi of the period. In Saint-Saëns's "Introduction et Rondo Capriccioso," the Adagio from Max Bruch's First Concerto, and two of Franz Ries's morceaux, "Romanze" and "Perpetuum Mobile," she evinced considerable taste, and was obliged to give an encore piece after the first-named. Miss Brumleu was assisted by Mr. A. J. Walenn (viola), Mr. Herbert Walenn (violoncello), Mr. Alfred C. Butterworth (pianoforte), Mr. Percy Palmer, Madame Osborne Williams, and three members of the Ladies' Vocal Quartet. Mr. Fountain Meen was the accompanist.

Mr. Frederick Hopkins gave a Flute Recital on the 13th ult. at the Public Hall, New Cross, before a numerous and appreciative audience. The flute, once so popular an instrument with amateurs in this country, has fallen into much unmerited neglect as a solo instrument of late years. All the more welcome and appreciated, then, was the skill displayed by the Concert-giver on this occasion, his full and mellow tone and perfect mastery of all technical difficulties being exhibited to the best advantage in pieces by Doppler, Kummer, Andersen, and others; and, in conjunction with Mr. Walter Taylor and Mr. Spencer Dickinson, in a Duo Concertante by Archer and a Sonata by Kuhlau, for pianoforte and flute respectively. Miss Annie Swinfen and Mr. Ormond Yearsly contributed vocal numbers. Mr. Spencer Dickinson was a very efficient accompanist.

The first of a series of three Chamber Concerts was given at the North-East London Institute and School of Music on Saturday evening, the 22nd ult. The hall was filled with an appreciative audience, and the programme was well chosen and not too long. The excellent quartet party consisted of Messrs R. Ortmans, Mistowski, Batty, and Van der Straeten. Mr. Algernon Ashton was the pianist. The second Concert will be under the direction of Mr. Ebenezer Prout, and the third under that of Mr. Emil Kreuz. Any attempt to introduce high-class music in the suburbs deserves warm support; musical culture is always extending, and the number of Institutions for the performance of classical music must naturally increase in proportion.

At the Harvest Thanksgiving Festival celebrated at St. Michael's, Star Street, Paddington, on the 12th ult., Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion" was sung by the choir, who worthily maintained their well-deserved reputation. The solos were shared by Masters Barrett and Grugeon, Messrs. Smith, Ellyatt, Pollard, McBeath, Russell, and Kebble. The Festival was continued on Sunday, the 16th ult., and the music sung included Smart's Te Deum and Communion Service in F, Calkin's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in B flat, and Spohr's Cantata "God, Thou art great." The Services were under the direction of Mr. Edmund Rogers, Organist and Choirmaster of the Church.

Harvest Festivals were held at St. Paul's, Marylebone, on the 6th ult., and at St. George's, Brentford, on the 13th ult. On both occasions the Service was sung by the united choirs of the churches named, and the choir of St. Jude's, Chelsea, also assisted. The Canticles were sung to Arnold in A, and the Anthem selected was "Sing praises to God" (Wareing). Mr. Thomas Curry (Choirmaster of the three Churches) conducted, and Mr. W. Ashton Alder (Organist of St. Paul's) and Mr. Percy H. Mull (Organist of St. George's) officiated at the organ respectively. At St. George's, Sydenham's stirring Processional "King Edward" was sung at the conclusion of the Service.

The Harvest Festival Services were held at St. Mark's, Notting Hill, on Wednesday, the 12th ult., and the following Sunday. On each evening the Canticles were sung to the setting of Gadsby in C. Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was performed by the choir. The solos were rendered by Masters Millett and Perry and Mr. T. W. Jemmett (members of the choir), with Mr. Hamilton

Robinson, of St. Stephen's, Gloucester Road, at the organ. Mr. Warren Tear, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Mark's, conducted. Owing to the unfortunate illness of Mr. Jemmett, the tenor solos on the Sunday evening were sung by Mr. Albon Nash.

The Harvest Festival at St. Agnes', Kennington Park, was held on the 23rd ult. The Communion Service used in the morning was Hummel in B flat. At the evening service the Canticles were sung to a setting of Mr. W. W. Hedgcock, the Organist and Choirmaster. The Anthem was Sullivan's "Sing, O heavens," and the service was brought to a close by Spohr's Cantata "God, Thou art great." The solos in the Cantata and also at the morning service were taken by Mrs. Henry Tate and Messrs. Toms, J. Wint, and Bayley. The chorus parts were excellently sung by the choir of St. Agnes'.

Harvest Festival Services were held at St. Mary's, Battersea, on the 8th and 9th ult. Anthems: "O praise God" (Trimnell), "Stand up and bless the Lord" (Goss), and "Gloria" from Mozart's Twelfth Mass; Te Deum, Smart in F; Evening Service, Maunder in C. The choir sang admirably. On the 16th ult. an Organ Recital by Mr. H. Leslie Smith was well attended and much appreciated. The programme included works by Hesse, Salomé, Batiste, Chopin, and Stainer. Solos were sung by Mr. A. Vernon Smith and Master Fred. Janes.

Mr. W. M. Wait's Sacred Cantata "The Good Samaritan" was effectively rendered at the Church of St. Andrew, Fulham, on the 5th ult., by the choir of the church, the ladies' choir, and other friends. There was a large congregation, who joined in the several beautiful hymns interspersed throughout the work. The offertory was in aid of the organ improvement fund. The same composer's "St. Andrew" will be given at the Dedication Festival on St. Andrew's Day.

At the Choral Festival held at St. Mary's Church, Stoke Newington, on the 12th ult., Mr. John E. West's charming Cantata "Seed-time and Harvest" was performed by the choir of the Church, under the conductorship of Mr. James Matthews, the Choirmaster. The solos were taken by Master Rutt and Messrs. Fred. Gordon and George Conning. Dr. H. T. Pringuer accompanied in masterly style, and a crowded congregation listened to a very effective rendering of Mr. West's work.

The present season of the Highbury Philharmonic Society opened on the 17th ult. with a Conversazione and Ball at the Highbury Athenæum. A selection of music was rendered by Miss Maggie Jones, Miss Lizzie Jones, Miss Grace Wood, Mr. Arthur Strugnell, Mr. Alexander Tucker, and several pupils of the Highbury New Park School of Music. Recitations were also contributed by Mr. Charles Fry, his humorous rendering of the Charity Dinner especially creating much amusement.

The inaugural address of the session was delivered at Trinity College, London, on the 4th ult., by Professor E. H. Turpin, Warden of the College, the subject being "Talent and Temperament: their power and influence in Music." The winners of scholarships and exhibitions were officially received by the Warden, and various prizes were distributed to successful students, headed by Miss Marian Reynolds, the Tallis Gold Medalist.

At St. Stephen's, South Kensington, Harvest Festival, on the 20th and 23rd ult., Weber's Harvest Cantata and Gadsby's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C were sung with orchestra. A Postlude in D (Tempo di Minuetto) for orchestra and organ, by Hamilton Robinson, was played afterwards. Mr. Warren Tear presided at the organ, the Conductor being Mr. Hamilton Robinson, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Stephen's.

The chief musical interest in the Harvest Festival Services at Holy Trinity Church, Barnes, centred in the performance of Hugh Blair's Cantata "Harvest-tide," on the 19th ult. The work was carefully rendered before an attentive and interested congregation, and created a most favourable impression. On the previous Sunday afternoon Dr. Garrett's Harvest Cantata attracted an overflowing congregation.

Barnby's "Rebekah" was sung at Holy Trinity, Upper Tooting, on Sunday afternoon, the 9th ult., with orchestral accompaniment and with the assistance of the choir of St. Paul's, Clapham. Messrs Bryant, Musgrove Tufnail, and Master Barnes sustained the solo portions, Mr. Hamilton Robinson presiding at the organ. The Cantata was conducted by Mr. Alfred Physick.

The Harvest Festival at Christ Church, Woburn Square, took place on the 20th ult., when an Oratorio composed by the Organist and Choirmaster, Mr. Frank T. Lowden, was performed. Dr. Bridge's Canticles were sung, as was also the Hallelujah Chorus. The choir was augmented, and conducted by Mr. W. A. B. Russell. The solos were taken by Messrs. J. Reynolds, W. Sowell, and Sidney Galey.

The first Liszt Scholar, Miss Grace Mary Henshaw, after having completed a course of three years' study at the Royal Academy of Music and two and a half years at Berlin, under Professor Klindworth, has just returned to London, where she will doubtless soon be accorded an opportunity of being heard in public.

The organ at St. Peter's Church, Vere Street, was re-opened on Sunday, the 16th ult., at the Harvest Festival Services. The instrument has been enlarged and thoroughly repaired by Messrs. W. Hill and Son.

Miss Kate Chaplin, who has hitherto studied in London with Mr. Pollitzer, has gone to Brussels to continue her studies with M. Ysaÿe.

REVIEWS.

Music in its relation to the Intellect and the Emotions. By Professor Sir John Stainer. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The substance of this essay was delivered as a professorial lecture on June 8 last. By its publication in this form the Oxford Professor has conferred a benefit upon music and musicians which we trust the latter will not be slow to appreciate. In a brochure of sixty pages or so Sir John has dealt with most of the vital truths of musical æsthetics, and this, too, in a fashion possible only to a master of the subjects treated—one for whom their difficulties have long ago ceased to exist. To be at once profound and simple is not given to every one, but it is impossible to rise from a perusal of these interesting pages without feeling that the gift has been vouchsafed in ample measure to their author. We want more works of this kind; for in spite of the great improvement in mental training shown of late in every section of the community, looseness and inaccuracy of thought are still conspicuous in the written and spoken utterances of those who concern themselves with the higher mysteries of musical art; and though no doubt it is easy to account for and even to excuse this, the fact is none the less deplorable or impedimental to the progress and spread of healthy taste. With regard, moreover, to the main question raised by Sir John, musicians are far too prone to "take sides." Instead of seeing that all good music depends for its production and its appreciation at once on the sensuous, the intellectual, and the emotional faculties, they divide themselves into parties—shall we say "cliques"?—each of which, asserting the art's appeal to one or other of these faculties, ignores the claims of the other two, and sometimes even goes so far as to dispute them. This timely little essay should do much to reconcile opposing hosts and prevent further waste of energies that should be devoted to more useful ends. If it were possible to find a musical critic of whom it might be said that he had yet anything to learn, we should unhesitatingly recommend a perusal of Sir John's remarks as likely to be genuinely helpful; as it is, we dare no more than express our hope that his views on criticism, its scope and limits, will be approved by the potent, grave, and reverend signiors who sit in judgment, and make or mar.

Original Compositions for the Organ. Nos. 159-164. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

At the first blush the direction Tempo di Minuetto might seem out of keeping with organ music, but it must be remembered that the "king of instruments" is used for secular as well as religious purposes; and, furthermore, there is nothing in Mr. W. A. C. Cruickshank's piece in G, which forms the first of the above series, to render it unsuitable as a service voluntary. On the contrary, it is a stately and dignified composition in the form of a symphonic minuet, and only suggestive of the old-world dance in its courtly grace. The next four numbers are from the pen of Mr. Otto Dienel, who has previously contributed, with much acceptance, to this series of pieces. No. 160, Adagio in A, is written throughout for the soft stops, but is very expressive, not to say passionate, in character, the principal phrase reminding the listener of Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde," though it is, of course, none the worse on that account. No. 161, Scherzando in A minor, is a light and playful movement remarkable for tunefulness and certain to win favour in recital programmes. It needs a crisp touch, but the pedal part is very easy. The next number is another Adagio in D, differing from the previous slow movement in being genial and flowing in character, with lively semiquaver passages, chiefly for the right hand. We now approach work of a more serious character, No. 163 being a Concert Fugue in E minor, with an introduction of a chromatic though majestic character. The fugue subject, however, is bold and diatonic, and is worked out with considerable freedom and variety of resource, the conclusion in the tonic major being bright and modern in phraseology. The last of the present instalment of compositions consists of two Preludes by Mr. Percy W. Pilcher. These are placid and melodious movements, both in 3-4 measure, the first having some lively triplet figures by way of variety, while the second has an alternative section of a somewhat agitated character in a minor key. They are both suitable as opening or middle voluntaries.

History of the first Cardiff Festival, 1892. By. W. H. Sonley Johnstone. Revised by W. A. Morgan (Honorary Secretary). [Cardiff: Daniel Owen and Co., Limited.]

The title of this little volume sufficiently indicates the nature of its contents. Their value will of course become greater as the years roll on, and when the Cardiff Festival has grown, as no doubt it will grow, into a musical event of national importance. Mr. Johnstone may be congratulated on the brightness imparted to his pages by a certain vigour of style and the admission of plenty of matter testifying to the combative instincts of our Welsh friends—no wonder the Romans had trouble with them! Portraits of Sir Arthur Sullivan, Sir Joseph Barnby, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Dr. Joseph Parry, and Mr. W. A. Morgan, and fac-similes of letters, &c., from the four first-named adorn the volume. Mr. Johnstone handles certain members of the London press rather cavalierly in one or two instances, neither The Musical Times nor—if we may so venture to distinguish our much venerated contemporary—the non-musical Times being allowed to escape. Representatives of the London press will take more care at the next Cardiff Festival, no doubt; meanwhile, they can scarcely be expected to feel very penitent for sins which have procured them the novel and deliciously refreshing sensation of a "wigging" (in print, too!) from South Wales. Such experiences are precious.

While the Shepherds were abiding. Christmas Anthem. By Sydney T. Spalding. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The most noteworthy feature in this Anthem is its extreme unconventionality. The composer would seem to have purposely avoided, as far as possible, what may be termed the ordinary phraseology of English service music, and he has for the most part succeeded. There is a touch of Oriental character in the opening passages for organ and voices separately and together, after which, in the treble solo, "Fear not, for behold," the accompaniment is rather orchestral in feeling. This last remark also applies to the treatment of the organ in the principal movement, an extended chorus, "Glory to God in the highest." It must not be inferred that the music is difficult either for the voices or organ; on the contrary, the part-writing is extremely simple, and the harmonies are, for the most part, diatonic. The whole shows that the composer has dared to think for himself, and his style, if not original in the fullest sense of the term, is at any rate uncommon.

Popular Christmas Carols. Arranged for Two-part Singing, by W. G. McNaught. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

That full four-part harmony is best when it can be obtained will be generally admitted, but it is not always obtainable; carols, moreover, depend rather upon melody than harmony for their interest, and in recognition of this fact thanks are due to Mr. McNaught for the present compilation. The carols are twelve in number, and include such old favourites as "Good King Wenceslas," "God rest you merry, gentlemen," "The first Nowell," and others. A simple ad lib. accompaniment is provided, and two editions are before us, one with the music and words and the other in the Tonic Sol-fa notation. The freshness, tunefulness, and naïveté of these old carols fit them specially for use in schools.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The stipend annually granted by the Mendelssohn Fund in Berlin to young musical artists, has been awarded this year to Frl. Helene Jordan, a former pupil at the Berlin Hochschule, for pianoforte playing. There has been no award this year for composition.

Bizet's early opera, "Djamileh," was brought out, for the first time in Germany, on the 1st ult., at the Berlin Royal Opera, and was received with high favour by a numerous audience, who listened to the graceful and characteristic music by the composer of "Carmen" with all the more pleasure since the performance had been preceded by a one-act opera, entitled "Wem die Krone," the music by Alexander Ritter, which found little favour with either the public or the critical voices in the press. "Djamileh" is now in process of being mounted at several of the leading lyrical stages of Germany.

On the 4th ult. a Concert Hall was opened in Berlin called Bechstein Hall, at 42, Lingstrasse. The inauguration of this hall was celebrated by three days' musical performances, the first being a Pianoforte Recital by Herr von Bülow. On the second day Dr. Johannes Brahms gave a Chamber Music Concert, assisted by Herr Joachim and his quartet. The programme consisted exclusively of works by Brahms. The third day was given by Anton Rubinstein, and this time the programme consisted exclusively of works by Rubinstein. The hall has 520 fauteuils and is intended to be devoted chiefly to Chamber Music and Recitals.

The Berlin Philharmonic Society resumed its annual Concerts on the 17th ult., the occasion being rendered special by the fact of Dr. Hans Richter being the Conductor, for the first time at this or any other Concert institution of the German capital. The programme included Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll," Berlioz's Overture "Benvenuto Cellini," and Beethoven's Symphony in A. The vast audience gave the eminent Viennese Conductor a most enthusiastic welcome.

The Leipzig Royal Conservatorium, which occupies a foremost place amongst similar institutions in Germany, is preparing to celebrate, on April 2 next, the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation.

Herr Edmund Kretschmer's grand opera "Die Folkunger," first brought out in 1874, is being mounted just now at the theatres of Brünn and of Barmen, the work having already been produced on no less than sixty-eight of the operatic stages of the Fatherland. It seems strange that, with the growing reputation for Herr Kretschmer's work, "Die Folkunger" should not have been taken in hand, as yet, by any impresario outside the composer's native country.

Mozart's youthful operatic productions, "Bastien und Bastienne" and "La finta Giardiniera," which were revived not long since at the Vienna Hof-Theater, were also performed, with much success, last month at the Bremen Stadt-Theater, under the able direction of Capellmeister Ruthard.

Ignaz Brüll's new opera "Gringoire" met with a fairly good reception on its first performance at the Vienna Hof-Theater. The new work is also being mounted at Cassel, Darmstadt, Hanover, and Wiesbaden.

Frau Amalie Joachim will, during the present season, repeat the highly interesting series of four Concerts, given by her last year in various parts of Germany, illustrative of the historical development of the German Lied.

Frau Therese Vogl, the well-known interpretress of Wagnerian heroines, took leave of the Munich public on the 9th ult., in the character of Isolde, in Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde." The gifted lady had been an active member of the Munich Hof-Theater for a period of twenty-six years.

Offenbach's operetta "La Jolie Parfumeuse" was successfully revived last month at the Berlin Friedrich-Wilhelmstadt Theater, under the title of "Schön Röschen," and with a somewhat modernised libretto. Several others of the "lyrical frivolities" of the Second Empire composer are being re-mounted at the theatre referred to.

The Municipal Theatre of Bremen celebrated the centenary of its foundation on the 16th ult., with a special performance of "Lohengrin," preceded, on the eve of the centenary, by a revival of Dittersdorf's evergreen last-century operetta "Doctor und Apotheker."

Madame Etelka Gerster commenced a series of performances at the Kroll'sche Theater of Berlin last month in the titular part of Donizetti's opera "Linda di Chamounix," and as Rosina in "Il Barbiere," in both of which parts she met with a highly favourable reception.

At the Berlin Royal Opera Herr Felix Weingartner's new operatic work "Genesius" was announced to be performed for the first time on the 1st inst. The next novelty here is to be the opera "Pagliacci," by the young Maëstro Leoncavallo, who will probably conduct his work in person. Berlioz's "Les Troyens" will be brought out for the first time at the Berlin Opera later in the season, and a complete cycle of Meyerbeer's operas is likewise in contemplation.

Berlioz's "Les Troyens," hitherto produced in Germany only at Carlsruhe, under the zealous direction of Felix Mottl, is in rehearsal at the Munich Hof-Theater, with the new German version of the libretto by Emma Klingenfeld, the able translator of Ibsen's dramas. Capellmeister Levi will conduct the première of the colossal work.

A permanent operatic establishment has just been inaugurated, for the first time, at Heidelberg, with Nicolai's "The Merry Wives of Windsor." The well-known Bach-Verein, at the Academical town in question, will give the usual series of six Concerts during the present season, under the direction of Dr. Wolfrum, amongst the works to be produced being Liszt's "Graner Fest-Messe" and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Herr C. L. Werner, the well-known German organ virtuoso, a pupil of M. Alexandre Guilmant, of Paris, has been appointed Organist at the Stadt-Kirche of Baden-Baden.

The third edition of Herr August Reissmann's able biography of Mendelssohn has just been published by Messrs. List and Francke, of Leipzig. Amongst the interesting additions to the present edition may be mentioned a careful analysis of the earliest unpublished compositions of the prematurely developed master.

The projected performance, at the Paris Grand Opéra, of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" is said to have been abandoned for the present, and the same master's "Die Walküre" is to be mounted in its stead.

The new German Opera recently inaugurated at the Berlin Belle-Alliance Theatre has already collapsed, owing to the totally inadequate management.

Dr. Muck, the newly-appointed Capellmeister at the Berlin Royal Opera, commenced his functions last month with an excellent performance of Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde."

The successful opera "The Witch," by the Danish composer, M. Enna, has been accepted for performance at the Berlin Opera, as well as at the Dresden Hof-Theater.

The Berlin Royal Opera recorded, on the 16th ult., the three hundredth performance of "Lohengrin"; the Bayreuth master's now so universally popular work having been first performed there, with but very qualified success, on January 23, 1859.

The one hundredth anniversary has just been celebrated of the first performance, at Prague, of Mozart's "Zauberflöte," by a festival performance of the immortal work at the German Theatre in that capital.

At the Bohemian Theatre of Prague, Tschaikowski's opera "Pique-Dame" met with a most enthusiastic reception, resulting in an altogether inordinate number of recalls of the composer, who was present on the occasion.

A new opera, entitled "Vardhamana," by Herr Oelsner, has been accepted for performance at the Court Theatres of Darmstadt and of Cassel.

The Weimar Hof-Theater, which still occupies a prominent position amongst German theatres on account of its splendid traditional association with the artistic activity of both Goethe and Schiller, celebrated the century of its foundation last month. The proceedings included a series of tableaux vivants, illustrative of the history of the little Saxon capital, for which music had been specially written by Capellmeisters Lassen and Richard Strauss. There was also a performance, on the 10th ult., of Gluck's "Alceste," which had been newly mounted for the occasion.

At a Concert given on the 10th ult. at Dresden, under the direction of Herr Clemens Braun, the programme consisted entirely of compositions by our countryman, Mr. J. Moir Clark, including a Pianoforte Quintet, a Polonaise for violin and pianoforte, and a number of songs, which met with much appreciation on the part of a select audience. Miss Dora Bright, who was the pianist, was also accorded a most flattering reception. The Dresd'ner Journal speaks in terms of the highest eulogium of Mr. Clark's merits as a composer and of the general excellence of the performance.

On the 9th ult. fifty years had elapsed since Anton Rubinstein made his début as a pianist at one of the Concerts of the Leipzig Gewandhaus.

The fiftieth anniversary of the first performance, at Moscow, of Glinka's "The Life for the Czar" has just been celebrated in that town by a gala performance of the popular Russian opera.

The statue erected to Méhul, the composer of "Joseph" and of the "Chant du Départ," in his native town of Givet, was unveiled, amidst appropriate ceremonies, on the 2nd ult. M. Ambroise Thomas, the veteran director of the Paris Conservatoire, M. Massenet, and M. Victorin Joncières were amongst the speakers who rendered homage to the genius of their distinguished countryman on the occasion.

M. Camille Saint-Saëns has just completed a new opera, entitled "Proserpina," which will probably be first produced by M. Carvalho, of the Paris Opéra Comique.

"Christoforo Colombo," by the Baron Alberto Franchetti, was brought out at Genoa on the 6th ult., and achieved a very great success, under the direction of Signor Mancinelli. The work is spoken of as one of considerable merit, more especially as regards its numerous choruses and its orchestration; most important items, indeed, considering the subject of the opera.

"Mala Vita," the new opera by the Maëstro Giovano, which met with a highly favourable reception at its first performance, on September 27, by the Sonzogno Company at the Vienna Exhibition Theatre, has been accepted for performance at several German lyrical establishments.

M. van Dyck, the excellent Viennese tenor, has written a drama entitled "Matteo Falcone," founded upon Prosper Merrimée's novel of the same title, which is about to be produced at the Vienna Volks-Theater.

Edward Grieg has accepted an invitation to conduct a series of four Concerts of his own compositions at the Chicago Exhibition.

M. Alfred Bruneau, the composer of "Le Rêve," has succeeded the late M. Victor Wilder as musical critic of the Paris Gil Blas.

The annual series of Concerts, conducted by M. Colonne at the Paris Châtelet, recommenced on the 16th ult., with an excellent performance of Berlioz's "La Damnation de Faust."

At the Cirque d'Eté M. Lamoureux resumed his Orchestral Concerts on the 23rd ult., with the first performance there of Brahms's Second Symphony in D major; the programme also included Beethoven's Pianoforte Concerto in G, with Mdlle. Clotilde Kleeberg as the pianist.

Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde," with the late M. Wilder's version of the book, is in course of preparation at the Brussels Théâtre de la Monnaie, with Mdlle. Chrétien and M. Muratet, both very capable artists, in the titular parts. This will be the first performance in the French language of Wagner's great love-tragedy.

A new opera, entitled "Karel van Gelderland," the music by M. Peter Benoit, was produced for the first time on September 29 at the Flemish Theatre, Antwerp, and was enthusiastically received. On the same occasion a bust of the distinguished Flemish composer was unveiled in the foyer of the theatre in question.

A Concert-Overture, entitled "Boris Godunoff," by the veteran Russian composer, Jury d'Arnold, was recently performed at Moscow, under the composer's direction, and received with marked enthusiasm. M. d'Arnold is in his eighty-third year.

The Belgian composer, M. Matthieu, has completed a new opera, entitled "L'Enfance de Roland," the libretto founded upon one of Uhland's ballads, which has been accepted for performance at the Brussels Théâtre de la Monnaie.

Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," produced some time since with conspicuous success at the La Scala of Milan, is just now in course of being mounted, in the Italian language, at Turin.

Signor Roberto Stagno, the well-known Italian tenor, pupil of Professor Lamperti, of Dresden, has invented a new inhalation apparatus for strengthening the voice, which has been pronounced the most efficient and ingenious of its kind by high medical authorities in Italy. The apparatus is also to be submitted shortly to the medical faculty of the University of Vienna.

Two new comic operas are in course of being mounted at the Pezzona Theatre of Milan—viz., "Don Abbondio," by Signor Prampolini, and "Chiarina," by the Maëstro Luigi Dall' Argine. At the Bellini Theatre, Naples, a new opera, "Almanzor," by the Maëstro Mario Vitali, is likewise in course of preparation.

Signor Mascagni, in a recent conversation with Dr. Hanslick, informed the eminent Viennese critic that he is just now actively engaged upon the score of an opera, "William Ratcliff," the book of which is not merely an adaptation, but simply an Italian version of Heinrich Heine's drama of that name, with the only alteration that the four tableaux of which the latter consists have been converted, for lyrical purposes, into so many acts.

It is definitely announced in the Gazetta Musicale di Milano that Verdi's lyrical comedy in three acts, "Falstaff," the libretto by Signor Arrigo Boïto, will be brought out at the Theatre della Scala during the coming carnival season.

A committee has been formed at Bergamo, under the presidency of the Count Suardi Gianforte, a member of the Italian Parliament, for the purpose of erecting a monument in that town to Donizetti, to be unveiled on the occasion of the birth-centenary of the composer of "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Favorita." Gaetano Donizetti was born at Bergamo on November 29, 1797.

A new operetta, entitled "Cappador," the music by the Maëstro Gaetano Scognamiglio, was brought out last month at the Politeama Theatre of Naples, under the composer's direction, and was accorded a highly favourable reception.

Mr. Cowen's opera "Signa," originally intended for Mr. D'Oyly Carte's English Opera House, is to be brought out in January next, with an Italian version of the book, at the Carlo Felice Theatre of Genoa.

The operatic season of the Royal Opera of Madrid commenced on the 12th ult., with gala performances in connection with the Columbus festivities. Among the works to be first performed here during the season are Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," Signor Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," and two operas by Spanish composers—viz., "Garin," by Señor Thomas Breton, and "I Pirenei," by Señor Felipe Pedrell.

The Brazilian composer, Senhor Carlos Gomes, who has been appointed the official representative of the Brazilian Government at the Chicago Exhibition, intends, at the same time, to bring out two operatic works from his pen at the Exhibition Theatre—viz., "Condor," already performed at the La Scala of Milan, and "Colombo," a new work, written for the occasion.

It is intended to give a series of operatic performances during the coming winter, in various European capitals, by the Czech Company, who recently performed with so much success at the Vienna Exhibition. The contemplated tour is to commence in the French capital.

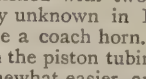
A new opera by M. Tschaikowski, entitled "Yolande," is in progress of being mounted at the Royal Opera of St. Petersburg.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE "BACH TRUMPETS."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Now that the Leeds Festival has once more brought Bach's Mass in B minor to a hearing, may I be allowed to protest against the trumpets employed in that performance being described as "reproductions of the old German model"?—for this mistaken idea threatens to gain general currency. The evidence of existing instruments of the last century, of writers like Prætorius and Altenburg, and of the structure of Bach's parts, which are limited to the notes represented more or less perfectly by the natural harmonics, shows that trumpets were used of a length to give the harmonics of the key indicated in the score—that is, trumpets standing in D were written for and intended to be used in the Mass. These trumpets possessed no mechanical means for rapidly altering the length of the tube, except in the case of the slide trumpets (trombe da tirarsi) occasionally used by Bach, though not in the Mass; and as transposition was not resorted to, the performers were required to reach the eighteenth or even the twentieth harmonic. The present so-called "Bach trumpets" are made, with certain alterations, after the model employed by Herr Kosleck at the performance of the Mass in the Albert Hall in 1885. They stand not in D, but in A, so that, the pitch being a fifth higher, the player must transpose the part a fifth down; as this does not permit of the continued employment of the natural harmonics, they are furnished with two pistons of the usual type, a device utterly unknown in Bach's day, and they are made straight like a coach horn. The abolition of all bends except those in the piston tubing makes the emission of the high notes somewhat easier, and is not inconvenient with a tube under five feet in length, but would be most awkward if applied to the trumpet in D, half as long again. There is no evidence that Bach's musicians used straight trumpets between seven and eight feet long. On the modern "Bach trumpet" the performer is not required to ascend above the twelfth harmonic in order to reach the highest note written in the Mass:—



and it may surprise some purists to learn that its employment is in every way analogous to the substitution of the cornet for the more noble instrument. For it only differs from a cornet in A in its shape and in the replacement of the conical by a cylindrical bore. Its tone in the upper register is equal to that of the old trumpet, while the highest notes are far easier of attack and less fatiguing; but the lower register is hardly better than that of the cornet, whose faults it shares with respect to the use of the valves, and is not to be compared with that of the D trumpet.

In what then do these instruments resemble the "old German model"? Neither in shape, length, mechanism, nor in the demands made on the performer's skill. The similarity in bore is common to all trumpets, for it admits of no variation except in calibre and in the shape of the bell—points in which the English-made instruments differ from the one used by Herr Kosleck. With these differences the last shred of resemblance to the old instruments he is supposed to have reproduced is gone.

In protesting against an inaccuracy so general that even an authority like Mr. Hipkins, in the Appendix to Grove's Dictionary of Music, speaks of Mr. Morrow being able to reach the twentieth proper tone on the "Bach trumpet," when he means a note equivalent in pitch to the twentieth proper tone of the trumpet in D, I do not wish to undervalue its utility. At the present day no man, unless he were to devote himself exclusively to clarino playing, could play Bach's parts on the proper instrument, as it is only very few artists, like Mr. Morrow and Herr Kosleck, can do so. The fatigue is immense, and there are good grounds for believing that in Bach's time, when every little Capelle had a large staff of trumpeters, these high parts were played by at least two men taking alternate sections, whereas the modern player has to do it all by himself. The more honour to him!

But the point is not entirely academical. In the late performance, "for the first time all three trumpet parts were played on instruments made after the old German model" (The Times, 8th ult.). The attempt to carefully reproduce Bach's intentions has led to an artistic error. When three trumpet parts were written by Bach or Handel (as in the Dettingen Te Deum), the two first were clarino parts—that is, they were high, florid, and often moved together in two-part harmony. The third trumpet played principale; its part lay in the middle and lower registers, was less florid, and played with a bolder tone.

For the principale the new trumpet is nothing but a bad substitute, with an inferior tone in the lower notes, inability to give the natural harmonics, and its freedom limited by the constant use of the valves. The most conservative and representative arrangement of Bach's parts that can now be adopted is to employ the "Bach trumpet" for the first and second clarino parts, and for the third part or principale to have recourse to the slide trumpet, which can well perform it, is far better in the lower register, and is the legitimate and lineal descendant of the trumpets of the "old German model."—I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

W. F. H. Blandford.

October 8, 1892.

THE MUSIC OF WATER.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In reply to "F. C.'s" letter, I may say in the words of Shakespeare, "Too much of water hast thou, poor Ophelia," or rather "poor 'F. C.,'" and therefore I refrain from loading thee with any new aqueous information. "F. C." has evidently had more water than is good for him.

He declares that there are numerous propositions in the article which do not claim his assent. I daresay there are; yet I, for my part, do not imagine that his assent is of very much importance, considering the gross mistakes which he himself makes in the few lines which have been placed at his disposal. In his very next sentence he tries to make out that sticks and stones are one of the four elements of nature! I have always understood that Earth, Air, Fire, and Water constituted the quartet. "F. C.," however, believes that the proper four are Fire, Water, Sticks, and Stones.

So much for his assertions. Next for his arguments. I stated in my article that "the gurgling of a brook is the most musically satisfying sound in nature, because it embodies the trill." "F. C.'s" argument is pithy but not profound. He says simply, "It isn't and it doesn't." To such logic as this I may reply, "It is and it does."

A little lower down he falls foul not only of me, but of Professor Tyndall, whose words concerning De la Rive's experiment I quoted in my article. Professor Tyndall's careful words about the experiment are, according to "F. C.," "pure nonsense"; all my article is likewise pure nonsense; in fact, the only person who knows anything about the subject is "F. C." himself, whose views on the matter have hitherto not been vouchsafed to an expectant world.

To this anonymous antagonist, who loads both Professor Tyndall and myself with his abuse, I have neither the patience nor the inclination to reply. I am not accustomed to argue as he argues—"it isn't and it doesn't"—without giving reasons in support of my assertions; nor am I wont to abuse an antagonist because his opinions differ from mine. If he seeks for complete and careful evidence for every fact he is ignorant of, I may recommend him to turn to my "History of Music," where he will find full and ample information, not only about the Greek games, but also about De la Rive's experiment, about the Brazilian instruments, the water-clocks, the hydraulic organ, &c. When he has made himself fully acquainted with the whole literature of the subject, I expect him readily to confess that he is astounded at his own statements—not at mine.—I remain, Sir, yours, &c.,

J. F. Rowbotham,
Author of "The Music of Water."

[Several communications are held over owing to want of space in the present issue.]

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Beckenham.—Mr. Edward Coombs, the Organist and Musical Director of Beckenham Independent Church, was presented, on the occasion of his recent marriage, with a handsome marble chiming clock by the Choir of the Church, and a massive walnut overmantel and Oriental vases by the Minister and Officers, as a mark of esteem and appreciation.

Brighton.—Mr. Frederick Corder gave a capital Lecture on "Pianoforte Technique" at the School of Music, on the 11th ult., to a large audience. He dealt with the development of the pianoforte from the harpsichord down to the present perfect instruments, and went minutely into the mechanism of the hand, showed how to develop its powers, and insisted on the necessity of intelligence other than musical in the would-be pianoforte player. In illustration of various styles of pianoforte playing several pieces were performed by Miss West, Miss Balean, Miss Moate, and the Lecturer himself.——On Saturday, the 22nd ult., a very interesting Lecture on the history of "English Music" was given by Mr. Henry Davey, a well-known local Professor and author of a recently published "History of Music" and other works. Commencing with the twelfth century, the Lecturer traced the development of the art, in all its principal branches, down to the present day. The illustrations were rendered by students of the School of Music, under the direction of Mr. Robert Taylor, and consisted of examples of the various periods alluded to by the Lecturer:—Six-part song, "Sumer is icumen in," John of Fornsete (1226); "The King's Hunting Jigg," John Bull; old ballad, "The Three Ravens"; Toccata (pianoforte), and song, "Nymphs and Shepherds," Purcell; songs, "Where the bee sucks," Arne, and "Lo, here the gentle lark," Bishop; Barcarolle from Fourth Concerto, Sterndale Bennett; song, "Guinevere," and trio "Three little maids" (Mikado), Sullivan. The Lecturer was introduced by Dr. A. King, one of the directors of the School.

Bury St. Edmunds.—The Harvest Festival Services held in St. Mary's Church on the 2nd ult. were of a particularly bright and hearty nature. In the evening the large and beautiful church was crowded by an enormous congregation. Shinn's Evening Service in F was used, the Anthem being "Great is the Lord," by Adlam, for solo treble and chorus. After the sermon, "O lovely peace" (Judas) and "Achieved is the glorious work" (Creation) were finely sung by the choir, numbering about sixty-five voices. Mr. T. B. Richardson ably presided at the fine organ by Walker and Sons.

Derby.—On September 29 Mr. J. Harold Henry, a talented young violinist who is rapidly making a name for himself, gave a Violin Recital in the Temperance Hall, Derby, in which town he has established himself after a course of study at the Royal Academy and under Herr Hans Sitt at Leipzig. In conjunction with an excellent orchestra Mr. Henry played Concertos by Godard and De Beriot and a number of smaller pieces. Throughout the young violinist displayed qualities of the highest order; his execution is brilliant and dashing in bravura passages, while his cantabile is delightfully tender. The orchestra played several selections, Mr. Sydney Sadler played two movements of Sterndale Bennett's F minor Concerto, and Miss Marie Hooton (contralto) sang a number of songs very artistically.

Farnham.—The first of the second series of Popular Concerts, given in the Corn Exchange on the 19th ult., attracted a large audience. The vocalists were Miss Aubrey and Messrs. Lambert and Winslade. Miss Edith Woods was the pianist and Mr. John Hullah Brown the violinist. The Farnham Excelsior Band also played several selections, under the leadership of Miss Hayell.

Lee.—The Harvest Festival Services at St. Mildred's Church were brought to a close on Wednesday, the 19th ult., by a very fine performance of Haydn's Creation, with full orchestra and a choir of 115 voices. The usual harvest hymns, in which the congregation were invited to join, had been arranged for the orchestra by Mr. F. L. Kett, the Choirmaster, whose beautiful tune to "Holy is the seed-time" was sung, and who conducted with his well-known ability. The solos in the Oratorio were efficiently rendered by Mrs. Dilley and Messrs. Walker, Robinson, and Dilley. Mr. Terry was leader of the band and Mr. S. Mayor presided at the organ. There was a very large congregation. The offertory was in aid of the Choir Fund.

Llandudno.—On the 19th ult., at Holy Trinity Church, the second Festival of the Arllechwedd Deanery Church Choral Union was held, combined with the Harvest Festival. The choirs of Conway, Llanfairfechan, and Penmaenmawr, in all about 100 voices, joined in the afternoon and evening services. The organ was supported by a brass quartet—

Messrs. Grey (cornet), Marshall and Sterz (horns), and Hughes (trombone). The Anthem was "Fear not, O Land" (Goss). Dykes's Te Deum in F was sung at the close of Evensong. Organist, Mr. J. E. Adkins (Preston Parish Church); Conductor, Mr. R. H. Whall, Organist of the Church and director of the Festival.

MAIDSTONE.—A selection of sacred music was given on the 9th ult., at St. Faith's Church, after the evening service, to an overflowing congregation, the choir being augmented for the occasion to sixty voices. The duet "The Lord is a Man of war" (Israel in Egypt) was given with remarkable precision. The solos were sung by Miss Kate Trendall, and Messrs. Saunders, Syckelmore, and Crow. Miss Trendall was heard to great advantage in Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer," Mr. Saunders sang "If with all your hearts," and Mr. Syckelmore "It is enough," with great taste. Mr. F. W. Dutnall presided at the organ with his usual ability.

SOUTHPORT.—On Wednesday, the 12th ult., a capital Concert was given at Howick House, the residence of Mrs. Williamson, for the benefit of the Children's Sanatorium, the result being that £21 was handed over to that establishment. A brilliant audience assembled in the Hall, which is almost baronial in architecture and appearance. The artists comprised Mrs. Herbert Gregg, Miss Gordon Nun, Dr. Graham, and Mr. S. Blumberg, all of whom won well merited applause.

TEWKESBURY.—The annual Dedication Festival was held at Tewkesbury Abbey on September 28, when the combined choirs of Gloucester Cathedral and Tewkesbury Abbey gave Stainer in A (Evening) and Wesley's "Wilderness." The solo parts of the Anthem were taken by Master Brandon, and Messrs. Cook, Greenwood, and Thomas, of Gloucester. As various gifts had been presented to the Abbey in memory of friends of the donors, Sir H. Oakeley's Anthem "Comes at times a stillness as of even" was sung before the sermon, which was preached by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese. Mr. S. Bath, Organist of the Abbey, presided at the organ, and gave a Recital in the evening.

WHALEY BRIDGE.—On Sunday, the 16th ult., the choir of Holy Trinity Church gave, before a large and attentive congregation, the Sacred Cantata Jesus of Nazareth. The principal soloists were Miss M. H. Bennett, Miss S. Boothby, Miss M. Hallam, Miss Clara Hallam, Miss Patti Hallam, Mr. William Southern, Mr. W. Turner, and Mr. H. Bennett. The choir were well up to their work, and under their able Conductor, the Rev. J. B. Gawn, everything went smoothly. Miss Eva Gawn, the Organist, skilfully discharged the duties of accompanist.

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. George Dodds, jun., Organist and Choirmaster to St. Andrew's Church, Corbridge-on-Tyne.—Mr. W. Granger, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Omagh, Ireland, and Conductor of the Omagh Choral Society.—Mr. Edmund Harrison Saulez, Organist and Musicmaster to the Clergy Orphan School, Canterbury.—Miss McKnight, Organist and Music Teacher to King William's College, Castletown, Isle of Man.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Robert Franz	649
Beethoven's Sketch Books—No. 6. Chamber Music, &c.	649
From my Study	652
The Musical Graduates' Union	654
Tennyson in Song	655
Occasional Notes	656
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	659
Leeds Musical Festival	662
Covent Garden Opera	664
Signor Lago's Opera Season	665
Crystal Palace Concerts	665
The Popular Concerts	666
Mr. Sarasate's Concerts	666
Mr. Slivinski's Pianoforte Recital	666
Lyric Theatre	666
The Royalty	666
Bauer-Walenn Concerts	667
Dr. Parry's "Judith" at Brighton	667
Obituary	667
Music in Birmingham	667
„ Bristol	668
„ Edinburgh	668
„ Glasgow	668
„ Liverpool	675
„ Manchester	673
„ Norwich	676
„ Nottingham	677
„ Sheffield	677
„ Yorkshire	677
Four Christmas Carols.—Composed and arranged by J. Barnby, A. C. Mackenzie, G. C. Martin, and J. Stainer	669
General News (London)	678
Reviews	679
Foreign Notes	680
Correspondence	682
General News (Country)	683
List of Music published during the last Month	685

MISS TERESA HAYNES (Soprano)
Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c.
90, Bury New Road, Higher Broughton, Manchester.

MADAME ELIZA THOMAS (Contralto)
"A charmingly sympathetic contralto voice."—Hastings Observer, October 1, 1892.
For Oratorios or Ballads, Zion House, Harlesden, N.W.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN, L.R.A.M. (Bass)
For Concerts, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S
New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

DR. H. KEETON'S
NO. 5.—CHURCH AND CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD.
Paper cover, 2s. net; cloth, 3s. net, post-free. Just issued.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS,
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS
FOR LADIES' VOICES.

SCHOOL SONGS, WITH PIANO ACCOMPANIMENT
FOR GIRLS' OR BOYS' VOICES IN UNISON
BY ALFRED REDHEAD.

SONGS FOR CLASSES
EDITED BY ALFRED J. CALDICOTT.

Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S
NEW EDITION OF
STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES,
Thoroughly Revised, Re-fingered, and Newly Engraved, specially for the Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations.
"This series is one of the best musical publications of the day, highly to be recommended to Professors and Teachers."—The Graphic.
151 Numbers ready. List on application.

ALSO "CLASSICAL MUSIC" (NEW SERIES)
SELECTED, FINGERED, AND EDITED BY
ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER,
Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.
72 Numbers ready. List on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.
BEST'S COLLECTION OF ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
New Editions. Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORGAN
BY DR. E. J. HOPKINS AND DR. E. F. RIMBAULT.
This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.
Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN MUSIC.

NEW COMPOSITIONS BY EMILE SAURET, JOHANNES WOLFF, OTTO PEINIGER, AND TIVADAR NACHÈZ.
List on application.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.
Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR.
Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.
Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

NEW SONGS.

CROSSING THE BAR
BY LAWRENCE KELLIE.
The latest and most popular setting of the late Lord Tennyson's Poem.
"Appropriately solemn and impressive."—Whitehall Review.
"A simple and attractive composition."—Academy.
"Will linger on the memory wherever it is heard."—Daily News.

AVE MARIA
BY ANGELO MASCHERONI.
Specially composed for and dedicated to Madame ADELINA PATTI-NICOLINI.

INFINITE LOVE
BY MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.
Words by DANTE G. ROSSETTI.

Each Song in two or more Keys.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

KILBURN, N.—"The Lord is my Shepherd" (Psalm xxiii.). For Chorus and Orchestra (or Organ). Paper cover, 1s.

TCHAÏKOWSKY, P.—Twenty-four Songs, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Selected and translated into English by Lady MACFARREN. Paper cover, 2s. 6d. For Contents, see Advertisement, page 687.

METCALFE, WILLIAM.—Twelve Original Voluntaries for Organ or Harmonium. Paper cover, 1s.

BRIDGE, J. F.—"The Lord's Prayer." 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 6d.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, No. 5. "Dawn, Gentle Flower." Song. By W. STERNDALE BENNETT. "John Gilpin." Trio, for S.S.A. (or S.C.B.), with ad libitum accompaniment. By G. A. MACFARREN. Tune and Time Tests for Schools and Pupil Teachers. 1½d.

BLAIR, HUGH.—"Harvest-Tide." A Cantata for Harvest. Book of Words, 5s. per 100.

ELLIOTT, J. W.—The Apostles' Creed, with accompanying harmonies. (No. 111. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

HARWOOD, BASIL—(in A flat). The Office for the Holy Communion (including Benedictus qui venit and Agnus Dei). Op. 6. Paper cover, 1s.

LAWTON, LIONEL—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

LUTKIN, P. C.—(in C). Te Deum laudamus. 4d.

STRIBLING, J.—Vesper Hymn. On card. 1d.

SUTTON, E. A.—Introits, Graduals, and Alleluias. At the Celebration of the Holy Communion: 18 and 19, Introit and Gradual for All Saints' Day. 3d.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—"Crossing the Bar." Set to music for Four Voices. The poem written by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON. 1s. 6d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d. Arrangement for Solo Voice, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 2s.

CRUICKSHANK, W. A. C.—"There was war in heaven." Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. Suitable for St. Michael's Day. (No. 414. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

VICARS, GEORGE RAYLEIGH.—"Lighten our darkness." Anthem. For Four Voices. (No. 408. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

VINCENT, CHARLES.—"Wise men from the East." Christmas or Epiphany Anthem. (Church Music, No. 6.) 3d.

—— "Break forth into joy." Christmas Anthem. (Church Music, No. 7.) 3d.

DOUGLAS, HUGH A.—"O Sacred Banquet." Antiphone, for use during the Ablutions. For Treble or Tenor Solo and Chorus. 3d.

TENNYSON, LADY.—"The Silent Voices." The latest poem written by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON. Arranged for Four Voices by J. FREDERICK BRIDGE. 3d.

BATSON, A. WELLESLEY.—"Three Children Sliding." A Four-part Song. The words written by GAMMER GURTON. (No. 640. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "The Light of Love." A Four-part Song. The words Anonymous. (No. 641. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "The Despairing Lover." A Four-part Song. The words written by WILLIAM WALSH. (No. 633. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "Cephalus and Procris." A Four-part Song. The words written by T. MOORE. (No. 635. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

BEAUMONT, HENRY.—"Empress of the Night." Glee (Unaccompanied). For A.T.T.B. Words by MARTIN. 3d.

DAVIS, J. D.—"From White's and Will's." A Four-part Song. The words written by AMBROSE PHILLIPS (1671-1749). (No. 642. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

ELGAR, EDWARD.—Spanish Serenade. For Chorus (S.A.T.B.) and Orchestra. The words from LONGFELLOW'S "Spanish Student." (No. 644. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

ILIFFE, F.—"Go, happy rose." A Four-part Song. The words written by R. HERRICK. (No. 645. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

JENKINS, D.—"Nawr y ffyrnig genllif gwyd" ("Now th' impetuous torrents rise"). Chorus, from "David and Saul." (No. 763*. Novello's Octavo Choruses.) 4d.

KING, OLIVER.—"Echoes." A Four-part Song. The words written by THOMAS MOORE. (No. 638. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

LLOYD, C. FRANCIS.—"Phyllis tarries." Part-Song. For S.A.T.B. 3d.

PEARSON, W. W.—"Blow, Western Wind!" Part-Song. For S.A.T.B. The words by EDWARD OXENFORD. 3d.

READ, J. F. H.—Two Part-Songs, for Male Voices (A.T.B.B.). No. 1. "The Armada." The words by ANGIOLO R. SELOUS; No. 2. "Sleep, dear." The words by the EARL OF LYTTON. 6d. Or, separately, No. 1, 4d.; No. 2, 3d.

STANFORD, C. V.—"Soft, soft wind." A Four-part Song. The words written by CHARLES KINGSLEY. (No. 646. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "Sing heigh-ho!" A Four-part Song. The words written by CHARLES KINGSLEY. (No. 647. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "Airly Beacon." A Four-part Song. The words written by CHARLES KINGSLEY. (No. 648. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "The Knight's Tomb." A Four-part Song. The words written by SAMUEL TAYLOR COLERIDGE. (No. 649. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

B——, BERNOULLI.—"Strew on her roses, roses" ("Requiescat"). Song. The words written by MATTHEW ARNOLD. No. 1, in F, 2s.; No. 2, in D, 2s.

OULTON, M.—"Up! and be doing." Song for Unionists. The words written by the late Mrs. E. GRACE THOMSON. 2s.

TAYLOR, COLSON.—"Colleen." Song. The words written by HUBI NEWCOMBE. 2s.

GOUNOD, C.—"Marche Solennelle." Arranged for Two Harps, or Harp and Pianoforte, by JOHN THOMAS. First Harp, 2s.; Second Harp, 2s.; Harp and Pianoforte, 4s.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

		s.	d.
No. 162.	Adagio, in D .. .. .. OTTO DIENEL	1	0
„ 163.	Concert Fugue, in E minor .. OTTO DIENEL	1	6

PURCELL.—Chaconne, in F major. Arranged by A. W. MARCHANT. (No. 10. Organ Arrangements, edited by GEORGE C. MARTIN.) 1s.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS:—

Book 11.	Six Kindergarten Songs ..	ALFRED MOFFAT	6d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS. Separate numbers:—

No. 59.	Rowing	ALFRED MOFFAT	1d.
„ 60.	The Old Clock	ALFRED MOFFAT	1d.
„ 61.	Churning	ALFRED MOFFAT	1d.
„ 62.	Feeding Hens and Chickens ..	ALFRED MOFFAT	1d.
„ 63.	The merry harvesters	ALFRED MOFFAT	1d.
„ 64.	Little soldiers	ALFRED MOFFAT	1d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 767.	Hail to the Chief	E. PROUT	1½d.
„ 768.	Say, where is He born	MENDELSSOHN	1½d.
„ 773.	Crossing the Bar	J. F. BRIDGE	2d.

A. C. MACKENZIE.—"The Cotter's Saturday Night." 1s.

MYLES B. FOSTER.—"The Bonnie Fishwives." 9d.

C. WARWICK JORDAN.—"Come unto Me, ye weary." 2d.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CONCERT-GIVERS.

MR. JOHN BARTLETT

(TENOR)

(PRINCIPAL, PRO-CATHEDRAL, KENSINGTON)

AND

COVENT GARDEN PROMENADE,
CRYSTAL PALACE ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS,
MADAME FANNY MOODY AND MR. CHAS. MANNERS'S
CONCERT TOUR, &c.

Is now Booking Engagements for Oratorio Concerts, &c. Special Terms for first appearances. Répertoire includes "Messiah," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," "Elijah," "Crucifixion," "Daughter of Jairus," "Messe Solennelle," "May Queen," "Ancient Mariner," "Rose Maiden," &c.

Evening News says: "Mr. John Bartlett possesses a voice and style that should qualify him for high position."

Western Morning News.—"Fine voice, considerable range, which manages well in both operatic and ballad music."

Hampshire Post.—"'Messiah.' . . . sang well throughout, rendering of recitatives and 'Thou shalt break them' being very fine."

Hastings Advertiser.—"With respect to the artists, Mr. John Bartlett sang splendidly. . . . has a fine voice."

For press opinions, terms, &c., address, Mr. John Bartlett, Balmuir, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, London, S.W. Or Agents.

ST. PETER'S INSTITUTE,
BUCKINGHAM PALACE ROAD.

MUSIC CLASSES
UNDER THE DIRECTION OF
MR. W. DE M. SERGISON
(Precentor and Organist of St. Peter's, Eaton Square).

Three Terms of 12 Weeks each in the year, commencing in October and ending in July.

1.—SINGING AND VOICE PRODUCTION.
Conducted by Mr. SERGISON.
THURSDAYS at 8 p.m. N.B.—The first Lecture will be given on Thursday, October 27.
FEES.—Members, 6s. per Term, or 15s. for Three Terms; Non-Members, 10s. per Term, or £1 for Three Terms.

2.—PIANOFORTE CLASSES (Senior and Junior).
Instructors—Mr. SERGISON, Mr. EDWARD DE LISLE, and Mr. GILBERT W. TOZER.

3.—SOLO SINGING.
Instructor—Mr. SERGISON.
FEES.—Members, £2 10s. per Term, or £6 for Three Terms; Non-Members, £3 per Term, or £7 for Three Terms.
Lessons 20 minutes each in Classes of three. Each pupil can remain for one hour.

4.—VIOLIN CLASSES.
Instructor—Mr. STADEN.

5.—MANDOLINE, GUITAR, BANJO.
Instructor—Mr. ARTHUR STANLEY.

6.—INSTRUCTION IN OTHER ORCHESTRAL INSTRUMENTS AND HARMONY CLASSES.

N.B.—LADIES ARE ADMITTED to all the above Classes, which are open to Non-Members as well as to Members of St. Peter's Institute.

Further particulars from the Secretary.
October, 1892.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD
(Guild of Church Musicians),
35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

November 2.—Choral Festival, Church of St. Anne, Birkenhead. Conductor: F. A. Brassey Salt, F.C.C.G.
November 3.—Annual Banquet, at which the Very Rev. the President will preside.
November 15, at 3 p.m.—Organ Recital at St. Michael's, North Kensington, by C. H. Duffield, F.C.C.G., F.C.O.
November 24, at 5.30.—Lecture in the Council Room, by Sydney S. R. Coles, Mus.B., F.C.O.
November 24, at 6.30 p.m.—Organ Recital, by F. J. Karn, Mus.D., F.C.C.G.
November 24, at 8 p.m.—Annual Service, Church of St. Thomas, Regent Street, W.
January 11 and 12.—F.C.C.G. and A.C.C.G. Diploma Examination.
For further particulars see The Church Musician; or, apply to Dr. Lewis, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.
C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

CARLYON COLLEGE, KERIN and LYNAM, 57, Chancery Lane, W.C.—Classes for the Inter. Mus., London, Durham, and Royal Universities begin February, 1893. Full details on application.

MR. ALFRED J. TURTON (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, St. Catherine's, Lincoln.

MR. E. DUNKERTON (Tenor), Lincoln Cathedral, is booking Engagements for Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c. Address, Cathedral, Lincoln.

TWO SOLO BOYS, with knowledge of Music, WANTED, for St. Thomas's, Regent Street. Payment, £10 to £12 per year. Also TENORS. Travelling expenses paid. Write A. H. Crowest, 57, Canonbury Park, North London.

CHOIRMASTER.—ALTO, with unexceptional voice, twelve years' experience, desires ENGAGEMENT. Has also held appointments in Lincoln's Inn Chapel, Ely and Winchester Cathedrals. Address, A. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, MUSICMASTERS, and SOLOISTS desiring APPOINTMENTS should apply to the Secretary, Diapason Musical Agency, 55, Chancery Lane, W.C.

AN ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (27 years in present appointment) will be at liberty at Christmas to accept a similar ENGAGEMENT. Sussex preferred. Reference from present Vicar. Address, Edward A. Basley, 60, Gipsy Hill, S.E.

TUNER.—WANTED, an efficient PIANOFORTE TUNER, of good character. Apply to James Smith and Son, 76, Lord Street, Liverpool.

TUNER.—WANTED, first-rate TUNER and REGULATOR, by a large provincial house. Apply, with references and stating salary required, to B. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Abstainer. Address, Alpha, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, Young Lady ASSISTANT in MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Must be a good Pianist and Sight Reader. Letters to Music, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ADVERTISER, well educated, and has good address (seventeen years' experience in the Piano and Sheet Trade), wishes to hear of a good firm of Piano Makers or Musicsellers who require a TRAVELLER. Excellent testimonials. Address, F. C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PROFESSOR wishes to DISPOSE of his CONNECTION. Lease and large Concert-Room in the High Street of a large suburban town. Address, Beta, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FOR SALE.—MUSIC BUSINESS, established nearly thirty years in rising Watering-place. Price for lease, goodwill, fixtures, stock, including about 25 pianos, 9 or 10 organs and harmoniums, large stock of small goods and sheet music, only £500. Apply, B. T. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals, 31 stops, and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

ORGAN for SALE. Three manuals, nearly new. 20 stops, spotted metal, 8-ft. front, pedal organ complete, Bourdon, oak case with stool, concave pedals, 4 composition ditto. By HUNTER and SON, London. Gas engine and fittings if required. Appy or write, Organ, 1, Princes Road, Kennington Cross, London, S.E.

ORGAN (Pipe), 8 ft. 9 in. high. Excellent Gothic appearance. Decorated front pipes (blue and gold), 6 stops, pedals. Really good instrument; perfect order; lead about 400 persons; suit Village Church admirably. Price £35. Photo, six stamps. Stoneham, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, London, W. Appointments, please, evenings preferred.

NEW MUSIC FOR ADVENT & CHRISTMAS.

THE BIRTH OF CHRIST
NEW SACRED CANTATA
FOR
ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS
BY
CLEMENT LOCKNANE
FOR S.T.B. SOLI, WITH CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.
Price 1s. 6d. net; Words only, 2d.

25 OLD AND NEW CHRISTMAS CAROLS
EDITED AND ARRANGED BY
DAVIS L. MARTYN.
Price, complete, 1s. net; separate Nos., 1d. each.

TWO NEW ANTHEMS.
UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN. Price 3d.
By FRANK ADLAM.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. Price 3d.
By CLEMENT LOCKNANE.

Now Ready.
Eight New Books of Favourite Melodies
ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN BY DR. SPARK.
Price 2s. each net.

MATHIAS & STRICKLAND, MUSIC PUBLISHERS,
2, GREAT TITCHFIELD STREET, LONDON, W.

MY WILL IS GONE TO SLEEP, DEAR. Love Song. The words written by WALTER HERRIES POLLOCK The music composed by MARGUERITE MARIGOLD. Price 2s. net.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SONGS BY ROBERT FRANZ.

ALBUM OF THIRTY SONGS

Translated into English by Francis Hueffer.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

FOURTEEN SONGS

set to poems of

ROBERT BURNS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWENTY

SACRED SONGS

composed by

JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH.

selected from the Schemell Collection, and arranged for voice and pianoforte accompaniment

by

ROBERT FRANZ.

The English Version by the Rev. Dr. Troutbeck.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

To Choral Societies.

HANDEL SELECTION.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER & CO. having some copies remaining of the Selection of Music performed at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, are prepared to supply copies at

NINEPENCE EACH.

An opportunity is thus afforded to Choral Societies of acquiring an excellent selection of favourite Choruses, Solos, &c., from Handel's Works at a merely nominal price.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWENTY-FOUR SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

composed by

P. TCHAÏKOWSKY,

selected, and translated into English by Lady Macfarren.

CONTENTS.

No. 1. None but a lonely heart.
„ 2. What torment, what rapture!
„ 3. A heavy tear.
„ 4. Why so pale are the roses?
„ 5. This only once.
„ 6. The song that you sang long ago.
„ 7. What matters?
„ 8. The sleep of sorrow.
„ 9. Know'st thou the land?
„ 10. Canary bird.
„ 11. The Czar's drinking house.
„ 12. Invocation to sleep.
„ 13. O never leave me, sweet friend.
„ 14. Mother dear, oh, was I born?
„ 15. No, whom I love I will not name.
„ 16. Why?
„ 17. No, I have never loved.
„ 18. No tidings came from thee.
„ 19. Sweet maid, give answer.
„ 20. Spanish Serenade.
„ 21. The dawn of spring.
„ 22. The tapers were flashing.
„ 23. Oh, would you but for one short hour
„ 24. If thou wilt hold my heart secure.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

composed by

G. HENSCHEL.

IN TWO PARTS.

Part I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (Low Voice).
Part II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (Low Voice).
Will be Published November 21.

Part I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (High Voice).
Part II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (High Voice).
Part I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (Medium Voice).
Part II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (Medium Voice).

Price Four Shillings each Part.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA. 2d. net.
The Star of Bethlehem (Carol). 2d. net.
Adeste Fideles, with var. for the Organ, pedal obbligato. 2s. net.
Glory to God on high. Hymn (with five others). 6d.
To be had of Dr. Belcher, Stratford Road, Birmingham; or of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

SONGS by LORD TENNYSON. Set to Music by Sir Herbert Oakeley. Of those published, the following may be had from Messrs. Methven and Simpson, Edinburgh; or, from the Composer, Dover: From "The Princess," Bugle Song, "Tears, idle tears," Swallow Song, "Home they brought," and "Ask me no more"; also, "Flow down, cold rivulet," "Break, break," and "Edward Gray." These settings have the addition of German translation.

IMPORTANT.

TO VOCALISTS, PUBLIC SPEAKERS, AND OTHERS.

JONES'

VOICE AND THROAT LOZENGES

Act like a Charm on the Vocal Organs & Throat removing all

HUSKINESS and ROUGHNESS OF VOICE.

They are a specific for Relaxed and Ulcerated Throats.

Numerous Testimonials have been received from Vocalists of repute.

In Boxes, 7½d., 1s. 1½d., and 2s. 9d. Post-free, for 9d., 1s. 3½d., and 3s.

W. HARRIS JONES,

Pharmaceutical Chemist,

4, MACLISE ROAD, LONDON, W.

Wholesale: Messrs. SANGER & SONS, Oxford Street.

Ask your Chemist to procure you a Box.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
AMADEI, A.—Impromptu. For the Pianoforte	5	0
BIRD, A.—Op. 31:—
No. 1. Menuet. For the Pianoforte	3	0
„ 2. Mazurka. For the Pianoforte	3	0
„ 3. Study. For the Pianoforte	3	0
BORDIER, J.—"Escarpolette." Fantaisie Humoristique. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	4	0
BRAUER, MAX.—Rondino. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 12	3	0
BRUYANT, A.—"Ave Maria." For Mezzo-Soprano, Violin Obbligato, and Organ or Pianoforte	4	0
BUFALETTI, F.—Feuilles d'Album. No. 1. Pierrot-Pierrette. No. 2. Scène d'Amour. No. 3. Noces Valse. Op. 2 complete	8	0
CANTIE, A.—Berceuse. For Flute and Pianoforte Op. 5 ..	6	0
CASELLA, C.—"O Belle Nuit." Sérénade Romantique. For Violoncello and Pianoforte..	5	0
—— Chanson Napolitaine. For Pianoforte Solo	5	0
DUMAS, E.—"Repentir." Offertoire. For Violin and Organ or Pianoforte	4	0
EBERHARDT, G.—"Daily Studies for the Violin." First Position. Op. 84	4	0
GARIMOND, H.—"Inspiration." Melody. For Oboe or Violin or Violoncello and Pianoforte	4	0
GODARD, B.—Aubade. For Violin and Violoncello. Op. 133	5	0
HETZEL, M.—Berceuse. For Violin and Pianoforte..	2	0
HASSELMANNS, A.—Three Transcriptions for the Harp, on works by RUBINSTEIN:—
No. 1. Melody in F	4	0
„ 2. Une larme	3	0
„ 3. 3me Barcarolle	4	0
HOFMANN, R.—"Blätter und Blüthen." Easy Transcriptions, for the Violin and Pianoforte:—
No. 3. CHOPIN.—Funeral March	2	0
„ 35. „ Polonaise. Op. 40, No. 1	3	0
„ 32. „ Nocturne. Op. 9, No. 2	2	0
„ 6. SCHUBERT.—Ave Maria	2	0
„ 10. „ Am Meer	2	0
„ 43. SCHUMANN.—Evening Song	2	0
„ 44. „ Träumerei	2	0
„ 16. WEBER.—Invitation à la Valse	4	0
—— Five Instructive Pieces. For Violin and Violoncello. Op. 83:—
No. 1, Allegro moderato; No. 2, Andante religioso; No. 3, Allegretto grazioso ma non troppo; No. 4, Scherzo; No. 5, Allegro	6	0
KLEINMICHEL, R.—National Dances. Arranged as Pianoforte Duet	4	0
LACOMBE, L.—Entr'acte ("L'Amour"). For Violoncello and Pianoforte..	4	0
—— Rêverie. Melody. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	6	0
MARX-MARKUS.—Album-leaf. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 34	3	0
MARTUCCI, G.—Two Romanzas. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 72:—
No. 1. Andantino con moto	3	0
„ 2. Moderato	3	0
MILLET, A.—Three Pieces. For Flute, or Clarinet, or Oboe, or Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment:—
No. 1. Badinage (Scherzo)	6	0
„ 2. Evening Song (Andante molto)	6	0
„ 3. A vol d'oiseau (Presto)	7	0
OEHME, R.—Four Songs. For Soprano, with Pianoforte Accompaniment:—No. 1, "The Song of Wulfhilde"; No. 2, "Song of Waldtraut"; No. 3, "On the parting flow'r of Summer"; No. 4, "Thou askest, thou, my darling" (German and English words)	6	0
REINECKE, C.—Album of Transcriptions. Books I and II. each net	2	0
(Rob. Franz, Mendelssohn, Rubinstein, Reinecke, Schumann.)
—— Octet. For Flute, Oboe, 2 Clarinets, 2 Horns, and 2 Bassoons. Score .. .. net	8	0
Parts .. .. „	15	0
REINHOLD, H.—Symphony for Orchestra, C major, Op. 22. Arranged as Pianoforte Duet	15	0
RENAUD, E.—"Tantum ergo." Solo for Baritone or Mezzo-Soprano. With Organ Accompaniment	4	0
—— "O Sacrum." Solo for Mezzo-Soprano or Baritone, with Organ Accompaniment	3	0
SABON, E.—"Noël." (Reminiscences of Bethlehem.) Offertoire Pastorale. For Oboe or Violin or Violoncello, with Organ or Harmonium or Pianoforte Accompaniment ..	5	0
SARTORIO, A.—Valse Noble. Op. 9. For the Pianoforte ..	3	0
Menuet Caprice. Op. 15. For the Pianoforte	3	0
Primula Verio. Op. 18. For the Pianoforte	2	0
Polonaise. Op. 24. For the Pianoforte ..	3	0
SCHÜTT, E.—"Præludien." For the Pianoforte Op. 35 ..	6	0
TOBY, H. P.—"Souvenir du Pays." For Harmonium. Op. 109	5	0
—— "La Cinquantaine." By GABRIEL MARIE. For Harmonium. Op. 117	4	0
TOMBELLE, DE LA.—"Clair de Lune." Andante. For Pianoforte and Violin	4	0
TSCHAIKOWSKY, TH.—"Eugeny Onegin." Opera:—
Pianoforte Score. 4to .. .. net	10	0
Vocal Score (German words).. .. .. .. „	18	0
Selection for the Pianoforte	6	0
—— "Sextet." For Strings. Parts (2 Violins, 2 Violas, and 2 Violoncellos). Op. 70	40	0
—— Elegie. For Harmonium and Pianoforte	5	0
WACHS, PAUL.—Pastorale. For the Organ	5	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF THE POEMS OF

Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS.

CANTATAS.

		Price s.	d.
Carmen Sæculare (Jubilee Ode, 1887) ..	C. V. Stanford	1	6
Ode for the Opening of the International Exhibition, 1862	W. Sterndale Bennett	1	0
Ode for the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, 1886	A. S. Sullivan	1	0
The Day-Dream	C. T. Speer	2	0
The Lady of Shalott. (Female Voices.) ..	W. E. Bendall	2	6
„ „ Tonic Sol-fa ..	„ „	1	0
The Lord of Burleigh	Frances A. Gill	2	6
The Lotos-Eaters. (Choric Song)	C. H. H. Parry	2	0
The Revenge	C. V. Stanford	1	6
„ Tonic Sol-fa	„	0	9
The Sleeping Beauty. (Female voices)	H. Lahee	2	6
„ „ (Tonic Sol-fa)	„	0	6
The Voyage of Maeldune	C. V. Stanford	2	6

SONGS.

A Farewell	E. R. W. G. Andrews	2	0
„	J. H. Walker	1	0
Break, break, break	E. Edwards	1	6
Crossing the bar	J. F. Bridge	2	0
„ „	W. S. Hannam	1	6
Home they brought her warrior dead ..	T. H. McDermott	1	3
Late, late, so late	E. Edwards	1	6
O ringlet	A. Zimmermann	1	3
St. Agnes	S. D. Collet	1	0
Sweet and low	Florence A. Marshall	2	0
Sweet is true love	E. Edwards	1	6
„ „	A. C. Mackenzie	1	6
The Reign of the Roses	N. C.	1	6
Two Child-Songs { The City Child / Minnie and Winnie }	E. T.	2	0
Vine, vine and eglantine	F. C. Woods	2	0
What does little birdie say? Nos. 1 & 2 (Octavo)	A. C. Mackenzie	2	6
„ „ „ No. 2. (Folio)	„ „	2	0
Where is another sweet	F. C. Woods	2	0
Your ringlets	A. Zimmermann	1	3

PART-SONGS.

Break, break, break. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) ..	G. A. Macfarren	0	3
Crossing the bar. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) Folio ..	J. F. Bridge	1	6
Flow down, cold rivulet. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) ..	B. L. Selby	0	3
Home they brought her warrior dead	J. Barnby	0	1½
Peace; come away (In memoriam) (In the Press)	C. V. Stanford	0	2
Ring out, wild bells	R. Jackson	0	1
Sweet and low. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	J. Barnby	0	1½
„ „	H. Piggott	0	2
„ „	B. L. Selby	0	2
The Beggar Maid. (Folio)	E. G. Monk	1	0
The Brook	A. H. Culley	0	1½
The Charge of the Light Brigade. (Folio) ..	G. F. Cobb	1	0
„ „ „	E. Hecht	0	4
„ „ „	R. M. Garth	1	0
The death of the old year	R. Jackson	0	3
The Goose	J. F. Bridge	0	6
The Miller's daughter. (Folio)	E. G. Monk	1	6
The Owl	J. W. Sidebotham	0	3
„ „ (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	E. Silas	0	1½
The silent voices. (Arr. by J. F. Bridge) ..	Lady Tennyson	0	3
The splendour falls	G. A. Macfarren	0	3
Where Claribel low lieth	W. Borrow	0	3

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

EXPERIENCED TUNER, possessing first-class credentials, for permanency. Full particulars to Moon and Sons, Plymouth and Torquay.

WANTED, IMPROVER to the TUNING. Young Man just out of his time either from good Provincial Music Warehouse or Factory. Apply, M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER and REGULATOR requires SITUATION. Out of apprenticeship (factory). Good references. London preferred. Address, H. M., 200, Old Street, E.C.

TUNER WANTS SITUATION. Used to American Organs and Harmoniums; country preferred. B. C., 24, Lincoln Road East, Peterborough.

WANTED, SITUATION as Out-door TUNER. Permanency. Good references. Tuner, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER wishes immediate ENGAGEMENT. Country experience. Highest testimonials. Alpha, 30, Castle Street, Shrewsbury.

TUNER requires ENGAGEMENT. Can tune or repair Harmoniums, American Organs, and Pianos. Apply, D. S., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER requires SITUATION. Out-doors. Address, Presto, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

LADY ASSISTANT WANTED, for Music and Small Goods. State age, experience, and salary expected. Send photo. R. Willshaw, 65, High Street, Bedford.

ASSISTANT WANTED, experienced in Sale department of Music and Instruments. Lady or Gentleman. Enclose C.D.V., with stamped addressed envelope, to Provincial, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, immediately, efficient SIDE-DRUM, Bassoon, Trombone, Cello, Bass. Amateur Orchestra. Subscription, 10s. 6d. season. Practices, Wednesday evenings. Apply, Miss Vickers, 51, Lexham Gardens, W.

YOUNG LADY desires an ENGAGEMENT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Good reader. Certificated. H. M., 57, Battersea Rise, Clapham Common, S.W.

YOUNG MAN, aged 22 (Organist, Pianist, knowledge of Violin, Viola, &c.), desires SITUATION in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Address, Gamba, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

WANTED, to PLACE a Well-Educated Musical Youth where his ability can be utilised. Premium given. Apply, Organist, St. Mary's, Hayes, Middlesex.

TO ORGAN STUDENTS.—Advertiser wishes to recommend a BLOWER. Disengaged any time. Apply, by letter, Mr. Wainwright, 33, Ridgmount Gardens, Gower Street.

ASSISTANT (24), Married, requires SITUATION. Thorough knowledge of the trade. Sight reader. Eight years' experience. References. O. E., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ASSISTANT-REPAIRER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Pianofortes, Harmoniums, American Organs. Address, B., 54, St. Stephen's Road, Norwich.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

ORGAN.—Two manuals and pedals, 18 stops, 16-ft. pedal, open diapason. Handsome case, decorated front pipes. Great bargain. Ingram, Raneleigh Street, Hereford.

ORGAN for SALE (second-hand), 1 manual, 5 stops, in handsome carved walnut case. R. Cope, 21, Jardin Street, Albany Road, Camberwell, S.E.

NEW IMPERIAL PIPE ORGANS (Two manuals). Suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, practice, &c. From 40 guineas. Made in portable sections. ORGANS (new and second-hand), Two manuals, with 6, 9, 12, 17, and 26 stops W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

AMERICAN ORGAN.—Oak, 15 stops, Octave couplers, Knee and Grand Organ Swells. Perfect condition. Price £20. Mr. Smith, 3, Talbot Court, Gracechurch Street, London.

ORGAN for SALE (two manuals and pedals), now in use at Parish Church, Carshalton. Must be sold as Church is coming down, and larger instrument is required for new Church. For particulars, apply, J. H. W. Oclee, Rozel, St. John's Rd., Croydon.

ORGAN for SALE, three-manual, by HILL and SON, 1876. Enlarged and action renewed, 1887. Great, 10 stops; Swell, 9; Choir, 5 (and one prepared for); Pedal, 2; Couplers, 5; pneumatic piston, great to pedal; Concave pedals. For further particulars, apply, J. Booth, 20, Coolhurst Road, Crouch End.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at special low prices, for cash, by Mason and Hamlin, Bell, Karn, &c. A £60 Mason and Hamlin for £22; a £105 ditto for 40 guineas; a 65-guinea Karn for 25 guineas, as new; a 180-guinea ditto, 85 guineas; a 200 Bell for 95 guineas; a very fine two-manual and pedal, by Dominion Co., almost new, for 55 guineas. Also several large Harmoniums, by Alexandre, Christophe, Bauer, &c., fully warranted. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Stagg and Co., 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn, London, W.C. Established 1867.

LARGE AMERICAN ORGAN. Two manuals, 25 stops, 30 pedal notes. Perfect order, £30. Morley, Harp Maker, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station.

CHAMBER ORGAN for SALE. Two complete manuals, eight stops, full compass of pedals, hand and foot-blowers. In a handsome ebonised Grecian case, with bright tin front pipes. Particulars of Henry Jones and Sons, Organ Builders, 70, Park Walk, Fulham Road, S.W.

ORGAN.—Wanted, to HIRE (with the option of purchase), a Two or Three-Manual ORGAN. Full particulars (including dimensions) to be sent to the Secretary of the Music School Liverpool.

SUPERIOR GOTHIC HARP (by ERARD) for SALE. This Instrument is thoroughly sound and good. Inspection and trial invited. 1, Devonshire Villas, High Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

VINCENZO PANORMO DOUBLE-BASS for SALE. A magnificent instrument, formerly the property of Julien's principal bass player. Price £50. F. F., 53A, Halston Street, Hulme, Manchester.

TUNING HAMMERS, KITS (guaranteed), all other Tools, Reeds, Fittings, and Materials. Write for List. K. Wagenhaus, 2, City Road, Hulme, Manchester.

WANTED, Set of PEDALS for PIANO. State make and lowest price to Harry Browne, 37, Oxford Road, Finsbury Park.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d. post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

COMPOSERS' COMPETITION.—SONG and PIANO.—To unearth hidden genius, we are offering £7 10s. in prizes. Open to all. Full particulars, one stamp. Lyric Music Publishing Co., 25, Kenninghall Road, Clapton, N.E.; and at Leipzig.

VOICE.—JAMES'S "SINGER'S FRIEND" LOZENGES. Their effect is simply marvellous on the vocal organs. Testimonials: "Invaluable aids to the voice."—Rev. Idrisyn Jones. "Most effectual for voice and throat."—Mr. Reginald Groome. Boxes, 1s. 1½d. and 2s. 3d. post-free, of W. JAMES, Chemist, Highgate Road, London, N.W., and of Chemists.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—Two excellent ROOMS to LET, for teaching purposes, at T. Waite's Central Music Warehouse, 5 and 7, Duke Street, Reading.

FOR SALE, at Half-Price, in good condition, 25 Copies Bennett's Cantata "The May Queen." Also 20 Copies Andrew's Cantata "A Daughter of Moab." Apply to Hon. Secretary, Choral Society, New Ross, Ireland.

MUSIC neatly and accurately COPIED and TRANSPOSED at 6d. per page. J. S., 8, Buckingham Road, Harlesden, N.W.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Monthly accounts. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

THE OLD FIRM.
P. CONACHER & CO.
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841).
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),
VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND
CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER AND CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.
Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.
A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.
500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.
The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.
Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

WINKELMANN
PIANOFORTES.

"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.

OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS
FROM 65 GUINEAS.
OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS
FROM 110 GUINEAS.
Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.

SOLE IMPORTERS: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,
6, NEW BURLINGTON STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

D'ALMAINE'S
PIANOS AND ORGANS
For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.
Write for Professional Price List.
T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.
RUMMENS'
ORGAN
PEDAL ATTACHMENT
FOR
PIANOFORTES.
NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.
EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.
ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.
AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR
AT THE
INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.
NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.
WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

NOW READY.

THE

ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately. Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

"GOOD," "EASY," "EFFECTIVE," "DIGNIFIED," "DEVOTIONAL," "SINGABLE," "POPULAR," "MUSICIANLY," &c. See Guardian, Musical Times, Musical Standard, Musical News, &c.

TE DEUM, No. 1 (Chant Form) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM, No. 2 (in B flat) 3d.
COMMUNION SERVICE (in G) .. .. 8d.
BENEDICITE, No. 1 (in A) 1½d.
BENEDICITE, No. 2 (in G) 2d.
CHRISTMAS CAROL—"Once in Bethlehem" .. 2d.
EVENING SERVICE, No. 1 (in C) .. .. 3d.
(Sung at several Choral Festivals.)
EVENING SERVICE, No. 2 (in D) .. .. 3d.
(Sung at Canterbury Cathedral.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Specimen copies free from the COMPOSER, Lyndale, Perry Rise, London, S.E.

Second Edition. Third and Fourth Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

VERSE BY JETTY VOGEL

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

(OP. 43.)

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. Mr. Gaul evidently does not feel disposed, though we think he is well able to write a magnum opus which may have to wait a generation to be understood; he appeals successfully to the tens of thousands of people who take an interest in sacred stories set to singable music which can be at once appreciated. We do not say that Mr. Gaul's cantatas will not receive the approbation of posterity; we think they will, but it is certain that they do meet with deserved recognition as fast as they appear. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The chief point of interest was the production of Mr. A. R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness.' . . . The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. . . . The various solo and choral movements display Mr. Gaul's facility for the composition of genuine, effective music; clear in purpose, melodious, vigorous, and expressive by turns, and constructed by an experienced thinker and worker. Such music will indeed ever be welcome, and Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.' The performance was excellent, and the composer, who conducted, had ample reason to feel satisfied with the reception of his latest effort."—The Referee.

"The best portion is a number entitled 'The Plagues of Egypt,' written in a sort of free chant form, in which Mr. Gaul has introduced some very clever orchestral effects. The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"Mr. Gaul's music is exactly what is required for large choral gatherings, for it is effective without presenting any overwhelming difficulties. The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"The afternoon was particularly interesting owing to the first performance of Mr. Alfred R. Gaul's Cantata 'Israel in the Wilderness,' which had been composed expressly for the event. . . . Like the majority of Mr. Gaul's productions, it is bright and engaging. . . . The most pleasing of the twenty-three numbers are No. 3, 'So He brought forth His people with joy,' a telling chorus; No. 9, the chorus, 'Declare His honour unto the heathen'; No. 15, the pretty duet between the soprano and tenor voices, 'As the manna falling from the morning skies' (encored on Saturday); and the concluding march, 'Onward moves the guiding pillar,' a chorus full of spirit. Mr. Gaul has in the section devoted to the Plagues contrived to instrumentally illustrate the jumping of the frogs, the buzzing of the flies, the falling hailstones, the fire mingled with the hail, the gusty East wind, and the feeling of darkness. Several of these are clever examples of the imitative in orchestration. At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, though only the above-mentioned encore was permitted, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. It is evident that the composer, while earnestly seeking a natural expression, has steadily kept in view the resources of the choral societies on whose behalf the work was written. Most of the music is easy, straightforward, and flowing—picturesque rather than dramatic—and it is all cast in a mould that enables the most ordinary listener to apprehend its form and purpose. In venturing to set a description of the Plagues of Egypt Mr. Gaul invites dangerous comparisons. He was bound at all hazards to avoid imitation of Handel, and to endeavour to strike out a new path. In our opinion the music to this section is the most original and expressive in the whole Cantata. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail! Merry Christmas	24th thousand		2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all	8th „		3d.
A Happy New Year	5th „		3d.
England's Glory, and Forest Echoes	8th „	each	3d.
O Anglia! land of the brave	2nd „		3d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	9th „		3d.
Fairy Revels	13th „		3d.
I love the Merry Springtime	26th „		2d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood	54th „		2d.
Sunny Rays, and The Streamlet	5th „	each	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; Manchester: HIME and ADDISON.

THE CLANSMEN. By T. W. BLAKEY. "This is a stirring part-song (S.A.T.B.) dedicated to Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. The music is bright and cheerful, without being commonplace."—Monthly Journal (N.S.P.M.). Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published. Threepence each.

NEW PART-SONGS FOR S.A.T.B.

BLOW, WESTERN WIND!

AND

STARS OF THE NIGHT.

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

MUSIC BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

RED RIDING HOOD: a Play for Children. Words by EVELYN L. THOMAS. Music by JOHN FARMER, author of "Christ and His Soldiers," &c.

JOSEPH WILLIAMS and Co., Berners Street.

Just Published.

KIRMESS

(Rustic Pictures)

FOR PIANOFORTE DUET

COMPOSED BY

HEINRICH HOFMANN

(Op. 102).

IN TWO BOOKS.—BOOK I.

No. 1. Arrival of the Visitors. | No. 3. Drinking Song.
„ 2. Ländler. | „ 4. In the Arbour.

BOOK II.

No. 5. The Travelling Show:—
(a) Indian Dance.
(b) Sword Dance.
(c) Chinese Jugglers.
(d) The Strong Man.
No. 6. Good Night!

Price Three Shillings net each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO "HENRY VIII."

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

CONTENTS.

Morris Dance. | Shepherds' Dance.
Torch Dance.

Price Two Shillings.

Orchestral Parts in the Press.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MR. BULL AND HIS RITUALISTS. A Song (humorous). By JOHN BULMER, B.D., Mus. Bac. 1s. net. From the AUTHOR, Boldon, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

THE PLAYING OF BRASS INSTRUMENTS.—See November Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. To be ordered everywhere; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.
2. The Nightingale.
3. The Dove.
4. The Skylark.
5. The Owl.
6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
„ scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

NEW ACADEMICAL EDITION

OF

SELECTED PIANOFORTE WORKS

By W. A. MOZART,

Critically revised, arranged in progressive order, fingered, and with explanatory notes for the use of Students, by

HEINRICH GERMER.

CONTENTS.—17 Sonatas, 6 Sets of Variations, 3 Fantasias, 3 Rondos, 1 Allegro, and 1 Adagio.

Price: Vol. I., 2s. 6d. net; Vols. II. and III., each 3s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

A CATECHISM of the RUDIMENTS of MUSIC, principally adapted for the use of learners of the Pianoforte, American Organ, and Harmonium. By NEWTON ROBINSON. Part 1st, price One Shilling; Parts 2nd and 3rd, in the Press. ELTON and Co., 17, Berners Street, London, W., and of all Musicsellers; also of the AUTHOR, 7, Margaret Street, Pentre, Pontypridd, S. Wales (post-free for 1s. 1d.)

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Third Edition. Price 6d. Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

A SIMPLE METHOD OF SIGHT-SINGING. By J. C. WALKER. Price 8d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s.	d.			s.	d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4	0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3	0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5	0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3	0

THIRD SERIES.

		s.	d.			s.	d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2	0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1	6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1	6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s.	d.			s.	d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5	0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3	6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6	0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3	6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s.	d.	Sol-fa. s.	d.
The Ancient Mariner	2	6	0	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2	6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1	0
May Day	1	0	0	6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1	0	0	6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0	3	0	1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0	2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0	3
There were shepherds (Christmas)..	0	2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0	4
Six Kyries	0	2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0	3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM IN A
CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
ARTHUR CARNALL.
Price Fourpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

A SONG OF LIFE
(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
„ 2. King Cricket. „ 4. The Charge. „ 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS
BY
ALFRED R. GAUL.
Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.
The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SOULS OF THE RIGHTEOUS. Short Anthem or Introit, for the Festivals of All Saints and All Souls. By MARY E. NICHOLSON. Price 6d. Messrs. NOVELLO, EWER & Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE
PARISH CHURCH CHANT BOOK

A SELECTION OF SINGLE & DOUBLE CHANTS

ARRANGED FOR THE DAILY PSALMS

TOGETHER WITH

SINGLE CHANTS FOR THE CANTICLES

BY

Rev. HENRY J. BIDDER, B.D.

FELLOW OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AND VICAR OF ST. GILES', OXFORD,

AND

J. VARLEY ROBERTS,

MUS. DOC., OXON.,

ORGANIST OF MAGDALEN COLLEGE AND ST. GILES' CHURCH, OXFORD.

PRICE, IN PAPER COVER, ONE SHILLING.
CLOTH, ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PRIEST'S WIFE has 200 SURPLICES, 3s. to 30s.; Tailor Cassocks, 9s. to £1; Stoles, 5s. 6d. to 60s. Surplice, care of The Church Agency, Lombard House, E.C.

MUSIC FOR ADVENT.

ANTHEMS.

*It is high time .. .. J. Barnby	1½d.
*The grace of God that bringeth salvation .. .. J. Barnby	1½d.
When shades of night. Hymn .. .. J. Barnby	2d.
*O that I knew where I might find Him (St. Thomas's Day) W. Sterndale Bennett	3d.
Dies iræ, dies illæ .. .. W. T. Best	3d.
*The night is far spent (two-part Anthem) .. M. B. Foster	3d.
*Rejoice greatly .. .. H. Gadsby	3d.
*Prepare ye the way of the Lord .. .. .. Dr. Garrett	3d.
*Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace .. .. H. J. Gauntlett	3d.
*The wilderness and the solitary place .. .. .. J. Goss	6d.
*Blessed is He who cometh .. .. .. Ch. Gounod	1½d.
*And the angel said unto her .. .. King Hall	1½d.
To Thee do I lift up my soul .. .. King Hall	1½d.
How beautiful are the feet .. .. Handel	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion .. .. H. Hiles	6d.
When the Son of Man .. .. Kent	4d.
Who is this that cometh? .. .. Kent	6d.
Arise, O Jerusalem .. .. Oliver King	1½d.
*Hosanna to the Son of David .. .. .. G. A. Macfarren	3d.
The great day of the Lord is near .. George C. Martin	1½d.
Day of anger, day of mourning ("Dies iræ," from the Requiem) Mozart	6d.
Rejoice in the Lord.. .. .. S. Reay	1½d.
Rejoice in the Lord.. .. .. John Redford	3d.
The night is far spent .. .. Montem Smith	1½d.
*Hosanna in the highest .. .. J. Stainer	1½d.
Lord, what love have I .. .. Steggall	6d.
*Hearken unto Me, My people .. .. .. A. Sullivan	1½d.
Beloved, now are we the sons of God .. .. E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Thou Judge of quick and dead .. .. .. S. S. Wesley	3d.
*Rejoice greatly .. .. H. H. Woodward	1½d.
Far from their home .. .. .. H. H. Woodward	3d.

 Anthems marked thus (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., or 2d. each.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES

SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

GEORGE J. BENNETT (in E flat)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in G)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in D)	3d.
W. T. BEST	3d.
J. F. BRIDGE, JAMES TURLE, and Dr. HAYES	1½d.
J. W. ELLIOTT	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (with a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (No. 2, in F)	1½d.
PERCY H. FROST	2d.
HENRY GADSBY	1½d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Chant Form)	3d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Unison)..	1½d.
FREDERICK ILIFFE (No. 1)	1½d.
GEORGE C. MARTIN (No. 1, in F; No. 2, in E flat; No. 3, in G) each	4d.
C. E. MILLER	2d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)	2d.
C. E. MILLER (third setting)	2d.
BOYTON SMITH (in A flat)..	1½d.
J. STAINER, R. DE LACEY, A. GIBBS, and F. CHAMPNEYS ..	1½d.
J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER	1½d.
S. S. WESLEY (easy setting)	2d.
J. BARNBY	1½d.
JOHN FOSTER	1½d.
MONTEM SMITH (two settings)	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)	1½d.
C. A. WICKES (two settings)	1½d.
W. G. WOOD (in D)	1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

EUCHARISTIC HYMNS

FOR THE

CHURCH'S SEASONS

BY

MILDRED BERESFORD HOPE.

Price Threepence.

Permission to set these words to Music must be obtained of the Author through Novello, Ewer and Co.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MORNING and EVENING SERVICE in A. By FELIX W. MORLEY, M.A., Mus. Bac., Cantab. Te Deum, 4d.; Benedictus, 3d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 3d. (The solo portions may all be taken by Trebles.) Also, MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F (just published), 4d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS.

SUITABLE FOR USE IN THE CHURCH SERVICE.

THE TWO ADVENTS

A CHURCH CANTATA

WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

REV. E. W. BOWLING, M.A.,

Rector of Houghton Conquest, Beds.

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE GARRETT, M.A.,

MUS.D., F.C.O.

(Op. 23.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

ADVENT HYMN

"IN LOWLY GUISE THY KING APPEARETH"

BY SCHUMANN

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN OF FRIEDRICH RÜCKERT

BY THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

For Soprano Solo and Chorus, with Orchestral Accompaniment.

Price One Shilling.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS MORN

A BIBLICAL PASTORAL

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY THE REV. S. J. STONE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HENRY LESLIE.

Vocal Score, 8vo, 2s. 6d. Vocal Parts, 6d. each.

CHRISTMAS EVE,

A SHORT CANTATA

FOR ALTO SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

NIELS W. GADE.

(Op. 40.)

Price One Shilling. Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SECOND ADVENT

SACRED CANTATA

SOLOS FOR TENOR AND BASS, EASY CHORUSES,

AND

FOUR WELL-KNOWN HYMNS FOR THE CONGREGATION.

PART I.—THE CRY OF THE CHURCH.

PART II.—THE SIGNS. PART III.—THE ADVENT.

PART IV.—THE TRIUMPH OF THE CHURCH.

These four parts may (if preferred) be sung separately as Anthems on the four Sundays in Advent.

The Words selected from Holy Scripture by the Rev. C. T. MAYO.

THE MUSIC (EXCEPT THE HYMN TUNES) COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR H. D. PRENDERGAST.

Vocal Score, with Organ Accompaniment, 1s. 6d.

Words only (with the Hymn Tunes), 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEM FOR ADVENT.

OUR GOD SHALL COME

BY EDWARD A. SUTTON.

Price 6d.

"May be safely recommended."—Monthly Musical Record.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ADVENT.—NEW HYMN: "Say, watchman, what of the night?" By JOHN ELLERTON. Specially suitable for Advent, and written expressly for the setting, by R. BROWN-BORTHWICK, of an older Hymn in the same metre and commencing with the same first line. Price Threepence net; per dozen, Half-a-crown. Copies of the words only, for congregational use, price One Shilling per 100. London: HENRY FROWDE, Amen Corner, E.C.

POPULAR ANTHEMS
FOR
ADVENT & CHRISTMAS.

BARNBY, J.

*IT IS HIGH TIME TO WAKE OUT OF SLEEP	1½d.
*THE GRACE OF GOD THAT BRINGETH SALVATION	1½d.
*BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS	3d.
*LIKE SILVER LAMPS	1½d.
*SING AND REJOICE	1½d.
DROP DOWN, YE HEAVENS	1½d.

ELVEY, G.

*ARISE, SHINE, FOR THY LIGHT IS COME	1½d.

GARRETT, G. M.

*PREPARE YE THE WAY	3d.
IT SHALL COME TO PASS	6d.

GOSS.

*THE WILDERNESS	6d.
*BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS	1½d.

GOUNOD, C.

*O SING TO GOD (Noël)	1½d.
DITTO (Female Voices)	6d.

HOPKINS, E. J.

*LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM	1½d.

STAINER, J.

*AWAKE, AWAKE, PUT ON THY STRENGTH, O ZION	6d.
*AWAKE, THOU THAT SLEEPEST	6d.
*O ZION, THAT BRINGEST	1½d.
*HOSANNA IN THE HIGHEST	1½d.
*THE HALLOWED DAY HATH SHINED	1½d.
*THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER	6d.
*THUS SPEAKETH THE LORD OF HOSTS	1½d.

SULLIVAN, A.

*HEARKEN UNTO ME, MY PEOPLE	1½d.

TOURS, B.

*GOD HATH APPOINTED A DAY	1½d.
*SING, O HEAVENS	1½d.
*THERE WERE SHEPHERDS	1½d.

Anthems marked thus * are to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Will be Published immediately.

THE STAR THAT NOW IS SHINING
A CAROL-ANTHEM
The Words by ADELAIDE PROCTOR and F. W. FABER.
THE MUSIC BY
OLIVER KING.

BREAK FORTH INTO JOY
CHRISTMAS ANTHEM FOR TENOR SOLO AND CHORUS
COMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Price Threepence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE
SET TO ANCIENT MELODIES
BY THE
REV. THOMAS HELMORE, M.A.
Words principally in imitation of the original,
BY THE
REV. J. M. NEALE, D.D.

	s.	d.
18mo, Melody only	0	6
" " " in packets of 50	20	0
" Compressed Score	1	0
Folio, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	4	6
Words only	0	1½
" " in packets of 50	5	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

*In the beginning — G. B. Allen	1½d.
Christians, be joyful — Bach	3d.
*Like silver lamps — J. Barnby	1½d.
Drop down, ye heavens — J. Barnby	1½d.
*The grace of God, that bringeth salvation — J. Barnby	1½d.
*Sing and rejoice — J. Barnby	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings — J. Barnby	3d.
*While Shepherds watched — W. T. Best	1½d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord — A. H. Brown	1½d.
Hail! thou that art highly favoured — Arthur Carnall	4d.
Break forth into joy — S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Behold, I bring you good tidings — J. M. Crament	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings — Giovanni Croce	1½d.
*Arise, shine, for thy light is come — Geo. Elvey	1½d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem — J. T. Field	1½d.
Behold, a star appeareth — Niels W. Gade	4d.
Sing, O daughter of Zion — H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings — J. Goss	1½d.
O sing to God (Noël). (Female Voices) — Ch. Gounod	6d.
*O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.B.) — Ch. Gounod	1½d.
*Brightest and best — E. V. Hall	4d.
Behold, I bring — E. V. Hall	3d.
*Hark! the herald angels sing — E. V. Hall	3d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to "The Messiah") Handel	3d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem — E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Sing, O heavens — Kent	4d.
*While all things were in quiet silence — Oliver King	1½d.
Hallelujah! the light hath shined — Oliver King	3d.
The star that now is shining — Oliver King
For unto us was born — G. A. Macfarren	3d.
While all things were in quiet silence — G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
God, who at sundry times — J. H. Mee	4d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel — The Earl of Mar	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye people — Mendelssohn	1½d.
Let our song of praise — Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Hallelujah! for unto us a Child is born — W. H. Monk	1½d.
*Sing unto the Lord — Vincent Novello	1½d.
I will set his dominion in the sea — Horatio W. Parker	4d.
Glory to God in the highest — Pergolesi	1½d.
*Break forth into joy — T. Ridley Prentice	6d.
*Behold, I bring you glad tidings — C. W. Smith	1½d.
The light hath shined — E. Silas	1½d.
*The morning stars sang together — J. Stainer	6d.
*O Zion, that bringest good tidings — J. Stainer	1½d.
*The hallowed day hath shined upon us — J. Stainer	1½d.
*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts — J. Stainer	1½d.
*The angel Gabriel was sent from God — H. Smart	1½d.
In the beginning was the Word — E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Sing, O heavens — B. Tours	1½d.
*There were shepherds — B. Tours	1½d.
*This is the day which the Lord hath made — J. Turle	3d.
The light hath shined — C. G. Verrinder	1½d.
*There were shepherds — Charles Vincent	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings — Vittoria	1½d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel — S. S. Wesley	1½d.
*Glory be to God on high — S. S. Wesley	2d.
Blessed be the Lord — C. L. Williams	4d.

Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.

Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score, and Vocal Parts.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMNS AND CAROLS.

Adeste Fideles ("O come, all ye faithful") Arr. by V. Novello	1½d.
Christians, awake! salute the happy morn — W. H. Monk	1½d.
Hark! the herald angels sing — J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
" " " — Dr. Ions	1½d.
" " " — Mendelssohn	1½d.
Now join we all with holy mirth — J. Stainer	1d.
O come, all ye faithful — J. Barnby	1½d.
Of the Father's love begotten — J. B. Dykes	1½d.
See, the morning star — E. G. Monk	1½d.
Shades of silent night — Samuel Gee	1½d.
There were whisperings — J. T. Cooper	1½d.
O come, all ye faithful — Old Melody	1d.
Approach, all ye faithful — J. Barnby	1d.
Holy night — J. Barnby	2d.
Christians, awake! — J. Goss	1d.
Hark! the hosts of heaven are singing — Henry Smart	1d.
O come, new anthems let us sing — H. J. Gauntlett	1d.
Hark! the heavens' sweet melody — J. Goss	1d.
O come, loud anthems let us sing — S. S. Wesley	1d.
Christ is born, tell forth His fame — Ch. Gounod	1d.
Come, ye nations, faithful own — G. Elvey	1d.
Hark! the herald angels sing — Mendelssohn	1d.
When Christ was born / What child is this? — J. T. Field	2d.
Sleep! Holy Babe / Carol for Christmas Day — J. T. Field	2d.
Softly the night is sleeping / In Excelsis gloria — J. Maude Crament	3d.
O Babe! in manger lying / The Virgin is hushing her Baby to rest / What Child is this? / Darkness fell on the weary earth — J. Barnby	1½d.

TEN HYMNS WITH TUNES
SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."

Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

FOUR
CHRISTMAS CAROLS

No. 1. The Anthem of Peace .. .. J. BARNBY.
„ 2. On Christmas Morn .. ..A. C. MACKENZIE.
„ 3. Across the desert sands by night .. .. G. C. MARTIN.
„ 4. Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep .. .. J. STAINER.

PRICE THREE-HALFPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE OLD CAROLS

ENGLISH AND FOREIGN

ADAPTED AND ARRANGED BY

SIR JOHN STAINER.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.
Tonic Sol-fa, Sixpence. Words only, One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS

ARRANGED FOR

TWO-PART SINGING

With an ad libitum Pianoforte Accompaniment

BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

Price One Shilling.
Tonic Sol-fa, price Sixpence.

CONTENTS:

Good King Wenceslas.
Christmas hath made an end.
Good Christian men, rejoice.
God rest you merry, gentlemen.
The first Nowell.
A Virgin unspotted.
The Wassail song.
I hear along our streets.
The seven joys of Mary.
The Boar's Head Carol.
Hark! how sweetly the bells.
The holly and the ivy.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOUR CHRISTMAS CAROLS

WRITTEN BY

W. CHATTERTON DIX

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOSEPH BARNBY.

O Babe! in manger lying.
The Virgin is hushing her Baby to rest.
What Child is this?
Darkness fell on the weary earth.

Price Three-halfpence.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Penny; words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

While Shepherds watched (Old Cornish Carol) .. .. .. 2d.
Shepherds in the field .. .. 3d.
Christians, be thankful .. .. 2d.
All my heart. Solo and Chorus .. .. 6d.

BY VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMASTIDE CAROLS

HARMONISED BY

GEORGE C. MARTIN.

FIRST SERIES.—Old Breton Melodies.
SECOND SERIES.—Old French Melodies.

PRICE SIXPENCE EACH SERIES.
Words only, One Penny each series.

CONTENTS OF FIRST SERIES.

1. Hail! Christmas Bells.
2. O'er her Child the Virgin weeps.
3. The stars are bright.
4. On this day was born.
5. Glad hymns with one accord.
6. Outside the city gates.
7. On Asia Minor's sunny shore
8. Across the desert sands by night.

CONTENTS OF SECOND SERIES.

1. Round the Virgin gently sleeping.
2. In the golden lands afar.
3. The sombre shadows darken fall.
4. The Circumcision.
5. The Shepherds glad.
6. Poising bright on golden wings.
7. A legend of the flight.
8. Merrily ring the Christmas bells.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS
NEW AND OLD

THE WORDS EDITED BY THE
REV. HENRY RAMSDEN BRAMLEY, M.A.
THE MUSIC EDITED BY
JOHN STAINER, M.A., MUS. DOC.

THREE SERIES (MUSIC & WORDS), ONE SHILLING EACH.
Cloth, gilt, 2s. Three Series, complete, cloth, gilt, 4s.; or, in Seventy numbers, 1d. each.

Words only, each Series, 1½d.; or, complete, 4d.; cloth, 6d.

First Series, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1s.; or, in separate numbers, 1d. each.

A Selection from the above (24) for Men's Voices, 2s.

Illustrated Edition (First and Second Series), handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Roxburgh binding, 7s. 6d.

Twelve Old Carols (English and Foreign), adapted and arranged by Sir John Stainer, 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.; Words only, 1d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS

SET TO MUSIC BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

Price, in paper wrapper, complete, 1s.; or, in single numbers, 1d. each.

CONTENTS.

1. The Carollers.
2. The stars are shining bright and clear.
3. Carol, sweetly carol.
4. Christmas Bells.
5. A child this day is born.
6. Hark! what mean those holy voices?
7. The Angels' Carol.
8. While shepherds watched.
9. Angels from the realms of glory.
10. A Christmas Chime.

Also, by same COMPOSER,

A SECOND SET OF TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

1. Awake! arouse! ye Christian band.
2. Ring out, sweet chimes.
3. Brightest and best.
4. Hail! happy morn.
5. O let our voices.
6. Christmas Eve.
7. Hark! the bells.
8. A Christmas Carol.
9. Joyful is the morn.
10. Noël.

Price, in paper wrapper, complete, 1s.; or, in single numbers, 1d. each.
The words of both sets (which are chiefly copyright) can be had of the COMPOSER. One Penny each set.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"An effective, bright, melodious composition, and it is to be hoped that many choirs will make its acquaintance."—Church Review.

"An able composition, well suited to the season for which it is written, and free from difficulties."—Church Times.

"A gain to music of this class."—Musical Times.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-halfpence.

By the same COMPOSER,

THREE CAROLS or HYMNS for CHRISTMAS. Music and words, 3d.; words only, 3s. per 100.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, MUS. DOC.

CHILD DIVINE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD. 2d.
JOY, YE PEOPLE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD, M.A. 2d.
IN SORROW AND IN WANT. Words by Archdeacon FARRAR. 3d.
ALL JUBILANT WITH PSALM AND HYMN. Words by the Ven. Archdeacon FARRAR. 2d.
CHRISTMAS BELLS. Words from "In Memoriam," by ALFRED TENNYSON. 4d.
SWEETER THAN SONGS OF SUMMER. Words by the Author of "The sower went forth sowing." In the Press. 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*THE GLORY OF THE LORD (New) (moderate) 3rd 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*REJOICE GREATLY (New) (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY (6th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral and at Begelley.
*THE HEAVENS ARE TELLING (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
*BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD (12th edition) .. .. 4d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN TO BETHLEHEM (5th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR (23rd edition) .. .. 4d.
SING, O HEAVENS (14th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
GLORY TO GOD (13th edition) .. .. 3d.
AND HE SHALL REIGN (11th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS (12th edition) .. .. 3d.
BEHOLD I BRING (33rd edition) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM IN G (6th edition), 4d. TE DEUM IN F (20th edition) 3d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F (41st edition) 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Lismore, Derry, and Downpatrick Cathedrals; also at Barrow, Skegness, Great Budworth, East Devon, &c.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E FLAT (13th edition) .. 4d.
Selected for Choral Festival in Llandaff Cathedral.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G (New) (4th edition) .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT (6th 1,000).. .. 4d.
HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN F (5th edition) .. .. .. 6d.
Both these Services are complete, with Agnus Dei and Benedictus.
FOUR CHANT TE DEUMS (13th 1,000) (D, A flat, G, and A) each 2d.
O HOW AMIABLE. Festivals (2nd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
GIVE GLORY TO THE LORD. Festivals (11th edition) .. .. 3d.

POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

37th 1,000. Price 1d. each. Nos. 9 to 12 are just published.

1. CAROL SWEETLY.
2. O LOVELY STAR.
3. WHAT SAY THESE BELLS?
4. COME, HAIL THE DAY.
5. GOOD NEWS WE BRING.
6. SWEETEST MUSIC.
7. AWAKE, AWAKE!
8. O SO SWEETLY.
9. HAPPY MORNING.
10. SWEET ANGELS, EVER BRIGHT.
11. OH, CHRISTMAS BELLS.
12. BETHLEHEM'S PEACEFUL HILL

Words only, Nos. 1 to 6, 3s. 3d. per 100; Words only, Nos. 7 to 12, 3s. 3d. per 100.

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

CHRISTMAS CAROL, "Ring the joyful Christmas Bells," for Soprano Voices and Chorus, by FRANK PESKETT, price 2d.; "Dame Durden," humorous four-part Song, arranged by H. TOWNSEND, 2d.; Accompaniments to the Lord's Prayer, by H. TOWNSEND, folio, 1s. net.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS by THOS. SMITH. Melodious and Easy. "For unto us," "Glory to God" (Advent), "The night is departing," "How lovely are the Messengers" (Festival and General), "O worship the Lord," "O sing unto the Lord," "I was glad," "Like as the Hart," "The Lord is my Shepherd." Price 3d. each.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

YULE-TIDE

CAROL FOR USE IN PLACES OF WORSHIP

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Threepence.

BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HAIL! HAPPY DAY. Christmas Carol. Words by Rev. JESSE BRETT. Composed by W. H. SPEER. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE QUEEN OF HOME. Christmas Song. By M. DAVIDSON. Price Two Shillings.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JOY BELLS ARE RINGING NOW. Christmas Carol. Words by LOUISA NEWSHAM; music by JESSIE BOTTERILL. Price Twopence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR (New) (5th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
A very attractive and easy Anthem.
BEHOLD, I BRING (8th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
SING, O HEAVENS (5th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
{PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM (11th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
{THE LORD REIGNETH. New. (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. 3d.
Two easy Anthems, suitable for any Festival or special occasion.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D (5th 1,000) .. .. .. 4d.
Full of vigour and flowing melody.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS.

REJOICE GREATLY, O DAUGHTER OF ZION

BY THOMAS SMITH. Threepence.

"Full of joyous music, and not difficult."
"The spirit of the Anthem never flags, and is easy for both singer and player."
"Thoroughly Christmas-like. The final chorus, 'Alleluia, Amen!' cannot be heard too often."
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

ADVENT.—"O Lord, Thou art my God." Four voices .. .. 3d.
CHRISTMAS.—"In the beginning." " " .. 3d.
" "The Lord hath prepared." " " .. 3d.
FESTIVAL.—"I was glad." " " .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. 2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E. Chant form .. .. 3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E " " .. .. 3d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. .. 1½d.
" " " A .. .. 1½d.
" " " E .. .. 1½d.

HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord. With words .. .. 1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 3d.
Amen (on Card) .. .. 1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ .. net 2s. 0d.
Ave Maria .. .. " 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat .. .. " 1s. 0d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHOIR MUSIC for SALE.—A quantity of disused SERVICES and ANTHEMS of various proportions, mostly three dozen of each, in good condition, at low prices. They include a set of "The Messiah," in paper boards, as good as new; also Costa's Cantata "The Dream." For lists and prices, address, Precentor, Ardingly College, Hayward's Heath, Sussex.

Edwin Ashdown's selection of Choruses for Treble Voices.

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT. PRICE 4d. EACH NET.

1. Steersman, steer our bark. Three-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
2. The winds now are still. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
3. Spinning chorus. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) .. Wagner
4. Singing liketh me. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
5. Parting. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
6. The Mermaids. Three-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
7. Raise high the song. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. Wagner
8. Adown the wav'ring billows. Three-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
9. 'Tis ours this happy season. Two-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
10. Barcarolle ("Oh! 'tis pleasant"). Three-part (Oberon) Weber
11. Whispering breezes. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
12. Joy! joy! joy! Three-part (Knight of Palestine) .. Weber
13. The earth is clothed in flowers. Four-part (Fall of the Leaf) O. Barri
14. With hearts of joy. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. O. Barri
15. Sing, sweet bird. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. .. O. Barri
16. Haste to the church! Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
17. Chorus of angels. Four-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
18. Awake from slumber. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. F. Abt
19. O'er the flower-bespeckl'd meadows. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
20. I saw a land of wondrous beauty. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
21. Come, let us wreathe the bridal flowers. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
22. Now on music's wings. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
23. Homeward we are wending. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
24. Trip it lightly, gaily, brightly. Three-part (Harvest Queen) Godwin Fowles
25. Angel of peace. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. .. Wagner
26. In Thee we trust. Three-part (Pilgrims' Chorus, Tannhäuser) .. .. Wagner
27. Awake! awake! Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
28. Music and sunshine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
29. Joyous our life. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
30. Sing, sisters, sing. Four-part (All-Hallow Eve) .. B. Gilbert
31. Sunrise. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. .. F. Romer
32. Sunset chorus. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. F. Romer
33. Our old piano. Three-part .. .. F. Auger
34. Home bells. Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
35. Dear home. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
36. Summer. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
37. For thee hath beauty. Three-part (Oberon) .. .. Weber
38. I remember one eve. Three-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
39. Vintage time. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
40. Odours come with quiet spell. Three-part (A Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
41. Sad is the parting. Two-part (Volkslied) .. .. .. German
42. Not in our grief alone. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
43. A Christmas song. Two-part .. .. .. A. Adam
44. The Hymn of peace. Two-part .. .. .. W. H. Callcott
45. O! Southern wind. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
46. Dwellers of the spirit land. Two-part .. .. .. O. Barri
47. 'Tis summer. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
48. O! come to the grove. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
49. The snow. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
50. Come back. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
51. A Christmas carol. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
52. The midnight bell. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Roeckel
53. Where the scented violet. Two-part (The Magic Well) F. Abt
54. See, the star of eve. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
55. The cuckoo kept calling. Two-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
56. Come, let us go. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
57. We will seek thee. Two-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
58. We are only village maidens. Two-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
59. John Peel. Two-part (Hunting song) .. .. D. Pentland
60. O! come hither. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
61. O! give thanks. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
62. O! praise the Lord with me. Two-part (Sacred Mendelssohn
63. Hark! the hunter's merry horn. Two-part .. L. Zamboni
64. Old English pastimes. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
65. The organ-grinder. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
66. The happy fireside. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
67. Hark! from yon old abbey. Two-part .. .. J. Barnett
68. Merry May. Two-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
69. The Alpine sisters. Two-part .. .. .. D. Tagliafico
70. Heap high the golden corn. Two-part .. .. .. Raphael
71. Lull'd by the silence. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
72. Fairy sisters. Two-part .. .. F. Packer
73. Merry May. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
74. The swallows' return. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
75. The sea-nymphs. Two part .. .. T. Distin
76. Merrie gipsies. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
77. Hail! pretty babe. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
78. Sleigh-bells. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
79. For so hath the Lord. Two-part (St. Paul) .. Mendelssohn
80. And Paul came to the congregation. Two-part Mendelssohn
81. To God on high. Three-part (Chorale, St. Paul) Mendelssohn
82. O! Thou true and only light. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
83. How lovely are the messengers. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
84. Away! away! Three-part .. .. J. L. Roeckel
85. The angels' song. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
86. A farewell. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
87. The dawn. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
88. Come away to the woods. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
89. Miserere Domine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
90. Rest while the noon. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
91. At break of day. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
92. Haste away. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
93. The morn is bright. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
94. Hail to thee. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
95. Around the maypole. Three-part (May-tide) .. P. Mazzoni
96. O'er the smiling meadows. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
97. O! praise the flow'ret sweet. Three-part .. F. F. Rogers
98. She sleeps. Three-part (The Magic Flower) .. F. F. Rogers
99. So pure, a sister's tender love. Three-part .. .. Weber
100. Gone is every pleasure. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
101. From Oberon in fairyland. Three-part .. .. .. Stevens
102. Blow, gentle gales. Three-part .. .. Bishop
103. Hark! Apollo strikes the lyre. Three-part .. .. Bishop
104. The winds whistle cold. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
105. The chough and crow. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
106. Sound the loud timbrel. Three-part .. .. .. Avison
107. Ye shepherds tell me (The wreath). Three-part Mazzinghi
108. Harvest home. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop and Foster
109. But now the pearl-crown'd moon. Three-part E. Aguilar
110. O! find a song. Three-part (Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
111. When the wind blows. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
112. A lullaby Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
113. Come over the hills. Three-part .. .. H. Foster
114. The sower. Three-part .. .. D'Albano
115. Home and rest. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
116. Memories. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
117. Good-bye, sweetheart, good-bye. Three-part .. J. L. Hatton
118. The city of the king. Three-part .. .. O. Barri
119. Erin mavourneen. Three-part .. .. .. J. L. Hatton
120. Blessed are the poor in Spirit. Three-part (Sacred) .. Mozart
121. Through the old cloisters. Three-part .. .. Beethoven
122. Roll on, fair orb. Three-part .. .. .. Beethoven
123. In Thee I trust. Three-part (Sacred) .. .. .. Handel
124. Ring on, sweet bells. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
125. The minstrel. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
126. An evening song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
127. The wood-nymph's home. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
128. The songs our fathers loved. Three-part .. Wagner
129. Gipsy chorus. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
130. Now to the fair. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
131. Yet droops the maiden. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
132. Deign to forgive the gipsy maid. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
133. The maiden's dream. Three-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
134. From out Thy starry dwelling. Three-part (Prayer, Moses in Egypt) .. .. Rossini
135. Father of Heaven. Three-part (Prayer, Masaniello) Auber
136. A sylvan song. Three-part .. .. Wagner
137. A lady fair (Villanelle). Three-part .. .. Niedermeyer
138. Stay, prithee, stay. Three-part .. .. Bishop
139. O! skylark for thy wing. Three-part .. .. Mendelssohn
140. Light as fairy foot can fall. Three-part .. .. .. Weber
141. The evening bell. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
142. Haste thee, boatman. Two-part .. .. .. F. Kücken
143. On the margin of that river. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
144. Bird of the morn. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
145. Wandering wind. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
146. Song of the sea breezes. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
147. Heavenly music. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
148. Adieu, ye woodlands. Two-part .. .. F. Abt
149. Nightingales are singing. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
150. Sing to me, gondolier. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
151. Now, merry fays. Two-part .. .. C. Gounod
152. The voices of Spring. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
153. The haymakers. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
154. Now the meadows. Two-part .. .. Lotti
155. In Thy service. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. J. Blockley
156. I think of thee. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
157. O! ye sunny hours. Two-part .. .. .. R. Schumann
158. Good night. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
159. Cradled by the heaving billow. Two-part .. .. H. Foster
160. Serenade. Two-part .. .. J. B. Wekerlin
161. The sailor's return. Three-part .. .. .. Wagner
162. The song of June. Three-part .. .. .. Mendelssohn
163. Singing in the rain. Two-part .. .. .. J. P. Knight
164. The ferry boat. Two-part .. .. L. Williams
165. When spring descendeth. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
166. Where art thou, beam of light? Three-part .. .. Bishop
167. Far away. Two-part .. .. J. R. Thomas
168. Italy's music. Three-part .. .. C. E. Horn
169. Nina's farewell. Two-part .. .. Pergolesi
170. The gipsy home. Two-part .. .. Herbert Foster
171. Three vivandières. Three-part .. .. F. Schira
172. Peace. Two-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
173. Sing, pretty maiden. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
174. Angelus. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
175. Pretty gitana. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Wallace
176. Alas! those chimes. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
177. Turn on, old time. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
178. God save the Queen. Three-part .. .. National
179. Say, sad heart, why art thou beating? Two-part .. F. Abt
180. Eve's lamentation. Two-part .. .. .. M. P. King
181. Thy spirit is near. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart

EDWIN ASHDOWN, LIMITED,

NEW YORK. HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON. TORONTO.

HOLIDAY SONGS

Written by C. F. Alexander

MUSIC BY

LADY ARTHUR HILL.

Reduced price, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

MENDELSSOHN'S

SIX CHRISTMAS PIECES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE.

Price Three Shillings net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SACRED SONGS

FOR

LITTLE SINGERS

Words by F. R. Havergal.

MUSIC BY

A. RANDEGGER.

Illustrated, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE

SUNLIGHT OF SONG

A COLLECTION OF

SACRED AND MORAL SONGS

With original Music by the most eminent Composers, with 46 Illustrations, cloth, gilt, 5s.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound, cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by DR. F. J. KARN:—

Christmas Carol ("The Virgin and Child"). Published in No. 1 of "Church Musician" Series ..	2d.
Evening Service in F (moderately difficult)	4d.
Te Deum in C (Chant form)	3d.
Six Two-part Songs for Schools .. .. .. each	2d.
Prelude and Fugue in C, for Organ	2s.
Scherzino in G (Violin and Pianoforte)	3s.

Copies of the above can be obtained at 25 per cent. discount, Post-free, from the Composer, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

CHORAL MUSIC.

	s.	d.
THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES FROM THE GOSPELS	0	6
SANCTUS, BENEDICTUS, AGNUS DEI, GLORIA ..	0	9
TWENTY TUNES FOR WELL-KNOWN HYMNS ..	1	0
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS	0	4
HYMN TO PEACE. Aristophanes..	1	0
THE DREAM. Sir Philip Sidney	0	3

By VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SIXTY-ONE

MELODIES AND UNFIGURED BASSES

(To be Harmonized in Four Parts)

For the use of ADVANCED MUSICAL STUDENTS and CANDIDATES FOR DIPLOMAS

BY

ROWLAND M. WINN, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.C.O.

Price One Shilling.

"Both the melodies and the basses are designed with no little ingenuity, and form the means of bringing out in the student all the amount of skill of which he may be possessed."—Musical Times.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Will be Published immediately.

PEACE; COME AWAY

Being Canto LVII. of "In Memoriam"

SET TO MUSIC

FOR CHORUS (S.A.T.B.) UNACCOMPANIED

BY

C. V. STANFORD.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Performed at the Funeral of Lord Tennyson.

CROSSING THE BAR

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR VOICES

BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net. Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

MAY ALSO BE HAD ARRANGED AS A

SACRED SONG

With Pianoforte Accompaniment.
Price 2s. net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Will shortly be Published.

CANTATA

TO ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON'S POEM

CROSSING THE BAR

For full Orchestra, Chorus, and Pianoforte

By ALFRED HARBOROUGH.

Vocal Score, with the Orchestral Score arranged for two performers on the Pianoforte, 2s. 6d.; String and Wind Parts in the Press.

Full Score on application to the Publishers.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CROSSING THE BAR. Song for Contralto or Baritone. The words written by Alfred, Lord Tennyson; the music composed by William S. Hannam. Price 1s. 6d. net.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis

IN F

COMPOSED BY

CLEMENT R. GALE, B.A., Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

TE DEUM IN C

COMPOSED EXPRESSLY FOR THE USE OF PARISH CHURCH CHOIRS

BY

LORAINE HOLLOWAY, F.C.O.

Price Threepence.

Particulars: The Service is Full, and the voice parts are not difficult; E being the highest melody note, and D the highest unison note. The Organ Accompaniment is independent and somewhat free, and full directions are given for the working of the stops, &c.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

NAWR Y FFYRNIG GENLLIF GWYD

(Now th' impetuous torrents rise)

From "David and Saul," an Oratorio, composed by

DAVID JENKINS.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR SALE, cheap, 52 "Roland's Horn," 108 Parry's "Cecilia's Day," 130 Smith's "North-East Wind." Dr. Bridge, Chester.

ALFRED LENGNICK (late representative of Messrs. BREITKOPF and HAERTEL, London) begs to inform the Trade and Profession that he has opened a complete depôt of the publications of

N. SIMROCK,
BERLIN,
49, GREAT PORTLAND STREET, LONDON, W.,

Viz.—Brahms, Dvořák, Max Bruch, Joachim, Sarasate, Piatti, E. Breslauer, Dr. Riemann, De Swert, Carl Bohm, Joh. Strauss, G. Lange, &c.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ASHTON, ALGERNON.—OP. 55. FIVE Songs, with Pianoforte Accompaniment:— No. 1, Morning (Morgenstunde); No. 2, Minstrel's Consolation (Sängers Trost); No. 3, To Melancholy (An die Melancholie); No. 4, The Hermit (Der Eremit); No. 5, To the Skylark (An die Lerche)	8	0
BEHR, FRANÇOIS.—PIÈCES DE Salon, pour le Piano:—
Alpenlied, Melody	3	0
À Toi, Chanson d'amour	3	0
Chant d'Adieu, Nocturne poëtique	3	0
Four Duets for the Young, within the compass of five notes:—No. 1, Kinderreigen; No. 2, Canzonetta; No. 3, In der Dorfschenke; No. 4, Abendlied .. .. .. each	2	0
BOHM, CARL.—TWELVE MELODious Pieces, for Violin and Pianoforte:— No. 1, Madrigal; No. 2, Canzona; No. 3, Sarabande; No. 4, Italian Air; No. 5, Courante; No. 6, Mazourka; No. 7, Spiccato; No. 8, Laendler; No. 9, Bolero; No. 10, Spinning Song; No. 11, Adagietto religioso; No. 12, Spanish Serenade	2	0
Kleine Suite, for Violin and Pianoforte:—No. 1, Intrada; No. 2, Lours; No. 3, Aria; No. 4, Gavotte; No. 5, Intermezzo; No. 6, Perpetuo mobile .. .. each	2	0
Abendlied, for Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
BRAHMS, JOHANNES.—OP. 114. TRIO in A minor, for Pianoforte, Clarinet (or Viola), and Cello .. .. net	12	0
The same, arranged for four hands	12	0
The same, arranged for two Pianofortes, by PAUL KLENGEL:—
Score edition	18	0
Pianoforte II.	8	0
Op. 115. Quintet, for Clarinet (or Viola), two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello:—
Score .. .. net	8	0
Parts .. .. ,,	12	0
The same, arranged for Pianoforte (four hands)	16	0
Sonata, for Violin and Pianoforte, after the same, by PAUL KLENGEL	16	0
BRUCH, MAX.—OP. 61. AVE MARIA. Concert Piece, for Violin, Violoncello, and Orchestra:—
Score	9	0
Parts	15	0
The same, for Violin and Pianoforte	6	0
Solo Part only	2	0
Op. 42. Romance, for Violin and Orchestra, arranged for Viola and Pianoforte	6	0
BRUCH, MAX—continued.
Op. 47. "Kol Nidrei." Adagio, for Violin, Violoncello, and Orchestra, arranged for Viola and Pianoforte	6	0
Op. 58. Third Concerto, for Violin and Orchestra:
Score .. .. net	25	0
Orchestral Parts	50	0
Solo Part	10	0
Op. 63. Swedish Dances, for Violin and Pianoforte. Two Books .. .. .. each	9	0
EILENBERG, RICHARD.—OP. 137. "Once upon a time." Descriptive Piece, for the Pianoforte	3	0
The same, for Orchestra. Parts .. net	4	0
Op. 138. "La Bergeronette." Characteristic Piece, for Pianoforte	3	0
The same, for Orchestra. Parts .. net	4	0
Op. 139. Sérénade amusante, pour Piano ..	3	0
The same, for Orchestra. Parts .. net	4	0
Op. 140. Bridal Song, for Pianoforte	3	0
The same, for Orchestra. Parts .. net	4	0
Op. 141. "The Return of the Troops." Characteristic Piece, for Pianoforte	3	0
The same, for Orchestra. Parts .. net	4	0
Op. 142. Marionettentanz. Intermezzo, for Pianoforte	3	0
The same, for Orchestra .. .. .. net	3	0
Op. 143. "Engagement for the next Waltz," for Pianoforte	3	0
The same, for String Orchestra .. .. net	2	6
GOTTHARD, J. P.—OP. 152. SUITE, for String Orchestra (Introduction, Sarabande, Larghetto, Postludium):—
Score .. .. net	4	0
Parts	6	0
KOCH, F. E.—OP. 11. FOUR DANCE Pieces, for Violoncello and Pianoforte: No. 1, Gavotte; No. 2, Minuet; No. 3, Waltz; No. 4, Mazurka .. .. each	2	0
MARINKOVIC, KONST.—OP. 10. "Lumir." Gavotte, for Violin and Pianoforte	2	0
ONDŘIČEK, FRANZ.—OP. 12. Romance, for Violin and Pianoforte	3	0
SARASATE, PABLO DE.—OP. 34. Airs écossais, for Violin and Orchestra:—
Score	10	0
Parts	16	0
The same, for Violin and Pianoforte	9	0
The same, for Pianoforte (four hands)	6	0
The same, for Pianoforte Solo	6	0
SCHUPPAN, ADOLF.—OP. 7. SONATA, for Pianoforte and Violoncello	8	0

LONDON DEPÔT: 49, GT. PORTLAND STREET, W.

CATALOGUES POST-FREE ON APPLICATION.

ANCIENT CHRISTMAS CAROLS

ARRANGED FOR FOUR VOICES

BY

EDMUND SEDDING.

THREE SERIES.

MUSIC, 1S. EACH SERIES. WORDS ONLY, 1½D. EACH SERIES.

FIRST SERIES.

1. THE FIRST NOWELL.
2. A VIRGIN MOST PURE.
3. THE LORD AT FIRST.
4. GOD'S DEAR SON.
5. WHEN GOD AT FIRST.
6. A DAY OF GLORY.
7. SING OF MAIDEN MARY.
8. MASTERS, IN THIS HALL.
9. OUR MASTER HATH A GARDEN

SECOND SERIES.

1. THE CEDAR OF LEBANON.
2. LET US THE INFANT GREET.
3. TO-DAY IN PERFECT GLADNESS.
4. TIDINGS TRUE.
5. WHO IS THERE THAT SINGETH SO, NOWELL?
6. WASSEYL.
7. JOY HATH COME TO EARTH AGAIN.

THIRD SERIES.

1. THE CHERRY-TREE CAROL.
2. LET CHRISTIANS ALL.
3. GOD REST YOU MERRY, GENTLEMEN.
4. THE ANGEL GABRIEL.
5. ALL YOU THAT ARE.
6. A PEAL AT SILENT MIDNIGHT-TIDE.
7. THE HOLLY AND THE IVY.
8. AWAY WITH GRIEF AND MOURNING.
9. YULE-LOG CAROL.

"We are much pleased with them all, and have very little doubt that they will become popular."—Church Times.

"An admirable batch for Christmas and other tides, and we advise all lovers of Carols to get them at once."—Church Review.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

SONATA IN D

No. 1, Op. 2

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY

W. H. SPEER.

Price Four Shillings.

London: BREITKOPF and HÄRTEL, 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

SIX LOVE SONGS

WORDS BY

JOHN TODHUNTER

SET TO MUSIC BY

BERTRAM LUARD SELBY.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

BY EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED, SEPARATELY.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

TWELVE NEW SONGS

BY

BRITISH COMPOSERS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HAROLD BOULTON.

	Composed by
Constancy	Joseph Barnby.
Cradle Song	Alfred Cellier.
Love's Journey	F. Corder.
Truant Wings	Frederic H. Cowen.
In Summer Weather	Charles H. Lloyd.
Robin sly	A. C. Mackenzie.
A Song of the South	Hamish MacCunn.
The Maid of Elsinore	C. Hubert H. Parry.
A Pretty Maid	Arthur Somervell.
For ever mine	C. V. Stanford.
To welcome you	A. Goring Thomas.
The Windflower	Charles Wood.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE LOST CREMONA VARNISH RE-DISCOVERED.

More than 150 years ago there died in Italy the greatest of a race of art workmen, who brought the art of violin construction to the highest point of excellence that it has ever attained. Wherever, during the 18th and almost until the end of the 19th century, a violin has been found which could be identified as a genuine product of the famous Cremonese workshop of Antonio Stradivari, its price has been named at many hundreds and even some thousands of pounds, because, since Stradivari, no one has ever been able until now to produce an instrument possessing the same high quality and sonority of tone which the fiddles made by the best of the Cremonese makers possess. Every violin of every kind, every manuscript, design and detail of construction that could be found in the old workshop at Cremona, and every tool used by the great master, was, a few years after his death, bought up for a large sum by a patriotic Italian nobleman, who endeavoured to restore to his country the glory of producing violins as splendid as those which early in the 18th century had shed so much lustre on Northern Italy, but which, even before that century was half run out, had become indiscoverable anywhere in the world, except in the shop of the only pupil worthy to inherit the master's mantle, or in the stock of instruments (they are said to have numbered not far from a 1,000) which had been left by Stradivari himself in a more or less finished state. Every design and every detail of these instruments was copied over and over with the most scrupulous care by the most skilful workmen left in Europe, but all through the 18th century and nearly all through the 19th the world has been baffled. The secret died with the Cremonese makers, and for more than 150 years no violin has ever been discovered which equalled in sweetness and sonority of tone the instruments of the Cremonese masters without its being in the end discovered to have been one of the original violins that they left behind them. None of the great violinists who have made the tour of Europe, from Paganini down to Joachim, Madame Norman-Néruda, and Sarasate have been willing to exhibit in public their mastery of the instrument on any other than a Cremona, and for that and other reasons the prices of real Cremonas have advanced by leaps and bounds, until they have reached nearly one thousand times the price they were sold at two centuries ago. Poor old Stradivari, notwithstanding his great fame, thought himself fortunate if he could get three or four English pounds for his most finished violins, but, as time rolled on, they have gone on augmenting in price from £400 and £500 at the beginning of our century, to £1,000, £1,500, and at last £2,500 near its end.

The exhibitor whose signature is at the foot of this notice became convinced a quarter of a century ago that carefulness in the selection of materials, and ingenuity and perseverance in producing instruments of the highest possible class, could no further go than they had been carried by the Vuillaumes of Paris and the other famous luthiers of France and Germany, and having already so long ago acquired the conviction that it could not be in the manufacture of the body of the violin, but in the nature of the varnish used by Stradivari, the secret composition of which has been so long lost, that must be sought the heart of the mystery, he has devoted all his powers since that time to the solution of the problem.

That he has solved the mystery he can now no longer entertain a doubt. After innumerable disappointments, followed after a while by occasional glimpses of success, he ventured to present specimens of his varnish, and of violins on which it had been employed, at the Paris Exhibition of 1889. The exhibit was unique of its kind, and excited the most lively interest among the experts, both on and off the Jury, and the writer was much gratified by the sympathy and encouragement of many whose names stand high in this particular branch of the musical profession. He was evidently on the road to success, but no one could be more conscious than the writer that he had not at that time perfectly attained it. He thinks the Jury did full justice to his invention, at the stage to which it had arrived four years ago, by the award of a bronze medal. A year later he was an exhibitor at the Edinburgh Exhibition, where he was awarded a silver medal. But it is during the last two years that he has had the gratification of seeing his labours crowned with the greatest measure of success, and he has now not the least hesitation in declaring that at length "The Cremona mystery is solved. The long lost secret of the Cremona Varnish has now been discovered."

In spite of the general belief that the old Cremonas owe their excellence of tone to their age, the most enlightened experts now hold this notion to be one of the many popular errors that the 19th century has exploded, and declare that it is to the varnish which consolidates and unifies the fibres of the wood of which the violin is made that purity of tone must be ascribed. The varnish gives resonance, and resonance is the parent of excellence in tone.

The Tottenham Violins exhibited by their inventor, the undersigned, at Paris, in 1889, Edinburgh, 1890, and recently at the Royal Aquarium Musical Exhibition are admitted to be extremely well made, and since in them the expert cannot help recognising the phenomenal fact that the long sought for qualities of the Cremonese Violins are reproduced in them, those who still hold to the "length of age" theory are driven to account for these phenomena by attributing them to excellence of manufacture. The inventor has no reason to deny that the materials of which the Tottenham Violin is made are the most excellent that money can procure, and the workmanship the best that can be got from a man who has during a lifetime worked con amore at this one object, and devoted to it all the powers that God has endowed him with, yet he declares his unshakable conviction that it is not to any excellence of manufacture, but solely to his re-discovery of the lost secret of the Cremona varnish that the new Tottenham Violin owes its perfect reproduction of a tone only elsewhere to be found in violins more than 150 years old.

It is a fact that an expert who has once learned to recognise the real Cremona varnish can never mistake for it any substitute, unless it is of the identical composition of the ancient varnish. The inventor of this Cremonide Violin—a product of to-day—has no hesitation in asserting that the varnish used on it has the identical composition of the varnish used on the old Cremonese instruments, and he invites all who believe themselves able to identify the real Cremona tone, and the varnish its cause, to come to Tottenham, and see the reproduction of the old varnish, and with it hear the reproduction of the old and justly prized tone in the NEW TOTTENHAM VIOLIN.

WM. ATKINSON,

9, West Road, Northumberland Park,

Book to Park Station, G.E.R. Tottenham, London, N.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES AND CHORUS

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL

(Op. 42)

COMPOSER OF "THE HOLY CITY," "RUTH," "PASSION SERVICE," "JOAN OF ARC," &c.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. If composers would have their works popular with choral societies, it is only reasonable to expect that they will bestow a fair share of their attention upon the choruses. The old masters knew this, and there is no doubt that the fact has much to do with the long-continued popularity of their works; and there is equally little doubt, we think, that the principal cause of the failure of so many works produced now-a-days is the uninteresting nature of the choruses. Compare the choruses of the three most popular works ever produced—'The Messiah,' 'Creation,' and 'Elijah'—with a large number of modern works, and our meaning will be clear. If we mistake not, such thoughts as these passed through Mr. Gaul's mind when he set himself to compose those works which have placed him in the front rank of English composers—the 'Holy City,' 'Joan of Arc,' and 'The Ten Virgins'—and that the public endorse his views is proved by the enormous sale which these works have had."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"The subject is an excellent one for a Cantata . . . a stronger work than 'Joan of Arc.' . . . Melodious, vocal, and of moderate difficulty, and, like Mr. Gaul's earlier Cantatas, will be eagerly welcomed by societies in search of new works having these characteristics."—Newcastle Daily Leader, Dec. 16, 1890.

BOW AND BROMLEY INSTITUTE CHOIR.—"The hall was overcrowded by an audience that was disposed to encore every other number of the work. If the verdict of a miscellaneous audience, that could have no possible reason for being favourably prejudiced, is of any account in estimating the merit of a new work, a career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.' That Mr. Gaul should have secured this undoubted popular success with a work far more contrapuntal than any of his former works, is a remarkable tribute to his power of welding science and beauty into one whole."—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Eleventh to Fifteenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description, and will doubtless soon be a favourite with choral societies."—Shields Daily News.

	s. d.		s. d.
Paper cover .. .. price	2 6	Tonic Sol-fa .. .. price	1 6
„ boards .. .. „	3 0	Vocal parts .. each „	1 0
Scarlet cloth .. .. „	4 0	Words only .. per 100 „	7 0

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE

TO THE

MUSICAL PROFESSION FOR 1893.

UNDER DISTINGUISHED PATRONAGE.

Copies have already been had by and letters of thanks received from H.M. The Queen, Their Royal Highnesses The Prince and Princess of Wales, The Lord Bishops of Rochester and London. Also by Sir John Stainer, Dr. Mackenzie, Sir G. Grove, Rev. H. E. J. Bevan, H. L. Southgate, Esq., Dr. Turpin, and many others. Numerous letters of congratulation and thanks have been received from a large number of members of the Profession which the Publishers take this opportunity of acknowledging, all suggestions being duly considered and carefully noted. As a medium for obtaining the SERVICES OF ALL KINDS OF VOCALISTS AND INSTRUMENTALISTS it is unequalled. The work states the special branch or branches of the art for which artists are OPEN FOR ENGAGEMENTS, either through Choral or Orchestral Societies, Concerts, &c.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE is constructed on an entirely original plan, the main object being to supply a want long felt by a large portion of the Profession of their acting as THEIR OWN AGENTS for securing engagements, thus saving time and expense. The Publishers invite all who are not included amongst the 4,000 names already given in the work for engagements in all parts of the country to SEND FOR FORMS. The Guide has also been spoken of most highly by the Musical Press, and is the only Directory giving such a mass of information, which has been obtained at an enormous cost. The Contents are briefly given below:—

CONTENTS.

Directions for the selection of Vocalists, Instrumentalists, Teachers, &c. Particulars of London Churches, with interesting historical sketches (the principal Country Churches are mentioned in the Professional List), particulars of the Organs, Builders' names, giving the disposition of each Instrument, style of Service, hours of same, seating accommodation, names of Clergy, particulars of Choir—i.e., number, &c., and if surpliced or not—the peculiarities of some old City Organs, and Musicians of note who are or have been Organists at the various Churches. The names of Organists and Choirmasters are given in each instance, and specially prepared accounts are given of buildings of special interest. How to Train and Manage a Choir, with Hints on Voice-Production, with twenty-two "Don'ts!" The names of Bishops, Deans, Canons, Organists, Choirmasters, and Singers of all the Cathedral Establishments, Collegiate Chapters, and Chapels Royal in England and Wales. London and Country Choral and Orchestral Societies, with Conductors, Accompanists, and Secretaries' names; number of Chorus, particulars of Works being performed, and whether Soloists are engaged; number of Concerts given annually. Institutions, Colleges, Schools, name of Principal or Secretary, Subjects taught, number of Professors. List of Musical Guilds, Conservatoires, Institutes, Societies, Lectures in London and Country. Special accounts of celebrated Organists of the commencement of the 19th century, the Churches they were at, with much additional useful information. Accounts of all our Great Music Schools, with a list of holders of Diplomas and Degrees in Music, dates, &c.

A GENERAL PROFESSIONAL LIST of about 4,000 NAMES. The Public are invited always to consult MAXWELL'S GUIDE, which offers EXCEPTIONAL ADVANTAGES for securing the services DIRECT of competent performers in every branch of the art.

Price, complete, 2s. 6d. net, post-free.

To be had of—
J. MAXWELL and Co., 14 and 15, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, W.C.
J. HAWKINS and Co., Limited, 17, Paternoster Row, E.C.
WEEKES and Co., Hanover Street, W.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Blow, Western Wind! ..	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers ..	2d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.) ..	2d.
The Lake	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.) ..	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ..	3d.	The Dream of Home ..	2d.
The River	3d.	Summer and Winter ..	2d.
Over the mountain side ..	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
Soul of living music ..	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ..	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (50th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (8th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
*Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES FOR S.A.T.B.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean (6th thou.) ..	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (32nd thou.)	3d.
The Lifeboat	4d.	The Jäger Chorus (6th thou.)	3d.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Published this day, No. 6 of

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

A MONTHLY PERIODICAL DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

THE establishment of a Journal specially devoted to the interests of Music in Schools is believed to be called for by the conspicuous development of the systematic teaching of singing and music generally that has taken place in schools during recent years.

Singing by note is now taught in upwards of 20,000 elementary and middle-class schools in the United Kingdom. As most of this music teaching is committed to the care of the ordinary school staff, the tuning of the ear, preservation of the voice, and the musical culture of the nation may be said to depend in a great measure upon the skill and training of the 120,000 teachers composing our educational army. It will be one of the first aims of THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW to deal plainly with the questions of what to do and how to do it that constantly arise in connection with the varied musical needs of both teachers and pupils.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW WILL CONTAIN—

ARTICLES ON MUSICAL SUBJECTS OF GENERAL INTEREST TO TEACHERS, CONTRIBUTED BY SCHOOL MUSIC SPECIALISTS.
GENERAL NOTES ON IMPORTANT MUSICAL EVENTS OF THE MONTH.
REPORTS OF SCHOOL CONCERTS AND COMPETITIONS.
SCHOOL SONGS IN BOTH NOTATIONS AND SUITED TO THE CAPACITIES OF THE CHILDREN IN THE DIFFERENT DIVISIONS OF SCHOOLS.
EXERCISES IN SIGHT-SINGING IN BOTH NOTATIONS.
REVIEWS OF SCHOOL MUSIC.
SOLUTIONS TO THE QUESTIONS IN MUSIC SET AT THE DIFFERENT EXAMINATIONS IN CONNECTION WITH THE EDUCATION DEPARTMENT AND OTHER EXAMINING BODIES.
CORRESPONDENCE, NOTES AND QUERIES, &c.

The Music will also be sold separately. Price 1½*d.*

MUSIC (IN BOTH NOTATIONS), No. 1.

"STARS THAT ON YOUR WONDROUS WAY." Hymn for Children, by Sir J. STAINER.
"LITTLE SOLDIERS." Kindergarten Song, by A. MOFFAT.
"THE DELIGHTS OF SPRING." Vocal Trio, by FRANZ ABT.
STUDIES IN TIME AND TUNE, by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 2.

"FAIRY SONG." Two-part Song, by HERBERT W. SCHARTAU.
"DAISY DELL." Unison Song, by A. SCOTT GATTY.
"THE POSTILLION." } Junior School Songs from LOWELL MASON'S "JUVENILE SONGSTER."
"EVENING." }
Round, "TIMOTHY TIPPEN'S HORSE." By A. MOFFAT.
STUDIES IN TIME AND TUNE, by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 3.

"TO A VIOLET." Unison Song, by Sir J. STAINER.
"LITTLE BO-PEEP." Action Song, by J. W. ELLIOTT.
SPECIMEN TUNE AND TIME TESTS FOR SCHOOLS AND PUPIL TEACHERS.

No. 4.

"SABBATH STILLNESS." Unaccompanied Trio, by FRANZ ABT.
"ST. GEORGE FOR ENGLAND." School Trio, by G. A. MACFARREN.
"OH, DEAR! WHAT CAN THE MATTER BE?" Arranged as a Two-part Song.

No. 5.

"DAWN, GENTLE FLOWER." Song, by W. STERNDALE BENNETT.
"JOHN GILPIN." Trio, for S.S.A. (or S.C.B.), with ad libitum accompaniment. By G. A. MACFARREN.
TUNE AND TIME TESTS FOR SCHOOLS AND PUPIL TEACHERS.

CONTENTS OF No. 6.

1. GENERAL NOTES.
2. HOW TO TEACH ROUNDS. By W. G. MCNAUGHT.
3. TRAINING FOR TELLING BY EAR.
4. TEST QUESTIONS FOR THE CERTIFICATE EXAMINATION. By E. MILLS, Mus. Bac., and R. DUNSTAN, Mus. Doc.
5. PRACTICAL EXAMINATION IN MUSIC OF PUPIL TEACHERS.
6. MUSIC TEACHING ON THE NAVAL TRAINING SHIPS. By A. L. COWLEY.
7. SCHOOL SINGING COMPETITION AT CORK.
8. SCHOOL MUSIC AT NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.
9. MUSIC IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS. Lecture by Mr. A. WATKINS, at Settle.
10. MUSIC AT ST. MARK'S COLLEGE, CHELSEA.
11. MUSIC (IN BOTH NOTATIONS):—
"THE PRIMROSE." Unison Song, by A. RANDEGGER.
"A HUNTING SONG." Two-part Song, by B. MANSELL RAMSEY.
TUNE AND TIME TESTS FOR PUPIL TEACHERS AND SCHOOLS.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.
Price 1½*d.; Post-free,* 2*d. Annual Subscription, including Postage,* 2*s.*

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Tuesday, November 1, 1892.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 598.—Vol. 33. Registered for transmission abroad. DECEMBER 1, 1892. Price 4*d.*; Post-free, 5*d.* Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5*s.*

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7, AT 8,

SULLIVAN'S

THE GOLDEN LEGEND.

Artists: Madame ALBANI, Miss CLARA BUTT, Mr. BEN DAVIES, Mr. E. EPSTEIN, and Mr. HENSCHEL.
Organist: Mr. HODGE.
Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

MONDAY, JANUARY 2, AT 8,

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH."

Artists: Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Madame PATEY, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS.
Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Lent Term begins January 12.

Entrance Exam. therefor, January 10, at 11. Entrance forms may be obtained from the Secretary, and should be returned by January 7.

Fortnightly Concerts, December 3 and 17, at 8.

Lecture by Walter Macfarren, Esq., R.A.M., Wednesdays, 7, 14, and 21, at 3.

Orchestral Concert at St. James's Hall, December 20, at 3.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

KENSINGTON GORE.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D.

EASTER TERM, 1893.

The Easter Term will commence on January 5.

ASSOCIATE.

Associate of the Royal College of Music (A.R.C.M.)—The next examination for certificate of proficiency with the above title will take place at the College, on March 27 to 30, 1893.

The list of pieces in which Candidates will be examined and other particulars may be obtained from Mr. George Watson, Registrar, at the College.

Application forms must be returned with the examination fee so as to be received at the College not later than February 13.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

Nine Open Free Scholarships will be competed for in February next.

Last day for receiving official forms of application, January 9, 1893.

Particulars and forms may be obtained from Mr. George Watson, Registrar, at the College.

CHARLES MORLEY, Hon. Sec.

READY ON DECEMBER 15.

A SPECIAL NUMBER

OF THE

MUSICAL TIMES

DEVOTED TO

BEETHOVEN

HIS LIFE AND WORKS

EDITED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

WILL BE ISSUED ON

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15.

The Number will contain numerous Illustrations, consisting of Portraits, Views, Fac-similes of Manuscripts, and Letters of great interest, hitherto unpublished, with Articles by Sir GEORGE GROVE, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS, and others.

PRICE SIXPENCE.
Postage, 1/2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC

FOR

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

President—H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD:

THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD CHARLES BRUCE, Chairman.
A. C. MACKENZIE, Esq., Mus. Doc., Principal of R.A.M.
Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D., Director of R.C.M.

Professor JAMES DEWAR, F.R.S., &c.,
ALBERTO RANDEGGER, Esq.,
THOMAS THRELFALL, Esq.,
FREDERICK WESTLAKE, Esq.,
F. MEADOWS WHITE, Esq., Q.C., } R.A.M.

EDWARD W. HAMILTON, Esq., C.B.,
Sir WALTER PARRATT, Mus. Bac.,
C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., Mus. Doc.,
Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus. Doc.,
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Esq., } R.C.M.

HONORARY TREASURER:
CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

HONORARY AUDITOR:
Sir CHARLES LISTER RYAN, K.C.B., Comptroller and Auditor-General.

SECRETARY:
GEORGE WATSON, Esq. Central Office, 52, New Bond St., London, W.

BANKERS:
BANK OF ENGLAND, Western Branch, Burlington Gardens, London.

SYLLABUS A.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS.

LAST DAY FOR RECEIVING FORMS OF APPLICATION FROM CANDIDATES—

JANUARY 31, 1893.

THE PRELIMINARY LOCAL EXAMINATION (Paper Work) for CANDIDATES in PRACTICAL SUBJECTS will take place at the various Centres on February 22, 1893.

THE FINAL LOCAL EXAMINATIONS for CANDIDATES in PRACTICAL SUBJECTS will commence on and after March 28, 1893.

THEORY OF MUSIC EXAMINATION (Paper Work) for CANDIDATES entering for THEORY will take place at the various Centres on February 22, 1893.

SYLLABUS B.

LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

LAST DAY FOR RECEIVING APPLICATIONS FOR REGISTRATION FROM SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS OF MUSIC—

FEBRUARY 27, 1893.

THE LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS will be arranged in Circuits, and will be conducted by a School Examiner appointed by the Board.

They will be held during four periods as follows:—

(a) December.
(b) March, April.
(c) June, July.
(d) October, November.

Schools and Teachers will, so far as is practicable, be allowed to select the period which they prefer for Examination, provided that they notify the same to the Secretary within seven days after receiving notice that their Applications to be Registered have been accepted.

NAMES OF CANDIDATES FROM SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS OF MUSIC can only be entered on Forms supplied from the Office, and must be sent with the Examination Fees as follows:—

For period (a) not later than December 1, 1892.
" " (b) " " " February 4, 1893.
" " (c) " " " May 13, 1893.
" " (d) " " " October 4, 1893.

Copies of either Syllabus may be obtained at the Central Office, 52, New Bond Street, London, W.

GEORGE WATSON, Secretary.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
53, Robert St., Upper Brook St., Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.
Terms for Oratorios and Concerts, &c., and Press Notices on application.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS MAUDE DARLING (Soprano)
(Pupil of David Strong, Esq., Guildhall School of Music).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Oaklands, Addlestone, Surrey.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c. Lyndhurst, Hendon, N.W.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS CLARRIE HALE (Soprano)
(Daughter of Mr. J. Hale, Violinist, Dudley),
225, Crookes Moor Road, Sheffield.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS HEROD (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Ballads, &c., address, Woodley, near Stockport.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 41, Hampden Street, Nottingham.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ELLEN INGHAM (Soprano)
(Late Student, Royal Academy of Music, London).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 9, Albert Road, Colne, Lancs.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 5, Holly Villas, Clapton Square, N.E.

MISS LILY MARSHALL-WARD (Soprano)
MISS JESSIE MARSHALL-WARD (Contralto)
Address, 14, Peel Street, Nottingham.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS VIOLET ROBINSON
(Mezzo-Soprano or Contralto, Certificated R.A.M.).
Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c. 64, Abbey Rd., St. John's Wood.

MISS LIZZIE SCOTT (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 38, York Road, Northampton.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c. Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS EDITH STEVENS (Soprano)
(Of the Crystal Palace Concerts).
Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Beverley House, Barnes, S.W.

MISS ETHEL WEBB (Soprano)
Concerts, &c. 14, Balmoral Road, Nottingham.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS ETTA WRIGHT (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
Address, Brightholme, 28, Albany Road, Stroud Green, N.

MISS DORA BARNARD (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c. 6, Lordship Park, N.

MISS ALICE BERTENSHAW (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 312, Katherine Ter., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS TERESA DEVIENE (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 70, St. George's Avenue, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 76, Calabria Road, N.

MISS MINNIE KIRTON (Contralto)
12, Upper Tollington Park, N.; or, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork St., W.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c. 10, Springfield Road, N.W.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, vid Leeds.

MISS MARIANNE TOMLINSON (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 12, St. Andrew's Place, Bradford.

MISS MARY TUNNICLIFFE (Solo Contralto)
(Of St. Nicholas, Cole Abbey, E.C.)
For terms, address, 94, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MUNRO DAVISON, F.C.O.
(Principal Alto, Temple Church).
For Concerts, Dinners, &c., 101, Tollington Park, N.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. T. HENRY BREARLEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballads, &c., address, 13, Earl St., Claremount, Halifax.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. C. W. FREDERICKS (Tenor)
(Of the Trocadero Concerts, Paris; Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall, London; and Hereford Musical Festivals).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c.
Testimonial letters from M. Gounod, M. Guilmant, Professor Yeatman, Dr. Stainer, August Manns, Esq., and other eminent musicians, with recent Press Notices, will be forwarded on application.
Mr. Fredericks has had the honour of singing for most of the Provincial Choral Societies during last season and was favoured with engagements from the following towns (in many instances providing the whole of the solo artists):—Swindon, Wolverhampton, Leicester, Tenbury, Southampton, Walsall, Hereford, Rochdale, Melton Mowbray, King's Lynn, Hunstanton, Brighouse, Nottingham, Chesterfield, Burton, Tamworth, Denbigh, Bradford, Dunfermline, Merthyr, Ilkeston, Brierley Hill, Buxton, Newcastle, Holmfirth, Chepstow, Devizes, Calne, Cirencester, Warwick (twice), &c.
To Choral Societies and others, Mr. Fredericks is prepared to submit the names of a well-known Quartet of Solo Vocalists, together with vacant dates, terms, and recent Press Notices. Address, Mr. Fredericks, 98, St. John's Hill, Clapham Junction; or, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

MR. G. GREEN (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Preston Parish Church).
For Concerts, Oratorios, Operas, &c., address, 81, South Meadow Lane, Preston.

MR. WILLIAM KNIGHT (Tenor)
5, Melbourne Terrace, Bradford.

MR. T. OLDROYD (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral, Rochester.

MR. JOHN PEARSON (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. JOHN JAS. SIMPSON (Solo Tenor)
(Ripon Cathedral).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Cathedral.

MR. CHARLES STRONG (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., and for Quartet Party, address, 129, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N.

MR. JAMES WATTS (Tenor)
45, Wingfield Street, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. WILLIAM WHITE (Tenor)
(Pupil of Mr. Alfred Blume).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 70, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. WILLS-PAGE (Tenor)
(Royal Albert Hall and Crystal Palace Concerts),
14, Walterton Road, W.

MR. ARTHUR J. WILSON (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 12, Glengall Road, Camberwell, S.E.
Sole Agent, Mr. Daniel Mayer, 18, Gt. Marlborough Street, W.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON (Baritone)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. For terms, address, 34, Hanover Sq., Leeds.

MR. JOHN COATES (Baritone)
"'MESSIAH.'—Mr. John Coates sang with strict accuracy and exactly according to copy; besides which, he has a magnificent voice which he knows well how to use. His first essay gave a good impression, which he more than sustained later on. His clever and powerful delivery of the favourite air 'Why do the nations' more than realised the expectations of the audience, and twice he had to rise and bow his acknowledgments before they would be satisfied. We should say that Mr. Coates has decidedly the kind of material in him for the making of a great artiste. He reaped an equal success in 'The trumpet shall sound.'"—Halifax Courier, December 27, 1890.
55, Beamsley Road, Frizinghall, Bradford.

MR. EDWARD MARLOWE (Baritone)
Oratorio, Ballad, and Operatic Concerts. 25, Winterwell Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia, R.A.M.).
Address, 94, Hill Street, Garnethill, Glasgow.

MR. GILBERT THORNE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone)
Oratorios, Cantatas, Ballads, and Operatic work. 22, Ferndale Road, Clapham, S.W.

MR. ALFRED J. TURTON (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, St. Catherine's, Lincoln.

MR. & MRS. WALLIS A. WALLIS
(Baritone and Soprano and Elocutionists).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Operas, &c.; also to Recite "The Dream of Jubal," "Athalie," and similar works.
"PRECIOSA," BY NEWCASTLE CHORAL SOCIETY.—"The soloists (who both recited and sang) acquitted themselves admirably."—Newcastle Chronicle.
"Mrs. Wallis's charm of manner and dramatic ability were particularly apparent."—Musical Times, March, 1892.
Address, 90, Caledonian Road, Leeds.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. BYRON DEWHURST (Bass)
"'MESSIAH.'—The various numbers allotted to the bass were sung by Mr. Byron Dewhurst in admirable style, his rich voice and artistic method being heard to great advantage. His renderings of 'Why do the nations' and 'The trumpet shall sound' were given with finished skill and fine effect, and both elicited the heartiest applause."—Dover and County Chronicle.
Engaged: November 9, Sandwich; November 10, Dover; November 16, Dover; November 21, Tunbridge Wells; November 25, Tunbridge Wells; November 29, Sheerness; November 30, Canterbury, &c.
For terms, vacant dates, &c., address, Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. THOS. KEMPTON (Bass)
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., and for Quartet Party. 55, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass)
(Of Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, and Royal Albert Hall). For Oratorio and Concerts, address, 9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. J. SKELTON (Bass)
Compston Place, Ambleside; or, 1, Dolbey St., Weaste, Manchester.

MR. ALEXANDER TUCKER (Basso Profundo)
New address, St. Audries, Enfield, N.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead.
"Mr. Preston's reputation as an Organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of our representative English Organists."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.
"Mr. Preston is a local Professor, and a performer of the very first rank. It is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.
"He has established his right to be regarded as one of our representative English Organists."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

MISS CHRISTINA BRUMLEU
(Violinist, A.L.A.M.),
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, The Fernery, Sidcup, Kent.

MISS ALICE SIMPKIN (Solo Violinist)
Terms for Concerts, At Homes, &c., on application, 1, Wintoun Street, Leeds. References permitted to Herr B. Hollander, Signor Piatti, Herr Frantzen, and Señor Albeniz.

MR. THOMAS CHAPMAN (Accompanist)
TO CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.
In cases where a complete Orchestra is not used, the Wind Parts of any work satisfactorily rendered on the Harmonium from the full score.
Address, 35, Sutherland Place, Westbourne Grove, W.

MR. W. ERNEST HOMER
(Solo Zither, Banjo, and Mandoline).
For Concerts, At Homes, Lessons, &c., 344, Brixton Road, S.W.

MR. J. SHARPE (Oboeist and Oboe Maker)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 51, Lydgate Hill, Pudsey, near Leeds.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano), engaged: December 1, 4, 6, 7, 10, 15, 19, and 26; Scotland: 20, 21, and 22. Point House, Brigg, Lincolnshire.

MISS ELIZA CHADWICK (Soprano), of the Glasgow, Edinburgh, and Leeds Concerts, accepts Engagements for Sacred or Secular Performances. 51, Netherhall Road, Doncaster.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano). Engaged: Birmingham, Alloa, Middleton ("Robin Hood"), Newcastle, Rochdale (Orchestral), Ludlow ("St. Cecilia's Day"), Doncaster ("Messiah"), Dalston, &c.; Scotland, end of January, in February and March. For terms and vacant dates, address, 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano). Engagements booked: Radcliffe, Bolton, Southport, Shaw, Walkden, Halifax, Oldham, Mossley, Whitworth, Waterfoot, Bacup, Sowerby Bridge, Bridgewater, Sheffield, Barnalswick, Parkgate, Rawtenstall, Kentish Town, Clapham, Crawshawbooth, Manchester. Others pending. Address, Rawtenstall, Manchester; or, 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MADAME AGNES LARKCOM requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 53, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

SOPRANO.—MASTER DOUGLAS INGRAM (Pupil of Mr. Arthur Thompson) is open to receive Engagements for Concerts, Banquets, At Homes, &c. Good répertoire of Sacred and Secular Works, Songs, Glees, Madrigals, and Part-Songs. For terms, &c., address, Mr. F. T. Ingram, 136, Hanley Road, N.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER, Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Will take pupils. Agent, Mr. D. Mayer, 18, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto) can accept Engagements on December 1, 7, 9, 10, 12, 14, 16, 17, and 21. All other dates for December are booked. For terms, &c., address, 88, Lady Margaret Road, N.

MISS MARGARET HOARE requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 15, Mowbray Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MADAME MINNIE LYNDSEY (Contralto) has a few vacant dates in December for Oratorios, Concerts, Public Dinners, Receptions, &c. Highly recommended for Classical and Operatic Recitals. Entertainments for charitable purposes attended for half fees. 2, Henwood Villas, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

MR. and MRS. HENRY BEAUMONT (Madame Adelaide Mullen), during short recess of the Burns-Crotty Opera Company, will sing at the following places: December 12, Ilkeston, Costa's "Eli"; 13, Llanelly; 15, Swansea; 20, Nottingham; 23 and 24, Belfast; January 7, Glasgow; 11, Alexandria; 14, Bury. Opera recommencing January 23. Address, 59, Elgin Crescent, W.

MR. HAROLD KOBLICH (Alto), of St. James's Chapel Royal, is open to receive Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c. Address, 63, Hugh Street, Eccleston Square, S.W.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for Engagements at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor) kindly requests that all communications should be sent to 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.; or, W. B. Healey and Son, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. J. H. MAUNDER begs to announce CHANGE of ADDRESS to 10, Manor Road, St. John's, S.E.

MR. E. JACKSON (Baritone) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For terms and vacant dates, address, Principal Bass, New College, Oxford.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MISS GRACE HENSHAW (Liszt Scholar, R.A.M., and of Klindworth Conservatorium, Berlin), Pianist. For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Lessons given. 104, Sinclair Rd., Kensington, W.

MISS LUCIE HILLIER, Pianist, L.R.A.M. (Perf. and Teacher); Pupil of Hy. Eyers, R.A.M., Prof. Heinrich Barth (Court Pianist, Berlin), and Woldemar Bargiel; highly certificated from the Berlin Königliche Hochschule für Musik (Principal, Dr. Joachim), gives LESSONS at her own or pupil's residence. Special terms for schools. Highest testimonials. Prepares for all examinations. Address, 2, Colosseum Terrace, N.W.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH, Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION.—Master Reginald Butterfield, Solo Boy, may be engaged for Church Festivals, Concerts, At Homes, &c. Testimonials from eminent and distinguished Musicians forwarded on application, with terms.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

OTTO PEINIGER'S SCHOOL for PROFESSIONAL VIOLINISTS, Harrow.—A thorough TRAINING in Solo, Quartet, and Orchestral playing, Theory, Piano, &c. The Students are placed with responsible householders. Address, Wardhouse, Harrow.

CARLYON COLLEGE, KERIN and LYNAM, 57, Chancery Lane, W.C.—Classes for the Inter. Mus., London, Durham, and Royal Universities begin February, 1893. Full details on application.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(SOPRANO)

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool.

Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MADAME FLORENCE DICK

(SOPRANO)

For Oratorios, Operas, Cantatas, Concerts, &c.

"'MESSIAH.'—Is the possessor of a clear, rounded, and well-attuned voice, which she used with splendid effect, holding her hearers throughout by her tasteful and brilliant rendering."

245, Prescot Road, Fairfield, Liverpool.

MR.

CLIFFORD CONSTABLE

(TENOR)

(Musical Director, Bromley Parish Church, London).

Address: Cromer Villa, Rockbourne Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

Agents, Messrs. BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

MR. THEODORE FRANCE

(BARITONE)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Address, 8, Anley Road, West Kensington, W.

MR.

WM. SWEETMAN

(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)

AND

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements for the present season.

ALREADY ENGAGED:—

Crystal Palace, Glasgow, Polytechnic, Kennington, Aberdeen ("Judas"), Salisbury, Bermondsey, Leamington ("Redemption"), Woolwich, Northampton ("Lobgesang" and "Bride of Dunkerron"), Bradford, Keighley ("Stabat Mater" and "Walpurgis Night"), Bristol, Clapton, Perth ("Elijah"), Belfast ("Messiah," two Concerts), Pollokshields, Dunfermline ("May Queen"), Paisley ("Redemption"), Dundee ("Messiah"), Nottingham ("Messiah"), Derby ("Messiah"), Greenock ("Acis"), Northampton ("Messiah"), Glasgow Choral Union ("Messiah"), Edinburgh Choral Union ("Messiah"), Nottingham (Ballads), Woolwich, Shoreditch, Newport (I.W.), Darwen, Banbury ("Messiah"), Balham, Richmond, Stratford, Yarmouth ("Samson"), King's Lynn, Islington, Bow and Bromley ("Acis"), St. James's Hall ("Joshua"), Mossley ("Judas"), Blackpool ("Messiah"), Biggleswade ("Creation"), Workington ("Messiah"), &c.

For vacant dates and terms, please address, 37, Torrington Square, Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES AND CONCERT-GIVERS.

MR. JOHN BARTLETT

(TENOR)

(PRINCIPAL, PRO-CATHEDRAL, KENSINGTON)

AND

COVENT GARDEN PROMENADE,
CRYSTAL PALACE ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS,
MADAME FANNY MOODY AND MR. CHAS. MANNERS'S CONCERT TOUR, &c.

Is now Booking Engagements for Oratorio Concerts, &c. Special Terms for first appearances. Répertoire includes "Messiah," "St. Paul," "Hymn of Praise," "Elijah," "Crucifixion," "Daughter of Jairus," "Messe Solennelle," "May Queen," "Ancient Mariner," "Rose Maiden," &c.

Evening News says:—"Mr. John Bartlett possesses a voice and style that should qualify him for high position."

Western Morning News.—"Fine voice, considerable range, which he manages well in both operatic and ballad music."

Hampshire Post.—"'MESSIAH.' . . . sang well throughout, rendering of recitatives and 'Thou shalt break them' being very fine."

Hastings Advertiser.—"With respect to the artists, Mr. John Bartlett sang splendidly. . . . has a fine voice."

For press opinions, terms, &c., address, Mr. John Bartlett, Balmuir, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, London, S.W. Or Agents.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

LEEDS SYMPHONY CONCERTS, ALBERT HALL, LEEDS.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

THE NOMAD GLEE UNION

Concerts, At Homes, Banquets, &c. Complete programmes of Vocal and Instrumental Music can also be arranged. Address, H. Glenton-Kerr, Elmwood House, Ardville Road, Brixton.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.

Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS.
MASTER ERNEST HOWLAND,
MASTER HAROLD OHLSON,
and others, for Solo work, &c.
Permanent Boys provided. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS

"A soprano who is rapidly making her way to the front."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS

"Possesses a powerful and pleasant contralto voice." — Lichfield Mercury.

MR. BOWYER BRISTOL

"Is a very welcome reinforcement to the ranks of our first-class tenors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS

"Has a strong and powerful bass voice."—Mid-Surrey Gazette.

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY.

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Applications for terms and vacant dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

CONCERT AGENTS.

METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,

83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

MESSRS. BARTH & BLACK

CONCERT AGENTS

A MUSICAL AGENCY UNDER PROFESSIONAL DIRECTION.

Messrs. BARTH and BLACK are sole Agents for—

THE LADY VOCAL QUARTET,

THE WALENN STRING QUARTET,

A MALE VOICE QUARTET,

AND

THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS

(Operatic Concert Party under the direction of Mr. BROUGHTON BLACK).

Concerts arranged. Tours booked. Vocal and Instrumental Soloists of the highest class provided for every description of Concerts and Musical Performances. A Full Orchestra furnished at short notice. Special Parties for Oratorios, Operas, and Costume Recitals. Artists carefully selected for At Homes, &c.

BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

THE ANGLO-HUNGARIAN QUINTET and CONCERT PARTY.—Now booking Engagements for Concerts, Banquets, &c. Choice Vocal and Instrumental Solos. Hungarian National Uniform. Address, Mr. Edward Crosse, Conductor, 30, Gloucester Crescent, Regent's Park.

MR. JAMES BATES, Director of the Choir, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W., provides SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Choral Weddings, Concerts, &c. Address, Church House, Porchester Terrace, London, W.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY CHORAL UNION.

Patron: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF YORK, K.G.
President: His Grace THE DUKE OF FIFE, K.T.
Vice-President: The Rt. Hon. THE EARL OF STRAFFORD.
Conductor: Mr. JAMES SHAW.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1892, at 8.

HANDEL'S "JOSHUA."

Miss ANNA WILLIAMS. Miss HILDA WILSON.
Mr. BEN DAVIES. Mr. E. BRANSCOMBE.
Mr. ROBERT NEWMAN.

Full Orchestra and Chorus, numbering 400.
Leader: Mr. ALFRED BURNETT. Organist: Mr. MARTIN SHAW.

Tickets, 10s. 6d., 5s., 3s., 2s., 1s., at Basil Tree's Ticket Office, St. James's Hall, Piccadilly; and of the usual Agents.

N. VERT, 6, Cork Street, W.

MISS EDITH & MISS DORA TULLOCH'S

POETIC AND MUSICAL RECITALS,

Consisting of Songs, Operatic Arias, and Ballads. Recitations, Duologues. Guitar and Mandoline Solos and Duets.

TENNYSON RECITAL.

Entirely from the works of the late Lord Tennyson, including "Lancelot and Elaine" from the "Idylls of the King," recited by Miss Dora Tulloch, and Tennyson's lyrics sung by Miss Edith Tulloch. The Recital was given at Princes' Hall, under the patronage of Lady Tennyson, February, 1892.

CHILDREN'S HOUR RECITAL.

As given at Steinway Hall. Recitations and Songs for Children. Scene from "King John," in costume (Hubert, Prince Arthur).

Address, The Misses Tulloch, Linwood, Erith.

Miss EDITH and Miss DORA TULLOCH'S TENNYSON RECITAL, Steinway Hall, December 10, at 3 o'clock. Tickets, 5s., 3s., 2s.; at Hall, and of usual Agents.

Miss EDITH and Miss DORA TULLOCH'S POETIC and MUSICAL RECITAL, the Drill Hall, Bromley, December 15, at 8 o'clock.

NEW PARISH CHURCH, HORNSEY.

M. ALEX. GUILMANT will give a RECITAL (on the Grand Organ by WILLIS and SONS) on WEDNESDAY, December 14, 1892, at 8 o'clock p.m.

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.—ORGAN RECITALS, Sunday Afternoons. Mr. H. C. TONKING, December 4.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The following are the Solo-Playing test pieces at the F.C.O. Examination, to take place early in January: Bach's Fourth Sonata (1st and 2nd movements); Merkel's Sonata, No. 6, in E minor; and Wesley's Fugue in G (St. Cecilia, No. XI.).

The following are the earlier arrangements for the Session: December 6, Lecture "On Fifths," Dr. G. M. Garrett, M.A.; January 10, 11, and 12, F.C.O. Examination; January 17, 18, and 19, A.C.O. Examination. Candidates' names must be sent in on or before December 31.

The College Library and Rooms open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd. Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:

The Right Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.
The Right Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.Mus. V.C.M. and A.Mus. V.C.M.) and of Associate and Licentiate Organist, Pianist, Vocalist, and Violinist will take place January 10, 1893. Names should be sent in by December 31.

Theoretical Local Examination, December 16.

Practical Local Examinations during December and January Names should be sent in at once.

Particulars and advantages of Membership (Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d.), &c., on application to the Secretary.

By order of the Council.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. JAMES STERNDALE BENNETT, M.A.

Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.

Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.

The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Fairmont Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892), A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. (1892). FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

EMIL BEHNKE'S System of VOICE TRAINING is carried on by Mrs. and Miss Behnke and assistant. Also Emil Behnke's method of treating STAMMERING. References to doctors whose patients have been cured. Pamphlet, 1s., post-free, of Mrs. Emil Behnke, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: DURHAM MUS. BAC. and First Exam., Sept. 1892; CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; F.C.O., and A.C.O., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891, Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., 1892; F.T.S.C.; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., and T.C.L., Theory and Pianoforte; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Upwards of 260 Diplomas and Degrees gained by pupils, and several Medals. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. J. H. LEWIS, Mus.D., D.C.L., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by correspondence. Silvermead, Twickenham, S.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Fifty successes annually.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D. Mus., Lond., L. Mus., T.C.L., gives CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in the THEORY of MUSIC (including Acoustics). 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus., T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, HISTORY, &c., by Post. Pupils specially prepared for Examinations.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

HERBERT W. WAREING, Mus. Doc., King's College, Cambridge (1886), prepares CANDIDATES for UNIVERSITY and other MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS. Latest successes: Final Mus. Bac., Cantab., 1890; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Durham, 1890 and 1891; Prelim. Mus. Bac., Oxon., 1892. Address, Dr. Wareing, 150, Bristol Road, Birmingham.

VOICE-TRAINING AND SOLO SINGING.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N. Mr. Palmer's Method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

ARTICLED PUPIL (Vocal).—MR. F. ST. JOHN LACY, A.R.A.M., Assoc. Phil. Soc., Member Incorporated Society of Musicians, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL to train for Operatic or Concert Singer. Former pupils have passed direct from Mr. Lacy's tuition to salaried appointments on operatic stage. 4, Brompton Square, S.W.

MR. C. E. MILLER, F.C.O., Organist of St. Augustine and St. Faith's, Watling Street, E.C., can receive PUPILS for ORGAN and THEORY of MUSIC at the above Church or for Theory, Piano, Singing, &c., at his residence, 49, Elgin Crescent, Notting Hill, W.

THE ORGANIST of the Parish Church, Sevenoaks, can receive a PROFESSIONAL PUPIL. Every opportunity of gaining a thorough knowledge of the profession. References to past pupils. One capable of playing a plain Service well may hold an appointment in the locality of the value of £20 per annum.

SOLO BOY WANTED, for All Saints', Tufnell Park. Stipend, £10 a year. Apply to Mr. Francis Hemington, 87, Mercers Road, Tufnell Park, N.

SOPRANOS, CONTRALTOS, TENORS, AND BASSES REQUIRED, to give their services at Organ Recitals, at All Saints', Tufnell Park. The Recitals take place on Sunday and Thursday evenings. Vocalists are well advertised in the local paper, parish magazine, &c. Apply to Organist, Mr. Francis Hemington, 87, Mercers Road, Tufnell Park, N.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a COMPETITION for Two CHORISTERSHIPS on Tuesday, December 13, at 12 noon, at the Organist's house. Candidates must be between the ages of 8 and 11. Apply for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. E. E. Dorling, The Close, Salisbury.

YOUNG LADY VOCALISTS, of exceptional ability and appearance, WANTED, to take part in series of Matinées in West-End Hall. Mr. Ord, 17, Dacre Park, Blackheath.

ALTO WANTED, for Holy Trinity, Anerley. Apply, by letter, with references, stating salary required, to C. H. Cellier, 41, Venner Road, Sydenham.

THERE is a VACANCY for an ALTO at St. Barnabas', Kensington, W. Two Sunday services and Thursday evening practice. Stipend, £15. Applications should be sent to the Choir-director, Mr. W. T. Goold, The Hawthorns, Finchley, N.

ALTO WANTED, St. Peter-le-Poor, Old Broad Street. £10 per annum. Light duties. Apply, by letter, Geo. F. Grover, 133, Aldersgate Street, E.C.

TO ALTO SINGERS.—WANTED, for the Choir of All Hallows', Lombard Street, an ALTO SINGER. Salary, £12 a year. Duties: 2 Services on Sundays and Rehearsal on Friday Evenings. Must be a Communicant. Apply, T. Bensted, 4, Pembroke Villas, Richmond.

ALTO (not Counter-Tenor) WANTED, for All Saints', Norfolk Square, W. £15. Apply, John Curran, 29, Camden Grove, Peckham Road.

HOLY TRINITY, Chelsea, S.W.—WANTED, SOLO TENOR, £40. Alto, £30. Good reading indispensable. Address, Choirmaster.

A LEADING TENOR WANTED, for one of the principal Catholic Churches in London. Address, stating qualifications, &c., to A. B., 8, Charnock Road, Lower Clapton, E.

TENOR WANTED, for St. Bartholomew's, Sydenham. Stipend, £25. Apply to Organist, Bruce Villa, Kelvin Grove, Sydenham.

ST. STEPHEN'S, Wandsworth.—Good BASS WANTED. Two services and one practice. £15. Apply to Mat. Hy. Atkin, 127, Sugden Road, Clapham Common, S.W.; or at the Church on Friday evenings.

SOPRANO, also Lady PIANIST and ACCOMPANIST, will give their services for Oratorios, Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, for expenses. May be engaged together or separate. Press notices on application. Soprano, 56, Florence Road, Stroud Green.

ALTO.—MAN ALTO, at present Soloist in a London Church, is open to give his services gratis on Sunday evenings. Good musical service required. W. or N.W. district preferred. Apply, Alto, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER for a Church in London (N.W.). Good Two-manual Organ. Applications, by letter only, stating particulars, age, experience, qualifications, remuneration desired, &c., may be addressed to Rev. Ralph Williams, 94, Carlton Vale, N.W.

LADY ORGANIST WANTED, for the Chapel of the St. Pancras Infirmary, Dartmouth Park Hill, N. American Organ. Services: Sunday morning, 10 to 11; Sunday evening, 5 to 6; Thursday evening, 5 to 6; and one practice weekly. Salary, £10 per annum. Apply, by letter, to the Chaplin, as above.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Excellent testimonials. Would deputise. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

NORTHUMBERLAND COLLEGE of MUSIC, Newcastle-on-Tyne.—VACANCY in January for a thoroughly competent LADY TEACHER of SINGING. Applications by letter, stating qualifications, salary required, &c., to Mr. T. Albion Alderson, as above.

WANTED, ORGAN LESSONS and PRACTICE, in Bayswater, near Norfolk Terrace. Send terms. Address, W. B., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Temporary).—Two brothers, holding above posts at a School for gentlemen's sons, where fully Choral Services are held daily, would be glad to accept similar ENGAGEMENTS during the Christmas Vacation (five weeks, from December 16) in or near London. Choirmaster has Tenor voice, R.A.M. training. Address, stating terms, &c., Choirmaster, 24, Albion Road, Belsize Park, N.W.

WANTED, BANDMASTER for Rifle Corps at Harrow School. Must reside in Harrow, be able to play Cornet well, and give separate instruction in Brass Instruments, &c. Would have spare time during Term for other work, and fifteen weeks' holiday in the year. Preference given to one who could also play Double Bass in the School Orchestra. Salary varies according to the number of pupils; a minimum of £130 is guaranteed for the first year. A successful teacher could easily increase this. Apply, stating age and previous experience, with copies of two testimonials, to Eaton Faning, Esq., Director of the Music at Harrow School.

MUSICAL LADY or GENTLEMAN (must be a good Accompanist) is offered a comfortable HOME, on favourable terms, in a strictly private family. No children or lodgers. Address, Wall, Aberdour, Elms Road, Clapham, S.W.

AMATEUR PLAYERS of Oboe, Bassoon, Clarinet, Viola, and Brass Instruments are invited to JOIN a well-established ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY. Professional Conductor. Nominal subscription. Address, Mr. Desborough, 244, Crystal Palace Road, East Dulwich.

AGENT WANTED, to introduce PIANIST. Wishes also to join good Concert Tour. Engaged by nobility. Played with best artists. Highest references, reports, &c. G. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN excellent GERMAN BANDMASTER (perfect Pianist) wants ENGAGEMENT in England with a very good band of twenty musicians, about May next. Address, H. 04,063B., care of Haasenstein and Vogler, A. G., Lübeck.

THE late SECRETARY and MANAGER of a large Public School of Music, with Concert Hall attached, seeks a similar APPOINTMENT. Thoroughly understands organisation of Concerts, &c. Good book-keeper. Excellent references. Substantial guarantee if required. Address, Secretary, 17, Pandora Road, West Hampstead, N.W.

ENGAGEMENT WANTED, in School or Family, by Young Lady (Cert. R.A.M. and T.C.L.). Pupil of Professor Raif, of the Hochschule, Berlin. Subjects: Piano, Harmony, German (2½ years' residence abroad). Miss E. Andrews, 92, Hammersmith Road, W.

WANTED, a good PIANOFORTE TUNER, who can do small repairs, and is thoroughly experienced in repairing and tuning Harmoniums and American Organs. Apply, stating salary expected, and enclosing copies of testimonials, to Cramer, Wood and Co., Dublin.

WANTED, a first-class Out-door TUNER, by Forsyth Brothers, Manchester. Preference given to one accustomed to American Organ and Harmonium repairs. Apply, sending age, photo, references, &c., to Forsyth Brothers, 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

PIANO TUNER WANTED, one or two days per week. Thoroughly competent. M. Phillips, Teddington.

WANTED, a First-Class PIANOFORTE TUNER. One with a knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums preferred. Must be steady and of good address. Apply, with testimonials, to C. F. Hocking, Public Hall Buildings, Devonport.

WANTED, TUNER and REPAIRER, with knowledge of Organ Tuning, for Country connection. Salary, 35s., with annual increase up to 42s. Apply, with references (and photo if convenient), stating age and height, Managing Director, 191, Newport Road, Cardiff.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—WANTED, an ASSISTANT TUNER, used to repairs, with knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. For country. State age, wages required. E. W. S., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an ASSISTANT PIANOFORTE TUNER and REPAIRER, with knowledge of Harmoniums and Organs; energetic, steady, and willing to canvass. Permanent berth to reliable man. State age, wages, with references, G. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

APPRENTICE WANTED, to learn Tuning and General Repairing (Counter work also if required) under special facilities. Out-door. Premium. Bezant's Music Saloons, Leamington Spa.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks SITUATION. Country preferred. Good references. J. W., 45, Gayhurst Road, Dalston, N.E.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, aged 30 (reliable, and steady), with Factory and out-door experience, requires SITUATION as SECOND TUNER. Can play Piano and Organ. Address, Organ, care of A. Waldon, Victoria Road, Surbiton.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER seeks APPOINTMENT. Permanent or season. London and Provincial experience. Excellent references. Tuner, 32, Victor Street, Bishophill, York.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of American Organs, Harmoniums, ordinary Repairs. References good. Tuner F. P., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

TUNER and REPAIRER (experienced) desires ENGAGEMENT. Address, Tuner, 30, Wordsworth Street, Lodge Lane, Liverpool.

REPAIRER.—ASSISTANT seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Pianos, Harmoniums, and Organs. L. T., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, to learn Piano Tuning and Business of Music Warehouse. Small premium will be paid. Apply, E. C., 7, Effingham Road, Lee, S.E.

REQUIRED, a SITUATION as ASSISTANT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Good knowledge of Musical Theory. Aged 17. Apply, W. L., Manor House, Eton College.

SITUATION WANTED, in PUBLISHING or MUSIC BUSINESS (London or Provinces), by Youth of 18. Plays piano. Willing to work and improve. Please address, L. Hastings, 10, Manor Road, St. John's, S.E.

THOROUGHLY efficient ASSISTANT (married) requires permanent SITUATION. Well up in Catalogues and Small Goods. Sight reader. 8 years' experience. F. I., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TRAVELLER.—WANTED, SITUATION as above, or Book-keeper, in the Pianoforte and Music Trade. Salary or commission. Aged 29. Good references. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

ORGAN for SALE (second-hand), 1 manual, 5 stops, in handsome carved walnut case. R. Cope, 21, Jardin Street, Albany Road, Camberwell, S.E.

NEW IMPERIAL PIPE ORGANS (Two manuals). Suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, practice, &c. From 40 guineas. Made in portable sections. ORGANS (new and second-hand), Two manuals, with 6, 9, 12, 17, and 26 stops. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at special low prices, for cash, by Mason and Hamlin, Bell, Karn, &c. A £60 Mason and Hamlin for £22; a £105 ditto for 40 guineas; a 65-guinea Karn for 25 guineas, as new; a 180-guinea ditto, 85 guineas; a 200 Bell for 95 guineas. Also several large Harmoniums, by Alexandre, Christophe, Bauer, &c., fully warranted. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Stagg and Co., 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn, London, W.C. Established 1867.

THE HOPE-JONES SYSTEM.

NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich, refer with pleasure to the following Organs completed, and in course of construction by them, on the Hope-Jones Electro-Pneumatic System. London: St. Frideswides Church, Poplar; Council Room of the E.C.U., 35, Wellington Street, Strand; Christchurch, Blackheath; London Office of the Hope-Jones Electric Organ Company, Limited, 4, Huggin Lane, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.; All Souls' Church, Clive Vale, Hastings; Sefton Park Presbyterian Church, Liverpool. Estimates for New Organs, and applying the Electric Action to Old Organs, sent free on application to

NORMAN BROS. and BEARD,
Organ Builders, St. Stephen's, Norwich.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President: The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.
Warden: Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Studies: Professor BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.
Director of Examinations: Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus.B.

The next STUDENTS' ORCHESTRAL CONCERT will take place at Princes' Hall, Piccadilly, on MONDAY, December 12, at 8 o'clock. Conductor, Mr. F. Corder. The programme will include: Music to "Midsummer Night's Dream," for Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra (Mendelssohn); Movement for Orchestra, "Zingaresca" (MS.) (F. Corder); Overture for Orchestra (MS.) (A. W. Ketelbey, Student); Concerto for Pianoforte and Orchestra in D minor, No. 4 (Rubinstein); Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in D minor, No. 9 (Spohr); Rondo for Pianoforte and Orchestra in E flat (Mendelssohn); Scena, "Infelice" (Mendelssohn); Air, "Lusinghe piu" (Handel), &c.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

The LAST DAY of ENTRY is December 10, for the Thirty-ninth Half-Yearly Higher Examinations, which will commence on January 9, 1893, as under:—

1. For the Diplomas of Licentiate in Music (L.T.C.L.), and Associate in Music (A.T.C.L.), and for the special distinction of Fellow (F.T.C.L.).
2. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Practical Division (Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, &c.).
3. For Special Certificates in separate subjects, Theoretical Division (Harmony, &c.).

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

(SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL SERIES.)

The next Half-Yearly Examination in MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) will take place on FRIDAY, December 9, 1892, at nearly 100 Centres throughout the Country.

Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC will take place throughout the Session at the various Centres, a list of which may be had on application.

The Examinations of the College, both Higher and Local, are open to all persons, whether students of the College or not, and without restriction as to age, sex, or creed.

Regulations, prospectus of the Classes Dept., forms of entry, tickets for the Concerts, &c., can be obtained post-free from the undersigned.

By Order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

NEW SACRED CANTATA.

FROM CROSS TO CROWN

LIBRETTO COMPILED BY
JOSEPH DESPICHT
MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDMUND ROGERS

64 pp., Royal 8vo, 9d.

"Rapidly becoming popular."—Wiltshire County Mirror.
"Will doubtless be much liked."—Musical News.
"Created a highly favourable impression."—Queen.
"Decidedly effective."—Magazine of Music.

Special terms to Choirs and Schools on application to TRADE MANAGER, West London Auxiliary Sunday School Union, 133, Edgware Road, Hyde Park, W.

 A specimen copy sent FREE to Choirmasters, Conductors of Choral Societies, and others, on receipt of two stamps.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
G. HENSCHEL.

IN TWO PARTS.

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (LOW VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (LOW VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (HIGH VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (HIGH VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS EACH PART.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

NEW MODELS;
IRON FRAMES;
Recent IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile; Responsive;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals, London, Paris, Society of Arts, &c. (last—that of the Tasmanian Exhibition, 1892).

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred the "BROADWOOD" Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	MDME. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	JANOTHA	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	LISZT	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HELLER	HALLÉ
BENNETT	HENSELT	SULLIVAN

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.

Annual Subscription, One Guinea.
Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"
Translated by W. ASHTON ELLIS, Editor of
"THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).
Part II, and No. XIX. now ready.

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the EDITOR, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

Just Published.

TWELVE NEW

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE

WRITTEN BY

SHAPCOTT WENSLEY

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. BARNBY.	G. M. GARRETT.
J. F. BRIDGE.	BATTISON HAYNES.
EATON FANING.	EMMA MUNDELLA
MYLES B. FOSTER.	JOHN STAINER.

BERTHOLD TOURS.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

Tonic Sol-fa, Eightpence. Words only, Twopence.

Each Carol may be had separately, price 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
DECEMBER 1, 1892.

A MUSICAL GRADUATES SOCIETY.

A SCOTCH divine once said that if anybody would start a society for the prevention of starting any more societies, he would join that society. It is evident that some of our leading musical graduates do not hold the cleric's opinion in this matter. Reference was made last month to a proposed "Union of Musical Graduates," and there is every reason to suppose that such a union will become un fait accompli. It may, therefore, interest those "without the pale," and, perhaps, "the elect," to know something of a similar society which was formed more than a hundred years ago, and which, possibly by degrees, graduated out of existence.

In the MS. department of the British Museum there is a book in the bold handwriting of Dr. Callcott, which contains an "Account of the graduates meeting, a society of musical professors established in London, November 24, 1790, at Dr. Arnold's, No. 480, opposite Craven Street, Strand." The initiation of the society was due to Dr. Dupuis, who "suggested the idea that the musical graduates were sufficiently numerous to constitute a select party, and which might be held alternately at the house of each member at equal distances of time throughout the year." At that time there were only ten musical graduates resident in or near London. Amongst them were Drs. Arnold, Burney, Dupuis, Cooke, and Parsons (master of the King's band), and J. W. Callcott, who was then a Mus. Bac. There were no "sweet girl graduates" in those days. The earlier meetings were held at irregular intervals, the fifth being "at Dr. Parsons', Shepherd's Bush, June 22 [1791], when Dr. Cooke attended for the first time, and the society was complete."

"A new and illustrious member was then added to the list by the University of Oxford, who conferred the Degree of Dr. in music upon the celebrated Haydn, and it was with much concern to Mr. Callcott, who held the sixth meeting at Kensington Gravel Pitts, on the third of August . . . that Dr. Haydn's summer engagements prevented his attendance. At the eighth meeting, however, given by Dr. Dupuis, at Grosvenor Gate, October 26, the presence of the new member was highly gratifying to all." Soon afterwards the number of members was increased to fourteen, when "a circumstance being mentioned that some improper persons designed to take their degrees for the purpose of intruding themselves into the society, it was resolved that no new members should be added to the list; and the difficulty of getting full attendance in the winter months occasioned the resolution that no meetings should be held between January and June, and that the months of October, November, and December should be distinguished by the graduates in rotation every fortnight."

An interesting item of information soon follows: "Dr. Haydn, previous to his leaving England, gave the graduates his dinner on the 20th of June [1792], at Parsloe's, in St. James's Street, to which, at his particular request, Mr. Salomon was admitted, partly as the intimate friend of Dr. Haydn, partly as an interpreter, Dr. Haydn having not made sufficient progress in the English tongue." Parsloe's was a well-known coffee house on the west side of St. James's Street.

Like in many other fraternities, all the brethren did not dwell together in unity. We learn that "the name of Mr. H. ceased to appear in the list from a cause not unworthy of remark. In a letter of excuse to one of the members, he declined the pleasure of attending the graduates, since he was never accustomed to dine at his own table without the company of his wife and daughter. If this reason had originated in the purity of his wishes to preserve decency and restrain the effects of excess, it might have been respected and admissible; but since he often signed himself in a joke, what he felt himself to be in right earnest, 'Jerry Sneak,' that ridicule was justly incurred which never fails to accompany singularity in which virtue and principle claim no share." Mr. H.'s withdrawal was followed by that of Mr. B., who had proposed "that no person should be elected to any musical place in the cathedrals of this kingdom without a previous testimony of their abilities from the society of musical graduates." The suggestion that the society should become an examining body was considered "not only ridiculous, but impossible to put in execution." It seems that the society suffered no loss when Messrs. H. and B. withdrew, "for although the noise of the former was qualified by the silence of the latter, yet the superior wit and talents of others were reduced to the degrading level of bearing an equal share in the nonsense of the moment."

Although "several important discussions of harmonical questions, with occasional anecdotes of former musicians, rendered the graduates' meetings highly instructive and important," yet "friendship and conviviality were openly stated as the ultimate end of the society, to know each other, and to show the world that the heads of our profession preserve unanimity in the midst of conflicting interests." We learn that sometimes at the meetings, through causes which we refrain from mentioning, "all improvement of the mind (an object of some consequence to the junior members) was stigmatised with the title of parish business; but it must be also allowed in justice that whenever matters of real and momentous consequence occurred the attention of all was easily obtained."

Strange to say, there is no mention of any music having been performed at any of the meetings, but particulars of the menu and toasts are supplied. "The original plan of conducting the dinner was to have only two plain dishes, with soup or fish ad libitum; and the toasts were generally given thus: 'The King and Constitution'; 'The Queen and Royal Family'; 'Viva la Musica'; 'The Two Universities'; 'Our Absent Brethren'; with such occasional sentiments as the circumstances of the times might excite."

That the Society was not all conviviality—or, may we say? *Mus-bac*chanalian—is shown by the fact that proposals were made to engrave and publish a drawing of Purcell, in the possession of Dr. Burney, "in honour of our countryman," and to assist in the erection of a statue to Dr. Arne; both these suggestions, however, failed to be carried out.

That bête-noire of all societies, cliquism, ultimately manifested itself in this. It was thought that "some person" would claim to be a member whose "admission might destroy the harmony which at present prevails," and therefore it was proposed "that all future elections should take place by ballot," and also that a minute book should be provided.

Callcott seems to have had some doubts as to the raison d'être of the society. He concludes his short "account" thus: "How far the exclusion of useful and improving investigations will make the continuance of friendly and convivial parties permanently agreeable, is hereafter an object of consideration for those who are sensible of the shortness of life, and who are willing to show posterity their time has not been idly and perhaps unprofitably spent." It is to be hoped that the new Union will have as frank and genial a chronicler as J. W. Callcott; such similar information will be far more valuable to the musical historian of 1992 than the most carefully kept minute book.

FROM MY STUDY.

MISS MAUDE ROWDEN has been good enough to send me, from Winwick Vicarage, Oundle, a copy of the words and music of a Christmas Carol. She says thereupon:—

As far as I know, neither the words nor the tune are in print. I have never seen them in any collection of carols, nor heard of them anywhere out of this neighbourhood. The carol is known in the village as the "Hark," and has been always sung at Christmas ever since my father has been vicar—twenty-eight years. The only copy I have ever seen of the tune was in an old manuscript book belonging to a former parish clerk of this village. It was written in a very confused manner, and was hard to make out. I enclose a copy of the treble of it: it was evidently intended to be written in four parts, but was mixed up in such a way that we were unable to make them out. It is written in what is supposed to be 4-4 time; but no attention has been paid to the relative value of notes in dividing it into bars, as you will see. I add the version now sung, which differs very much from the old one, and is much prettier. I have no idea who the composer was, nor who was the author of the words, which are beautiful and quaint. I also add a copy of the words.

The words of the carol are these:—

"HARK."—A CHRISTMAS HYMN.

Hark! hark! what news the Angels bring,
Glad tidings of a new-born King.
Who is the Saviour of mankind,
In Whom we may salvation find.

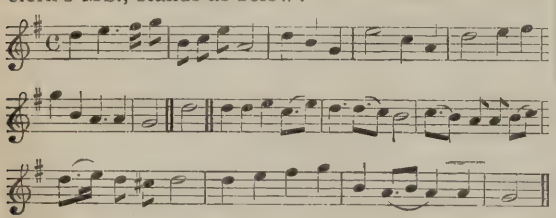
This is the day, the blessèd morn,
The Saviour of mankind was born.
Born of a Maid, a Virgin pure,
Born without sin, from guilt secure.

If Angels sing at Christ His birth,
Sure we have greater cause for mirth.
For why? It was that for our sake,
Christ did our human nature take.

Sweet Christ, Thou didst Thyself debase,
Thus to descend to human race;
And leave Thy Father's throne above—
Lord, what could move Thee to this love.

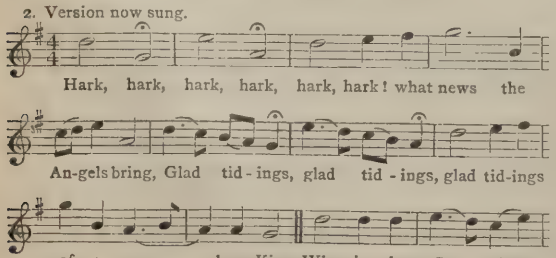
May we contemplate and admire,
And join with the celestial choir.
Extend your voice above the sky,
All glory be to God on high.

The old version of the tune, copied from the parish clerk's MS., stands as below:—



And here is the modern version now used—

2. Version now sung.



Hark, hark, hark, hark, hark, hark! what news the
An-gels bring, Glad tid-ings, glad tid-ings, glad tid-ings of a new- - born King. Who is the Sa-viour

Both words and music are new to me, but it is possible that some of my readers know the carol in its present or another form, and as used elsewhere than at Winwick. In that case I shall be glad to receive particulars. The parish clerk's copy is a real curiosity of notation, and a characteristic survival of a period to which the choir of the church near Washington Irving's Bracebridge Hall belonged: "The vocal parts, generally lagging a little behind the instrumental, and some loitering fiddler now and then making up for lost time by travelling over a passage with prodigious celerity, and clearing more bars than the keenest fox-hunter, to be in at the death."

The Lord Mayor's Show on the 9th ult. had the effect of sending me to the records of City pageants for the purpose of ascertaining what part music played in them. There are many references to the art and its professors in Mr. F. W. Fairholt's "History of Lord Mayor's Pageants."*

A fact very clearly perceived in the old pamphlets reprinted in this volume is the importance of the City Waits, who took part in every ceremonial as a kind of civic band. Frequent reference is made to them in the literature of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Penkethman—vide his comedy, "Love without interest," 1699—speaks of the Waits as "my lord mayor's musick," and describes them as "gentlemen fiddlers," available for the entertainment of guests at the houses of citizens. The dedication of Thomas Morley's "First Booke of Consort Lessons" (1595) to Sir Stephen Some, then Lord Mayor, contains a very interesting passage relating to these City musicians:—

"The auncient custome of this most honourable and renowned citie," writes Morley, "hath beene euer to retaine and maintaine excellent and expert musitians, to adorne your honour's favours, feasts, and solemne meetings; to those your lordships Wayts, after the commending these my labours to your honourable patronage, I recommend the same to your servants carefull and skilfull handling, that the wants of exquisite harmony apparent, being left unsupplyed for brevitie of proportions, may be excused by their melodious additions, purposing hereafter to give them more testimonie of my love towards them."

It appears from this extract that the Waits, in Morley's opinion, at any rate, were performers of some skill; but be this as it may, they were a regular feature in civic displays. As to the composition of their band, it would appear from Morley's "Lessons" that they performed upon the "treble lute, the pandora, the citterne, the base-violl, the flute, and the treble-violl." There may, of course, have been more instruments than these, and some better adapted for effect in the open air.

The Companies, as well as the Corporation, had minstrels for ceremonial occasions, and in the books of the Grocers' Company is preserved a curious entry of expenditure upon music when the members rode to Blackheath in solemn procession to welcome the Queen of Henry IV. on her entrance into London. The Company's band in this State show consisted of

* Lord Mayor's Pageants, being Collections towards a History of these annual Celebrations, with Specimens of the descriptive Pamphlets published by the City poets. By Frederic W. Fairholt, Esquire, London. Printed for the Percy Society. 1843.

"a Panel mynstrale and ses V compaynons," who were paid for their services the sum of £3; their uniform (hoods and fessures) cost 10s. 2d.; their dinner and wine, 2s. On the morrow, when the Queen passed through the City to Westminster, the minstrels received 13s. 4d., and 13d. was spent in Cheapside for wine wherewith to refresh them. They appear to have been in the charge of the Beadle, who was mounted, and had 12d. allowed him for horse hire.

Similar entries are frequently met with in the records of the Grocers' Company. In Hall's "Union of the two noble and illustrate Famelies of Lancaster and Yorke" (1548) we read that there was much music in the water procession of the Lord Mayor on the occasion of Anne Boleyn's progress through London to Westminster. The Common Council desired the various guilds to prepare barges properly adorned, "every barge to have mynstrelsie." The Lord Mayor's barge "was garnished with many goodly baners and streamers and richly couered. In which barge were shalmes, shagbushes, and diuers other instrumentes, which continually made goodly armonie." There was also a choir on this occasion. A pinnace contained a device representing "a mount, and on the same stode a white Fawcon crouned, upon a rote of golde enuironed with white roses and red, which was the Quenes devise: about whiche mount satte virgyns singyng and plaiyng swetely." After this manner went the Lord Mayor and his train down to Greenwich to meet the Queen, "and there cast anker makyng great melody." From an entry in the books of the Ironmongers' Company it appears that the business now carried on by Mr. Stedman is of ancient origin. The occasion was the Lord Mayor's Show of 1566, when the Ironmongers exhibited a pageant, in connection with which six boys, supplied by J. Tailor from Westminster, sang and made speeches. In the water procession the Ironmongers had a barge duly appointed with music as well as fireworks and gunpowder: "The music for the barge consisted of two trumpets, one drum and sixteen bases, half of which were double, and one solitary flute. The musicians were habited in sarsnet cassocks, with scarves and night-caps of Bruges satin drawn out with white and red. The Queen's sergeant-trumpeter demanded no less than £18 for 24 trumpeters." It appears that he did not get it.

William Smith, citizen and haberdasher of London in the spacious days of good Queen Bess, left behind him "A breffe Description of the Royall Citie of London, capital Citie of this Realme of England" (1575), which contains a full description of the ceremonies and procession then usual on Lord Mayor's Day. I notice here simply the musical features. In the procession were, in the order of mention, but, of course, with intervals, "two drommes and a flute," "a sett of hautboits playing," "sixteen trompeters, eight and eight in a company," "twelve trompeters more," "the dromme and flute of the citie," and "the waytes of the citie, in blewe gownes, red sleeves and cappes, everyone havinge his silver coller about his neck." In Shirley's "Contention for Honour and Riches" (1633), one Clod, a countryman, ridicules the annual show, saying, inter alia: "I have heard songs, too, or something like 'em; but the porters have had the burden, who were kept sober at the city charge two days before, to keep time and tune with their feet, for, brag what you will of your charge, all your pomp lies upon their back." There is an obvious pun here; the reference being to the fact that the various devices used in the Show were carried on the backs of men. Music for the "vulgar" was not lacking in these solemnities. Stationed near Bow Church, during the Show of 1661, was a troop of "drolling Americanes" playing "on the tongs and other antique instruments" (ancestors of the "bones," apparently). This form of entertainment existed as late as 1719, when the Ironmongers' Company "paid John Healey, for playing on the tongs on Lord Mayor's Day, 10s."

The constitution of the kitchen furniture orchestra may be gathered from an entry in the books of the Grocers, who (1673) exhibited a droll of Moors working in a garden of spices attended by musicians: "three pipers, which, together with the tongs, key, frying-pan, grid-iron, and salt-box, make (says a contemporary chronicle) very melodious musick, which the worse it is performed the better is accepted." In the expenses of the Show of 1685 are the following items: "King's trumpets, £25; King's drums, £8; City Waits, £2; Drums, £2; and Music, £6 5s."

Thomas Dekker, who, as City Poet, devised many of the pageants and afterwards published an account of them in what are now exceedingly rare pamphlets, throws a good deal of light upon these curious ceremonies, and there is a very detailed account of the Show of 1660 in John Tatham's "Royal Oake, with other various and delightful Scenes presented on the Water and the Land, celebrated in honour of the deservedly honoured Sir Richard Brown, Bart., Lord Mayor of the City of London." The Merchant Taylors' procession in that year included:

"The sergeant-trumpeter, with a skye-coloured scarf about his shoulders, and eight other of his majestie's trumpeters, together with his majestie's kettle-drums."

"His majestie's drum-major, with a like coloured scarf about his waiste, with his majestie's other drums."

"Twenty other trumpeters devised and disposed of into eight pageants."

"Seven other drums (whereof John Bibby, Drum-Major to the City is chief) habited either in buft coats or buff coloured doublets, and blue scarfs about their waistes."

Songs in parts were a feature of the pageant "London's Resurrection," devised and written by Thomas Jordan in 1671. The description of the procession includes mention of drums and fifes in several detachments. The songs were sung in Guildhall during the dinner, which then took place in the day, during an "interval for refreshments"; the procession again starting at its close. At this feast his lordship, "attended by the waits of the City, is accommodated with variety of excellent musick, both loud and soft, vocal and instrumental, amongst which this ensuing song, in parts, receives the regard of his attention." The song referred to is for three voices, with chorus. The first voice begins:

Come, let us concord
In a verse to my lord,
Whose tables do shine
With viands and wine;
Whose welcome and wishes
Are free as his dishes:
Good claret will warm ye,
Here's nothing can harm ye,
Canary doth make but a few sick:
My lady invites ye,
To all that delights ye,
Whose spirit and words
Agree with my lord's;
Then taste the bounty
Of every county;
Here is no misprision,
All points of division
Are banished but what's in the music.

Here the chorus strikes in:

Let joy and health,
With peace and wealth,
Support his power who is
The prop of London's fair Metropolis.

The second and third voices have solos in the same exalted and heroic vein.

After this ditty "a cheerful and temperate cup of wine goes about"; in the meantime the consort of musick play two or three "sutes of airs" and a "piece of drollery" follows, to be sung in parts. At its conclusion, the second course of the dinner is served, and they "sound a lesson on the ho-boys, cornets, and sackbuts" preparatory to another "droll" in three parts. So on to the end of the feast.

Jordan provided another entertainment in 1678, entitled "The Triumphs of London." In the procession this year were thirty-six trumpets, fourteen drums, and several sets of drums and fifes. On the return of the pageant to Guildhall, "his lordship and the guests being all seated, the city-musick, after a little consideration and consultation one with another, conclude to habit themselves for the performance of a song of three parts, in stilo recitativo, or a musical interlude presented by three persons: Crab, a west countryman; Swab, a seaman; and Self, a citizen." The piece is a long one, and a part of it goes to show that the complainings so rife now were not unknown then. Says Self, the citizen:

Though the Change be full,
Yet the City's dull,
And droops for want of trading;
It is to little purpose now,
Our weighty bills of lading.
Shopkeepers know not what to do.

Crab, the rustic, takes up the same parable:

The country mon doth plow and sow,
Harrow, weed, and reap and mow,
But yet is like to starve on't.

Yet there is extravagance in the land:

Swab. Though the citizens
With tongues and pens
Are new distresses faining,
Crab. They do veast their chopps
With zhugard zopps,
They have but little gaining.
Swab. They keep both town and country house.
Crab. They veed on capon, pig and goose.
Swab. In sack and claret they carouse,
And spread their plumes in training:
Crab. And yet, as if not worth a lowse,
They'r every hour complaining.

In the Gentleman's Magazine for October, 1833, are some notices of Lord Mayor's Day copied from a diary (1550—1563) in the Cottonian collection. The writer thus describes the Show:—

First went two tall men bearing two great standards of the Merchant Taylors' arms; then came a drum and a flute playing, and another with a great (fife?), all in blue silk; then two wild men of the wood, all in green, with great beards, great clubs, and burning squibs, and two targets on their backs; then came sixteen trumpeters, blowing, and then seventy men in gowns, caps, and hose and blue silk sleeves, every man having a target and a javelin; then came a devil; next the bachelors (old men) all in a livery and scarlet hoods, and then the pageant of St. John the Baptist, gorgeously arrayed, with goodly speeches; then all the King's trumpeters, blowing, each having scarlet caps; then the waits of the city, playing, with caps and goodly banners, &c., &c.

After dinner, the procession reformed and went to St. Paul's, and—with all the trumpets and waits, passed round about the quire and the body of the church, blowing, and so home to the lord mayor's house.

To these particulars of the part played by music in the greatest civic ceremony of the land may fitly be added others which show how the art was regarded in the household of a great nobleman. For these I turn to the "Regulations and Establishment of the Household of Henry Algernon Percy, the fifth Earl of Northumberland, at his Castles of Wrexill and Lekinfield in Yorkshire. Begun anno domini MDXII. London. Printed MDCCLXX." This curious and most valuable book contains a list of the Earl's servants, among whom, as relating to music, are fourteen gentlemen and children of the chapel—namely, eight gentlemen: two basses, two tenors, and four countertenors; a yeoman, or groom of the vestry, and five children: two trebles and three "means." In addition, the Earl kept three minstrels who played respectively upon a tabret, a lute, and a rebec. The performer upon the tabret received £4 yearly; the wages of his two companions being £1 13s. 4d., with, of course, lodging and maintenance in each case. The gentlemen of the chapel were paid variously, there being two at ten marks, three at £4, two at five marks, one at forty shillings, and one at twenty. This shows the number of gentlemen to have been nine and not eight, as elsewhere set down. The boys received twenty-five shillings annually. The chapel musicians breakfasted in three messes, two for the gentlemen and one for the children, each mess being supplied with three loaves of bread, a gallon of beer, and three pieces of salt fish or four white herrings. On flesh days, there were three pieces of boiled beef instead of the fish. On Mondays and Thursdays (Scamlynge Days) in Lent, the breakfast consisted of, to each mess, a loaf of bread, a pottle of beer, four white herrings, and a dish of stockfish. Similarly detailed regulations are made for other meals, and for the issue of lights, wood, and coals throughout the year. From that part of the book which lays down the duties of each member of the household it appears that the chapel singers had no other function. Thus I read concerning them: "The Gentlemen and Children of my Lord's Chappell which be not appointid to attend at no tyme but oonely in exercising of Godde's Service in the Chappell daily at Mattins, Lady-Mass, High-Masse, Even-Song and Complynge." Then follows a list: "A Bass; a seconde Bass; the thirde Bass; a Maister of the Childer, a Countertenor; a seconde Countertenor; a thirde Countertenor; a fourth Countertenor; a standing Tenour; a second standing Tenour; a thirde standing Tenour; a fourth standing Tenour." This list again raises the number of gentlemen, who are now eleven. The list of children mentions: "The fyrst Childe a Tribble; the second Child a Tribble; the third Child a Tribble; the fourth Child a second Tribble; the fifth Child a second Tribble; the sixth Child a second Tribble."

In the chapter regulating the Earl's yearly gifts the following appears:

Item. My Lorde useth and accustomyth to gyfe yerly to every Erlis Mynstrellis when they custome to come to hym yerely 3s. 4d.: And if they come to my Lord seldome, once in 2 or 3 yeres, then 6s. 8d.

When the visiting minstrels were attached to the household of a friend or kinsman they received each 6s. 8d. even if the call was an annual one. If a duke's or earl's trumpeters visited Lord Northumberland yearly they received 6s. 8d.; and 10s. were paid to "three of the King's Shames (shawms)." Another item should be given as it stands:

Item. My Lord usith and accustomyth to gyf yerely, when his Lordschipp is at home, to his Mynstraills that be daly in his Household, as his tabrat, lute and rebek, upon New Yeres Day in the mornynge, when they doo play at my Lorde's Chambre doure, for his Lordschipe and my Lady 20s. Viz. 8s. 4d. for my Lord, 6s. 8d. for my Lady, if she be at my lord's fynding and not at her own. And, for playing at my Lorde's son and heir Chaumbre doure, the Lord Percy, 2s. And for playing at the Chaumbre doures of my Lord's yonger Sonnes, my yonge Maisters, after, 8d. the peece for every of them—23s. 4d.

The regulations for the ordering of the Earl's chapel are, like all the others, most minute. At matins and evensong there were, on the Dean's side, the Dean, sub-Dean, a bass, a tenor, and three counter-tenors, having opposite to them the Lady Mass Priest, the Gospeller, three counter-tenors, two tenors, and a bass. A smaller number of singers appeared at other services, but on Fridays, and when the Earl attended Mass, the full choir had to be present. There was no regular organist, the duty of that official being taken by four members of the choir, each taking the instrument for a week as his turn came round. The task of "settynge of the Queare," whatever that may mean, was discharged by the five basses in turn. His lordship being accustomed to move from one residence to another at stated periods, arrangements had to be made for the transport of his large household. Those affecting the clergy and choir are thus described:—

Yt is ordynyd at every removall that the Dean, Sub-dean, Prestes, Gentillmen and Childer of my Lordes Chappell, with the Yeoman and Grome of the Vestry, shall have aponted theime 2 Carriadges at every Removall, viz. One for their Beddes, viz. for 6 Prests 3 beddes, after 2 to a Bedde; for 10 Gentillmen of the Chapell 5 beddes, after 2 to a bedde, and for 6 Children 2 beddes, after 3 to a bedde, and a Bedde for the Yoman and Grome of the Vestry—in all 11 Beddes for the first Cariage. And the second Cariage for their Aparells and all other Stuff, and to have no mo Cariage allowed them, but only the said 2 Cariages allowed theime.

Here I bring these extracts from the Household Book to an end. They give a vivid idea of the position accorded to music in the establishment of a great nobleman when the eighth Harry was king.

X.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. Shedlock, B.A.

(Continued from p. 652.)

THE BIRTH OF A SYMPHONY.

The origin of some of the greatest musical works is unknown; one may indeed say: "Happy the work which has no history." Of such are the forty-eight Preludes and Fugues of Bach, and many compositions of Haydn and Mozart. Of Beethoven's nine Symphonies it is impossible to name a birthday—to say that on such and such a day the foundation stone of any one of them was laid. Sometimes, as in the case of the theme of the second movement of the Seventh Symphony, or of the Scherzo of the Choral Symphony, we know that the composer was making use of ideas which he had jotted down years before he commenced seriously to work at either of these Symphonies; but, on the other hand, we seem to trace the birth and immediate development of the theme of the first movement of the Eighth Symphony. Now a certain mystery hangs around that popular work—the "Pastoral" Symphony. It seems pretty certain that, according to his wont, Beethoven commenced working at it when the Fifth was aleady far advanced. As a rule, Beethoven was on with a new work before he was off with the old one; Schindler tells us that the Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth Symphonies were written in the years 1806, 1807, and 1808 repectively. The "Pastoral" was produced on December 22, 1808. Now at the end of the month of July, 1807, Beethoven went to Heiligenstadt, that retired spot on the heights, far away from the noise and worry of the city life in Vienna; and there devoted himself to the C minor Symphony and the Mass in C. At that time Beethoven heard some itinerant musicians, among them, according to Czerny, a violoncellist, who gave a somewhat distorted arpeggio version of the chord of C major, which the composer introduced into his Mass; surely it was somewhere about the same time that he came across the rhythmically-unsteady bassoon player of the "Pastoral," for in a sketch book there are sketches of the "passus" and "resurrexit" of the Mass in C, followed immediately by a "Sinfonia pastorella" sketch, the beginning, in fact, of the opening theme of the first movement; and the sketches of both works afterwards appear mixed up together.

The Mass in C was completed in 1807, as it was produced on the 13th of September of that year. Nottebohm supposes that the sketches of the Symphony were made about the middle of 1808. There are, in fact, sketches on loose sheets at the Berlin Library, and sketches, in a book devoted entirely to the Pastoral Symphony, at the British Museum. Concerning the former a few remarks will now be made. The Museum book, however, is of quite exceptional interest, for not only does it show the composer's mode of working, or rather thought-writing, but it contains some remarkable hints as to the connection of the various movements. But though as a study of Beethoven's method these sketches are of greater importance than those at Berlin, the latter have a peculiar fascination of their own. Hopeless, indeed, does it seem to attempt to describe them—a few bars of a theme, scratchings out, theme re-written, memoranda, red-pencil marks, all this is apt to convey the idea that Beethoven's works show patient labour rather than sudden inspiration. A glance, however, at these sketches at once removes any such notion. The excited character of the writing, the, at times, almost illegible words written wildly amidst the music, the divine disorder which reigns throughout—everything shows that Beethoven had before him at the time a sound-picture of which he rapidly sketched the outlines. Compare any of Beethoven's sketches with the printed version, and it will be seen that the latter is the outcome of the former. He did not change and change until the best, as if by chance, presented itself; but restored a faded picture. Such vivid sketches as those of the "Pastoral" Symphony are the best answer that can be given to any who feel inclined to consider Beethoven's mode of working detrimental to his music; though for the most part incomprehensible, they bear the stamp of genius. There are sketches of all the movements, those of the opening Allegro being least in number. Particularly interesting are the various "storm" indications—the rumbling of the bassi, the tremoli, the vivid descending passage of the violins, &c.

On one page stands written:—

"Jede Mahlerei, nachdem sie in der Instrumentalmusik zu weit getrieben, verkehrt."

Which is, being freely interpreted—

"It is a mistake to carry painting in instrumental music too far.

The history of programme music since Beethoven's day shows how sound a principle is therein enunciated. And it is particularly interesting to note the exact page on which Beethoven has written this. In various places there are superscriptions, but this sentence occurs after a few bars of the slow, and also of the following movement—those portions of the Symphony next to the "storm," in which he sought to give more definite expression to his thoughts. Beethoven apparently felt that he was travelling along a dangerous road, and wrote down those words as a warning to himself. May they also serve as such to others!

(To be continued.)

MR. SANTLEY'S REMINISCENCES.*

Mr. Santley had already many claims on the gratitude of the musical public of both hemispheres before he embarked on the difficult task of writing his reminiscences. We say difficult advisedly, for, in the first place, the writing of reminiscences is girt about with many perils. It is not easy to hit the mean between decorous dulness and malicious piquancy, especially when one is concerned with the susceptible tribe of musicians. And, furthermore, Mr. Santley tells us in his preface that he had preserved hardly any notes, programmes, or data to aid him in the task, and was therefore obliged to write it almost entirely from memory. Having regard, then, to the thorny nature of the undertaking, and the conditions under which he addressed himself to it, we have no hesitation in declaring that the musical world is more Mr. Santley's debtor than ever. He has given us a book which is at once entertaining and instructive. He writes frankly and freely, yet his book is void of offence. He has, in fine, acquitted himself of a difficult task with conspicuous ability and tact. From the interesting sketch of his early days in Liverpool we gather that Mr. Santley's musical talent was inherited from both parents. His father he describes as "a very persevering" man (a quality eminently observable in the son), who, by dint of much self-denial, saved enough money to pay for lessons from Michael Maybrick, sen., and ultimately acted as organist at the Baptist Chapel in Myrtle Street. He was his son's first instructor, but the boy's nervousness rendered him an inapt pupil. He loved music, but had a horror of singing or playing before any one, and suffered terribly from fright when called upon to recite at school. His first solo was sung on Christmas Day, 1848, in the Unitarian Chapel, Toxteth Park, soon after which his alto voice broke, and from lack of proper guidance he soon began to sing tenor. Meantime he had taken up the violin, joined an amateur orchestral society, and on his fifteenth birthday was elected a performing member of the Philharmonic Society, taking part in the chorus at the inaugural performances held in the new hall in 1849, at which the singing of Viardot Garcia and Lablache and the music of the "Elijah" left an indelible impression upon him. Mr. Santley was now engaged as a book-keeper in a firm of leather and hide factors, but he devoted all his spare time to music. He was a member of the Philharmonic Society, where he sang in the chorus, belonged to Herr Lidel's Glee Union, and played the violin in the Festival Choral Society and the Societa Armonica. He was engaged as bass soloist at St. Anne's Catholic Church, Edgehill, before he was out of his teens, and made his début at a Concert of the Glee Union, in which he tells us he sang "The Gipsy's Warning," from Benedict's opera, which he had shortly before heard Staudigl sing. It seems that both Lidel and Costa noticed the resemblance between his voice and that of the great German singer, with whom Mr. Santley owns to having felt a strange affinity. As he puts it,

> No singer has ever had such a peculiar effect on me, apart from his singing. Each time he stepped on to the platform I felt a thrill run through my whole body, as though he possessed some magnetic influence over me.

In a later chapter Mr. Santley gives a list of the artists whom he looks upon as overtopping all others. They are the following: Viardot Garcia, Jenny Lind, Miolan-Carvalho, Alboni, Mario, Ronconi, Lablache, Sims Reeves, and Staudigl. He sang with all of these, either on the stage or Concert platform, except Lablache and Staudigl, and places Ronconi or Viardot in the forefront of all, both vocally and histrionically. Neither possessed charm of voice or personal appearance, but both had "the charm of genius, which overtops all." To resume the thread of the narrative, Mr. Santley, when about twenty, definitely began to sing bass, and gives a humorous account of the result of his hero-worship of Carl Formes. He let his hair grow and tried to sing "Qui Sdegno" to Latin words in church one evening, low E and all. Unluckily the organ was somewhat below the usual pitch, and when the critical moment came he failed to produce any sound. This episode prompts him to offer some judicious and instructive remarks on registers and the mistakes of singing-masters, especially in this country. It is amusing to learn that his "good-natured friends" were anxious to persuade him that he was a doomed man before he set out for Italy in 1855! Mr. Santley remarks:

> It is curious that, possessed of a strong constitution, and having done more, and more varied work than any singer (except Sims Reeves) before the public, I should always have been singled out as a subject for a premature end.

By the time Mr. Santley had reached his majority he had come to care far less for ledgers than for ledger lines. He was weary of the routine of office work and longed to go and study singing in Italy. There were difficulties in the way, however. The Puritanical objections of his family had to be overcome by the aid of Herr Lidel, and then there remained the serious question of ways and means. His principal offered to double his salary as book-keeper if he would stay, but when Mr. Santley declined, encouraged him in his resolve—

> "I see," he said, "you have really made up your mind, and, although I very much regret losing you, I think you are acting wisely; here there is nothing for you to look forward to, whilst in the musical profession you have the world before you."

Mr. Santley had saved about £30 out of his year's salary and cleared about £18 more by a Farewell Concert, and, after making a few necessary purchases, started for Milan in October, 1855, with about £40 as his entire capital. He felt the wrench of leaving home, but had no regrets in quitting Liverpool, where his talents had hitherto met with but scanty acknowledgment. The period of his two years' sojourn in Italy is described in what are, in some ways, the most interesting chapters of the book. No one who meditates embracing the career of a singer should fail to peruse them attentively. They are, as well, full of interest to the general reader from the lively picture which they give of artistic life in Milan under the Austrian domination. Mr. Santley met with a cold reception from Lamperti, but in Gaetano Nava he found not only a teacher, but a true friend. Of Nava's scrupulous conscientiousness some notion may be gathered from the following passage:—

> At the Conservatoire, where, during the time I was his pupil, he was master of the girls' singing class, he was obliged to teach all those who were accepted as pupils by the directors. Privately, he would not accept as a pupil, on any terms, a youth of either sex with whose musical disposition he was not thoroughly satisfied. Often he dismissed girls, with advice to turn their attention to knitting stockings or other domestic work, and so become useful members of society, instead of wasting their time in the study of an art for which they had neither taste nor aptitude.

Nava, we also learn, was a great stickler for articulation and expressive enunciation, and laid great stress on gradual progress. "There must be time," he used to say, "to receive instruction, and time to digest the instruction received." Altogether, in spite of the hard work and the privations he went through, Mr. Santley looks back on his two years of student life in Italy as in many ways the happiest period of his life. The society was interesting and congenial, and the life suited him. But meantime supplies were running short, his father was growing impatient at the postponement of his son's début, and matters had reached a critical stage when Mr. H. F. Chorley arrived on the scene. Mr. Santley had fulfilled an engagement at Pavia with a fair measure of success, but nothing had come of it, and he was in low water and low spirits when Chorley urged him to return to England, where he promised to lend him all the assistance in his power. The able but angular critic of the Athenæum was as good as his word, and proved one of Mr. Santley's best friends. On his return he introduced his protégé to Hullah and Costa, and engagements soon began to come in. It is pleasant to learn that the leaders of the profession—Grisi, Mario, and Clara Novello—greeted him cordially from the outset. In 1859 he married Miss Gertrude Kemble, whom he had met at Chorley's house, and in the same year obtained his first operatic engagement, making his début as Hoel in the English version of "Dinorah," his selection to impersonate the part having been specially approved of by Meyerbeer himself. The amount of work he did in these four seasons of English opera was tremendous. The seasons lasted on an average about five months, and the average number of times he sang in each was 110! His début in Italian opera was under the management of the late Mr. Gye, but, as he had no regular contract, he transferred his services almost immediately to Mr. Mapleson, for whom he sang for nine seasons. It is worthy of note that when "Faust" was produced in English, early in 1864, Mr. Santley, who had created the part of Valentine in the Italian production the year previously, suggested that Gounod should write a song for him, taking the melody in the Prelude to the first Act as a theme. After some demur Gounod consented, and this was the origin of "Dio possente." It was when Mr. Santley was playing this part on tour in Dublin, with Tietjens, Trebelli, and Sims Reeves, that he had his first experience of the Dublin "gods." In the death-scene, as he was being held up by Martha, a voice in the gallery cried out "Unbutton his weskit!" It was a trying moment, but Mr. Santley succeeded in dispelling the atmosphere of levity created by the untimely jest, and achieved a great success. During these years his colleagues, in addition to the artists already named, were Giuglini, Alboni—whose singing he describes as "gorgeous"—Mongini—of whose skill with the broadsword Mr. Santley retains unpleasant memories—Mario, Ilma di Marska, Christine Nilsson, and Patti—truly a goodly galaxy of talent. At the end of the season of 1864 he accepted an engagement at Barcelona, where he was very successful in the title rôle of "Rigoletto," and as the elder Germont in the "Traviata," and in the following year he appeared at La Scala. The concluding chapters of the volume are devoted to an account of Mr. Santley's brief return to English Opera at the Gaiety, in the hope of establishing a permanent lyric stage in England, and his visit to America, 1871. The last few pages make it agreeably manifest that Mr. Santley regards the present volume only in the light of an instalment, and the excellence of the entertainment which he has now set before us awakens agreeable anticipation of a supplementary volume on his experiences on the concert platform. As they stand, however, these Reminiscences form a valuable contribution to musical literature, in virtue not merely of the wealth of characteristic and genial anecdote in which they abound, but also from the excellent lesson which they convey to all aspirants to distinction in the career of a public singer. Perseverance and earnestness have been the watchwords of Mr. Santley's life. He has owed much to his natural resources, but even more to an indomitable faculty for taking pains. This book only furnishes additional proof of the fact that the true artist is he who holds that his musical education is never at an end—he, in fact, whose ideal is identical with that of the Greek sage, "to grow old learning something fresh every day."

* "Student and Singer." The Reminiscences of Charles Santley. Edward Arnold.)

The very cordial and appreciative reception given to the Mozart Supplement issued a year ago has induced the proprietors of The Musical Times to make arrangements for the issue, on the 15th inst., of a Supplement devoted to Beethoven. Generally speaking, this extra number of our journal is being prepared on the lines of the "Mozart." That is to say, it will be copiously illustrated with portraits of the master and views of places made famous by association with his career. In the selection of these great care has been taken, and their execution will be in the best style of modern art. The number will contain also fac-similes of the composer's writing, both in letters and in music scores. One of these, besides having the special interest of a novelty because never before published, is supremely characteristic of the forcible manner in which he could deal with communications (and communicators) which gave him cause of offence. The literary matter will be edited by Mr. Joseph Bennett, who will contribute an essay on the man and his genius. Sir George Grove also contributes an important article. Among other contents will be a series of "word pictures" describing the master's personal appearance; a series of conversations in which he took part, and a series of impressions which his manner and surroundings made upon individuals who came into contact with him. From this it will be gathered that the Supplement is designed to have a strong personal interest.

Messrs. Noel, Conway and Co., of Birmingham, have sent us a copy of a most interesting and admirably printed catalogue of autographs entrusted to them for sale. The most striking feature of the catalogue is a detailed list of original autograph letters and manuscript music scores (many unpublished) in Mendelssohn's own handwriting, the collection being "the careful life-work of an ardent admirer of Mendelssohn." There is, for instance, the autograph score of a Sinfonia in E minor, dated December 24, 1821. This is one of the twelve unpublished Symphonies mentioned by Sir George Grove (see Crystal Palace programme book, February 3, 1877), of which all the autographs are in the Imperial Library at Berlin. Sir George states that the Symphony in E minor bears no date. It is possible that this "Birmingham" score with date is a duplicate copy, or—as the composer was in the habit of dating his compositions—still more likely, the original score. Again, there is the Overture to "Midsummer Night's Dream" as a pianoforte duet; also a manuscript full score of "St. Paul," with autograph additions, remarks, &c., in the hand of the master himself; an unpublished full score of Handel's "Acis and Galatea," with additional accompaniments by Mendelssohn; an arrangement in full score of Beethoven's "Marcia Funèbre" and "Andante con Variazioni," from the Pianoforte Sonata in A flat (Op. 26), &c.; and many pamphlets, books, articles, &c., relating to the composer. The collector guarantees the authenticity of every piece in the collection, and it is stated that there is "probably no better living authority on Mendelssohn's autographs." The price asked for the complete collection is £1,200. The British Museum or one of our national musical libraries would be the fitting resting-place for these treasures. Other autographs of note are offered for sale, among which a score entirely in the handwriting of J. S. Bach—viz., a complete movement for the organ, entitled "Capriccio sopra il lontananza." A work bearing the title "Capriccio sopra la lontananza del suo fratello dilettissimo," in several movements, is, of course, well known. Is this "Birmingham" score one of those movements, or something quite different? Spitta, in mentioning the above-named Capriccio, remarks: "No autograph of this is known; hence it must remain uncertain whether the Italian title was given by Bach himself." There are also for sale some ink and pencil Beethoven sketches. It would take more space than is at our command only to notice the principal contents of this remarkable catalogue, which, by the way, are not restricted to the autographs of eminent musicians.

We make bold to say that the following musical notice, taken from the North London Guardian of the 18th ult., is absolutely unique in its character as a mass of misstatements and blunders: "The people of Highbury had an exceptionally good opportunity of hearing Mr. Parry's new Cantata 'Job' (1) on Tuesday (2) last. The Highbury Philharmonic Society obtained the first rights of perforing (sic) the great Leicester (3) success in London. After a short first part the tuneful composition was given by Miss Farry (sic) Moody whose voice never fails to gain applause in North London circles. Mr. Newbury proved quite equal to an adequate reading of the tenor music, and Mr. Manning (4) acquitted himself admirably in the bass solos. The well known chorus of the Society gave good expression to the concerted music and an efficient orchestra under the conductorship of Mr. Betjamann (sic) delightfully accompanied the vocalist. In spite of many interruptions from the zealous attendants the performance was one well worthy of the good name of the Society and the important occasion of the first production in London and (sic) so excellent a piece of work." We have numbered the mistakes for convenience. With regard to (1), the astonishing circumstance is that Haydn's "Creation" was performed and not Dr. Parry's "Job," which the Highbury Philharmonic will not produce till January 16 next. (2) The performance actually took place on a Monday. (3) Dr. Parry's "Job" has nothing to do with Leicester. It was produced at Gloucester. (4) Mr. Manners, not Mr. Manning, sang the bass solos. But for one remark of the Guardian's luckless scribe we should imagine that, not present at the Concert, he wrote from the prospectus and his own fancy, after confusing himself with dates. The remark in question is that there were interruptions from the zealous stewards. He appears, therefore, to have attended, and to have heard the "Creation" under an impression that he was listening to "Job." Yet that is surely impossible! We give it up.

With reference to the letter and remarks in our last issue on the use of trumpets with pistons, it is interesting to read the opinion of Berlioz—undoubtedly the highest authority on such matters. He says of these instruments: "They have lost nothing of the quality of the ordinary trumpet by the super-addition of these facilities, and their correctness of intonation is satisfactory." And it should be remembered that Mendelssohn, finding himself quite unable to distinguish between the tone of the piston and slide trumpets, decided in favour of the former on account of its convenience. In spite of this, trumpet parts are constantly played on cornets, a habit which is "most tolerable and not to be endured" by ears of refinement or discrimination. "The cornet à pistons," says Berlioz, "is very much the fashion in France at present, particularly in a certain musical world where elevation and purity of style are not considered essential qualities; and it has thus become the indispensable solo instrument for quadrilles, galops, airs with variations, and other second-rate compositions. . . . its quality of tone has neither the nobleness of the horn nor the loftiness of the trumpet." Again: "Jocund melodies will always have to fear from this instrument a loss of a portion of their nobleness, if they have any, or, if they have none, an additional triviality." Latter-day composers and conductors do not seem to know their Berlioz over-well! If Mr. Morrow's recently expressed views should cause the use of the cornet to become a custom more honoured in the breach than the observance he will have earned the gratitude of all musicians who know a hawk from a hand-saw.—Ainsi soit il.

In Mr. Santley's interesting volume of Reminiscences, of which a notice will be found in another column, there is an interesting passage on locomotion as an incentive to study. He tells us how often it has occurred that a difficulty which has troubled him indoors has come right after a smart walk across Hampstead Heath. Mr. Santley is not the first musician who has found in movement and exercise an intellectual stimulant. The picture of Beethoven on his country walks, humming, singing, and even shouting to himself, is familiar to all of us. Berlioz, again, expressly tells us in his Memoirs that the greater part of his "Damnation de Faust" was written in railway carriages, steamboats, and diligences, and that he found rapid movement eminently helpful to creation. The measured motion of railway travelling, with its rhythmic whirr, probably formed with him a good background against which the fantastic outcome of his brain took musical shape. Had he lived a generation later he would have enjoyed nothing better than comparing sensations on the great express routes, scudding down Shap Fell, tearing round those thrilling curves in the Peak on the Midland, or, perhaps, most exciting of all, rushing right in to within a mile or two of King's Cross at seventy miles an hour in that wonderful final spurt with which the Great Northern expresses wind up their splendid run in from Grantham. And yet there are people who say there is no romance in railway travelling! Think what a splendid programme for a symphonic poem a journey in the "Flying Scotchman" would furnish to an imaginative composer of the Berlioz type! The idea is our own, but we gladly make it a gift to the first comer.

It is, perhaps, not altogether a matter for surprise that the English should appear to be an unmusical race to the average Teuton who reads his native musical journals, and these only; for the doings of English men and women in the world of music are rarely chronicled in the German papers, and when mention is made of them at all it is in such a perfunctory manner as to be only too well calculated to create an erroneous impression. For instance, the Leipzig Signale—a musical journal of considerable repute and standing—found no more to say of the first Cardiff Festival than "zur Aufführung gelangte Mendelssohn's 'Elias'" (Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was performed). Space is valuable, no doubt, especially in a journal of so small a size as the Signale; but the enumeration of at least the principal works given on an occasion of historical interest would surely not have taken much room.

We have received another letter from our pertinacious correspondent in the North whose mind is so much disturbed by the musical degrees granted by St. Andrew's University. As, however, we are assured, on the highest authority, that the University has acted within its legal rights, and that, moreover, these rights cannot be taken away, nor lapse by desuetude, we do not propose to further discuss the subject.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

With reference to our word of regret that Mr. Algernon Ashton prefers setting music to German rather than English lyrics, that gentleman sends us two observations. In the first place he says: "I have hitherto found, terrible to relate, an almost insurmountable difficulty in getting anything of mine published in England, and I am therefore, of course, obliged to fall back upon publishers abroad—a circumstance which I, after all, hardly regret. So, when I publish songs in Germany, they are naturally set to German words." We quite see the force of this remark, and did not know that Mr. Ashton's songs were primarily intended for the German market. Our correspondent goes on to deny that German lyrical poetry is at all inferior to English. That is in part a question of taste, concerning which there is, proverbially, no disputing. Mr. Ashton adds that "the five most illustrious song-writers of all time—Schubert, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Franz, and Brahms—were content to set their glorious strains to German words, and if German poets had power enough to inspire the muse of such men, surely German poetry is good enough for me." This passage rather gives its writer away. The composers named were Germans who set music to the lyrics of their native land. Mr. Ashton should copy their example, but whether he do so or not, he has our best wishes for success in his profession.

Clearly the inhabitants of Surinam are a grateful people. The eminent pianist, Mr. Willem Coenen—who before he came to England in 1862 had lived in Surinam for eight years, and become well known there as a teacher and performer—has just returned from a vacation visit to the scene of his early triumphs. Thirty years is a long time, but the faithful Surinamites had not forgotten their former favourite. Of course he was asked to give a Concert, and at its close he and his family were escorted by a torchlight procession, with military band, to the "Club," where a ball was given in their honour. Mr. Coenen was thanked by the President in the name of the company, and replied; after which the festivities were kept up, report sayeth not till what hour. This, however, was not all. His departure, on October 4, was the occasion of something very like a public demonstration. The Governor and a great crowd of friends accompanied la famille Coenen to the waterside; a small steamer, specially placed at their disposal by the Governor, conveyed them to their vessel, and the Artillery band played till they were no longer within sight or hearing. After thirty years! Yea! the inhabitants of Surinam are a grateful people.

Mdlle. de Nolhac gave a Concert in the Town Hall, Bedford, on the 11th ult., and the critic of the Bedfordshire Times tells us all about it. The lady's memory failed her in one piece, but it is satisfactory to learn that "the modulation she made in order to cover her mistake was in itself proof of her excellent musical education and ability." Pianists perpend, and when you slip cover the error with a modulation. We further learn that the solo violinist received enthusiastic applause for "a novel example on a 'feathering' figure," whatever that may mean. The critic keeps his best thing for the end, where, though loth to find fault, he strongly recommends "the exclusion from any provincial programme of the classically beautiful but exceedingly monotonous Rondo in B minor by Schubert. This interminable piece coming at the close of the Concert somewhat marred the brilliant effect of the preceding numbers." Poor Schubert! Poor critic!!

The North Middlesex Chronicle has a musical critic who must be "distinctly precious" not only to the readers of that estimable journal, but to the proprietors thereof. Noticing a recent Festival Service in Hornsey Parish Church, he observed: "As a whole, the combined choirs may be said to have rendered the anthem in a manner which showed that their voices were in unison with the theme." Also, that certain passages "rang through the church with all the strength that the full compass of voice permitted." On another occasion, referring to Mendelssohn's Overture "Ruy Blas," the critic said that "the striking chords for the wind and string instruments were heard to much advantage." The same paper has also mentioned the singing of "a humorous song by Mendelssohn, entitled 'I'm a Romancer,'" but this may have been the attempt of a waggish compositor at self-description.

A correspondent writes: "I would like to call attention to a passage in 'Pepys' Diary,' which I cannot remember to have seen commented upon, in connection with the supposedly modern device of the concealed orchestra. Under date of May 8, 1663, the genial gossip, who, be it remembered, was a practical musician, comments unfavourably on the plan of placing the orchestra beneath the stage, adopted in the new theatre in Drury Lane, opened during 1663, by which, he says, 'the basses could not be heard at all, and the trebles very faintly.' It may be added to this illustration of 'there is nothing new under the sun,' that the bad effect indicated by Pepys is just as apparent in modern theatres where the arrangement is adopted. As for the hidden orchestra at the Bayreuth house, that is another matter altogether, forming, as it does, an integral portion of the music-drama scheme at that place."

The musical critic of the Aberdeen Daily Free Press is somewhat out of the world. Noticing a recent Patti Concert, this hyperborean chronicler spoke of Miss Fanny Davies as though she were a novice to be patronised good-naturedly instead of a famous artist. He said: "Miss Fanny Davies is a young pianist of much promise. She contributed to the programme Chopin's 'Scherzo' in B flat minor—a trying task which she accomplished very creditably, as also 'Staccato Etude' (Rubinstein), a sort of movement perpetual, for which she was warmly encored, and responded with another piece of a similarly light and pleasing character."

NOVELISTS will heed no warnings as to the care with which they should venture into the regions of music, which is, for them, full of snares and pitfalls. Here we have Mr. Frank Barrett (vide his "Prodigal's Progress") coming to the most distressing grief. According to the Daily Chronicle, he makes his hero, who flourished in the last decade of the eighteenth century, take tickets for a performance of "Elijah" and presents to us an old parson who, in 1798, offers to sing a part in the "Creation," which was not produced till the following year. There is room for a book of reference to be called "The Novelist's Musical Guide."

THE guarantors of the Cardiff Festival have been called upon to pay one quarter of the sum for which they undertook to be responsible. It was officially stated that the original deficit was "about £700," reduced to £500 by donations. On the other hand, it is said that the Festival, regarded as simply a commercial enterprise, fell short by about £1,000 of making two ends meet. The balance-sheet, it would seem, benefited by private generosity, such as that of Lord Bute, who, we learn, paid the entire sum for which he was a guarantor. A committee has been appointed to make arrangements for the Festival of 1895.

THE Devon Evening Express is one of the journals to be congratulated upon the special features of their musical criticism. Here is an extract from its notice of a recent Concert: "Mr. Easton's rendering of two violin solos left nothing to be desired, especially when, holding the bow between his knees, he held the violin in his hands, and in this manner beautifully gave 'Home, sweet Home.'" There was a gentleman in the London music halls some time ago who played the fiddle while turning summersaults. He should go down West if in need of a sympathetic chronicler.

WE take the following from a contemporary: "Madame Wagner has, it seems, been unsuccessful in her efforts to induce the Austrian Government to alter their copyright laws, and accordingly after next year 'Parsifal,' and all the Meister's other operas, will become non-copyright throughout the Austrian Empire. 'Parsifal,' which has hitherto been a monopoly of Bayreuth, will therefore be available in Vienna; and in view of this fact the authorities of the Munich Opera House have applied for permission to represent the work in Bavaria after the Bayreuth performances projected for next autumn are over."

AN American writer observes: "It is a curious fact that no great music has ever been written among a people living under a republican form of government." Accepting this as true, a question arises whether the connection between republicanism and musical sterility is any more real than that between Tenterden Steeple and the Goodwin Sands. But is the statement true? Hardly, in the sight of those who recall the musicians of the first French republic, Cherubini among them, and know what is being now done under the third.

THE Incorporated Society of Musicians will hold its eighth Annual Conference in London during the week commencing January 2, 1893. The chairmen will be Sir John Stainer, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, and Mr. J. L. Roeckel. This is the first Conference held since the incorporation of the Society, and promises to be of great interest. Many valuable papers are to be read, and amongst other enjoyable features of the Conference will be a Recital by Mr. A. J. Hipkins upon the clavichord and other ancestors of the pianoforte.

"CERTAINLY we are a captious, critical community," says a New York contemporary. "Antonin Dvorák comes to us as a great world-recognised composer; immediately we fall to criticising his conducting. If he had visited America in the capacity of a conductor we would of course have cavilled at his not being a great composer. It would be quite amusing to hear what the Bohemian music-maker has to say of his New York critics."

THE bear differs from many bipeds in not loving the cornet. Mr. H. J. Roff, of Calhoun, Ga., having considerately betaken himself to the woods for private practice upon that instrument was pursued by Bruin and forced to climb a tree. Bruin climbed also, till Mr. Roff, unable to go higher, resorted to a still more natural expedient and blew several blasts upon the cornet. The bear "climbed down" and vacated those parts.

REFERRING to Antonin Dvorák's "Triple Overture," a morning contemporary speaks of it as "new," and as having been written shortly before the composer left Prague for New York. As a matter of fact, Dvorák, when in Birmingham last year, described the work as completed, and a synopsis of its "programme" appeared a week or two later in the Daily Telegraph.

THE story of Josef Hofmann as a stowaway from Cardiff to Bombay was so manifestly the work of a too lively imagination that we marvel at its reproduction in papers the space of which is presumably valuable. The credulousness which once filled the Haymarket Theatre with people who had paid money to see a full-grown man creep into a quart bottle has not abated apparently.

COLONEL MAPLESON used jokingly to say that the male members of his chorus returned to Sicily at the close of each season and set up as bandits till again wanted. His daughter-in-law, Madame Schirmer-Mapleson, being on an excursion to Mount Olympus, fell into the hands of brigands, at the head of whom she recognised the chef de claque of the Pera Opera-house!

ALL who are interested in the progress of our art will hear with pleasure that Professor Niecks' lectures and classes at the Edinburgh University are attended by no less than fifty-six students. Professor Niecks says that the work done has "all the appearance of being fruitful work." Of course such things develop—next year probably the number of students will be doubled. Nothing succeeds like success.

DR. MACKENZIE'S "Dream of Jubal" was to be performed by the Plymouth Vocal Association on the 30th ult. (too late for notice in this issue), and will be given at Brighton this month and Edinburgh in January. At the first-named place H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh led the orchestra. Mr. Charles Fry was the reciter on this occasion, and he will also take part in the other performances.

Dvorák's Mass in D, the instrumental portion of which was written originally for organ and double bass, but which the composer has recently scored for full orchestra, will be performed for the first time in this country at a Crystal Palace Concert during Lent.

The Gloucester Festival came within £102 of paying its way, and the stewards are called upon for only 15s. each. There is now ground for hope that the era of assessments upon the guarantors has come to an end. Dr. Hubert Parry will be asked to compose a new task for the Festival of 1895.

"In literature," writes Mr. C. F. Glaseknapp, "Wagner knew everything worth knowing." This comes a good way short of omniscience, but the fanatical worshippers of the "Meister" are getting on with the task of evolving a new Deity.

An American paper, not without fame for the strength of its language, observes: "To call a man ignorant, arrogant, bigoted, and conceited is in bad taste, but to hint at other things is serious and will not be tolerated." We are glad to hear it.

The husband of a prima donna in America having actively resented a criticism of his wife's performance, it was pointed out that he must be very thin-skinned, because the critic only said that the lady could neither sing nor act.

At the annual meeting of the Gloucester Choral Society, recently held, Mr. Joseph Bennett was elected President for the third year in succession. The Society gives its first Concert on the 16th inst., when Mr. Cowen's "Rose Maiden" will be performed.

The Ode for choir and orchestra, "Come, Sacred Learning," written by Dr. Henry Hiles for the installation of the Chancellor of the Victoria University, will be performed at the Gentlemen's Concert, Manchester, on the 12th inst.

The author of the article on "Tennyson in Song" in our last number desires us to draw attention to the following Erratum, p. 656, col. 1, line 31, for "forty-four," read "about thirty-six."

Professionals and amateurs who knew the mother of Miss Clara Louise Kellogg during her residence in this country will be concerned to hear that she died in New York on the 1st ult.

Jeweller: "What do you want with so many paste diamonds? Surely you wouldn't wear them!" Prima donna: "I want to have them stolen."

Sir John Stainer has been elected an Honorary Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford

PIETRO MASCAGNI'S "I RANTZAU."

(From our Special Correspondent.)

La Pergola Theatre, Florence, was crowded on Thursday evening, the 10th ult. The young Italian composer is not without honour in his own country, and his third operatic venture, of which the very date of production had been actually announced ten months previously, has caused a great and legitimate excitement. The wonderful and rapid success of the "Cavalleria Rusticana" suddenly turned the eyes of the world upon Mascagni, and now he must feel that he has not only to maintain, but to increase, his reputation. It must be acknowledged that the road to operatic fame is beset with dangers and difficulties, but, with genius as a companion, many have travelled safely along it. Mascagni has genius, and may overcome the difficulties; he has only to beware of the dangers which beset youth, and, above all, that of flattery.

The subject of the libretto of "I Rantzau" is drawn from one of Erckmann-Chatrian's novels, entitled "Les deux frères." The two brothers, Gianni and Giacomo Rantzau, living in a small village of the Vosges, are enemies. Their houses face each other, and, at the opening of the story, an adjoining lawn is about to be sold by auction, and of this lawn each greatly desires to become the possessor. Gianni outbids his brother (the auction does not take place, but the result is made known by the crowd which assembles in the village square), and of course the hatred between the two is thereby intensified. But early in the first act a love-secret is disclosed. Luisa, daughter of Gianni, loves Giorgio, son of Giacomo, and the latter reciprocates her affection. Amor vincit omnia, and it is not difficult to foresee that this love between the children will prove stronger than the hatred between their parents. The second act opens in the house of Gianni: guests are expected. Luisa is alone, and sings of a king who loved himself more than his daughter. She died to appease the oracle, and he won victory but lost love. Here the two conflicting passions of the play are emphasised. Gianni arrives and bids her prepare to welcome the visitors. Lebel, inspector of forests, is mentioned, and it soon transpires that he is the man to whom Gianni intends to give his daughter. We also learn that the kind-hearted, honest Fiorenzo, schoolmaster, and at the same time organist of the village church, is to communicate to the young maiden her father's wishes. But before this takes place there is music-making both inside and outside the house. Gianni requests Fiorenzo to play something on the organ. The latter hesitates at first, but finally sits down and plays a Kyrie which he himself has composed. The vocal part is sung by those assembled. The Kyrie is interrupted by Giacomo's men outside, who begin some rustic ditty; the Kyrie is given in louder and still louder strains, but the opposition continues. Soon afterwards the company breaks up, and Fiorenzo gives his message to Luisa. She will not listen to it, and the father entering soon afterwards finds Fiorenzo actually siding with the girl against him. The kindly schoolmaster is soon sent about his business, and Gianni now attempts to persuade his daughter to comply with his desires; but when she utters a resolute "No" loses control over himself, throws her down, and it is only with difficulty that he refrains from striking her. In the third act, after a female chorus, Fiorenzo is surrounded by the ladies of the village, curious to gather news respecting Luisa, who, since the interview with her father, has fallen dangerously ill. Then in a conversation between Fiorenzo and Giacomo, we learn that Giorgio, son of the latter, who adores Luisa, is in despair; he afterwards tells of his love to Fiorenzo, who indeed seems to have his hands pretty full of other people's business; such, however, is often the case with persons of a kindly nature. At the close Gianni, who really loves his daughter, is in despair at her state, and the cause of it is also well known to him. He conquers his feelings and his pride, goes to his brother's door, knocks, and seeks to gain entrance and speak about Luisa —— and Giorgio. The brother is at first unwilling, but at length says "Entra!" The winding up of the story in the fourth act is not very exciting; in the end everything comes right: the lovers are united and the brothers reconciled.

The book has its good and its bad points. Hatred and love are set, the one against the other; the former decreases and the latter increases. So far all is well, but the love story is commenced and carried on in such a piecemeal sort of way that one cannot feel any strong interest in, or sympathy for the lovers. In fact, until the libretto is read it is difficult to follow the thread of the tale. Then, too, Lebel is little more than a lay figure. The schoolmaster is well drawn, and so, also, are the brothers; but the "music" episode in the second act is an unnecessary digression, and, from a musical point of view, by no means one of the strong features of the piece. There are two moments in the opera in which the audience is held spellbound. The one is the scene between the father and daughter in the second act, and the other, the meeting of the two brothers at the close of the following act. In the latter it is the scene itself which takes hold of the audience—the composer almost eliminates himself; but in the former he bursts out in full strength. The striking way in which he here wields the orchestra makes us think that with a really fine libretto Mascagni will accomplish something that will add materially to his reputation. "I Rantzau" is to our thinking the strongest of his three operas, but the music is unequal, and indeed seems to rise and fall in interest according to the story. The concluding act, for instance, is weak on the stage and the music is not striking. There are one or two numbers in the opera which deserve special mention. One is the clever Finale of the first act; there is much life in it and no little dramatic power; it only needs a more practised hand in the art of counterpoint. A short but charming and delicate chorus for female voices at the commencement of the third act, and the chorus of the village gossips with its clever orchestral accompaniment, are two musical features of special note. It is quite evident throughout the opera that the composer feels that he lives in an age of storm and stress, but he cannot help looking back from time to time towards the land flowing with melody and meagre orchestration. Happy, indeed, will he be if he succeed in finding the happy mean between the two. Mascagni has a fresh, vigorous mode of writing which promises well for the future. His harmonies are bold, and his orchestration (in which, by the way, he seems a special disciple of Berlioz) often highly effective.

It will not, of course, be necessary to describe the performance in detail. The soprano part of Luisa did not suit Signora E. Darclée, and Signor F. de Lucia was scarcely an acceptable lover, vocally; but these two artists and the rest of the company evidently did all within their power to render justice to the work. The clever impersonation and excellent singing (baritone) of Signor E. Sottolana deserves, perhaps, special mention. The parts of the two brothers were taken by the well-known Signor M. Battistini (Gianni) and Signor L. Broglio (Giacomo). Signorina A. Cecchini was the Giulia and Signor G. Paroli the Lebel. The chorus, in which the women's voices were specially good, sang extremely well; and, indeed, after the charming female chorus at the beginning of the third act, the chorus-master, Signor Venturi, was called on the stage. The Conductor was Signor Rodolfo Ferrari, who displayed both intelligence and warmth. In England the public is gradually learning the right moment at which to demonstrate approval and display enthusiasm. Judging from what took place at La Pergola, the Italian public has yet to learn that lesson. When anything pleases them they insist on an encore; and, as at La Pergola very many things pleased them, the piece was increased by more than half its proper length. Before each encore, too, the composer was dragged on to the stage by the excited artists. Enthusiasm covers a multitude of artistic sins, and for the moment we must be content to record the brilliant reception of "I Rantzau" and of Pietro Mascagni by the Florentines. The work was repeated on the following Saturday night, when there was again a full house.

COVENT GARDEN OPERA.

Sir Augustus Harris has kept his people actively employed since the date of our last notice, without, however, doing very much to concern the chronicler of events. On October 29 he added "Don Giovanni" to the season's repertory, putting forward Miss de Lussan (borrowed from the Carl Rosa Company) as Zerlina and Mr. Padilla as the Don. The interest of the performance lay chiefly in the Zerlina, who, while a little self-conscious, had no difficulty in delighting her audience, both by dramatic and vocal art. In this character, Miss de Lussan is the legitimate successor of Adelina Patti. Another feature of the evening was Madame Bauermeister's appearance, at a few hours' notice, as Donna Elvira, in place of Miss Sofia Ravogli. Madame Bauermeister is an old hand at rendering such prompt service to her manager, for it is a good many years ago since she went on, at immediate notice, and successfully played Leonora ("Il Trovatore") instead of Madame Sinico. She seems to know everything that an operatic soprano ought to know.

"Tristan und Isolde" was given on the 1st ult., with a "scratch" cast, and under the direction of Mr. Armbruster. The attendance by no means strained the accommodation of the house, nor can it be said that the result of performing "Tristan" under every-day conditions was an unqualified success. Sooth to say, the opera dragged itself along, albeit there was some lively satisfaction in hearing the all-important orchestral music played by English artists upon the fine instruments it is their pride to possess. Some of the parts were not very happily distributed. Mr. Oberländer (Tristan) is, we believe, an artist of mark in his own country, where singing out of tune finds ready pardon. Here he was thought rather distressing, despite his evident knowledge of the business in hand and the general propriety of his dramatic efforts. Mr. Bispham was again an acceptable Kurwenal, and Mr. Abramoff an impressive King Mark. Miss Pauline Cramer, a lady long associated with Wagnerian music, was but moderately successful as Isolde, for which rôle she is, in some respects, not the most fitted. Decidedly the palm of merit was borne off by Miss Palliser, whose fresh young voice and quick intelligence were conspicuous in the part of Brangäne. The chorus music was sung by members of the London Turnverein.

"Aïda" followed on the 4th ult., Madame Melba taking the title character for the first time in this country, if, indeed, she had ever played it before. This was, in some respects, a gala occasion. "Society," which does not patronise autumn opera as a rule, came out to see the fair Australian in her new part, and the house was a spectacle of unwonted brilliance. Madame Melba may be congratulated upon the success of her effort. She sang well, as a matter of course, for that she always does; but on this occasion she managed to shake off the coldness which is her besetting defect in strong dramatic characters. There were moments when even powerful passions were suggested, and all that remains for her to do now is to nourish the capacity thus shown. Madame Melba was supported by Miss Giulia Ravogli as an impressive Amneris, Mr. Giannini being Radames, and Mr. Dufriche a picturesque Amonasro.

On the 9th ult. "L'Amico Fritz" was added to the season's repertory, and attracted a numerous though, apparently, not a very enthusiastic audience. Mascagni's second opera is, dramatically, too uneventful and, musically, too restrained for the prevailing modern taste, which has been, and is being formed on hot condiments. For musicians, however, and amateurs who can appreciate a refined piece of work, it can never be destitute of charm. The "cast" for this performance was partially new; Miss del Torre playing Suzel, vice Madame Calvé, and falling much short of her predecessor's excellence, though her efforts by no means lacked merit. On the other hand, Miss Guercia was a more acceptable Beppo than Miss Giulia Ravogli, whose strength lies in parts of greater breadth and dignity. The Fritz was Mr. Cremonini, who played with much naturalness and with directness and simplicity becoming to the rustic Alsatian he impersonated. This young Italian tenor will one day "arrive," or we are greatly mistaken. Mr. Dufriche was again an admirable representative of the Rabbi.

Madame Melba followed up her success as Aïda by playing, on the 22nd ult., the part of Desdemona in Verdi's "Otello." The general performance of this fine work was most creditable to Mr. Bevignani, the Conductor, and nearly all concerned. It was clear that pains had been taken in preparation, and that the policy of "thorough" earned a rich reward in public satisfaction. The Australian soprano was hardly so equal to the demands of Desdemona as to those of the Egyptian heroine. Again she sang well, making a great sensation by a truly expressive and touching rendering of the "Ave Maria" and the Willow Song. Vocally, therefore, her representation proved a success in every respect honourable to her talents. It was in the dramatic part of her task that Madame Melba failed to give complete satisfaction. She made gallant attempts to reach the passion of the strong situations, but could never be fully convincing. The effort was too obvious as an effort, and one was not sure that the heart within was throbbing responsively to exterior agitation. There was, however, enough of excellence in the new Desdemona to justify the liberal applause she received. The experienced art of Mr. Giannini served him well as the Moor, especially in the last act, where he made a supreme essay and succeeded. Mr. Dufriche played Iago, generally on the lines of Mr. Maurel, but with less characteristic effects. It was a quieter, and, in some respects, more subtle impersonation than that of his predecessor, whom he has followed without exactly imitating. Miss Guercia was a satisfactory Emilia.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

The Association over which Sir Joseph Barnby holds beneficent sway at the Albert Hall commenced its season on the 2nd ult. with Dvorák's "Requiem," the selection of this work being highly commendable, inasmuch as a masterpiece of such acknowledged value should be brought before public notice at every available opportunity until its merits have been fully gauged by the bulk of musical amateurs. At the same time, few utterances by contemporary composers have met with fuller acceptance at once, experienced musicians declaring after the production of the "Requiem" at the Birmingham Festival last year that the Roman Catholic Office for the Dead had never been more finely set—even by Mozart. Allowance must of course be made for statements made under momentary excitement, but even when heard apart from the glamour which more or less attends Festival performances, Dvorák's latest choral work strikes the hearer with a sense of enormous power and a feeling of intense religious fervour, seldom equalled and certainly never excelled by composers of sacred music. It is, of course, possible to quarrel with the Bohemian composer's counterpoint, and to aver that his fugal writing would not pass muster with any examiner for musical diplomas; but the intelligent critic only gives secondary consideration to such matters, paying heed rather to the spirit than the letter of a tone-poet's language. The terrific power and solemnity of the "Dies iræ," the rhythmic flow and strong expression of the "Recordare," and the melodic beauty of the "Offertorium"—to name but three numbers of a work which absolutely teems with noble and beautiful thoughts—cannot but impress the most ordinary hearer; and the fact that the entire conception is grounded, so to speak, upon a motive comprised within the limits of a diminished third, increases our wonderment at the genius which is able to produce such prodigious effects with such limited means. The performance of the "Requiem" on the occasion now under notice demands praise entirely unqualified. Sir Joseph Barnby's superb choral force had been trained to perfection in duties of no small magnitude, and deserves equal commendation for the dynamic power with which it interpreted the "Dies iræ" and the fugal "Quam olim Abrahæ," the exquisite light and shade infused into the opening and closing numbers, and the perfect intonation maintained in the trying "Pie Jesu," in which it will be remembered the Birmingham choristers nearly came to grief. Those acquainted with the difficulties of the music must certainly regard this as one of the most noteworthy efforts of our leading metropolitan choral society. The opportunities for solo display in the "Requiem" are not great, but the duties of the principal vocalists are not by any means inconsiderable, and they were fulfilled with the utmost effect by Madame Albani, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Watkin Mills.

The second Concert of the season, on the 23rd ult., was devoted to Berlioz's "Faust," a performance of which is now looked for annually almost as a matter of course by the subscribers. So far as regards the choral portions of the work, the rendering at the Albert Hall is unsurpassable, and Sir Joseph Barnby's forces were well up to their usual mark on this occasion. Though some of the French composer's delicate orchestral details may be lost in the huge building, the audience did not seem to note the defect, for they encored the "Hungarian" March and the "Dance of Sylphs" with fervour, and also re-demanded the mocking serenade of Mephistopheles, picturesquely interpreted, as indeed was the entire part, by Mr. Henschel. Mr. Iver McKay was in excellent voice, and rendered full justice to the rôle of Faust, and Miss Anna Williams sang well as Marguerite (the excuse which was made for her on the ground of hoarseness proving wholly unnecessary). Mr. Robert Grice was quite satisfactory in the small part of Brander.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

If we may accept as typical the first and second Concerts, given at St. James's Hall, on the 3rd and 17th ult., Mr. Henschel's seventh season will be spoken of as in every way an improvement on its predecessors. On both occasions the audiences were large and the orchestral performances marked by a welcome degree of breadth, freedom, and finish. The first Concert opened with Berlioz's picturesque Overture to "King Lear," and included Weber's "Concertstück"—the solo part of which was played with more refinement than power by Miss Szumowska; Beethoven's C minor Symphony, Liszt's beautiful setting of "Kennst du das Land," sung by Mrs. Henschel with customary charm; and the Festival March, composed by Wagner for the opening of the Philadelphia Exhibition in 1876. This last is so seldom played that it was heard with peculiar interest. Renewed acquaintance, however, served but to show that, in this case, neglect involves no injustice; the March contains nothing that its composer has not said far better in other works—the "Kaiser" and "Huldigungs" Marches more especially.

Those with tastes inclining towards catholicity greatly approved the scheme of the second Concert, which comprised examples of Haydn, Mozart, Schubert, Wagner, and Brahms. The first was represented by his Symphony in B flat (B. & H., No. 12); the second by the Adagio in E for violin; Schubert by his Overture in E (first heard here in 1887, at a Crystal Palace Concert given on the anniversary of the composer's death, November 19); Wagner by his "Träume" and "Siegfried's Journey to the Rhine," from the "Dusk of the Gods"; and the happily still-living master by his Violin Concerto, made familiar (but, we fear, not yet popular) throughout Europe by Joachim. Its interpreter on this occasion was Herr Hugo Heerman, whose rendering of the work, at the Crystal Palace Concert, on the previous Saturday, being referred to in another column need not be dealt with here. By these two performances Herr Heerman undoubtedly gained for Brahms's noble work many new friends, for with it, as with other things whose merits are not of the "shop window" order, respect and familiarity increase together.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

At the Concert held on October 29, the pièce de résistance was Mr. Cliffe's new Symphony. As this important and ingenious work has already been discussed at length in these columns, on the occasion of its original production at the Leeds Festival, we may content ourselves by observing that the revisions made in the score by the composer are a decided improvement, and that the work gains greatly on a further hearing. Mr. Manns directed a very spirited performance of the Symphony, at the close of which Mr. Cliffe was summoned to the platform and cordially applauded. Mdlle. Szumowska played Weber's "Concertstück" in a graceful and refined rather than impressive manner, and gave Chopin's familiar Nocturne in C minor and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody (No. 13), with sympathy in the one case and brilliancy in the other. Mr. Andrew Black sang Wotan's "Abschied"—in English—with his wonted vigour, and introduced a new sacred song, "Into the Light," by Edwin D. Lloyds, which calls for no comment. The Concert, which opened with the exhilarating "Euryanthe" Overture, was brought to a conclusion with two clever Ballet airs from Moszkowski's new opera "Boabdil." The "Maurische Fantasia" is in its way quite a tour de force, a two-bar figure in Habanera rhythm being maintained with a persistence which never degenerates into monotony.

On Saturday, the 5th ult., Sir Arthur Sullivan's popular "Martyr of Antioch" attracted a large audience. The choruses were creditably rendered by the Crystal Palace Choir, which shows decided signs of improvement, and it is hardly necessary to add that Mr. Lloyd, who was in his best form, rendered full justice to the grateful music assigned to Olybius, making his usual effect in "Come, Margarita, come," and "See what Olybius' love prepares for thee." The soprano and contralto solos were conscientiously sung by Miss Anna Williams and Madame Marian McKenzie, and the rôles of Callias and Fabius were filled by Messrs. Bantock Pierpoint and Robert Grice. The Concert, which was prefaced by an admirable performance of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, was directed by Mr. Manns with unflagging zeal.

Herr Hugo Heermann, who was the instrumental soloist at the Concert of the 12th ult., is gifted with sound taste and refinement, not to mention an excellent technique, and his performance of the solo part in Brahms's Violin Concerto, though a trifle lacking in fervour, was scholarly, accurate, and intelligent. For his subsequent solo he introduced one of the "Scènes de la Csárda," by Jenö Hubay, which he played with such brilliancy as to elicit an encore. Mdlle. Antoinette Trebelli gave "Ah fors' è lui" ("Traviata") and a Serenade by Tschaikowsky in her agile agreeable way, and Mr. Edward German conducted the three sprightly dances from his "Henry VIII." music. The programme also included the "Leonora" Overture (No. 3), of which better performances have been heard at the Crystal Palace, and Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony, a favourite cheval de bataille of Mr. Manns, who directed a superb rendering of this ever welcome masterpiece.

The Concert of the 19th ult. coincided with the death day of Schubert, and was entirely devoted to the works of that composer. Little fault could be found with the selection, or with the manner in which that selection was performed, except in one particular. Mr. Manns, for some unexplained reason, served up the famous Andante from the Quartet in D minor in the shape of a show-piece for all the strings, including double-basses. The work was thus not merely enlarged, but its character was altered. We are not sorry to have to record the fact that the results entirely failed to justify this experiment in musical multiplication. The first violins were not invariably together, and the general effect was to impair rather than to enhance the beauty of these incomparable variations. The procedure adopted may be compared to that of looking at some objects through a magnifying glass, which by no means invariably tends to increase their attractions. Apart from this artistic solecism the Concert was delightful. The comparatively unfamiliar but very striking Overture to "Fierrabras" was finely played, and the "himmlische Länge" of the C major Symphony proved more heavenly than ever. Admirable work was also done by the band, especially the wood-wind, in the Ballet air in G and the Entr'acte in B flat from "Rosamunde." Mrs. Henschel sang the Romance, "Der Vollmond strahlt," with her wonted taste, but with more tremolo than she usually adopts. She left little room for criticism, however, in her renderings of the Schlummerlied "Es mahnt der Wald" and the exquisitely fresh and plaintive "Alinde." Mr. Henschel, who accompanied his wife with inimitable skill, contributed "Gruppe aus dem Tartarus," "An die Leyer," and "Eifersucht und Stolz" in his very finest manner.

MONDAY AND SATURDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

The first Saturday Concert, on October 29, was attended by a very large audience, the principal attraction, in all probability, being Brahms's Vocal Quartets and Gipsy Songs (Op. 112), which were rendered to perfection by Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, Madame Fassett, and Mr. Shakespeare. The second and fourth of the charming Gipsy Songs were encored. Another very fine performance was that of Schumann's Sonata in G minor (Op. 22) by Mr. Leonard Borwick, who entered thoroughly into the spirit of the music. This is giving the young English pianist high commendation, for very few executants are satisfactory in Schumann's music. Señor Arbos was scarcely happy in Bach's Chaconne, but he led admirably in Beethoven's Quartet in F minor (Op. 95), and also took part in a capital performance of the same composer's Sonata in G for pianoforte and violin (Op. 30, No. 3).

A very strong programme was provided on the following Monday, but for some reason the audience was lamentably small. Those who stayed away missed a very enjoyable Concert, both in selection and performance. Miss Wietrowetz, who made her first appearance at Mr. Manns's Benefit Concert at the Crystal Palace last season, at once justified her engagement as leader, for in Mendelssohn's popular Quartet in E flat (Op. 12), and in Rubinstein's Pianoforte Trio in B flat (Op. 52), one of the Russian composer's most genial effusions, she displayed a firm, broad, and vigorous style and splendid tone; and in the Romance from Mr. Joachim's Hungarian Concerto she further evinced much feeling, in fact, rendering full justice to the excerpt from her preceptor's work. Another lady performer, Miss Szumowska, also gave very great satisfaction by her beautifully refined rendering of Bach's Prelude and Fugue in B flat (No. 21 of "Das Wohltemperirte Clavier") and Beethoven's Sonata in E (Op. 109). The Vocal Quartets and Gipsy Songs of Brahms were repeated with the same executants as on the previous occasion.

On the following Saturday Miss Wietrowetz was again the leader and Mr. Popper was the violoncellist, the gifted Bohemian artist being heard, apart from the concerted works, in a transcription of Schumann's "Träumerei" and a delicately written Largo and Gavotte from his own pen. Mr. Leonard Borwick, the pianist of the afternoon, contented himself with Mendelssohn's frequently played Prelude and Fugue in E minor (Op. 35, No. 1), to which, of course, he rendered full justice. The vocalist was Miss Nancy McIntosh, a new-comer, pupil, we believe, of Mr. Henschel. She possesses a pleasant, if slightly reedy, soprano voice, and she sang Handel's air "Lusinghe più care" and songs by Hamish MacCunn and Henschel with delightful purity of style. Haydn's Quartet in G (Op. 77, No. 1) and Brahms's Trio in C minor (Op. 101) completed the programme.

Lady Hallé made her re-appearance on Monday, the 7th ult., and a large audience assembled to give her a warm greeting. She brought forward a new Adagio Appassionato in F minor by Max Bruch (Op. 57), originally written for violin and orchestra, but now played with pianoforte accompaniment, presumably from the pen of the composer himself. It is a fine and expressive piece in Max Bruch's best manner, and written in the form of a first movement. Of course it was rendered to perfection, and it will probably be repeated at frequent intervals. There is little to be said respecting the rest of the Concert. The concerted works were Mozart's Quartet in C (No. 6) and Mendelssohn's Sonata in D for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 58), the last-named work being played by Miss Adelina de Lara and Mr. Popper. The young pianist was heard to fair advantage in Brahms's Scherzo in E flat minor (Op. 4), and, of course, Miss Liza Lehmann gave complete satisfaction as the vocalist.

The blackest fog of the season doubtless thinned the audience on Saturday, the 12th ult., but, to say the truth, the programme did not present any special attractions. The concerted works were Beethoven's Quartet in F (Op. 18, No. 1) and Schumann's Pianoforte Trio in F (Op. 80). Miss Fanny Davies gave a remarkably intellectual rendering of the first-named composer's Sonata in A flat (Op. 110), and Lady Hallé introduced, for the first time at these Concerts, Saint-Saëns's bright Rondo Capriccioso in A minor (Op. 28). Madame Bertha Moore, as usual, sang Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Orpheus with his Lute" with exquisite refinement.

Signor Piatti made his first appearance this season on the following Monday, and received a deservedly warm welcome. He took part in Schumann's Quartet in F (Op. 41, No. 2) and Haydn's Trio in C (No. 3) and played as a solo his own transposition of Locatelli's Violin Sonata in D, which he first introduced about a dozen years ago, little if any deterioration being observable in his command over an instrument in which for at least a generation he has been regarded as almost without a rival. Miss Fanny Davies was irreproachable in Schumann's three Romances (Op. 28), which were heard together for the first time at these Concerts; and Mr. Andrew Black was highly acceptable as the vocalist, the young Scottish singer making a special effect in Mr. Henschel's fine song "Jung-Dieterich."

Saturday, the 19th ult., being the anniversary of the death of Schubert, the programme was formed entirely of his music. Opportunity was not taken, however, to introduce any of the numerous chamber works not yet in Mr. Arthur Chappell's catalogue, the principal numbers being the somewhat hackneyed Quartet in D minor, the Sonata in A minor (Op. 164), and the Fantasia in C (Op. 159). Sir Charles Hallé made his first appearance this season and played the Sonata in his usual chaste and unaffected manner. Miss Fillunger gave a very impressive rendering of the fine song "Die Allmacht," and was also heard to advantage in "Geheimes" and "An die Nachtigall."

The last Concert we can notice this month is that of Monday, the 21st ult. The central and most attractive feature of this was the first set of Brahms's Liebeslieder Walzer (Op. 52), which had been neglected, strangely enough, for nearly eleven years, though they have been heard frequently elsewhere in the interim. These charming trifles, in which the genius of the composer is evinced almost as fully as in his more serious works, were rendered with all due delicacy by Mrs. Henschel, Miss Agnes Janson (who appeared in place of Madame Fassett), Mr. Shakespeare, and Mr. Henschel in the voice parts, the pianoforte duet being equally well interpreted by Mr. Leonard Borwick and Mr. H. Bird. Mr. Borwick's playing of Chopin's Barcarolle in F sharp and Scherzo in C sharp minor was more noteworthy for technical accuracy and refinement than poetic feeling. The instrumental works in the programme were Mendelssohn's Quartet in A minor (Op. 13) and Beethoven's Pianoforte Trio in E flat (Op. 70, No. 2), both of which were very finely interpreted.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS.

A large audience responded, at St. James's Hall, on the evening of the 18th ult., to the appeal on behalf of this old and most praiseworthy charity. The Oratorio performed on this occasion was "Elijah," with a strong force of volunteer principals, headed by Mr. Santley, Miss Anna Williams, and Miss Hilda Wilson, who discharged as effectively as usual duties that have often devolved upon them; Mr. Henry Piercy sang carefully as chief tenor, and aid was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Brereton, Miss Dora Barnard, and Mr. D. Strong. As the sturdy Prophet Mr. Santley evinced all his olden impulse and absorption in the more dramatic passages, not a point accentuating the zeal and resolution so graphically expressed by Mendelssohn being missed. The chorus did a fair amount of justice to the work assigned them, and the band was satisfactory. Mr. W. H. Cummings conducted with unfailing watchfulness and decision.

ROYAL ARTILLERY BAND.

On the 18th ult. a Concert (the third of the year) was given by this famous band, under the direction of Cavaliere Zavertal, at St. James's Hall. Though of course not open to the public, the room was crowded—and, apparently, by appreciative listeners. They had certainly no reason to complain of the quality either of the music selected or of its performance. A programme, including Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, Wagner's "Tannhäuser" March, Bizet's Suite "L'Arlesienne," a Hungarian Rhapsody by Liszt, the Overture to "Mignon," and the "Intermezzo," was obviously neither too light nor too heavy. An interesting piece by the Conductor, called "In a Trance," was also played, to the manifest pleasure of the guests. It is perhaps necessary to say that this was one of the occasions on which this celebrated military band is not a military band, but transforms itself into an ordinary orchestra of "strings" and "wind." It numbers about a hundred performers, who, in a musical sense, are, like the army to which they belong, "ready to go anywhere and do anything," with perfect assurance of success. Indeed, the performances on this occasion reached a higher level than ever before, a fact which seems to indicate that further advance towards the ever-receding goal of perfection may be confidently anticipated. This admirable force has evidently adopted "Excelsior" for its motto. To descend to particulars—the playing showed an attention to detail and an amount of care and finish that might very well be regarded as a model for other musical organisations. Nothing slipshod, nothing rough or undisciplined was to be detected. Everything had been rehearsed till it was really ready. How seldom do such conditions obtain!

WESTMINSTER ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY.

The Soirée given by the Honorary Secretaries of the Westminster Orchestral Society, at the Town Hall, on the 2nd ult., was a great success. Mr. Cummings took the chair, and chatted in his genial and interesting way on the historic musical associations of Westminster; four young ladies from Brighton played the Overture to "Tannhäuser" on two pianofortes; Mr. C. Spencer Smith exhibited and described the famous historical "tobacco box" of Westminster; and, telephonic communication having been established with the Savoy Theatre, by the permission of Mr. D'Oyley Carte, each of the guests was treated to a five minutes' hearing of "Haddon Hall." This was of special interest, for every word spoken or sung was heard perfectly. There was, indeed, a diminution of volume, but no loss whatever of distinctness. To musicians, however, by far the most interesting feature of the evening was the delivery of a Lecture on "Eastern Music and Musical Instruments," by Mr. Algernon S. Rose, F.R.G.S., Hon. Secretary to the Council. Mr. Rose has lately visited the East and has brought back with him a large and varied collection of musical instruments, a number of highly interesting views and photographs (some of considerable artistic value), and a store of experiences which he should lose no time in putting into book-form. He exhibited the views (which had been re-photographed by Mr. Hugh O. Drake) by means of a lantern and screen; described the music, dancing, &c., of the East with perfect lucidity and considerable humour; gave vocal and instrumental illustrations; and allowed the instruments themselves to be inspected. Everyone went away delighted, and with the consciousness that something had been added to his stock of real knowledge.

MR. SARASATE'S CONCERT.

The popularity of the Spanish violinist so far from diminishing seems, if anything, to be on the increase; for the demand for places at his second Concert this season, on Friday afternoon, the 4th ult., was enormous. Probably the inclusion of Mendelssohn's Concerto in the programme was the main attraction, for Mr. Sarasate is always at his best in this work, though he takes the Finale at a perilously rapid pace. His other solos were Guiraud's showy Caprice in C and A minor, and his own "Airs Espagnols." As usual, several encores were demanded and granted. Sir William Cusins's orchestra was excellent in Saint-Saëns's clever and effective Symphonic Poem "Le Rouet d'Omphale" and Sterndale Bennett's Overture "Paradise and the Peri"; but the transcription of Bach's Organ Fugue in G minor, by one Abert, who has, moreover, added a Choral to the original, is not to be condoned.

THURSDAY SUBSCRIPTION CONCERTS.

Messrs. William Nicholl, Septimus Webbe, and Hans Adolf Brousil, on the 3rd ult., began, at Steinway Hall, another season of the Concerts that, under this title, were so favourably received a year ago at Princes' Hall. It was a happy idea to devote the first portion of each programme to a particular composer, and to draw from various sources for the second, whilst preserving throughout the highest standard. By this means concession is made to the wants of a certain section without ignoring the claims to consideration of those cultivated musicians who are not quite so exclusive in their taste. Beethoven was the composer to whom the place of honour was awarded at the opening Concert. From the rich instrumental stores of this master were selected the Grand Sonata in A major (Op. 69) for pianoforte and violoncello and the Pianoforte Sonata in F (Op. 54), whilst, as regards the vocal element, two of the three songs were from the Scotch series, these being effectively given by Miss Louise Phillips. In the second part Mr. Brousil played, with richness of tone and the utmost refinement, pieces by Svendsen and Klengel, and Mr. Webbe proved a competent exponent of Chopin. The singing of Mr. Nicholl was, as usual, marked by commendable regard for the minutest details of expression. In the first part he gave the "Busslied" with true devotional feeling, and to the miscellaneous pieces contributed Handel's "Where'er you walk" and Galliard's "With early horn," a contrast losing none of its natural effectiveness by the treatment received from the vocalist. The artistic judgment evinced throughout obtained hearty recognition from a large audience.

MR. DE PACHMANN'S RECITALS.

The announcement that Mr. Vladimir de Pachmann would give a Recital of Chopin's music had the effect of drawing a large number of amateurs to St. James's Hall on the 1st ult., this artist having been regarded for many years as the most skilful exponent of the Polish composer's utterances, though he has now a formidable rival in Mr. Paderewski. Mr. de Pachmann led off with the Sonata in B minor (Op. 58), other noteworthy pieces being the Ballade in A flat, the Impromptu in F sharp, the Scherzo in C sharp minor, and the Rondo in E flat (Op. 16), the last-named piece being but seldom heard. Selections from the waltzes, nocturnes, studies, and mazurkas were also given. The only fault that could be found with the performance was the occasional alteration of the text, due probably to momentary failure of memory.

A second Recital was given on the 15th ult., and the attendance was equally large, but this time the programme was miscellaneous. The first piece was Beethoven's so-called "Moonlight" Sonata in C sharp minor, the rendering of which was somewhat affected; and Mr. de Pachmann was not at his best in Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in F minor (Op. 35, No. 5). But the beautiful Finale of Weber's Sonata in D major was splendidly played, and the audience would doubtless have gladly heard the entire work. Next came a group of Chopin's pieces in which, of course, the pianist was thoroughly at home, though he apologised for having made what he termed some "innocent" alterations in the Impromptu in A flat. The last number was Schumann's "Carnaval," the rendering of which was very unequal, some of the sections being exquisitely played, while others were marred by exaggerations and false notes. The Recital as a whole, however, was an artistic success.

MRS. KATHARINE FISK'S CONCERT.

In the ranks of American vocalists who, during late years, have crossed the Atlantic, Mrs. Katharine Fisk is entitled to a prominent position. Making her début at a Concert at St. James's Hall on the 8th ult., with no other assistants than Mr. Emile Sauret and Mr. Isidor Cohn for violin and pianoforte solos respectively, Mrs. Fisk manifested in a number of pieces the possession of a rich, sympathetic contralto voice and a highly cultivated method, combined with command of devotional expression as well as of the lighter phases of sentiment. Between oratorio excerpts, with which she elected to begin the programme, and a piquant ditty as the concluding piece, came songs by Beethoven, Brahms, Rubinstein, and Liszt. Altogether, the welcome accorded to the new-comer was deserved. Mr. Emile Sauret won so much approval by his effective playing of his own "Barcarolle" and Wieniawski's "Airs Russes" that he was induced to contribute another piece by the last-named composer.

MUSICAL GUILD CONCERTS.

The first Concert of this Society had a much less ambitious programme than is usually put forth by the young students who work under this title. Schumann's String Quartet in F and Beethoven's Pianoforte Trio in C minor are not works of novelty or of any peculiar importance; possibly there was some special reason for this unusual modesty—at any rate, it would be matter for regret if the members were to abandon that disposition to produce little-known works which has hitherto characterised their activity. The members who took part in this Concert were Mesdames Annie Grimson and Winifred Holiday; Messrs. Benty, Stephenson, and Kreuz. External aid was resorted to for the violoncello, and as Mr. W. E. Whitehouse was drawn upon it is superfluous to say how satisfactory was the result. The vocalist was Miss Clara Butt, who was exceptionally successful in a fine song by Hatton, "The Enchantress," originally written for Madame Viardot.

The second Concert opened with a very enjoyable performance of Brahms's beautiful and original String Quartet in A minor (Op. 51, No. 2), carefully and intelligently led by Miss Isabella Donkersley. This charming young artist may be especially commended for the refinement of her phrasing, while her colleagues, Messrs. Sutcliffe, Hobday, and Ludwig, were hardly less satisfactory. We have rarely heard a better specimen of quartet playing at these Concerts. Quasi-novelties were Gade's charming "Fantasiestücke" for clarinet and pianoforte (Op. 43), in which Mr. W. H. Hall proved himself a first-rate clarinettist. His tone is remarkably pure and soft, and he manages the most delicate nuances with perfect art. His playing of the third of the four pieces, a beautiful Ballade, was most poetic and refined. He had a worthy accompanist in Miss Annie Grimson. Miss M. C. Macdonald's playing of the Valse Caprice, by Strauss-Tausig, was strangely wanting in the very qualities—such as clearness, lightness, rhythmical swing, and, above all, brilliancy—which alone could have warranted the selection of such a piece. Beethoven's Septet, and songs by Miss Penna, completed the programme.

GRESHAM LECTURES.

The winter series of musical Lectures at Gresham College were delivered on the 16th, 17th, 18th, and 19th ult., by Professor Bridge. At the first reference was made to English madrigals, and especially to Morley's collection, entitled "The Triumphs of Oriana." The Professor had spoken of this compilation at two former Lectures, but on this occasion some of the less known madrigals were performed. These included "Come, blessed bird," by Edward Johnson, who graduated as Bachelor of Music at Cambridge in 1594, and was one of the ten who harmonised the tunes in Este's "Whole Book of Prayer." Morley's "Hard by a crystal fountain" was shown to have been modelled on a previous setting of the same words by Croce. Interesting comparisons were also made between the settings of "Hark, did you ever hear?" by Ellis Gibbons, an elder brother of Orlando Gibbons, and Hunt, of whom but very little is known except this fine six-part composition and a MS. Anthem in the Royal College library. Este's first published work, "Hence, Stars!" was also sung, and "Hark! hear you not," by Thomas Bateson, written, according to Hawes, immediately after the death of Elizabeth, in 1603. The specimens were excellently sung by part of the Westminster Abbey Choir.

The second evening was occupied by a sketch of Haydn's first visit to England in 1791, the interest of which was materially increased by the reading of some of Haydn's letters detailing his reception and experiences here. Some pleasing examples of the master's writings were admirably sung by two of the Westminster choirboys, and instrumental excerpts from the symphonies, arranged as pianoforte duets, were effectively played by Messrs. W. J. Alcock and H. D. Wetton.

The two concluding Lectures dealt with the percussive instruments of the modern orchestra, and were perhaps the most happy and original of the discourses delivered by the Professor at this Institution. Not only were the constructions of the various instruments described in detail, but their employment shown in scores from Haydn to Sir Arthur Sullivan. Much interest was excited by some experiments with Mr. Perry's resonator boxes, from two of which was produced when struck simultaneously the low E flat, corresponding to that emitted by a 32-ft. organ pipe. A set of double brass gongs of exquisite tone founded on the same principle, and used for a special effect in the Professor's Cantata "Callirhoë," was also exhibited. References were also made to Gounod's magnificent use of the cymbals and tam-tam in the "Redemption," G. A. Macfarren's employment of the tambourine in "St. John the Baptis'," and the castanets as utilised in "Carmen."

DR. MACKENZIE ON MUSICAL CULTURE.

Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, speaking on the 2nd ult. in Holloway Hall, at the annual distribution of prizes and certificates in connection with the Metropolitan School of Music, referred in eulogistic terms to the energy and admirable direction of the Principal, Mr. Dale, to whom Dr. Mackenzie said there could be little doubt the success of the Institution was chiefly if not entirely due. The rapid increase in the number of its students, which now amounted to 450, was, however, only in accordance with similar results of late years at other large schools of music. The question was often asked—"What are all these students going to do when they have finished their education?" and as a matter of fact there might be some cause for alarm if it were true that all who studied music in England intended adopting it as their profession. But they did not. He did not think he was far out in saying that the majority of those students who meant to live by music were to be found in the Royal Academy and Royal College, where a comprehensive curriculum was obligatory. Everyone interested in the progress of music would appreciate and assist the efforts being made to found local schools of music in the great provincial centres. He was, however, surprised to read that Sir Charles Hallé had, in connection with a project of this kind, stated that "there was more really good music performed in Manchester than in London, and that students would really have better opportunities of learning in the former city than in the Metropolis." There was one other matter that he would urge upon all students—viz., that they could never enjoy music to the full or rise to eminence unless they gave their minds to the study of harmony. Music was both an art and a science, and it was an enormous error to suppose that its scientific side might be neglected. In this respect it was a somewhat unfortunate art. Charles Lamb, in his famous "Chapter on Ears," said: "I believe that, sentimentally, I am disposed to harmony. But organically I am incapable of a tune." And further, "Only sometimes the thorough-bass I contrive to guess at, from its being surprisingly harsh and disagreeable. I tremble for my misapplication of the simplest terms for those which I disclaim." Now, as a matter of fact, most people, unlike the great essayist, did not tremble at all when they misapplied the simplest terms. The musicians trembled when they listened to the nonsense which was talked about music. It was deplorable that, though music appealed to the ear, no special training should be deemed necessary for that organ; and still more that cultivation of perception of tone combinations and pitch should have been neglected by those who otherwise were well advanced in the art. Trained musicians could hardly realise the effect of music on the *un*trained ear, because they heard and enjoyed so much more than was possible for the ordinary listener to perceive. In conclusion, Dr. Mackenzie urged all students not to consider their education complete until they possessed an all-round knowledge of the music of many countries, and not to allow themselves to become faddists or sectarians in music.

SIR JOHN STAINER ON THE LUTE.

Professor Sir John Stainer gave an erudite and interesting Lecture, entitled "The Lute, the Viol, and the Voice," in the Sheldonian Theatre, Oxford, on the 12th ult. The Professor commenced by stating that experience tended to show that men preferred to sing accompanied by some sound rather than unaccompanied. Three kinds of instruments—viz., percussive, pipe, and stringed—had been experimented on for this purpose. Many savage nations still sang to the sound of the drum; ancient Greeks used the flute; and we to-day employ the organ. Attention was then directed to the difference of construction between the lyre and lute families, the former having no neck or fingerboard, and being consequently incapable of a high state of development. A primitive type of the lute from the Pitt-Rivers collection was exhibited, and the development into the guitar, mandoline, viol, and banjo was traced out, the last-named instrument being amusingly described as "a poor relation of the lute family, with a vicious taste for bad company." The value of the Lecture was greatly enhanced by the series of illustrations, excellently played on fine specimens of ancient instruments by Mr. Dolmetsch and family, and songs sung by Miss Monk to lute accompaniment.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The Orchestral Concert on the 8th ult. served to introduce a student of more than average promise in Miss Jessie Grimson, whose playing of Bruch's new Violin Concerto (No. 3) in D minor was of a high degree of excellence. The work in question having been written for Joachim, it goes without saying that it bristles with difficulties of a formidable kind. Miss Grimson surmounted them with almost complete success—her tone, technique, and phrasing being alike commendable. In Miss Clara Butt, who sang Gounod's "The Golden Thread," the College possesses an exceptionally gifted contralto singer. To a voice of rare fulness and sympathetic quality she unites a good style and an expressive delivery. The orchestra continues to improve, and in Schubert's colossal "No. 9," Beethoven's rarely-heard Overture to "König Stephan," and the rich accompaniments in Bruch's Concerto the students were heard at their best, which is tantamount to saying that these works received the usual finished and, where required, impetuous renderings. The only blemish on the performances was the tone of the oboes, which was far from agreeable, especially in the Andante of the Symphony. Professor Holmes was the inspiriting Conductor.

Some capital work was done at the Concert of the 22nd ult. That such an exacting masterpiece of chamber music as Brahms's matchless Clarinet Quintet should receive so good a rendering at the hands of five young people as on this occasion, was both astonishing and gratifying, considering the demands it makes on the executive and intellectual faculties of the performers. Mr. C. Draper played the clarinet part with agreeable tone and adequate technique, and if he did not revel in the demisemiquaver grupetti of the wonderful "Più lento" with the wild, romantic abandon of a Mühlfeld, his performance was at any rate a highly promising one. Miss Jessie Grimson more than confirmed the opinion expressed above as to her gifts, her playing in the Adagio being, indeed, remarkably finished and poetic. Miss Lilian Wright, Messrs. Leonard Fowles and Paul Ludwig completed a set of players such as one does not often meet with at a students' Concert. Another excellent performance, neat, crisp, and tuneful, was that of Beethoven's Fourth String Quartet by Misses Lilian Wright and Katharine Howell, Messrs. Fowles and Ludwig. Miss Gwendolyn Toms, in Schumann's "Nachtstück" (No. 4) and Moszkowski's Etude "Les Vagues," displayed great facility of execution and an almost masculine power of wrist. Last, but not least, we must mention Miss Marie Motto, who played Bruch's Romance in A minor. Some trifling shortcomings in her technique were more than compensated for by the warmth and passion, and a certain breadth of style which she infused into her playing. Unless we are much mistaken, there is the making of an artist of striking individuality in this young lady.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The first Students' Concert of the season at St. James's Hall took place on the 14th ult., and may be regarded partly as an Orchestral and partly as a Chamber performance. The first work in the programme was Bach's "Magnificat," which was given under Mr. Corder's direction, and, as last season, with an orchestra and chorus of about fifty, so as to realise as nearly as possible the effects—we will not say intended by the composer, but realised in his time. The rendering of the "Magnificat" was, on the whole, an improvement upon that of last season, though it was far from perfect. Two movements from Hummel's Septet and two from Mendelssohn's Quintet in B flat (Op. 87) were fairly interpreted by the individual players, if the ensemble was not altogether satisfactory. Three nicely written Scotch songs, by Mr. Frank Idle (student), were carefully sung by Miss Helen Saunders; but the best student's effort was that of an effective Polonaise for violin, by Miss Ethel Barns. This young lady has the making of a first-rate executant.

Dr. Hubert Parry's admirable Duet in E minor, for two pianofortes, was well rendered by Miss Lillias Pringle and Miss Edith Purvis, though indulgence was claimed on behalf of one of the performers owing to an accident on her way to the hall.

VOCAL MUSIC COMPETITION IN LONDON BOARD SCHOOLS.

The fourth annual Vocal Music Competition for the challenge medallion offered by the London School Board since 1889, for the best unaccompanied part-singing and the best sight-singing by choirs from elementary public schools in the Metropolitan district, was held at Exeter Hall, on the 22nd ult., in the presence of a large audience. Eight choirs had been selected by a series of preliminary competitions. Each choir consisted of about fifty children, boys and girls, boys only or girls only. The tests were the performance of—(1), A three-part arrangement of Horsley's Glee "See the chariot at hand"; (2), A sight-test in three parts, specially written for the event by Mr. W. R. Bourke, a musical member of the Board; and (3), A piece selected by the choir. The Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, and a number of the members of the Board, were present. The judges were Sir John Stainer and Mr. W. G. McNaught. The most remarkable points in the competition were the high executive skill, and especially the sight-singing power, shown by many of the choirs. A rather general fault was a tendency to lose pitch. The sight-test, considering the circumstances, may be described as extremely difficult. Many of the choirs struggled bravely with it, but only one choir—viz., the Fleet Road School (Hampstead)—was able to perform it perfectly. The singing of the Fleet Road Choir in the prepared pieces was also distinguished by great beauty of tone and expression. The judges had no difficulty in deciding that this choir must be permitted to continue to hold the medallion they wrested from Beresford Street (Camberwell) in 1891. Sir John Stainer, in making the award, praised very highly the thoroughness of the musical education the children were receiving in the Board Schools. Besides giving every credit to the excellence of the performances of the Fleet Road Choir, the judge highly commended the singing of the Haselrigge Road (Clapham) and the Great College Street (Camden Town) Choirs. After a short Concert given by the children and groups of pupil teachers, in the course of which Miss Edith Hands and Miss Amy Devonshire sang solos, the Lady Mayoress presented the medallion to the Conductor of the successful choir.

OBITUARY.

Florimond Ronger, better known under his nom de théâtre of Florimond Hervé, whose death, on the 3rd ult., at Auteuil, near Paris, has been fully commented on in the daily press, was essentially, both as regards temperament and the peculiar development of his undoubted genius, a child of the period of the second French Empire. Gifted alike as an actor, singer, and composer of music of the lighter order, he was well fitted to become the creator of the musical extravaganza known as operetta-bouffe, and represented by such eminently successful examples as "L'Œil Crevé" and "Chilpéric." In these, and other operettas from his pen, the gaiety and the follies of the second Empire are perhaps more truthfully and somewhat less frivolously reflected than in those of his far more successful rival, Jacques Offenbach. In any case, Hervé's operatic productions will always retain an historical interest from the point of view indicated, and will thus secure a modest place to his name in the annals of the art. The deceased composer was born at Houdain, near Arras, in 1825, and was educated in Paris, as a member of the choir of the Church of St. Roch. He commenced his professional career as Organist at the Church of St. Eustache, a position which he held for eight years. Quitting the ecclesiastical appointment, Hervé became for a time the orchestral Conductor at the Palais Royal Théâtre, and about the year 1854 opened a small theatre, under his own management, which he called the Folies-Nouvelles, and where his first successes were scored with extravaganzas such as "La Belle Espagnole," "La Perle d'Alsace," and especially "Le compositeur toqué," in which latter the composer is said to have unintentionally caricatured his own extravagant individuality. Hervé's subsequent and more permanent successes were made some ten years later, during the period of Offenbach's rivalry, when "Le Petit Faust," "La Princesse de Trebizonde," and the two operettas already referred to were brought out by him. Soon after the downfall of the Second Empire Hervé came to London, where he remained some time, conducting performances of some of his works and meeting with a fair measure of appreciation. Upon his return to Paris, however, it soon became evident that his career was practically spent. The social and moral atmosphere of the capital had become a different one, and his efforts to regain the public ear and favour met with but little encouragement.

The death is announced, on the 1st ult., at Berlin, of Heinrich de Ahna, the eminent violinist, and professor at the Hochschule. He was born at Vienna in 1835, and studied first under Mayseder, and afterwards at the Prague Conservatorium. In 1862 De Ahna took up his residence in Berlin, where he joined the quartet party of Dr. Joachim, and afterwards formed a chamber music society of his own. His death leaves a distinct void in the musical life of the German capital.

The death is also announced, on October 28, at Frankfurt, of Otto Dessoff, the highly meritorious Conductor at the Stadt-Theater of that town. Dessoff was born at Leipzig on January 14, 1835, and was a pupil at the Conservatorium of Richter, Moscheles, and Hauptmann. At the age of twenty-five he obtained the important appointment of Conductor at the Imperial Opera of Vienna, and in the following year became a professor of harmony at the Viennese Conservatorium. He also conducted with distinguished success the Concerts of the Philharmonic Society in the Austrian capital. In 1875 Dessoff resigned, in consequence of a disagreement with Eckert, the managing director of the Opera, and accepted a similar appointment first at Carlsruhe, and subsequently at the Frankfurt Stadt-Theater, the artistic status of which has been very considerably raised by his able and zealous direction.

The death of C. L. Wrenshall severs an important link between past and present. His music was popular half-a-century ago and belonged to the school of pianoforte fantasia work affected by Herz, Czerny, Hünten, Hummel, Cramer, and men of similar date and character. He was a pupil of the first-named composer and was nearing the nineties at the time of his demise a fortnight ago. He had for many years resided in Birkenhead and lately in a suburb of that town, Rock Ferry.

We have also to record the following deaths, viz.:—

On October 25 (the day after the demise of his brother-in-law, Robert Franz), at Berlin, Ober-Jusitzrath Dr. Hinrichs, composer of some charming songs, and author of an able brochure, entitled "Richard Wagner und die neuere Musik" (1854), aged seventy-three.

On October 29, at Düsseldorf, Wilhelm Schauseil, musical director, father of the gifted concert-singer Frl. Wally Schauseil, aged fifty-nine.

On the 3rd ult., at Carlsruhe, Friedrich Krug, Court music-director, composer of an opera, "Meister Martin und seine Gesellen," and of other operatic works, in his eighty-first year.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Many Concerts have been given since my last communication, and these must be very briefly dealt with. A word of praise must be awarded to two young artists—Mr. E. W. Rickett (pianist) and Mr. W. H. Henley (violinist)—for their performances at a Concert they gave in the Masonic Hall, October 27. The programme was refreshingly novel.

A new Cantata, "A Venetian Festival," was produced at the Winter Gardens, October 31. The book, by "Ravenswood" (a pseudonym), is well spoken of, as also is the music, the composition of Signor de la Camera, Conductor at the Winter Gardens.

Not a moment too soon did our Festival Choral Society put in an appearance. This was on the 3rd ult., when Gounod's "Redemption" formed the programme. Since its production at the Festival of 1882, the "Redemption" has been heard here more than a dozen times, and the crowded hall on this occasion bore eloquent testimony to its continued popularity. The vocal principals were Miss Charlotte Walker, Miss Constance Yorke, Miss Sarah Berry, Mr. Edwin Houghton, Mr. Brereton, and Mr. Watkin Mills. All did well, but the chief honours lay with the chorus, which was in grand form. The closing number, "The word is flesh become," was the finest exhibition of choral singing we have had for a long time. There was an efficient orchestra. Mr. C. W. Perkins was at the organ, and Mr. Stockley conducted.

On the 17th ult. the Rev. E. H. Moberley, with his orchestra of ladies, gave a Concert in the Town Hall. The principal works were Suites for strings by Volkmann and Dvorák. Both were well given, the orchestra appearing to greatest advantage in the second, taking up every point and playing with an artistic finish that astonished as well as delighted the audience. Miss Hilda Wilson and Mr. Brereton gave tasteful renderings of songs by Schubert and Brahms.

The Saturday Evening Concerts in the Town Hall continue successfully. On October 29 Mr. F. W. Beard had a capital audience, one attraction, doubtless, being the appearance of the Birmingham tenor, Mr. Henry Piercy. On the 12th ult. the Birmingham Amateur Orchestral Society occupied the platform, and produced, for the first time here, Prout's Symphony in D (No. 4), which had a fairly good rendering.

On the 19th ult. Mr. Walter J. Evans gave his annual Concert, and signalised the occasion by producing Gounod's opera "Philemon and Baucis," which readily lends itself to platform purposes. Miss Frieda Griffiths, Mr. Bowyer Bristol, Mr. T. E. Lowe, and Mr. Edmund Edwards were the solo vocalists. Mrs. A. L. Richardson ably accompanied at the pianoforte. The opera was given in English, by special arrangement with Sir Augustus Harris, and the performance was much enjoyed by a large audience. The singers are pupils of Mr. Evans.

At a Concert given in the Church of the Saviour, on the 16th ult., Stainer's Cantata "The Daughter of Jairus" was performed, under the direction of Mr. W. G. Halliley.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Bristolians have been treated to music diverse in character during the month. The Bristol Musical Association brought forward J. F. Barnett's delightful Cantata "The Ancient Mariner," at the Saturday Popular Concert on October 29, and gave the tuneful and stirring choruses with much success. The principal vocalists were Miss Stella Maris, Miss Emily Lloyd, Mr. E. T. Morgan, and Mr. Reid Buchanan, who discharged their duties satisfactorily. Mr. Riseley was at the organ, Mr. F. Watts led the band, and Mr. Gordon conducted.

A Tennyson Recital was given in Colston Hall on October 26, when poems of the deceased Laureate, wedded to music by various composers, and other works were sung by 100 members of the Orpheus Glee and the Bristol Choral Societies. Miss Cromey, Miss Aldersley, and Mr. W. Thomas were the soloists. All the compositions were given with delicacy, intelligence of phrasing, and delightful marking of light and shade. Mr. Fulford directed the performance of Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer." Mr. Riseley, who played the accompaniments and conducted the other choral pieces, played several organ solos—Meyerbeer's "Schiller" March in E flat, the Dead March in "Saul," a Cavatina of Raff's, a Saltarello of Papini's, and Neukomm's "The Storm." The Recital was remarkably successful.

Another notable choral achievement was the singing of the same ladies and gentlemen, chiefly, at the second Recital of sacred music in the Cathedral, on the 17th ult., when beauty of tone, tenderness of treatment, clearness of enunciation, almost perfect balance, and precision were again observable. The selection this time was from "St. Paul." Miss Aldersley and Mr. Thomas, the principal vocalists, sang with eminent satisfaction. Mr. Riseley's only organ solo was an Andante Cantabile of Sir Sterndale Bennett, which he played to perfection. Mr. J. H. Fulford, assistant Organist, played Handel's Overture to the "Occasional Oratorio" as a concluding voluntary.

The Annual Meeting and Banquet of the South Midland section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians took place on October 29. In the afternoon Mr. Ebenezer Prout, the invited guest, gave an address on "The Study of Musical Theory: Its Importance and Its Methods."

Mr. Harold Bernard (violin), Mr. Percy Lewis (violoncello), and Mr. G. F. Blanchard (pianoforte), very talented young local musicians, gave a Concert of Chamber music on the 18th ult., at Redland, and won general admiration for the skill and artistic qualities they exhibited. Each played solos, and combined in Rubinstein's Trio in G minor (Op. 15, No. 2) and Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor (Op. 49, No. 1). Miss Blanche Clarke contributed songs, Mr. Fulford accompanying.

Miss Power and Miss Marianne Eissler jointly gave an enjoyable Violin and Pianoforte Recital at the Victoria Rooms on the 19th ult. Miss Lena Phillips sang.

MUSIC IN CHELTENHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The members of the Cheltenham Festival Society gave the first Concert of the season on the 8th ult., and brought forward Sullivan's "Martyr of Antioch." The principal vocalists were Miss Emily Davies (soprano), Miss Mary Reeve (contralto), Mr. Iver McKay (tenor), and Mr. T. Woodward and Mr. Musgrove Tufnail (bass). The Band (led by Mr. E. G. Woodward) and choir, numbering 250, were directed by Mr. J. A. Matthews, the talented and energetic Conductor of the Society. The soloists entered with earnestness into their respective tasks, and achieved success. The choir showed excellent qualities in the many delicate details of their work, as well as those passages requiring more robust treatment, all being given in a manner that won admiration. The scheme also contained Dr. C. H. H. Parry's graceful Ode "Blest Pair of Sirens," which was sung with precision, spirit, and general artistic excellence. Another interesting feature of the Concert was the performance, for the first time in Cheltenham, of Mr. Ebenezer Prout's "Suite de Ballet," for orchestra (Op. 28), under the direction of the composer. It was excellently interpreted, as was also a graceful little Serenade, a pizzicato for strings, from the pen of F. Iliffe, which received its initial interpretation in the picturesque Gloucestershire town. The Concert was an artistic success.

An interesting gathering of members and friends of the Festival Society, presided over by the Mayor, took place in the Handel Hall, on the 22nd ult., when the prizes and medals gained at the last competitions of the Society were distributed. Mr. J. A. Matthews having explained the objects of the contest, the prizes were awarded to the winners as under: for solo singing, to Miss F. Jamieson, Miss V. E. Perry, Miss H. Wheeler, Miss R. E. Crickett, Mrs. McFee, Mr. H. G. Workman, Mr. W. H. Thomas, and Col. Kettlewell; for quartet singing, Miss M. A. Tarrant, Mrs. Leatham, Mr. A. W. Bryant, and Mr. George J. Matthews; medals, Mr. E. Attree and Mrs. Leatham. The Society's Medal was also presented to Mr. A. C. Nicholls, in recognition of his membership since 1873 as a singer and instrumentalist.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

November has not been a busy month in our musical circles. The most important event was Messrs. Wood and Co.'s engagement of Sir Charles and Lady Hallé (5th ult.). A better audience than usual greeted the veteran pianist and his accomplished wife. Concerted pieces by Dvorák (Op. 53), Grieg (Op. 13), and Brahms (Op. 100) were splendidly interpreted, and Lady Hallé's playing awakened the enthusiasm of her audience. Sir Charles Hallé won a recall for a Paganini-Liszt Study, and played his oft-repeated encore, Schubert's F minor Impromptu.

The London Ballad Concert Party, including Mesdames Antoinette Sterling, Mary Davies, and Clara Samuell, Messrs. Durward Lely and Barrington Foote, with Señor Albeniz as solo pianist and Mr. Sidney Naylor as accompanist, offered a miscellaneous and uninteresting programme on the 16th ult.

A more interesting miscellaneous Concert was that given by Madame Nordica's party, at which appeared Mr. Zoltan Döme, a Hungarian singer, new to Edinburgh, with a pleasant voice and excellent unaffected style; and the Meister Glee Singers, with their perfect art, gave great satisfaction. Mr. Hollman made his first appearance among us, and roused the audience to great enthusiasm, and Madame Nordica was as warmly received as ever.

At University College, Dundee, on the 16th ult., Mr. Franklin Peterson delivered a Lecture on "Parsifal" as an introduction to a course of Lectures on the "History of Opera."

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The local musical season is already well to the front, so far, at any rate, as miscellaneous Concerts are concerned. These have been pretty numerous, commencing on the 3rd ult. with Madame Nordica's party. The programme was unusually good, as was also that submitted by Sir Charles and Lady Hallé on the following evening at the Queen's Rooms. On the 8th ult. Mr. Gaul's popular Cantata "Ruth" was given for the second time within the last few months in Park Parish Church. The choir was again augmented for the occasion, and Dr. Hulton Middleton, the Organist of the Church, must be felicitated on the successful results of his labours. Similar recognition should also be extended to the work undertaken by the management of the Glasgow Quartet, and it was pleasant to note that the programme of the third Concert of the series attracted a much larger audience than usual. Mr. Leonard Borwick was the pianist, and with his coadjutors gave an admirable account of Brahms's Quartet in A (Op. 26).

The Glasgow Society of Musicians series of Lectures was inaugurated on the evening of the 19th ult., by Professor Niecks, who gave a remarkably interesting paper on "The Development of the Orchestra." Needless to say the learned Professor met with a cordial reception from his many friends in Glasgow.

The nineteenth series of Choral and Orchestral Concerts commence on the 6th inst., when "Elijah" will be performed, with Miss Anna Williams, Miss Jeanie Rankin, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. Ludwig as soloists. The Glasgow Choral Union know Mendelssohn's work full well, and a fine performance is confidently looked for. Messrs. Boosey's Ballad Concert Party were at St. Andrew's Hall on the 17th ult., and on the following evening Messrs. Harrison's Second Subscription Concert took place, with Miss Marguerite Macintyre, Miss Szumowska, Miss Yrrac, and Master Jean Gerardy as leading attractions.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Concerts of the Philharmonic Society given during the past month have been notable for but little. On the 8th ult. the "Stabat Mater" of Rossini formed the chief part of the programme, and brought with it evidence of not over-careful preparation. This was more to be regretted as the work in question was made to represent the choral prowess of the premier Society at one of the four Concerts at which only this factor is allowed to be in evidence. On the 22nd ult. the programme was of a miscellaneous order, the Symphony being Dvorák's (No. 4) in G, which was also played at the initial performance of the season, on October 11.

Apart from the Concerts at the Philharmonic named above, the month has produced only one choral work worthy of notice—namely, Bennett's "Woman of Samaria," given on the 10th ult., by Mr. A. E. Workman, at Bootle. The first Matinée of this year's Schiever series took place on the 26th ult., when this admirable Quartet, after winning laurels at Oxford, Birmingham, and elsewhere, received a cordial welcome home from their townspeople.

On the other side of the Mersey the victorious vocalists at the late Eisteddfod have been showing their townsmen at Birkenhead how they won the prizes at Rhyl, a Concert having been given in the town first-named by the local Cambrian Choral Society and the Gitana Choir. Mr. D. O. Parry conducted the former and Miss Maggie Evans the latter organisation.

Three orchestral performances have been given before immense audiences by the Sunday Society, under the able conductorship of Mr. John Ross, Mr. Argent, the regular musical director, being indisposed. These Concerts are Symphonic in character and occupy about an hour and a half on alternate Sunday afternoons.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

All the works newly introduced to us during October have been more or less orchestral, and of course novelties demand chief attention. New Symphonies we cannot look for frequently; but, among the less important compositions, Bizet's "Petite Suite d'Orchestre" gave much pleasure; it followed Dvorák's Fourth Symphony, of which the Allegro con brio is extremely interesting, compact, and admirably worked out, with some charmingly fresh changes of scale and the Adagio altogether a gem. Among the orchestral works must, of course, be reckoned the work which M. Saint-Saëns calls his Pianoforte Concerto (No. 4), which is very characteristic of the author in that piquant mood when he looks back and calls up reminiscences of the older styles of writing. That Sir Charles Hallé easily surmounted all the executive difficulties of this Rhapsody in C minor goes without saying. The "Adagio Appassionata" (Op. 57) of Max Bruch—rendered with exquisite finish by Lady Hallé at the opening of the season—was more worthy of the care bestowed upon it; although it, too, might be shortened. The solo vocalists engaged for the miscellaneous programmes have been specially good. Miss Esther Palliser has a voice of great beauty and of extraordinary ring in its higher registers, brought thoroughly under control and used with intelligence, and she ought to attain a position open to very few young singers among her contemporaries. Mdlle. Landi, who sang on the 10th ult., also shows great promise. Of the performance of "St. Paul" and of the "Spectre's Bride," at the second and fourth Concerts of the series, nothing need be said except that, naturally, the choir appeared to far greater advantage in Mendelssohn's great Oratorio than in the Cantata, perhaps the most attractive of all Dvorák's choral works, and one in which the genius of its author for orchestral effect is also conspicuously shown. The principals in "St. Paul" were Madame Clara Samuell, Madame McKenzie, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Santley; in the "Spectre's Bride" and Gounod's "Messe Solennelle" we had Miss Anna Williams, Mr. Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black.

At the Gentlemen's Concerts the attendances were largely increased, both at the Recital given by Sir Charles Hallé and at the very interesting drawing-room gathering of the 14th ult., when Fräulein Wietrowetz and Mr. W. E. Whitehouse made their first appearance in the Concert Hall. During the evening Beethoven's Trio in D and the Rondo "All' Ongarese" of Haydn were given; Fräulein Wietrowetz joined Sir Charles Hallé in Brahms's Duet in A (Op. 100), and Mr. Whitehouse played with perfect ease and finish Boccherini's Violoncello Sonata, also in A (No. 6). Great interest attached to the visit of Fräulein Wietrowetz, and she was greeted with warmth.

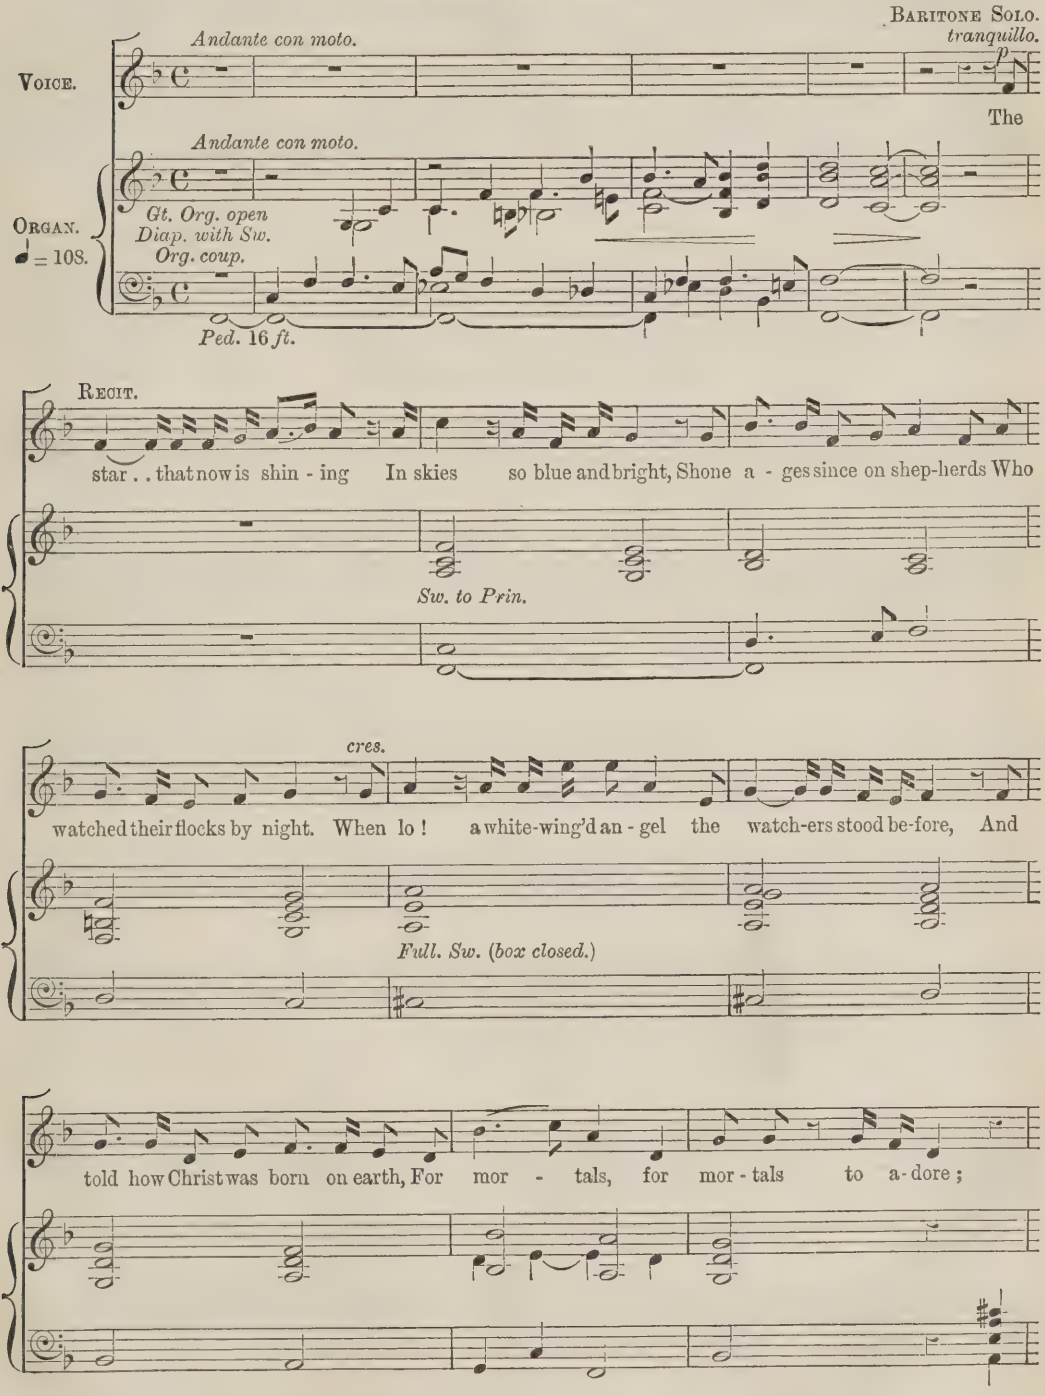
Mr. Lane's Saturday evening Concerts are attracting beyond expectation, having the aid of a much stronger choir than in former years, and affording good opportunities for the display of local talent. At the third Concert Mr. Santley proved the enduring popularity of his name; and the following week a very creditable performance of "Judas Maccabæus" was given, although the orchestral accompaniments to the recitatives wanted a strong, controlling master-hand. Mr. Ffrangçon Davies assisted; but decidedly the most successful solo was the "Sound an alarm" of Mr. Iver McKay, who did not reserve his strength for the concluding portion, but honestly sang the whole song with unstinted vigour.

The star that now is shining.

A CAROL-ANTHEM.

Words by ADELAIDE PROCTER and F. W. FABER. Composed by OLIVER KING.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.



BARITONE SOLO.
Andante con moto.
tranquillo.
VOICE.
The
Andante con moto.
ORGAN.
Gt. Org. open Diap. with Sw. Org. coup.
♩ = 108.
Ped. 16 ft.
RECIT.
star . . that now is shin - ing In skies so blue and bright, Shone a - gessince on shep-herds Who Sw. to Prin.
cres.
watched their flocks by night. When lo! a white-wing'd an - gel the watch-ers stood be-fore, And Full. Sw. (box closed.)
told how Christ was born on earth, For mor - tals, for mor - tals to a - dore;

Copyright, 1892, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

Più mosso.
And sud-den-ly in the Heavens Ap-pear'd an an-gel-band (The
Più mosso.
Ch. Org. Clarabella 8 ft.
with Sw. 8 & 4 ft coupled.
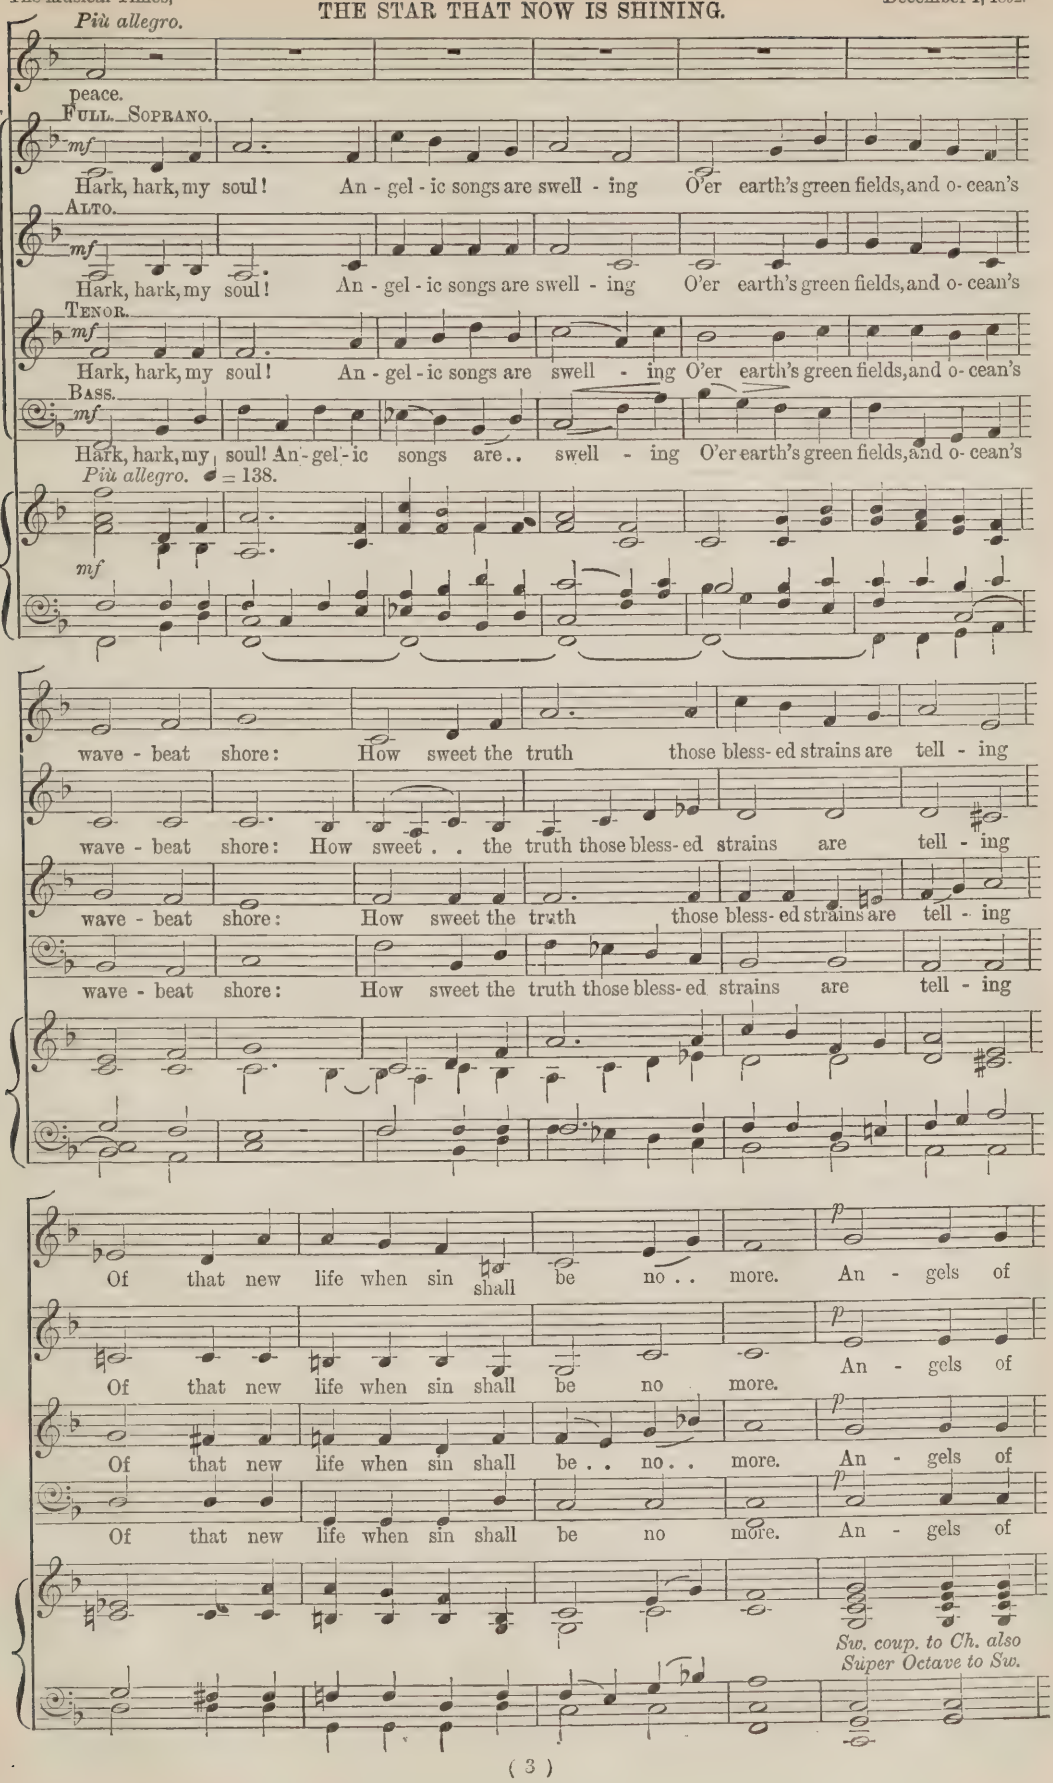
Bourdon 16 ft & Sw. to Ped. while in rever-ent won-der The Sy-rian shep-herds stand.) And all the bright host
cres.
chant-ed Words that will nev-er cease. Glo-ry to God . .
molto.
f
in . . the High-est, Glo-ry to God, On earth good-will, good-will and

THE STAR THAT NOW IS SHINING.



Più allegro.
peace.
Full. Soprano.
mf
Hark, hark, my soul! An - gel - ic songs are swell - ing O'er earth's green fields, and o - cean's
Alto.
mf
Hark, hark, my soul! An - gel - ic songs are swell - ing O'er earth's green fields, and o - cean's
Tenor.
mf
Hark, hark, my soul! An - gel - ic songs are swell - ing O'er earth's green fields, and o - cean's
Bass.
mf
Hark, hark, my soul! An - gel - ic songs are.. swell - ing O'er earth's green fields, and o - cean's
Più allegro. ♩ = 138.
mf
wave - beat shore: How sweet the truth those bless - ed strains are tell - ing wave - beat shore: How sweet . . the truth those bless - ed strains are tell - ing wave - beat shore: How sweet the truth those bless - ed strains are tell - ing wave - beat shore: How sweet the truth those bless - ed strains are tell - ing
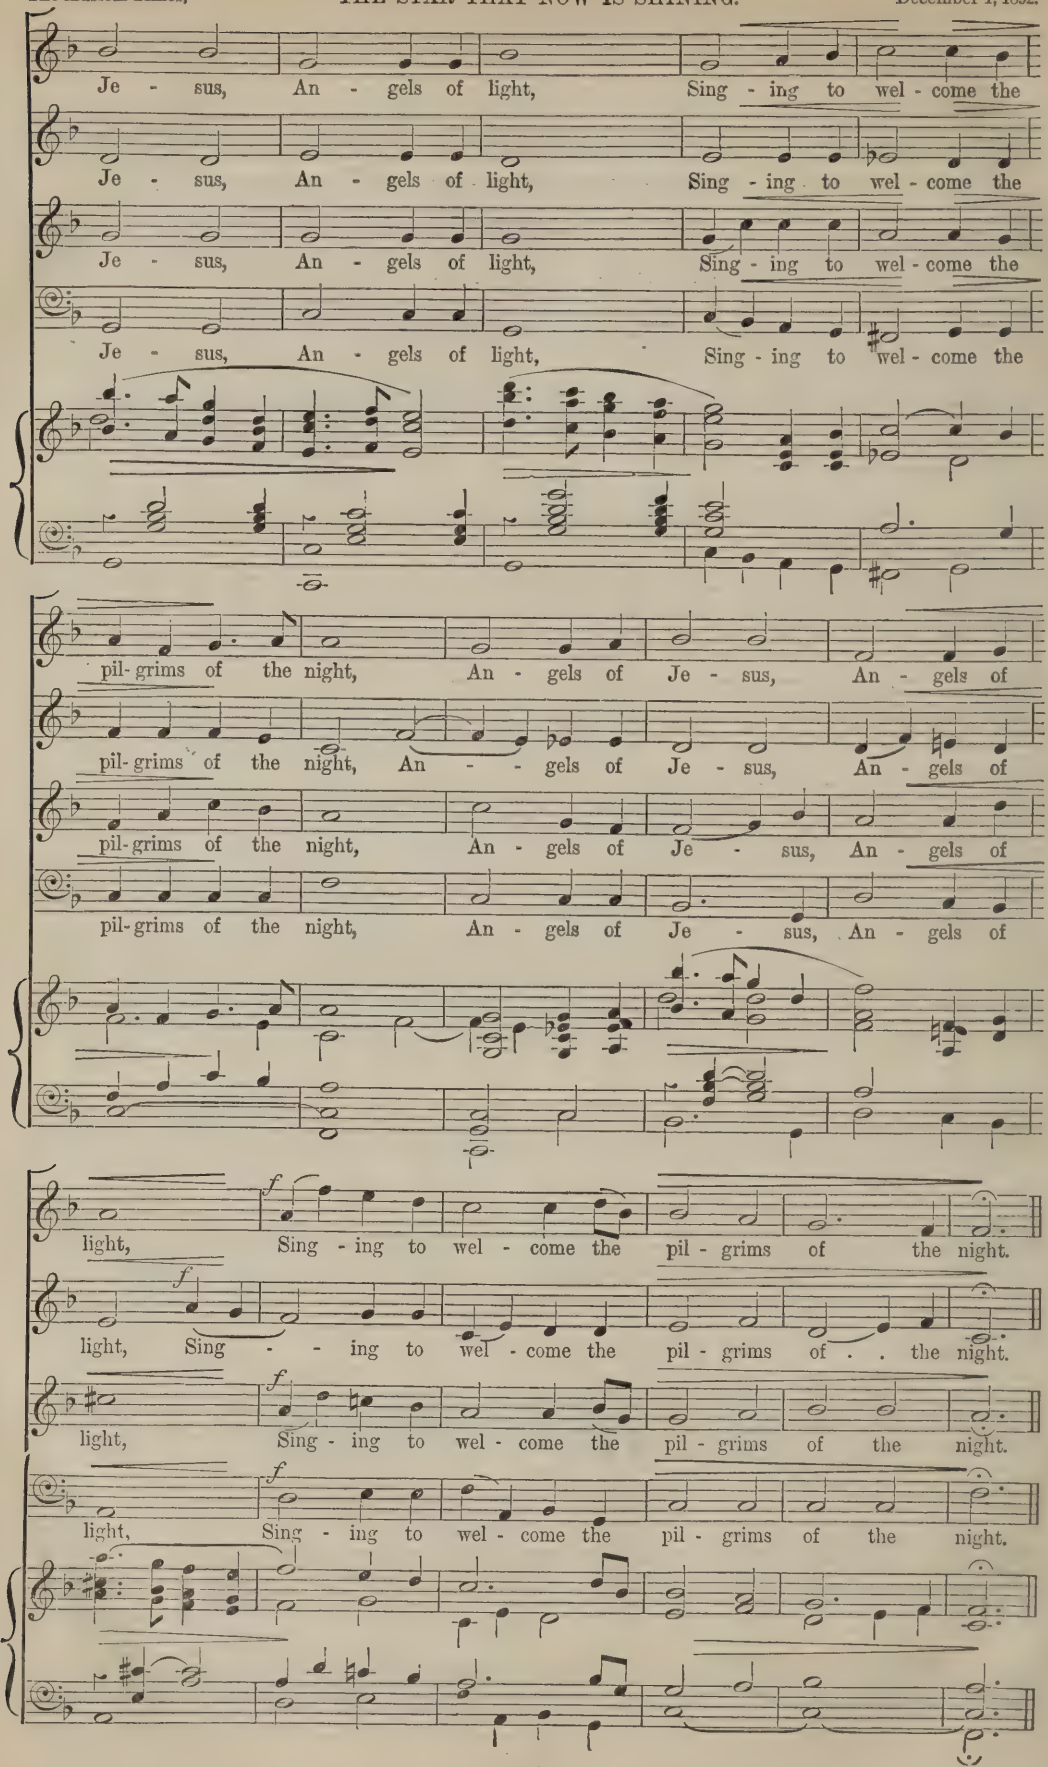
p
Of that new life when sin shall be no . . more. An - gels of
Of that new life when sin shall be no more. An - gels of
Of that new life when sin shall be . . no . . more. An - gels of
Of that new life when sin shall be no more. An - gels of
Sw. coup. to Ch. also
Super Octave to Sw.



Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the
Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the
Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of the night, An - gels of Je - sus, An - gels of pil - grims of the night, An - - gels of Je - sus, An - gels of pil - grims of the night, An - gels of Je - sus, An - gels of pil - grims of the night, An - gels of Je - sus, An - gels of f light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of the night.
f light, Sing - - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of . . the night.
f light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of the night.
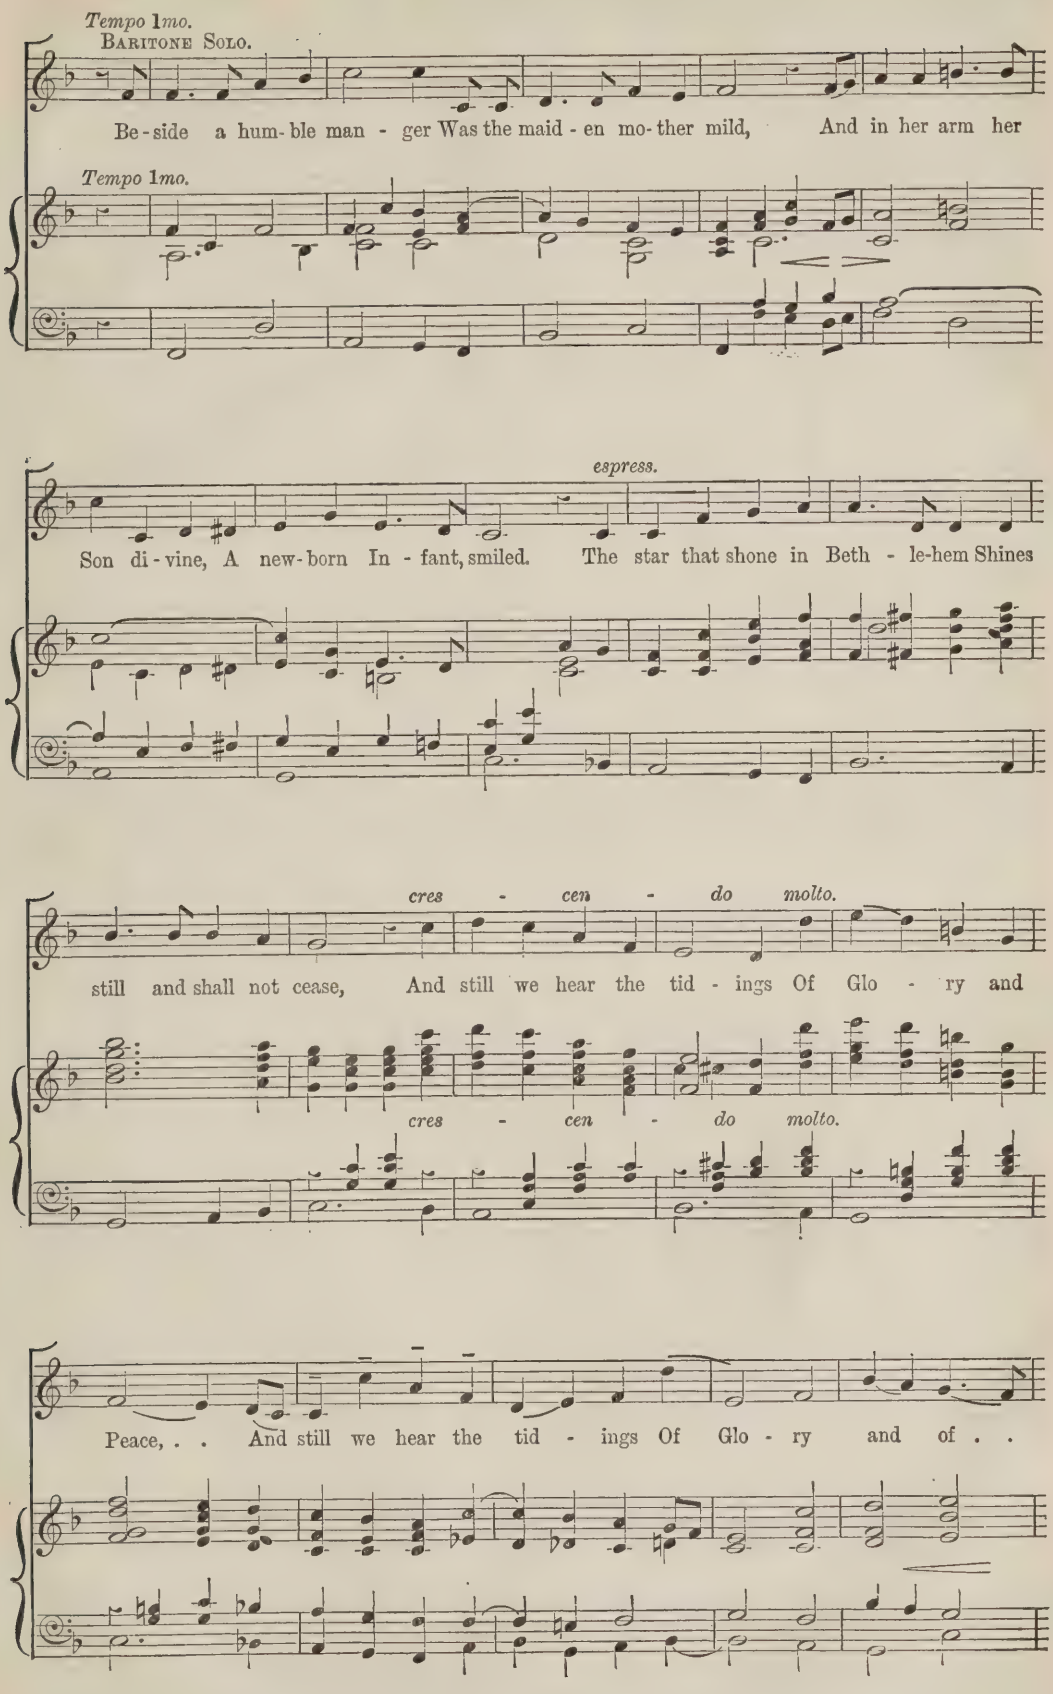
f light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of the night.



Tempo 1mo.
Baritone Solo.
Be-side a hum-ble man-ger Was the maid-en mo-ther mild, And in her arm her Tempo 1mo.
espress.
Son di-vine, A new-born In-fant, smiled. The star that shone in Beth-le-hem Shines cres-cen-do molto.
still and shall not cease, And still we hear the tid-ings Of Glo-ry and cres-cen-do molto.
Peace, . . And still we hear the tid-ings Of Glo-ry and of . .

Più allegro.

Peace.

FULL.

An - gels, sing on, your faith-ful watch-es keep - ing, Sing us sweet fragments of the

FULL.

An - gels, sing on, your faith-ful watch-es keep - ing, Sing us sweet fragments of the

FULL.

An - gels, sing on, your faith-ful watch-es keep - ing, Sing us sweet fragments of the

FULL.

An - gels, sing on, your faith-ful watch-es keep - ing, Sing us sweet fragments of the Più allegro.

Full Org.

songs a - bove, Till morning's joy shall end the night of weep - ing,

songs a - bove, Till morning's joy shall end the night of weep - ing,

songs a - bove, Till morning's joy shall end the night of weep - ing, songs a - bove, Till morning's joy shall end the night of weep - ing,

mf

And life's long sha - dows break in cloud - less love. An - gels of

mf

And life's long sha - dows break in cloud - less love. An - gels of

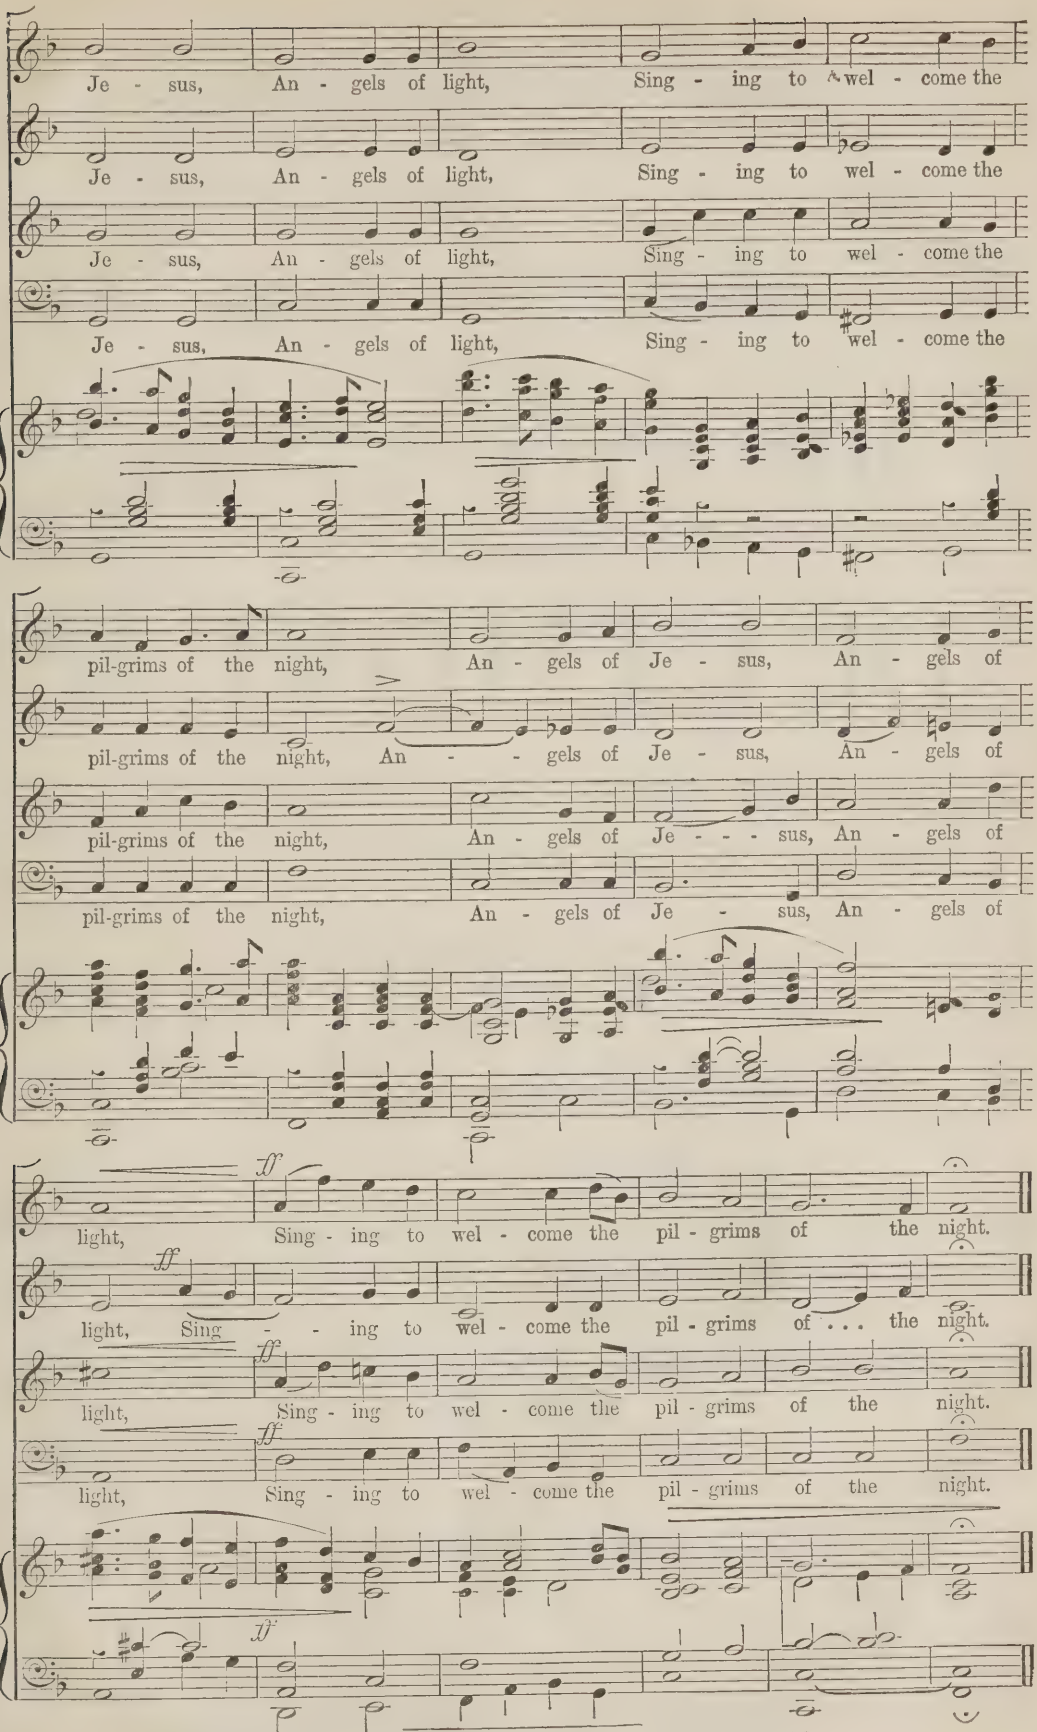
mf

And life's long sha - dows break in cloud - less love. An - gels of

mf

And life's long sha - dows break in cloud - less love. An - gels of

Sw. Org.



Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the
Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the
Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the Je - sus, An - gels of light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil-grims of the night, An - gels of Je - sus, An - gels of pil-grims of the night, An - - gels of Je - sus, An - gels of pil-grims of the night, An - gels of Je - - - sus, An - gels of pil-grims of the night, An - gels of Je - sus, An - gels of
ff
light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of the night.
ff
light, Sing - - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of . . . the night.
ff
light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of the night.
ff
light, Sing - ing to wel - come the pil - grims of the night.
ff

READY ON DECEMBER 15.

A

SPECIAL NUMBER

OF THE

MUSICAL TIMES

DEVOTED TO

BEETHOVEN

HIS LIFE AND WORKS

EDITED BY

Joseph Bennett

WILL BE ISSUED ON

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15.

THE NUMBER WILL CONTAIN NUMEROUS ILLUSTRATIONS, CONSISTING OF PORTRAITS, VIEWS, FAC-SIMILES OF MANUSCRIPTS, AND LETTERS OF GREAT INTEREST, HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED.

WITH ARTICLES BY SIR GEORGE GROVE, MR. W. H. CUMMINGS, AND OTHERS.

PRICE SIXPENCE.

Postage, 1½d.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Mr. Kendrick Pyne's Town Hall Recitals are discontinued this winter, because the fine instrument of M. Cavaillé-Coll is undergoing complete renovation, together with considerable enlargement. A fourth manual is being built, and a 16-ft. flute, with a contra-bourdon of 32-ft., added to the pedal. A Recital on St. Peter's organ (the action of which has long been very noisy and offensive) came in, therefore, rather opportunely on the 12th ult., when, after a meeting of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, Mr. Myerscough gave a short selection.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Philharmonic Choir, under the able direction of Mr. F. Marshall-Ward, opened its season on October 27. The Choir fully sustained its high reputation in the few pieces selected, the programme being largely composed of vocal and instrumental solos. The rendering of Goetz's "Water Lily" was exceptionally good, while Pearsall's "Laugh not, youth, at age," and Dr. Hiles's "Summer longings" received well-earned plaudits. The soloists were Madame Valleria, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Norman Salmond, and Herr David Popper. Mr. F. T. Watkis deserves praise for his able accompaniments.

Herr Ellenberger gave the first of his Chamber Concerts on the 1st ult., the programme being Haydn's Quartet in D minor (Op. 76, No. 2), Sonata for pianoforte and violin in G major (Op. 78), Brahms; Pianoforte solos: Fantasia (Bach), Concert Etude (Liszt); and Mozart's Clarinet Quintet.

The Sacred Harmonic Society's first Concert, in the Albert Hall, attracted an overflowing audience, as it fully deserved, the programme consisting of a Recital of the third acts of "Lohengrin" and "Tannhäuser" by the chorus of the Society, with Sir Charles Hallé's band. The soloists were Miss Charlotte Walker, Madame Stone-Barton, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Mr. Andrew Black. The band acquitted itself à merveille, eclipsing any of its previous performances in Nottingham; while the chorus (trained by Mr. John Adcock) left nothing to be desired, the pure intonation and style of the male chorus in "Tannhäuser" deserving great commendation. Special mention should be made of Mr. Lloyd's fine rendering of Tannhäuser's recital of his pilgrimage, and Mr. Black's singing of Wolfram's part, which could not have been excelled.

The artists at the first Drawing-Room Concert, on the 16th ult., were Mr. and Mrs. Henschel and Mdlle. Szumowska.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The most important musical event of the past month was the performance, for the first time in Sheffield and under the direction of the composer, of Dr. Hubert Parry's "Judith," on the 10th ult., by the Sheffield Musical Union. The large hall was crowded, and Dr. Parry, at the close, expressed much satisfaction at the manner in which the work had been sung. This result was mainly due to the efforts of Mr. H. Coward, the Society's hardworking and capable Conductor. The chorus was a revelation to many who are accustomed to hear good choral singing in Sheffield. The trying work had been completely mastered by the vocalists, who in tone, vigour, accuracy, and finish were alike excellent, the soprano department being especially strong. The band, largely made up from a local amateur society, played fairly well under the admirable lead of Mr. John Peck. Mr. J. W. Phillips was Organist. The principals were Miss Clara Leighton, Miss Edith Hands, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. Frank Swinford. Masters C. R. Lea and F. G. Harrop assisted in the trio "O may we ne'er forget." Dr. Parry, who is highly popular in Sheffield, was the recipient of an interesting presentation at the conclusion of the Concert.

Allusion should be made to the first of Mr. E. P. Reynolds's Chamber Concerts, which, owing to the date, was not referred to last month. The chief feature of interest was the playing of Mr. David Popper, who gave six pieces from his own pen and took part with Messrs. Hess, Speelman, and Reynolds in Brahms's Quartet in G minor (Op. 25). Mr. Reynolds played Liszt's Etude de Concert in F minor; Madame Bertha Moore was the vocalist.

Sir Charles Hallé and orchestra visited the town on the 15th ult. and gave a successful Concert in the Albert Hall.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The third annual Wakefield Diocesan Choral Festival was held in Huddersfield on the 12th ult. The Union consists of the united choirs of the Parish Churches of Huddersfield, Halifax, and Dewsbury, and that of Wakefield Cathedral. Dr. J. F. Bridge's Oratorio "Mount Moriah, or the Trial of Abraham's Faith," was the pièce de résistance on this occasion; and the scholarly work was admirably sung and played. The principals were Master Herbert Binns and Messrs. H. Holden, H. Sandwell, and W. Riley. Mr. Joshua Marshall conducted.

Mr. Alfred Christensen gave his first Subscription Concert on the 14th ult. The orchestra played Beethoven's "Egmont" Overture, and accompanied the Concert-giver in Field's Pianoforte Concerto in A flat and a Capriccio of his own composition, which latter work was received with much favour by the small but discriminating audience present. "The Death of Ophelia," for chorus of female voices and orchestra (Berlioz), was a welcome novelty in Leeds, where, for some reason or other, musical novelties are at present being religiously shunned. Mr. John Browning further varied the programme with songs by Handel and Gounod.

Mr. Haddock's first Subscription Concert at the Victoria Hall, Leeds, on the 21st ult., was well attended, an attractive programme having been announced, with Madame Albani's name at the head of it. Mr. Haddock himself was the violinist, and Miss Mathilde Wurm the solo pianist.

The event of most considerable interest, latterly, was the Concert of the Bradford Choral Society, which took place at St. George's Hall on the 18th ult., and at which Benedict's "St. Peter" was performed. More than twenty years have elapsed since the work was previously given in the town, and in reviving it the old Choral Society, which is itself a recent revival, showed much enterprise, and went about its object in a very thoroughgoing fashion. The work presents a good many artistic difficulties, and it also affords opportunities for the attainment of good dramatic results. Mr. Hartwell Robertshaw, the Conductor, carried the performance through with encouraging success, both band and chorus deserving the congratulations which followed. The instrumental portions of the work were especially well rendered by a full and efficient orchestra. The principals were Miss Maggie Davies, Miss M. H. Watson, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. W. Thornton; Mr. W. Rees led the band, and Mr. Widdop was the Organist. The charges for admission were lower than those to which the public have been accustomed, and the Society was rewarded by a good attendance.

On the 8th ult. the Idle Harmonic Union, which has undergone a process of reconstruction, gave a performance in the Parish Schoolroom before a crowded audience. Sterndale Bennett's "May Queen" was the feature, with an accompaniment supplied with much skill by Mr. C. H. Pullan. The chorus sang efficiently, under the direction of Mr. James Calvert, and the solos were rendered by Miss Annie Jackson, Miss Marianne Tomlinson, Mr. T. Child, and Mr. W. Thornton.

The Bradford Subscription Concert season was opened on October 28, with an Orchestral Concert, the most important part of the programme of which was Dvorák's Symphony (No. 4) in G and Bizet's petite Suite "Jeux d'Enfants." Lady Hallé played Spohr's Ninth Concerto, Bruch's Adagio Appassionata (Op. 57), and Zarzycki's Mazurka in G. The vocalist was Madame Nordica, and Mr. S. Midgley accompanied.

Gaul's "Holy City" was performed at Annesley Wesleyan Chapel on October 24, by an augmented choir, the Conductor being Mr. Thomas Ward, and the principals Mrs. Minedew, Miss M. H. Watson, Mr. Charles Blagbro, and Mr. Newton Laycock. Mr. Ralph Rushworth was the Organist.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The season of 1892 was auspiciously introduced by a musical performance of more than usual importance and having special significance, for it served at once to make known two new works by Dr. Antonin Dvorák and the great composer himself, whose arrival in this country, as Director of the National Conservatory of Music, has created great enthusiasm, and given a new impetus to the already general performance of his greater works.

On the evening of October 21 this Concert occurred at the Music Hall. After the performance of the National Hymn, by a large and carefully trained body of singers, under the direction of Mr. R. H. Warren, and an ideally beautiful rendering of Liszt's Symphonic Poem "Torquato Tasso," under the lead of Mr. Seidl, the great composer came modestly forward, being gracefully mentioned and introduced by Colonel Higginson. For some minutes the applause was too great to permit the resumption of the musical numbers, but at length the bâton of Dr. Dvorák raised in air gave the signal, and the orchestra with great precision, illumined by the fire and force of the Director, whose master spirit they seemed at once to recognise and acknowledge, played, for the first time in America, the Triple Overture—the first, "Nature"; second, "Life" ("Bohemian Carnival"); third, "Love" (Shakespeare's "Othello"). These were listened to with marked attention and received with warm and earnest applause.

The composition is intended to represent musically the emotions excited by the three great creative forces of the universe—nature, life, and love—each being connected in treatment by a certain underlying melodic theme; all three have those characteristics of national tone and folk-song colouring which we are accustomed to in Dr. Dvorák.

The Te Deum which followed was composed expressly for the occasion, and had reference more or less direct to the Columbian festivities, in the midst of which the Concert occurred. It is written for soli, chorus, and orchestra, and had for its interpreters Madame De Vere Sapio, Mr. Emil Fischer, the Dvorák Chorus, which had been specially drilled by Mr. Warren, and which, by the way, showed the skill and care of this excellent chorus-master in a marked degree; and a selected orchestra, taken from the Symphony and Philharmonic Societies. As this composition is soon to be published by Novello, Ewer and Co., and is booked for performance by one or more of our leading choral societies, more extended notice of the work can well be postponed; sufficient to note that on this occasion all united to do well, and the Te Deum added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. As intimated above, the arrival of Dr. Dvorák and this auspicious introduction has intensified the interest in his works. Already the performance of the "Stabat Mater" in Brooklyn, of the Requiem Mass in Boston, and "The Spectre's Bride" in this city are announced, and will be duly noted by your correspondent. The effect of Dr. Dvorák's work at the Conservatory is already felt in the improved character of the music studied, and in every way large results are looked for, tending to the enhancement of musical culture throughout the entire country. Another movement in the right direction has been inaugurated by that indefatigable worker, Mr. Frank Damrosch, which seems likely to be very far-reaching in its valuable results. Mr. Damrosch, recognising the fact "that music contributes more than any other art to brighten and beautify our lives," and believing that nearly every person has a correct ear and a singing voice, decided some weeks ago to organise a People's Singing Class more especially for the benefit of the working people of this and neighbouring cities, having within his scope the ultimate plan of a great people's chorus, by whom may be given the choral works of the masters; fifteen hundred persons responded to Mr. Damrosch's suggestion and have now organised permanently for the purpose intimated; the terms of membership are very simple, the fee trifling, and it would appear that we shall, in a comparatively short time, thanks to the excellent idea of this enthusiastic worker, have a body of singers trained to the point of attempting successfully the great cantatas and oratorios, which have heretofore been left to the more exclusive use of the leading choral societies. That need which in England is met by the great Cathedral and County Festivals has long been sorely felt here, through the lack of such agencies, and Mr. Damrosch's movement will doubtless go a long way toward bringing about the desired end.

Among the forthcoming Concerts of moment—for we are on the verge of an unusually promising season in respect of musical matters—the Church Choral Society announces the new work of Mr. H. W. Parker, "Hora Novissima," which is looked forward to with confident expectations because of the already well-earned fame of this popular composer, who is facile princeps among our younger writers; the directors also announce for early dates the "Veni, Creator Spiritus," of Dr. Mackenzie, and the "Stabat Mater" of Dr. Dvorák.

The annual presentation of prizes and certificates awarded at the local examinations of Trinity College, London, took place on October 28, at St. Andrew's Hall, Newman Street, Sir Joseph Barnby being in the chair. In the course of a very interesting and animated address, the chairman referred to the often-asked question, "Is England a musical country?" While admitting to the fullest extent the pre-eminence of this country in the matter of choral performances and the support given them on the part of the public generally, Sir Joseph felt himself constrained to answer the question, on the whole, in the negative. There was not, he pointed out, an equal interest shown in orchestral and in operatic performances, and it was a fact, as notorious as it was lamentable, that in some of our most populous towns weeks frequently passed without musical performances of any kind being given; while there were not more than two, or perhaps three, towns in the United Kingdom which could boast of a complete, permanent orchestra. In this respect, then, this country compared most unfavourably with both Germany and France, where even the most diminutive towns possessed their local orchestral and, in many cases, also their operatic Institutions. Sir Joseph, however, took a very hopeful view of the future, and in view of the zeal and energy displayed by Institutions like Trinity College in the training of executive musicians, and the consequent dissemination of sound musical taste throughout the nation, he looked forward to a greatly improved state of things at a not very distant period. The address was listened to with much interest by a select audience and greatly applauded at its conclusion. The Instrumental and Vocal Examination of the College will commence on the 5th inst. and the Musical Knowledge Examination on the 9th inst.

The well-known viola player, Mr. Grossheim, gave a Concert at Portman Rooms on the 14th ult., a special feature of which was the appearance of Dr. A. C. Mackenzie and Mr. Henschel as pianists. The former, with characteristic kindness, came to play the music composed by him as an accompaniment to Hood's "Eugene Aram," which was recited with much power and weird effect by Mr. Charles Fry. The music is masterly—on account not only of emotional suggestion and significance, but also of the artistic restraint visible on every page. In these days such reticence is rare and attracts attention accordingly. Mr. Henschel took the pianoforte part in Beethoven's E flat Quartet (Op. 16), in which it appears he made a "first appearance" twenty-five years ago at Leipsic, when Mr. Grossheim, as on this occasion, was at the viola desk. The performance was, we understand, intended to be reminiscent of the "days that are no more." But the popular baritone also brought his wife with him, and the gifted pair sang, separately and together, several times, to the great delight of an audience more remarkable for its appreciation than for its numbers. Mr. Grossheim was also assisted by his pupil, Miss E. Herrick, Mr. W. H. Squire, Mr. L. de Reeder, and Mr. G. Clutsam.

For his revival of "King Lear" at the Lyceum Mr. Henry Irving adhered to the precedent adopted in "Macbeth," and continued with "Ravenswood" and "Henry VIII.," of obtaining original accompanying music. Mr. Hamilton Clarke was selected to follow in such a grateful task Sir Arthur Sullivan, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, and Mr. Edward German. The incidental strains, including a barbaric march in the opening scene, are supplied by Mr.

Meredith Ball, the Conductor of the Lyceum orchestra, so that Mr. Clarke's work has been restricted to the Overture and Entr'actes. Though not intended to be specially illustrative of the phases of the action they respectively precede, the five pieces are in keeping with the subject generally. Thus the Overture in C minor, the Allegro moderato in F minor, the Allegro agitato (B minor), prefacing the storm act; the subdued Andante espressivo (F minor), suggesting Cordelia tending her demented father; and the vigorous Allegro (D minor), relieved by a plaintive passage for oboe, ushering in the final section of the tragedy, have the merit of appropriateness. Doubtless Mr. Clarke will eventually bind together the movements as an Orchestral Suite.

Mr. Gorski, who gave an Orchestral Concert at St. James's Hall on the 11th ult., has been described in some quarters as a new-comer, but he played here on more than one occasion last season. His first essay was Beethoven's Concerto, in which he displayed very fine technique and a bright, silvery tone, particularly in the Adagio. Exception, however, must be taken to his own lengthy Cadenza, which he introduced in the first movement, as being eccentric and bizarre rather than classical, and also to the curiously slow tempo adopted in the final Allegro. The best performance of the evening was that of Bach's Chaconne, which was given with fine breadth of style and almost faultless intonation. A third solo was a Theme with Variations in A minor, by Paganini, with orchestral accompaniment and an introduction by the Concert-giver. The performance was conducted with his customary ability by Mr. Henschel, and the programme included the first movement of Schumann's Overture, Scherzo, and Finale in E (Op. 52), Beethoven's "Egmont" Overture, and the Conductor's expressive Entr'acte, "Ophelia's Death," from his incidental music to "Hamlet."

Miss Ethel Bauer, Mr. Harold Bauer, and Mr. Herbert Walenn, on the 10th ult., at their second Concert of the series at the Hampstead Conservatoire, succeeded in maintaining the interest shown at preceding performances. The programme opened well with Dvorák's String Quartet in D minor (Op. 34), a work instinct with the accustomed energy and freedom of the Bohemian composer and holding attention from beginning to end. Messrs. Bauer and Walenn had as able associates in this composition Mr. Max Gottheiner (second violin) and Miss Winifred Bauer (viola). Miss Ethel Bauer, as pianist, played Brahms's Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel very neatly; Mr. Bauer so skilfully executed Franz Ries's Romance in F and "Moto Perpetuo" that the audience insisted upon an encore, and Mr. Walenn was heard to advantage in an Andante by Goltermann. Relief to the instrumental pieces was supplied by the tasteful singing of Madame Isabel Fassett and Miss Daisy Defries.

On Monday, the 7th ult., after an interval of about nine years, "A Moss-Rose Rent," by Arthur Law and A. J. Caldicott, was revived by the German Reed management. There are some very good numbers in the present piece, notably the duet "Along the country side we go," which Mr. Alfred Reed and Miss Fanny Holland were called on to repeat; and Mr. Avalon Collard's "Here's a health to the Gipsy King," a lively drinking song, was well sung. Miss Gertrude Woodall was efficient as Sir Plumly Partridge's ward. Mr. Corney Grain as Sir Plumly Partridge was as droll as ever, and it is unnecessary to say the piece was received with the usual approval of a large audience. Mr. Corney Grain has added another new Musical Sketch to his répertoire, entitled "The Silly Season." Mr. Grain's clever hits at the objects of his satire are received with the usual applause and laughter.

A Concert was given on the 1st ult., at Paddington Baths Hall, Bayswater, by the Westbourne Grove Violin School and Orchestral Society, under the direction, and in commemoration of the professional jubilee of the principal, Mr. White. The programme included Beethoven's "Egmont" Overture, the Allegro from Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, part of Beethoven's First Symphony, and the same master's Pianoforte Concerto, No. 5 (pianist, Mr. C. Hall-Woolnooth). Violin solos were contributed by Miss Lilli Schneider (pupil of the Institution) and the principal. A decided feature of the performances was the participation therein of Miss Marian Veltrino, whose brilliant soprano voice and refined style were displayed to excellent advantage.

Mr. C. E. Miller has given an Organ Recital at the Church of St. Augustine and St. Faith, near St. Paul's, every Monday, at 1.10 p.m., during the past month. The programmes have been confined not only to classical music, but, with few exceptions, to organ music proper, and it is worthy of notice that each Recital has been attended by an attentive audience (composed almost exclusively of men) larger than its predecessor. An Organ Sonata by Rheinberger has formed a feature of each Recital, those already played being Nos. 2, 4, 7, and 8. These Recitals are, we understand, to be continued until Christmas.

On the 17th ult. Mr. B. Mansell Ramsey gave a Lecture at Trinity College, London, on "Pianoforte playing." The lecturer spoke of eminent pianists being very frequently bad teachers, owing to the lack of system, and mentioned the great importance of good teaching from the very beginning. He thought that the great music schools should have a special department for the study of technique, but warned his hearers against over-working the hand; he pointed out that the first duty of a teacher was to enlist the sympathies of his pupil, and insisted on the value to pianoforte players of a study of analytic harmony. Professor E. H. Turpin (the Warden) presided.

A Musical and Dramatic Evening was given at Princes' Hall on the 17th ult., by Miss Lily Twyman. Miss Twyman, who possesses a sympathetic and well-trained voice, recited two pieces, one of which, the speech of the Veiled Lady in Milton's "Comus," terminated with the song "Sweetest Echo" (written specially by Mr. Clement Locknane), which served to exhibit the young lady's ability as a vocalist. Miss Twyman was assisted by Miss Kate Tully, Madame Marian McKenzie, Mr. T. H. Lambert, Mr. F. Peachey, Mr. Gilderoy Scott, Mr. Templer Saxe, and Mr. Charles Fry, who contributed two recitations.

That versatile young musician, Mr. Harold Bauer, hitherto known solely as a violinist to all but a very few, gave a Pianoforte Recital at Erard's Rooms on the 2nd ult. He was so successful that some of his hearers were puzzled to say whether he should in future be spoken of as a pianist who plays the violin or as a violinist who plays the pianoforte. Nevertheless, we are of opinion that Mr. Bauer's "bias" is towards the violin. He plays upon the pianoforte; he expresses himself through the violin. We have said.

Gounod's "Redemption" was given at St. John the Evangelist, Waterloo Road, on Sunday afternoon, the 20th ult., by the Oratorio Choir of the Church. The solos were contributed by Miss Gertrude Izard, Miss Mary Tunnicliffe, Mr. Gilbert Denis, Mr. Blair, Mr. Frederick Winton, and Mr. H. Gordon. Mr. S. S. Martyn conducted, and Mr. Henry J. B. Dart accompanied upon the organ. The work attracted a very large congregation. Spohr's "Last Judgment" was announced for the 4th inst. and Mozart's Requiem Mass for the 18th inst.

Mr. James K. Strachan, of Glasgow, on the 25th ult., gave an Organ Recital at the Hampstead Conservatoire, with Miss Emily Davies to occasionally intersperse the instrumental pieces with songs. The Organist offered examples of various masters, a preference being shown for those of the modern times, particularly of Mr. Alex. Guilmant. Mr. Strachan is an able executant who, to a textually correct reading of the works he undertakes, adds considerable feeling. Among the pieces in which he made a special effect were Grison's Communion in F major, Mailly's "Invocation," in E major, and Guilmant's "Prayer and Cradle Song."

The Christ Church Choral Society, Willesden, has successfully weathered four seasons and has just commenced a fifth. Mr. W. Hubi-Newcombe has been appointed Conductor for the season. The choice of the committee has fallen upon Cowen's Cantata "St. John's Eve," which is in active preparation for the first Concert, to be given shortly after Christmas.

REVIEWS.

Twelve New Carols for Christmastide. Written by Shapcott Wensley. Music by various Composers. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The revival of the ancient custom of carol singing at Christmas in England is a noteworthy feature in the musical life of the country at present, and year by year the demand for carols suitable for church or home use shows a strong tendency to increase. Of course, no one would desire the displacement of the old favourites by new ditties, but there is no reason why present-day versifiers and composers should not devote some portion of their talents to the production of carols worthy to take place by the side of "God rest you merry, gentlemen," and "Good King Wenceslas," and the present set, which is issued in a conveniently small form, should therefore receive a welcome, especially when among the composers we find such names as Stainer, Eaton Faning, Garrett, Barnby, Tours, Bridge, and Battison Haynes. While some of these carols are as simple and tuneful as those of traditional origin, others are more developed, combining the characteristics of the anthem and the part-song. In the former category may be placed, as a prominent example, Mr. Myles B. Foster's "The Mother and Child," a very tuneful air; and in the latter, Sir Joseph Barnby's "The Anthem of Peace" and "In the Manger." The last-named is particularly effective, commencing sadly in D minor, but quickly changing to the tonic major, and ending in the most triumphant fashion. Another number in which a good effect is gained by a change from minor is "The Desert," by Miss Emma Mundella, the concluding phrase of this being very charming. The book, which is published at the moderate price of one shilling, may be warmly commended to the notice of those who meditate carol-singing during the approaching Yule-tide. Mr. Wensley's lines are graphic and expressive, but also noteworthy for the simplicity of diction which should be observed in efforts of this nature. The carols are also issued in the Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

Novello's Part-Song Book. Second Series, Nos. 646-649. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

In these four numbers of a very popular publication we have a series of four charming part-songs by Professor Villiers Stanford, the first three being settings of verses by the late Charles Kingsley. The first, "Soft, soft Wind," is a singularly expressive little piece in which the syncopations in the lower voices have an excellent effect. It is rather chromatic, but it presents no unusual difficulties to a fairly trained choir. The piano close is especially charming. The next, "Sing heigh-ho," begins plaintively in G minor but finishes brightly and piquantly in the tonic major. The verses have been set before, but not more appropriately or effectively. "Airly Beacon" is rather sad in character, but this is necessitated by the words, which are a lament for a lost love. There is a decided madrigalian flavour in the music, with its points of imitation and generally independent part-writing. The last of the set is "The Knight's Tomb," words by Samuel Taylor Coleridge; it is a very mournful strain in G minor, with a somewhat startling, but undeniably effective climax in which, within half-a-dozen bars, we pass through the keys of F minor, D flat, A flat, and C minor, back to the dominant and tonic of the original, the final chord being in the major. Altogether these part-songs may be regarded as among the most artistic examples of their kind.

The Cathedral Psalter (Public School edition). [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Only a few words are needed to introduce this handy edition of a very popular Psalter to the notice of those whom it may concern. The Cathedral Psalter was quickly recognised as combining the merits of several earlier pointed versions of the Psalms, and has now become a standard work in choirs and places where they sing. The only peculiarity in the latest edition now before us is that indications are given as to the verses or half-verses which should be sung by choir and congregation together or by choir alone. The contrasts thus obtainable are very effective and impressive, and the present edition will be found to be of very great value alike to those who have to conduct as to those who take part in the daily service in our public schools, as the means not only of a better but a more devotional rendering of the Psalms.

Christmastide Carols. Second Series. Words by the Rev. Bernard Reynolds. Music (old French melodies) harmonised by George C. Martin. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

These carols, eight in number, possess the quaint, old-world flavour which is generally found so alluring at Christmas. In harmonising ancient or traditional tunes straightforward simplicity and avoidance of modern chromatic chords and progressions are desirable, and Dr. Martin has recognised these points, though in all instances he employs the scale progressions now in use rather than the ancient modes, which to many ears sound harsh and unpleasant. The carols are all as unpretending as they are tuneful.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The funeral obsequies of the late Robert Franz, the representative composer of the modern German Lied, took place on October 27, at Halle, in the presence of the Municipal and Academical dignitaries, as well as of the Academical and Musical societies of the town. At the grave side, which was decked with innumerable wreaths and floral offerings, several chorales of the deceased master's composition were sung, under the direction of the Musical Director of the University, Herr Reubke; the musical portion of the proceedings concluding with Chopin's Funeral March. The mortal remains of the composer were laid at rest by the side of his wife, who had preceded him in death two years ago.

The municipal authorities of Halle have decided to name one of the principal streets of the town "Robert Franz Strasse."

A commemorative performance in honour of the late Robert Franz was given on the 1st ult. by the Berlin Loewe-Verein, on which occasion a number of Franz's songs obtained a hearing. Dr. Runze, the President of the Society, delivered an interesting discourse on the merits of the departed musician.

The Gazzetta Musicale of Milan contains the following interesting information, furnished to it by a Vienna correspondent: "A magnificent work on the Exhibition is just now in course of preparation, and will be published simultaneously in Vienna and in Paris. It will be a book edited by all the able experts who have contributed to the excellent artistic result of the Exhibition—viz., Professor Adler (representing Austria), Professor Fleischer (Berlin), Dr. Glossy (Vienna), Drs. Trautmann and Vandberg (Munich), M. Bock (Russia), M. Régnier (France), &c. The book will be written in three languages—viz., German, French, and English, and be illustrated by a great number of phototypes representing the most precious objects in each section, as well as portraits of those persons who have worked hard for the success of the Exhibition, pictorial reproductions of dramatic scenes, views of the Exhibition buildings, &c. The principal editorship is in the hands of Herr Schneider, who has been for a long time the editor of the journal Die Illustration.

A performance of Liszt's Oratorio "The Legend of St. Elizabeth" was announced to be given by the Berlin Wagner Society at its first Concert this season, on the 21st ult., under the direction of Herr Klindworth and with the co-operation of the choir of the Berlin Teachers' Association.

Mr. Eugene d'Albert, the well-known pianist-composer, has completed an opera, entitled "Der Rubin," and has also written a new Pianoforte Concerto as well as a String Quartet, which latter is expected to be shortly performed for the first time at Berlin, under the auspices of Dr. Joachim.

Rubinstein's ballet "Die Rebe" and a one-act comic opera by the same composer, entitled "Unter Räubern," will be performed for the first time at the Berlin Royal Opera during the present season. The last-named work was first brought out, under Rubinstein's direction, in 1883, at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater, when it met with a succès d'estime, which the writer of these Notes, who was present on the occasion, thinks was all that the work merited.

Gounod's comic opera "Philémon et Baucis" was produced, for the first time in Berlin, on October 28, at the Kroll'sche Theater, by a company of French artists. The charming work was greatly appreciated by the audience, and the performance itself is described as an excellent one. Herr Zschoppe was the Conductor.

Alexander Ritter's one-act opera, "Der faule Hans," was performed for the first time at the Dresden Royal Opera, on the 10th ult., and met with an enthusiastic reception. Herr Ludwig Hartmann, the eminent Dresden critic, speaks in terms of the highest praise of the altogether exceptional merits of the work.

An excellent first performance is reported from Berlin of the new opera by Herr Felix Weingartner, "Genesius," which took place at the Royal Opera on the 15th ult. The libretto (from the pen of the composer) places the action at the period of the Emperor Diocletian, and deals with the tragic fate of some of its personages who had embraced the Christian religion. The music wedded to this somewhat sombre subject is said to be full of dramatic energy, and masterly in its orchestration. The principal solo parts were interpreted by Mesdames Sucher and Ritter-Götze; Herren Sylva, Betz, and Bulss. The audience appeared to be divided in their appreciation of the new work, the composer of which was, however, recalled after every act.

Count Tasca's opera, "A Sancta Lucia," was produced in Berlin, on the 16th ult., with much success.

The one hundredth performance of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" was recorded on the 7th ult. at the Royal Opera of Berlin.

The first performance, at the Munich Royal Opera, of Berlioz's "Les Troyens," is announced to take place on the 15th inst., under the direction of Capellmeister Levi.

At the first Concert of the season, given by the Leipzig Liszt-Verein, under the conductorship of Herr Richard Strauss, of Weimar, the programme included Liszt's "Faust" Symphony, as well as a Symphonic Poem, entitled "Macbeth," from the pen of Herr Strauss, which met with a most enthusiastic reception.

An important new choral work, entitled "Manasse," by Herr F. Hegar, was performed with much success at one of the recent Gürzenich Concerts, in Cologne, under Dr. Wüllner's bâton.

A bust of Auguste Dupont, the late eminent Professor at the Brussels Conservatoire, has just been unveiled at that Institution.

The four hundredth performance of Mozart's "Le Nozze di Figaro" was recorded on October 30, at the Berlin Royal Opera, where the work was first performed in 1790, without, however, producing any very marked impression.

Herr Felix Mottl, the eminent Bayreuth Orchestral Conductor, has just completed a one-act opera, entitled "Kaiser und Dichter," which is to be produced, ere long, at the Carlsruhe Court-Theatre, where the composer occupies the post of principal Capellmeister. The idea of the one-act opera is evidently finding favour in many quarters.

The Berlin Conzerthaus, an Institution founded twenty-five years ago, has just given its five thousandth Concert performance. Herr Bilse, the veteran Berlin Capellmeister, although now retired from active service, once more wielded the bâton on this occasion, he having been the Conductor of the Conzerthaus performances for a period of eighteen years.

Anton Rubinstein's important Biblical opera, "Moses," is to be produced this winter at the Stadt-Theater of Brünn, an Institution which, under its energetic and enterprising new director, Herr Adolph Baumann, is assuming an artistic importance it never before possessed. Rubinstein will himself conduct the performance of his work.

The first performance in Germany of M. Massenet's opera "Werther" took place on the 13th ult., at the Weimar Court Theatre, the titular part being sung by Herr Giessen, alias Buff, a grandson of Charlotte Buff, the original of Goethe's Lotte, in "Werther's Leiden." M. Massenet's work was, however, somewhat coolly received, the second act only meeting with considerable appreciation and applause.

M. Arthur Coquard's scène lyrique, entitled "Christophe Colomb," successfully produced last year at M. Colonne's Paris Concerts, is shortly to be performed at the Carlo Felice Theatre of Genoa, the native town of the great navigator.

M. Alfred Bruneau, the composer of "Le Rêve," has completed the score of his new opera, "L'Attaque du Moulin," the libretto of which, by M. Louis Gallet, is founded upon a story by M. Zola. The new work is to be brought out at the Paris Opéra Comique.

Mdlle. Augusta Holmès, the well-known composer, residing in Paris, has written an opera, entitled "La Montagne Noire," which may possibly be accepted for performance at the Grand Opéra.

Fräulein Lola Beeth, of the Imperial Opera of Vienna, gave some very successful representations of the part of Elsa in "Lohengrin," at the performance of that work at the Paris Opéra last month.

The children of the late M. Victor Wilder have presented to the library of the Paris Opéra a number of most rare operatic scores, forming part of their father's collection, and including, amongst others, "La Buona Figliola," by Piccini; "Le Maître de Musique," "Tracollo," and "La Serva Padrona," by Pergolese; "Les Deux Comtesses," by Paisiello; and "La Poupée," by Jomelli.

The first performance in France of Wagner's "Der fliegende Holländer" was announced to take place on the 27th ult., at Lille. The Bayreuth master's early work has, however, been performed in the French language before this—viz., in the translation by Ch. Nuitter and Jules Guilliaume, at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, Brussels, on April 6, 1872.

The forthcoming production, at Milan, of Verdi's "Falstaff" continues to furnish the leading topic of conversation in Italian musical circles. The principal parts will be in the hands of Messrs. Maurel, Moretti, and Pini-Corti; Mesdames Stehle, Zilli, and Pasqua. The veteran Maëstro will himself conduct the first performance. The work is without an overture or prelude of any kind, a few bars of orchestration serving as an introduction to each of the three acts and six tableaux into which the opera is divided. The performance will occupy not more than an hour and a half.

Signor Arrigo Boïto's long talked-of opera "Nerone" is reported, in some Italian journals, to be actually finished, and its performance at no very distant date is considered by these informants as certain. Meanwhile, the successful composer of "Mefistofele" himself appears to maintain a strict silence upon the subject.

A new opera, "A Cannaregio," the composer of which is a Venetian nobleman, Count Carlo Sernagiotto, is to be brought out during the carnival season at the Teatro Verdi, in Padua. The work had been presented at one of the competitions instituted by Signor Sonzogno, and while being commended by the judges had failed to obtain a prize.

According to Italian journals, Signor Mascagni has handed to Signor Sonzogno the complete score of a new one-act opera, "Vestitia," this being the fourth operatic work written by the young Maëstro in the space of little more than two years!

A brilliant success is reported from Verona of a new opera, entitled "La Tradita," brought out last month at the Ristori Theatre of that town. The composer, who conducted the performance, is a young Maëstro, Signor Cusinati, hitherto unknown to fame. The natural anxiety on the part of the leading Italian towns to discover another Mascagni in their midst may have influenced in a measure the enthusiastic verdict pronounced by the audience on this occasion.

A Cantata, entitled "Andromède," by M. Smulders, ex-pupil of the Liège Conservatoire, was performed last month at the annual public séance of the Brussels Académie des Beaux-Arts, where it attracted the attention of all connoisseurs present, who pronounced it to be the work of a highly gifted and promising young composer.

The new four-act opera "Gurin," by the Spanish composer Thomas Breton (alluded to in our last number), met with a good reception upon its recent first production at the Royal Opera of Madrid. The performance is described as having been an excellent one.

The one hundredth performance of Tschaikowski's opera "Eugène Onegin" is about to be given at the Marie Theatre of St. Petersburg.

CORRESPONDENCE.

TOO MUCH HARMONY.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In your May number occurs a well-digested and instructive article under the heading "Too much Harmony." The criticism is made as generally applicable, and may, presumably, be so accepted by the various Schools of Music. It is not pretended here to controvert any portion of the article; but the regret may be expressed that no remedy is suggested to correct the fault complained of; nor, as far as attentive examination of subsequent issues has served, has any movement been discovered in that direction. Would a return to the Regola d'Ottava (Rule of the Octave), and its treatment as practised in the four Conservatorios of Naples, perhaps assist us to get out of the slough of despond? I refer to the harmonisation classified by Dr. Piêtro Lichtenthal as the Accompagnimento Moderno which was adopted by Fedele Fenaroli in his admirable Partimenti, and which he probably received as an inheritance from his master Francesco Durante. But either of the examples given in Lichtenthal's learned Dizionario della Musica might serve the same purpose, if the method of writing original melodies to the single upper part—which we might call Canto primo—were adopted. Then after sufficient practice another part might be added, which one might call Canto secondo. The addition of yet another part—Tenore—would complete the four parts, including the Basso with its Numbers, which, of course, would have to be respected by the student of counterpoint. This method cultivates the invention of Melody, of which the further advantages would be facilitation of the study of the Seven Cleffs and the observance of what the French call la carrure des phrases. The latter involves a regard of Rhythm without which music cannot be endured for any length of time, is vague, and produces ennui and nervous annoyance.

There may be too much melody, but that rarely happens; the educated musician can easily provide a corrective for an over-facile invention, for all melody fit for the ears of civilised people is based upon harmony, either understood or expressed. The cultivation of melody is doubtless the corrective of "Too much Harmony."

With great respect, I am, yours truly,

Albert G. Emerick.

Philadelphia, October 20, 1892.

"THE MUSICAL GRADUATES UNION."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—I have read with interest the article in your November number upon the "Musical Graduates Union," and trust you will allow me to venture a friendly criticism.

The circular quoted in the article, after distinctly limiting the Union to musical graduates and holders of honorary degrees of Universities within the British Isles, says in the succeeding paragraph that "the Union should be very comprehensive and include all British Graduates." I take this to mean the Musical Graduates of all British Universities. Two courses are open to the promoters of the scheme—either to enlarge its boundaries and invite the co-operation of the Musical Graduates of every British University, or to revise the circular and confine the pretensions of the scheme within their natural limits. As it stands, the circular is liable to mislead the public.

The statement that an "opportunity is afforded to all the 'regulars' of the musical world of enlisting under their proper leaders" has probably been written without due consideration of its meaning. The scheme is for a "Union of Musical Graduates and Holders of Honorary Degrees in Music of Great Britain and Ireland"—nothing more and nothing less. It may include gentlemen who exercise other occupations than music, and it does certainly exclude some of the brightest ornaments of the musical profession. Coming down to the question of musical titles: It excludes the holders of diplomas from the R.A.M., an Institution which has no power to grant degrees.

The writer speaks of "degrees legitimately conferred in this country." Are there degrees illegitimately conferred in this country?

To return to the circular, I am afraid the annual calendar of the Union would not be an infallible guide "to the public generally, the clergy in particular, and the authorities of our educational institutions." A University degree is not a guarantee that a man is capable of playing the organ or of training a choir, and it cannot be accepted as a distinct proof that he can teach any specified instrument. It is a hopeless task to attempt to squeeze the musical profession into the University bottle.

I cannot close my letter without pointing out that the unchartered colleges have played an important part in the development of musical culture throughout the kingdom. They have done far more good than harm. Their multiplication and continued success are evidence of musical activity, and it would be better if the energy—worse than wasted in abusing them—was spent in efforts to secure their regulation by law.—I am, &c.,

Henri C. Hemy,
Mus.B., Trinity University, Toronto.

27, Loraine Place,
Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

[The Union, as far as we understand its proposals, has not the smallest intention of trying to label its members as superior in quality to other musicians. It would simply afford a means of gauging the value of their degrees. But surely our correspondent must admit that there is some virtue or charm in being squeezed into a "University bottle," otherwise how can he account for the late rush for degrees of all sorts, good, bad, or indifferent, and the actual assumption of sham degrees which is occasionally found? He has apparently (in a weak moment) allowed himself to be squeezed into a "University bottle."—Ed.]

THE MUSIC OF WATER.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—As Mr. Rowbotham avows himself the author of the article on "The Music of Water," and defies me from the impregnable cover of his "History of Music," there is nothing left for me to do but to raise the siege. Sooner than accept his challenge I will retract all my criticism and consent to believe that any well-educated rivulet can execute not only the trill, with and without turn, but all the ornaments known to musicians, from the Plain-beat to the Shaked Elevation and Double Relish.

In return for this sacrifice of my own convictions Mr. Rowbotham must allow me to differ with him—quite gently—in almost every assertion he makes in his letter to you. I did not say that sticks and stones were one of the four elements of Nature; I did not load either him or Professor Tyndall with abuse; I did not profess myself the only person knowing anything about the matter; I did not even write anonymously, but over my usual and tolerably well-known signature. I can, however, sincerely compliment Mr. Rowbotham upon the felicity of his opening quotation: "Too much of water hast thou, poor—

"F. C."

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

B. V. S.—Three articles on Beethoven's Sonatas for violin and pianoforte, by Professor Niecks, appeared in the Monthly Musical Record for July, August, and September, 1890. We know of no others.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Altrincham.—On Sunday, October 30, a new Sacred Cantata, The Lord is risen, was produced in St. John's Church, Altrincham. The work has been composed by Mr. W. H. Maxfield, the literary portion having been contributed by Mr. J. Stuart Bogg. The solos, &c., were taken by Mr. H. Stanley, Miss Stanley, Miss Kate Stanley, Mrs. Dobson, Mr. Alfieri, &c. At the close the Rev. F. Wainwright thanked Mr. Maxfield, Mr. Bogg, and the members of the choir for their services.

Basingstoke.—Mr. H. E. Powell gave his first Subscription Concert in the Town Hall on Tuesday, October 25. The programme consisted of part-songs and vocal solos sung by the Queen Vocal Quartet (Miss Mina Rees, Miss Amy Sargent, Miss Mary Hutton, and Miss Lucie Johnstone), and instrumental trios and solos played by Mr. H. E. Powell (pianoforte), Mr. Charles Griffiths (violin), and Mr. James Griffiths (violoncello), comprising movements from Reissiger's Trio in E (Op. 85), Hummel's Trio in E flat (Op. 93), and Rubinstein's Sonata in D for violoncello and pianoforte (Op. 18). Mr. F. Sewell Southgate acted as accompanist.

Bedford.—On the 11th ult. Mdlle. de Nolhac, of the High School, gave a grand evening Concert in the Town Hall, assisted by Madame Marian McKenzie, Mr. Templer Saxe, and Mr. Edgar Haddock (violin), Mr. P. H. Diemer acting as Conductor. The first piece, Grieg's Pianoforte and Violin Sonata in G (Op. 13), served at once to show Mdlle. de Nolhac's talent as a pianist, her brilliant execution, as exhibited both in this and subsequent selections from Chopin, Weber, Liszt, and Schubert, being specially remarkable. Mr. Haddock pleased greatly, his own compositions (a Norwegian Ballade and Capriccio Étude) being, perhaps, the most highly appreciated. But what delighted the audience most was the singing of Madame McKenzie and Mr. Saxe.

Blackburn.—Dr. Parry's Judith was given by the Philharmonic Society, in the Exchange Hall, on the 11th ult. In addition to the choir of the Society and a band including a considerable number of Sir C. Hallé's orchestra (led by Signor Risegari), Miss Medora Henson, Mrs. Tomlinson, Mr. Piercy, and Mr. Ffrangçon Davies had been engaged as principal vocalists. The performance, which was very well received, was creditable throughout to all concerned, and Mr. Tattersall, the Conductor, is to be congratulated on so satisfactory a presentation of the work.

Crewkerne.—An Organ Recital was given in the Parish Church on the 7th ult. by the Organist, Mr. L. A. Brookes. The following pieces were played: Offertoire in F minor, R. H. Pearce; "Meditation," Gottschalk; "On mighty pens" (Creation), Haydn; Andante in C, H. J. Brookes; Prelude and Fugue, Mendelssohn; Pastoral Symphony, Handel; "Ora pro nobis," Piccolomini; Russian March, S. Clarke.

Croydon.—In connection with the Conservatoire of Music, Miss Alice G. Carr gave a successful Pianoforte Recital in the Small Public Hall on the afternoon of the 19th ult. The programme included Fugue in B flat (Brahms), Variations in E flat, Op. 35 (Beethoven), Scherzo in B flat minor (Chopin), Fantasia "Rigoletto" (Verdi-Liszt), and short pieces by Heller, Rubinstein, and J. F. Barnett. Miss Carr proved herself a capable performer, and gave a satisfactory account of each number. Miss Waite sang in a charmingly unaffected manner songs by Godard, Saint-Saëns, and Amy E. Horrocks. Though obviously suffering from a cold, she displayed a good voice and a careful style. Mr. R. I. Rowe was a good accompanist.

Devonport.—Dvorák's Stabat Mater was performed by Mr. S. Bradbury and his admirable Stoke Musical Society, at the Public Hall, on the 9th ult. The performance was an unequivocal success. The chorus, a fairly strong one, was well-balanced and well-trained; it was supported by a good orchestra, and the hall was filled by an enthusiastic audience. Four capable soloists appeared, Miss Katie Quance, Miss Agatha Symons, Mr. Dean Trotter, and Mr. T. W. Balhatchet. Mr. G. Hele, jun., was at an American organ, and Mrs. G. C. Bath at the pianoforte.

Dover.—On the 14th ult., at the weekly practice of the Dover Choral Union, Sir Herbert Oakeley was present, and gave some hints as to the rehearsal of his Jubilee Lyric Cantata. After the practice he said: "It is a pleasant duty to thank you for the trouble taken with my music, and to assure you that I appreciate the honour of its selection at your forthcoming Concert. I may take this opportunity of mentioning that, having accepted the office of Vice-President of your Society, I shall take interest in its present and future, as, indeed, is its due, were it only for both compliments you have been kind enough to pay me."

Frome.—An Organ Recital was given in the Wesleyan Chapel on the large four-manual instrument, on Thursday, the 10th ult., by Mr. R. H. Pearce, of Bruton. Vocal pieces were contributed by Mrs. Kelson, Miss Snowcroft, and Messrs. Tucker and Welham. The following pieces were played by Mr. Pearce: Fantasia in D minor, Sir R. Stewart; Andante (from Oboe solo), R. H. Pearce; Bourrée (from first Organ Concerto, second set), Handel; Lieder ohne Worte (Nos. 1 and 27), Mendelssohn; Offertoire in G minor, R. H. Pearce; (a) song, "Guardian Angels," Handel; (b) Marche Hongroise, Schubert; Prelude and Fugue in A minor, Bach; Improvisation.

Gloucester.—The first of the winter series of free Recitals took place in the Cathedral on the 10th ult., when an overflowing congregation occupied the nave. Organ solos were given by Mr. Lee Williams and Mr. Capener, and vocal solos by Mrs. Creser and Miss Montgomery. A large voluntary choir of ladies and gentlemen belonging to the Festival Class and Choral Society sang some Anthems by Sullivan, Woodward, and Handel. A notable feature was the singing of Lord Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" (Dr. Bridge) by a quartet of voices placed in the choir of the Cathedral, which produced an exquisite effect.

Lincoln.—Mrs. Barraclough's fifty-third Concert took place on October 27, in the Masonic Hall, the performers being Mesdames Mary Davies, Clara Samuell, Antoinette Sterling; Messrs. Durward Lely and Plunket Greene; flute, Mr. H. Nicholson; pianoforte, Señor Albeniz; Conductor, Mr. Sidney Naylor.

Linsdale.—At a Festival Service held on October 28 (the Feast of St. Simon and St. Jude) the choir of St. Barnabas Church sang Gaul's Holy City with orchestral accompaniment. The solos were well rendered by the Rev. D. Hurst-Jones, the Rev. F. Bell, and two choristers. The choruses were sung with great precision, and everything went smoothly under the able conductorship of the Choirmaster, the Rev. D. Hurst-Jones. Mr. Sidney H. Lloyd skilfully presided at the organ.

Windsor.—The Gentlemen of the Choir of St. George's Chapel Royal and Her Majesty's Private Chapel, Windsor Castle, gave their Annual Evening Concert in the Hall of the Albert Institute, on Thursday, October 27, at which H.R.H. The Princess Christian and her daughter, the Princess Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, were present. There was a very large audience. The performers consisted of the soprano choristers; Messrs. F. Marriott, J. H. Stilliard, Percy Coward, E. M. Cockaday, T. Hunt, W. Clinch, H. Stubbs, C. A. Starkey, J. Fred. Whitehouse, W. Bell Kempton, G. Stubbs, and David Humphreys. Violin solos were played by Mr. Hubert Hunt, the accompanist was Mr. Martin Ackerman, and Sir Walter Parratt conducted. Sir George Elvey, Dr. C. V. Stanford (Professor of Music at Cambridge University), and Dr. C. H. Lloyd (Precentor of Eton College) attended and conducted performances of several of their compositions, amongst which were four new Part-songs by Professor Stanford (from manuscript copies), sung in public for the first time. Professor Bridge (of Westminster Abbey) had expressed his intention of being present, but was unavoidably prevented from coming at the last moment.

Choir Appointments.—Mr. Charles A. Cooke (Alto) to St. Peter's, Belsize Park.—Mr. Munro Davison, principal Alto to the Temple Church.—Mr. A. F. Thornborough (Tenor) to Chester Cathedral.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. Stanley Chipperfield, Organist and Choirmaster to Hobart Cathedral.—Mr. Maurice Davies, Organist to the Parish Church and Music Master at Spier's School, Beith, N.B.—Mr. R. J. Pitcher, Organist to St. John's Church, Lowestoft.—Mr. A. Loraine Holloway, Organist to St. John the Evangelist, Boston, U.S.A.

MISS LILY PEARCE, L.R.A.M. (Soprano)
(From the Weimar Conservatorium).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., 25, Cliff Road, Leeds.

MISS LILIAN VERKRÜZEN (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 119, Petherton Road, Highbury, N.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. MALDWYN HUMPHREYS, A.R.A.M. (Tenor)
163, Gloucester Road, London, N.W.
"'Elijah.'—Special commendation is due to Mr. M. Humphreys for his interpretation of the tenor part, which was worthy of the best traditions of English—or British—oratorio singing."—Musical Herald, October 1, 1892.

MR. GEO. RILEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.
Address, 36, Chetwynd Terrace, Leeds.

MR. CARL BRANDT (Basso Profundo)
Oratorio, Concerts, Dinners, &c. Concert Party provided. Moderate terms. 12, St. Mark's Villas, Dalston, N.E.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., be addressed to her at 203, Derby Road, Bootle, Liverpool.

MADAME CATHERINE PENNA (Soprano) can accept Engagements for Choral and Miscellaneous Concerts in London and Provinces. Address, 94, Tachbrook Street, Belgravia; or, Messrs. Barth and Black, 2, Oxford Mansions, W.

MASTER T. HOPKINS (Guildhall Concerts, Plymouth, &c.). Experienced and highly trained SOLO BOY. For Engagements of all kinds. May be heard by appointment. Also first-class Chorus Boys provided. High-class Choir Training undertaken. For terms, &c., apply, Mr. Benham Blaxland, 11, Powis Sq., W.
Testimonial from Sir John Stainer, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Nov. 22, 1892.—"I have been much pleased with the admirable singing of your chorister, Master T. Hopkins, and I congratulate you on having such an excellent exponent of your skill and ability as a trainer of boys' voices."

MADAME BAER (Pianist) (Pupil of the Academy for Music, Berlin). For At Homes. Plays Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Liszt, Weber, &c. 150, Hartfield Road, Wimbledon.

A LADY wishes for the post of CONTRALTO in a Church. Thorough musician. G. F., 88, Messina Avenue, Kilburn.

MR. ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Mus. Bac., begs to announce that his PERMANENT ADDRESS is 239, Cromwell Mansions, Cromwell Road, S.W.

ALTO, TENOR, and BASS WANTED, for St. George's, Hanover Square. Salary, £12. Apply, Organist, Church Vestry.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

HENSCHEL, G.—Progressive Studies for the Voice. With Pianoforte Accompaniment. In Two Parts. Part I. Studies in Sustained Singing. Part II. Studies in Florid Singing. Part I. (Medium Voice), 4s.; Part II. (Medium Voice), 4s. Ditto, Part I. (High Voice), 4s.; Part II. (High Voice), 4s.

—— Fortschreitende Uebungen für die Singstimme mit Begleitung des Pianoforte. In zwei Theilen. I. Thiel (Hohe Stimme), Uebungen im getragenen Gesang. 4 Mark. Ditto (Mittlere Stimme). 4 Mark. II. Theil (Hohe Stimme). Uebungen im Coloratur Gesang. 4 Mark. Ditto (Mittlere Stimme). 4 Mark.

FANING, EATON.—"Buttercups and Daisies." A Pastoral Cantata. For Children's Voices. Written by EDWARD OXENFORD. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

HANDEL, G. F.—"O come, let us sing unto the Lord." Fifth Chandos Anthem. The Pianoforte Arrangement from the Score, with additional Accompaniments, by BATTISON HAYNES. Paper cover, 1s.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Three Dances, from the Music to "Henry VIII." 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s.; Wind Parts, 7s. 6d.

SMIETON, JOHN MORE.—"King Arthur." A Dramatic Cantata. (Op. 15.) 1st Violin, 4s.; 2nd Violin, 4s.; Viola, 4s.; Violoncello and Bass, 4s. 6d.

THE CATHEDRAL PSALTER (Public School Edition). Containing the Psalms of David, together with the Canticles and Hymns of the Church, Pointed for Chanting. Cloth, 2s.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, No. 6. "The Primrose." Unison Song. By A. RANDEGGER. "A Hunting Song." Two-part Song. By B. MANSELL RAMSEY. Tune and Time Tests for Pupil Teachers and Schools. 1½d.

ALLAN, GEORGE L.—"The Elements of Music." Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

THE PARISH CHURCH CHANT BOOK. A Selection of Single and Double Chants, arranged for the Daily Psalms; together with Single Chants for the Canticles. By Rev. HENRY J. BIDDER and J. VARLEY ROBERTS. Paper cover, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

HISTORY OF THE FIRST CARDIFF FESTIVAL, 1892. By W. H. SONLEY JOHNSTONE; revised by W. A. MORGAN. Cloth, 3s. 6d.

BLAIR, HUGH—(in G). Benedicite, omnia Opera. (No. 102. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

COOPER, RICHARD—(in A). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

HUGHES, W.—(in E flat). Benedicite, omnia Opera. (No. 103. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

HOLLOWAY, L.—(in C). Te Deum laudamus. Composed expressly for the use of Parish Choirs. 3d.

KEMPTON, T.—(in B flat). Morning and Evening Service. 8vo edition. Paper cover, 9d.

PETTMAN, EDGAR—(in E flat). Benedicite, omnia Opera. 3d.

THOULESS, ALFRED H.—(in A). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 4d.

SHORT SETTINGS OF THE OFFICE FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION (Including Benedictus and Agnus Dei). For Parochial and General Use:—

	s.	d.
No. 22. J. H. STAMMERS—(in E flat)	1	0
„ 23. FERRIS TOZER—(in G). Treble Voices	1	0
„ 24. J. W. ELLIOTT—(in D)	1	0
„ 25. A. C. FISHER—(in E flat)	1	0

BLACOW, FRED. W.—Nuptial Hymn. Words written by Rev. J. EDWARD GULL. 1d.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR, S.—"Break forth into joy." Christmas Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. (No. 415. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

DYER, A. E.—Twelve Hymn Tunes. 1s.

BRIDGE, JOSEPH C.—"On Christmas Night." Christmas Carols for Four Voices. The words written by GERARD MOULTRIE. 3d.

GALE, CLEMENT ROWLAND.—"We march, we march to victory." Processional Hymn. 2d.

LANCASTER, EDWARD.—Six Christmas Carols. The words written by F. ST. JOHN CORBETT. 3d.

PHILPOTT, ROSAMOND.—Christmas Carols for Treble Voices (Unaccompanied). 4d.

SWIRE, JOHN.—"Shine calm and bright." A Carol for Christmas. 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—"Sweeter than songs of summer." A Christmas Carol. For Four Voices. 3d.

TWELVE NEW CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE. Written by SHAPCOTT WENSLEY. Set to music by J. STAINER, EATON FANING, G. M. GARRETT, J. BARNBY, EMMA MUNDELLA, MYLES B. FOSTER, BERTHOLD TOURS, J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, and BATTISON HAYNES. Paper cover, 1s.; or, separately, 1½d. each. Tonic Sol-fa edition, 8d. Words only, 2d.

CHRISTMASTIDE CAROLS (Second Series). The words by the Rev. BERNARD REYNOLDS. The music (Old French melodies) harmonized by GEORGE C. MARTIN. 6d. Words only, 1d.

FOUR CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Composed and arranged by J. BARNBY, A. C. MACKENZIE, G. C. MARTIN, and J. STAINER. Words only, 3s. per 100.

SMITH, THOMAS.—"Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Sion." Anthem. For Tenor Solo and Chorus. 3d.

HILES, H.—"Break! break!" A setting, for Choir and Orchestra, of the verses of Lord TENNYSON. 4d.

LADYE FAIR, THOU HAST MY LIFE. A Choral Song. For Four Voices. The words written by PHILIP LATIMER. The music from the French (A.D. 1579). Edited by HENRY LESLIE. (No. 636. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

THIS MORNING, AT THE DAWN OF DAY. A Four-part Song. The words written by PHILIP LATIMER. The music from the French (A.D. 1650). Edited by HENRY LESLIE. (No. 656. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

BATSON, A. WELLESLEY.—"Love's Inconstancy." A Madrigal. The words written by THOMAS CAMPBELL. (No. 634. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

BERRIDGE, ARTHUR.—"Men of England." A Four-part Song. The words by THOMAS CAMPBELL. 1½d.

HALL, KING.—"Love me little, love me long." A Four-part Song. (No. 637. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

BREWER, A. HERBERT.—"Sad hearts." A Four-part Song. The words written by W. H. DRAPER. (No. 657. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

PILCHER, PERCY W.—"Advice to lovers." A Four-part Song. The words written by Sir GEORGE ETHEREGE. (No. 658. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

DEARNALEY, IRVINE.—"A Happy New Year." A Four-part Song. The words written by T. KAY. 4d.

MÜHLFELD, C.—"Numerous as the bright Stars gazing." A Two-part Song. The words from the German, by A. BRIAND and C. KARLYLE. (No. 59. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs for Female Voices.) 2d.

—— "Spring and Love." A Two-part Song. The words from the German, by A. BRIAND and C. KARLYLE. (No. 60. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs for Female Voices.) 2d.

STANFORD, C. V.—"Peace, come away." Being Canto LVII. of "In Memoriam." For Chorus (S.A.T.B.) Unaccompanied. (No. 659. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

CRUICKSHANK, W. A. C.—"My true love hath my heart." Part-Song. For Female Voices. The words written by Sir PHILIP SIDNEY. (No. 271. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

CLARKE, HAMILTON.—"A Soldier's Song." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. (No. 245. The Orpheus.) 3d.

MORLEY, THOMAS.—Dialogue for Seven Voices. Edited by WALTER PARRATT. (No. 27. The Bach Choir Magazine.) 6d.

WILLAERT.—"Dialogo a sette voce." Edited by MORTON LATHAM. (No. 30. The Bach Choir Magazine.) 6d.

CLARKE, HAMILTON.—"Midnight and noon." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. (No. 246. The Orpheus.) 2d.

DISTIN, THEODORE.—"May Morning." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. The words written by HALL BYRNE. (No. 244. The Orpheus.) 2d.

HALL, KING.—"I prithee send me back my heart." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. (No. 239. The Orpheus.) 3d.

—— "The Cryer." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. (No. 240. The Orpheus.) 4d.

NAYLOR, CHARLES L.—"Where sunless rivers weep." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. Words written by CHRISTINA ROSSETTI. (No. 250. The Orpheus.) 3d.

ILIFFE, F.—"Go, happy rose." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. The words written by R. HERRICK. (No. 247. The Orpheus.) 3d.

LÖHR, HARVEY.—"The Three Jolly Pigeons." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. The words from OLIVER GOLDSMITH'S "She Stoops to Conquer." (No. 249. The Orpheus). 4d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

MÜLLER, J.—"The wintry winds are blowing." A Christmas Madrigal. For Men's Voices. The words written by R. C. COXE. (No. 248. The Orpheus.) 4d.

STANFORD, C. V.—Six Elizabethan Pastorals. For Chorus (S.A.T.B.) Unaccompanied:—

No. 1.	To His flocks	3d.
„ 2.	Corydon, arise!	3d.
„ 3.	Diaphenia	2d.
„ 4.	Sweet love for me	3d.
„ 5.	Damon's Passion	3d.
„ 6.	Phœbe	3d.

WATSON, MICHAEL.—"The Spring Approaches." A Four-part Song. The words written by EDWARD OXENFORD. (No. 600. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

BANKS, COLLINGWOOD.—"Pretty Flowers." Vocal Waltz Duet. Voice Parts, with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 3s.; Vocal parts, 6d.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—"Crossing the Bar." Sacred Song. The poem written by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 2s.

HENSCHEL, G.—"The Discreet Lover" ("L'Amant discret"). Song. Set to words, English and French, of the Eighteenth Century. 2s.

MARIGOLD, MARGUERITE.—"A Prayer to Sleep." The words written by PHILIP BOURKE MARSTON. 2s.

VARGE, JOSEF.—"Crossing the Bar." Sacred Song. (Simplified Music Series, No. 6.) The poem written by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 1s.

BEETHOVEN.—Adagio. (From Sextet, Op. 81.) Arranged by ARTHUR B. PLANT. (No. 12. Organ Arrangements, edited by G. C. MARTIN). 1s.

MOZART.—Adagio in B minor. Arranged by A. W. MARCHANT. (No. 11. Organ Arrangements, edited by G. C. MARTIN.) 1s.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

			s.	d.
No. 165.	Offertory in F	G. F. BLATCH	1	0

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNAUGHT.

No. 769.	Ladye fair, thou hast my life	HENRY LESLIE	1d.
„ 770.	This morning, at the dawn of day	„	1d.
„ 771.	Hail to the Chief	SCHUBERT	1d.
„ 772.	Why do the roses	R. L. DE PEARSALL	1d.
	TWELVE NEW CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE		8d.

LLOYD, C. FRANCIS.—"Phyllis tarries." 2d.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Advertisements for the January Number should reach the Office not later than DECEMBER 21, as, in consequence of the Christmas Holidays, it will be necessary to go to Press considerably earlier than usual.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR DECEMBER.

Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, Postage free, 2s.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for December contains: General Notes—London Board Schools Vocal Music Competition—Training for "Telling by Ear," by W. G. McNaught—"A Plea for the use of the Staff Notation in Schools," by S. M. Crosbie—Pupil Teachers' Examination in Practical Music: Instructions to H.M. Inspectors—London Sunday School Society's Concert—Derby Church Schools Concert—Wimbledon High School for Girls (Distribution of Certificates).

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW for December contains the following Music in both Notations: "The Christmas Tree." Unison Song, by S. E. Cooke.—"The Wassail Song." Christmas Carols arranged for two Trebles.—Exercises in Chromatics and Modulation, by W. G. McNaught.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TENOR WANTED, Grosvenor Chapel, South Audley Street, W. £10. Tuesdays and Fridays, at 8.30.

AN opportunity occurs for a LADY or GENTLEMAN VOCALIST, with ability, to appear at West-End RECITAL. Particulars, B., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN experienced ACCOMPANIST (L.R.A.M.) is open to an ENGAGEMENT to play for a Choral Society, in or near London. Good reader. Best of references from former Conductors. K. F., Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

DR. H. KEETON'S

NO. 5.—CHURCH AND CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD.
Paper cover, 2s. net; cloth, 3s. net, post-free. Just issued.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS, WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS FOR LADIES' VOICES.

SCHOOL SONGS, WITH PIANO ACCOMPANIMENT FOR GIRLS' OR BOYS' VOICES IN UNISON

BY ALFRED REDHEAD.

SONGS FOR CLASSES

EDITED BY ALFRED J. CALDICOTT.

Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S

NEW EDITION OF

STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES,

Thoroughly Revised, Re-fingered, and Newly Engraved, specially for the Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations.
"This series is one of the best musical publications of the day, highly to be recommended to Professors and Teachers."—The Graphic.
151 Numbers ready. List on application.

ALSO "CLASSICAL MUSIC" (NEW SERIES)
SELECTED, FINGERED, AND EDITED BY
ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER,
Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.
72 Numbers ready. List on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.
BEST'S COLLECTION OF ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
New Editions. Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORGAN

BY DR. E. J. HOPKINS AND DR. E. F. RIMBAULT.
This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.
Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN MUSIC.

NEW COMPOSITIONS BY EMILE SAURET, JOHANNES WOLFF, OTTO PEINIGER, AND TIVADAR NACHÈZ.
List on application.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.

Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR.
Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.
Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

NEW SONGS.

CROSSING THE BAR

BY LAWRENCE KELLIE.
The latest and most popular setting of the late Lord Tennyson's Poem.
"Appropriately solemn and impressive."—Whitehall Review.
"A simple and attractive composition."—Academy.
"Will linger on the memory wherever it is heard."—Daily News.

AVE MARIA

BY ANGELO MASCHERONI.
Specially composed for and dedicated to Madame ADELINA PATTI-NICOLINI.

INFINITE LOVE

BY MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.
Words by DANTE G. ROSSETTI.

Each Song in two or more Keys.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
A Musical Graduates Society	713
From my Study	714
Beethoven's Sketch Books—The Birth of a Symphony	717
Mr. Santley's Reminiscences	718
Occasional Notes	719
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	721
Pietro Mascagni's "I Rantzau"	723
Covent Garden Opera	724
Royal Choral Society	725
London Symphony Concerts	725
Crystal Palace Concerts	725
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	726
Royal Society of Musicians	727
Royal Artillery Band	727
Westminster Orchestral Society	727
Mr. Sarasate's Concert	727
Thursday Subscription Concerts	727
Mr. De Pachmann's Recitals	728
Mrs. Katharine Fisk's Concert	728
Musical Guild Concerts	728
Gresham Lectures	728
Dr. Mackenzie on Musical Culture	729
Sir John Stainer on the Lute	729
Royal College of Music	729
Royal Academy of Music	729
Vocal Music Competition in London Board Schools	730
Obituary	730
Music in Birmingham	730
„ Bristol	731
„ Cheltenham	731
„ Edinburgh	731
„ Glasgow	732
„ Liverpool	732
„ Manchester	732
„ Nottingham	741
„ Sheffield	741
„ Yorkshire	741
„ America	742
A Carol-Anthem.—"The Star that now is shining," Oliver King	733
General News (London)	742
Reviews	744
Foreign Notes	744
Correspondence	746
General News (Country)	747
List of Music published during the last Month	748

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.
A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in January number, Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE

TWENTY-FIRST

OF THIS MONTH.

WANTED, a First-class TUNER for a town in Yorkshire. Permanent situation. State age, experience, and salary required, to T. R., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ASSISTANT ORGANIST, Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Surrey.—WANTED, ORGAN STUDENT, willing to give his services as above in return for experience and expenses. Musical Service. Apply, by letter, R. P. Hart, 7, Ulva Road, Putney, S.W.

ORGANISTS, SOLOISTS, PIANISTS, &c.—The Diapason Musical Agency, 55, Chancery Lane, offers the best facilities for obtaining permanent or temporary engagements, or supplying above.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH
(HARPIST)
(Associate of the Royal College of Music),
11, Napier Road, Kensington, W.
Sole Agents, Messrs. Barth and Black, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

WANTED, a MANAGER for an Old-established first-class MUSIC BUSINESS in the North of England, with a view to becoming a partner. Must have practical knowledge of Pianos, American Organs, Tuning, &c. References required. Address, X. Y. Z., Messrs. George Russell and Co., 2, Stanhope Street, Euston Road, London.

TUNER wishes ENGAGEMENT or part time by London firm. Factory and out-door experience. First-class credentials. D., 22, Sterndale Road, West Kensington, W.

FINE TUNER, with good experience, both London and Country, good Repairer, and thorough Regulator, used to high-class trade, desires ENGAGEMENT. Good salary required; gentlemanly address. Hammer, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED TUNER of gentlemanly address desires ENGAGEMENT as Out-door TUNER, or would Manage a Branch. Can thoroughly Repair and Regulate; understands American Organs; First-class References; disengaged. Aged 32. Tuner, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN (19) desires a SITUATION in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Knowledge of sheet music and musical instruments. Good testimonials. W. H. M., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

SMALL Two-Manual PIPE ORGAN. 2 stops on great, 2 on swell. Height, 8-ft. 9-in. Full compass pedals. Price £21. Letters only, Organist, 25, Astey's Row, Canonbury, N.

ORGAN for SALE.—A fine-toned modern TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, containing thirteen stops, couplers, composition pedals, and all the latest improvements. Price £200. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London. Established 1837.

PIANO.—COLLARD and COLLARD, with Organ Pedals (detached in one minute). Fine powerful tone. Very strong. Best ever arranged. £25; or, the Pedals sold separately. 179, New Bond Street (side door).

PIANO for SALE.—BROADWOOD HORIZONTAL GRAND, 6⅔-Octaves. Price £10. In good condition. Apply, Ellington, Addiscombe Grove, Croydon.

INCORPORATED SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS
(formerly the National Society of Professional Musicians).
ESTABLISHED 1882.

To admit to Membership duly qualified Professional Musicians, and to obtain for them formal and acknowledged professional standing—to promote the culture of music—to provide opportunities for personal and social intercourse between the Members—to discuss all matters relating to music or Musicians—and to raise the standard of musical education by means of examinations where required.

The Society now consists of nearly one thousand Members, amongst whom are many of the most eminent musicians of the kingdom.

The Local Examinations are conducted on the following principles: Two Examiners to be present at each Examination—an absolutely definite Syllabus of Requirements—no Local Professional Representatives—Candidates known only to the Examiners by numbers—particulars of marks gained given to each Candidate.

Full particulars may be obtained from the Hon. Secretary, Mr. E. Chadfield, 49, Friar Gate, Derby; or of the Hon. Sectional Secretaries, Mr. J. Liddell, St. Thomas's Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne; Mr. S. Midgley, Oak Avenue, Bradford; Dr. W. H. Hunt, Beresford Road, Oxton, Birkenhead; Mr. A. F. Smith, Mus.B., Derby; Mr. J. Barrett, Imperial Road, Redland, Bristol; Mr. W. Mann-Dyson, L.R.A.M., Worcester; Mr. T. Palmer, Mus.B., Ipswich; Dr. C. Vincent, Kemplay Road, Hampstead, London; Mr. R. B. Moore, Mus.B., Exeter; and Mr. T. Westlake Morgan, the Cathedral, Bangor.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD
(Guild of Church Musicians),
35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

President: The Very Rev. THE DEAN OF BRISTOL.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Sub-Warden: F. J. KARN, Mus. Doc., F.C.C.G.

Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d. Choirs Enrolled, 10s. 6d.
January 11 and 12.—A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G. Diploma Examination. Names of intending Candidates should be sent in at once.
For further particulars see The Church Musician; or, apply to Dr. Lewis, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.
By order of the Council,
C. F. PASSMORE, Mus. Bac., Hon. Sec.

THE BACH CHOIR MAGAZINE

SELECT VOCAL PART-MUSIC OF

VARIOUS SCHOOLS

EDITED FOR THE

USE OF THE BACH CHOIR.

1. PALESTRINA.—Adoramus Te. Motet
   VITTORIA.—Jesu dulcis. Motet .. .. .. 3d.
2. JOH. ECCARD.—Presentation of Christ in the Temple. Motet for six voices .. .. 6d.
3. PALESTRINA.—Hodie Christus natus. Motet for two choirs .. .. 6d.
4. J. M. BACH.—Now is Christ risen from the dead. Motet for five voices .. .. 3d.
5. PALESTRINA.—Sanctus ("Missa Papæ Marcelli") .. 6d.
6. —— Benedictus and Agnus Dei (ditto) .. .. 6d.
7. G. GABRIELI.—Magnificat (Latin). (Eight voices) .. 6d.
8. J. S. BACH.—Now shall the grace (double chorus) .. .. 8d.
9. SPOHR.—God is my shepherd; Psalm xxiii. (Quartet and Eight-part chorus) .. .. 9d.
10. PALESTRINA.—Adoramus Te. Motet
    VITTORIA.—O quam gloriosum. Motet .. .. .. 4d.
11. J. S. BACH.—Sanctus (Latin) .. .. 6d.
12. PALESTRINA.—Kyrie ("Missa Papæ Marcelli") .. .. 6d.
13. —— Gloria ("Missa Papæ Marcelli") .. .. 6d.
14. —— Credo ("Missa Papæ Marcelli") .. .. 9d.
15. TWO GERMAN VOLKSLIEDER .. .. 6d.
    1. In silent night.
    2. The enchanted nightingale.
16. H. PURCELL.—Jehova quam multi sunt hostes. Five-part Psalm (Latin and English words) .. .. 8d.
17. J. S. BACH.—Sanctus (No. II.) .. .. 4d.
18. PALESTRINA.—Assumpta est Maria. Motet for six voices 8d.
19. TWO SCANDINAVIAN SONGS .. .. 6d.
    1. How splendid is crystal.
    2. Enticing sounds.
20. a. JOH. CHRISTOPH BACH.—Eight-part Motet .. ..
    b. MICH. PRAETORIUS.—Marienlied. Four parts .. 9d.
    c. MODERN.—Marienlied. Four parts .. .. ..
21. a. FELICE ANERIO.—Alleluja Christus surrexit. Four-part Motet. Edited by W. S. Rockstro .. .. .. 8d.
    b. G. GABRIELI.—Beata es virgo. Six-part Motet ..
22. THREE POPULAR SONGS (English) .. .. .. 6d.
23. TWO POPULAR SONGS (Scotch). Edited by A. H. D. Prendergast .. .. 6d.
24. a. J. P. SWEELINCK.—O Seigneur Loué Sera (O Lord God. Psalm lxxv.) Edited by W. Barclay Squire .. ..
    b. J. P. SWEELINCK.—Or Sus, Serviteurs du Seigneur (Arise, O ye servants. Psalm cxxxiv.) Edited by W. Barclay Squire .. .. 9d.
25. WILLIAM BYRD.—Lullaby. For Five voices. Edited by W. Barclay Squire .. .. 8d.
26. MICHAEL PRAETORIUS.—Gebor'n ist der Emanuel (En natus est Emanuel). Edited by W. Barclay Squire.
    V. NEANDER.—Uns ist Gebor'n ein Kindelein. Harmonised by M. Praetorius .. .. 3d.
27. THOMAS MORLEY.—Dialogue for seven voices. Edited by Walter Parratt .. .. 6d.
28. ORLANDO GIBBONS.—Ah! dere heart, why do you rise? Madrigal for five voices. Edited by Walter Parratt 3d.
29. JOHN DOWLAND.—His golden locks. Edited by Walter Parratt .. .. 4d.
30. WILLAERT.—Dialogo a sette voce. Edited by Morton Latham .. .. 6d.

(To be continued.)

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC BY

DR. J. H. LEWIS.

THE SHEPHERDS' WATCH. INVOCATION.

"'Invocation,' and 'The Shepherds' Watch,' by J. H. Lewis, Mus.Doc., D.C.L., are two smooth, flowing, well-written pieces of the quiet character, suitable for the opening of Divine Service. Dr. Lewis evidently has a vein of melody; his part-writing is pure, and he writes well for his instrument. These pieces are the work of a musician."—Musical Standard.

Specimen copy of either, post-free, 1s. 5d. Address, Dr. Lewis, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

CHRISTMAS CAROL, "Ring the joyful Christmas Bells," for Soprano Voices and Chorus, by Frank Peskett, price 2d.; "Dame Durden," humorous four-part Song, arranged by H. Townsend, 2d.; Accompaniments to the Lord's Prayer, by H. Townsend, folio, 1s. net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

WHAT OFFERS?—"Norman Baron," 50 copies; Mendelssohn's "Come, let us sing," 38 copies; "Ancient Mariner" (in single parts), 50 copies; Macfarren's "May Day," 60 copies; Novello's Choral Hand-Book, "Messiah" (in single parts), 60 copies. E. T., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

JUST PUBLISHED, SEPARATELY.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

TWELVE NEW SONGS

BY

BRITISH COMPOSERS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HAROLD BOULTON.

	Composed by
Constancy	Joseph Barnby.
Cradle Song	Alfred Cellier.
Love's Journey	F. Corder.
Truant Wings	Frederic H. Cowen.
In Summer Weather	Charles H. Lloyd.
Robin sly	A. C. Mackenzie.
A Song of the South	Hamish MacCunn.
The Maid of Elsinore	C. Hubert H. Parry.
A Pretty Maid	Arthur Somervell.
For ever mine	C. V. Stanford.
To welcome you	A. Goring Thomas.
The Windflower	Charles Wood.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Will shortly be Published.

CANTATA

TO ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON'S POEM

CROSSING THE BAR

For full Orchestra, Chorus, and Pianoforte

By ALFRED HARBOROUGH.

Vocal Score, with the Orchestral Score arranged for two performers on the Pianoforte, 2s. 6d.; String and Wind Parts in the Press.

Full Score on application to the Publishers.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SHEET MUSIC.

TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.

120,000 COPIES

OF

SONGS, PIANOFORTE PIECES, AND DANCES

(The best Editions, all clean and saleable)

TO BE SOLD, IN LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES.

100 Copies, mixed, 8s. 4d.; 500 Copies, 40s.; 1,000 Copies, 70s.

Sample Parcel, 20s. worth, Post-free, 1s.

WILLIAM LEA,

50 and 52, CHURCH STREET LIVERPOOL.

ORGANS.—MESSRS. NORMAN BROS. AND BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich, have the following Second-hand ORGANS for SALE:—

No. 1.—Church Organ, 2 manuals, 25 stops, with Pneumatic Action to manuals and pedals; built in 1883. To be sold to make room for a large 3-manual Organ.

No. 2.—Two-manual Organ, CC compass; suitable for Church or Chapel. 17 stops; spotted metal front; square build; equal to new.

No. 3.—Church Organ. Two manuals, 11 stops, tenor C swell, in good condition; now in use near Exeter. Price £80.

No. 4.—Practice Organ. Two manuals; built in 1890. Great, 2 stops; swell, 4 stops; pedal Bourdon; 4 couplers. All modern improvements.

No. 5.—Single Manual Organ, suitable for small Church. Contains 8 stops, built by Holditch, £70.

No. 6.—Large Church Organ, by Bryceson, containing 2 manuals and 27 stops; width, 10 ft.; depth, 12 ft.; height, 17 ft., in excellent condition.

No. 7.—Church Organ. Great, 6 stops; swell, 6 stops; pedal, 1 stop; 4 couplers. Full compass throughout. Originally built by Messrs. Hill and Son.

Full particulars of any of these Instruments can be had on application to NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals, 31 stops, and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

ORGAN for SALE. Three manuals, nearly new. 20 stops, spotted metal, 8-ft. front, pedal organ complete, Bourdon, oak case with stool, concave pedals, 4 composition ditto. By HUNTER and SON, London. Gas engine and fittings if required. Appy or write, Organ, 1, Princes Road, Kennington Cross, London, S.E.

ORGAN.—7 stops, about 400 pipes, gilded pipe front, pedals. In good condition. Price, with Bench, £30. D., 2, Ossulton Street, Euston Road, London.

ORGAN for SALE, in handsome mahogany case. Two manuals and pedals, with Bourdon. 13 stops; foot and hand-blowers; nearly new. Price 100 guineas. E. N., 26, Woodsome Road, Highgate.

FOR SALE.—Handsome, sweet-toned AMERICAN ORGAN (from Colonial Exhibition). Suitable for Church, School, or Parlour. Two manuals, seventeen stops; usual couplers and swells. Good condition. Can be seen and tried by appointment. Price moderate. Apply, J. S., Craven Villa, Brentwood, Essex.

ORGAN for SALE. Now in use at All Saints' Church, Edinburgh. Two manuals, twelve speaking stops; space for additions. Price £100. Apply R. T. Norfor, C.A., 28, St. Andrew Square, Edinburgh.

ORGAN.—2 manuals, 12 stops; full compass pedals. In good condition. Small dimensions. Will be sold cheap. Haywood, 179, Drummond Street, Euston. Established 1872.

ORGANS.—For SALE, One and Two manuals; new and second-hand; ready for immediate use. Also small Hydraulic Engine. Apply, Speechley and Sons, Organ Works, St. Mark's Road, Dalston, N.E.

SPRAGUE REED ORGAN. 2 manuals, sliding pedals, 9 rows. 40 guineas. Compact. Erard Concert Grand, 55 guineas. Letters only. George Budd, 10, Hafer Road, Clapham Junction.

SCHULZE ORGAN for SALE, containing 18 speaking stops. One of this celebrated maker's finest works; unrivalled in tone. Full particulars, address, R. M. Rogers, Organist, Parish Church, Doncaster.

ORGAN.—Suitable for Church of 600 sittings. Price 200 guineas. Several other Second-hand Instruments from £20 upwards. Bedwell and Son, Organ Builders, Cambridge.

ORGAN.—Two manuals (prepared for Choir Organ), 18 stops, 16-ft. Open Diapason on Pedals. Oak case. Must be sold. Eustace Ingram, Hereford.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d. post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 18, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

HARP (Erard's Gothic). Perfect playing order; ready for use; 46 strings. £50. Small Gothic, £45. Morley, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS for DISPOSAL, in fashionable and rapidly increasing town on the South Coast. No opposition. Partnership dissolved in consequence of serious illness of active partner—hence selling. Splendid opportunity. Tuning connection; good hiring trade, &c. From £1,000 to £1,200 required. Apply, T. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PROFESSOR wishes to DISPOSE of his CONNECTION. Lease and large Concert-Room in the High Street of a large suburban town. Address, Beta, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Collecting orders, &c. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),

VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND
CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER AND CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

WINKELMANN PIANOFORTES.

"YOUR TONE AND TOUCH ARE SUPERB."—Rubinstein.

OVERSTRUNG VERTICAL GRANDS

FROM 65 GUINEAS.

OVERSTRUNG HORIZONTAL GRANDS

FROM 110 GUINEAS.

Descriptive Price Lists, &c., Post-free on application.

SOLE IMPORTERS: ROBERT COCKS & CO.,

6, NEW BURLINGTON STREET, REGENT STREET, LONDON.

D'ALMAINE'S

PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C. Established 106 years.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT

FOR

PIANOFORTES.

NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.

EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR AT THE INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.

NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO

H. J. RUMMENS,

47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

TWENTY-FOUR SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

P. TCHAÏKOWSKY,

Selected, and translated into English, by LADY MACFARREN.

CONTENTS.

No. 1. None but a lonely heart.
„ 2. What torment, what rapture!
„ 3. A heavy tear.
„ 4. Why so pale are the roses?
„ 5. This only once.
„ 6. The song that you sang long ago.
„ 7. What matters?
„ 8. The sleep of sorrow.
„ 9. Know'st thou the land?
„ 10. Canary bird.
„ 11. The Czar's drinking house.
„ 12. Invocation to sleep.
„ 13. O never leave me, sweet friend.
„ 14. Mother dear, oh, was I born?
„ 15. No, whom I love I will not name.
„ 16. Why?
„ 17. No, I have never loved.
„ 18. No tidings came from thee.
„ 19. Sweet maid, give answer.
„ 20. Spanish Serenade.
„ 21. The dawn of spring.
„ 22. The tapers were flashing.
„ 23. Oh, would you but for one short hour!
„ 24. If thou wilt hold my heart secure.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO COMPOSERS.—SELECTIONS of LYRICS sent on approval. Words written to composers' music. A. Valdemar, 63, Clyde Road, Addiscombe, Croydon.

SONGS BY ROBERT FRANZ.

ALBUM OF THIRTY SONGS

TRANSLATED INTO ENGLISH BY FRANCIS HUEFFER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

FOURTEEN SONGS

SET TO POEMS OF

ROBERT BURNS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWENTY

SACRED SONGS

COMPOSED BY

JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH.

SELECTED FROM THE SCHEMELL COLLECTION, AND ARRANGED FOR VOICE AND PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

BY

ROBERT FRANZ.

The English Version by the Rev. Dr. TROUTBECK.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

To Choral Societies.

HANDEL SELECTION.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER & CO. having some copies remaining of the Selection of Music performed at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, are prepared to supply copies at

NINEPENCE EACH.

An opportunity is thus afforded to Choral Societies of acquiring an excellent selection of favourite Choruses, Solos, &c., from Handel's Works at a merely nominal price.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

THE

ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately. Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRIEST'S WIFE has 200 SURPLICES, 3s. to 30s.; Tailor Cassocks, 9s. to £1; Stoles, 5s. 6d. to 6os. Surplice, care of The Church Agency, Lombard House, E.C.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES.

J. & J. Hopkinson's New Publications.

SONGS BY ARTHUR SOMERVELL.

	Words by
Wynken, Blynken, and Nod (Dutch Lullaby). In F	Eugene Field.
Sleep, little Pigeon (Japanese Lullaby). In D	Eugene Field.

Sung by Miss Liza Lehmann.

Shepherd's Cradle Song. In F or G .. .. From the German.

30th Edition of this most successful song now ready.

Sung by Mrs. Henschel, Miss Bertha Moore, &c.

Tears, idle tears. In D and F minor .. .. .. Tennyson.

Sung by Mr. William Shakespeare.

O, swallow, swallow! In G .. .. Tennyson.

Was it all a dream? In G (with Violin obbligato) .. Mark H. Collet.

O moonlight, deep and tender. In C .. .. James Russell Lowell.

Go, heart, unto the Lamp of Light. In C .. James Wedderburn.

(A gude and Godlie ballad. 16th Century.)

IN THE PRESS.

Crossing the Bar. In E flat and F .. .. .. Tennyson.

Home they brought her warrior dead. In A and B minor Tennyson.

"The most remarkable and inspired of all the settings of these fine poems."

NEW SONGS BY GERALD LANE.

Donovan O'Dare. In G .. .. Gerald Lane.

Charming Irish Ballad, sung by Miss Meredyth Elliot.

Carmencita. In G. Beautifully illustrated .. .. Gerald Lane.

Messrs. HOPKINSON have secured the sole right of publication of Mr. Arthur Somervell and Mr. Gerald Lane's Songs.

NEW & ATTRACTIVE TWO-PART CHORUSES

BY J. L. ROECKEL.

Book 1. "The Sunbeam," "Beautiful June," "Breakers" net 6d.

„ 2. "Eventide," "Bird of Spring," "Morning Song" „ 6d.

(Both with Tonic Sol-fa Notation.)

THE GROSVENOR SERIES OF PART-SONGS.

No.		Net.
1.	Voice of a Joyous Heart. Two Voices .. .. C. Vincent	3d.
2.	Kit the Owl. Two Voices .. .. C. Vincent	3d.
3.	It was a Lover and his Lass. S.A.T.B. .. .. W. Bendall	3d.
4.	Good Night, Beloved. T.T.B.B .. .. .. G. Lardelli	3d.
5.	A Pretty Ditty. Trio and Chorus. Treble Voices C. Vincent	4d.
6.	It was Earl Haldan's Daughter. S.A.T.B. J. Maughan Barnett	4d.
7.	Absent from Thee. S.A.T.B. .. .. .. C. Vincent	4d.
8.	Evening Song .. .. Mary Carmichael	4d.
9.	To the Nightingale. Four-part Song. S.A.T.B. G. B. Allen	4d.
10.	Daybreak .. .. C. A. Macirone	4d.
11.	The Maiden and the Brook .. .. Geo. Lomas	4d.
12.	O Lovely May .. .. Ernest Birch	4d.
13.	Serenade. A.T.T.B. .. .. W. J. Pressey	4d.
14.	Barcarolle. A.T.B.B. .. .. W. J. Pressey	4d.
15.	Rub-a-Dub. Two-part Song for Children .. C. Vincent	4d.
16.	I had a Little Castle. Part-Song for Children C. A. Macirone	4d.
17.	Little Boy Blue. Part-Song for Children C. A. Macirone	4d.
18.	Little Grey Pussie Cat. Part-Song for Children C. A. Macirone	4d.
19.	Gondola Song. A.T.T.B. .. .. .. W. J. Pressey	4d.
20.	Banish Sorrow till to-morrow. S.S.C. .. Gustav Ernest	4d.
21.	The Land of Joy. Two-part Song .. J. Maughan Barnett	4d.
22.	For New Year's Eve. S.A.T.B. .. .. Arthur Somervell	4d.
23.	Fill the Bumper. A.T.B.B. .. .. .. H. J. Pressey	4d.
24.	The Queen of Hearts. Two Trebles .. J. Maughan Barnett	4d.
25.	The Fairies Meet. Two Trebles .. .. Frederick J. Karn	4d.
26.	Daylight is Fading. Two Trebles .. Walter Brooks	4d.
27.	The Merry Musicians. Male Trio and Chorus .. Oliver King	4d.
28	O, my Sweet Sweeting. S.S.A.A.T.B. .. Arthur Somervell	4d.
29.	Gentle Sleep. A.T.T.B. .. .. W. G. Wood	4d.
30.	No Longer Mourn. Madrigal S.A.T.B. .. Arthur Somervell	4d.
31.	Fiddle-de-dee. S.A.T.B. .. .. C. Vincent	4d.
32.	The Troubadour. A.T.B.B. .. .. .. W. J. Pressey	4d.
33.	Rub-a-Dub. T.T.B.B. .. .. C. Vincent	4d.
34.	Fiddle-de-dee. T.T.B.B. .. .. C. Vincent	4d.
35.	The Three Fishermen. Three Trebles .. George A. Lovell	3d.
36.	Blow, Gentle Wind. S.A.T.B. .. .. Walter Brooks	4d.
37.	Gather ye Rosebuds. S.A.T.B. .. .. Walter Brooks	4d.

NEW SET OF VIOLIN AND PIANO DUETS.

BY J. L. ROECKEL.

SIX MINIATURES MUSICALES. 2s. each net.

1. Minuetto all'antico. | 3. Danza Rustica. | 5. Canzonetta.
2. Eccossaise. | 4. Balladine. | 6. A la Mazurka.

(Interesting and original. Violin and Piano parts simple.)

CHRISTMAS CAROL BY OLIVER KING.

O LOVELY VOICES OF THE SKY. Words by Felicia Hemans

For Chorus, with Piano or Organ Accompaniment. Octavo, 4d. net

BOOKS FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

BOOK OF FIVE SONGS .. .. Ernest Birch

Beautifully Illustrated. Price 3s. net; Boards, 4s. net.

MERRIE RHYMES FOR YE YOUNGSTERS J. M. Barnett

Illustrated. Price 1s. net.

All Songs and Vocal Duets in this List, price 2s. each net, post-free.

NEW WAREROOMS:—

34, 35, and 36, MARGARET ST., CAVENDISH SQUARE, W.

POPULAR ANTHEMS
FOR ADVENT & CHRISTMAS.

BARNBY, J.

*IT IS HIGH TIME TO WAKE OUT OF SLEEP .. .. 1½d.
*THE GRACE OF GOD THAT BRINGETH SALVATION 1½d.
*BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.. .. .. 3d.
*LIKE SILVER LAMPS .. .. 1½d.
*SING AND REJOICE.. .. .. 1½d.
DROP DOWN, YE HEAVENS .. .. 1½d.

ELVEY, G.

*ARISE, SHINE, FOR THY LIGHT IS COME .. .. 1½d.

GARRETT, G. M.

*PREPARE YE THE WAY .. .. 3d.
IT SHALL COME TO PASS .. .. 6d.

GOSS.

*THE WILDERNESS .. .. 6d.
*BEHOLD, I BRING YOU GOOD TIDINGS.. .. .. 1½d.

GOUNOD, C.

*O SING TO GOD (NOËL) .. .. 1½d.
DITTO (Female Voices) .. .. 6d.

HOPKINS, E. J.

*LET US NOW GO EVEN UNTO BETHLEHEM.. .. 1½d.

STAINER, J.

*AWAKE, AWAKE, PUT ON THY STRENGTH, O ZION 6d.
*AWAKE, THOU THAT SLEEPEST .. .. 6d.
*O ZION, THAT BRINGEST .. .. 1½d.
*HOSANNA IN THE HIGHEST .. .. 1½d.
*THE HALLOWED DAY HATH SHINED .. .. .. 1½d.
*THE MORNING STARS SANG TOGETHER .. .. 6d.
*THUS SPEAKETH THE LORD OF HOSTS .. .. 1½d.

SULLIVAN, A.

*HEARKEN UNTO ME, MY PEOPLE .. .. 1½d.

TOURS, B.

*GOD HATH APPOINTED A DAY .. .. 1½d.
*SING, O HEAVENS .. .. 1½d.
*THERE WERE SHEPHERDS .. .. 1½d.

Anthems marked thus * are to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE STAR THAT NOW IS SHINING
A CAROL-ANTHEM
The Words by ADELAIDE PROCTER and F. W. FABER.
THE MUSIC BY
OLIVER KING.
Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence.

BREAK FORTH INTO JOY
CHRISTMAS ANTHEM FOR TENOR SOLO AND CHORUS
COMPOSED BY
S. COLERIDGE-TAYLOR.
Price Threepence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CAROLS FOR CHRISTMASTIDE
SET TO ANCIENT MELODIES
BY THE
REV. THOMAS HELMORE, M.A.
Words, principally in imitation of the original,
BY THE
REV. J. M. NEALE, D.D.

	s.	d.
18mo, Melody only	0	6
,, ,, ,, in packets of 50	20	0
,, Compressed Score	1	0
Folio, with Pianoforte Accompaniment	4	6
Words only	0	1½
,, ,, in packets of 50	5	0

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEMS FOR CHRISTMAS.

*In the beginning	G. B. Allen	1½d.
Christians, be joyful	.. Bach	3d.
*Like silver lamps	J. Barnby	1½d.
Drop down, ye heavens	J. Barnby	1½d.
*The grace of God, that bringeth salvation ..	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Sing and rejoice	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Barnby	3d.
*While Shepherds watched	W. T. Best	1½d.
*Give the king Thy judgments, O Lord	A. H. Brown	1½d.
Hail! thou that art highly favoured ..	Arthur Carnall	4d.
Break forth into joy	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. M. Crament	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Giovanni Croce	1½d.
*Arise, shine, for thy light is come	Geo. Elvey	1½d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	J. T. Field	1½d.
Behold, a star appeareth	Nicls W. Gade	4d.
Sing, O daughter of Zion	H. Gadsby	1½d.
*Behold, I bring you good tidings	J. Goss	1½d.
O sing to God (Noël). (Female Voices)	Ch. Gounod	6d.
*O sing to God (Noël). (Arranged for S.A.T.B.) ..	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
*Brightest and best	E. V. Hall	4d.
Behold, I bring	E. V. Hall	3d.
*Hark! the herald angels sing	E. V. Hall	3d.
How beautiful are the feet (Appendix to "The Messiah")	Handel	3d.
*Let us now go even unto Bethlehem	E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
Sing, O heavens	Kent	4d.
*While all things were in quiet silence	Oliver King	1½d.
Hallelujah! the light hath shined	Oliver King	3d.
*The star that now is shining	Oliver King	1½d.
For unto us was born	G. A. Macfarren	3d.
While all things were in quiet silence ..	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
God, who at sundry times	J. H. Mee	4d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	The Earl of Mar	1½d.
Rejoice, O ye people	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Let our song of praise	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*Hallelujah! for unto us a Child is born ..	W. H. Monk	1½d.
*Sing unto the Lord	Vincent Novello	1½d.
I will set his dominion in the sea	Horatio W. Parker	4d.
Glory to God in the highest	Pergolesi	1½d.
*Break forth into joy	T. Ridley Prentice	6d.
*Behold, I bring you glad tidings	C. W. Smith	1½d.
The light hath shined	E. Silas	1½d.
*The morning stars sang together	J. Stainer	6d.
*O Zion, that bringest good tidings	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The hallowed day hath shined upon us	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Thus speaketh the Lord of Hosts	J. Stainer	1½d.
*The angel Gabriel was sent from God	H. Smart	1½d.
In the beginning was the Word	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*Sing, O heavens	B. Tours	1½d.
*There were shepherds..	B. Tours	1½d.
*This is the day which the Lord hath made ..	J. Turle	3d.
The light hath shined	C. G. Verrinder	1½d.
*There were shepherds	Charles Vincent	4d.
Behold, I bring you glad tidings	Vittoria	1½d.
Blessed be the Lord God of Israel	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
*Glory be to God on high	S. S. Wesley	2d.
Blessed be the Lord	C. L. Williams	4d.

Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.
Most of the above may be had in Folio, Vocal Score, and Vocal Parts.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HYMNS AND CAROLS.

Adeste Fideles ("O come, all ye faithful")	Arr. by V. Novello	1½d.
Christians, awake! salute the happy morn ..	W. H. Monk	1½d.
Hark! the herald angels sing	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
,, ,, ,, ...	Dr. Ions	1½d.
,, ,, ,, ...	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Now join we all with holy mirth	J. Stainer	1d.
O come, all ye faithful	J. Barnby	1½d.
Of the Father's love begotten	J. B. Dykes	1½d.
See, the morning star	E. G. Monk	1½d.
Shades of silent night	Samuel Gee	1½d.
There were whisperings	J. T. Cooper	1½d.
O come, all ye faithful	Old Melody	1d.
Approach, all ye faithful	J. Barnby	1d.
Holy night	J. Barnby	2d.
Christians, awake!	J. Goss	1d.
Hark! the hosts of heaven are singing ..	Henry Smart	1d.
O come, new anthems let us sing	H. J. Gauntlett	1d.
Hark! the heavens' sweet melody	J. Goss	1d.
O come, loud anthems let us sing	S. S. Wesley	1d.
Christ is born, tell forth His fame	Ch. Gounod	1d.
Come, ye nations, faithful own	G. Elvey	1d.
Hark! the herald angels sing..	Mendelssohn	1d.
When Christ was born / What child is this?	J. T. Field	2d.
Sleep! Holy Babe / Carol for Christmas Day	J. T. Field	2d.
Softly the night is sleeping / In Excelsis gloria	J. Maude Crament	3d.
O Babe! in manger lying / The Virgin is hushing her Baby to rest / What Child is this? / Darkness fell on the weary earth	J. Barnby	1½d.

TEN HYMNS WITH TUNES
SELECTED FROM "THE HYMNARY."
Price One Penny.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

FOUR CHRISTMAS CAROLS

No. 1. The Anthem of Peace .. .. J. BARNBY.
„ 2. On Christmas Morn .. ..A. C. MACKENZIE.
„ 3. Across the desert sands by night .. .. G. C. MARTIN.
„ 4. Shepherds! shake off your drowsy sleep .. ..J. STAINER.

PRICE THREE-HALFPENCE.

Tonic Sol-fa, Three-Halfpence. Words only, Three Shillings per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWELVE OLD CAROLS

ENGLISH AND FOREIGN

ADAPTED AND ARRANGED BY

SIR JOHN STAINER.

PRICE ONE SHILLING.

Tonic Sol-fa, Sixpence. Words only, One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS

ARRANGED FOR

TWO-PART SINGING

With an ad libitum Pianoforte Accompaniment

BY

W. G. McNAUGHT.

Price One Shilling.

Tonic Sol-fa, price Sixpence. Words only, Three-Halfpence.

CONTENTS:

Good King Wenceslas.
Christmas hath made an end.
Good Christian men, rejoice.
God rest you merry, gentlemen.
The first Nowell.
A Virgin unspotted.
The Wassail song.
I hear along our streets.
The seven joys of Mary.
The Boar's Head Carol.
Hark! how sweetly the bells.
The holly and the ivy.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

While Shepherds watched (Old Cornish Carol) .. .. .. 2d.
Shepherds in the field .. .. 3d.
Christians, be thankful .. .. 2d.
All my heart. Solo and Chorus .. .. 6d.

BY VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE, MUS. DOC.

CHILD DIVINE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD. 2d.
JOY, YE PEOPLE. Words by Rev. F. K. HARFORD, M.A. 2d.
IN SORROW AND IN WANT. Words by Archdeacon FARRAR. 3d.
ALL JUBILANT WITH PSALM AND HYMN. Words by the Ven. Archdeacon FARRAR. 2d.
CHRISTMAS BELLS. Words from "In Memoriam," by ALFRED TENNYSON. 4d.
SWEETER THAN SONGS OF SUMMER. Words by the Author of "The sower went forth sowing." 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMASTIDE CAROLS

HARMONISED BY

GEORGE C. MARTIN.

FIRST SERIES.—Old Breton Melodies.
SECOND SERIES.—Old French Melodies.

PRICE SIXPENCE EACH SERIES.
Words only, One Penny each series.

CONTENTS OF FIRST SERIES.

1. Hail! Christmas Bells.
2. O'er her Child the Virgin weeps.
3. The stars are bright.
4. On this day was born.
5. Glad hymns with one accord.
6. Outside the city gates.
7. On Asia Minor's sunny shore
8. Across the desert sands by night.

CONTENTS OF SECOND SERIES.

1. Round the Virgin gently sleeping.
2. In the golden lands afar.
3. The sombre shadows darken fall.
4. The Circumcision.
5. The Shepherds glad.
6. Poising bright on golden wings.
7. A legend of the flight.
8. Merrily ring the Christmas bells.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

NEW AND OLD

THE WORDS EDITED BY THE

REV. HENRY RAMSDEN BRAMLEY, M.A.

THE MUSIC EDITED BY

JOHN STAINER, M.A., MUS. DOC.

THREE SERIES (MUSIC & WORDS), ONE SHILLING EACH.
Cloth, gilt, 2s. Three Series, complete, cloth, gilt, 4s.; or, in Seventy numbers, 1d. each.

Words only, each Series, 1½d.; or, complete, 4d.; cloth, 6d.

First Series, in Tonic Sol-fa Notation, 1s.; or, in separate numbers, 1d. each.

A Selection from the above (24) for Men's Voices, 2s.

Illustrated Edition (First and Second Series), handsomely bound in cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

Library Edition, with Historical Preface, Roxburgh binding, 7s. 6d.

Twelve Old Carols (English and Foreign), adapted and arranged by Sir John Stainer, 1s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 6d.; Words only, 1d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS

SET TO MUSIC BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

Price, in paper wrapper, complete, 1s.; or, in single numbers, 1d. each.

CONTENTS.

1. The Carollers.
2. The stars are shining bright and clear.
3. Carol, sweetly carol.
4. Christmas Bells.
5. A child this day is born.
6. Hark! what mean those holy voices?
7. The Angels' Carol.
8. While shepherds watched.
9. Angels from the realms of glory.
10. A Christmas Chime.

Also, by same COMPOSER,

A SECOND SET OF TEN CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

1. Awake! arouse! ye Christian band.
2. Ring out, sweet chimes.
3. Brightest and best.
4. Hail! happy morn.
5. O let our voices.
6. Christmas Eve.
7. Hark! the bells.
8. A Christmas Carol.
9. Joyful is the morn.
10. Noël.

Price, in paper wrapper, complete, 1s.; or, in single numbers, 1d. each.
The words of both sets (which are chiefly copyright) can be had of the COMPOSER. One Penny each set.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-Halfpence.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

By the same COMPOSER,

THREE CAROLS or HYMNS for CHRISTMAS.
Music and words, 3d.; words only, 3s. per 100.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT FOR THE YOUNG.

SIX SHORT and EASY PIECES for the PIANOFORTE. Composed expressly for the use of Young Children. Price, complete, 2s. net, Folio size; or, in six numbers, 6d. each.

NELLIE.	HAROLD.
MABEL.	CECIL.
LUCY.	HARRY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS by THOS. SMITH. Melodious and Easy. "For unto us," "Glory to God" (Advent), "The night is departing," "How lovely are the Messengers" (Festival and General), "O worship the Lord," "O sing unto the Lord," "I was glad," "Like as the Hart," "The Lord is my Shepherd." Price 3d. each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

YULE-TIDE

CAROL FOR USE IN PLACES OF WORSHIP

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Threepence.

BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD OF ISRAEL

ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS, &c.

By CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

THE GLORY OF THE LORD (New) (moderate), 5th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
REJOICE GREATLY (New) (5th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
BREAK FORTH INTO JOY (7th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral and at Begelley.
THE HEAVENS ARE TELLING (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
BLESSED BE THE LORD GOD (12th edition) .. .. 4d.
LET US NOW GO EVEN TO BETHLEHEM (5th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR (24th edition) .. .. 4d.
SING, O HEAVENS (15th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
GLORY TO GOD (14th edition) .. .. 3d.
AND HE SHALL REIGN (11th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
THERE WERE SHEPHERDS (16th edition) .. .. 3d.
BEHOLD I BRING (33rd edition) .. .. 3d.
TE DEUM IN G (6th edition), 4d. TE DEUM IN F (20th edition) 3d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F (41st edition) 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Lismore, Derry, and Downpatrick Cathedrals; also at Barrow, Skegness, Great Budworth, East Devon, &c.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E FLAT (13th edition) .. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival in Llandaff Cathedral.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G (New) (4th edition) .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT (6th 1,000).. .. 4d.
HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN F (6th edition) .. .. .. 6d.
Both these Services are complete, with Agnus Dei and Benedictus.
FOUR CHANT TE DEUMS (13th 1,000) (D, A flat, G, and A) each 2d.
O HOW AMIABLE. Festivals (2nd 1,000) .. .. 3d.
GIVE GLORY TO THE LORD. Festivals (11th edition) .. .. 3d.

*POPULAR CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

47th 1,000. Price 1d. each. Nos. 9 to 12 are just published.

1. CAROL SWEETLY.	*7. AWAKE, AWAKE!
2. O LOVELY STAR.	*8. O SO SWEETLY.
3. WHAT SAY THESE BELLS?	*9. HAPPY MORNING.
4. COME, HAIL THE DAY.	*10. SWEET ANGELS, EVER BRIGHT.
5. GOOD NEWS WE BRING.	11. OH, CHRISTMAS BELLS.
6. SWEETEST MUSIC.	*12. BETHLEHEM'S PEACEFUL HILL

Words only, Nos. 1 to 6, 3s. 3d. per 100; Words only, Nos. 7 to 12, 3s. 3d. per 100.

Those marked (*) are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

Just Published.

SHINE CALM AND BRIGHT

A CAROL FOR CHRISTMAS

SET TO MUSIC BY THE

REV. JOHN SWIRE.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ANTHEM FOR CHRISTMAS.

REJOICE GREATLY, O DAUGHTER OF ZION

BY THOMAS SMITH. Threepence.

"Full of joyous music, and not difficult."
"The spirit of the Anthem never flags, and is easy for both singer and player."
"Thoroughly Christmas-like. The final chorus, 'Alleluia, Amen!' cannot be heard too often."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Post-free from the COMPOSER, Music Warehouse, Bury St. Edmunds.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S CHRISTMAS ANTHEMS

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

WE HAVE SEEN HIS STAR (New) (5th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
A very attractive and easy Anthem.
BEHOLD, I BRING (8th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
SING, O HEAVENS (5th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
{ PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM (11th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
{ THE LORD REIGNETH. New. (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. 3d.
Two easy Anthems, suitable for any Festival or special occasion.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in D (5th 1,000) .. .. .. 4d.
Full of vigour and flowing melody.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW MUSIC FOR ADVENT & CHRISTMAS.

THE

BIRTH OF CHRIST

NEW SACRED CANTATA

FOR

ADVENT AND CHRISTMAS

BY

CLEMENT LOCKNANE

FOR S.T.B. SOLI, WITH CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA.

Price 1s. 6d. net; Words only, 2d.

25 OLD AND NEW CHRISTMAS CAROLS

EDITED AND ARRANGED BY

DAVIS L. MARTYN.

Price, complete, 1s. net; separate Nos., 1d. each.

TWO NEW ANTHEMS.

UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN. Price 3d.

By FRANK ADLAM.

THERE WERE SHEPHERDS. Price 3d.

By CLEMENT LOCKNANE.

Now Ready.

Eight New Books of Favourite Melodies

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN BY DR. SPARK.

Price 2s. each net.

MATHIAS & STRICKLAND, MUSIC PUBLISHERS,
2, GREAT TITCHFIELD STREET, LONDON, W.

TWO CHRISTMAS CAROLS

SET TO MUSIC BY

BASIL HARWOOD.

Price 3d. Words only, 2s. 6d. per Hundred.

1. LOWLIEST, LOFTIEST! ANGELS ADORE THEE.
2. O HEARKEN, ALL YE SAD AND LONE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHRISTMAS SEASON.

Second Edition.

ADESTE FIDELES

FANTASIA FOR THE ORGAN

(Introduction, Variations, and Fughetta)

BY

ALFRED OAKE, L.R.A.M., F.C.O.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence net.

A leading Recitalist writes: "If your excellent Fantasia had been signed 'Alfredo Oakarino' it would have appeared in many more programmes than it has."

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ITALIAN ORGAN MUSIC for CHRISTMAS

Edited for English Organ, by W. T. Best.

MORICONI.—Pastorale per Il Santo Natale ..	Price net	2s. od.
ZIPOLI.—Ditto .. .. „		1s. 3d.
MORANDI.—Three Ditto	each net	2s. od.
CORELLI .. .. „		1s. 6d.

NEW PIECES FOR THE ORGAN.

Just Published.

TOCCATA. A major	W. T. Best net	2s. od.
ALLA MARCIA. C major	W. T. Best „	2s. od.

London: G. Ricordi and Co., 265, Regent Street, W.

Just Published.

NEW CAROL.—ON CHRISTMAS NIGHT. By Joseph C. Bridge, M.A., Mus. Doc., Oxon. Price Threepence.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHRISTMAS SONG.—THE QUEEN OF HOME. By M. Davidson. Price 2s. net.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHRISTMAS HYMN.—APPROACH, ALL YE FAITHFUL. Set to music by Benjamin Congreve. Price 1½d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

By HAMILTON ROBINSON.

THREE CHRISTMAS CAROLS

COME, YE LOFTY.
GLORIOUS, BEAUTEOUS, GOLDEN-BRIGHT.
COME, TUNE YOUR HEART.
Price Twopence, complete.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE SECOND ADVENT

SACRED CANTATA

SOLOS FOR TENOR AND BASS, EASY CHORUSES,

AND

FOUR WELL-KNOWN HYMNS for the CONGREGATION.

Part I.—The Cry of the Church.

Part II.—The Signs. Part III.—The Advent.

Part IV.—The Triumph of the Church.

These four parts may (if preferred) be sung separately as Anthems on the four Sundays in Advent.

The Words selected from Holy Scripture by the Rev. C. T. Mayo.

THE MUSIC (EXCEPT THE HYMN TUNES) COMPOSED BY

ARTHUR H. D. PRENDERGAST.

Vocal Score, with Organ Accompaniment, 1s. 6d.
Words only (with the Hymn Tunes), 1½d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ADVENT.—NEW HYMN: "Say, watchman, what of the night?" By John Ellerton. Specially suitable for Advent, and written expressly for the setting, by R. Brown-Borthwick, of an older Hymn in the same metre and commencing with the same first line. Price Threepence net; per dozen, Half-a-crown. Copies of the words only, for congregational use, price One Shilling per 100. London: Henry Frowde, Amen Corner, E.C.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA. 2d. net.
The Star of Bethlehem (Carol). 2d. net.
Adeste Fideles, with var. for the Organ, pedal obbligato. 2s. net.
Glory to God on high. Hymn (with five others). 6d.
To be had of Dr. Belcher, Stratford Road, Birmingham; or of Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

NAWR Y FFYRNIG GENLLIF GWYD

(Now th' impetuous torrents rise)

From "David and Saul," an Oratorio, composed by

DAVID JENKINS.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

Edition 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3

Third Series.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

Complete Edition, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Bristol: W. and F. Morgan, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE PARISH CHURCH CHANT BOOK

A SELECTION OF SINGLE & DOUBLE CHANTS

ARRANGED FOR THE DAILY PSALMS

TOGETHER WITH

SINGLE CHANTS for the CANTICLES

BY

Rev. Henry J. Bidder, B.D.

Fellow of St. John's College and Vicar of St. Giles', Oxford,

AND

J. Varley Roberts,

MUS. DOC., OXON.,

Organist of Magdalen College and St. Giles' Church, Oxford

Price, in Paper Cover, One Shilling.
Cloth, One Shilling and Sixpence.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NEW COMPOSITIONS

By SYDNEY T. SPALDING.

CHRISTMAS ANTHEM, "While the Shepherds." Price 3d.
"Noteworthy for extreme unconventionality."
"The composer has dared to think for himself."
"His style is uncommon."—Musical Times.

TE DEUM. Price 3d.
"A clever composition."—Daily News.
"Should be in the library of every organist."—The Lady.

REST. Song for Soprano. Price 2s. net.
"The composer is to be congratulated on having set the Rev. J. Jennings's words to charming music, and the song is an assured success."—Lady's Pictorial.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.
The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS
BY
T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3
ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries		3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries		1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY
J. H. MAUNDER.

DEVOTIONAL. EASY. POPULAR. TUNEFUL.
DIGNIFIED. EFFECTIVE. MUSICIANLY. SINGABLE.

See
Guardian, Church Times, Musical Times, Musical News, &c.

TE DEUM, No. 1 (Chant Form)	3d.
TE DEUM, No. 2 (in B flat)	3d.
COMMUNION SERVICE (in G)	8d.
BENEDICITE, No. 1 (in A)	1½d.
BENEDICITE, No. 2 (in G)	2d.
CHRISTMAS CAROL—"Once in Bethlehem"	2d.
EVENING SERVICE, No. 1 (in C)	3d.
EVENING SERVICE, No. 2 (in D)	3d.
EASTER ANTHEM—"Christ is risen"	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Specimen copies free from the COMPOSER, 10, Manor Road, St. John's, London, S.E.

TE DEUM IN A
CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
ARTHUR CARNALL.
Price Fourpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW FESTIVAL SERVICE
BY HENRY GADSBY.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS
IN THE KEY OF F MAJOR
Performed at the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, at St. Paul's Cathedral, 1892.
Price Sixpence.
Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be had on hire.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis
IN F
COMPOSED BY
CLEMENT R. GALE, B.A., MUS. BAC., OXON.
Price Threepence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.
Easy, Tuneful, and Effective.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS, in E. By H. G. TOMLINSON. Price 1½d. each only.
EDGAR HORNE, Burton-on-Trent, and Market Place, Derby.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORATORIOS BY GEO. SHINN,
Mus. Bac., Cantab.
SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Tenth Thousand.

THE
CAPTIVES OF BABYLON
Price 2s. Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

"May be highly commended as an interesting and valuable addition to our shorter Oratorios and Cantatas, and contains several solos of much beauty; also duets, quartets, and choruses in great variety."—Sunday School Chronicle.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the writer of many popular pieces for choral societies; but this is certainly the best thing he has produced."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

"The libretto is well chosen, and forms a good base whereon to compose a first-rate work. With regard to the music we feel we can hardly do it justice. . . . Where all is so good it is difficult to mention any special numbers."—United Service Gazette.

Will be ready by December 10.

LAZARUS OF BETHANY
Price 2s. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 3s. 6d.
Sol-fa Edition will be ready in January, 1893.
Specimen Copies of this work may be subscribed for previous to December 10 at the following rates (post-free): paper cover, 1s. 3d.; paper boards, 1s. 9d.; cloth, 2s. 3d.
Orders to be sent to the COMPOSER, 234, Stockwell Road, Brixton, London, S.W.

The above Works contain many effective Solos and Choruses of moderate difficulty, and will take about an hour and a half in performance.
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Just Published.

THE GREAT DAY OF THE LORD
SACRED CANTATA
MUSIC BY W. CLARK AINLEY,
Mus. Bac., Cantab.
SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.
Price, in paper covers, 2s.; in paper boards, 3s.; in scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.
Leeds: ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN.
Huddersfield: WOOD and MARSHALL.

WANTED, Second-hand copies of Gaul's "Holy City" and Handel's "Acis and Galatea." Cheap. A. W. Keys, Eastington, Stonehouse, Glos.

Edwin Ashdown's selection of Choruses for Treble Voices.

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT. Price 4d. each net.

1. Steersman, steer our bark. Three-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
2. The winds now are still. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
3. Spinning chorus. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) .. Wagner
4. Singing liketh me. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
5. Parting. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
6. The Mermaids. Three-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
7. Raise high the song. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. Wagner
8. Adown the wav'ring billows. Three-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
9. 'Tis ours this happy season. Two-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
10. Barcarolle ("Oh! 'tis pleasant"). Three-part (Oberon) Weber
11. Whispering breezes. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
12. Joy! joy! joy! Three-part (Knight of Palestine) .. Weber
13. The earth is clothed in flowers. Four-part (Fall of the Leaf) O. Barri
14. With hearts of joy. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. O. Barri
15. Sing, sweet bird. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. .. O. Barri
16. Haste to the church! Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
17. Chorus of angels. Four-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
18. Awake from slumber. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. F. Abt
19. O'er the flower-besteckl'd meadows. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
20. I saw a land of wondrous beauty. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
21. Come, let us wreathe the bridal flowers. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
22. Now on music's wings. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
23. Homeward we are wending. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
24. Trip it lightly, gaily, brightly. Three-part (Harvest Queen) Godwin Fowles
25. Angel of peace. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. .. Wagner
26. In Thee we trust. Three-part (Pilgrims' Chorus, Tannhäuser) .. .. Wagner
27. Awake! awake! Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
28. Music and sunshine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
29. Joyous our life. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
30. Sing, sisters, sing. Four-part (All-Hallow Eve) .. B. Gilbert
31. Sunrise. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. .. F. Romer
32. Sunset chorus. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. F. Romer
33. Our old piano. Three-part .. .. F. Auger
34. Home bells. Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
35. Dear home. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
36. Summer. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
37. For thee hath beauty. Three-part (Oberon) .. .. Weber
38. I remember one eve. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
39. Vintage time. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. .. I. Gibsone
40. Odours come with quiet spell. Three-part (A Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
41. Sad is the parting. Two-part (Volkslied) .. .. .. German
42. Not in our grief alone. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
43. A Christmas song. Two-part .. .. A. Adam
44. The Hymn of peace. Two-part .. .. .. W. H. Callcott
45. O! Southern wind. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
46. Dwellers of the spirit land. Two-part .. .. .. O. Barri
47. 'Tis summer. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
48. O! come to the grove. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
49. The snow. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
50. Come back. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
51. A Christmas carol. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
52. The midnight bell. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Roeckel
53. Where the scented violet. Two-part (The Magic Well) F. Abt
54. See, the star of eve. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
55. The cuckoo kept calling. Two-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
56. Come, let us go. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
57. We will seek thee. Two-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
58. We are only village maidens. Two-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
59. John Peel. Two-part (Hunting song) .. .. D. Pentland
60. O! come hither. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
61. O! give thanks. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
62. O! praise the Lord with me. Two-part (Sacred Mendelssohn
63. Hark! the hunter's merry horn. Two-part .. L. Zamboni
64. Old English pastimes. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
65. The organ-grinder. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
66. The happy fireside. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
67. Hark! from yon old abbey. Two-part .. .. J. Barnett
68. Merry May. Two-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
69. The Alpine sisters. Two-part .. .. .. D. Tagliafico
70. Heap high the golden corn. Two-part .. .. .. Raphael
71. Lull'd by the silence. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
72. Fairy sisters. Two-part .. .. F. Packer
73. Merry May. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
74. The swallows' return. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
75. The sea-nymphs. Two part .. .. T. Distin
76. Merrie gipsies. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
77. Hail! pretty babe. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
78. Sleigh-bells. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
79. For so hath the Lord. Two-part (St. Paul) .. Mendelssohn
80. And Paul came to the congregation. Two-part Mendelssohn
81. To God on high. Three-part (Chorale, St. Paul) Mendelssohn
82. O! Thou true and only light. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
83. How lovely are the messengers. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
84. Away! away! Three-part .. .. J. L. Roeckel
85. The angels' song. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
86. A farewell. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
87. The dawn. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
88. Come away to the woods. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
89. Miserere Domine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
90. Rest while the noon. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
91. At break of day. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
92. Haste away. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
93. The morn is bright. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
94. Hail to thee. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
95. Around the maypole. Three-part (May-tide) .. P. Mazzoni
96. O'er the smiling meadows. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
97. O! praise the flow'ret sweet. Three-part .. F. F. Rogers
98. She sleeps. Three-part (The Magic Flower) .. F. F. Rogers
99. So pure, a sister's tender love. Three-part .. .. Webe
100. Gone is every pleasure. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Webe
101. From Oberon in fairyland. Three-part .. .. .. Steven
102. Blow, gentle gales. Three-part .. .. Bisho
103. Hark! Apollo strikes the lyre. Three-part .. .. Bisho
104. The winds whistle cold. Three-part .. .. .. Bisho
105. The chough and crow. Three-part .. .. .. Bisho
106. Sound the loud timbrel. Three-part .. .. .. Aviso
107. Ye shepherds tell me (The wreath). Three-part Mazzingh
108. Harvest home. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop and Foste
109. But now the pearl-crown'd moon. Three-part E. Aguila
110. O! find a song. Three-part (Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguila
111. When the wind blows. Three-part .. .. .. Bisho
112. A lullaby Three-part .. .. G. Schmit
113. Come over the hills. Three-part .. .. H. Foste
114. The sower. Three-part .. .. D'Alban
115. Home and rest. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsut
116. Memories. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsut
117. Good-bye, sweetheart, good-bye. Three-part .. J. L. Hatto
118. The city of the king. Three-part .. .. O. Barr
119. Erin mavourneen. Three-part .. .. .. J. L. Hatto
120. Blessed are the poor in Spirit. Three-part (Sacred) .. Mozar
121. Through the old cloisters. Three-part .. .. Beethove
122. Roll on, fair orb. Three-part .. .. .. Beethove
123. In Thee I trust. Three-part (Sacred) .. .. .. Hande
124. Ring on, sweet bells. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gouno
125. The minstrel. Three-part .. .. C. Gouno
126. An evening song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gouno
127. The wood-nymph's home. Three-part .. .. C. Gouno
128. The songs our fathers loved. Three-part .. Wagne
129. Gipsy chorus. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Ball
130. Now to the fair. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Ball
131. Yet droops the maiden. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Ball
132. Deign to forgive the gipsy maid. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Ball
133. The maiden's dream. Three-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedic
134. From out Thy starry dwelling. Three-part (Prayer, Moses in Egypt) .. .. Rossi
135. Father of Heaven. Three-part (Prayer, Masaniello) Aub
136. A sylvan song. Three-part .. .. Wagn
137. A lady fair (Villanelle). Three-part .. .. Niedermeye
138. Stay, prithee, stay. Three-part .. .. Bishc
139. O! skylark for thy wing. Three-part .. .. Mendelssoh
140. Light as fairy foot can fall. Three-part .. .. .. Webe
141. The evening bell. Two-part.. .. .. Zambo
142. Haste thee, boatman. Two-part .. .. .. F. Kücke
143. On the margin of that river. Two-part .. .. Henry Sma
144. Bird of the morn. Two-part.. .. .. .. Henry Sma
145. Wandering wind. Two-part.. .. .. .. Henry Sma
146. Song of the sea breezes. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatto
147. Heavenly music. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatto
148. Adieu, ye woodlands. Two-part .. .. F. A
149. Nightingales are singing. Two-part .. .. .. F. Al
150. Sing to me, gondolier. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounc
151. Now, merry fays. Two-part .. .. C. Gounc
152. The voices of Spring. Two-part .. .. Offenbac
153. The haymakers. Two-part .. .. Offenbac
154. Now the meadows. Two-part .. .. Lot
155. In Thy service. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. .. J. Blockl
156. I think of thee. Two-part .. .. R. Schuma
157. O! ye sunny hours. Two-part .. .. .. R. Schuma
158. Good night. Two-part .. .. R. Schuma
159. Cradled by the heaving billow. Two-part .. .. H. Fost
160. Serenade. Two-part .. .. J. B. Wekerl
161. The sailor's return. Three-part .. .. .. Wagn
162. The song of june. Three-part .. .. .. Mendelssoh
163. Singing in the rain. Two-part .. .. .. J. P. Knigl
164. The ferry boat. Two-part .. .. L. Willian
165. When spring descendeth. Two-part .. .. .. F. A
166. Where art thou, beam of light? Three-part .. .. Bisho
167. Far away. Two-part .. .. J. R. Thom
168. Italy's music. Three-part .. .. C. E. Hor
169. Nina's farewell. Two-part .. .. Pergole
170. The gipsy home. Two-part .. .. Herbert Fost
171. Three vivandières. Three-part .. .. F. Schi
172. Peace. Two-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedi
173. Sing, pretty maiden. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Walla
174. Angelus. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Walla
175. Pretty gitana. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Walla
176. Alas! those chimes. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Walla
177. Turn on, old time. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Walla
178. God save the Queen. Three-part .. .. .. Nation
179. Say, sad heart, why art thou beating? Two-part .. F. A
180. Eve's lamentation. Two-part .. .. .. M. P. Kin
181. Thy spirit is near. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Sma

EDWIN ASHDOWN, LIMITED,

NEW YORK. HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON. TORONTO.

HOLIDAY SONGS

Written by C. F. ALEXANDER

MUSIC BY

LADY ARTHUR HILL.

Reduced price, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MENDELSSOHN'S

SIX CHRISTMAS PIECES

FOR THE

PIANOFORTE.

Price Three Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SACRED SONGS

FOR

LITTLE SINGERS

WORDS BY F. R. HAVERGAL.

MUSIC BY

A. RANDEGGER.

Illustrated, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

SUNLIGHT OF SONG

A COLLECTION OF

SACRED AND MORAL SONGS

With original Music by the most eminent Composers, with 46 Illustrations, cloth, gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NATIONAL

NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS

BY

J. W. ELLIOTT.

With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound, cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by DR. F. J. KARN:—

Christmas Carol ("The Virgin and Child"). Published in No. 1 of "Church Musician" Series ..	2d.
Evening Service in F (moderately difficult)	4d.
Te Deum in C (Chant form)	3d.
Six Two-part Songs for Schools .. .. .. each	2d.
Prelude and Fugue in C, for Organ	2s.
Scherzino in G (Violin and Pianoforte)	3s.

Copies of the above can be obtained at 25 per cent. discount, Post-free, from the COMPOSER, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

CHORAL MUSIC.

	s.	d.
THE OFFERTORY SENTENCES FROM THE GOSPELS	0	6
SANCTUS, BENEDICTUS, AGNUS DEI, GLORIA ..	0	9
TWENTY TUNES FOR WELL-KNOWN HYMNS ..	1	0
TE DEUM LAUDAMUS	0	4
HYMN TO PEACE. Aristophanes..	1	0
THE DREAM. Sir Philip Sidney	0	3

BY VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIXTY-ONE

MELODIES AND UNFIGURED BASSES

(To be Harmonized in Four Parts)

For the use of ADVANCED MUSICAL STUDENTS and CANDIDATES FOR DIPLOMAS

BY

ROWLAND M. WINN, MUS. DOC., OXON., F.C.O.

Price One Shilling.

"Both the melodies and the basses are designed with no little ingenuity, and form the means of bringing out in the student all the amount of skill of which he may be possessed."—Musical Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

PEACE; COME AWAY

Being Canto LVII. of "In Memoriam"

SET TO MUSIC

FOR CHORUS (S.A.T.B.) UNACCOMPANIED

BY

C. V. STANFORD.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE FUNERAL OF LORD TENNYSON.

CROSSING THE BAR

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR VOICES

BY

J. FREDERICK BRIDGE.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence net. Tonic Sol-fa, Twopence.

MAY ALSO BE HAD ARRANGED AS A

SACRED SONG

With Pianoforte Accompaniment.

Price 2s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CROSSING THE BAR. Song for Contralto or Baritone. The words written by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON; the music composed by WILLIAM S. HANNAM. Price 1s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

BY EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.

This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. Mr. Gaul's works have placed him in the front rank of English composers."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"A career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.'"—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ONE HUNDRED ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for ORGAN, by Merkel, Rheinberger, Best, Mailly, Böely, &c. 3 volumes, oblong (pedal obbligato). Edited by BEST. Half-calf, gilt; marbled edges. Unused. £2 2s. L. A., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORCHESTRAL MUSIC.

NEW COMPOSITIONS AND EDITIONS.

		Full Orchestra.	Octuor.	Piano Solo.	Piano Ext Part
		s. d.	s. d.	s. d.	d
PLANQUETTE	CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE. Selection	4 0	—	2 0	6
LANCING, G. L.	THE DARKEY'S DREAM. Characteristic piece. A quaint composition, all the rage in London.	1 4	1 0	1 6	2
SCHNEIDER, H. J.	DUKE ALBERT. March A capital March by this popular composer.	1 4	1 0	1 6	2
WAGNER, J. F.	GIGERL. March Plenty of go, very popular.	1 4	1 0	1 6	2
BEETHOVEN	MEN OF PROMETHEUS. Overture Original arrangement. Published in the celebrated Concert Edition.	3 4	2 8	0 8	4
POUGHER, J. (Arr. by)	SPANISH CHANT A beautiful composition.	2 0	1 4	0 6	3
BUSBY, T. R.	BEAUTY OF THE DANCE. Pas de deux A very fine dance; no band should be without it.	1 4	1 0	1 6	2
PERRY, J.	THE WARBLER'S SERENADE Very easy and effective.	2 0	1 4	2 0	3
WILLIAMS, W.	THE ECLIPSE OVERTURE A charming composition.	2 8	2 0	2 0	3
SCHUBERT	L'ADIEU. Cornet Solo (Pianoforte Accompaniment, 1s.)	2 0	1 4	—	3
MOZART	DON GIOVANNI. The Celebrated Minuet	1 4	1 0	0 4	2
CELLIER, A.	THE MOUNTEBANKS. Selection	3 4	2 8	2 0	4
WILLIAMS, W.	BABYLONIA. Medley Overture Introducing: "Wot cher, or Knocked 'em in the Old Kent Road"; "The Poor Girl didn't know, you know"; "Comrades"; "Whacky, whacky, whack"; "Maggie Murphy's Home"; "Pa and Ma"; "That is Love"; "He was whistling this tune all day"; "Ta-ra-ra Boom-der-eh."	3 4	2 8	2 0	4
CELLIER, A.	THE MOUNTEBANKS. Celebrated Entr'acte	2 0	1 0	2 0	3
GRUNFELD, A.	KLEINE SERENADE A beautiful composition by this popular Composer.	2 0	1 4	2 0	3
ZIEHRER, C. M.	DORNER. March A very fine, spirited composition.	1 4	1 0	0 4	3
HANDEL	THE OCCASIONAL OVERTURE	3 4	2 8	0 8	4
YOUNG, J. H.	IN CELLAR COOL. Bassoon Solo, on German Drinking Song (Piano acc. 1s. 6d.)	3 4	2 8	—	4
SOLOMON, ED.	NAUTCH GIRL. Selection From the new popular Opera.	3 4	2 8	2 0	4
HOWGILL, J. S.	LOVELAND. Graceful Dance A very pretty piece; light, bright, melodious, and original.	2 0	1 4	2 0	3
KAPS, KARL	GUARD OF HONOUR. Quick March An easy and effective six-eight March; equal to any of this Composer's compositions.	1 4	1 0	2 0	3
SULLIVAN, SIR A.	IVANHOE. Selection. Arranged by CHAS. GODFREY From the popular Opera.	3 4	2 8	2 0	3
MOZART	FIRST SELECTION from "Twelfth Mass." Arranged by E. BINDING Containing Kyrie eleison, Sanctus, Benedictus.	2 8	2 0	0 6	3
GLUCK	STATUE MUSIC from "Orfeo." (String Quintet and Flute, 2s.)	—	—	0 6	4
AUDRAN, E	LA CIGALE. Selection. Arranged by E. AUDIBERT From the popular Opera.	3 4	2 8	2 0	3
MENDELSSOHN	ATHALIE. Overture. Original arrangement	3 4	2 8	0 8	3
KŒNIG, H.	POST HORN. Galop This celebrated Galop now published for the first time to suit modern Orchestras.	1 4	1 0	0 4	3
SCHRAMMEL, J.	LES GARDES NOBILES. March Very spirited and taking; by the Composer of the celebrated "Wien bliebt Wien" March. The success of the Continental season.	1 4	1 0	2 0	3
BISHOP, SIR H.	THE MILLER AND HIS MEN. Overture Very fine Overture by this popular composer.	3 4	2 8	0 8	3
MENDELSSOHN	WAR MARCH OF THE PRIESTS ("Athalie") Published for the first time in Concert Edition (the best edition known). Original arrangement.	2 0	1 4	0 6	3
LANGEY, O.	PECHE MIGNON. Overture Very good. A sequel to the celebrated "Poet and Peasant" Overture.	2 8	2 0	0 6	3
EILENBERG, R.	MANDOLINEN. Spanish Serenade. (String Quintet, 1s. 6d.) A very pretty and easy pizzicato piece.	—	—	2 0	4
BILTON, M.	THE CANADIAN RETREAT. Descriptive piece. A beautiful composition of great merit.	2 0	1 4	2 0	3
MEYER LUTZ	RUY BLAS. Selection from the Gaiety Burlesque Pianoforte Accompaniment, 8d. Very popular.	3 4	2 8	—	3
MOZART	Second Selection from TWELFTH MASS. Arranged by E. BINDING Containing Agnus Dei, Dona Nobis, and Gloria.	2 8	2 0	0 6	3
EILENBERG, R.	BERSAGLIERI. March A spirited composition by the Composer of the celebrated "Uhlan's Call" and "March of the Mountain Gnomes."	1 4	1 0	2 0	3
EILENBERG, R.	CHRISTMAS BELLS. Characteristic piece The Graphic says: "A charming piece is 'Christmas Bells' by R. Eilenberg; it will be the first favourite in the rapidly approaching festive season."	2 0	1 4	2 0	3
SLAUGHTER, W.	MARJORIE. Selection. No piano.	3 4	2 8	—	4

HAWKES AND SON, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

TUTORS, TUTORS, TUTORS.—TUTORS FOR EVERY INSTRUMENT, COMPILED AND ARRANGED BY OTTO LANGEY.

These Tutors supply a long-felt want, and have become recognised from their merit as Standard Educational Works. They are genera adopted in Conservatoires and Schools, and are much used by professional musicians for teaching purposes.

In such as the Oboe, Clarinet, and other wood-wind instruments, scale diagrams are very complete.

Price 4s. 3d. each net, post-free.

Viola, Double Bass (3 strings, revised by John Reynolds), Double Bass (4 strings), Violoncello, Flute, Piccolo, Oboe, Bassoon, Side Dru Clarinet, French Flageolet, Cornet (revised by Walter Morrow), Slide Trombone, Valve Trombone, French Horn, Tenor Saxhorn, Barito Euphonium, Bombardon.

OTTO LANGEY'S VIOLIN TUTORS. 2s. 9d., post-free.

SCRAP BOOK for DOUBLE BASS. By JOHN REYNOLDS. 4s. 3d., post-free.

HAWKES AND SON, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

FIFE AND DRUM BANDS.

To Clergymen and others, who may be interested in these organisations, MESSRS. HAWKES AND SON can offer special facilities the purchase of Instruments, being large manufacturers to the Fife and Drum Bands of the British Army.

A large discount allowed for cash; or, easy terms of payment on good security arranged. New Price List just out. Send for estimat stating what Instruments are required.

HAWKES AND SON, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

SPECIAL LIST OF HIGH-CLASS MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, suitable for above, posted free on application to HAWK AND SON, 28, Leicester Square, London, W.C.

THE EPIPHANY

OR

MANIFESTATION OF CHRIST TO THE GENTILES

A Sacred Cantata

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H. J. EDWARDS.

VOCAL SCORE, OCTAVO, PAPER COVER, TWO SHILLINGS.

MORNING POST.

The music composed by Dr. H. J. Edwards is a most suitable work r choral societies as well as for use in church during that season of e year for which it is designed. The matter throughout is excellent, e arrangement and adaptation of the words instructive and edifying. he solos are vocal and most effective, and the part-writing for the orus well laid out. The Cantata is so arranged that it can be per-rmed either in a sacred or secular building. It is also calculated to list attention as well as sympathy, for it is suggested that the con-egation join in the opening hymn and in various other portions of the rk. The whole shows the composer to be gifted in many ways, not ast in the art of writing dignified and reverent melody and harmony.

MUSICAL TIMES.

Dr. Edwards in this new Church Cantata has so arranged his music at it is quite within the capacities of those choirs of moderate aspira-ns of which so many exist in the country. The vocal parts are easy t full of well ordered effect, the organ accompaniment is massive and propriate, and the whole work is full of beautiful thoughts in music, swering to the expressive and devotional words written and selected m Holy Scripture by the Rev. Thomas Russell.

CHURCH TIMES.

The music is highly reverent in style, and beautifully harmonised. rt II. is full of delicious strains, and the solo in A flat, "O Heaven-ly Star," must delight all who hear it, as will also the chorale imme-tely succeeding, "O Thou that dwellest"; and there is a charming ull" setting of Nunc dimittis at the close of the work. Conductors choral societies and classes will do well to procure this Cantata.

MUSICAL STANDARD.

n this work we have a Sacred Cantata of no ordinary merit, and s a pleasure to peruse a composition so finely conceived and so well ought out. . . . There is not a single point in the work which we uld wish altered; it is a worthy addition to the long line of com-itions treating of various aspects of the life of Christ.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

May be strongly recommended for either performance by a church ir or small choral society. It is written in a straightforward, sicianly manner.

BRADFORD OBSERVER.

The work is divided into three sections—the Prophecy, the Journey the Magi, and the Adoration. For principal voice parts there are soprano recitatives and a solo, an important solo and aria for or, and trios for the Magi (T.T.B.), with slight incidental music for econd bass voice (Herod). Of the work for combined voices, one ractive feature is to be found in the admirably constructed recitatives, ch alternate most appropriately between the tenor and bass and the rano voices. The music of the Adoration, which forms Part III., oyfully attuned though never blatant. The part opens with an ccompanied quartet, "All hail," and also contains a chorus of great it, culminating in triumphant phrases, to which the subdued devo-nal setting of the Nunc dimittis, which closes the Cantata, makes a y fine contrast.

ENGLISH CHURCHMAN.

The music is descriptive, and the beautiful harmonies will well ay a careful study of the parts. The whole concludes with the grand rus, "The Lord, even the most mighty God," while, if sung in a rch, the inspired Nunc dimittis will, as is justly observed, be found not unsuitable end for this scene of joyful and triumphant adoration."

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

Second Edition. Third and Fourth Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.'"—The Referee.

"The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Eleventh to Fifteenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description."—Shields Daily News.

		s.	d.			s.	d.
Paper cover ..	.. price	2	6	Tonic Sol-fa ..	.. price	1	6
„ boards ..	.. „	3	0	Vocal parts ..	each „	1	0
Scarlet cloth ..	.. „	4	0	Words only ..	per 100 „	7	6

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WILL BE READY EARLY IN JANUARY.

NEW MUSICAL WORK FOR THE LENTEN SEASON AND GOOD FRIDAY.

SONG OF THE PASSION

(ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN)

A SACRED CANTATA

For Solo, Recitative (Male Voices), and Chorus

WITH HYMNS INTRODUCED TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION, THE WORDS SPECIALLY WRITTEN FOR THIS WORK

BY

MILDRED GAUNTLETT

THE MUSIC BY

WILLIAM S. VINNING

MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

ADVENT.—"O Lord, Thou art my God." Four voices .. .. 3d.
CHRISTMAS.—"In the beginning." " " .. 3d.
" "The Lord hath prepared." " " .. 3d.
FESTIVAL.—"I was glad." " " .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. 2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E. Chant form .. .. 3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E " " .. .. 3d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. .. 1½d.
" " " A .. .. 1½d.
" " " E .. .. 1½d.

HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord. With words .. .. 1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 3d.
Amen (on Card) .. .. 1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ .. net 2s. 0d.
Ave Maria .. .. " 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat .. .. " 1s. 0d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER

(PUBLIC SCHOOL EDITION)

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

Where the whole verses are to be sung by the congregation they are marked by a line at the side.

Where half-verses are to be sung by the congregation they are printed in italics.

All other verses and half-verses are to be sung by the choir only.

Cloth, Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

GEORGE L. ALLAN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready. Price 3s. 6d. net.

THE HISTORY OF THE

CARDIFF MUSICAL FESTIVAL

BY W. H. SONLEY JOHNSTONE.

REVISED BY MR. W. A. MORGAN (Hon. Secretary).

Including eleven Portraits and Autograph fac-similes of Sir Jose Barnby, Sir Arthur Sullivan, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, and others.

The History is well printed and bound in cloth, and it contains full account of the romantic circumstances under which the Festiv was started, with a great amount of general detail interesting Musicians and Amateurs.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

AN EASY NOTATION for SKETCHING MUSI and for SINGING in PRIMARY SCHOOLS. By F. WEBI Organist of the German Chapel Royal, St. James's. Price Sixpenc London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BEST'S ORGAN ARRANGEMENTS. Comple (Pedal obbligato). 5 handsome volumes; half-calf, gilt; marbl edges. Unused. Cash, £6. Z. A., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berne Street, W.

FOR SALE.—Arnold's Edition of HANDEL FULL SCORES. Perfect condition. 31 vols. S., Mess Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MUSICAL SETTINGS

OF THE POEMS OF

Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

NOVELLO'S EDITIONS.

CANTATAS.

		Price s.	d.
armen Sæculare (Jubilee Ode, 1887) ..	C. V. Stanford	1	6
de for the Opening of the International Exhibition, 1862	W. Sterndale Bennett	1	0
de for the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, 1886	A. S. Sullivan	1	0
he Day-Dream	C. T. Speer	2	0
he Lady of Shalott. (Female Voices.) ..	W. E. Bendall	2	6
„ „ Tonic Sol-fa ..	„ „	1	0
he Lord of Burleigh	Frances A. Gill	2	6
he Lotos-Eaters. (Choric Song)	C. H. H. Parry	2	0
he Revenge	C. V. Stanford	1	6
„ Tonic Sol-fa	„	0	9
he Sleeping Beauty. (Female voices)	H. Lahee	2	6
„ „ (Tonic Sol-fa)	„	0	6
he Voyage of Maeldune	C. V. Stanford	2	6

SONGS.

Farewell	E. R. W. G. Andrews	2	0
„	J. H. Walker	1	0
reak, break, break	E. Edwards	1	6
ossing the bar	J. F. Bridge	2	0
„ „	W. S. Hannam	1	6
ome they brought her warrior dead ..	T. H. McDermott	1	3
te, late, so late	E. Edwards	1	6
ringlet	A. Zimmermann	1	3
Agnes	S. D. Collet	1	0
eet and low	Florence A. Marshall	2	0
eet is true love	E. Edwards	1	6
„ „	A. C. Mackenzie	1	6
e Reign of the Roses	N. C.	1	6
o Child-Songs { The City Child / Minnie and Winnie }	E. T.	2	0
he, vine and eglantine	F. C. Woods	2	0
hat does little birdie say? Nos. 1 & 2 (Octavo)	A. C. Mackenzie	2	6
„ „ „ No. 2. (Folio)	„ „	2	0
here is another sweet	F. C. Woods	2	0
ur ringlets	A. Zimmermann	1	3

PART-SONGS.

ak, break, break. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.) ..	G. A. Macfarren	0	3
„ „ „	Henry Hiles	0	4
ossing the bar. (Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.) Folio ..	J. F. Bridge	1	6
w down, cold rivulet. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.) ..	B. L. Selby	0	3
me they brought her warrior dead	J. Barnby	0	1½
ce; come away (In memoriam) (In the Press)	C. V. Stanford	0	2
g out, wild bells	R. Jackson	0	1
eet and low. (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	J. Barnby	0	1½
„ „	H. Piggott	0	2
„ „	B. L. Selby	0	2
e Beggar Maid. (Folio)	E. G. Monk	1	0
e Brook	A. H. Culley	0	1½
e Charge of the Light Brigade. (Folio) ..	G. F. Cobb	1	0
„ „ „	E. Hecht	0	4
„ „ „	R. M. Garth	1	0
e death of the old year	R. Jackson	0	1
e Goose	J. F. Bridge	0	6
e Miller's daughter. (Folio)	E. G. Monk	1	6
e Owl	J. W. Sidebotham	0	3
„ (Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.)	E. Silas	0	1½
e silent voices. (Arr. by J. F. Bridge) ..	Lady Tennyson	0	3
e splendour falls	G. A. Macfarren	0	3
ere Claribel low lieth	W. Borrow	0	3

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PATERSON AND SONS,

24, CASTLE STREET, BERNERS STREET, W.

BONNY KILMENY

A CANTATA FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
The Words adapted and arranged for the most part from Hogg's "Queen's Wake," by J. M. C.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY HAMISH MACCUNN.
Staff Notation, 2s. net; Paper Boards, 2s. 6d. net; Cloth, 4s. net; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s. net.

THE CAMERONIAN'S DREAM

A BALLAD FOR BARITONE SOLO, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
The Poem by JAMES HYSLOP
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY HAMISH MACCUNN.
Staff, 1s. 6d. net; Sol-fa, 9d. net.

SONGS AND BALLADS OF SCOTLAND

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENTS BY HAMISH MACCUNN.
In Cloth, very elegant, Quarto, 10s. 6d. net; or, Four Parts, each 2s. 6d. net.

SCOTTISH MELODIES

106 of the most popular Scotch Airs
ARRANGED FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY DR. A. C. MACKENZIE.
In One Volume, Cloth, 7s. 6d. net; or, in Six Books, 1s. 6d. each net.

PRACTICAL SIGHT-SINGING

A MANUAL FOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES BY FRANKLIN S. PETERSON.
Price 1s. net.

PASTORAL ALBUM

Containing Six Two-Part Songs, with Pianoforte Accompaniment
Words by EDWARD OXENFORD
MUSIC BY ALFRED MOFFAT.
In Two Books, each 1s. net.

FIRST SERIES. (Songs of Spring and Summer.)	SECOND SERIES. (Songs of Autumn and Winter.)
1. Spring Flowers.	1. The Happy Shepherd.
2. May.	2. Farewell to Summer.
3. June Roses.	3. The Harvesters.
4. Welcome, Swallow.	4. Autumn Leaves.
5. Gentle Zephyrs.	5. A Winter's Morning.
6. The Haymakers.	6. Yuletide Carol.

COMPLETE CATALOGUE ON APPLICATION.
PATERSON AND SONS, 24, CASTLE ST., BERNERS ST., W.

Just Published.

NEW ACADEMICAL EDITION
OF
SELECTED PIANOFORTE WORKS

By W. A. MOZART,
Critically revised, arranged in progressive order, fingered, and with explanatory notes for the use of Students, by
HEINRICH GERMER.

CONTENTS.—17 Sonatas, 6 Sets of Variations, 3 Fantasias, 3 Rondos, 1 Allegro, and 1 Adagio.

Price: Vol. I., 2s. 6d. net; Vols. II. and III., each 3s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.
A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.
Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO HENRY VIII.
COMPOSED BY
EDWARD GERMAN.
Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

CONTENTS.
Morris Dance. | Shepherds' Dance.
Torch Dance.

Price Two Shillings.

String Parts, 4s. Wind Parts, 7s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

BY W. W. PEARSON.

Blow, Western Wind! ..	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers ..	2d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.)..	2d.
The Lake	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.)..	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ..	3d.	The Dream of Home ..	2d.
The River	3d.	Summer and Winter ..	2d.
Over the mountain side ..	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
Soul of living music ..	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
The Stormy Petrel.. ..	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ..	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (50th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (8th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
*Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES FOR S.A.T.B.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean (6th thou.) ..	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (32nd thou.)	3d.
The Lifeboat	4d.	The Jäger Chorus (6th thou.)	3d.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

VOCAL WALTZ DUET

PRETTY FLOWERS

COMPOSED BY

COLLINGWOOD BANKS

(Organist of Christ's Hospital).

Pianoforte Accompaniment (folio), with Voice Parts, price Three Shillings net; Voice Parts only, price Sixpence net.

SINGING QUADRILLES

OR NURSERY RHYMES

COMPOSED BY

COLLINGWOOD BANKS

In three sets, octavo, price Sixpence each.

Reduced Price, Threepence.

SUITABLE FOR ORDINARY CHURCH CHOIRS

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

Festival Setting in the Key of E flat, by

COLLINGWOOD BANKS.

"Easy and Effective."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

EMPRESS OF THE NIGHT. By HENRY BEAUMONT. Glee for A.T.T.B. All Male Voice Choirs should sing this new and effective Glee.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail! Merry Christmas	24th thousand	..	2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all	8th	,,	..	3d.
A Happy New Year	5th	,,	..	3d.
England's Glory, and Forest Echoes ..	8th	,,	each	3d.
O Anglia! land of the brave	2nd	,,	..	3d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	9th	,,	..	3d.
Fairy Revels	13th	,,	..	3d.
I love the Merry Springtime	26th	,,	..	2d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood	54th	,,	..	2d.
Sunny Rays, and The Streamlet	5th	,,	each	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.; Manchester: HIME and ADDISON.

THE CLANSMEN. By T. W. BLAKEY. "This is a stirring part-song (S.A.T.B.) dedicated to Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. The music is bright and cheerful, without being commonplace."—Monthly Journal (N.S.P.M.). Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.	4. The Skylark.
2. The Nightingale.	5. The Owl.
3. The Dove.	6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
,, scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published. Threepence each.

NEW PART-SONGS FOR S.A.T.B.

BLOW, WESTERN WIND!

AND

STARS OF THE NIGHT.

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MEN OF ENGLAND. A Four-part Song. Composed by ARTHUR BERRIDGE. Price 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WHAT IS HARMONY? (ANTONIO MIRICA).—See December Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. All 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. Order at Book or Musicsellers; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Third Edition. Price 6d. Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

A SIMPLE METHOD OF SIGHT-SINGING. By J. C. WALKER. Price 8d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

TWELVE ORIGINAL VOLUNTARIES

(SECOND SET)

COMPOSED FOR THE ORGAN OR HARMONIUM

BY

OLIVER KING.

(Op. 61.)

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BACH, J. S.—Six Sonatas. Arranged for Flute, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello. No. 4	5	0
DE LA TOMBELLE, F.—Aubade. For Harmonium	5	0
D'INDY, V.—Suite dans le Style Ancien. For Trumpet, Two Flutes, Two Violins, and Violoncello. No. 1. Prelude. No. 2. Entrée. No. 3. Sarabande. No. 4. Menuet. No. 5. Ronde française. Score net	6	0
Parts "	7	0
EILENBERG, R.—"Christmas Bells." Pianoforte Solo	3	0
—— "Austrian Army." March	3	0
—— Spanish Serenade	3	0
—— "The Reveille"	3	0
—— "Love-Song." Waltz	4	0
FAUST, C.—"Menuet de la Cour"	2	0
FRANK, C.—Prelude, Fugue, and Variations. For Violin, Harmonium, and Pianoforte net	4	0
GOUNOD, CH.—"Andante Religioso." For Violin and Piano, with Violoncello and Organ Accompaniment (ad lib.) net	3	0
GOUVY, TH.—"Ghiribizzi." Twelve Pieces. For Pianoforte Duet. Op. 83. Books I. and II. each	12	0
HARTHAN, H.—Album Leaves. Five Pianoforte Pieces	5	0
HOLLAENDER, G.—Spanish Serenade. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 49	5	0
—— "In the Woodland Grounds." For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 50	5	0
—— Four Pieces. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 47:—
No. 1. Pensée Fugitive	3	0
" 2. Valse Caprice	4	0
" 3. Air	2	0
" 4. Tambourin	4	0
KIEL, F.—Two Pieces. For Violin or Flute or Violoncello or Viola and Pianoforte:—
No. 1. Allegretto	2	0
" 2. Andante	2	0
LACOMBE, P.—Serenade. For Flute and Oboe, with Horn Accompaniment (ad lib.) and Strings. Score and Parts. net	4	0
LEFÉVRE, E.—Berceuse. For Violin (or Violoncello) and Pianoforte	4	0
—— The same. For Violin (or Violoncello), with Accompaniment for Strings and Harp, or Pianoforte:—
Score and Parts net	2	0
LEFÉBVRE, CH.—Suite. For Flute, Oboe, Clarinet, Horn, and Bassoon. Op. 57:—
Score net	3	0
Parts	8	0
—— Suite. For Strings (Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello):—
Score net	3	0
Parts	8	0
MATTIOLI, L.—Two Pieces. For Violoncello and Pianoforte:—
No. 1. Berceuse	2	0
" 2. Petite Valse	3	0
REINECKE, C., AND SITT, H.—"Lyrica." A Collection of Lyric Pieces by Classical and Modern Composers. For Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment:—
No. 1. BACH, J. S.—Air	3	0
" 2. REINECKE, C.—Ave Maria	2	0
" 3. SCHUMANN, R.—Slumber Song	3	0
" 4. FIELD, J.—Cavatina	3	0
" 5. SPOHR, L.—Andante	3	0
" 6. BEETHOVEN.—Adelaide	3	0
" 7. MENDELSSOHN.—Cavatina	3	0
" 8. RUBINSTEIN, A.—Melodie	3	0
" 9. HANDEL.—Largo	2	0
" 10. TARTINI.—Adagio cantabile	2	0
" 11. HAYDN.—Adagio	3	0
" 12. GLUCK.—Air	2	0
REINECKE, C., AND KLENGEL, J.—"Lyrica." The same Collection. For Violoncello, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.
—— Octet. For Wind Instruments. Arranged as a Duet for Two Pianofortes. Op. 216A	18	0
RHEINBERGER, J.—"Meditations." Twelve Organ Pieces. Op. 167 each	2	0
No. 1. Entrata. No. 2. Agitato. No. 3. Canzonetta. No. 4. Andantino. No. 5. Preludio. No. 6. Aria.
SAINT-SAËNS, C.—2me Trio. For the Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello net	12	0
SJÖGREN, E.—"Eroticon." Five Pieces. For Pianoforte complete	8	0
No. 1, 3s.; No. 2, 2s.; No. 3, 2s.; No. 4, 1s.; No. 5, 2s.
SARTORIO, A.—Menuet. Op. 35	3	0
Romanza. Op. 31	2	0
Scherzo. Op. 33	3	0
Tarantelle. Op. 40	3	0
THOMÉ, F.—"Simple Aveu." For Mezzo-Soprano. French words	3	0
WEICKMANN, A.—Six Easy Pieces. For Violin, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Book I., Nos. 1, 2, 3. Book II., Nos. 4, 5, 6. Each Book	5	0
No. 1. Christmas Song. No. 2. Dancing. No. 3. Jagdstück. No. 4. Rundgesang (Canon). No. 5. Schankelpperd. No. 6. Haschen.
Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

Novello's List of New and Important Foreign Publications (List A just out). Novello's List of Christmas Music (foreign). Free on application.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE
TO THE
MUSICAL PROFESSION FOR 1893.

UNDER DISTINGUISHED PATRONAGE.

Copies have already been had by and letters of thanks received from H.M. The Queen, Their Royal Highnesses The Prince and Princess of Wales, The Lord Bishops of Rochester and London. Also by Sir John Stainer, Dr. Mackenzie, Sir G. Grove, Rev. H. E. J. Bevan, H. L. Southgate, Esq., Dr. Turpin, and many others. Numerous letters of congratulation and thanks have been received from a large number of members of the Profession which the Publishers take this opportunity of acknowledging. A large portion of the work was subscribed for previous to publication, consequently an EXCEPTIONALLY LARGE CIRCULATION was provided for, and this precaution has been amply justified by results; about half of the COMPLETE EDITION being already circulated in the UNITED KINGDOM, the COLONIES, AMERICA, &c. Copies should therefore be ordered as early as possible. As a medium for obtaining the SERVICES OF ALL KINDS OF VOCALISTS AND INSTRUMENTALISTS it is unequalled. The work states the special branch or branches of the art for which artists are OPEN FOR ENGAGEMENTS, either through Choral or Orchestral Societies, Concerts, &c.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE is constructed on an entirely original plan, the main object being to supply a want long felt by a large portion of the Profession of their acting as THEIR OWN AGENTS for securing engagements, thus saving time and expense. There are very few occasions, if any, on which MAXWELL'S GUIDE cannot be referred to with profit. The Guide has been spoken of most highly by the Musical Press, and is the only Directory giving such a mass of information, which has been obtained at an enormous cost. The Contents are briefly given below:—

CONTENTS OF MAXWELL'S GUIDE.

Directions for the selection of Vocalists, Instrumentalists, Teachers, &c. Particulars of London Churches, with interesting historical sketches (the principal Country Churches are mentioned in the Professional List), particulars of the Organs, Builders' names, giving the disposition of each Instrument, style of Service, hours of same, seating accommodation, names of Clergy, particulars of Choir—i.e., number, &c., and if surpliced or not—the peculiarities of some old City Organs, and Musicians of note who are or have been Organists at the various Churches. The names of Organists and Choirmasters are given in each instance, and specially prepared accounts are given of buildings of special interest. How to Train and Manage a Choir, with Hints on Voice-Production, with twenty-two "Don'ts!" The names of Bishops, Deans, Canons, Organists, Choirmasters, and Singers of all the Cathedral Establishments, Collegiate Chapters, and Chapels Royal in England and Wales. London and Country Choral and Orchestral Societies, with Conductors, Accompanists, and Secretaries' names; number of Chorus, particulars of Works being performed, and whether Soloists are engaged; number of Concerts given annually. Institutions, Colleges, Schools, name of Principal or Secretary, Subjects taught, number of Professors. List of Musical Guilds, Conservatoires, Institutes, Societies, Lectures in London and Country. Special accounts of celebrated Organists of the commencement of the 19th century, the Churches they were at, with much additional useful information. Accounts of all our Great Music Schools, with a list of holders of Diplomas and Degrees in Music, dates, &c.

A GENERAL PROFESSIONAL LIST of about 4,000 NAMES. The Public are invited always to consult MAXWELL'S GUIDE, which offers EXCEPTIONAL ADVANTAGES for securing the services DIRECT of competent performers in every branch of the art.

Price, complete, 2s. 6d. net, post-free.

To be had of—
J. MAXWELL and Co., 14 and 15, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, W.C.
J. HAWKINS and Co., Limited, 17, Paternoster Row, E.C.
WEEKES and Co., Hanover Street, W.

Just Published.

KIRMESS
(Rustic Pictures)
FOR PIANOFORTE DUET
COMPOSED BY
HEINRICH HOFMANN
(Op. 102).

IN TWO BOOKS.—BOOK I.

No. 1. Arrival of the Visitors.
" 2. Ländler.
No. 3. Drinking Song.
" 4. In the Arbour.

BOOK II.

No. 5. The Travelling Show:—
(a) Indian Dance.
(b) Sword Dance.
(c) Chinese Jugglers.
(d) The Strong Man.
No. 6. Good Night!

Price Three Shillings net each.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NOW READY.

VOICE TRAINING STUDIES

SEQUEL TO "VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES"

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production.

CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

WITH TONIC SOL-FA TRANSLATION BY KATE BEHNKE.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

The unprecedented success of "Voice Training Exercises" is the best proof that they supplied a real want with regard to the cultivation of the singing voice, and we are thereby encouraged to issue a set of "Voice Training Studies" as an additional step in the same direction. These Studies are intended for the formation of style and are written progressively in three different parts, corresponding in compass with those of the Exercises, so that they may serve as companion volumes or as supplements.

58TH EDITION.

VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production.

CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

"Admirable, and doubtless will prove of great utility."—Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley.
"Far more precise in plan than anything I have seen."—Sir Robert Stewart.
"I like the exercises very much; they are scientific, systematic, and ingenious."—Dr. Stainer.

RIMBAULT'S SINGING TUTOR

CHIEFLY SELECTED FROM THE CELEBRATED TUTOR OF LABLACHE.

Comprising directions for the formation and cultivation of the Voice, after the Methods of the best Italian Masters; also a series of Progressive Lessons, Studies in Vocalisation, Solfeggios, &c., with an Accompaniment for the Pianoforte. Editions for Soprano, Tenor, Contralto, or Bass .. .. each net s. 2 d. 6

LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Soprano or Tenor .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Medium Voices .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano .. .. net 2 6
This Edition can also be used for a Bass Voice.
LABLACHE VOCAL EXERCISES .. .. net 2 6
This celebrated work is very largely used by singing masters, and at all the principal Schools of the United Kingdom.

CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS.

A COLLECTION OF
GLEES, MADRIGALS, PART-SONGS, &c., FOR ALL VOICES.
CONTAINING WORKS BY
GOUNOD, ARTHUR SULLIVAN, HENRY SMART, J. L. HATTON, &c.
LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

NEW WORKS FOR TONIC SOL-FA.

FAUST

A Dramatic Legend by HECTOR BERLIOZ. Price 3s. 6d. net.
A Tonic Sol-fa Edition of this celebrated Work. Just Published. Price 2s. 6d. net.

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS

Cantata written by THOMAS INGOLDSBY. Music by GEORGE FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net.
Edition for Tonic Sol-fa. Just Published. 1s. 6d. net.

Orchestral and Chorus Parts of the above may be had on Hire of—

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND ST., LONDON.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Thursday, December 1, 1892.

No. 588

THE MUSICAL TIMES

Price 4d.

FEBRUARY 1, 1892.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

THE CHALLEN IRON-FRAME PIANOS

Are unrivalled for excellence of tone and touch, good workmanship, and moderate price."—Testimonials from Mr. FREDERIC H. COWEN, ANTON RUBINSTEIN, Mr. FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Mr. W. H. CUMMINGS, Mr. JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT, Sir JOHN STAINER, and other eminent musicians.

HIGHEST AWARDS for UPRIGHT PIANOS

1862, 1877, 1878, 1881, 1885, 1886.

PRICE LISTS POST-FREE ON APPLICATION.

CHALLEN & SON, 46, Oxford Street, London, W.

ESTABLISHED 1804.

HIGHEST AWARDS, 1851, 1855, 1862, 1865, 1872, 1875, 1877.
Paris, 1878; London (Inventions), 1885; Melbourne, 1888-9.

J. & J. HOPKINSON

Beg to announce that they have introduced the following new style of Upright Piano:

No. 15 IRON UPRIGHT GRAND.

With a complete Iron Frame, Full Trichord, Check Action, Brass Down-Pressure Bar, Seven Octaves. Height, 4 ft. 1 in.; Width, 4 ft. 9 in.

In Rosewood or Walnut Cases, 60 Guineas; In Ebonized Case, 65 Guineas.

Various improvements have been made in the construction of this Instrument which are only adopted in Pianos of Messrs. HOPKINSON'S Manufacture. The tone is remarkable for its brilliancy and power, and the touch for its responsive qualities. Both the top and bottom doors are very handsomely panelled, the upper panels being inlaid with choice Marqueterie of a unique pattern. The fittings are in keeping with the general character of the case. It is without doubt one of the most pleasing Instruments in tone, design, and finish that has been placed on the market for a considerable period.

PHOTOS AND FULL PARTICULARS ON APPLICATION.

PIANOS FROM 28 TO 300 GUINEAS.

95, NEW BOND STREET, LONDON, W.

BISHOP & SON,

Organ Builders to Her Majesty the Queen and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales.

INVENTORS AND PATENTEES OF AN ENTIRELY NEW SYSTEM OF

TUBULAR PNEUMATIC ACTION

WHICH ENSURES THE UTMOST PROMPTITUDE OF SPEECH AND A PERFECTION OF TOUCH AND REPETITION HITHERTO IMPOSSIBLE.

BUILDERS OF THE LARGE ORGANS AT

The Oratory, Brompton.
St. James's. Bermondsey.
St. Mary's, Nottingham.
St. Matthew's, Bayswater.
St. Anselm's, Lincoln's Inn Fields.
St. Andrew's, New Kent Road.
All Souls', Eastbourne.
Adelaide Cathedral.
Auckland Cathedral.
Reims, France.
Holy Trinity, Folkestone.
H. Trinity, Milton-next-Gravesend.
St. James's, Piccadilly.
St. George's Cathedral, Southwark.
Battersea.
Notting Hill.
Penkridge.
St. Giles's, Camberwell.
St. Matthew's, Walsall.
Great Yarmouth. Rebuilt.
St. Andrew's, Newington.
St. Luke's, Southampton.
Holy Trinity, Stroud Green.
Bombay Cathedral.
Bombay Town Hall.
Madras Cathedral.
St. Luke's, Christ Church, New Zealand.
St. Giles's, Northampton.
St. Mary's, Kilburn.
All Saints', Acton. Rebuilt.
Edinburgh Exhibition.
Manchester Exhibition.
Roehampton.
Southsea.
Croix, France (2).
Roubaix, France (2).
Davos, Switzerland.
Lago Maggiore, Italy.
Paris, St. George's.
Holy Innocents', Hammersmith.
&c., &c.

250, MARYLEBONE ROAD, LONDON, N.W.

CHAPPELL'S PIANOS

From 16 to 135 Gs.

ON THE THREE YEARS SYSTEM
OF HIRE AND PURCHASE.

Also a large assortment of New and Second-hand Pianofortes by BROADWOOD, COLLARD, BECHSTEIN, and CHICKERING, at greatly reduced prices.

ILLUSTRATED LISTS POST-FREE.

AGENT FOR CLOUGH & WARREN'S AMERICAN ORGANS.
ALEXANDRE'S HARMONIUMS.
CHICKERING & SONS' PIANOFORTES.

50, NEW BOND STREET,
AND OF ALL THE PRINCIPAL MUSICSELLERS.

XMAS AND NEW YEAR'S MUSICAL PUZZLE!!!

FIND a more suitable PRESENT for a MUSICAL STUDENT than AINSWORTH'S PATENT METALLIC COUPLER and CRESDIMO PEDALS, which provide delightful Organ Practice at home, and are easily combined with ANY Piano or Pianette.

LISTS GRATIS WITH FULL PARTICULARS.

Price from £5.

AINSWORTH'S PATENT WORKS, BRINSCALL, CHORLEY, LANC.
The Original Patentee. Largest Manufacturer. Prices defy competition.
Over One Thousand Testimonials from all parts of the World.

FORSYTH BROTHERS' PUBLICATIONS.

PIANOFORTE SOLOS.

ARTHUR DESMOND. s. d.

VALSE DE CONCERT 4 0

CORNELIUS GURLITT.

IN THE TWILIGHT. Op. 183 .. .. each 3 0
No. 1. Impromptu.
„ 2. Nocturne.
„ 3. Capriccietto.

F. J. HATTON.

MENUET ROYALE 3 0
MOLTO FELICITÉ. Impromptu 3 0

S. JADASSOHN.

LOSE BLÄTTER. Op. 103 .. .. each 3 0
No. 1. Elégie.
„ 2. Mazurka.
„ 3. Walzer.

TOBIAS A. MATTHAY.

MONO-THEMES. Confidences and Confessions. Six Pieces net 3 0

H. ERNEST NICHOL.

MINUET IN G 3 0
OVER THE HEATHER. Rondo 3 0

S. SZARWADY. s. d.

IMPROMPTU-GAVOTTE 4 0
Performed with the greatest success by Mr. Frederick Dawson.

NICOLAI VON WILM.

SCHNEEFLOCKEN. Sechs Clavierstücke. Op. 8:—

	s. d.		s. d.
No. 1. Berceuse ..	2 0	No. 4. Scherzino	3 0
„ 2. Mazurka ..	2 0	„ 5. Intermezzo ..	2 0
„ 3. Mélodie ..	2 0	„ 6. Etude	2 0

ZWOLF KLEINE TONSTÜCKE. Op. 12 .. .. .. each 2 0

No. 1. Im Garten.	No. 7. Am Meer.
„ 2. Junges Lied.	„ 8. Im Kahne.
„ 3. Die Musikanten Kommen.	„ 9. Vor dem Balle.
	„ 10. An der Quelle.
„ 4. Abends.	„ 11. Spiel im Grünen.
„ 5. Neckereien.	„ 12. Die Waldapelle.
„ 6. Im Walde.

VIER CLAVIERSTÜCKE. Op. 33 .. .. .. each 3 0

No. 1. Sarabande.	No. 3. Gavotte.
„ 2. Courante.	„ 4. Ländler.

DREI CLAVIERSTÜCKE. Op. 98 .. .. .. each 4 0
No. 1. Ballade.
„ 2. Serenade.
„ 3. Polonaise.

FOR TWO PIANOS.

CARL REINECKE.

SOUTHERN PICTURES. Op. 86 .. .. net 5 0

Gondolliera.	Bolero.
Under the Cypress Trees.	Neapolitan Mandoline Player.

Exercises in Harmony and Composition

BY

FREDERICK CORDER.

PRICE 2s. NET, BOUND IN LIMP CLOTH.

SECOND THOUSAND.

PRINCIPIA OF MUSIC

A complete explanation of the Rudiments of Music, &c., specially designed for preparing Candidates for Examination by

HARVEY LÖHR.

Used at the Guildhall and other Schools of Music.

PART I. (Rudiments only), Paper, 1s. net; Boards, 1s. 6d. net; COMPLETE, Cloth, 2s. 6d. net.

New Edition of Frederick N. Löhr's SIGHT SINGING

With Moveable Do.

PRICE ONE SHILLING NET.

Six Tenor Songs

BY

FREDERICK CORDER.

No. 1. MOUNTAIN SONG.	No. 4. MY LOVE SHOULD NEED NO JEWELS RARE.
„ 2. I ASK OF THEE.	„ 5. LIFE—OR DEATH?
„ 3. BRIGHT ARE THE TINY BILLOWS.	„ 6. SING TO ME.

COMPLETE IN ONE VOLUME, TWO SHILLINGS NET.

Cantatas for Equal Voices.

MAY MORN. Words by Clifton Bingham. Music by J. Maude Crament .. .. net 1 6
MEADOWSWEET. Words by Bernard Page. Music by Arthur Page .. .. net 1 6
The Choruses in two parts only.

PEARL; A LEGEND OF THE SEA SHORE. Words by Herbert Harraden. Music by Ethel Harraden .. .. .. net 1 6
The Choruses in two parts only.

In Tonic Sol-fa Notation.

BELLS OF ELSINORE. By E. Rogers .. .. .. net 0 6
MEADOWSWEET. By Arthur Page 0 6
In the Press:
FAIRY MUSIC. By F. N. Löhr .. ..

In the Press (continued).
PEARL. By Ethel Harraden .. ..
THE FLOWER PILGRIMS. By Alfred Redhead .. ..
THE PAGEANT. By F. J. Sawyer .. ..

FORSYTH BROTHERS,

267, Regent Street, London, W., and 122 and 124, Deansgate, Manchester.

Pianoforte Makers to T.R.H. the Prince and Princess of Wales.

JOHN BRINSMEAD & SONS' PIANOS

Sing me your Song O!

I have a Song to Sing O!

JOHN BRINSMEAD AND SONS,

18, Wigmore Street, London, W.,

And of the principal Musicsellers throughout the World.

Illustrated Catalogues, with opinions of the Press and Musical Profession, post-free. Established in the Reign of King William IV.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Monday, February 1, 1892.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY
3 9999 08818 982 2
B.P.L. Bindery
JUN 28 1894